Fiberflex, ex-OIL boss in stock fight

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Former O.I.L. chief executive officer Chris Christopher announced Wednesday he has taken control of a majority of Fiberflex stock and is acting as trustee for a large number of stockholders who have entered into a voting agreement.

Christopher said he owns or has the right to vote more than 50 percent of the stock in Fiberflex, the result of what he called "a hostile takeover."

But Fiberflex president Tommy Rutledge, when told about Christopher's statements, said Christopher's group did not control the company yet.

"I think somebody had better check that pretty close," Rutledge said. "I think the litigation will decide that (who's in control of the company)."

Fiberflex stockholders, battling each other for control of the company, have been in court since February when current company management tried to expand the board of directors by five persons, changing the majority on the court.

'I think somebody had better check that pretty close. I think the litigation will decide that.'

— Tommy Rutledge, Fiberflex

In the latest courtroom action, retired 118th District Court Judge Ralph Caton Monday granted a continuance in the suit because Christopher has not granted his opposition access to all of his financial records asked for.

Christopher's group has since filed a motion that asks the judge to continue with the hearing as scheduled on next Tuesday.

District court injunctions and temporary restraining orders have prevented the company's board of directors from acting or adopting changes in the by-laws since Feb. 21.

Ownership of a swing bloc of stock, originally held by the company's Houston patent attorney, Guy Matthews, is also in litigation.

Christopher says he has bought the stock twice, the first time from Matthews and the second time at a foreclosure sale at a Hobbs, N.M., bank, where Matthews had used the stock to secure a loan.

Matthews and Christopher have since entered the original court battle — on opposite sides — over control of the company as intervenors. Matthews' suit alleges Christopher used fraud and misrepresentation to obtain 20,000 shares of stock he controlled at $20 each.

Christopher said the average price he paid for stock in the company was $11.90.

Matthews' suit also states he was told by Christopher that the former O.I.L. owner already had majority control of the company and that his stock would not determine ownership.

Without control of Matthews' stock, Christopher said he only had 48 percent of the company's stock.

"I am totally confident of our position," Christopher said. "But even in that case, (if we don't gain control of Matthews' stock, we will remain a major shareholder."

Christopher said he became involved in the power bid in February at the invitation of Billy Massingill, an original plaintiff and shareholder who was upset by the management attempt to expand the board of directors.

Christopher said Wednesday stockholders became upset in September when Fiberflex's management spent more than $800,000 to buy out one shareholder but did not distribute dividends.

Christopher said shareholders and company management opposed his takeover of Fiberflex because of their "fear of the unknown" and not because of any of his past actions.

The group will return to Austin Friday. The trip will cost the agency about $3,200, said Tom Blackburn, a spokesman for the waste authority.

The guest list for the Barnwell, S.C., visit includes county judges from Borden and Dimmit Counties, the mayors of Asherton in Dimmit County and Post in Garza County, a landowner whose property is adja-

Many helping hands Fiberflex, Highland Pontiac work to get Williams' new van

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Kenneth Williams believes in "getting up and going," and a new van with a special electric lift will enable him to keep on doing that.

Russ Rutledge and Tommy Rutledge were on hand at Highland Pontiac today to present Williams with the new van. Williams, who has been in a wheelchair for almost 24 years, had a 1977 van with a hydraulic lift which "was getting a little tired," Russ Rutledge said.

When Rutledge saw the 1977 van last summer, he told Williams "you're going to have to have a new van one of these days." Since then, the Rutledges, Bill Lasater of Highland Pontiac-Dodge and other friends spearheaded a drive to collect the $17,500 needed for the new vehicle.

Rutledge said "My parents have known Kenneth a long time. He's done a lot for kids around here. I believe God gives us the ability to walk around, and it's up to us to help others."

Williams was busy this morning showing off the new van to his friends. "There are so many good people in the world," he said. "It kind of gets you."

"This is something you dream about," Williams said. "This is pretty great. There is no way I can thank everybody."

Fiberflex and Highland employees made calls for six months in a fund raising effort.

Although Williams is confined to a wheelchair, his easy smile and cheerful attitude reflect a character which doesn't give up easily.

He was paralyzed Aug. 13, 1960 while working as a rodeo clown.

"I roped a horse, turned a flip and hit my neck," he remembers. But he decided soon after not to let his injury stop him from enjoying life.

He has tried to share that attitude with others. He remembers being hospitalized in Houston many years ago with a welder who had been paralyzed in a traffic accident.

The welder "wouldn't get out of bed" Williams remembers. Once Williams had been released from the hospital, he visited the welder to try to encourage him to become mobile again.

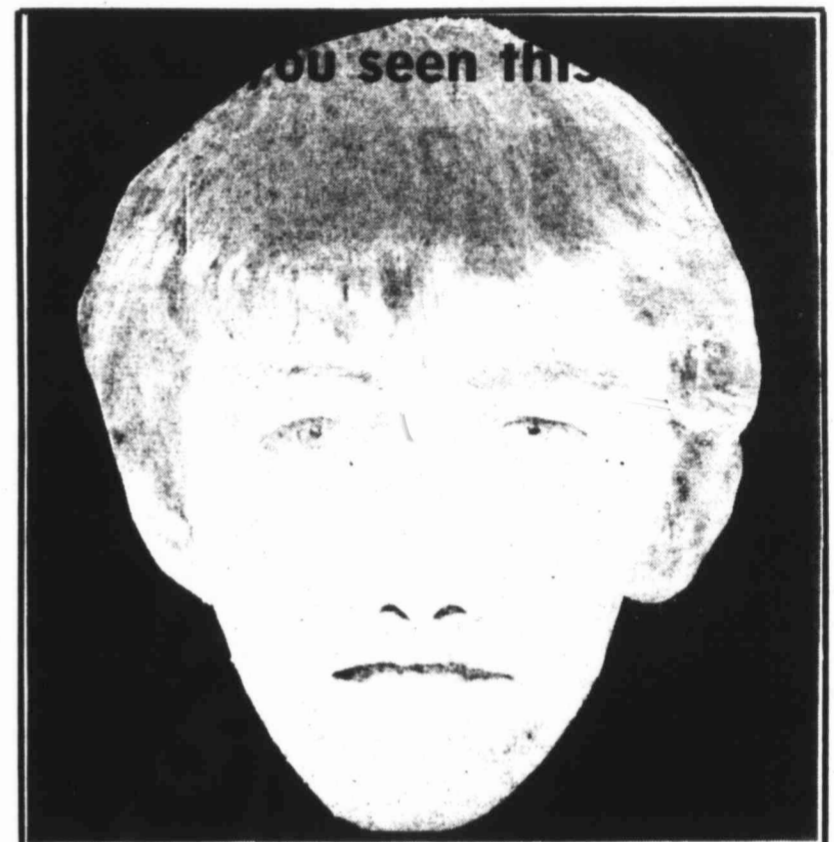

"I told him, 'If you don't get out of this bed, you'll die.'" Much to Williams' dismay, the friend never took his advice and died within a year.

Williams prefers to look at the brighter side of things.

"I can see and I can get around," he said. "I'm thankful for that."

Williams' wife, Jean, was at Highland Pontiac today with her husband to receive the new van. Also present were his mother, Mrs. Henry Tubb, and his son, Lathy, 14.

Williams' old van will be donated to Garner Thixton, who plans to recondition it and give it to Bruce Walker, who was paralyzed by a gunshot wound last summer.

PUC delays Bell hearing

AUSTIN (AP) — A public utility commission examiner today postponed for four months a hearing on Southwestern Bell's request to allow local-measured service as an option for Texas telephone consumers.

Under the proposal, consumers would have the option to pay for their local calls on the basis of time of day, duration and distance. The local-measured service would be an option to the current flat rate payments for local service.

Southwestern Bell wanted to begin the hearing on May 14, the date previously set by hearing examiner Shelia Bailey. But the office of Public Utility Counsel and several consumer groups convinced Ms. Bailey to delay the hearing in order to allow a series of regional hearings on the request.

Taylor vacations in Orient

ARITA, Japan — Actress Elizabeth Taylor arrived in Japan with her fiancé, Mexican lawyer Victor Luna, but the actress said she isn't planning to tie the knot for the eighth time in the Orient.

On their arrival in Tokyo on Wednesday, Miss Taylor, 52, said the couple had flown in from Los Angeles for a vacation, nothing else.

Luna, 57, told The Associated Press that he fell in love with Ms. Taylor immediately after meeting her 18 months ago in Los Angeles.

"She's wonderful," he said. As for rumors that they'll be getting married soon, he responded with a quick "I don't know."

The couple plan to stay in Japan about a week before going to Bangkok, Thailand.

Hoffman says get involved

DEERFIELD, Mass. — The radical '60s met the conservative '80s when Abbie Hoffman spoke to an audience of prep-school students and summed up his theory for saving democracy: Don't trust authority.

"Disrespect for authority, not respect for authority, ensures that democracy will be around for years and years to come," said Hoffman, 48, in an address to 250 students at Deerfield Academy.

"Get involved," Hoffman urged the students Tuesday night. "If you turn away once you know what's right, then you're already dead."

Many of the students' questions concerned Hoffman's days as a radical on the run.

"The FBI started a file on me as a radical subversive in 1962," said Hoffman, who was a fugitive on a cocaine charge during the 1970s and became an environmentalist after being freed from prison.

