

U.S. ready for Persian Gulf oil pinch

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Deep under the Gulf Coast, in salt caverns as big as 10-story buildings, billions of gallons of crude oil lie in storage, awaiting a crisis.

If that crisis were to come in the form of an Iranian decision to pinch off the flow of oil from the Persian Gulf, the multibillion-dollar Strategic Petroleum Reserve could cushion the shock to the United States.

At last count, at the end of February, there were 387 million barrels of high-class crude bottled up in the reserve, which was started in 1975 by President Ford to counter what the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries called the "oil weapon."

That's enough to replace 90 days of imports at 1983's daily rate of 4.2 million barrels a day from all sources, according to Department of Energy estimates.

But many of those sources are nowhere near the volatile Persian Gulf, where Iran has repeatedly threatened to close the 50-mile-wide Strait of Hormuz, the bottleneck between the gulf and the Arabian Sea.

President Reagan has said the United States cannot allow the Strait of Hormuz to be closed. Last Sunday, the Navy destroyer Lawrence fired warning shots to make an Iranian patrol plane keep its distance, and warned an Iranian frigate by radio not to get any closer.

Tankers carry 7.5 million barrels of oil a day through the strait, but only about 500,000 barrels of that goes to the United States. A barrel is 42 gallons.

Oil shipped through the strait makes up 18 percent of the world's daily crude consumption.

As a gauge of how things have changed since the time when OPEC swung a big stick, withdrawals from the oil bank could cover almost 900 days of the U.S. imports that move from the strait — and about seven months of all imports from all OPEC members.

The top five oil exporters to the United States these days are Mexico at 807,000 barrels a day, Canada at 460,000, Venezuela 413,000, the United Kingdom 369,000, and Indonesia 336,000.

In a series of tests, the last one on Feb. 28, officials showed that the five operating storage facilities in the oil bank, with all pumps going, could extract about 3 million barrels a day. Guy King, a Strategic Petroleum Reserve spokesman, said that when the project is completed in 1991, with 750 million barrels banked, it will be possible to draw more than 4 million barrels a day.

"The test was ordered by the inspector general to find out for sure that we could do it," King said. "We hope it laid to rest all those ques-

Permian Basin eyes Persian Gulf politics

By CAROL BALDWIN

The dispute between Iran and Iraq is being watched closely by persons involved in area oil production.

Iran has threatened to close the Strait of Hormuz, which is a passageway for oil shipments to the United States. The closing of the strait would affect petroleum production around the United States, including the Permian Basin.

Oil shipped through the strait makes up 18 percent of the world's daily crude consumption.

Ed Thompson, executive vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association in Midland, has heard the whispers of people in the production business, plotting what to do in case the Strait of Hormuz is shut down.

Thompson said should the Strait of Hormuz be closed, "drilling activity would step up some" in the Permian Basin, but "not back to where we were in 1981," when record numbers of people were drilling for oil.

Man stops runaway car with TV stunt

CINCINNATI (AP) — When motorist Arthur Naltner saw a car go out of control on Interstate 75, he recalled a tricky stunt he'd seen on television — then edged his own vehicle in front of the runaway and braked both to a halt, saving the stricken driver.

"I'm going to have to stop watching 'Highway Patrol,'" Naltner joked Thursday. "I still get the inside quivers every once in a while."

"I was a little bit flabbergasted," said police Officer Dave Holloway, who investigated the accident and credited Naltner with preventing a pileup on the busy highway. "I had heard about people doing it, but never actually saw it."

Naltner, a 42-year-old salesman from

Edgewood, Ky., was heading home from Cincinnati on Wednesday night when he saw a 1979 Monte Carlo go out of control.

Police said the driver, Charles Snowdy, 25, of Lexington, Ky., was disabled when a truck lost its driveshaft and a 15- to 20-pound chunk of metal flipped up and smashed through the windshield.

"As I remember it, he was in the center lane southbound and I had to be several cars behind him," Naltner said. "All of a sudden his car just did an abrupt right, like he hit an ice patch. He went off the expressway onto the shoulder, hit the snow over there, spun around and shot back across the expressway, hitting the guardrail."

"To be honest, I was probably going to do just what everyone else was going to do, get in the far right lane and cuss," Naltner said. "But when he hit the guardrail and jumped back, I saw him slump and thought perhaps he had a heart attack."

That's when he borrowed the stunt from the old TV cop show, pulling his 1980 Volkswagen Rabbit in front of Snowdy's car.

"His car bumped into mine, then I put my brakes on and slowed down," he said. "We kept going; I put my emergency brake on, and we kept going. I thought, 'What am I doing here?' Then we got stopped."

Snowdy was in fair condition early today at Christ Hospital, where he was being treated for broken ribs and a collapsed lung, a hospital spokesman said.

Naltner, who was not injured, said his car's rear end was crumpled, but his insurance would cover most of the damage.

"I'm sure someone else would have done it if I hadn't been there. It was just one of those spur-of-the-moment things," he said.

"Actually, it was probably the providence of God that did it."

Rackley wants re-election

By JIM BROWN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — Mayor Jim Rackley has filed for re-election, ensuring a contested race for the top spot in a city government beset by budget and water problems.

City Secretary Cindy Langston said Rackley, a former city councilman who was appointed mayor last year after Johnny Justiss resigned, filed Thursday.

He will be opposed by Ronald Tucker, a truck driver. Rackley, a former Howard College computer instructor, is a computer consultant.

The Herald reported Tuesday that with one week left before the filing deadline, no one in Coahoma had signed up for four council races and the mayor's election.

"After the Herald article, we've gotten quite a few calls about the filing deadline," said Ms. Langston. "One man called from Austin and volunteered to sign up for the Coahoma city elections."

She said, "It sounds like quite a few people will be signing up on the last day, and there are several people waiting to see who signs up."

On Wednesday Brian Jensen chief of the volunteer fire department, filed for one of the at-large council seats. Jensen 29, has lived in Coahoma for the past 10 years and also works in the meat department of the Little Sooper grocery store.

Perot committee wants state to okay teaching kids at home

AUSTIN (AP) — A Select Committee on Public Education subcommittee has voted to recommend that parents be allowed to teach their children at home under close monitoring from public schools.

Committee Chairman H. Ross Perot called the action an important recognition of the "rights of the individual in our society" and said he welcomed the idea of making home schools legal in Texas.

"We are a free society," Perot said. "People who can't afford private schools and want to provide an alternative education for their children should not be forced to send their children to public schools."

According to state law, children educated at home are truant and school districts are authorized to take the parents to court to force them to send their children to public schools.

The subcommittee also approved a proposal that would force parents of misbehaving students to attend "parenting" courses.

Subcommittee Chairman Sen. Carl Parker said the idea is to "drag them up to the schoolhouse and teach them how to be parents."

The plan now goes to the full committee, which is looking at sweeping reforms in Texas public education.

Meanwhile, teacher education in Texas goes into a new era on Saturday, when 2,400 perspective education majors take the first state-mandated basic skills test. Educators say higher standards will be the rule for new teachers but, that there will be increasing teacher shortages, especially among minorities.

For example, in a pilot program last year to establish the validity of the test the perspective teachers will take Saturday, some 87 percent of the blacks who took the exam and 65 percent of the Hispanics failed at least one part of the test — compared with 22 percent of the white Anglo students tested.

The parenting course would be the recourse if parents break a "contractual agreement" they would sign with school districts. Parker said it's nothing more than an agreement to "meet their parental responsibilities."

The subcommittee plan would allow state district courts to force the parents to attend the "parenting courses" set up by districts.

The home teaching proposal was approved although Parker, D-Port Arthur, said it's a bad idea. He added, however, that parents have a constitutional right to do it.

"I wouldn't do it for my children. You limit the scope of your knowledge to one teacher, one concept, one technique," Parker said.

But the senator said it doesn't take much more than a "good, bright high school graduate" to be able to teach basic skills to his or her children. He said the committee heard from members of a "loose-knit

Roasted by the Toast

Editor crusades against DWI offenders

ROCKPORT, Texas (AP) — Nothing triggers more fear in the hearts of some Rockport residents than the thought of being arrested for being drunk in public.

It's not facing the law that scares drinkers, it's facing Pat Mullins, owner, editor and photographer of the Toast of the Coast Herald newspaper.

Drunken drivers know Mullins will be at the jailhouse door, camera in hand, waiting to take a picture of the libational perpetrator and put it in his paper — as he did earlier this month to one Vicky Smith (not her real name).

The caption under a Feb. 8 picture of Ms. Smith's picture read: "Vicky Smith, 30, of Rockport, arrested on a charge of Driving While Intoxicated Saturday, asked a couple of quaint questions of arresting Troopers Ahrens and Richardson — 'What if I decide not to take a breath test in Texas? I don't want to take a breath test because I have had more wine than your test can tell.' Troopers proceeded to process her for a night in jail whereupon Smith threw herself on the jail floor and engaged in a hysterical fit that lasted 33 minutes."

