How's that? No water

Q. Why were we without water in the southwest part of town from midnight Saturday night to midnight Sunday night?

A. City officials explained that the water was off in the southwest part of town Saturday night and Sunday because a 12-inch water line between the city park reservoir and the State Park reservoir had a break in it and had to be repaired.

Calendar: Banquet

FRIDAY

• Today is the last day to purchase tickets for the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce banquet, slated Feb. 25 in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Tickets are available at the Chamber office and from Blue Blazers and Ambassadors.

SATURDAY

• "Continuing the Dream," a program celebrating Black History, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium. The program is free and open to the public.

• Volunteers trained by the IRS will offer free assistance to people who need help in filling out their 1983 Income Tax forms. Volunteers will be on hand from 9 a.m. to noon at the Fellowship Hall in the basement of First Presbyterian Church, corner of 7th and Runnels.

• Northside residents who are seeking assistance with their 1983 income tax forms may check with the priest or secretary of Sacred Heart Catholic Church to make an appointment with IRS-trained volunteers for assistance. Appointments will be made from 9 a.m. to noon.

SUNDAY

• Northside residents seeking assistance with their 1983 income tax forms may check with the priest or secretary at Sacred Heart Catholic Church to make an appointment with IRS-trained volunteers. Appointments will be made Sunday afternoon.

MONDAY

• Big Spring schools will be closed Monday in observance of the President's Day holiday.

• Volunteers trained by the IRS will offer free assistance to people filling out their 1983 Income Tax forms from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Fellowship Hall in the basement of First Presbyterian Church, corner of 7th and Runnels.

• The Disabled American Veterans and Auxiliary will meet at 6:30 p.m. at the VFW Hall on Driver Road. The chapter will be renamed the O'Neal-Kunkel DAV Chapter 47 in a special ceremony. A cover dished luncheon will also be held.

TUESDAY

• Overeaters Anonymous will meet at 7 p.m. at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

WEDNESDAY

• Overeaters Anonymous will meet at 1 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church. For more information, call Ruth at 267-1428, or Anna, 398-5428.

Tops on TV: Olympics

ABC's Olympic coverage continues on channel 2 beginning at 6:30 p.m. Among scheduled events are the women's slalom in alpine skiing, four-man bobsled and a relay biathlon.

Outside: Cool

Skies should be cloudy today but temperatures are forecast to reach into the 60s. By this evening, look for a slight chance of rain. Tonight should see partly cloudy skies and lows in the low 30s. Winds will be westerly, 15 to 20 miles per hour and a chance of dust is possible. On Saturday, highs in the mid-50s are forecast with gusty winds.

Lebanese villagers massacred

OVERJOYED — Dancing with joy, these Druse fighters celebrate their victory over the Lebanese army in the small town of Kabr Chmoun, Thursday.

Syrian-backed Druse insurgents drove President Gemayel's troops from a strategic corridor in the Chouf Mountains.

BEIRUT — The decomposed bodies of scores of people allegedly massacred by Christian militiamen were found in a mountain village, along with a blood-stained pillow bearing a message apparently from a foreign newsmen.

"Please tell my family I love them," said the message, which included the family's address. It was signed "Clark."

Clark Todd, 38, the London bureau chief for the Canadian television network CTV, bled to death from a shrapnel wound just below the heart suffered as he was covering the Lebanese civil war in the Chouf Mountains.

His body was taken from the village of Kfar Matta, 15 miles southeast of Beirut, a week after his death by the International Red Cross.

Western reporters, including a CBS television crew, were taken Thursday to the village by Druse fighters who captured the area from the Lebanese army two days ago.

Druse said Christian militiamen killed more than 100 people there during the three weeks of fighting that followed the Israeli pullout from the Chouf in September. After the Israelis left, rightist Christians of the "Lebanese Forces" militia seized Kfar Matta, which was home mostly to Druse, a secret sect that is an offshoot of Islam.

Last fall, Druse fighters claimed the Christians had gone on a killing spree in Kfar Matta, and Christian militia leaders denied the claim. Until now, Western reporters had not been able to check out the claim because of the continued fighting.

The CBS film, viewed later in Beirut, showed scores of bodies of men, women and children, some piled in houses and others scattered in fields near the village.

It showed corpses of more than a dozen children. There also was a skeleton holding another in its arms — apparently a mother and child.

The Druse said more than 100 bodies were found.

There were corpses in bedrooms, living rooms and around dining room tables. Dining rooms that appeared to have been set for breakfast could be seen, the rotten bread, jam and cheese and tea cups still on the tables.

A militiaman pointed to two bodies, and in a choking voice identified them as "my aunt and my mother." The militiaman was not identified.

In one house there was a pile of 12 corpses, believed to be that of the village's Druse sheik and his family.

A Red Cross spokesman said Thursday that the organization's workers had seen many dead

City to revamp electrical code

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

"Administrative errors" made by the city have prompted a major revamping of the city electrical code, Public Works Director Tom Decell said at a meeting of the City Electrical Board last night.

Since 1979, the Big Spring City Council has "in some way failed to approve" additions to the code that were recommended by the board, chairman George Walker told several city electricians who attended last night's meeting.

Due to an administrative oversight, the recommendations were not presented to the council for its approval, Decell said.

"They did not go through the process of being put on the books," he said.

Recommendations made by the board do not officially become part of the electrical code until they are passed in ordinance form by the Big Spring City Council.

Board members told those present last night that city inspector Dewey Byers has been enforcing the unpassed recommendations as if they were part of the code.

The members last night began the process of reviewing minutes of board meetings since 1979 to identify and recommend again the forgotten additions. These new recommendations will be presented to the city council in coming weeks for its consideration and approval.

As a result of the city's mistakes, Big Spring electricians are by law working under a set of "minimum standards" contained in the 1975 edition of the National Fire Prevention Electrical Code, Decell said.

Members of the electrical board will revamp the city code over the next few months using the more than 1,000-page 1984 edition of the national code as a foundation.

They are asking city electricians to contact them with their ideas and comments. The board also would like to invite city electricians to attend board meetings on the third Thursday of each month.

"We would like to take this opportunity to update the code and bring other people into the process," Decell said.

Ammonia fumes force evacuation

SAN ANGELO (AP) — One worker was injured and about 30 residents were forced to flee their homes after a huge cloud of anhydrous ammonia spewed from an open storage tank valve at Veribest Ag Supply.

Clayton Friend, superintendent of Veribest School, said Thursday night the school would be closed today while the ammonia fumes were removed from the building. The school is only a few hundred yards from the accident site.

Ky Burden, 17, was taken to Shannon West Texas Memorial Hospital for treatment of freeze burns, supply company manager Dan Reed said. Burden was transferring ammonia from a large storage tank into field tanks, Reed said.

Burden was said to be stable and in fair condition late Thursday, the Shannon night nursing supervisor said. She said the youth suffered chemical burns from the ammonia exposure.

Burden was transferring liquid ammonia from the storage tank into a smaller field tank. The youth either fell or slipped while carrying a 1½-inch rubber hose used to connect the tanks. When the hose struck the ground, the valve on the hose end broke open and the gas began spewing into the air, Reed said. Angelo State University chemistry professor George Shankle said ammonia, in its liquid state, is extremely cold.

"I could not remember the exact temperature required to liquefy ammonia, but we can say it's much, much colder than solid ice. It can cause severe freeze burns — most definitely," Shankle said.

Firefighters from San Angelo were dispatched to Veribest at 4:58 p.m. There was no fire but the situation was extremely dangerous, San Angelo battalion chief Daryl Eddy said.

Minutes later two additional San Angelo fire units were dispatched to ferry more air tanks to the firefighters.

Tom Green County sheriff's deputies blocked FM 380 off to through traffic as firefighters worked to close the flowing valve.

Anhydrous ammonia, though not easily ignitable, is flammable. The chemical, used in agribusiness as a liquid fertilizer, is extremely caustic. It can be fatal if inhaled, can cause severe frostbite or burns if contacted by skin, is very irritating to eyes, nose and throat and, in liquid form, can pollute soil and water.

AMMONIA SPRAY — An industrial accident resulting in a powerful spary of anhydrous ammonia forced residents of Veribest, 12 miles east of San Angelo, to evacuate their homes for several hours Thursday afternoon. A broken nozzle sprayed the liquid ammonia producing a large cloud of gas, which was blown over part of the town.

Front brings cold, threat of rain

From staff and wire reports
An approaching low-pressure system is bringing a 20 percent chance of rain and gusty winds to Big Spring today, and colder temperatures are expected during the weekend.

Blowing dust also was expected today as the cold front pushed across the Permian Basin.

Today's forecast is calling for highs in the mid to upper 60s, mirroring yesterday's high of 64 degrees. By Saturday, highs should be only in the mid 50s.

The low tonight should dip into the lower 30s.

The low-pressure system brought high clouds over the lower plains, Edwards Plateau and the western half of North Texas today, along with the threat of snow accumulations.

Moist Gulf air pumped aloft in advance of the front produced dense fog that reduced visibilities to less than ¼ mile along the Coastal Bend, while lighter fog blanketed the lower Rio Grande Valley.

Clear skies dominated elsewhere in the state under the influence of a weak high-pressure mass that drifted into the lower Mississippi Valley, the National Weather Service said.

Low temperatures around the state ranged from the upper 20s in the northern Panhandle to the 40s and 50s in Central Texas and upper 60s in extreme South Texas.

Winds were southerly at 5 to 10 mph across the western half of Texas, with light and variable winds recorded elsewhere.

It should be cloudy with scattered thunderstorms over West Texas late today, with increasing cloudiness and a chance for light rain or drizzle elsewhere.

Highs were only expected to reach the middle 50s over the Panhandle. Readings in the 70s and 80s should be common over North, South and Southeast Texas, the weather service said.

Although colder weather is forecast this weekend, a warming trend is forecast for the early part of next week.

Presbyterian pastor leaving for new post

The Rev. William F. (Bill) Henning Jr., 52, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church since 1976, is leaving Big Spring to assume the position of Executive Presbyter of the Presbytery of Arkansas, the governing body of the Presbyterian Church in the northern two-thirds of Arkansas.

REV. BILL HENNING ...gets new assignment

He will assume his new position April 1. Henning was elected to the post at the 31st stated meeting of the Presbytery of Arkansas held earlier this week in Russellville.

He and his wife, Joy, will live in Little Rock. He will be installed May 25 at Westminster Presbyterian Church in Hot Springs.

"I'm excited about my new position," Henning said this morning. "It is something I feel I have the gift to do."

He said that he will be working as a pastor to churches and ministers of the 101 churches within the Arkansas Presbytery.

About leaving Big Spring, Henning said, "I have very mixed feelings. I love Big Spring and I feel completely at home here. I will miss many people here. I felt like I fit right in here. People here are my kind of people."

Henning is a native of Columbus, Miss., and a graduate of Birmingham Southern College in Birmingham, Ala., and Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur, Ga. He served for three years as the chief business officer and treasurer of the Presbyterian Church in the United States and previously was Associate Executive Secretary of the Presbyterian Synod of Texas.

He has been pastor of churches in Sweetwater, Fort Worth and Beaumont. He organized two churches on the north of Yellowstone National Park. He is a former moderator of the Presbytery of Tres Rios and the former Presbytery of Central Texas.

