INTO THE BLUE — Five astronauts rode the space shuttle Challenger into orbit Friday on a nine-day mission to be highlighted by spacewalks with backpack jets reminiscent of Buck Rogers.

Long files for JP election

KBST news director China Long said she plans to file Monday as a Democratic candidate for Justice of the Peace Precinct 1, Place 1.

Mrs. Long, 46, said she feels her six years as a local radio reporter gives her "the ability to be objective, to see all sides of an issue. That's an important trait for a justice of the peace," she said.

After she files Monday with the county clerk's office, Mrs. Long will no longer be allowed to broadcast the news on KBST because of Federal Communications Commission regulations. However, she will continue as a reporter for the station, she said.

Mrs. Long has lived in Big Spring for 38 years, and graduated from Big Spring High School in 1956. She has an Associate in Arts degree from Howard College and a B.A. in mass communications from the University of Texas at the Permian Basin.

She is a director for the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, a member of the advisory board for the School of Radiology at Malone-Hogan Hospital and a local advisor for the state school textbook committee.

Mrs. Long will face 5 candidates in the May 5 Democratic Primary, including incumbent Bobby West. Other candidates are: bail bondsman Paul G. Silva, a former Howard County sheriff's deputy; Doyle L. Lamb, a master plumber and former restaurateur; Robert Stapp, a retired police sergeant who served with the Big Spring police department; and retired radio announcer Don R. Brooks.

$75 million shuttle satellite destroyed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An official raised the possibility Saturday that the $75 million Westar VI communications satellite exploded after it was launched from the space shuttle Challenger and is now merely chunks of junk orbiting the Earth.

Bill Ziegler, mission director for Western Union, which owns the satellite, also said later that a faint signal heard by a California ground station may indicate the satellite wasn't destroyed. But he said it was useless anyway because there was no fuel left to send it up to its 22,300-mile-high orbit.

Meanwhile, a second shuttle customer — the government of Indonesia — had NASA postpone Saturday's shuttle launching of Palapa-B, an electronic twin to the Westar VI. When the astronauts went to bed, they were told that no decision had been reached whether to release it on Sunday or Monday, or bring it back home.

Another decision hinged on the second launching: whether the Challenger should stay up an extra day to accommodate the delay. On Tuesday and Thursday, mission specialists Robert Stewart and Bruce Mc-Candless are to don back packs and perform the first space walk without a lifeline.

The North American Aerospace Defense Command said its huge radars in California and Florida determined that "two of the objects are large enough to be the satellite" and said the pieces are in the same general orbit as Challenger.

That would indicate the rocket firing that was to take Westar VI from the Challenger's 190-mile orbit to one 22,300 miles high may have spun the satellite in place like a pinwheel. The solid state fuel used in Westar's rocket stage burns until it is exhausted; there is no way the engine shuts down once the fuel is ignited.

With no fuel, "there is virtually no chance of it being useful... we could never get it up to geosynchronous orbit," Ziegler said.

A tracking station operated by Hughes Aircraft Co., in Fillmore, Calif., "received two minutes of signal from an object trailing the orbiter" about 1 p.m. EST, but it was so weak that antennas could not lock on it.

HC slates homecoming

Barbecue, baseball, basketball and a bonfire will highlight a two-day homecoming celebration at Howard College Feb. 12 and 13.

The celebration is the first of its kind in many years. Linda Woodley of the office of college information, said.

Activities begin Sunday, Feb. 12, at 1 p.m. with participant registration in the Coliseum East Room. The HC Hawk baseball team, coached by Bill Griffin, takes on Bee County College at 2 p.m.

A barbecue will be served in the Coliseum East Room from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. for $5 per person. This is the only cost during the two-day event, Ms. Woodley said. A free time is scheduled from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

At 8 p.m., alumni and HC students will light a bonfire and crown the Homecoming Queen.

Monday morning activities kick-off at 10 a.m. with campus tours and a brunch. At 1 p.m., the baseball team will again take on Bee County College in a doubleheader.

At 6 p.m. Monday, Feb. 13, the Queens and Hawks face Western Texas College in basketball. During the Hawk Queens game, a plaque honoring past yearbook and newspaper editors will be presented to the college.

Troy Brown, captain of the first HC basketball team, will present his letter jacket to the college during the Queen's game. The jacket will be displayed in a case along with other nostalgic items, Ms. Woodley said.

Special guests for the games will be students, faculty and administration from the Big Spring, Forsan, Coahoma and Sands school districts.

Other entertainment during the games will include songs by the New Dimension, a Sexy Legs contest, and the announcing of class favorites and Mr. and Miss Howard College.

A western dance will follow the Hawk's game, Ms. Woodley said. Music will be provided by the Hard Times Band in the Coliseum East Room from 10 p.m. to midnight.

"We're encouraging all former Howard College students to come out and join the celebration," Ms. Woodley said.

Beatlemania forever

It's been 20 years since the Fab Four took America

NEW YORK (AP) — "Shindig," the pop music show, was on television. "Goldfinger" was in the movie theaters. Women, a few, tried topless swimsuits and teens skimmed sidewalks on the first skateboards.

It was 1964 — the year the Beatles took America.

Twenty years ago on Feb. 9, the four mopheads from Liverpool made their American debut on "The Ed Sullivan Show." It was one of the most watched TV programs in the nation — in New York City alone, 72 percent of all viewers tuned in that Sunday night.

In the studio audience, there were girls, girls, girls — screaming, screeching, squirming adolescent girls.

The girls — 3,000 screamers — were at Kennedy Airport when Paul McCartney, 21, Ringo Starr, 23, George Harrison, 20, and John Lennon, 23, arrived Feb. 7, 1964.

Fred Martin, now an advertising consultant in Newport Beach, Calif., was the record company's publicist then. "They were surprised as we drove in from the airport that there were minute-by-minute broadcasts on them, on where the car was. That astounded them," he said in a telephone interview.

"The Sullivan show was not the biggest thing they were doing," he said. "The biggest thing was coming to the States.... Playing Carnegie Hall really intrigued them the most. It appealed to their sense of the ridiculous — the Beatles playing Carnegie Hall."

The CBS press release heralding the Beatles' debut had said merely that the British singing group would appear on the Sullivan show with "Mitzie McCall and Charlie Brill, comedy team... the four Fays, tumbling act" and 37 members of the cast from the Broadway musical, "Oliver."

But America was getting ready. The national merchandising manager of Capitol Records said in a staff memo: "Shortly after the first, you'll have bulk quantities of a Beatle hairdo wig. As soon as they arrive — and until further notice — you and each of your sales and promotion staff are to wear the wig during the business day."

For the Beatles, those 15 days were a lark. They entertained the press at news conferences with jaunty quips to inane questions. Starr was asked what he thought of Beethoven. His reply: "Great. Specially his poems."

When a reporter asked what they owed their success to, Lennon said: "Good press agent."

Lennon is dead now, shot outside his Manhattan apartment building Dec. 8, 1980. McCartney, Harrison and Starr live in England where they pursue careers in music and film.

But in 1964, the Beatles had scarcely begun.

Wildly popular in England and on the continent, the Beatles and their records did not catch on in the United States until Jan. 17, when "I Want to Hold Your Hand" hit No. 1 on the Cashbox chart.

After Ed Sullivan, the Beatles sold 2.5 million records here in less than a month. Later that year, they grossed $1.6 million in the first week's showing of their

Texas screenwriter bucks Hollywood system

AUSTIN (AP) — A spiritless landscape of junk yards, truck stops and fast-food joints flies past the car window, and the interstate stretches out in a no-nonsense line up the middle of Texas, 200 miles between Austin and Dallas.

Bill Witaliff is making the drive for the dozenth time. He is shuttling back and forth on business for his publishing firm in Austin.

But Witaliff isn't thinking about business, or the highway.

He is watching a movie — the one that is playing in his mind.

"I was driving back and forth, back and forth to Dallas. The seed of a story my grandfather told me came up in my mind and I started playing with it. Because I was driving and not writing, I would be seeing it."

"I don't know how many trips I made to Dallas, and every time I got in the car, it would start again. By the time I finished with all that, I had seen the whole thing, so I sat down and it was very natural to write it as a screenplay."

Ten years later Witaliff, 42, is seated in an office in the big, old house that is home for Encino Press. Lining the walls are books, of course, but also posters for movies that Witaliff wrote — "The Black Stallion," "Raggedy Man," and the one based on the tale his grandfather told him — "Barbarosa."

Witaliff said he had wanted to write from "early, early on." A love of books led Witaliff and his wife, Sally, to start their own publishing company when the two were just out of college.

But as the little company grew, publishing works of other Texas authors, Witaliff's own attempts to write short stories and novels led only to frustration.

"I tried all the various things and never had anything work for me," he says in his soft-spoken, direct way. "No form really worked for me until I hit the screenplay."

He had never even seen a screenplay, but sat down and wrote "Barbarosa" from the story his grandfather had told about an old man who wore his hair long to cover ears that had been cut off for stealing horses.

The work was "primitive," he said, but his friend, screenwriter Bud Shrake, picked it up and read it. Shrake sent it to his agent. Witaliff had found his medium and his screenplays began to sell.

Though he optioned several scripts, the first to be produced was "Thaddeus Rose and Eddie," a 1978 made-for-television movie about two aging Texas good ol' boys. It featured the acting debut of Johnny and June Carter Cash.

"I tried all the various things and never had anything work for me. No form really worked for me until I hit the screenplay."

Admirers of that script asked Witaliff to write the screenplay for a film they were producing, "The Black Stallion."

The picture, Witaliff said, was "probably fashioned more in the editing room than it was on paper." But Witaliff was responsible for some of the movie's notable departures from the Walter Farley book it was based on, such as the mystical opening scenes of the boy and his father on a ship in the Mediterranean, and the father's tale to his son about the legend of Alexander the Great and his horse, Bucephalus.

Witaliff said he wanted the boy and the father alone in a remote place so that when the father died, the bond between the boy and the horse that saved him would be even stronger.