"Every breath you take, every move you make, I'll be watching you. You know that song? Your Police (the rock group) sing about it. Police actually did it and they played the percussion, too."

Namath charged with DWI

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Former pro football star Joe Namath has been ordered to attend alcohol rehabilitation classes after pleading guilty to a drunken driving charge, a prosecutor says.

Namath, 40, who entered the plea through his attorney Wednesday, also was fined $390 and ordered to drive only to and from work for 90 days, Deputy District Attorney Anna Lopez said.

The former quarterback for the New York Jets and the Los Angeles Rams, who has worked as an actor since retiring from football, was arrested in August after being stopped by California Highway Patrol officers on a Beverly Hills street.

Keach nailed for cocaine

LONDON — Actor Stacy Keach, who plays a private eye in the television series "Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer," has been released on bail after spending a night in a London jail on a charge of importing cocaine, authorities say.

Keach, 42, arrested at Heathrow Airport on Tuesday, was released Wednesday after paying a cash bail of $100,100.

2 executed in electric chair

A Florida child killer and the murderer of two teenagers on a Louisiana lover's lane were electrocuted this morning, marking the first time since reinstatement of the death penalty that two executions were carried out on the same day.

In Florida, 30-year-old Arthur F. Goode III was put to death shortly after 7 a.m. at the Florida State Prison near Starke. Goode, who was condemned for the 1976 sex slaying of 9-year-old Florida boy, bragged about his crimes and said Wednesday that he was still eager to molest little boys.

Six hours before, at the Louisiana State Prison in Angola, Elmo Patrick Sonnier, 35, died in the state's electric chair as the fathers of both of his teen-age victims watched with folded arms. One of the fathers granted forgiveness.

The executions were the 17th and 18th since the Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty in 1976. They brought to seven the number of executions that have taken place this year.

Gemayel calls for meeting

BEIRUT — President Amin Gemayel sent two emissaries to Damascus today to arrange a meeting with Syrian President Hafez Assad next week in an effort to curb the continuing battles between Lebanon's rival factions.

Lebanese army troops and Syrian-backed Druse militiamen fought a 90-minute duel this morning with artillery and rocket launchers east of Beirut near the mountaintop town of Souk el-Gharb, police said. No casualties were reported.

Later in the day, Gemayel's government announced that the warring factions had reached agreement on key elements of a new disengagement plan in and around Beirut. Official sources said the plan, which would create buffer zones between key Moslem and Christian military positions, could be in place by Friday.

Meanwhile, Gemayel's envoys, Jean Obeid and Michel Samaha, went into conference with Syrian Vice President Abdul-Halim Khaddam after arriving in Damascus.

A spokesman for Gemayel said the two emissaries were sent to negotiate an agenda for talks between Gemayel and Assad that could be held as early as next Wednesday.

Salvador aid goes to vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is about ready to approve $61.7 million in emergency military aid for El Salvador after a tumultuous debate in which Democrats accused President Reagan of spoiling for a fight in his zeal to stem communism in Central America.

"I believe that the day after he is re-elected, if he is re-elected, we will see American troops fighting in Latin America," Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., said Wednesday in arguing for an amendment to bar sending troops to El Salvador for combat without congressional approval.

The amendment lost 59-36, with Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., calling Central America "the last place in the world we have a chance to prove we are anything but a paper tiger."

Lucas shaky during testimony

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Jurors saw an unsure Henry Lee Lucas when defense attorneys played a videotaped statement in which he admitted killing a woman and dumping her nude body near Georgetown more than four years ago.

Defense attorneys argued Wednesday that the tape was obvious from the tape that Williamson County Sheriff Jim Boutwell prompted Lucas on several aspects of the crime that the 47-year-old drifter seemed to be unclear about.

The jury heard portions of the tape Wednesday.

Lucas is on trial on a capital murder charge stemming from the October 1979 killing of an unidentified female hitchhiker. If convicted, he faces either the death penalty or a life prison sentence.

The prosecution had introduced five confessions by Lucas on Tuesday — two videotaped, two tape-recorded and one written.

Attorneys on Wednesday argued about Lucas' first recorded confession. At times, Lucas seemed to be unsure about details of the slaying.

Boutwell later acknowledged that he reminded Lucas about details of the killing.

The victim's body was found in a culvert, but Boutwell agreed under questioning from defense attorney Max Parker that Lucas' memory appeared to be unclear on several key points.

Lucas couldn't remember the woman's hair color, did not know the woman was wearing orange socks and could not recall whether he dumped her body in a field or in a culvert, Boutwell said.

Deficit showdown coming

WASHINGTON (AP) — After brushing aside the original red-ink budget President Reagan sent Congress this year, the House moved today toward a showdown over rival Democratic and Republican plans for cutting federal deficits.

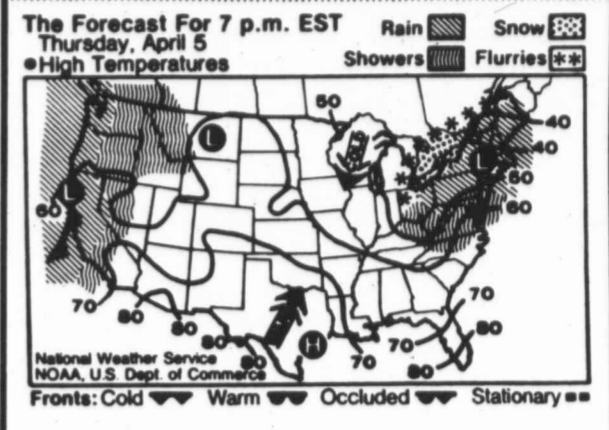

Democratic leaders predicted their majority would hold and their $182 billion "pay-as-you-go" package, endorsed by the House Budget Committee, would win.

"I think that we'll pass ... the committee bill," Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said before the House convened today.

The House was considering a total of five options today as it looked for a budget blueprint that will map later legislative action to reduce projected budget deficits over the next three years.

If Congress does not act, cumulative deficits for that period are expected to range between $500 billion and more than $700 billion.

Sanchez will be asset to council

Henry Sanchez has proven his concern for this community through two decades of action. The District 1 election to the city council Saturday will be a perfect opportunity for Sanchez to put his knowledge of the city's northside to work. His reasoned voice on the council will temper northside concerns with a sense of larger understanding.

At 49, Sanchez has a 20-year track record of work for the neighborhoods that make up what is now District 1, an area populated largely by Hispanic residents. In the early 1960s, he was chairman of Northside United, a group dedicated, in his words, "to the betterment of the northside in working through the city for paving and cleanup projects."

He is vice president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, but the breadth of his candidacy reaches beyond the concerns of LULAC.

He twice has been employed by the city, for a total of 14 years. He worked in the streets department and as supervisor of utility maintenance, a job which required budgeting skills.

He and his wife Mary have three children, Leny, 20, a daughter who attends San Angelo State University; Eric, 19, a Howard College student; and Henry III, 14, a freshman at Big Spring High School. Sanchez is employed as maintenance supervisor at a local health care center.

His goal is a simple but essential one, to "join the northside with the rest of the city." He feels the presence of a Spanish-speaking council member will be an immense help toward that end. Mr. Sanchez will be an asset to the newly expanded council that now will seat a delegate from the Hispanic community.

Pineda is choice for school board

Billy Pineda is the better choice to represent the newly created northside District 1 on the Big Spring school board.

His platform embraces minority counseling for students and concern for what he believes to be an excessive dropout rate among Hispanic students. He wants to counter the problem of dropping out by intensifying efforts to reach out to minority students. "You have to talk their language," he says.

Pineda can relate to students about dropping out. He quit school as a sophomore, saw his mistake and returned not only to finish high school, but to earn advanced credit at Howard College. He now works as warehouse manager for an electric supply house.

Pineda's appeal is in large measure beyond the politics of office-holding. His interest in youth and youth programs is evident. A divorced father of three, the 1966 Big Spring High School graduate is active as a basketball referee and for many years coached PeeWee football and baseball programs here. A native of the city, he is the grandson of the late Chon Rodriguez and Nattie Rodriguez. His roots go deep in this community. He will make a strong addition to the newly expanded school board.

Camping days

Anytime a person goes camping it's an experience. I've been camping hundreds of times, and it never ceases to amaze me what can happen on one of these excursions.

My camping days began when I was a Girl Scout. My mother who was the troop leader took several girls to Camp Boothe Oaks near Sweetwater for the weekend. We stayed in what is called "permanent" tents and cooked on an open campfire.

During that weekend, we also went for some nature walks. On one of these walks, my friends and I saw a snake. We had been trained to stand still and not panic if we ever saw a snake. So what did we do? We screamed, yelled and ran. We scared that poor snake to death.

As I got older my parents would take me camping at the lake every weekend. I've camped in sandstorms, rainstorms and tropical heat waves. I've learned to fish and how to collect fire wood. These are two important things to know if you plan on eating. Camping makes you enjoy your meal more, because you have to work for it. If you aren't fighting the bugs, you are fighting the wind for your dinner.

Just preparing to go camping can be a job in itself. There's clothes and bedding to be packed. Food to be bought. Camping and cooking equipment to be gathered. You've got to make a list and check it twice.

