Iraq attack sinks Iranian ships

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iraqi aircraft and warships destroyed four ships, including oil tankers, south of Iran's main oil terminal of Kharg Island, Baghdad Radio said Saturday. The report was not confirmed and Iran made no comment.

"Fire engulfed the stricken vessels while the attacking Iraqi aircraft and naval vessels returned safely to base," said an Iraqi war communique quoted by the radio. It did not provide details or identify the targets in the 3 a.m. attack.

Iran has threatened to blockade the Persian Gulf, which supplies 20 percent of the West's crude oil, if it is prevented from using Kharg Island. The United States has vowed to prevent any blockage of the gulf and has moved naval forces closer to the area.

Iran did not respond to the Iraqi claim. Its war communique, broadcast by Tehran radio, referred only to fighting Friday along the 700-mile war front. It said an Iraqi MiG-23 jet fighter and a helicopter were shot down by Iranian forces east of the Iraqi city of Basra.

Iranian government departments were closed Saturday, the last day of the five-day Iranian new year holiday, and official comment was unlikely until after the end of the holiday.

There was no independent confirmation of the Iraqi claim from shipping sources in Kuwait that are usually in contact with vessels sailing through the war zone in the northern reaches of the Persian Gulf.

"We will strike at any naval target in the zone of military operations to strengthen the blockade on Kharg and other Iranian ports," an unidentified spokesman on the Baghdad Radio broadcast said.

Kharg Island, 125 miles southeast of Iraq, is Iran's main oil export terminal, handling an average of two supertankers daily, according to oil industry reports.

This was the first Iraqi attack on shipping in the vicinity of Kharg in nearly a month.

On Feb. 27 Iraq claimed it had carried out "destructive strikes" against tankers berthed at Kharg and simultaneously announced it was imposing a sea blockade of Iranian ports in the northern reaches of the gulf.

On Mar. 1, Iraqi jets and naval vessels attacked a ship convoy sailing north of Kharg toward the Iranian port of Bandar Khomeini (formerly Bandar Shapour), damaging at least three ships.

These were identified by their owners as the 16,000-ton Indian freighter Apj Ambika, the 19,000-ton British bulk carrier Charming and the 9,000-ton Turkish dry cargo vessel Sema-G.

The Iraqi attacks appeared to be in retaliation for See Reports page 2-A

Mondale takes Kansas caucus

By SANDY JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

Walter F. Mondale defeated Gary Hart in Hart's native state of Kansas in Saturday's Democratic caucus, and Mondale forged into the lead in caucuses in Virginia. Mondale called the Kansas victory "very gratifying."

In Kansas, with all but one of 117 county and state senatorial district caucuses reporting, Mondale had 363 local delegates or 48.4 percent, Hart had 312 or 41.6 percent, Jackson 25 or 3.3 percent and 45 or 6 percent were unpledged.

Mondale was expected to gain 20 or 21 of Kansas' 37 pledged delegates to the Democratic National Convention, with 15 or 16 going to Hart and one remaining unpledged.

"To win in Gary Hart's home state is very gratifying," Mondale said in a statement issued by his aides in New York City, where he was campaigning. "As the debate proceeds about who would be the best president, we are picking up steam. We didn't spend much money there. It was truly a grassroots effort."

Mondale spokesman Dayton Duncan said the campaign had spent very little money on the Kansas caucus, counting on local organizers for help. He contrasted that to Hart's efforts, which he said spent substantial amounts to buy ads in the last few days.

In Virginia, with results for 2,349 of the 2,500 delegates to state and congressional district conventions, Mondale held a slight lead over Jackson while Sen. Gary Hart finished a distant fourth, behind uncommitted. Caucuses for another 1,000 Virginia delegates were to be held Monday night.

When Democratic Party officials in Virginia stopped tabulating votes Saturday night, Mondale had 741 delegates, or 31 percent; Jackson 730, or 31 percent; uncommitted 445 or 18 percent. Hart had 433 or 18 percent.

While Mondale held a slight lead in the delegate count in Virginia, Jackson was ahead in the popular vote with 6,061 votes. Mondale had 5,534 votes and Hart 3,700 while uncommitted drew 2,403 votes.

Jackson swept the caucus in Virginia's largest city, Norfolk, with a personal appearance. In speeches there and in neighboring cities, Jackson had urged supporters to "overcome a bad system" of selecting delegates by swamping the mass meetings. Mondale and Hart spent their time in New York, vying for its 252-delegate primary in April.

At stake Saturday were 105 delegates to the Democratic National Convention — 68 of Virginia's 78 delegates and 37 of Kansas' 44 delegates to be pledged from caucus results.

An additional 19 convention delegates were up for grabs Sunday, when Montana Democrats use the caucus system for the first time ever.

At least it's not dull Rattlers keep Pit Masters alert

By JIM BROWN
Staff Writer

As the Pit Masters walked in the Big Spring Rattlesnake Roundup show arena Jimmy Kirchenbauer said, "We've all been bitten at least once, and I've been bitten three times". A long ugly purple scar running down his inner arm accentuating two other scars on his wrist and hand, gives validity to his statement.

"I'm allergic to the anti-venom and they just have to slit me open and drain me out, but only one of the bites has been serious," Kirchenbauer said.

Kirchenbauer is a member of the Pit Masters, a snake handling club that travels to rattlesnake roundups throughout Texas and Oklahoma.

"We were raised in snake country and had to deal with them anyway so we got some friends together and formed our own club," said Kirchenbauer. "That's my dad, Billy, over on the P.A., my mother, Patsy, out in the arena with the snakes, and my younger brother, Darren, laying out there covered in rattlers."

And indeed Darren was sitting down next to arena's plexiglass wall covered in slithering rattlesnakes. Mother Patsy was helping by casually dropping a squirming rattler in son's Darren's lap.

Father Billy calmly asked the crowd not to kick the wall behind his younger son and continued telling the assembled crowd that he didn't "remember anyone ever being bitten while doing this particular trick."

HC theater department to present 'Scapino'

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Tim Haynes of the Howard College Drama and Speech Department is producing a dinner theater production of "Scapino" because of public demand. The show is slated March 28-31.

An Italian dinner and a floor show begin at 6:45 p.m. nightly in the Student Union Building cafeteria.

Haynes said when he arrived in Big Spring last year many people had two questions for him: "When are you going to do a musical?" and "Are you going to revive the dinner theater program?"

Haynes researched the dinner theater idea and came up with "Scapino," which features young lovers, money-hungry fathers, zany servants who triumph in the end, and stock characters such as nurses, waitresses and bums.

Haynes is directing the play. Robert Hughes stars as Scapino.

Other actors include Matt Warren as Ottavio, Pam Riddle as Giacinta, Emmitt Bartee as Argante, James Bristo as Geronte and Rory Worthan as Leandro.

Others are Jeff Hulan as Carlo, Felecia Ford as Zerbinetta, Mary Owens as the nurse, Ladene Hartin and Ann Gaffney as waitresses.

The play is set along the bay front in Italy. Haynes said the production is "very physical. There's a lot of action, chase scenes, cases of mistaken identity."

Much of the production will be improvisation. "We take liberty with some of the lines. We've added some lines, changed others, put in new bits and gimmicks," Haynes said.

The original "Scapino" was developed by Frank Dunlop and Jim Dale. The authors tagged their production as being "a long way off from Moliere," and wrote with the idea that any troupe performing the play could rework parts of it to suit their own situation.

The floor show preceding "Scapino" will feature "talent from here on campus," Haynes said. "We are planning to feature music and comedy, something different every night."

Haynes and his theater students built an elaborate set for "Scapino," including a balcony, several exits and entrances, a pier, a boat and a cafe. The set was constructed in the Howard College auditorium for rehearsals and must be broken down and moved to the SUB prior to show dates.

On the menu for the dinner theater production will be lasagne, chicken cacciatore, spaghetti and pizza. For people not preferring Italian food, chopped sirloin will be available. Dessert will be served during intermission.

Tickets include the dinner and the show. Prices are $7.50 for senior citizens and students, $8.50 for adults, $6.50 for senior citizens and students who come in groups, and $7.50 for adult group rates.

Tickets are sold by reservation only, and reservations must be made two days in advance by calling Howard College, 267-6311.

"Wednesday night's performance has been sold out," Haynes said. He said about 150 people may view the show at one time.

SCAPINO — Matt Warren, who portrays Ottavio, and Pam Riddle, who is Giacinta, run through a scene in the Howard College dinner theater production of "Scapino," slated Wednesday through Saturday at the Howard College Student Union Building.

Texas congressmen sponsor bilingual bill

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — A Michigan congressman this week introduced a bill co-sponsored by seven Texas congressmen that would authorize almost $1.5 billion over the next four years for bilingual education.

The bill calls for about $139 million for bilingual education this year, $400 million for 1985, $450 million for 1986 and $500 million for 1987, according to a spokesman for Rep. Dale Kildee, D-Mich, the sponsor of the bill.

The House Elementary, Secondary and Vocational Education subcommittee, of which Kildee is a member, has scheduled hearings on the legislation on March 28. Witnesses are expected to include San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros.

The bill would fund education of limited English proficient (LEP) children in three new areas:

- Grants to identify, strengthen and utilize existing bilingual education programs considered academically excellent.

- Funds for programs that could have up to 40 percent of the class already fluent in English.

- A family literacy program that would help the parents achieve competence in English and instruct them how to teach their children at home. Twenty-five percent of the bill's funding would be used to expand the teacher training programs.

As of Friday, Kildee's bill had 52 co-sponsors including Texas Reps. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock; Mickey Leland, D-Houston; E. "Kika" de la Garza, D-Mission; Solomon Ortiz, D-Corpus Christi; Martin Frost, D-Dallas; Henry Gonzalez, D-San Antonio and John Bryant, D-Dallas.

SMU frat house gets disciplined

UNIVERSITY PARK, Texas (AP) — A Southern Methodist University fraternity has been disciplined because of a Feb. 29 party that resulted in three freshman initiates requiring hospital treatment.

The SMU Judicial Council, which held three hours of testimony and two hours of deliberations, ruled Friday that the Lambda Beta fraternity was guilty of misconduct.

The sanctions were not made public but officials say they involve the fraternity's social functions and chapter conduct.

University judicial officer Valerie Petriak said the panel's specific findings and sanctions will not be disclosed until all appeals are concluded.

in the Pit Master show pit did not seem to mind when the Masters turned them into "living belt buckles" and invited the audience to hold the live tightly curled snake. Big Springer Amy Christian was the 'lucky person' selected to hold the belt buckle during the Saturday afternoon performance.

"We get a lot of people who would normally be scared to death of snakes to do this when we asked them to do it over the P.A. in front of an audience," said Kirchenbauer.

David Estep, Dolly Hale, Gary Kemp and Christy Bruch work with the Kirchenbauer in the ring.

David brought along his sleeping bag and demonstrated that a snake in the bag need not be deadly. After laying the bag out in the arena he calmly lay down on it and the masters added a few snakes and zipped him up. Most of the audience missed the urgency in Billy's voice as he said "watch your hand David".

Unnoticed by the crowd a rattler's barred fang had come within 1/8-inch of a momentarily forgotten finger.

Nor was their any hint of urgency in Billy's voice as he told the crowd that Christy Bruch's power lift "was the most dangerous part of the show".

Christy was standing in the middle of the ring holding a dozen or so highly agitated rattlers by the tails swinging them around her body. So heavy were the rattlers that she failed to lift them the first time she tried.

As she performed Billy continued, "I've seen people bitten trying this, they're so many places that the snakes could strike if she's not careful."

Most of the Pit Masters demonstrations are designed to show viewers how to deal with snakes in nature and lessen fear of confronting the dreaded snakes.

Billy quietly emphasized that it was quick or jerky movements — the kind caused by panic — that causes the poisonous snakes to strike humans.

"We have a lot of fun doing this," Kirchenbauer said.

And indeed it seemed the Pit Masters were enjoying themselves as they handled the deadly reptiles.

The show continues today until 6 p.m. at the Howard County Fair Barn.

Jaffe had recently developed cancer, his friend Rupert Allan said. He died about 1:30 a.m. in the home he shared with his second wife, Bettye Ackerman.

"He hadn't worked too much in the past few months," Allan said. "He loved working but he had to cut down. Old age just caught up with him."

Iran's capture of the Majnoon Islands oilfield in southeast Iraq during the Iranian offensive launched late in February.

These earlier attacks on shipping raised fears worldwide that Iran might try to close the gulf, leading to involvement of the United States and other major powers.

The Middle East Economic Survey, a well-informed oil journal, reported early in March that operations at Kharg Island were proceeding normally and that "there had been no sign whatever of any attacks by Iraqi warplanes."

The survey added that with mounting tension in the gulf, Iran nearly doubled its rate of oil exports through Kharg, from 1.7 million barrels per day in January and February to as much as 3 million barrels per day in March.

