How's that? Bad show

Q. What happened to the Westminster Dog Show which was being aired Tuesday night on channel 8? Just when they were about to announce the Best of Show winner, the station switched to a Dallas news program. Who won, and why didn't I see it?

A. Cable TV of Big Spring carries the USA Network (which covered the dog show) throughout the day except for periods at 5 p.m. and 10 p.m. when WFAA-Dallas news programs are shown. The dog show ran behind schedule, and so the announcement of the Best of Show was interrupted at 10 p.m. by the program switch. For the results of the dog show, see story on Page 2A.

Off the wall: Battle joined

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The battle has been joined in the war of the rosebushes and Centenary College has sustained 1,200 casualties at the hands of a confused gardener at a California nursery.

"It is just so horrible," college spokeswoman Janie Flournoy said. "Our vice president kept asking them, 'Are you sure they were all plowed under?'"

Sadly, the answer was the same each time: Yes.

It seems the Centenary rosebushes, which are named for the college and bear maroon flowers matching one of the school's colors, were to have been delivered last week for a fund-raising project.

Court drops voting suit

By RICK BROWN

AUSTIN — The Texas Supreme Court today refused to hear a suit brought by three Big Spring residents protesting the extension of terms for the mayor and two city council members.

The case of Jack L. Watkins, Mary Thomas, and Bill Crane vs. the City of Big Spring, filed at the City of Big Spring, is among a list of cases posted this morning in the court clerk's office. The three would-be candidates' motion to file a writ of mandamus to force elections for mayor and the two city council positions was listed as overruled by the court.

The court offered no written opinion in the case, the court clerk said.

Watkins, Mrs. Thomas and Crane took their case to the state Supreme Court last week after their petition to force elections was denied by the district court of appeals in Eastland.

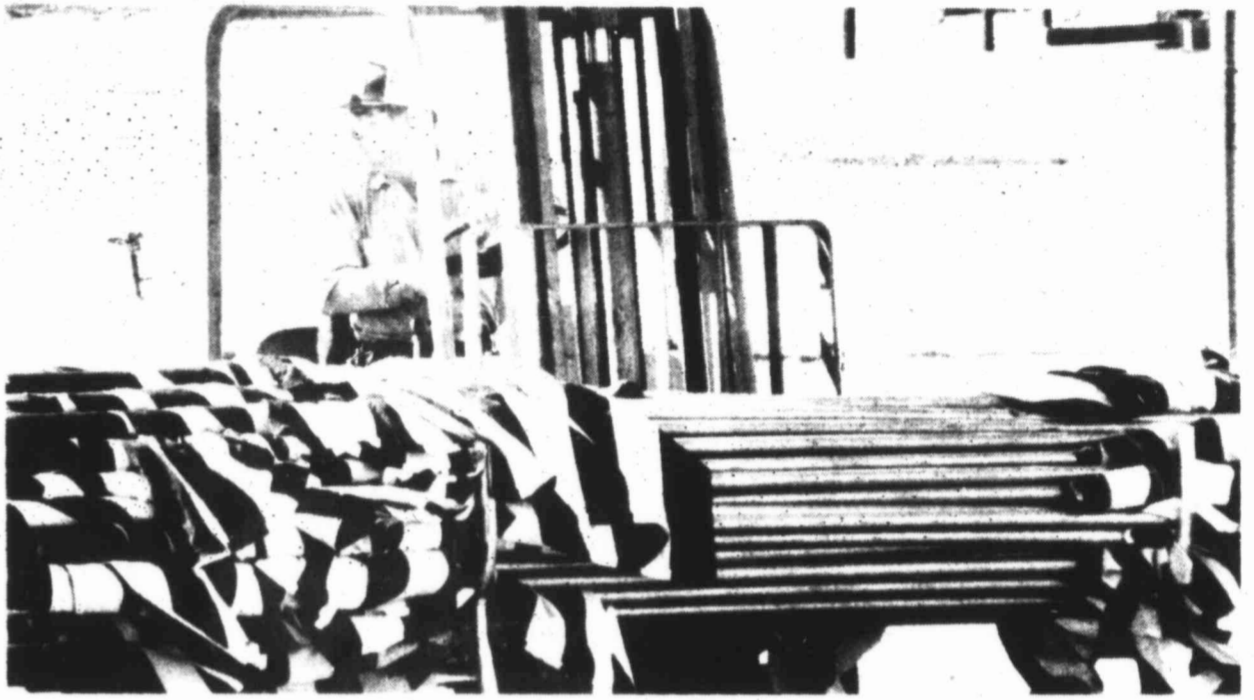

The city of Big Spring filed its response to the suit with the Supreme Court yesterday.

City Manager Don Davis said this morning he was pleased by the decision but not surprised by it.

"(The decision) was what I had anticipated," said Mayor Clyde Angel. Councilman Larry Miller said he had no comment on the decision, and Councilman Robert Fuller

Montford forecasts 5¢ gas tax

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

During a visit to Big Spring yesterday, Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, said the next meeting of the Legislature will probably see a 5-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax levied to pay for teacher salary raises and other educational needs.

Montford also hinted that the Legislature would be faced with passing other forms of taxation, but he declined to say what methods might be enacted in the next session. Indications point toward a special session this summer, he said.

"Inevitably, there will be some definitive recommendations for new revenues; however, at this time I think we can say the Legislature will look at a 5-cent-a-gallon gas tax with 25 percent of that amount going to public education," Montford said.

Montford also said he was anxious to see the report of the Select Committee on Education, a panel now compiling recommendations for educational reform in the state. He said he planned to hold a series of town hall meetings in April and May to get public input on the subject.

"I'm pleased that it's (education) at the forefront of things. I think we've begun to work toward resolutions; however, there are no magic answers," he said.

Montford also toured the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for Deaf along with Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Montford said he met with college district president Dr. Charles Hays and SWCID vice president Sam Hill to plan budget strategy for the next session.

SWCID weathered a tough battle in the last legislative session when its requested funding of $7 million was shaved to $2 million by the Legislative Budget Board. Only with much lobbying was the school able to get the total raised to $3.9 million — enough to operate for two years with no frills.

"We didn't have enough lead time for a viable package last year," Montford said. "This time we plan to have a series of recommendations to make sure we get optimum use of the facility."

Montford faces re-election this year and already has an opponent in Sol Thomas, a Republican and Lubbock attorney.

AIR RAID — Black smoke billows over the bombed Southern suburb of Beirut which was hit by Lebanese Hawker-Hunter jets. The Lebanese army continued fighting here to close the only road which connects Shiite Moslem militias in control of West Beirut with Druse positions in the central mountains.

Rebels link up at highway

Marines cornered in Beirut

BEIRUT (AP) — Anti-government forces surrounded the U.S. Marine base at Beirut airport today after Druse insurgents linked up with Shiite Moslem militiamen and took control of the highway into the city.

A Druse advance overnight seized the last area, south of the airport, in which the battered Lebanese army acted as a buffer between the Marines and militia forces. Shiite militia controlled the areas north, east and west of the airport base.

A Marine spokesman said the U.S. forces did not come under fire in the offensive. The advance by the Syrian-supported Druse "has raised some concern, obviously," said Army Col. Ed. McDonald, chief spokesman for the U.S. contingent in the multinational peacekeeping force in Beirut.

He said the Marines were ordered to don flak jackets and carry weapons but could leave the bunkers. Marines can leave their base by helicopter to U.S. ships offshore.

With his U.S.-trained army falling apart, President Amin Gemayel today was reported ready to give in to opposition demands that he scrap Lebanon's troop withdrawal pact with Israel.

But Druse leader Walid Jumblatt said today he would demand Gemayel's removal from power even if the withdrawal accord were abrogated.

"Amin Gemayel has to step down. There will never be any talks, any dialogue, any reconciliation with the Phalangists or Amin Gemayel while he is in power," Jumblatt told a news conference in Damascus, Syria, today.

Immigrant traces Black heritage

George Taylor, an instructor at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, has spent hours explaining that the Tarzan movies don't paint a true picture of his native continent of Africa.

Last of a series

"It's hard to speak of Africa, because it is composed of a lot of different countries and different customs within each country," Taylor said.

Taylor came from Freetown, Sierra Leone, in 1969 to attend college in Washington, D.C. "I wanted to get out into the world," he says now.

"When I first arrived, I met some people who'd say 'You're from Africa?' and they'd look at me in a funny way. People would ask 'Did you live in a hole in the ground? Did you live in the trees?'"

Taylor said that one person asked if the sun was black in Africa, to which he replied, "Of course, that's

Water supply cut for switch in line

The city's "umbilical cord" with the Colorado River Municipal Water District (CRMWD) was cut early this morning and was expected to remain so until late today, according to information released during last night's meeting of the Big Spring City Council.

The "umbilical cord" is a 27-inch concrete cylinder water supply line located under the Birdwell Lane's Beal's Creek Bridge. The city's principal source of water, CRMWD, pumps its water through the giant line. City crews will relocate the line 30 feet from the bridge during the 12 hours of construction time anticipated by city officials.

City reservoirs were filled to the brim Wednesday night, leaving the city with approximately 12 million gallons of water on hand while the line is cut. The city normally uses around four million gallons of water a day, according to Public Works Director Tom Decell.

