State still wants Borden Co. land

Owner negotiating for N-dump site

Staff and bureau reports
GAIL — The Texas Low-Level Waste Disposal Authority announced agency representatives plan to negotiate Friday for land owned by a Borden County man.

Other site options are still being considered as the talks with the Borden County man were scheduled.

State officials are also scheduled to decide Monday whether to keep some South Texas land in the running for housing the state's first low-level radioactive waste dump.

A state agency's option to buy some privately held land near Asherton in Dimmit County expires March 23. The Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority can extend that option for 90 days.

Some South Texas residents have angrily protested consideration of the Dimmit County land, which has been considered a front-runner in the search along with University of Texas-owned Hudspeth County land in far West Texas.

They claim the dump would poison the groundwater, which supplies a lot of the drinking water for South Texas, and give the area a damaging stigma.

Next month, the University of Texas system regents are scheduled to make a recommendation concerning Hudspeth County property in far West Texas owned by the university. "I have no inkling what that recommendation will be," Mathews said.

Meanwhile, agency officials still hope to round up other possible sites in its 16-county search area of well-suited land. Those counties include Dimmit, Hudspeth, Borden, Howard, Mitchell, Knox, Baylor, Haskell, Throckmorton, Scurry, Garza, Maverick, Zavala, Frio, La Salle and Webb.

While the authority board has not placed a deadline on site selection, "I think the board would like to name two candidate sites within 30 days," Mathews said.

One location will be chosen.

Storms spawn hail, tornadoes; 6 die

Staff and wire reports
Violent thunderstorms that killed six people with a barrage of at least 18 tornadoes, baseball-sized hail and winds gusting to 80 mph continued an onslaught across the middle of the country today.

Another storm out West dumped up to 10 inches of snow in the mountains of Utah and Colorado and pushed into the Plains.

In West Texas, however, winds were calm, and cloudy skies held only a 30 percent chance of rain.

The Big Spring area and vicinity should see a high in the mid-70s today with southeasterly winds, 5 to 15 miles per hour. By tonight, forecasters are calling for a 20 percent chance of rain with variable winds, 5 to 15 miles per hour.

While West Texas weather remained mild Thursday evening, one twister tore through Fisher in northeast Arkansas on Thursday evening, killing three people and injuring a dozen others. Another tornado sliced through Brownsville in northern Arkansas, killing one person and leaving behind a path of twisted wreckage.

A man in Edgemont, Ark., was missing after the boat he was in got caught in a storm.

"Everybody was praying, even though they may not have been good Christians before it hit," said Georgia Dennis of Fisher, whose trailer was wrecked in the most severe twister.

In Illinois, one man was electrocuted about 7:30 p.m. Thursday when a power line fell on him as he walked through an alley on Chicago's South Side. One man was killed in a traffic accident on a rain-slickened expressway near Summit, Ill.

Power outages were widespread in the suburbs of Chicago and in Calumet City heavy rains were causing flooding.

"Right now, the streets are flooded and the river is rising," said Calumet City Police Lt. James Oglesby. "The pumps just can't keep up with all the water."

Injuries were also reported as tornadoes tore through Tumbling Shoals and Salado, Ark. Damage to homes, barns and schools was reported after twisters touched down at Waverly, Tenn., Natural Dam, Ark., Owensboro, Ky., Olney, Ill., Jefferson City and Hickory Hill. See Weather page 2-A

Workmen's comp ruling digs row among farmers

Area farmers, faced with a midnight deadline to provide their employees with workers' compensation insurance, are divided on the effects the state court ruling will have on the farm economy.

Farmers and ranchers are required to provide compensation insurance for their employees because of a March 7 ruling by State District Judge Harley Clark of Austin that struck down the exemption for agricultural workers.

Knott farmer Paul Hopper, president of the Howard County Farm Bureau, said the ruling would force farmers and ranchers to stop hiring extra help.

"They just won't be able to afford it (hiring farmworkers)," Hopper said.

The Farm Bureau opposes the removal of the farmworkers' exemption from workers' compensation insurance, Hopper said.

He said his own employees were upset by the ruling. "They have a choice of insurance or a 5 percent raise," Hopper said. "Most of them told me they prefer the raise."

Employer liability policies covering farmworkers as approved by the State Board of Insurance state the carriers will not pay claims of injured farmworkers if they are covered by the workers' compensation law, Hopper said.

PAUL HOPPER ...opposes ruling

Vincent rancher David Barr said the new requirement would not affect him because he already carried compensation insurance for his employees.

"I already have it," Barr said. "It's only fair to your employees if they are hurt."

He said he did not think farmers would stop hiring workers because of the ruling, which Attorney General Jim Mattox has said he plans to appeal.

Howard County agricultural extension agent Don Richardson agreed with Hopper, saying the ruling placed another economic burden on farmers already suffering from low prices and bad weather.

"Most farmers here have it (compensation insurance) for their full-time employees already. It's the temporary workers who will be hurt," Richardson said.

"It's another economic thing when farmers are faced with having to cut (costs)," Richardson said.

"There have been abuses in the past for migratory workers," Richardson said. "But any time an employee got hurt or sick, the farmers around here usually took care of them."

Petro prices fuel inflation trend

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices, pushed by the steepest fuel-oil price rise since 1979, rose 0.4 percent last month, the government reported today. If that rate held through the year, 1984 would show the steepest inflation in three years.

Energy prices in general rose 0.4 percent, today's Labor Department report said, though it added that because of reporting delays the figures mostly reflected increases in January, when unseasonably cold weather sent heating bills skyward in much of the nation.

The energy price rise was the first in five months and only the second since June.

In a separate report, the Commerce Department said new home construction in February shot up 11.2 percent to the highest level in almost six years. Starts, at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2.2 million last month, were up dramatically for the second straight month.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said the day's two reports "add up to one conclusion — strong economic growth with low inflation.

And that's good news for everybody."

The wholesale price report, he said, indicates "we've clamped a lid on inflation." Housing starts, he added, were "remarkably good."

So far this year, wholesale prices as measured by the Producer Price Index for finished goods are rising at an annual rate of 6.2 percent, compared with rates of 0.6 percent for last year, 3.7 percent for 1982 and 7.1 percent for 1981.

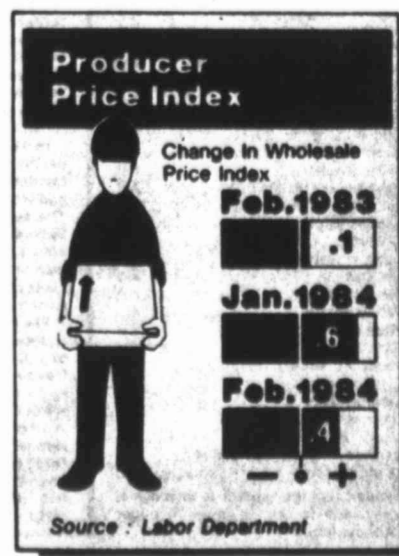

Government and private economists said cold weather caused heavy heater usage, cutting oil supplies and driving up prices in the February report. The 8.2 percent rise in fuel oil prices was the biggest since a similar gain in September 1979.

Analysts also said the severe weather had helped cause January's 0.6 percent surge by damaging crops in the South and Southwest and sending food prices soaring.

Food costs rose 0.7 percent in February after rising 2.7 percent in the preceding month, the new report said.

Sheriff's Log

Stolen truck recovered

A Big Spring woman's pickup truck reported stolen earlier this month was found today by the Hidalgo County, N.M., sheriff's office, according to sheriff's reports.

The 1975 model truck was found abandoned on Interstate 10 at 1:13 a.m. today near Lordsburg, N.M., according to teletypes in the sheriff's office.

Juanita Kirkendoll of Gail Route told sheriff's deputies March 8 that a companion drove off with her truck at 5 p.m. that day, after telling her he was going to check on a guitar, according to an earlier report.

She also reported that someone had taken records, tapes, two watches, shirts and some cash from her house that same day.

The truck was valued at $1,700, the report stated.

Deputies are continuing an investigation of a sexual assault on a 16-year-old female that occurred about 5 a.m. Thursday, Sheriff A.N. Standard said. The girl was treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital, he said. The sheriff said deputies had taken one statement in the case.

Child Welfare department case workers and the sheriff's office also are continuing to investigate a report of sexual abuse against a 13-year-old girl. The incident was reported to the sheriff's office at 2:30 p.m. Thursday, according to reports.

Deputies placed Billie Jean Lewis Garcia, 20, of 3101 W. Highway 80 in county jail to serve a 48-hour commitment on driving while intoxicated.

Deputies Thursday arrested Willie Lee Maxwell, 33, of Lamesa on suspicion of driving while license suspended. He was released on $500 bond.

Debra Woodard Sisco, 19, of 407 E. Fifth was released from county jail after serving a misdemeanor jail sentence.

Johnnie Lee Puga, 42, of 911 W. Fifth was transferred Thursday from the police department to the county jail on suspicion of DWLS. He was released on $500 bond set by Daratt.

David Wayne McNeil, 30, of SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf Men's Dorms, was transferred Thursday to the county jail on suspicion of delivery of marijuana. McNeil was released on $2,500 bond set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

Richard David Long, 30, of 2911 W. Highway 80 was transferred Thursday to the county jail from the police department on suspicion of DWI and failure to carry liability insurance. Long was released on $500 bond for the DWI charge and $200 for the insurance charge. Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Ricardo T. Gomez, 24, of Ackery was transferred Thursday from the police department to the county jail on suspicion of felony delivery of marijuana. He was released on $7,500 bond set by Daratt.

2 Sterling City men injured

STERLING CITY — A pickup truck rollover near here early Thursday morning left two Sterling City men injured, one seriously, highway patrolman Larry Hood said today.

Ray Bernard Allison, 22, is in the intensive care unit at Shannon West Texas Memorial Hospital. He is listed in serious condition with fractured ribs and internal injuries.

Kevin S. Colvert, 19, a passenger, was treated at the Sterling City Hospital and released.

Hood said the truck veered off Highway 87 about 8 miles south of here and overturned two times. He said both men were ejected from the vehicle.

1,000 feast on pancakes

More than 1,000 people feasted on pancakes during the annual Kiwanis Club pancake supper Thursday night at the Howard College student union building.

Chuck Benz, a member of the Kiwanis Club, said the crowd was one of the largest ever served by the group. He estimated that between $2,000 and $3,000 was raised for Kiwanis Club projects.