With the success of "The Black Stallion" behind him, Witaliff saw two more of his scripts go into production.

Willie Nelson read "Barbarosa," the story of a border bandit enshrined in legend as a sort of god, but who in reality was only a two-bit thief, and according to Witaliff, read a couple of pages and announced, "I want to be that guy."

While "Barbarosa" was being shot in West Texas, another Witaliff screenplay was filming in Maxwell, Texas.

"Raggedy Man" was about Witaliff's mother. A divorcee with two young sons, she was the sole telephone operator in Gregory, Texas, during World War II.

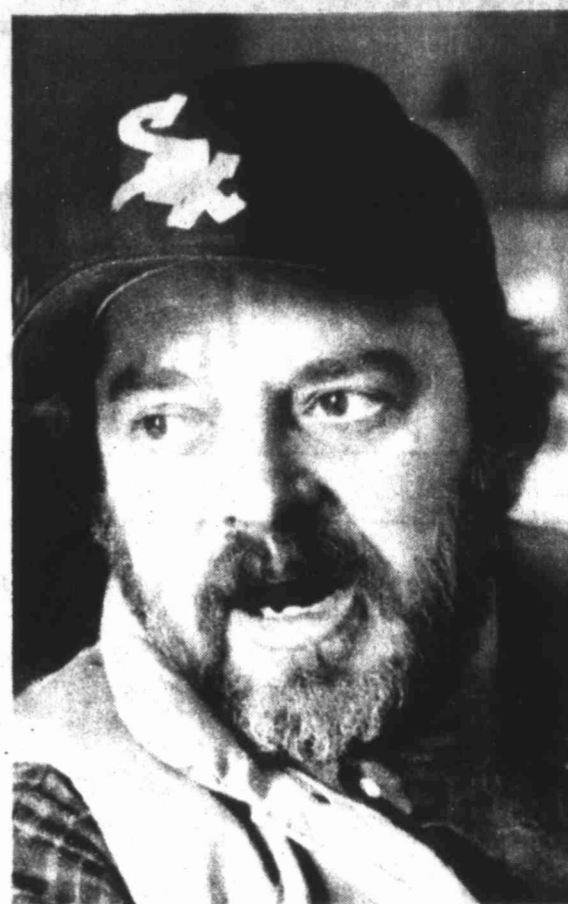

Sissy Spacek starred as the strong but lonely woman, stranded in a dead-end job in a small town. Sam Shepard played the Raggedy Man, a mysterious rag-picker who wanders in the background until the end of the movie, when he appears in the middle of the night to save the family from two hoodlums.

The Raggedy Man, it turns out, is the boys' missing father.

"My fantasy was that my father wanted to be with us but couldn't because of whatever reason," Witaliff said. "I suppose what 'Raggedy Man' was to me was a way of trying to say thank you to my mother, because until I was older I didn't know what a rough time it was for her, and from a personal standpoint it was probably an effort to exorcise whatever feelings I had for my father."

Witaliff now is co-producing his screenplay "Country," with star Jessica Lange, who approached Witaliff to write a script about a modern farm family who lose their land. It was shot in Iowa and will be released next year.

"It's a very harsh story about what happens to people when they have to pull the roots out of the ground they've been on for a hundred years," Witaliff said.

SCREENWRITER — Bill Witaliff, screenwriter, sits in Austin recently discussing his work. Witaliff, who wanted to write from "early, early on" has written screenplays for "The Black Stallion," "Raggedy Man," and "Barbarosa."

Ms. Perez was taken to Malone and Hogan emergency room by a private vehicle and was treated for minor injuries and released. Lambert was not seriously injured.

Another major accident was investigated by police about 1:42 a.m. Saturday at 1216 Ridgeroad. A vehicle driven by James Winchester of 1304 Sycamore was traveling east in the 1200 block of Ridgeroad when it sideswiped a parked vehicle.

Winchester's vehicle proceeded east, over a curb of property at 1214 Ridgeroad, then traveled 45 feet southeast where it struck a chain link fence and the corner of a house at 1216 Ridgeroad.

Winchester was taken to Malone and Hogan Hospital where he was treated for injuries and released.

Ziegler said.

"It was a signal of the type we would expect," he said.

Asked whether he thinks the satellite has been found, Ziegler replied: "Probably."

NORAD said the largest piece it tracked is at least 690 miles behind Challenger and poses no danger to the ship and its five-man crew "at present," and that the closest approach for 24 hours is greater than 31 miles.

"Based on the number of pieces that have been detected, it appears the Westar VI satellite did not have a successful transfer to synchronous orbit after departing the payload bay of the orbiter," NORAD said.

"At the present time we have no way of determining the actual condition of the satellite or what caused this situation to occur." The shuttle, minus its booster rockets and fuel tank, is referred to as an orbiter.

A synchronous, or stationary, orbit means that a satellite is at 22,300 miles altitude over the equator. There, its speed matches that of Earth, making it appear stationary over one point.

The military trackers, who catalogue all manmade objects in near space, said the largest piece is between 9 and 12 square feet. Westar VI was 9 feet 3 inches high and 7 feet in diameter when it left the Challenger cargo bay. Extended, it is 21 feet, 8 inches high.

"We attempted to communicate with some of those objects without any success today," Ziegler said. "We are not at all certain these objects are Westar VI or PAM." — the Payload Assist Module, which is pushed out of the cargo bay by powerful springs.

Shuttle astronauts have launched five satellites previously, using the same system.

The shuttle moves eight miles away and turns its underside to the PAM to avoid damage from the rocket blast that comes automatically 45 minutes later. Since the astronauts can't see the firing, the only indication

Beatles

The Beatles made six albums that year and were immortalized in wax at Madam Tussaud's. Ringo's tonsillotomy in December 1964 inspired an international vigil.

It had taken less than a year to infect the nation with Beatlemania.

There was Paul, wide-eyed and boyish, feverishly working the bass guitar singing "All My Loving" at one microphone, while George, on lead guitar, and John, on rhythm guitar, harmonized at another. Ringo sat high above them on a platform, playing drums.

Paul soloed on "Til There Was You" from Broadway's "The Music Man." Later, after a magician did card tricks and Georgia Brown sang songs from "Oliver," the Beatles returned with the Lennon-McCartney song, "She Loves You."

Their hair, considered outrageously long then, fell in agreeable bangs across their foreheads and stopped somewhere mid-neck. The Beatles hair style eventually became as conservative as a crewcut, but in 1964, it was a novelty. The late oil billionaire John Paul Getty posed in a Beatles wig, as did Ed Sullivan.

After the Sullivan show, the Beatles played the Washington Coliseum in Washington, D.C. On Feb. 12, they played Carnegie Hall, where fans drowned their music in screams.

Michener's book nixed

LOS ANGELES — American author James Michener's involvement with Radio Free Europe has scotched plans by Polish government officials to have his epic "Poland" translated into their language.

Michener was recently named to the Board for International Broadcasting, which oversees Radio Free Europe. Soviet bloc countries consider the radio network a tool of U.S. propaganda intent on subverting communist governments in Eastern Europe.

"Because of that (Michener's appointment), it is quite clear we could not now publish (his) book in Poland," an official told the Los Angeles Times in today's editions.

Actor takes his lumps

NEW YORK — Boxer-turned-television star Tony Danza was left with a cut over his nose and charges of assault and criminal mischief after a brawl at a Manhattan restaurant.

Police said Danza, a member of the cast of the canceled television series "Taxi," was arrested Friday night after a fight with security guard in the Conservatory Restaurant on Central Park West.

TONY DANZA

Danza, 33, and a friend, Albert Sinacari, 29, were sitting at a table in the restaurant around 8:30 p.m. when they "became kind of boisterous," said police spokesman Officer Norris Hollomon. "The manager sent a security guard over to quiet them down and keep an eye on them," he said.

An argument ensued between the guard, William Sawyer, and the pair, Hollomon said, then "Danza and his friend grabbed the guard."

The fight spilled over into the lobby of the Mayflower Hotel, which is next to the restaurant.

Christie rebukes nukes

AMHERST, Mass. — British actress Julie Christie says putting nuclear missiles in Europe has touched off the biggest controversy on the Continent since World War II.

"No other issue in the last 40 years has aroused so many people in Europe," Miss Christie told an audience at the University of Massachusetts on Friday.

"We feel it's terribly important that Americans should know from the horse's mouth how we feel about their government's actions," said Miss Christie, a member of the European Women's Peace Alliance.

Miss Christie is one of several European nuclear activists and officials touring the United States to lobby against the deployment of nuclear missiles in their countries.

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A worker was reported missing Saturday after an explosion and fire at a refinery storage tank near the Corpus Christi ship channel.

The explosion sent thick, black smoke at least 300 feet high, authorities said. The smoke covered the north side of the city, and residents reported feeling tremors from the blast about 2 p.m.

Brazilian plane hijacked

RIO DE JANEIRO — A band of hijackers, including a woman with a small child, commandeered a Brazilian airliner on a domestic flight Saturday and forced the pilot to fly to Cuba after releasing all 158 passengers at a refueling stop in Surinam. Passengers said some of the hijackers had pistols.

Cuban authorities took the hijackers into custody when the plane landed at Camaguey, 300 miles southeast of Havana, and granted permission for the 14-member crew to take the Cruzeiro Airlines Airbus back to Brazil, according to government and airline officials. They said no one was hurt in the incident.

The hijackers — at least two men and the woman with a child — were believed to be Brazilians with no known connection to a political group. One passenger said there were at least seven hijackers.

Flight 302 took off from Rio de Janeiro, headed for Manaus, on the Amazon River in Brazil, with several scheduled stops en route. The plane left one of those stops, the northern city of San Luis, late Friday and before it reached the Amazon port city of Belem Saturday morning, some of the hijackers entered the cockpit and diverted the flight, a Varig-Cruzeiro Airlines spokesman said.

It flew first to Zanderij Airport at Paramaribo, Surinam, on South America's northern coast, where the hijackers negotiated with Brazil's Ambassador Luis Felipe Lambrea. They agreed to release the 158 passengers in return for maps and additional fuel, Brazil's Foreign Ministry said.