City officials are urging residents to refrain from unnecessary water usage during the time the line is cut. The Public Works Department said that enough water will be on hand to supply all the needs of the city, including firefighting. However, the city would like to retain as much water in the reservoirs as possible.

In other action last night, the council:

- Approved on first reading two resolutions to execute contracts with Howard County, one for putting county prisoners in the city jail and another for dispatching members of the Howard County Sheriff's office. Sheriff A.N. Standard said this morning the contracts will have to be submitted to the Howard County Commissioners Court. The commissioners will then direct him on what action to take on the contracts.

- Awarded a bid of $10,600 to Price Construction Inc. for reconstruction of the parking lot and alley way leading to the city water office. City Manager Don Davis told the council that approximately $21,000 was left over from the original construction of the office.

- Approved specifications and permission to advertise for bids for resurfacing three tennis courts at the Figure Seven Tennis Center.

- Approved specifications and permission to advertise for bids for the city's yearly street maintenance program.

- Approved specifications and permission to advertise for bids for a rear engine riding lawn mower for the city's cemetery. Approximately $8,000 has been budgeted for the mower.

- Approved on first reading an ordinance that will approve a higher vacancy allowance for multi-family units in calculating water and sewer charges.

Champ beats out 2,652 others to take title

NEW YORK (AP) — A 4-year-old Newfoundland beat out 2,652 dogs Tuesday night to take Best in Show in the 108th annual Westminster Kennel Club dog show.

The jet-black, long-haired, 150-pound animal, Ch. Seaward's Blackbeard — Adam for short — was awarded the silver trophy primarily for his balance and movement.

"I thought he was the most beautiful Newfoundland I've ever seen," said the show's judge, Kitty K. Drury.

"He was the best-balanced and best-moving" dog in the show, she said. "He smiled at me and said 'I'm the best.'"

Mrs. Drury said it was one of the hardest competitions she had judged because all seven finalists were the best in their respective breeds.

"This was the greatest group of dogs I've seen. You couldn't fault any of them."

The Newfoundland breed originated in Newfoundland, Canada, and was taken to England at the end of the 18th Century to be "perfected," before they were returned to Canada again, according to Roger Karas, announcer for the show and ABC Radio.

The Newfoundland was a water-rescue dog like the St. Bernard, he added. It was bred to rescue drowning victims and to recover fishing nets.

A purebred Newfoundland pup sells for between $700 and $800, said Karas.

GOOD SHOW — Seaward's Blackbeard, a 4-year-old Newfoundland is given a squeeze from handler Gerlinde Hockla Tuesday night in New York's Madison Square Garden. Blackbeard beat out 2,652 dogs to win Best of Show in the 108th annual Westminster Kennel Club show.

He said Adam was "extremely good natured... and smarter than the owner."

The dog lives in Manchester Center, Vt., and is owned by Seaward's Kennel.

Suit

The terms of office of Angel and Miller had been extended by two years by the city's settlement with the League of United Latin American Citizens to bring greater minority representation to city government. Fuller's term of office was extended by one year by the settlement.

Wayne Burns, attorney for Watkins, Mrs. Thomas and Chrape, said this morning he will meet with his clients this afternoon to decide whether to take the case to federal court.

"It must be emphasized that the court has simply refused to hear this matter. They are saying, in effect, that this matter will have to be resolved in the federal courts. This was not a ruling on the merits of our case," Burns said.

"I remain firmly convinced of the justice of our case. The people of Big Spring should not be deprived of the right to vote for and elect their city council. The extension of terms of office, as promoted by their city council in the LULAC suit, takes away the right of the public to elect their city leaders," he added.

In a related development, the Big Spring City Council, after retiring into executive session, voted last night to pay a total of $5,000 in attorney's fees to Rolando Rios, attorney for LULAC in its suit against the city. The city agreed to pay the LULAC attorney fees as part of the out-of-court settlement.

Rios, a member of the Southwest Voter Registration and Education Project, had originally asked for about $9,300 in settlement for attorney fees for the suit, Davis said this morning.

Negotiations between Rios and City Attorney Doyle Curtis concerning the fees have gone on since Dec. 9, Davis said.

African

Although the comments he got about his country gave him a laugh, Taylor would "give a lesson on how people live in Africa."

"I've seen my share of movies which are not complimentary of Africa," he said. "I've learned not to let it bother me."

Movies, such as the Tarzan fantasies, "are very nice, very romantic, but not very realistic. As a kid, I enjoyed watching the movies because I knew the real Africa and I didn't feel slighted by all the exaggerations. I just thought it was a great fantasy."

In reality, "Tarzan wouldn't have lasted long in Africa. He would have faced mosquitos, malaria and yellow fever." Throughout centuries, dark skinned persons "were exposed to those things. Their bodies built up more resistance."

Modern Africa still holds remembrances of the past, when the country was divided by different tribes. Although the governments feel "tribalism is a thing of the past, people still cling to the old ways," Taylor said.

The influences of tribal backgrounds "make it difficult for people to think along the same lines — to work for the same goals."

But in Africa, "people eat, sleep, go to work, play, love, hate, get sick and die. They just do it a little differently, that's all. I believe a different environment causes differences" in culture, he said.

The world Taylor grew up in, located in the bulge of Africa's West Coast, has a distinct Western flavor.

"I don't think any place in the world, except the most remote areas, has a pure culture anymore. There has been too much trans-cultural influence."

Taylor remembers when he was a child "my friends were crazy about Elvis Presley. They were trying to talk and dance and have a haircut like Elvis."

But Taylor does note "differences in patterns of behavior" in America.

"People are more retentive of their emotions in the United States. (In Africa) we let go more emotionally, both positively and negatively. That has both good and bad points. In Africa, I know when my friends are mad with me. They do something to show it. They don't hold back."

In Africa, "people are more or less down to earth and to the point. They don't beat around the bush."

Taylor has a Creole heritage and can trace his roots back to his great-great-great-grandfather who came to Africa from America.

Many of the Creoles in Africa are descended "from freed slaves who decided to go back. These people intermarried with different tribes and with each other. That's why I have an un-African last name."

"We Creoles do have some African customs. We're not all western."

Beirut

Continued from page 1-A tonio Ghirelli, a spokesman for Italian Premier Bettino Craxi, said a few soldiers would stay in Beirut to maintain a hospital.

Britain withdrew its 115 troops from the multinational force early this month. Only the French contingent of the multinational force is to remain at full strength — 1,280 men.

Beirut's leading newspapers, the independent An-Nahar and leftist As-Safir, said Gemayel had decided to scrap the accord after the militiamen forced his army out of the coastal highway linking Beirut with Israeli-occupied southern Lebanon.

Druse insurgents capped their surprise advance Tuesday by rolling down the hills from a mountain corridor they took from the army to link up with Shiite Moslem militia allies in west Beirut, the Moslem half of the Lebanese capital.

The overnight hookup was at a coastal highway intersection just south of the Marine base and near a beachside hotel in suburban Khalde where Israel and Lebanon signed their U.S.-mediated agreement May 17.

Mixed units of the Amal and Druse forces today searched the brush and isolated villas in the hillside residential neighborhood of Doha above the coastal highway to southern Lebanon, looking for supplies left behind by retreating army units.

"The army ran away. We took seven (abandoned) armored personnel carriers to Beirut this morning," one Druse militiaman said.

A foreign resident at Doha said the area took heavy shelling for two nights and a day before the army pulled out late Tuesday.

The newspapers said Gemayel was discussing with Lebanon's elder statesmen the political and legal process needed to cancel the accord — whether it should be done by Parliament or in a conference of the nation's top Moslem and Christian leaders.

As-Safir said Gemayel would probably request a special session of Parliament to vote on whether to scrap the accord, as demanded by Syria and Lebanese opposition forces. An-Nahar said the president also would request that a United Nations peacekeeping force replace the current multinational force in Beirut.

Miss Roberts told police the ice machine in front of the store was left unlocked overnight and the ice was missing when she opened the store Tuesday, reports said.

- David Williams, 19, of 704 Ohio was arrested at 9:38 a.m. Tuesday in connection with a bondsman off bond warrant, police reports said.

- Police Lt. Jerry Edwards said this morning the bail bonds company that originally handled Williams' release withdrew its bond of $15,000, which brought on Williams' second arrest. Williams was released Tuesday on his own recognizance on the recommendation of the Howard County District Attorney's office, Edwards said.

For the record

Iris Blackman, pictured in a fire drill in Monday's Herald, is not a member of the Big Spring Fire Department as stated in the cutline. Mrs. Blackman is a jailer with the Big Spring Police Department.

Burr Settles of the Big Spring Fire Department said Mrs. Blackman and others were participating in the fire drill because officials felt it was important for jailers to know what to do in case of a fire at the jail.

New Algonquin cat to debut

NEW YORK — A tawny 5-month-old theatrical cat is being primed in the wings for the role of a lifetime: to be the next Hamlet of the Algonquin.

"He's extremely promising," says Andrew Anspach, managing director of the renowned Algonquin hotel, a New York institution for half a century, a literary hangout since its lounge was made a clubhouse by the likes of George S. Kaufman, Dorothy Parker and James Thurber.

An orange cat that slinks through the lobby and lets guests scratch its head has been an Algonquin institution almost as long.

Anspach said Tuesday that Hamlet III will be "ready for an official debut soon."