Both Iran and Iraq reported major ground fighting Friday in the Howezeh marshlands east of Basra, along the Shatt-al-Arab waterway in southern Iraq.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency on Friday quoted Parliament speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani as saying that if Iraq continues its alleged chemical weapons attacks, Iraq might respond in kind. Iraq has denied such attacks.

"We now believe that we should not employ chemical weapons, but we do not know how long we will maintain such an outlook," Rafsanjani said, according to IRNA. "We are determined not to venture into doing this. But can we wait for a lifetime?"

He added later, "If forced to try our hand in this task, we are certainly more capable and resourceful than any other nation in the region."

Circus coming to Coahoma

By JIM BROWN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — Politics have often been called America's best circus and now Coahoma has brought the term to life with a three ring circus and candidates racing to the polls atop giant elephants.

The Coahoma Volunteer Fire Department will host the city's first circus April 7 at 3 p.m. at city's ball park. Volunteer Fire Chief Brian Jensen said the Ford Brothers' Circus will bring one of the largest three ring circuses still performing under a Big Top to Coahoma for one Saturday matinee performance.

The circus will donate part of gate receipts to the Coahoma Volunteer Fire Department. Jensen wants to raise enough money to update Coahoma's two fire trucks and purchase a new one.

"Both of the current trucks are over 20 years old and are contributing factors in Coahoma being named a high risk area by insurance rate boards," Jensen said.

The circus, which is headquartered in Cut And Shoot, Texas, travels with a herd of African and Indian elephants and a group of performing baby elephants.

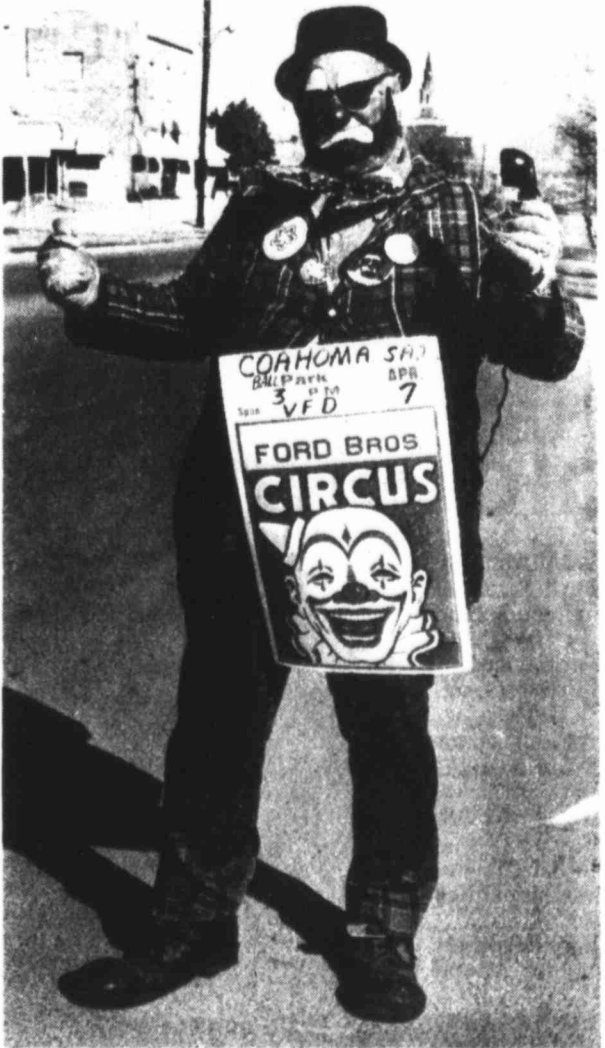

The traveling zoo that accompanies the circus contains a lion, a tiger, a black panther, African Pygmy goats, a chimpanzee, Russian Black Bears, Arabian Camels, Llamas and a racing ostrich named Mahatma.

There's also a baby Hippopotamus, a giant Orangutan, Girffe and tropical parrot, along with Zebras and Arabian Horses.

The circus also features high wire and trapeze acts along with a "college" of clowns revue. Several Coahoma council and mayoral candidates will race to the polls Saturday April, 7 atop the circus' elephants. Following them through the streets of Coahoma will be an old fashioned circus parade featuring all the circus performers.

Circus officials have invited residents out to the city ballpark in the early morning hours to watch the elephants and circus workers raise the giant tent.

Tickets may be purchased at city hall or from any member of the Coahoma Volunteer Fire Department. Advance tickets are $4 for adults and $2 for children, while tickets at the gates will be $6 for adults and $4 for children.

Torn accents his role

LOS ANGELES — Nominated for a supporting actor Oscar for "Cross Creek," Rip Torn says he had no trouble finding an accent to play a Florida backwoods cracker.

"Don't forget, I was born and raised in Texas, so Southern accents come easily for me," the actor said. "In fact, after I went to New York in 1959, it took me eight years before I was able to speak without a Texas accent."

Torn said his accent eradication was so successful he once fooled British actor John Gielgud. They were appearing together in a play, "The Daughter of Silence," and Gielgud believed that Torn was a Northerner. The play's director was Josh Logan, whose speech still bears evidence of his Louisiana beginnings.

"That's why Rip is an actor and why I became a director," he quoted Logan as saying.

Actor scared of high school

LOS ANGELES — Kevin Bacon went back to high school for a day — and found aspects of it "terrifying" — before beginning his role in the movie "Footloose."

Bacon, who is 25, was doubtful that he could pass for a student of 17, so it was arranged for him to attend school in Payson, Utah, as a transfer student.

The teachers had him stand up in class and talk about himself. "That's a very terrifying thing," he said. You feel so alienated because you are put on the spot. People giggled and hooted and hollered — that whole scene."

Bacon, with "new wave" clothes and haircut for the movie, was doubly ridiculed. "I looked like I was from another planet," he said. "They'd never seen anything like me." His high school experience lasted only two or three hours because "that was about all I could handle."

Film kept under wraps

LOS ANGELES — Joan Kroc, whose late husband Ray Kroc founded the McDonald's hamburger empire, has a few ideas about making movies that are most un-Hollywoodish.

Her Operation Cork Productions has just finished filming a $7 million version of the stage hit "Mass Appeal," starring Jack Lemmon as a socially and politically astute parish priest who likes a nip now and then.

The movie is now in post-production, but no studio or distributor has seen it. Film distributors are asking to take a look at "Mass Appeal," but Mrs. Kroc doesn't want anybody to see it until it's completely finished.

Very few people outside the film business have even heard of it. Her instructions prohibited any publicity. She said, "Why attract attention to our work in progress?"

Mrs. Kroc wants things done her way, and in so doing she's following the business philosophy of her late husband, who proved himself a pretty good businessman.

'Texas' slated for film

LOS ANGELES — James Michener's newest epic, "Texas," is still in progress but already ABC has lined it up for a 10-hour miniseries.

The soon-to-be-published book traces the development of the Lone Star State from the revolution against Mexico to its brief period as a republic, to the cattle drives and the oil fields.

Rebels try to disrupt election

SAN SALVADOR — Leftist rebels virtually wiped out a 40-man army patrol east of the capital Saturday and attacked an army communications center, sharply increasing guerrilla activity on the eve of the first presidential election in seven years.

Election officials expected 1.8 million Salvadorans to vote Sunday. Security forces were on alert in anticipation of rebel attempts to disrupt the balloting, which the Reagan administration hopes will provide an underpinning of popular support for continued military and economic aid.

Col. Roberto Rodriguez Murcia said the army patrol was attacked by about 70 rebels just north of Tecoluca in San Vicente province, about 45 miles east of San Salvador.

He said 27 soldiers were killed and five wounded in the battle. Reporters counted the bodies of 32 soldiers in a hospital morgue in the nearby city of San Vicente, but some could have been the victims of another clash.

Murcia said the attack occurred shortly after daybreak on a road linking Tecoluca with the village of Arco, about five miles to the north. He had no figures on rebel casualties, and denied reports that the soldiers were caught by surprise.

Helicopter crash kills 29

SEOUL — A U.S. military spokesman said Sunday all 18 American and 11 South Korean marines aboard a U.S. Marine Corps helicopter were killed when it crashed and burned in the rainswept coastal mountains.

Military teams searching the area determined there were no survivors in the fiery pre-dawn crash Saturday, said the spokesman.

"We can confirm they are all dead," he said. "They have the bodies."

He said the remains would be taken to the Yonssan Army Mortuary in Seoul for identification before they would be flown to the United States.

A U.S. military report said the helicopter plowed into the side of a mountain about 25 miles north of the southeast port of Pohang.

The military said the copter, one of six in the maneuvers, had been headed back to base at Pohang after deteriorating weather conditions forced cancellation of the night exercises.

A fire, spotted on the mountainside, was the first indication of a crash.

The report said "some bodies" were recovered Saturday. The rugged nature of the terrain about 200 miles southeast of Seoul made the grim hunt a slow, difficult process.

"It was a violent crash that spread the helicopter all over," one source said. "It covered a great area of steep, rugged mountain."

All the Americans aboard the helicopter were members of the 3rd Marine Amphibious Force based on Okinawa and in South Korea for the joint maneuvers, called Team Spirit '84.

The helicopter was a CH-53D type, a "Sea Stallion" that can carry as many as 38 marines and a crew of three. It was taking part in a night exercise involving the movement and landing of combat troops.

Col. Rallin J. Aars, public affairs officer and spokesman for U.S. Forces in South Korea, gave this account:

"The helicopter which crashed was one of six helicopters which took off from Pohang Airfield..."

"The weather when the helicopters took off was above minimum standards. However, as the flight continued the weather deteriorated. The mission was terminated and all aircraft were returning to Pohang when the helicopter crashed."

Radioactivity found in Juarez

CIUDAD JUAREZ — Helicopter sweeps of this border city have found 22 sites contaminated with radioactivity emitting up to 15,000 times the radiation in an average chest X-ray, Mexican officials say.

Jose Antonio Rotonda of Mexico's nuclear safety commission said Friday the 10 sites believed to be the most radioactive probably were contaminated by pinhead-sized pellets of the radioactive isotope cobalt 60.

The pellets were stolen last fall from a cancer treatment machine stored at a Juarez hospital warehouse. The cylinder containing a small capsule of the pellets was sold as scrap to a Juarez junkyard, where the pellets were accidentally mixed in with other metal that has turned up in steel reinforcing rods and table pedestals throughout the United States.

Rotonda said four of the 10 most contaminated sites had been cleaned up by late Friday and he added that the 12 remaining sites are contaminated by lower-level radioactivity, which probably is being emitted by steel reinforcing rods.

In Baja California, an estimated 25 tons of the contaminated rods have been found at 350 construction sites in the border city of Mexicali, and officials have recommended destruction of buildings made with the steel.

Rods at 80 of the sites were found to have contamination levels considered unsafe, Baja California authorities said Thursday.

Jesus Pesqueira Olea, state public health chief, said scientists from Mexico's Ministry of Health and Assistance tracked down the steel at the Mexicali construction sites.

Although the radiation level in the steel at all but 80 of the sites was minimal, buildings made with it still should be demolished, Pesqueira said.

Radioactive contamination levels of 20 millirems to 300 millirems have been found in the steel rods used in Mexicali.

Although a small shipment of the steel rods was sent to Tijuana, none of it was contaminated, health officials said.

No pellets were found near downtown Juarez, Rotonda said, emphasizing that tourists visiting the city would be in no danger.

Officer, shot several times, kills man

HAZLEHURST, Miss. (AP) — A Mississippi Highway patrolman, apparently shot several times by a man he had arrested hours earlier on a traffic charge, rolled over and killed the man with a single shot, a patrol spokesman said.

The trooper, Steven Kennedy Gardner, 30, was shot several times late Friday night on a rural part of Highway 51, just south of Hazlehurst. Patrol investigators were trying to determine if the ramming was deliberate.

Gardner was parked off Highway 51, aiding state and local officials in a planned raid on a lounge for alleged alcohol violations, when his car was struck.

Gardner, who had been a trooper for four months, had arrested Ayers several hours earlier on charges of speeding and running a stop sign and Ayers was free on bond at the time of the shooting, Jussely said.

The patrol said that the shooting came after a car driven by Ayers hit the rear of Gardner's parked police car, and Jussely said investigators were trying to determine if the ramming was deliberate.

Gardner was parked off Highway 51, aiding state and local officials in a planned raid on a lounge for alleged alcohol violations, when his car was struck.

Gardner was not involved in the raid, Jussely said, but had posted himself in a position to watch for anyone fleeing from the scene.

After his car was hit, Gardner gave a report by radio and asked for assistance, Jussely said.

When Gardner got out of his car, several shots were fired from the second car, Jussely said. As Gardner fell, he managed to fire one round from his .357 Magnum service revolver, striking Ayers in the head.