Officials in Surinam said Lambrea rejected the hijackers' offer to release only women and children passengers. There was no breakdown on passengers' nationalities, according to airline spokesmen, who spoke on condition they not be identified.

Wazzan offers resignation

BEIRUT — Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan said Saturday he is prepared to resign to pave the way for a National Salvation Cabinet to end the fighting between Moslem militiamen and the Lebanese army.

Shiite Moslem militiamen drove army troops back from a fiercely contested entrance to Beirut on Saturday and a Shiite leader called on Moslem Cabinet members to resign.

Police said 58 people have been killed and 154 wounded in three days of fighting at a southern highway entrance to Beirut.

Wazzan, a Moslem, told reporters he met with three Moslem members of his nine-member Cabinet and also had discussed the resignation of his Cabinet with President Amin Gemayel.

Wazzan said he agreed on the "necessity for change and resignation" with the minister of electricity, Bahaeddin al-Bissat, a Sunni Moslem, and Minister of Health Adnan Mrouwa and Minister of Commerce Ibrahim Halawai, both Shiites.

"This stemmed from our conviction that all factions should inevitably participate in shouldering the responsibilities in the current grave situation to prevent further deterioration and to work for salvation," Wazzan said in a statement to reporters.

Fighting broke out at the Galerie Semaan entrance to Beirut on Thursday, and Christian, Shiite and Druse areas have been shelled. Fires burned out of control in many areas Saturday and police said thousands of people hid in basements and bomb shelters.

A few hours before Wazzan issued his statement, Lebanon's top Shiite Moslem militia commander called on the Moslem Cabinet ministers to resign and urged Moslems in the Lebanese army to lay down their arms.

Reagan criticism lessens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats on the House Foreign Affairs Committee have agreed to remove language directly critical of the Reagan administration from a draft resolution urging withdrawal of the Marines from Beirut, a key member of the panel said Saturday.

Rep. Stephen J. Solarz, D-N.Y., said the Democratic committee members also had agreed to insert language endorsing the continued presence of the Sixth Fleet offshore and asserting that Syria bears main responsibility for the failure to reach an accord in Lebanon.

The changes are intended to "broaden the base of support for the resolution," which is set to go before the full committee for a vote next week, Solarz said.

At the same time, the resolution would continue to call for "prompt and orderly withdrawal" of the Marines, based at Beirut's airport as part of a multinational peacekeeping force.

President Reagan, when asked about the Lebanon resolution, told reporters Wednesday: "I'm not going to pay any attention to it."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., contended that "we tried to build a bipartisan policy, but when it fails we have a responsibility to speak out against it."

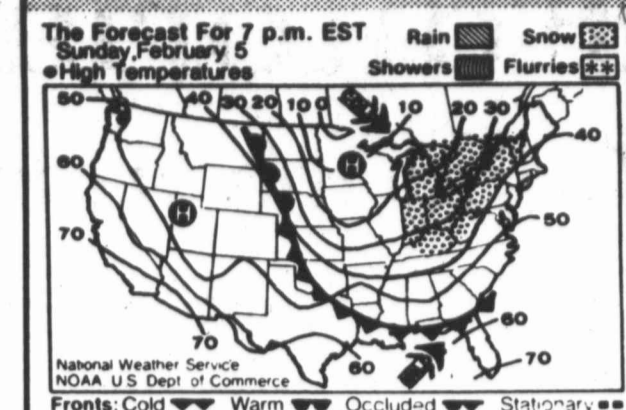

Although the resolution would not carry the force of law, it would demonstrate a reversal of congressional sentiment from last fall, when both the Democrat-run House and the Republican-led Senate voted to allow Reagan to keep the Marines in Beirut through mid-April of 1985.

As originally drafted, the resolution described administration policy in Lebanon as a "failure" that has led to "widespread concern among the American people" and "failed to impress upon the government of Lebanon the urgent need for it to develop a viable reconciliation plan."

Snow showers were reported Saturday over the Great Lakes, the upper Mississippi Valley and from Illinois through Indiana.

Upper Michigan was warned of possibly locally heavy snow and cold temperatures Sunday, with the heaviest snow expected near Lake Superior.

Snow flurries were widely scattered over western Missouri and Kansas and from southeastern Washington into northwestern Utah.

Rain was scattered over New England and from eastern Virginia across eastern North Carolina.

A cool spell hit Hawaii, with the temperature at Honolulu International Airport reaching a record low for the date of just 57 degrees. The previous record of 58 degrees was set in 1982; the average low there for February is 65.

Bring the trains back to W. Texas

The brief appearance of an Amtrak train through Big Spring Friday was more than a flash of nostalgia for local residents. It represents also a slim prospect for the return of passenger rail service to West Texas.

Officials aboard the route-test train said the condition of rail from Dallas west — at least as far as Big Spring — was suitable for passenger traffic. The same cannot be said for portions of Southern Pacific track between Houston and Dallas. But the inspectors didn't rule out upgrading those unsuitable stretches to make the El Paso-Dallas-Houston route viable.

There is solid evidence in support of adding to — or substituting for — the current Texas route of the "Sunset Limited" which runs diagonally across the state from El Paso to San Antonio to Houston. There are more people along the West Texas route than on the one the Limited serves.

According to figures compiled by Burt C. Blanton, a Dallas-based consultant, the Sunset Limited serves 26 cities and towns with a total population of 2.9 million (1980 Census).

The West Texas route from El Paso to Dallas to Houston — which would serve Big Spring and points east of west of here — would pass through 32 cities and towns maintaining a 1980 Census population of 4 million.

The National Association of Railroad Passengers urges adding a Houston-Dallas run and a Dallas-El Paso (West Texas) run. It cites what it calls "neglect" of the people in the West and South by Amtrak in favor of the heavily populated "northeast corridor" of Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Washington. The NARP wants Amtrak as a truly national rail system.

The impressive population figures and the mandate of federal subsidized Amtrak for national service offers strong argument for a return of the rails to West Texas.

Around The Rim

One more time

These are but wild and whirling words...

Horatio's reaction to Hamlet's excited recollection of seeing his dead father fairly well describes the response I got late last week from my bosses after they came under fire for my latest column.

My treatise on the Texas Board of Education's ruling limiting the teaching of Darwinism in public schools was not so much written, they said, as it was shouted. And, they pointed out, I had launched many deadly missiles without clearly marking my target.

Since my bullets so often in the past have ricocheted off their intended quarry toward my superiors, I feel obliged to shelter my bosses from further shrapnel by explaining, in more sober and rational terms, what my last missive was meant to convey.

To repeat my thesis, which I admit was splattered with frothy anger and thorny bitterness, let me say that I consider the board's ruling a step backward and a submission to the political pressures of crusading moralists who have equated the name Darwin with atheism, "humanism" and moral degeneration.

The board's action — a result of the claim by these textbook monitors that they must stand as my moral guardian — so infuriated me that I unleashed unbridled, acerbic accusations which I now realize offended many who did not fall within the scope of my shotgun blast.

My point — and I hope I transmit it clearly this time — is that Darwin is as essential to the understanding of biology as Newton is to the comprehension of gravity. Einstein rewrote the book on gravity, but any discussion of why things fall to earth has to take into account Newton. Darwin, too, has and will be revised, rejected and updated, but no investigation of biology can occur without consulting him.

We just can't erase Darwin's name from our textbooks and expect our students to advance in knowledge.

The name Darwin arouses such passions because he published and popularized his theories on evolution at a time when modern scientific research and technology were exploding on the world as the influence of Medieval religious teachings were waning.

Darwin didn't invent evolution, he just clarified and explained scientific thinking originally expounded 3,000 years ago by Anaximander and Zenophanes, who were until Darwin unknown outside small scientific circles.

Darwin's "sin" was that he made evolution public, and the public was caught completely unawares when science began popularizing a view which contradicted the world as plotted by the preacher.

Darwin and the church then were pitted in a great struggle for man's soul, and thus a tragic 100-year story began of confusion, misunderstanding and distrust between science and religion.

Darwin is no threat to the Bible, the Koran or the Veda; and religion shouldn't detract from our scientific investigations and teachings.

Darwin explained how life originated and developed. Genesis explains why all these things happened and for what purpose.

Religion and science are compatible. They need not fear each other. They should not be in competition for man's mind.

That's why my blood boils when a cleric tells his congregation there is no Darwin, and when a scientist tells his class there is no God.

And that's why we all should become alarmed when a state agency buckles under to organized ignorance.

But there needs no ghost come from the grave to tell us this.

Term extension isn't American way

Ill feeling in the community about council members voting themselves additional lengths to their terms isn't going to just go away. In fact it appears the "worst case" scenario may become reality — a lawsuit challenging the action which will not be pleasant and which will pit taxpayers money against taxpayers money.

Those who have expressed their concern to me have cast no aspersions on the character of our council members. No one is worried that the portion of the out-of-court settlement of a voting rights suit which holds over two current councilmen and the mayor was a "trick." If the same members who decided to add to the lengths of their terms simply presented themselves for re-election, I expect they'd accomplish the same end.

Rather, the concern is for the principle involved. All the things anyone has ever learned about civics is being recanted by this action. The people are losing the right to duly elect their representatives. And when they begin to think about it, it doesn't sit well at all.

City leaders work long hours and make stressful decisions. Their only reward is the betterment of their city. It is an obligation they fulfill without complaint. Perhaps it is from this mind-frame that the council's idea to add one or two years to some members terms was born. Non-paid leaders fulfilling civic functions might well consider such a move in the interest of continuity in city government. The motives would be sound. They no doubt honestly believed the reasoning was sound.

Yet the end result is all wrong. Whether these men should continue service to the city isn't at question. What is at question is that basic democratic tenets have been ignored. The rules of 200 years of a free country, not to mention the city charter, were cast aside.

Those who have approached me have asked, "What is the basis for such a decision?" They want some reassurance that what they suspect happened didn't really happen. That there is some precedence, some basis in law, something to latch onto in defense of their city's leaders.