The Algonquin is bringing Hamlet III along in slow stages, the hotel man explained, because it doesn't want a repeat of its disappointment with the beautiful, lovable, but perhaps feckless Hamlet II.

The apricot-colored Hamlet II, a gift from a staffer at the New Yorker magazine across the street, stayed around the Algonquin for only a year. He disappeared last March. Anspach says he may have eloped with his girlfriend at the neighboring New York Yacht Club.

Mandrell lands acting role

LAKE CITY, Tenn. — Country entertainer Barbara Mandrell and television star Tom Wopat are in this tiny former coal mining town to start filming a made-for-TV movie called "Coal Fire."

BARBARA MANDRELL

It's the first major acting role for the 35-year-old award-winning singer and the first TV movie for Wopat, who stars in the CBS series, "The Dukes of Hazzard."

The $2 million production also stars Eddie Albert and Carol Kane. Eight Lake City and Caryville residents got speaking parts, with about 200 local folks as extras.

"It's really fun and interesting and totally different than anything else I've done ... I never thought I'd do my first movie in Tennessee," said Miss Mandrell, a Tennessee native who lives with her husband, Ken Dudley, in Gallatin.

Miss Mandrell plays a geologist from Washington, D.C. who comes to town to help relocate residents who are in danger from a coal fire in a mine under the town.

She falls in love with Wopat, a fish and game agent who helps her discover the source of the fires. The picture will be shown on CBS next fall.

PLO policy won't change

WASHINGTON — Reagan administration officials say there won't be any relaxing of the U.S. policy toward the Palestine Liberation Organization, despite Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak's appeal to President Reagan for "a direct dialogue" with the PLO.

Mubarak appeared to lecture Reagan in a statement following a meeting at the White House on Tuesday.

"The Palestinian people are entitled to your support and understanding," Mubarak said with Reagan at his side. "There is no substitute for a direct dialogue with them through their chosen representative, the PLO."

The administration's position is that it won't talk with the PLO unless and until the PLO recognizes Israel's right to exist in peace.

A senior administration official said there aren't any indications that the PLO is about to change its attitude toward Israel. But he said the administration wasn't dismayed that Mubarak had picked the White House as the place to publicly call for a major change in U.S. policy.

"You can't control the statement of a departing chief of state," said the official, who briefed reporters on the meetings. "You don't endorse it by just standing there."

The administration continues to pin its hopes on Jordan's King Hussein, encouraging him to work out a deal with PLO leader Yasser Arafat to represent Palestinian interests in peace talks with Israel.

Hussein told the administration in talks here he expects to meet with Arafat in Jordan within a few weeks, but State Department officials doubt there will be a breakthrough leading to peace talks in the near future.

The issue of the peace process, which was dormant during much of the conflict in Lebanon, has been revived in the wake of the setbacks to U.S. policy in Lebanon. A senior administration official told reporters Tuesday there cannot be a lasting solution in Lebanon without a broader Middle East peace.

Bush meets with Chernenko

ROME — Vice President George Bush said today his talks in Moscow with new Soviet leader Konstantin U. Chernenko produced "a certain sense of optimism" on improving East-West relations.

However, he warned, "it is very early to say, because this (situation) is awfully new."

Bush held a news conference before flying to Paris after meetings with Italian leaders and Pope John Paul II during an 18-hour visit to Rome and the Vatican.

"The talks were serious, non-polemical — no inflated rhetoric," he said of his meetings in Moscow. "And I think it's fair to say we left (Moscow) with a certain sense of optimism."

The vice president described the 72-year-old Chernenko as a man "on top of things, active and he appeared very vital."

In a written statement released before the news conference, Bush reiterated that Chernenko, who became the Soviet Communist Party general secretary on Monday, "appeared to agree about the need to place our relations on a more constructive path."

Bush, who led the U.S. delegation to the funeral of Chernenko's predecessor, Yuri V. Andropov, said he made clear during his meetings in Moscow that the Reagan administration "is very serious about discussion on a wide array of problems, including, of course, the questions of arms reductions."

The vice president said his hour-long meeting with the pope centered on "the desire we all hold for peace."

"I spoke with his holiness about peace in the broadest context," Bush said in a statement. The Vatican, as is customary, released no details of the private meeting with John Paul.

On U.S. relations with the Soviet Union, Bush stated: "President Reagan said last Saturday that if the Soviet Union wants peace, we shall have peace."

"The goal of the United States is today what it has always been: peace and freedom for all mankind," the vice president said.

Jones case goes to jury

GEORGETOWN, Texas — The case of nurse Genevieve Jones, charged with killing a 15-month-old girl by injecting her with muscle relaxant, was winding up today and was expected to go to the jury by this afternoon.

State District Judge John Carter planned to give each side 90 minutes for closing arguments before giving the case to the jurors, who will be sequestered for deliberations.

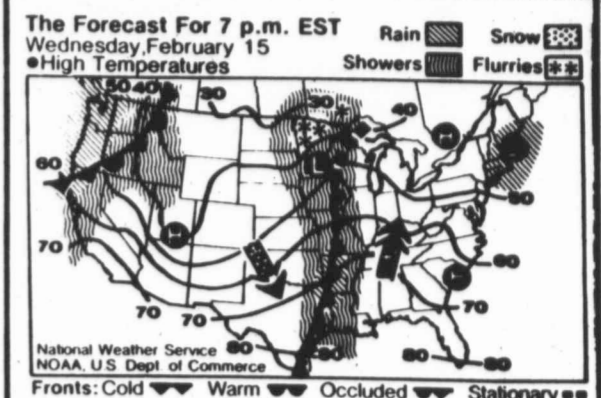

The trial's testimony, from 44 prosecution witnesses and seven for the defense, disagreed on whether traces of a powerful muscle-paralyzing drug were found in Chelsea McClellan after her death Sept. 17, 1982. Rebuttal testimony was completed Tuesday.

The girl died after getting two injections from Ms. Jones, a licensed vocational nurse. Ms. Jones was working for a Kerrville pediatrician, who had ordered routine immunizations.

Prosecutors say the shots contained the relaxant succinylcholine. Chelsea suffered a mysterious seizure, similar to attacks that hit five other children treated by nurse Jones. She faces another trial on charges of injuring the other five children.

Unlike the other five, Chelsea did not recover. She died in an ambulance.

Cooler temperatures on tap

A cold front moved into the Texas Panhandle before dawn today, bringing gusty northerly winds and cooler temperatures back into the state's weather picture.

The front was expected to trigger showers across portions of North, Central and South Texas as it moved to the south. However, most of the shower activity was expected to end tonight, leaving mostly fair skies Thursday.

Low clouds covered much of Central and East Texas from the coast to the Red River. Skies were mostly fair over West Texas.

Pre-dawn temperatures were mostly in the 50s and 60s. Readings in the 30s and 40s were noted in the Panhandle and West Texas. Temperatures at 4 a.m. ranged from 38 at Amarillo to 69 at McAllen.

Southerly winds were reported over most of the state. In West Texas, westerly breezes were the rule.

The forecast called for cooler temperatures to spread across the state as the cold front moved to the south. Scattered showers and thunderstorms were possible over all but West Texas. Some of the shower activity was expected to be violent in Northeast Texas.

Temperatures on left indicate previous day's high and overnight low to 8 a.m. EST. Temperatures on right indicate outlook for tomorrow.

Eddie Money gets hitched

MARTINEZ, Calif. — Rock singer Eddie Money, whose latest album is "Out of Control," looked very much in charge as he picked up a marriage license — wearing a New York Police Department jacket.

Besides the battered leather jacket, the 34-year-old Money was clad in jeans and tennis shoes when he arrived at the county courthouse Monday prepared to get hitched on Valentine's Day to his girlfriend of 2½ years, Margo Lee Walker.

"This is the day she wanted to get married two years ago," said Money. "We just didn't have the time to get married because of my career."

The license is in the name of Edward Joseph Mahoney, the singer's given name.

Money, whose "Two Tickets to Paradise" single pushed him to the top of the record charts, said the honeymoon would be in Bakersfield, where he's performing this week.

Man won't let wife be jailed

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — A man who says his wife shot him three times and tried to stab him refuses to help in prosecuting her. He attempted murder charges, saying he loves her and doesn't want to send her to jail, authorities said.

Carol Morris, 33, of Eureka, pleaded guilty to a charge of battery after her husband, Mike, refused to go along with the more serious charge, Humboldt County District Attorney Terry Farmer said Tuesday.

Morris drove himself to a hospital Jan. 24, telling authorities his wife had shot him and tried to stab him, Farmer said.

Mrs. Morris's case was given to the probation department, he said.

Habeas corpus needs body work

The Founding Fathers considered the writ of habeas corpus to be important enough to be protected in the Constitution. The right of prisoners to challenge the legality of their imprisonment may not be suspended except in time of rebellion or invasion, says Article 1 Section 9. No wonder that a proposed limitation on the right of habeas corpus is one of the more controversial reforms in criminal procedure to come before the current Congress.

Habeas corpus is a bulwark against the abuse of the power of the state. The trouble is, there is no bulwark against the abuse of habeas corpus as a legal maneuver in this writ-happy age.

The federal court system is being harassed by habeas corpus writs which are filed almost as a matter of routine on behalf of convicts who have exhausted avenues of appeal in the state courts. What was intended as a legal weapon for unusual circumstances has become the usual step, leading Chief Justice Warren Burger to complain that its abuse is giving a pernicious lack of "finality" to decisions in our criminal justice system.

