How's that? What's in the water

Q. What minerals appear naturally in Big Spring water and what's added for treatment purposes?

A. According to City Public Works director Tom Decell, Big Spring water contains calcium, magnesium, sodium, bicarbonate, sulphate, chloride, fluoride, nitrate and other dissolved solids in quantities too minute to mention. Our water is treated with allum to cause visible solids to coagulate and settle out, lime to adjust the water's Ph balance, and chlorine to sterilize it.

Off the wall: Common cents

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — When folks here decided to add their two cents to a fund-raising event, one thing just led to another ad what they ended up with was more than six miles of pennies.

It took members of the Hannibal Early Bird Kiwanis Club and about 200 volunteers almost 12 hours to snake a 6.19-mile train of pennies in an attempt to set a new mark for the Guinness Book of Records.

When they finished Saturday, 523,104 pennies covered the floor of the Hannibal Junior High School gymnasium. They were arranged in 333 rows spaced 2 inches apart.

Mondale wins big in Big Apple

NEW YORK (AP) — New York loved Walter Mondale beyond his fondest expectations, and the former vice president — insisting the Democratic presidential race remains "very even" — is moving on to Pennsylvania with a formidable delegate lead over Sen. Gary Hart.

Mondale won a New York primary landslide, with an 18 percentage point cushion. Equally surprising was Hart's margin over the Rev. Jesse Jackson — 1 percentage point.

"We have been successful; we've run a good campaign," said an exuberant Jackson, declaring: "Hands that picked cotton will now pick a president."

Hart said the race was only half over and predicted he would "come on strong" the rest of the way.

"I'm not taking anything for granted," Mondale said. "I would guess in Pennsylvania we're about even."

The candidates did not tarry after the New York votes were counted. All were heading to Pennsylvania to begin campaigning for the 172 delegates at stake in next Tuesday's primary.

Hart salvaged something from the day with a victory in Wisconsin's non-binding presidential preference vote. Capitalizing on support from independents and cross-over Republicans, Hart captured 46 percent of the vote compared to 42 percent for Mondale. Jackson had 10 percent. Wisconsin Democrats will begin selecting following Mondale's victory in the New York primary. The man at right is unidentified.

Hart takes Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Sen. Gary Hart has won Wisconsin's Democratic presidential preference primary, defeating former Vice President Walter F. Mondale more convincingly than even Hart's supporters had predicted.

The results are not binding. But Hart's campaign officials said his victory would have a psychological impact that will help him in party caucuses on Saturday that will select 89 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in July.

With 99 percent of the votes counted, Hart had 278,293 or 46 percent, Mondale 256,389 or 42 percent, and the Rev. Jesse Jackson 61,240 or 10 percent.

President Reagan, the lone candidate in the Republican party, received 277,431 votes or 95 percent. There were 15,630 "no" votes against Reagan under a law that allows voters to ballot for an uncommitted delegation.

Mondale was backed by Gov. Anthony S. Earl and other party leaders, and is well-known to the state because of the proximity of his native, neighboring Minnesota. Hart may have benefited from votes cast by Republicans.

Coahoma's Best triplets celebrate 6th birthday

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

COAHOMA — As soon as their kindergarten class dismisses today, Jeremiah, Johnathan and James Best will hurry home to celebrate their sixth birthday.

The triplets, sons of John and Holly Best, have blond hair, and today are dressed in red shirts and blue jeans. At first glance, they are carbon copies of one another. They talk animatedly about their kindergarten class at Coahoma and about their birthday plans.

This year their party must wait until they can get home from school.

But that's okay, said Jeremiah. When asked what he thinks about school, he said, "I think I like it." Then, looking at his brothers, he asked, "What about ya'll too?"

Johnathan agreed that school is "pretty good." James said, "We have free time and play time" which makes it even better.

But Jeremiah added, "We learn a lot." Johnathan agreed: "We learn more than we play."

Sending the three boys off to school was hard for Mrs. Best. She was accustomed to having her sons around the house.

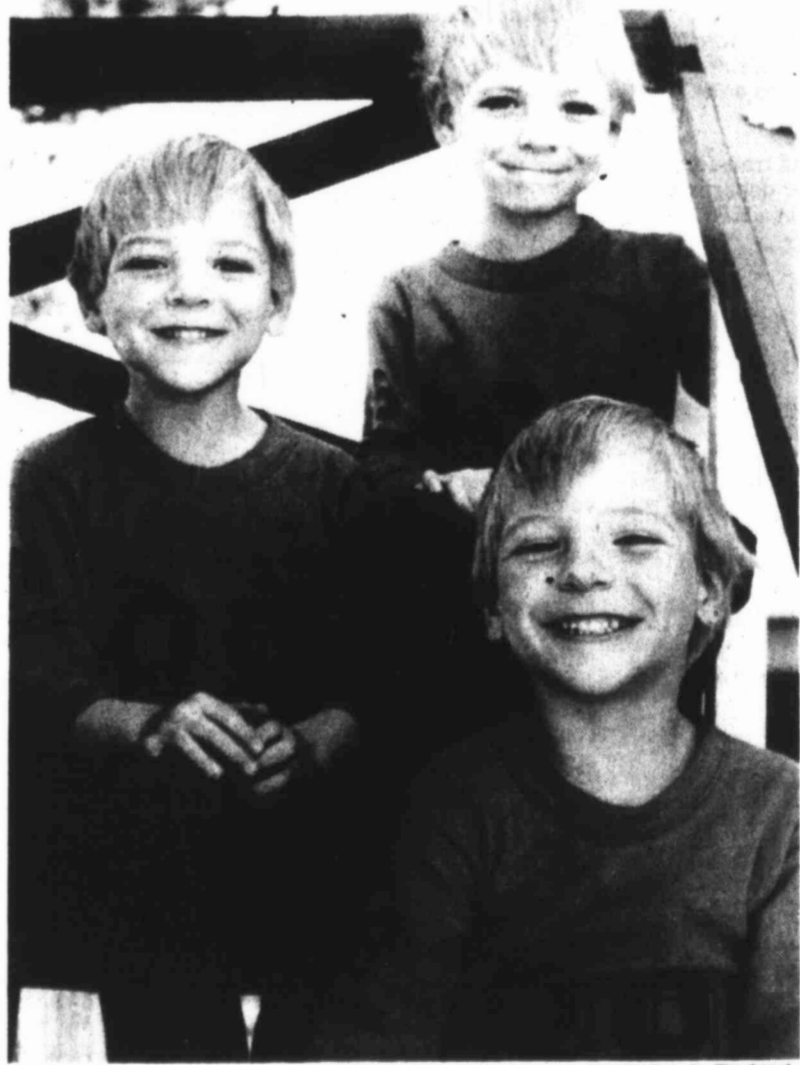

"I miss them," she said. "It was harder after Christmas to send them back. I got used to them being here."

But Mrs. Best is glad the boys are doing well in school and credits their teachers, Linda Dick and Jayne Mitchell, with handling the three boys well.

"Mrs. Dick told me two years ago she'd like to have them in her class. She's done real well with them," Mrs. Best said.

Mrs. Best said the three boys are in separate groups in the same classroom, but they often interpret their lessons in the same way. All three boys cried last fall when they were left at school but now have adjusted to the routine. Their cousin, 10-year-old Jennifer Cooper, sometimes checks up on them to make sure everything is fine. Their mother volunteers at school when needed.

The three already know what they want to be when they grow up. James and Johnathan want to be doctors. Jeremiah said, "I want to work with my daddy at Choate Oil Well Service."

But today, their minds are on their birthday party.

"Maybe, if we're good, we'll get 'Big Foot,'" James said.

The boys have similar tastes in toys and agreed they all want the same thing.

They are planning to invite a few friends and relatives over for their party.

"We're going to have our party right at sweet home," James explained.

Since starting school the three have made many friends but are grateful for each other's company.

"We always have somebody to play with," James said. They named off their other friends, then added, "We like some of them better than others."

Coahoma: suit won't hold water

By JIM BROWN Staff Writer

COAHOMA — The city water department here says a 6-inch water line it's being sued over has been repaired, although the city still believes the line is unnecessary for water service.

The Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1, formed 30 years ago to provide water to this area, filed suit against the city last week, claiming that a reserve water line was in disrepair. Arnulfo Hernandez, assistant wastewater superintendent, said the city repaired the 6-inch water line Monday.

"The break in the line was in the Beal Creek area and hard to get equipment to," Hernandez said.

He said the city took the line out of service over a year ago when the water system was changed.

The 6-inch line is now unnecessary, he said, but was put back in use Monday.

"The line is old and was in constant need of repair when we used it, and before Big Spring replaced its connection line they also had a lot of trouble with their side of the pipe in question," Hernandez said.

He said not using the line would pose no fire or safety hazard, as claimed in the suit.

"When the system was built there were only two fire hydrants included, one at Midway and one at Sand Springs," he said. "When the water from Big Spring is off and we're pumping from the reservoir, we cannot maintain the 40 pounds of pressure recommended by the state. The 6-inch line does not help raise the pressure."

He said the two fire hydrants are inadequate to cover the Midway and Sand Springs area.

"I don't want to make anybody look bad or mad, but the city thought that the problem had been taken care of in February by the Texas Public Utility Commission and a State Supreme Court ruling," he said.

On Feb. 23 the Public Utility Commission released the findings of Administrative Law Judge Angela Marie Derner that states "As to SHRIMPING PROFESSOR — Ben Banks, the 60-year-old director of the Marine Training Program in Key West, Fla., prepares to sail on the Jean M with students learning about commercial fishing and shrimping.

Shrimp school

Old seadog teaches landlubbers how to fish

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Dan Banks, a tattooed, pipe-smoking seadog, has spent most of his life on the sea — what he calls his "own independent planet."

Now, he's teaching others to love the sea and make a living on it.

Banks, 60, is director of The Marine Training Program, a Monroe County-sponsored project that offers classes in commercial shrimping and fishing.

The school, nicknamed the Shrimp School, began in 1977 under a federal grant. It was the School Board's way of offering high school credits to students who might someday carry on one of the city's two main industries. The other is tourism.

"It can make an awful lot of difference to people that aren't going to get to college," said Anita Cosby, a French teacher and part-time accountant for the school, which also offers classes to adults. "And it's (fishing) a wonderful life — people that do it love it."

Banks agrees. "Once you get out in open water ... that's your own independent planet."

The school was built around Banks' abilities, said Ms. Cosby. "That's how the county got interested. It wouldn't have existed had it not been for him."

Banks, known to most in this island town as Cap'n Dan, literally got his start on the water. He was born aboard the ship that carried his Swedish parents to the United States, he said.

The Selverisons, Banks' real last name, left their son with his grandparents in Alaska until they got settled. Banks' grandfather, a retired Swedish navy officer, ran a fleet of salmon boats, giving Banks his first real taste of fishing at age 6.

"It was supposed to be a temporary thing," said the weathered seaman. "But by the time they (his parents) made up their mind to send for me ... I raised so much hell."

Banks came to Key West in 1959 with the U.S. Navy as a hard-hat diving instructor. By the time the county applied for a CETA grant to start the school, Banks had been working on trawling boats "for a number of years." He was the natural choice for the school's primary instructor.

"They had to have someone who knew the difference between an outrigger and a pencil," said Banks.

And "you don't simply go out and catch fish. You gotta know where to go," said Banks, who squints like Popeye since a student accidentally put out an eye with an iron trip hook. "There's a lot of little tricks to any trade."

Participants in the six- to eight-week program, which costs $10 for adults, spend their class time learning the basics of shrimp-fishing and studying a 178-page book Banks wrote.

The real lesson comes aboard the Jean M, when the adults go out for 14-day fishing trips or the younger students head out for the weekend.

"I can teach them to mend nets. I can teach them to build nets. But the actual experience has to come from hands on," said Banks.

