

Lubbock prisoner shoots deputy; kills self in Brownfield

From staff and wire reports
Big Spring police joined South Plains law enforcement officers this morning on the lookout for a Lubbock County prisoner who shot a deputy sheriff and escaped custody.
He later fatally shot himself in the mouth as law enforcement officers closed in on him 1½ hours later in Brownfield, 40 miles southwest, police said.

The prisoner, Ken Douthit, 42, in leg chains and handcuffs, took two guns planted in the bathroom of a dentist's office this morning and shot a sheriff's deputy five times before fleeing, authorities said.
He was convicted of aggravated robbery earlier this week. He allegedly shot Lubbock County Sheriff's Deputy Billy Daniels in the hand, arm and chest at about 9 a.m. today, said

Sheriff's spokesman Don Stapleton.
Daniels is in very critical condition at Lubbock General Hospital, he said.
"At this time it looks like someone planted the guns for him," Stapleton said. "He went into the restroom and came out with a gun of unknown caliber in each hand," Stapleton said.
"Our deputy did return fire and from indications from the crime scene it appears that Douthit was hit. There was blood spattered on the back wall and a trail of blood leading out of the dentist's office," he said.

Stapleton said a 40-year-old woman authorities believe aided Douthit's escape attempt was arrested in Brownfield.
Police radio reports said Douthit may have been traveling to Abilene where his father is a physician.

Gas danger slows train salvage

OFF THE TRACK — Nine cars, including eight tank cars containing a potentially hazardous form of liquefied petroleum gas, went off the tracks around 11 a.m. Thursday. As shown here, a portion of the derailed track was completely uprooted from the ground during the derailment.

Salvaging efforts are continuing slowly today on nine cars of a train that derailed yesterday in north Big Spring.

Fire department officials said liquefied petroleum gas carried in eight of the wrecked cars poses a danger of exploding if not handled carefully.

Missouri-Pacific Railroad crews by noon had righted two tank cars onto the MoPac tracks about five blocks northwest of downtown and were working on the third car, a Dallas railroad official said.

"We expect the rest of them up and out of the way by 6 or 7 tonight," said Willard Schultz, regional public relations director of the Union Pacific System in Dallas.

Work on the derailed train began about 8 a.m. today after MoPac equipment reached the site earlier in the morning from Abilene, firemen and railroad crews said.

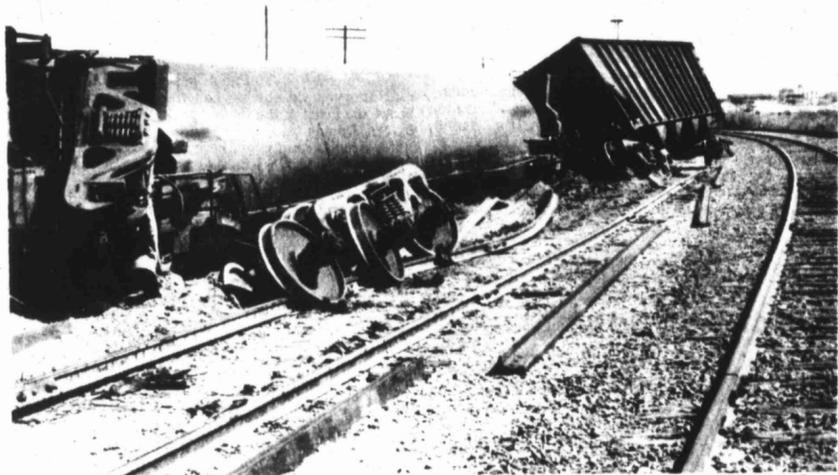

Clean-up efforts were proceeding slowly because of the hazard posed by butene, a liquefied petroleum gas, contained in the cars derailed around 11 a.m. Thursday, officials said. The tank car appeared to contain gravel.

The derailment took place on a spur track near the intersection of First and Channing streets as the train was leaving town for Odessa at 11:10 a.m. Thursday, Big Spring MoPac trainmaster Al Peterson said.

Butene, according to Big Spring Fire Marshall Carl Dorton, is a form of butane. The butene could be ignited if the movement of the cars created a spark, Dorton said. An explosion would cover a one-half mile radius, he said.

"There's no danger right now," Dorton said. "But there is potential (for danger)."

Accidental puncturing of the tank cars also poses a danger, Dorton said. When the butene, which cools the cars, leaks out, gas would enter and heat the tank cars, creating the danger of an explosion, he said.

In addition, skin contact with butene can cause severe frostbite, he said.

Firemen and police had blocked most of the entrances to the derailment site today. Dorton estimated that more than 50 people, including 18 firemen, 17 policemen and 15 railroad crew personnel were working on the site.

City officials had not evacuated residents of the area today, but were standing by in case problems arose during the salvage efforts, firemen and policemen said.

Buses were standing by at the Lakeview School at the intersection of Fifth and Channing Streets to evacuate school children if an accident were to occur, Assistant Fire Marshall Burr Settles said.

"We'll have just enough time to get them out of there (if a leak or explosion happens)," Settles said.

Efforts by the firemen and police to completely block the area from residents and pedestrians were not always successful. On the north side of the tracks, a few elderly people continued to wander dirt tracks near the site, collecting aluminum cans.

Salvage work on the derailed cars should be completed sometime today, firemen said.

"They (the railroad personnel) are saying they will be done by 3 or 5 p.m. today," Dorton said. "It doesn't look like they will make it. They're going to have to hurry."

Fire Chief Jim Ryals estimated that the salvage work would take 18 hours to complete, or 2 a.m. Saturday, based on the two hours needed to right the first car.

Railroad personnel were operating at least two cranes to lift the tank cars, which lay on their sides off the tracks. Workers are trying to lift the cars onto the track, or a parallel line a few feet away, officials said.

State jobless rate continues downward

By The Associated Press
Unemployment in Texas last month plummeted to its lowest level in two years, and the national jobless rate dropped for the sixth consecutive month, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said today.

The seasonally adjusted joblessness rate for Texas dropped to 5.7 percent in February from 6.9 percent the previous month. More than 97,000 people unemployed in January found work in February, said the bureau's chief economic analyst in Dallas, Nic Santangelo.

The nation's unemployment rate fell to 7.8 percent, the lowest level in 2½ years, the bureau said.

Of the 10 largest industrial states, Texas tied with Massachusetts for the lowest unemployment rate, Santangelo said.

"It's just the general improvement in economic activity in the state. The February employment situation really reflects the favorable trends that we've seen since last year," Santangelo said.

Texas still has "pockets" of depressed areas, Santangelo said. But the future looks bright, he added.

"This improvement was achieved despite the lack of a full recovery of energy-related industry and the depressed levels of our border areas," Santangelo said. "When you look at the whole picture, we're really demonstrating the complexity of the economic situation here."

In February, 433,000 people in Texas were unemployed. Nearly 7.2 million did have jobs, he said, an increase of 81,000 from January.

In February 1983, unemployment in Texas stood at 8.6 percent with 652,000 people jobless. Unemployment in the state peaked in the first quarter of last year, Santangelo said.

Santangelo said the changing profile of the Texas economic has caused economists problems with season adjustments and interpretations of data, but the most recent figures are well within margins for error.

Civilian unemployment in the United States fell to 7.8 percent in February, the lowest rate in 2½ years, as 700,000 Americans found work, the government reported today. It was the sixth straight month of falling joblessness.

Local teachers grade today's education

By CAROL BALDWIN

One would be hard-pressed to find a topic hotter than education. Special panels have a hold on it along with politicians, the media and special interest groups. There is even a motion picture in production titled "Teachers."

With all the recommendations, opinions and arguments being proposed these days, it is quite possible one of the most experienced, best equipped groups for making decisions about education is getting overlooked in some instances — and that group is the teachers.

During Public Schools Week this week, three local teachers volunteered their ideas about education in general and what might be done to improve it. The group included Andrea Clark of Bauer Magnet School, Sharon Kelly of Runnels Junior High and Ralph Matteson of Big Spring High.

Matteson, a veteran of 25 years in the classroom, said he would like more authority returned to the teacher, something he said he feels has eroded during his tenure. Matteson spoke of more parental support which, in turn, would help instill respect among young people for teachers and other authority figures.