A study has shown that the nearly 8,000 habeas corpus petitions filed in federal courts in 1980 had very little effect, except to consume the time of judges who had to consider them. Only 3.2 percent of the petitions led to any action in favor of the petitioner. Judges have complained that petitions which have no obvious merit are filed in such numbers that there is danger of overlooking those that are based on a valid issue.

Justice Lewis F. Powell has pointed out that an appeals process that drags on and on via the habeas corpus route interferes with the process of rehabilitating prisoners. They are encouraged to think that they are in prison because of some kind of judicial error, not because they did something wrong. Rehabilitation begins when prisoners stop looking backward to find excuses for their predicament and begin looking forward toward rehabilitation and life as constructive citizens.

Can habeas corpus be controlled without doing violence to the letter or the spirit of the Constitution? We think it can, with the sort of statute of limitations embodied in a bill that passed the Senate recently by a 67-9 vote. The bill provides that federal habeas corpus petitions must be filed within one year of the time that all state remedies are exhausted. This would introduce an element of finality into the appeals process, yet leave the door open for special circumstances. The one-year cutoff would be waived if a plea is based on new evidence or a newly defined constitutional right.

Olympic effort

Musings after a week of semi-live broadcasts from Sarajevo: Is there life after Dick Button's commentaries? Is Jim McKay always that easily impressed? And when did Peggy Fleming win her medal in ice-skating, anyway?

After watching that trio's skill in sports commentary (and ABC's hype to gain ratings), I can only imagine what their next assignment will be: the Summer Games in San Francisco?

Yes, folks, live from this beautiful city perched in the golden hills of northern California, across the bay from the former home of the L.A. Raiders, near the famous Napa Valley vineyards, ABC is proud to present (theme music) the Political Olympics.

First, let's tell you a little history about the city. A hubbub of activity in the days of the Barbary Coast and the California Gold Rush, this city first felt tragedy in 1902, when its beautiful buildings were destroyed by a historic and fatal earthquake that leveled the city.

Lesser cities would have been deserted. But not San Francisco. Undaunted, its proud citizens rebuilt their town and their lives on this very spot. The city still retains its charm and beauty today, as you can see by this quaint cable car.

Now, here's Dick Button to explain a few of the Games' events for our audience.

Thank you, Jim. First up, after the opening speechmaking ceremonies, the candidates will introduce themselves to as many persons and delegates as possible. Skills that are a factor here are handshaking, backslapping and baby-kissing. Smiles also are a factor here, aren't they, Peggy?

Yes, Dick. Jimmy Carter's gold medal in this category in 1976 was no surprise to veteran judges and performers in this part of the contest. But smiles aren't the only determining factor in winning here in the games, as Jimmy learned in his 1980 defeat, Dick.

Peggy, with the defending champion of the Chappaquiddick Channel dive boycotting the game because of a new rule disallowing butterflies, who's the overall favorite in the marathon?

Well, Dick, it's hard to say. Each of the contestants are uniquely qualified to be here. For some of them, of course, the thrill is just being able to compete in these games, to say, "I was a presidential candidate in the 1984 Summer Games."

For others, well, it could be the thrill of victory ... or the agony of defeat and the vice presidential nomination.

Peggy, the individual events are nerve-racking and all-important in these final results. One misplaced "vague gobblede-gook" or ill-timed "baloney," and the contestant will go down in the gamebooks along with other past greats like Al Smith and Senator Symons. One fairly decent showing, and the winner will put his most worrisome competitor on the plane with Peter Jennings to Beirut. Isn't that right, Jim?

Heh, heh. Right, Dick. Wasn't it amazing how he got that last minute assignment to Beirut? Anyway, the grueling competition begins long before the torch is lighted here at the Golden Gate Bridge. Contestants have already competed in the New Hampshire Dash, where they scrambled to organize their campaigns and find the right equipment and campaign managers.

Peggy, they then proceed to the cross-country race, and a related event, the Hop, Skip and Jump through small town America, featuring stops in such garden spots as Plainview, Ralls and Ames, Iowa.

And then they come here, Dick. Here for one last shot at the Gold. Isn't it exhilarating?

Yes, Peggy. But also frustrating for the candidates who aren't quite up to par. Some of these candidates were injured in the long stretch. They're not endurance winners. They didn't do well in the fundraising follies or the slogan slalom.

Well, enough on events right now. Let's take you to one of the pleasure spots in a valley just north of here where the monks have been making wine since the days of the Prohibition. Grapes have been grown in this country for years, but only recently have the wines become known as equal to the European entries. Here to provide some commentary on the different vintages are Orson Welles and Speaker Tip O'Neill.

Orson -- ? Dick, we seem to have lost our transmission. Guess it just isn't time to show this clip yet. Back to you and Peggy.

Thanks, Jim. Well, looking over this scenery, this could be an exciting race. We'll just have to see how the story develops. We'll be back with more coverage on Day 2 of the Summer Games.

The state school has imprisoned religion

By MR. & MRS. DWIGHT PERKINS

Seven men in Cass County, Nebraska, were jailed before Thanksgiving. They were brought to court on a civil matter of putting their children in a non-State certified Christian school. (It is now against the law in Nebraska for any school to function that is not State licensed, accredited, and certified.) They were jailed for contempt of court for refusing to sign an agreement to testify against themselves concerning their involvement in the school. When they agree to sign, they will be able to present their case; until then, no release. The court refused to appoint them an attorney. The men weren't permitted by the county prosecutor to appear at their hearing; instead, the arresting sheriff testified on their behalf.

Six of the seven men still remain in jail; they still refuse to sign. Their wives and pastor have had to flee the state unless they, too, are arrested, and their children placed in foster homes.

There are many other incidents as this. Rev. Bob Gelsthorpe of the North Platte Baptist Church, was given a $400 a day fine ($200 against the church, $200 against him personally) for every day he continues to operate his church school. On Feb. 6, Rev. Don Brush of Ainsworth was in court. The county prosecutor advised the judge not to allow two types of defense: 1) the freedom of religion under the First Amendment, and 2) the academic performance of the school.

The quality of education in Christian schools is not the matter of dispute. The State would probably be embarrassed by the comparison. The Church stands on the basis that the State has absolutely no right to approve, license, or exercise any control over God's work. The Christian school is indeed a ministry of the Church.

Why cannot Christian parents accept humanistic teaching that is being offered by State-controlled schools? First, God has given every PARENT the duty of giving their child an education. Secondly, because of what humanists themselves have boldly claimed: Charles F. Potter, in the article Humanism, a New Religion (pub. 1930) states, "Education is thus a most powerful ally of Humanism, and every American public school is a school of Humanism. What can the theistic Sunday schools, meeting for an hour once a week and teaching only a fraction of the children, do to stem the tide of a five day program of humanistic teaching?"

Gloria Steinem, editor of Ms. magazine, stated in Saturday Review of Education (Mar. '73) "By the year 2000 we will, I hope, raise our children to believe in human potential, not God." Can you see why these godly parents would be opposed to State control?

A 'free market education' would guarantee academic quality. Private schools would either have to produce quality education or lose tuition. Public schools would either have to produce education of the parent's liking, or lose tax dollars.

Many states either have, or are beginning to follow Nebraska's example. What can we do to ensure religious freedom and parental rights in the choice of education for our children? PRAY for our country and leaders. Express your concern over state intrusion of private schools that are in no way receiving government funds. ACT TODAY!

VOTE with the vision that "Righteousness exalts a nation" (Prov. 14:34). Be informed, then purpose to inform others. Let your voice be heard NOW. May God bless our efforts, and stir the hearts of the God-fearing majority into action. Thank you-

Good Samaritan needs a new home

WASHINGTON — The remarkable thing about Joann Jones is the way she smiles through the tears. Her neighbors in Paris, Ark., can tell you she has been dogged by hard times. Yet her whole personality always seem to smile.

Left with three children to support, Joann found work as a cook and eventually opened her own small restaurant. But her 22-year-old son was stricken with a rare disease. He lost a leg and, because she couldn't keep up with the medical bills, she lost the restaurant.

Yet these tragedies didn't dampen her spirit. All that mattered, she told friends, was that her son was alive and preparing to become a missionary.

The financial squeeze left her with no money to pay insurance premiums. Then the inevitable happened — her small home burned down. Though all her worldly possessions were reduced to ashes, she remained cheerful. At least the family was still together — almost too close together, cramped into a cheap, second-hand trailer.

Then the other day, a cold front sent the temperature plunging below zero in western Arkansas. Joann stopped at a country store to use the pay phone. Across the road in a frozen field, she noticed four Mexicans huddled under a cedar tree. They were shivering in shirt-sleeves in the cruel cold, with only one blanket to keep them all warm.

She put down the phone and strode over to the freezing men. She couldn't speak Spanish, and they didn't understand English. But with gestures and a few words in common, they let her know they wanted to return to Mexico. But they had no money, no food, no warm clothing.

The irrepressible Joann, though impoverished herself, brought the migrant Mexicans home. The family took two blankets off their beds, and the afflicted son gave up his wool coat so each Mexican could wrap himself against the cold.

