RONALD O'BRYAN
...dead by injection

'Candy man' executed

From staff and wire reports
HUNTSVILLE — Ronald Clark O'Bryan, a former resident of Big Spring who killed his son Timothy by putting a deadly dose of cyanide in the child's Halloween candy, was executed by drugs early Saturday.

He was taken from his holding cell to the death chamber at 12:01 a.m. and put on the gurney at 12:04 a.m. A minute later, needles were placed in his arms and a saline solution began flowing at 12:27 a.m.

The lethal injection began at 12:40 a.m. after a two-minute statement in which O'Bryan said he did not believe in the death penalty but he accepted it because it was society's decision.

Dubbed the "Candy Man" by fellow inmates, O'Bryan, 39, died at 12:48 a.m., said Elna Christopher of the state attorney general's office.

O'Bryan has steadfastly protested his innocence, but said in a death row interview, "Because I have no guilt, I've really got nothing to be scared about."

This was the second execution in Texas this month. James David Autry was put to death by injection March 14.

Between 200 and 300 people had gathered outside the building which houses the death chamber. They remained mostly quiet behind a police barricade about 100 yards away. A Huntsville bar handed out the Pixy Stix, the candy which prosecutors said O'Bryan spiked to kill his boy.

Earlier in the evening, the U.S. Supreme Court turned down O'Bryan's last appeal, which was based on the use of the drug without prior government approval.

Stefan Presser, the attorney for the infamous "Candy Man," had termed the appeal a "one in a million chance."

The high court action, its second of the day, culminated a flurry of last-ditch legal maneuvers designed to save O'Bryan's life.

The Supreme Court voted, 7-2, against reinstating the judge's ruling.

Cosden, union settle contract

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. and members of the International Union of Operating Engineers Local 826 reached a two-year contract agreement late Friday afternoon which gave employees a "modest" raise and a 10 percent credit card use discount.

Neither management nor labor would comment on the settlement Friday, but Clovis Phinney, business agent for the union, said in a press release that "this was the hardest contract they (the union) has ever had to present to the membership."

Phinney said the contract was accepted "by the narrowest margin."

thus indicating the much of the union's membership did not think the contract was adequate.

Ross Westbrook, public relations officer for the company, declined to talk about problem areas of the contract, nor would he say how much of a raise the employees received.

Both Phinney and Westbrook said they felt that commenting further on the agreement would perhaps cause already tender feelings to flare.

The contract covers more than 325 refinery employees now working at an hourly wage. The agreement takes effect April 1. The settlement came after three days of negotiations, according to Phinney.

Census releases fact sheet on area

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — The U.S. Census Bureau released a book this month that includes a bonanza of general statistics about Big Spring and Howard County, from such standard facts as the area's median income to such lesser-known details as the county's average-sized farm.

Whatever you care to know about can probably be found in the 996-page County and City Data Book. Most of the data is based on long questionnaires that were filled in during the 1980 census.

In a section that breaks down the city of Big Spring on the basis of population, income and housing, the statistics showed Big Spring with a median household income of $13,919 and a total of 9,089 occupied housing units, with 66.4 percent of those owner-occupied and with a median value of $23,400.

The statistics showed that Big Spring's population of 24,804 was 5.3 percent black, 23.7 percent Hispanic and 13.3 percent 65 years and older. Most Big Spring residents graduated from high school, 54.8 percent, and 16 percent lived below the poverty level.

Most of the other statistics were for Howard County, which is 74.8 percent urban and which had 97.4 males for every 100 females. The median age in Howard County was 31.7 years old and 76.6 percent of county residents were born in Texas. There were 9,139 family households in the county, 2,826 non-family households and 2,624 one-person households.

Out of Howard County's 594 births in 1980, 22.2 percent of those were to mothers under 20 years of age. There were 43 physicians in the county, 14 dentists and 161 registered nurses. A total of $3.4 million in hospital benefit payments were made in Howard County in 1980 under Social Security.

Other statistics about Howard County showed:

- Median gross rent in the county was $200.

- 76.8 percent of Howard County residents drove to work alone, 17.1 percent carpooled and 2 percent used public transportation.

- 86.9 percent of the housing units in Howard County have air conditioning.

- 1.2 percent of the households lacked complete plumbing.

PULSE OF MEDICINE — British cardiologist Dr. Dennis Krikler examines a heart-monitoring machine Friday at Malone-Hogan Hospital in Big Spring. Krikler presented a seminar in the hospital's physician education series.

From the heart Cardiologist explains British medicine

By KEITH BRISCOE
City Editor

A renowned British cardiologist visiting Big Spring Friday said he's speaking from the heart when he claims socialized medical care in the United Kingdom rivals the professional excellence of American medicine.

Dr. Dennis Krikler, editor of the British Heart Journal and staff member of the Royal Postgraduate Institute of Medicine at Hammersmith Hospital in London, said yesterday in an interview with the Herald that the 35-year-old socialized medical system in Britain has developed one of the best health care programs in the world.

"Our population is at least as healthy as the American population," said Krikler, who was here yesterday to conduct a seminar in Malone-Hogan Hospital's continuing medical education series.

"Your affluent or middle-class upwards may have better health care, but I'm concerned that you're not providing adequate care for your indigent and lower classes," he said. "It amazes me that the wealthiest country in the world can't get its act together on this."

Krikler, 55, a native of Capetown, South Africa, said British health care has improved dramatically since the Labour government socialized the UK's medical system in 1948.

"By all indices — infant mortality, survival rates and so on — we have better care" than the United States, he said.

Under socialized medicine, the number and quality of doctors has increased, district medical administration has been established and free health care has been guaranteed for all British citizens, he said.

He said American suspicions about deficiencies and waste in the British medical system are unfounded.

The British patient does not suffer long hours to see his doctor, the doctor-patient relationship is more genuine than it has ever been, and health care is not administered on an assembly-line basis to satisfy government quotas, Krikler said.

The British general practitioner is paid about $30,000, and the specialist makes about $40,000. Physicians can supplement their incomes through a few hours each week devoted to limited private practice allowed by the government, he said.

British hospitals, Krikler said, have been pioneering institutions in medical research, and many

Gramm visits HC on campaign trek

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Congressman Phil Gramm, a candidate for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by John Tower, met with friends and supporters on the Howard College campus during a brief political rally Friday.

Gramm told the crowd assembled in the Cactus Room, "I feel comfortable on a college campus." He is a former Texas A&M instructor and said "Teaching Aggies is easier than teaching congressmen."

Gramm co-authored the Reagan economic bill designed to cut governmental spending. He told the group "I'm proud of my record. In the last four years (as a congressman), I've tried to implement an economic program that is bringing inflation under control. I'm committed to seeing that program through to a successful conclusion."

Gramm criticized spending and said over the past few years taxes have grown by 300 percent while real spending has grown by 550 percent.

"Our problem is a spending problem," he said.

If Americans would freeze their spending practices on the government level, "we could have surpluses" in the future, he said.

"I'm running on the deficit issue. I'm the only candidate (for the Senate seat) who has ever cut a program by a nickel."

Gramm told the crowd of about 50 persons, "the choice is clear...We should stay with a program that is working. We must control spending."

He referred to Democratic presidential candidates Gary Hart and Walter Mondale as politicians who "want to raise taxes so the government can go on spending as usual. Our job is to get out and tell our story. This is an opportunity to go out and sell a program I helped put on the books."

Talking again about his race for the Senate seat, Gramm said "Sam Houston first held the seat I am seeking. (Various office holders) and I have held one thing in common: that is effective representation of the people."

