How's that? War facts

Q. I've heard the last battle of the Civil War was fought in Texas; is that true?

A. According to the Texas Almanac, the last shot of the War Between the States was at Palmito Ranch near Brownsville, May 13, 1865. A Confederate force under Col. John S. Ford captured about 800 federal soldiers only to learn from their captives that General Lee had surrendered on April 9.

Jobless rate hits 18-month low

By CAROL BALDWIN

Unemployment in Howard County hit an 18-month low last month, and the number of workers here rose to the highest level in more than a year.

The unemployment rate for the county for February was 5.6 percent, down from January's rate of 7.1 percent.

Joe Wallis of the Big Spring office of Texas Employment Commission said, "I can't quite put my finger on anything locally" that brought employment figures up, but "we've pretty well stayed with the state trend. The oil industry has picked up a little" and that may be a contributing factor, he said.

Wallis said the area, including San Angelo, Lamesa, Pecos and Midland-Odessa, had noted a 1.2 to 1.5 percent drop in unemployment during February. Statewide, unemployment has dropped from 7.3 percent to 5.9 percent.

TEC figures show that 11,880 people were employed in Big Spring and 15,911 in Howard County during February.

Wallis said the February labor force for the county was 16,857. There were 946 people unemployed in the county.

"The last time it was that low was in August of 1982," Wallis said. "Employment is the highest it's been in the county since January of 1983."

Terence Travland, assistant chief of economic research at the Austin TEC office, said there were 12,708 people in the Big Spring labor force for February. A total of 828 workers were unemployed.

Unemployment was listed at 6.5 percent for Big Spring, down from January's 8.2 percent mark.

"That figure is not considered low, but it is moving in that direction," Travland said.

The unemployment rate in Howard County has been falling steadily since last May when it peaked at over 9 percent. January's figures were slightly above December's unemployment rate, an increase attributed to the lack of demand for temporary labor.

Police probe shooting

Family squabble preceded death

Police are investigating the Wednesday morning death of a woman to determine if the gunshot wound she sustained was the result of suicide.

"There seems to be some question with the stories matching with the physical evidence," police Lt. Jerry Edwards said today concerning the death of Carla Perry, 36.

According to Edwards, Mrs. Perry was taken to the hospital by private vehicle by her husband, truck driver Richard Perry, 37, after she sustained gunshot wounds to the chest during a family disturbance at the couple's 2713 Carol residence.

Although police found no evidence of a struggle at the residence, "as far as what actually transpired, we don't really know," Edwards said.

Police could release no further information, he said.

Mrs. Perry had filed a petition for divorce against her husband Monday in the office of the 118th District Court Clerk, an office spokeswoman said this morning. She was a financial services worker for the state Department of Human Resources at 707 E. Third.

A call from Malone-Hogan personnel brought police to the hospital at 1:11 a.m. Wednesday morning, police reports said. Mrs. Perry was pronounced dead by an attending physician at 5:55 a.m.

Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin was called to the hospital and ordered an autopsy, Heflin said this morning. Results of the autopsy conducted by Dr. Robert Rember have not yet been returned, Heflin said. Results should be available tomorrow, he said.

Heckler responds to story on arrests

City Council candidate Danny Heckler, saying, "Why me? Why now?" contended today he was unjustly picked out of the crowd of candidates in the city's April election.

"How many years must I pay for this mistake?"

A crowd of about 30 persons at the county courthouse heard Heckler read a prepared statement and answer questions concerning a story in Wednesday's Big Spring Herald about his record of drug and burglary arrests.

Heckler said he will continue to campaign for the District 3 seat. He exhibited "a copy of the records I was charged with eight long years ago."

He said his 12:15 p.m. news conference on the courthouse lawn was called in response to Wednesday's article.

New manager begins cleanup

Guy V. Speck said today he has relinquished his leases on the R-70, Ritz Twin and Jet Drive-In theaters and sold the Cinema II to a Colorado City theater owner.

Keith Pherigo, 30, took possession of the leases on the two downtown theaters and the Wasson Road drive-in and purchased the College Park double-screen movie house in a deal concluded Friday, Speck said. Details of the agreement and purchase price were not disclosed.

Speck said he had owned the Cinema for eight years and leased the other three theaters for the last four years from the Robb Estate of Dallas.

Pherigo could not be reached today for comment. His mother, Janie Pherigo, owner of Jane's Flowers and Gifts in Big Spring, said Pherigo owns the Palace Theatre in Colorado City and is building a new theater in Andrews.

She said Pherigo, native of Coahoma and former Howard College student, plans some remodeling of the four theaters here.

"He's cleaning them up and painting them," Mrs. Pherigo said. "Beyond that, I really don't know what he plans for them."

Pherigo, who recently moved to Big Spring, purchased the Colorado City theater over one year ago and plans to open a new double-screen theater in Andrews by May, Mrs. Pherigo said.

Speck said the Cinema II was owned by his corporation, Skyview Theaters. He said the corporation will continue to operate a billboard business.

Pherigo, a graduate of Coahoma High School and Western Texas College, is a former highway patrolman and employee of Sun Oil Co. in Snyder.

Teen-agers may take city's litter to task

A concerted effort to clean up Big Spring may be a reality this summer if the Youth Corps, a cleanup crew composed of teen-agers, gets Chamber of Commerce sanction.

Johnny Rutherford, one of the originators of a proposed group, met with the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce board Wednesday to discuss the corps' alignment with the Chamber.

LeRoy Tillery, executive vice president of the Chamber, said the Youth Corps will be composed of teen-agers 16 and over who will clean up areas in the city for $3.35 an hour during the summer months.

Rutherford said the group had received a $5,000 grant from the Big Spring Industrial Foundation. Directors Wednesday discussed making the Youth Corps part of the Chamber.

Board member Richard Atkins told other directors, "The Youth Corps is the only workable plan I've ever seen to cleaning up Big Spring."

Granville Hahn told directors that enough liability insurance must be purchased to cover any accident. "We need some level (of insurance coverage) that everyone is comfortable with."

Rutherford told directors he would like to see the Youth Corps in action by June 1. He said he felt there would be no shortage of work for the Youth Corps members because "there is a backlog (of work) every year."

Action on the proposal was delayed pending resolution of liability insurance concerns. Under the program, people interested in hiring the Youth Corps workers would be asked to pay a certain amount for cleaning up their property; teen-agers will not be working with heavy machinery but will be using equipment such as lawnmowers.

In other action the Chamber directors agreed to purchase an American Chamber of Commerce Executive Legal Liability Policy for board members. The coverage allows for $1 million coverage per incident.

Directors were told that the annual Chamber banquet held in February cost the Chamber $7,953.62. Money raised through ticket sales totaled $7,575, leaving the Chamber owing $378.62 on the event.

The City of Big Spring agreed to budget $6,000 for industrial advertising from now until Sept. 30. The chamber had asked for $15,000. The Chamber may See Cleanup page 2-A

New elevators will tell passengers what's up

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — New-fangled elevators will give you more than a lift — there'll be digital weather reports, stock prices and even a soothing female voice to tell passengers what's up, down and on the floors in between, a manufacturer says.

"Welcome to Otis," the well-modulated voice says as a passenger enters the car. "Please stand clear of the closing doors."

Stop on the second floor and you hear: "Cocktail lounge, restaurant, casino." At the next stop, the elevator says, "Sixth floor. Going up."

Otis Elevator Co. showed a stationary model of its high-tech elevator to Omaha-area architects, building owners and reporters on Wednesday.

Overhead, a digital display can show weather reports, stock market quotations or advertisements, such as the daily special at the building's coffee shop.

The voice system has a standard 110-word vocabulary that can be programmed to give almost any conceivable message to passengers, said Jack Illgner, Omaha manager for Otis.

The elevator is smart, too. Say a prankster gets on and decides to take a tour of every floor in the building.

"You're pressing too many buttons," the elevator says gently, canceling all the buttons pushed so far. "Please press only the buttons that are necessary."

It knows roughly how many people are on board because springs in the floor compute the passengers' weight. If the weight reaches the elevator's capacity, the voice says, "This elevator is full. Please take the next elevator."

If the machine stops between floors, it says, "Do not be alarmed. Please use the telephone to report the malfunction."

Illgner said the human voice is recorded and stored in memory chips in the elevator's control panel.

FIERY ROMANCE — Cheryll Buie and her husband Ralph Deal emerge from a house full of flames where they were married yesterday.

Smoke gets in your eyes Georgia couple married in burning house

STATESORO, Ga. (AP) — As colleagues doused flames and the groom's mother waited nervously outside, a bride in a fire-retardant veil said "I do" to an avid firefighter in a ceremony performed inside a burning house.

"It was hotter and smokier than I ever dreamed it would be," Cheryll Buie — now Mrs. Ralph Deal — said after she tossed away the bouquet she had clutched with a fire extinguisher during the 5-minute, 40-second wedding.

The small, wood-frame house, set ablaze as part of a fire department training exercise, collapsed in a shower of sparks just minutes after the newlyweds kissed Wednesday night.

Everyone in the wedding party — including 28 firefighters — was safely out by then, and the groom said the ceremony had gone mostly as planned.

"We got flames over our heads a time or two, but the hose crews knocked it down," said Deal, a 37-year-old training officer in the department.

It had been Deal's idea to combine the wedding with the exercise, which is held every two weeks and sometimes includes "live-fire" training.

He complimented his colleagues for doing "a marvelous job" of keeping things as cool as possible while the Rev. Will Griffith hastened through the ceremony.

Best man Benton Deal, who is the groom's father, and maid of honor Johanna McGlamery flanked the couple, who wore yellow slickers, boots and fire helmets — red for him, white for her. At one point the bride rushed out a back door to dab tears away and get a bit of fresh air.

Hilda Deal, the groom's mother, was among 200 people gathered outside.

"That's my whole family in there. I'm scared of fire," she said.

The new Mrs. Deal is a 28-year-old dispatcher for the Georgia State Patrol who, her husband said, "has a lot of sporting blood in her."

Much of the day had been occupied fielding questions from reporters, the bride said.

"This really is just a wedding, after all," she said. "We can't understand all the attention we're getting."

Griffith said a normal wedding ceremony, "with music and everything," lasts between 20 and 25 minutes, about 10 or 15 minutes of which is taken up by the minister.

"Maybe I read a little faster than usual, but we completed the ceremony," said Griffith, who agreed to the unusual circumstances "because Ralph and I have been friends for many, many years."