Thousands of Ms. Smith's neighbors saw this picture. Mullins says he sells an average of 7,000 papers each week to residents of Rockport, Port Aransas, Ingleside, Portland and Corpus Christi.

He says the paper lives up to its masthead slogan, "The Cure For The Common Newspaper." Readers obviously agree. Each week, two convenience store chains along the Coastal Bend which stock the tabloid are flooded with customers wanting to pick up a photo-packed copy of the Toast to see who has partied too hard.

Convenience store operators say customers line up early to see "who made the Herald this week."

Bob Garcia (not his real name) had the honor last September. The caption read: "Bob Garcia, 31, is shown here being asked to disembark from the patrol car by DPS Trooper Robert Zamorano, following Garcia's arrest on a charge of Driving While Intoxicated. Garcia was surly, uncommunicative, had bloodshot eyes and unstable balance. He was locked up for everyone's safety."

When Mullins bought the Herald for $10,000 in 1979, it was "just a little tourist paper, a guide," some residents say.

Not any more. Under Mullins' unconventional hand, the Herald bears little resemblance to other small-town papers filled with recipes and society parties.

In addition to photos of drunks and alleged drunks there is also a parade of dead bodies, quick glimpses of accident-maimed victims and distant glances at drowned victims being pulled from the murky waters of gulf estuaries.

Scattered among arrest reports are photos of bikini-clad beachgoers and stories on nude couples found passed out in automobiles.

Oh yes, the paper also carries articles on gardening and a column by Gov. Mark White.

But the majority of the pages are filled with accident and drunk pictures with captions like, "at it again," "out of it" and "troublesome turkey."

Some readers say they wonder if Mullins has any limit to the mayhem he'll document in the Herald. He has.

"If a picture doesn't tell the story or give the (reader) a sense of being there, I don't use it," he says.

To illustrate his point, he pulls from his desk drawer an autopsy photo and one of a badly decomposed body.

These pictures would "gag a buzzard," Mullins says.

"Certainly there is a place where I draw the line. If I wanted to make 'em retch, I could make 'em retch. But that's not my purpose," Mullins told the Corpus Christi Caller Times.

His "purpose" is to try to get drunken drivers off the street and show readers through the experience of others "what dangers face them when they begin each day."

"Certainly they (Herald photos) are revolting. Violent death is revolting. That is why I do it," Mullins says.

Rockport Police Chief Joe Hinojosa thinks the Herald has "been a definite help to the community."

Mullins is known for not giving in to pressure from people wanting to keep themselves off the paper's pages. He is so committed to his "purpose" that he has run several pictures of his own children who were involved in traffic accidents.

Mullins only previous journalism experience was writing letters. It is inexperience of which he is proud.

Journalists and publishers with more experience, he says, would take a photo of a drunk city councilman and "put it in the bottom drawer."

Not Mullins.

"I'll put it on page one," he says.

"I look for a definite increase," Thompson said.

However, the United States "should be able to make out even if there is no increase in activity" because of oil reserves being stored by the Strategic Petroleum Reserve under the Gulf coast, Thompson said.

The reserve stores millions of barrels of oil for just such an emergency, Thompson said.

Despite the reserves, Thompson said "I look for some deals" in the near future. He said he has seen indications recently that the oil industry is bouncing back in the Permian Basin after a couple of dismal years.

Indications have come in the form of people "looking at deals" for locating rigs, leasing land and drilling.

"But it won't come to that for a while," Thompson said. Now, everyone is waiting to see what happens in the skirmish before taking any action.

tions as to whether we can get the oil out." King referred to accusations by a House Government Operations energy subcommittee, headed by Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., that equipment was so poor the SPR ran the risk of being unable to get its oil back out of the salt caverns.

The subcommittee also charged that project officials had a poor accounting system and accused them of paying too little attention to fire protection and failing to monitor contractor performance.

In hearings last year before the subcommittee, project officials said problems had been corrected.

There are at least 350 of the mountain-size domes of salt, underground and out of sight, along the Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama coasts. The salt is so hard it feels like marble when pieces of it are handled, but like any rock salt it can be dissolved by water.

In the six domes chosen as storage sites, water was injected into the salt, the salt dissolved and the brine was pumped out, leaving vast caverns several thousand feet below the grass. Then, in five of the caverns, the oil was pumped in. The sixth is still under construction.

Oil doesn't dissolve salt, so SPR officials compare the caverns to huge glass bottles.

Except for guard and maintenance buildings, the only surface structures at the five storage facilities are pipeline valves and pumps.

Underground pipelines that can pump oil into or out of the caverns connect the facilities to tanker docks and to pipelines that extend up through the Midwest.

association" of Dallas-area parents who now teach their own children — in violation of current state law.

The parents said many people, "from Jesus Christ to Douglas MacArthur were home taught."

Under the system proposed by the subcommittee, parents who teach their children would have to register with a school district, maintain an organized course of study and pay the district's administrative costs of keeping up with the student.

The student would have to pass tests prepared by the district.

Parker predicted the recommendation, if approved, would not cause "any mass exodus" from public schools.

"Some may use it for racial purposes, to avoid integrated schools. But most of them have already found a private school somewhere to put them in," he said.

Burglary suspect jailed

A 19-year-old Big Spring man remains in jail after being arrested Thursday by two Howard County sheriff's deputies for suspicion of burglary of a Big Spring business.

Sgt. Ed Puente and Charles Hall arrested David Garza of Route 2 four miles out on State Highway 350 for suspicion of the Thursday burglary of the Roundup Tank Inc. in the Industrial Air Park.

Justice of the Peace Lewis Hefflin set bond for Garza at $10,000.

Garza gave the sheriff's office a statement about the incident, Sheriff A.N. Standard said.

Garza is suspected of entering the building without the owner's consent and burgling coin machines inside the building, Standard said.

Eddie Etheridge, a truck driver from Siler City, N.C., Thursday night told sheriff's deputies that someone threw an object off the Interstate 20 overpass at the Coahoma exit and broke his right windshield.

About $400 or $500 damage was done to the windshield, Etheridge said.

William C. Arnold, 32, of P.O. Box 1951 was transferred Thursday from the police department to the sheriff's office on suspicion of three charges of issuance of a bad check and two traffic charges, all from Lubbock County, records show.

Arnold was released on three $300 bonds for the check charges and two $100 bonds for the traffic charges.

Three persons were transferred Thursday from the police department to the sheriff's office on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

Raymond C. Kilduff, 47, of Scottsburg, Va., Lonnie Melton, 34, of Lamesa and Leonso Jimenez, 45, of 1315 Wright were released on $1,000 bond each. Kilduff's bond was set by Hefflin. Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt set the bonds for Melton and Jimenez.

Garry Burgess, 22, of Sterling City Route also was transferred Thursday from the police department to the sheriff's office on suspicion of driving while license suspended. He was released on $500 bond set by Daratt.

Firefighters carnival to aid disaster fund

Rides, games, and a dunking booth are all part of a carnival scheduled from March 3-11 in the parking lot of the College Park Shopping Center.

The carnival, sponsored by the Big Spring Professional Firefighters Association, will benefit the union's disaster fund, according to union president John Branham.

Since 1981, the firefighters have maintained the fund to help fire victims, Branham said.

In the past, area merchants have helped needy victims of fire by matching with goods or food what the firefighters have been able to contribute from the fund, he said.

The fund has also helped victims on an immediate basis to pay for motel rooms and other necessities, he said.

Those who attend the carnival will be able to talk with firemen about their jobs. Fire Chief Jim Ryals has also made the department's new mini-pumper available for viewing at the carnival.

The firefighters said City Manager Don Davis and other city officials have consented to sit in a dunking booth.

For the record

Howard County residents who receive 118th District Court jury summons should report March 9 for jury duty instead of March 5 as listed on the summons, 118th District Court Clerk Peggy Crittendon said.

The date for selection of the jury has been changed from Monday to next Friday at the request of a defense lawyer, according to the district attorney's office.

Parents of students at Bauer Magnet School have been invited to eat lunch with their children during Public School Week, according to the Helen Gladden, a Big Spring Independent School District administrator.

However, other schools in the district will not be able to accommodate parents in the cafeterias during the week.

"Bauer is the only cafeteria issuing that invitation," Mrs. Gladden said. The school has a larger cafeteria facility and is better equipped to handle more patrons during the lunch hour, she explained.

Kody Newman wins best of class award

HOUSTON — Fourteen-year-old cattleman Kody Newman of Stanton has done it again.

Ringer, Kody's Limousin steer, has taken best of class in the Houston livestock show, said First National Bank President Jimmy Taylor.

Kody and Ringer will enter the ring again in Houston Saturday to compete for best of show. Kody, who has already won $90,000 this year with her steers, would become the first person ever to win the Houston, Fort Worth, Denver and San Antonio stock shows in a single year.

The Houston Grand Champion sold for approximately $150,000 last year.

Kody's brother, Kendal, showed the Houston Grand Champion Steer in 1975, and brother Kevin showed the 1980 Grand Champion and the 1981 Reserve Grand Champion.