Gramm asked the crowd, "Why should you choose me? (All candidates) say we want to be effective leaders. The difference is I have been an effective leader for the state of Texas. I co-authored the Reagan program which has provided new jobs and brought inflation under control...I've served as a representative on the state energy commission...Look at each of the people running for this office, make a comparison and elect me to the U.S. Senate."

Gramm said he hoped to win the Symphony readies for maiden voyage

Musician plans tribute to Mariah director Bradley

PRACTICE, PRACTICE — Sam Woodward practices "Song of the Birds" which he will play at the Big Spring Symphony's initial performance April 7. The song will be dedicated to director of the Mariah Color Guard Bill Bradley who died recently.

By JIM BROWN
Staff Writer

It will be a plaintive cry, lyrical, yet hauntingly beautiful. "Song of the Birds" will soar from the strings of Sam Woodward's cello next Saturday.

His musical offering will mark the premiere performance of the Big Spring Symphony.

"This concert is dedicated to Bill Bradley, and I chose 'Song of the Birds' as my memorial to him," Woodward said.

Bradley, who died recently of a heart attack, was the director of Big Spring High School's Mariah color guard.

"The composition, like the man to whom we are dedicating the performance to, is beautiful, yet maintains great simplicity," Woodward said. "I feel that it evokes qualities symbolic of Bradley. Like Bradley's life, the song was meant to have a special meaning in a chaotic world."

Famous Spanish cellist Pablo Casals, who wrote song of the birds, was forced into exile when Francisco Franco came to power in Spain.

"He wrote this song as symbolic of all the world's exiles and their longing to return to their homeland and not being able to do so," Woodward said. "It's something that really does touch the heart."

Casals refused to play as his country remained a dictatorship, and it was not until he was in his 80s that he began to play publicly again.

"He always closed these concerts, his personal mission of peace, with 'Song of the Birds,'" Woodward said. "Thus it became very symbolic."

A student of the revered cellist, Woodward has performed with the Puerto Rico Symphony and the New Orleans Philharmonic Orchestra, and as principal cellist of the Mobile Symphony and the University of South Alabama Resident String Quartet.

He has also performed with the Memphis Symphony, the Memphis Opera Orchestra, the Tupelo Symphony and as principal cellist for the Memphis Concert Orchestra.

The son of concert violinist Orlene Burrow, Woodward is a 1965 graduate of the Puerto Rico Conservatory of Music in San Juan, where he studied with Casals.

Woodward also holds a degree in business administration from the University of Alabama School of Commerce and Business Administration.

'The composition, like the man to whom we are dedicating the performance to, is beautiful, yet maintains great simplicity.'

— Sam Woodward

The driving force behind the formation of the Big Spring Symphony, Woodward has been the general manager of the Midland-Odessa Symphony and is currently president of the Big Spring Symphony Association. He also serves as director of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Cultural Affairs Council.

During Woodward's tenure at the Midland-Odessa Symphony, the organization completed its first international tour. He was also instrumental in developing the Big Spring subscription concert series.

The April 7 concert will be held at 8 p.m. in the Big Spring High School Auditorium. Tickets are $7.50 for adults and $4 for students and senior citizens and can be purchased from The Copper Kettle, Dunlap's Department Store, the Chamber of Commerce and Faye's Flowers. They will also be available at the door on April 7.

Mariah praised by chamber members

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Friday presented a certificate of appreciation to Big Spring High School's Mariah as members of the color guard prepared for national competition.

President Paul Shaffer said the chamber "wants to congratulate Mariah for their achievements and the publicity they have generated for Big Spring."

Dale Worthan, leader of the Mariah boosters club, announced that the group has been invited to participate in the National Color Guard Association contest in Dayton, Ohio, Thursday.

"With a little bit more hard work, we're going to fly up there and bring a National Championship back to Big Spring," he said. "This has been an extremely hard year."

Mariah director Bill Bradley died recently of a heart attack.

"We had 11 new members this year, members who had never performed, and it took a tremendous amount of talent and hard work for these kids to get where they are today," Worthan said.

"They were ranked second in the nation after the Rocky Mountain Competition in Denver, and now they're going to be number 1," he said.

"But we need help from the community now; we only have until Wednesday to raise $7,000 to fly the group to Dayton," he said.

Sam Woodward of the Big Spring Symphony Association said the symphony would donate 50 percent of the proceeds on tickets sold by Mariah members.

The first fund-raising event will be a skate-a-thon today from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. at Skateland.

Persons wishing to make contributions to Mariah's travel fund may do so by calling Kenneth Boothe at 263-1324 or 263-0494.

Mariah members will pick up donations, or contributions may be dropped off at Boothe's office at 1001 FM 700.

5 arrested in college rape

EDMOND, Okla. (AP) — Five Central State University students, including two football players from Texas, were charged Friday with first-degree rape after a woman said she was repeatedly assaulted in one of the men's dormitory room, police said.

A sixth man was being sought by police on a rape complaint, said Bob Roberts, acting chief of the university police. The five were booked into the Oklahoma County Jail on Friday morning.

Two other male students reportedly watched as the others took turns holding down the 19-year-old student and repeatedly raping her, Roberts said.

Those arrested Friday were identified as: Richard E. Hogg, 21, of Edmond; Dwain Banks, 24, of Dallas; Steve E. Brooks, 19, of Okmulgee; Erachetti L. Carr, 21, of Enid; and Lester Ray Baldwin, 20, of Sherman, Texas.

"It's going to be quite a deal," he said Friday. Edmond is a northern suburb of Oklahoma City.

Roberts declined to discuss in detail his interviews with seven men allegedly present in the room. He said the two men who allegedly observed the incident were not arrested but could face charges of being accessories to the crime.

All those involved were students at the university, he said.

The men were booked Friday morning after they were questioned about the incident.

Despite what he calls the "extremely high standards" of American physicians, Krikler said doctors here perform too many unnecessary operations and leave catastrophic illnesses unattended because of the patient's inability to pay for high medical costs.

Republican primary on May 5. "If we could win without a runoff, that would allow us to get on with the general election and to save money."

He told his supporters "we've established a phone bank in Howard County to identify our supporters. We need your help. I was elected to Congress by 122 votes."

He commented that if he had lost that election, "Tip O'Neill would be a young, vibrant, healthy man today."

Gramm was referring to a conflict between himself and O'Neill in which Gramm was chastised for giving support to Republican spending issues. He later resigned his seat as a Democratic congressman, ran again as a Republican and won.

He also told supporters that the Texas Senate race may determine whether or not the Senate is controlled by the Democrats or Republicans.

If the Democrats gain the majority, "The President will have to deal with Tip O'Neill, and believe me, it ain't easy."

In response to a question about an independent group seeking campaign funds for Gramm across the state, he said "I don't want your help. I have no say over what they do. They might promise things I can't deliver."

In response to questions about the possible Argentina default on U.S.

loans, Gramm said he wants to see "a real focus on trying to limit credit." He added he didn't want to see taxpayers "coming in and bailing out Argentina."

Talking about an immigration bill which may come to the House floor in late spring or early summer, he said "I'm opposed to the bill. It will produce an environment where employers will discriminate against Hispanics."

The bill would also provide public assistance for 4.5 million people, he said.

Mulling over the Argentina situation and the illegal alien bill, Gramm said "We've not been very successful as Big Brother around the world."

Apple plant core of new industry

FREMONT, Calif. (AP) — In the heart of this industrial town, an electronic torture chamber two stories high turns hundreds of Apple's new Macintosh computers on and off for 48 hours to ensure they can keep their silicon wits.