Mrs. Deal said the couple had no trouble hearing the vows repeated, and were interrupted only by her need to escape the smoke for a moment.

After posing for several kisses on the front porch, the bride climbed onto a fire truck and tossed the bouquet and a garter to the crowd. The truck whisked the couple away to a firehall reception.

"We're happy it's over now," said Deal.

The couple said they would not recommend that anyone else try to duplicate their ceremony because trained firefighters must be on hand to help.

Deal said the couple plan another ceremony Saturday at Temple Hill Baptist Church and will honeymoon on the Georgia coast.

The presentation is open to the public, Tillery said.

Hart, Mondale fight for NY

NEW YORK (AP) — With the second largest delegation to the Democratic National Convention at stake, the New York primary, once a wallflower among presidential contests, has become a belle whose heart Walter Mondale and Gary Hart would like to win.

"It's close now," William Hennessy, the state party chairman and head of Mondale's campaign here, said of the race for the 252 delegates at stake in New York's April 3 primary.

In past presidential campaigns, the New York primary held little significance because of it had been held in June, after most primaries and caucuses had already been conducted and delegates selected.

But the state has commanded more attention this year, with its sizable convention delegation and its earlier, April primary date.

Mondale, holding a 629-357 lead over Hart in delegates, is looking to widen his edge in the New York voting. Hart, meanwhile, is seeking to close the gap after losing to the former vice president in last Tuesday's Illinois primary.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, the third remaining candidate in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, also is hoping for a strong showing, despite his reference to New York City, with its large Jewish population, as "Hymietown."

Hennessy said Mondale will "run hard in all 34 congressional districts" in the state.

Bruce Katz, a field coordinator for Hart, promised: "We will win." He attributed his optimism to an army of volunteers who turned out for the Colorado senator after his New Hampshire upset win.

Assemblyman Albert Vann of Brooklyn, Jackson's state chairman, predicted that his candidate will get more than 20 percent of the vote, a tally that will hurt Mondale.

There were 3,498,000 registered Democrats in the state prior to a voter registration drive largely encouraged in black and Hispanic communities.

The latest number of registered voters was not available, but Vann asserted, "We increased it significantly. In five months in Brooklyn we signed up 40,000 new voters, primarily black."

Vann said he thought Jackson's reference to "Hymietown" was "not a fatal error." He said Jewish workers in the campaign were disappointed, but stayed on.

"They still feel he's the best candidate," he said.

Jewish voters have accounted for about a third of the Democratic primary turnout in the past here, and the candidates are courting them.

Hart told Jewish leaders in New York on Thursday that he has "no apologies to make" for his policies toward Israel, but then apologized when asked about a letter under his signature that suggested international negotiations might be necessary to determine whether the U.S. Embassy in Israel should be moved to Jerusalem. He said the letter was inaccurate and unauthorized.

Craig murder case to end today

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

Closing arguments in the murder trial of Oren Lee Craig were delayed today. Jurors are expected to receive the case for deliberation later this afternoon.

Craig, 23, of Sand Springs is charged with the shotgun murder Oct. 18, 1983 of James Harmon, a man Craig described as his best friend.

Craig's story, that he shot Harmon in self-defense, was questioned under examination yesterday afternoon.

Craig testified that he lied to a police officer about the shooting.

Earlier, Det. Bill Price said Craig had told him Harmon hit him with a pair of brass knuckles before the shooting. But when questioned, Craig said the brass knuckles, in his possession at the time of booking, belonged to him, not Harmon.

Craig also ran into trouble describing the incidents immediately preceding the shooting. He testified Harmon had his left hand up, palm open, and his right hand behind his back, as if he were reaching for a gun.

Craig said he thought Harmon was reaching for a gun with his right hand; however, Harmon was left handed, testimony indicated.

Decomposed body discovered in field 12 miles from city

An unidentified, decomposed body was discovered Wednesday morning lying in a pasture 12 miles southwest of Big Spring, Howard County sheriff's deputies said.

The sheriff's office is continuing to investigate the identity of the body and the circumstances of its death.

The sheriff's office was informed of the location of the body from a phone call, office employees said.

The body, which sheriff's deputies said they believe to be male, is in such an advanced state of decomposition that its gender and method of death will have to be determined by an autopsy, according to office employees.

Dr. Robert Rember is scheduled to do an autopsy on the body, they said.

A deputy said he found no signs of bullet wounds or stab wounds on the body, but that the body was too decomposed to rule out those methods of death.

Deputies are trying to determine the identity of the body by tracing information and phone numbers found in its wallet, they said.

Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin also is working with the sheriff's office in the investigation as the coroner.

MADD husband gets DWI

STRUTHERS, Ohio (AP) — The husband of the president of the county chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Drivers pleaded no contest to drunken driving and was sentenced to three days in jail.

Robert Barnes, 41, of Poland, Ohio, was arrested Monday and police said a breath analysis test showed a blood alcohol content of 0.23 percent. Under Ohio law, anything above 0.10 percent is considered evidence of intoxication.

Barnes, representing himself in Struthers Municipal Court on Wednesday, pleaded no contest to the charge. Judge Robert Kalafut sentenced him to 30 days, but suspended all but three days of the sentence and ordered Barnes to attend a driver's educational alternative program.

Barnes also will lose his driver's license and be on probation for six months. He was fined $150.

While Barnes was appearing in court, his wife, Ida, was taking part in a program at Youngstown State University as Mahoning County representative of MADD, a national organization that closely monitors how the courts handle drunken driving cases.

Betty Creatore, a member of MADD who routinely checks DWI cases handled by Kalafut, said Barnes was not treated differently than any other defendant. She said MADD considers the judge to have a good record on DWI cases.

Last year, Barnes was arrested for drunken driving, but he pleaded guilty in Poland Village Court to a reduced charge of reckless operation.

Governor gets a home

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Gov. George Deukmejian may finally get a capital city home for his family and end his 15-month bachelor's stay in a downtown apartment.

Sacramento television station KOVR reported Wednesday that the governor has made an offer on a $350,000 house and may move in within a month.

Since taking office in 1983, Deukmejian has been barred by a political dispute from using the state's governor's mansion, which the Legislature put up for sale.

Deukmejian has been living in a two-bedroom apartment five blocks from the Capitol while his wife and two of their three children remained at their home in Long Beach, almost 400 miles away in Southern California. Their third child goes to college in Colorado.

While not as large as the governor's mansion, which former governor Jerry Brown refused to live in and ridiculed as a "Taj Mahal," the house Deukmejian has chosen has four bedrooms, three baths, a swimming pool and spa, KOVR said.

Dancers welcome Charles

LUSAKA, Zambia — Drums and a 19-gun salute greeted Britain's Prince Charles on his arrival for a tour of projects supported by the Commonwealth Development Corp., of which the prince is a director.

Brightly dressed African dancers were among the hundreds of people jostling for a royal handshake at Lusaka International Airport on Wednesday as the 35-year-old heir to the British throne flew in to the capital from Tanzania.

"Isn't he super?" exclaimed Katrina James, 15, after she told the prince her brother attended an Australian school where Charles spent a year.

A copper-producing nation of 6.3 million people, Zambia has about 15,000 British citizens and about 40,000 expatriate British workers.

Actor sues for 1959 film

LOS ANGELES — Actor Richard Egan is contending the studio failed to pay him for its use of scenes from his 1959 film "A Summer Place" in its 1982 picture "Diner."

The suit, filed Tuesday in Los Angeles Superior Court, contends that under a Screen Actors Guild contract the studio was required to negotiate separately with the actor for using portions of "A Summer Place," said Egan's attorney, Douglas Smithers.

Egan, 60, is seeking $12,844.56 compensatory damages and $100,000 exemplary damages, the lawyer said.

For starring in "A Summer Place," produced by Warner Bros., Egan was paid $75,000 for seven weeks of work, according to the court papers.

"Diner" was about young people growing up in the late '50s.

Officials at MGM's parent company, MGM-UA, said Wednesday they were not aware of the legal action.

Renowned pianist honored

HARTFORD, Conn. — Jazz greats Dave Brubeck and Gerry Mulligan are among the talents getting together Friday night in a tribute to renowned pianist and educator John Mehegan.

Mehegan, in his 60s, is in a New Canaan nursing home suffering from an inoperable brain tumor, said Lucille King, organizer of the benefit concert to be held at New York's Symphony Space.

He spent six months in a hospital undergoing treatment and is "tens of thousands of dollars in debt from the medical bills," she said.

Slaughter cattle figures rise in March

The March 1 total of cattle and calves on feed for slaughter in Texas feedlots is up 12 percent — 1.9 million head — from a year ago, according to figures from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

State statistician Dennis Findley reported the monthly total is down 4 percent from February, but cattle-on-feed numbers normally show some downward trend beginning this time of year.

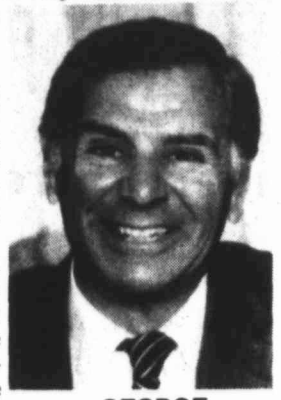

Placements, at 330,000 head, were above last year's unusually low February level, while marketings during the month were 29 percent more than a year ago at 400,000, Findley said.

The news in brief

Geter may go free today

DALLAS (AP) — Lenell Geter, who served nearly 16 months of a life sentence for a robbery he said he never committed, is beginning "to see the bright clouds of justice" after prosecutors announced charges against the black engineer would probably be dropped today.

District Attorney Henry Wade announced at a hastily called news conference Wednesday afternoon that the aggravated robbery charge would be dropped because four of the five witnesses who had identified Geter as the robber have now identified another man as the bandit.

When first told of the news at his office at E-Systems Inc. in Greenville, Geter said he could not believe it but that he'd heard "rumors all day."

"All right! Listen, I'm just excited," Geter told the Associated Press, which notified him the charges were being dropped. "It's a new beginning. I'm going to pick up my life and go on."

In a Wednesday night interview with KXAS-TV, Fort Worth, Geter repeatedly thanked those who helped him and believed in his innocence.

"I'm getting to see the bright clouds of justice and I feel that our system will work," said Geter.

Geter, 26, refused to make any direct comment about a possible lawsuit in connection with his arrest and conviction in October 1982 on charges he robbed a fast-food restaurant in the Dallas suburb of Balch Springs.

"I'm sorry to say nothing tangible can account for lost time I spent in prison, but the mere fact I received justice and the intangible things ... could be handled later," Geter said.