No reassurance has been forthcoming, except to say that a federal judge approved the voting plan. But we suspect — and the judge isn't talking — that he didn't concern himself with anything but the minority voting provisions. That's his role in this out-of-court settlement with the League of United Latin American citizens. The council's is to govern within the guidelines of the city charter.

When a citizen confronted the council at a public meeting recently about the decision to extend terms, he asked one simple question. Paraphrased, the question was: "Is there any law or precedent that supports what you've done?" He was given a curt non-reply to this effect: "You've retained your own attorney — you find out."

As a taxpayer and a concerned citizen, he deserved a better answer than that. If there is state law supporting such an action, or if there is case law from exactly similar situations in other cities, then the council would be wise to get that information out to the public.

Our checks have turned up no such supporting evidence.

This really isn't the time for the city to stonewall the public on an issue as vital, and as important, as this one. The bristle we detect as a reaction to questions about this issue demonstrates a sensitivity that can only deepen the disturbing undercurrent of public concern. It will do nothing to alleviate it.

Changes violate charter

To the editor:

There have been several complaints expressed in recent weeks concerning the agreement that the Big Spring City Council made with LULAC. Our council members are men of unquestionable character, and they only entered into the questioned agreement after having obtained legal advice concerning the matter.

Regardless of the fact that the council members acted in good faith upon the advice of an attorney, it appears they have violated the city charter which they have agreed to uphold. The LULAC agreement makes changes or amendments to the city charter without voter approval. I would like to point out some of the charter sections which have been changed as a result of the LULAC Agreement:

Article IV. City Government Section 1A — "The governing body of the city of Big Spring shall consist of four (4) councilmen and/or councilwomen and a mayor and shall be known as the city council of Big Spring."

Section 1A also states that the councilmen and mayor shall be elected from the city at large. The LULAC agreement expands the council from five to seven members and not all council members will be elected at large.

Article V. Elections Section 3 Terms of Councilmen and/or Councilwomen — "The regular term of office of the members of the council shall be two (2) years and until their successor shall have qualified."

The LULAC agreement calls for council members to serve three year terms.

Section 4. Date of General Election, Number of Councilmen and/or councilwomen to be Elected — "A regular election shall be held on the first Tuesday in April of each year. In even numbered years, three (3) members of the council shall be elected, and in odd numbered years, two (2) members of the council shall be elected."

1984 is an even numbered year, and voters on the first Tuesday in April are supposed to vote on three council members. However, the LULAC agreement has extended the terms of those three council members, and they will not appear before the voters at all in 1984. The only council members that will be elected in April 1984 will be holding seats that are not even authorized by the city charter which raises questions concerning the legality of any business conducted by the council following the April election.

Section 7. Filing of Candidates — "Any qualified person who desires to become a candidate for election to the city council shall file with the city secretary at least Thirty (30) days prior to the election day, and application for his name to appear on the ballot. Such application shall clearly designate the position on the council to which the candidate seeks election, and shall contain a sworn statement by the candidate that he is fully qualified under the laws of Texas and the provision of this charter to hold the office he seeks."

The LULAC agreement prohibits any qualified citizen of Big Spring from seeking election to the city council for any of the three positions that should be voted on in April. There can be no question that these sections of the city charter have been changed or amended without voter approval.

The city council should be restricted to working within the confinements of the city charter. The president and the congress of the United States have to work within the confinements of the constitution of the United States, and the city charter is our local constitution. It should be upheld as such, and amended only with the approval of Big Spring voters.

The agreement that the city council made with LULAC may be the right way to go but the changes it brings to the city charter need to be approved by Big Spring voters or the charter becomes a useless and powerless instrument.

Billy Graham

Can we know what's after life?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you really think it is possible for a person to know that he will go to Heaven when he dies? I have never thought very much about this before, but recently a relative of mine died unexpectedly and I realized that I was not prepared for death. — P.C.

DEAR P.C.: The most important thing you can do in life is to make sure you are prepared for eternity, and I am thankful you are giving attention to this.

Yes, it is possible for us to know that we will go to Heaven when we die. It is possible because God has made it possible through Jesus Christ. In order to understand this, realize that there is only one thing that will keep you from Heaven, and that is your sin. The Bible tells us that every one of us has sinned against God, and because of this we have no right to enter Heaven. Because we have sinned against God, we deserve only his judgment. No matter how good we may be, it takes only one sin to keep us out of Heaven.

That is why our only hope of salvation is in God. We need his forgiveness, and we need to be cleansed of our sins. And this is possible, because God sent his Son, Jesus Christ, to die as a perfect sacrifice for our sins on the cross. He did not deserve to die, but because he loves us, Christ was willing to take upon himself the death and hell that you and I deserve. The Bible says, "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 6:23).

Yes, God offers you salvation as a gift. Think of what that means. When someone offers you a gift, it means they have done everything possible to provide it for you. They have paid for it, and they offer it freely to you. But what must you do before it becomes yours? You must reach out and accept it.

Polls show that newspaper advertising is considered more believable than that of any other medium.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Sunday, Feb. 5, the 36th day of 1984. There are 330 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On Feb. 5, 1937, President Franklin D. Roosevelt sparked a bitter controversy when he proposed adding six new justices to the Supreme Court.

On this date:
In 1644, Connecticut enacted a law requiring cattle and swine over six months old to be earmarked or branded, with violators fined five shillings — two of the shillings going to the snitch.

In 1861, Samuel Goodale of Cincinnati patented a motion picture peep show machine.

In 1900, the 1952 and 1956 Democratic presidential candidate, Adlai Stevenson, was born in Los Angeles.

In 1901, Edwin Prescott of Arlington, Mass., patented the loop-the-loop roller coaster.

And in 1971, Apollo 14 astronauts Alan Shepard and Edgar Mitchell landed on the moon.

Ten years ago: Pope Paul VI removed exiled Cardinal Joseph Mindszenty from his honorary function as Roman Catholic primate of Hungary.

Five years ago: Hundreds of farmers and their families descended on Washington in tractors, vans and pickup trucks to press their demands for higher price supports.

One year ago: President Reagan complained about describing his economic program as "Reaganomics," saying it "sounds like a fad diet or an aerobic exercise."

Woman leaves behind $11,000 for killing rats

CINCINNATI (AP) — A woman who was grateful to the Cincinnati rat patrol for ridding her neighborhood of vermin left $11,005 — half her estate — to the city agency, her attorney said Saturday.

"Let me say, I don't see that very often," said William N. Mire, an attorney for Clara Poole, who died more than a year ago leaving no heirs.

"You run across people with bigger estates who have contributions to charitable foundations, but nothing like this."

Roy Kaiser, Cincinnati central district health officer, said the bequest to the Intensive Rodent Control program was "very helpful at this time." Kaiser said the money will help maintain the rat patrol in the face of budget cuts slated for March.

"She told me that she recognized that the city did an excellent job in the neighborhood, and she wanted to reward them ... in her will," Mire said.

Since 1976, the squad has eradicated rat populations in several neighborhoods. Kaiser said the program's three staff members use baited traps in areas where rats are especially troublesome.

But the work itself, though publicly beneficial, doesn't normally bring rewards of the monetary variety.

"It was somewhat of a surprise to us," Kaiser said, when Mire called to say he was executing an estate and the department would benefit.

Mire said some of the proceeds from sale of Mrs. Poole's two frame homes in the Winton Place neighborhood went to a long-time second-floor tenant of her home and the local Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Mire, asked to describe Mrs. Poole, said, "I would say she was an artistic type. She played the piano, and she did some painting — she liked music."

2,500 Holly fans gather for tribute

CLEAR LAKE, Iowa (AP) — Rock fans from across the United States and Britain gathered Friday at the scene of music legend Buddy Holly's final appearance, in tribute to the singer who died 25 years ago in a nearby plane crash.

Visitors walked around the wooden dance floor of the Surf Ball Room, snapping pictures and staring at the stage where Holly played his last concert.

"This place, Clear Lake, is a landmark for Buddy Holly fans," said David Harvey, a London disc jockey who made the trip to the small northern Iowa city for the sixth annual Buddy Holly Tribute.

"Just in London alone, Buddy Holly has a following of 3,000," Harvey said. "People still speak about him today like he was singing last week or yesterday."

The 2,500 people gathered for Friday's sock hop and Saturday's dance concert in the Surf are proof of that "Buddy Holly lives," said Jack Wilcox, general manager of Clear Lake radio station KZEV, which sponsors the tribute.

"When this many people gather, it's obvious that Holly's music hasn't died," Wilcox said.

Charles Hardin "Buddy" Holly, 21, of Lubbock, Texas, died in the crash of a small plane on a snow-crusted field near Clear Lake on Feb. 3, 1959, just hours after he finished performing at the Surf. Also killed in the crash were recording stars Ritchie Valens, 21, of Los Angeles, J.P. (The Big Bopper) Richardson, 28, of Beaumont, Texas, and Clear Lake pilot Roger Peterson.

The tragedy shook the popular music scene, which was just coming to accept the "Rave on" rock 'n' roll style Holly pioneered in songs like "That'll be the Day," "Peggy Sue," and "Oh Boy."

Hans Goeppinger, a farmer from Boone, said "I would have seen Buddy Holly in concert the night he was killed but I had a commitment — which I will regret to my last breath."

Goeppinger said he cranks up his turquoise and white 1956 Ford Fairlane Crown Victoria Skyliner for the trip to Clear Lake each year because of his respect for Holly's music and to hear the musicians who play at the annual concert.

Joy! To the world

By JOY CULWELL
Colorado City
Correspondent

Bill and Sandra Thompson of Colorado City have raised four children, well, almost raised four. The youngest is 16. Over the years the four children have been subjected to something that no child should have to contend with. Those poor hungry, starving children have at least a thousand times each had to face an ice cream carton with only two tablespoons of ice cream left, cereal boxes mysteriously empty, loaves of bread down to the last heel and a cookie jar with only one cookie.

Now, the problem is not faulty planning because Sandra marches to the grocery store with a list worthy of an assault on Mount Everest. And the problem is not supply because Sandra brings home enough groceries to feed Cox's army for a month.