His recent volunteer work has included services on the boards of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, the YMCA, Planned Parenthood and the Council on the Aging. He has been vice chairman of the Texas State Volunteer Services Council for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Facilities. He also was a chaplain for the Veteran's Administration Hospital.

The Session of the First Presbyterian Church called a meeting for Feb. 26 to elect a committee to seek a new minister. The constitution of the church requires that a congregation elect a nominating committee, representative of the entire congregation, to select a pastor.

GOP crowd to be fenced out

DALLAS (AP) — The city plans to fence off the area surrounding the Dallas Convention Center for crowd control during the Republican National Convention and set aside a street in front of the hall for protestors, city officials say.

Reporters and the protestors will be separated by the fence, officials said.

GOP planners were told Thursday by John A. Tiepel, the city's director of streets and sanitation, that protestors will be provided water, toilet facilities, protection from the sun and two flatbed trailers with public address systems.

A third flat-bed trailer will be placed just inside the fence for the media to cover the demonstrations, he said.

"We're taking this approach rather than letting the demonstrators and the media mill around and seek each other," Tiepel said. "We think it's a wholesome positive approach."

Tiepel said the fence will be erected around the perimeter of the convention area so that delegates and other convention-goers may walk around the grounds "without being harassed or bothered by people with signs."

Forgery suspect pleads

Richard Eugene Grishom, 23, of Fort Worth pleaded guilty in 118th District Court to charges of forgery and giving a forged check, reports said. Grishom was given five years in the Texas Department of Corrections to run concurrently with his present sentence, reports said.

David Enzie Pace, Jr., 31, of Knott Route pleaded guilty in County Court to a charge of driving while intoxicated, reports said. Pace was fined $300 and court costs and given 60 days in jail, probated to 24 months, reports said.

Terry Joe Conway, 22, of 2001 Morrison was transferred from the city jail at 8 p.m. Thursday and released on $500 bond after being charged with driving while intoxicated, reports said.

Henry Holguin Guzman, 52, of Midland was released from the county jail after paying a $400 fine, reports said. Guzman was arrested Feb. 13 on a charge of contempt of court, reports said.

LIPPIZAN BREEDER — Lisa Brown of the Tin Cup Farms in Whitesboro in North Texas stands next to two of the eight Lippizan horses she and her husband breed.

Patton's pride

Texas couple nurtures small Lippizan herd

WHITESBORO (AP) — If not for Gen. George Patton and several Allied soldiers in 1945, Lisa Brown of the Tin Cup Farms might never have taken up raising Lippizan horses.

Patton, according to Mrs. Brown, swung a deal with the Germans just before the fall of Berlin to run most of the remaining Lippizans out of territory that was about to fall to the advancing Russian army.

"The entire European herd had ended up in what is now Czechoslovakia as the Russians were advancing. Russians have a real affinity for horse meat, as in eating it and confiscating it," Mrs. Brown said. "The Germans turned their heads while the Americans came through and drove them up to Northern Austria," she continued. "They (Europeans) always credited Patton with saving the herd."

Today, she and her husband Larry Brown, a pilot with American Airlines, own a spread just south of here where they have eight Lippizan horses and three others on the way.

Mrs. Brown readily admits that the herd is small in numbers by quarterhorse standards, but large by Lippizan standards because there are only 700 to 800 in the country.

"We're the largest breeder in the Southwest. Most of the large breeders only have 10 to 12 horses," she said.

The couple moved to Whitesboro from Chester, N.H., last year. At the time, they were the largest Lippizan breeders in New England, but felt that the warmer weather in Texas would be an advantage.

Mrs. Brown said her fascination with Lippizans began when she was a teen-ager in Atlanta, Ga., where she took riding lessons at a farm that had the show horses.

The horse on which she learned to ride was Melodia, and after a stay in Colorado where the couple also raised horses, she was able to purchase the 20-year-old mare in 1980.

Mrs. Brown said the history of the Lippizans is one of the most colorful of all breeds of horses. They first were bred about 400 years ago by the kings of Austro-Hungary who wanted "a horse that royalty could play around with."

But as the borders of Europe changed, so did the breeding grounds for the horses. They first were bred in what is present-day Yugoslavia and later, in areas near Italy.

After World War II and Patton's rescue, the horses were bred in Austria, where in Vienna the famous Spanish Riding School can be found.

"The Spanish Riding School is where they gained their fame as show horses," Mrs. Brown said.

The horse did not appear in America until after Patton's rescue, Brown said, because most Europeans felt the Americans would not take care of the horses.

Mrs. Brown said that today Temple Farms is the largest breeder of Lippizans, although its herd is only about 250 today, after once having as many as 500.

With her move to Texas, Mrs. Brown said she is trying to convince people that Lippizans are more than just show horses.

"I'd like people to know that they're very versatile and can do a lot of different things," she said. "They're very intelligent horses."

Mrs. Brown said a normal-size Lippizan weighs about 1,000 to 1,200 pounds and stands 15 to 16 hands high. She said she thinks the horses will sell well "because people in this area have a good knowledge of horses."

"People are very open-minded around here about new things, especially those involved in the horse industry," she said. Currently for sale is a stallion named Frisbie, who she said should sell for $5,000.

"We'll always have buyers because they (Lippizans) are a novelty, but no one can make a living selling them as a novelty," she said. "I'd like to sell the horses to someone who wants to take them out and show them."

civilians in Christian and Druse mountain villages.

"We went to many other villages in the Chouf and saw many dead civilians, both Christians and Druse," said Serge Caccia, the spokesman.

Asked whether the Red Cross knew of mass killings in the villages, he said, "We don't know whether they were killed by shelling or in crossfire, but we saw dead people."

"It is beyond our job to investigate whether it's a massacre or not," Caccia said. He added that at the time, the security situation did not permit the Red Cross to spend much time in the villages "and we wanted to do all we could to rescue those still alive."

He said Red Cross workers have seen bodies in Bmariam, a Christian village where Christian militiamen maintained there had been a massacre by the Druse.

Elsewhere in Lebanon, army gunners defending Amin Gemayel's presidential palace traded artillery fire today with Druse insurgents in the hills east of Beirut, and opposition leaders rejected a Saudi Arabian peace plan for Lebanon.

President Reagan, meanwhile, ordered U.S. Marines to begin pulling out of Beirut this weekend.

Police said the artillery duels pitted Lebanese army 155mm howitzer batteries in Christian villages around President Gemayel's government headquarters in suburban Baabda against rocket launchers manned by Druse in the nearby hills that overlook the U.S. Marine base at Beirut airport.

Druse and Shiite Moslem militias in two weeks have routed Gemayel's shattered army from nearly all of the central mountains, from the western half of the capital and from the crucial coastal highway south of Beirut. As a result, Gemayel has reportedly endorsed the Saudi peace plan, which includes the scrapping of Lebanon's troop withdrawal pact with Israel and would comply with some of the rebels' demands.

Police said at least five civilians were killed and 13 wounded in the artillery exchanges.

On Thursday, a White House official had said the Marines would start moving within two or three days, and the transfer of 1,200 Marines should be completed within 30 days. He spoke on condition he not be identified.

The official said 500 Marines, Army trainers and other U.S. personnel would stay in Beirut to guard the U.S. Embassy and perform other duties.

'Terms' wins 11 nominations

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Both box office winners and losers showed up on this year's list of Oscar nominees, which contains several surprises along with the expected "Terms of Endearment" sweep.

A mother-daughter drama with more than a few comic touches, "Terms of Endearment" reeled in 11 Academy Award nominations Thursday, more than any other film. They included best picture and, for James L. Brooks, a TV sitcom veteran in his first directorial outing on a feature film, best director and adaptation screenplay.

"The Right Stuff," the $28 million epic about the first U.S. astronauts, took eight nominations, answering the prayers of its creators who hope the attention will draw the audience the film until now has lacked.

Released in October by the Ladd Co. and Warner Bros., the film's gross to date is only $15.7 million, compared with the $72.7 million "Terms of Endearment" has drawn since December.

Notably absent from the list of contenders was Barbra Streisand, who was unable to muster a single nod for producing, directing, co-writing and starring in "Yentl."

The film did, however, get five nominations from the motion picture academy's 4,000 voting members, including three for its music.

"The Dresser," "Silkwood" and "Tender Mercies" won five nominations each. "Return of the Jedi," the conclusion of the "Star Wars" trilogy which has scaled the upper reaches of the box-office galaxy, scored in only four production categories.

Besides "Terms of Endearment," nominees for best motion picture of 1983 were: "The Big Chill"; "The Dresser"; "The Right Stuff" and "Tender Mercies."

For best actress, Miss MacLaine and Miss Winger are up against Jane Alexander for "Testament," Meryl Streep for "Silkwood" and Julie Walters for "Educating Rita."

"The Dresser," about an aging thespian and his trusty manservant, supplied two of the four best actor nominees who hail from Great Britain: Albert Finney and Tom Courtenay. The other two Englishmen are Michael Caine for "Educating Rita" and Tom Conti for "Reuben, Reuben." Robert Duvall, the country singer of "Tender Mercies," was the only American nominated.

The best supporting actress contenders are Cher, "Silkwood"; Glenn Close, "The Big Chill"; Linda Hunt, "The Year of Living Dangerously"; Amy Irving, "Yentl"; Alfre Woodard, "Cross Creek."

Besides Nicholson and Lithgow, the nominees for supporting actor are Charles Durning, "To Be or Not to Be"; Sam Shepard, "The Right Stuff"; Rip Torn, "Cross Creek."

Alongside Brooks and Bergman on the director list are Australian Bruce Beresford for "Tender Mercies"; Britain's Peter Yates for "The Dresser"; and Mike Nichols for "Silkwood."

The 56th annual Academy Awards will be presented April 9 at the Los Angeles Music Center. Johnny Carson returns as emcee for the live ABC telecast.

Baby-killer gets 99-year sentence

GEORGEOWN, Texas (AP) — Convicted baby-killer Gene Jones is headed to prison to begin serving a 99-year sentence, but prosecutors say they're not done with the nurse who used a syringe as a weapon.

"Now it's act two, scene one. We've got another trial to go," said Bexar County Assistant District Attorney Nick Rothe, referring to another charge against Ms. Jones.

Jurors on Thursday set a 99-year prison term for Ms. Jones in the Sept. 17, 1982, death of Chelsea McClellan. The 15-month-old girl died after two injections at a Kerrville clinic.

"That's part of why I felt Gene was so dangerous," said juror Ann Bradley. "She can fit into our medical institutions and so smoothly accomplish those deeds."

Prosecutors convinced jurors that the shots carried succinylcholine, a muscle paralyzing drug.

Ms. Jones' next trial probably will involve a San Antonio case in which she is charged with injuring a month-old boy in Medical Center Hospital, officials said. Rolando Santos almost bled to death after an injection of heparin, a blood-thinning drug, according to prosecutors.

Rolando was a patient at the hospital's pediatric intensive care unit, where he was admitted in January 1982 with pneumonia.

The San Antonio trial is set for Feb. 27, but Bexar County District Attorney Sam Millsap said Thursday it probably would be postponed until late in the spring.

Bexar County prosecutors are investigating a string of suspicious infant deaths at Medical Center from 1978 to early 1982, the period when Ms. Jones worked there.