It's the burn-in tower at Apple Computer Inc.'s new automated Macintosh factory, where $20 million worth of construction and technology are spread across 120,000 square feet.

The new plant, to be completed in about a month, is one of the most advanced manufacturing facilities in the industry, designed to produce one Macintosh every 27 seconds.

The plant, a key part of Apple's hopes for the Macintosh, is a "premiere operation" with "tremendous potential," said Tim Bajarin, an analyst at Creative Strategies Inc., a market research firm in nearby San Jose.

"If they do not have major problems with suppliers or (factory) lines," he said, "they can come up with exactly (the production) they say."

The Macintosh, a 20-pound computer with a detached keyboard, black-and-white monitor and 3½-inch disk drive that can store up to 400,000 bits of information, was unveiled in late January with a $2,495 price tag.

The introduction produced speculation that Macintosh would establish a second industry standard after IBM's PC. Apple president John Sculley declared flatly that Macintosh represented a "milestone in the industry that will redefine forever what a personal computer should be."

So far, information about sales of the machine has been sporadic. For example:

—Apple says now it will sell 50,000 units by May 3, 100 days after Macintosh was introduced. The plant is operating so far at about 75 percent capacity.

Sculley said in January that Macintosh will be a financial success if the company sells 250,000 this year. Supplies are four to six weeks behind orders.

—Plans to sell Macintosh computers at discount prices at 24 major universities, including Yale and Stanford, have brought complaints from dealers near the campuses.

"I am infuriated by the whole situation," said Rick Weir, president of the Ann Arbor-based Complete Computer Center, only a half-block from the University of Michigan campus. "We are primarily an Apple dealer and the university program has just cut the guts out of our primary market."

The $1,340 campus price is below what dealers pay Apple, he said.

—Financial analyst Michele S. Preston of L.F. Rothschild, Unterberg, Towbin, in New York, predicted in mid-February that Macintosh and Lisa, introduced last year, will set a second industry standard after the IBM PC.

But Ms. Preston warned that if Macintosh fails, Apple will never recoup the investment in Lisa. Initial sales of that $9,995 system proved disappointing. Apple cut the price sharply and upgraded the machine when it introduced Macintosh.

The Macintosh plant has 260 workers, including 90 administrative personnel, and a second eight-hour crew is being formed, said John Grooms, the plant's systems engineering manager.

Almost everything is automated, from the receiving docks where vendors deliver parts on an as-needed basis to support a just-in-time inventory philosophy to the trash conveyers and the burn-in towers.

Th towers at the end of the two final assembly lines can hold up to 2,360 Macintosh computers at once. Spaced on seven levels of conveyers, an army of Macintosh units flicker on and off in an effort to find weak components by stressing them.

At the receiving docks, bulk parts including the bezels, chassis and cathode ray tubes, or video monitors, are forklifted onto conveyers and ushered along an overhead delivery system.

Smaller parts, such as the keyboard, disk drive and "mouse," a hand-held cursor-control device, are routed by a vehicle guided by wires buried in the floor.

In one assembly area, nearly 50 integrated circuits — tiny silicon chips that contain the brains of the computers — are automatically inserted into logic boards.

The boards are tested on a specially programmed Macintosh, then carried by an automatic vehicle to the final assembly, linked with the video screen and united with a chassis and disk drive. From there they are shunted to the burn-in towers.

Only 20 components — connectors, transformers and the like — are inserted by hand.

Those and other parts are pulled from inventory boxes by an automated "tote stacker," a computerized crane that goes directly to the device needed for a particular job and then delivers it near the work station.

Reagan doesn't mind spoof

BURBANK, Calif. — With a flourish of "Hail to the Chief" by Doc Severinsen, a rosy-cheeked Johnny Carson straightens a neatly coiffed wig and comes on like a candidate for reelection.

The star of "The Tonight Show" says that so far his Ronald Reagan imitation hasn't drawn requests for equal time from Gary Hart, Walter Mondale and Jesse Jackson, the leading Democrats.

"But it wouldn't surprise me," Carson said this week.

In 21 years of hosting the "Tonight Show," Carson has developed such characters as the seer Carnac the Magnificent; Floyd R. Turbo, American; and dear old Aunt Blabby.

And now Reagan.

Carson, 57, says he's done the spoof about five times since he introduced it as a parody of the children's show, "Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood."

"We called it 'Mr. Reagan's Neighborhood,'" Carson said. "I did things like ask all kids to go through Daddy's pockets and send me all of Daddy's money."

He also portrayed the president in a "Royal Family Feud" skit spoofing the popular TV quiz show and mimicked Reagan in a Great Debate between the president and former President Jimmy Carter over the Carter briefing papers.

Carson says several White House writers told him Reagan saw a tape of the Reagan-Carter skit aboard Air Force One and enjoyed it.

"I'm never cruel in the skits," says Carson, who considers Reagan a friend and often had him as a guest on "Tonight" when Reagan was governor of California.

Prince Andrew makes tour

LONDON — Prince Andrew, a Royal Navy helicopter pilot who flew combat missions in the 1982 Falklands war against Argentina, returns to the South Atlantic on April 5 to the tiny island of St. Helena.

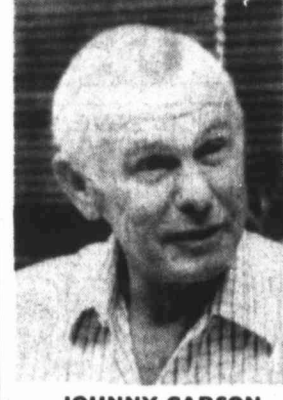

The visit, marking the island's 150th anniversary as a British colony, is the first solo royal tour made by Andrew, 22, second son of Queen Elizabeth II.

Andrew will fly from a Royal Air Force base in southwest England to Ascension Island, which he last visited when it was the main staging area for the British task force that recaptured the Falklands from Argentina.

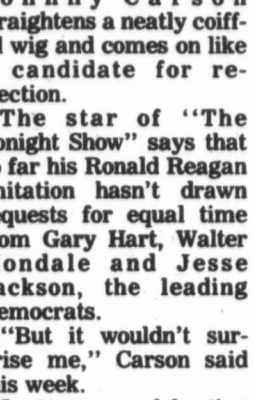

There he will join the 260-foot survey vessel Herald for a three-day cruise across the equator to St. Helena. The island, populated by 5,500 people, does not have an airstrip.

The last time the islanders saw a royal visitor was when King George VI, the queen's father, made a stopover there in 1947 on his way back to London from South Africa.

The island, best known as the place where Napoleon Bonaparte was exiled in 1815 after Waterloo, will greet Andrew with a carnival and parades. Andrew is scheduled to visit the house where Napoleon stayed during his long years of exile.

The news in brief

By the Associated Press

U.S. says Iraq used nerve gas

WASHINGTON — The State Department said today that Iraq has used nerve gas in its war against Iran and announced that controls are being imposed on the export of certain chemical compounds to both countries.

Department spokesman John Hughes confirmed a New York Times account saying Iraq has used nerve gas, but gave no details. Other officials, who asked not to be identified, said the weapon has been used in recent weeks but not on a massive scale.

Discussing the controls on chemical compounds, Hughes said applications generally will be denied where there is reason to believe that such items "will be used in producing chemical weapons or will otherwise be devoted to chemical warfare." He indicated that Iraq — but not Iran — has expressed interest in acquiring some of the chemicals on the list announced today.

The five chemicals affected are potassium fluoride, dimethyl methylphosphate, methylphosphonyl difluoride, phosphorous oxychloride and thioglycol.