Banks and his crew try to give their students the training that's not required by the federal government for commercial fishermen.

"The U.S. doesn't require any kind of license to run a commercial fishing boat," said Banks, adding that other countries do.

But he said people who enter the business with some experience can demand a higher salary than a "greenhorn."

"If you can walk aboard that boat knowing something, you can earn more," he said.

Water

the service outages referred to by Mr. Cagle, they appear to be normal in the usual course of water service, i.e. occasional breaks in water lines. Therefore, as to the corridor area, there is no showing of inadequacy of existing service, other than engineering deficiencies which the record suggest are the fault of the District, and the usual interruption of service problems."

Oscar Cagle is president of the Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1.

The water district suit states that the district owns the transmission lines, but the February court findings state that the actual ownership of the lines is in question and will probably have to be settled in court.

Davis wrote that the two entities should "bury the hatchet and work together to fulfill the needs of the area on a cooperative basis."

The water district's contract expires in 1985, and the rulings state there is no evidence that it will be renewed. The city of Coahoma is seeking alternate sources for water, according to the court document.

The court opinion also found that other than meeting the needs of Coahoma, the water district serves only eight customers.

The dispute began in 1976, in 1981 the state Supreme Court ruled that the District could sell water within the district but only in areas outside the city and areas 200 feet from any point along a city water distribution line.

Hart

in any party's primary regardless of his political affiliation.

An NBC poll said 8 percent of the voters in Wisconsin's Democratic primary were actually Republicans and that 61 percent of them voted for Hart, 17 percent for Mondale and 10 percent for Jackson.

Mondale carried Kenosha, Milwaukee and Racine counties, strong labor districts, but Hart ran ahead in traditionally Republican counties as though GOP voters were crossing over in the absence of any particular need to vote for sole-candidate Reagan.

It was the cross-over voting privilege in Wisconsin's 90-year-old open primary which led the Democratic National Committee to order the state's Democrats to choose delegates in caucuses.

Hart, Mondale and Jackson campaigned little in Wisconsin because the non-binding primary was only a personality contest with less immediate importance than the New York state primary, which Mondale won.

But the three intend to show up this week as Democrats prepare for Saturday's 118 caucuses which mark the start of selection of delegates to the national convention in San Francisco.

Robert H. Frieberg, a state campaign director for Hart, said the victory over Mondale is "a real psychological boost. It ought to translate into caucus votes Saturday."

"We had hoped to come within five percentage points" of a Mondale victory, Frieberg said. "This is a state that Mondale could not afford to lose, being in his own backyard and all."

Primary

delegates in caucuses Saturday.

The rough and tumble New York campaign ended on a bitter note as Hart declared that Mondale "got me down to his level ... He won't do that again."

The Colorado senator attributed his New York defeat to "a full month of very, very negative campaigning by Mr. Mondale ... That can work in the short term. It cannot work in the long term."

Hart's campaign manager, Oliver Henkel, said today on the NBC "Today" show that Mondale is the front-runner. "We're the underdog and that's a position, frankly, that we relish," he said.

New York Democrats gave Mondale a lopsided triumph in the state that will send the second largest delegation to the Democratic convention in San Francisco next July.

With 99 percent of the vote counted, Mondale had 605,080 or 45 percent; Hart 368,767 or 27 percent and Jackson 343,687 or 26 percent.

Mondale won 133 New York delegates compared to 72 for Hart and 47 for Jackson.

With nearly half the committed delegates to the Democratic nominating convention now chosen, Mondale has 861.25, while Hart has 512 and Jackson 140.5. It takes 1,967 to win the nomination.

"I think it will go all the way to the convention," Mondale's campaign manager, James Johnson, said of the New York victory. But "we've got a long race on our hands," he added on CBS-TV's "Morning News."

In Wisconsin, there also was a Republican primary, with voters facing the alternative of voting "yes" or "no" for President Reagan. "Reagan Yes" won 95 percent of the vote.

New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, who put his political operation to work for Mondale and headed a powerful coalition of public and union officials, said, "It's going to be much more difficult from here on in for Senator Hart."

A large black turnout gave Jackson one-third of the vote in New York City and just over a quarter of the statewide total.

"New York City politics will never be the same, never again," Jackson told supporters after the strong showing of what he called his "Rainbow Express."

"I will remain the conscience of the campaign, keep lifting the issues that impact upon the poor and keep dealing with issues of peace and draw them further into a more progressive direction."

Absentee vote termed 'light'

Absentee balloting for city council races in Districts 1 and 3 closed at 5 p.m. yesterday with a total of 45 ballots cast for the two elections.

In District 3, 38 residents cast their ballots for one of the four candidates running in the race. Seven District 1 residents cast ballots for one of three candidates in that race.

City Secretary Tom Ferguson called the 45-person absentee turnout "very light compared to past years," but added that one-third of the city is ineligible to vote in the election. "That could be a factor," he said.

Absentee voting for local school board elections ran from "rather light" to "normal" according to County Clerk Margaret Ray.

Tuesday was the last day to vote absentee. Mrs. Ray said 20 absentee votes were cast for the Big Spring Independent School District board District 1. Six additional ballots have been mailed and one returned. Voters have until Saturday to mail back their ballots.

For the District 3 race, 42 votes have been cast in her office. Fourteen ballots have been mailed out and 7 returned.

For the Howard County Junior College District trustees race, 114 absentee votes were recorded. Thirty-five additional ballots have been mailed with 14 people mailing back those votes.

Voting registration deadline tomorrow

Tomorrow is the deadline for registering to vote in the upcoming May 5 primaries, County Tax Assessor Dorothy Moore said today.

Those wishing to register should do so in Mrs. Moore's office at the Howard County Courthouse before 5 p.m. tomorrow. They may also register with one of many of the many volunteer deputies in the community or mail in their registration forms before midnight tomorrow, Mrs. Moore said.

Mrs. Moore added that she would like to remind volunteer deputies to turn in their registration forms as soon as possible on April 6.

Assault case goes to court

A 26-year-old Big Spring man will be tried at 1:30 p.m. today in 118th District Court for the June 26, 1983 aggravated assault on another man.

Raul Flores, who remains in custody in the county jail, is accused of assaulting Clarence Friday with a knife.

Flores' brother, 19-year-old Antonio P. Flores, has been transferred back to county jail on a bench warrant to testify in his brother's behalf.

The younger Flores had been sentenced to five years in prison on an aggravated assault charge.

Ball survives henna crisis

NEW YORK — What has been the greatest crisis of comedian Lucille Ball's later years? Fear of outliving her henna.

Miss Ball, in New York Tuesday for the opening of an exhibition of her work at the Museum of Broadcasting, said that early in her career she imported from Egypt 50 pounds of henna, a dye which gave her hair its distinctive brilliant red tint.

A few years ago, she said, she looked in her closet and found only two boxes left.

"I said to myself, my God, I'm outliving my henna."

When her plight became known, a man from Jordan appeared in California, carrying by hand from halfway across the world 55 pounds of Egyptian henna, "the real stuff, the stuff Cleopatra used," Miss Ball said.

He later sent another 55 pounds, ending her henna crisis, she said.

More than 70 hours of the 73-year-old actress's comedy programs are being shown in the exhibition, which will run until mid-September.

Robert M. Batscha, president of the museum, said the collection shows the "dazzling role" Miss Ball played in the history of broadcasting with her "radiance, her shrewd perception of human folly, her exquisite timing, her divine madness."

GLASTONBURY, England — Guess what Princess Diana, one of the world's most photographed women, has for a hobby? Photography.

And the 22-year-old princess says she prefers black and white pictures to color because they show more detail.

Diana gave her views Tuesday during a 90-minute tour of a youth training project in this southwest England city.

The princess, who is expecting her second child, told a trainee photographer that the "best time" to snap children is in the morning.

"She told me it was the best time to catch them in the mood," 16-year-old Madeleine Purse later told reporters.

Prince Andrew, Diana's brother-in-law, also is a camera buff and said he is hoping to take pictures during a visit later this week to the remote South Atlantic island of St. Helena.

The 24-year-old Royal Navy helicopter pilot is sailing south from Ascension Island on the survey ship HMS Herald, due to arrive off St. Helena on Thursday to mark the 150th anniversary of the tiny island becoming a British colony.

Tornado benefit in works

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Country music singer Hank Snow is hoping for a full house — twice — when he holds two benefit concerts to raise funds for tornado victims in the Carolinas.

The 69-year-old Snow, a member of the Country Music Hall of Fame, will be the featured performer at the concerts Sunday at East Carolina University in Greenville, N.C.

"I think we've got a good show for them," Snow said Tuesday. "Hopefully, we can fill it (the 6,500-seat coliseum) twice."

Joining Snow, whose hits include "I'm Moving On," and "I Don't Hurt Anymore," will be fellow Grand Ole Opry star Charlie Walker, Snow's three-piece band and other country and gospel performers. Admission is $5.

Flares shot at U.S. ship

WASHINGTON — A U.S. Navy delegation will go to Moscow next month for discussions with Soviet admirals aimed at limiting the likelihood of explosive confrontations when their warships meet on the high seas.

In the third U.S.-Soviet naval incident in the past five months, the 37,000-ton Soviet carrier Minsk on Monday fired eight signal flares at the 3,900-ton U.S. frigate Harold Holt in the South China Sea.

The flares hit the Holt, but did not cause structural damage to the frigate or injuries to its crew, said Defense Department officials who spoke on condition that they not be identified.

The meeting in May has been scheduled for some time under a 1972 U.S.-Soviet agreement intended to end naval confrontations between the two countries. Under that accord, senior U.S. and Soviet naval officers meet every year, alternating between Washington and Moscow, in a process that Navy Secretary John Lehman said last June had worked "very successfully" in reducing incidents around the world.

The Navy officially said little about the latest incident, which occurred in daylight Monday.

It confirmed only that the Minsk, one of the Soviet Union's most powerful warships, fired eight signal flares, three of which hit the Holt. A brief Navy statement said there was no damage to the hull and no injuries to the Holt's crew.

Pentagon sources said one flare narrowly missed the Holt's captain as he stood on the port wing of his bridge.

At the time, the Soviet carrier was dead in the water and the Holt passed about 300 yards to starboard before the Minsk fired the signal flares at the frigate, the officials said.

While Navy authorities deplored the Minsk's action as "uncalled for," other sources acknowledged that the Holt had been shadowing the Minsk.

Junta urges free speech

DAKAR, Senegal — A day after their successful coup, Guinea's new military leaders issued a policy statement today saying they will encourage free speech and free enterprise in their impoverished West African country.

The self-declared Military Redemption Committee took over the country of 5.5 million people Tuesday, reportedly without bloodshed. State-run Radio Conakry in the Guinean capital said Col. Lansana Konte was head of the 15-member committee, composed of middle-echelon officers.

Independent reports from Conakry said the city was calm today, with markets and schools open and no sign of expanded military presence. Telecommunication service was restored, but airports and borders remained closed.

Residents were reported to have welcomed the military takeover.

The new leaders, in a 10-point policy statement broadcast by Radio Conakry and monitored in Senegal, said they will adhere to the charter of the United Nations, the Organization of African Unity and the Nonaligned Movement, and to the treaties Guinea has signed since independence from France in 1958.

The statement also pledged reforms "necessary for the framework of encouraging free enterprise."

The junta declared its "total support for national liberation movements in Africa, the Middle East and the world."

It also said it would respect rights of free speech and movement and encourage equal job opportunities.

Furious storm pummels East

A furious spring storm spread across the East today after hurling two dozen tornadoes at the Mississippi Valley and pouring more than 6 inches of rain on parts of Florida.

In Colorado, 45-mph winds hampered efforts to clear snow-clogged highways.