The nurse, who cried when convicted here Wednesday, also faces charges of injuring seven children, including Chelsea, at Dr. Kathleen Holland's Kerrville office. Ms. Jones only worked there three weeks.

Prosecutors said Ms. Jones' motive was to prove there were enough sick children to justify building a pediatric intensive care unit in Kerrville.

Kerr County District Attorney Ron Sutton, who plans to assist the prosecution in the Santos case, said he has not decided whether the seven Kerr County charges would be tried.

"I've got to look at today's punishment and decide whether it's worth the time and expense," he said after the 99-year sentence was announced. "That's something that I'll have to think about."

Jurors took only about an hour Thursday to set the maximum sentence in the Kerrville case. Under Texas law, a 99-year term is equivalent to a life sentence. Inmates serving 99 years or life are eligible for parole in about 20 years.

Ms. Jones appeared dazed as she stood while the jurors were polled on their punishment decision.

"She knew it was coming," defense lawyer Jim Brookshire said. "We've talked to her and told her it would happen if she was convicted. But I guess it's always a shock when someone says 99." He said the conviction would be appealed.

Goldwater gets own chair

TEMPE — The Barry Goldwater Chair of American Institutions at Arizona State University will be filled in 1987 by none other than the U.S. senator in whose name it was established.

BARRY GOLDWATER

"He has been a central figure in numerous historical events, and his insights will be valued by our students, our faculty and our community," university President J. Russell Nelson said Thursday in announcing the appointment.

Goldwater, a 75-year-old Arizona Republican and author of "Conservatism: A Re-examination," has said he will not seek re-election in 1986. His Senate career began in 1952 and was interrupted by his 1964 run for the presidency as the Republican nominee. He returned to the Senate in 1969.

As the Goldwater Professor in the 1987 spring semester, he will conduct seminars and lectures. The chair was established in 1977 and was most recently filled by the late Herman Kahn, the noted futurist.

Misha bargains with boss

NEW YORK — Ballet star Mikhail Baryshnikov might remain as artistic director of the American Ballet Theater past the June 16 deadline he set for resigning, his spokesman says.

MISHA

The 36-year-old Soviet emigre on Thursday offered the executive committee a new proposal indicating his willingness to stay past that date, said Edgar Vincent.

In accordance with an agreement with ballet board chairman Melville Straus, however, no details will be released until the entire committee has had a chance to study the proposal, Vincent said. The panel is scheduled to meet on the matter next week.

Vincent also declined to discuss Baryshnikov's reasons for making the new offer, adding, "I wish people would stop trying to read his mind and trying to interpret his motivations. It makes for nothing but idle gossip."

Baryshnikov offered to leave the job after the company lost money during an unusually long season — two months — at the Metropolitan Opera last year. The board refused his resignation.

Oral Roberts' funds stolen

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A postal worker was charged in federal court Thursday with stealing 121,000 pieces of donation-laden mail intended for television evangelist Oral Roberts.

Terry Lee Osborne, 37, of Tulsa was taken before U.S. Magistrate Robert Ritzley, who scheduled a preliminary hearing for March 2. Osborne was released on $5,000 bond.

He was accused of stealing the mail addressed to the Oral Roberts Evangelistic Association. The thefts are believed to have taken place between December 1981 and last Tuesday.

Before the thefts were discovered, Roberts had recently announced that donations were tapering off and that some of his massive projects in Tulsa — a university and a hospital among them — were feeling the financial pinch.

The stolen mail was found accidentally when lockers in a commercial storage warehouse were burglarized.

U.S. Attorney Ben Baker said the discovery was "a fluke". He said an employee of the storage business reported to police that locks on several of the units had been broken.

Postal inspectors estimated that at least $250,000 in cash was stolen from the mail intended for Roberts and up to $10 million in checks were diverted from the religious organization.

The news in brief

Israelis ponder strategy

TEL AVIV — Israeli officials are looking for new alliances and strategies in Lebanon now that rebels have driven the government in Beirut to the brink of collapse and forced it to renege on a 1983 pact with Israel.

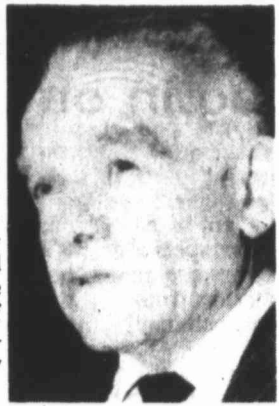

The government's coordinator in Lebanon, Uri Lubrani, said Thursday that a complete pullback from Lebanon would be a catastrophe for both countries. And he indicated Israel is seeking dialogue with the leaders of Lebanon's increasing powerful Shiite Moslems, nearly half the population.

"Whoever thinks we can pack up and go home is out of touch with reality," Lubrani warned during a seminar organized by the Jafee Center for Strategic Studies at Tel Aviv University.

Israel, which invaded Lebanon in 1982, considers a stable government in Lebanon essential to prevent Palestinian guerrilla infiltration of its northern border.

Israel Radio reported that Defense Minister Moshe Arens told Christian Lebanese villagers in Jezzine Thursday that Israel would remain in Lebanon until a government was established in Beirut which could control south Lebanon.

But the daily newspaper Haaretz reported today after interviewing Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir that the government planned to move most Israeli troops away from heavily populated areas in the western half of south Lebanon to reduce friction with local residents.

President's envoy resigns

WASHINGTON — Richard Stone, a key figure in the Reagan administration's Central American efforts, is stepping down from his job as President Reagan's special envoy to the troubled region, officials confirmed today.

Stone was said to be seeking a new job in the administration, after becoming involved in "personality differences" with at least one other key figure in the administration. His resignation was said to have involved no policy differences with Reagan.

One official, who asked to remain anonymous, said it "was no secret there was open warfare" between Stone and Langhorne Motley, the assistant secretary of state for Inter-American affairs.

This official said Stone was upset because he felt Motley kept information from him and other senior officials, and Stone decided to resign because his "temper is a lot shorter than everybody else's."

The official said Stone was particularly angry several weeks ago when Motley traveled to Nicaragua without informing Stone. Motley could not be reached for comment.

Iran launches major attack

By The Associated Press
Iran claimed its forces killed 1,100 Iraqi troops in a fierce, three-hour battle today and seized 24 square miles of territory as it continued a major new offensive.

Tehran radio said a total of 2,100 Iraqi troops have been killed in the two days of fighting, which reportedly included hand-to-hand combat this morning, and that Iran's forces were in "complete control" of the captured territory.

A senior U.S. official in Washington said as many as 500,000 troops of both sides were massing around the combat zone, a 100-mile stretch of the border between the two Persian Gulf nations.

Meanwhile, President Saddam Hussein said Iraq is ready to stop all military operations and begin peace talks with Iran, the Iraqi news agency INA reported. Hussein has said before that Iraq is ready for peace, and it was not clear if the latest call was linked to the new Iranian offensive.

INA said Hussein's offers were made in letters to Sekou Toure, president of Guinea and head of the Islamic Conference Organization, and Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India and president of the non-aligned group of nations. The news agency said Toure and Mrs. Gandhi had appealed for an end to the attacks on residential areas.

An Iraqi military communique Thursday claimed its army had "crushed" the assault with a counterattack that routed the Iranians and inflicted heavy casualties. Iraq provided little information about the fighting today, but its official news agency quoted military officials as saying an Iranian air raid killed 14 civilians and wounded 12 in a residential area of Ali al-Gharbi, which is in the combat zone.

Foreign journalists and neutral observers are not permitted near the battle zone by either side and the claims could not be independently confirmed.

Iran launched its latest offensive in the 3½-year war with Iraq about midnight Wednesday, both sides reported.

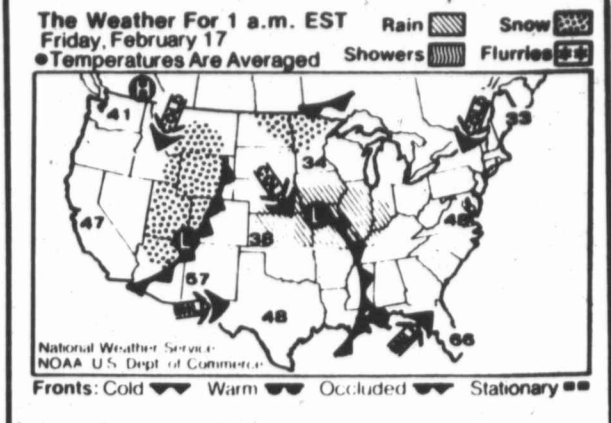

Iranian troops struck along the center of the more than 700-mile border. Iraq has extensive fortifications in the area because its capital, Baghdad, is only 100 miles to the west.

Twelve hours after the assault began, Iran claimed its troops had breached Iraqi lines.

Tehran Radio said today, "Following the operations and victories of the combatants of Islam (Iranians) last night, these forces are at present in complete control of the situation and the liberated areas."

"The heights and the predetermined objectives of the Changuleh area south of Mehran are all in the hands of the Islamic combatants, and the areas behind these heights are within the range of vision and domination of the Islamic combatants," the government radio said in a broadcast monitored in Cyprus.

Blizzard strikes Rockies

A Rocky Mountain snowstorm that could become the "worst of the winter" dropped up to a foot and a half of snow on Utah today and Coloradoans were warned to expect their third blizzard of the week.

The National Weather Service in Denver called it "a very strong and potentially dangerous" storm, far stronger than the blizzards last Saturday and Tuesday that reduced visibility to zero and stranded travelers and truckers on the eastern plains of Colorado.

The storm today spread snow from western Montana to northern New Mexico, where the weather service said winds gusting to 50 mph could produce blizzard conditions. It was expected to move into the plains tonight and Saturday, with up to a foot of blowing snow forecast for western Kansas.

The storm, which earlier left up to 2 feet of new snow in the Sierra Nevada, "could become the worst one of the winter," said the New Mexico weather service.

By mid-morning, the storm had dropped 16 inches of new snow at Utah's Alta Ski Resort, where a record of more than 40 feet has fallen this winter. A foot and a half of snow had fallen at the mountain areas of Brian Head, Brighton and Deer Valley. Bill Alder, chief of the weather service in Salt Lake City, said Alta had received 430 inches of snow by the end of January and another 60 inches so far this month. The typical snowfall during an entire winter at Alta is 480 inches.

A winter storm warning was posted for today and tonight across the northwestern third of New Mexico and western and central Colorado for today and tonight.

Winter storm watches for locally heavy snow and strong, gusty winds were issued for tonight and Saturday over southeastern Wyoming, eastern Colorado, western Nebraska, western Kansas, northwest Oklahoma, northeastern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle.

Elsewhere, winds gusting up to 40 mph Thursday in Southern California beached a 50-foot sailboat and caused power outages in Los Angeles that forced the evacuation of thousands of people from the downtown federal courthouse.

West Texas: Winter storm watch Panhandle late tonight and Saturday. Cloudy most sections through Saturday. Scattered thunderstorms late today and tonight east mountains. Rain changing to snow Panhandle late tonight and early Saturday, with accumulations of 1 to 2 inches along with blowing and drifting snow. Not so warm today turning much colder tonight through Saturday. Highs today mid 50s Panhandle to near 70 Trans Pecos region and upper 70s Big Bend. Lows tonight upper teens Panhandle to mid 20s south plains and 30s elsewhere. Highs Saturday near 40 Panhandle to mid 50s Trans Pecos and Concho valley to lower 60s Big Bend valleys.