State Department, Pentagon and intelligence officials said Iraq has almost finished extensive sites for mass production and storage of the lethal nerve gas, according to the Times. Hughes did not address those assertions.

The specter of full-scale chemical warfare in the troubled region would mean "the genie is out of the bottle," one senior American official told the Times. "Arms control is down the drain. And we've got our forces completely at risk."

The State Department said earlier this month that available evidence indicated that Iraq had used lethal chemical weapons against the more numerous forces of Iran, in violation of the 1925 Geneva Protocol. Iraq, which agreed to the protocol in 1931, has denied the charge. The State Department had cited mustard gas, not nerve gas.

According to the Times report, Iraq has been purchasing large quantities of laboratory equipment from a West German company, apparently for use in the production of the gas. Hughes said the United States has raised the issue with the West Germans.

Hughes also said the United States has no plans, either directly or through Israel, to attack Iraqi chemical facilities.

Jackson rips opponents

Four days before the New York primary, Walter F. Mondale and Gary Hart debated foreign policy in separate appearances before the same group on Friday, while the Rev. Jesse Jackson accused his Democratic presidential rivals of "benign neglect" of black voters.

"It could not be more clear that Walter Mondale and Gary Hart would prefer to pretend that you and I do not exist," Jackson told a predominantly black crowd at his headquarters in Brooklyn.

"It's a fundamental issue of benign neglect. They must be challenged to speak to the issues."

Jackson made his charge as Mondale conceded that the mood has soured in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination. But he said the sharp exchanges between him and Hart have been over issues, not personal matters.

Some of the differences were evident as Hart and then Mondale addressed the New York Foreign Policy Association.

Hart told the group that U.S. military aid to Central American nations should be replaced with economic assistance providing "simple but sweeping social projects with measurable effectiveness." He mentioned water and sanitation systems as examples.

The Colorado senator has called for the withdrawal of all American military forces in Honduras, where they have been participating in training exercises.

But Mondale said that for Hart, "our history would appear to begin, and, too often, end with Vietnam."

He declared that the lesson of Vietnam is not that presidents should forgo the use of American military power everywhere, "but that it should be exercised for peace, mindful of regional history, and fully understood and supported by the American people."

All three men campaigned in New York City as public opinion polls indicated Mondale leads Hart in the Empire State, with Jackson in third place. There are 252 delegates at stake in the primary Tuesday, the biggest prize so far in the Democratic nomination fight.

French leave from Beirut

BEIRUT — French peacekeeping troops evacuated Beirut's embattled "green line" on Friday, part of a withdrawal that will leave the capital without foreign armies for the first time since 1976.

Mortar shells crashed close to the harbor where the French assembled for the journey home.

The shelling followed reports that warring militias have agreed to pull back roughly 700 yards from both sides of the green line dividing Christian east and mostly Moslem west Beirut. French observers and Lebanese police were to man the buffer zones.

Police said Christian and Moslem militiamen traded sporadic barrages of mortar rounds and rocket-propelled grenades in the ravaged commercial district near Beirut's port. But no shells landed in the harbor and no casualties were reported.

Druse rebels fired rockets at a Lebanese army personnel carrier which was carrying troops near the mountaintop town of Souk el-Gharb east of the capital at midday, killing two soldiers and wounding four, military sources reported.

They said army gunners retaliated with artillery barrages at nearby Druse positions.

The French pullout ends the presence of the multinational force that was deployed in Beirut in September 1982 after the Israeli invasion of Lebanon. The American, Italian and British contingents withdrew last month.

Mauna Loa lava slows down

HILO, Hawaii — The threat to Hawaii's second-largest city from the eruption of Mauna Loa eased Friday, with a new finger of lava diverting some of the volcano's molten flow over uninhabited land, officials said.

Meanwhile, the island's second volcano, Kilauea, resumed its intermittent eruption, marking the first time in more than a century that the two erupted simultaneously.

Officials flying over the area early Friday sighted the new stream of lava from Mauna Loa about three miles behind the front of a 13-mile-long flow. The wall of lava has descended the mountainside to about five miles from the nearest homes in the upper Kaumana area of Hilo, which has a population of 40,000.

The new finger of molten rock is "more favorable, because it's farther up the flow," said Bill Takaba, a Hawaii County Civil Defense volunteer. "It relieves pressure at the front."

The new flow was headed north over uninhabited state land, away from Hilo.

Heavy rain and fog prevented officials from gathering better information, said Takaba.

Instruments at the U.S. Geological Survey's Hawaiian Volcano Observatory early Friday indicated Kilauea was erupting. It was the first time since 1868 that the island's two active volcanoes erupted at the same time.

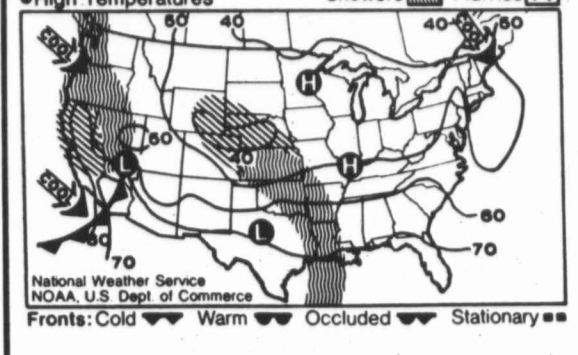

"From one side I could see Mauna Loa erupting, and on the other side I could see Kilauea," said Susanne Gines, who lives in Volcano village.

"It's a real eerie feeling, to be surrounded by volcanic activity," she said. "You can feel the charge in the air."

The main lava flow from Mauna Loa was one of four streaming from a fissure at the 9,000-foot level of the 13,677-foot-high volcano. The other three main flows had apparently stopped advancing, said Robert Decker, scientist in charge of the volcano observatory.

Storm's death toll at 82

A devastating storm blamed for at least 82 deaths in the East dropped more than a foot of new snow on New England as it moved out to sea Friday, while the southern Rockies gave birth to still another howler with hurricane-force winds.

More than a foot of snow fell in southern Utah while winds gusting to 86 mph in the northern part of the state caused scattered power outages. Truckers parked their rigs to wait it out.

Winds gusting to 80 mph also cut power to about 20,000 homes and businesses and knocked radio and television stations off the air around Las Vegas, Nev.

Up to 15 inches of snow fell at Tourey, Utah, with 14 inches on the ground at Junction and Circleville, and 12 inches at Minersville.

As the storm moved eastward, up to 9 inches of snow fell at Estes Park, Colo., and 7 inches accumulated in southwestern Kansas. Up to a foot was expected in the eastern foothills of Colorado and along the Colorado-Kansas border.

Blowing and drifting snow made driving treacherous on parts of Interstate 70 in Colorado. Heavy snow also was expected in the mountains of Arizona.

The monster storm in the East, which on Wednesday hurled two dozen tornadoes that killed more than 60 people and crushed dozens of homes in the Carolinas, was out over the Atlantic by daybreak, leaving behind damage estimated in the tens of millions of dollars.

Crews worked to restring power lines that were torn down by up to 3 feet of snow during Thursday's blizzard, leaving more than half a million homes dark from Virginia to Massachusetts. State and local officials inspected beachfront property ravaged by flood tides at 20-foot waves, but most of the thousands of people who had been forced to flee returned to their homes.

High tides 6 to 10 feet above normal pounded shorelines from Virginia to New England on Thursday and, coupled with high winds, ate away at dunes and beaches.

"The dunes have been breached. They just don't exist any more," said John Friedrich of the Cape May County Emergency Management office in southern New Jersey.