"When I started teaching, a teacher gave a student an assignment and could be relatively certain the majority of the parents would see that he'd do it," Matteson said. "But today you give an assignment, and if it's not done, some parents will get downright hostile if you do anything to force their kid to do it."

Matteson, who teaches typing, business law and economics, said this has hurt the teacher's effectiveness in the classroom and, in some instances, taken the focus away from learning.

"Sometimes they (parents) miss the point of learning and education. They get worried about other things like 'don't touch my kid,'" Matteson said. "They seem too worried with protecting the child's ego and pride."

In a similar vein, Mrs. Kelly, who has taught in New Jersey, Colorado, Arizona and Texas, said respect for the educated person has declined, thus making learning less attractive.

She would like to see a renewed interest in learning and the process of learning.

School trustees okay contracts

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Big Spring Independent school trustees yesterday renewed 283 teachers' contracts and 33 contracts for special service personnel.

Superintendent Lynn Hise said all renewal recommendations submitted to the board were approved. Trustees reviewed three calendars which had been submitted to all district employees for the 1984-85 school year. Hise said educators in the past have asked "Why can't we start school after Labor Day?" instead of in August. To answer this question, BSISD administrators prepared three calendars to educators to view.

The calendar which had school starting after Labor Day pushed the end of the school year back to June 6. That calendar received only 25 out of 442 votes.

Trustees approved a calendar similar to the one in effect this school year. This calendar received 266 votes from educators throughout the system. According to the calendar, school will begin Aug. 27 and conclude in May.

A resignation from Carrie Barber, Chapter I teacher at Moss Elementary School, was accepted by trustees. Hired as her replacement was Aida Evangeline Andrews, a local resident with a degree from New Mexico State University.

Recommendations by the Textbook Committee were approved by trustees for use during the coming school year. Hise said the number of textbooks ordered is based on enrollment and most texts are used on a six-year adoption cycle. However, due to the rising cost of textbooks to the state, state officials are considering an eight-year cycle.

Trustees approved a bid of $22,215 from Snook and Aderton, Inc., Lubbock, for 15 stainless steel replacement compartments for evaporative cooling units. Trustees also approved an extra $5,924 expenditure to purchase four additional units from the same company.

Also approved was a bid of $9,375 for 30 packaged evaporative coolers for Marcy Elementary. The bid was received from Oberkamp Supply Inc. in Odessa. Trustees approved an additional $4,687.50 expenditure to the company to purchase 15 more units for use throughout the district.

Trustees agreed to have the South Ward property on the city's northside appraised for possible sale in the future.

Ballot positions drawn for City Council races

Three of the seven candidates for Big Spring city council positions from Districts 1 and 3 showed up at City Hall this morning to draw for ballot positions for the April 7 election, City Secretary Tom Ferguson said after the drawing.

Candidates Danny Heckler, Micheal Russell and Bob Smith took turns drawing the names of all seven candidates. Heckler's name will appear first on the District 3 ballot, followed by Russell, Smith and Harold Hall, Ferguson said.

On the District 1 ballot, Henry Sanchez's name will appear first, followed by the names of John Laro and Ricardo Beltran, Ferguson said.

All candidates except Laro and Beltran have filed the names of their campaign treasurers, Ferguson said.

By law, the candidates cannot accept contributions or spend any money on their campaigns until their treasurers' names have been filed, Ferguson said.

Acting as treasurer for Heckler is Jack Thompson of 2800 Cactus; for Hall is J.D. Nelson of 704 Belvedere; and for Russell is H.W. Wright, who listed his business address at 104 Young, Ferguson said.

Smith and Sanchez are acting as their own treasurers in the campaign, Ferguson said.

Beef not going to schools

AUSTIN (AP) — About 19 million pounds of possibly tainted ground beef purchased by the U.S. Agriculture Department won't be going to public schools, and Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox approved of the decision.

"It is gratifying that USDA finally publicly stated that this bad beef will not be turned loose upon the American public," Mattox said Thursday.

The meat at one time was destined for the nationwide public school lunch program, but state officials said none of the meat was released to Texas schools.

Train

Workers initially had problems because the railroad equipment was too heavy for the ground surface near the tracks, a railroad crew member said.

Two pieces of MoPac's heavy machinery were stuck when they broke the crust of the land near the tracks, Dorton said.

"It's just a thin crust here over the water. They broke the crust and sunk," Dorton said.

Salvage efforts also were hampered by the condition of the rail, which in some places was completely twisted and off the ground, firemen and MoPac crew members said.

"They're having to piece together the track," said one fireman, blocking the entrance to the area at Fourth and Lanham streets. "That's why it's taking so long. In some areas, the track's okay, and it should go faster."

But clean-up efforts will be slowed when the railroad crews reach the middle tank cars, which are lying on their sides, their wheels twisted and separated from the cars.

"They're going to put them back on the same wheels, they (railroad personnel) told us," Dorton said. Officials said they remain uncertain about the actual cause of the derailment. Peterson said Thursday the railroad company would not be able to determine the cause of the derailment for a few days, when the rail could be pieced together.

"They (MoPac officials) told us later that two cars rolled off the track, and the way they are hooked up, the others just followed," Dorton said.

Firemen were collecting pieces of the torn-up rail for use in determining the cause of the accident.

Confusion developed Thursday when fire officials were trying to determine the contents of the tank cars, Dorton said.

The tank cars were marked with placards stating they contained liquefied petroleum gas.

"They were correct, but it was marked generally. I had a conference yesterday with Chem-trax (an agency that helps handle emergency situations involving chemicals and trains) and the supplier," Dorton said. "The supplier still says they contain butyldene, but we found out that they (the cars) contain butene."

"It was marked generally, and I think they should mark it with the specific contents," he said. "They pose the same hazards."

Firemen were stationed at both the north and south sides of the site yesterday afternoon and evening to keep persons from crossing near the tracks. However, they said they had difficulty keeping residents from crossing the tracks instead of going up to the bridge over the railroad crossing at Gregg Street.

"He'll just go up a block and cross back over the railroad tracks where we can't see him," one of the firemen at the northside roadblock said Thursday night of a man walking home from work. "They say it's just too far."

The possibility of danger from the butene in the tank cars did not bother two railroad hobos, who sat alongside the derailment Thursday afternoon, drinking Thunderbird wine and waiting for the 1 a.m. train to Galveston.

"They're running trains right up next to it (on the undamaged parallel tracks)," said one of the hobos. "It can't be too bad."

Teachers

There seems to be a lack of respect for education — for taking the material you were born with and expanding it as far as you can expand it," she said. "We should instill in our children that school is a place where you will go to become more of what you were meant to be. The issue at hand is to see if we can't increase the learning levels of our people."

As ideas for increasing learning, Mrs. Kelly offered suggestions including a renewed emphasis on vocabulary and the use of math specialists in elementary schools.

"I believe that the student can't think without words and without an emphasis on developing a wider and more thorough vocabulary, he will be lost in most of his subjects unless he understands the terminology," she said. "Right now they (students) have a very basic communication ability. They can communicate with people on their same level or in their same genre, but to cross lines — it's very difficult because of the limitation of their vocabulary."

Mrs. Kelly, who teaches Chapter I English, advocates a vocabulary curriculum that will interrelate subject matter thus giving students a well-rounded and functional understanding of words and communication.

As for mathematics specialists in the elementary school, Mrs. Kelly said these individuals would be on hand to support teachers often not having enough time to devote to troublesome courses like math.

"When I taught elementary (she is certified in both secondary and elementary education), I was not a math-trained person. I did not have the resources to do an adequate job of teaching math."

"Someone who is trained in math can see the students' problems and correct them from early on," she said. "If they don't get a firm understanding of math in the first and second grades, then they're lost. And if they cannot understand math concepts they will be lost in other courses as well."

However, the classroom is not the only place where changes are needed, according to Andre Clark, president of the local Association of Texas Profession Educators chapter.

She said educators should band together on issues facing teachers, especially in light of education's political ramifications.

"We need to let people know what we want, so we'll get the right things for us. Educators need to be organized as a group so that they can have a voice," Mrs. Clark said.

Administrators, faculty and paraprofessionals are all eligible to belong to ATPE. The organization takes an active part in lobbying for teacher merit pay increases and other educator benefits such as insurance and legal tips.

"ATPE is the organization of the future," she said. "It is the only organization that includes everyone in the district."