India's Ma Barker

Ex-school teacher leads murderous sect

AMRITSAR, India (AP) — India's leading lady outlaw is a plump, hymn-singing schoolmarm with gold-rimmed glasses, a sweet, gap-toothed smile and a deadly reputation as the Ma Barker of the Sacred Golden Temple.

Amarjit Kaur, a dumpling-like ex-schoolteacher, sits cross-legged on her pallet in a remote alcove of the Golden Temple where she recites scripture, plays tabla drums and — according to police — masterminds a gang of 40 male and female Sikh fanatics who are murdering a rival sect.

Wearing a 10-inch Sikh dagger, or kirpan, at her waist, Mrs. Kaur proclaims she is an outlaw crusader in a Sikh holy war. But she denies that she is the evil distaff genius of violence-ridden Punjab state where 350 people have died in communal strife in three years.

"The police call me a dangerous extremist, but do I look dangerous?" she asked The Associated Press in her first interview in two years.

"They say I control three groups, but I don't have a group ... I have started a trust fund for orphans of Sikh martyrs because I cannot endure the weeping of little children," says the childless widow.

But the 45-year-old matron, chatting amiably in fluent English, has no qualms about violence.

"The killings of Nirankaris (a rival sect) were justified. We are ready to take revenge against cruel people ... I would not mount a program against innocent people, but against evil people I might ... If any group comes and kills your men you must take revenge."

Police say the mild-mannered woman has been systematically taking revenge since her husband was killed in a pitched battle with Nirankaris and police in 1978.

They call her a dedicated fanatic and link her with most of the hit-and-run assassinations of more than 100 Nirankaris since 1980. The Nirankaris' chief guru was assassinated in 1981 in New Delhi by a Sikh whom Mrs. Kaur hails as "a true Sikh who always will be remembered in Sikhism."

India has about 1 million Nirankaris. Unlike Sikhs, they believe in a living guru and a second holy book, in addition to the main Sikh book. Both the living guru and second book are considered blasphemous by orthodox Sikhs like Mrs. Kaur.

"Sikh women should fight shoulder-to-shoulder with their men — the 10th guru tells us so,"

SIKH REPUTATION — Amarjit Kaur sits cross-legged on her pallet in the Golden Temple where she leads a sect of 40 male and female fanatics.

she says. "Women can be tougher, more courageous and better fighters than men."

Mrs. Kaur is the only woman renegade among the denizens of the Golden Temple, mecca of Sikhism, which police say has become a haven for Sikh terrorists of all stripe and their arsenals.

On one noisy parapet of the same castle, Jarnail Singh Bhindranwale, notorious, self-styled Sikh "saint," packs a .45 and exhorts his devotees by microphone to fight unto death.

"I am not a female Bhindranwale," she says.

Mrs. Kaur hardly looks the part of a terrorist as she offers coffee to guests in her barren quarters, answers frequent phone calls from female supporters or dangles her feet in the temple's golden pond at sunset.

She wears baggy gray salwar-kameez, or tunic and trousers. Her cascading hair — uncut in the Sikh tradition since her birth — is piled in a tower on her head and covered with a veil — the woman's equivalent of a turban.

And like all Sikh men she wears the dagger, steel bracelet and short underpants — "so I am ever ready for battle."

Mrs. Kaur holds a master's degree in Punjabi literature and scripture, taught Punjabi in high school and worked as headmistress of a Sikh primary school near the Golden Temple.

Inflation

Better overall inflation figures are expected now that warmer weather is arriving. But Michael K. Evans, president of Evans Economics in Washington, said in advance of the new report that "inflation is starting to heat up again." And James Pihera, a Georgia State University economist, said that if prices don't settle down soon "we've got some trouble."

Other details of today's report said:

• Among food prices, vegetable prices jumped 13.5 percent, almost twice as much as in January, but there was only a 1.5 percent increase for beef and veal prices and costs actually declined 4.2 percent for fresh fruits, 2.6 percent for eggs, 3.7 percent for pork, 2.7 percent for poultry and 4.9 percent for fish.

• New car prices rose 1.4 percent, while light truck prices were up 1.3 percent.

• Capital equipment costs for modernizing and expanding U.S. industry rose 0.5 percent.

If February's overall price increase of 0.4 percent were to hold steady for 12 months, the yearly advance would be 4.7 percent.

That annual rate, computed by department economists, is based on a more precise calculation of monthly prices than the figures made public.

In all, the Producer Price Index for finished goods stood at 290.6 in February, meaning that goods costing $10 in to base year of 1967 would have cost $29.06 last month.

Over the last 12 months, inflation at the wholesale level has been 2.3 percent. In that same period, food prices have risen 5.2 percent, energy costs have declined 3.6 percent and other finished good prices have gone up 2.3 percent.

Chief White House economist Martin Feldstein said Wednesday that aside from weather-linked increases, "inflation remains very low." And he said chances for a resumption of good monthly reports were good, though he added that failure to reduce big federal budget deficits would increase the risks of new price surges.

Private economists generally agree that January's overall inflation increase was partly due to fruit and vegetable shortages stemming from severe Southern freezes that damaged crops from Florida to Texas.

And Donald Ratajczak, director of the Economic Forecasting Project at Georgia State University, said before release of today's report that more than half of the total February increase "can be accounted for by the temporary swing in energy prices" in answer to cold-weather heating needs.

"These price increases appear to be the result of weather-induced market pressures, and they are already beginning to tumble," he said. Energy prices should "decline sharply" in the report due next month, he said.

Many analysts are forecasting that wholesale price inflation will be in the moderate range of 2 percent to 4 percent this year, partly because of a pickup in industrial prices as the economy continues to gain strength in its recovery from the 1981-82 recession. But that would still be relatively low in comparison to rates over 10 percent as recently as 1979 and 1980.

The Producer Price Index for finished goods measures month-to-month changes in the prices paid to producers for food, energy products and other items. The prices American consumers actually pay — usually to retailers — are measured by the Consumer Price Index, but the PPI often gives a good idea where those consumer prices are heading.

Weather

Mo., the National Weather Service said.

"We're getting right into the tornado season now," said Bill Sammler of the National Severe Storms Center in Kansas City, Mo. "There is a risk of more severe weather today from Texas into the Tennessee Valley. And this time of the year you can expect the worst."

Driving rains whipped along by wind gusts between 50 mph and 70 mph soaked the mid-Mississippi and Ohio Valley, forcing authorities in southern Michigan to warn residents to be on the lookout today for flash floods.

Nearly 2 inches of rain fell at Evansville, Ind., in a six-hour period ending early today. Wind gusts hitting 81 mph downed power lines in Fulton, Mo. Baseball-size hail battered northeast Oklahoma near Tahlequah, the National Weather Service said.

The storm cut across Arkansas from Van Buren County to Pointsett County just as night fell Thursday.

Half of downtown Fisher, a community of about 300, was gone. The post office, a seed company warehouse and a power substation are destroyed. Cars cluttered ditches and power lines snaked across roads. The railroad was blocked by debris.

"It looked like a dump out there," said Troy Farr, a Pointsett County Emergency Medical Services employee.

"I don't see how we come out of it alive," said Mrs. Dennis after she and her husband, Jerry, got out of the wreckage of their trailer. "The trees were white from insulation and tin" blown by the wind, she said.

Pointsett County Coroner Paul Thompson said all three of the dead were found in fields. Two of the victims had been in a trailer that was smashed.

Seven tornadoes and one funnel cloud were counted in the afternoon along an arc that began about 75 miles north of Little Rock and ended about 30 miles southwest of Jonesboro.

Man killed in fall from water tower

A Big Spring man was pronounced dead of accidental causes at 1:35 a.m. today following his early morning fall from a northside water tower, police said.

Ismael Robles, 24, of 610 N. San Antonio Way, was pronounced dead on arrival at Malone-Hogan Hospital by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin after he fell from a water tower on NW 10th Street. He sustained injuries to his chest, arms and legs, Police Lt. Jerry Edwards said this morning.

Heflin ruled the fall was an accident. "There was no indication that it was anything other than an accidental death," Edward said.

Heflin said he has ordered a blood test. "We want to make sure he was in his right mind when he fell off there," he said.

Robles was found at the base of the tower by Jimmy and Eugene DeLeon of 708 NW 10th, he said. "They said they heard a scream and a loud thump. They went out and found the body and then called us," Edwards said.

According to Edwards, there was a witness to the fall, but the witness did not stay at the scene long enough for police to interview him.

Shaffer Ambulance took Robles to the hospital.

Firemen battle grass blazes at intersection

Firefighters twice fought a grass fire near the intersection of Columbia Street and FM 700, initially Thursday afternoon and again early this morning when a "hot spot" flared up.

Two pumping units of the Big Spring Fire Department were sent to the scene at 4:30 p.m. yesterday. Soft soil in the field prevented trucks from approaching the fire, so "back fires" were necessary, a department spokeswoman said.

Fires were set at the edge of the field, where they could be controlled, so that the advancing flames would die out when they reached the purposely burned area, she said.

After wetting down hot spots and telephone poles in the area, firemen left the scene at 6:20 p.m., only to return at 1:10 a.m. this morning to extinguish several smoldering stumps and logs in the field, she said.

Police Beat

Cash, payroll pillaged

A theft of $4,200 in payroll checks and cash from the Bonanza Restaurant at 700 FM 700 remains under investigation by Big Spring police, Lt. Jerry Edwards said this morning.

Bonanza employee Alan Hathaway of Midland told police at 10:52 a.m. Thursday that someone he knows stole the checks and cash from the restaurant at about 9:30 p.m. Sunday, police reports said. Approximately $3,100 has already been recovered by police investigating the case, reports said.

Steve Madry of 1100 E. Fifth St. told police at 4:35 p.m. Thursday that sometime Monday night or Tuesday morning someone stole a tire and rim worth $359 from his 1978 Pontiac while it was parked in an open garage at his residence, police reports said.

Tamara Pickett of P.O. Box 231 told police at 9:59 p.m. Thursday that someone between 6:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. Thursday broke the windshield of her 1972 Buick while it was parked in the Big Spring State Hospital parking lot, police reports said.

Richard Martin of Gail Route told police at 10:40 p.m. Thursday that someone between 9:45 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Thursday stole a scissor jack worth $70 from the bed of his 1976 Ford pickup while it was parked at Denny's restaurant 1710 E. Third St., police reports said.