Joann remembered that her church was holding a fireside service that evening in Fort Smith. She carefully counted out enough quarters to buy gas for the 65-mile round trip. She drove the forlorn four to the Latter Day Saints church, where she found two dozen members still assembled.

Interrupting, she announced that she had four destitute Mexicans who needed help. The church members rustled up more warm clothing and collected enough cash to buy four bus tickets to Dallas, with pocket money for food along the way. The members also put through a call to Dallas and arranged for some Spanish-speaking members to meet the bus.

Joann Jones gave her widow's mite expecting nothing in return. I learned about her act of kindness from others. Because she cannot afford a telephone, I reached her at the diner where she now works. She didn't want to talk about her good deed; it didn't seem right, she said.

"Charity should be given in secret," she said. "Anyway, it was no big deal. Anyone would have done the same thing."

Footnote: This story could have an even happier ending if something nice were to happen to Joann — something real nice, say, like getting back into a house of her own. I almost know what she would say; she would protest that others are more needy. But I am setting up a building fund for Joann Jones. Donations can be made to the Drew Pearson Foundation, Box 2300, Washington, D.C. 20013.

BOOR OF THE WEEK: Speaker Tip O'Neill, a grizzly bear of a man, can be crotchety when he's riled. And he was at his grumpiest the other day during a closed-door meeting with President Reagan.

The president delivered an emotional defense of his Lebanon strategy. He was more anxious to bring the Marines home, he told congressional leaders, than they could possibly be — because he had the painful responsibility to notify the wives and parents of Marines killed in action. Sometimes he telephoned them personally, Reagan said.

He wanted to pull out the Marines but didn't know how to do it, he said, without jeopardizing U.S. interests in the Middle East.

O'Neill responded sourly that he didn't buy it. The president had made certain statements when he sent the Marines to Lebanon, and "not one single promise" has been fulfilled, grumped O'Neill.

For your heart's sake, don't smoke

To the editor:

I would like to let your readers know that February has been proclaimed Heart Month. February is also the month that brings out the love in all of us, the month where Valentines are sent and boxes of heart shaped candy, flowers, and all those other gestures that say "I care". People are eager to give and receive hearts and candy but do not care enough to give themselves a healthy heart. What a better gift can you give or receive that the gift of life.

When the month of the Great American Smokeout rolled around not many people cared enough to give up smoking for just one day. What a simple and healthy gift this would have been. Not only would you have given to yourself but you would have given to others as well.

People have 101 reasons why they can't or won't give up smoking. No amount of arguing will change their minds. One of the most common excuses heard is that, "I have been smoking for 'X' number of years and it is too late to quit." If you don't care enough for your health to quit smoking then think about the health of your loved ones that don't smoke.

During this month care enough to give a gift to the American Heart Association. Care enough to give the gift of life.

Houston hotel cuts back hours

HOUSTON (AP) — Downtown Houston's Whitehall Hotel is closing two-thirds of its rooms and closing completely on weekends beginning March 1 because of high vacancy rates.

Norman MacLeod, general manager 20-year-old, 350-room hotel, said Monday the hotel breakfast area and dining room would be closed evenings and weekends although the bar will remain open.

The cutbacks will mean layoffs for about 100 employees, officials said.

"By closing on weekends, we can offer a reduction in lodging rates," MacLeod said. "The weekday business guest won't be paying for all the expenses of keeping a hotel open seven days."

The Whitehall has been hard hit by the downturn in the energy industry and competition from new hotels open in Houston.

Good nutrition important to Olympic skater's training

All things are possible to one who believes. This creed has motivated athletes for centuries to dig deep within themselves for the inner strength and drive they need to maximize their potential.

If belief in oneself makes a winner, Rosalynn Summers certainly qualifies.

A three-time national title holder and a 1983 World Figure Skating Champion, Summers has been a believer throughout her thirteen-year skating career — right up through the dramatic free skating program that clinched her third consecutive U.S. gold medal at the recent national championships in Salt Lake City, Utah.

And now she's within reach of a major goal: a gold medal in the 1984 Winter Olympic Games being held in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia this week.

SUMMERS' CAREER is a story of hard work, ambition and a clear sense of purpose. When she was seven years old, the Edmonds, WA, resident clipped a coupon for a free skating lesson at a local rink. From that point on, she was hooked and began taking lessons and skating in competitions.

"While I was too young at the time to know I wanted to make skating my career, I knew it was something I really enjoyed, so I continued at it," she said. "As I got older and developed my physical strength and personal style, I began making progress and the belief in myself as an athlete started to take hold."

According to her coach, Lorraine Borman, who has been with her from the outset, Summers was only an average student at first. When she won the novice national title, however, her coach sat up and took notice.

"I guess you could say that it took me a little time to get started," the skater said. "Once I did, though, there's been no holding me back."

Moving at full speed means, for Summers, a high-powered training schedule and strict diet regimen. A typical day includes 6-8 hours on the ice with extra time devoted to aerobics, ballet and jazz dance. These last two forms of exercise help contribute to her personal skating style which combines athletic skill with graceful, lyrical movement.

Another part of Summers' winning strategy included shedding 16 pounds in 1982 while she prepared for the 1983 U.S. and World championships. To maintain her "thin to win" shape, Summers eats a low-calorie, nutritionally balanced diet.

"Since I lost weight I feel better about myself and enjoy training and skating more. From a physical point of view, I can also accomplish my jumps easier and I feel more graceful on the ice," she said.

"I have to feel good about myself to skate well. When I eat properly I have more energy and training becomes easier and more fun."

SUMMERS' NEW positive attitude and health regimen have carried over to her performance on the ice: proving that her capturing the 1982 national title was no flash in the pan, she successfully defended her title last year, and won the 1983 World Championship in Helsinki last spring as well.

Most recently, she added a third national gold medal to her string, at the U.S. Figure Skating Championships in Salt Lake City, Utah, January 17-22, 1984. And now, she has her sights set on the 1984 Winter Olympics gold medal.

"For me, being a top athlete means being a well-rounded individual," Summers said. "You need talent and drive, and you also have to be in top physical and mental condition. Right now, I know I'm in the best shape I've ever been in and that allows my skating skills and determination to work together at their best."

While it's common knowledge that the basic traits a winner must possess are talent, consistency and determination, a lesser known but critical ingredient is good nutrition.

TODAY'S SPORTS figures, professionals and amateurs alike, are turning to sound nutrition programs for the edge that helps turn a contender into a champion.

Summers' nutritious eating habits have played a key are by no means identical all over Italy. In northern cities like Bologna they favor the flat ribbon-type noodles, whereas in the south they go in for tubular macaroni and spaghetti.

Few Americans are aware of such regional pasta favorites as agnolotti, or "little fat lambs" — rolls of pasta stuffed with meat. Other oddities are pasta creations in the shape of sparrows' tongues, mustaches and little boots.

Then there are the pasta dumplings known as gnocci, which are made from a variety of ingredients including farina, semolina and potatoes.

Italian peasants often refer to the thick minestrone that makes up the bulk of their noon meal role in her conditioning. According to Dr. Arnold E. Denton, a member of the U.S. Figure Skating Association's Sports Medicine Committee, there are many nutrition "basics" that every athlete or sports enthusiast should bring to the training table.

For example, he says, make sure you get enough of the six main classes of nutrients — proteins, fats, carbohydrates, vitamins, minerals and water — by eating a wide variety from the four basic food groups. The four food groups are meats, fruits and vegetables, breads and cereals, and milk and dairy products.

And when it comes to water, drink plenty of it. The body doesn't have a good thirst monitor. When you're training hard you might not realize that you've become dehydrated to the extent that it will seriously impair your athletic performance.

In a presentation at "Sports Medicine for the Figure Skater," a seminar conducted during the 1984 U.S. Figure Skating Championships, Dr. Denton shared the results of a survey of skaters' eating habits and nutritional status.

Included in the findings he reported were the following: Intake of Vitamin D, calcium and iron was low among skaters in general, with sugar and phosphorous intake high.

Female skaters tended to be low in Vitamin A. While most skaters consumed an adequate amount of calories, some did not. Those consuming less than 70 percent of the recommended amount may have problems getting enough of the vital nutrients.

"WHAT IT COMES down to," Dr. Denton summarized, "is that athletes need to begin to look at their diet as one more part of their training regimen. Nutrition plays a very important role in overall health and well-being — for non-athletes as well as competitive athletes."

Today's athletes, like Summers, are heeding the advice and reaping benefits in the form of better performance and improved mental outlook. They've found that good nutrition is a healthy ingredient in a "winning" training program.

ROSALYNN'S "COMPANY BEST" BEEF BURGUNDY

- Rosalynn Summers
1984 Olympic figure skater
- 4 slices bacon
 - 1 1/2 lbs. beef cubes (1 1/2 inch)
 - 1 can (10 3/4 oz.) condensed beefy mushroom soup
 - 1 cup Burgundy or other dry red wine
 - 2 Tbsp. tomato paste
 - 1 med. bay leaf
 - 1 med. thyme leaves, crushed
 - 2 med. cloves garlic, minced
 - 8 small whole white onions (about 1/2 lb.)
 - 2 med. carrots, cut in 2-inch sticks

In large saucepan, cook bacon until crisp; remove and crumble. Brown beef in drippings. Add soup, wine, tomato paste, crumbled bacon and seasonings. Cover; cook over low heat one hour. Add onions and carrots; cook one hour more or until done. Stir occasionally. Remove bay leaf. Serve over noodles. Makes about 5 cups.