For the second time in less than a month, twisters tore through northeast Arkansas on Tuesday, striking 12 communities. About a dozen homes were destroyed, and a church near Bowman was reduced to rubble.

Tornadoes also touched down in Missouri and Illinois, where the tops were torn off a church and a house, the National Weather Service said. No injuries were reported.

The weather service warned of flash flooding in Florida today after 6.5 inches of rain soaked Apalachicola. The Suwannee River was out of its banks from its source in the Okefenokee Swamp in Georgia to the Gulf of Mexico, officials said.

A flash flood watch was also issued for southern Georgia and water was reported across many roads in central Thomas County.

Heavy rain also spread from the Carolinas to southern New England.

Colorado authorities meanwhile said they have accounted for all motorists missing during a near-blizzard that dumped up to 15 inches of snow on the eastern part of the state Tuesday. But Interstate 70 and 12 other major highways in the east-central part of the state remained closed as winds hindered clearing away 6-foot snowdrifts.

More than a dozen tornadoes slammed into Missouri on Tuesday, the weather service said, most of them darting around the towns of Senath, Cardwell, Honersville and Arbyrd in the state's boot heel.

Authorities in O'Fallon, Ill., said a twister ripped the roof off a house there. And the weather service reported hail the size of tennis balls near Vernon, Ill.

Flash flood warnings remained in effect today for northeast Florida and parts of the Panhandle. On Tuesday, torrential rains driven by 60 mph winds ripped through that area, knocking out electricity for at least part of the night to 30,000 customers in the Gainesville area.

Rebel may be ambassador

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Nora Astorga would be one of the more unusual ambassadors in Washington, if the Reagan administration accepts her. She is a dedicated Sandinista revolutionary who was involved in the killing of Nicaraguan general in her bedroom.

Her father, head of a well-to-do family in the northeastern province of Chontales, was a general in Nicaragua's national guard under Anastasio Somoza Garcia, the first in the Somoza family dynasty that ruled the country for 42 years before being overthrown by the Sandinistas in 1979.

Gen. Reynaldo Perez Vega, the man found slain in her bedroom March 8, 1978, served under the last of the dynasty, Anastasio Somoza Debayle.

Educated in Roman Catholic schools with other wealthy Nicaraguan girls, Ms. Astorga, now 37, graduated from law school at the Jesuit-run University of Central America in Managua. Later, doing charity work with the nuns, she has said, she "became aware of the poverty and injustice" and decided to join the Sandinistas in 1969.

Perez Vega became attracted to the elegant Ms. Astorga, who was then divorced and a legal consultant for a construction firm.

The original plan, Ms. Astorga has said, was to kidnap Perez Vega and exchange him for 59 prisoners, including several prominent Sandinistas. They included Tomas Borge, now interior minister; Daniel Ortega, coordinator of the governing Sandinista junta, and Lenin Cerna, head of state security. She invited Perez Vega to her home in a middle-class residential neighborhood in southeastern Managua.

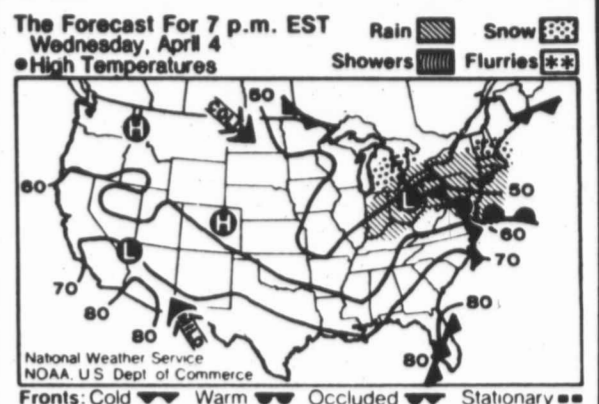

"Perez Vega, who was considered a womanizer, accepted my invitation but, according to the plan, five friends already were hidden in different rooms," she once told reporters. "When he arrived he wanted to go directly to what he had come for and we went to my room, where I disarmed him. Then my friends came out and tried to dominate him, but he was a strong man and resisted, so they had to kill him."

Ms. Astorga went into the mountains of northern Nicaragua where the Sandinistas began to deal strong blows to the national guard. She then was taken secretly to Costa Rica and went to the southern front, where she joined the forces of Sandinista commander Eden Pastora.

Wind gusts buffet state

Wind gusts clocked at up to 40 mph at Amarillo on Monday were kicking up dust across the Panhandle, as a strong low-pressure system in eastern Kansas drew very dry, northwesterly winds into Texas.

Only the Panhandle experienced the strong gusts. Wind speeds across the rest of the state ranged from 10 to 20 mph, the National Weather Service said.

And only the Panhandle had cloudy skies. The rest of the state was sunny, the weather service said.

Monday afternoon temperatures ranged from the upper 80s and lower 90s in the lower Rio Grande Valley, to the upper 40s in the Panhandle.

Temperatures in the Trans Pecos and North Texas were in the 60s. The rest of the state reported highs in the 70s and 80s.

Galveston broke a record Monday afternoon with a reading of 84 degrees. The old record was 82 degrees set in 1965.

Overnight lows were expected to range from near 30 in the Panhandle to the 50s in South Texas.

Wednesday was expected to again be sunny and mild for most of the state, with highs ranging from the 80s in the south to near 60 in the Panhandle.

Thunderstorms persisted across parts of Illinois and Indiana today as heavy rains continued to drench parts of northern Florida and southern Georgia.

Thunderstorms spawned more than two dozen tornadoes across the Mississippi Valley on Tuesday, with several hitting northeast Arkansas, where 12 communities suffered property damage. No serious injuries were reported.

Golfball-sized hail was common around the St. Louis area and into southern Illinois, where several tornadoes also touched down.

Meanwhile, 45 mph winds hampered efforts to dig Colorado out of 15 inches of snow that piled up Tuesday, closing highways and stranding travelers.

Local symphony a pride builder

Ahh, the sweet, subtle sounds of symphony. Its beauty is not new to Big Spring. What is new this year will be the impetus of symphony. It will be our symphony.

For the first time in its four-year history, the Big Spring Symphony Association has assembled its own orchestra rather than inviting another city's symphony to play here. The performance is Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Big Spring High School Auditorium.

Thirty-five musicians from the West Texas-New Mexico have been tapped to play under the direction of well-known conductor Marianna Gabbi. Big Spring cellist Sam Woodward will perform "Cant dell Ocelli" ("Song of the Birds") by Casals as the second half opening.

The concert is dedicated to the memory of Bill Bradley, who exerted considerable influence over school age musicians before his death this year.

The symphony performance is an important milestone in cultural affairs here. It is founded in community pride and a belief that Big Spring can sustain a local symphony. We think it can, as do the hard-working members of the association. Tickets are a modest $7.50 for adults, on sale at the Chamber of Commerce and other outlets.

Jury's out

The jury's out. Prospective jurors Monday were to lunch, at work, or at home watching the soaps. Wherever the 19 missing jurors may have been, they weren't in the district courtroom with the rest of the 140-person panel.

In exasperation, the district court judge sent the sheriff's office to arrest them and bring them to court to perform their civic duty.

Amazingly, it only took a handful of arrests for the jurors to start pouring into the courthouse.

But citizens called to jury duty should show up out of more than fear of stiff penalties that could be levied against them for contempt of court.

And they should show up for jury duty because of more than civic pride, though that also is important.

Who suffers when a person doesn't report to jury duty? All of us.

There are plenty of excuses for not showing up. The employees in the district clerk's office know most, if not all, of them. There's the man who figures out what case the jury will try, and calls up to say he's related to a defendant or a witness.

And there are the out-of-town business trips that coincidentally include not only the date the jury's picked, but the date of the trial a few days later. How many week-long trips can you make to Sterling City?

Think about it. All the times you've clutched at every possible excuse to get out of jury duty, you are simply robbing yourselves.

Many people pride themselves on voting. If you don't take advantage of the opportunity to vote or voice your opinions on the local issues and candidates, your gripes begin to appear to be a big, white fluffy bun without the beef.

What's my beef? It's simple. One of the most important local political choices you'll make in the next four years will be in the race for district attorney in the Democratic primary.

But your vote won't mean much if you don't exercise your right to change the criminal justice system in another important way.

If you'd served as a juror during a recent trial, you wouldn't have to gripe about the "easy sentences" juries give to criminals here.

You could have held out for a longer sentence. Or you could have given the defendant a reduced punishment or acquitted him.

If you are a minority, you could have forced the prosecution for the state to allow you to be represented.

Like prosecutors everywhere, the local district and county attorney's offices will try to exclude minorities from the juries because minorities tend to believe the defendant more often.

If all the minorities on a jury panel show up for duty, the chances increase greatly that the prosecution will have to leave some minority members on the jury. The attorneys will have to use up their limited number of strikes, or ability to remove a person from the jury for no stated reason.

Voting is an important part of participating in community affairs. So is serving on a jury.

The rope's too good for rustlers

WASHINGTON — Cattle rustling was a hanging offense in the Old West. But modern-day cattle ranchers think nothing of a more polite and profitable form of rustling: leasing government grazing land at bargain-basement prices, then renting it to other cattlemen at 10 times that rate.

What makes this rip-off of the taxpayers truly outrageous is that it's perfectly legal. Here's how it works:

The Bureau of Land Management leases millions of acres of public land to cattle ranchers at a price called "animal unit month." This is the price per month per critter, set by the government. Half the revenue is spent on upkeep and improvements, such as construction of wells and fences.

Judging by the lease rates charged for private grazing land, the Bureau of Land Management could be charging $10 to $15 per month per head of cattle. Yet not long ago, the government actually lowered its AUM from $1.50 to $1.37 per head.

This is an incredible bargain for cattlemen lucky enough to get a government grazing lease. Few are averse to cashing in on their good fortune: They turn around and sublet their rights at the going rate for private land.

A recent advertisement in a Wyoming newspaper, for example, read: "Wanted: 300 cows...will turn out on my rights on good BLM summer range...$15 per month...will negotiate." Though the ad didn't specify, everyone knows that the $15 is the rate per animal.

Why doesn't the Bureau of Land Management crack down on this absurd giveaway of public land use? It can't. Its regulations, hallowed by tradition and sanctioned by Congress, say only that a rancher who holds a grazing permit on federal land must "own or control" the livestock that use it.

All the leaseholder has to do is claim "control" over the cattle that feed on his government-leased land. In fact, the herds typically belong to other ranchers and are driven up from states like Texas to graze during the summer. The leaseholder makes enough in those months to cover his annual payment to Uncle Sam — and pocket a hefty profit.

"We don't encourage it, but we can't stop it," a spokesman for the Bureau of Land Management said of the subletting arrangement. He admitted a bit ruefully that the practice is illegal on land controlled by the Forest Service — a branch of the Agriculture Department. BLM is part of the Interior Department.

About 20,400 ranchers lease federal land. How many sublet it at the much higher market price? A BLM official in the West told my associate John Dillon that the bureau hasn't researched the matter — the number might prove embarrassing. But he said a reasonable guess is that half the ranchers who lease public land sublet it at one time or another.

Other sources set the estimate higher. Those leaseholders, who graze their own cattle on government land, save a bundle that they would otherwise have to pay. The losers, of course, are the taxpayers.

The chief argument in favor of this huge subsidy to cattle ranchers is that it keeps them in business and — theoretically — holds down the price of beef. But a recent study showed that only 3 percent of beef cattle are raised on public ranges. The vast bulk of the beef you buy comes from cattle that are fattened up on grain in feedlots or raised on private ranges. The BLM is considering a restructuring of the AUM when the formula expires next year. But don't hold your breath: The head of the bureau, Robert Burford, is a rancher himself.

"It's tradition," explains the BLM source. "Everybody knows they do it. Ranchers know we know they do it. But if you're a prominent rancher in this area, you can do anything you please, and we'll make it legal after the fact."