ATPE has been active in Big Spring for five years, Mrs. Clark said. Cleo Carlile founded the organization locally.

In the future, Mrs. Clark said ATPE is interested in "helping the school board and Mr. (Lynn) Hise (superintendent of the BSISD) to formulate plans for merit pay."

Mainly, Mrs. Clark said, the group is trying to get teachers interested "in their future."

The three teachers want to see education elevated back to its old plateau of importance. Perhaps with organizations like ATPE and the collective input of teachers like Matteson, Kelly and Clark — and much hard work on the part of schools, parents and students — education will be hoisted back onto solid ground.

Jobless

Martin Feldstein, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, told the National Association of Manufacturers on Thursday that job opportunities should improve throughout the year as the economy continues to grow. He predicted the economy will expand through the first three months at an annual rate of 6 percent.

The Reagan administration has forecast that unemployment will average 7.6 in the fourth quarter of this year, and several private economists said they believe joblessness will continue to recede, although not as dramatically as in the last six months.

The seasonally adjusted jobless rate is based on a Census Bureau survey of some 50,000 U.S. households. A separate survey of businesses, which is not included in the calculation of the rate, showed that payroll employment expanded by 385,000 last month.

In testimony prepared for the congressional Joint Economic Committee, Janet L. Norwood, the commissioner of labor statistics, said, "We continue to experience an unusually strong labor market recovery reflected in large employment gains and a steady decline in the unemployment rate."

The total number of people with jobs reached a record 103.9 million, but some 8.8 million remained out-

Officially categorized as unemployed, the Labor Department said.

The 7.8 percent overall civilian rate was down from 8 percent in January and was the lowest since joblessness stood at 7.6 percent in September 1981. The February rate was only 0.4 percentage point higher than the jobless rate when President Reagan took office in January 1981.

Since unemployment hit a post-Depression peak of 10.7 percent in November 1982, the ranks of the jobless have shrunk by 3.1 million, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said. A separate unemployment rate,

NEW YORK — Frank Sinatra, who made it to the top as a singer and actor, may have potential in a new field — painting.

An oil canvas by Sinatra sold for $7,500 at auction Thursday. Painted in 1955, the piece was from Sinatra's "Ava Gardner period," according to the Charles Hamilton Galleries. Miss Gardner was Sinatra's second wife.

The painting, "Ash Can," depicts Fifth Avenue in New York by night and is "very impressionistic, very soft with its turquoise colors," said Susan Miller, a gallery spokeswoman.

The buyer was described as a movie industry executive.

"It is the first time a Sinatra painting has come to light," said Ms. Miller.

The painting, 24 inches by 20 inches, had been given by Sinatra to sportswriter Jimmy Cannon.

Ms. Miller said that among the 150 bidders on the floor, there was only one bidder for the painting — the movie executive. She said there were several telephone bids.

Graves doesn't dig ice

TRUCKEE — Actor Peter Graves, known to TV audiences for his six-year stint as the team leader on "Mission Impossible," has another not-too-easy task ahead. He has to spend a week in a California hospital recovering from injuries he suffered in a fall, a spokesman says.

Graves, 58, broke both his upper and lower jaws when he slipped on an icy road and fell into some rocks while walking near his Lake Tahoe condominium, his spokesman, Rick Ingersoll, said Thursday.

The actor needed about 100 stitches around his lips, but is not expected to require plastic surgery, Ingersoll said in Los Angeles.

Graves fell Sunday and was listed in stable condition Thursday at Tahoe Forest Hospital. The brother of actor James Arness, Graves also starred in "Airplane" and "Airplane II."

Drugs good for business

NEW YORK — Actor Jack Nicholson says his reputation as a womanizer and a cocaine user is "good for business," and so he has decided to "put up with being falsely described."

"I can't go around saying I'm not a womanizer, because that's silly," Nicholson says in an interview. "First of all, it's good for business if people think I'm a womanizer."

Concerning drugs, Nicholson, 46, admits to using marijuana, but "I've never told anyone that I actually do cocaine. I've never said that to anyone."

"As a workman, I'm known as a model of professionalism," he said. "I have to put up with being falsely described because it's unhip to bridle at it. Besides, just like womanizing, I'm not sure it ain't good for business," he said in the interview in the March 29 issue of Rolling Stone magazine.

Divorce is not so super

REDWOOD CITY — As if San Francisco 49ers quarterback Joe Montana didn't have enough problems dodging sacks in the National Football League, he now says his estranged wife won't let him have his Super Bowl Most Valuable Player trophy or his Arabian horse.

According to court documents, Cass Montana says he's not paying her enough money to keep up their $325,000 home and feed and water their two horses and five dogs.

Their accountant meanwhile is warning both that $40,000 in federal taxes will come due next month and has urged them to sell their Woodside home and ranch property to pay the bill, the documents say.

The news in brief

Hart, Mondale in dead heat

WASHINGTON — Gary Hart and Walter Mondale, both eschewing the front-runner title, are locked in a virtual dead heat in two new polls as the two Democratic presidential rivals head into their first confrontation in the West and even bigger stakes on "Super Tuesday."

Hart said Thursday he was "sprinting" to "catch up against campaigns that have had five or six times as much money."

And Mondale, asking voters in Florida to "please help me," said his alling campaign was coming back from 1-2-3 losses in New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine.

WALTER MONDALE

His first chance to prove that is Saturday, where the outcome of Wyoming caucuses will be the first test of either candidate's strength in the West. Then comes Tuesday, and with it primaries and caucuses in nine states.

As those contests draw near, polls from the newspaper USA TODAY and the Gallup organization put the former vice president and the Colorado senator in a virtual tie as the choice of Democratic voters.

The USA TODAY poll gave Hart a lead of 34 percent to 32 percent over Mondale among 534 Democrats surveyed March 2-5, but the figures translate into a dead heat when the 3 percent margin of error is taken into account.

In the Gallup poll, Mondale held a slender 33-30 percentage lead over Hart with a 4 percent margin of error. Those results came from interviews with 719 registered voters March 2-6.

Hammer killer back in jail

VACAVILLE — Theodore Streleski, who beat his Stanford professor to death with a hammer only 5½ years was back in prison Friday because he didn't want to say he was sorry.

The bearded, long-haired Streleski, 47, told reporters in a confused statement Thursday he felt no remorse about the killing but that he was breaking parole "as a statement against the power and arrogance of Stanford."

The unexpected move meant authorities could keep Streleski prisoner up to 18 more months and that students and faculty at Stanford — terrified at his refusal to say he would not kill again — could rest easier.

THEODORE STRELESKI

Minutes after emerging from the California Medical Facility at Vacaville, Streleski said he had decided to violate parole with a "non-violent act... like missing an appointment" with a parole officer.

Streleski, who had been a model prisoner until given the chance to go free, said he wanted to serve out his eight-year sentence so that when he finally is freed he'll not be bound by any parole restrictions. Parole officials had ordered the former graduate student to stay away from Stanford.

"I don't want to do anything that says I didn't mean it," Streleski said of his 1978 beating of math professor Karel deLeeuw with a two-pound hammer. "I meant it."

Sewer accident kills 2

PHOENIX — Officials kept a carbon monoxide-filled sewer pipe sealed today while they pondered how to safely investigate the site where a construction worker and a would-be rescuer were killed and 29 others were felled trying to save them.

The carbon monoxide apparently was created by a malfunctioning gasoline-powered water pump in the half-mile-long pipe, Gordon Routley, a fire protection engineer with the Phoenix Fire Department, said Thursday.

The dead worker had gone inside Thursday afternoon to check the pump, and when he didn't emerge, others went in to try to save him. In all, 31 workers and firefighters were overcome by fumes and heat exhaustion, officials said.

The federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration sealed the entrance at a Papago Freeway construction site after the accident, Routley said.

Routley said the pumps are usually left unattended for several days, and two workers had initially entered the pipe to service the devices. Neither was wearing a gas mask.

Beirut fighting flares

BEIRUT — Christian and Moslem militiamen battled with heavy machine guns and rocket-propelled grenades in central Beirut today, and a sniper shot and killed a local journalist.

Fighting intensified shortly before daybreak and frequent blasts of grenades echoed through Beirut as the rival militias clashed in the battered downtown commercial district. Police said two people were killed and 27 wounded before the fighting eased at midmorning.