NOTE: One can (10 3/4 ounces) condensed golden mushroom soup and 1/2 cup water may be substituted for condensed beefy mushroom soup.

Bistro features unusual spaghetti dish

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine And Food Writer
Mention spaghetti and many of us think of pasta with a tomato sauce, or possibly such mixtures as minced clams or mushrooms and garlic.

But how about spaghetti blended with ripe olives, anchovies, capers, fresh tomatoes and spices? I recently tried this intriguing dish called Spaghetti Puttanesca at Zi Peppe, a cozy bistro in New York's Greenwich Village.

It is a favorite of Mario Manno, 32-year-old co-owner of the newborn inn, which goes in heavily for pastas and other Italian favorites.

"Maybe I'm prejudiced since about 95 percent of what I eat consists of pasta in one form or another," said Manno as we sat down to a steaming platter of Puttanesca.

"We plan to specialize here in the food of southern Italy, which goes in heavily for pasta," he said. "But there will be other attractions."

"I have found that Americans are fond of many Italian dishes, like stuffed mushrooms, eggplant with an Italian sauce and squid with a hot dressing."

Manno got his grounding working as a waiter in Italian restaurants around New York for the past eight years and became impressed with American patrons' overriding interest in spaghetti and other pasta.

What some people don't realize is that pasta dishes

Microwave oven needs separate circuit

Power surges from other kitchen appliances can damage a microwave oven and result in costly repair bills, says Texas Agricultural Extension Service home economist Bonnie L. Piernot.

A microwave oven should have its own 15 amp circuit, especially if it has touch controls rather than a mechanical dial control. Microwave oven manufacturers subscribe to Underwriter's Laboratory standard that each major appliance should have its own electrical line. "But most houses are not wired that way, and many consumers have counter-top ovens that are simply plugged into the most convenient outlet," she says.

A microwave oven with touch control number pads has a micro-processor which is susceptible to the rapid rise and drop in electrical power caused by appliances like an ice-maker refrigerator or air conditioner. This power surge can damage the micro-processor's electronic circuit board, causing the oven control unit to fail.

A warranty typically covers the control unit for two years. After that the unit will cost $125 to $200 plus labor, says the home economist. While the magnetron tube in a microwave usually carries a five to 10-year warranty, the control unit is covered for only two years.

Check the amperage on the circuit you are now using to make sure it is sufficient to handle a microwave oven and other appliances at the same time. If you have doubts about the circuits adequacy, and don't want to install a separate one for the microwave alone, consider re-arranging the appliances in your kitchen, she says.

Use your circuit breakers to determine which outlets are on different circuits in your kitchen. Then arrange the appliances so the microwave oven is not on the same circuit with other power-intensive appliances. Avoid placing a frost-free refrigerator, toaster and toaster-oven on the same circuit as a microwave, Pier-

U.S. retail sales rise 2.2 percent in January

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sales by U.S. retailers rose a strong 2.2 percent in January, the biggest increase since May, the Commerce Department reported Tuesday.

Total sales, spurred by good showings for cars and food, reached a one-month record of $104.4 billion. The 2.2 percent rise from December sales was the biggest since a 3.1 percent jump in May 1983. Then the nation's economic recovery was being spurred by a strong surge in consumer buying.

In recent months, however, the surge in consumer spending has slowed somewhat, including a tiny 0.1 percent December increase in retail sales. That figure surprised a lot of analysts who were expecting the December selling season to be at a record pace.

However, the strong upturn in January sales bolstered the belief by many analysts that December sales were held down by unusually severe weather.

"January weather was a little better than December and people were able to get out and spend the money," said David Berson, an economist with Wharton Econometrics.

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said the robust sales reflected growing consumer confidence in the nation's economic health reflected by "expanding household incomes, lower inflation and smaller tax burdens."

"Though we should expect some slowing of retail gains after last year's heavy growth, consumer spending should continue to participate fully in the economy's healthy expansion," he said in a statement.

At the White House, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes noted that the January increase was the fifth in a row and called today's report "a positive sign that indicates further improvements are in store for the economy."

Meanwhile, the Federal Reserve Board said outstanding consumer debt rose a record $6.61 billion in December. The report said the overall increase amounted to an annual growth rate of 21.25 percent.

Automotive sales continued strong, rising 1.2 percent from December and were 33.3 percent ahead of the level of January 1983. The $21.3 billion in sales was a new record for a single month.

Food sales were up 2.7 percent from December with some of that rise attributed to the fact that prices also went up in January.

Dear Abby

Couple's love affair has gone to dogs

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend, Jim, and I live together, and my problem is his three dogs. They are with us 24 hours a day! We don't go to movies or restaurants because he can't take the dogs. If he leaves them locked in the car, they bark and howl.

He used to insist that the dogs be in our bedroom all the time. When we made love, one dog would sit on the floor with his chin on the mattress, watching! It really turned me off, so I said, "No lovemaking with the dogs in the room." Now he puts them out, but they scratch at the door and whine the whole time. And the first thing he says after lovemaking is, "Let the dogs in."

These dogs are with Jim constantly. The minute he sits down, one dog sits beside him, the other one jumps on his lap and the third one lies at his feet. There is no room for me. It's almost as though the dogs have a conspiracy to keep us apart.

What do you think of this situation? My mother says I should give Jim an ultimatum: me or the dogs.

COMPETING WITH DOGS

DEAR COMPETING: It's no canine conspiracy: Jim has trained his dogs to come between you and him. Don't give Jim an ultimatum. The dogs will win—paws down!

Let's correct our ideas about diabetes

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I read your column all the time and finally decided to write you. I don't require any medical information myself, but was wondering if you would be willing to help me out? I am a juvenile diabetic (for six years), and I am frequently appalled by the number of people who are misinformed about diabetes. Could you do a write-up on it for all these people? Just let people know diabetes isn't all that bad, especially employers! — H.D.

Sure I'm willing to help you out. I find others' ignorance on the subject as appalling as you do. Most diabetics lead normal, fulfilling lives inconvenienced only a little by their illness.

The common thread in all diabetes is an elevation of blood sugar because of a lack of insulin production or an inability of the body to respond to what insulin there is. I guess we can describe insulin best as that substance made in the body to permit proper metabolism (burning) of blood sugar.

People who lack insulin are Type I diabetics. They are the ones who have to give themselves insulin by injection on a daily basis to supply what is lacking. Type I diabetics used to be called juvenile diabetics because that type usually appeared in younger years.

Type 2 diabetics, on the other hand, still can make insulin, but, as I mentioned, their bodies don't handle it properly, so the blood sugar doesn't get metabolized. Type 2 diabetics, on the whole, are older and tend to be overweight. Weight loss often restores insulin balance and their sugar falls to normal.

Granted, this is a very sketchy account of diabetes, but it is essentially all anyone need know, employers or others. I hope it's enough to dispel misconceptions about what diabetics are able to do. Many famous athletes, artists, writers, doctors, lawyers, plumbers, mechanics, teachers, opera singers and housewives have just incidentally been diabetics. You don't have to look far to find a fully-functioning and successful diabetic.

The disease occurs in one out of a hundred people. So employers, take note.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For a better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Horseshoe thrower last of a breed

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — At 83, Henry Franke throws horseshoes the way younger folks throw parties — long, hard and with little modesty.

He says he's so good that he's been blackballed from at least 16 horseshoe tournaments.

Opponents say they don't want to play Franke because he throws the 2½-pound horseshoes from 30, rather than 40, feet, the required distance for most pitchers. In 1982, the National Horseshoe Pitchers Association said pitchers in 70-and-over age divisions could throw from 30 feet. Franke said the distance dispute was a coverup for the real reason pitchers won't play him: "They don't want to be beaten by an old man."

"The players," he said, "say that it bothers them and breaks their concentration when I walk up to the 30-foot line, pitch and then walk back to the pitching platforms. That is baloney."

Twenty world horseshoe championships have not made Franke modest. "I can beat anyone in the world certain days," he said. "I sign so many autographs ... Really, I'm pretty popular."

During an interview, Franke, a member of the National Horseshoe Pitchers Association Hall of Fame, pointed to shelves of trophies lining the walls of his white frame house: "My son says I have over 400 trophies. It's closer to 500 than 400. And I have 82 gold, silver and bronze medals" from Senior Olympics competition.

Franke, who won 14 consecutive games, pitching 65.9 percent ringers, to win the 1983 world title in the 75-and-over division, said a tournament manager in Tremont was among those who let him compete. The catch: he had to lose all games.

Things went better in Cowden, where a manager told players they could go home if they didn't want to play Franke. Nobody went home. Franke played twice and won first both times.

Franke, who wears a white shirt with red letters saying, "Henry Franke, Centralia, Ill., 1982 World Horseshoe Champion," is more modest about his golf game.

"I shoot in the 90s," he said. "They call me Straight-Down-The-Middle Franke. I don't hit them so far, but I hardly ever hit them to the far left or the right."

Though most of his trophies and medals are for horseshoes, some are for other sports: bowling, tennis, jumping, swimming, running, shotput, discus throwing, basketball free throwing, for instance.

What's the secret to his success at horseshoes?