A Big Spring resident Thursday won best of breed with her steer at the Houston Stock Show, according to the Howard County Extension office.

Shauna Richardson's entry was named Champion Angus. She will show the steer again tonight in the Astrodome when judges choose the show's Grand Champion and Reserve Champion.

Andrea Ray, another Howard County resident who participated in the show, placed sixth in her steer's breed.

The other Howard County 4-H and FFA members will show their entries today, the extension office.

Jackson wins more awards

LOS ANGELES — Fresh from winning a record eight Grammys, Michael Jackson raked in more honors at the annual Black Gold Awards honoring top achievers in soul music, and Gladys Knight and Herbie Hancock shared in the laurels.

Jackson won honors for top male vocalist, single and album of the year and best video performance at ceremonies that were taped at the Coconut Grove nightclub Wednesday night for syndicated broadcast in March and April.

"Rockit," the Herbie Hancock tune that won a rhythm & blues instrumental Grammy on Tuesday night, was named instrumental record of the year.

Gladys Knight was named top female vocalist and Gladys Knight and the Pips took the top vocal group award.

Quincy Jones, Jackson's co-producer on his top-selling album "Thriller," was tabbed as record producer of the year. Lionel Richie's calypso-tinged "All Night Long" won as song of the year.

Jackson's sister, Janet Jackson, picked up the hottest female newcomer prize. Kashif earned the male newcomer award, and Kliq scored as best new group.

Veteran blues singer Joe Williams won the black legend award.

Lou Rawls, Gladys Knight and Deniece Williams shared emcee chores for the two-hour production by the Dick Clark Company. The show featured a special tribute to the late Jackie Wilson and performances by Angela Bofill, Evelyn "Champagne" King, Kliq, Gladys Knight & the Pips, Patti LaBelle and Jeffrey Osborne.

Winners of the Black Gold recording awards were based on the year-end survey by Radio & Records, a top radio trade publication. The video winner was chosen by a panel of television executives.

Piscopo said Thursday he's unlikely to return to the NBC network show next season.

He denied rumors that he doesn't get along with the "Saturday Night Live" crew. "It's some other folks," Piscopo said on WBZ-TV's "Live on Four."

He also said it would be hard to return to the program without his "buddy" Eddie Murphy, who left the show last week.

Piscopo was in Boston for a nightclub appearance.

Martin undergoes surgery

LOS ANGELES — Dean Martin has undergone an emergency appendectomy and is expected to be out of the hospital by the weekend.

"The entertainer is doing well," said a spokesman at Cedars-Sinai Hospital on Thursday.

The surgery was performed Wednesday morning.

"It was totally routine. Everything is fine," said a spokesman for the 66-year-old Martin, who has made about 50 movies and earned more than a dozen gold records.

Martin had stomach pain for a few days. The decision to operate was made after he went in for a checkup Tuesday night.

Gemayel to call for cease-fire Askew, Hollings bow out

BEIRUT — President Amin Gemayel is expected to call for a new cease-fire among Lebanon's warring factions within two days and announce cancellation of the troop withdrawal pact with Israel, Lebanese newspapers and radio stations said today.

Gemayel returned to his presidential palace this morning after a two-day visit with Syrian President Hafez Assad, who supports the Druse and Shiite Moslem rebels opposing Gemayel's government.

The Lebanese president left Syria on Thursday evening, and airport and hotel sources said he spent the night on the Greek island of Rhodes before returning today to Beirut. The visit to Syria was his first since assuming power in September 1982.

Syria has demanded cancellation of the Israeli-Lebanese accord that was reached with the help of the United States in May 1983. Lebanon's state radio said Thursday that Gemayel and Assad agreed on a "process" for scrapping the pact, but gave no details.

A spokesman for Assad described the talks as "positive and fruitful" and said there would be tangible results "within the next few days."

Death squads issue threats

SAN SALVADOR — A right-wing death squad is threatening to kill reporters who "distort reality," and a court source says the defense minister has been asked to provide written testimony about the 1980 murder of four American churchwomen.

The rightist newspaper El Diario de Hoy on Thursday quoted a one-paragraph threat against journalists signed by the Salvadoran Anti-Communist Command, one of the death squads that has stepped up activity since last November.

The statement said reporters "who cooperate with the enemies of our republic, sending dispatches that distort reality or repeating false news items that come from abroad will be executed, because what they do is confuse our people and play the game of terrorist gangs and those bands of reporters in the pay of international communism."

A court source, meanwhile, said the judge handling the case of the churchwomen's murder has sent a list of questions to Gen. Carlos Eugenio Vides Casanova, the defense minister. He was director of the national guard when the women were slain.

Five former guardsmen are charged with the crime, and the court source — who requested anonymity for fear of reprisals — said one of the questions sent by the judge was whether Vides Casanova knew at the time who the murderers were.

Judge Bernardo Rauda Murcia said Thursday that the former guardsmen's trial will begin in April. Two appeals by defense lawyers to higher courts, both rejected, have delayed the trial more than a year.

Four of the five Democrats left in the shrinking presidential field converge on the South today, including a humbled Walter Mondale who is shunning his front-runner "burden" and promising a new, tougher style.

Mondale, New Hampshire winner Gary Hart, Ohio Sen. John Glenn and the Rev. Jesse Jackson all planned appearances in Atlanta tonight, where state Democrats are holding their annual Jefferson-Jackson Day fund-raising dinner in advance of their March 13 "Super Tuesday" primary.

Only George McGovern of the five remaining major candidates was avoiding the South. The former South Dakota senator and 1972 standard bearer remains in Massachusetts, where he says that state's primary on the same day will "make or break" his presidential dreams.

Similar dreams vanished in the face of political reality Thursday for two Democratic hopefuls. South Carolina Sen. Ernest Hollings bowed out after gaining just 4 percent of the vote in New Hampshire; he was followed hours later by last-place finisher former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew. A day earlier California Sen. Alan Cranston quit.

Mondale vowed to go on the attack against Hart after weeks of virtually ignoring his Democratic opponents. "This is going to be a scrap," he told reporters. "We're in for a long, tough fight that could well go right to the convention. We have to slug it out in every state."

Mondale conceded that a leader's arrogance may have hurt him in New Hampshire, where Hart, the Colorado senator, bested him by 10 percentage points. Being the front-runner became "my burden," he said.

"Forget all this front-runner talk," Mondale said he told his staff. "It's all over. Stop acting like we're front-runners."

He also took aim at Hart's talk of new issues and a new generation of leaders: "Biologically he is not 26. He's 47. I'm not 86. I'm 56."

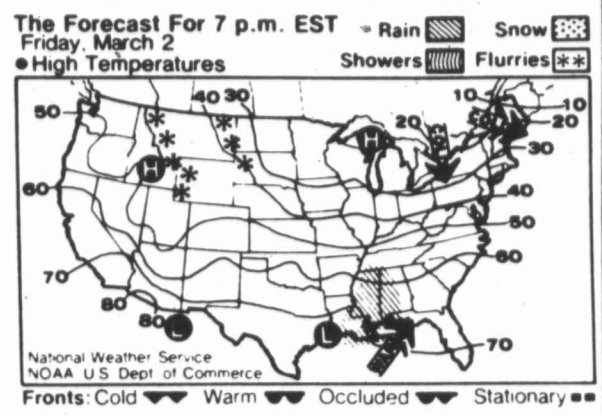

"It's not a question of whether it is old or new," Mondale said. "It's whether it's right or wrong. It's whether it works or doesn't work."

Most of the candidates were focusing on Dixie because of the looming Super Tuesday when nine states choose their delegates, including primaries in Alabama, Florida and Georgia.

Hart and Mondale both planned New England stops earlier today, Hart in Vermont and Boston and Mondale in Maine. Vermont has a non-binding primary Tuesday and Maine holds caucuses Sunday.

West Texas: Sunny and mild. Fair and mild tonight except increasing low cloudiness southeast late tonight. Mostly fair southwest Saturday, otherwise partly cloudy and a little cooler elsewhere with widely scattered showers or thundershowers north late Saturday. Highs today mid 60s Panhandle to 70s elsewhere except low 80s Big Bend valleys. Lows tonight mid 30s north to mid 40s south. Highs Saturday 50s and 60s north to 70s south.

Sunny skies in forecast

Patchy, dense fog enveloped parts of Central Texas and the Gulf coastal plain today, while rain dampened other sections of the Lone Star State, but forecasters predicted sunny skies later.

Abundant low-level moisture continued to push northward from the Gulf of Mexico, bringing a dense veil of low clouds to most of South, Central and East Texas.

Sporadic drizzle dampened parts of South Central Texas, the National Weather Service said. Skies remained mostly clear in the western half of the state, with the exception of high-level cloudiness over the Panhandle.

Winds were south to southwesterly winds at 5 to 10 mph across most of Texas, except the High Plains, where light northeasterly breezes prevailed.