Geter was convicted on the basis of five eyewitnesses to the robbery, even though they inaccurately estimated his height. Geter's co-workers said he was at work 50 miles away in Greenville.

Meese asks for help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edwin Meese III, his nomination as attorney general increasingly under fire, is asking for a special prosecutor to investigate his affairs, Sen. Joseph Biden said today.

Biden, D-Del., told reporters at a meeting of the Senate Judiciary Committee that Meese told him of his decision in a telephone call earlier in the day.

The committee has been conducting hearings on Meese's nomination.

Biden said, "I told Meese myself he would be making a serious mistake if the White House did not insist that the Justice Department investigation be a full-blown one, not limited in any way, and have an independent counsel conducting the investigation."

The senator said Meese had asked to have a meeting with Biden, the ranking Democrat on the panel, but he told Meese, "I did not want to do that."

"He told me that at 10:30 this morning he's going to announce he is asking for a special prosecutor to cover all matters" regarding the investigation into Meese's affairs.

Biden said he did not know exactly how broad an investigation by a special prosecutor Meese would be seeking but that he advised Meese it should concern all questions regarding his financial matters and his role if any in the passage of Carter re-election documents to the Reagan campaign, as well as his controversial promotion to colonel in the Army Reserve.

British airliner hijacked

TAIPEI, Taiwan — A hijacker who claimed he was armed with explosives commandeered a British Airways jumbo jetliner en route from Hong Kong to Peking, diverted the plane to Taiwan and asked for political asylum, government officials said.

No one was reported injured in the hijacking. Liang Weijiang, 28, surrendered peacefully once the plane landed at Chiang Kai-shek airport in suburban Taipei, and security officials there said they found no explosives or other weapons on him.

Liang, who was taken to a security area for questioning, told officials he was married to a Taiwanese woman who is now living in China's Henan province. He initially told authorities he was from Guangdong province in southern China, but he was carrying a Hong Kong resident identification card.

Defectors from China are generally given asylum when they request it in Taiwan.

The officials said the Boeing 747 had 338 passengers aboard and a crew of 18, all of them reported unharmed. It was reported to be the first hijacking of a commercial airliner to Taiwan since the Nationalist government arrived there after being ousted from the Chinese mainland in 1949.

The jumbo jetliner later took all the passengers and crew safely back to Hong Kong.

The officials said crew members reported that Liang passed a note to a stewardess shortly after Flight 003 took off from Hong Kong reporting that he was armed with explosives and wanted the flight diverted to Taiwan.

The stewardess delivered the note to the plane's pilot, who radioed the control tower at Taipei airport for permission to land.

Barroom jury deliberating

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — Jurors in the trial of four men accused of a barroom gang rape began their deliberations today, six days after another panel convicted two other men in the case.

Deliberations in the case of Virgilio Medeiros, 24, Jose Medeiros, 24, John Cordeiro, 24, and Victor Raposo, 23, began at 9:10 a.m. The two Medeiros men are not related.

Prosecutors earlier urged the jurors to adhere to "a tradition that says we don't tolerate bullies." But lawyers for the defendants, Portuguese immigrants who could face up to life in prison if convicted of aggravated rape, said that a 22-year-old woman and a bartender lied about the events of March 6, 1983, at Big Dan's tavern in nearby New Bedford.

In closing statements, the defense said the woman originally consented to sex with the men, then panicked at the thought of her family's reaction.

Before the start of deliberations, court officials tried to ensure that the 16 jurors would be unaware that another jury Saturday convicted two other men of aggravated rape in the case.

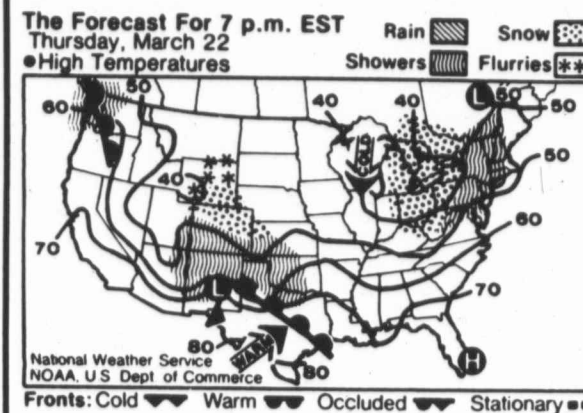

Those two, Daniel Silva, 27, and Joseph Vieira, 28, are to be sentenced Friday.

In closing arguments Wednesday, assistant Bristol County District Attorney Robert Kane said there was "a natural ... outrage" against what happened in the tavern. He said the men acted as a "mob" in "an explosion of violence and brutality against that small woman."

"It is an outrage that's drawn upon the American tradition and experience. It's a tradition that says we don't tolerate bullies," Kane said.

"We have a tradition in this country where we've always supported the underdog. ... It is that group enterprise, that group of six against one — against one — that revolts us and outrages us, because that is our spirit and this is America," Kane said.

Weather

West Texas - Fair to partly cloudy with a slow warming trend Saturday and Sunday. Increasing cloudiness Monday with scattered afternoon showers and a few thunderstorms most sections.

Scattered cloudiness covered the Coastal Bend of the Texas Gulf today as moist air pushed northward into the eastern half of the state, the lower Rio Grande valley and south central areas, bringing the threat of thunderstorms.

The Panhandle and Northwest Texas had high-level cloudiness, while clear skies prevailed elsewhere in the state.

Low temperatures ranged from the 40s in the Texas Panhandle, south plains and Davis mountains of West Texas to the 60s in the lower Rio Grande valley and the 50s elsewhere.

Extreme readings were 40 degrees at Amarillo and 64 at Brownsville and McAllen.

Winds were southeasterly across most of Texas at speeds from 10 to 20 mph, except in North Central, Northwest and Southwest Texas, where speeds were 10 mph.

The National Weather Service said showers and thunderstorms were expected Friday across most of the state, with rain mixed with snow predicted in the Panhandle.

Windy conditions should coincide with the rainfall in North Texas, which will experience increasing cloudiness and warmer temperatures. It should be very windy in western and central sections.

A cooling trend was expected in South Texas, with a chance of showers and thunderstorms through Friday. Skies should be mostly cloudy in northern sections and partly cloudy in southern areas through Friday, the weather service said.

Temperatures on left indicate previous day's high and overnight low to 8 a.m. EST. Temperatures on right indicate outlook for tomorrow.

Friends in need

Everytime you turn around, you hear the Salvation Army's name mentioned in connection with one good turn or another. When icy roads sent a commercial bus line scurrying to Big Spring for safe shelter, the stranded travelers found haven at the National Guard Armory in Salvation Army-organized bed and board.

When a freight train derailment prompted concern that evacuations would be necessary, it was the Army which was contacted to provide shelter and hot meals.

Last Christmas, the Army assisted 2,500 persons with food baskets and toys for children.

We look to the Salvation Army automatically. It is the salvation of the needy, the poor, the downtrodden. It is the helping hand in emergencies and disasters. The Army took time out from its work Tuesday to give a "public accounting" and to apprise the community of its services. It took time to say "thank you" to Big Spring for support its people and organizations have provided. We take time now to return that thanks.

Around The Rim

By RHONDA WITT

A 'hair'owing experience

To cut or not to cut? That was the decision I had to make recently when my hair got out of control. I couldn't see because of my long bangs, and my straight hair hung down to the middle of my back. That's when I decided to make an appointment with a beautician.

The day before I was to get my hair cut I decided I'd better pick a hairstyle. I wanted something new, so a friend and I slipped into Poncho's at 7 p.m. and flipped through several hairstyle magazines before selecting one. You wouldn't believe some of the hairstyles that magazine suggested. Some were ghastly, and I don't know anyone who would be caught with their hair like that. From our chosen magazine, we quickly selected three conservative hairstyles.

Next, we went to meet a bunch of friends at a local sporting event. We asked everybody we knew which way they thought I should get my hair cut. One person was really helpful, each time we showed him a different picture he would say "I like that one," or "That's a neat haircut." We left him out of the voting. Finally, a hairstyle for me was decided on.

The next day, I went to the beauty salon with what little courage I had left. The beautician said, "Are you sure you want it this way?" I replied reluctantly "Yes". There was no turning back after she grabbed a lock of my hair and snipped it off.

As she clipped and snipped at my hair, the beautician kept saying, "I think you are really going to like your hair short." I started getting worried after she said it for the 20th time, and thought to myself, "What's wrong with it?"

After an hour, the grueling ordeal was over, and I ventured out to get a public opinion about my new image. My friend who had gone to Poncho's with me was the first to see it. Her reaction was "I love it."

My sister's reaction was just the opposite. When she saw it, she said, "What happened to your hair? You're bald." If I remember correctly she was one of those who voted for me to get my hair cut this way!

Later in the week, when I saw some friends they said, "You're not bald. Your sister said you shaved your head." I think she got a little carried away, because my hair isn't that short.

Comments from friends ranged from "It makes you look grown up," to "Who cut your hair?" Some of my friends were shocked because they had never seen me with short hair. And even though they said they like, I wasn't so sure they did.

There's only been one thing I haven't liked about getting my haircut. Nobody recognizes me now. It's like I'm invisible. When I tell someone I saw them, their reaction is, "That was you? I didn't recognize you." I can't imagine why!

Since I've cut my hair, people say I look older. My friends have tried to help me look more mature. I appreciate their help but no thanks! One friend told me now that I cut my hair, I should pierce my ears. Whoa, wait a minute! I don't think getting a haircut is the same as putting holes in your ears. Plus, I think one sacrifice every 10 years is enough.

Infraction sinks Navy officer's career

WASHINGTON — Commander Emory Brown is a decorated fighter pilot whose dedication to the Navy has backfired on him and wrecked his career.

Brown has always been gung-ho Navy. A 1964 Annapolis graduate, he numbers among his 34 decorations the Distinguished Flying Cross, 10 Air medals and four Navy Commendation medals for valor in the skies over Vietnam. He also received the Navy's highest non-combat award for risking his life to save three crewmen during a catastrophic fire aboard the carrier Forrestal in the Tonkin Gulf.

In 1979, the Navy eagerly participated in the filming of a movie — "The Final Countdown" — that has been a boon to recruiting. Brown not only served as the film's technical adviser, he also directed, coordinated and flew in the movie's spectacular aerial sequences of F-14s in action.