LOS ANGELES — Actress Eileen Brennan, working for the first time since being badly hurt when she was struck by a car, said there "never was a question in my mind that I wouldn't be back."

EILEEN BRENNAN

Miss Brennan, who starred in the movie "Private Benjamin" with Goldie Hawn and was continuing her role as the martinet Army captain in the television version at the time of the accident, now is co-starring with Ed Asner in an ABC pilot called "Off the Rack."

"I didn't know there was a question in anybody else's mind about my coming back," Miss Brennan, 49, said at a news conference Thursday on the set where the half-hour comedy about Los Angeles' garment district was taped the night before.

The actress suffered two broken legs as well as skull and facial fractures when struck while crossing a street in Los Angeles' Venice district after she had dinner with Miss Hawn in October 1982.

The news conference opened with Asner carrying her across the set in his arms. He put her down — and she walked to a seat behind a table to recall her recovery.

"The anticipation of work is always what I've used for therapy," Miss Brennan said. But she added that the trauma of learning to walk again was more intense than she had expected.

"The doctor once wanted to put me on an anti-depressant drug," she said, but she refused. "I said my anti-depressant was going to work," she said. "I felt lonely and cut off, but I reached out for it and I came back."

In "Off the Rack," Miss Brennan and Asner become reluctant partners in a clothing manufacturing company after her husband — Asner's partner — dies.

Penny's abductors charged

LOS ANGELES — Charges of armed robbery and burglary have been filed against two teen-agers in the break-in at the Hollywood Hills home of actress Penny Marshall, but prosecutors decided against bringing any counts of kidnaping or assault.

PENNY MARSHALL

Miss Marshall, star of the TV comedy "Laverne & Shirley," was briefly held captive by two burglars dressed as Ninjas, members of a semi-mythical Japanese society of criminal warriors, police said.

The suspects, Daniel Francis Sheppard, 19, of Los Angeles, and Anthony Pierson, 18, of Beverly Hills, weren't charged with assault or kidnaping because "apparently" there wasn't enough evidence, said district attorney's spokesman Al Albergate on Thursday.

Sheppard also was charged with possession of an illegal weapon, a Japanese martial arts weapon called a nunchaku, a chain with handles at either end, Albergate said.

The top penalties upon conviction are six years for burglary, five years for armed robbery and three years for possession of an illegal weapon.

Howar gets bill for mush

NEW YORK — Author Barbara Howar must give back a $50,000 advance she got for a novel Random House publishers found unacceptable, a state Supreme Court jury has decided.

Random House executive editor Robert Loomis described the book, "Setting Things Straight," as "not editable."

"It was like working with a piece of mush trying to make a statue," he said of the manuscript.

Ms. Howar, 49, a reporter for the "Entertainment Tonight" television program, had counterclaimed for $200,000, charging breach of contract on grounds that she had not been given enough guidance by the publishers.

The jury at the three-day trial deliberated an hour Wednesday night before returning the verdict.

After Random House turned down the work, Ms. Howar sold the manuscript for $300,000 to Simon & Schuster and received a $100,000 advance. But Simon & Schuster also went to court asking for its money back on similar grounds. That case is pending.

Ms. Howar, who also wrote "Making Ends Meet" and "Laughing All The Way," says she will appeal the Random House decision.

N.C. prisoner executed

RALEIGH — James W. Hutchins hugged his wife good-bye and refused to make a last statement before being executed today by lethal injection for the murder of two lawmen who had responded to his daughter's call for help at his home in 1979.

The 54-year-old inmate, who had abandoned all appeals and was refused a commutation from the governor, was the second man executed in the United States in two days, and the first in North Carolina in 22 years.

Wearing his gold wedding band, Hutchins was strapped to a hospital gurney shortly after getting a final hug from his wife, Geneva. Witnesses said he went to death "smoothly and without incident."

His defense attorney, Joseph B. Cheshire of Raleigh, said Hutchins' wife was "a destroyed woman" and that she and her three children had received "very serious threats."

Hutchins was sentenced to die in 1979 for fatally shooting two law officers after they responded to a report that he was drunkenly beating his daughter in an argument over the amount of alcohol in a party punch. Hutchins received a life sentence for killing a third officer.

The prisoner was declared dead at 1:18 a.m. CST, 15 minutes after the injection started, said Phillip Brown, a spokesman for the Department of Correction. It was the 15th execution in the United States since the Supreme Court restored capital punishment in 1976.

"The execution was carried out smoothly and without incident," Brown said.

Man shot at White House

WASHINGTON — An armed and emotionally troubled man, shot in the arm after allegedly threatening guards patrolling the White House fence, had been seen around the presidential mansion for several weeks and was already the subject of a background check, authorities said.

David A. Mahonski, who an uncle said wanted to "see the president and straighten him out," was in fair condition at a local hospital today after he was shot on a public sidewalk outside the White House grounds when he refused to drop a sawed-off shotgun, the Secret Service said.

Federal officials planned to charge Mahonski, 25, of Williamsport, Pa., with assault with a deadly weapon and a federal firearms violation for possession of a sawed-off shotgun, said Lt. Jeffrey Davis, a U.S. Park Police spokesman.

The Secret Service said Mahonski would be arraigned later today.

5 cops hurt in riots

MIAMI — Black youths hurled rocks, looted stores and set fires overnight while heavily armed police responded with tear gas after an all-white jury acquitted a Hispanic policeman in the shooting of a black man. The disturbances ended by dawn.

More than 240 people were arrested, sniper shots were reported and five policemen were hurt after the acquittal on manslaughter charges of Officer Luis Alvarez on Thursday night. Mayor Maurice Ferre said police would do "whatever is necessary" to maintain order.

Police had cordoned off troubled areas, but by rush hour, blockades were taken down and highways and schools in the area were open.

Police advised motorists to stay out of the troubled area.

U.S. diplomat kidnapped

BEIRUT — Three gunmen kidnapped American diplomat William Buckley today in front of his apartment in mostly Moslem west Beirut as he left home to drive to the U.S. Embassy.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility.

Pint-sized baby born in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — A baby boy just 9 inches long and weighing only 14 ounces was being carefully monitored on a hospital respirator after he was born four months premature.

The infant, Luther Raymond Noble, was born at 4 a.m. Wednesday at his parents' home in the Bronx, said Gloria Williamson, administrative nursing supervisor at Misericordia Hospital.

"He is hooked up to a respirator and is in stable but guarded condition," she said. The mother was also doing fine and was in the hospital "mainly for observation," Ms. Williamson said.

The baby is the first child of Mary Noble, 35, and her husband Lester.

Mrs. Noble at first thought her baby was stillborn. But paramedics who were called noticed the child was breathing when they arrived at the hospital.

Buckley is the third American kidnapped in the last six weeks.

The manager of Buckley's apartment house said one of the kidnapers pointed a gun at the American diplomat's head, forced him into a white Renault and the car sped away.

S. Africa signs pact

SOUTH AFRICA — South Africa's prime minister and Mozambique's Marxist president met at a rail crossing in the African bush today and signed the first non-aggression treaty between white-minority ruled South Africa and a black-governed neighbor.

The mutual security pact, signed in an elaborate ceremony by Prime Minister P.W. Botha and President Samora Machel, is intended to end years of guerrilla raids and set the stage for an era of economic cooperation between South Africa and Mozambique.

More than 1,000 guests and journalists looked on from bleachers as Botha and Machel signed the treaty, exchanged pens and shook hands. Military color guards from both countries marched and played both national anthems in a display of good will unthinkable a year ago.

The text of the 11-page, 11-article accord says both parties "undertake to respect each other's sovereignty and independence and, in fulfillment of this fundamental obligation, to refrain from interfering in the internal affairs of the other."

The pact bars the two countries from supporting guerrilla warfare against each other and will likely include a joint monitoring commission, similar to one South Africa set up with Angola two weeks ago to oversee military disengagement in southern Angola. Guerrillas based there stage raids into the South African-controlled territory of South-West Africa, or Namibia.

Hart wins Alaska caucus

Walter Mondale, battling for support in the industrial Midwest, is putting the heat on Gary Hart for his opposition to the federal bailout of Chrysler Corp., as the Democratic presidential field narrows to three.

Hart claimed another caucus win Thursday, capturing 43 percent of the vote in Alaska's precinct caucuses to 30 percent for Mondale, 10 percent for Jackson and 15 percent uncommitted. The caucuses determine how 11 of the state's 14 nominating delegates will be pledged.

In what has become a familiar story, Alaska Democratic chairwoman Dianne O'Connell said "nobody up here knew who Hart was" just a few weeks ago. She said Mondale's support was "widespread but soft" before Hart's campaign caught fire.

Mondale, big labor's candidate, campaigned in heavily unionized Michigan on Thursday and predicted he would win both there and in Illinois.

Again and again Mondale hit Hart's opposition to the federal loan guarantees that allowed ailing Chrysler to return to profitability. The former vice president said he worked with labor, management and government to win passage of the bailout in 1979.

Mondale's position drew support from Chrysler's chairman, Lee Iacocca, who issued a statement that didn't mention Mondale but did name Hart — and also noted that President Reagan philosophically opposed the loan guarantee idea.

In Illinois later, Hart committed a campaign gaffe when he criticized Mondale for a television commercial questioning Hart's age, name and even his signature — and quickly apologized when he learned no such ad has aired and the Mondale campaign said none existed.

Low Temperatures Rain Snow Showers Flurries

Fronts: Cold Warm Occluded Stationary

By the Associated Press

West Texas — Widely scattered thunderstorms east of mountains and cooler tonight. Generally fair Saturday. Lows 35 Panhandle and mountains to 45 south. Highs 38 Panhandle to 45 Big Bend.

Storms roll, winds gust

Thunderstorms with winds gusting to 50 mph churned through the nation's midsection today in the wake of a series of tornados that left four dead in Arkansas and destruction across five states.

Winter conditions returned to plague the northern Plains with the temperature dropping to zero at Grand Forks, N.D., at 2 a.m. EST.

A Pacific storm system produced thunderstorms, high winds and hailstones over Utah on Thursday, with the winds driving snow into Colorado, where as much as 6 inches of snow was expected in the mountains today.

Meanwhile, rain was scattered throughout the intermountain region and travelers advisories were issued for the area. Cold northern air combined with rain produced snow at Salt Lake City, where an inch of new snow fell Thursday night.

A strong line of thunderstorms moved from the mid-Mississippi valley to the Ohio valley Thursday evening, spawning tornados, damaging winds, hail and locally heavy rain from southeastern Kansas and eastern Oklahoma into the Ohio valley and lower Michigan.