Low temperatures were mild, ranging from the low to mid 50s, with a few upper 50s in the lower Rio Grande Valley and upper 30s in the northern plains.

Extreme readings ranged from 36 degrees in Amarillo to a balmy 59 degree reading at both Brownsville and McAllen at 4 a.m., the weather service said.

Skies should be mostly sunny over West Texas, with partly cloudy to cloudy conditions elsewhere. Highs were expected to range from the mid 60s over the Panhandle to the lower 80s in the Big Bend valley, the weather service said.

A sincere offer from the Soviets

Viktor Israelyan, Soviet delegate to the 40-nation Geneva conference on chemical weapons disarmament, has made an interesting offer. He said that Moscow is "in principle" ready to accept the "permanent presence" of international observers at factories used for destroying chemical arms. This marks an acceptance — for the first time — of a Western proposal for continuous on-site inspection of chemical weapon destruction.

But the Soviet representative was quick to call "unrealistic and dangerous" U.S. demands that there be continuous on-site inspection of known and suspected chemical stockpiles. Israelyan is wrong on both counts; it is neither unrealistic nor dangerous to allow such inspections. The United States, the Soviet Union and numerous others have mass-produced chemical weapons by the hundreds of thousands of tons. The stockpiles are huge. On-site inspection is necessary to assure the success of any treaty which bans chemical arms.

Still, the Soviet offer is a positive sign and one U.S. diplomat expressed the hope that Moscow's "gesture will have a broader application." By accepting in principle the concept of on-site inspection — even in a limited format — the Soviets raise the possibility that it could be used in other areas, such as nuclear arms control.

In a related development, the United States reports that Soviet use of chemical arms in Afghanistan has stopped and their use in Laos and Cambodia has diminished markedly. As Republican Rep. Jim Leach, who monitors this closely, said, "I don't think there's any doubt that this slowdown has come about because of a Soviet concern for world opinion."

With other arms control talks stalemated, these Soviet moves may indicate that progress is possible at the Geneva chemical talks.

For democracy's sake let's get out and vote

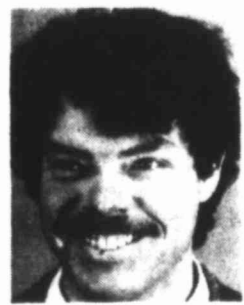

U.S. citizens have a poor voting record. In the 1982 elections, only 58.8 percent of the potential American voters cast ballots. This was one of the worst records in the free world in recent elections. Twenty-five other countries had better turnouts.

Australia ranked first with 95.4 percent of its potential vote being cast. It was followed by Venezuela, Austria, Italy and Belgium.

The American system of government and freedom is based on citizen participation. When only half the potential voters turn out at an election, it indicates that people are turned off or alienated. Too many people believe that their votes do not count, and so they do not take the trouble to go to the polls.

If voting percentages continue to decline, we will find that small minorities and special interest groups will be able to control elections.

One way to increase voting would be to give each voter a small tax exemption. Another suggestion that has been made is to hold elections on Saturdays or Sundays, as is done in several other countries. If our country is to remain free with a responsible government, we must find a means of motivating voters.

Moving, again

I've moved so many times over the years you'd think I'd be used to it by now.

Having grown up in an oil company брат, I have come to feel that moving often is the norm of existence.

I was 2-years-old when my family pulled up stakes the first time. That was in Salem, Ill. and we resettled in Caracas, Venezuela.

People are often impressed when I tell them I've lived in Caracas, but actually I remember very little about that bustling city since my family pulled up stakes again when I was 4 to move to a small camp for oil company employees in the Venezuelan outback.

Mata, it was called, and our living there only lasted another two years, as my father was transferred to his company's New York City office and we moved into a house in Connecticut.

So it went for my family and I, moving in the following years to Denver, Colo.; Los Angeles, Calif.; and then Midland, where I finished high school.

I counted up last night the number of residence changes that I have gone through, both with my family and when I was on my own, and came up with 15 separate moves.

What brought on these ruminations was that I was once again faced with packing up and leaving one living place for another.

This time, it was just for a move across town. My roommate left in January for greener pastures in San Angelo, and I had finally found a smaller (and cheaper!) apartment in town than the two-bedroom we had been living in.

But the old juices were flowing again as I rounded up boxes in which to pack the junk that has accumulated over the years, as I made unteens trips to the car to get the stuff out of the apartment, and as I eyed my new place to see where it all would go.

Then my old apartment had to be cleaned if I were to have any hope of getting my deposit back.

That done, I gave the apartment one, very slow walk through.

This is a ritual I started when my family moved from Los Angeles to Midland. We had lived in the City of the Angels longer than anywhere else up to that time: five years.

I was in my first year in high school and I was happy. It was the time in a young person's life when having friends and being accepted is so important. As far as I was concerned, we were moving to a foreign country and I resented it.

Just before we left I walked through each room in the house, trying to take in all the memories that had gone on in each.

It was a time to gather things together. The physical things were already on the moving truck and on their way, but I wanted to put all the emotional things in one place, too.

Since then, I have gone through this ritual each time I've left one residence for another. It helps me to put the times of my life in good order and to hold on to the important happenings.

Canadian farms soak American taxpayers

WASHINGTON — If North Dakota officials have their way, American taxpayers will be soaked a staggering $1.2 billion so 1,200 farmers near the Canadian border can soak their fields with water piped in from the Garrison Dam reservoir. That averages out to $1 million per farm.

But that's not all. The irrigation project also has potentially serious environmental dangers for our good neighbors in Canada.

I've been following this boondoggle ever since I first reported on it last October. Here's the latest development:

The state of North Dakota has hired a public relations firm to persuade Canadians in Manitoba that the proposed diversion of Garrison water will not have the harmful effects that environmentalists fear.

The Canadians are afraid the "alien" Missouri River fish and bacteria, when pumped over the minicontinental divide into a watershed that drains into Manitoba, will attack fish in the northbound streams and rivers. These waterways are the source of a multimillion-dollar Canadian fishing industry.

The Canadians consider the potential pollution of their rivers a serious issue. They may fight the irrigation project by arguing that it violates U.S.-Canadian treaties.

So the state-funded Garrison Diversion Conservancy District hired Wilfred Chislett Associates Ltd., a Canadian PR firm. My associates Corky Johnson and Donald Goldberg have obtained material from federal and state government files that disclose the general theme of Chislett's siren song.

In a memo to his employers, Chislett told of his plan to have a newspaper buddy write a favorable story about the irrigation project. "Fred Cleverley (who is an old friend, somewhat ultra-right wing) will write the kind of feature with photos which you would like to see more of in Canada," he wrote. "Unfortunately, because he is so anti-Manitoban government, his work sometimes is suspect. Other news media people, knowing his strong bias, won't use his information."

So the PR expert suggested delaying Cleverley's visit to Garrison until after Chislett had released information to other Canadian reporters.

In another memo, Chislett suggested mentioning the possibility that Canadian companies might win construction contracts. "There may be some Canadian suppliers involved, although I think this may be doubtful," he wrote.

As for the power-generation potential of the project, Chislett warned: "Be careful of this one, because Manitoba desperately wants to sell surplus hydropower to the U.S."

Footnote: An Interior Department official, in a meeting with the State Department, suggested that the United States "encourage Manitoba to confine its Washington lobbying efforts to North Dakota's congressional delegation." This would be like restricting Israel's lobbying appeals, say, to the Saudi Arabian embassy.

CITIZENS WATCH — Alan Bernson is a small businessman in Boston who believes he was harassed and nearly driven out of his trucking business by a federal agency without just cause. He asked for my help, and I had my reporter Bill Bartman check it out.

In 1980, Bernson admitted committing a minor breach of Interstate Commerce Commission regulations and was slapped with a $25,000 fine.

Protesting that the fine was unreasonable and discriminatory, Bernson refused to pay it. The regulations he violated are no longer strictly enforced.

In apparent retaliation, the ICC launched a massive attack on Bernson. ICC investigators combed his tax records, contacted his insurance carriers with distorted information, and caused the state tax agency to audit Bernson in an unsuccessful attempt to prove fraud. The ICC also charged Bernson with attempted bribery, but the U.S. attorney rejected the case.

Worst of all is the evidence in an affidavit from a Boston-area consultant, Gerard J. Levy, who did work for Bernson. Levy quotes John F. Curley, then an ICC official, as admitting that another trucker hadn't been given such a hard time by the agency.

"Yes, but without insult to you, the president of the company you're discussing is not a troubling Jew who doesn't know his proper place," Curley said, according to Levy's affidavit. "Jews are distinctly disliked in the Boston office to start with, from the top down. Alan is an offensive Jew who fights ICC and refuses to acquiesce to us... He is a constant irritant in its side. Therefore, I felt compelled to conduct extensive investigations into his activities."

Bernson's troubles with the ICC continue. Out of some 20,000 applications for operating authority or extended authority, his was one of only nine assigned to hearings, and one of only two in which a final decision is still due. The other case is that of his brother.

Curley has declined to comment.