But Brown went a little overboard to make sure the film was exciting and realistic. To avoid bureaucratic delays, he paid some of the filming expenses out of his own pocket and was then reimbursed by the film's producer. The total reimbursement was $5,600.

Rulebook brasshats accused Brown of skirting flight-time regulations in return for the payment. He was indicted and convicted in federal court on charges of conflict of interest and accepting a gratuity.

Brown has appealed the conviction and emphatically denies the charges. As one court document filed in his behalf notes: "It defies credulity to think that an officer of Cmdr. Brown's distinction, career and dedication would risk ruining all he had worked for for nearly 20 years for $5,600. At worst, Cmdr. Brown has failed to comply with the letter of Navy regulations — had failed to 'follow the book.'"

Brown believes one of the reasons he was convicted is that he took the advice of counsel and pleaded guilty to a single conflict-of-interest count. "I was on the verge of despair over the charges," Brown told my associate Donald Goldberg, explaining the plea. He said he thought the guilty plea would put the whole affair behind him.

Brown later changed his plea to not guilty on all counts. But the initial guilty plea came back to haunt him at his trial.

The Navy, meanwhile, did its own investigation. Here are findings of the Board of Inquiry:

• "Evidence presented to the board supported the claim that Cmdr. Brown did not benefit personally. ... With regard to the conviction of accepting a gratuity, evidence supported the argument that the money provided to Cmdr. Brown was in payment for expense incurred on behalf of the squadron and the movie company."

• The board found the government's investigations "filled with unsubstantiated allegations, many of which were based on rumor and innuendo rather than on good objective evidence."

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Trade deficit is good for us

When Volkswagen built an automaking plant in Pennsylvania, did it help or hurt the U.S. economy? Silly question. Obviously it helped, providing a sorely needed infusion of jobs and capital. That's why everyone, from the United Auto Workers to the state of Pennsylvania, encouraged VW to do it — and why everyone has been trying to get Japan's automakers to do likewise.

But if you listen to Paul Volcker and other critics of the U.S. trade deficit, that sort of investment is downright scary. Last week, the Federal Reserve chairman warned that we are becoming "hostage to foreign savings." In other words, investment from abroad is the moral equivalent of Iran's seizure of the American Embassy.

The alarm about foreign investment has a corollary in fear of the nation's merchandise trade deficit, which in January reached a record level. The two go together, since any deficit in trade has to be balanced by a surplus in capital. If we are to buy more goods than we sell, foreigners have to be willing to accept our debts. They sell us goods and use the dollars we give them to invest in American stocks, bonds and physical capital.

The rush of foreigners into U.S. investments has been generally blamed on the federal budget deficit, which supposedly pushes up interest rates and makes American financial assets more attractive. That's also the usual explanation for the dollar's strength, which tends to make imports cheaper and exports more expensive.

But the evidence demonstrating any connection between large budget deficits and high interest rates is, so I have noted before, extraordinarily elusive. Nor are budget deficits normally associated with a strong dollar — in fact, just the opposite.

Exchange rates among different currencies are mostly a function of monetary policy. If Country A follows inflationary policies, while Country B exercises monetary restraint, A's currency will decline against B's. The dollar will grow weaker only if currency traders expect a renewal of inflation in the United States. But a cut in the budget deficit would reduce fears of inflation, thus strengthening the dollar and worsening the trade deficit.

Anyway, there's no good reason to weaken the dollar. That would only mean the goods we buy from abroad — oil, for example — would cost more. Does anyone think Americans would be better off if gasoline were selling for $2 a gallon? A few export industries would profit from a weak dollar, but the economy as a whole would be poorer.

As it happens, our exports are already growing rapidly, though not as fast as imports. That's mainly because the United States is recovering from the recession faster than the rest of the world. The alarmists forget that a growing trade deficit is a normal by-product of a recovery.

It's also nothing to worry about. As long as foreigners want to invest more in the United States than Americans want to invest abroad, we have to import more than we export. We should welcome the investment. Just ask yourself: Are Americans better off if our corporations are building factories overseas, or if foreign corporations are building factories here?

Foreign investment, contrary to what Volcker says, is beneficial, providing jobs, capital and economic growth. And it reflects the health of the economy. Foreigners wouldn't be investing here if they didn't see good times ahead. And they certainly wouldn't be investing here if they believed Volcker's predictions that the budget deficits will wreck the economy.

The surge in investment from abroad is just one part of a general investment boom. Last year, spending on physical capital (aside from housing) rose nearly two and a half times as fast as in past recoveries — a reflection of a healthier economic climate. If Americans are so eager to invest here, why shouldn't foreigners be?

The current brouhaha over our supposedly "catastrophic" trade deficit and our new status as a "debtor nation" marks nothing less than a revival of the old doctrine of mercantilism, which was demolished (though not extinguished) by Adam Smith 208 years ago in the Wealth of Nations. No nation, he wrote, "has been in any respect impoverished" by free trade.

In fact, Smith insisted, a nation might run a trade deficit for half a century and steadily accumulate debts in the form of investment by foreigners, and yet see its real wealth grow dramatically. His favorite example? The United States. Then as now, it is the pleasant destiny of Americans to confound those who fear trade.

Dear Abby

Parents growing old as preteen grows up

DEAR ABBY: Am I an old fuddy-duddy or what? (I'm 32.) My daughter, who is 11 and in the sixth grade, insists that she is the only girl in her group who isn't allowed to wear eye makeup, shave her legs and go to the movies with boys unsupervised.

She's right, unfortunately. Most of her friends are allowed those things. It really burns me up that so many parents give their kids so much freedom that those of us who don't are "the bad guys." Everyone keeps telling me that kids are more "mature" these days and do things at a much younger age. Sometimes I wonder if their parents aren't nuts.

We trust our daughter and know that she has a good head on her shoulders, but where is the line drawn? Am I really old-fashioned? We had hoped to make her wait to use makeup and shave her legs until she was at least 13, and hold off the boys until she was 14 or 15. But 11?

Please help me, Abby. I feel very "old" tonight.

OLDIE AT 32
DEAR OLDIE: Don't blame other parents for crying in when their children pull the old line. "Everybody else can — why can't I?" (It's not always true.) You are responsible for raising only your child — and setting the limits that seem appropriate to you.

Makeup can wait, and so can boys. But a girl who's old enough to be self-conscious about hairy legs should be given an electric shaver and permission to use it.

Naomi Hunt speaks to retired teachers

"Putting Your House in Order" was presented by Naomi Hunt, Howard County Extension agent, to members of Howard County Retired Teachers Association at its meeting March 19 at Howard College.

Ms. Hunt emphasized the importance of accurate and available records for use in working with problems that occur in daily family living.

Officers for 1984-85 club year were elected: Ed Shive, president; Roberta Wiley, first vice president; Cliff Ferguson, second vice president; Dale Ferguson, recording secretary; Gene Harrington, corresponding secretary; and Doris Mason, treasurer.

The organization offers opportunity for retiring school personnel to continue their contribution to the community and assist in assuring their security under the Teacher Retirement System of Texas, says Shive. "All retiring school personnel in the area are invited to contact any officer for information pertaining to activities, purposes and opportunities afforded by the organization."

The next meeting will be a covered dish luncheon, April 16, at which Dr. Anthony Hunt will speak.

Dr. Donohue

Ear deposits may cause dizzy spells

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a problem with dizzy spells. They are beginning to wear me down, bothering my normal daily routine day and night, upsetting my digestion and generally making life a pain in the neck. After various tests — blood flow, electrical tests of the head, hearing exams, CAT scans, etc., the doctors told me I had positional vertigo, and that was that. No treatment except Antivert, which doesn't seem to be helping. Any ideas? — K.C.

You've had the tests needed to rule out the serious causes of vertigo — blood deficiency to the brain, tumor, Meniere's disease and so on. Positional vertigo is determined by the kind of dizziness you describe. It is a sensation of movement when you change the position of your head, move it certain ways. For example, some may experience it when placing the head back on a pillow or rolling over in bed. The sensation is one of the room turning in circles around you. This may happen several times a day, with attacks lasting only a minute at most.

Positional vertigo may be due to deposits that have formed in the inner ear, where the balance mechanisms are located. Such vertigo lasts only a minute at most.

The most practical treatment is with the anti-dizziness pills you are using. If your present treatment isn't helping, and if life is becoming disrupted to the point you say it is, then you might ask your doctor about possible use of such medicine as meclizine or cyclizine. But I have to tell you that attacks are fleeting, they may not be worth using. Let's hope that your positional vertigo is on the brief part of the duration scale I mentioned earlier.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I've written before. I would like to know why sleep stays in the corners of my eyes. It's there morning, noon and night. — V.W.

You are referring to the bit of dried matter that collects in the inner corners of the eyes after a night's sleep. That is just dried secretions, and if its only a little bit and happens only on rare occasions it's nothing to be concerned about.

If it's a lot and happens all the time, as yours does, then it should be checked out. Your tear ducts may be partially blocked. That would permit the secretions to accumulate at the corners and dry there.

White assures backing for school improvement

AUSTIN (AP) Gov. Mark White says if it's money the Texas school system needs, "then we'll have to find that money."

White commented Wednesday after the Texas Research League released a preliminary survey showing that Texas schools spend about as much instructional money on vocational education, physical education and sports as they do in reading, writing, mathematics and science.

"I think it is an alarming revelation," White said. "We have to make certain we are not diluting the scarce dollars we have for education on something that's less than essential."

Dr. Jared E. Hazleton, TRL president, released a sample study of 12 Texas schools, which was requested by the Select Committee on Public Education.

Hazleton said the final report to be released in May would include 20 Texas school districts but the preliminary report only had data from 12 of those districts.

"I suspect if we had the figures from 150 or 200 schools, the data would be similar to these 12," he said.

School districts in the preliminary report included New Deal, Paducah, Beckville, Junction, Jourdan, Iowa Park, Rockdale, Atlanta, Lockhart, La Porte, Temple, and Edgewood.

Hazleton said the report in May would include data from eight other school districts — Commerce, Fort Stockton, Georgetown, Grapevine, Midland, McAllen, Austin and either Houston or Dallas.

"The percentage of instructional salary costs devoted to the core academic curriculum in the sample high schools ranged from 12 percent to 48 percent," the report said.

Hazleton said the "core academic curriculum" includes courses in English, mathematics, science, social studies and foreign languages.

"On the average, the rest of the high school instructional dollar broke down this way: 25 percent for vocational education, 13 percent for electives, 10 percent for competitive sports, 7 percent for special and compensatory education and 5 percent for health and physical education," the report said.