Weather

WEST TEXAS — The forecast for the West Texas area Sunday through Tuesday calls for scattered thunderstorms Monday and Tuesday. Highs will range from the low 50s in the Panhandle to the mid-80s in the Big Bend area. Lows will range from the 30s to the 50s.

Cold front spawns showers

A cold front spread thunderstorms Saturday across the Gulf Coast states, with heavy rain drenching Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee.

A tornado flattened trees and powerlines north of Hattiesburg, Miss. An inch of rain fell at McComb and Meridian, Miss., and a half-inch rainfall was measured at Jackson, Miss., and Memphis, Tenn.

Light rain fell over most of the Midwest, where nighttime temperatures in the 40s were common.

Snow fell in the Rockies. Butte and Bozeman, Mont., had an inch of snow Saturday morning. Up to a foot of snow was expected in the mountains of central Montana by Sunday morning. Light snow fell in southern Idaho.

Partly cloudy skies prevailed on the Eastern Seaboard. Temperatures ranged from the 30s in New England to the 80s in southern Florida.

It was sunny in the Southwest and the Pacific Coast, where nighttime readings in the 60s and 70s were common.

Northerly winds of 15 to 25 mph pushed a fire in San Bernardino, Calif., toward a few homes on the northern edge of the San Bernardino National Forest, the U.S. Forest Service said. The fire had blackened about 35 acres.

Temperatures around the nation at 2 p.m. EST ranged from 62 in Tampa, Fla., and Palm Springs, Calif., to 30 degrees at Caribou and Limestone, Maine.

Sunday's forecast calls for rain across the Pacific Northwest, snow in the central Rockies, rain in the Plains, thunderstorms over the southern Atlantic Coast, rain from the Ohio Valley to the mid-Atlantic coast. It will be partly cloudy in the Midwest and sunny in the Southwest.

A BLESSING FROM C.H. SPURGEON

The science of Jesus Christ is the most excellent of sciences. Let no one turn away from the Bible because it is not a book of learning and wisdom. It is. Would ye know astronomy? — It is here: it tells you of the Sun of Righteousness and the Star of Bethlehem. Would you know botany? — It is here: it tells you of the plant of renewals — the Lily of the Valley and the Rose of Sharon. Would you know geology and mineralogy? — you shall learn it here: for you may read of the Rock of Ages, and the White Stone with the name engraven thereon, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it. Would ye study history? — here is the most ancient of all records of the history of the human race. Whatever your science is, come and bend over this book: your science is here. Come and drink out of this fair fountain of knowledge and wisdom, and he shall find yourselves made wise unto salvation.

SHARED SUPPORT
(It May Be Tax Deductible)

If you provide over half of the total support of a dependent parent who has less than $1,000 of taxable income, you are entitled to take an exemption for him on your tax return.

In some families, brothers and sisters share in supporting an elderly parent. Because no one of them provides over half of the total support for the parent, they may feel that no one is entitled to the dependency exemption on his tax return. However, if each of them contributes more than 10% of the parent's support and their contributions taken together provide over half of the support for the year, one of them is entitled to the exemption if a multiple support agreement is signed. IRS Form 2120 requires all of the contributors to agree that only one of them will take the exemption.

The dependency exemption can be passed around from one year to the next. The tax situations of everyone involved should be considered in order to get the best tax break. Normally, the individual in the highest tax bracket would get the best deduction for the dependency exemption. However, the individual claiming the parent under a multiple support agreement can include those medical expenses of the parent that he paid for in addition to his own medical expenses. The best tax break might then be to give the dependency exemption to a lower bracket brother or sister whose adjusted gross income will be low enough to enable him to utilize the medical expense deduction.

Multiple support agreements are not limited to parents. Your tax advisor should be consulted for other situations that apply and to assure that the best tax benefits are obtained for the entire family.

U.N. uses U.S. as whipping boy

The debate over whether the United States should remain in the United Nations is certain to be enlivened by a new study compiled by the U.S. Mission to the United Nations.

According to the U.S. Mission's study, which is prepared for the Secretary of State to brief Congress "on the degree of support" for American views in the United Nations, U.N. members vote against the United States 75 percent of the time.

The United States has only two dependable allies in the United Nations: Israel, which sides with this country on 93 out of 100 General Assembly votes, and Britain, which has a support rate of 84 percent.

After that, it's all downhill. Western Europe as a whole stands behind the United States only half the time. Support for the United States among the delegations from Africa, Asia, and the Americas is even lower, averaging only about 20 percent. And the so-called "non-aligned" nations align themselves 80 percent of the time with the Soviet bloc.

The study also notes that the United States was the only major country criticized by name during the last session of the U.N. General Assembly. There was no U.N. censure for North Korea, which was responsible for the terrorist attack on South Korea's ministers at Rangoon, or for Libya, which invaded Chad and supports terrorist groups worldwide. The Soviet Union has never been criticized by name in any General Assembly resolution. And the only nation ever condemned as a "non-peace-loving state" is Israel.

During the last two decades especially, the United States has been routinely excoriated in the United Nations by nations that have no regard for democracy, freedom, international law, or human rights. What's worse, the United States pays for this abuse. The U.S. treasury bankrolls a quarter of the United Nations' total budget. And because most nations fail to pay their share of the bill, the American contribution usually rises to more than a third. By contrast, the Soviet Union foots only 13 percent, the 120 nations of the Third World cough up less than 10 percent, and the oil-rich kingdoms of Kuwait and Saudi Arabia fund less than 1 percent of the United Nations costs.

Actually, the tough stance in defense of American values and foreign policy objectives taken by the Reagan administration has boosted America's standing in the United Nations, where support for the United States has risen by 11 percentage points since Jimmy Carter left office. Much responsibility for this healthy trend must go to America's U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick, who has relentlessly shot holes through irresponsible rhetoric from the Soviet Union and the Third World. She consistently refuses to compromise American ideals in order to pander to America's antagonists.

Around The Rim

By KEITH BRISCOE

The people have spoken

At times like these, it's hard to be humble.

Last week, against my will, I was put on a ballot with some stupid cartoon called the Quigmans.

This cartoon, I hear, was having a very hard time getting reader acceptance, and my editor, whom I don't even know for sure, thought he might capture the public's attention by offering the cartoon in return for getting rid of me.

It was Briscoe versus the Quigmans, and the people have spoken.

As of 5 p.m. Friday, the vote was 2 for the Quigmans and 3,497,019 for Briscoe. As I said, it's hard to be humble at times like these.

Just in case you have any doubts, here are a few of the responses that came in as a result of the election.

• "There should be no question, and my intelligence is heartily offended that you would put a thinker of Briscoe's stature up against the inclusion of some moronic cartoon. Briscoe in '84."

Anonymous
• I think Keith is real cute. I just love his hair. Can you give me his phone number?

Trixie
• Briscoe's prose equals Hemingway in mastery, and his philosophical insights rival Bertrand Russell in profundity."

Anonymous
• "For sale: a 1962 Chevrolet Monza. Good condition. All the extras. A great buy at $500."

Anonymous
Well, despite such an overwhelming public endorsement, my editor was not convinced of my popularity here.

As I said last week, he'll do anything to get this stupid cartoon in the paper.

"Look, Keith," he said. "Everyone except Trixie who favored you wouldn't sign his name. And the two ballots I got against you were signed."

Well, anyway, this editor, whom I don't even know for sure, went and fired me, saying I was non-essential and even detrimental to the newspaper.

Never mind that no one around here knows for sure who this editor is and what he does. He went and fired me.

I may be a communist, but I'm also a fighter. I threatened to sue the management for anti-Semitism.

Boy, you should have seen the commandants scramble around here.

"We can't be accused of anti-Semitism," they said. "Briscoe will get the Anti-Defamation League in here, and they've got big guns. Hell, they just knocked off the school prayer amendment."

Anyway, the commandants and I came to what you might call an out-of-court settlement. They agreed to let me stay if they could run the Quigmans on the editorial page.

So for the 3 million plus who supported me in this election, I can say that you've got more of Briscoe to look forward to. And for you two Quigmans fans, you can have your stupid cartoon.

And Trixie, my number's in the book. Call me anytime. I'm all yours.

At times like these, it's hard to be humble.

Managing Editor

Setting the record straight

Do not believe what you read about me elsewhere on this page under an "Around the Rim" headline and a black & white glossy photograph of a city editor who stirs more readers with one column every seven days than all the others who labor on this page combined.

It is no more to be taken seriously than the column Keith Briscoe wrote last Sunday.

What began as an innocent attempt at polling our readers on the quirky Quigman cartoon has escalated in some readers' minds into a debate of proportion ill-suited to the issue at hand.

Let's start at the start. I got a sample of Quigmans cartoons in the mail. I liked them. People I showed them to — with rare exception — liked them, too. A number of people, however, inevitably added: "But I wonder how they'd go over in Big Spring?"

So, I thought I'd get some guidance from the readers, but the response was minimal and really inconclusive. I was back where I started, relying on my judgment of newspapers and readers and costs and space (all the things I'm paid to do) in making a decision. I realize this is getting long. Bear with me.

I related to Bob Carpenter that the Quigman response was a tad disappointing, and that there were some avid anti-Quigman readers out there.

Bob likes the Quigmans. A lot. He wrote a Monday "Rim" column which shed a tearful goodbye to the Quigmans before they ever arrived. Bob's columns have a lot of fans. They empathize with his point of view. One wrote me saying that if Bob wanted the Quigmans, she'd change her vote to "yes." She added, jokingly I assumed, whether we couldn't trade the Quigmans for Keith.

That week, Briscoe, who never lacks for anything to say, said he didn't have a column topic for Sunday. I casually mentioned that he might address the Quigmans cartoon.

It was my mistake. Keith wrote a column as a joke. Much of it slandered me. I laughed. Some readers did not laugh. They very seriously launched a barrage of mail into the newsroom.

At risk of swelling my city editor's ego, I venture these observations: He is a compelling writer. He is a provocative writer. He challenges thoughts and ideas held in the recesses of many minds; he makes those who hold those concepts dust them off and reaffirm them. With this process, he in many cases bolsters the very beliefs he challenges.

His most ardent detractors seem to read his every word.

Five days a week he functions as a city editor. Please take and hold this separate from his opinion writing, because it is.

Once a week, he writes a column for this page. It is a work of opinion, not unlike the work of Steve Chapman, Joseph Kraft or any other editorial page opinion writer. If the editorial page never strayed from mirroring the community it served, how would new ideas, personal and intellectual growth and perspective be served?

I won't deny that there was an astonishing negative response to Keith's tongue-in-cheek Quigmans-or-me column of last Sunday. I truly doubt those who felt compelled to opt for the Quigmans are really the readers who would enjoy this off-beat cartoon. But I do not hire, fire or censor the staff on the basis of a popularity poll.

I particularly try not to measure the worth of our editorial page viewpoints based on their popularity. There is certainly a place for "mainstream" writing on Page 4. But this page of opinion, perspective and persuasion is worth nothing if it is not a forum for the minority point of view.

As one reader wrote me this week: "I do not always agree with Briscoe, but I can make up my mind and form my own opinions and I am adult enough to tolerate and understand an opposite view. Hopefully your editorial page will continue to be just that, The Editorial Page."

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Strong words for strong views

No political debate since the Vietnam War has been more bitter than that over the availability of legal abortions. One side sees the Supreme Court's 1973 decision as permitting the murder of helpless infants; the other sees anti-abortionists as forcing unfortunate women to resort to back-alley butchers. The issue allows no room for compromise. But both sides ought to agree on one thing: their right to call each other vicious names, uninhibited by government control.

That right is currently in jeopardy, thanks to a $4 million libel suit against an anti-abortion group. If the plaintiffs win, it could not only circumscribe the abortion debate but also wrap a straitjacket on all political controversies.

The following facts are not in dispute. Carolyn Brown and Laurance Marshburn, two Alaska physicians who occasionally perform abortions, have sued Alaska Right-to-Life (ARL) for "false and defamatory" statements about them. The group had listed their names in a 1981 newsletter under the heading, "Does Your Doctor Kill Babies? Meet the Abortion Profiteers." The list was also posted at ARL's booth at the Alaska State Fair.

The newsletter further claimed that Brown's abortion "methods were so horrible as to cause a boycott by every nurse employed" at the hospital with which she was affiliated. Later, ARL's president told a reporter that "Carolyn Brown is an abortionist and that makes her a killer of babies." The two doctors sued ARL and two of its officers for libel, and a trial is scheduled for July.

To anyone who is paying the slightest attention, there is no doubt what ARL meant: Abortion involves killing a human being; these doctors performed abortions; therefore they are baby killers. Likewise, abortion is one of the procedures they perform in the course of making a living — thus, they are abortion profiteers. The anti-abortion group used brutal terms to criticize a brutal practice.