3 trapped miners found dead today

COMMODORE, Pa. (AP) — Rescue workers found the bodies today of three miners who had been trapped by an underground coal-mine explosion, the company announced.

The announcement was made at a press conference by Barry Novotny, mine manager for administration for Greenwich Collieries No. 1. The bodies remained inside the mine at the site of the accident, he said.

'Made in U.S.' may be a rip-off

International counterfeiting of brand-name products made in the United States is costing Americans up to $8 billion a year in lost sales and at least 131,000 lost jobs. These were the findings of a recent federal study that left no doubt about the need for some swift corrective action.

The overriding need is for tougher laws against product counterfeiting and importing. Present federal statutes permit only civil penalties, typically seizure of the counterfeit goods plus imposition of a modest fine. Most states have similarly weak laws. And enforcement at both the state and federal level is woefully inadequate to deal with what American manufacturers are calling an expanding flood of foreign fakes.

Congress would brighten this bleak picture dramatically if, as expected, it passes either of the two bills it is currently considering on the subject. Rep. Peter Rodino, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, and Sen. Charles Mathias are both carrying bills making trademark counterfeiting a criminal offense. Upon conviction, violators could be sent to prison for five years and fined up to $250,000. Corporations would be subject to fines of up to $1 million.

Stiff penalties such as these could make prosecutions worthwhile and give would-be violators some genuine incentives to respect trademarks and brand names.

A proper complement to passage of the Mathias or Rodino bill would be similar action at the state level. Making it a felony and attaching appropriate penalties — jail time and hefty fines — would add a second layer of deterrent.

Finally, the Reagan administration can lend a hand by applying diplomatic or even economic pressure on those governments that wink at the growing counterfeiting industries on their territory. Granted that most of the worst offenders are America's friends and allies in Asia. But it should be possible to explain to Taiwan and South Korea, for example, that a rising tide of counterfeit products being exported to the United States can only complicate trade relations and possibly damage them in the long run.

American consumers who purchase a particular brand of designer jeans, or auto parts, or hand tools, or any of scores of other products, have a right to assume they are getting the quality they are paying for. And the manufacturers of these products are entitled to full and adequate protection of their patents, trademarks, and brand names.

Congress, the Reagan administration, and state governments need to act promptly in defense of these vital rights.

Revulsion

Let's put the disclaimer up front: The following account of a lousy evening is not by any means typical, but such things happen often enough that we can all relate to them.

... dinner Wednesday night at Furr's Cafeteria, the heart of the city. It's where Big Spring meets itself and says "Hi."

Perusing the Dallas Morning News at table over enchiladas and fried okra.

An item from Ear, the Washington gossip column carried in the News: "... that Larry Flynt has finally gone too far with the Larry McDonald pics in appalling little Hustler mag. ..."

Hmm. Larry Flynt. Isn't he the gross man who publishes that pornographic rag, Hustler? He is. The pictures aren't even pretty in Hustler.

And Larry McDonald? Remember Korean Airlines Flight 007, the one the Russians shot down? He was the congressman who went down with it, the John Birch Society president.

Oh, yeah. His pictures are in Hustler? How strange.

Back at a friend's house watching the Olympics.

Dick Button gives us the word on figure skating: "Roselyn was a little shaky on that double-loop, Peggy."

5.7; 5.8; 5.3; 5.7; 5.6; 5.7; 5.7; 5.6; 5.8.

"The Russian judge was really low on her technical ability, don't you think, Dick?"

It's too hot in this room. T-E-N-S-I-O-N.

Three aspirins and half-an-hour later: heartburn.

How do you spell relief, Roger Staubach?

What to do? Go out.

Driving to Pancho's News, the disc brakes squeak at every stop. Why? Because it's natural for disc brakes to squeak. They can't be fixed.

Oh.

Into Pancho's. Back to the dirty magazine section. There's the Hustler.

And there's the Larry McDonald photos: the late congressman in a series of compromising poses.

Revulsion. See them for yourself; I'm not going to tell you about them. Back in the car and what supreme irony! "Dirty Laundry," a song about prying journalists that give no peace to their quarry, is on the radio.

Got a bubble-headed bleach blonde

Comes on all five
She can tell 'bout the plane crash
With a gleam in her eye
It's interesting when people die
Give us dirty laundry

Turning the radio off, violently. Into 7-Eleven for the real reason for tonight's excursion: a candy bar. As if I needed it.

It tastes greasy. The brakes still squeak. The feeling of being annoyed. Back at the apartment and the room is too hot.

Life stings sometimes. It bites back.

Forget it ...

Maybe there'll be hearts and flowers tomorrow.

Checking in on El Salvador's boss

WASHINGTON -- The provisional president of El Salvador, Alvaro Magana, has control of a special bank account that dispenses millions of dollars a year without proper audit. I've seen canceled checks from the account, which sources say is used as a slush fund to reward Magana's political cronies.

There's a good possibility that the money in the secret Salvadoran treasury account comes originally from U.S. aid to El Salvador. U.S. officials have complained that the auditing system set up to keep track of aid funds ranges from negligible to poor.

The Salvadoran sources who smuggled the documents concerning the president's secret bank account to my associate Dale Van Atta risked their lives to do so. The documents included copies of actual vouchers and checks — totaling more than $1 million — paid out of the account, which is known simply as "198."

The 58-year-old Magana is an astute political operator and a respected economist educated at the University of Chicago. For 17 years before he was named president in April 1982, Magana headed Banco Hipotecario, El Salvador's largest mortgage bank.

In fact, it was his longtime practice of giving interest-free loans to Salvadoran military officers that won him the army's support for the presidency. During the heat of the debate two years ago, political enemies on the far right denounced Magana as "the biggest thief in El Salvador."

The interest-free loans to selected officers — some of whom were not expected to repay even the principal — have been defended by Salvadorans as a shrewd political move. The financial favors supposedly enabled the officers to resist bribes and payoffs that would have put them under the thumb of the Salvadoran cligarchy.

Perhaps Magana's pay-outs from the secret slush fund can be explained with the same benign justification. But attempts to reach the Salvadoran president through the embassy in Washington and a high official in San Salvador were unsuccessful.

The vouchers are irritatingly vague in their description of the purpose for the disbursement. "Una comision de orden politica, autorizada por el senor Presidente de la Republica" — that is, a commission of a political nature authorized by the president.

An embassy spokesman acknowledged that the account number on the checks Magana signed — 150-52-101-11-101-001-198 — was a Salvadoran treasury account number. He suggested that it was being used for a multi-party commission set up in August 1982. But at least $720,000 had been paid out of the account before then.

I don't have copies of all the checks drawn on the "198" account. But the first check, for roughly $240,000, was dated May 26, 1982, only a month after Magana became president. Sources say that at least one check per month in the same amount was issued throughout 1982 and 1983, which would bring the total for that one vague purpose to nearly $5 million. And these were not the only checks drawn on the mysterious account.

My sources claim Magana acknowledged to a confidant that he was part of the venerable Salvadoran tradition of pervasive corruption. He assured his friend that his own money was safely salted away in England.

Sexy language of corporate war

Ever day you read more stories about takeover battles and mergers. It's hard for people to understand what is going on.

The takeover battle of corporations such as Warner Communications and Texaco-Pennzoil are just the tip of the iceberg.

Takeovers have now become the corporate equivalent of war. The people involved even have their own sexy language.

An investment banker explained to me how the system works.

"The Bicarb Steel Co. is selling at a very low price because it isn't making any steel. Sodium Oil decides to become an unwelcome suitor and tender an offer to acquire her stock. Sodium is known as the 'Raider,' and Bicarb the 'Target.'"

"Bicarb doesn't want to marry Sodium, so she seeks out a 'White Knight' to save her. A White Knight is a company that Bicarb could go to bed with, without feeling she had been raped."

"How does Bicarb find a White Knight?"

"Hopefully through an investment banker or a hired gun. You see the Raider plots his strategy for taking Bicarb by force with his hired gun, and then we're hired to defend the Target's virtue. Both sides have unlimited numbers of lawyers."

"It sounds expensive."

"You better believe it. Now if you can't find a White Knight, you look for a 'Gray Knight.' A Gray Knight is someone the Target isn't in love with, but could sleep with if she had no other choice."

"What about the 'Black Knight'?"

"The Black Knight is a third party that comes into the bedroom uninvited at the last moment to spoil the wedding night by tendering a higher offer."

"And those are the major players in the takeover war?"

"Not necessarily. There is the 'Godfather.' The Godfather is a friend of the Target, and he might acquire just enough stock to scare off the Raider, not because he loves the victim, but because he stands to make a sizable profit on his stock which the Raider has driven up in the takeover bid. Suppose Bicarb is selling for $7 a share; Sodium has bid $10 for her body. The fact Sodium has made the offer drives the stock up $4 a share, because the market is betting the takeover battle will be bitter and Sodium will have to come in with a higher price. Besides the Godfather there is also the 'Grizzly.' He buys up just enough Bicarb stock, say 15 or 20 percent, so he can go to the Target and say 'Be nice to me, baby, and I won't hurt you.' That's known in the business as a 'Bear Hug.' The guy who gives the Bear Hug may do it either to make a lot of money, or he may secretly want the Target for himself."

"Now what the Target is always looking for in an unfriendly takeover battle is a 'Showstopper.' A Showstopper is a legal reason to stop the Raider from molesting the Target. For example, if the Justice Department or the Federal Trade Commission decides the takeover violates the antitrust laws, Bicarb can throw the Raider out of her house. But since the Reagan administration doesn't have any objections to one company raping another, it's harder and harder for lawyers to come up with a Showstopper. The most they can hope for is a 'Smoking Gun,' which is short of a Showstopper but might delay the takeover bid so long that the Target begins to look unattractive to the Raider and he starts wondering what he ever saw in her in the first place."

"I think I understand it now. But let's say for argument's sake Sodium is able to take over Bicarb. What happens to Bicarb's management?"

"This is the beauty of takeover battles and why no one gets hurt. If the Bicarb management senses they're being kicked out of bed they immediately vote themselves lucrative long-term contracts which are known as 'Golden Parachutes.' Then when the Raider carries his new bride over the threshold, the Bicarb management bails out of the 49th floor, and floats gently to the ground."

"Okay, so everyone involved in a merger from the investment bankers to the lawyers to management makes a bundle out of the takeover battle. How does that help Bicarb sell more steel?"

"Beats the hell out of me?"

HC is thanked for good time

To the editor:

Last evening (Monday), fans from Western Texas College and Howard College saw what must have been the best couple of games either group could have hoped for in a double-header, and at Howard yet!

I thought these were classic games and were wholesome activities in the healthy rivalry between the two institutions. All coaches, players, and fans can be proud of the games and the sportsmanship which prevailed.

We from WTC greatly enjoyed the homecoming activities in the beautiful Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. We also appreciated the "Welcome, Western Texas College" on the electronic signboard at the campus.

We salute the Board of Trustees and Dr. Charles Hays and his team of faculty, staff, and administration, and thank them for being good neighbors.