Considerable tornado damage was sustained with numerous injuries in addition to the four deaths in Arkansas late Thursday afternoon.

The worst tornado hit Fisher in northeast Arkansas, where three people were killed and many injured. A twister ripped Edgemont, Ark., killing one person and causing property damage.

Glenn withdraws from race

WASHINGTON — Sen. John Glenn, a hero astronaut who tried to become president, "reluctantly" quit the race for the Democratic presidential nomination today after a long campaign that failed to win a single primary or caucus.

"Although my campaign for the presidency will end, my campaign for a better America will continue," Glenn said at a news conference attended by aides and supporters.

Glenn declared, "I'd like nothing better than to stay in this race ... and to win the nomination of my party."

But he said events of the last several weeks indicate that is "not likely to happen."

"I have therefore decided to withdraw from the race."

Glenn said he has no plans to endorse any of the remaining contenders, but will support whoever wins the party's presidential nomination.

Niemoeller had miles of courage

Martin Niemoeller, who died recently at the age of 92, had been a German U-boat commander in World War I, a Lutheran minister and theologian, president of the World Council of Churches and one of the most earnest pacifists of the post-World War II era. But most of all, Martin Niemoeller was an outspoken opponent of Adolf Hitler and the Nazis' persecution of the Jews in the 1930s and a central figure of the German Confessing Church, a group of Protestants who voiced public opposition to the Nazis.

In 1937, Niemoeller was arrested and spent the next eight years in German concentration camps. He was rescued in 1945.

Niemoeller's pacifism after World War II and his trips to Moscow to visit Russian church leaders led to accusations, which he denied, that he was a communist fellow-traveler, but his influence at the time also enabled him to help ward off anti-clerical measures by the East German government. "You don't have to fight communism," he declared, "in order to save Christianity."

He was active in West Germany's draft-resistance movement, spoke out against West German rearmament after the war, opposed nuclear arms and strongly denounced American involvement in Vietnam. In the 1960s, while he was president of the World Council of Churches, he won the Soviet Lenin Peace Prize. Three years later, he also won the Grand Cross of Merit, West Germany's highest honor.

In the final analysis, however, it was Niemoeller's courage and conscience, the conscience of the Christian witness, that earned him the world's admiration. In the histories of the Nazi era, his name stands as a symbol of that conscience. That he was often alone — was, literally, a footnote in most of these histories — testifies all the more eloquently to his courage.

Trudeau's mark

We were sorry to see Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau announce that he will be ending his 15 years of leadership in Canada.

Canada is our close ally, and Trudeau has been around for a long time — since the presidency of Lyndon Johnson. Trudeau also has displayed his friendship to us. The prime minister has always been popular in the United States — the past two years more popular here than in his own country.

A college professor in French-speaking Quebec before he went into politics, Trudeau as prime minister held his country together — putting down the movement to separate Canada into a country of French Canadians in Quebec and a country of English Canadians in the other nine provinces and the two territories of the dominion.

Separation could have been a nightmare for Canada, with unpleasant consequences for the United States.

Now Trudeau has announced his resignation, effective in about four months. We can expect the next Canadian prime minister will continue to extend the hand of friendship to the United States. In this century, this country has had no more reliable ally than its northern neighbor.

Don't Tinker with Bell

"Good morning, Taco Telephone Company."
"What's that sir? You say your phone isn't working correctly? Why, sir, I can understand you just fine."
"Oh, you're calling from a friend's house. Well, how can the telephone company help you, sir?"
"A new telephone? I'm afraid that's no concern of Taco Bell. Since divestiture we only handle hook-ups and billing."
"Since divestiture, sir."
"D-I-V-E-S-T-I-T-U-R-E. Your telephone company is now several companies. Mother Bell met a not very nice judge who stuck it to her and she's given birth to a beautiful set of baby companies."
"You ask who the baby companies are, sir? Well, let's see, there's America Phones in the Northeast, Amalgamated Oral Services on the West Coast, Phones 'n Stuff in the Great Lakes Region, um, oh, I can't remember them all."
"The phone company for your area, sir? You're talking to it now, the Taco Telephone Company. Taco Bell, for short."
"Yes, we think the name is cute, too, sir. Now, your problem?"
"Oh, yes, your instrument needs service. Well, like I said, that's no concern for Taco Bell. Have your tried calling Behemoth Bell. They're not as big as they used to be over there, but they're still the ones to call for service."

"You did call? They said call us? Why sir, I can't imagine what they were thinking."
"They said the problem was in the phone lines going into your home, sir? Well, that's still not our problem..."
"Behemoth Bell said it was our problem? But sir, under the terms of divestiture, they got all the hardware."
"That's not what they told you? Well, obviously someone has been misinformed. Who did you talk to over there, sir?"
"A woman named Tinker? Oh, sir, you must be joking."
"I understand you don't think it's very funny, sir. Now what exactly did this Miss Tinker tell you?"
"She told you to do what with your phone, sir? Well, you can imagine they're not very happy with this whole divestiture thing."
"Yes, I know you still have this problem with your phone, sir, but there's nothing I or Taco Bell can do about it."
"Do what, sir?"
"Now, sir, there's no point in getting belligerent. Like the old saying goes, you catch more flies with honey than vinegar."
"Sir, are you there? Sir? Sir?"

Money down the Salvadoran chute

WASHINGTON — The United States has pumped more than $200 million in foreign aid funds into El Salvador for four years with no clear idea what happened to it.

U.S. officials are convinced that millions of dollars have been misappropriated or siphoned off by corrupt or inefficient Salvadoran officials — but there's no effective auditing procedure to keep track of the money.

To put it bluntly, the situation is a mess. No one — least of all U.S. aid officials — can be sure where the money is going and what it's being used for. This is made abundantly clear by a recently completed audit by the inspector general of the Agency for International Development.

The IG's auditors tried valiantly to find out what happened to the $212 million AID sent to El Salvador from 1980 to 1983 to help pay for the land reform program that was supposed to redistribute wealthy land owners' holdings to the peasants who farmed them.

Explaining why the audit report had so many "estimates" in it, the IG noted that "incomplete, inaccurate and at times non-existent records hampered formation of definitive conclusions."

For example, three and half years after the program started, the IG concluded, the Salvadoran Institute for Agrarian Transformation (ISTA) "still had not completely surveyed the properties expropriated." Nor had it determined the amount and types of land involved, the amounts owed to the previous owners or the amounts due from the peasant cooperatives now running the farms. In fact, the IG reported, the Salvadoran agency didn't even know how many properties had been expropriated.

The auditors were told that 194 was the number of parcels expropriated. Yet they noted that in September 1980, AID officials in El Salvador had put the number at 238. In July 1982, Salvadoran ministry of agriculture officials gave a figure of 278. In January 1983, a private firm doing a study for AID came up with 262. In May 1983, AID officials said the number was 360. And in September, Salvadoran officials said it was 207.

The auditors found that financial information from the Salvadoran banks that handled U.S. funds was "questionable," and that their accounting procedures were seriously flawed. As far as they could determine, the Salvadoran Agricultural Development Bank had used $1.4 million of AID funds for "unauthorized purposes," and must repay it.

They also found that El Salvador had used $2 million to compensate previous owners of expropriated land, despite an explicit ban on such use of aid funds by Congress.

Last month I reported on a secret bank account controlled by President Alvaro Magana that paid out millions of dollars a year without a proper audit. Checks drawn on the account bore President Magana's signature; copies were smuggled to my associate Dale Van Atta. I reported charges that the secret bank account was a slush fund used to reward Magana's political and military cronies, and the possibility that some U.S. aid money had wound up in the account.

Magana was understandably unhappy with my report. He spoke with his ambassador in Washington, Ernesto Rivas-Gallont, seven times on the day following its publication.

"The president has authorized me to state unequivocally that he has never been, nor would he ever be, part of any system or tradition of corruption," the ambassador wrote.

The ambassador confirmed the existence of the secret account, but said no U.S. funds were involved, and denied it was a political slush fund. It is, he said, "a classified military disbursements account...used by the commander-in-chief of our armed forces for classified military and security related purposes."

Hart could give Reagan trouble

Ronald Reagan's aides, who have been gleefully anticipating a campaign against Walter Mondale, are now looking uneasily at the ascendance of Gary Hart. U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick, in a TV interview recently, declared solemnly that Hart would be easy pickings, while either Walter Mondale or John Glenn would be a truly fearsome opponent. Please don't throw us in that briar patch!

In fact, the administration is smart enough to be scared of Hart. He's young, handsome and smart. He appeals to Democrats across the ideological spectrum. He hails from the West, which was Reagan country in 1980. For now, he's a blank slate, on which the voter can write what he wants.

Equally important, Hart isn't Mondale, a walking caricature of what voters had in mind when they spurned three of the last four Democratic nominees for president. Unlike Mondale, he isn't shackled to the failures of Jimmy Carter, or to every goofball interest group in the country.

And Hart, assuming he survives, will profit from Mondale's charge that he isn't liberal enough for the Democratic party. Anything that puts distance between Hart and his party's left wing can only help him among independents and Republicans. And it won't hurt him much with liberal Democrats, who can't exactly defect to Reagan come November.

Hart's strengths nicely match Reagan's weakness. The president's age will be acutely noticeable next to a Kennedy clone of 46 — whoops, 47. Hart can dismiss Reagan's ideas as creaky antiques, just as Reagan dismisses Mondale's. Given his reputation as a military innovator, Hart can run as the man to cut the Pentagon budget without sacrificing security. By embracing the modified flat-rate income tax proposed by two fellow Democrats, Sen. Bill Bradley and Rep. Richard Gephardt, he can do what Reagan promised in 1980, but didn't deliver — lower taxes and a balanced budget.

But Hart — listen up, Fritz — is not invincible. This is the same senator who won re-election in 1980 by a bare 19,000 votes against a fragmented Republican party. Colorado's three Democrats in the House, by contrast, all won easily. And there are some obvious tacks for Reagan to take. Among them:

1) Contrast characters and personalities. Reagan's campaign will have no trouble depicting their man as a rock of principle, sure of himself and his values. Next to that, they can portray Hart as a typical political chameleon. How else do you regard someone who lied about his age, changed his name and ostentatiously joined the Naval Reserve at the age of 43? Most people assume that Reagan, despite his Hollywood training, is just what he appears to be: warm, manly, avuncular. The task of his campaign is to make people ask whether there's a real person behind Hart's carefully crafted image.