But the brief filed by the two doctors claims the terms have darker implications. By calling them "baby-killers," the anti-abortionists "impute to plaintiffs a crime, that of performing abortions illegally," it says. Referring to the doctors as "abortion profiteers" suggests "characteristics incompatible with the proper professional conduct of a physician."

This is transparent nonsense. Any hair-wit knows the right-to-life movement doesn't waste its breath complaining about illegal abortions or overpriced abortions — it opposes abortions, period. ARL's characterization of Brown and Marshburn implied only that they were doing something — performing abortions — that right-to-lifers think is immoral and ought to be illegal.

The use of libel laws to banish name-calling from political debate will ultimately benefit no one, except the unenviable souls who never feel outrage.

Mentally ill son needs extra love

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Our son has just been admitted to the state mental hospital. I don't know what is wrong with him but he has had problems for many years and they have just gotten worse. We are very depressed over this and want to help him in some way but don't know how. — Mrs. E.W.

DEAR MRS. E.W.: First of all, you should work closely with your son's doctors and counselors so you can understand as much as possible what has happened to him, and what they recommend about ways you can help him. If you are permitted to visit him right now, follow their advice about making your visits encouraging to him. You can understand that it would not be helpful if you just shared your feelings of depression with him. Let him know of your love and concern, by your words and deeds.

Then prepare yourselves now for the time when he will be released and can come home. Again, you will want to follow the advice of his doctors, but you can help him in many practical ways to demonstrate that you love him and accept him. Perhaps he will not be able to take a great deal of emotional stress or pressure, and you will want to find ways to relieve him of these. The Bible says, "Carry each other's burdens, and in this way you will fulfill the law of Christ" (Galatians 6:2). The "law of Christ" is given to us by Jesus in John 15:12: "My command is this: Love each other as I have loved you."

Couple wins bum prize

PLAINFIELD, Conn. (AP) — After winning a weekend at a hotel in a radio contest, Donald and Linda Lemanski were enjoying their first vacation in 15 years — until they got a telephone call in the middle of the night telling them to pay up or get out.

The Lemanskis won what they thought was an all-expenses-paid weekend at the Sheraton-Tara Hotel in Nashua, N.H., in a drawing held in December by radio station WNOU-FM in Willimantic.

But at 11:30 p.m. last Saturday, the Lemanskis were told they would have to pay for the room because the station could not be reached to confirm payment arrangements. They drove home that night.

Mrs. Lemanski, 36, called it a "very embarrassing and humiliating" experience.

"We wanted it to be a dream vacation, and it was a nightmare," said Donald Lemanski, 44. "How can you go back to sleep at midnight when you don't know who's paying for the bed?"

When they got to the hotel, they were given a VIP envelope with certificates for breakfast, brunch and other extras.

Then came the phone call. Katie Kane, an administrative assistant at the Sheraton-Tara, said the hotel knew nothing about the contest and that no arrangements had been made for payment of the Lemanskis' room.

The VIP envelope, she said, was part of the hotel's regular weekend package. Mrs. Lemanski, who has written to the Sheraton chain complaining of the treatment they received, said she called the hotel twice in advance and was told that everything was set.

She said hotel officials have blamed the confusion on "semantics."

"I thought I had pretty good command of the language," Mrs. Lemanski said Saturday.

The Lemanskis tried to phone WNOU, but its phone was disconnected. They drove to the station and found its doors locked, even though it continued to broadcast.

"We got a bum deal," she said. "We've never had a vacation in 15 years — we got married and then had the kids and the house and all. We just really were looking forward to it."

Diet Pill Sweeping U.S.

New Grapefruit 'Super Pill' Guarantees Fast Weight Loss

No Dieting — Eat All You Want

BEVERLY HILLS, CA. (Special)—An amazing new "super" grapefruit pill has recently been developed and perfected that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose at least 10 pounds in 10 days. Best of all, it allows you to "eat as much as you want of your favorite foods and still lose a pound a day or more starting from the very first day until you achieve the ideal weight and figure you desire."

This "super" grapefruit pill is a dramatically improved version of the world famous grapefruit diet. It is far more effective than the original and eliminates "the mess, fuss, and high cost of eating half a fresh grapefruit at every meal."

"Pill Does All the Work"

According to the manufacturer, "the pill itself does all the work while you quickly lose weight with NO starvation "diet menus" to follow, NO calorie counting, NO exercise, and NO hunger pangs." It is 100% safe. You simply take the pill with a glass of water before each meal and the amazing combination of powerful ingredients are so effective they take over and you start losing weight immediately.

Pill Contains ALL Daily Vitamins

The powerful and unique combination of ingredients are what make this a "super-pill". It contains highly potent grapefruit concentrate and a diuretic to help eliminate bloat and puffiness. No need to take any vitamins to maintain your good health and energy. The pill is fortified with ALL (100%) of the U.S. Government daily vitamin requirements.

Contains Japanese 'Glucomannan'

Each pill also contains an amazingly effective amount of "glucomannan", the remarkable natural dietary fiber discovery from Japan (used successfully for over 1500 years) that expands in your stomach and gives you a full and satisfied feeling all day long.

The super-pill is already sweeping the country with glowing reports of easy and fast weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Now Available to Public

You can order your supply of these highly successful "super" grapefruit pills (now available directly from the manufacturer by mail order only) by sending $12 for a 14-day supply (or $20 for a 30-day supply, or $35 for a 60-day supply) cash, check, or money order to: Citrus Industries, 9903 Santa Monica Bl., Dept. Q.: Alternative financing seems to be the answer to our home buying problems. How can we be sure we're using the best form of financing?

A.: Most problems in alternative financing can be avoided by taking time to investigate. Recent research indicates prospective buyers take more time and care when financing a car than a home. Considering the difference in the size of investment and duration of indebtedness, this seems odd. Your real estate agent may be able to act as a counselor in appraising property and personal finances and making the best match. Your particular circumstances will help dictate the criteria. The knowledge and experience of your real estate broker might be the difference in getting a new home.

Joy! To the World

On the road to 7-Eleven

By JOY CULWELL
Colorado City
Correspondent

Last weekend Billy and I went raving crazy at the same time! How can I tell since we've always been crazy? Well, I'll tell you. We bought a travel trailer. We had intended to look at them for several years and we never found the time. Well, when my friend, D.M. Smith, announced at lunch that he had one to sell I knew I was going to look at it. Bill quickly agreed, so we took off. Now I will no longer look with envy when we pass a good looking pickup truck pulling a little Hilton on wheels behind them. On Monday morning when I came into the radio station here in Colorado City where I work for Jim Baum, I said to his wife Margaret, "Do you have any tips to pass on to the novice class of travel trailer owners?" "Yes", she said with a knowledgeable look. She proceeded to tell me the hilarious tale of the 15 years in a row they took the four children to a camping spot on the Frio River down south of here. The following is the benefit of her 15 years of experience:

- The family that camps together has to be added.
- The family that has just purchased a camper should hold a shake down cruise, preferably in the driveway. No camper is big enough to contain even two people who argue over what to cook, when to cook it, what route to take to the camping site. A driveway location is perfect, since when an argument occurs, the injured party can simply go in the house.
- Do not tell young children of an impending trip until you're loading to go — most of them have no comprehension of time when they're small and you'll be besieged with "when are we leaving" for two weeks.

- After you're loaded and ready to leave, tell the children you're going to 7-Eleven. No child can comprehend a trip of some 600 miles and if realizes he's going that far, he'll want to go to the bathroom a block from the house.
- If you're a camping family, don't give dolls and toys or diamonds and recliners at Christmas time...Give each other batteries. That way, the following summer, no one will whine at 2 a.m. in the morning about having to follow a dark, weedy path to some restroom facility in a camping area.
- Make friends with the fattest child in your family. He'll come in handy as a sleeping partner in the Lincoln National Forest on July 4th when the temperature gets down to 28 degrees and your camper has no heater.

40,000 Jeeps recalled for steering problem

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. plans to recall 40,000 1984 Jeep Cherokees and Wagoneers to inspect them for two separate problems that could cause a loss of steering and a loss of one rear wheel. Improperly tightened steering assembly bolts on "a much smaller number" of the vehicles could result in a loss of control if they are not corrected, said AMC spokesman Benn Dunn. As the problem developed, the driver would notice that the steering wheel was off-center while the vehicle was going straight, as well as a reduced ability to make sharp left turns, difficulty steering and misalignment of the front wheels, Dunn said Friday. About 10,000 of the Cherokees and Wagoneers also will be inspected for possible rear axle problems caused by a faulty hydraulic press at AMC's Toledo, Ohio, plant.

If not corrected, the left rear wheel could come loose or lock up, Dunn said. Both problems were discovered by dealers, and no accidents or injuries have resulted, he said.

From agriculture to athletics

How does a guy from Scott City, Kansas wind up in Big Spring, Texas as the head athletic trainer for the BSISD?

According to Everett Blackburn he heard about the job opening in 1979.

The personable Blackburn had just recently completed his education at Emporia State University after two years at Garden City, Kansas Junior College and according to Blackburn "I was cleaning out bars for a living," when I found out about the job.

Sam Aguilera, who had been a first graduate assistant at Emporia State and the first trainer for Big Spring, called John Baxter, head trainer at Emporia and informed Baxter about the vacancy at BSIS. Baxter in turn told Blackburn and the one time agriculture major found himself heading south to West Texas.

According to Blackburn achievements or lack of them in sports didn't play on his decision. "I didn't ask about records at Big Spring," he said. In fact, Blackburn remarked that the greatest joy he gets from being the BSISD's athletic trainer is, "watching the athletes develop, get their education and have the chance to participate in athletics." As mentioned, Blackburn began college with every intention of majoring in agriculture, but attending on an athletic training scholarship, things were bound to change.

"I've always enjoyed sports," said Blackburn. From junior college at Garden City, Blackburn attended Emporia State University where he tended mainly to athletes in football and baseball.

Blackburn added he never has regretted coming to Big Spring and said, "I'm extremely happy with things here." He added, "I'm working in what is probably the strongest state as far as athletic training programs are concerned."

Athletic trainers in Texas have to meet a certain number of criteria each year and there is a state convention held every year in Waco.

Blackburn said in some states, however, "Some doctors and physical therapists feel a threat from trainers. I am fortunate in Big Spring though to have a good relationship with the medical community."

And the school community. Blackburn is still enthusiastic about his newly revamped training room that was completed last December. "The board, administration and coach Logback (BSISD athletic director Ron Logback) have all been very helpful and supportive," he said.

The changes, which are detailed in a feature found on this page, are only one of the changes Blackburn sees within all areas of athletics.

The use and design of portable equipment, more kids being seen by doctors and the fact that trainers are getting kids well sooner are only a few. Blackburn feels that, "kids today are more opinionated, but they accept responsibility well."

Along the lines of responsibility Blackburn has instituted a student training program. It consists this school year of senior Doug Harkins, freshmen Alphonso Morales and Donnie Davis and most recently junior Delia Correa. "Delia is the first girl we've ever had in the program," said Blackburn. He hopes more young ladies will show an interest in the program.

"They're all doing a good job," he said. Their jobs involve everything from working at two of the three track meets held at Big Spring in the spring to preparing lunches for those athletes involved in road games and away meets. Through their various responsibilities Blackburn said each youngster, "learns that teaching and coaching go together."

He said two of the best assistants he has worked with are Dean Restelli and James Scott. Restelli helped out from 1979 to 1982 and is now the student trainer at Western Texas College in Snyder. Scott was well thought of and received four scholarship offers before opting on concentrating in the field of music. He is currently attending Howard County College.

Kuhn plans gambling suit

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Saturday his office would sue in order to halt plans to form a Canadian Sports Pool Corp. that could include betting on major league baseball. Kuhn said the suit would be filed next week, presumably in Ottawa, the Canadian capital.

UH, Demons to battle in Midwest

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Unsung Wake Forest, despite coming off a dramatic upset victory, anticipates few problems in gearing up again Sunday to play defending champion Houston in the Midwest NCAA Regional basketball title game.

"We really thought in the game last night, and I've thought that basically all year, that if we were close we'd have a chance," Demon Deacons Coach Carl Tacy said Saturday. "If we can keep our fans away and not think about DePaul, we should be OK."

Tacy, whose team's 73-71 overtime triumph over DePaul ended the 42-year coaching career of Ray Meyer, turned his attention to the Phi Slama Jama unit of Houston.

"We've got a lot of things that have to go our way. It will be, in all seriousness, a demanding and tough assignment," Tacy said. "Hopefully, we can rebound and be ready to go."

Wake Forest's strengths at the end of the DePaul game were the Demon Deacons' experience in six previous overtime games and a tough, shot-altering defense labeled by Tacy the "triangle and two."

"I just thought that maybe it was something they hadn't seen," Tacy said of the defensive tactic. "As it turned out, it gave our team a chance to chip into the lead a little bit."