Finally, I have to give W.T. Abbott, a 30-year resident of Big Spring, credit for the line of the week. Observing Dr. Hays accepting Troy Brown's 37-year-old letter jacket (which will be displayed in the trophy case), Mr. Abbott quipped, "I'll bet he wouldn't have done that in December!"

Council's action deadly precedent

To the editor:

I no longer reside within Big Spring City limits, and could not vote in the April city elections. I have followed with interest the developments in legal proceedings brought by Jack Watkins, Mary Thomas and Bill Chrane through the higher state courts. It appears to me the basic rights involved in this matter are not limited to citizens of Big Spring. If allowed to stand, it could affect everyone, everywhere, in all levels of government.

The main issue, to me, is whether or not the Federal Court, by approving an agreed settlement between the City and LULAC (reached behind closed doors) can extend the present terms of office of the Mayor and 2 councilmen, without any type of city election amending the present city charter. Since it was not necessary to extend these terms to effect precinct voting, and the extensions came about at the instance of the incumbent council and not LULAC, I wonder why and for what purpose? I think people should not only ask these questions, but should insist upon answers.

The School District and Howard College reached agreements, after public hearings at which the public was invited, without extending the present terms of such Boards. Why didn't the City handle the matter in some manner acceptable to the people they represent?

The Mayor and the 2 councilmen whose terms were extended could have run for re-election, and probably been elected. Why did they opt to take an automatic extension of terms instead of giving the voters a choice at the polls?

History has proven that "one time" of anything such as this sets a dangerous precedent. Can we afford to let apathy or fear of reprisal change the whole course of the future of Big Spring and perhaps the country if allowed to continue? I think we should all take the time to understand this controversy now — not later — when our children and grandchildren are struck with the consequences.

Personal income rises in January

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans' personal income rose 1.1 percent in January, posting the best monthly increase since it climbed by the same amount last October, the government reported today.

Personal income had increased 0.8 percent in December and November as Americans' income showed sizable gains in 1983.

For all of last year, personal income rose by 6.3 percent, reflecting economic good times as the country pulled out of the recession and 4 million Americans found work.

Reagan administration officials and private economists have cautioned that the gains in personal income will not be as substantial as 1983, but the January figure showed that improvements were continuing.

Personal consumption spending, which includes essentially everything except interest payments on credit, was also up in January by 1.2 percent over the previous month.

Personal spending had increased a revised 1 percent in December and 0.6 percent in November.

Details of the income and spending report:

— Personal income rose $30.8 billion in January to an annual rate of $2.89 trillion. Disposable, or after-tax, income increased 1 percent to a rate of $2.47 trillion.

— The increase in personal consumption spending was $27.1 billion and put spending at an annual rate of $2.27 trillion.

— With spending rising faster than income last month, personal savings fell to an annual rate of $128.4 billion from $130.1 billion in December. That left the national savings rate — savings as a percent of disposable income — at 5.2 percent compared with 5.3 percent in December.

— Private wages and salaries increased $18.8 billion in January compared with an $8.4 billion increase in October.

— Government wages and salaries increased $4 billion in January compared to $1.6 billion in December. The Commerce Department said much of the January increase came from a 3.5 percent pay raise for federal employees.

— Farm income increased $5 billion in January compared with a $4 billion increase in December. The department said the large increases in recent months reflect increases in government subsidy payments to farmers under the payment-in-kind program.

Want Ads Will Get RESULTS!

Health groups criticize tobacco company's ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's three largest voluntary health groups today charged that the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.'s new campaign for an "open debate" on the hazards of smoking is an attempt to dupe the public with false advertising.

The American Cancer Society, the American Heart Association and the American Lung Association joined to counterattack the tobacco company's planned new series of advertisements concerning smoking and health.

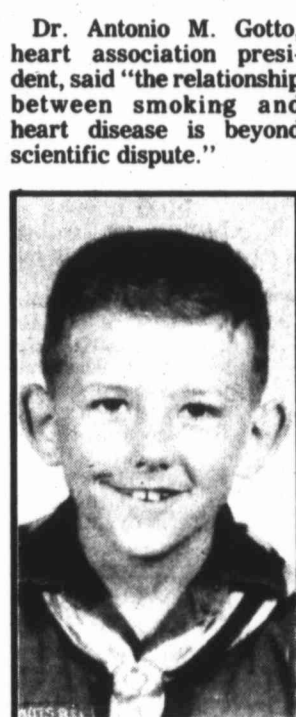

The company announced last month that it would place ads in national newspapers and magazines which, among other issues, question the causal link between smoking and diseases.

"We want to try and substitute rational discussion for the emotionalism currently surrounding smoking," said Reynolds' Board Chairman Edward A. Horrigan.

However, Dr. Gerald P. Murphy, president of the cancer society, told a news conference the campaign is an "elaborate and subtle attempt of the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company to make something that is not reasonable seem as if it were."

The health groups charged that the campaign is designed to raise doubts among consumers about the relationship between smoking and such conditions as cancer and heart and lung diseases.

Dr. Antonio M. Gotto, heart association president, said "the relationship between smoking and heart disease is beyond scientific dispute."

Jerry Lee surrenders on tax charge

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Rock 'n' roll singer Jerry Lee Lewis surrendered today to federal authorities who sought him on charges of trying to avoid paying almost $1 million in income taxes.

Wearing a dark suit and tie and dark glasses, Lewis was accompanied by his attorney, Irvin Salky, and U.S. Marshal John Callary.

He was fingerprinted and photographed, while John Massa, a bondsman, waited at the federal building to post his $100,000 bond.

Lewis, best known for his hits "Whole Lotta Shakin' Goin' On" and "Great Balls of Fire," was indicted Tuesday by a federal grand jury in Memphis for trying to evade the payment of up to $994,000 of income tax for 1975 through 1980.

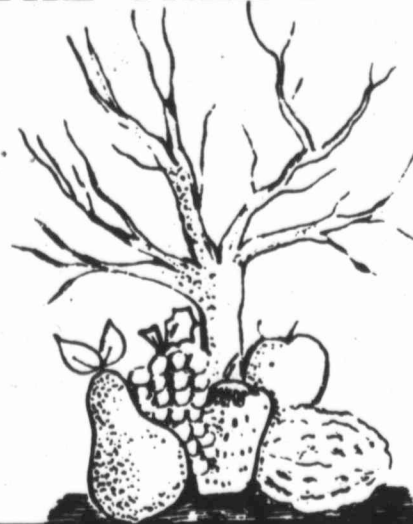

Lewis makes his home in Desoto County, Miss., about 25 miles from Memphis.

He is charged with putting money and property in the names of other people to keep tax collectors from getting it, the indictment said.

Dr. Donohue

Hysterical nose

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a male who enjoys very good health. I still play handball at 70. My problem is that when cold weather sets in my nose runs profusely, and I have sneezing. The discharge from my nose is like water and continues for hours at a time. Do you have any explanation, any suggestions? — E.M.

You have to be in great shape to play handball. So what about your nose? It seems that it is overreacting to a stimulus, in this case coldness. Ordinarily coldness causes some degree of that in us all. But when the nasal mucus production is as great as yours, it is called vasomotor rhinitis. Sometimes the intense production of secretions is accompanied by sneezing. That can be due to a number of other stimuli — bright light, fumes, strong aromas, as well as to coldness. I suppose you could call it an hysterical nose.

If you can't find ways to minimize exposure to the cause of your vasomotor rhinitis, you can help by taking matters into your own hands, modifying your immediate environment. I am thinking of things like ski masks, etc. and keeping your home warm.

You should confirm your symptoms (and my long-range diagnosis) with your doctor. He may agree and want to prescribe a nose spray to help dry the secretions. But I know he will want you to use that spray very sparingly, saving it only for the worst of times — when your nose is most hysterical. Sprays can work to your detriment and make conditions worse for you if overused. You can end up with a nose that drips all the time instead of just once in a while.

Dear Dr. Donohue: How good is the injection treatment for a herniated spine disc? — Mrs. O.I.

You refer to the injection of chymopapain (derivative of the papaya tree). This enzyme material is injected directly into the disc to dissolve it. A recent study showed the procedure highly effective and safe.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Donohue's booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

A million thanks may be too many

DEAR ABBY: I usually agree with you. However, I did a double take when I read the following item:

"Dear Abby: I recently celebrated an 'important' birthday and received many lovely cards.

"A friend casually mentioned (on seeing the stack of cards) that I would be very tired by the time I had written thank-you notes for all those cards.

"Abby, does a person have to write thank-you notes for cards? — WRITER'S CRAMP

"DEAR CRAMP: No one 'has to' acknowledge anything. But those with the best manners acknowledge everything — cards included."

Come on, Abby, you must be kidding. I hope you are snowed with letters from readers protesting your answer. I can see it now. "Thank you for the birthday card." Then the recipient sends a card saying, "Thank you for your card thanking me for my thank-you card." Then a card in return, "Thank you for the thank-you card thanking me for my thank-you..."

I think I will go out and buy some stock in Hallmark Cards.

V.T. MOON, DUARTE, CALIF.

DEAR MR. MOON: You are right, of course, but I can't say I wasn't warned. My editor suggested that I rethink my stance, but I held firm in the belief that those who remembered an "important" birthday with a card should be thanked along with those who had sent a costly gift. ("It's the thought," I thought, "that counted.")

Bear in mind, I was alluding only to "important" birthdays — not to ordinary birthdays, Christmases, anniversaries, get-well cards, etc. But had I thought it through (which I did not), even acknowledging cards for "important" birthdays needs some qualification.

For example, Cary Grant, that magnificent living legend who recently celebrated a well-publicized "important" birthday, must have received 50,000 cards from well-wishers around the world. Obviously, Cary Grant cannot thank everyone who sent him a card — so there goes my logic.

Let's just say that I was wrong. So if anyone out there sends me a "condolence" card for this colossal gaffe, don't expect a thank-you card from me.

Awards given at Girl Scout meeting

The annual business meeting for the West Texas Girl Scout Council was held at Briarstone Manor in Abilene, Feb. 4.

Members elected to the nominating committee were Marguerite Blocker of Roscoe; Mrs. Carl Voss Jr. of Snyder, and Stanley Morris of Sweetwater. Members elected as National Council Delegates were Jack Holden and Newt Newberry, both of Abilene. Alternate delegates included Mrs. J.B. Cooper Jr. of Roscoe and Ray Alexander of Big Spring.

Doyle Edmiston of Roscoe was elected secretary to the board of directors. New members elected to serve in member-at-large positions were Guy Burrow and Tom Ivey of Big Spring, Donna Kainer of Abilene, and Alvin Wimmer of Snyder.

Tenure pins and certificates, awards and recognitions were also presented during the luncheon. Awards for local members of Area IV are as follows: Virginia Oliver, Day Camp director; Brownie Roberts of Lamesa, Day Camp director; Dr. J.R. Fish, retiring board member; and Mrs. S.L. Morris of Colorado City, retiring board member.

Five year pins and certificates went to: Becky Grantham, Cassy Wilkerson, Vickie Wilkerson, Mary carpenter, Traci Carpenter, Alexander, Anissa Kirkland, Corina Valerio, Jonel Smallwood, Brenda Brown, Tonya Rock, Bob Oliver, Kasey Kelly, Suzanne Smithnick, Colette White, Michelle Rios, Michelle Hardin, LaTisha Thomas and Burrow.

