On Friday, the area has a 20 percent chance of rain and highs in the mid-80s with westerly winds, 20 to 30 miles per hour and gusty.

White talks drought, education

By JIM BROWN
Staff Writer

MIDLAND — In a cool, dimly lit room Wednesday evening, far from the glare and wind of West Texas fields, Gov. Mark White promised farmers and ranchers he'd keep "a close eye" on the drought situation. "...I know there's nothing I can do about bringing rain," he said, "but we did fight hard to get emergency feed grain for farmers' and ranchers' relief...."

MARK WHITE

White told the 300 in attendance that "all the political speeches in the world won't take the place of one good slow two-inch rain."

"The emergency designation in West Texas will be continued and I'll be keeping a close eye on the situation for as long as the drought continues," he said.

During a brief interview following the speech, White said, "West Texas farmers must have national or federal loan support."

He continued, "We haven't seen how the new PIK program will work but the farmer still needs help in meeting the constant demand for new tractors and equipment."

Among those who filled the hors d'oeuvre-laden ballroom were Borden County Judge Van York, Howard County Extension Agent Don Richardson and state Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring.

Upton County Judge Peggy Garner introduced the governor with a weather joke, about traveling grasshoppers being advised to bring sack lunches.

She presented White with a dried ear of corn, and a rain gauge to symbolize the plight of West Texas farmers.

The immaculately dressed governor, whose entrance was heralded by a brass band's rendition of the "Yellow Rose of Texas," told the group, "Agriculture is one of the major industries of Texas and a lot of people have forgotten that fact."

"It's the driving wheel of Texas industry," he said. "When we talk about agriculture, we're talking about the man selling tractors, the manufacture of farm machinery and the steel to make it."

"That steel is often made in the state, and that involves natural gas and coal mining," White said. "...We have a lot to do to see that that industry stays strong...."

Shaw said, "We're just beginning to see the impact of the governor's work. Some of my district has gone three years without a good rain."

Shaw, whose family is involved in Howard County agriculture said, "It was Mark White that took the plight of West Texas farmers to Washington and talked federal officials into taking speedy action."

Teachers grade White low on report by Perot

By JIM BROWN
Staff Writer

MIDLAND — Gov. Mark White received a disappointing report card from state teachers organizations during a visit here yesterday.

White got high marks for his dedication to education issues but drew fire for the controversial recommendations of a special committee chaired by Dallas millionaire H. Ross Perot.

"I think that it might be better for you (White) to call your Select Committee on Education the Perot Committee," said Betty Pyle, president of the Classroom Teachers Association of Texas. "We hope that tomorrow will be the Perot committee's final meeting...it's really been a chore to keep up with that committee."

Texas State Teachers Association president Dale Young told the governor, "Unfortunately, we have experienced more broken promises from politicians during this past year and a half than any profession or institution could ever expect."

Young then congratulated White on his commitment to education issues. "White has never wavered from his commitment to education and teachers...and the rewards we justly deserve," he said.

Young said, "We are not totally happy with the efforts to reform education. We are flatly opposed to the competency testing of teachers...our own concern about incompetency is a daily personal

Hart's campaign hits state

Harte-Hanks News Service
AUSTIN — One local official called it a "waltz across Texas," but Sen. Gary Hart's 24-hour attempt to stir up Texans' support for his presidential ambitions more resembled disco.

The frenetic Hart campaign, with a crowd of national press representatives in tow, fast-stepped through four Texas cities Wednesday afternoon and evening and scheduled a luncheon rally in Tyler Thursday on the way to North Carolina.

Hart

His staff said he would be back for several more days before the important May 5 Democratic primary. The other two remaining Democratic candidates, former Vice President Walter Mondale and the Rev. Jesse Jackson, also plan Texas visits.

After Thursday stops in Amarillo, Lubbock and Wichita Falls, the Colorado senator came to Austin for a late-night rally and a short-night's sleep.

After breakfast at the Governor's Mansion with Gov. Mark White, who is remaining neutral in the Democratic nomination battle, Hart held a news conference in the House of Representatives Chamber at the Capitol. There he stressed his belief that he will win Texas but said losing would not end his campaign. "There is no state that would drive me out of this race," he said.

"I believe we ought to end military assistance to the government of El Salvador until the despots are eliminated," Hart told about 500 cheering fans in the

New prison camp head named

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

John C. Gluch, 40, will join the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp as superintendent June 4.