Delaney Rudd, a junior guard, hit a 25-foot shot before the final buzzer tied the score at 67 and sent the game into overtime.

Kenny Green, who scored a game-high 25 points and led all rebounders with 13, described Wake Forest's objectives against Houston as simple.

"Defense has been our strength all year long. We'll just come out and play hard and be intense," said Green. "I watched Houston the past 2-3 years. They've got a good team."

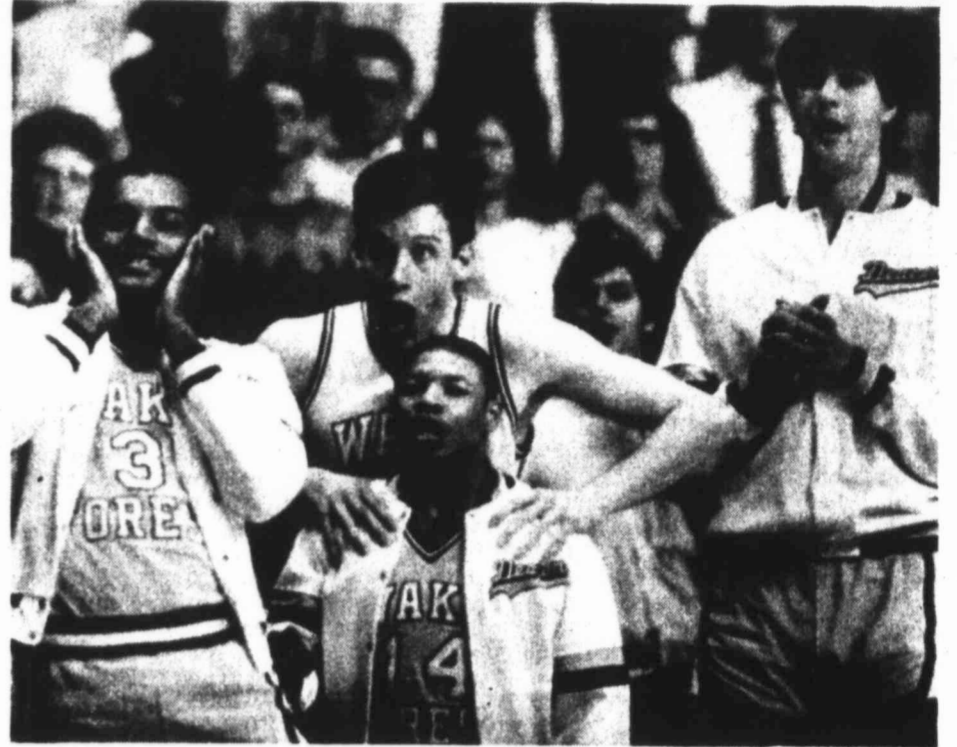

While Tacy pondered the shot-blocking ability of Houston, led by 7-foot Akeem Olajuwon, Houston Coach Guy Lewis reflected on what he'd seen Friday night.

"It was a terrific game to scout. When you look up there and don't know who's going to win until the final second, it doesn't give you too much to go on," said Lewis. "I think it's an advantage, maybe, to be an underdog."

Lewis watched Houston present him with his 560th career coaching triumph with a 78-71 victory over Memphis State Friday night.

"I just think they're a well-coached basketball team that plays hard for 40 minutes. That's what I told my team: 'You've got to play hard for 40 minutes and maybe for 45,'" Lewis said of Wake Forest.

The Demon Deacons have a 23-8 record, while Houston is 30-4.

WINNING EXPRESSIONS — Wake Forest's players John Toms (3), Tyrone Rogues (14), Lee Garner and Craig Wessel (right) show different expressions as the Deacons defeated DePaul in overtime Friday. Today the Demon Deacons will take on Houston for the right to advance to Seattle and the NCAA Final Four.

Cavs slip by Hoosiers in East

ATLANTA (AP) — An orange-clad Virginia fan waved a sign that said it all.

"There is Life After Ralph."

The Cavaliers, who reached the NCAA Final Four only once during the four-year career of three-time Player of the Year Ralph Sampson, gained a return trip in the first year of his absence Saturday by upsetting another longshot, Indiana, 50-48, in the title game of the NCAA East Regional.

Virginia, 21-12, will meet the winner of Sunday's Midwest Regional final between No. 5 Houston and 19th-ranked Wake Forest in Seattle next Saturday.

"I guess coaches are crazy," Coach Terry Holland said. "People were saying Ralph is leaving, but I was crazy enough to think we'd be back in the Final Four."

The hero of the latest of three consecutive upsets in the 1984 NCAA tourney was an unlikely one — 6-foot-8 senior center Kenton Edelin.

With the Cavs trailing 44-43 and Indiana attempting to run out the clock with its delay game, Edelin

Othell Wilson drives past Dan Dakien in Cavs' 50-48 win slipped up behind the Hoosiers' Dan Dakich, stripped the ball away and ambled three-fourths of the floor to hit a layup that gave Virginia the lead for good with 1:27 remaining. Edelin, a 50 percent free throw shooter, then hit one of two attempts with 63 seconds to play and added two more with 47 seconds remaining to give the Cavs a 48-44 lead Indiana was unable to overcome. When the final horn sounded, Edelin sprawled on the floor as his teammates surrounded him. Holland said Edelin told him before the game he never wanted anything more in his life than to win this game.

New equipment has Blackburn bubbling

By BILLY NABOURS

"I will use treatment to help the sick according to my ability and judgment, but never with a view to injury and wrongdoing."

Words written in 432 B.C. by Hippocrates as part of his oath, but hardly the type rhetoric one would associate with hordes of 20th century high school athletes.

In today's world of athletics, however it is not uncommon to find one figure charged with treatment of the wounded — more or less.

Everett Blackburn is one such person. Blackburn is the athletic trainer for the Big Spring Independent School District, a position he has held since coming to Texas from Kansas some five years ago.

And despite being a veteran trainer in every sense of the word, Blackburn's eyes light up when discussing the changes in the trainer's room at BSIS.

Blackburn saw the culmination of five year's requests come true last December when he received some of the most up to date devices and gadgetry now being used in the area of sports medicine.

"We've got the best training room in 4-A-A-A-A," is how Blackburn describes the change from an under equipped — and in some cases not equipped at all — training department to today's modern quarters.

Among the pieces of equipment being utilized now are a 150 Transcutaneous (150 Trans) nerve stimulator, two new training tables, a new taping bench, an exercise bike, a quadracep-hamstring machine, a new fully enclosed whirlpool room with three new whirlpools, a larger storage area, a more convenient change of location for the ice machine, and four large wall clocks, "so no one has an excuse for being late for anything," according to Blackburn.

In running down each piece of equipment Blackburn was estatic, like a youngster showing off a Christmas wish list that came absolutely true.

The 150 Trans is, "not a treatment device although it gives some comfort," said Blackburn. Rather, it is used in rehabilitation. It stimulates and activates injured muscles so they don't become wasted from non-use. The great thing about the device is that it is portable.

"An athlete can take the 150 Trans home with them or too class. Treatment is available 10 to 12 hours a day

Several BSIS girls run personal bests

LUBBOCK — For the first time this year the Big Spring Lady Steers track and field team was shutout of the gold rush, but several athletes came up with personal bests here at the Lubbock ISD Relays Saturday.

Big Spring totaled 48 points for the meet. Part of that came when the 400 meter relay of Aretha Cork, Tina Smith, Latresa Cork and Pam Palmer was timed in 50.01 for third place and the 800 tandem of the same four placed second in a time of 1:45.07. The 1600 meter team of Trel Clemons, Tina Smith, Teresa Smith and Aretha Cork failed to place, running a 4:21.27.

Latresa Cork was second in the 100 meters as was Palmer in the 200 with a time of 25.62. Palmer gained more points by jumping 4-10 in the high jump for fifth.

Taylissa Cork tossed the shot 34 feet for fifth and the effort was her best of the season. Coach Anna Ezzell was pleased with her long distance runners, Monnette Wise, Melissa Fuller, Lisa Bacon and Teresa Smith.

Wise ran a personal best of 6:11.72 in the 1600, down from her previous best of 6:35. Fuller's best before Lubbock had been 6:41, but she came up with a 6:22.79.

Bacon improved her 800 meter time to 2:38.52 from 2:46 and Teresa Smith came up with a 2:39.63 in her first attempt at the event. In the junior varsity division Sheila Washington was third with 2:41.77.

Ezzell said, "I'm very excited about the long distance runners. Their times should place at district."

Cooper cops slugfest from BSH

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers put together some of their best innings of baseball thus far in 1984 and it's unfortunate the end result won't show that.

What the statistics and scorebooks will show is that the Steers dropped their fourth straight 4-A-A-A-A baseball contest. Abilene Cooper beat the Steers in a slugfest, 19-13 Saturday afternoon at Steer Field, making the Steers 0-4 in district and 6-13 overall.

Things started well enough as starting Steers' pitcher Tommy Gartman struck out the first three Cougars he faced. Danny Arista then gave Big Spring a 1-0 first inning lead when he singled in John Hart who had reached on a walk.

Cooper went up 3-1 in the second behind a two run homer by Greg Badgett and Joby Hill's theft at home plate.

Cooper, 3-1 in district and 11-5 overall, made the margin, 6-1 in the third as Badgett belted his second homer, this time a three run shot.

The Steers provided the fireworks in their half of the inning as they took an 8-6 advantage.

A double, two singles and a pair of walks helped score Hart and Robert Porras, driving Cooper starter Mike Hood from the mound with a lead that had suddenly been sliced to 6-3.

His relief, Mike McKellop, didn't fare any better. A walk to Sammy Watson brought in Arista and Mike Dodd's long single tied things, 6-6, when Jerry Anderson and Jay Pirkle scored. Chris Lamb doubled in Watson and Dodd for the Steers' go ahead runs.

Pirkle heaped two more scores on Big Spring's side of the scorebook when he homered, bringing in Anderson, on by being hit by a pitch, just ahead.

Both teams scored once in the fifth. Cooper via an error (Big Spring had five) and the Steers on another single by Arista that scored Hart. Arista ended the day with four hits in five trips up and the senior batted in three runs. Pirkle added two singles to go along with his homer.

An error that allowed three runs and a three run homer by Doug Hadley highlighted Cooper's comeback in the sixth. A pair of sacrifice flies and a triple accounted for Cooper's other four runs of the inning as the Cougars went up, 17-11.

Hart scored in the sixth and Watson doubled in Anderson in the seventh for the remaining Big Spring runs.

Cooper picked up its 18th run off Gartman who went six and two thirds innings. The Cougars then nicked his replacement, Mike Dodd for a run to account for the Cougars' final.

Gartman allowed 12 hits and 12 earned runs. He walked six and struck out six. Dodd, in one third of work time, walked one, allowed no hits, runs and struck out none.

Cooper's starter, Hood gave up five hits in three and two thirds. He walked four and allowed three runs. He struck out one. McKellop was racked for nine hits, 10 runs and six walks although he did strikeout four.

Big Spring head coach Roland Atkins said the Steers latest loss was especially hard to take because, "the kids played so much better." He added, "We had Cooper on the ropes and let up by making a mistake or two that really opened the gates. That's what makes this loss hurt so much."

The Steers will be in Midland Tuesday, Mar. 27 for a 4 p.m. contest against Lee and will play at home on Saturday, Mar. 31 against Permian.

Dayton takes on David's role while G'town playing Goliath

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's big, bad Georgetown vs. little Dayton, a David and Goliath basketball showdown for the NCAA West Regional title Sunday and a trip to the Final Four.

"Georgetown is a great team," said Ed Young, Dayton's tallest starter at 6-foot-7. "We're the underdog, but we want to show what we can do."

Georgetown Coach John Thompson put his arm around his All-American 7-footer, Patrick Ewing, at a news conference Saturday and said with a smile, "I like Goliath."

Stretching metaphor again, Thompson said he didn't think Dayton was a Cinderella team "because Cinderella didn't stay out that long."

In a tournament where many of the highly-seeded teams have been eliminated, Georgetown, the No. 1 seed in the West, has upheld its reputation as a tough, intimidating and winning team.

The Big East champion set a school record for wins by making Nevada-Las Vegas its 31st victim (against three losses) this season with a 62-48 crushing Friday night.

The Hoyas, ranked No. 2 nationally, have strung together eight victories and have won 18 of their last 19 in a bid to surpass their 1982 NCAA play when they finished second to North Carolina when Ewing was a freshman by a 63-62 margin.

Dayton Coach Don Donoher, who admits he was "somewhat stunned" that the Flyers received an at-large bid to the tournament, has seen his unranked and undersized team upset beat Louisiana State, Oklahoma and then Washington 64-58 Friday night in the other West semifinal.