A 10 year pin and certificate went to Dolly Melendez and Bill Bradford. The Daisy Award honoring an outstanding adult volunteer at the troop level was presented to Cheryl Winkles and Sherry Wood, both of Snyder. Both have served Girl Scouts in many capacities.

The Thanks Badge went this year to Charles Spicer for his years of activity and service with the Council. Spicer has been finance committee chairman and on the board of directors for 10 years. He serves on the West Texas Girl Scout Council Executive Committee and has been the board's representative to the local United Way for six years.

A final award was presented to Lisa Brunner of Abilene Troop No. 22. Miss Brunner was the winner of the Blue Ribbon Troop Patch Design Contest sponsored by the Council.

Preacher, wife work together in the ministry

By RHONDA WITT
Church Editor

"During my teen years I got away from the Lord," said Randy Hatley, pastor of Bethel Assembly of God in Ackerly. "It seemed like stormy years. I was involved in drugs and alcohol. I was really headed downhill.

"When I would come in late at night, I could hear my mother praying for me. It always made me feel bad at that time, because I didn't feel comfortable with my sin. I had tugging at my heart. I feel like it was through my mother's prayers that the Lord brought me back to him.

"I was saved when I was 18 years old," Hatley said. "As soon as I was saved, I felt the call to preaching and the full-time ministry."

He studied through the Beran School of the Bible through the Assembly of God, and did his apprenticeship as associate pastor for five years in Seminole. Prior to that he was an evangelist.

Hatley's are active churchgoers. His parents been supportive of his ministry and church. Hatley shares his ministry with his wife, Linda. "She's been a very strong part of my ministry.

She knew I was an evangelist when we met. Before we were ever married we knew what we wanted to do.

"Linda comes from a family of ministers," Hatley said. Two of her brothers are ministers, and her father is a retired minister.

"I met her while I was preaching a revival in her church (in San Antonio)," he said. Later, in August of 1980, they began dating when Hatley went back to the church to do another revival.

"She has a lot of exposure to the youth ministry and that is probably an area she'll be going into. Mrs. Hatley plays the piano, substitute teaches for the adult Sunday-School class, and works with Hatley in visitations.

"I feel like our ministry is to the whole church. Each area deserves attention," Hatley said. "We are trying to minister openly to all groups. When a ministry gives more attention to one group, they are limiting themselves. We are looking to develop in the ministry and looking for new opportunities to use in the ministry."

The Hatleys enjoy Bethel Assembly of God Church. "It's a good church with a good history and good people. The people here are great," Hatley said. "The church is pentacostal and has been in this community for decades and decades. It's a very spiritual church.

"This is a West Texas church. I fit in with the people because that is where my experience is. I'm a native of this part of the country."

The church has about 35 members. It use to be in the Brown Community then moved six miles west of Ackerly in the middle 60's.

Hatley enjoys reading, studying and golf. The Hatleys have a daughter, Ashley Rose, 2 weeks old.

WHEN ARE WE GOING TO ACT OUR AGE!

From Adam to the atom
It has been a long process. But progress does not necessarily mean progress. Only when we recognize our need for God will we begin to come of age. Then, and only then, will process mushroom into progress.

In a Dennis the Menace cartoon, Dennis holds a handful of flowers up to Mr. Wilson and asks, "How can anything so pretty and clean come out of dirt?"

We ask the same question about God's children. In Galatians, chapter 5, the apostle Paul outlines all the ugliness of the flesh. He then overwhelms his readers with the Holy Spirit's bouquet of graces.

Faithfulness, the seventh spiritual fruit listed, implies dependability, loyalty, reliability, and fidelity. The Greek word pistos, often translated "faithful," describes the trustworthiness of God. He remains available, accessible, and always dependable. He's never too busy, distracted, or tired.

Our present and future life depends on the reliability of God to honor His covenants (1 Thess. 5:24).

Hillcrest Christian School has recently expanded its educational classes. The school now offers courses from kindergarten through the twelfth grade. Presently kindergarten through fourth grade uses the A Beka Book curriculum. This curriculum was established in 1954, and has been updated and improved over the past thirty years.

The A Beka Book curriculum emphasizes phonics, grammar, penmanship and basic skills in arithmetic. Through phonics, kindergarten students learn to read by the second semester.

The school's intent is to increase the A Beka program one grade per year. The school will continue to use Accelerated Christian Education curriculum in the upper grades. The ACE curriculum provides a complete text and resource activities covering the basic academic skill and information subjects as recognized by contemporary American education.

The recently formed Parent Teacher Fellowship (PTF) is involved in purchasing athletic equipment to aid in the physical fitness program. PTF officers are Sheree Moates, president; Juanita Shaeffer, vice president; Barbara King, secretary; and Bob McCormick, treasurer.

The school is a private non-profit Christian School that offers high academic and spiritual standards to families in the Big Spring area.

Enrollment for the 1984-85 school year will begin in April. For more information, call 7-1639 or come by the school located at 2000 West FM 700.

Salvation Army report given

Carroll Braun reported on the Salvation Army at a meeting of the Howard County Ministerial Fellowship at the Spanish Inn, Jan. 16.

The Salvation Army distributed 325 Christmas food baskets, gave toys to more than 900 children, and made 456 individual visits in Big Spring State Hospital, Mt. View Lodge and United Health Care. Christmas dinner was served at the City Jail and the Citadel. A funding cut of $800 per month is pending due to the failure of the United Fund's goal being met. A mail campaign has been launched to raise $25,000 for the Salvation Army. The Army is also helping the Post Office Department to set up a "Carrier Alert" program to assist with locating elderly or ill persons who have a problem.

Reports were given on the Haitian project and the Rainbow Project. Women's clothing, sizes 42-44, are needed due to fire at United Health Care.

The next meeting will be at noon, Feb. 20 at the Spanish Inn.

"THOSE CRAZY EPISCOPALIANS"

did they swap the bible for a prayer book?

Indeed not! From beginning to end, the Episcopal Prayer Book IS the Bible in some form or another. It's possibly the finest key available to understanding the Bible. The person who follows this book faithfully finds himself reading the New Testament twice and the Old Testament once in a year's time.

The Prayer Book is so arranged that the minister cannot depart from the Bible. He is discouraged from dealing in ideas that have no Biblical foundation... or from belaboring his congregation, over and over, with his own favorite passages.

Episcopalians are never required to accept any belief that cannot be proved from, or is not agreeable to, the teachings of Holy Scripture.

Your nearest Episcopal minister would be happy to explain why, for him and his congregation, the Bible will never be obsolete. It's all a matter of viewpoint... and there's no obligation on your part if you'd like to understand the Episcopal viewpoint.

Seminar held in Lubbock

A Divorce Recovery Help seminar, "Starting Over," will be held at Broadway Education Center in Lubbock, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., Saturday.

Topics to be discussed at the seminar include "Transitional and Reestablishment Stages in Divorce Adjustment," "Letting Go of the Old Relationship," and "Dealing With My Sexuality." The seminar has been designed to meet the needs of divorced people of all ages. A $5 registration fee will be charged. Nursery and babysitting facilities are available for children up to age 11.

The seminar is being sponsored by the Singles Ministry and the Family Care Ministry of the Broadway Church of Christ. For more information or to register for the seminar, call Tim Talley at (806)763-0464.

Founders' Day celebrated

Men are biggest box office stars

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Have female stars lost their pull at the nation's movie box offices?

The evidence is forthcoming in the recent poll of theater owners by Quigley Publications, the trade-paper firm that has been reporting the top moneymaking stars since 1932.

The winners for 1983 are: 1. Clint Eastwood; 2. Eddie Murphy; 3. Sylvester Stallone; 4. Burt Reynolds; 5. John Travolta; 6. Dustin Hoffman; 7. Harrison Ford; 8. Richard Gere; 9. Chevy Chase; and 10. Tom Cruise.

Notice what's missing? Women. "Maybe it's because actresses aren't as consistent in making films," suggests Bo Derek. "I've been gone for three years; 'Tarzan' was my last picture. Brooke Shields didn't have a picture last year. A lot of us have been staying away."

Mike Medavoy, a production chief of Orion Pictures, agrees.

"Many of the top female stars have been doing their own thing," he said. "Meryl Streep had a baby. Barbra Streisand has been tied up for years with 'Yentl.' Goldie Hawn is another who spends a lot of time working up her own projects."

Producer Richard Zanuck, who did "The Sting" and "Jaws," said the type of films now being made is in part responsible for men being the big moneymakers. "Most of the big pictures are adventures or comedies that are patterned for male stars," he said.

"If Jane Fonda had been out in a picture last year, she could have made the list. Because of 'Yentl,' Streisand could make it in 1984. The same for Shirley MacLaine and Debra Winger because of 'Terms of Endearment.'"

Miss Derek, who produced as well as starred in "Tarzan" and the as-yet-to-be-released "Bo-lero," agrees with Zanuck. "It takes something big to get people out of their homes and into the theaters," she said. "That means big themes, and often women don't figure importantly in such films."

Male dominance of the Top 10 moneymakers' list has been an increasing trend. In recent years, only a few actresses have been able to score among the winners: Miss Streisand, Sally Field, Miss Hawn, Miss Fonda, Dolly Parton, Sissy Spacek, Tatum O'Neal and Jill Clayburgh. Nearly all were missing from movie houses in 1983.

It was a different story in earlier years of the poll. Marie Dressler was No. 1 in the first two years, 1932-33. Others who topped the list were Shirley Temple (1935-38), Betty Grable (1943), Doris Day (1960, 1962-64), Elizabeth Taylor (1961) and Julie Andrews (1965-66).

The male domination of the 1983 poll seems curious in light of the large number of impressive female performances during the year.

Ku Klux Klan leader vows school patrols

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A Ku Klux Klan leader said Thursday that 1,000 members of his white supremacist group will patrol North Carolina high schools on March 5 if the attorney general's office doesn't act to reduce crimes against students.

Glenn Miller, leader of the Carolina Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and a Democratic candidate for governor, said he told Deputy Attorney General David Crump last month "that if he didn't do anything, we would."

"We gave him a letter of suggestions for things he could do to alleviate the problem," Miller said, adding that President Reagan had recently said there were 3 million crimes against high school students every month.

Attorney General Rufus Edmisten said that Miller's suggestions that schools face increasing racial violence "are ridiculous and foolish."

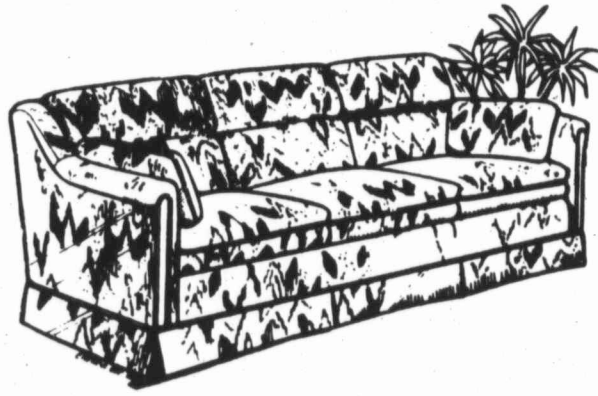

"He has no proof of racial violence and intimidation," said Edmisten, also a Democratic candidate for governor. "His position is from a total racist point of view and I have dismissed his complaints entirely. This is just a ploy on his part to stir up racial feelings which have no place in North Carolina."