Other highlights of the preliminary report included:

MARK WHITE

— At the campus level, high school salary costs per student are 54 percent higher than for elementary schools and 31 percent higher than for junior high.

— Larger high schools offer two to three times as many electives as smaller high schools.

— The average cost per high school student for core academic courses is $181, compared with $215 for other academic courses.

— Vocational education courses, averaging $425 per student, generally cost from two to three times as much as academic courses.

— The average high school vocational class includes 11 students, compared with 20 for academic courses.

"I sensed the likelihood of this occurring but I didn't know until we saw this preliminary report that it was as bad as it was," the governor told his weekly news conference. "It appears some of it was built in by legislation, some of it is in the vocational areas. For instance, vocational education teachers can't be asked to do anything but that particular subject. You cannot use that classroom except for that particular course."

Big Spring man suffers injury

An 80-year-old Big Spring man suffering from the effects of smoke inhalation remains in guarded condition at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital following a house fire early Wednesday afternoon.

Nolan Lester has "not been responsive" to treatment and has had a "difficult time breathing," according to a hospital spokesman.

Big Spring firefighters called to the scene at 1:05 p.m. yesterday found Lester sitting in a wheelchair in the living room of the house, which is situated behind a residence at 1801 Donley, Fire Marshal Carl Dorton said this morning.

Smoke had filled the room when firefighters found Nolan, Dorton said.

Nolan was conscious and talked to firemen Ken Davidson and Brent Overmen as they took him from the house, Dorton said.

After initial treatment with a breathing apparatus, Nolan was taken to the hospital by Shaffer Ambulance, Dorton said.

Firefighters arrived at the small two-bedroom, wood-frame house to find flames coming from the living room window, he said. One engine doused the flames with approximately 200 gallons of water, department reports said.

According to Dorton, the fire was the result of a smoldering cigarette which was dropped in a chair below the living room window.

The fire blocked Nolan's exit through the house's front door, and he was trying to roll his chair to the back exit when he was found by firemen, Dorton said.

The house is owned by the victim's son, Don Lester, who lives in the front residence on the property, Dorton said.

Jackson chooses manager

LOS ANGELES — Superstar Michael Jackson has chosen as personal manager Fran M. Dileo, the Epic Records promotion vice president who helped turn Jackson's "Thriller" into the best-selling album of all time.

Jackson, 25, who won a record eight Grammys in February, has been without a manager since last June. Before that he was managed by his father, Joe Jackson, and by Ron Weisner and Fred DeMann.

Dileo says Jackson will be the first — and for the time being only — client of the newly formed Frank M. Dileo Artist Management Co.

"I don't want any others right now. I am exclusive to Michael," Dileo said Wednesday in a telephone interview from New York.

"This grew mostly out of my work with him on 'Thriller,'" the 36-year-old Dileo added. "Michael is very interested in his record career, and from working with each other on the records, one day he just said, 'Gee, would you like to manage me?' It's not much of a story."

Dileo will be moving to Los Angeles shortly to open his office.

Joan Mondale hits the road for husband

...taking a break from the campaign trail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joan of Art, Mrs. Walter F. Mondale, campaigned in 34 states last year, traveling three or four days a week, logging over 100,000 miles. Tuesday, she saw her husband for the first time in a week and she did not arrive empty handed.

On her arm was an overstuffed orange canvas bag, filled with clean socks and shirts.

Primary day for Joan Mondale began at 6 a.m., shopping for vegetables for the neighborhood cooperative, and it stretched past midnight when she and the former vice president celebrated victory — Illinois and Minnesota — in St. Paul.

For Joan Mondale, the 1984 presidential campaign is "far more intense, more focused," than any other she has weathered — and Joan Mondale has been in politics for more than 20 years.

"The pace is faster. We're going five and six days out of seven instead of three or four," she says. "And the days are longer."

Since January, she has been on the road, appearing for her husband, speaking out on the need for daycare and job training, pay equity, the gender gap.

"We knew this would be a tough race," Mrs. Mondale said in an interview this week. "We just didn't know which of the other seven candidates would be the toughest contender."

Seated in the back seat of a car winding its way through the daffodil-lined parkway to National Airport, she reflected on the primary season.

"We've always had long periods of separation," she said. "When he was attorney general in Minnesota, he was home for dinner only twice a month. Our children have never known anything else. We only dated once a week before we were married." And they had known each other for 13 weeks.

Whatever one's politics, people who know Mrs. Mondale like her. She is a warm, gracious, unpretentious woman, a talented potter whose dedication to the arts over the years has won her the title, "Joan of Art."

Chatting, she is relaxed, easy, quick to chortle over campaign trail gossip, quicker to criticize the Reagan presidency.

"How any intelligent person can vote for Reagan is difficult for me to see," she said. "He is the cause of all this suffering and pain, farmers losing their farms and 2½ million women sinking into poverty."

Yet ask her about rival Gary Hart, whose surprise primary victories sent the Mondale campaign reeling — and she stiffens, offering a stock reply:

"What we say is that it doesn't matter if ideas are old or new, but whether they're right or wrong. Reaganomics was a new idea, but it was wrong and it didn't work. We are proud that our ideas are based on the timeless values of the Democratic party."

Ask her about Jimmy Carter, whom her husband visited the week before in Georgia. Will Mondale ask Carter to campaign for him?

A long silence; then, "I don't know."

She is more relaxed talking about her three children, taking pains to explain a point in one of the many news clippings about Mondale kids on the campaign trail that decorate the family kitchen.

"Both boys are campaigning full time for their father, and Eleanor is campaigning on weekends," she said. "They are terrific."

Ted is 26, a University of Minnesota graduate.

William is 22, taking a year off from Brown University, where he is a senior. Eleanor, 24, a St. Lawrence University graduate, is an actress living in Los Angeles, now playing the Yoplait girl in Yoplait yogurt television commercials. "I wish she wore a name tag," her mother says.

For most of the last 17 years the Mondales have lived in an unassuming, white stucco house only a few blocks from the vice president's mansion where they moved during the Carter presidency.

Damage to the Mondale house from pipes bursting during the Christmas freeze has been repaired. The living and dining rooms are newly painted, stark white with white drapes and only a few pieces of simple furniture. There is no bric-a-brac, no clutter, a simple, sunny, elegant interior that highlights paintings and sculpture.

When her husband was vice president, Mrs. Mondale, an art historian, turned their official residence into a gallery of American art, borrowing museum works by such well-known artists as Andy Warhol and Roy Lichtenstein, as well as lesser known ones.

In earlier years, she gave tours at the National Gallery of Art. And in 1972, she published "Politics in Art," an illustrated book for young adults.

When Carter and Mondale were defeated in 1980, Mrs. Mondale became a private citizen for the first time since 1964.

"We weren't used to it," she says. "... It was a good time to reflect, to read and see friends and travel. We didn't have any duties in private life. We didn't have to answer any questions."

Thursday Notes

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

This won't be a record breaking Notes column today, but it will be about some record breakers.

Big Spring High School coaches probably can't wait to get Runnels Junior High standout Brian Mayfield instituted into the BSHS athletic program.

The talented youngster was highly thought of during football and basketball season, but he is proving just as adept at track and field.

Recently during the San Angelo Junior High Relays, Mayfield set a Runnels school record of 6-0 in the high jump. He barely missed at 6-1 and beat the previous best by three inches. He also took second in the long jump with a leap of 17-9½.

A total of 11 standards fell during the running of the ABC Relays — seven in the boy's division and four in the girls.

Boy's records that fell were in the long jump, 3200 meters, shot put, 400 meters, 300 meter hurdles, 200 meters, and 1600 meters.

Girl's marks that were broken included the 3200 meters, 800 meters, 400 meters, and 1600 meters.

The Lady Steers' season best in the 400 meter relay is 48.97 and according to the latest times in the state, it is good for 10th place among all AAAAA schools.

Over at Abilene Christian University former Lady Steers Carla Jackson and Rochelle Rutledge are setting marks also.

Jackson's time of 25.37 in the 200 meters is third best on the team and her 20-2 long jump is the best. Rutledge has a best of 58.2 in the 400 meters and has helped the Lady Wildcats clock a 46.9 in the 400 meter relay.

And on the subject of records, area track coaches say they don't know anything about the Area Track Bests that run in this section every Thursday. Well here it is one more time. Bests for both boys and girls in the Big Spring coverage area are listed in today's sports section under scoreboard.

And speaking of champions. The Big Spring Women's Bowling Association honored the winners from the recent City Tournament.

The honors were passed out at the BSWBA annual meeting held last Saturday. Elected for terms during the 1984-85 year were June White, president; Barb Vieira, treasurer; Patti Zeigler, Sharon Horton and Nan Buske as directors.

Delegates elected to attend the state convention in Houston are Louise Booth and Horton.

The YMCA under-14 select soccer team, the Silver Streaks began their first ever season earlier this month.

Skip Russey is the head coach and the team is 1-2-1 thus far. Both losses came to Midland teams that have been together since last summer. The Silver Streaks have only been together since the middle of this year.

Russey is assisted by Ramiro Perez and Ken Focazio. Offensive starters are Jess Daylong, Danny Ward, Jason Davis, Thane Russey and Jeremy Foster.

Defensive starters are Brad Roberts, Robert Perez, Mario Ramos, D.J. Tedesco and Doug Jackson. Goalie is Chris Gibson.

Other members of the team are Mark Richardson, Terry Murphy, David Lee, Kirk Piper and Josh Twining.

Not much has developed on the situation involving the ruored laying of Howard College Basketball coach Mike Mitchell for West Texas State.