SOVIET SLAVES: U.S. officials have received additional information on slave labor in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe. The latest victims are Vietnamese workers.

Federal death penalty resurrected

WASHINGTON — The death penalty was a hot issue — maybe the hot issue — 20 years ago. But hardly anybody even noticed the other day when the Senate by a 2-to-1 majority approved a law that would restore capital punishment in federal cases.

In the interim there occurred a confused adjustment among public opinion, the courts and the political authorities. Thanks to that blurring progress has been realized in this country, and the social climate is now benign.

A sharp challenge to the death penalty, as to almost everything else in American life, was advanced by the rebels of the 1960s. They charged that execution was barbarous in general, and that, in many cases, it flowed from race prejudice.

A large number of Americans rallied to the cause. Toward the end of the decade public opinion polls registered, for the first time, a slight majority opposed to the death penalty. While opinion was almost equally divided, the political authorities played it safe. Between 1966 and 1972, no death penalties were carried out in the United States. In one way or another, they were all commuted or delayed by parole boards or governors.

In 1972, the Supreme Court took up the cudgels for "enlightenment." In a landmark case, Furman v. Georgia, the court invalidated the death sentence in both state and federal courts. The grounds of the decision were sweeping — namely, that without specific legislative guidelines, the death penalty was automatically an arbitrary punishment. The vote was 5-to-4, with Justice Potter Stewart providing the deciding opinion. The minority included Chief Justice Warren Burger, and Justices Harry Blackmun, Lewis Powell and William Rehnquist.

That decision gave conservatives favoring the death penalty an easy target. In state after state, legislatures rushed to pass laws. In all, 38 states went down that road. As crimes were committed and sentences passed, the issue worked its way up through the courts. Still, from 1972 through 1976, no cases reached the Supreme Court, and no executions took place.

During this interim period, argument took on a bitter, almost hysterical tone. Liberals opposed to the death penalty piled on top of the usual arguments the charge that any retreat would result in a "blood bath" as several hundred persons, whose execution had been checked, went to the death chambers en masse.

Proponents, on the other hand, used the death penalty as a salient symbol of protest against coddling of criminals, and permissiveness in general. Violence would go unchecked and crime prosper, it was argued, unless capital punishment was swiftly restored. The symbolism so outran the realities that an obscure congressman used the issue to attain a highly visible office with no responsibility for punishing crime. Edward Koch, in other words, became mayor of New York.

Statutes specifically authorizing the death penalty began to come before the Supreme Court in 1976. For the next five years, the Court stuck to its guns — using various procedural arguments to invalidate specific sentences. Thus a judgment in an Ohio case was thrown out on the grounds the lower courts had not given sufficient consideration to mitigating factors before invoking the death penalty. An Alabama ruling was invalidated on grounds that the jury was not given an opportunity to find that the crime was not premeditated. A Georgia verdict was overturned because there had been insufficient attention to the "heinousness" of the crime.

The logic jam was broken by a change in the court. In the summer of 1981, Justice Stewart retired. President Reagan appointed Sandra Day O'Connor in his stead. Mrs. O'Connor is not against the death penalty on general principle or on narrow procedural grounds. She thus joins the old minority of Burger, Blackmun, Powell and Rehnquist to make a majority for the death penalty. In four recent cases, the court has declined to interpose procedural objections to capital punishment. The death penalty is now being applied.

But over the years the arguments for and against have lost their force. Crime goes on pretty much as before. While the death penalty may be a deterrent, nobody can seriously argue that it makes a violent society into a paradise of law and order.

But neither has there been a blood bath. Over the years American society has come to accept the humane views that inspired the opposition to capital punishment. Since 1976, only 12 persons have been executed in this country — several of them by their own choice.

What all this means is that the messy process of adjustment works. Even the presidential elections seem unlikely to force confrontation on the social issues this year. And we should all be grateful. For when ideological differences are blurred, there is a gain for tolerance.

Billy Graham

Take high road to get off deadend

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: For years I have been wandering aimlessly through a maze of drugs, alcohol, and sex, trying to find happiness in any way I could. I feel like an empty shell, because I know now I have been on the wrong road. Is there a right road in life, or are we all destined to be empty and unhappy? — M.R.

DEAR M.R.: No, life does not need to be empty and unhappy, because there is a right road. It is God's road, and my sincere prayer for you is that you would find it and commit yourself to it. So far you have been on the wrong road, and Jesus warned, "Wide is the gate and broad is the road that leads to destruction, and many enter through it" (Matthew 7:13).

How can you discover that right road? First of all, realize that God loves you, and he has a purpose for your life. God did not put you here so that you would wander through life without purpose, just seeking to find a new thrill or a new pleasure every day. God put you here so that you could know him in a personal way, and so you could follow him.

Then realize that God has made it possible for you to come to him, in spite of your sins and your neglect of him. Yes, God wants you to be on the right path, and he has given that path to us in Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ came for one supreme reason: to take away our sins and reconcile us to God. "For Christ died for sins once for all, the righteous for the unrighteous, to bring you to God" (1 Peter 3:18).

Realize also that God now offers you salvation — both eternal life in Heaven, and the joy of new life right now — as a free gift. All you have to do is reach out in faith and accept Christ into your life as your Savior and Lord. You may not understand everything — but all you need to know is that Christ has promised, "Whoever comes to me I will never drive away" (John 6:37). Confess your sins to God, then ask Christ to come into your life and tell him you want to walk the path of life with him.

You are on a deadend road right now, and I am thankful you are realizing that. Don't stay on it. Instead, turn right now to Christ by faith, and you will begin to realize what Jesus meant when he promised, "I have come that they may have life, and have it to the full" (John 10:10).

A meeting of those interested in tenant-landlord relations and legal rights will be held Saturday at noon at the Brandin' Iron.

Representatives from the Attorney General's office, the U.S. Justice Department, the West Texas Aid Society, and the local and regional NAACP will discuss issues and answer questions. City, county and chamber officials will also attend.

The general public is invited to the lunch and meeting to follow. For reservations or information call Dock Voorhies, 263-7361.

DID YOU KNOW...

...that a meeting was held today to get things rolling for Howard County's participation in the Texas Sesquicentennial in 1985.

...that the District Highway Engineer was here today to discuss a Highway 87 loop around the city and a four-lane highway from Big Spring to Sterling City. This will have to be presented to officials in Austin during the summer for final consideration.

...that a special meeting was held yesterday with Lewis Gray from the Private Industry Council of the Regional Planning Commission to discuss the new job training partnership act which is the new federal program replacing CETA. It's a good program to receive funds to help train new employees. Check it out by calling the local office, 263-8373.

...that we have written the Johnny Carson show asking the scheduling director to consider inviting His Children to appear on the Johnny Carson Show between July 31 - Aug. 2 when the group, led by Joe Whitten, will be doing musical concerts on a federal prison tour in the Western States.

...that the Howard County Public Library has received a special television from the National Captioning Institute for use by deaf people. Librarian Judith Gray is also looking into the purchase of a recorder with decoder which will lead to establishing a loan library of video cassette programs for both deaf and hearing.

...that Eleanor Hemphill retired last week after 29 years of federal service with the VA hospital.

...that the Caprock Chapter of the March of Dimes will be holding the annual Walk America on April 28 at 8:30 a.m. at the Big Spring Mall. Join the throng to fight birth defects.

...that Johnny Hatch, currently a sophomore at Texas A&M, was just elected to the 1984-85 A&M Student Senate.

...that Ritchie Priddy is one of the finalists being considered for the summer internship program in Congressman Charles Stenholm's Washington office. Ritchie is a graduate of Big Spring High, Howard College and is now an advanced student at Texas Tech.

...that a commercial bus costs $180,000. Jim Owens, Greyhound Bus Co. manager since 1956, reports this tidbit. He employs four people who handle passengers and freight 24 hours a day at the Big Spring terminal. It's interesting the 60 percent of the business is through freight shipping and 40 percent is passenger revenue.

...that "Statistical Abstract of United States 1984" is now available. It's the national yearbook...loaded with facts about the U.S., our people and where we live, businesses, schools, government finances, etc. Fun to browse through...and it might even be helpful in your business.

If you want to buy a copy, send $19 to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. Mention S/N 003-024-05839-1.

...Texas is thriving...DESPITE troubles in the oil and gas business. Money from the Pentagon keeps rolling in...for bases, planes and weapons. And the influx of new people and new high-tech firms never seems to end.

Another chapter in a story unfolds as Mary and George Leatham had their grand opening last week of the new home of G&M Garage at 900 East Third. Ten years ago George finished his tour of duty at Webb Air Force Base and made Big Spring his permanent home by opening his first garage. Six years later he leased a bigger shop where he stayed four years before building his own modern shop that specializes in general automotive repair, tuneups and maintenance. With four employees and his wife as partner and office manager, they are demonstrating confidence in Big Spring's future.

Search intensified for missing women

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The abduction of a young model has intensified a West Coast search for an Australian race car driver who is charged in the kidnapping of a Florida college student and is a "prime fugitive" sought in the disappearance of five other women.

Shortly before Michelle Korfman, 17, vanished Sunday following a fashion show at a Las Vegas shopping mall she was seen with a man matching the description of race car driver Christopher B. Wilder, FBI spokesman Bill Jansen said Tuesday.

Wilder, 39, was named in a federal warrant last month charging him with kidnapping a 19-year-old student from a mall in Tallahassee, Fla.

JOE CORLESS

The woman told police that she was beaten, raped, shocked with electrodes and had glue poured in her eyes before she managed to escape.

Wilder is wanted in connection with the other five disappearances in Florida, Texas and Colorado, said Joseph B. Corless, FBI special agent in Miami coordinating the nationwide manhunt.

The racing driver failed to turn up for a scheduled to appear in court Tuesday in Sydney, Australia, in connection with the kidnap-assault of two 15-year-old girls, authorities said.

"We are looking for Wilder as a prime fugitive," Corless said Tuesday, adding that the Australian may be listed on the FBI's Ten Most Wanted list.

The search is focusing on the West Coast, Corless said.

A link between Wilder and the apparent abduction of Ms. Korfman was being investigated because he had previously attempted to lure young models at mall fashion shows with him, claiming he would photograph them for a magazine, Jansen said.

Ms. Korfman's car was found abandoned Tuesday morning in the parking lot of the Caesars Palace resort. Wilder is also wanted by the FBI for questioning in the disappearances of:

—Rosario Gonzalez, 20, a part-time model last seen at the Miami Grand Prix Feb. 26, a race Wilder competed in and won $400. Ms. Gonzalez's fiancé said the young woman once posed for Wilder, an amateur photographer.

—Beth Kenyon, 23, another part-time model who disappeared from Coral Gables, Fla., March 3. She was last seen with Wilder at a service station there, police said.

—Teresa Ferguson, 21, who dreamed of becoming a model, disappeared March 18 during an afternoon shopping trip. Her beaten and strangled body was found March 21 floating in a creek north of Haines City, Fla., Polk County Sheriff's authorities said.

—Terry Walden, 23, who disappeared in Beaumont, Texas, March 23. Her body was discovered three days later, Corless said.

South Texas county has very high diabetes rate

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The high rate of diabetes in Texas' Starr County — four times the national average — helps bolster the theory that Mexican-Americans are much more susceptible to the blood-sugar disorder, a researcher says.

Hispanics make up 97 percent of the population of Starr County, which is in South Texas.

Gloria Jo Floyd, former program director for community health education at the University of Texas Health Science Center, said a federally funded study of the county bolsters the link that researchers are probing between Mexican-Americans and diabetes.

Seventeen percent of the county's middle-aged residents suffer from the disease, four times above the national average.

In Bexar County, which includes San Antonio, an estimated 50,000 residents are afflicted with the blood-sugar disorder, she said.