If you forget one little thing, you could be headed for disaster. Have you ever tried to open a can of beans without a can opener? Or fish without a fishing pole? Once you get to where you are going, you have to make do with what you've got. You just can't run into the kitchen or to the store when you are 50 miles from civilization. There's no television or conveniences of home.

I don't consider taking the family camper to the lake — with its built-in refrigerator, stove and air conditioner — a camping trip. Part of camping is battling the camp fire for your food.

To me, however, the best part of camping is lying in a sleeping bag while looking at the star-filled sky and listening to the crickets. It lets me have time to think about the beauty of the nature around me. It makes me realize there is more to life than the hustle and bustle of the city.

Japanese sacrifice for our alliance

WASHINGTON — On rare occasions, American presidents overrule their intelligence advisers and release top-secret information they feel the public should know, even though the release compromises intelligence-gathering methods. An example was President Kennedy's release of aerial spy photos during the Cuban missile crisis in 1962.

The last time such sensitive information was deliberately released, it was Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone who made the decision. At serious cost to his intelligence agencies, he decided to disclose the intercepted radio transmission of Soviet pilots during the final minute of Korean Air Lines Flight 007 in the early hours of Sept. 1, 1983.

The Soviet pilots' reports to their ground control stations proved that the unarmed airliner had been downed with 269 civilians aboard. The Japanese release of this damning evidence came at a time when the Soviets were still denying that they had shot the plane down. Without the Japanese tape, they might never have admitted the atrocity.

On a recent trip to Tokyo, my associate Dale Van Atta learned the dramatic details of Nakasone's decision from Japanese intelligence sources and documents stamped "secret" in red Japanese characters. Here are the highlights of the tragic episode from the Japanese vantage point. All times are Tokyo time:

- Sept. 1, 3:38 a.m.: The Japanese radar station at Wakkanaï, Hokkaido, which had been tracking the unidentified aircraft's progress, saw the blip disappear from the screen less than 50 miles away. The trackers thought it was probably a Soviet plane that had gone down.
- 7:30 a.m.: The Korean government, which has no diplomatic relations with Moscow, asked the Japanese to find out, through their Moscow embassy, if the Soviets had forced the missing KAL flight down over Sakhalin Island.

- At about the same time, the Wakkanaï listening post began an arduous search of the tapes of Soviet radio transmissions for the crucial time period. Hours later, the tape and the radar chronology were matched up.

- The contents of the incriminating tape — in which the Russian pilots discussed the "target" and its destruction in detail — were withheld from Nakasone for at least an hour by his chief cabinet secretary, Masaharu Gotoda.

- When the prime minister was finally told, he asked Gotoda if the information had been shared with the United States. Told it hadn't, Nakasone snapped: "Why the hell are we wasting our time? They are our allies!"

- 8:14 p.m.: Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe told a press conference that KAL-007 had crashed, and might have been shot down.

- 8:30 p.m.: Soviet Ambassador to Japan Vladimir Pavlov was summoned to the Foreign Ministry and asked for information. He said he had none.

- 9:30 p.m.: The Soviet Foreign Ministry told the Japanese embassy in Moscow it still had no information.

- 11:45 p.m.: Secretary of State George Shultz told a press conference the Soviets had shot down KAL-007.

- Sept. 2, 2:15 a.m.: Tass reported that an unknown aircraft had violated Soviet airspace and fighter planes had scrambled.

- 3:40 a.m.: Ambassador Pavlov told the Foreign Ministry only what Tass had reported.

- 11 a.m.: Gotoda told a press conference that KAL-007 had been shot down by a Soviet air-to-air missile.

- Sept. 3, 1:50 a.m.: Tass made another announcement, still containing no mention of a shoot-down.

- 10 a.m.: Foreign Minister Abe dressed down Ambassador Pavlov, blaming the Soviets for shooting down the plane. Pavlov reported that some fragments of KAL-007 had been found.

- Faced with an obvious Soviet attempt at a cover-up, Nakasone made the decision to release the incriminating tape.

- Nakasone's decision to unmask Soviet barbarity before the world cost Japanese intelligence dearly. The Soviets immediately changed codes and frequencies of their transmissions in the Far East. From intercepting 100 percent of the Soviet radio traffic, the Japanese now get only half or less. One source estimated it will take at least five years and millions of dollars to come even close to their pre-September interception capability.

SAFE HOUSE UPDATE: Recently I reported that the publicly funded U.S. Synthetic Fuels Corp. was using so-called "safe houses" to keep information away from the prying eyes of congressional investigators. Synfuels officials told Congress that the safe houses were used by contractors applying for federal assistance to store proprietary information, or trade secrets.

Besides, the Synfuels officials said, the Energy Department also uses safe houses.

But a recent internal DOE memo suggests otherwise. It instructs DOE employees not to sign safe house agreements with companies doing business with the agency, because "these agreements are significantly more restrictive than normal government regulations regarding access to proprietary information."

Jerusalem: a promise hard to keep

There may have been sillier campaign issues than where to locate the American embassy in Israel, but it's hard to remember one than Walter Mondale and Gary Hart straining to prove to New York voters that each is the truest friend of the Jewish state. One point of contention was who had the more flawless record in support of moving the embassy from Tel Aviv, where it's been since 1948, to Jerusalem, which is Israel's capital.

Of course, both Mondale and Hart also portray themselves as more loyal to Israel than Ronald Reagan. This is no easy task. Under his administration — despite Israel's reckless invasion of Lebanon, its role in the Sabra and Shatila massacres, its continued settlement of the West Bank and its contemptuous rejection of the president's plan for a Mideast peace — American aid to Israel has risen from $1.8 billion to $2.6 billion a year.

Since Reagan has done everything important that a president can do for Israel, the two leading Democrat candidates have seized on an important failure: his refusal to move the U.S. embassy to Jerusalem. Both promise to correct that posthaste, lest anyone anywhere suspect that the two countries have any disagreements whatsoever. Israelis jokingly call their country the 51st state. Mondale and Hart behave as if the U.S. is a province of Israel.

The location of the embassy is a matter of great weight to Israel's most fervent American supporters. That is not to say that it would make any practical difference. Tel Aviv is only 45 minutes from Jerusalem, and the U.S. maintains a consulate in the capital. So the arrangement is no great obstacle to the conduct of diplomatic affairs.

But in the Middle East symbolic gestures are supposed to be crucial, and many Americans think this one is precisely wrong. Moving our embassy to Jerusalem, says the New Republic magazine, "would put an end to a dangerously misleading legal fiction, and it might have the cold bracing effect of obliging the Arabs to face unpleasant facts at last." To refuse to do so "is to encourage the Arabs to think that all kinds of facts can be reversed if only they are patient and intransigent enough."

Not so. What it does suggest to the Arabs that should they choose to negotiate, there will be something to negotiate about. One of the prime Arab concerns is the status of Jerusalem, which is unique in the world for its religious significance — not only to Jews but also to Moslems and Christians. That is why the United Nations proposed in its 1947 partition plan to place the city under international administration. Internationalization, however desirable, is no longer plausible. But it's hard to imagine a peace settlement with any Arab nation which grants Israel control of all Jerusalem.

Even the Camp David agreement between Israel and Egypt — brought about largely through the efforts of Walter Mondale's boss, Jimmy Carter — didn't do that. In fact, a letter attached to the accords reaffirmed the U.S. position that East Jerusalem is occupied territory, not part of Israel, and that Israel's administration of the city violates international law. If Anwar Sadat wasn't willing to give up Arab claims on East Jerusalem in exchange for peace, what chance is there that any other Arab leader would?

Israel would like the issue settled not by negotiations but by unilateral action, and no doubt would welcome an American endorsement of its action. Moving the U.S. embassy to Jerusalem doesn't by definition imply such an endorsement, but it would be taken that way by both Israelis and Arabs — which is why groups lobbying on behalf of Israel are pressing it.

But it probably wouldn't have the "cold bracing effect" of making the Arab nations more inclined to talk peace. Like other "facts" created by Israel since the 1967 war — notably the de facto annexation of the Golan Heights and the construction of settlements on the West Bank — an American approval of its "unification" of Jerusalem would suggest that legitimate Arab grievances cannot be pursued through peace talks. A change in the U.S. position would countenance Israel's policy of calling for negotiations while excluding all reasonable subjects of negotiation.

The dispute between Mondale and Hart is silly because it pretends that there are real differences between them — or between them and Reagan — on U.S. policy toward Israel. But it is serious because it suggests that even the slightest differences with our principal ally in the Middle East cannot be tolerated, and that any disagreements must be resolved in Israel's favor. Ceding control of our foreign policy is not in the interest of the U.S. — nor, in the long run, of Israel.

Bob Greene is substituting for Steve Chapman today. Steve Chapman is a member of the editorial board of the Chicago Tribune. His commentary is distributed nationally by Chicago Tribune Syndicate.

Church not perfect but Jesus Christ is

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: For years my older brother had never been interested in God, but several years ago he began to get involved in a little church near us. Now that church has had a lot of controversy over the question of whether or not to build a new building, and he has left in disgust, saying he will never go to church again. How can I help him? — Mrs. W.P.

DEAR MRS. W.P.: It is always tragic when Christians quarrel among themselves, and one of the most tragic results is that others look at them and then decide against Christ. Our lives should be a witness to Christ's love and power, and when believers are fighting among themselves this is not seen. The Bible says, "All men will know that you are my disciples if you love one another" (John 13:35).