"I don't think it's midnight yet," said Donoher, whose Flyers, 10th-seeded in the West, have a 21-10 record, including five straight triumphs.

The key to the Flyers' attack is Roosevelt Chapman, the leading scorer in Dayton history and who has rung up 29, 41 and 22 points in the three playoff games.

The 6-4 senior, who likes to drive the middle and hit from the outside, would seemingly have his work cut out for him against the quick, taller Georgetown defenders.

"Roosevelt presents a special problem," said Thompson. "He can jump over smaller players and he may be too quick for the taller players. He's basketball player. He does a lot of things."

"He comes at you on offense and tries to get you in foul trouble. He likes to handle the ball and make things happen."

Ewing said he planned to shut off the middle should Chapman try to drive through.

"I feel I'll be there to block his shot," said Ewing, who led the Hoyas in pulling away from a 22-21 halftime to oust UNLV.

Ewing scored 16 points, grabbed 15 rebounds and blocked six shots as UNLV finished with a 29-6 record.

While Georgetown is expected to play a fast-paced game and apply pressure defense, Donoher said his team would be patient on offense.

"We can't force the ball and shoot into tall trees," he said.

Foyt finds tough luck at Sebring

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Hans Stuck of West Germany drove his team's Porsche Turbo 935 into the lead as darkness fell, shortly before the three-quarter mark in Saturday's Coca Cola 12 Hours of Sebring sports car race.

The veteran endurance driver, who is sharing the cockpit of the Coca Cola-sponsored car with Bob Akin and John O'Steen, moved into the top spot near the end of the eighth hour.

The 935 of A.J. Foyt, Englishman Derek Bell and Frenchman Bob Wollek, which had led almost every lap since the third hour of the grueling race, had led by as many as three laps. But the car was sitting in the pits with a broken suspension as Stuck charged past.

The Chevrolet-powered March 83G prototype of Bill Whittington, Randy Lanier and Marty Hinze moved into second place and was the only car on the same lap with the leader at the end of nine hours.

One lap down was the 935 of German driver Hans Heyer, Stefan Johansson of Sweden and Mauricio deNarvaez of Colombia, followed another lap back by Wollek, whose car lost 22 minutes in the pits.

Defending champions Wayne Baker and Jim Mullen, co-driving a 935 with Tom Blackaller, were fifth, five laps behind.

The top GTO division car, a Chevrolet Camaro, was in sixth with NASCAR stock car star Terry Labonte, Billy Hagan and Gene Felton sharing the driving.

N'Orleans can make Eastwood's day

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — After 13 long years of struggle and frustration, Bob Eastwood has put himself in position — three shots clear of the field — to acquire his first title on the PGA Tour.

"It would be nice to have a win," said Eastwood, who stretched his leading margin in the $400,000 USF&G Classic with a 4-under-par 68 in Saturday's third round.

But Eastwood, never before positioned this well after three rounds, took a low-key approach going into the final 18 holes.

"I'll go out and play the best I can," he said.

"If I win, I win. If not, well, I'll know I tried."

Eastwood, 38, completed three trips over the 7,080-yard Lakewood Country Club course at 202, 14 strokes under par.

"Bob is playing well," said Doug Tewell, who is in second place at 205.

"He's overdue to win. He's paid his dues out here for all those years," Tewell said. "It takes a special kind of person to do what he's done, hang in there all that time. So many guys would have given up by now. But Bob wanted to play golf, and he hung in there, and got his game to where he's competitive. You have to give him credit."

Tewell, who collected his only two victories four seasons ago, closed up with a 66 in the cloudy weather that produced a few light showers.

Former PGA champion John Mahaffey, winner of the Bob Hope Classic earlier this season, birdied his last hole to complete a 68 and was alone in third at 206.

Klondike relays do well in own meet

KLONDIKE — Led by the relays in the boy's division and by Patti Harris in the girl's competition, Klondike finished tied for third and in fourth place respectively in the Klondike Relays held here Saturday.

The Cougars' boys tied with Sands for third place with 57 points behind Robert Lee (109) and Wink (89). Forsan was fourth with 30 followed by the Sands JV.

The 400 meter real team of Scott Runge, Tim Cope, Ricky Webb and Rolando Juntos clocked 45.67 to win the event and the 1600 meter foursome of Runge, Webb, Cope and Rudy Landon won its specialty in 3:32.98.

Individually, Webb was first in the 800 meters with a time of 2:04.39 and Runge claimed the gold in the 300 meter intermediates at 40.47.

Harris is top point getter

Harris was the top point producer for the Klondike girls with 32 of the team's 58 credited her way.

Harris was first in the triple jump and 100 meter low hurdles and placed third in the high jump and 400 meters.

Teri Cave also grabbed a gold for Klondike with first place in the 1600.

Hawks climb Hill for Region V win

The Howard College Hawks broke a three game Region V losing streak in a big way at Hawk Field Saturday afternoon by blasting Hill County Junior College, 11-4 in the first game of a conference series that continues today with a doubleheader starting at 1 p.m.

Steve Carrasco went the distance in raising his personal record to 4-1 while the Hawks are 15-11 and 3-4 as a team. Carrasco scattered seven hits and walked only two while striking out nine.

He was helped out by a Hawk lineup that collected eight hits including a home run by Joey Ortiz and a double, triple and homer from Bobby Behnsch. The round tripper marked Behnsch's 14th of the year. Ortiz got his first of the season.

Behnsch was also the big scorer for Howard, crossing home plate three times. Ricky Sustaita and Stehon Hodge score twice while single runs came from Ortiz, Blake Rosson, Gary Carr and Jeff Hodges. The score was knotted at 2-2 after three innings, but the Hawks tallied three times in the fifth and five times in the seventh to ice things.

In the first game today head coach Bill Griffin said Chuck Ashcraft will be his starter. Ashcraft takes a 4-1 record to the mound. Griffin is undecided on a starter in the second game.

TAKING A BREATHER — Sophomore shortstop Stephon Hodge was a busy man for the Howard Hawks Saturday, scoring twice. Here he takes a breather during a Hill JC pitching change.

MAKING A POINT — Georgetown head coach John Thompson emphasizes a point during a recent press conference. His Hoya will meet surprising Dayton for the NCAA West Regional title today.

San Antonio gets first ever victory

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Al Penn-White's one-yard run with 1:22 remaining gave the San Antonio Gunslingers a 14-10 victory over the Oakland Invaders Saturday afternoon in a United States Football League game between two winless teams.

San Antonio raised its record to 1-4, while Oakland fell to 0-5. The game was played before 11,012 in Alamo Stadium.

Penn-White's run capped an eight-play, 42-yard drive.

Oakland took a 7-0 lead by marching 46 yards in seven plays on their first possession of the game. Quarterback Fred Besana threw a 19-yard pass to wide receiver Gordon Banks for the touchdown.

The Gunslingers gained a tie with 3:13 left in the first half. San Antonio quarterback Rick Neuheisel threw a nine-yard scoring pass to tight end Joey Hackett, wrapping up a 52-yard drive that took 12 plays.

Oakland kicker Kevin Shea then gave the Invaders a 10-7 lead midway through the third quarter with a 36-yard field goal.

Both teams missed field goal attempts in the second quarter. San Antonio's Nick Mike-Meyer missed a 37-yard attempt 4:28 into the period, and Shea missed a 51-yard attempt with two seconds remaining in the first half.

knee function Blackburn managed to get his wiated for quad-ham machine.

"There hasn't been a lot of knee injuries, at least since I've been at Big Spring, but we had no way of treating them," Blackburn said. With the quad-ham machine, building up an injured knee is made quicker and easier.

The whirlpool is defintely the center of attention in the revamped training area.

Blackburn emphasized that an enclosed area, "keeps the noise down and humidity in." There is an air and exhaust intake system to dispel a lot of the humidity. There is an intercom system in use, however so athletes can contact Blackburn in his office. Before the exclusive area the district's one whirlpool had been located in a storage cage.

The units consist of two large whirlpools and one smaller unit. They are made of 18 gauge stainless steel and are powered by 1.5 horsepower motors. And each machine has its own safety ground, whereupon something goes wrong the plug simply is ejected from the wall it's plugged into.

The two large tubs have donut shaped seating which allows for up to three athletes to sit. There is also an individual seat should an athlete require more total submersion. Both large tubs are set at 104 degrees.

The smaller unit stays set at 60 degrees and is used primarily for treating extremities such as ankles, calves or shins. "We've been using it a lot for shin splints," Blackburn said.

Each unit is also easier to drain — thus cutting down on the many hours Blackburn and his assistants already put in. "The new whirlpools can be emptied in seven minutes which is a considerable cut from the 35 to 40 minutes it used to take," Blackburn added.

ASSISTANTS — Donnie Davis (left) and Alphonso Morales are two of the student trainers who aid Everett Blackburn with taping, treatment of injured athletes and even the preparation of lunches and working track meets.

The storage area is larger and allows Blackburn to keep everything he needs right at his fingertips instead of scattered throughout the district in various niches which was the case. It is nine feet high and is large enough that it is used as a morning dressing room for girl athletes receiving treatment.

The ice machine was one more change that Blackburn saw through. The machine is now located in his room instead of the coach's dressing room where it proved inconvenient when the time came for Blackburn and his assistant to "ice up" for practice or games.

Aside from his satisfaction with the "New Look" BSHS training department Blackburn said he would like to see, "more student trainers, a study unit and class dealing in athletic training."

"I'm certainly happy with the athletic department, administration and school board for supporting me in getting the changes and updated equipment, concluded Blackburn.

Bears win SWC game, 20-19

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Baylor's Kyle Todd hit a grand slam hom run in the ninth inning that led the Bears past Texas Tech 20-19 after the Red Raiders had taken a 9-3 victory in the opening game of a Southwest Conference baseball doubleheader Saturday.

The second-game slugfest came a day after Texas Tech beat Baylor 30-21 on Friday in another game whose score looked more like that of a football game.

In the second game, Tech had a commanding 19-12 lead going in top of the ninth. But the Bears started their hitting assault, scoring seven runs to send the game into extra innings.

In the 10th inning, Todd doubled and Mike Malinaka singled up the middle to drive in the winning run. In the bottom of the inning, Tech got runners on first and second with one out, but the next two batters popped up to end the game.

Texas Tech took the opener of the doubleheader 9-3 behind the pitching of Clay Hollock.

Intellectually insecure persons get nasty

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — While still in college, Teresa Amabile noticed that students and junior professors always asked the most biting, vicious and obnoxious questions at scholarly conferences.

Now that she is Dr. Amabile, psychologist and Brandeis professor, she is trying to discover what makes people brutally critical of others' intelligence. And she believes she has the answer:

People who are insecure about their own intellectual standing go on the offensive by questioning the brain power of others. And it works. Supercritical people really do give the impression they're smarter.

In short, nastiness pays. Ms. Amabile has conducted experiments on college students to test her theories about "negativity," as she calls it.

"We have evidence that people tend to be more negative in assessing other people's intelligence if they themselves are intellectually insecure for some reason," she said.

"Does it serve any purpose? Does it convince people that you are smart? It seems that the answer is 'yes.' A very loud 'yes.'"

She acknowledged that she had picked an ideal environment to research backbiting. Universities are, after all, famous for intellectual hissing. But she thinks her findings also apply to ordinary life — to any situation where someone feels slightly inferior in the IQ department.

Those who cast aspersions pay a price, however. They're not viewed as very nice people.

Ms. Amabile found that ruthless critics are seen as insightful but mean, brilliant but cruel. On the other hand, those who have something positive to say are considered to be undiscerning but affable, plodding but friendly.

Her work, published in the Journal of Experimental Social Psychology, began with an attempt to compare the behavior of students who felt secure and those who did not.

Forty-four students were paid to serve as "experts" to review essays on social problems. Some were told they would keep jobs no matter what. The rest were led to believe their future in the program depended on how impressively they conducted their first analyses.

Half of the students also thought they were working for a graduate student, while the rest thought the boss was a psychology professor.

When the results were in, those who believed their jobs were in jeopardy were far more critical of the essays than were their colleagues. And the professor's students were nastier than the graduate student's — even though all, in reality, were working for Ms. Amabile.

Next, 104 students were asked to assess the intellect of an actor who was being interviewed on videotape. Half thought the experimenter was a sophomore undergraduate, while the rest thought she was a graduate student working on a doctorate.

Again, those who thought their opinions would be judged by someone with high academic credentials were far more scathing.

So it seemed clear that people go for the jugular when they think their own gray matter is in question. The third study set out to learn whether this "impression management tactic" really works.

Ms. Amabile found two book reviews — one glowing, the other damning — written by the same critic and published the same Sunday. To confuse matters even more, she produced two versions of each review by changing words like "inspired" to "uninspired" and "successful" to "unsuccessful." Then 55 students assessed the writers' intellectual and social qualities.