2) Attack McGovern. In 1972, Hart was manager of one of the most disastrous campaigns in American history, which some people still associate with the worst excesses of the 1960s — acid, amnesty and abortion, as one Nixon aide put it. Reagan's campaign will surely try to tie Hart's old boss around his neck. But McGovern's bid for the presidency this year, combined with his criticisms of Hart, will make it hard. With independents and Democrats, this tack may not work. But it could help to mobilize the legions of the Moral Majority and New Right on Reagan's behalf.

3) Identify with ethnics and blue-collar voters. It may be hard to believe that a millionaire WASP from California could run as the champion of Joe Lunchbucket. Next to this blow-dried technocrat, Reagan might pull it off. How? By stressing his own views on school prayer, tuition tax credits, crime and defense, while trumpeting the importance of his tax cuts to the middle class. That approach helped him to garner nearly half the union vote in 1980 and to carry industrial states like Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey. Unlike more traditional Democrats, Hart may have no natural appeal to these groups. Reagan has proven that he has — though it may not have survived the Great Recession.

Of course Reagan has other things going for him — chiefly a booming economy and the absence of any military conflict involving American soldiers. The real challenge is to keep things that way for eight more months, enabling him to stand before the voters as the president of peace and prosperity. Those are the best themes a candidate can have. If his opponent is Gary Hart, Reagan will need them.

No one can predict future

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Maybe this sounds silly, but when my husband and I look at the dangers in the world and see the frightening headlines every day we wonder if maybe it would be better for us not to have children. What do you think of this? — Mrs. B.L.P.

DEAR MRS. B.L.P.: I share your concern about the world, for we are living in a very dangerous period of history. Never before in the history of the human race have we had it within our power to destroy all of life from the face of this planet. But you need to remember that no one but God knows what the future holds. There have been many bleak times in human history before — terrible times, in fact. If everyone had felt as you do, the human race would have ceased to exist! I can't help think of Jeremiah, the great prophet of the Old Testament, who knew that his nation would soon be destroyed. And yet God commanded him to go on buy a field as a token of trust in God and his promises for the future.

In spite of the things that would happen, God was still faithful and would preserve his servant Jeremiah. "I am the Lord, the God of all mankind. Is anything too hard for me? — Once more fields will be bought in this land of which you say 'It is a desolate waste'" (Jeremiah 32:27,43).

Whether or not you eventually have children, build your lives on Christ and his Word. Make this a time of learning to trust God for strength. The Bible says, "No listen, you who say, 'Today or tomorrow we will go to this or that city, spend a year there, carry on business and make money.' Why, you do not even know what will happen tomorrow...Instead, you ought to say, 'If it is the Lord's will, we will live and do this or that.'" (James 4:13-15).

VAMC nurses receive certification

Four Veterans Administration Medical Center nurses have received certification in their fields of practice. They are Emma McKenzie, R.N., C., Eleanor Hemphill, R.N., C., Sandra Hensley, R.N., C., and Edmund Scott, R.N., C. Mrs. McKenzie and Miss Hensley were certified in medical-surgical nursing. Mrs. McKenzie is the assistant chief nurse of nursing service. Miss Hensley is head nurse.

Scott received national certification from the American Nurses' Association as a Certified Gerontological Nurse. The American Nurses' Association's professional certification is a step beyond state licensing and shows commitment to meeting the very highest standards of nursing practice. The certified nurse meets required standards of education and experience in the area in which certification is sought, and passes a written examination in that area.

Mrs. Hemphill received national certification as an infection control practitioner. Infection control nursing is concerned with the prevention, control and surveillance of hospital and community acquired infections. As a certified infection control nurse, Mrs. Hemphill is committed to the highest professional standards when implementing the principles of epidemiology and infection control. Certification by the Association of Practitioners in Infection Control validates a registered nurse's qualifications, knowledge and practice in the area of infectious disease, its control and surveillance. Certification entails meeting educational and practice requirements and passing a written examination. It recognizes expertise in current knowledge, educational skills in sharing the knowledge, and administrative and managerial skills for implementing the highest standards recommended by the Center for Disease Control, U.S. Public Health Service.

Dear Abby

Reader is 'terribly skinny'

DEAR ABBY: You have to help me! I have been to every doctor in the area and not one will even discuss the type of surgery I want. Where can I go to get this done? I don't care how far I have to go or how much it costs.

I am a 42-year-old woman, and all my life I have been terribly skinny. My legs are a disgrace! I have worn only slacks all my life. I'm so ashamed. I want my legs fixed so I can wear dresses and shorts in 1984. Why will no plastic surgeon help me? They all refuse to add additional flesh and tissue for cosmetic reasons. Why?

I am so sick of being like this! I have done exercises until I am ready to drop. Nothing helps. Please tell me where to go right away. I would rather be dead than look like this.

SKINNY AND UGLY
DEAR SKINNY: No responsible plastic surgeon would attempt that kind of surgery, so look no further because you might find one who is neither skilled nor honest but willing to attempt it for an attractive fee, and the results could be disastrous.

Please ask your family physician to recommend a therapist who will help you accept yourself as you are. You may perceive yourself to be skinny and ugly, but others may not see you that way.

You need to talk to an understanding person about your feelings, your dreams, your disappointments, your hopes. Please, please take this advice. It's important that you do. And write again in three months and tell me how you are. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I am a retired, single businesswoman who has a very dear friend who is also retired. Whenever we plan an afternoon together for lunch or shopping, her husband comes along. Of course I say nothing, and the three of us proceed together.

Abby, I have nothing against this woman's husband. He is kind and generous, but I prefer to go to lunch and shop with my friend and indulge in "girl talk." This obviously is not possible when her husband is along.

How can I convey my feelings to my friend without giving her the impression that I don't like her husband?

THREE IS A CROWD
DEAR THREE: Tell her, just as you told me, that you like her husband, but ask her if just the two of you could have lunch together so you could talk "girl talk."

Dr. Donohue

Breaking hips

Dear Dr. Donohue: Mother, who is 78, is staying at our house. Early one morning I heard a thud from her room and went in. She was lying on the floor and in some pain. She had fallen while getting up to use the bathroom. The pain wasn't great, but we had to take her in to the hospital soon anyway, so we got her right in that day. As it turned out she had broken her hip. The doctor told us that she probably didn't break it in the fall. How else could it have happened? How do we explain this to the rest of the family? — Mrs. R.B.

I think I can explain what your doctor may have been telling you. Most older people don't fall and break their hips. They fall because they have broken their hips. It's a consequence of weakened bones. It's like a weakened bridge girder that collapses causing the span to fall.

Similarly with osteoporosis, bone is weakened over long periods. In time, it becomes so weakened it can't support the body weight, so it breaks, causing the person to fall from the slightest exertion.

I had a personal experience with this not too many years ago. An uncle fell after getting up from his chair. As it turned out this was a variation on the break/fall sequence. He actually had broken his hip not in the fall, but in the attempt to rise from his chair.

This may be what happened to your mother. It should not be difficult to explain to your family. That's the way these things usually occur. You have no reason to feel guilty about it.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please give me a good definition and explanation of ankylosing spondylitis. — T.T.

It means arthritis of the spine — "spondylo" for spine vertebra and "itis" for inflammation. Ankylosing means a fusing together of vertebra, a consequence of the inflammation.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is dementia the same as Alzheimer's disease? — M.T.

By no means. Alzheimer's disease is just one form of dementia, which is a general term for any mental deterioration. There are many causes of dementia having nothing to do with the as yet undetermined brain chemical disturbance of Alzheimer's. Many demetias are, in fact, reversible — for example, those related to certain drug reactions of nutritional deficiencies. Some may be manifestations of depression.

FOR P.D. — A recent listing of foods high in zinc includes the following: liver and beef hearts, oysters, dark poultry meat and crab. You should get your act together and find out how much zinc you are getting and how much your body needs on a daily basis.

To learn about the major categories of prostrate trouble — symptoms, treatment, how to speed recovery — read the booklet, "The Pesky Prostrate." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Holiday Inn Convention Center
6201 E. Hwy. 80 — East of Loop 338

When he says, "Stand by... for news!" Paul Harvey becomes the undisputed Voice of America for 20 million listeners, radio's largest audience today. Some 1,070 radio stations and 120 television stations broadcast his views. Over 300 newspapers publish his columns. More than a million people each year attend his speeches... like the coming appearance in Odessa.

Why? Because for citizens everywhere, Paul Harvey has become the quintessential American. For him, the entire U. S. is one giant hometown. He knows its people, its moods, its wants and needs, its strengths and weaknesses. Perhaps like no one else on the scene today, he articulates the soul of our nation... and when he speaks, even governments listen.

He can tickle your funnybone, prick your conscience, prod your ambitions, and soothe your frustrations... all in one five minute broadcast. Imagine what he can do in an hour, in person.

Better still, come see for yourself, April 1, when St. John's Episcopal School brings Paul Harvey to Odessa. For an afternoon you'll never forget, we suggest ordering tickets now. Many are already taken.

Moses ministers to people through music

By RHONDA WITT
Church Editor

"I've always been involved in music," said Steve Moses, music minister at Trinity Baptist Church. "My folks always played music around the house. Even in elementary school, I would sing in the choir."

Moses was in high school when he decided to become a music minister. "At a youth camp during my senior year in high school I surrendered my life to the Lord to do what He wanted me to do. I wanted to serve in the church, and music was so much a part of my life that I decided that was a good place for me to start."

At Trinity Baptist, Moses' goal is to see his choir become one of the best choirs in the city. "We've got a lot of good singers who love to sing. If it (the choir) would just improve weekly a little at a time, I would be satisfied. As long as they are improving, they are learning. And that is what I want them to do, learn more about music."

STEVE MOSES
...music minister at Trinity Baptist Church

His personal goals include going back to school to work on a master's degree and improving his personality in being more friendly, Moses says. "If a choir director is friendly and shows people he loves it (his work), he will bring more out of them." Moses searches for many things, including words, when choosing music for the choir. "I don't want the choir to sing anything that is not spiritual. The music must have a good spiritual message."

Moses picks music that is in the choir's range. He also chooses a variety of music: "not all fast or all slow; not all hymns or contemporary."

Different types of music are chosen in order for the choir to minister to congregation, he says. "The members in the church come from all types of backgrounds and like different types of music."