"Mr. Miller has no authority whatsoever to be doing anything involving discipline in the schools," he added. "We are fully capable in this state to handle any kind of disturbance that occurs."

Edmisten said Miller and other Klansmen might be evicted if they try to patrol schools.

Queens streak past SP in conference matchup

Freshmen forwards Debbie Hall and Alex Provencio broke out of a several game slump and the Howard Hawk Queens overcame a lethargic first 15 minutes in the second half to coast down the stretch in an 86-67 win over the South Plains Texans Thursday night at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The win, Howard's sixth straight, put the Queens at the 20 win mark for the season (20-8) and 7-4 in Western Junior Conference Athletic Conference women's action. Amarillo beat New Mexico Junior College, 80-68 to remain in a third place tie with the Queens, but both gained ground on second place Western Texas which lost its second straight to stand at 8-3. Front running Odessa beat WTC, 71-69.

Howard never trailed in the game which allowed the Queens to even things with the Texans. South Plains handed Howard a 61-60 overtime loss when the two met earlier. The game was tied only once at 2-2. Otherwise the Queens were in control even when they went through a lackluster second half when South Plains managed to get within 15. Howard built a 44-21 halftime lead behind a pretty consistent, organized offensive and defensive effort. In the second half though the Queens seemed a little complacent and confused at times although they still hit the boards with relative success. Terri Moore led the team with 13 rebounds.

Coach Don Stevens admitted the performance by his team was not a sparkling one, but, "is a win." He added, "We have been playing under some pressure and winning six ball games in a row is great. We had a long way to come to where we're at now (Howard was 1-4 at one point in conference). We have been pretty intense for most of our games, but there are times when you lack some (intensity). It's had to stay pumped up for every game through a long season, but we managed to still get things done."

Moore, as she's done often since becoming eligible after the holidays, led the Queens in scoring with 22 points. Molly Early and Janene Berry, two other starters, scored 16 and 13 respectively and Berry was in on six assists. Kari Robinson chipped in five, but it was the play of Hall and Provencio that got Stevens excited.

Queens (86) — Alex Provencio 42 10; Carter 14 6; Delfrey 11 3; Young 0 1 1; Molly Early 7 2 16; Janene Berry 4 5 13; Debbie Hall 6 3 15; Terry Moore 8 6 22; Totals 31 24 86.

Howard Hawks trip up Texans

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

It wasn't pretty and it was by no means their best win of the year, but it was a win that helped the Howard College Hawks maintain their men's Western Junior College Athletic Conference first place hold as South Plains went down to defeat at the hands of the Hawks, 75-54 Thursday night at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

South Plains came in tied with Odessa for second place, but is 9-5 after the loss while Howard is still two games ahead of Odessa, 10-4 after the Wranglers roped Western Texas, 68-55. Odessa and WTC are the only teams that have beaten the Hawks, 12-2 in conference. Overall Howard is 22-3 and will host Odessa in a game Feb. 27.

Howard jumped in front comfortably, 12-2 in the first four minutes of the game, but South Plains came back, courtesy several Hawk turnovers, to tie things at 16-16, 18-18 and 20-20 to make things interesting. "We made some stupid turnovers," said Howard coach Mike Mitchell. "The main thing is that we still overcame a bad game to win, but we really played better Monday (a last second loss to WTC)," he added.

After the final tie the Hawks took control once again for the final 4:12 of the first half. Jerry Stroman, high point with 24, and Al Holland got all of Howard's points in that time as the Hawks went up, 38-26 at halftime.

South Plains got to within eight, 38-30 to start the second half and while the Texans couldn't get any closer, the Hawks never really dominated — rather streaking at times before slacking off.

Baskets by Holland, Mo Hoskin, Stroman, Michael Porter and a technical foul freebie slapped against South Plains' coach, boosted Howard back up by 12, 48-36 with 14:24 to play in the game.

Mitchell remarked that while the Hawks did commit an unusually high rate of turnovers and did not shoot well at the line (13 of 27) that it was not really because of what South Plains did.

"Most of the mistakes we made were of our own doing. What kept us out of big trouble though was the way we rebounded. I think if we did one thing well that rebounding was it," he said.

Anotny Snooks, Stroman, James Johnson and Holland were particularly strong on the boards against the Texans.

Coahoma girls grab bi-district win

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

CRANE — The Coahoma Bulldogettes used some hot shooting from their guards and tight man-to-man defense in their 60-43 Class AAA girl's bi-district win over Alpine here Thursday night.

Coahoma guards Melissa Paige, Janna Griffin and Tobie Henry, along with scoring help from sophomore post player Leslie Kirkpatrick keyed the win.

Paige, Griffin and Henry connected on 16 of 34 shots, mostly from the outside, as the trio picked apart the Alpine zone. Kirkpatrick was the "force underneath" by grabbing 12 rebounds, blocking three shots to go along with her nine points.

Henry, a 5-5 senior was the heart of the sticky Coahoma defense with her tight coverage of Alpine guard Dana Souter, who incidentally started as point guard for Coahoma last year, before moving to Alpine.

Souter scored 19 points, one below her season-average, but she had to work for every score. With Henry following her every move, Souter connected on only eight of 24 shots from the floor.

The Coahoma guards got their team moving in the first quarter scoring 14 of the 18 points as Coahoma jumped out to a 18-10 lead. Paige hit four long bombs and Henry and Griffin hit two shots each. The Bulldogettes hit a scorching eight of 11 shots in the period.

Coahoma stretched its lead to 31-16 late in the second quarter when Ronda Fowler fed sister Shanna underneath for two, and Mila Gellido scored on two offensive rebounds.

The half ended with Coahoma holding a 31-18 lead. With 5:27 remaining in the third quarter, Coahoma jumped out to a 37-22 lead thanks to two baskets by Griffin. The lead was 46-31 going into the final quarter as Kirkpatrick and Shanna Fowler, who had seven rebounds, started to control both ends of the boards.

Alpine made a slight comeback in the fourth quarter outscoring Coahoma 9-4 in the first three minutes of the period. Baskets by Selena Moreno and Shannon Burnett cut the Coahoma lead to 50-40. The comeback ended with Coahoma baskets by Kirkpatrick and Paige.

Paige led all scorers with 22 points, connecting on eight of 16 shots from the floor. Griffin, connected on five of 10 field goals for 11 points. Alpine's Pricilla Aguliar worked hard on the boards pulling down 12 rebounds.

The win ups Coahoma's record to 18-11. Alpine, winner of District 5-3A ends the season at 18-8. Coahoma's next opponent will be in area play against the winner of the Coleman-Breckenridge tilt tonight.

Coahoma 60 — Janna Griffin 5 11; Tobie Henry 3 0 6; Leslie Kirkpatrick 3 3 9; Melissa Paige 8 6 22; Denise Greenfield 0 6 6; Mila Gellido 2 0 4; Shanna Fowler 1 0 2; Totals 22 16 60.

Alpine (43) — Dana Souter 18 9 25; Tammy Gonzales 1 2 4; Shannon Burnett 3 3 9; Selena Moreno 3 0 6; 1 0 2; Lisa Cantu 0 1 1; Selena Moreno 3 0 6; Totals 16 11 43.
Halftime — Coahoma 31, Alpine 18.

Hawks (75) — Jerry Stroman 10 4 24; Hoskin 2 3 7; Michael Porter 4 3 11; Harris 2 0 4; James Johnson 2 2 6; Snooks 3 1 7; Al Holland 8 0 16; Totals 31 13 75.
South Plains (54) — George Koffelm 9 0 18; Hawkins 1 0 2; Janson 1 2 4; Harris 1 0 2; Chris Cooper 5 2 12; Red 0 2 2; Luedke 3 0 6; McNair 2 0 4; Unthank 2 0 4; Totals 24 6 54.
Halftime: Hawks 38, South Plains 26.
Records: Hawks (22-3, 12-2); South Plains (20-7, 9-5).

BSHS diamond crew fares well

The Big Spring Steers showed, "a lot of hustle and teamwork," in their baseball scrimmage against Lamesa at Steer Park Thursday.

That was the statement made by head coach Roland Atkins after his crew outscored the Golden Tornadoes, 7-3 behind the two hit performance of Jerry Anderson and a two run homerun by Danny Arista.

"We have some players and can play. I'm pleased to be working with these youngsters," said Atkins. "I love their attitude," he added.

Tommy Gartman and David Renteria pitched for the Steers while catcher Robert Porras displayed some leadership behind the plate. "Robert can be a good leader for us," said Atkins.

But despite the accolades, Atkins emphasized, "Every phase of our game can still be worked on. We have a long way to go, but we can play."

The Steers are in Monahans for another scrimmage today and will hold their final scrimmage Tuesday, Feb. 21 when they travel to Lamesa for another outing with the Tors.

THREE OFF THE LEAD—Jack Nicklaus watches his chip shot to the green on the second hole in the opening round of the Los Angeles Open. Nicklaus bogeyed the hole and ended the round with a two-over-par 73, three shots off the lead.

McEnroe claims Australian win

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—John McEnroe confirmed his undisputed right to the world's No. 1 position with a straight-set drubbing of arch-rival Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia Friday night to move into the final of the Akai Gold Tennis Challenge at the Entertainment Centre.

McEnroe, ranked No. 2 behind Lendl in the latest Atari-ATP computer rankings, easily won 7-5, 6-2, 6-1 in a match of contrasts.

After the victory, a confident McEnroe claimed as his right the top of the ladder position.

"On the computer, Ivan is No. 1, but that's the only place. Everyone else knows who's really No. 1 at the moment," said the left-hander from New York.

The American's performances here came after a string of recent victories, including the Volvo Masters in New York.

"The key now is just to keep rolling. The last couple of years I've been injured early and that's slowed me down. All I need to do is stay healthy," McEnroe said.

McEnroe finished 1983 as the world's undisputed No. 1 player, but with the vagaries of a new ATP computer ranking system, Lendl moved in front at the beginning of the 1984.

But on the Plexi-pave court Friday night, it was McEnroe at his supreme best.

After a tense first set, the longest of the tournament so far, McEnroe managed to break his opponent in the 12th and final game to take it in 44 minutes.

From there, it was downhill for Lendl.

Plagued by an injury to his left knee, the result of a racket mishap against Argentina's Guillermo Vilas Thursday night, Lendl was not at his peak.

"I was a step to a step and a half below by best, and that made the difference," Lendl said.

Lendl was hampered by the injury and this was most evident in the final set.

It took McEnroe exactly half the length of the first set to wipe the tired, struggling Lendl off the court 6-1.

It now seems certain, following Lendl's loss, that Vilas will meet McEnroe in Saturday's final, which carries a purse of $175,000 plus a $35,000 gold rack for the winner.

Razorbacks favored in SWC indoor meet

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Breakup the Arkansas Razorbacks.

That's what the 'other Southwest Conference schools are trying to do today in the 11th annual Southwest Conference Indoor Track and Field Meet at Tarrant County Convention Center.

The Razorbacks have won three consecutive indoor titles and are heavily favored again to steamroller their opponents with a depth-laden team.