"I think 50,000 in our own population would indicate an epidemic," Ms. Floyd said. "I think if you read the Starr County study, you'll agree that diabetes in South Texas is epidemic."

However, local diabetes specialist Dr. Sherwyn Schwartz and other physicians cautioned that the term "epidemic" usually is reserved for contagious diseases.

Research links diabetes to heredity and diet. The Starr County study, published late last year in the American Journal of Epidemiology, was conducted by researchers at the UT Health Science Center's branch in Houston.

The first major link of diabetes with Mexican-Americans was reported in 1981 by Dr. Michael Stern, the health science center's chief of epidemiology.

Dr. Donohue

Abscess difficult to treat

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you explain what causes an abscess and if there is any complete cure to keep them from returning? I've been treated for three different ones on my privates area. I've taken antibiotics for them, but they won't go away. I've had these abscesses for several years, but in the past year they have been getting bigger, more painful, and more frequent. A few months ago I had a big one and couldn't stand it. Mine was lanced once. Why would it return? — P.S.

Abscesses are collections of pus cells and germs. This infection forms a pocket in tissue, which becomes walled off from surrounding tissue. The fact that the pocket has no route for drainage creates a number of problems. Tucked away in their little pocket the germs can multiply. This causes the pocket to enlarge, with subsequent pain from pressing on adjacent healthy tissue. That's why abscesses are so painful wherever they are.

Another problem is posed by the fact that it is difficult to get antibiotics from the blood into an abscess; it is more or less walled off from them. The infection, therefore, is harder to treat.

So abscesses have to be drained to release the pus and debris they contain. When an abscess is incised and drained, the pain subsides with the relief of pressure. Also, the antibiotics can then get at the germs and destroy them.

This is the story of abscesses anywhere in the body. I wish you had been a little more specific about the area of abscess. In the female genital region, the Bartholin glands present a favorite spot for abscess formation. Those are the glands that provide lubrication for this area. If an abscess is in one of these glands, and if it keeps recurring, a permanent opening may have to be made to provide drainage. And if that doesn't do the trick, then the gland may have to be removed. I hope you and your doctor are able to arrive at an answer to your recurring abscesses soon.

Vaginitis can strike any woman at any time in her life. You can read about the causes — and cures — for this troublesome complaint in the booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." To get a copy, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Seat belts on school buses make a difference

DEAR ABBY: Who says that there aren't seat belts in school buses?

Federal law requires seat belts in all school vans and small minibuses manufactured after April 1, 1977.

Although seat belts are not mandated for larger school buses, any school district that wishes to equip its larger buses with seat belts is free to do so.

In the Greenburgh School District in New York, seat belts have been on large school buses since 1979. Over 80 percent of the children use their belts. Bus drivers report fewer disciplinary problems. And they haven't had a single incident of a seat belt being used as a weapon.

But most important, many children have for the first time started using seat belts in their family cars. They have learned an important safety habit that is reinforced on the school buses twice a day, 183 days a year.

By the way, the letters that you recently published gave your readers the false impression that seat belts on school buses are dangerous. Such arguments were discredited years ago.

ROBERT A. BURNS, M.D., DALTON, GA.

DEAR ABBY: Obviously "Jennifer from Trenton" has never ridden a school bus equipped with seat belts. In our school district, they have a definite purpose: to keep bodies from flying around in case of an accident. Abby, we'd never use them as weapons! BECKY FAST AND DANIELLE TORNELLO, MIDDLE SCHOOL STUDENTS FROM ARDSLEY, N.Y.

DEAR ABBY: For 30 years I have crashed vehicles and studied road-way collisions and injuries. More than 20 of these years were spent at UCLA's schools of engineering and medicine. Included in these studies were dozens of this country's worst school bus and motor coach accidents.

A few facts:
1. In order to reduce the number of accidents, school bus drivers are generally required to have special driver training and to use seat belts.

2. If any vehicle falls into the water, the seat-belted occupant generally remains conscious. It only takes 3-4 seconds to unlatch a belt.

3. School buses are generally quite safe and accidents cause a small number of deaths; however, a large number of injuries do occur every year. If you doubt this, just ask the oral surgeons' and plastic surgeons' associations who have official records on the number of children injured in school bus accidents.

4. Seat belts can't easily be used to "knock out each other's (students') brains." They are lightweight and are relatively short in length. School books are 10 to 20 times heavier.

But most important — seat belts do work, and the school years are the best time to form good habits. How can we expect adults to use seat belts to reduce injuries if we don't teach our children to use them on school buses? ARNOLD W. SIEGEL, ACCIDENT RESEARCH AND SAFETY ENGINEER, ENCINO, CALIF.

Lowell Shortes announces the appointment of Tonya (Shortes) Schumpert to represent Multi-Peril and Crop-Hail Insurance in the Big Spring area.

Tonya was born and reared in Martin and Howard Counties. She graduated from Sands High School in Achery and attended Howard College. She received her F.C.I.C. crop insurance certification and training in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

Tonya will be offering computerized Bottom Line Analysis for crop insurance. This analysis is an in-depth study of Multi-Peril crop insurance and its many choices of levels, price elections as well as the advantages of different row patterns for skip-row coverage.

The recent change in the method used for calculating skip-row premiums will mean a substantial savings. In fact it makes crop insurance an absolute necessity. Tonya will office with Jean Fields at 710 E. 4th St., Big Spring, Tx. Telephone No. 1-915-262-6550. Call her or go by and let her run a bottom line analysis on your operation today.

Lawmakers want 'no-growth' budget

AUSTIN (AP) — State agency heads have been told by House leaders to come to the 1985 Legislature with budget requests that don't ask for a penny more than the agencies now get.

Speaker Gib Lewis and Appropriations Committee Chairman Jim Rudd said, in a letter released Tuesday, they don't want to see anything except "no-growth" budget proposals next year.

"As you know, the Texas economy has been more adversely affected by recession in the past year than at any time in the recent past," the Lewis-Rudd letter said. "In view of that, and considering the comptroller's projection of only a $15 million surplus at the end of this biennium, we are recommending that you prepare a no-growth budget for the coming biennium."

The 1985 Legislature will set state spending for 1986 and 1987.

"We suggest that you not include any considerations for inflation, salary changes or growth," Rudd and Lewis told agency heads.

Lawmakers already face a spending crunch. Gov. Mark White is expected to call a summer special session to revamp public education and pump more money into teacher pay. That session probably will include tax bill debate.

Some state leaders have said the 1985 Legislature will have to look at other tax hikes just to keep state agencies running at current levels.

Several agency officials said Tuesday they'd be hard-pressed to make it through 1987 at current spending levels.

"It would mean we would be actually cutting back programs if we receive no increase whatsoever," said Herman Miller, Department of Health deputy commissioner for management and administration.

Department of Public Safety Director Jim Adams said his agency needs more money to meet the state's growing law enforcement needs.

"Our concerns are based largely on the growth factors over which we have no control," he said. "One of our top priorities is going to be additional licensing and weight enforcement officers. It doesn't make any sense to spend billions of dollars for highways if you don't have an enforcement program to keep heavy trucks from destroying the highways."

Education is a 'pay me now or pay me later' proposition

AUSTIN (AP) — Overhauling the Texas education system will cost money, but doing nothing will cost money too, the chairman of the Senate Education Committee said Tuesday.

"I am not one to stand up and advocate taking more money out of taxpayers' pockets. But it's not just that. It's like the advertisement on TV — pay me now or pay me later," said Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur.

Parker said lawmakers will have to decide how many of the reforms proposed by the Select Committee on Public Education the state needs and what it can afford. The Legislature is expected to consider the select committee's report during a special session this summer.

While lawmakers and the public may not favor all the select committee's proposals, he said, they also should be aware of the costs of taking no action.

Without improving the way Texas educates its children, the state runs the risk of spending more on prisons, unemployment benefits and welfare and ultimately suffering a loss of jobs to other states with better public schools, Parker said.

The select committee, headed by businessman H. Ross Perot, has proposed a long list of changes, from lengthening the school day to giving teachers pay raises.

The total cost of those recommendations is estimated by State Comptroller Bob Bullock at $19 billion over five years.

Following a day-long joint meeting of the Senate and House education panels, House Education Committee Chairman Bill Haley, D-Center, said dealing with the Perot committee's proposals won't be a new experience for lawmakers, who have seen such reports before.

"It's no different that we've done before. We'll have to decide what we can afford and decide what we can get through the Legislature," Haley said.

Some lawmakers did say that Gov. Mark White and other state leaders should make their priorities known soon.

"I don't want to be chasing rabbits or turkeys either," said Rep. Charles Evans, D-Hurst, in discussing what the Legislature should attempt to do in a special session.

Parker said the public ought to get a chance to testify before legislators to voice viewpoints not being pushed by Perot, who has received national attention since heading up the select committee.

"I think there are some other groups that don't have a Lear jet and a billion dollars who ought to be heard," he said.

Earlier, both Parker and Haley said they oppose the select committee's recommendation of replacing the 27 elected members of the State Board of Education with nine people appointed by the governor.

Parker said the select committee seems to want to give more power to the Board of Education and give voters less control over the board.

Bulk campaign buttons backfire

EL MONTE, Calif. (AP) — Scratch the surface of El Monte politics and you're apt to find a whole new meaning underneath — a fact that was embarrassing to City Council candidate Doris Frank.

She couldn't afford factory-fresh campaign buttons, so she pasted her message — "Elect Doris Frank City Council" — over old buttons that she bought in bulk. "I didn't really look at what all the buttons said," she confessed Monday.

Underneath her message were found such slogans as "Stone Drunk," "Your Place or Mine?" and worst of all: "I Love L.A." El Monte is about 15 miles east of Los Angeles.

College hoop strategy questioned

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer
SEATTLE (AP) — College basketball insists on trying to fix what isn't broken.

There seems a compulsion for the coaches to tinker with their product, fine tune it here and there to create a more perfect package. They might be better advised to leave the thing alone. It is pretty attractive right now.

A year ago, Jimmy Valvano's North Carolina State team exploited Houston's hopeless foul shooting to control the Cougars down the stretch in the NCAA championship game. It was a bit of coaching brilliance to help an otherwise outmanned team stay in the hunt.

Sure, said the Wolfpack, go ahead and shoot one-and-one from the foul line. The second one, however, requires that you make the first and when Houston couldn't do that, NC State prevented a Phi Slama Jama rout and eventually stole the game and the title from under the fraternity's nose.

Instead of saluting Valvano for having the savvy to find and use the Cougars' lone weak link, there was a rush to prevent that kind of thing from happening again. The coaches legislated against the strategy by making every foul in the last two minutes a two-shot violation.

The result was a seemingly endless parade of players to the foul line, each for two free throws. That made the final two minutes of early season games last about 22 minutes.

Boring. To the credit of the rules committee, it had the courage to recognize the farce it had created, admit a mistake and back off in mid-season, returning to the one-and-one rule it had scrapped earlier.

"We made the change in good faith," said Dr. Ed Steitz of Springfield College, secretary-editor of the committee. "Some coaches abused it, though, so we had to rescind it."

Now, the 13-man committee is fooling with the game again. Steitz came here armed with tons of questionnaires and other research endorsing a 45-second shot clock and the rules committee, under chairman C.M. Newton of Vanderbilt, was expected to impose the legislation on the game today.

"There is more sentiment for the 45-second clock than at any time in the history of the game," Newton said. "The key is whether to turn it off or leave it on at the end of the game."

A number of conferences, playing both ends of the street, have used the clock for 36 minutes and then returned to the traditional game, with teams given the option to hold the ball for the final four minutes. Newton sees that as something of a cop-out.

"I could support an all-game clock," he said. "I could not support a clock turned off in the last four minutes."

The whole idea of a 45-second clock is to guarantee action, eliminate "stall ball" and force a team to shoot. It ignores, however, the strategic side of the game.