Moses increased Trinity's music department's size recently by organizing three youth choirs. "I teach the junior choir and two ladies are teaching the younger choirs. The choirs have been a blessing to the church and the kids. They really do enjoy singing."

Moses, who has worked at Trinity Baptist Church for two years, also teaches the College and Career Sunday School. "Just teaching the college class and music keeps me happy. I just love the church and Big Spring."

and church, and I've been under such good preaching, that I can't say there has just been one person who helped me choose a direction. There has just been a lot of people that the Lord has used to influence my life."

However, he does recognize the support his parents and wife has given him. "My parents had a great influence on me. They always had me in church and were faithful. Every time the church was opened, we were there. Going to church was just as much a part of my life as getting up and going to school."

"My wife (Paula) has been real supportive of anything I've tried. She is a real solid Christian. Anything I could consider my ministry, I could consider our ministry because we work that closely together."

Prior to coming to Big Spring, Moses worked in a church in Portsmouth, Va., and was a principal at a Christian School in Canyon City, Colo. He went to Baptist Bible College in Springfield, Mo. He enjoys sports, especially hunting. Mr. and Mrs. Moses have a son Benjamin, 2½, and are expecting another child soon.

Mini-series shown on television

"Yeshua," a five-hour mini-series relating the life and ministry of Jesus to the customs and cultures of his time, will be telecast twice on prime-time television this spring on the CBN Cable Network. The series was filmed primarily in Israel.

The group, making its annual spring tour, will sing at high schools during the day and at Methodist churches each night.

Voters signed up after mass

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Bishop Rene H. Gracida believes it is a religious duty to vote, so he has told every priest in the Diocese of Corpus Christi to set up voter-registration tables outside their churches.

The tables will be set up through the end of March after every mass at the 130 churches in the diocese.

Out of a combined Roman Catholic church membership of 315,000, the bishop estimated 120,000 to 180,000 are of voting age.

A pastoral statement issued in 1976 by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops prompted Gracida's directive to the priests.

The conference concluded with the agreement that "abandonment of political participation is neither an effective or responsible approach" to the common good.

"I have done this every year in which there has been a presidential election since I have been a bishop," he said. "And in off years, I have done it whenever there is a political issue affecting the church."

Gracida said he would not use his authority or allow others to use their posi-

Lutheran Laymen's League. Closed captioning will be provided for the series.

Austin may annex lake

AUSTIN — The City Council is considering a proposal to annex much of the land under Lake Travis, west of the city, and extend city development controls over 200 square miles.

The council will act on the annexation plan next week.

The plan presented by Planning Director Dick Lillie calls for the city to annex a 500-foot strip following the old Colorado River bed from Mansfield Dam to the Travis-Burnet County line. The strip would follow the course of the river before Mansfield Dam was built.

Lillie said that because the annexed land is under water it would not require police, fire, utility or other normal services.

However, the proposed annexation would increase the area of the city's extraterritorial jurisdiction and gain the ability to control development for five miles on each side of the old riverbed.

City controls would extend five miles into Burnet County and almost to Hays County on the south and Williamson County to the north.

3 call for resignation

CORPUS CHRISTI — The chairman of the State Board of Education should resign for pushing through a plan that would steer many minority students into vocational training instead of college preparatory courses, three Texas Hispanic leaders say.

Mary Helen Berlanga, a member of the state education board; Tony Bonilla, an attorney and member of the State Select Committee on Public Education and state Sen. Carlos Truan said Thursday that the needs of school children will best be served if Joe Kelly Butler steps down.

The trio accused Butler of pushing through a 20-4 vote last weekend on a Curriculum Reform Act that creates a dual transcript plan for high school students.

Autry buried in prison lot

HUNTSVILLE — The unclaimed body of executed inmate James David Autry was buried in a secret ceremony at a cemetery named for a former Texas executioner, a funeral home spokesman says.

A white-washed concrete marker bearing Autry's prison number — 670 — and the date of his death will mark the grave.

Autry was executed at 12:40 a.m. Wednesday by an injection of drugs. He was sentenced to death in the April 1980 slaying of a Port Arthur convenience store clerk in a robbery attempt. Authorities said Autry shot the clerk rather than pay for a six-pack of beer.

Under Texas law, the body of an inmate that is not claimed within 48 hours is buried by the state.

The funeral costs the state from $500 to $600.

Man sentenced in dryer death

MEDFORD, Wis. (AP) — A man who admitted placing his 7-month-old son in a clothes dryer and turning the machine on received a 20-year prison term on a charge of second-degree murder.

Dean Hartman, 21, of Medford was convicted by a Circuit Court jury in February, following a trial in which he recounted many incidents of abusing his son, Richard, who died Aug. 22 at a Marshfield hospital. Cause of death was listed as a skull fracture.

Judge David A. Clapp on Thursday ordered the maximum sentence for Hartman, who had testified that, on the day before his son's skull was fractured, he put the child in the clothes dryer and turned it on for "a few seconds."

Hartman testified that, in response to the child's crying, he had "quite frequent" episodes of abuse and that he "prayed but didn't tell anybody" about it.

RFK Jr. may may not be imprisoned

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy Jr., who faced sentencing today for felony heroin possession, probably won't have to go to prison, a prosecutor said.

Kennedy, 30, son of the former senator and U.S. attorney general, pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of heroin Feb. 17.

The charge was filed after he became ill aboard a flight from Minneapolis to Rapid City in September. He admitted having about 0.2 gram of heroin.

Kennedy, who will be sentenced by Circuit Judge Marshall Young, could be given up to two years in prison and a $2,000 fine.

But Pennington County State's Attorney Rod Lefholz says first-time drug offenders usually receive suspended sentences in Circuit Court. Such a sentence would require a period of probation for Kennedy that would erase the conviction from his record if he did not violate its terms.

Young had ordered a presentence investigation, which was done by a Rapid City probation officer.

ABC Relays will have talented fem-tracksters

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

Some of the top high school track and field performers in West Texas and the South Plains will be on hand for the running of the American Businessmen's Club Relays Saturday, Mar. 17 at Blankenship Field.

There will be junior varsity and varsity competition in both boys' and girls' divisions.

The Odessa Permian girls, back to defend the title they won last year, are favorites to repeat the feat again.

Lubbock Estacado is expected to challenge Permian for the team title in the girls' division which includes Lubbock teams Coronado, Lubbock High, Monterey and Dunbar.

Other teams entered are Plainview, Muleshoe, San Angelo Central, Hobbs, N.M., Midland High, Sweetwater, El Paso Coronado and Big Spring.

See meet schedule, records under scoreboard on page 2B

Lady Steers Tough

The Big Spring High School Lady Steers are not to be counted out in the championship race with their abundance of sprint speed. Coach Anna Ezzell's troops are nursing some injuries, with sprinter Jai Tate out with a torn muscle and quarter-miler Trish Clemons out with a pulled muscle.

But the Lady Steers still seem to be the class of the sprints and relay events. Ezzell feels that her squad has a decent shot at the front-runners. "We have a good chance to finish at the top," said Ezzell. "The points should be spread out with so many good teams in the meet, she added."

The Lady Steers have the top times in the 400 and 800 meter relays. The team of Tina Smith, Pam Palmer and twins Aretha and Latresa Cork have posted a 48.9 in the 400 relay and a 1:45.0 in the 800 relay.

Estacado, Dunbar and Lubbock Coronado are the other teams that have cracked the 50 second barrier with times of 49.8, 49.7 and 49.8 respectively. Permian has a 50.1 to its credit.

The 800 relay should be a hotly contested event with Estacado, Dunbar, Permian, Lubbock Coronado and Central all being under the 1:50 mark. Estacado's 1:46.4 follows BSHS.

Ezell hopes her 1600 relay foursome of Paula Spears, Tina Smith, Teresa Pruitt and Monica Lockridge can perform up to their capabilities and win the event. The BSHS coach thinks her troops are capable of a 4:08, which would put them in good shape versus the rest of the field. Estacado has run a 4:12 while Permian has posted a 4:13.

Competition in the sprints should be hot and heavy with Big Spring's Latresa Cork and Aretha Cork posting times of 12.62 and 12.84 in the 100 meters. Estacado has three performers that have clocked a 12.8 or better, including Laura Gray who has run a 25.7 in the 200 meters. Other top sprinters are BSHS's Palmer, Sandy Houston of Permian and Anita Allgood of Central.

Permian's Sonja McIntire is the class of the field in the 400, already having posted a 58.7. She will be pushed by Spears, Pruitt and Smith from Big Spring, and Candy Walker of Estacado and Annie Strbough of Central.

Tracksters of the Week

Six athletes received the Trackster of the Week award by their coaches as both the Steers and Lady Steers competed at the West Texas Relays.

The Steers failed to score in the tough competition, but the 1600 meter relay squad of Billy Wegner, Derrick Logback, Roddy Fair and Eric Sherman ran a season best of 3:33.0, knocking six seconds off their previous best.

Track is a family affair for the Cork twins, Aretha and Latresa, a pair of sophomore sprinters for the Lady Steers.

The duo helped combine for second place finishes in the 400 and 800 relays with times of 50.13 and 1:48.62 respectively.

In the 100 meters Latresa finished third in 12.62 and Aretha placed fourth in 12.84.

Together they combined for 26 of the Lady Steers 43 points, in their sixth place finish.

SEC, Pac-10 teams fall as upsets rock NCAA

By The Associated Press

It was a bad night for prestige conferences in the NCAA basketball playoffs.

Such teams as Auburn and Louisiana State from the Southeastern Conference, Oregon State from the Pac-10 and St. John's of the Big East went down to defeat as first-round action continued Thursday night.

Auburn was upset by Richmond 72-71 and St. John's lost to Temple 65-63 in the East Regional at Charlotte, N.C.; Oregon State was shocked by West Virginia 64-62 in the Midwest at Birmingham, Ala., and Louisiana State dropped a 74-66 decision to Dayton in the West at Salt Lake City.

In the other half of the Midwest, Brigham Young defeated Alabama-Birmingham 84-68. In the Midwest, Memphis State stopped Oral Roberts 92-83 and Louisiana Tech upset Fresno State 66-56, and in the other West first-round, Nevada-Las Vegas whipped Princeton 68-56.