The joy of being blacklisted

Whenever the government comes up with a blacklist I immediately rush out and see if I made it.

The other day it was revealed the USIA kept a list of Americans who were not to be sent abroad as part of the propaganda department's speaking program. Among the blacklisted were Walter Cronkite, the most trusted man in America; David Brinkley; economist John Kenneth Galbraith; Lester Thurow and Paul Samuelson; Washington Post editor Ben Bradlee; former Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger; former Director of the CIA Stansfield Turner; former National Security Advisor McGeorge Bundy; and feminist Betty Friedan; as well as about 80 other outstanding citizens.

The reason given for the list was that top officials of USIA did not believe foreigners should be exposed to any kind of ideology that was remotely in conflict with that of the president's.

Since some of my best friends were on the list I was embarrassed I didn't make it. It was the second major blacklist I've missed. In 1974 I failed to make the famed Nixon "enemies" list, an oversight that cost me any clout I might have had in this town.

When it was revealed the USIA had the names of those who should not represent the United States abroad, I called and demanded to talk to the agency's ideological czar.

"How come I didn't make your speakers' blacklist?" I asked him. "We had to limit it to only the best and the brightest." "And how were they chosen?" I demanded. "Very carefully. Whenever a name was submitted to us to represent the United States in our overseas speakers' program it went upstairs to our Blue Ribbon Ideological Review Board. If there was the slightest evidence the speaker disagreed with the president on economics, foreign policy, or just plain conservative philosophy, he or she was listed as a questionable spokesperson and one who could not be trusted to carry America's message to the world."

"The whole thing smacks of McCarthyism," I said. "That's a typical liberal knee-jerk reaction," the man said. "The truth of the matter is that the USIA is the propaganda arm of the president of the United States, and our nation's credibility would be seriously questioned if we sent Americans abroad who disagreed with Mr. Reagan's policies. The blacklist was only a guide to counteract those in the agency who thought the overseas speaking program should be bipartisan."

"All right, I'll accept the fact that the USIA does not want to send any speakers overseas who are not in tune with Mr. Reagan's conservative philosophy. But where does that leave those of us who never made the list? How do we explain the omission to the people who were blackballed?"

"There was nothing personal about the blacklist," he replied. "The reason you didn't make the list is that your name was never submitted by anyone in the agency as a candidate for our speaking program."

"Is it too late now?" I asked. "Too late for what?"

"To make the blacklist. I have several friends at the USIA who would submit my name if they knew it meant that much to me."

"I'm afraid it is too late. We just had a directive from upstairs that since the blacklist is now public knowledge, we can no longer keep it."

"Does that mean the Blue Ribbon USIA Ideological Board is going to be disbanded?"

"Of course not. But the blackballing will be done verbally, and no longer by printed ballot. We have no intention of throwing out the baby with the bathwater."

"One more question. Did Charles Wick, the director of the USIA, know you people were keeping a blacklist of loyal Americans who didn't agree with the president?"

"Not to my knowledge. He was so busy taping the telephone calls of his friends, he left the day-to-day blacklisting to us."

Is there life after employment?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband is still in his 40s, but the doctor says he has arthritis that is getting worse and worse. He is getting very depressed over this, because eventually he will have to give up his job. What can I do to encourage him? — Mrs. E.C.

DEAR MRS. E.C.: There are at least two things your husband needs to realize. First, he must realize his job should not be the only thing or the most important thing in his life. For many people their work becomes their whole life. They come to believe life is worthwhile only if they can work, and that their work is the only thing that makes them important or valuable. Obviously, if a person sees his work in that way, it is going to be very difficult on him when he retires or loses his job because of his health or layoffs.

That is not to say a job is unimportant — not at all. God made us so we would find fulfillment in the work he gives us to do. But when we can't work, we still are just as valuable as we ever were in his eyes. It may take your husband some time to realize this, but you can help him by assuring him of your love and respect for him. You also can help him to develop hobbies and interests that are worthwhile.

The other thing your husband needs to realize is that God has not abandoned him, but that God still has a purpose in his life. As we grow older, we all have to face the fact we cannot do all that we once were able to do. But God knows that, and our value to him is not dependent on how much work we can do. He wants our hearts to be open to him, and he wants us to love him no matter what our circumstances may be.

Let this be a time when you and your husband turn to God.

Do fat people get arthritis?

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Do fat people get arthritis? I can't remember seeing the knobby knuckles and misshapen joints of the arthritic on other than skinny, bony people. Or is it that the deformities show up more plainly on them? Maybe I am just trying to rationalize not wanting to lose weight I'm told I should lose. I don't have arthritis. — H.T.

Arthritis is no respecter of body size. In fact, one form of it, osteoarthritis, is made worse by excessive body weight, adding greater stress to bones that have already suffered from wear and tear.

But you do make a point. In rheumatoid arthritis, the other common kind, there is a generalized bodywide disease at work. It affects many organs and body systems, so it does tend to debilitate people, you often do lose weight as part of the illness. That happens with any illness that saps energy. This is why most of the people you see who have arthritis appear thin.

But your rationalization about not losing weight won't compute. Staying fat won't stave off the onset of either kind of arthritis if one of the other is in your future.

(Another arthritis question):

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband, who is 57, has been suffering from rheumatoid arthritis for several years now. Several months ago he started getting worse, so his doctor put him on a new medicine. He was on aspirin up to then. Recently, he began having pain in his breast area and there is some enlargement. He is embarrassed by this, but I am concerned about cancer. Can you comment on this. His new medicine is sulindac, and we wonder if that could be the problem. Could it be? — Mrs. T.R.

There are many causes for gynecomastia (breast enlargement in males), so whenever it occurs it has to be reported. Many medicines can cause the problem, which involves a slight change in the body's male/female hormone balance. Breast enlargement has been reported in the literature among some men using the medicine you mention (sulindac), so that possibility has to be investigated. The problem would subside when that is discontinued if it is the cause. Report the symptom to the doctor.

Hicks resigns position as Red Cross chapter chairman

Clayton Hicks submitted his resignation as chairman of the American Red Cross Board during a meeting of the Howard-Glasscock chapter of the ARC at the Veterans' Administration Medical Center, Feb. 21.

Hicks' retirement is due to his upcoming retirement in April and the uncertainty of his being in Big Spring. He appointed John Webb, Martha Moody and Dianne Jones to serve as a nominating committee to select a new chairman.

Dave Clark, territorial director from Midland, told members some problems that they should think about in their consideration of the idea of merging with the Midland Chapter. The group may want to consider other area counties with ARC chapters. Another problem could be the group's debt of $13,000. The local chapter would still be responsible for raising funds and maintaining a service headquarters of some kind. Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

On the other hand, Clark said, it might be possible to continue the group's voluntary status if National would agree to write off the debt, provide the group could show that it can raise the money to operate a service.

Mail out campaigns can be expensive, but by using selectivity in mailing out material and letters of request, it could help the group. One idea was to mail out letters to a group with a return envelope asking them to keep the envelope and a volunteer would call on them and answer any question they would like to ask. Clark will present more material at the next meeting.

Laurie Webb gave a detailed report on her service to the Armed Forces families, which included a burn case sent to Fort Sam Houston Burn Center, and a case concerning a Mr. Garcia who was reported ill here and in El Paso and Juarez. Louise Nuckolls is looking for someone from Glasscock County to serve on the board. Charlene Voorhies will serve as finance committee chairman for the year. A $25 donation from the National Association of Letter Carriers, and 150 booties from Tarrant County Red Cross were acknowledged. Memorials to the Red Cross instead of flowers will be given on necessary occasions. The next meeting will be at 6:30 p.m., Thursday at Furr's Cafeteria.

Jehovah's Witnesses share beliefs

By RHONDA WITT
Church Editor

The Jehovah's Witnesses believe the Bible is the word of God and that all Christians are ministers, according to the Bible, and have a responsibility to preach like Christ did.

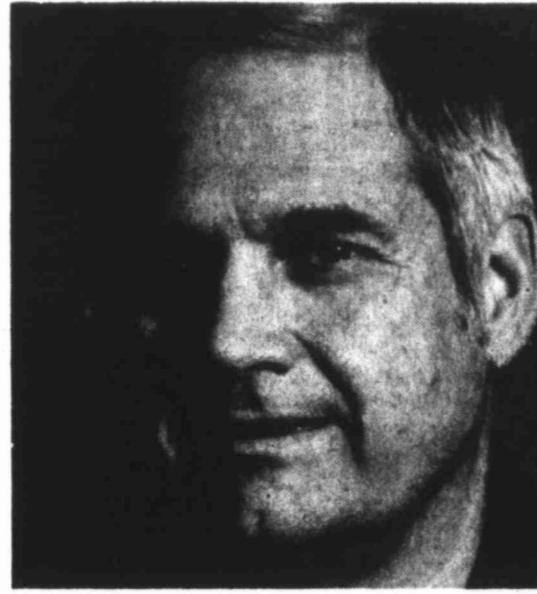

"We also believe God intended for Earth to be a paradise for men, and for men to follow his teaching," said C.L. Lunsford, a Jehovah's Witnesses elder.