If you want a non-stop, up-and-down the floor game, go to the pros. The beauty of college ball is that it offers an option to the run-and-gun game. Slowing down the game — "taking the air out of the ball," is a legitimate approach for a coach under certain circumstances.

The shot clock in basketball is like the designated hitter in baseball. It robs the game of strategy and reduces the need for decision-making by the coach or manager. The fan loses the fun of the second-guess, speculating on whether his team used the right strategy.

With the shot clock, there is no strategy. Without it, the game becomes a bit more cerebral, not a bad thing. Put the old gray matter to work, coach. That's what college is all about, anyway.

Both Final Four semifinal games were under 100 points. Were they so terrible? Certainly not.

"We have the best game on the street," Steitz said. Then why change it?

Steers outhit 'Cats in 6-5 district loss

SAN ANGELO — Big Spring doubled the hitting output of the San Angelo Central Bobcats here Tuesday, but the Bobcats came away anyway with a 6-5 win in District 4-5A baseball action.

The Steers fall to 0-6 in district and 6-16 overall. Central is 2-4 in district games.

Big Spring outhit Central, 12-6 including a homer by Jerry Anderson, but seven Steers errors plus the timely hits of Central were too much. Central's hits included two doubles and three triples.

Besides Anderson's third inning shot, Jay Pirkle also carried a hot bat for the Steers by managing three hits.

Pirkle also scored two runs while Sammy Watson and David Renteria added the final scores for Big Spring.

Robert Poras, Tommy Gartman, Chris Lamb and Randy Hayworth all batted in runs.

Renteria suffered the loss. Gartman came on in relief in the fourth.

Big Spring's next game will be at Steer Field against Abilene High at 2 p.m. Saturday, Apr. 7.

FORT STOCKTON — Lamesa was ripped by Fort Stockton, 11-1 in 2-4A baseball action here Tuesday. Jacob Valderrama was the losing pitcher as the Golden Tornados were limited to only Greg Hogg's single that brought in Daniel Gonzales.

The loss puts Lamesa at 1-1 in district and 8-9 overall.

The Tors will host district leader and defending state champion Snyder Friday, Apr. 6 at 4 p.m.

Wise makes All-Region

Rack up another post-season honor for Big Spring Lady Steers senior basketball player Monette Wise.

Wise, already a first team All-District 4-5A selection, now has earned Class 5-A All-Region-I second team honors to go along with it.

Wise was recently selected for the honor by the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches — the first ever for a Big Spring High School female basketball player.

The award is icing on the cake for a very successful high school career for Wise, who lettered four years on the varsity, starting all four seasons.

Her sophomore year she received District 5-4A Sophomore of the Year honors. She was named first team all-district her junior year and repeated the feat this season.

Wise averaged 12 points and five rebounds this season from her forward position. She was called the team's "most consistent," player by coach Annette Fowler.

Other teams in the meet are Borden County, Hermeleigh, Loraine, Roscoe, Grady, Klondike, Ira and Sands.

"I think that Highland and Greenwood will be the favorites," said Sands coach Randy Spain. "They have some good people, plus they have the numbers in every event."

Greenwood is coming off a good showing at the Wink Relays last week while Highland fared well at the Sterling City Relays.

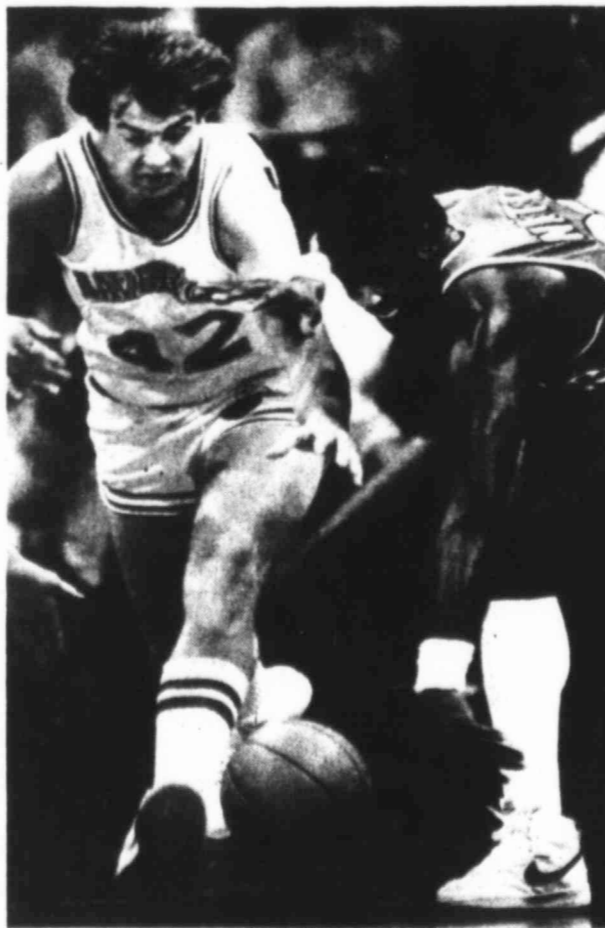

Top performers for Greenwood are Kay Wallace in the shot put and discus, Kendra Turbow in the 800 meters, Marla Morgette in the 1600 and Teri Busic in the sprints.

Highland has Tonya Owens in the high jump and long jump, Melissa Fulwood in the triple jump and Teresa Hidgon in the sprints.

Other top performers will be Loraine's Leslie Rose in the shot put and discus, Forsan's Lori Roman and Grady's Shana Hale in the 800, Sherry Perry of Sands in the 400, and the Forsan's 1600 relay.

Field events begin at 9:30 a.m. while prelims get underway at 11:30 a.m. Finals begin at 2:30 p.m.

LOOKING FOR LEVERAGE — Dallas Mavericks center Pat Cummings (42) knocks the ball away from Portland Trail Blazers Calvin Natt during first quarter NBA action at Reunion Arena in Dallas Tuesday night. Natt recovered the ball but the Trail Blazers lost it when Natt tried to pass it to a teammate. Portland went on to win the game 91-88. Despite the loss Dallas has earned a spot in the playoffs for the first time in the team's four year history.

Garden City, Forsan net 9-A tennis titles

Garden City outpointed Forsan 50-20 to take the District 9-A boys tennis title Tuesday, while Forsan outpointed Garden City 40-35 to claim the girls title.

Garden City got first place finishes in the boys division from the doubles duo of Daniel Dehoyas and John Breneman, who defeated teammates Scott Anderson and Greg Stringer 2-6, 6-2, 10-8.

Forsan's Tom Thompson and Burt Patterson defeated teammates Vance Gaston and Eric Barnes 6-4, 6-3 for third place.

In boys singles Corky Turner of Garden City won the championship over Mark Smith of Forsan 6-3, 6-2. Simon Delacruz of Trent downed Mark Yarbrough of Forsan 6-4, 6-1 for third place.

In girls doubles the Forsan duo of Connie Strickland and Sheri Walker downed the Garden City sister combination of Delma and Delia Dehoyas to claim the championship, 6-2, 6-2. In the third place match, Laura Lucas and Peggy Duffer of Forsan defeated Garden City's Laurel McDowell and Wendi Hillger 6-1, 6-1.

The singles championship went to Garden City's Danette Holdamph who downed Tammy Howell of Forsan, 6-0, 6-0. Maria Ernest of Garden City downed Bronte's Shelia Reyes 6-4, 7-6 to take third place.

The top two finishers will advance to regional play in Abilene. Girls competition will be held Apr. 17-18 while boys play will be May 1-2.

After taking title, year goes by fast for Alcott

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — The past year swept by too quickly or Amy Alcott, who opens defense Thursday of her title in the $400,000 Nabisco Dinah Shore LPGA tournament.

Alcott, playing the final round of the tournament last year in howling winds, shot a steady 72 to beat Beth Daniel and Kathy Whitworth by two strokes. Alcott faces a formidable challenge in her attempt to win the event two consecutive years. All the top players — including Nancy Lopez, JoAnne Carner, Jan Stephenson, Pat Bradley, Whitworth and Daniel — are expected to be on hand.

Alcott has been one of the most consistent players on the LPGA tour for the past 10 years, winning at least one tournament annually. "I've spent a decade as a pro, and I think my drive to win is stronger now than ever," she said, "and I feel that I'm working harder."

Although she's won many tournaments, last year's victory in the Dinah Shore was the first "local" triumph for the native of the Los Angeles area.

"When I was 19 and played in my first Dinah Shore in 1975, I finished 12th and swore I would be back to win it," she recalled.

"Winning last year was very important to me because it was my first win before my family and friends in Southern California."

'Washington' miniseries contains surprises

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Fielder says "George Washington," upcoming on CBS over three nights starting Sunday, will surprise many viewers, particularly those who think they know history.

"It's almost a direct reverse of what most Americans will expect to see about the father of our country," says Fielder, who wrote the script based on James Thomas Flexner's four-volume biography, then produced the eight-hour miniseries, which will continue Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

"When I read Flexner's books," he says, "it was a revelation. I had studied history in college, and all of a sudden, I was learning things about Washington I never knew. There's this image of George Washington, but the man himself has disappeared from history."

The miniseries tracks Washington's life from the death of his father in 1743 — Washington was 11 — to 1783, and the victorious general's farewell to his troops. It's a fascinating, and little-known, period in Washington's life, Fielder says.

"At 22," the writer says, "to be a colonel on the Virginia frontier, to make certain blunders largely because of an impulsive nature, to be troubled by his own temper, to struggle with all these problems, then to lead a ragtag bunch of colonies in what was frequently a discouraging war; it can almost be said he lost a series of battles, and won the war."

When I read Flexner's books it was a revelation. I had studied history in college, and all of a sudden, I was learning things about Washington I never knew. There's this image of George Washington, but the man himself has disappeared from history.

— Richard Fielder

The miniseries was shot entirely on location in Virginia and Pennsylvania, and many scenes were enacted on sites where the historic events actually occurred.

General Motors Corp. is the sole sponsor for "George Washington," which was directed by Buzz Kulik, an Emmy-winner for the 1959-60 season of "Playhouse 90." His other work includes the TV movies "Brian's Song" and "Babe" and the miniseries "From Here to Eternity" and "Rage of Angels."

David Gerber, who won an Emmy for "Police Story" in 1975, was executive producer of "George Washington."

Fielder produced "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," a CBS series last season, but he is best known as a writer, and his long list of credits includes scripts for acclaimed series like "Kraft Theater," "Alcoa Presents," "Studio One," "The Alfred Hitchcock Hour," "Gunsmoke" and "The Waltons."

"I've wanted to do this kind of thing since I started writing," he says of "George Washington," "and for me, it's the culmination of a life's work."

"I took it as a great challenge," he says. "If all (about Washington's early life) had been known, I guess I would have done the standard thing, though certainly as well as I could do it."

"My first draft was considerably longer than the final script, maybe a hundred pages," Fielder says. "Having to cut it was a virtue. I had to re-examine several scenes, and I think the result was a tighter, more dramatic film."

He says the constant objective was to dramatize Washington's life without tampering with history.

"And that's exactly what we did, as attested to by Flexner's enthusiasm, and the enthusiasm of other historians who have seen it."

"I think I feel as satisfied as it is conceivable to feel," he says. "I think any creative person wants to go back and do it once more. But I think in this case, that feeling is as minuscule as it can be."

And Flexner's reaction: "He's thrilled," Fielder says. "It's delightful to see a man of his age (Flexner is 76) who can be as eager and excited as a kid."

Fielder says he's got one project in mind for the future: "If we don't do a sequel to this, taking Washington through his presidency, I'm going to find it hard to do anything else. I'm suffering from post-partum blues as it is."