Gluch is in Big Spring today touring the facility and visiting with superintendent John Allman, 50, who will retire June 8.

Gluch will be leaving a position as special assistant to the director of the northeast region of the Federal Bureau of Prisons. He is headquartered in Philadelphia, Pa.

He has been with the bureau since 1971. He has worked in the central office of the system in Washington, D.C., the Metropolitan Correction Center in San Diego, the U.S. Penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kan., and his present position in Philadelphia.

This will be Gluch's first assignment as superintendent. In San Diego he was executive assistant to the warden.

He was chosen as Allman's replacement by the Executive Staff of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, which is composed of five regional directors, and the assistant and director of the Washington, D.C., central office.

His wife, Sheena, is a native of Stamford. The couple has two sons, John Jr., 3, and Kevin, 2.

Gluch said he views his move to Big Spring "as a challenge." He said he has no qualms about the move because, "I've never had a bad job in the bureau. I've always enjoyed every place I've lived. I look forward to enjoying the activities of Big Spring."

Allman, who has been with the Big Spring Federal Camp since its inception five years ago, said he plans to retire in Big Spring because, "I like the people and I like Texas."

He plans to remain active in civic work. His wife, Shirlene, is office manager for the office of Dr. James Cave.

Gluch said of Allman, "He did a fine job here. He did a lot with very little. This prison has been through a lot of changes and the bureau is very pleased with its progress. (Allman) deserves a great deal of credit."

Allman said the prison, "has received outstanding support in Big Spring. I anticipate the continuation of that community support."

Big Spring Prison makes the 'Enquirer'

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

The superintendent of the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp said Wednesday he is "not upset" by an unflattering article about the camp in the current issue of National Enquirer.

The tabloid newspaper carries its story under the headline, "America's six softest federal prisons" and calls the prisons "a sick joke."

Camp Superintendent John Allman said of the article, "I'm not upset at all. On one side of the coin, there is that group of people who say (of prisoners) 'Put them in a dungeon and feed them bread and water.'"

Others feel any kind of punishment is too harsh, Allman said.

"We have to be somewhere in-between. Our role is to help society," Allman said.

The prison programs are designed not only to put criminals behind bars but to try and rehabilitate them, he said.

Allman said the article "is taken out of context" and took time Wednesday to discuss points raised by the Enquirer.

Of the wording "six softest prisons," Allman said: "This is a Level One prison. Non-violent inmates are housed here."

Non-violent means the prisoners have not committed crimes which physically hurt other people, such as murder or rape, Allman explained.

Of the reference to "no bars, no cells, no guns, no fences..." Allman said, "Sure, there are no bars here. We don't need them."

Allman said the fact that the See Enquirer page 2-A

Much of state now gone with wind

HOUSTON (AP) — More than 1.6 million acres of Texas cropland has been damaged this spring by a combination of high winds and dry weather and the state's "blow season" still has another six weeks, according to a soils expert.

Dr. B. L. Harris, a soils specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said 1984 is shaping up as a severe year for wind erosion.

He said that 1.3 million acres of cropland were damaged through the end of March and 52,800 acres of crops destroyed. Another 300,000 to 500,000 acres were damaged, he said, by the middle of April.

"This year is very much like last in that we are going into it very dry, but it may be a little worse because of the lower crop production last year," said Harris. The lower production left less plant residue in the fields to protect the soil from the wind, he said.

Harris said the current cropland conditions have created a "scary situation."

The major problems are in the southern half of the High Plains, south of Lubbock, and in the southern Rolling Plains, an area from San Angelo to the Red River. Howard County is part of the "major problem" area. The dust is whipped from fields in these areas, said Harris, because the land is used to grow row crops such as cotton and grain sorghum.

Harris said wheat fields are not blowing now because the maturing wheat crops protect the soil. Corn, he said, is generally irrigated and creates few soil erosion problems.

Harris said the soils in the most damage-prone areas are fine sandy loam that have fine particles that can be easily carried away by the wind. As the soil is blown away, it takes organic matter and the previously-applied fertilizer which has a tendency to cling to fine particles, he said.

"You are left with just a bunch of sterile sand, plus you get dunes or hummocks," said

Harris.

There have been "substantial" sandstorms in the High Plains in recent weeks, he said, but he added that rainfall could change the situation quickly.