Jehovah's Witnesses encourage private Bible study in the home, a personal relationship with God through Biblical knowledge personal beliefs. "We believe all men, regardless of race or language, are acceptable to God and can come into a relationship with him if they practice what he preaches," Lunsford said.

Jehovah's Witnesses originated in the early 1870's from a Bible study group in Allegheny City, Penn. Charles Taze Russell was the prime leader of the group. By 1880, congregations in nearby states had grown from the group.

Fifty members were witnessing full-time from house to house and offering Bible literature in 1888. More than 100,000 members are witnessing full-time now.

In 1909, the international

organization headquarters were moved to Brooklyn, N.Y. The Jehovah's Witnesses has 2 3/4 million members and publishes the Bibles and Bible-based materials in 130 languages.

Jehovah's Witnesses also have 95 branch offices in the world. Those who work for the Jehovah's Witnesses receive no salaries. The entire organization is operated by a committee consisting of 17 to 24 members. The committee is a central organizing arrangement working for world-wide unity in our beliefs," Lunsford said.

congregation are James Watkins, chairman of the body of elders; William Bronaugh, and Hanley Spencer. They are volunteers and share the duties in leading the congregation.

The congregation meets five times a week. The meetings are open to the public and no collections are taken. The first meeting is Kingdom Ministry School at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday. At the meeting, people learn to speak before an audience.

Following that meeting, a service meeting, begins at 8:15 p.m. The service is design to help the congregation work in field ministry, better known as house-to-house calls.

A book study is held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Members use a Bible-based classroom book to study the Bible on given topics. The congregation is broken into four groups of 15 to 20.

On Sunday, two meetings are held. The first meeting at 10 a.m. is a Bible-based lecture by one person, who presents it to the audience. The lecture covers a wide range of subjects including personal things, current events and prophecy.

Following that meeting is a "Watch Tower" study, which is completely audience participation.

From Adam to the atom it has been a long process. But progress does not necessarily mean progress. Only when we recognize our need for God will we begin to come of age. Then, and only then, will progress mushroom into progress.

Mike Warnke gives concert

Mike Warnke, an internationally renowned evangelist, will give a concert at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at 7:30 p.m., March 31. The public is invited, and the concert will be interpreted for the deaf.

Warnke, accompanied by his wife, Rose, will describe his former life as a hippie, Marine Corps medic, drug addict/pusher, and a priest presiding over a coven of witches.

The concert is being sponsored by local businessmen "in an effort to reach out to the whole community," according to Randy Gee, coordinator.

Warnke has spoken at conferences in the United States, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Denmark and Sweden. He has written two books, "The Satan Seller" and "Hitchhiking on the Hope Street." Warnke was Record World Magazine's Contemporary and Inspirational Non-Musical Artist of the Year for 1976, 1977, 1978 and 1979. He has a bachelor degree from Valley Christian University in Christian counseling and a Doctorate in Philosophy.

Mrs. Warnke, a graduate of the University of Kentucky, performs gospel music. She sings and plays the piano and guitar.

The Warnkes co-author a column for Contemporary Christian Music magazine. The couple has appeared on the PTL Club, the 700 Club, 100 Huntley Street, TBN nationwide, and EWTN.

Lenten services held

The Rev. Carroll C. Kohl, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church, will conduct special Lenten services beginning at 7:30 p.m., March 7. March 7 is Ash Wednesday. The theme for the services is "Overheard-Conversations by the Cross." The public is invited.

The first service will be "Malchus and Mark," March 7. Other services will be at 6:30 p.m. include "Barabbas and Caiaphas," March 11; "Pontius Pilate and Procula," March 18; "Simon of Cyrene and the Centurion," March 25; "The Two Thieves," April 1; and "Mary and John," April 8.

These Lenten services invite people to eavesdrop on the concerns and conflicts of people whose lives were touched and changed by the crucifixion of Jesus.

Kohl also will conduct special Lenten services during Sunday worship services at 8:30 a.m. and 10:45 a.m., beginning March 11. The theme is "Building a Banner." Each Sunday, parts of the banner will be added during the service, depicting the sermon topics until the banner is completed on Easter Day.

Sermon topics consist of "Saved to Serve," March 11; "Faced With Failure," March 18; "What Shall I Do With Jesus?" March 25; "As Luck would Have It," April 1; and "The Crucel Coronation," April 8.

Responsive readings by the congregation is included in the Sunday morning services.

Church adopts theme

The theme "Beyond the Ordinary" has been adopted at the First Christian Church of the Nazarene according to Dr. Carl Powers, pastor.

This week's focus is "Beyond the Ordinary" in growth with special emphasis directed toward the Sunday School. "Last Sunday's attendance showed a whopping 40 percent increase over last year's average," said Cotton Mize, local director of Christian Life. Classes begin at 9:45 a.m., Sunday.

The Sunday worship service is at 10:50 a.m. with Children's Church starting at the same time. Powers' sermon will be "Resources for Revival" as the local church gears up for a spring revival slated for March 6-11. The Rev. Brance Moyer of San Antonio, evangelist and vocalist, will be speaker.

Dr. Jones has recital

Joyce Jones, concert organist, will give a recital at First Presbyterian Church at 7:30 p.m., March 8. The recital is sponsored by Petty-Madden Organ Builders, the West Texas Chapter of the American Guild of Organists and the church. The public is invited.

Concert held at church

The Carpenter Family will present a concert of hymns and contemporary gospel music at 7 p.m., at Hillcrest Baptist Church, 2000 FM 700, March 4. The public is invited.

"THOSE CRAZY EPISCOPALIANS" just what is their bag?

Are they Protestant, Catholic, or something in between? Call them anything you please. Episcopalians are Protestant because their forebears were among the leaders of the Protestant Reformation in 16th-Century England. But the word "Catholic" means "universal" and Episcopalians are quick to embrace the universality of all Christian denominations. They do not believe that heaven is reserved for those who agree, jot and tittle, with their particular views.

What place does the Bible occupy in the Episcopal faith? It's central. No Episcopalians is required to accept any belief that doesn't agree with Holy Scripture.

Then why do they use a Prayer Book? The Episcopal Book of Common Prayer serves several purposes. It's an excellent key to understanding the Bible. It assures reading and teaching in church solely from the Bible; it's a complete guide to worship.

The word "common" in the title means "together." Episcopalians pray and praise God together, believing—as they do—that worship is no spectator sport. Thanks to the Prayer Book, their services cannot be dominated by the minister's whims.

Then why the need for instruction and confirmation? In the Episcopal church, confirmation marks the renewal of baptismal vows.

Thus the promises made for a child in baptism are confirmed by the candidate himself in a spirit of matured Christian conviction.

Correspondingly, the service signifies a confirmation, on God's part, of His promise of salvation.

Simple instruction by the clergy assures an understanding of the Church's basic beliefs and customs before the candidate assumes the responsibilities of communicant status.

Does this mean they have a "closed" communion? Not at all, although the Episcopal church regards communion as a true sacrament and not just a memorial. Any baptized person is welcome to join in an Episcopal communion service if his own church's discipline permits him to do so.

Are visitors welcomed? Absolutely. At any service. It's customary for Episcopalians to remain quiet until they're outside the church, which explains why some visitors look on them as unfriendly. Just stick around after the service. There's usually coffee in the nearby parish hall and plenty of opportunity to get acquainted. Feel free to ask the minister for an appointment to discuss anything you find puzzling about the Episcopal faith. He'll be delighted and wouldn't think of "twisting your arm" to join his church. That sort of decision must come from you, or it loses meaning.

Dear Abby
Emergency

DEAR ABBY: If this message to the public makes your column, hundreds of police and fire department dispatchers across the nation will thank you from the bottom of their hearts.

When there is a widespread power failure in your area due to a storm, do not call the police or fire department unless you have a genuine emergency!

For the last 12 years I have been employed as a communications officer, dispatching paramedics, police officers and fire fighters where they are needed.

During a widespread power failure, we are extremely busy handling the many emergencies that occur as a result of the power failure, and our lines are jammed with calls from people asking, "How come there's no electricity, and how long do you think we will be without it?" Consequently, those calling to report fires, robberies, accidents and heart attacks get a busy signal or they are put on hold.

Abby, I hope you think this is important enough to print.
C.E.M., HUNTINGTON BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR C.E.M.: It is. And I hope this will cause people to think twice before picking up their phones to ask non-emergency questions about a power failure. I am sure many did not realize that those lines should be kept open for calls from people who need help in genuine emergencies. I didn't.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 50 and newly divorced. I would like to go out with a man for a good time such as dinner, theater etc., but I'm told that times have changed since I last dated 20 years ago.

Today when a man takes a woman out, he automatically expects her to go to bed with him. I am talking about men in their 60s! I would like to know how to handle this situation. Should I let a man know ahead of time that I do not go in for that sort of thing? Or should I wait until I am backed into a corner?