Your brother needs to understand that Christians are not perfect, and they do not always do the will of God. They still need God's forgiveness also. He also needs to understand there are many, many believers whose lives are not marked by selfishness and quarreling; they have been touched by God and are filled with love and joy. But most of all, he needs to understand that the real issue is Christ, and Christ never fails. And he alone can bring forgiveness and eternal life to us.

You can help your brother first of all by being an example to him. Do you know Christ personally, and are you walking with him every day? If not, open your heart to him and commit your life to him. Then let your brother see that Christ can make a difference in our lives. When problems arise, let him see that you meet them with calmness because you know Christ and are trusting him. When relationships are strained, let him see that Christ has given you a new love for others, and an ability to forgive.

Then pray for your brother. Pray that God will help him to see his spiritual need for Christ. Pray that he also will see God's love for him, and what Christ in his love has done on the cross to die as a sacrifice for his sins. Pray you can point out that none of us should reject Christ just because of the imperfections of a few Christians.

Bozo calls it quits after 23 years

CHICAGO (AP) — The clown with the wild red hair, baggy blue suit and shoes he claims are "size 184" clomped out before a boisterous television studio audience for about the 5,000th — and final — time.

He's Bozo, the clown people have waited up to eight years to see and who's become a local institution since first appearing on television here in 1961.

Bozo, played by 62-year-old Bob Bell, bowed out Wednesday with the vaudevillian one-liners and slapstick that have amused two generations of youngsters.

"The Bozo Show," which appears each weekday morning on WGN-TV, will live on, but without Bob Bell. Al Hall, the show's long-time producer, said the station had begun searching for a candidate to fill Bozo's oversized shoes.

As he waited to slap open the curtains of the set for the last time, Bell said he planned nothing special for his closing performance.

"It's just another show," he said. "Oh, I'll admit I got a little mushy when I said goodbye to the kids yesterday. But today, I'll just put my mind on something else."

The program, which is seen throughout the country on cable television and in several foreign countries via satellite, ended on a slapstick note. Bozo and his two sidekicks — Cooky and Wizzo — flung pies, to the delight of the audience that included nearly as many parents as children.

There's nothing sophisticated about the humor on "The Bozo Show." Some television writers have criticized the show's childish orientation, but Bell, the most famous of several Bozos who have performed on local shows in various U.S. cities, said he's just out to "let the kids have a good time."

"They need a good laugh like the rest of us," Bell said. "That's what keeps me going — looking at the joy on the kids' faces. The kids are the best part of the job."

Although WGN did not announce that Bell was taping his final show, the children in line outside the studio were well aware that they were about to get their last look at the Bozo they've come to know.

One parent said Wednesday that she had waited six years for tickets, and officials at the station said the wait could be as long as eight years.

Expedition finds jawbone of oldest human ancestor

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Researchers today announced the discovery of a scrap of jawbone they believe to be the oldest fossil of a direct human ancestor ever found, a 5 million-year-old clue that would extend man's family tree back by 1 million years.

The 2-inch fragment, which contains two molar teeth, was found in Kenya in February on an expedition sponsored by Harvard University and the National Museums of Kenya.

The researchers were uncertain whether the jawbone was from a newly discovered species, or an older sample of the oldest known species from which humans are directly descended.

But they believed the fossil would help fill in the misty period more than 3.5 million years ago when mankind's ancestors — known as hominids — are thought to have split off from the forebears of modern apes.

"What is important about this jaw piece is that it is both clearly a hominid and it seems to be reasonably dated at 5 million years," said David Pilbeam, a Harvard anthropologist. "That pushes the oldest undoubted hominids back another million years — not very much, but it's 25 percent more."

Pilbeam, who was in charge of the research program, said the newly found fossil is similar to a species of human ancestor called Australopithecus afarensis.

Until now, the oldest discovered remains of Australopithecus afarensis were about 4 million years old. The species has been widely accepted as the oldest hominid, and the best known example of it is Lucy, whose partial skeleton was uncovered in Ethiopia in 1977.

Since they found only a small piece of jawbone, the researchers are not sure whether the creature is a new species or another example of Australopithecus afarensis. But "if it is different, it isn't very different," Pilbeam said.

Several species of hominids have been found over the years in Africa. They help trace human lineage from the emergence of modern Homo sapiens 40,000 years ago back to the erect but small-brained Australopithecus afarensis. But beyond that, the fossil record was dark.

No one is sure when humans split apart from their closest ape relatives, the chimpanzees, and evolved their separate ways. Recent analysis of blood and genes from modern primates suggests that the split could have happened as recently as 4 million years ago.

Pilbeam said most experts believe that the split happened sometime between 3.5 million and 8 million years ago, although some think it could have been as distant as 15 million years ago.

Man gets $28,000 phone bill

HOUSTON (AP) — When Ellington Neal received his telephone bill last month, he was stunned to see it totaled $2,100.

AT&T officials calmed his fears, blamed the huge bill on someone who stole a credit card intended for Neal and told him the problem would be resolved.

Then on Wednesday, Neal's mail brought a 2-inch-thick phone bill that tallied up $28,669.54.

"I'd have to be Superman to be in that many places at 10-minute intervals," Neal said. "They (AT&T) claim to have the situation in hand, but they obviously don't."

A telephone company spokesman, Randy Shields, said the calls apparently were made by a ring of drug traffickers.

Restaurant prices drive patrons away

HOUSTON (AP) — Nick's Fishmarket, a restaurant so expensive some Houston firms forbade employees to eat there on expense accounts, has closed its doors, and its owner blames hard times in an oil-dependent town.

"I'm going home to Chicago," Nicholas S. Nickolas said. "It's just that we were in the right place at the wrong time."

Another Nick's Fishmarket operates in Chicago. "Chicago just offers a better business climate than Houston right now," he said.

Nickolas is blaming the economic downturn in Houston for the demise of the $1.6 million restaurant in the basement of the First City Tower.

The Houston Chronicle reported Wednesday that many Houston businesses felt the restaurant was too expensive and avoided it and some firms even barred employees from putting Fishmarket meals on expense accounts.

"That also hurt," Nickolas said. "We may have been five years too late."

Nickolas said the restaurant, which opened in 1981, shut over the weekend after serving "a full house." The establishment did $5 million worth of business just three years ago, when it posted a $250,000 profit.

A MESSAGE FROM "THE GUYS WHO STARTED IT ALL"

WE THINK the VCR is the greatest thing to happen to America and Texas since the video tube.

ABOUT FOUR YEARS AGO, (with butterflies in our stomachs), we quit working for the other guy and opened Big Spring's first video movie rental store.

IT WAS FUN furnishing entertainment at home for a jillion families in our area. The nicest part of it all, was the friends we made. We are grateful to them. We are even grateful for the spotty competition that has emerged, because it means our industry is successful and has come of age.

EARLY THIS YEAR, our supreme court said it is okay to record programs at home for private use.

WE DON'T SELL VCR'S. WE DON'T REPAIR 'EM. WE DON'T RENT-TO-OWN." We are not in the furniture or appliance business. All we do is furnish family entertainment an affordable cost. The profits we make are funneled back into our store, to buy more rental machines and more movies for you, our customers.

WE ARE NOT EXPERTS, but we believe we've learned a lot about the home video recorder in four years.

WE WELCOME YOUR QUESTIONS. We'll even clean the west Texas dust out of your VCR for you at no charge.

WE ARE LEERY of so called "Video Clubs", and you should be too. We considered this when we opened our store and decided against it. Too Complicated. Too costly for the consumer. Why plunk down fifty, seventy-five or a hundred dollars up front, to subsidize someone's business venture? You'll still be charged for rentals.

I GUESS WHAT WE ARE TRYING TO SAY is that we love our customers and potential customers. We love talking to John Wayne, Elvis, and old time movie buffs, and you are welcome in our store at any time, even if you don't spend any money with us.

29,000 fans flock to Gaye's funeral

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As many as 29,000 mourning fans kept a vigil for slain soul singer Marvin Gaye, some waiting up to 12 hours to pay their respects at the flower-filled cemetery chapel where his body lay in state.

Not since the funerals of Clark Gable in 1960 and Jeannette MacDonald in 1965 had so many people flocked to Forest Lawn Memorial Park in the Hollywood Hills, said cemetery Vice President Robert L. Wheeler.

Police Sgt. Michael Rhine said 9,000 people filed past Gaye's coffin during a viewing Wednesday evening in the cemetery's Church of the Hills, where a huge floral arrangement was accompanied by a card reading, "Love, Diana Ross." An additional 10,000 to 20,000 mourners were turned away, Rhine said.

"Marvin, we love you, man. Rest in peace, rest in peace," said Mack Hall Sr., 57, as he passed the coffin lined in light blue velvet. "It hurts me so bad. He did a good job for us."

A private funeral service was scheduled for today for Gaye, whose hits ranged from the 1960s Motown classic "I Heard It Through the Grapevine" to the 1983 Grammy-winning "Sexual Healing."

Police and prosecutors allege that Gaye was shot to death by his father on Sunday, the day before the singer's 45th birthday, when he intervened in an argument between his parents.