At least 1,800 people were evacuated in coastal New Jersey and in Connecticut hundreds fled in Milford, Fairfield, Westbrook and Norwalk, with water 10 feet deep in some homes. Rowboats were used to rescue many residents of coastal Brooklyn and Long Island in New York.

In addition to the tornado deaths, there were at least 22 other weather-related deaths, mostly in traffic accidents. They included seven in New York, six in Massachusetts, three in Pennsylvania, two in each in Washington and Connecticut, and one each in New Jersey and Alabama.

Train derails in Central Texas town

MALAKOFF, Texas (AP) — A train carrying chromic acid hit a gravel truck, burst into flames and derailed Friday near the downtown section of this Central Texas town, forcing the evacuation of a mile-wide area, police said.

The driver of the truck was still unaccounted for at 5 p.m., City Administrator Buddy Thompson said.

He said a brakeman on the Cotton Belt train was treated for minor injuries at a local hospital and released.

Thompson said officials could not locate the two 55-gallon drums of the toxic chemical, which apparently were in a trailer being carried "piggy-back" by the train. "We're trying to identify where it is, whether it's off the track or on the track," Thompson said.

He said a special crew was being sent in by the shipper of the chemical Friday night to "locate the chemical and neutralize it."

Until then, Thompson said, no one would be allowed to return to the evacuated area.

A police department employee who asked not to be identified said the accident occurred at about 11:30 a.m. "approximately a few blocks from the main part of town."

Thompson said 350 to 500 people were evacuated from the area, which was covered with thick black smoke from the fire. Acid spilled into two deep ditches on either side of the tracks and burned, he said.

Most of the people were evacuated from the downtown area of this town of 2,000, he said.

Diesel fuel continued to burn several hours after the crash, officials said. Thompson said that by 5 p.m., the fire was still smoldering.

"We're at city hall and we're supposed to (evacuate) but we can't. It's too busy," the official said. "It looks like maybe things are under control."

Chromic acid, used in chrome plating, engraving and many other industrial processes, is toxic, corrosive to skin and highly flammable.

Paul Harvey is coming to Odessa and you're invited

Sunday, April 1... 3 p.m.

Holiday Inn Convention Center

6201 E. Hwy. 80 - East of Loop 338

When he says, "Stand by... for news", Paul Harvey becomes the undisputed Voice of America for 20 million listeners, radio's largest audience today. Some 1,070 radio stations and 120 television stations broadcast his views. Over 300 newspapers publish his columns. More than a million people each year attend his speeches... like the coming appearance in Odessa.

Why? Because for citizens everywhere, Paul Harvey has become the quintessential American. For him, the entire U. S. is one giant hometown. He knows its people, its moods, its wants and needs, its strengths and weaknesses. Perhaps like no one else on the scene today, he articulates the soul of our nation... and when he speaks, even governments listen.

He can tickle your funnybone, prick your conscience, prod your ambitions, and soothe your frustrations... all in one five minute broadcast. Imagine what he can do in an hour, in person.

Better still, come see for yourself. April 1, when St. John's Episcopal School brings Paul Harvey to Odessa. For an afternoon you'll never forget, we suggest ordering tickets now. Many are already taken.

Tickets $25. No coats reserved.

In Big Spring, tickets are available at the Chamber of Commerce, or St. Mary's Episcopal Church office.

County Extension Agent

Peaches, plums and apricots popular fruit trees

Peaches, plums, and apricots are among the most popular fruit trees produced in Howard County.

Luckily, West Texans are free of many of the diseases and insects that plague other areas of our state, thanks to our dry environment!

A good schedule on disease and insect control is still important, however.

Fruit trees in the home yard are subject to attack by insects and diseases from the time growth starts in the spring until leaves drop in the fall. One can never be sure exactly when or what pests will be a problem at any particular time during the growing season. Therefore, it is essential to have a pesticide on the fruit trees in advance of a pest attack. To grow acceptable fruit on trees that are reasonably free of disease and insect damage, it is absolutely necessary that home gardeners follow a complete spray schedule throughout the fruit season.

Insecticides for use on fruit trees are dormant oil, diazinon, malathion, and carbaryl (Sevin). Most fruit diseases can be controled with Captan or benomyl (Benlate). Read the label instructions for dosage rates and information on mixing and applying insecticides and fungicides.

Healthy vigorous trees will be less susceptible to pests. Fertilize fruit trees 1-2 weeks before bud break in the spring. Use a complete fertilizer (12-12-12, 15-5-25, etc.) at the rate of 2 pounds per inch trunk diameter, ammonium sulfate at 1.5 pounds per inch of trunk and ammonium nitrate at 1 pound per inch of trunk. Place the complete fertilizer in 6-8 inch deep holes that are punched within the dripline of the tree. Ammonium sulfate and nitrate may be scattered within the dripline and thoroughly watered in.

A slow trickle of water for a long period of time (24-36 hours) provides the deep watering fruit trees need in summer heat. Prune each dormant season by thinning out branches and twiggy growth in the central portion of the tree.

Spray applications should be applied to trees at the following times:

Dormant season — Dormant oil to control scale.
Pink bud — Apply a fungicide and insecticide to control brown rot and plum curculio.

Full bloom — Apply only fungicides during full bloom period. Application of an insecticide might kill the bees that help pollinate the blooms.

Petal fall — When 75% of petals have fallen apply a spray containing a fungicide and an insecticide.

Shuck split — Seven to 10 days after petal fall, apply the fungicide-insecticide combination.

First cover spray — Seven to 10 days after shuck split spray, apply the fungicide-insecticide combination.

Second cover spray — Ten to 14 days after the first cover spray, apply insecticide plus Captan.

Third cover spray — Fourteen to 21 days after the second cover spray, apply the same materials.

Pre-harvest — Carbaryl insecticide with either benomyl or Captan is suggested to protect the fruit from insect and disease attack one week before ripening.

Family Living Committee's Annual Spring Seminar will be held Saturday April 14, 1984 from 9:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Fellowship Hall, First Presbyterian Church, Big Spring.

Exciting plans have been made for this year's event based on evaluations received from the 1983 seminar.

- The program includes:
- "Strengthening Family Relationships" — Dorothy Taylor, Extension Family Life Specialist
 - "Making Color Work for You" — J.J. Love — Color 1 Associates
 - "The Art of Using Cosmetics" — Demonstrations: Dene Sheppard — Mary Kay Cosmetics, Joyce Phillips — Merel Norman Skin Care, Jenny Bartlett — Cosmetic Buyer — Dunlaps, Ella Bridge — Avon Products

- "Make the Most of Vacation Time" — Travel Ideas/packing for travel JoAnn Poyner — Places and Pleasures Travel Agency
- Salad Luncheon
- Style Show — Participants of the February Blazer Construction Workshop will model their garments, plus a travel wardrobe.

Please make reservations by April 6 at the County Extension Office, (basement of the Courthouse) or write Box 790, Big Spring, Texas. Make checks payable to "Women's Seminar." Admission is $6, this includes luncheon and all supplies.

The seminar is an educational program sponsored by the Howard County Family Living Committee and Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

Dear Abby

Wife suspects husband

DEAR ABBY: I am 30 years old. My husband is 34. We've been married for six years. My husband's job requires him to travel occasionally.

A few days after his last trip he asked me if I had written on the bottoms of his shoes! I said no. After carefully studying the fading writing, I deciphered it to read, "Ed was here and enjoyed every minute of it." I couldn't read the rest of it very well, but made this out: "I'll never forget the fun we had slam dancing at The Mission. Thanks for the memories. Love always, Maurice."