A sniper fatally wounded journalist Mohammed Houmani, 52, near the French Embassy compound in west Beirut at midmorning, the state radio reported. At first, the state radio said he had been sprayed by a volley of 20 shots fired from a speeding car, but it later dropped that report.

YITZHAK SHAMIR

Houmani, a Shiite Moslem, was shot as he walked to the Information Ministry, where he worked as a news editor for state-run Beirut Radio and the national news agency, the radio said.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli daily newspaper Yebioth Abromoth today quoted Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir as saying he would like to end Israel's military presence in Lebanon, "but according to the present situation, it can be assumed we will need to maintain some sort of presence there for a long time."

On Monday, Lebanese President Amin Gemayel bowed to Syrian and rebel pressure and renounced his May 17 troop withdrawal agreement with Israel.

That action freed Israel to take additional measures in Lebanon, Shamir was quoted as saying, such as increasing patrols by its soldiers.

Smith denies mass graves

HARARE — Ian Smith, former prime minister of the white-ruled British colony of Rhodesia, denies any knowledge of mass graves purportedly containing the remains of 4,000 black guerrillas killed in the war of independence.

"We believe there is no substance in this," he said Thursday. "I don't believe what government ministers are saying took place, could have taken place, without myself and my ministers knowing about it."

On Monday, the Zimbabwean government publicized the discovery of the mass graves, said to be located at a shooting range 90 miles southeast of Harare.

The state-controlled Herald newspaper carried a report quoting Information Minister Nathan Shamuyarira saying the "brutalities and atrocities" committed by Smith's administration were being exposed.

IAN SMITH

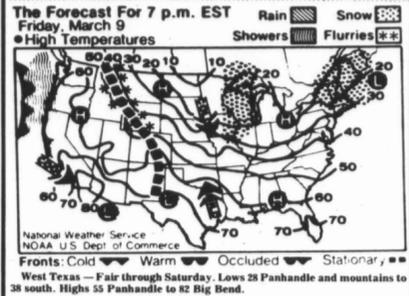

Foreign correspondents are to be shown the graves Saturday, according to the Information Department.

In his first news conference since the creation of Zimbabwe four years ago, Smith accused Prime Minister Robert Mugabe's black socialist government of "stirring up past hatreds" to divert attention from troubled Matabeleland province where thousands of soldiers are hunting armed anti-government dissidents.

The rebels are said to be loyal to black opposition leader Joshua Nkomo.

In the latest report of violence in Matabeleland, Zimbabwe said Thursday that a 10-man gang armed with weapons supplied by South Africa burned down a school, wounded two teachers with bayonets and killed a local chairman of the ruling party.

Blizzard lashes Northeast

A blizzard-strength storm blamed for at least 11 deaths lashed the Northeast with up to 10 inches of snow today, rumbling up the Atlantic coast with thunderstorms and pulling record-setting cold in its wake.

High winds that had whipped light snow into blinding whiteouts Thursday in southwestern Ohio, where 95 cars slid off Interstate 75, tailed off slightly in most of the East but still hit 38 mph in northern New Jersey.

Seven hundred extra workers joined the normal 800 to clear streets in New York City this morning as the snow, blown in by 30 mph winds, quickly reached 4 inches. The National Weather Service predicted "a rough rush hour for those venturing to work."

"We're getting a siege here," said a police dispatcher in Allentown, Pa., where the snow reached 8 inches by midnight and was falling at an inch an hour.

Motorists heeded warnings to stay off roads overnight, but police were expecting numerous traffic problems later, he said.

Temperatures plummeted west and north of the storm.

Sioux Falls, Iowa, began the day at 11 below zero, breaking the record of 5 below set March 9, 1948. Indianapolis was at a record 3 above zero and that was likely to drop further, forecasters said. But neither the 16 below at Massena, N.Y., nor the 18 below at Marquette, Mich., was a record.

The mercury was in the 20s in most of the Northeast, but that too was changing as the storm settled in.

"I'm looking forward to at least a dozen record lows for the date scattered across the Northeast," said forecaster Harry Gordon at the Severe Storms Center in Kansas City, Mo.

Temperatures on left indicate previous day's high and overnight low to 8 a.m. EST. Temperatures on right indicate outlook for tomorrow.

Air safety board needs a big lift

Although deregulation and new competition have put pressure on some segments of the airline industry to cut costs at the risk of safety, the Reagan administration has steadily reduced the number of Federal Aviation Administration safety inspectors. In 1981, there were 638; there are only 508 today. That decline has come at a time when the growth of small commuter lines has contributed to a near doubling of the nation's air carriers, from 35 to 65, and when one small airline after another has been shut down or suspended for safety violations — some of which cropped up only in the course of near accidents.

It's therefore welcome news that Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole has ordered the inspector force beefed up quickly to a total of 674. She also has ordered an increase in the number of regular and short-notice inspections to cover everything from airframes and engines to ground operations and maintenance procedures. A current task force evaluation of the entire safety-inspection program, which is expected to be completed in April, Dole said, will be the basis for still other safety initiatives.

The tougher new inspection program will concentrate on the smaller new commuter lines, but will not give the majors short shrift. Though Dole didn't suggest that air travel has become less safe, there surely has been reason for concern.

An Eastern Airlines DC-10, for example, lost three engines over the Atlantic last year because a mechanic forgot to install oil seals, and a Republic Airlines DC-9 made a forced landing at Phoenix, Ariz., with fewer than five gallons of fuel left in its tanks.

With the resignation of J. Lynn Helmes as FAA chief, under a cloud from questions about his private business dealings before entering government service, Dole has nominated Donald D. Engen to head the agency. Engen, currently a member of the National Transportation Safety Board, is a former Navy pilot with considerable experience in both civilian and military safety investigations. He has been outspoken in warning of the dangers to safety standards attending deregulation. His practical background should assure the FAA's emphasis on safety.

It is good that Dole is redressing the administration's all-too-cavalier attitude. The nation has probably been lucky that it has been spared any major recent air disasters, but the trends certainly have not been reassuring.

Around The Rim

By RICK BROWN

A stop the press kind of news day

Once in a while in this business, a story breaks and you don't know where the day's course of events will take you.

So it was yesterday when, "Get down to the armory and get me a sidebar on what's happening with the evacuation," were the directions I received from Herald news editor Keith Briscoe. Crisp words they were from a crisp man.

We were all on what is known in the business as a "hot" story yesterday afternoon when a train carrying a kind of liquefied natural gas derailed in the center of town.

A call to the Salvation Army revealed that city officials were meeting to decide whether an evacuation would be necessary. Five minutes later, a second call revealed that the evacuation was on and the National Guard Army would be opened up to receive the evacuees.

I had to get the "sidebar," the side story to go with the main story about the train derailment that ace Herald reporter Keely Coghlan was busily working to get out for the day's edition.

To say that the newsroom was in a panic yesterday would be an understatement. The story broke about an hour after our normal 11 o'clock deadline and our editors decided to go with it.

I don't know who got to shout those immortal newspaper words, "Stop the presses!" (or even if they were shouted at all, since most of us here are not prone to the dramatic), but it was definitely a story to stop the presses about. Adrenaline levels were running high.

It was hard to contain my agitation when I arrived at the armory to find no Salvation Army and no evacuees. I would just have to amuse myself until they arrived.

Agitation became aggravation when I found I had locked my keys in the car.

No matter, there was a story to get and I would worry about the keys later.

Salvation Army Lt. Carroll Braun arrived to coordinate the food and sleeping arrangements for the evacuees.

"It looks like I won't be able to enjoy the lasagne we're serving at the Army tonight," he said with a touch of disappointment.

Still, we were both even more disappointed when Carl Dorton of the fire department telephoned to say the evacuation had been called off.

And there was the matter of the keys locked in my car.

The good lieutenant from the Salvation Army agreed to give me a ride to my house so I could get my extra set of keys, but first he needed to go down to the site of the derailment to talk to Civil Defense coordinator Hal Boyd.

Being a reporter who knows that the best news often comes from these little jaunts, I was perfectly agreeable to the detour.

As we rode in the Army's minivan along the dirt road beside the railroad tracks, we saw a drifter, a rather youngish man wearing dirty jeans and carrying a rucksack.