Marvin Gaye Sr., a 70-year-old retired pastor, stood silently at a brief arraignment Wednesday as Municipal Court Judge Michael Tynan entered an innocent plea on his behalf.

Tynan ordered psychological tests at the request of defense attorney Philip Schreiber, who said there was "good reason" to question the elder Gaye's competence. Until the tests are done, Schreiber said, he could not gather "such evidence necessary ... to defend this gentleman."

Tynan set bail at $100,000 and said the defendant would not be freed during the psychological tests.

Deputy District Attorney Dona Bracke, explaining why prosecutors filed a charge of murder instead of manslaughter, alleged that during an argument over a misplaced letter, Gaye Sr. went downstairs and got a gun and brought it upstairs where the singer was shot.

"He had time to reflect on what he did," Ms. Bracke said, adding that the father apparently fired one shot from several feet away, then moved closer and fired again at almost "point-blank range."

Police have said the singer "pushed his father around pretty good" just before the shooting, but Ms. Bracke said the singer's mother has made statements indicating self-defense wasn't involved.

At the cemetery, where some mourners had waited since 8 a.m. to view the body, Wheeler said the viewing had drawn "one of the largest turnouts I can remember" in his 26 years with Forest Lawn.

"Please, let me stand here one second," sobbed a woman in a gray tweed coat. "Please, please, just one more second." The woman's companions, helped by a guard, led her out.

Bandits steal vegetable truck

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Police are looking for $20,000 worth of hot frozen fruits and vegetables and the tractor-trailer that vanished while transporting them, but so far the trail is cold, they say.

Investigators said Wednesday they are fresh out of suspects and motives in the weekend disappearance of the refrigerated rig and 32,244 packages of produce from a Rochester parking lot.

"There's an investigation going on, but we don't have anything we can hang our hat on," police Lt. Brian Page said.

"It's very difficult to say what happened," said James Cunningham, president of Fast Food Transportation Inc. of Syracuse, which owns the missing trailer.

The white trailer was loaded Friday at the Empire Freezer in Syracuse, then was driven to Rochester by a Rochester truck driver. The driver parked the rig, then went home for the weekend, intending to travel to Buffalo warehouses on Monday.

The driver checked the trailer Saturday and again at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. "But when he went to pick it up at 7 o'clock (Monday) morning, the trailer was gone."

Dear Abby

Harassed at work? Put it in writing

DEAR ABBY: This is for the young single woman who was harassed by a married man at work. He left flowers on her desk, wrote her mushy notes and kept trying to talk her into dating him after she refused repeatedly.

I recently read an article on sexual harassment at the office. It suggested that the person being harassed write the harasser a letter (keeping a copy), describing the incidents and indicating her refusal to go along with such behavior. It would read something like this:

"Dear ( ): On Jan. 14, 1984, at 2 p.m. you called me into your office and pulled me onto your lap. When I tried to stand up, you said that you liked me there and didn't want me to go. The following week, on Jan. 20, you sent me a dozen roses and asked me to go to dinner with you. When I saw you at work the next day and refused the dinner date, you reminded me that my yearly review was coming up in March. On Feb. 12, you... (the victim would continue to list dates, incidents and her responses)."

"I am not interested in your attentions, and consider them inappropriate for persons working in the same office. I want all such attentions to stop immediately. If they do not, I will have to take more serious action. Sincerely, ( )."

The article reported that this approach had worked well for numerous harassed employees, but even if the employee has to go to a supervisor or union representative, the documentation would help her case. Sign me...

NO LONGER HARASSED IN ILLINOIS

DEAR ABBY: I was recently a bridesmaid at the wedding of a close friend. Instead of buying ready-made bridesmaids' dresses, she insisted they be custom-made.

On the morning of the wedding, the bridesmaids' dresses weren't finished because the seamstress got the flu, so the bride rushed around and found another seamstress who basted the dresses so they would be at least wearable. Needless to say, my dress didn't fit, and I had to walk down the aisle pinned, basted and looking awful!

I had paid $110 in advance for the dress. After the wedding, $50 of my $110 was returned to me because of what happened.

When the bride came back from her honeymoon she called to say I owed her $10 for the seamstress who threw my dress together! Abby, it was the bride's idea to have the dresses custom-made in the first place, so I think she should pay for a second seamstress.

For $110 I could have bought a ready-made dress that fit. I think my friend had a lot of nerve, don't you? What should I do?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Give her the $10. Your friend had a lot of nerve, but she also had a lot of pressure on her wedding day.

Dr. Donohue

She awakes temporarily paralyzed

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 33-year-old woman of general good health. About a year ago, I awakened in the night to discover I was totally incapable of moving or speaking. It lasted for a few minutes. It remained an isolated incident until two months ago, when these episodes began to occur more and more frequently. They still last only a few minutes at a time. I am always frightened by the experience and disturbed at the thought of one lasting much longer. A doctor friend mentioned the possibility of sleep paralysis. What exactly is sleep paralysis? — J.S.R.

Sleep paralysis is as you describe it, a transitory inability to move or speak. It usually happens either at the onset of sleep or upon awakening and is sometimes accompanied by dreamlike hallucinations. I should note that it is different from the minor palsies that can occur upon awakening and traceable to one's sleeping posture, for instance, lying on an arm and pressing upon a nerve.

You should consult a neurologist who can investigate certain possibilities. Sleep paralysis is sometimes associated with narcolepsy, the condition where a person uncontrollably falls asleep during the day. The doctor may refer you to a sleep disorder clinic equipped to conduct tests to find if this is your problem. And you can be examined for other conditions that appear similar to sleep paralysis, such as minor seizures.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am tortured with gout in my big toe at different times. I take Indocin when the pain is unbearable. Is there a better medicine for gout? I am 67 and am taking hydrochlorothiazide for water retention because of my high blood pressure. — B.J.D.

There are other medicines for acute gout attacks, so many that I can't list them all for you. There are some to reduce the production of uric acid, which is what brings on an attack. And there are some medicines to get rid of excess amounts of that acid already present.

And while you are at it, you might ask your doctor whether he thinks your hydrochlorothiazide is contributing to your increased blood uric acid levels. It does that sometimes. Your other gout questions are covered in the booklet "Gout: The Modern Way to Stop It," which other readers may order by writing me care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printing and handling.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am having problems with watery eyes. Every morning my eyes tear for about three hours. They also seem puffy. I get enough sleep, take vitamins and am in good health generally. What can I do? — J.P.

Your tear ducts are probably blocked, preventing proper drainage through networks provided for that. You'll suffer from this without relief, no matter how much sleep or vitamins you get or how good your health. They have to be opened. See your doctor.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

It varies with changes in either amount and with the particular payment option. The terms of the insurance policy are more fully described in the prospectus; no representation is made as to the issuer's ability to meet its commitments. ## Pink illusion is usually harmless

Don't be worried if you see a vivid, colorful illusion after working at a computer with a video display.

Northwestern University researchers, after working with a computer with a video display presenting luminous green characters on a dark background, experienced seeing ordinary white letters of the alphabet and lines on a contrasting background appear pink. Also, a pink fringe could be seen on sheets of white paper or white walls.

This pink aftereffect, which may persist for a day or more, is a normal nervous-system adaptation response. Though the response is harmless and temporary, it could frighten anyone who doesn't know about it.

Group wants gasoline tax for highways

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's largest and most active civic groups and business associations are pushing a plan to boost the state's gasoline tax to pay for highway improvements.

The coalition — 37 groups in all — is asking Houston-area legislators to sign a petition supporting an increase.

Only five lawmakers so far have signed although "99 percent of them support increased funding," Colette Grinstead of the Houston Chamber of Commerce said Wednesday.

Lawmakers are expected to be called by Gov. Mark White into special session this summer to deal with highway and education spending.

Meanwhile, the Harris County Commissioners Court has approved a resolution backing a 5-cent-per-gallon increase in the gasoline tax. The resolution, approved Tuesday, would allocate three-fourths of the increase to state highway use with the remaining one-fourth to the county.

Thursday Notes

Runnels Junior High athletic teams headline the notes this week.

In their most recent track and field meet, the Yearlings lapped the field in winning the Sweetwater Junior High Relays. Runnels scored 143 points and grabbed seven first place medals in the process.

Leading the way was a 42 point performance by Brian Mayfield. Mayfield's limit was a possible 50 in his five events. He took firsts in: 110 low hurdles (15.64); 300 intermediates (46.36); high jump (5-10); and was second in: long jump (18-5½); and as a leg of the 400 relay (47.59).

Joining Mayfield on the 400 relay are Robert Rodriguez, Danny Williams and Charles White.

The remaining firsts for Runnels came from Sean Jackson in the 800 (2:13.01); Jackson again in the 400 (55.67); White in the 200 (25.71); and Matt Burrow in the discus (133-6).

Also scoring points were White, Rodriguez and Teddy Molina with a 1-4-6 finish in the 100; Molina with a second in the 400; Shane Shellman going second in the 300 intermediates and sith in the 200; Bobby Porras with a sixth place 1600 meter showing; Burrow placing fifth in the shot put; and te 1600 relay team of Rodriguez, Williams, Molina and Jackson running second.

Also at Sweetwater was the Runnels combined tennis teams under the coaching of Kim Hood.

Runnels defeated Sweetwater, 14-8 behind some solid play by Quade Weaver, Aaron Allen, Taff Wennik, Mike Yarbrough, Stacy Parks, Amber Logback and Alicia Garcia.