The NCAA playoffs continue with first-round action tonight. In the East Regional at East Rutherford, N.J., it's Virginia Commonwealth vs. Northeastern and Virginia against Iona. In the Midwest at Milwaukee, Louisville plays Morehead State and Villanova takes on Marshall. Illinois State faces Alabama and Kansas meets Alcorn State in the Midwest at Lincoln, Neb., and Nevada-Reno plays Washington and Miami of Ohio tackles Southern Methodist in the West at Pullman, Wash.

John Newman scored 26 points in Richmond's victory over Auburn. The Spiders built a 48-28 lead early in the second half and then held off a frantic rally by the Tigers led by Charles Barkley.

"We didn't play scared at all," Richmond Coach Dick Tarrant said. "We've been through this type of situation all year and have learned from it."

Auburn coach Sonny Smith said the Tigers were hampered by a sluggish first half from which they didn't quite recover.

"Every time we've gone into a game and have started slowly we have come back," Smith said. "But this was our slowest start all year. I think we were tight and we didn't run our offense."

Temple defeated St. John's on Terence Stansbury's jumper from beyond the key. The Owls squandered a 53-44 lead and Willie Glass' tap-in for St. John's with 7:39 left tied the score at 57.

The teams traded the next three baskets before the Redmen went into a delay to work for the last shot. Chris Mullin was fouled by Jim McLoughlin to force a 1-and-1 shooting situation, but Mullin, the nation's leading free throw shooter at 91.1 percent, missed the first shot.

After a timeout, Stansbury dribbled to the center of the court and fired his one-hand shot just as the buzzer sounded.

"I knew it was in the minute it left my hand," Stansbury said. "This was the biggest shot of my life."

Reserve J.J. Crawl stole a pass near midcourt and hit a driving layup with three seconds remaining as West Virginia upset 17th-ranked Oregon State.

Crawl, who had missed the front end of a 1-and-1 with 21 seconds left, stepped into the path of Alan Tait's pass intended for Charlie Sitton, and drove for the game-winning basket that eliminated the Beavers, who shared the Pac-10 championship with Washington.

West Virginia trailed 56-51 with eight minutes remaining, but fought back for a 60-59 lead with 5:57 left on Renardo Brown's basket.

Sitton converted a three-point play with 5:30 to play, the last shot the Beavers took in the game. Two turnovers by Oregon State gave the Mountaineers the opportunity to tie the game at 62 with 2:02 left on a layup by Dale Blaney.

Roosevelt Chapman scored 29 points and led a second-half surge as Dayton whipped LSU. Chapman, the only senior on the Dayton squad and the school's all-time leading scorer, scored 10 consecutive points for the Flyers to break open the game.

With Dayton leading 41-40 with about 14 minutes left, Chapman hit a long jumper, a three-point play, two foul shots and another three-point play to put the Flyers up 51-43 with 10:38 remaining. Dayton built its largest lead of the game at 14 points with 2:11 remaining and played keep-away until the end.

Devin Durrant scored 23 points as Brigham Young overpowered Alabama-Birmingham. The Cougars never trailed after Jim Usevitch hit a layup for a 7-6 lead with 16:42 left in the first half.

BYU, the Western Athletic Conference runner-up, surged to a 29-14 lead before UAB fought back, but the Blazers were never able to close the margin to less than four points.

"I'm proud of the way our team responded against a team that is quicker than we are," BYU Coach Ladell Anderson said. "We handled their press well enough to stay on top."

Keith Lee scored 26 points and Memphis State hit clutch free throws in the closing minutes to beat Oral Roberts.

CLOSE CALL — Big Spring's Jay Pirkle (19) and Lubbock Coronado's shortstop Steve Rodriguez (11) seem to arrive at second base at almost the same time as Rodriguez takes a flying leap. Pirkle accounted for one of the six base hits the Steers collected in a 7-2 loss Thursday (see game story on this page). Big Spring will play its second 4-AAAA game Saturday at 2 p.m. when the Steers host Midland High.

Defending national champs beaten in NIT opener, 74-71

There will be no victory celebrations to cap North Carolina State's season this year.

The defending national champion Wolfpack and Coach Jim Valvano were ignored by the NCAA after finishing seventh in the Atlantic Coast Conference with a 19-13 record. But they hoped to make it two postseason tournament victories in a row by winning the National Invitation Tournament.

That dream ended almost before it had a chance to grow when Florida State defeated the Wolfpack 74-71 in an opening-round game at Raleigh, N.C., Thursday night.

After Terry Gannon, a usually reliable free throw shooter, missed the first of a 1-and-1 with 1:06 remaining for N.C. State, Randy Allen's reverse layup with 41 seconds left in overtime gave the Seminoles a 72-71 lead. The Wolfpack had two shots miss in the final seconds before FSU's Maurice Myrick came up with a loose ball and scored on a dunk at the buzzer.

"I'm disappointed for our kids," Valvano said. "At one time I thought we had it won. Allen made a great drive and reverse underneath. I congratulate Florida State and wish them well in the NIT. As for us, we're going to look forward to next season."

In other first-round games, it was Virginia Tech 77, Georgia Tech 74; Michigan 94, Wichita State 70; Xavier of Ohio 60, Ohio State 57 in overtime; Marquette 73, Iowa State 53 and Nebraska 56, Creighton 54 and Santa Clara 66, Oregon 53.

Coronado cops win over BSHS

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

The Lubbock Coronado Mustangs scored four runs in the third inning, and that would be all it would take behind the pitching of Jeff Richardson as Coronado downed the Steers 7-2 in non-district baseball action Thursday afternoon at Steer Field.

Richardson, a senior right-hander with a tantalizing curveball, limited the Steers to six hits. He consistently stayed in front of the hitters while issuing only two walks.

Big Spring sophomore Mike Dodd went the distance for the Steers, allowing 10 hits while walking four. Dodd, pitched a consistent game, getting out of trouble most of the time. His only downfall was the Coronado four run outburst in the third inning in which the Mustangs banged out four hits. Coronado added insurance runs in the final two innings.

After Dodd retired the Mustangs in the top of the first, the Steers drew first blood in their first at bat.

Catcher Sammy Watson beat out an infield hit, bringing Danny Arista to the plate. On the second pitch the big first baseman jumped on a Richardson fastball and drove it over the left-center field fence, giving the Steers their first and only lead of the contest.

Coronado's big third inning started when Mike Ross was hit by a pitch. Brock Marshall collected an infield hit followed by Steve Rodriguez's single, scoring Ross. John Johnson singled, bringing in Marshall to tie the score.

Mustang designated hitter Bill Terrell, who went four for four with four singles, singled scoring Rodriguez and Johnson, and Coronado led 4-2.

That's the way the score remained until the final two innings when the Mustangs added three more tallies. Jerry Anderson, Jay Pirkle, Mike Dodd and Felix Olivias all had singles for the Steers.

Hawks sweep drains Lakers

Howard pitchers, batters pound Longview

By BILLY NABOURS
 Sports Editor

Howard College pitching and some heavy handed bats proved a little more than Longview, Missouri bargained for as the Lakers were swept by the Hawks, 4-3 and 16-1 in a non-conference baseball series Thursday at Hawk Field.

Brian Robbins pitched a masterful first three innings in the first game to notch his first win of the year against one loss. He ran into trouble in the fourth as Longview battled back from a 3-0 deficit to tie things. A Hawk score in the bottom of the inning put Howard in front by the posted final and allowed Robbins the win.

In the fifth Chuck Ashcraft came on in relief. The strategy being that head coach Bill Griffin wanted to get a look at all his pitchers who will throw in a crucial Region V series against McClennan Community College in Waco this weekend.

Robbins' efforts showed Longview getting three hits, all in the fourth, and two strikeouts. He walked two. Ashcraft threw only in the fifth and set down all three batters he faced, including one strikeout. Steve Carrasco, who hadn't pitched in weeks due to a sore arm, tossed the final two frames and did not give up a hit. He walked one and struck out one. Ashcraft and Carrasco are two of Griffin's projected starters in Waco.

All total, Longview managed just three hits off the trio and placed only three runners on the basepaths.

Meanwhile, at the plate, Howard pounded out six hits that included a double by Stephon Hodge, a triple and double by Joey Ortiz and a homerun by Jeff Davis. Davis also added a single and Jim Garcia picked up Howard's other base rap.

The game was scoreless until the third inning when Davis led things off with his homer. A single by Garcia moved Doug Hatch, who walked, over to third and both runners came home when Hodge hit his two bagger.

Ortiz got his triple in the fourth. Kenny Spears replaced him on base and replaced the winning run when Davis chalked up his single.

Second game blowout

Another trio of Hawks saw time on the mound in the second game and limited the Lakers to another three hits while Howard batters unloaded with 13 of their own. Included in that total were three homers — two by Hodge and a grand slam by Davis.

Former Big Spring Steer Mo Rubio started and went four innings. He allowed two hits, walked three and struckout one in going to 1-0 for the year.

The two other pitchers in Howard's starting rotation,

Kevin Kolodzie and Kevin Sturdy, threw the final three innings. Kolodzie went through the fifth and retired all three batters he faced on fly balls. Sturdy gave up one hit and walked one in two innings.

Hodge's fifth homer of the year came in the first inning. The Hawks blew a chance at more runs when a double play soured things with the bases loaded.

That 1-0 lead held until the fourth when Howard scored once again. Ortiz singled and was replaced by Spears as a runner. Spears stole second and went to third on a sacrifice fly by Ashcraft. Carrasco then singled Spears across.

Behnsch and Blake Rosson added two more markers in the fifth when they scored courtesy of a Jeff Hodge single and a wild pitch.

It was in the sixth, after Longview nipped Sturdy for a run on a walk and double, that the Hawks brought out the battering rams.

Howard sent 17 men to the plate in banging out seven hits and scoring 12 runs.

Carrasco, Hodge, Garcia, Hodges, Rosson, Ortiz, Davis, Hatch, Behnsch and Hodges all tallied in the explosive surge. Highlights included Davis' grand slam that also brought in Hodges, Rosson and Ortiz to make the score 11-1, and a score by Hodge when the sophomore shortstop seemed hopeless caught in a rundown. A bad throw back to third allowed him to scamper home with Howard's second run of the inning.

Griffin said afterwards he thought his team could have played a little better, but that he was satisfied since, "We only had one day's practice."

He said a critical part of the Region V schedule starts Saturday when the Hawks face MCC in one game Saturday and two on Sunday.

Four way tie marks Bay Hill's first day

ORLANDO, Fla. (A) — Ray Floyd has played well in this tournament before. But he hasn't won.

"Three times before, I've figured out a way not to win," Floyd said.