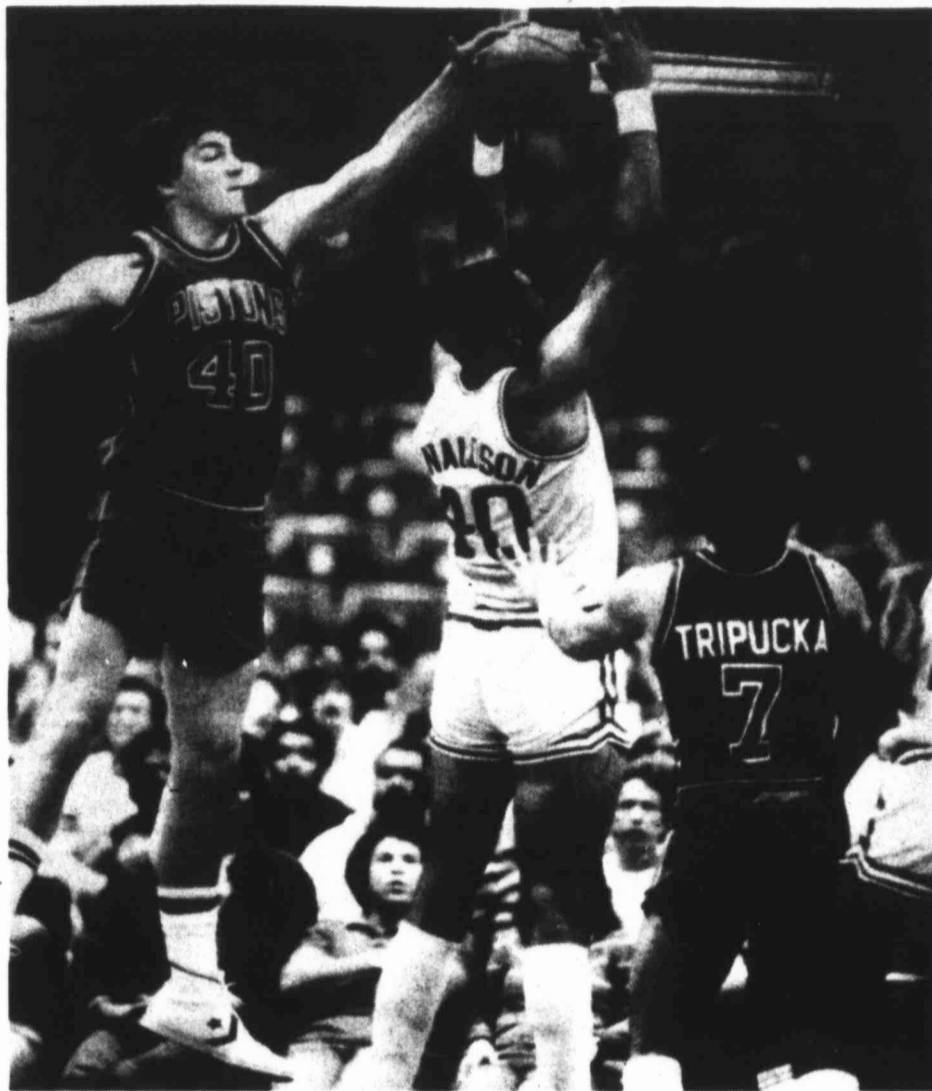

When contacted Wednesday, Mitchell said he has spoken informally with the folks connected with the WTSU basketball program and its coaching vacancy.

"We just discussed differently aspects of the program. They (WTSU officials) haven't event started handling official interviews," Mitchell said.

And the following is information that won't appear in a feature story slated for Sunday's sports pages. The feature is about the Big Spring High School athletic trainer's department.

In interviewing head coach Everett Blackburn it was learned that the department's ice machine is capable of producing 900 pounds of ice in 24 hours. According to Blackburn, that much ice will be used is 24 hours as well.

YOU GOTTA JUMP — San Diego Clippers 7-2 center James Donaldson gets his shot blocked by Detroit Pistons Bill Laimbeer during action from their game Wednesday night in San Diego. For NBA standings and scores see Scoreboard on page 7B.

Former NCAA champs doing well in tourney

By The Associated Press

The four most recent national college basketball champions who made this year's NCAA tournament still are alive. And they're set to pair off in the regional semifinals.

Of the last six NCAA champions, Michigan State (1979) and North Carolina State (1983) did not qualify for this year's carnival. But Kentucky (1978), Louisville ('80), Indiana ('81) and North Carolina ('82) all are there. The top-ranked Tar Heels meet the unranked Hoosiers tonight in the East Regional at Atlanta, while No. 3 Kentucky hosts new archrival Louisville, ranked 18th, in the Midwest at Lexington.

The other NCAA tournament games tonight pit a pair of unranked teams, Syracuse and Virginia, in the East, and No. 7 Illinois against No. 14 Maryland in the Midwest.

On Friday, it will be No. 2 Georgetown against 10th-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas and unranked Dayton vs. No. 13 Washington in the West at Los Angeles. Also, No. 4 DePaul takes on No. 19 Wake Forest and fifth-rated Houston plays No. 17 Memphis State in St. Louis.

The last time North Carolina and Indiana met was for the 1981 title, with the Hoosiers winning 63-50. The Tar Heels are favored this time based on their 28-2 record — including 14-0 in the tough Atlantic Coast Conference — experience and the presence of All-Americans Michael Jordan and Sam Perkins in the lineup. Indiana, 21-8, is a young team which starts three freshmen and finished third in the Big Ten.

"I think we're capable," Tar Heels Coach Dean Smith said in assessing his team, which has been ranked No. 1 for almost the entire season. "But when you get this far, everyone is good."

"The thing that worries me is they're improved," Smith said of how Indiana has played down the stretch. "I'm confident his (Bobby Knight's) teams will always perform well."

The feeling was mutual, according to guard Steve Alford, one of Knight's freshmen.

"We know they're a great team," Alford said. "It's a great opportunity for us to play against them. If we play as well as we can, we feel we can cause them an awful lot of problems."

Kentucky and Louisville did not meet for 24 years but now are playing for the third time in less than a year. Last year, in the Midwest Regional at Knoxville, Tenn., the Cardinals won 80-68 in overtime. At the beginning of this season, in the same building where they'll play tonight, 23,000-seat Rupp Arena, the Wildcats romped 65-44.

"The mystique is out of it now," said Kentucky guard Jim Master. "It seems like every time we turn around, we're going to play them."

"It has to be treated as just a very important tournament game," said Coach Joe B. Hall of the 27-4 Wildcats, champs of the Southeastern Conference. "We've just got to realize we're in a race that involves a lot more distance than just this one turn."

Chargers put on sale; Gibbs pushes rules

HONOLULU (AP) — The San Diego Chargers are being put up for sale to the highest bidder, it was learned Wednesday, making them the third National Football League team to be sold or put on the market this year.

The sale of the Dallas Cowboys by Clint Murchison was approved by the owners on Monday and Edgar F. Kaiser announced shortly afterward that he had agreed to sell the Denver Broncos.

Chargers' owner Eugene Klein's failing health and the high price tags on both the Cowboys and Broncos were cited as the reasons for his decision.

"He's putting it up for auction," the source said of Klein, "but he hopes to sell it to San Diego interests." One year ago, the city of San Diego announced signing of a new lease committing the team to play in San Diego-Jack Murphy Stadium until 2003.

Klein, who has suffered two heart attacks in two years, headed a group which bought the team from Barron Hilton in 1966 for 10 million.

The two franchises sold this week went for $80 million, in the case of the Cowboys, and $70 million for the Broncos. The price for the Cowboys included $20 million for the remaining 65 years of the team's lease on Texas Stadium.

The sale of those franchises continued to be the major topics here, but rule changes also were being discussed.

Washington Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs is spearheading a renewed drive to bring NFL officiating into the television age, with an extra official monitoring instant replays and instantly correcting bad calls.

Gibbs, explaining his support for an instant replay review, said: "When a busted call is made, television runs it again and again for everybody to see. They (television crews) feel they have to present that side of it, say 'Look, they blew this.'"

"I think what we have to do is give the referees all the help we can. The game goes so fast. I just think we need to move in the direction of using instant replays." The official would review only controversial calls on change-of-possession plays, such as fumbles, and sideline and endline calls.

The United States Football League does not use instant replays but places observers in the press box to monitor calls on the field.

Gibbs said of his proposal, "My push on this includes two considerations, that it would not cost a lot of money and that it would not slow down the game."

Under his proposal, the official would watch the video replay the same as would television viewers — regardless of whether the game was being broadcast live or taped for later viewing.

Gibbs said it was extremely important that the review and any call changes not delay play.

"We can't slow it down or we're dead," he said. "I think that, if there were a guy in the booth and he only came in to override busted calls, it might happen only once or twice a game."

"I don't think it would disrupt the continuity."

Cowboys' Pearson injured in accident

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboy wide-receiver Drew Pearson was injured and his brother Carey Mark Pearson was killed early today in a traffic accident in north Dallas, police said.

Police spokesman Ed Spencer said Drew Pearson was driving a vehicle that went on to the shoulder of LBJ freeway in far north Dallas and hit the rear of a parked tractor-trailer truck.

Spencer said Carey Pearson, 27, was dead at the scene and that Drew Pearson, 33, suffered back and internal injuries and was taken to Dallas Presbyterian Hospital. The driver of the truck was not injured.

Hospital spokesman Bill Mays said Pearson is in satisfactory condition with internal injuries.

Spencer said the officer making the report said Pearson was driving a 1984 Dodge Daytona at an unsafe speed and that the truck was parked on the shoulder with its flasher lights on at the time of the 1:30 a.m. accident.

Dallas police spokesman Bob Shaw said the fatal accident would be routinely referred to a Dallas County grand jury.

Cowboy spokesman Greg Aiello said the brothers had just returned on a team bus from Colgate, Okla., where some members of the Cowboys team had played in an exhibition basketball game. He said Drew Pearson was driving his brother to the home of a third brother, Andre, when the accident occurred.

Pearson, a former all-pro out of Tulsa University and the Cowboy's all-time leading receiver, is probably best known for the 50-yard "Hail Mary" touchdown reception that beat Minnesota in the last 20 seconds of a 1975 playoff game.

The Pro Football Hall of Fame named Pearson to its All-Decade Team of the 1970s.

He was named All-Pro and went to the Pro Bowl in 1974, 1976 and 1977. He became the Cowboy's all-time leading receiver in 1980 when he past Bob Hayes mark of 365 catches.

Third round of NIT continues tonight

By The Associated Press

Xavier of Ohio, which has a pair of heart-stopping victories in the first two rounds of the National Invitation Tournament, will try tonight to slow down a Michigan team that has squashed its first two NIT opponents.

The Wolverines appear to have two factors in their favor going into tonight's meeting.

First, the game is in Ann Arbor, Mich., which not only could spark the Wolverines, but also could hinder the Musketeers, who are unbeaten at home this season, including two NIT victories, and 4-9 on the road. Second, Michigan is on a roll, having beaten Wichita State and Marquette by 24 and 13 points, respectively, to reach the third round.

"We've been playing very well at home," Michigan Coach Bill Frieder said.

Cougars decide to clam up

HOUSTON (AP) — Several members of the Houston Cougars basketball team apparently have decided to let their playing do their talking going into Friday's matchup against Memphis State in the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball tournament.