"The negative reviewer was overwhelmingly rated as more intelligent," she said. "At the same time, he was seen as cruel."

The students thought the positive reviewer was less intelligent but "compassionate, forgiving, open-minded and kind."

Ambulance probe finds 3 mistakes

DALLAS (AP) — An evaluation of 84 complaints about ambulance service in Dallas turned up only three cases of poor judgment by fire department dispatchers, officials say.

Two of the cases involved Billye Myrick, a nurse who was fired last week because she argued with a caller for eight minutes on Jan. 5 before sending an ambulance for his stepmother, who was dead when paramedics arrived, fire officials said Friday.

The investigation was launched after widespread publicity about the Myrick incident. It centered on the fire department's use of nurses to screen ambulance calls for non-emergency situations.

"We're pleased with the numbers," said

Assistant Chief Mike Freeman. "This shows that that kind of thing wasn't extensive."

Freeman, who headed the investigation, said it was determined Ms. Myrick used poor judgment on Dec. 14 when she did not send an ambulance to help a man with a dislocated hip.

On Feb. 16, Ms. Myrick also delayed sending an ambulance to a woman who appeared to be having a heart attack, Freeman said.

Neither of those two cases resulted in death or serious injury, and because Ms. Myrick has been fired, no further department action is expected, Freeman said.

The third case in which a complaint was proven valid took place Oct. 8 and involved the failure to dispatch an ambulance for a man who was suffering from abdominal pain. Freeman said further investigation was needed to determine who took the call.

The city faces two claims stemming from ambulance service complaints.

Larry Boff, who attempted to get an ambulance for his dying stepmother on Jan. 5, filed a $315,000 claim in late January.

The family of Beatriz Flores, who died after suffering a heart attack March 5 outside a store, filed a $300,000 claim Wednesday, according to the city attorney's office.

Members of the city staff have not reviewed the Flores claim, Assistant City Attorney Doug Connors said Friday.

Police seek pusher who sold fake heroin

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A drug pusher who sold fake heroin that killed three people was being sought by police Saturday as health officials warned other drug users that the deadly substance is on the streets.

"They know the name and usual location of the pusher but they have not been able to locate him," Dr. Steven Marcus, director of the New Jersey Poison Information and Education System, said Saturday.

Two men and a woman who believed they were injecting heroin suffered "very bizarre deaths" after they were sold the drug ergotamine, which can rupture blood vessels in the brain if taken in large doses, Marcus said.

The identities of the victims, who were in their 20s, have not been released and other details surrounding the deaths were not available. Officials said the victims died over four days last week. One victim was found with a needle still in his arm.

Ergotamine is a white powder used in small doses to prevent uterine bleeding in women who have just given birth, said Marcus, who heads the state's Poison Control Hotline.

"If you inject enough of it, it'll suddenly constrict all the arteries and that could rupture the blood vessels in the brain," he said. "That's how they probably died. They are very bizarre deaths."

Officials believe the pusher knew the substitute would be fatal because ergotamine is not normally used to cut heroin, Marcus said. He said the ergotamine was diluted with quinine in order to make it taste like heroin.

Drug dealers and addicts do use quinine to cut heroin, officials said.

"We don't know if he has a strong desire to kill people or if he made a mistake," Marcus said of the suspect. "If he's trying to kill people, he's obviously going to go underground. That's the risk we had to take in publicizing it."

Amy Collings, a state health department spokeswoman, said Friday that officials are notifying drug-treatment clinics so addicts will be aware of the potential threat.

Health officials said they are almost certain the fake heroin came from the same source. Marcus said the hotline has received several calls this week reporting unusual drug reactions among other heroin users.

Many drug addicts may have purchased the heroin substitute and taken it in much smaller doses, he said.

Authorities on Friday linked the three deaths when laboratory tests determined that the victims had not died of heroin overdoses as originally suspected.

Third vice-president will be Lisa McCoy, and fourth vice-president is Karen McCoy. Elected to serve as fifth vice-president is Traci Dorsey. The post of counselor will be filled by Vikki Moore, and the historian office will be taken by Jeanie Robertson.

The senior class of 1984 would like to thank everyone who participated in the All Schools Talent Show. It was a "smashing" success, and the seniors raised over $800. The money will be used for the annual senior trip to Six Flags Over Texas.

On March 27, in Colorado City, the golfers will compete in district play beginning at 10 a.m. There will also be a duel match for the tennis players at Coahoma. The Bulldog tennis players will be playing Foshan in Coahoma at 4 p.m.

The Angelo Relays will be held March 30-31. The Coahoma varsity boy's track team will compete.

Junior high track teams will compete in the Sweet-water track meet March 31.

The varsity girl's track team will compete in the Seminole Relays March 31, also.

An orientation meeting for all incoming Coahoma High School freshmen students and their parents is set for Monday, March 26, at 7 p.m., in the CHS auditorium, announced by Principal Ronnie Bourland.

The meeting is very important as it will explain changes being implemented to conform to requirements of House Bill 246.

Freshmen students of 1984 will graduate under new regulations, and parents as well as students need to understand the changes.

Bourland asks the cooperation of all parents and students in attending the meeting. "It will maximize the student's ability to make the most of his educational opportunity," he emphasized. Although the program is designed for freshmen and their parents, the parents of any student of Coahoma schools are welcome.

Student Council elections slated

The time has come for those students who are interested in becoming more involved in school activities to actually become more involved.

Elections for the 1984-85 Big Spring High School Student Council officers will be held Friday, April 13. Anyone interested in one of the five offices must pick up a petition in the main office or from Mrs. Richardson, fulfill the qualifications of running for an office, and return the completed petition to the Student Council sponsor by 4 p.m. Friday, March 30.

Students running for Student Council must be in attendance at BSHS this year and must have no grade lower than 75 for the preceding semester. Anyone running for president must be a senior next year and anyone running for president or vice-president must have been a member of Student Council in their previous years of high school. Also, anyone running for an office must be a junior or senior next year.

Big Spring High School's one-act play, "The Private Ear", placed third in the district at the UIL contest held recently, and for the fourth time in four years, BSHS was selected as the best tech crew in the district. Individual awards went to Vince Solis who was selected to the All-District cast. Congratulations to the cast and crew.

There is a sign-up list in the office for those seniors that are willing to help work at the concession stand during the baseball games. At least four persons are needed during each game.

Pre-registration for next year will begin Monday and Tuesday during the English classes.

The district UIL meet will be held Friday and Saturday, March 30-31, in Odessa.

Dr. Welby reopens practice

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marcus Welby, M.D. is going to reopen his medical practice, at least temporarily, in a two-hour movie now in production for ABC.

Robert Young will be back in his role as the kindly family doctor seen in the 1969-76 series. Elena Vergo will also return as Consuelo Lopez, but James Brolin, now starring in "Hotel," will not be back as Dr. Steven Kiley.

The movie will introduce father-and-son doctors played by Darren McGavin and Morgan Stevens. They could form the core of a future series that would feature occasional guest appears by Young.

The revival of "Marcus Welby" came about after an appearance by Young on "Entertainment Tonight." David Victor, who created the series, saw Young on the show and suggested the movie to ABC. Victor is a creative consultant for the movie.

Production of the medical movie was halted for several days by, of all things, a medical problem. Several members of the cast and crew, including Young, came down with a virus infection. Young also experienced respiratory problems.

ABC has not set an air date for the movie, but it would be as early as May.

Other members of the cast were Pandy Grigg, Melissa Roberson, Sheri Perry, and Leland Bearden. Crew members were Chris Wigington, Marshall Long, and Johnny Willis. Drug dealer's assets auctioned off

NEW YORK (AP) — A major drug dealer's splendid collection of Tiffany vases, lamps, mosaics and enamels netted the U.S. Treasury more than $1 million Saturday at an auction that set two records for the turn-of-the-century art works.

The collection was seized two years ago from Barry W. Toombs, now serving a 15-year prison term, by agents of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration. It is the largest private collection ever seized by the government, and marks the first time the government has consigned a major antique collection to a non-government auction house.

Sotheby's, the auctioneers, billed it as the most comprehensive collection of Louis Comfort Tiffany works ever to come on the market.

A 10-inch high, tomato red, Favrite glass Tel El Amerna vase was purchased by an anonymous New York dealer for $64,900. The pre-sale estimate was $10,000 to $15,000, and the previous auction record for a floral-form vase was $53,900 in 1982.

The other record was for a green and amber enamel-on-copper vase. The 13-inch high vase brought $39,600 from a private collector, far exceeding its pre-sale estimate of $3,000-$5,000. The previous record for an enamel vase was about $20,000.

The collection of 273 items, including some furniture by Tiffany, brought $1.7 million. Toombs "was well-versed in the Tiffany world. ... He was well recognized in the Tiffany circles in New York as being a collector of note," said DEA senior attorney Steven Zimmerman.

Toombs' assets were seized under the 1970 Controlled Substances Act, which provides for the forfeiture of assets traceable to drug activities.

Toombs, once a short-order cook in the Washington, D.C., area, "unquestionably" used the income from his drug operation to purchase art, including a large collection of American paintings, Zimmerman said.

"We know of no other legitimate source of income that he had before the 10 years preceding his arrest," he said.

Toombs, 36, was arrested in 1982 in Costa Rica. "He was a major marijuana importer and distributor," and ran a large-scale operation from northern Virginia that grossed $70 million between 1974 and 1981, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Karen Tandy.

Toombs pleaded guilty to charges of racketeering conspiracy and possession of 33,000 pounds of marijuana in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Va., on March 14, 1983.

Zimmerman said the disposition of the Toombs' collection "may be the forerunner of things to come, where the government will be taking a much more conscientious look at the way we dispose of major art works."

After Sotheby's collects its commission, which was not made public, proceeds go to the U.S. Treasury as revenue for the next fiscal year.

The auction exceeded the government's expectations of $1 million, maybe partly because bidders heeded the auctioneer's words: "I hope we'll all do our patriotic best because this will significantly reduce the national deficit."

2 college students drown

AUSTIN (AP) — A Texas A&M student and his date, a University of Texas coed, drowned early Saturday on their way home from a sorority dance after their car overturned and slid into Town Lake, officials said.

Sheila Marie Melody and Glenn Curtiss House, both 20, were in a brown Audi 4000 that jumped a curb along Festival Beach, slid on its roof and flipped over, police said.

Newspaper says AMA held up smoking story

CHICAGO (AP) — Top American Medical Association officials killed a story on smoking scheduled for publication in its leading journal in order to win favor with tobacco-state politicians, according to a published report.

The Chicago Sun-Times reported in Sunday editions that its investigation revealed the 25,000-member AMA has a formal policy of "restraint" on printing in its journals articles about issues "that could be harmful to the AMA's political interests."

The story was withheld because the AMA was seeking support from "tobacco-state senators and congressmen" on a bill to exempt doctors from regulation by the Federal Trade Commission. The senators were not named in the newspaper's report.

The source also referred to an AMA staff memo distributed to the AMA's policy-setting House of Delegates in December 1982, allegedly showing the same legislators "voted with the AMA almost to a T."

The newspaper identified those issues as tobacco, control of tobacco use, nuclear war, and abortion.

Dr. James H. Sammons executive vice president and chief executive officer of the AMA, called the Sun-Times report "a scurrilous attempt to misrepresent the facts in this matter."

The Sun-Times said U.S. Army Capt. David Fletcher, an expert on preventive medicine at Madigan Army Medical Center in Tacoma, Wash., was assigned by AMA editors to do an article about the successful effort of cigarette manufacturer Philip Morris, USA to have a British court ban the film, "Death in the West."

The bill failed in the Senate after it passed in the House.

Sammons, in rejecting the Sun-Times report, said the newspaper "ignores the fact that a British court ruled that the film could not be shown. We believe that the association's scientific journal should refrain from publishing anything in support of a film embroiled in legal controversy regardless of the film's content."

Paul Harvey is coming to Odessa and you're invited

Sunday, April 1... 3 p.m.
 Holiday Inn Convention Center
 6201 E. Hwy. 80 - East of Loop 338

When he says, "Stand by... for news", Paul Harvey becomes the undisputed Voice of America for 20 million listeners, radio's largest audience today. Some 1,070 radio stations and 120 television stations broadcast his views. Over 300 newspapers publish his columns. More than a million people each year attend his speeches... like the coming appearance in Odessa.

Why? Because for citizens everywhere, Paul Harvey has become the quintessential American. For him, the entire U. S. is one giant hometown. He knows its people, its moods, its wants and needs, its strengths and weaknesses. Perhaps like no one else on the scene today, he articulates the soul of our nation... and when he speaks, even governments listen.

He can tickle your funnybone, prick your conscience, prod your ambitions, and soothe your frustrations... all in one five minute broadcast. Imagine what he can do in an hour, in person.

Better still, come see for yourself, April 1, when St. John's Episcopal School brings Paul Harvey to Odessa. For an afternoon you'll never forget, we suggest ordering tickets now. Many are already taken.