Underground water threatens the Alamo

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Alamo survived a ferocious siege by 5,000 Mexican soldiers 148 years ago, but now the historic mission appears to be threatened by something infinitely more subtle — underground water.

The interior and exterior surfaces of the Alamo, which withstood Mexican general Santa Anna's wrath in 1836, are beginning to crumble and chip away, the marketing director of an engineering firm says.

An underground stream might be the cause of the slow deterioration process, said Charles Reid of Dabney-Byrn & Associates.

"There are many things that could be causing the walls to slough off," Reid said. "It could be water leaking up into them from below ground."

The Alamo Committee of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas hired Dabney-Byrn to collect core samples to determine if water is the culprit.

Engineers know that some water is underneath the historic mission, but want to determine "to what extent," Reid said.

The defenders, who came from across the nation and several foreign countries, all died, but Texas eventually gained its independence from Mexican domination.

Reid said the crumbling poses no immediate danger since the Alamo's walls are about 3 feet thick.

"We're talking about only a fraction of the surface coming off," he said.

Engineers plan to set up a well-drilling rig today in front of the Alamo, Reid said.

TV talk show host threatened

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two Molotov cocktails were found behind the house of a controversial cable television talk show host who blames youth gangs for crime and advocates heightened neighborhood patrols, authorities say.

The wife of television personality B.J. Lunsford found two teen-agers lurking in an alley behind the couple's home, police said Tuesday.

The youths ran, but left behind the handmade explosives — glass bottles filled with gasoline and stuffed with cloth fuses, said Lunsford's wife, Linda.

Lunsford, 41, hosts the "Lunsford File," which appears on a local cable channel every Saturday.

"I'm not sure if this is related to the show," Lunsford said Tuesday, "but I do talk about crime a lot."

The neighborhood has been plagued recently with burglaries and break-ins, he said.

Homemade bread is good for you in several ways. It tastes great, is nutritious, and costs less. Nutrition and taste tests in Consumer Reports reveal that homemade breads were preferred over commercially baked breads.

High in nutrients, homemade breads have protein for growth, carbohydrates for energy and a variety of other nutrients for health maintenance such as thiamine, riboflavin, vitamin A, niacin and iron. They are low in fat and calories making them good for those trying to watch their weight.

Today's Herald Recipe Exchange features several bread recipes. We hope you will enjoy them. If you have recipes you want to share, send them to Herald Recipe Exchange, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

TASTY TREAT — The sweet fragrance of freshly baked bread was a familiar aroma in kitchens of the past. Today there is a new generation of bread bakers. And whole grain breadmaking is growing in popularity. Today's Recipe Exchange features many recipes for baking many types of bread. CARROT RAISIN LOAF

- 2 3/4 cups unsifted white flour
- 1 1/2 cups unsifted whole wheat flour
- 2 Tbsps. packed light brown sugar
- 1 Tbsp. grated orange rind
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
- 1/4 tsp. ground allspice
- 2 pkgs. active dry yeast
- 1 cup water
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 Tbsps. margarine
- 1 egg (at room temperature)
- 3/4 cup grated carrots
- 1/2 cup dark seedless raisins

Combine 1 1/2 cups white flour and whole wheat flour. In a large bowl mix 1 3/4 cups flour mixture, sugar, orange rind, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, allspice and undissolved yeast. Combine water, milk and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120 to 130 degrees). Margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat two minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add egg and 1/2 cup flour mixture. Beat at high speed two minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in carrot, raisins, remaining flour mixture and enough additional flour to make a soft dough. On a lightly floured board knead until smooth, about 4 to 5 minutes. Divide dough in half. Roll each half into a 14 by 8-inch rectangle. Roll up from long edges into a loaf. Pinch seams and ends to seal. Place on a greased baking sheet. Make 3 diagonal slashes on top of each loaf. Cover; let rise 30 minutes, until doubled in bulk. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes or until done. Remove from sheet and place on wire racks to cool. Makes two loaves.

PUMPKIN MUFFINS

- Sugar
- 1 1/4 cups pumpkin
- 1/2 cup margarine, melted
- 2 eggs
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 2 tsp. baking powder
- Cinnamon
- 1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1/4 cup chopped pecans or walnuts

Combine 1 1/4 cups sugar, pumpkin and margarine. Blend in eggs. Combine flour, baking powder, 1 tsp. cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Add combined dry ingredients alternately with milk, mixing well after each addition. Stir in raisins and nuts. Spoon into well-greased miniature muffin pans, filling 3/4 full. Sprinkle with combined 2 Tbsps. sugar and 1/4 tsp. cinnamon. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 minutes. Makes about 5 dozen.

Sour dough bread is undergoing a revival all over America. Homesteaders used to call it "cellar bread," but sour dough is the term used to describe the mixture of potato mush and flour the prospectors used to carry in their packs along the trail, says Tom Hoge, Associated Press Wine and Food Writer. Here is his recipe for sourdough bread starter.

SOURDOUGH BREAD STARTER

Tom Hoge

- 2 cups thick potato water (see below)
 - 2 Tbsps. sugar
 - 2 cups flour
- Boil two minutes potatoes with jackets on until they fall apart. Remove skins and mash potatoes and water to make 2 cups of puree. Cool. Put sugar and flour into pot with potato water. Beat until it becomes smooth, creamy batter. Cover and put in a warm place to start fermentation.

The enzymes will start working in as little as three days, but it is better to wait at least a week for the starter to become ripe enough for use in various recipes. The longer the better. After a month, the sourdough becomes a rich, creamy batter honeycombed with bubbles. Some old timers are said to wait a year for the sourdough to mature, claiming it takes that long to acquire a distinctive taste, Hoge said. Avoid putting starter in a glass jar. It begins working and expanding at temperatures between 65 and 77 degrees.

Here's another recipe for sourdough starter and some recipes to use with these starter recipes.

SOURDOUGH STARTER

- 1 pkg. active dry yeast
- 1 qt. lukewarm water
- 2 Tbsps. sugar
- 4 cups sifted flour

In a container with at least a three-quart capacity, soften yeast in water. Add sugar and flour; beat to mix well. Cover and let rise at room temperature until light and slightly aged, 24 to 48 hours. Starter may be kept in refrigerator 7 to 10 days without attention. To keep starter going, pour off amount needed in recipe, and add equal amounts of flour and water to remainder. Amount of flour and water added will depend on amount of starter left.

SOURDOUGH BISCUITS

- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 Tbsp. sugar
- 1 Tbsp. baking powder
- 3/4 tsp. salt
- 2 cups sourdough starter

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into large bowl. Add starter. Mix well. Butter 12-inch iron skillet or cookie sheet. Pinch off pieces of dough about the size of an egg. Place in pan. Put pan in warm place about 15 minutes. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Makes about two dozen biscuits.

SOURDOUGH COBBLER

- 3/4 cup flour
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup white sugar
- 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans
- 3 cups sourdough starter
- 3 cups dewberries or other fresh berries
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 Tbsp. flour
- 2 Tbsps. butter

Combine flour, brown sugar, 1/2 cup white sugar and cinnamon; cut in 1/4 cup butter. Stir in pecans and starter. Combine berries, 3/4 cup sugar and 1 Tbsp. flour in saucepan. Heat until mixture boils. Place berry mixture in bottom of 8-inch baking dish. Dot fruit with 2 Tbsps. butter. Spoon dough over fruit or roll it out and place on top of fruit. Bake at 425 degrees F. approximately 30 minutes. Serves 4 to 6.

CHEDDAR APPLE BREAD

- 2 1/2 cups flour
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 Tbsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
- 2 eggs
- 3/4 cup milk
- 1/2 cup liquid margarine
- 2 cups shredded sharp cheddar cheese
- 1 1/2 cups chopped peeled apple
- 3/4 cup chopped nuts

Combine dry ingredients. Add combined eggs, milk and oil; mix well. Stir in remaining ingredients. Spoon into well-greased and floured 9 by 5-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees, 1 hour and 15 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes; remove from pan.

CRUSTY PARMESAN BISCUITS

- 1 3/4 cups flour
- 1 Tbsp. baking powder
- 1/4 cup (1 oz.) grated parmesan cheese
- 1/2 cup margarine
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup milk
- 4 crisply cooked bacon slices, crumbled

Combine dry ingredients and cheese; cut in margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add combined egg and milk, mixing just until moistened. Stir in bacon. Drop by spoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degrees, 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Serve warm. Makes 1 dozen.

To make ahead: Prepare recipe as directed. Wrap securely; freeze. When ready to serve, unwrap biscuits; place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degrees, 7 minutes or until hot.

OATMEAL BREAD

- 1 3/4 cups water
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup honey
- 2 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 cups oats, uncooked
- 2 eggs
- 2 pkgs. (1/4 oz. each) active dry yeast
- 1 Tbsp. salt
- 2 1/2 to 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 egg white
- 1 Tbsp. water
- Oats, uncooked

Heat water, butter, and honey to 120 degrees. In a large mixer bowl combine 2 3/4 cups flour, oats, eggs, yeast, salt and warmed water mixture. Mix with doughmaker at recommended speed for 3 minutes. (It may be necessary to scrape the sides of the bowl with rubber scraper and rotate bowl slightly by hand.) Add 2 1/2 cups flour and continue kneading 3 more minutes. If dough is sticky, knead in enough of remaining 1/2 cup flour to form a moderately stiff dough. Place in a greased bowl, turning once to grease top. Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled, about 45 minutes. Punch dough down and divide into two equal parts. Shape each piece into a loaf and place in 2 greased 9 by 5 by 3-inch pans. Cover and let rise until doubled, about 1 hour. Mix together egg white and water. Brush on loaves. Sprinkle top of loaves with oats. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven for 40 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack. Yields two loaves.

PUMPERNICKEL

- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1/4 cup dark molasses
- 1 square (1 oz.) bittersweet chocolate, melted
- 2 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup cornmeal
- 2 Tbsps. brown sugar
- 2 Tbsps. caraway seed
- 1 Tbsp. plus 1 tsp. salt
- 3 pkgs. (1/4 oz. each) active dry yeast
- 2 cups rye or pumpernickel flour
- 1/2 cup all-purpose flour

Heat water, molasses and chocolate to 120 degrees. In large mixer bowl combine 2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour, cornmeal, sugar, caraway seed, salt, yeast and warmed water mixture. Mix with doughmaker at recommended speed for three minutes. It may be necessary to scrape sides of bowl with rubber spatula and rotate bowl slightly by hand. Add rye flour and continue kneading three more minutes. If dough is sticky, knead in enough of remaining 1/2 cup flour to form a moderately stiff dough. Place dough in a greased bowl, turning once to grease top. Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled, about one hour. Punch down and shape into round ball. Place on greased cookie sheet, cover and let rise until doubled, about 1 hour. Mix together egg white and water. Brush on bread. Bake in preheated 375 degrees oven 30 to 35 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack. Yield 1 loaf.

- 1 egg white

Add rye flour and continue kneading three more minutes. If dough is sticky, knead in enough of remaining 1/2 cup flour to form a moderately stiff dough. Place dough in a greased bowl, turning once to grease top. Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled, about one hour. Punch down and shape into round ball. Place on greased cookie sheet, cover and let rise until doubled, about 1 hour. Mix together egg white and water. Brush on bread. Bake in preheated 375 degrees oven 30 to 35 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack. Yield 1 loaf.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: After an early morning upset, you will be able to handle whatever arises in a resourceful manner, especially if you do so with more than usual charm and cleverness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you don't argue over money with partners, you find that later you can discuss matters better objectively.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) An associate can give you trouble in the morning, but later you can work out a monetary matter well and forget it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Forget that worry about some job in the morning, and later you can go after what you most want and get it.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Steer clear of a demanding new acquaintance in the morning, and later you can plan a new campaign of action.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid an irate higher-up and be with the persons you like. Make sure your car is in good running order.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Forget making some drastic and costly changes, and get into your duties with vim and vigor. Don't be afraid to ask for a favor.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't carp over a debt, but put some new ideas to work that can bring you added income quickly. Learn from new contacts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Avoid a partner who is irate. Be with your mate for a delightful day and evening. Show that you are practical.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Steer clear of a disturbed co-worker, and then talk over with clever friends how you want the relationships to trend.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get busy at duties ahead of you. Don't spend money on pleasure. Make your home life more charming by changing your attitude.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get into some form of recreation in the outdoors that can relieve the tensions you are under. Express some talent you have.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get home affairs nicely handled, and don't go flying off on some tangent. Bring out that Piscean charm and make others happy.