The real problem is a "band of thieves" sneaking into the Thompson house when everybody is gone and they don't quit eating until almost all the food is gone. They don't eat all the food, just almost all of it. There is not enough to divide among four growing children.

Sandra says those poor kids come in from school and hope to eat something. That's when they discover the thieves have been there again. The jar of peanut butter is down to its last spoonful and the potato chips are not visible when they look into a package that was "just opened." When questioning the brothers and sisters about who ate up the goodies, none of them are guilty. It has to be those darn thieves again.

They tried guarding the house. They built a nice fence and bought a guard dog, but no luck. The thieves keep sneaking in and pig out all the junk food and even some of the "good for you food" too.

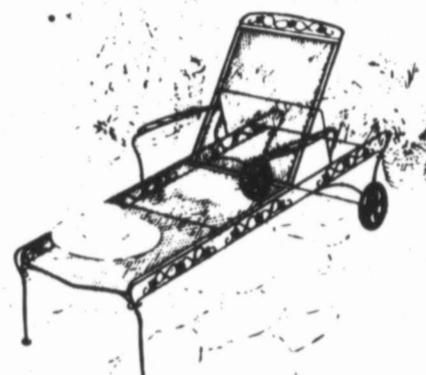

Well, there's the problem folks. I think any parent would understand and be sympathetic. I guess Johnny Kay is now 21, Ricky is now 20 and Jimmy who has survived to 16 will just have to starve. Look at it this way, guys — at least the thieves will keep you from having a weight problem.

Bill and Sandra, who are innocent bystanders to all this, have gone to spend the weekend in Corsicana with their oldest child Paula, who is married to Joe Reed. Paula met Joe when she worked at Root Memorial Hospital as an aide where he was a x-ray technician. Paula has started LVN school at Navarro College and Bill and Sandra is proud of her 4-point grade average.

Man charged with murder in bombing

DALLAS (AP) — The former brother-in-law of a man killed when a booby-trapped newspaper vending machine exploded as he opened it has been charged with murder in the case.

Billy Jeff Cornett, 35, was arraigned at midnight Friday before Criminal District Court Magistrate Charles McClure who set bail at $200,000.

Ward S. Keeton, 63, was killed instantly early on the morning of Jan. 26 as he was getting a newspaper from a vending machine near his north Dallas apartment, investigators said.

At first, police said Keeton was believed to have been the victim of a random attack.

Early Thursday, Keeton's former stepson and Cornett's nephew, Marshall Dewayne Williams, 21, turned himself in to police, said Dallas police spokesman Bob Shaw. Shaw said information given by Williams led to Cornett's arrest.

Cornett, of League City, was taken into custody in LaMarque later Thursday and was returned to Dallas Friday.

Williams was being held Friday on investigation of murder under $50,000 bail but had not been charged.

Police say physical evidence links Cornett and Williams, a security guard from Mesquite, to the killing, but say they have established no motive.

Neighbors said Keeton went to the Dallas Morning News vending box at about the same time every morning. He was killed at 5:15 a.m., less than half an hour after the box had been filled with papers.

A spokesman for the FBI said Keeton was "known to" the agency but would give no details.

On Turning Heads

Large eyes look even more beautiful when the brows are full rather than skimpy. The ends of brows of all shapes should align with an imaginary line drawn from the base of the nose to the eyes' inner and outer corners. If yours fall short, fill in with eyebrow pencil. Otherwise, pluck the excess. Smaller eyes benefit from a more delicate brown. Brows that are too long or too heavy can be overwhelming. After confirming that your brows are the right length, brush upward using a child's toothbrush. Next, following the curve of the upper lid and working on the brow's underside only, pluck lightly at the beginning of the brow and a bit more as you proceed to the end.

Pro-am around the corner

May seems a long way off right now, but it will be here sooner than one thinks and with May comes the Big Spring Shriner Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

Russell Erxleben, punter for the New Orleans Saints and one of the celebrities on hand for last year's inaugural event, was in Big Spring this week and yours truly had a chance to talk to Erxleben about helping with the 1984 Pro-Am, his own Russell Erxleben Celebrity Golf Tournament and life in the National Football League among other items.

According to Erxleben local events like the Shriners Pro-Am are something he likes to do. He is the Louisiana chairman for the March of Dimes campaign. "I especially like it out here," he said of the Big Spring area. In fact Erxleben is thinking of moving the location of his tournament from Austin to either Midland or Big Spring. He did add, however, "I certainly don't want to affect Big Spring's tourney."

Erxleben's tournament is held for former Arkansas and St. Louis kicker Steve Little and a living center for the elderly in Austin. Little, along with Erxleben and Philadelphia booter Tony Franklin, formed one of the nation's best kicking trios in the Southwest Conference during the mid 1970's. Little is paralyzed from an automobile accident several years ago.

"I'd like to attach the tourney to something in this area also," added Erxleben.

As to the tourney set for Big Spring May 23-25, Erxleben said, "There were 12 celebrities on hand last year. It's hoped that we can get 30 this year." He added he expects Bum Phillips to be one of those on hand. "I came out here to help secure players. I think I know the type of celebrity that will participate," Erxleben added.

Added Don Cook, a member of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce's Ambassador Club which helps the Shriners co-sponsor the affair, "Last year we donated $22,000 to children's burn centers." Cook mentioned that there will be 60 club pros involved with the tourney in addition to those celebrities lending their efforts.

Golfing aside, (further details will be made available in this sports section as they develop), Erxleben expounded on Phillips, life after football, the Longhorns and the USFL.

According to Erxleben, Phillips is easy to work for. Phillips is more of a player's coach and makes those around him feel at ease with themselves. "It would be very difficult to play for Bum and then go play somewhere else," said Erxleben.

About his alma mater the Seguin native said, "Time heals all things," in reference to the team's bitter defeat against Georgia in the Cotton Bowl.

And on the upstart United States Football League Erxleben said it is "Too early to tell. The owners are bankrolling the thing. I don't see how they can continue paying the salaries they are paying though." The league doesn't receive enough television money or play before full enough stadiums in Erxleben's opinion. He added, however, "The NFL will have to do something should the USFL last four or five years."

Irwin is leader
in Crosby golf

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Hale Irwin contrived a hard-won 68 despite the distractions of a merry-making group he called "Dirty Harry's crowd," and moved into a two-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the 43rd Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

"That's the most people I've ever seen on this golf course. It had to be a record," said Irwin, a two-time U.S. Open champion who seemed little short of amazed at the size of the gallery that scurried through the pines and cypress and romped along the cliffs and crags overlooking Carmel Bay.

They were lured by the third consecutive day of fine weather that graced the spectacular beauty of the picturesque Monterey Peninsula and the chance to see major show-business celebrities in something other than their natural habitat.

Actor Clint Eastwood, who has portrayed the character "Dirty Harry" in several films, played in the same foursome with Irwin at Pebble Beach.

"The gallery could be a little boisterous," Irwin said. "It can be disconcerting. The difficult thing was keeping your concentration and getting through Dirty Harry's crowd."

When he eventually worked his way through the party-time atmosphere around the 18th green, Irwin had completed one round on each of three courses in 206 — 10 shots under par and firmly in command going into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $72,000 first prize.

Oilers reach Moon with $6 million

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler General Manager Ladd Herzog closed one touchy issue by making quarterback Warren

Moon the highest-paid player in the National Football League Saturday, but now must turn to another problem — unhappy running back Earl Campbell.

The Oilers say Moon will sign a five-year contract for an estimated $6 million in March, giving the former Canadian Football League most valuable player a higher salary than Denver quarterback John Elway.

Herzog made it clear, however, that there would be no renegotiation for Campbell, who has two years remaining on a contract that pays him $500,000 annually if he fulfills all bonus clauses.

"At the time we renegotiated Earl's contract we put a non-renegotiation clause in it," Herzog said. "We feel we lived up to our part of the contract and we feel Earl should live up to his part. We will not renegotiate Earl's contract."

Campbell and his agent, Mike Trope, have been talking with the United States Football League San Antonio Gunslingers owner Clinton Manges and may go to court to get the running back released from his contract.

"Anything is possible, including playing in both leagues at the same time," Trope said. "From here on out, it's going to be up to me to work out all the little details with Manges and his people."

Herzog said he risked upsetting the Oiler player salary structure when Campbell's contract was renegotiated after the 1978 season and felt that the signing of Moon was a similar situation.

Herzog declined to discuss specifics of Moon's contract, but Leigh Steinberg, Moon's attorney, said it made Moon the highest-paid player in the NFL.

"It gives unique benefits to Warren because it has great cash flow in the early years of the contract and there is more security," Steinberg said.

Moon, who led the Edmonton Eskimos to five consecutive Canadian Football League championships, had narrowed his choices to the Oilers and Seattle Seahawks.

Moon maintains a home in Seattle and played college football at the University of Washington, complicating his final decision.

"There were a lot of people calling and a lot of tears," Moon said. "It was emotionally draining because I was from Seattle. Houston was a better place for me to be but Seattle was where I had been."

Steinberg said the Los Angeles Raiders eliminated themselves from bidding after their Super Bowl victory and that other teams, including the New York Giants, Tampa Bay and New Orleans, withdrew last week.

Moon won't sign his contract officially until after Mar. 1, the date his contract expires with the Eskimos.

Moon, who threw for 5,000 yards in his final two CFL seasons, will face challenges for the starting job from Oliver Luck and Gifford Nielsen.

"I think Warren knows me well enough to know that he'll have to earn his position," said Oilers Coach Hugh Campbell, who was Moon's head coach in the CFL.

SIX MILLION DOLLAR MAN — Quarterback Warren Moon, right, holds up his new football jersey with Houston Oilers owner Bud Adams at a news conference Saturday after the free agent signed a 5-year contract worth $6 million with the National Football League club, making him the highest paid player in professional football.