Seven-foot center Akeem Olajuwon started it by saying he wouldn't speak with the media until the end of the season.

Point guard Alvin Franklin then picked up the cue and also refused interviews before the Cougars departed for St. Louis, Mo., site of the Midwest

Regional. Olajuwon told a reporter, "I just want to think about basketball."

Olajuwon made a dash for the dressing room and refused further comment at the team's final interview session.

Franklin started to speak with one writer but when others gathered around, Franklin threw up his hands and said "I have nothing to say" and he also sprinted for the sanctity of the dressing room.

The media even took its lumps from Coach Guy Lewis, who was unhappy with a story that he said wrongly described his East Texas draw.

"I don't even laugh like that," Lewis said. Lewis, however, remained after the drill to discuss Friday's matchup against Memphis State, a team the Cougars defeated last season in their march to the NCAA finals at Albuquerque, N.M.

"I'd like to think that the game means as much to us as it does to them," Lewis said when asked if the revenge factor might spur the Tigers to greater heights.

At World Championships

Zayak comes back with medal

OTTAWA (AP) — Olympic champion Katarina Witt of East Germany won the gold medal Wednesday night at the World Figure Skating championships while American Elaine Zayak skated a dazzling come-from-behind finale to win the bronze.

Second place went to the Soviet Union's Anna Kondrashova.

Zayak, 18, the lone U.S. competitor here, was sixth entering the freestyle program but used five triple jumps to breeze past her competitors and surge to third place before a roaring sellout crowd of 8,000 at the Civic Center. Giggling with joy as she left the ice and waving to the crowd, the 1982 World Champion threw her arms around her coach, Peter Burrows.

The men will skate their short program Thursday night with three-time World Champion Scott Hamilton, the gold medalist at Sarajevo, in the lead.

In what is likely her last amateur competition, Zayak beamed from ear to ear when she took the podium to accept her medal.

In winning the bronze, Zayak, of Paramus, N.J., edged Soviet Olympic bronze medalist Kira Ivanova, who finished fourth.

Wearing in a peacock blue dress studded with rhinestones — the same one she wore at Sarajevo for a sixth-place finish, Zayak skated last in the field of 23.

The crowd, which jeered and screamed "Where's the fix?" for what they considered high marks for Kondrashova and Ivanova and low marks for Canadian Elizabeth Manley's fine performance, were ready to throw their support behind Zayak.

And she gave them everything to cheer about. The former U.S. champion, who finished third at Nationals this year, missed part of her opening combination jump but landed everything else in her four-minute program.

One after they other, she pulled off triples — salchow, toe walley, loop and toe loop. A second triple toe loop was done in combination.

Her marks for style and technical merit from the nine judges were all 5.7s and 5.8s save for one 5.6 from the Swiss judge.

"I just wanted to make the flag go up for the United States," she said in her squeaky voice. "I wanted to come out a fighter and show everyone I wasn't a fluke. Competing at the Olympics was OK, but this was the best."

Asked about her future plans, Zayak drew laughter by saying:

"I don't know I'd like to skate as an amateur forever, but I'm kinda poor and I want to make some money."

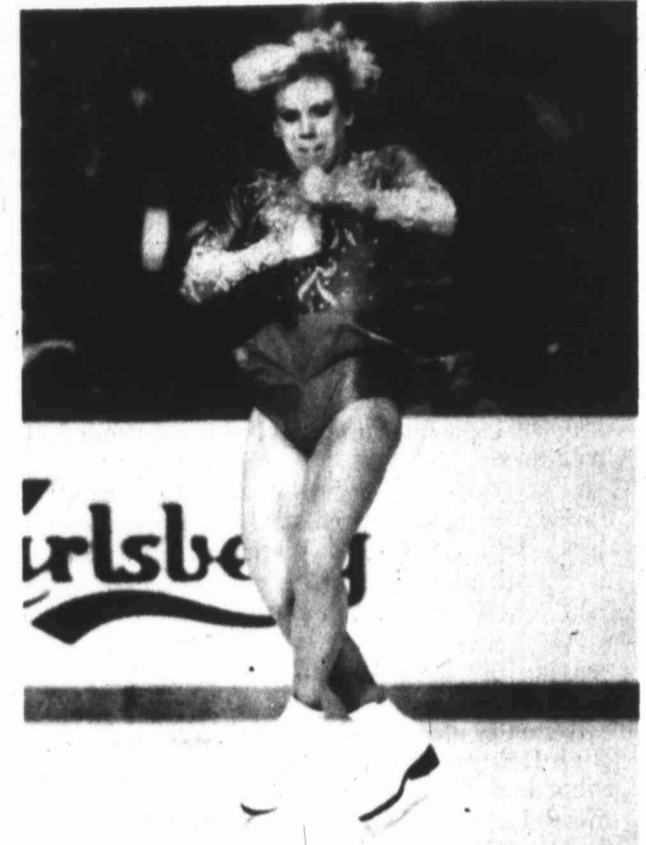

Zayak was ninth after compulsory figures, but shot up to sixth place following Tuesday night's short program.

She knew that if she skated her best she could beat the relatively weak freestyle skaters who were ahead of her.

Zayak also didn't have U.S. teammates Rosalynn Summers and Tiffany Chin to contend with here either.

Summers, the U.S. Olympic silver medalist and 1983 world champion, was on the verge of turning pro and passed up the Worlds. Chin withdrew because of an ankle injury.

Witt, meanwhile, treated the audience to a repeat of her Olympic gold-medal winning performance.

HIGH OFF THE ICE — Elaine Zayak of the United States goes through part of her bronze medal winning routine during the World Figure Skating Championships in Ottawa. Zayak came from far back in the field to win a medal in what probably was her last competition as an amateur.

Wearing the same scalloped raspberry colored costume she wore at the Winter Games to defeat Summers, Witt coupled three triples with her balletic style for winning marks.

The 18-year-old East German high school student has led the competition from the outset and capped the finale with four near-perfect scores of 5.9 for style. The rest were all 5.7s and 5.8s.

Kondrashova, who finished fifth at the Olympics, was in third place entering Wednesday night's finale.

Player Profile

Tommy Gartman is a junior pitcher-outfielder for the Big Springs Steers baseball team.

He is in his 11th year of organized baseball and has played every position, but has worked mainly at pitching and in the infield.

Gartman said, "I think baseball is a good sport that teaches good team play and it keeps you constantly concentrating," when asked why he plays the sport.

Besides baseball, however Gartman enjoys football, water and snow skiing and golf. Favorite classroom subjects are history and math.

The son of Buster and Susie Gartman cites his father as being the most influential person pertaining to his athletic endeavors. According to Gartman, "My dad started me in all sports and pushed me very hard. He has tried his hardest to teach me all the basics of every sport."

Besides his interests in

sports and class, Gartman is involved in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA).

And while graduation is still a year away, Gartman is pretty sure about his post-high school intentions. He said he wants to attend either the University of Texas at Austin or Southern Methodist University and major in history. If things allow, Gartman added he would like a stint in professional football or basketball.

HUTCHISON, KANSAS — Region V tournament champion Western Texas College of Snyder pulled off an 81-74 win over Miami Dade (Florida) North here in the opening round of the National Junior College Men's Basketball Tournament Wednesday.

Larry Banks and Reggie Fells led WTC with 27 and 18 points respectively.

The win put WTC at 25-10 for the year and into a Thursday game against number one seeded San Jacinto (29-2). That game is scheduled for a 7:45 p.m. tipoff.

Woman suffers from fear of fear

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — "Mommy, I'm so scared; I'm so afraid. I feel all alone and totally out of control. I feel like I'm going to die. Please, Mommy help me."

A frightened 3-year-old? No, that is the cry of a middle-age, well-educated, successful woman.

Maxine Dudley, a former Lufkinite now living in Denton, has agoraphobia. Dictionaries define it as a morbid fear of open spaces or, literally from its Greek root, a fear of the marketplace. But that definition is incomplete, according to Mrs. Dudley.

"Agoraphobia is a fear of recurring fear," she said. "It is a severe and incapacitating anxiety occurring when the sufferer leaves the safety of home, or is alone, driving a car, flying, being in crowded places or anywhere where the sufferer may see himself or herself as being trapped and not in control of a situation."

At age 19 Mrs. Dudley had her first attack. "I had been shopping downtown, and I was walking down First Street. All of a sudden my heart started beating very fast; I started trembling and perspiring. I felt nauseated," she recalled as if it was yesterday. "I walked into Cavanaugh-Peden Drug Store and asked someone to call my mother. I didn't know what was happening to me."

It was after many attacks, and many years later before Mrs. Dudley was to discover what was the matter with her. "My mother took me to one medical doctor after another and one psychologist after another and one minister after another," Mrs. Dudley said. "No one could tell me what was the matter. I thought I was going crazy."

She did marry at the age of 23, but the marriage didn't last. One of the reasons, she explained, was the anxiety and fear became so overwhelming.

"I felt like I was dying inside, but I was too scared to die," she said. Once she spent three months at Woodland Heights Hospital. She felt safe there. She didn't want to leave her room.

"Without the support of nurses and several friends, like 'Mudder' Murray, Wanda Newsom and Marie Burns, I don't know what would have happened to me," Mrs. Dudley said. "They stayed by my side even though they didn't know how to help me."

Finally, in 1980 Mrs. Dudley got her first glimpse at hope and understanding. "I was at home reading the newspaper and half listening to an interview program on television," she said. "The person being interviewed was talking about herself. Tears started streaming down my face. My God, I said, she is describing me. The woman said, 'what I have is agoraphobia.'"

"I had an answer. At least maybe I could try to get on the road to recovery. I don't know if agoraphobics will ever be totally cured, but there is help."

Not only is Mrs. Dudley receiving help, she has dedicated the rest of her life to giving it to other agoraphobics. She has given up her position as a journalist who has worked on several newspapers, write freelance articles for magazines and taught at North Texas State University in Denton.

Mrs. Dudley has started a research institute on agoraphobia. For more information about the disease call her at 817-565-9044 or write P.O. Box 22115, TWU Station, Denton, Texas 76204-2115.

A Lufkin counselor, Debra Taylor, says agoraphobia is probably more common than many people realize. It can be successfully treated once it is identified, she said.

"The agoraphobic is stuck in the position of responding to the fear as a child would. After we get to the bottom of it, we picture the situation from an adult point of view. We change their perspective," Mrs. Taylor said.

Agoraphobia also can be treated by systematic desensitization.