The next tournament action for the Yearlings netters will be this weekend in Midland.

And in varsity level tennis, Big Spring boasted the girls single champion at the recent San Angelo Lakeview tournament.

Dana Cannon defeated Tammy Allen of Lakeview for the title, 6-1, 6-0. Along the way Cannon whipped Teri Holley of Snyder, 6-1, 6-1; Shirley Gordon of Lakeview, 6-43, 6-3; and Mary Warren of Lakeview, 6-3, 6-3.

In between terrific winds, fishermen have been bringing in some respectable stringers at Lakes J.B. Thomas and Spence.

Crappie and black bass have been biting well at Lake Thomas, and with the spawn due to begin soon, the activity is expected to only accelerate.

Striped bass are continuing to dominate the Lake Spence angling scene, with most being caught in the intermediate range. Crappie and white bass should be coming on soon, however according to Mike Ross, lake superintendent for the Colorado River Municipal Water District. A fe black bass have also been hooked at Spence. A few of the results turned in by area fishermen at Spence show:

J.W. Fuller of Lamesa brought in a six pound, 15 ounce striper at Paint Creek Marina.

The Abilene Christian University women have qualified in 13 of 19 events for the NCAA Div. II national meet May 21-26 in Cape Girardeau, Missouri.

Among the Wildcats qualifying are Big Spring's own Carla Jackson and Rochelle Rutledge.

Jackson's best of 20-2 in the long jump and 38-6½ in the long jump qualified her in those events. She teams with Rutledge as one half of ACU's 400 meter relay that has a best of 46.79, also a qualifying time. The remaining members of the tandem are Nzaeli Kyomo of Mbeya, Tanzania and Paula Devane of San Antonio.

Roxie Wolf, a 5-11 senior post for Borden County, is the latest Big Spring Area basketball player to be honored with a spot on a regional team.

Wolf, a four year letterwinner, was recently named to the first team Region-I Class A team. Wolf averaged 13 points and 10 rebounds per game as Borden County posted a 23-3 mark, losing two games to District 11-A champ Greenwood and another to state champion Nazareth. Her selection marks a first for a Borden County basketball player.

Lady Steers geared for 4-5A push

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

What every 4-5A trackster has been working towards unfolds Friday at Odessa's Ratliff Stadium when the girls District 4-5A meet takes place and just like the rest of the field, the Big Spring Lady Steers will be trying to qualify as many people as possible to regional.

Coach Anna Ezzell's troops best shot seems to be the 400 and 800 relays, along with the sprints and 400. Ezzell admits that her squad does not have enough firepower to deal with the likes of depth-laden Permian, San Angelo and Odessa. "I think it will be between Permian and San Angelo, said Ezzell. "If we put forth our best effort, we could finish fourth overall. The others just have too much depth."

The young Lady Steers squad, which has only four seniors, can hold its own with any foe in the sprints and relays, but that alone is no match for San Angelo, Permian and Odessa, which will score heavily in the other races and field events.

Ezzell is counting on gold from her 800 and 400 meter relay foursome of Aretha Cork, Latresa Cork, Tina Smith and Pam Palmer. In the second meet of the year they ran a 48.97 and have yet to reach the mark again. Last week at the Mason Relays the group seemed to recapture its old form, turning in a 49.5.

Odessa, led by Kesia Gentry has the fastest time at 48.5, making Big Spring and Odessa the only two squads that have broken the 50 second barrier.

The Lady Steers have a little more breathing room in the 800 relay with their district best of 1:44.6. Odessa, Permian and Central are all two seconds behind, and are expected to battle it out for second place.

Ezzell feels that her 1600 relay team of Smith, Aretha Cork, Paula Spears and Teresa Pruitt could be a long-shot for a regional berth although their time of 4:16.38 is well off the 4:08's turned in by Permian and Odessa.

All year long Ezzell has felt that the team could dip under the 4:10 barrier and maybe this week is the time. "If we run a 4:07 we might sneak in and get first or second," said Ezzell of her chances. "But it's going to take a lot of guts and determination," she concluded.

ARETHA CORK

LATRESA CORK

TINA SMITH

PAM PALMER

The Big Spring mentor feels that the "hottest" race of the day will take place in the 100 meters involving Latresa Cork, Gentry, Permian's Sonji McIntire, San Angelo's Anita Allgood and Midland Lee's Tangi Carter. Only two-tenths seconds separate all five runners, with Cork's 12.25 leading the way.

"Yes this will be a good race," said Ezzell. It going to be tough, but if Latresa gets a good start like she did in Mason last week, she has a good chance to win."

The 200 should be equally as close with BSBS's Pam Palmer a leading candidate for a regional berth (25.58). Only Odessa's Kerry Evans has a faster time (25.40). San Angelo's Allgood is right behind with a clocking of 25.70.

The Lady Steers are looking to pick up valuable points in the 400 from Spears and Pruitt. Right now it looks like a two-person race between McIntire and Abilene's Debra Arrington with times of 57.10 and 59.11. Bridgett Green of San Angelo has a 60.4 while Spears and Pruitt join a host of others who have run in the 62's.

So while the Lady Steers run step-for-step with the opposition for most of the running events, they start to lag in the field events, where San Angelo and Permian excell.

Big Spring's top hopes will be shot putters Taylissa Cork and Paula Jolley. Both have thrown around the 34-foot barrier this season. Joyce Dewitt of Midland Lee and Monica Bradley lead the event with tosses over 38-feet.

Field events get underway at noon while running prelims get started at 2:30 p.m. Finals will get underway at 7 p.m. The final event, the 1600 relay is scheduled to begin at 9:25 p.m.

SLIDING SAFELY HOME — Oakland A's Davey Lopes slides safely past Milwaukee Brewers catcher Jim Sundberg in the sixth inning Wednesday night in a late American League game played in Oakland.

Jabbar within site of mark

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar goes after the National Basketball Association scoring record tonight in an arena where he has never scored a point.

The Los Angeles Lakers center needs only 21 points to break Wilt Chamberlain's record of 31,419 lifetime points and become the NBA's all-time scoring leader.

Abdul-Jabbar said he will not hold back despite pressure to break the record in Los Angeles.

Coahoma girls going for seventh straight crown

SONORA — The Coahoma Bulldogettes will be gunning for a seventh consecutive District 6-AAA girls track and field championship when the loop's teams gather here Friday for the district meet.

Coahoma coach Bill Dennis said there are a couple of facets of his team that he expects to be very successful in the meet that gets underway at 1 p.m. with field events. Running prelims start at 3 p.m. and finals will begin at 6 p.m.

Dennis said his 1600 meter relay of Gina Hudson, Janna Griffin, Leslie Kirkpatrick, Tobie Henry and alternate Stephanie Dobbs has "been bringing their times down gradually." The tandem ran a 4:12 in its latest race, down from a 4:19 three weeks ago.

Henry is a good bet to advance to regional also. According to Dennis, Henry has been "performing tremendously." Henry has a 59.8 in her specialty, the 400 meters, putting her a little ahead of last year when she qualified for the state meet according to her coach. Henry also has bests of 17-3¼ in the long jump and 5-3 in the high jump.

Two other Bulldogettes with good chances of reaching regional are Denise McCulley, the Bulldogettes distance star in the 1600 and 3200 meters, and Griffin, who has a personal best of 2:32 in the 800.

Defending the district championship and winning it again won't be an easy task, however.

According to Dennis "Sonora is real strong in the distance races and has so much depth. They're not real strong in field events though." Ace hurdler and 800 meter girl Lori French paces the Sonora bunch.

Colorado City is a threat to dominate the sprints, causing Dennis to add "The meet may very well turn into a cut-throat type of thing where everyone takes points away from everyone."

State gymnastics meet looms for 17 youngsters

HOUSTON — The largest group in the history of Big Spring YMCA gymnastics will be among the field here Saturday, Apr. 7 when the state gymnastics meet is held at the Post Oak YMCA.

There are 17 girls ages seven to 14 who will represent Big Spring according to their instructor Russ McEwen.

"It's one of the largest groups we've ever taken," he said of the girls who qualified solely on the basis of their doing all routines properly. The 17 are among a larger group that participated in several meets during the spring.

The girls making the trip are Ginger Brooks, Kisa McEwen, Nikki Anderson and Kasandra Keyes in Class III competition while Class IV participants include Belynda Grisham, Cherri Wyrick, Kim Sanders, Tina Atkins, Kristi Coots, Karen Osburne, Monica Martin, Sunny Fraser, Erin Roberts, Cheyenne Swafford, Becky Tedesco, Kendra Carey and Kim Middleton.

Coach McEwen said that a lower class number indicates a higher degree of difficulty in routines.

"Big Spring girls have managed to hold their own," he added. "At times we have come away with second place," McEwen said. Terri Lehigh and Hamid Assisting McEwen are Haghjoo.

BIRTHDAY PLANS — Howard County Commissioner Louis Brown, left, Mo-Pac trainmaster Al Peterson, center, and Mayor Clyde Angel visited with a Texas Sesquicentennial celebration representative yesterday to find out how the city can participate in the state's 150th birthday bash.

City plans for Texas' birthday

Local residents yesterday questioned a state sesquicentennial celebration representative to find out how the city can participate in the 150th birthday bash for Texas.