"I'll see him later tonight," Lt. Braun said with a laugh.

From the site of the derailment we were off to the Salvation Army to tell those who were busily preparing food and bedding that the evacuation had been called off.

"Cancelled! We've got all this food sitting here," said the lieutenant's wife when we arrived. She was a slight woman who speaks her mind.

"Well, at least we can have our lasagne," she said. And delicious it looked, too.

Beastly life of Grenada's general

WASHINGTON — One of the most amazing documents captured from the Marxist government of Grenada was a detailed report on a man who blatantly cheated on his wife, beat her up, and on one occasion pulled a gun on her. The report was stamped "Confidential."

Why was the report so hush-hush? Simple: The husband accused of such abominable behavior was none other than Gen. Hudson Austin, commander of Grenada's armed forces.

It was Austin, a former prison guard, who proclaimed himself the head of the 16-member military junta that deposed and executed Prime Minister Maurice Bishop, thereby touching off the U.S. invasion of the island last October.

What makes the documents even more fascinating is that it was written by Phyllis Coard, a high-ranking member of the Marxist "New Jewel Movement" and wife of Deputy Prime Minister Bernard Coard, who masterminded the bloody coup that ousted Bishop.

Austin and the Coards were captured when U.S. Marines and paratroopers landed on Grenada. All three Marxist leaders are now in Grenada's Richmond Hill Prison.

The confidential report on Austin, seen by my associate Dale Van Atta, was dated May 11, 1981. It was a "formal complaint" lodged by Phyllis Coard. As head of the Marxist women's organization on the island, she was having trouble meeting her membership goal of 5,000 — and blamed Austin's disgraceful mistreatment of his wife for her recruiting problems.

Austin, she wrote, had "seriously damaged the (women's) group in St. Paul's, on which his wife is Chairperson ... disgraced the Party's reputation (and) created a scandal in St. Paul's, deeply angering the women of the area and shaking their confidence in the leadership of the Party, as well as exposing our women supporters there to the taunts of counterrevolutionary elements, thus weakening the Party's influence in the area."

Ms. Coard detailed Austin's beastly conduct in a bill of particulars replete with British-style spellings and typing and grammatical errors:

(a) the view of the women in St. Paul's that Cde. Austin's behavior while his wife was abroad studying was unbenefitting to a leader of the Party ... particularly his being locked up inside his house ... with another woman several times weekly while her car remained outside in public view, and the fact that his children were aware of his liaison with this woman,

(b) it is widely known that the comrade pulled his gun at his wife and daughter some weeks ago. This has caused deep concern among the people as a gross abuse of power,

(c) the Comrade's beating his wife on Good Friday is now widely known, she had to jump through the win-ago." "I'm sorry to hear that," I said. "What happened?"

"Irreconcilable differences. He said I spent too much money on clothes. I seemed to want a different outfit every week. Every time the charge account bills came in he lost his temper. I guess I was a spoiled brat, but in those days before my consciousness was raised I thought clothes were everything."

"What happened to Ken?" "He found a doll that was into jeans and tank tops, and married her. They seem very happy, and after the bitterness of the divorce, we're now friends again."

"What did you do?" "I married a G.I. Joe."

"You're married to a soldier?" "He was a soldier. He got out of the Army and he's now a defense spareparts contractor. I couldn't afford many outfits when he was in the service. But now that I can buy anything I want to, I just don't seem to be as interested in clothes as I used to be. I might buy something on sale, but I don't have six closets full of the stuff any more."

"Neither do I," Connie said rather bitterly. "How are the children?" my wife asked.

"They're all out of the nest. George is in computers, Harriet goes to Princeton, and Debbie drives a school bus."

"But what do you do with yourself?" my wife

Briscoe is deaf to others' prayers

To the editor:

Recently, I read the article in the Herald by Keith Briscoe. I was amazed by how he put down the President for trying to get prayer back in school. As a High School student, I think that by having prayer in school, the student body will be more united. The kids may have different religions, but we all worship and praise the one almighty GOD.

If Mr. Briscoe did have to suffer through prayer when he was in his younger school days, it does not seem that it had a very lasting effect. The public society expects young kids to follow the examples of leading public citizens. Mr. Briscoe destroys this concept completely. I have pity in my heart for Mr. Briscoe.

He objects to one belief being given preference over others; if he really believes this, he would stop preaching this every Sunday through the Herald. I hope the Lord will minister to him because he is blind.

He thinks the schools should be stronger in science, English, and history. While these are important, it is not these subjects that have given our great country its strength. Contrary to what Mr. Briscoe thinks, it was the founding fathers who were men of prayer. If the constitution, as he says, forbids prayer in school, then why was each session of the Constitutional Congress opened with a prayer?

I am afraid that Mr. Briscoe is more interested in inciting trouble than in stating facts.

City settlement was democratic

To the editor:

I am a little amused and amazed at the response to the settlement that involves the term extension of the city council members. I realize there is a great deal of emotion involved in any lawsuit concerning voting rights but the fact that a settlement was reached among the parties and not decided by a federal judge is admirable and preferable. It followed all the legal requirements within our democratic system of government and was approved by that system. If the term extensions had taken place without such extenuating circumstances then of course the courts would have heard the plaintiffs case since that action would have been illegal.

To reach such a compromise requires some sacrifice by a few to attain a better representation in the city government by a great many. So there are three people who have to sacrifice a couple of years before they can run for office. There are still many other issues and positions that we will vote on when the election comes. There are other city precincts, county commissioners, amendments, presidential primary and election that we will be able to vote for and that's what I intend to do... vote.

Education board chairman blasts Perot idea

AUSTIN (AP) — Education reformer H. Ross Perot wants to replace a democratic, elected State Board of Education with an appointed panel of dictators, Board Chairman Joe Kelly Butler charged Thursday.

Butler and two other board members said they believed that Perot, chairman of the Select Committee Public Education, tried to entice them to support an appointed board by telling them they might get seats on the new panel.

Perot has said any reforms the committee recommends would be killed by the 27-member elected board. He wants a much smaller board appointed by the governor.

Butler, a Houston businessman, told reporters that he's too loyal to turn his back on the elected board. "If we are going to get blown away, I'm going to go right with them," Butler said.

"This little group of dictators they are going to put in charge are going to have an easy time. We've done all the hard work," he said.

A spokeswoman in Perot's office said he was out of town and unavailable for comment Thursday.

The appointed panel is now merely an idea. It will be voted on next Wednesday in Dallas by the Select Committee. Legislators would have final say.

Board members Will Davis of Austin and Mary Ann Leveridge of East Bernard also said Perot had, at least by implication, said they would have seats at seats on an appointed board. The Perot comments came in conversations about support for an appointed board.

Women from the Republican Women's Club are sponsoring the Mothers' Day Out program. Mothers who need to leave their children at the Center for short periods of time should contact Mrs. Brown at 263-2673.

The Northside Community Center is also sponsoring a cleanup campaign for the northside of town. Mrs. Brown said the Northside Community Center will award a "House of the Month" sign once a month to a well-kept home. The owner of the house will receive a $25 gift certificate for groceries, Mrs. Brown said.

Another program ongoing at the Center is the Community Closet. Mrs. Brown said a number of clothes are available for needy families at the Center. Anyone who needs clothes may contact the Center to find out when to come by and choose some clothes.

TOP MARCY SPELLERS — Jason Baskin, left, won the recent Marcy Elementary spelling bee. He is the son of Mrs. Leann Baskin of 1202 Douglas and a fifth-grader at the school. Mimi Regalado, daughter of Mrs. Patsy Regalado and also a fifth-grader, came in second. Jason will advance to the Howard County Spelling Bee.

SMU frat house under investigation

DALLAS (AP) — A Southern Methodist University fraternity has been placed on restrictions after three pledges who attended a party later received hospital treatment for excessive drinking.

The fraternity, Beta Lambda Chapter of Kappa Alpha Order, cannot have alcohol on its premises until an investigation into the Feb. 29 incident is complete. A formal campus judicial review is tentatively scheduled for the end of the month, university officials said.

Dear Abby

'Marriage, cousins and the law' — chapter 4

DEAR ABBY: After all those "culpas," you asked, "How does one go about rescinding not only a 'mea culpa,' but a 'maxima culpa'?"