College Basketball

Tide upsets Kentucky, 69-62

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Alabama, led by Buck Johnson's 12 points, pressed Kentucky into 23 turnovers and upset the third-ranked basketball Wildcats 69-62 in college basketball Saturday.

Alabama improved its record to 13-6 overall and 6-4 in the Southeastern Conference. Kentucky fell to 16-3 overall and 7-3 in the league.

In addition to Johnson's 18 points, Alabama got 17 from Bobby Lee Hurt, 12 from Eric Richardson, and 10 from Terry Williams. Kentucky was led by Kenny Walker with 14, while Melvin Turpin and Jim Master had 12 each and Sam Bowie 10.

In the second half, Alabama came out storming, taking its biggest lead 52-40 with 12:02 to play when Richardson hit a 20-foot jumper from the left wing. Richardson ended the game with 15 assists.

Maryland 71, Georgia Tech 70

ATLANTA (AP) — John Salley converted a three-point play with eight seconds remaining to give Georgia Tech a 71-70 double-overtime victory over 10th-ranked Maryland in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game Saturday.

Tech, ranked 18th, bounced back from an 11-point deficit with less than 16 minutes to play. The Jackets forced the first overtime on Anthony Byrd's 17-footer from the top of the key to make it 62-62 with 1:57 remaining and the second extra period when Byrd hit a 20-footer from the same area to tie the game at 66 with 1:06 to play.

The victory lifted Tech to 15-5 overall and 5-4 in the ACC. Maryland fell to 14-4 and 4-2.

Salley led Tech with 21 points and Bruce Dalrymple added 15. Gatlin had 19 and Ben Coleman had 17 for Maryland.

Pannell, who was averaging only 6.6 points a game, connected on nine of 12 field goal attempts and all three of his free throws to lead the Sooners, who improved to 18-3 overall and 5-1 in the league.

Missouri, whose Malcolm Thomas scored a career-high 34 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, fell to 14-7 and 3-3.

Tisdale came into the game averaging 29 points, second best in the country. But he was held to 10 points and three rebounds, and played only 29 minutes of the game after getting into foul trouble in the first half.

Washington 89, UCLA 81

SEATTLE (AP) — Reserve guard Clay Damon and forward Detlef Schrempf scored five points each in the third overtime Saturday as the Washington Huskies defeated the UCLA Bruins 89-81 in a regionally televised Pacific-10 Conference basketball game.

With their ninth straight home victory, the Huskies improved their league-leading conference record to 8-1 and their overall mark to 15-4. UCLA slipped to 6-2 in conference play and 13-5 on the season.

Schrempf topped all scorers with 27 points while Kenny Fields topped the Bruins with 26 before fouling out with 3:49 to play in the third overtime.

UNLV 89, N.M. State 81

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Forward Frank "Spoon" James poured in 29 points Thursday night to pace No. 5-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas to an 89-81 basketball triumph over New Mexico State.

The Rebels, who shot 82 percent from the field in the second half, improved their record this season to 19-1 overall and 10-0 in the conference. New Mexico State fell to 9-9 and 5-4.

Nevada-Las Vegas, which hit 18 of 22 field goals in the second half, shot 72 percent for the game.

ALLEY OOP — University of Houston center Akeem Abdul Olajuwon, (34), slams the ball through the basket after an alley oop pass from a teammate in the first half of the Southwest Conference game Saturday night, catching SMU center Jon Koncak (53) by surprise.

Akeem and Cougars wax SMU, 76-57

HOUSTON (AP) — Forward Michael Young scored 26 points to lead sixth-ranked Houston to a 76-57 basketball victory over Southern Methodist Saturday night in a Southwest Conference game.

The Cougars, 19-3 for the season and 9-0 in SWC play, extended their record of consecutive regular-season conference wins to 33. SMU fell to 18-5 and 6-3.

Houston's 7-foot Akeem Olajuwon blocked eight shots, scored 16 points and pulled down nine rebounds. Jon Koncak, SMU's 7-footer, scored 12 points Saturday night to lead four Mustangs in double figures. He also had eight rebounds.

Houston guard Alvin Franklin contributed 18 points, while Larry Davis scored 11 and Butch Moore and Carl Wright had 10 apiece for the Mustangs.

The Cougars outscored SMU 14-2 midway through the first half en route to a 34-23 halftime lead. Then Houston scored the first 10 points of the second half to widen their lead to 21 points. The Cougars led by as much as 27 points at 60-33.

Texas Tech 47, TCU 45

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — David Reynolds, a 6-8

senior from Perryton, scored on a jump shot with five seconds remaining to give Texas Tech to a 47-45 victory over Texas Christian in a Southwest Conference game Saturday night.

The victory raised Tech's record to 6-3 in SWC play and 12-8 for the season. TCU, which hasn't won a game in Daniel Meyer Coliseum all season, fell to 9-11 and 2-6.

Arkansas 63, Baylor 44

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Reserve Darryl Bedford led a second-half explosion as Arkansas snapped a two-game losing streak by crushing Baylor 63-44 in a Southwest Conference basketball game Saturday.

The Arkansas Razorbacks improved their record to 16-4 overall and 7-1 in the league. Baylor fell to 5-15 and 1-8.

Bedford, who did not play in the first half, scored seven consecutive points in less than one minute as Arkansas pulled away to a 21-point lead, 53-32, late in the game.

Senior guard Ricky Norton led Arkansas in scoring with 16 points while handing out seven assists. Forward Charles Balentine added 12 points for the Razorbacks.

Baylor freshman guard DeWayne Brown led all scorers with 17 points. Teammate Russ Capps, a guard, added 10 points.

Rice 43, A&M 42

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Tony Barnett, who had a game-high 12 points, hit two free throws in the final six seconds to give the Rice Owls a 43-42 Southwest Conference win Saturday night over Texas A&M.

Rice broke an eight-game losing streak to the Aggies with the win and raised its record to 7-12 overall and 4-5 in the conference. The Aggies fell to 11-10 and 4-6 in the SWC.

Rice never led by more than three points in the second half and Texas A&M never led in the half by more than two. The lead changed hands six times and the score was tied five times during the half.

Barnett hit a single free throw to put Rice ahead 41-40 with 1:47 left.

Early duel taking form in SunBank endurance

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — South African Sarel Van der Merwe passed Mario Andretti just past the starting line to ignite an early duel for the lead in the SunBank 24-Hour sports car endurance race at Daytona International Speedway.

Van der Merwe, who will share the cockpit of a Porsche-powered March 83G prototype racer with countrymen Graham Duxbury and Tony Martin, started from the outside of the front row in the 82-car field.

As the green flag fell, the South African slipped past the factory-backed Porsche 962 prototype that will be co-driven by Andretti, the pole-winner, and his 21-year-old son Michael.

Andretti, winner of this race in 1972 and one of the most versatile racers of all time, then went after the leader, wheeling the Porsche hard through the initial stages of its racing debut. He regained the lead on the fifth lap, with the two sleek, lowslung cars racing nose-to-tail in the infield and side-by-side on the banked oval, the battle for the lead became a see-saw affair.

Andretti's 962 is the American model of the Porsche 956 that won every European endurance race in which it was entered in 1983. The turbocharged car had to be changed to conform with International Motor Sports Camel GT series rules.

There were fears prior to the start of the race that a new chicane, built near the end of the long, fast back straightaway to slow down the powerful prototypes, would also lead to accidents and spinouts in the early going when the field was crowded together.

In recent years, several cars had blown tires and crashed in the third turn while traveling over 200 mph. There were no serious injuries, but IMSA and Daytona officials decided a chicane — in this case a narrow left turn, a quick right turn and a short straight apron leading back onto the banked portion of the 2.5-mile Speedway oval — would make things safer.

The drivers were almost unanimous in their distaste for the chicane, but, the only problems encountered in the first few laps was a bit of bumping in the narrow turns.

A.J. Foyt, who teamed with Frenchmen Bob Wollek and Claude Ballot-Lena to win this race a year ago, actually missed the chicane the first time around the 3.87-mile, 12-turn course. Foyt was running third at the time, but IMSA officials were expected to mete out a time penalty for his shortcut.

Big Spring High girl golfers finish 14th

SAN ANTONIO — The Big Spring High School girls' golf team placed 14th at the San Antonio Independent School District Golf Tournament held here over the weekend at the Brackenridge Park course.

Big Spring finished 234 strokes behind defending state champion Westwood in the Lady Steers' first link action of 1984. The Lady Warriors had a two day total of 326, 323 for 649. Big Spring shot 453, 430 for 883. Westwood had the tourney's top two medalists in Sue Kopecky (72, 73 for 145) and Beth Paul (81, 79 for 160).

By contrast coach

Howard Stewart's young — one sophomore and four freshmen — team was led by sophomore Pam Martinez. Martinez shot a 93 and 100 for a total 193. Other members of the team and their scores were Michelle Cox 109, 109 for 218; Kristi Belew 126, 110 for 236; Karen Brodie 125, 111 for 236; and Maureen Mitchell 126, 138 for 264. Two of the other 4-A teams competed in the tourney and San Angelo Central finished second overall with a team score of 734. Midland High was ninth in 788.

Stewart said, "It was a pretty typical first tournament. We are a young team and it will just take some time before we are in a position to really challenge." Martinez is the only member of the team with varsity experience. She helped contribute to Big Spring's regional qualifiers that finished seventh at regional.

Dallas taking 'Skins to court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins and Dallas Cowboys are taking one of the National Football League's greatest rivalries to the basketball court.

The teams will play a series of basketball games this spring to benefit the "Stay in School" program for youngsters, it was announced Saturday night.

Soviets officials condemn pop music

MOSCOW (AP) — Western rock music is definitely not top of the pops with Soviet authorities these days. In Moscow, some discotheques have closed and other spots — cafes with small dance floors — have turned strictly "tables only" with only Soviet pop playing in the background.

In state-run media, several articles on different aspects of the pop scene have hammered away at a constant theme: How to woo Soviet youth away from the Western beat and on to homegrown rock music.

The most headline of the newspaper reports, a long discourse in the authoritative Communist Party daily Pravda, reportedly sent shivers through Moscow's music and artistic community for its sweeping denunciation of Western culture.