Lee Story of Austin met with a group headed by Joe Pickle which, included Howard College President Charles Hayes, Big Spring school Superintendent Lynn Hise, Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President LeRoy Tillery and Mayor Clyde Angel.

Story outlined state plans for the 150th anniversary of Texas Independence and told the group what Big Spring could do to help.

The city will be bypassed by the Sesquicentennial Wagon Train, which will stop in Abilene, San Angelo, Midland and Odessa.

Story told the group, however, that should Big Spring participate, it could be included in a trail ride planned for the area.

Big Spring would also be included in a statewide calendar of events that will be sent to the travel industry throughout the United States and Europe.

To participate, Big Spring would have to promote a series of Sesquicentennial events that would include community improvement projects and events to attract tourists. Already established events such as rodeo and arts and crafts fairs could be used.

Several state sponsored fund-raising activities for local groups would be made available to Big Spring civic groups.

Sam Woodward of the Big Spring Symphony Association suggested that the renovation on Big Spring's municipal auditorium might be a good community Sesquicentennial project.

The local group will determine if there is sufficient interest in Big Spring for community involvement in the statewide project.

"Each time we do something like this, there is a resurgence of good will throughout the community," Pickle said.

Hightower wants Texans

to save water

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said Wednesday night any statewide water plan must include agriculture and focus on conservation.

In remarks prepared for delivery to a water conference at Southern Methodist University, Hightower said:

"There can be no water plan without the inclusion of agriculture, which today consumes 72 percent of the water we use in the state. And there can be no effective water plan for agriculture unless we make a commitment to conservation as its centerpiece."

"With adoption of available conservation technology and systems, Texas farmers could save some 900 billion gallons of water a year, which is roughly the same amount that currently is consumed by all Texas consumers and industrial users."

'Dynasty' is the rage in Norway

OSLO, Norway (AP) — On a recent Wednesday evening, not one single person showed up for the 9 p.m. showing of the American movie "Having It All" at the Frogner movie theater.

Movie theaters put the blame on the American soap opera "Dynasty." The intrigues of the Blake Carrington family are shown on Norway's one-channel television every Wednesday night.

Churches, chapels and missions also have started moving their meetings from Wednesdays to other weekdays. So are sport clubs and other organizations all over the country.

"But we simply closed for the day on Wednesday when no one came for the 9 p.m. showing," a spokesman for the film distributors said.

Churchill bunker is tourist site

LONDON (AP) — The underground bunker where Sir Winston Churchill and his top aides directed much of World War II is about to become London's newest tourist attraction.

After a two-year, $2 million refurbishing, Churchill's Cabinet War Rooms will open to the public Friday. The complex is expected to attract up to 250,000 visitors a year.

The labyrinth of conference rooms, map rooms, bedrooms and long, narrow corridors lies 10 feet below ground in the basement of a government office building at the end of King Charles Street, about a block from 10 Downing Street, the official residence of prime ministers.

Built beneath a three-foot slab of reinforced concrete, the rooms protected Churchill, his War Cabinet and military chiefs of staff from German bombing raids.

It was from here that Churchill broadcast some of his famous wartime speeches and presided over one-tenth of the Cabinet meetings held during the war.

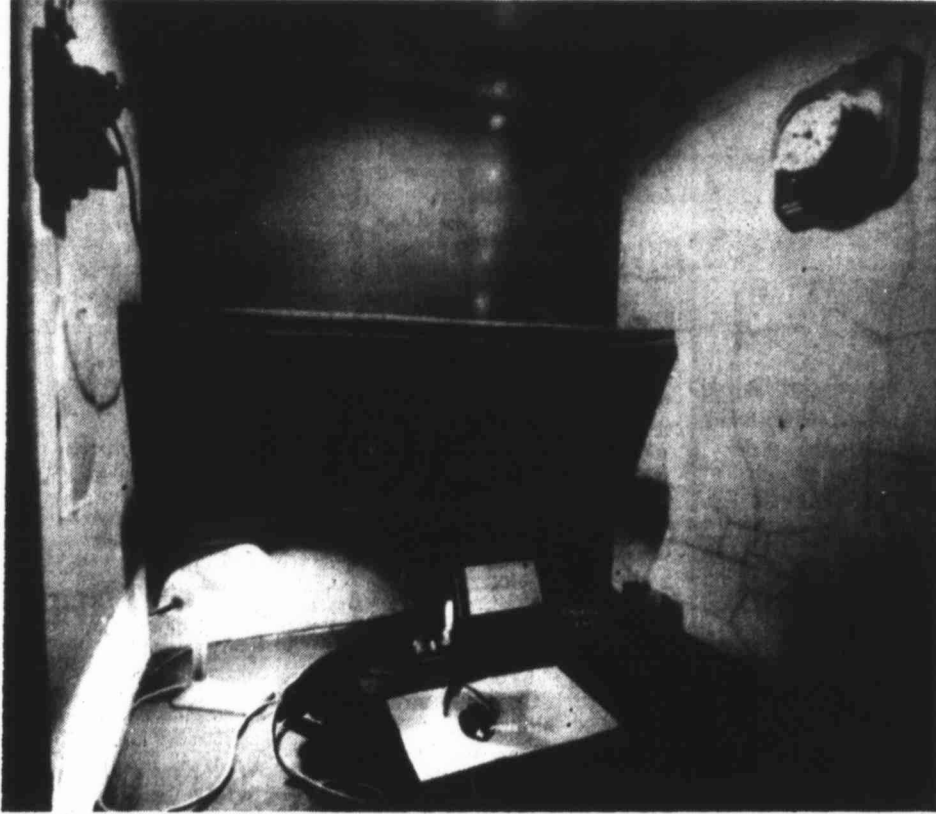

Using contemporary photographs, historians at the Imperial War Museum, custodians of the complex, painstakingly restored 19 rooms for public viewing. In the process, they revealed some secrets.

For example, Churchill had a special cubicle for making trans-Atlantic calls to President Franklin D. Roosevelt. A clock on the wall shows Washington and London time, and a half-burned candle stands beside the black hot-line telephone.

The room was so secret that Churchill had it disguised as a bathroom, with an engaged vacant sign on the door.

"The whole place is a bit of a curiosity," curator Jon Wenzel said in an interview during a press preview. "It is a good reflection of how Britain fought the war, entering unprepared and making the most of what was available."

Wartime chairs, desks, wall fans, telephones and typewriters have been put back where they were left, giving the rooms the appearance of having been occupied only minutes ago.

CHURCHILL WAR ROOM — This is one of the many rooms in the underground bunker where Sir Winston Churchill and his aides directed most of World War II. The rooms are to be opened to the public this week as a tourist attraction.

Ink pots, teacups and other items found in the bunker — including Churchill's .45-caliber pistol, chrome-plated helmet and chamberpot — are on display.

A weather sign that always said "windy" during air raids hangs from one wall. Hundreds of documents, many of them yellowing with age, are stacked on desks and tables.

"All the documents were found here," said Judith Donald, an assistant to the curator.

"There was a vast amount of paperwork down here."

One document was a mock secret memo sent by the 20 secretaries and typists who worked in the bunker. Dated May 9, 1942, it was an urgent request for large quantities of "silk stockings, chocolates and cosmetics" and suggests using "U.S. resources" to get them. Another memo indicates an officer was successful in obtaining the items on a trip to Washington.

450 rotary tillers recalled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ferrari-Maschio, Inc., of Madison, Wis., is recalling its model 71 and 72 rotary tillers, which may pose a laceration hazard, the Consumer Product Safety Commission said Wednesday.

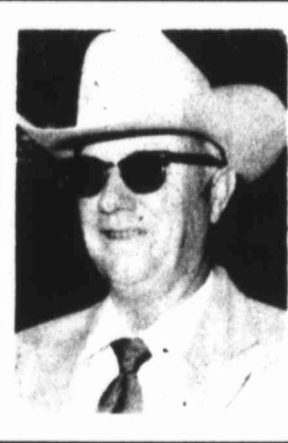

About 450 of the tillers have been sold to rental firms and gardening professionals since 1973, primarily in California but with a few sales in Alaska, Arizona, Colorado, Iowa, Nevada, Texas, New Mexico and Oregon.

The firm has received reports of six accidents involving the tillers, all taking place when the center hoe had been removed from the tiller. The hoe stabilizes the tiller, officials said, and removing it can result in the machine becoming unstable, presenting a hazard to the legs of the operator.

Ferrari is contacting rental firms which have purchased the tillers and is attaching warning labels about removing the hoe. In addition, the firm is replacing the center hoe on model 71 tillers with a modified version that will improve safe operation of the machine, officials said.