My husband swears up and down he doesn't know how the writing got there. I maintain that shoes are either on one's feet or in the closet. I also called long-distance to the city where my husband had been, and there is a lounge named The Mission. Also, the writing was on the instep where it would not be apt to wear off like it would if it were written on the ball of the shoe.

What do you think? Should I be suspicious?

SUSPICIOUS
DEAR SUSPICIOUS: You say your husband asked you if you had written on the bottoms of his shoes. Had he been guilty of any wrongdoing, he would not have called your attention to it. Write it off as the work of a practical joker.

DEAR ABBY: After about 1,000 attempts, my wife and I finally quit smoking 20 years ago. Much to my sorrow, I recently discovered that she has been smoking behind my back.

Our four grown children are hopelessly hooked on cigarettes, and when they visit us, the house is blue with smoke. I have asked them repeatedly not to smoke in the house, but my requests have been ignored.

I'm on heart medication, but I've never used that fact as an objection to their smoking around me. As a "solution," my wife bought a small air filter gadget, which is about as effective as an eyedropper in a forest fire.

What options can you offer the man of the house?

SMOKE OUT
DEAR SMOKE OUT: Tell your children that you are on heart medication and cannot tolerate smoke in your home. If they ignore your request, show them the door and tell them if they want to see their father, you'll be glad to meet them in a park sometime.

DEAR ABBY: My husband spent many years in prison where he had someone telling him what to do all the time, so I hate to give him any orders, but this is serious.

So far it's been two months since he took a bath or washed his stringy hair, and I just can't take it any longer. He thinks deodorants are for sissies and he really smells bad. He looks awful and has dirt in places that nobody except me sees.

Meanwhile he expects me to have sex with him regularly. I love him, but I'm turned off by him and can't find words to tell him.

I am immaculate myself and bathe regularly — twice a week. Please tell me what to do.

NO WORDS

DEAR NO: Try these words: "Darling I love you, but you smell bad. Please take a bath, if not for yourself, for me."

DEAR ABBY: I believe you erred in approving the use of the title "Dr." on wedding invitations. The use of such titles is appropriate only in a professional context.

Using professional titles in a social context, such as thank-you notes or in wedding invitations, implies a haughty attitude, since there is no other reason to convey information about one's education. I hope you will reconsider.

I happen to be a physician, but since this has nothing to do with my profession, I will sign myself...
VIVIAN WHITE

DEAR VIVIAN WHITE: I agree with you. But neither Amy Vanderbilt nor Emily Post agrees with us.

Dr. Donohue

Funnel chest a common developmental problem

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Recently, I took my 4-month-old son to the doctor for what I thought was a cold. Come to find out he has a birth defect called funnel chest. I would like to know what the medical term for this is, also how dangerous it is. — L.T.

The medical term for funnel chest is pectus excavatum, a somewhat common developmental problem. When found, it's usually the only developmental quirk present. The chest has a sunken appearance from a depression of the breastbone. It becomes a real problem only when the depression is so great that it presses against the heart and lungs. But that is most unusual.

An even rarer complication is a kind of weakening of the cartilages of the breathing tubes, called chondromalacia. When this is present, there is a labored breathing of the kind heard with asthma.

In severe cases of pectus excavatum, surgical correction may be needed, and I'm sure your physician will make a full evaluation of your son's situation and offer suggestions concerning any treatment required.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: About seven years ago my husband stopped smoking, which made me very happy. About two years ago he started chewing tobacco. At first it was only while hunting. But now he has the tobacco in his jaw constantly. A couple of weeks ago I heard on the radio where tests now say it's as dangerous as smoking. I tried to tell my husband about this but he refuses to believe me. If you have any information about it would you please let me know. — M.D.

I don't want to be in a position to endorse either form of tobacco use. I can note that one doesn't get lung disease from chewing, which you do from smoking. But any case for chewing has to end there. You do get nicotine into the blood and you do suffer the same consequences of that — increased heartbeat, increased blood pressure, and narrowing of small arteries. Also, chewing leads to leukoplakia of the mouth, a development of white patches that can become cancerous. Too, chewing presents the burden of bad breath, discolored and worn teeth and gums and decreased taste sensation.

Do you think you can convince your husband to try sugarless chewing gum? People who have tobacco-chewing guests in their home and who don't supply spittons must be constantly on edge, I would think.

Slide show and history of roses presented

Mrs. Archie Adkins presented the history and a slide show of roses and their care at the Rosebud Garden Club meeting at the home of Mrs. L.B. Edwards, Tuesday.

About 114 people attended the District I Spring Convention in Lubbock. The Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs recently planted 6 trees in the parks.

The club will continue to sponsor a high school student entered in the environmental speech contests. An additional $50 will be given to help with travel expenses of the student.

The city is cooperating with the Rosebud Garden Club and establishing the Memorial Rose Garden at Comanche Trail Park.

The club's next meeting will be at the Redi Killowatt Room, April 24.

Hawks hold off Ranger

RANGER — The Howard Hawks made their fourth straight win a wild one here Friday as they beat back a challenge from the Rangers, 11-10 in a critical Region V baseball game.

Howard lost an 8-1 lead in the sixth when Ranger knocked starter Steve Carrasco off the mound with six runs. The Rangers greeted reliever Kevin Sturdy with three runs before Howard's third pitcher, John Wilson came on to shut them down for the final three and two thirds innings.

Wilson, a former Big Spring Steer, went on to claim the win and put his record at 1-2. He faced 11 batters and struckout seven. He did not allow a hit or a walk. Howard backed his trio of hurlers with 10 hits while committing only two errors.

The Hawks scored four runs in the first when Joey Ortiz hit a three run shot that scored Doug Hatch and Bobby Behnch just ahead of the freshman from Stockton, California. Behnch had th inning's other rbi when he brought in Ricky Sustaita. Ranger came back with one with two base hits after a walk.

Howard ripped Ranger pitching for three more runs and a 7-1 lead in the third as Ortiz hit his second shot of the day and fourth homer of the year, bringing in Behnch and Ortiz. Gary Carr doubled and scored the other run when John Friesenhahn, taking over for Sustaita, singled. Sustaita left in the first with a badly bruised hand after being hit by a pitch.

Friesenhahn scored a run in the sixth when a Stephon Hodge base rap was overthrown at first.

Then the roof caved in according to Howard coach Bill Griffin.

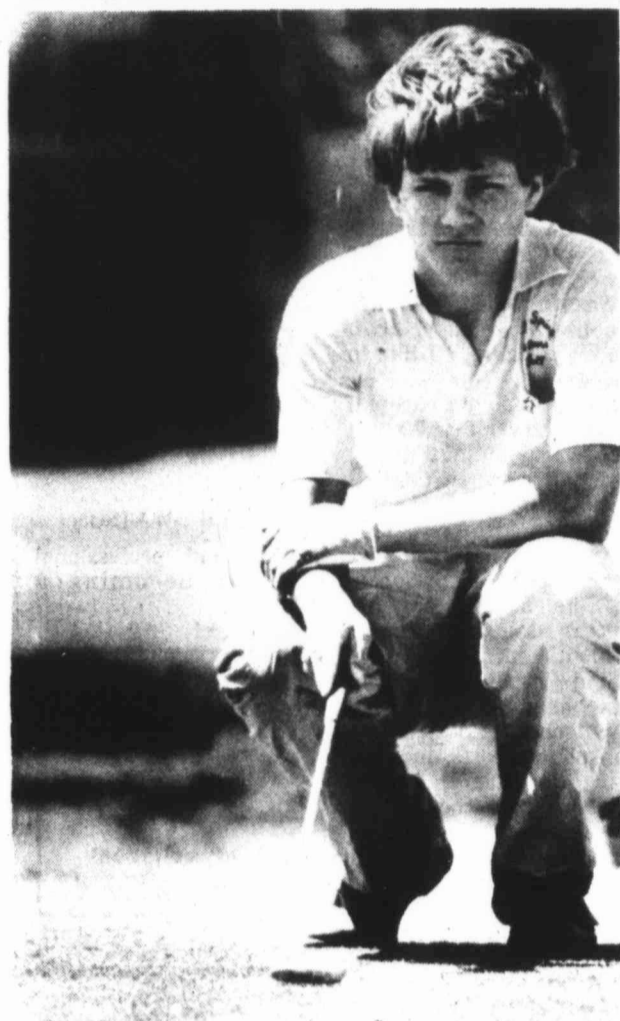

Carrasco had allowed only three hits and Ranger's one run up to the sixth inning. He then "lost control," said Griffin. Ranger reached Carrasco for three hits and he walked three, accounting for six of Ranger's nine runs in the inning.