Publicist Nikolai Marshovets attacked "mean subservience toward foreign labels, rags, fetishes and idols of bourgeois pop art" and said that young Soviets "in senseless and crazy pursuit of Western fashions... bruise and morally cripple themselves."

"Even in small things, one should not recoil from dignity and forget about one's socialist origin," he said. "A pride for one's own art is an aesthetic expression of patriotism."

Turning specifically to music, Marshovets criticized Soviet rock musicians for exhibiting a slavish liking for Western models and expressed regret that many composers and groups "have announced a boycott of martial music — the most mobilizing singing genre."

Although Soviet media periodically inveigh against the dangers of Western bourgeois culture for Soviet youth, the latest series of articles suggests a more determined campaign, tied directly to some determined talk at a June party meeting about molding individuals to the needs of Communist society.

So far, the criticism of Western music has been the most visible aspect of the drive for a purely Soviet culture. Yet, not all attacks or censorship are as heavy-handed as Marshovets' harsh criticism might suggest.

In two long articles, Moskovskaya Pravda recently discussed the problems of Soviet discotheques, noting that it is futile for authorities to shut down discotheques or to ban Western music altogether. Through such rather un-Western means as training courses for deejays, the paper urged more control of disco programs.

Another proposed remedy was faster production of better Soviet popular music, since as the paper pointed out, "the main trouble with all discotheques is the domination of far from the best Western songs, which... are easier to get than good music from Soviet rock groups."

This lament was echoed in another November article in the Sovietakaya Rossiya newspaper examining why Soviet youths are prepared to pay anywhere from $42 to $140 on the black market for Western rock LPs.

Soviet authorities are encouraging more Soviet rock, inventive music with a modern beat and Russian language lyrics.

The progressive rock group, AvtoGRAF, had a week of sellout concerts in Moscow in September. Replete with impressive light show and pricey Western electronic equipment, the program featured tributes to slain Beatle John Lennon and American science fiction writer Ray Bradbury.

ANSWERING PHONES — Carol Hollingsworth, Hester and Robertson Mechanical Contractors office manager, got her job through the vocational office education program at Big Spring High School.

Professionals began careers early

By RHONDA WITT
Lifestyle Writer

Students used to daydream during class about having a job. That daydream has become a reality for hundreds of students through vocational education programs.

The programs are helpful to career-oriented students who want to move up in the world. Several students formerly active in these programs during high school now have managerial positions in local businesses.

LEON LANGLEY, a Fairview Community farmer, Northrup King seed business dealer, a feedlot operation manager, and Paymaster Gin manager, was active in vocational agriculture program from 1969 to 1971. In 1977, he taught first and second year vocational agriculture classes.

Langley now supports the program by serving on the vocational agricultural advisory board, working as a substitute teacher and by talking to agricultural teachers.

The reason Langley enrolled into the program while in high school was "because of my interest in agriculture," he said. "I was raised on a farm. When I finally got to the age I could take the class, I signed up for it."

"The program provided me with the basic information I needed to see if I really want to go into the agricultural field. I would imagine the most important thing that was stressed was the keeping of records and the allotting of time for a project. I knew I had to feed that animal (the project) and had to know how much food to give the animal and still make a profit." He raised show and commercial steers.

"It really helped me in high school," he said. "I think it (the program) prepared us as much as we were capable of being prepared at that age."

Langley believes vocational education is important. "It can help you find where your interest lie. I've seen it take students who didn't seem to have an interest anywhere, and through the program they find an interest, develop it, and improve upon it. It helps the individual by giving them more expression of his or her interests."

'It (VOE) has been everything to me. It founded my career and I have loved every minute of it. The skills it taught me are things that I have used all through the years.'

"I would recommend any student with any particular interest to try and get involved with a vocational education program and see how they do."

Langley said one of the biggest improvements in the program since he was in it has been a co-op program. Through the co-op, students can work for farmers, farm supply stores, implement dealers and veterinarians. "I wish they had had it when I was in school. I sure think it's good that an employer will hire young people and train them." Langley has hired some students on a part-time basis.

ANOTHER FORMER vocational education student is Richard Loehman, Furr's supermarket manager and 1974 Big Spring High School graduate. He began working at Furr's in 1970. Loehman moved up the line from sacker to stocker to checker. He took Distributive Education classes his junior and senior years.

The reason he took D.E. was "because I was already working. By then, I had decided that working at a grocery store was pretty much what I wanted to do. D.E. helped me stay with the job."

Loehman believes D.E. is important to vocational education students. "I think it is a real good course if people want to get out and work at an early age. It gives them that opportunity."

"D.E. makes a good impression of the responsibility of a job and teaches you how to take care of a job. If they (students) want to work, it is a program set up for them." Two D.E. students are working at Furr's now.

TIM BLACKSHEAR, EARTHCO manager and 1977 BSHS graduate, began in the vocational education program as a sophomore by taking building trades. During his junior year, Blackshear transferred into the Industrial Cooperative Training program. While in ICT, he worked for his father at Hillside Mobile Homes.

The reason Blackshear enrolled in the program was "because I liked to work. I wanted to be in a management position. And I feel like it helped me in that aspect. I felt like the experience there would help me later on. I wasn't planning on going to college. I feel like it gives a little more on hand experience that is needed in the actual day to day work than a college education would."

"I would recommend that if they (the students) do not want to go onto college, they should get into a vocational education class," Blackshear said. "It is very worthwhile. I think it is very important for the ones that want it. They can get the basic training in high school so they can get a job when they get out of high school."

"I JUST LUCKED INTO the VOE (vocational office education) program," said Carol Hollingsworth, Hester and Robertson Mechanical Contractors office manager and 1973 BSHS graduate. She was enrolled in VOE during her senior year.

"The summer before my senior year I had worked at a nursing home, so I had signed up for the ICT program. Vonna Swim (VOE instructor) came across my ICT application and asked me if I wanted to go into the VOE program. I jumped at the chance. She sat up an interview out here. I came out here and they interviewed me and hired me the next day."

"It (VOE) has been everything to me. It founded my career and I have loved every minute of it. The skills it taught me are things that I have used all through the years."

Ms. Hollingsworth took VOE because "at the time I wanted to work to make some extra money. I would have settled for any kind of work. I got this job twelve years ago through VOE and I've been here ever since. I started out as assistant secretary. Six months after I started here, I was made the head bookkeeper even though I was still going to school for half a day."

"It's real important for me to tell younger girls to stay in school and get into something that can further their careers. People say how can I get a job if nobody will give me a chance. VOE gives you the chance to get a job. They are usually good jobs that you can stick with."

Vocational education Program prepares students for employment

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Across Big Spring High School's campus are students involved in projects that will teach them the skills they need to acquire an entry-level occupation in the workplace.

Homemaking students are using computers to help them research nutritional needs of people. Office education students are learning to use computers, typewriters, memory typewriters and other office equipment to prepare them for office work. Computerized cash registers prepare students for retail work. Auto mechanics students are solving problems any car may have, and general mechanics students are learning to repair appliances and motors. These are a few areas where vocational education is working in the school.

The purpose of vocational education is to give youths the background knowledge of various segments of the work world, says John Bagnall, vocational education administrator at BSHS. From there it proceeds to help the students develop skills and knowledge necessary for entry level employment without further training to gain employment.

Vocational education at BSHS, and other schools across the state, is divided into two instructional modes: pre-employment laboratory and cooperative training programs.

In the pre-employment laboratory, students receive either industrial, business, home economics or office experience. Training experiences are designed to be similar to the experiences found in the work world.

In the cooperative training programs, junior and senior students study a specific occupational area as a specific subject during a portion of their school day. They are employed by cooperating businesses in the occupational area related to their occupational studies as an employee-trainee working a minimum of 15 hours a week.

Some youths uninterested in academics are sent to vocational (education department) to learn skills, Bagnall said. The person must have a background in "the basics" — reading skills, comprehension, and math in particular — in order to be able to master the vocational work. "Seeing a practical need in academic training will cause them to (acquire) a desire in their academic skills," Bagnall said.

Cooperative vocational education was introduced to the educational system in 1931 in Georgetown, Texas. Big Spring Independent School District was one of the state's first schools to incorporate it into its educational system. The Big Spring program began in 1935.

"We have the oldest continuously run co-op in the state. We are fixing to come up 50 years," says Loren Spencer, a vocational education instructor at BSHS.

With the inception of the vocational program at BSHS in 1935 came with the Diversified Occupations (DO) program, the forerunner of Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT). The name was changed in the late 1940s. In addition to the program, the affiliation of the youth club — Vocational Industrial Clubs of Texas (VIC) — provided students with leadership development, skill development and competition. Later VIC was patterned for a national affiliation, and its name was changed to Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA).

VICA is not the only youth club sponsored in vocational education. Others are Future Farmers of America, Future Homemakers of America, Vocational Occupational Clubs of Texas, Distributive Education Clubs of America, Home Economics Related Occupations, and Office Education Association.

Big Spring High School, and other area schools will observe National Vocational Education Week Feb. 12-18.

Successful Big Springers

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Have you heard about this year's Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Banquet? ROBERT MILLER, president and chief operating officer of Getty Oil Company, will be the keynote speaker. He is a former Big Springer. The banquet will be held at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at 7 p.m. Feb. 25.

Freeloading lady burdens neighbor with paperwork

DEAR ABBY: I need your help. The woman across the hall from me asked (a couple of years ago) if she could have my daily newspaper when I finished with it. I've always obliged. The Sunday paper is too enormous to read in one day, so I've often kept it until Monday or sometimes Tuesday. Every Monday morning my neighbor asks me if I've finished the Sunday paper yet, which gives me the feeling that I am being rushed. Also, occasionally I will come across an article or an ad that I want to save, so I clip it out. Yesterday this lady asked if I would give her the newspaper intact, and after she reads it she will return it to me — and then I can clip out whatever I want. How is that for nerve? It's much more convenient to clip something when I first come across it; it would be too time-consuming to go through the newspaper a second time.