"We arrange in hierarchy the most fearful thing to the least fearful thing," Mrs. Taylor said. "The client pictures themselves in the least fearful situation first learning to relax and conquer the fear."

Man says God showed him where to find gold

DALLAS (AP) — Bob Brown said it was God who showed him where to find gold in the southeastern Oklahoma hills near Atoka and that it will be God who will show him how to get it out.

Brown, on the basis of what he calls his "amazing" find, has formed two exploration companies with friends in Southeastern Oklahoma. One of the companies has been donated to a church-backed financial institution in California. And Brown has built a makeshift laboratory in his backyard to get the other off the ground.

"We don't feel we need any advisers. God showed us where the gold was, and he will show us how to get it out," Brown told the Dallas Morning News.

"I don't know anything about it (recovering gold), but whatever I need, he will show me," said Brown, who is president of the Atoka Faith Exploration Corp. and vice president of the Atoka Christian Exploration Corp.

Oklahoma does not have a reputation as gold country.

"There have been no reports of commercial quantities of gold discovered in Oklahoma since records have been kept," Ken Johnson, a geologist and associate director of the Oklahoma Geological Survey, told the newspaper.

"We have no information to confirm it (a gold find in Atoka), nor to refute it, for that matter. You know there are traces of gold everywhere — there's even gold in seawater."

"But Brown and his partner, Atoka insurance agency owner Bill Padberg, are undaunted.

"Everybody knows there ain't any gold in Oklahoma. We know there is," said Padberg.

The two men donated the Atoka Christian Exploration company, as part of a trust agreement, to the Los Angeles Church Loan Corp., a non-profit organization established in 1965 by 100 California churches.

And the company has hired Morningstar Mining Corp. to work more than 5,000 acres leased in Atoka County.

Man invents the 'fishfurter'

NEW YORK (AP) — He didn't set out to turn ground up fish into hot dogs, but now Ernest Buck is swimming toward success with that brainstorm and trolling for other products.

"We see no reason why you can't go on to bologna and luncheon meats," said Buck, who has developed a fishfurter at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, where he is a food science professor.

Buck said his fish hot dog is more nutritious than the standard version, and uses a fish — red hake — that is unpopular for other uses. He plans to publish a paper on the product and lecture in June to the annual meeting of the Institute of Food Technologists in California.

For years, researchers in several places have investigated using fish — especially plentiful but unpopular species — as a substitute or extender in meat products. The Japanese use fish in some sausages, and a Florida researcher has produced a recipe to make a sausage from minced mullet.

But the National Hot Dog and Sausage Council says it knows of no all-fish frankfurter on the market, and several fish and hot dog companies have already shown interest in Buck's product.

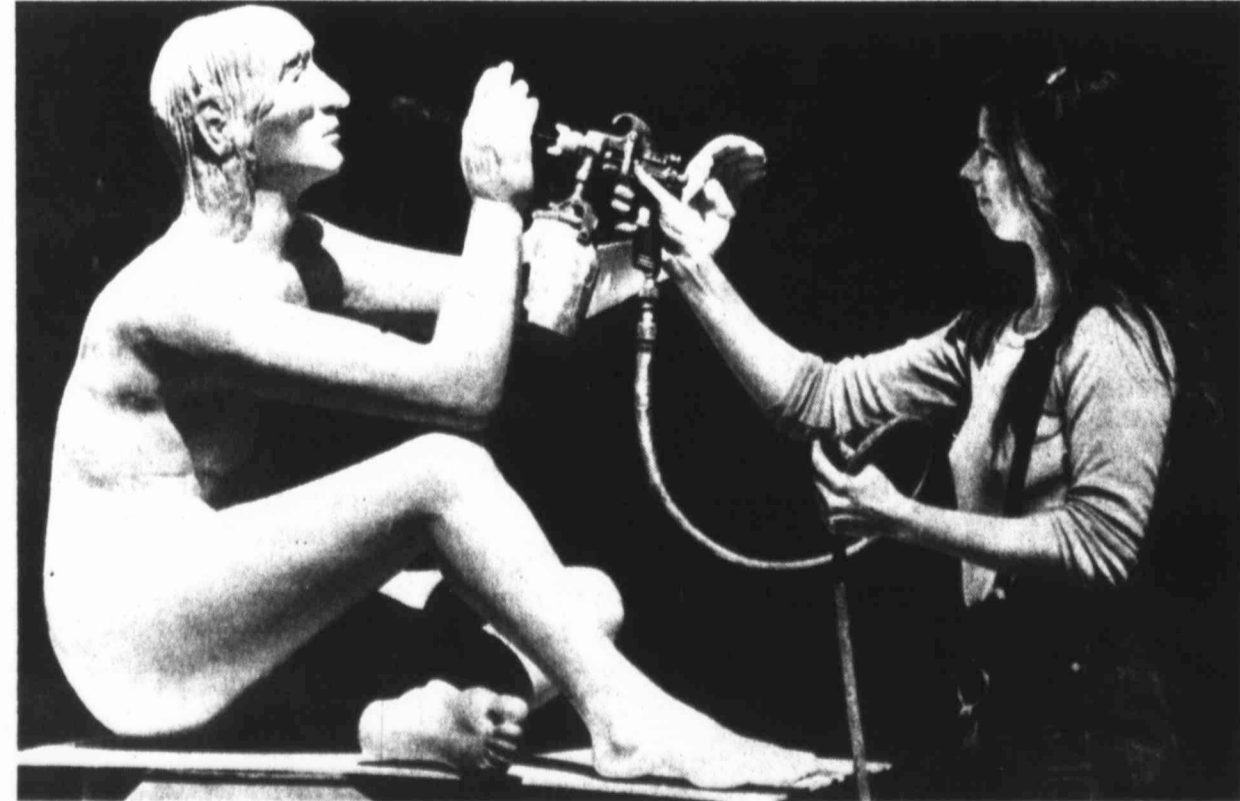

Buck hit on the fishfurter by accident, after setting out to find a way to turn ground-up red hake into a food base for sale to Japan. He then noticed that the protein gel he produced, which contained no scales or bone, might pass as the innards of a hot dog if it were spiced and colored.

He tinted it with beet juice, added normal hot dog seasonings, stuffed it into a casing and tried it out on students.

"It competed quite nicely, particularly with a chicken hot dog," he said in an interview this week. Most people still preferred a beef or beef-and-pork version, he said, but "we were quite pleased with the product we developed."

The fishfurter lacks a fishy taste because it uses very fresh fish and the washing process removes some chemicals responsible for the taste, he said. The spices cover any taste that might remain.

Fishfurters contain less than half of 1 percent fat, compared with 22 percent to 30 percent for regular hot dogs, Buck said. They also have 18 percent protein, compared with 11 percent or 12 percent for regular hot dogs, and they have less salt, he said.

Caffeine is emergency treatment for asthma

BOSTON (AP) — Asthma sufferers caught without their medication can turn to a home remedy first recommended over a century ago — strong coffee, whose caffeine can open breathing passages as effectively as a common anti-asthma drug, researchers report today.

But while two cups of java have been found to relieve asthma as well as theophylline, the standard prescription therapy, the nation's 6 million to 8 million asthma patients shouldn't try to replace their pills with coffee, the doctors said.

"If patients with asthma were really stuck and didn't have their usual anti-asthma medication with them, it might be worthwhile trying a very old remedy. Some strong brewed coffee might well be expected to have some medicinal effect," said Dr. F. Estelle R. Simons, one of the researchers.

But she added: "For sure, patients shouldn't go off their asthma drugs and switch to coffee."

The secret of coffee is its caffeine, the ingredient that provides that morning wake-up or afternoon pick-me-up. Theophylline is chemically similar to caffeine, and both are bronchodilators — that is, they open up narrowed bronchial airways so asthma victims can breathe.

Coffee's ability to relieve asthma was first reported by Dr. Hyde Salter in a British medical journal in 1859, but few doctors are aware of its therapeutic properties. The new study, conducted at the University of Manitoba in Winnipeg, is the first to compare coffee scientifically with a standard asthma drug.

"I heard about an old idea, and I decided to check it out. And it turned out that Dr. Salter from years ago was right," Ms. Simons said.

The doctors gave caffeine pills to 13 asthma patients, while 10 others received theophylline. The victims, who ranged in age from 8 to 18, responded equally well to the two treatments.

"We have shown that caffeine is as effective a bronchodilator as theophylline in young patients with asthma," the doctors wrote in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

They estimated that a youngster who weighed between 110 and 130 pounds would need to drink at least two cups of strong brewed coffee for asthma relief.

Instant coffee, tea and some colas also contain caffeine, but probably not in high enough concentrations to be practical temporary substitutes for theophylline.

There are between 6 million and 8 million asthma sufferers nationwide, according to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control.

Paper finds contaminated ink

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Prompted by the discovery of suspected cancer-causing PCBs in yellow ink at the San Jose Mercury News, the Sacramento Bee has investigated and also discovered contamination, the newspaper's executives say.

In a memo to Bee employees Wednesday, general manager Bob Byerly said PCBs — polychlorinated biphenyls — were found in three samples taken from the newspaper's yellow ink tank, and one of the samples contained "concentrations higher than the acceptable level."

The highest level was in a sample taken from the top of the tank, Byerly said, and "since we use ink from the bottom of the tanks, we believe that unsafe levels of PCBs did not reach the press."

Spokesmen for the Bee and the state Department of Health Services said it could not yet be determined if there was any danger for readers or pressmen who worked near the ink.

State inspectors began Tuesday investigating tainted yellow ink at the

Chemotherapy doesn't help colon cancer

BOSTON (AP) — Giving chemotherapy to people with colon cancer does not improve their survival chances, and they live just as long with surgery alone, a study today concludes.

Colon cancer kills about 58,000 people a year in the United States, and it is second only to lung tumors as a cancer killer.

Studies in the early 1970s suggested that people with advanced colon cancer would do better if they got chemotherapy or drugs that altered their immune systems. But the new study found that surgery and drugs were no better than surgery alone, and the medicines also increased the risk of leukemia.

"New and more effective means of treating patients with colon carcinoma are needed," the doctors concluded.

The research, conducted on 572 patients at 13 hospitals, was performed by the Gastrointestinal Tumor Study Group, directed by Dr. E. Douglas Holyoke of the Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y. It was published today in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Mercury News, where publisher P. Anthony Ridder said PCB levels were far below the minimum reporting level required by the state. Mercury News employees were told of the contamination Friday, but Ridder said he learned of it Jan. 24.