I have the answer: "Ego to absolve." Go your way, and sin nomore.

FATHER ANDREW L.F. JAMES, ATHENS, OHIO
DEAR FATHER: Thank you. I need all the absolution I can get. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: You have published a number of letters about the first cousins from Massachusetts who got married in a state where first cousins could legally marry, and then returned to Massachusetts, which forbids such marriages.

Your first response: "A valid marriage is valid in every state."

Then Elaine Trudeau, a registrar from Boston, challenged you with a Massachusetts law that stated otherwise, and you promptly withdrew your comment with a "Mea culpa. Mea maxima culpa."

Next, one Robert Turner of Hopewell, Va., wrote to say that the U.S. Constitution upheld your original position — you were right in the first place!

Abby, Mr. Turner is mistaken.

JAMES A. MARTIN, PROFESSOR OF LAW,
UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

DEAR PROFESSOR: Let's review this: First I said, "A valid marriage is valid in every state." Then Elaine Trudeau, a Boston registrar, wrote to say that I was wrong, so I apologized.

Then a Robert Turner advised me that I was right in the first place and Ms. Trudeau was wrong.

Now you tell me I was wrong in the first place — that Ms. Trudeau was right, and Mr. Turner was wrong to say that I was right.

Should I rest my case? Or take it to a higher court?

DEAR ABBY: After sharing that letter about the 6-year-old who walked over to his mother, unbuttoned her blouse and started to nurse, I suggest that you publish a warning to first-grade teachers in Hawaii: "Wear blouses that button down the front at your own risk."

FIRST-GRADE TEACHER

She showed slides of the blooms of various species also in landscapes. Some plants bloom from February until December. Miss Oren stated that the energy plant would be partially operational this year if license for same is granted.

The state DAR conference will be in San Antonio, March 15-17. The next meeting will be April 2.

Dr. Donohue
Pressure, hives

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: We all hear of people being allergic to foods, etc. and getting hives. But have you ever heard of anyone being allergic this way to pressure? If I fall asleep with one foot over the other, the next a.m. I will have hives where my feet lay against each other. Just sitting on a folding chair for an hour will produce welts where the seams of my underwear hit. Have you any suggestions for a condition such as this? This is such a unique thing that you may prefer to dismiss it. — J.L.

Not at all. It's unusual, but not unique. Pressure can cause hives. So can heat, cold or exercise. And pressure may even cause an acne-like rash in some people. Tight garments can cause them also. Aside from the common-sense avoidance of the pressures, antihistamines do help. If you are not bothered with the problem on a daily basis, then using antihistamines as you need them, during outbreaks, is fine.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Since it is said that the virus that causes the very painful shingles rash is the same one that causes the chicken pox rash, could not a person get shingles by being exposed to a child with chicken pox? — S.P.

You're correct in saying the same virus causes the two eruptions. But the shingles is a reactivation of the virus that caused the childhood pox rash. It has lain dormant in the nerves, only to emerge later as shingles. If an adult passed through childhood without contracting chicken pox (a very unlikely supposition) he could catch that from exposure. He would not get the shingles at that time, but he might later. Your other questions are answered in the booklet "The Facts About Shingles," which other readers may order by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Herpes may be killing the sexual revolution, but having it doesn't mean the end of your life. Or the end of your sex life. In his new booklet, Dr. Paul Donohue separates the truth from the fiction about this controversial health problem. For your copy of "Herpes: Don't Panic," send one dollar and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Cronkite snubs fuss over TV newsmen

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Cronkite, himself revered as one of the most successful television news anchorpeople, says he's "always thought that the anchorperson personality cult thing was awful." Cronkite, a retired anchorman for the "CBS Evening News," adds, however, that he was unsuccessful in persuading his own network that television news doesn't need anchorpeople.

Cronkite, in an interview in the March 11 Parade magazine, said he misses "not being part of the news every night — the clicking teletypes and the clacking typewriters."

"But I don't miss the on-air part at all. Actually, I've always thought that the anchorperson personality cult thing was awful. I don't think there should even be anchorpeople — except off the air. We even worked on that idea when I was at CBS, but it didn't get anywhere."

Cronkite also said the only time he remembers putting "three bleeps" together was when a woman accused him of being two-faced the day President John F. Kennedy was murdered.

He said it happened when he got a few minutes of break time from a draining stint of on-air reporting of Kennedy's death.

When he tried to call his wife, he said, an incoming call had just been connected and he heard a cultivated voice say, "I want to make a complaint. ..."

"It's a terrible time for CBS to have that awful Walter Cronkite on the air. He's crying his crocodile tears when everybody knows he hated John Kennedy," the woman said.

Cronkite said "suddenly something snapped."

"I just trembled with fury to think that I could be so misinterpreted," he said. "But all I said was, 'Madam, what is your name?'"

"And she gave me her name and her address, on Park Avenue. And then I let her have it."

"'Madam,' I said, 'you are speaking to Walter Cronkite and you are a (bleep bleep bleep) idiot!'"

"I didn't know I had it in me. I don't think I've put three bleeps like that together in my whole life."

Doctors say some allergic to exercise

AUSTIN (AP) — Exercise can cause a disorder resembling an allergic reaction that can be life-threatening, according to an article in the March issue of Texas Medicine.

The article, authored by Dallas allergists Dr. John Erffmeyer and Dr. James Holman, said children and adults can be affected by exercise-induced allergic reactions.

They say symptoms may vary from one person to another and from one episode to another.

Initial symptoms include flushing, sensations of heat or warmth, itching, nausea, fatigue, weakness and dizziness. The symptoms may begin within minutes of exercise or not develop until later in the activity, the physicians said.

Then hives often appear, and some people also experience respiratory and stomach problems and headaches. Some may even collapse from low blood pressure, they wrote.

The cause of the reactions isn't known, the doctors said. They said the disorder may be inherited in some instances. In addition, high levels of histamine, a compound released during allergic reactions, have been found in some patients.

"The fact that exercise-induced symptoms tend to occur in an unpredictable fashion suggests that multiple factors are involved," the doctors wrote in the magazine, the monthly journal of the Texas Medical Association.

People who encounter the problem should avoid those situations which bring it on, Erffmeyer and Holman wrote. Antihistamines also may help.

People who suffer severe or frequent attacks should change their exercise programs or find replacement exercises that don't cause the problem, they said.

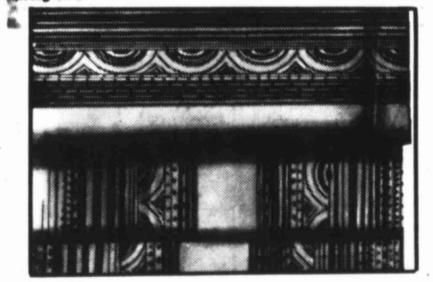

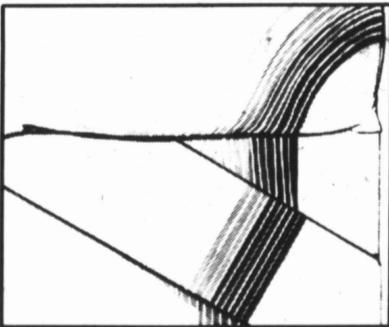

Physical activities that have been reported to cause problems include running, football, basketball, skiing, tennis, soccer, dancing, ice skating and construction work, the doctors said. Warm weather may be a factor in some cases, they added.

Jet avoids collision with plane

HOUSTON (AP) — A Continental Airlines jet was forced to pull up suddenly to avoid a small plane descending in the airliner's path and passed between 500 and 1,000 feet above the smaller aircraft, an airline spokesman says.

The near miss happened Wednesday about 35 miles south of Houston Intercontinental Airport, Continental Airlines spokesman Bruce Hicks said Thursday.

Hicks said a supervisor at the airport's air traffic control tower said the pilot of the smaller plane apparently used poor judgment in beginning his descent near the jet.

The Continental Boeing 727, coming from Mexico City, was descending from 14,000 to 8,000 feet in preparing to land at the Houston airport when the pilot was warned of the smaller plane by air traffic controllers, Hicks said.

Orangutan's double hernia mended by surgery

DALLAS (AP) — A surgical team, wearing its customary masks and gowns, performed an operation to repair a double hernia on a very uncommon 3-month-old patient.