Owners of the tillers should contact the company by calling 608-273-3484 or by writing to Ferrari-Maschio, Inc., 2995 Kapeck Road, Madison, Wis., 53711.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 6, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Being rebellious and breaking promises would get you nowhere fast, especially since later you are able to put your ideas to good use and get the support to make your dreams come true.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you don't run off on some tangent, you find that good things can happen. Show that you have a good head on your shoulders.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't change your mind about some investment in the morning. Take time for some social pleasure in the evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Forget that errand wish in the morning. Show your true devotion for your mate. This brings about greater happiness in the days ahead.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Don't force another to do what you wish in the morning. Later you can be with good friends. The evening can be happy.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid that argument between a good friend and an attachment, and find an easier way of gaining your personal aims.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You feel like making drastic changes both at home and in business, but this would not be wise. Stick to your regular duties.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget that unnecessary errand, and concentrate on how to improve your regular set-up. Show associates you want to get along famously with them now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget financial worries and listen to what an expert has to tell you concerning ways to make greater progress.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Find some way of gaining more self control, and then make the changes that you deem wise. Plan a necessary trip to solve a problem.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You want to turn against work ahead of you but soon change your mind and become very efficient. Use the right words.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Some private anxiety could deter you from making plans for entertainment you like if you permit. Work out affairs sensibly.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan what should be done so that you can gain that feeling of well being you desire. Don't give anyone cause for criticism.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who will view everything clearly and reasonably and will analyze all sides of any situation before coming to a decision. Teach to finish one project before going on to another. A lover of sports here.

Woman takes up farming after husband's death

HEREFORD, Texas (AP) — "I love the harvest most. I love to be there when the wheat is tall and golden and beautiful. In fact, I plant a crop for the harvest. I think about feeding the hungry people of the world, and it makes me feel a part of it. There is a sense of productivity that a person really cannot get any other way."

Eloise McDougal is one of those women who seem to grow more beautiful with the years, a soft-spoken example of the kind of woman who has brought life and love to the West Texas plains for the past century or so. She talks with tear-moistened eyes about her love for "State-Line Farms" and why she has clung to ownership of the land since her husband Claude died 14 years ago.

"I don't think my husband thought I would stay with it," Mrs. McDougal said. "But it is a challenge and also fulfilling to spend time with the soil. I enjoy peace and quiet and the wildlife. Away from the telephone and the doorbell. I feel a sense of appreciation for nature. I am thankful that I have been granted the stewardship of this land."

"I don't think I am discriminated against because I'm a woman. I feel that the men listen to me and appreciate what I have to say. They have given me a fair deal, so that is one battle I do not have to fight."

The couple completed purchase of one-and-a-half sections near the New Mexico border in 1955. Various dryland crops were grown there through the years and, for the last ten years that Claude was alive, the couple developed an Angus herd. They raised both registered and commercial stock and often sold the registered calves to 4-H'ers for show.

Mrs. McDougal still lives in the brick house the couple built on the west edge of Hereford in 1953. For a while she drove the 35 miles to the farm every day. In recent years she has planted only wheat, so the daily trips are no longer necessary year-round.

Mrs. McDougal said she took part in the physical work that first year, but since then has had the crop custom-sown and harvested. She makes all the decisions about when to plow and plant and does the marketing as well. "When anything is going on, I am there," she explained.

As a former school teacher, Mrs. McDougal enjoys meeting the young men on the harvest crews. "They are usually college boys from various parts of the country," she said. "I like to visit with them and find out what their plans are for the future, what they are thinking about." She said she usually rides along on that first trip to the elevator.

"I also enjoy talking with the other farmers in the area," she continued. "We stop along the roadside and chat about moisture levels, when to plant, when to spray, things like that."

"I don't think I am discriminated against because I'm a woman. I feel that the men listen to me and appreciate what I have to say. They have given me a fair deal, so that is one battle I do not have to fight."

The Concho variety of wheat is currently grown on Mrs. McDougal's farm. "It is a good dryland variety, a sturdy type that is not as easily damaged by wind and hail."

"And," she says, "it grows taller. I like to see it waving in the wind and reflecting the sunlight." The responsibility of the farm does not seem to slow Mrs. McDougal down when her services are needed in the community. She has devoted a number of years to Operation Good Shepard and the American Cancer Society and is active on the state and local boards of Church Women United.

Her work with the Northwest Texas United Methodist Conference has blossomed into numerous ecclesiastical assignments throughout the state.

"I have seen a broad picture of what Christian unity is supposed to mean in the life of the community," Mrs. McDougal commented. "I am thrilled at the way the pastors here are working together. I can see that the heart of the community is going in the right direction."

A high school English teacher for 23 years, Mrs. McDougal said her students have become her best friends. "I depend on them for whatever needs I have. At Christmas time they come and bring their children, and now even their grandchildren."

Traveling in Europe, the Holy Land and to Hawaii have been a special joy for Mrs. McDougal. "I was finally able to visit the places I had taught about all those years." Now, she said, she would like to see more of the United States, especially the historic sites on the east coast.

Klan plans to defend the Alamo

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Ku Klux Klan grand dragon says 15 members of the white supremacist group plan to guard the Alamo from "communists" during a May Day celebration.

"We'll be like all the other people there," Charles Lee said Tuesday, "just like any other tourist."

Three members of the Texas Revolutionary May Day Brigade climbed onto the roof of the Alamo in 1980 and lowered the American flag.

"We want to make sure that no communists lower the flag," Lee said. "We feel the Alamo with all its history should be protected."

The Klan was refused permission last year to demonstrate at the historic mission, known as the "cradle of Texas liberty."

Police Capt. Martin Benavides said the group had not yet applied for a parade or demonstration permit.

"A demonstration is when a group is readily identifiable," Deputy Chief Robert Heuck said, noting that a gathering of Klan members would qualify.

Lee said he was not sure if participants would be wearing their white hoods and robes.

"If we can't (defend the Alamo) as citizens of Texas, then we'll come back and march," he said. "If the Alamo was protected, we wouldn't have to do this."

Klan members demonstrated in San Antonio twice last year, both times marching along a downtown route prescribed by police.

Lee said group members planned to march in Austin on April 14 despite a ruling issued Monday by U.S. District Judge James Nowlin placing limits on the scheduled demonstration.

"If we're not treated like we want to be treated, we'll be back," the grand dragon said.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with rules and orders promulgated by the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of a public hearing to begin at 10 a.m. on Monday, May 14, 1984, in the offices of the Public Utility Commission, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Austin, Texas, concerning proposals made by the company to add three optional services and delete two services from the list of local exchange services available to its Texas customers.

Proposed additions to the local exchange tariffs include an optional Local Measured Service under which all residence customers and single-line business customers could pay monthly rates less than flat rate for one-party service, with an additional charge for each completed outgoing call to be determined by the time of day, distance and duration of each call; and a subsidized LIFELINE local service to be made available to qualified individuals, as determined by the Public Utility Commission. The monthly rate for LIFELINE service would include an allowance of 25 outgoing calls per month, plus a charge for each additional call.

Proposed for deletion from the local exchange tariffs are one-element measured service offerings for residence customers and single-line business customers, but current customers would not be affected.

The company does not anticipate that these additional services will result in an increase in revenue to Southwestern Bell Telephone.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Aviso al Publico

Por medio del presente aviso y en conformidad con las reglas y dictámenes de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas, la compañía Southwestern Bell Telephone anuncia a la audiencia pública que se llevará a cabo a partir de las 10 de la mañana del día lunes 14 de mayo de 1984 en las oficinas de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Austin, Texas, con respecto a la propuesta de la compañía, que consiste en agregar tres servicios opcionales y suprimir dos servicios de la lista de servicios telefónicos locales a disposición del usuario en Texas.

Las adiciones propuestas al arancel del servicio telefónico local incluyen un Servicio Medido Local opcional según el cual todos los clientes residenciales y los clientes comerciales con línea única pagarían tarifas mensuales menores que la tarifa fija para servicios de línea única, con un cargo adicional por cada llamada completa efectuada desde ese teléfono, establecido según la hora, la distancia y la duración de cada llamada, así como un servicio local subvencionado de LIFELINE que estaría disponible para determinadas personas, según lo establezca la Comisión de Servicios Públicos. La tarifa mensual para el servicio de LIFELINE incluiría 25 llamadas mensuales con un cargo adicional por cada llamada en exceso de 25.

Se propone suprimir del arancel del servicio telefónico local las opciones de servicio medido de un elemento para clientes residenciales y clientes comerciales con línea única, pero esto no afectaría a los clientes actuales.

La compañía no espera que estos servicios adicionales produzcan un aumento de ingresos para Southwestern Bell Telephone.

Toda persona que desee intervenir o participar en el proceso debe notificar a la Comisión lo antes posible. Las solicitudes de intervención, participación o información deben dirigirse a: Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Para obtener mayor información debe llamar a Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division, (512) 458-0223 o (512) 458-0227, o al (512) 458-0221 si requiere teletipo para sordos.

Supreme Court orders trial in shot put case

AUSTIN (AP) — An Austin man beamed by a shot put during a track meet is entitled to a trial of his lawsuit against the University of Texas, the Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

James Smith, then 35, was a volunteer official at the NCAA championship track meet on June 6, 1980, when he was hit in the head with the 16-pound shot. The accident occurred as Smith, a Texas Employment Commission employee, was smoothing out the shot put pit when he thought practice throws had ended.

A Texas A&M athlete's throw hit Smith in the forehead, according to court records, causing head, jaw and tooth injuries that required surgery.

State District Judge Charles Mathews of Austin threw out Smith's suit after UT claimed it could not be held liable if the injury was the result of negligence by another unpaid volunteer at the Memorial Stadium meet.

But, in January, the Austin Court of appeals, reversing Mathews' decision and said the case should go to trial. The Supreme Court, without writing an opinion, on Wednesday upheld the Austin Court of Appeals ruling.