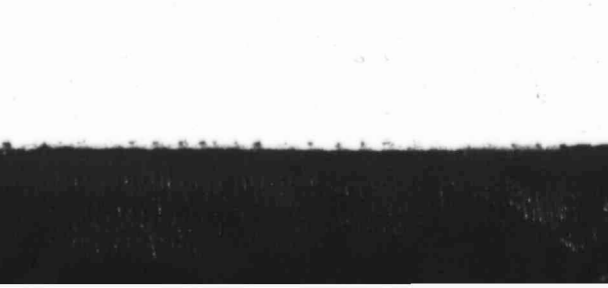

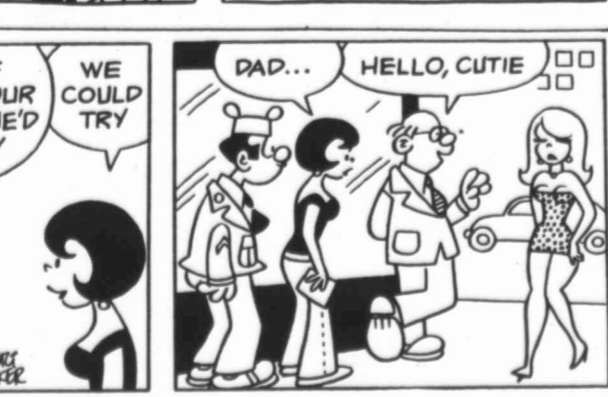

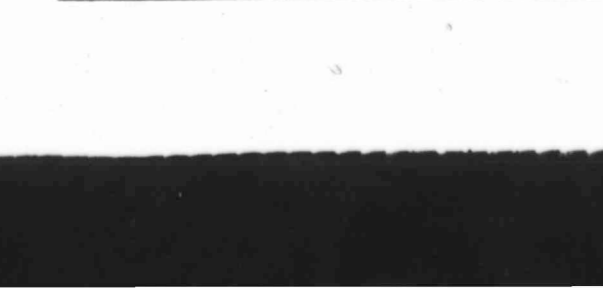

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will be a little slower than others, but upon reaching the teens, this changes, and the reasoning power gets stronger. He or she will be good at debates and sizing up situations quickly and accurately.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Cleanup campaign begins

Community members interested in cleaning up Big Spring have advanced a step farther with the organization of CLEAN, according to Lisa Brooks, chairman for the publicity committee.

CLEAN stands for "City Litter Eliminators Are Near." Mrs. Brooks said. Through the program teenagers from the city will be hired to clear away debris in the area.

"We've scheduled a meeting during the last 20 minutes of school on April 18 in the Big Spring High School cafeteria," Mrs. Brooks said.

Students 16 and older who are interested in working for the campaign are invited to the meeting, she said. Johnnie Rutherford, one of the organizers of CLEAN, will speak to the students.

Mrs. Brooks said hundreds of surveys were sent to area schools to see if students were interested in participating in the program. More than 123 positive responses were received from Big Spring.

CLEAN has already received a $5,000 grant from the Big Spring Industrial Foundation. Rutherford has used some of the money to purchase lawnmower, rakes, brooms and other equipment.

Crimestopper board named

New board members have been named to the Big Spring Area Crimestoppers, Inc., according to member Sam Barron.

Tom Watson was appointed for a three year term by the Chamber of Commerce board of directors. Curt Mullins is serving a one-year term as a representative of the Chamber board.

J.D. Nelson was appointed to a three-year term by the City of Big Spring.

Howard County appointed Louie Brown for a three-year term, Lonnie Anderson for a two-year term and I.C. Cooper for a one-year term.

During a recent meeting a $1,000 reward was authorized for information leading to the indictment on seven counts of delivery of cocaine. A $200 reward was authorized on an insurance fraud case and a $300 reward was authorized for information leading to the arrest and indictment in a recent murder case.

Fund raising efforts were discussed and plans will be finalized in the near future.

Emergency siren test slated

Howard County's emergency siren will be tested April 7 at 12 noon and 5 p.m. according to Hal Boyd, assistant coordinator of Big Spring-Howard County Emergency Management Services.

Boyd said the testing is for two purposes: to check the system in case of severe weather or other emergencies and to remind the citizens of Big Spring to go to the polls and vote.

Blind woman wins bat case

AUSTIN (AP) - A state appeals court today ordered Western Auto Supply Co. to pay $87,500 to the husband of an Austin woman who went blind after being forced to work in a bat-infested area of a Western Auto store.

Court records show that Cathy Bennight told her boss she was afraid of the bats in the warehouse area of the store. Nevertheless, he required her to work in the warehouse.

A day after she was attacked by three bats, she was bitten by a bat. An anti-rabies vaccine given her caused an adverse reaction that left her emotionally disturbed and permanently blind, the Austin Court of Appeals said.

An Austin jury had decided that Western Auto had maintained an unsafe work place and that Mrs. Bennight was forced to work in the bat-infested area.

Baby abandoned in closet

HOUSTON (AP) - A newborn boy abandoned in the closet of a vacant apartment was listed in serious condition suffering respiratory problems today at a Houston hospital.

Judy Hay of the Harris County Child Protective Services says the boy is being cared for in the high risk unit of Jeff Davis Hospital.

The baby boy was found about noon on Monday by a security guard. The child, wrapped in old curtains, was believed only a few hours old when discovered, Ms. Hay said.

The guard was checking the apartment and found the baby when he saw some blood on the floor and heard the child crying.

DeWees Fashions' Billie DeWees suggests pastel ultrasuede by Abe Schrader for Easter dressing.

DeWees' Fashions Has Easter, Vacation Attire

What could be lovelier for Easter dressing than an Abe Schrader ultrasuede suit in candy egg colors? DeWees Fashions at 4200 West Highway 80 has a stunning selection in lilac, dusty pink, peach, turquoise and royal blue. These suits are distinguished by unusual details — such as open cutwork — and several have matching blouses. Sassoon presents something new — a four-piece designer suit. One version is mauve linen jacket and skirt, with coordinating striped silky skirt and camisole. Another is a white linen jacket and skirt, with a purple silky print skirt and camisole. This is just a sampling of the fine clothing carried by Billie DeWees in her attractive store. Other brands include: Evan Picone, Chez, Edith Martin, Countess, Mort Schrader, Modern Juniors, Kasper, Couture and Personal Coordinates. The owner feels that good taste knows no size, and she stocks a selection of fashions from junior size 4 to half-size 20½. Pants are available to size 40 and blouses to size 46. Billie says this is a good time to start building your vacation wardrobe. She has a wide selection of Evan Picone Coordinates in natural linen — blouses, jackets, skirts, sweaters, pants — in sizes 4 to 18. New Fire Island coordinates in topaz or blue shadings offer sweaters, pants, blouses, skirts in solids, prints and stripes in sizes 36-46 and 8 to 18. Cruise fashions include bright marine blue and emerald green skirts, shorts, and divided skirts with striped sweaters to match. Original handmade denim skirts with a variety of motifs — including political party symbols — are another casual fashion choice. Fuller figured women will appreciate the selection of Jordache Sports jeans and blouses. DeWees Fashions, in the same location for 20 years, is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday thru Saturday.

Quiet Ones give blood by the pint

"Blood by the pint. You'll never miss it," says members of Malone-Hogan Hospital's Quiet Ones.

Quiet Ones are medical workers who have donated one gallon of blood, one pint at a time. Several have given more like Michael Fernandez and Ike Low who each have given 70 or more pints over the years. Carmen Phillips has donated 112 pints.

Brave? No, Quiet Ones learned a long time ago that bravery has nothing to do with donating blood. Commitment, not bravery, is the quality hospital John Bingham singled out at an induction ceremony for new members, March 23.

New Quiet Ones were honored at Malone-Hogan Hospital's Braggin' Breakfast, March 23. New members are Mike Sherman, Joe Anderson, Terry Guthrie, Cathy Chavez, Lucy Griffith, Wayne Carroll, Kenneth Randall, Max Amaya, and Jill Cunningham. Jeanne Brown, an earlier member by rights of recruiting donors, also was commended as a new one gallon donor.

The new Quiet Ones join 43 employees and former employees of Malone-Hogan Hospital and Clinic who have been named Quiet Ones since the group was formed in August 1981.

Hospital and clinic officials called the organization the prime factor behind increasing the blood total from a draw that formerly ranged from 16 to 69 pints a year to 378 pints in 1983.

On the Quiet Ones membership roster are some physicians who were personally involved in transfusing the 919 units of blood Malone-Hogan used in 1983.

"It is highly unusual for doctors to be active participants in this type of program," remarked former United Blood Services recruiter Jane Furlow about Malone-Hogan's blood donor drives. Drs. M.A. Porter, J.W. Kuykendall, R.K. Reddy and B.R. Owen are physicians who have earned a place on the Quiet Ones roster.

Mrs. Brown records participation in each donor day. Her records show that 137 Malone-Hogan Hospital

Academia

Big Spring Savings will sponsor a scholarship competition, according to Nell Harris, branch manager.

Scholarship competition is open to graduating seniors in Howard County. Requirements for eligibility are:

1. The student must be in the upper 25 percent of his graduating class;
2. The student must not be the recipient of any other type of grant or scholarship;
3. Students will be considered on an overall basis of scholastic achievement as well as non-academic involvement;
4. Parents' income will not limit the consideration for these recipients.

Applications are available at area high school counselors' offices and from any Home Savings office. Applications must be returned by May 1.

Winners of last year's scholarships included Stacey Bott, Big Spring High School, and Rickie Long, Coahoma.

For more information contact Nell Harris at 267-7443.

 Congressman Charles Stenholm announced that 11 finalists for the summer Congressional Internship Program have been chosen by the eight-person, District-wide committee, chaired by former Congressman Omar Bureson.

Each of the Omar Bureson and Lyndon Baines Johnson Congressional interns will work in the Congressman's Washington office for a month, in June or July.

Among finalists is Ritchie Priddy of Big Spring, a Texas A&M graduate now working on a master's degree in Mass Communications at Texas Tech University.

employees and 70 Malone-Hogan Clinic employees have donated blood since the Quiet Ones began.

An important by-product of the Quiet Ones is the logbook that in time of emergency would insure the local community that donors on any given blood type could be rounded up quickly.

One-act play advances to regional

Coahoma High School's Drama Department advanced to area and then to regional competition following its UIL One Act Play district competition at Angelo State University in San Angelo, March 22. Regional competition will be at Odessa College, April 12.

At the district competition, Tammy Goodins was named to the competition's all-star cast for her role as honorably mentioned at the competition. Stephanie Dobbs and Ronda Fowler were named to the All-Star Cast.

Widow Jones in "To Burn A Witch," written by James Bray. Best Actress was Ronda Fowler of Coahoma who plays Mary. Other cast members were Janna Griffin as Dane Stanley, and Stephanie Dobbs as Ruth. Crew members are Tommy White, Tony Torres and Kim Clanton.

The play is about the Salem witch hunt in 1683. It deals with the conflict between two girls as to whether they should confess and be forgiven or burned at the stake as witches, despite the fact they were falsely accused.