NEW AT THE DATING GAME

DEAR NEW: Don't presume that every man who asks you out wants to hustle you into bed. Some may not. And others cannot.

Stanton, Grady among field at Buffalo Relays

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

STANTON — Saturday Stanton will be the site for the Big Spring Area's first track meet and Stanton and Wall are favored in the girl's division while Wall, Stanton and Plains will be the favorites in the boy's division.

Sixteen teams will participate in the meet which will get underway 9:30 a.m. with field events. Running prelims start at 10:45 a.m. and finals get underway at 3 p.m.

Stanton boy's coach Dale Ruth is expecting points from his pair of pole vaulters, Tim Bryan and Eddie Thomas. The duo went 12-6 and 12-0 respectively last week in Ft. Stockton. Bryan finished third in state last year with a vault of 13-0.

Ruth is also expecting points his 1600 meter relay team of Rocky and Robby Barnes and Darren and Derek Sorley. The group ran a 3:39 last week.

Rocky Barnes, who qualified for regionals last year in the 400 meters with a 50.6, will be strong in the event. Last week he posted a 22.97 in the 200 meters.

Other Stanton hopefuls are 100 meter man Butch Jordan (11.7) and freshman Tommy Smith in the distance races.

Girls look strong as well

The Stanton girls looked strong last week at Ft. Stockton finishing second in class AAAA competition. But the Lady Buffalos will have to get by defending 8-AA district champion Wall.

Stanton coach Bill West has a lot of artillery in his daughter Dawna West, who is the defending Class A state 100 meter hurdle champion. Dawna West along with Lorrie Jansen, Sabrina Finch and Cathy Scurlark teamed in the 800 and 1600 relays for times of 1:49.8 and 4:22.8 for first place finishes last week.

Jansen is a force in the 200 meters (27.7) while Scurlark clocked a 67.4 in the 400 meters. Sandra Henry is expected to score points in the shot and discus. Mary Beth Tollison is also a good bet in the 1600 meters.

Other teams entered in both the boys and girls division will be Klondike, O'Donnell, Forsan, Sands and Grady.

Grady has potential

The Grady girls will be few in numbers, but head coach Ted Bedwell will bring some talent to the Stanton relays.

District 11-A champ in the 1600 meters, Shanna Hale is only a sophomore. She was third in regional last year with a time of 5:51. "Shanna works hard and her outlook is good," said Bedwell.

Other prospects should be in the shot and discus, where senior Sandra Garza is coming off a fourth place finish at last year's district affair, and the high jump, where senior Brenna Hale is looking to better her sixth place finish at last year's final meet — district.

Bedwell feels his team's strength is its good attitude and some great facilities at which to train. A lack of sprinter's speed, plus only six athletes are the major weaknesses facing the Wildcats.

Wildcats bring regional stars

The Wildcats boys will bring a few standouts in their own right to the Stanton meet.

Senior Jay Billingsley advanced to regional in both the 110 and 300 meter hurdles while junior Tarry Farrington is a regional 1600 meter competitor. Jim Miner showed his potential as a sophomore last year by placing fourth in his district's 800 meter race.

Other members making the trip to the season's first meet for the Wildcats include Randy Gutierrez, Charlie Perez, Fred Garza, Dean McClure, Damasio Gomez, Michael Mitchell, Salvador Molinar, Terry Deatherabe and Brandon Stone.

Head coach Lynn Maxwell said this year's team will rely on strengths in its hurdlers, distance and middle distance and the simple theory of, "people willing to work hard."

A lack of true sprinters and no experienced weight men plus a team of only 12 athletes are weaknesses being faced by Maxwell.

Optimist Relays to be held Saturday

The Big Spring Optimist Relays which is held annually for seventh, eighth and ninth grade boys will begin Saturday at 10 a.m. at Blankenship Field.

This year's relays will attract 35 teams in the three divisions. Schools from San Angelo, Midland, Coahoma, Sweetwater, Colorado City, and Snyder, as well as Runnels and Goliad from Big Spring.

Field events will begin Saturday at 10 a.m. Running prelims also begin at 10 a.m. with running of the 110 meter low hurdles.

Finals get underway at 12:30 p.m. starting with with the 1600 meter run.

C-City opens track season at Junction

JUNCTION — The 1984 track and field season for the Colorado City boys gets underway here Saturday when the Wolves compete in the Junction Relays.

Head coach Rick Robinson said his team should be better than last year's bunch that finished third at the 6-AAA meet behind Ozona and Sonora. Robinson welcomes back 15 members of that team and because of that fact Robinson said he expects this year's team to be, "very good."

Making up the backbone for the Wolves will be individual regional qualifiers Jay Claxton (3200); Kevin Norman (100 meters) and Doug Chistey (high jump). The Wolves also have back the foursome that qualified the 400 meter relay to regional. Members of that team are Larry Hamilton, Norman, Joey Ritchey and Perry Conner.

Robinson said his team's strong points are depth and experience while field events are lacking.

UP TO SCORE — UTEP guard-forward Quintain Gates (11) goes up for a shot, knocking down BYU guard Scott Sinek (20). The eighth ranked Miners were upset by the Cougars 83-65 in Western Athletic Conference action Thursday night in Provo.

Queens edge Clarendon

CLARENDON — The Howard College Hawk Queen made their ninth straight win a little hard on the nerves as they grabbed a 17 point halftime lead, only to hang on for dear life to beat Clarendon, 73-72 here Thursday night in the final regular season game on the women's Western Junior College Athletic Conference schedule.

The Queens, already qualified for the Region V Tournament to begin next week, finish their regular campaign at 23-8 and 10-4 in the WJCAC. Howard has won nine in a row after being 1-4 at one point in the conference.

It wasn't easy though. Howard jumped to a 44-27 halftime lead and shot fairly well behind a pace set by Terri Moore who ended the game with 30 points before fouling out with 1:30 in the game.

In the second half, however the Queens suffered from a series of turnovers according to sophomore forward Kari Robinson.

"We were shooting pretty well in the first half, but in the second things just weren't dropping in," Robinson added.

Still, despite the slump, the Queens never trailed. Clarendon did get the ball back at mid-court with 11 seconds left to play, but the Queens fell back in a 1-3-1 zone and forced Clarendon to overthrow the ball twice before a desperation shot was tipped by Janene Berry.

Joining Moore in the double digit department were Debbie Hall with 13, Pat Carter with 12 and Molly Early with 10. Berry handed out nine assists and Moore, Hall and Robinson pulled down eight rebounds each. Moore also registered four steals.

The Queens open up play in the Region V Women's Basketball Tournament on Tuesday, Mar. 6 at 7 p.m. against McClennan Community College of Waco. Other teams in the field include WJCAC champion Odessa, Western Texas, Amarillo, Coke County and Ranger.

BSHS track teams will get in second action at P'view, Lubbock meets

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

Both Big Spring High School track and field teams will compete in their second meets of the year at Plainview and Abilene respectively this Saturday.

The Lady Steers travel to Plainview for the Lady Bulldog Relays and a 16-team field. Competition begins at 9 a.m. with field events in JV, Division I (A-AAAA) and Division II (AAAAA). Running preliminaries begin at 9:30 a.m. and finals will start at 2 p.m.

Big Spring came up with a strong third place showing at Fort Stockton last week, but might be hard pressed to duplicate that at Plainview.

According to head coach Anna Ezzell, "Plainview will be a tougher meet. For one thing there are more schools in our division." Ezzell added, however that she does not expect the same mishaps that kept the Lady Steers from a possible second place at Fort Stockton — namely a bad exchange on what finished as a second place 400 meter relay, and a false start on the 800 meter relay.

Leading the charge for the Lady Steers will be 100 meter specialist Latresa Cork (12.67) who garnered Big Spring's only first last week. She paced a 1-3-5 finish, however with teammates Joi Tate and Monica Lockridge earning points also.

Boys at Lubbock The Big Spring boys will try and overcome a disappointing two point effort at Fort Stockton by competing in the Lubbock Relays.

Prelims in all events get started at 10 a.m. and finals start at 2:15 p.m.

Schools competing include Lubbock Monterey, Coronado and Lubbock High, Plainview, Hereford, Amarillo High, Tascosa and the Steers.

Head coach Randy Britton said he planned to experiment with his 400 and 1600 relays, but did not plan any radical changes. A sore spot for the Steers this week has been the unavailability of distance runner Roland Montana. Montana just missed making the finals in the 800 meters by one runner and also missed by one runner scoring points in the 1600.

NL workday is rescheduled for this Saturday

All National Little League parents are requested to meet at the National League field Saturday, Mar. 3 for a cleanup workday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The workday was originally slated for last week, but was postponed until this weekend due to bad weather.

Tracksters of the Week

Roland Montana and Joi Tate have been named Big Spring High School Tracksters of the Week for their efforts in their respective divisions at the Steers and Lady Steers first meet of the season held last week in Fort Stockton.