Arkansas is good in the distance events and particularly strong in the field events. NCAA indoor triple jump champion Mike Conley, who is also favored in the long jump, pole vaulter Mark Klee and shot putter Marty Kobza are counted on to pile up the points.

Arkansas lapped the field last year.

The Razorbacks compiled 147 points while second place Houston could muster only 63 points. Texas A&M was third with 61.

The Razorbacks could be weakened by a bout of flu.

UP FOR GRABS — The rebound under the Texas Tech basket is up for grabs as University of Houston's Renaldo Thomas (12), Akeem Olajuwon (34) and Ricky

Winslow (40) battle Texas Tech's Tony Benford (34) and Dwight Phillips (32) for the loose ball. Houston won the SWC contest 78-53.

Hot Springs Handicap set

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The inner of three handicaps at Oaklawn Park last year, Rackensack is to make his debut Saturday in the $50,000 Hot Springs Handicap.

Rackensack and Monetary Gift, fresh from a victory in New Orleans, head a field of nine older sprinters. Rackensack won the King Cotton, the Arkansas Traveler and the Carousel handicaps at Oaklawn in 1983, and was the first thoroughbred in the history of the track to win the three handicaps in one year.

In Thursday's feature race, Helen Alexander's Here And Gone took the lead at the top of the stretch and held off a late rally by Frosty Tail in the final few strides to win a three-length victory in the $17,500 feature race. Kahala Bay was third.

As the favorite in the field of 10 older fillies and mares and ridden by Rick Evans, the winner returned $7.20, $3.40 and $2.60. Frosty Tail, ridden by Larry Snyder, paid $3.40 and $3.00 and Kahala Bay, under Pat Day, returned $3.20 for the show. The winning time for the fast-rated 5 1/2 furlongs was 1:04 flat.

Rackensack, trained by C.R. McGaughey, has been assigned 117 pounds for the six-furlong event. Leading jockey Pat Day is to ride. Rackensack has won 12 of 41 career starts and earned $199,915.

Assigned top weight of 121 pounds including jockey John Lively, Monetary Gift won the Pelleteri Handicap by a nose Feb. 11 in New Orleans. The 6-year-old has won 13 races during his career and earned $237,151. Monetary Gift is owned by R.M. Miller.

Rapid Grey is missing from the field, but is to return to the track March 3 for the Arkansas Traveler Handicap. Rapid Gray led every step of the way while scoring by four lengths in the $50,000 King Cotton Handicap last Saturday. Rapid Gray covered six furlongs in 1:08.

UIL committee recommends that athletes spend more time in class

AUSTIN (AP) — A committee of school administrators has recommended that spring sport athletes spend more time at their desks and less on the playing field. The University Interscholastic League Loss of School Time Committee also stated Thursday that it would be "unethical" for a coach to force a student to specialize in one sport.

The committee recommended that spring sport athletes should not miss more than five days of school to play a single sport, such as baseball, prior to district championship competition.

"We're playing too dang much baseball when we ought to be in school," said John Townley, superintendent at Irving.

In addition to baseball, the proposal would apply to track, tennis, swimming and golf, but an athlete doubling up in sports could miss five days for each. The five-day limitation also would cover speech, journalism, drama and academic events.

Varsity football teams, just as they do now, would play one game a week, and there could be no more than two varsity basketball or volleyball games a week, except for tournaments, which is the current practice.

J.C. McClesky, chairman of the UIL committee, said the proposals would be subject to approval by the athletic committee, which meets May 30, and the UIL Legislative Council, which meets in October. Some also might require a statewide vote by school administrators. "If your ideas don't come through (here), it's not a lost cause," McClesky told spectators.

On the proposed provision to make it unethical for coaches to force an athlete to concentrate on one sport, Townley said, "I, for one, would like the boy to make his own decision. I don't think we will stop all the abuses, but it might have some deterrent on coaches who say, 'Mine is the only sport in this school.'"

It also would be a violation for coaches to "force students to enroll in athletic classes or conditioning programs during the off-season and summer months."

McClesky said violations by coaches could lead to probation or suspension for the school.

The committee recommended starting baseball season a week later in March and extending it two weeks later into June to avoid having playoff games during spring final exams. To make up time, baseball playoffs would be single games rather than a best two out-of-three series.

Individual and team tennis would be held at the same time, and in another proposed change, district champions in golf would be decided later, at the same time as baseball.

The committee recommended that no UIL events should be held on nights before final exams.

The committee rejected Sunday competition, even in the playoffs when a contest has been postponed by bad weather.

Another proposal would prohibit students from missing class for any scrimmage.

Ferrier class in Texas draws world's horsemen

By PHILIP BRASHER
Associated Press Writer
MINERAL WELLS — The two, lanky farm boys strain to see what Elmer Seybold's well-trained eye spots immediately.

"It's a little high on that side," Seybold points out, gesturing at a quarterhorse's hoof that needs some corrective shoeing.

The youths strain some more. But still they still can't see what Seybold does.

No matter, with a few more days of instruction from the old master and a little seasoning, they shouldn't have any trouble.

Johnny Schwartz, an Amish 16-year-old from Kalona, Iowa, and Kirk Mader of Echo, Ore., have the right stuff to make a good ferrier, Seybold says.

"It takes," says Seybold, "a pretty smart boy." Or girl.

Both men and women — from veterinary students to bankers, unemployed factory workers, truck drivers, ranchers and farm boys like Schwartz and Mader — have come from all over the world to learn the ancient trade from Seybold.

Some "are just looking for a job that they won't get laid off of," says Seybold. "A lot of them are horsemen."

Seybold's is the only ferrier school in Texas, which has one of the largest horse populations in the world.

"This guy is fairly well known even throughout Australia," said Richard Tucker, a 33-year-old Australian rancher, who flew to Texas in January for Seybold's two-week school. "If you're going to learn something, you might as well do it well."

Seybold's students pay $600 for the course and work seven days a week, as much as 18 hours a day, learning the intricacies of horse anatomy and studying the dozens of types of shoes.

Graduates can easily earn $40,000 and some, good enough to work with race horses, stand to make much more, up to $100,000, Seybold says. Former students have worked at some of the nation's best-known racetracks: Belmont, Roosevelt, Evangeline and Churchill Downs.

The course is rigorous. It's "a little like the Army and basic training — bang, bang, bang, bang and that's it," said Tucker.

Mornings are spent in a small classroom. Afternoons and nights are spent in the barn where the students practice on some of Seybold's some 150 horses, often working past midnight.

They know Seybold won't be satisfied until the shoes just right.

"A good ferrier can make a horse take a shorter stride or long stride. He can really screw the horse up if he wants to. He can make him bang his knees if he wants to,"

says Seybold, launching into an explanation of a trade he says has changed little in 2,000 years. "Most horse trainers and horse owners are pretty ignorant when it comes to horseshoeing."

Seybold, 69, learned the trade while working with the mules that pulled derricks and pumping equipment for his father's West Texas oilfield business. He began teaching 35 years ago and later was asked to teach the trade to Texas A&M University's veterinary students. He still does.

Some Seybold students learn the trade for a hobby. Some, like Tucker, the Australian rancher, take it because they have to shoe their own horses. Still others, like Schwartz, the Amish farm boy, want to make a living as ferriers.

Schwartz, who didn't attend high school, plans to return to Kalona eventually to set his business where most of the horses are buggy horses.

The two are has a couple of ferriers, "but they don't know anything about the inside of the horse and how functions," he says.

Schwartz figures he can make $100 a day shoeing about six horses.

"It was what I've wanted to do all my life. (didn't go to high school). This is part of my education. I decided this was what I wanted to do so I'm doing it."

Pancho Villa's death mask returned

EL PASO (AP) — The death mask of Pancho Villa, displayed for years at a private school in this West Texas city, will be given a final resting place later this month in Mexico among other historic relics of the Mexican Revolution, officials say.

The mask, a clay likeness of the northern Mexico revolutionary general, was made soon after Villa was assassinated in Parral, Chihuahua, Mexico, in 1923.

It later inherited special historical significance because grave robbers dug up Villa's grave and removed his head.

For half a century, the mask has been displayed and closely guarded at the private Radford School in El Paso.

On Feb. 26, however, it will be turned over to Mexican officials, who will house it at a Chihuahua City museum that contains Villa and other revolution memorabilia, said Josefina Salas-Parra, Radford School director.

The death mask has been embroiled in controversy throughout the years over whether Otto Nordwald loaned it or donated it to the Radford School museum.

Nordwald had operated a business in Chihuahua and befriended Villa. The death mask was delivered to him after Villa was assassinated.

A year ago, Nordwald's children, Ruth Graham and Leo Nordwald, filed a lawsuit to get the mask returned to the Mexican people. The lawsuit was dismissed in October 1983 after both parties agreed the mask would be given back to Mexico within six months.

Six injured in plane wreck

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Six people were injured when a small plane veered too close to the ground when making a final approach at an airport, the Texas Department of Public Safety says.

One person, the pilot, remained hospitalized today.

Billy Kilgo, 59, of Dallas was in stable condition at Valley Community Hospital with minor back injuries, said a hospital spokeswoman.

Five passengers on the plane were treated at the same hospital for minor injuries and released, said the spokeswoman, who declined to be identified.

DPS spokesman David Wells said the twin-engine Cessna flown by Kilgo was coming in too low when the craft plunged into a plowed field a mile south of Brownsville International Airport in Cameron County at 7 p.m. Thursday.

The plane had been on a flight from Dallas to Brownsville, said Wells.

The passengers were identified by Wells as Herman Scallan, 69, of Pineville, La.; Hazel Scallan, 69, of Pineville, La.; Chen Wen Sen, 36, and Tsai Kuo Hsi, 32, both of Taipei, Taiwan; and Dr. James Huffman, 51, of Pineville, La.

Wells said instrument problems could also have contributed to the crash. He said the Federal Aviation Administration and National Transportation Safety Board would investigate.

Father asks readers to plea for son's life

WESLACO (AP) — The father of a man condemned to die for killing a state trooper has written letters to Rio Grande Valley newspapers imploring readers to plead for his son's life with the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Felipe Moreno, 58, said jurors ignored the defense in the case of his 24-year-old son, Eliseo. The younger Moreno was convicted Feb. 6 of killing 25-year-old highway patrolman Russell Boyd Oct. 11. He is also charged with capital murder in two other slayings and murder in three killings the same day.

"My poor son was driven to all this," Felipe Moreno, a Weslaco lawn mower repairman, said Thursday. "A sane person couldn't be driven to do all that. He had to be mad to do it. It couldn't have been premeditated."

Felipe Moreno suggested readers mail letters of support to him, which he would forward to the appeals court.

"Your letters may help save my son's life," he wrote in his published plea, which appeared in papers this week. "They say my son is a murderer, but the real truth is that the prosecutor, the jurors and the judge just heard what the DA (district attorney) showed and said. They didn't and don't want to listen to the facts and circumstances of the case."

The elder Moreno blamed his son's estranged wife, Blanca Rea Moreno, for the killings. The first people slain in the 160-mile crime spree were Juan and Esther Garza of College Station, relatives of Eliseo Moreno's wife.

"If she'd never left my son, this would never have happened," Felipe Moreno said.

He said his son, who left his first wife, Irma, and three sons to marry Blanca, has not handled the pressures of his trial well.