Tickets $25. No seats reserved.
 In Big Spring, tickets are available at the Chamber of Commerce, or St. Mary's Episcopal Church office.

Giggles and Grace

By TINASTEFFEN

In an atmosphere of young giggling awkward girls in leotards and tights, it's hard for one to imagine that someday some of these first-year students will be well-disciplined in the rituals of ballet.

Young ballerinas are eager to learn but don't want to work hard at it and don't want to get tired, says Laurie Churchwell, a dance instructor. "They say, 'I'm hot, I'm tired.'" However, they are competitive and think "If you can do that I can do that too," she said.

Ballet has become a part of their daily lifestyle because their mothers noticed them dancing in the living room and enjoying moving to music. Many mothers want to improve their daughter's coordination, posture and sense of rhythm.

"There are some — even though as young as they are — that I see a lot of potential with. They are born with it," Mrs. Churchwell said. "It's up to them to go as far as they want to go." First-year ballet students learn French terminology of movements and exercises, all basic positions of classical ballet at the bar and to turn out their feet. If they don't learn turnout while their bodies are undeveloped, it will not come naturally for them later due to body development, she said.

First year students spend much time at the bar learning ballet exercises. "Before they can become good dancers center floor, they have to be able to master good bar work because it is exercise for building strength, flexibility and balance." Often the young dancers think the barwork will be part of their recital, Mrs. Churchwell said. They don't understand barwork is to help improve balance and center-floor dance.

After a while at the bar, the girls move centerfloor and do the exercises they worked on at the bar. At center floor, the exercises are more difficult to do. The girls mostly enjoy performing the more "dancy" combinations used in choreography because these move faster.

At first 6-year-old Sterling Cave didn't think taking ballet was a good idea when her mother suggested she do it. And although sometimes she'd rather stay home and play with her siblings, she now says, "(Ballet) is really fun."

"I like the ballet dance we are doing now — the kicks and jumps and stuff like that," she said. "I like what you learn. It's really fun to go and dance and learn how to dance."

A day doesn't go by in class where the girls don't play a game called "Musical Ballerina." In this game, often accompanied by Michael Jackson music, the girls express their idea of how a ballerina is supposed to dance.

"If we could do ballet to Michael Jackson all the time, they'd love it," Mrs. Churchwell says, laughingly.

As your next County Commissioner, Precinct 3, I am aware of what the duties of the office require of me.

The County Judge and four commissioners govern the affairs and the operation of the county's business. I have the knowledge and business background to see that you, the taxpayer, get the most for your tax dollars. The affairs of the county is a business (tax supported) and should be conducted as such, and by someone with business background, I do not consider being your commissioner a part-time job or someone to just see that the roads are graded, I will work with all departments within the county for better government and business management.

I have 30 years managing and operating a successful business. I am married, my wife is Jackie Brackeen, we have six children. My wife and I live on Country Club Road. I have lived in Big Spring since 1957. I was raised in Hermleigh, Tex. where my mother still resides.

Jewels & Gems
by Ralph and Lynette Brooks

Almost all gems are minerals that have formed in the earth's crust following millions of years of pressure. The value and price of each type is based on its scarcity, while the value and price of a particular stone depends upon its color, clarity, cut and carat weight. Most mineral gems come in a variety of hues. One shade is usually the most desirable so that an off-color stone is less expensive to purchase. For example, a pinkish ruby costs less than one that is deep red. Interestingly enough, what a jeweler may consider to be an off-color stone often looks like a more expensive stone to a layman. It may be a very good buy for that individual.

When shopping for fine jewelry it is of the utmost importance to have full confidence in your jeweler and answers to any and all of your questions regarding precious gemstone, settings and more. At BLUM'S JEWELERS, 222 Main, 267-6335 we offer you the experience and expertise of over 22 years of service in the field of fine jewelry; and our experienced staff of sales personnel will gladly assist you with your selections and answer all of your questions. Maureen Terrell's poems published

I interviewed local poet MAUREEN TERRELL once about her poetry and a book she had published. Well she's done it again. Maureen has had another book published recently titled Thy Kingdom Come and Other Poems. The book can be found at The Book Inn.

The RUSS MCEWENS, CRAIG KNOCKE, the DWAYNE FRASERS and the LOYD UNDERWOODS were in Colorado skiing at Keystone and Breckenridge during spring break.

DONNA AND GARY DON CAREY were in Houston last week, where Donna was competing in the Mrs. Texas pageant. Out of 78 entrants, she came out in the top 15. She was sponsored by J.W. Charde.

If you have a teenage daughter, I'm sure you have heard about the cover girl contest Seventeen magazine is having. Seventeen will be 40 years old this year and is celebrating it by introducing some brand-new faces. To do this the magazine is having a nationwide model search. On the local level at various stores, 10 semifinalists will be chosen from the girls who enter. The stores pick a winner and submit that entry for national judging to be held at Seventeen. From these entries, Seventeen will choose eight national finalists. These finalists will be flown to New York and Seventeen in May. They will be photographed by leading fashion photographers, have their hair and makeup professionally done, visit Seventeen's offices and meet its editors. A panel of editors will select the overall winner from those eight, and the winner will be featured on the cover and inside the magazine's September issue.

The contests for this area were held at Dillard's in Midland and Odessa earlier this month. From the Midland group, Big Spring's FELECIA FORD was selected as one of the ten semifinalists at the preliminary. She was judged on the basis of grooming, natural beauty of face and figure, and photogenic qualities. She will be featured in the Seventeen Summer Games activewear fashion show at Dillard's at 4 p.m. Saturday. At this time the judges will select a winner to be the store's semifinalist to the national pageant. Good luck, Felecia.

Felecia also has joined up with Christian Models and Talent in the United States, a Christian modeling agency. It offers persons having Christian convictions an opportunity to work in areas of modeling, acting, singing, voice, film, movies, commercials and fashion without having to compromise their testimonies or moral standards. Felecia and her family are really excited about this as Felecia is also interested in a gospel music career.

TO THE CITIZENS OF NEWLY FORMED CITY DISTRICT #3

My name is Micheal Russell and I am a candidate in the upcoming April 7 election to be your City Councilman. I wish to address an issue that is of great concern to me and to many of you. That being the manner in which the City's General Fund is being handled. The General Fund is that fund from which expenditures for most of our city services are paid; financed primarily through our tax dollars.

For the fiscal year which ended Sept. 30, 1983, the General Fund Budget, as approved by the City Council, allowed for expenditures to exceed revenues by 6%. Actual spending for the year overran revenues by $334,814 causing a drop in the General Fund balance of 33%. All actual expenditures outpaced budgeted expenditures, except two. $64,235 less than budgeted was spent on our streets (How's your car's front-end alignment holding up?) and Recreation & Parks received $13,714 less than was budgeted. Two things bother me. First, why is a budget approved which calls for spending 6% more than expected to be available? Second, why do we allow actual expenditures to exceed what is budgeted?

Those of you who manage business or personal budgets know what happens when you spend more than you bring in. Either you lower your expenses or raise your income, otherwise you go broke. Our City's budget is no different. The two logical remedies are: 1) Bring expenditures in line with revenues, or 2) raise taxes. I prefer a responsible city government rather than taxing the people for its extravagant behavior.

I know that the powers that sometimes seem insurmountable and we feel there's nothing we can do, so why try. That, neighbor, is apathy, and apathy is nothing more than negative thought. Negative thinking produces negative results. I want a responsible city government responsive to the people. I want to work toward that goal as your city councilman. However, I need your support, not only on April 7, but from here on out.

Remember, apathy is a cancer that eats at the very core of our form of representative government. Please, take the time to vote. It's your right. It's your responsibility.

Thank you,

Micheal B. Russell

BIRDVIEW HOTLINE

By Rick Myers
What does Birdview mean? A satellite placed some 23,000 miles out in space? ... No, it means a Total Multiple Receiver System which permits up to 24 separate receivers.
Each one can be tuned to a different channel and, best of all, they can be in different houses. Consider if three households came together how the price would be reduced and still get a quality satellite receiver. Another feature of the Birdview system is the convenient remote control for each receiver.
So talk to your neighbors and then talk to Arcand Electronics about their "Share a Satellite" arrangement today! 905 Johnson — 267-5100.

Dr. Donohue

Weightlifting progress great at first

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: When I started weightlifting, I noticed tremendous progress in the first few weeks. Now the progress has slowed as far as increased weight is concerned. I am down to almost nothing. Why is this happening? — A. U.

Early training progress in any kind of conditioning is rapid. That's because you are starting from a point near zero. The beginning jogger finds the same early progress. He may huff and puff after running just a few hundred yards in the first week or so, then find himself running easy miles a few weeks later.

There's a second reason why your weightlifting training was so impressive in its early stages. Not only were your muscles growing, but your nerves were being activated more than previously. As more nerves respond to activity, more muscles are recruited.

With greater amounts of muscle tissue being used, heavier lifts became possible. You had all that ability before you started. It was just a matter of making it available for use. Once that initial surge of muscle recruitment ends, there is a tapering off, and progress slows. Now it is important for you to build slowly on that early progress, and not to expect or try to duplicate the early rapid advances.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: How effective is treadmill running, which I do in the winter months? — A.P.

The benefits are pretty close to those from outside running. True, the moving treadmill does pull back your legs automatically as they strike the surface, making the exercise a bit easier. But the difference isn't great. You can check by measuring your pulse rate. If it's the same or nearly the same as you get from outdoor running, you are getting just about the same aerobic benefits.

Dear Abby

Wife pushes couple close to edge

DEAR ABBY: I am on the verge of bankruptcy because my wife loves to shop. She writes checks, doesn't record them, and when the bank statements come, she hides them, thinking I won't find out. She keeps buying clothes until there is no more room in the closets. She has charge accounts all over town. Also credit cards. She says we're in trouble financially because I am a "failure." Abby, I make $37,000 a year, which is well above the poverty level, and she calls me a failure. There are just the two of us — no children. She doesn't work outside the home and doesn't want to. Have you ever heard of anything like this? It's like a disease. Please help me.

GOING UNDER IN NEW JERSEY
DEAR GOING UNDER: Yes, it's called "compulsive spending." Write to the National Foundation for Consumer Credit Inc., 8701 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring, Md. 20910, for the address of its local office. (Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.) Counselors can help hold off the creditors, show you how to budget your money and get out of the hole you're in. (Be prepared to surrender your credit cards.)

But there is another problem here that needs addressing: To get to the cause of her problem, your wife needs counseling. (Here we go again!) She needs to know why she is a compulsive spender. There is a strong possibility that she's trying to substitute "things" for some unmet need in her life.

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago, after treating a few friends to lunch, I left a tip that amounted to exactly 15 percent of the bill. The tip included seven pennies.

One of the parties with me told me that it was in bad taste to leave pennies in a tip. Was it really in bad taste or not?

EMBARRASSED: DEAR EMBARRASSED: While pennies aren't the most desirable form of legal tender, they're better than nothing. And speaking of "taste"

I think your guest showed worse taste in pointing out your "bad taste" than you did in leaving seven pennies.

DEAR ABBY: I realize that there are more profound questions in the universe, but mine is, "Why isn't there a man on earth who knows what to do when a woman he cares about cries?"

I am 45, started dating at 14, have been married once and divorced once, and I have yet to find a man who knew what to do when a woman cried.

When my father died, my then-husband lay motionless with his hands behind his head while I lay beside him, crying at night. The man I am presently dating is a psychologist, and he's no better than the rest.

If you've covered this, I must have missed it. What's the answer, Abby? CONSTANT OHIIO READER

DEAR READER: Don't assume that because you've never met a man who knew what to do when a woman he cared for cried, none exist. I assure you they do.

However, for the benefit of those who don't know and would like to, my advice would be to kiss her tears away.

 (Every teen-ager should know the truth about drugs, sex and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

On Turning Heads

by Gary Don

Treating yourself to a regular manicure is one way of experiencing luxury without ruining a budget. Preserve the good looks of a professional manicure between visits by applying a coat of clear polish every other day to colored nails, which will help the color last for up to two weeks. Or try wearing light or clear nail polish only. Consider asking the manicurist to buff your nails for a natural shine. It is a great substitute for nail polish, and buffed nails can be touched up at home every morning with a towel. Do not use a buffer too often as it can roughen cuticles. Use a white pencil under nail tips to give them a clean, well-groomed look.

At LA CONTESSA, we are dedicated to making a more beautiful you. Let us pamper you. You deserve time to feel special, look attractive and feel important. We can do just that for you. The time you spend with us is time well spent. You will be amazed how a new hairdo, manicure or facial can give you a whole new perspective and let you face the everyday tasks with an upbeat feeling. We're located at 1508 Marcy. Look for us Teus.-Sat. Tel. 267-2187.