"I practice more and ... have a greater desire to win," he said. "I can concentrate better than any of my opponents. I don't get excited."

And, without a trace of a smile, Franke looked at a reporter and said:

"I think you should take my picture and on it put, 'The only man in the world that's so good in his sport — horseshoe pitching — that he can't get any competition.' The only place I can get competition is in the world horseshoe tournament, and then I win them all."

Celebrities salute vets

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer
Sports celebrities gathered Tuesday at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Medical Center for the 11th annual National Salute to Hospitalized Veterans, which was highlighted by awarding the grand prize winner in an essay contest for local fourth, fifth and sixth graders.

Michelle New, a sixth grader from Moss Elementary won the grand prize in the contest entitled Tribute to Hospitalized Veterans. In her essay Miss New thanked the veterans for "fighting for a cause which you might not have understood".

Other first place winners in the contest were Randy Merley from Marcy Elementary; Billy Carey from Washington Elementary; Brooke Arrick from St. Mary's Elementary; Terry Moncada from College Heights Elementary; and Andrea Arcand of Hillcrest Elementary.

Sports personalities on hand to salute the veterans were guest speaker Bill Shammell, general manager of the Midland Cubs; Danny Darwin, pitcher for the Texas Rangers; Marty Scot; manager of one of the Rangers farm teams; and Houston Oilers Derrick Dolls Regina West and Donna Ryan.

The Big Spring High School baseball team and coach Roland Atkins were also on hand for the salute. Shammell told the audience that Big Spring is a part of the Midland Cubs organization, "since we are practically neighbors." He also added that the team was locally owned and most of their profits stayed in the West Texas area.

Even though the Cubs are the third smallest class AA team in the nation, they ranked seventh in season attendance last year. Shammell concluded by saying all veterans will get into all Cub games free of charge this season.

Darwin, who was instrumental in the Rangers' fast start last season says he expects Texas, along with Oakland and Chicago to be the top teams in the American League West.

"We have some good hitters in our first five batters," said Darwin. "With guys like Buddy Bell, Larry Parish and George Wright coming at you, we are going to give some people problems."

Darwin, who reports to spring training Feb. 17, said the key to his success is staying away from injury. "I'm out to prove to myself and the people that I am capable of having that 15 or 20 win season," he said.

Derrick Dolls West and Ryan are first-year cheerleaders for Houston. This is their first visit to Big Spring and each admitted they wouldn't mind coming back.

Both are very active in volunteer work. For Ryan, who hails from Houston this marked her fourth benefit in the last month. West, who is a native of Detroit, Michigan just recently returned from West Germany on a USO tour.

West says she would like to do more benefits. "You get to travel and meet exciting new people," she said. "It's very rewarding to do benefits," said Ryan. "It makes you feel good about yourself to know you are helping others."

Both young ladies admit it's no easy task making the Derrick Dolls. Each year everyone has to try out and 40 are selected from over 200 participants.

Mrs. Lupe Dominguez, Director of Volunteer Services at the VA is the person responsible for bringing the program to Big Spring, and bringing joy to local veterans in their day of salute.

Bulldogettes enter the playoffs with 51-46 win

BALLINGER — Coahoma girls basketball coach Bill Dennis is sure glad the District 6-3A race is divided into two halves.

His Bulldogettes secured a spot in the state playoffs with their 51-46 win over Sonora in an extra playoff last night. If the district race had been played straight through, Coahoma would be finished playing this season because the Bulldogettes were 2-3 in the first half and 4-1 in the second half. Sonora was 4-1 in the first half and 3-2 in second half play.

But since each squad finished second behind Crane in each half the extra playoff contest was necessary — and the Bulldogettes took advantage of it.

Trailing 25-24 at the half, the Bulldogettes rallied behind the second half scoring of Janna Griffin and Shana Fowler to take the win.

Another key to the victory was that a tight Coahoma defense that held Sonora leading scorer Lorri French to 11 points, before fouling out in the third quarter.

Coahoma was paced in scoring by Melissa Fudge with 17 points; 13 coming in the first half. Griffin followed with 16 and Fowler added nine. Coahoma goes into post-season play with a 17-11 slate, finishing up with a 7-4 district record.

The Bulldogettes will face Alpine, winners of District 5-3A; in bi-district action Thursday at 7 p.m. in Crane.

Moon brings in buyers

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Canadian Football League star and free agent quarterback Warren Moon has been a Houston Oiler for less than two weeks and has yet to throw a pass in the National Football League but he's already paying dividends at the Oiler ticket office. The Oilers, with season tickets at 44,000, have a waiting list of more than 800 now. That's up more than 100 since Moon announced he had agreed to a $6 million pact with Houston.

Howard splits with Cougars

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

After having their winning streak snapped with a first game loss, the Howard College Hawks came back to record a 14-5 whipping over the Bee County Cougars in the second game of a Tuesday doubleheader at the Howard College baseball field.

The Hawks, with the split, managed to take four of five games played against the South Texas squad in a series that started Sunday.

After rallying late in the first game only to fall short, the Hawks wasted little time getting started in game two.

Ken Spears opened Howard's half of the first with a walk and scored when Steve Carrasco doubled. Stephon Hodge singled in Carrasco for a 2-0 lead before Bee managed an out. Hodge went to third on catcher Gary Carr's single and the Hawks' shortstop made the score 3-0 when he crossed home courtesy of a sacrifice by Big Spring's Blake Rosson.

Jim Garcia singled Carr to third and when Jeff

Davis received a walk the bases loaded up. Car came in when designated hitter Shannon McDougal received a free ride. Garcia closed Howard's five run first when Spears was also walked to force in a run.

Bee reached Howard starter Doug Myers for a run in the second behind a walk, single and fielder's choice. Carrasco turned in a big league play when he caught a fly ball to center field and then tossed a runner out at first for a double play, allowing Howard to keep a 5-1 lead. Myers lasted until the fourth inning when he was relieved in favor of Jeff Hodges.

Myers had given up only one hit through three and one half innings, but struggled part of the way by walking four. He left with two out and the bases loaded in the fourth. Hodges came on to strikeout Richard Ocanas for the third out of the inning.

The Hawks then went on a binge in their half of the fourth as Carrasco opened with a single and scored just ahead of Hodge who homered. After Carr was safe due to an error Rosson hit Howard's second homer of the inning for a 9-1 lead. Garcia singled, went to third on a sacrifice and scored when a Spears blast was misplayed by the Bee County third baseman. Howard led 10-1 before the third out was made.

Rosson ended the game along with Hodge with three runs batted in. Of the homerun the Big Spring sophomore said, "I felt I could hit the fastball their pitcher was throwing. It was just a matter of waiting for the right kind."

Bee roughed up Hodges for three runs on four hits in the fifth to make the score, 10-4 but the Hawks struck back with two scores in the bottom of the inning. Bobby Behnsh took first after being hit by a pitch. Carr walked. After a strikeout on Rosson, Garcia walked to load the bases. Behnsh and Carr came home when Chuck Ashcraft hit into a fielder's choice.

Hodges managed to get two Bee outs sandwiched around a pair of walks and a single when he was relieved by David Rodriguez in the sixth. Rodriguez struckout Doug Dixon for the third out and went on to contain Bee County as well as he did in relief in the first game. Rodriguez faced five batters, giving ed in. Rodriguez came in with one out and bases loaded, but a double play turned in by Rodriguez to Carr to Behnsh at first got the Hawks out without any damage.

In the seventh Ashcraft singled and the score ran to 4-2 when Spears homered. McDougal kept the one out rally going by reaching first on an error. Hodge singled, but a strikeout on Behnsh and game ending fly ball to center by Carrasco stopped any ideas Howard might have had for stretching its winning streak to five games.

With the four wins against Bee County, however Howard stands at 5-2 for the year and will be off until Friday, Feb. 24 when Angelina College of Lufkin comes calling for a four game series with doubleheaders scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

Bruce Hollander came in in the fourth for Howard and lasted until the sixth when Rodriguez was waw-

U.S. hockey team finishes with tie

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP) — Anssi Melametsa scored with 21 seconds remaining to lift Finland to a 3-3 tie with the United States Wednesday, insuring the Americans' worst finish ever in Olympic hockey competition.

Ironically, the sparsely attended game was against

Finland, the national team the U.S. beat on a Sunday morning in 1980 for the Olympic gold medal few thought they could win.

The U.S. appeared to have won the game Wednesday, which would have earned them a spot in the fifth-place playoff, when defenseman Bob Brooke connected on a wrist shot with only 38 seconds left. But the Finns pulled goalie Kari Takko and, eight seconds after adding a sixth attacker, Melametsa's screened drive slipped through goalie Marc Behrend.

The tie gave Finland a 2-2-1 mark.

"DRIVE-IN WINDOW NOW OPEN UNTIL 5:00 P.M."

Crane clips Coahoma

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — Awesome — that's the word that best describes the performance of Crane forward Kenny Walker, after the Golden Cranes drubbed Coahoma 82-61 in a key district 6-3A matchup.

The contest was a must-win situation for each team, as both squads came in to the contest with 2-1 records in the second half of district play.

The loss all but eliminates Coahoma from a playoff berth as first half winner Colorado City leads the second half with a 4-0 record. Ballinger and Coahoma drop to third place with 2-2 slates. If Crane, who finished second in first half play, defeats C-City in the final game Friday, both C-City and Crane advance to post-season play.