Dixie, a six-pound Bornean orangutan, sucked her thumb and clutched her flannel blanket before undergoing surgery for the condition Wednesday, officials of the Dallas Zoo said.

The orangutan is a member of an endangered species, one of 20 such "great apes" born in zoos in the United States. Zoo officials who detected the double hernia, a condition common in human babies but rare in apes, requested the best help possible.

A surgical team from Children's Medical Center performed the surgery, described as low-risk. The team included pediatric surgeon Dr. Ted Votteler, a pediatric anesthesiologist and three scrub nurses.

"She's invaluable," said zoo veterinarian Bonnie Rapheal. "There are so few (orangutans) born in captivity. It's only sensible to use a specialist."

Howard raids Vikings, 93-59

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

MIDLAND — The tables were turned on the Vikings of Grayson County Junior College Thursday night as it was the Howard College Hawks who raided the Northern Junior College Athletic Conference's fourth place finisher, 93-59 in an opening round game of the Region V Men's Basketball Tournament being held here at Midland College's Chaparral Center.

Howard, the Western Junior College Athletic Conference champion, will face conference foe Amarillo tonight at 9. The winner plays for the tournament championship and a trip to the National Tournament against the winner of the Western Texas-TSTI contest. WTC and TSTI of Waco play the early game at 7 p.m. TSTI pulled off the biggest shocker of the day when the Tornados beat WJCAC second place team Odessa, 74-65.

In their game against the Vikings, Howard head coach Mike Mitchell felt his team played, "very well," for the first ten minutes of the game before "leveling off a little." The Hawks built a 15 to 20 point lead, before Grayson made things respectable at 29-18.

The Hawks went up at the half, however 40-24 due in large part to keeping Grayson's top scorer Charles Jenkins, a second team All-Region pick, scoreless. He did manage nine points in the second half.

"I thought we played very well defensively and did a good job offensively," said Mitchell. "This was the type game though where the guys and probably myself didn't stay intense the whole time. In another game at another time when we let up I would have probably been yelling at them (Hawks) a little. We have one and possibly two tough games left though and we need to save something for them," he added.

Jerry Stroman, however spared nothing. The 6-6 WJCAC most valuable player ripped the nets for 16 first half points and finished with 27 on the night. Stroman was a hot eight of 11 in the first half and five of eight in the second for a total percentage of 68 percent (13 of 19). Another Hawk who was named to the All-Conference squad, James Johnson, scored eight points, pulled down eight rebounds and handed out two assists.

Michael Porter and Anthony Snooks chipped in 17 and 12 points respectively and former starter and leading scorer Dwight Harris had his best game, point wise, since leaving the team and then returning several weeks ago. Harris responded with 12 points.

After building their 16 point halftime cushion, the Hawks simply added to that in the second half by shooting 50 percent and limiting the Vikings to only 37 percent.

Mitchell cleared what little bench he has with all eight players seeing action. Mike Fulkerson contributed five points off the bench and Al Holland four points and six rebounds.

The win marked the sixth straight for the Hawks and 10th in 12 games. They are 26-3 overall.

Concern about Amarillo
In facing Amarillo tonight Mitchell said he is very concerned at the "mental aspects" surrounding his team.

"Playing Amarillo can or cannot be a good thing for us," he said. Mitchell said the fact that his team already owns two wins over Amarillo can work either for or against Howard. Howard beat AC 77-72 on Amarillo's home court and blasted Amarillo, 94-58 in the second meeting of the year at Howard.

"Amarillo was sick and beat up when they played us though. They are 6-1 since that loss and beat Odessa," Mitchell added. Amarillo is led by second team All-Region selection Les Bolden.

UT ex shines for Red Sox

By The Associated Press

The judge who recently heard the dispute between the two groups fighting for ownership of the Boston Red Sox told them that while his decision was pending they should "get some pitching."

Right-hander Roger Clemens wants to make sure the warring factions follow the judge's instructions. Clemens, who pitched the University of Texas to the NCAA championship last June, made an impressive debut with the Red Sox on Thursday, hurling three scoreless innings as they rolled to 6-2 exhibition victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Tracksters of the week

Pam Palmer
Underclassmen captured Tracksters of the Week honors for Big Spring High School this week. Sophomores Pam Palmer, Dwayne Sherman and Dax McCracken's performances last week earned them the honor. Palmer was instrumental in the Lady Steers fourth place finish at Plainview. Palmer tallied 24 of Big Spring's 61 total points, by placing fifth in the long jump, (4-8) and winning the 200 meters in a time of 25.98. She also anchored the 400 and 800 meter relay teams to first place finishes with times of 48.97 and 1:45.48 respectively. The 400 relay time is just two-tenths second off last year's relay team than narrowly missed a trip to state. Sherman and McCracken are members of the Steers track team that competed in Lubbock last week. Sherman's first place time of 42.3 in the 300 meter hurdles was just two-tenths of a second off the BSHS sophomore record. McCracken won the 800 meters with a personal best of 2:04.0.

All-Star honors pour in for Hawks, Queens

Honors keep pouring in for the Howard College basketball Hawks and Queens.

Coach Mike Mitchell announced during Thursday's opening round of the men's Region V Tournament in Midland that Jerry Stroman is one of two players from Region V being considered for All-America, as well as Western Texas' Larry Banks. Stroman, a 6-6 forward is Howard's leading scorer averaging 19 points to go along with six rebounds per game.

Stroman is the lone Hawk to be named to the All-Region first team squad. Forward James Johnson was named to the honorable mention squad. Johnson, a 6-4 forward averaged 12 points and five rebounds per contest.

The Queens also racked up post-season honors placing Janene Berry on second team, Terri Moore and Molly Early on the honorable mention All-Conference teams. Berry and Moore were also named to the All-Region and All-Region Tournament squads. Moore was first team All-Region was Berry was named to the second team.

Moore, who played only the second semester with the Queens, was left off the first team All-Conference team because she did not play the full season, according to Queens coach Don Stevens. Stevens voiced his disapproval at the decision pointing out to conference coaches that it was supposed to be an all-conference team, not an all-season team. Moore missed only three conference games. During her stint with the Queens, Moore, a 6-1 post player averaged 22 points and 10 rebounds. Berry, a 5-4 guard was the Queens assist leader while averaging 10 points per contest. Earlier this season she broke the conference single game assist record with 21 versus Amarillo College.

Early, a 5-6 guard averaged 12 points per game and had a single game high of 30 points versus South Plains.

Steers take tourney win, 8-1

ABILENE — The Big Spring Steers baseball team split wins with Abilene schools on the opening day of the Abilene Invitational Tournament here Thursday.

The Steers were hampered by a poor first inning in their opening loss to Abilene, 7-4. Abilene scored four runs on only one hit in the first inning — aided by three Big Spring errors.

Tommy Gartman went the distance for the Steers, allowing only five hits and striking out three while allowing four earned runs. Mark Gleivins took the win for Abilene. Mike Dodd, Chris Lamb and Randy Hayworth all got hits for the Steers.

In the second contest the Steers, behind the three hit pitching of Jay Pirkle, downed the Abilene Cooper JV by a count of 8-1.

Pirkle pitched a masterful game in going the distance by striking out seven and walking two. First baseman Danny Arista led the Steers 12-hit attack with two doubles. Gartman collected three hits while Dodd and Lamb got two hits each.

The win ups Big Spring's record to 4-5 for the season. The Steers were scheduled to meet the loser of the Abilene-Plainview game at 9:30 this morning.

Cowboys' worth put at $75 million

DALLAS (AP) — A consortium headed by Dallas businessman H.R. "Bum" Bright has offered to buy the Dallas Cowboys for an estimated $75 million, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

Bright, a wealthy Dallas oilman and chairman of the board of regents at Texas A&M University, would neither confirm nor deny the reports from sources Thursday night.

"I've got no comment on that. All I'll say is I don't know where those rumors get started," Bright said. The newspaper said two sources said Bright is in the final stages of a deal that would cost the consortium $55 million for the National Football League team and $20 million for other interests.

Cowboys President Tex Schramm said the team is close to reaching a deal, but added, "It will still be a couple of weeks."

Schramm refused to comment on who the buyer might be, but did say Bright is one of several possible owners with whom the Cowboys have talked. Speculation has previously surrounded two groups —

Hawks fall to Allen County

Allen County batters pounded Kevin Sturdy for 11 hits and the Hawks were guilty of five errors in a 7-4 loss to the Kansas school Thursday afternoon at Hawk Field.