Sturdy came in and was greeted with a single and double. Wilson entered and struckout two men to get the Hawks out, although Ranger had the lead, 10-8. Wilson struckout five in a row at one point.

Stephon Hodge homered in two runs to tie things in the eighth. Friesenhahn walked, accounting for the run just ahead of Hodge.

Blake Rosson, another ex-Steer, led off the ninth with the Hawks' fourth round tripper of the game to give the Hawks the lead. Wilson kept any rally thoughts far away and Howard ran its Region V record to 6-4 and season slate to 18-11.

Chuck Ashcraft (5-1) will go in the first game of today's scheduled doubleheader. Griffin has not decided on a pitcher for the second game. Game one of the twin-bill starts at 1 p.m.

EYEING THINGS — Sophomore Marc Couch lines up a putt during the 4-AAAAA boy's tournament that stopped in Big Spring Friday. Couch shot a 92, second on the team behind Ronnie Martinez as the Steers shot a 358 to get within one stroke of the Abilene 'B' team. The Steers are in 14th place with two more stops to go.

In 4-5A golf

Steers make up ground

Big Spring golfers remain entrenched in 14th place after the third round of District 4-AAAAA boy's golf action that was completed Friday at the Big Spring Country Club, but the Steers made up four strokes in trying to overtake the Abilene 'B' team.

The Steers went into Friday's event trailing the Eagles by five strokes, 713-708. After the third of five rounds was completed late in the evening, Big Spring had cut the gap to 1,071-1,070. The Steers have a healthy lead over the 15th place Odessa 'B' team which is at 1273.

In the race for individual medalists honors, Midland High's David Pritchett is maintaining a one stroke lead over a Cooper foursome. Pritchett's 147 total gives him the edge against Bob Estes, Ryan Heller, Jeff Foster and Brent Springer who are all at 148.

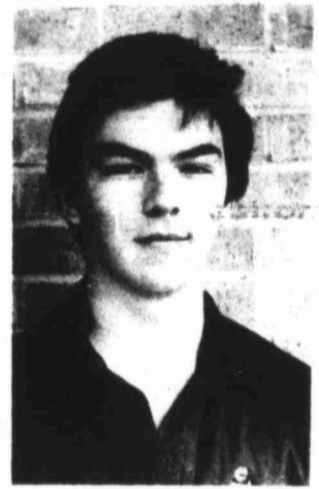

Big Spring's Ronnie Martinez is bunched in a battle for all-district at 155 which is good for a ninth place tie with Robert Butler and Clint Adams of San Angelo and Scott Gilbreath of Cooper. Golfers that finish in the top 10 make all-district.

Helping Martinez attain Big Spring's margin was an 'A' team made up of Marc Couch, Gary Walls, Larry Garcia and Robert Gilbert. The Big Spring 'B' team is composed of Steve Poss, Mitch Griffin, Ryder White and Jimmy Churchwell. Jamie Hernandez, Jeff Reed and Joe Trevino are other squad members.

Both Cooper squads hold healthy leads with the Cougars' 'A' team having a 14 stroke lead of 916 compared to the Cooper 'B' team's 930.

Big Spring coach Howard Stewart, holding a tournament in the city for a fourth time this spring, said "Everyone at the country club and Comanche Trails (where the girls played on Thursday) were very helpful." Noting that only one coach seemed displeased with the courses, Stewart added that the majority of competitors and their players gave Comanche Trails and the country club favorable ratings.

Hagler rolls over Roldan in 10th

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Marvelous Marvin Hagler came back from a surprising first-round knockout to stop challenger Juan Domingo Roldan at 39 seconds of the 10th round and retain his undisputed middleweight title Friday night.

Hagler finished off a half-blinded Roldan with a left-right-left combination that sent the Argentine challenger sprawling to the canvas.

Roldan was up at the count of seven, but referee Tony Perez moved in and stopped the bout.

Roldan, the World Boxing Association's top-ranked challenger, opened the fight by stunning Hagler with a sharp right to the head followed by a left that put the champion down just seconds into the round.

Hagler was right back up and seemed unhurt, but Roldan pressed the attack and landed good shots to Hagler's body and head throughout the round.

Roldan was the aggressor and kept the pressure on Hagler in the early rounds as the champion was able to score with right jabs but was unable to find the mark with any telling combinations.

But Hagler turned the tide in the third round by scoring repeatedly to Roldan's head. A combination midway through the round put the Argentine through the ropes and he was given a standing eight-count.

As Roldan's right eye began to close in the middle rounds, Hagler worked on the eye and a cut on the bridge of his nose. Hagler began scoring almost at will as the half-blinded Roldan swung wildly and tried to hold onto the champion.

But Hagler was unable to finish off Roldan until the 10th round when he landed a flurry of punches early in the round that put Roldan on the canvas in the middle of the ring.

The Argentine sat up and managed to get to his feet at the count of seven, but Perez decided he had enough and moved in to stop the bout.

Roldan knocked Hagler down with a right and a left at the start. Hagler was right up, not appearing hurt. Roldan scored with two shots to the body, plus another right to Hagler's head and a combination. After some counter-punching by Hagler, Roldan landed some hard shots to Hagler's body. Hagler then came back with two jabs and a left to Roldan's head.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julius Erving scored 29 points and Moses Malone and Andrew Toney 22 each as the Philadelphia 76ers beat the Dallas Mavericks 118-110 Friday night in a National Basketball Association game.

Malone also collected 13 rebounds as the 76ers won for the 12th time in their last 14 games.

Mark Aguirre scored 26 and Rolando Blackman 24 for the Mavericks, who lost their third straight on an eastern road trip. Dale Ellis accounted for 21, including 4 three-point field goals in the final period.

The 76ers took the lead early in the first period and never trailed. They led 31-27 after one quarter, 56-48 at halftime and 85-75 after three quarters.

Holland feels key for victory lies in tempo

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Virginia coach Terry Holland says he has the prescription to keep alive the Cavaliers' Cinderella journey through the NCAA basketball tournament.

"Houston is a beatable basketball team," Holland said of Virginia's semifinal opponent Saturday in Seattle. "We have to control the tempo, make sure each shot we get is a good one, make a good percentage of those shots and on defense take away their easy shots."

Holland is confident the Cavaliers, 21-11, will fare better against Houston Saturday than they did on Feb. 18, when the Cougars handed Virginia a 74-65 setback in Houston. Holland admitted his team was outplayed.

"They backed us off and they played so aggressive defensively," he said. "At the end, the only question was could we make a game out of it... it wasn't going to be a matter of us beating Houston."

Virginia underestimated Houston guard Alvin Franklin and forward Michael Young in February's game, according to Holland.