Walker, a 6-3 sophomore made life miserable for the Bulldogs by pulling off a 40 points, 20 rebounds and 12 blocked shots performance.

The high-flying forward was such an intimidating force under the basket that nearly all of Coahoma's points came from long outside shots.

Walker put on a scoring clinic for the Bulldogs with his soft jumpers, smooth drives to the basket and vicious slam dunks. When he was finished, he missed only two of 20 shots from the field.

The entire Crane squad shot good from the floor, connecting on 55 percent of their shots, including 65 percent in the first half. After missing his first shot of the night, Walker then hit his next 13 attempts.

It would be seven minutes left in the game before he would miss again. He finished off his performance by sinking his next five field goals. Crane got added scoring punch from guard Gus

Walker, Kenny's senior brother, who chipped in 16 points and seven rebounds.

Crane never trailed in the contest as Jim Vasquez and Kenny Walker hit opening baskets to give the Cranes a quick 4-0 lead. Coahoma's Robbie Phernetton, who tallied 14 points in the game, hit a three-point play to draw Coahoma as close as they would ever get.

Brain Calaway and John Swinney, who led all Bulldog scorers with 19 points, hit jumpers to pull Coahoma to within 18-13 going into the second quarter.

With two minutes left in the first half Crane blew the contest wide open. Leading 33-25, the Crane ran off a 12-1 scoring spurt to give them a comfortable 45-26 lead at intermission.

Coahoma made it only run at the Cranes midway through the third period as Swinney and Brain Calaway, who scored 10 points for the night; started hitting long bombs against the Crane zone.

Swinney's shot from the corner cut the lead to 58-46 going into the final quarter. His 20-footer at the start of the period cut the deficit to 10 with seven minutes left. But the Walker brothers took charge and the Crane lead was 75-55 with three minutes left.

The win ups Crane's season record to 17-7, while Coahoma falls to 17-11.

Asthma drug may be detrimental to users

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some drugs intended to relieve asthma symptoms contain a preservative that might cause breath-snatching attacks in a small number of asthma sufferers, says a researcher who warns that the medications may be useless or harmful.

There is no cause for alarm for the thousands of asthmatics who carry the "little, pocket-sized inhalers" available without prescription, because those drugs are free of sulfites, said Dr. Ronald A. Simon, an allergist at the Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation in La Jolla, Calif.

He also said his findings, which he is to present next month to the American Academy of Allergy and Immunology, were "preliminary" because only six patients were studied.

Sulfites, which are preservatives, are contained in a variety of drugs used in home atomizers, including Micronefrin, Isuprel and Bronkosol, Simon said. The product manager for Sterling Drug Inc., which makes Isuprel and Bronkosol, was out of the office and unavailable for comment, company spokeswoman Debbie Seabrook said today.

The six patients, all sensitive to sulfites, were given the preservative in amounts equal to those found in the sulfite-containing asthma drugs, Simon said Tuesday. The sulfite "provoked a lot of asthma," he said. The drugs themselves have not yet been tested to see if they provoke asthma.

"That doesn't mean that when they (patients) inhale the brand-name solution they get asthma," he said. "But whether it made them worse or just didn't make them any better still doesn't make it an effective agent for them."

An estimated 10 million Americans have asthma, which is marked by difficult breathing and severe wheezing caused by allergies, stress or irritating particles.

Simon said an estimated 500,000 to 1 million American asthmatics may be sensitive to sulfites. However, Dr. Paul Kaufman, a vice president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association in Washington, D.C., said that based on the number of reported problems with sulfite-containing drugs, he believes Simon's estimate is far too high.

Simon recommended that asthma sufferers who suspect they are sensitive to sulfites should be checked by a doctor and, if found to be sensitive, should avoid drugs containing it.

Sulfites — most commonly sodium sulfite and sodium metabisulfite — have been used for 40 years as preservatives in thousands of drugs, Kaufman said.

Sulfites also are used to preserve beer, wine and many restaurant foods. Simon said previous studies have found that people sensitive to sulfites may suffer severe asthma after consuming food or beverages containing the preservatives.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration is considering regulating sulfite use or requiring labeling of sulfite-containing drugs because of reports that the preservative induces asthma and shock in some people, FDA spokeswoman Faye Peterson said.

Jeff Warren, a spokesman for the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, said, "We are absolutely concerned about reports of adverse reactions. We're working to label sulfites if they're essential to the product and get rid of them if they're not."

But to remove the preservative from all drugs "would be a major disservice to the public," Kaufman said.

COMMUNITY BILLBOARD

Academia

Marine Military Academy Cadet Pfc. Samuel Joseph Ross, son of Thomas Ross of Big Spring has been named "Cadet of the Month" for "A" Company on the basis of his performance during January.

The award was presented by the Superintendent Maj. Gen. George W. Smith, USMC (Ret.), and is given only to cadets who are considered outstanding in all aspects of life at MMA.

During the reign as "Cadet of the Month," the cadet is entitled to privileges not ordinarily granted, such as special liberty and occasional "sleeping in" permission with exclusion from morning physical training.

In order to be selected for the honor, a cadet must have no current failing grades and must not have been guilty of any major infraction of rules and regulations during the preceding month. Every MMA cadet is evaluated at the end of each month on attitude, discipline, loyalty, personal relationships, knowledge moral character, physical condition, neatness, dependability, and extracurricular participation. The "Cadet of the Month" must be outstanding in all of these categories.

Care Card, packet cuts emergency's red tape

A packet designed to help residents take better care of home emergencies will reach Big Spring area mail boxes this week. The packet will allow faster admission to the Malone-Hogan hospital's emergency center and admissions area.

A means of pre-registration — having already supplied needed paperwork — is the focus of the program. Included is a brochure on how to handle minor injuries at home, a family medical record form, and a Care Card to identify the bearer as a pre-registered patient, once the application in the packet is returned to Malone-Hogan Hospital.

The program's goal is to enable the admissions staff to recognize patients.

The Care Card in the packet comes inscribed with the bearer's name and has vital information on the back. It can be used at other area hospitals as well as Malone-Hogan.

Persons missed in the mailing are encouraged to call (915) 263-1211 ext. 112 to request a Care Card.

of Arlington; Shawn Christopher of Pensacola, Fla.; and Chuck McKinney of Carrollton.

Rodiek said the student design plans focus on the impact the environment has on the motorist, the occasional pedestrian, and people working in tall office buildings.

"The plans take into consideration the use of trees, shrubs, lighting, the roadways, off-ramps and the area underneath the overpasses to develop a more natural environment along the freeway," he said.

Treescape Dallas Inc. is a non-profit organization involved in improving the Dallas environment.

Big Spring physicians Rudy Haddad, Bernard Zilberg, James Mathews, Harvey DuBiner, Douglas Park and Marc Schwarz have been awarded continuing medical education commendation from three medical schools and three medical specialty associations.

The six are medical associates at Malone and Hogan Clinic.

On a one-week exchange visit to the University of Capetown Medical School, Dr. Zilberg concentrated study in its allergy clinic and the intensive care and new born units at Red Cross Children's Hospital. The local pediatrician was in Capetown, South Africa to attend his son Neil Zilberg's medical school graduation. Endocrine, gastrointestinal and vascular surgery as well as surgical oncology, trauma and special surgical problems of the biliary tract and pancreas were subjects Dr. Mathews studied. He attended the Western Surgical Association's annual four-day session in Monterey, Calif.

Coleman Machine & Supply Adds New Machinist

Coleman Machine & Supply has expanded its staff, adding another machinist, in order to serve its customers better.

The firm recently increased their shop capabilities to handle rebuilding of larger engines.

Coleman Machine can now accommodate tractors, dirt equipment and diesel engines, such as Detroit, Mac, Cummins and Caterpillar. All engines are test-run on Dynamometer before installation to assure performance.

Coleman has developed an extensive inventory of parts and supplies — spark plugs, fluids, generators, alternators, brake shoes, and many other parts for cars, trucks and heavy equipment. And if they don't have it, they can get it for you.

Coleman Machine & Supply, located at 415 East Third Street is among the most experienced machine shops in the area. For over 30 years they've been the specialists in speed equipment, engine rebuilding, crank and cylinder repair.

For customer convenience, they have added a new rotary phone number 267-2574; their old number 267-8122 is still in service.

G&M Garage Plans New Shop Location

When your car needs a friend, you need to take it to G&M Garage — located at 809 E. 2nd, but soon to move to new quarters at 900 E. 3rd, across from Perco.

The new modern, efficient facility, which will open in about 45 days, will be more convenient for customers, George and Mary Leatham feel.

Curtis Bruns, NIASE Certified Mechanic, has joined G&M as Shop Foreman. He brings expertise in repairing and rebuilding transmissions.

G&M handles all the generations of computerized cars — the cars made in 1981 or later with on-board computers. G&M has the equipment to check out your car when it gives signs of trouble. G&M Garage is constantly upgrading its equipment to meet new standards in car care.

G&M Garage provides total car and medium duty truck maintenance — from tune-ups to complete engine overhauling.

George Leatham has 20 years experience as a mechanic. Mary Leatham runs the office — sometimes with the help of 16-month-old Sydney Leatham. Rounding out the staff are Randal Overby and Gene Joplin.