And it seemed as if Tom Watson, Jack Nicklaus and George Burns were working on the same project Thursday in the first round of the $400,000 Bay Hill Classic.

Burns, for example, was two shots clear of the field with three holes to play and was working on a 6-under-par 65 late in the warm, sunny day. But he bogeyed two of the last three and dropped back into a four-way tie for the lead with Sutton and Leonard Thompson at 67.

Watson, trying to fight his way out of the worst slump of his career, had things going well as he approached the 18th tee. He was 4-under-par, good enough — as it turned out — to share the lead.

But he drove into the rough, then hit a 5-iron second shot that blew it all. It hit high up in the stands to the left of the green, bounced off the boards to a cart path, bounced again, across a street into a housing development and out of bounds.

It produced a triple-bogey 7 and turned a 67 into a 70.

"I turned a good round into a lousy round," Watson said.

Nicklaus, too, was in good shape — until the 17th.

He had dropped an 87-foot putt — "the second longest of my career," he said — for an eagle-3 on the sixth hole and was 3-under-par for the day.

But he sliced a one-iron shot into the water and had to one-putt for a double bogey. He finished with a birdie on the 18th that gave him a 69 and left him fretting about inconsistent play.

"I'm not playing my normal game. But it'll come," he said.

A single stroke back of the leading quartet were Fuzzy Zoeller and Peter Jacobsen, tied at 68.

In addition to Nicklaus, the group at 69 included Gil Morgan, Ben Crenshaw, John Cook, Gary Koch, Mark Lye, Ed Fiori and Sammy Rachels.

Host Arnold Palmer had a 72. Masters champ Seve Ballesteros and Tom Kite, a winner last week, had 73s. And defending champion Mike Nicolette shot 74.

Both Floyd and Sutton managed to get around without a bogey, but Floyd had to one-putt for pars on the last two holes.

Thompson also credited his putter with his share of the lead. He one-putted 10 times, saved par with a 25-footer after hitting into the water on the third and had two other par-saving putts of about 10 feet.

Despite his bogey-par-bogey finish, Burns said his effort was "my best ever on this course." He didn't arrive until just before his afternoon tee-time, couldn't find the type ball he normally uses, registered for the tournament on the first tee and promptly birdied the first three holes in what he called "a dream start."

He made the turn 4-under-par, got it to 6, then had to work hard just to retain a share of the top spot. He hit one out of the water on the 16th and one-putted for the bogey on the 18th.

It's time to spruce up the nest.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEA INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Most of the day is good for you to get into those errands and duties that you do not like very much but which have to be done some time, so get them in back of you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can easily handle those duties ahead of you while the sun shines, but later be with good friends. Take time to improve health.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Go to beauty or barber shop, and get your appearance improved early in the day. Do what your mate expects of you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Early handle all those small duties at home, and they will soon be behind you. Not a good day to invite guests into your home.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Fine morning for shopping and marketing and visiting a few good friends. Entertain at home.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get bookkeeping done and try to get monetary matters better arranged during the daytime, since tonight you want to be with good friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Delve into personal or business duties, and they are soon behind you, then be with friends and clear up some annoying matter.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan a new campaign for gaining your goals during the day. Arrive at the right decision about some romantic affair.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Instead of asking a favor from a friend, find some way of handling the matter yourself. Think about finances today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A public duty awaits your attention so handle it early and conscientiously. Use tact in some credit matter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have a project to finish, so don't run off on some tangent or other. Don't take any risks with an influential person.

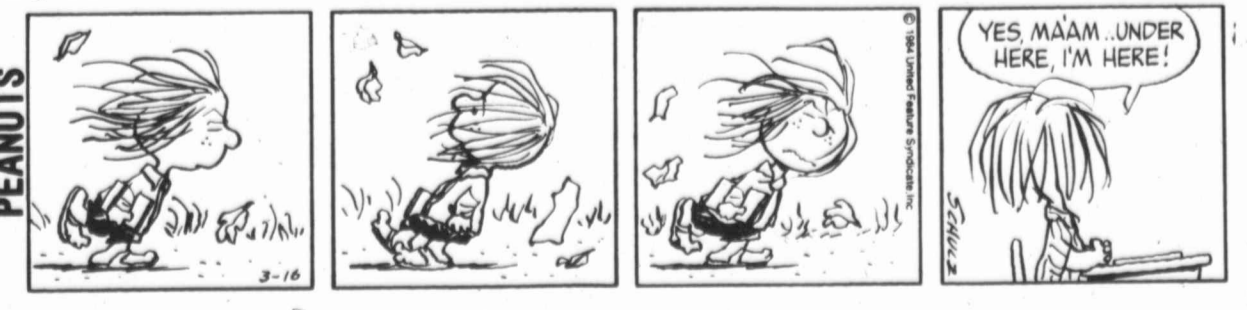

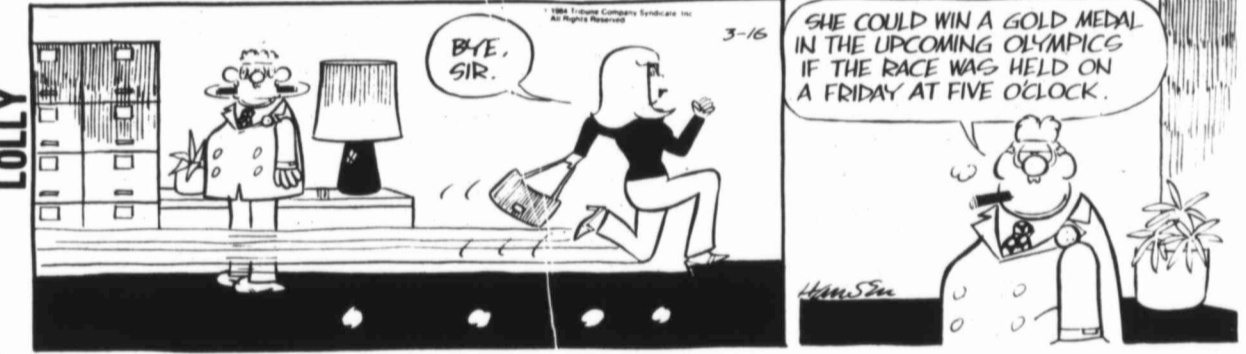

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get your bills paid, and go over statements carefully. Show your mate that you are loyal and kind.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Much talk with partners should be confidential and without prejudice for best results. Make sure pay attention to details.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ...he or she will be one who will be fussy about having everything around him or her in apple-pie order. Encourage this so that the life can be successful and inspiring to others. One who will have many friends and be willing to help others.

Fisherman wins dog sled race

NOME, Alaska (AP) — After more than 12 days of mushing through slushy trails, a commercial fisherman dashed across the finish line today to win the punishing, 1,135-mile Iditarod Dog Race and claim its $24,000 first prize.
 Dean Osmar, 36, of Clam Gulch and his 11-dog team crossed the finish line on Nome's Front Street at 12:07 a.m. (4:07 a.m. EST) for a total elapsed time of 12 days, 15 hours, 7 minutes and 33 seconds.
 An estimated 4,000 people lining Front Street cheered wildly as Osmar's lead dogs, Red and Bullet, trotted under the burlap log arch that marks the end of the race.
 The course follows the Iditarod Trail, used to haul freight and mail to Nome during the turn-of-the-century gold rush.
 Osmar, who finished 13th in his first Iditarod race two years ago to win the race's rookie-of-the-year award, said he was glad the course wasn't 50 miles longer or some of his dogs wouldn't have made it.
 "Some of them could go on to Kotzebue," Osmar said of his team. "Some of them, 50 more miles and they have been done."
 Osmar was reportedly five hours ahead of his two closest pursuers, Susan Butcher of Manley and Joe Garnie of Teller.
 Osmar held the lead for about 600 miles on a trail over some of the wildest country in Alaska, including a crossing of the Alaska Range at 3,400-foot Rainy Pass.

 "It was a lot of luck, but sometimes you make your own luck, like not panicking when you're lost," Osmar said, admitting that he had lost the trail for brief periods on three occasions.
 He said he probably would not run the Iditarod next year, but that his son, Tim, might.
 The other 43 teams still in the race were scattered along the trail to as far back as Kaltag, 359 miles southeast of Nome.
 In all, $100,000 will be split among the top 20 finishers in the race that began in Anchorage on March 3 in temperatures in the 30s and 40s. The thaw left the trail a nightmare of soft snow and water.
 Second place in the race — which is the equivalent of the Super Bowl, the World Series and college basketball's Final Four to rural Alaskans — is worth $16,000, and $12,000 will go to the third-place team.
 Ms. Butcher, 28, is the only woman ever to finish in the top five mushers in the previous 11 Iditarods over an old gold rush freight and mail route, finishing second in 1982. This was her seventh bid for the Iditarod crown.
 Ms. Butcher and Garnie, 30, were still on the 55-mile leg of the trail from White Mountain to Safety, 22 miles from Nome, officials said.
 Garnie was making his fourth bid for an Iditarod victory. His best previous finish was 12th.

North Texas ranch seized for fed taxes

AUBREY — Federal agents, acting under a law allowing seizure of property obtained through racketeering profits, have confiscated a $5 million North Texas ranch, complete with three houses, a swimming pool and 150 race horses, authorities said.
 In addition, agents confiscated a vast amount of valuables from the 120-acre Denton County ranch, owned by Bruce Emery Griffin, a former stock car racer.
 Griffin, 43, was sentenced in Miami federal court last November to three years in prison on charges alleging he directed an extensive marijuana smuggling operation and did not pay taxes on its proceeds.
 Federal agents also seized numerous valuables at the ranch, including a large amount of diamonds and other gems, a Rolls Royce, a Model T Ford in mint condition, a prized Appaloosa sire valued at $850,000 and a Mercedes Benz with nine, 26-pound gold bars stashed in the trunk, authorities said.
 The Department of Justice initiated the seizures this week after contending Griffin purchased the property with profits from drug trafficking.
 U.S. Attorney Bob Wortham of Beaumont said the federal government will operate the ranch until the civil confiscation proceedings are completed in court.
 A team of 40 agents and officers from the FBI, Drug Enforcement Administration and the U.S. marshal's office fanned out over the ranch Wednesday and began an inventory after sealed warrants were issued by a federal judge in Sherman.
 Griffin and about 20 others were immediately evicted, but six ranch hands later were allowed to return to help run the ranch, Wortham said.