The Steers scored only two points in the boy's division and while Montana did not figure in those, he did show a strong desire to compete and achieved a great deal according to head coach Randy Britton.

Montana finished 13th in the 800 meters (2:08) to just miss qualifying for the finals in that race. He was seventh in the 1600

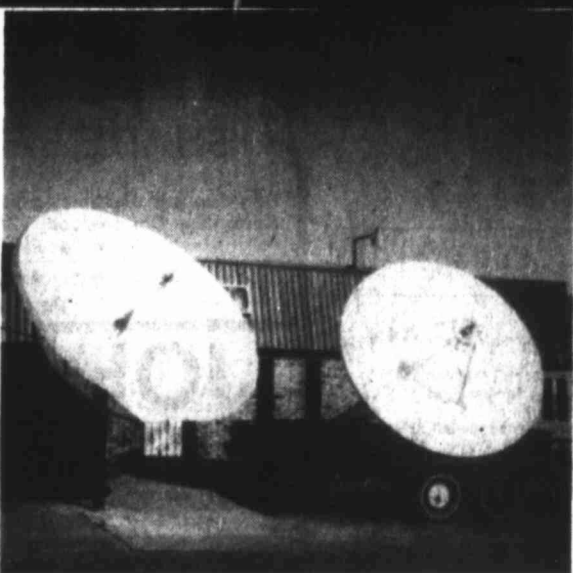

JOI TATE

(4:54) and indicated an interest to run in the 3200, but scratching had already been completed for the event so he was unable to run.

Tate figured prominently in the Lady Steers run for an upper division finish (Big Spring was third).

She ran her second leg of the second place 400 meter relay in 12.04, finished third in the 100 meters (12.88) and was called upon to fill in on the 1600 meter relay when Lisa Bacon hurt a knee in an earlier event. Bacon anchored the tandem and was just nipped at the finish in a race where Big Spring placed third.

West Texas girls win openers in state roundball tournament

AUSTIN (AP) — Waco Richfield and Nazareth remained undefeated, defending Class 4A champion Levelland put on a record defensive performance and Glenda Taylor of Groesbeck had an eight-point play at the Girls' State Basketball Tournament on opening day.

Taylor's sudden scoring spurge centered around the ejection of coach Mike Fountain of Sour Lake Hardin-Jefferson from the game with three technical fouls.

The 34th annual tournament resumed today with semi-final games in 2A and 5A. All championship games are scheduled for Saturday.

Richfield extended its record to 32-0 with a 46-37 victory over Orange Little Cypress-Mauriceville, which sets up a championship match with Levelland, a 32-17 winner over Corpus Christi Calallen.

Abernathy defeated Van Vleck 46-32 in 3A to advance to the finals against Groesbeck, which walloped Hardin-Jefferson 79-51.

Nazareth, winners of a record six tournament titles, raised its season record to 34-0 with a 59-32 victory over Priddy. The Swiftettes will play Petty West Lamar, which edged Moulton 38-36, for the Class A championship.

Fountain was whistled for three technical fouls in the third quarter by official John Ferrara of San Antonio, which resulted in Fountain's automatic ejection from the game.

The last two technicals were assessed after Taylor had arched a two-point shot from the corner, with Groesbeck already comfortably ahead. She was fouled after the shot and made two free throws, then swished four more free throws on the technicals.

The Hardin-Jefferson superintendent was called on the public address, presumably to calm down Fountain. The coach walked off the court with 1 minute 33 seconds left in the third quarter, and his assistant took over.

Taylor, a 5-foot-7 senior, made 8 of 8 free throws and finished with 18 points, one behind team leader Bobbie Whitfield. Groesbeck had a 29-3 edge in free throws over Hardin-Jefferson, which lost four starters on fouls, including high scorers Lisa Turner — 16 — and Barbara Anderson — 12.

Swimmers competing at regional

MONAHANS — The Big Spring boys swim team will have four members vying for a berth at the state meet when they compete in the Region I-AAAA swim meet this weekend at Monahans.

The Steers 200-yard medley relay team of Terry Bordofski, Robert Chase, Cade Loftin and Brigham Martin recorded a 2:00.5 at the district meet to earn a spot at regional. Bordofski will also compete in the 100 yard backstroke by virtue of his fourth place finish at district.

The meet was originally scheduled to be held in Lubbock at the Texas Tech University, but last week high winds wrecked havoc with the roof covering the pool. Prelims got underway at 2 p.m. Friday. The top six times go to the finals which will begin Saturday at 1 p.m. The top two finishers go to the state meet.

AND NOW THE REALLY BAD NEWS.

The disaster isn't over when the emergency teams leave. For tonight these families need food, clothing, shelter. Tomorrow they'll start rebuilding their lives. And that takes months.

The good news is that the Red Cross will help these families every step of the way. No matter how long it takes. If you ever need the Red Cross, you can bet we'll be there. We'll help. Will you?

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEER INSTITUTE

FOR RELEASE SATURDAY, MARCH 3, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Although there is a chance to work out conditions where both men and women are concerned in the daytime, the evening brings a considerable amount of confusion.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be more concerned with those around you and gain their cooperation. A good day for getting fundamental affairs in good order.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Look to good friends for the impetus you need just at this time. Be sure you know what it is you want personally.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can handle those outside affairs that are difficult to handle during busy work days. Sidestep higher-ups.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Handle those affairs that will help you to work on a more lofty level in the future. Stick to the tried and true.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A good day to wind up whichever responsibilities that have been difficult to handle in the past. Please your mate in the evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find day for exchanging ideas with your associates. Enjoy the company of your family and friends. Be cheerful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good day to study your surroundings and get them fixed up a little better so they suit your good tastes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Some delay in a trip or other activity gives you an opportunity to do something more important. Show great devotion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get busy fixing up your home so that it is more as you would like it to be. Show devotion to kin.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are inclined to get into deep matters and this is wise since you can comprehend them. The evening is best spent alone.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have a myriad of small tasks to do, so get at them early. Any repairs you can do yourself will be wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Go after your personal aims quietly and gain them easily. Your friends can be very helpful to you.

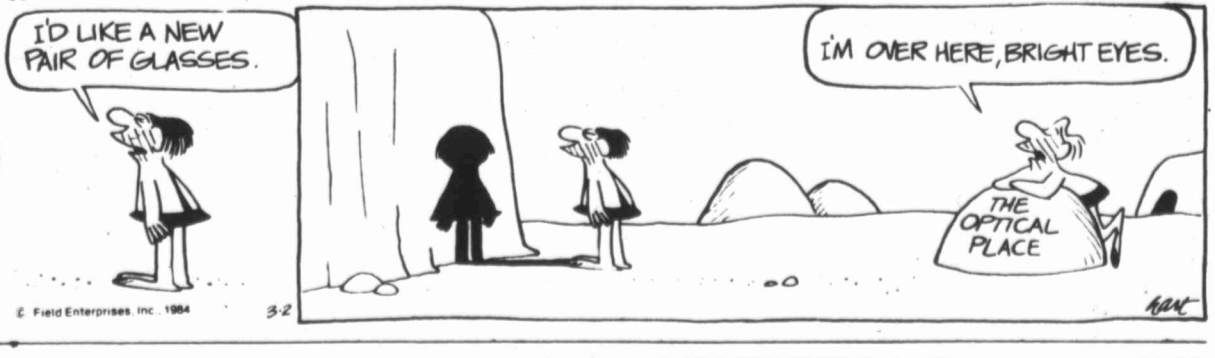

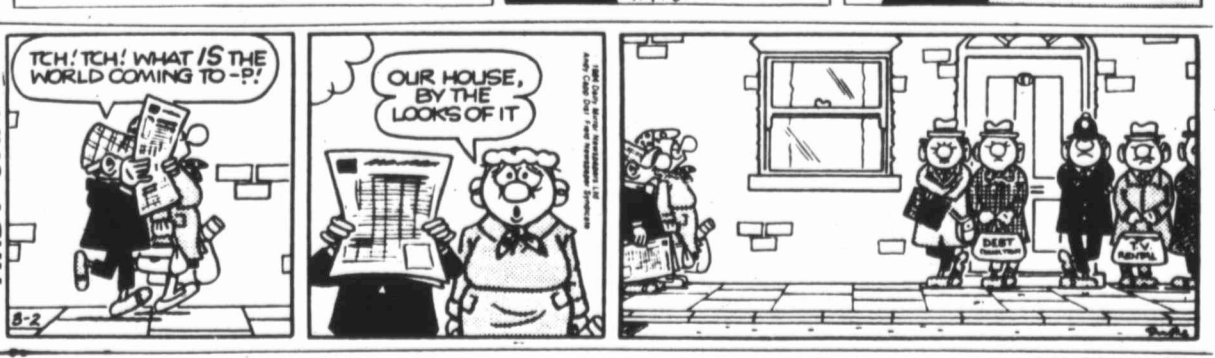

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who can see things in an enlarged way but then is capable of whitening them down to a practical size and make them work properly. Teach to be objective since there is a considerable amount of sensitivity.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