Allen County (7-2) scored two runs in the first inning and added two more in the second before Howard responded with a four run surge in the bottom of the second.

Blake Rosson led off the inning with a homerun. Jim Garcia singled and scored on a double by John Friesenhahn. Steve Carrasco, on due to an error, made the game 4-3 when he scored off Kevin Kolodzie's single and Friesenhahn knotted things thanks to a single by Jeff Hodge.

That was about it for the Hawks though and although Sturdy (0-1) pitched well, he was the victim of a single and triple in the sixth that put Allen up, 5-4. Allen iced the contest in the ninth with two more runs including one that came via a bunt that saw Sturdy make a god effort to field the ball only to slip and fall.

"Kevin pitched well enough to win," said head coach Bill Griffin. "We just messed around the first two innings and dug ourselves in a hole."

Sturdy was hit 11 times, but did manage to strikeout four. He walked five.

Howard will take off until Wednesday, Mar. 14 when the Hawks resume practice. Howard will host Longview College of Longview, Missouri on Mar. 15 and gear up for Region V action Saturday, Mar. 17 when the Hawks travel to Waco to face defending champion McClennan Community College.

one led by Dallas businessmen Vance Miller and W.O. Bankston and another by Florida real estate developer George Barber. The names of Miller and Bankston were submitted to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle for preliminary approval in January.

Cowboys owner Clint Murchison put the team up for sale in December. His poor health and the death two years ago of his brother, John Murchison, prompted the decision.

According to sources, Bright and the consortium are undergoing an investigation by NFL security personnel, an indication that the deal may be approaching its final stages. NFL security screens all potential club owners.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 10, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: After some upset in the morning, you find that you are able to get out in the world of activity. You are quick-witted and able to handle whatever emergencies may now arise.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be careful in driving in the morning. Handle problematic affairs connected with correspondence. Be tactful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't commit yourself to some heavy investment in the morning. Take time to make improvements to property. Be sensible.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You see exactly how to use both your mind and hands well toward some constructive purpose. Friends can be helpful to you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Don't lose your temper at home after breakfast and cause trouble there; quietly study your desires.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Don't dash out on some silly tangent; then you can benefit. Contact good friends and join them in some mutually pleasurable hobby.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't berate one at home in the morning; then you can go out and handle important matters well. Contact a bigwig for a favor.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan your day carefully and then you get much done. You find that one of a different culture can be most helpful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have many tasks to perform so don't get discouraged. Exercise or take some treatment that builds up your vitality.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Seek out good friends and have fun together and relieve tensions. Take some time to perfect some talent you possess.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Sidestep one who likes to criticize you; then you can get into enjoyable activities. Cooperate with a co-worker.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Morning is apt to be rather strange, but later you can take that risk that will bring you good results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Some thoughtless remark at home should be ignored and then there will be more harmony and understanding. Be happy.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who will have to be carefully watched so as not to get into trouble, but upon reaching adolescence will go on the right path and stay on it for the rest of the life and be very active and brilliant.

Proposed zoning rule on churches protested

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas zoning committee experienced the fiery baptism of a religious revival when more than 500 people crowded into City Council chambers to protest a zoning ordinance for churches.

The proposal to require churches to obtain City Council approval before relocating or expanding in residential neighborhoods was designed to reduce traffic and parking problems.

But it was attacked at Monday's meeting as a violation of religious freedom and an infringement of the First Amendment.

No restrictions currently exist on where churches can be located in Dallas. The Dallas Zoning Ordinance Advisory Committee will make a recommendation of the proposal to the City Plan Commission and a public hearing will be held.

"Our forefathers came over here because they did not have religious freedom, and you're trying to put regulations on our churches," said Tamara Ruth Hulsey, assistant manager of the Christian World Book and Supply Center.

"You should be trying to help the church reach out to more people, instead of this," she said.

All but three of the 44 people who addressed the zoning committee opposed the proposal.

City planner Elias Martinez said the issue came up as a result of homeowners' concerns about churches springing up in residential areas, and has been under study for more than a year.

Dallas Homeowners League President Larry Duncan said the discussion was not about religion and family.

"Today we are talking only brick, mortar and tract," he said. "Houses of worship can be compatibly integrated into a community so we all can be winners."

The proposal will probably not reach a final vote before the City Council for several months, officials said.

Ministers enjoy fellowship

By RHONDA WITT
Church Editor

Howard County Ministerial Fellowship, "a fellowship of men and women who share a common call of God to spread the Good News," meets once a month, says Dr. Carl Powers, HCFM secretary and pastor of First Church of the Nazarene.

Other officers are Keith Wiseman, president; Rick Davis, vice president, and Kenneth Patrick, treasurer.

The primary purpose of the group is fellowship, mutual support and assisting in community projects where it can speak with a united voice. "It's about the only time we get to see each other, even though we have basically the same responsibilities," Powers said.

Ministers in the Fellowship work together on many projects. "The most comprehensive program we undertake is providing a Bible teacher for Forsan, Big Spring and Coahoma high schools," Powers said. Another program, the Rainbow Project had its beginning and sponsorship with Fellowship. Today, the project stands on its own, Powers said. However, members of the Fellowship serve on the Rainbow Project's board.

The group has also sponsored seven Haitians. HCFM receives a report about their status each month. The group gives the Haitians financial help and assists them in finding employment, housing and adapting to the culture.

This year, the group helped sponsor "The Chemical People."

The Fellowship meets at the Spanish Inn, at noon the third Monday of each month, August through May. At each meeting a program of interest concerning the community is given.

The Fellowship is open to all clergymen of all denominations. "We are not an exclusive group, any church staff member in Howard County is welcomed," Powers said.

Church factions feud in Burke

BURKE, Texas (AP) — Members of a fundamentalist church have been carrying on for three years in a manner their neighbors consider ungodly — suing each other, squirting glue in the lock on church doors and pouring olive oil in the organ.

Two factions are fighting in court for control of the little Burke Pentecostal Church near Lufkin, and State District Judge David Walker says he's had about all he can take of the bitter battle.

"If I thought I had the authority, I would order this church sold and have it closed down," Walker said in court recently. "And then I'd give the money to another church."

The feud, started as a dispute over money, has led to so many acts of mischief that Angelina County Sheriff Sammy Leach Jr. said he has all but washed his hands of the congregation.

"In the last three years we've been called out there 70 or 80 times," Leach said Friday. "It got so bad I finally told them there was nothing I can do. We will not answer a call out there anymore unless somebody's bleeding."

The congregation has dwindled over the past three years from 140 members to less than two dozen.

Walker, handling the matter like a family dispute, has assigned church visiting hours for the five-member faction controlled by Betty Carnley and a rival group led by Reed and Katherine Parish.

The Parish group is allowed in the building from 1 until 4 p.m. Sundays and from 4 until 9 p.m. Thursdays. Mrs. Carnley's group may use the church at all other times.

The fight began when Mrs. Carnley's former husband, former pastor C.D. Carnley, reached an agreement to sell the Parishes five acres of land and a house next to church property for $39,000.

Of that money, Carnley says, $31,000 was used to retire debts remaining from building the church.

Carnley says the Parishes and their supporter, Floyd McCormick, were among those voting to put the remaining $8,000 in an account for the pastor's personal expenses.

"It was unanimous," said Carnley, 50, who now lives in Houston. "And then they started accusing me of trying to sell the church and steal the money."

Carnley's ex-wife, since elected pastor of the group supporting her and her former spouse, said the funds were placed in a bank account for safekeeping. Criminal charges filed against Carnley were quickly dropped, the Houston Chronicle reported.

The Parishes gained their foothold Aug. 7, 1982, when they called a church meeting, fired Carnley, elected themselves trustees and laid formal claim to the church.

A short time later, the Parishes acknowledge, they put glue in the lock on the church door to keep Mrs. Carnley out.

"When they locked the doors and wouldn't let us back in, my husband asked for a key and they wouldn't give him one," Mrs. Parish said. "So he just put glue in the door. If we can't go in, they can't either."

The lock had to be replaced.

No one has admitted dousing the organ with olive oil, a baptism which did no apparent harm to the instrument.