If you were in my place, how would you handle this? I don't want her for an enemy. Oh, another thing, she doesn't subscribe to any newspaper and she's in better shape financially than I am.

IRRITATED APARTMENT DWELLER
DEAR DWELLER: Tell her it's too time-consuming to go through the newspaper twice, so if she wants it, she will have to put up with an occasional gap. And when she asks for the Sunday newspaper, tell her you will give it to her after you've read it, and you'd appreciate it if she wouldn't ask for it because you feel guilty keeping it an extra day or two.

Sharpen shopping skills

Most of us would like to decrease shopping yet increase our savings when we buy. Often, it's the little things that help us be better shoppers and accomplish these goals.

Here are some tips for sharpening your shopping skills:

- Plan your spending. Making a list will help you do this.
- Shop for the best buy. Compare prices and quality. Go to several stores when it is possible and practical. Read and understand guarantees. Look for U.S. grades and inspection stamps. Remember that you don't always need the highest quality.
- Buy only what you need.
- Read labels and tags. Labels give information. They can help you understand what you are buying and how to use it.
- Count your change. Check to see that things are weighed correctly, and check sales slips.

Know where to buy. For example, your local discount drug may offer lower prices on some items that you usually buy at the grocery store.

- Know when to save money. Get food buys by shopping off-season, following holidays, at anniversary sales, and at weekend sales.
- Shop carefully and take time to think about making large purchases.
- For major purchases, find out about charges for installation, delivery, service and credit.
- Read before you sign to make sure you understand contracts.
- Use coupon to save money on items. Buy don't buy an unneeded items just because you have a coupon for it.
- Purchase only from reliable dealers.

Unit pricing is helpful to today's consumer. A recent study comparing different sizes of a product indicates that buying larger sizes is not always the most economical. A smaller size of a product that has a lower unit price indicates the existence of a quantity surcharge. Consumers who automatically purchase the larger size, may not be making the most economical choice. Laundry products have the highest frequency surcharge compared to food and personal care products. The frequency of surcharges also increases as the number of brand sizes goes up, and when package sizes require the shopper to compare figures that are not easily calculated. A consumer will need to assess the trade-offs. Take advantage of unit pricing information listed for products in many food stores. But be sure the information provided is comparing the same size units. I have seen tea bags listed as X¢ each one brand and $X per pound for another brand. Or one size can may be listed as X¢ per ounce. Inconsistency of unit sizes makes it impossible for the consumer to use the unit price information. When you find examples for inconsistent unit pricing bring it to the attention of the store manager. Unit pricing is a time intensive activity. But it can produce economic benefits to the person willing to use it.

Post-game weight a guide to fluid needs

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am writing regarding my 19-year-old son. He plays hockey on a Junior-A team. He was one of the best players in the league. He also played in high school. He is a very good player, but he has one problem. He sweats so much when he plays that his muscles get very weak. Since the heart is a muscle too, this really worries me.

He has lost up to 10 pounds in a game. In one game last year he got very sick. Later, his doctor checked him over and the EKG and everything else came out fine. I was told by someone that it sounds like his potassium level is low. Can you comment and give us any advice? — J.C.

Let me assume, since you didn't mention weight in your letter, that your son is, say 150 pounds. Now let's look at the 10 pounds you say your son lost in one game.

That was almost all water weight. More than 99 percent of sweat is water. I can understand why he must have been weak. He was seriously dehydrated. If a person loses more than 2 percent of body weight during a game, he's not drinking enough fluid. That 10-pound loss represented between 6 and 7 percent of his body weight (based on my 150-pound assumption). Even if he were to lose three pounds, that's getting too dry for a 150-pounder.

Your son must find a way to keep himself properly hydrated during games. First of all, he shouldn't wait until he's thirty to drink. Thirst lags behind actual fluid needs. He should drink every chance he gets. Cool water is as good a replacement fluid as any other. The cool water will lower his body temperature also.

I don't think you have to worry about potassium needs. He will get all he needs of that mineral from a balanced diet. He might want to add a little extra table salt to his food, but that's about all he'll need. After he begins doing the things suggested, then when he weighs himself after a game and compares that result with his pregame weight, he'll know if he's keeping himself properly hydrated.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have a question which, I am sure, will interest many women who are jogging. There has been some talk lately about the possibility of there being a problem with infertility among women joggers. I would like to know if running does affect fertility. There was an article I read that said women who were having trouble getting pregnant and who were joggers had a better chance if they stopped running. Please comment. — R.R.

Diminution of menstrual periods, even their cessation, with the possibility of decreased fertility, while it may happen is not related so much to jogging itself as to the loss of body fat. If a woman jogger has too little body fat, that can affect her periods and possibly her fertility. That's because normal female hormone production depends on a certain amount of body fat being present. To the best of my knowledge and from what the most recent literature on the subject has to say, periods resume along with fertility as soon as the lost body fat is regained.

There are two warnings I want to give women in this regard. First, a change in periods should not be dismissed as arising from a loss of body fat. If a woman experiences loss of periods she should report that change to her physician. Second, because there has been a change in periods doesn't mean that the woman's fertility has been altered as well. The woman in this situation should continue using contraceptives if she wants to avoid pregnancy. Jogging, and weight loss is not a contraceptive.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is it harmful to jog, swim and do other exercises when you have a cold? — C.Q.

It's thought that rest is essential to shorten the period of illness from viral infection. A study has shown that interferon production in animals infected with viruses was lower if they were exercised than if they were not. Interferon, an anti-viral substance made by body cells, prevents viruses from infecting other body cells. Exercise may not make all colds worse, but common sense tells you it's better to rest when you have a cold.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Garden checklist for February

The following is the garden checklist for the month of February.

1. With our mild fall weather, the sudden Christmas freeze damaged many plants. Be in no hurry to prune until late February or early March. By then buds should be swelling and it will be easier to distinguish any damaged tissue.
2. Essential to provide adequate moisture to plants that may have sustained any damage. Supplemental irrigation should be provided during any dry period throughout the spring and summer.
3. Fertilizer any freeze damaged trees and shrubs in late February or early March to help promote new growth and healing. Broadcast a fertilizer with a high nitrogen content beneath the branch spread of the plant and three to six feet beyond. Use at the rate of two pounds of actual nitrogen per 1000 square feet. Water in thoroughly.
4. Check the credentials of any door-to-door salesman of garden or landscape services. If they have no permanent address or can offer no references, check their legitimacy with your local Chamber of Commerce or Better Business Bureau. Many self-styled tree surgeons can't tell one tree from another, let alone know how to care for them.
5. Clearance sales of bare-root nursery stock will be available late this month. Check condition of canes, buds, and roots. Much of the available material should be hauled to the dump rather than sold.
6. Don't delay selecting plants needed in the landscape as stocks in local nurseries are usually in their best condition at this time. Select plants only if needed. One can soon overplant the landscape if not careful. Balled-and-burlapped (B&B) and container-grown plants are usually easiest to handle for the beginning gardener. A root stimulator or starter solution may be used. Don't fertilize until after the newly planted plants start to grow.
7. When buying plants the biggest isn't always the best, especially when dealing with bare-rooted plants. The medium to small sizes (4 to 6 foot) usually become established faster and will become effective in the landscape much quicker than the large sizes.
8. Complete the bare-root planting of needed woody landscape plants this month.
9. Prune roses during February. Use good pruning shears that will make clean cuts. Remove dead, dying, and weak canes. Leave four to eight healthy canes. Extremely vigorous varieties, such as Radiance and Queen Elizabeth, may be cut back to 12 to 15 inches from the ground, other varieties from 18 to 20 inches. Do not prune climbing roses in the same manner as bush roses since climbers produce flowers on the previous year's growth. Prune climbers after the first flush of spring bloom.
10. Excellent time to select and plant container-grown roses to fill in those bare spots in your rose garden.
11. Wait until after they finish flowering before pruning spring flowering shrubs such as flowering quince, azaleas, and forsythia.
12. When pruning shrubs it is best to prune out any dead or damaged branches first and thin out by removing about one-third of the canes or stems at ground level, removing the oldest canes only. Shape the rest of the plant but don't cut everything back to the same height.
13. Plant dahlia tubers in late February and early March.
14. Plant gladiolus corms; space planting dates at two-week intervals to extend flowering season.
15. Good time to check your home landscape for those heavy traffic areas where grass is difficult to maintain. Consider using some form of all-weather surface as concrete, flagstone, brick or railroad ties.
16. For those heavily shaded areas where grass won't grow, try a ground cover of living plants. English ivy is an excellent choice for shaded areas.
17. Use a durable edging material of brick, concrete block, cedar, redwood, or one of the new heavy duty plastic materials to separate the lawn area from shrub, ground cover, or flower beds to reduce maintenance labor.
18. Fertilize pansies once again for continued flowering. Don't forget to water when needed.
19. The following flower seeds may be sown directly without protection in well-prepared flower beds this month: nasturtiums, annual phlox, California poppies, coneflowers, and larkspur. Petunia plants may be set out in sunny, well drained locations with little chance of cold damage.
20. Tender plants may still need protection. Be prepared to cover if cold weather is forecast. Keep those boxes, blankets, and other materials handy.
21. Water foliage plants as well as other containerized plants only when needed and not by the calendar.

Jewels & Gems

by Ralph and Lynette Brooks

Traveling abroad with valuable jewelry takes a certain amount of forethought and planning. Before leaving, prepare a proof of ownership to present to Customs to preclude duty problems when returning to the U.S. If you have not documented ownership before leaving you may have a problem proving that the jewels were not just purchased abroad and therefore subject to duty charges. Another precaution is to make sure that the hotels or homes that you will be visiting have adequate safes or storage facilities for jewelry without worry of robbery. In addition, check with your insurance broker to determine if a floater is recommended for travel abroad.

BLUM'S JEWELERS well known throughout the area for having been your personal jeweler for over 22 years cordially invites you to visit our conveniently located headquarters at 222 Main, 267-6335 anytime Mon.-Sat., 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m., for all of your fine jewelry and gift needs.