"Franklin is the key to them being a better basketball team this season," Holland said, "and Young literally destroyed us the first game."

Holland said Virginia will "gang up" on Houston center Akeem Olajuwon, who's averaging over 23 points and 13 rebounds per game in NCAA tournament play.

"He's as big as a house and does such a great job establishing position," Holland said of Olajuwon. "It seems like he's trying to do more offensively in NCAA games. We'll try to take away his game."

Saturday's game will mark Houston's third straight appearance in the Final Four. The Cougars will take a 31-4 record to Seattle.

"I think they're a much better basketball team than they were last year," Holland said. "They may not be quite as talented but they're much more patient. They have a perfect blend."

Holland said he's tired of hearing the Cavaliers called the team without Ralph Sampson, who has gone on to the Houston Rockets of the National Basketball Association.

"It bugs me," Holland said. "It's not fair to this year's team and I don't think it's fair to Ralph himself. He taught us how to win and left us a great legacy. He's still here in spirit."

Holland felt Virginia's arrival in Seattle several days before Saturday's game will help the Cavaliers prepare. Virginia was to leave today.

"Hopefully we'll be in our best mental frame of mind on Saturday," he said, adding that the early arrival would enable the team to "get settled in and have a workout at the University of Washington on Thursday. I think that gives us time to get out there and to get settled."

Judge signs order against Colts' move

BALTIMORE (AP) — A City Circuit judge signed a 10-day temporary restraining order Friday afternoon to keep the Baltimore Colts National Football League franchise from moving to Indianapolis.

Judge Robert Karwacki signed the order less than an hour after Mayor William Donald Schaefer signed a condemnation order for the team. The mayor's signature was affixed to the city's eminent domain ordinance almost immediately after it was passed by the council during an emergency meeting at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

The judge's order, which was signed shortly before 4 p.m. Friday, prohibits the team from playing NFL games anywhere but in Baltimore — the city in which the NFL granted the team the right to play.

Ben Brown, the Baltimore City solicitor, has notified Colts' general counsel Michael Chernoff and the Indianapolis city attorney of the restraining order. They will now have 10 days to show in court why the restraining order should be lifted.

The city council quickly approved the eminent domain ordinance Friday after Colts owner Robert Irsay failed to respond to a telegram that offered him $40 million for the franchise before the noon deadline.

The city sent the telegram offering to buy the team Thursday.

Earlier Schaefer had promised city officials he wouldn't "just sit and watch the world go by."

Meanwhile, lawyers for Equitable Trust bank persuaded Judge Thomas Ward Thursday night to put under court control the assets of the Baltimore Football Club and the Colt Center Company, which runs the team's training complex in Owings Mills, Md., as well as the franchise itself and the players' contracts.

Richard P. Kidwell, a lawyer for Equitable, said the football companies owe his client more than $2.3 million on an industrial revenue bond authorized by Baltimore County when the training facility was developed. Kidwell said the action was taken, "because we think they are an absconding debtor. We think they have already moved out all of the equipment from the Baltimore County facility."

Indeed, Mayflower spokesman Don Wilson in Indianapolis said eight of 11 Mayflower vans that left Maryland Wednesday night with Baltimore Colts equipment have arrived in that mid-western city. Wilson said the trucks would be moved by police escort about noon Friday to the Fall Creek Elementary School, which is to become the Colts temporary headquarters and practice facility.

In another development, city officials said while they had received a check from the Colts for the 1983 Memorial Stadium rent, that was not the amount that is owed.

Harold Tall, deputy city solicitor said the Colts actually owe $173,000 dollars. He said he has no plans to cash or deposit the check until he finds out about the remaining $23,000, but will hold onto the check until the matter is clarified.

Player Profile

A junior for the Big Spring Steers baseball team, Sammy Watson holds down the shortstop position.

A 5-8, 140-pound athlete, Watson has been playing organized baseball for seven years. In that time he has played pitcher, third base, catcher and centerfield in addition to this year's duties at short.

Watson said he plays baseball as well as football simply because, "I like to play sports."

Besides being a baseball player and griddier, Watson enjoys bike riding, hiking, camping and swimming. The son of Mary Watson confesses history is his favorite classroom subject at Big Spring High School and he singles out his brother as being the most influential person towards him in terms of his love for athletics.

Watson does not confine himself to sports and studying, however. He is also involved with the Future Homemakers of America at BSHS and professes a flair for acting. He hopes to attend Howard College and begin pursuing a degree in drama upon graduating from high school.

He added that post high school plans hopefully call for playing baseball on the MITCHEM AND SONS — Mitchem Auto Sales at 700 W. Fourth has added a wrecker service to their services. David Mitchem and his sons, David and Ricky, recently passed a city inspection and will be doing towing for the city as well as for area businesses. The company plans to take over Triple AAA wrecking services in the near future.

BROOKS DECORATING — Marae and Jerry Brooks stand in front of the new location for Brooks' Decorating at 114 E. Third. Mrs. Brooks, manager of the decorating shop, said several decorating items are available in the shop. Upholstery services are offered through the shop. Custom drapes can be ordered. Carpet is also offered through the facility. Mrs. Brooks said Brooks Decorating has been in Big Spring for more than a year prior to moving to their new location.

Business briefs

Several business relocated in Big Spring recently and are now open at their new locations.

Brooks' Decorating has moved to 114 E. Third, according to Marae Brooks, manager. She and her husband Jerry operate the decorating center. Meriam Edwards is seamstress and upholsterer.

Brooks' Decorating features decorating items and carpeting, makes custom draperies and upholsters furniture, Mrs. Brooks said. The decorating center has been in Big Spring about a year.

Mr. G's Garden Center and Landscape is hosting their grand opening today in the Highland Mall. The center relocated to Highland Mall after many years on the Gibson's lot.

Bill and Joyce Crooker own Mr. G's. At their new location, Crooker said "We've doubled our sales yard and we have more items" on the lot. At their new location, the Crookers have built a greenhouse which will allow them to more than double their previous selection of indoor plants.

Mr. G's is open from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. During growing season the garden center will be open from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

During their grand opening, Mr. G's will be featuring mums for 49 cents each, and specials on fertilizers and other items, Crooker said.

Mitchem and Sons, located at 700 W. Fourth, has added a 24-hour wrecker service at their used car location.

David P. Mitchem and his sons, David R. and Ricky Ray, plan to take over Triple AAA wrecking services in the near future. They are doing towing for Smith's Transmissions in Sand Springs and for other area businesses, as well as for the city.

Mitchem said his lot at 700 W. Fourth features a secure storage yard and has passed city inspection for city towing jobs.

The facility also has a two-car hauler, Mitchem said.

"We are the only wrecking company in town which also rents cars," Mitchem said.

A money chamber is on display at Highland Mall with more than $1,500 in cash and prizes "up for grabs."

The chamber is the size of an elevator and circulates the swirling bills through a blower system.

Today, the Merchants Association will hold a day long event that centers around a two-hour contest that will allow members of the audience a chance inside the money machine. They will keep all the money that can grab and insert into special boxes attached to the chamber walls.

This morning is set aside for people 18 and under. A bigger show begins at 1 p.m.

MR. G'S — Mr. G's Garden Center and Landscaping has relocated to the Highland Mall and will have grand opening ceremonies today. Pictured above are, from left, Pat Jimenez, Betty Sanchez, Junior Hilario, Alonzo Hilario, Wynfred Hocker, Joyce and Bill Crooker. Mr. and Mrs. Crooker, owners of the center, said larger facilities will allow them to have more merchandise available.