Harris said there are small problems in the North Central Texas area around Stephenville and in Southwest Texas from Pearsall southward to Cotulla. The soil in both areas is sandy.

The major wind erosion or "blow season" in Texas, said Harris, is March, April and May. Most of the erosion occurs when strong winds hit fields that are dry from a shortage of rain

Police Beat

Grocery store burglarized

Almost $2,300 in cigarettes, beer and packaged meats were stolen from the Giant Discount Food store at 611 Lamesa between 7:25 p.m. Tuesday and 7:05 a.m. Wednesday, store owner Randy Hall told police at 7:20 a.m. Wednesday.

Hall told police that someone entered the store through a rooftop heater vent and stole 30 cartons of cigarettes worth $255, two cases of beer worth $22.70 and miscellaneous meats worth $2,000, police reports said.

Bruce Schooler of 3200 Drexel told police at 6:57 a.m. Wednesday that someone used a large red brick between 2 a.m. and 3 a.m. Wednesday to break the front windshield of his 1982 Chevrolet pickup, police reports said.

Andres Gamboa, owner of the LaVedera Club at 1100 W. Interstate 20, told police at 9:12 a.m. Friday that someone at 1:25 a.m. Sunday kicked and marred the paint on the club's front door, worth $125, after the person was refused entry to the club, police reports said.

Gamboa also told police that someone he knows between 4 p.m. Monday and 8:30 a.m. Tuesday through a rock through a tinted glass window on the club's south side, reports said. The window was valued at $150, reports said.

Simon Alcantar, 18, of 502 Runnels was arrested at 10:41 a.m. Wednesday on suspicion of assault and released on bond, police reports said.

Charles Trantham, 33, of 1509 Sycamore was arrested at 7:08 p.m. Wednesday in the city park on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, police reports said.

David Hildebrand, a bouncer at the Player's nightclub at 3202 E. Interstate 20, told police at 11:20 p.m. Wednesday that someone tried to strike him with a weapon known as knob-chucks (two clubs connected with a chain), police reports said.

In a related incident, Peggy Ottwell of 2911 W. Hwy. 80 told police at 11:20 p.m. Wednesday that Hildebrand saw someone cause approximately $50 in damage to the hood of her Pontiac Grand Prix two-door at about 10:45 p.m. Wednesday while the car was parked in the Player's parking lot, reports said.

Michael Wayne Tipping, 36, of 3609 Hamilton was arrested at 12:38 a.m. Thursday in the 700 block of Lamesa on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, police reports said.

Air conditioner stolen

A refrigeration air-conditioning window unit was reported missing today from the building that formerly housed D's Seafood on N. Birdwell Lane, according to Howard County sheriff's deputies.

The unit, which was located in the east window of the building, was worth $100, according to its owner, W.C. Garver, of Gail Route.

Howard County sheriff's deputies Wednesday arrested Kenneth R. Welch, 19, of Tarzan on a warrant for revocation of probation. Bond has been denied.

The Department of Public Safety Wednesday transferred Michael Wayne Tipping, 36, of 3609 Hamilton to the sheriff's office on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

William Paul Darrow, 38, of 609 W. Seventh was sentenced in county court Wednesday for driving while license suspended. Darrow was fined $25, $86 court costs and 10 days in jail. He was credited with three days served.

Robbi Lynn Armstrong, 22, of 408 Bell was released from the county jail Wednesday after serving 48 hours of a 72-hour sentence for driving while intoxicated.

DAYS GONE BY — The lobby of the Gage Hotel in Marathon holds numerous artifacts from the turn of the century. The hotel was built in the late 1920s and restored in 1982.

Hotel rooted in past

MARATHON, Texas (AP) — While most hotels cater to fast-paced business travelers expecting modern conveniences, a hotel in this tiny West Texas town offers just the opposite — a journey back to a quieter, less complicated time.

"We try to project the feeling of being in the past, when staying in a hotel was a place to meet other people and rest," says Rita Martini of the Gage Hotel. "We don't offer what other hotels do. I guess unique is as good a word as any. We do really go back in time."

And only the hotel's guests, with their contemporary attitudes and up-to-date attire, defy the old West spirit created at the small two-story brick hotel.

From the 17 guest rooms to the lobby and bar, relics of days gone by fill the hotel, each telling a story, each adding to the atmosphere.

Originally built in the late 1920s by Alfred Gage, a rancher and a banker, the Gage Hotel was restored in 1982 after it was purchased by J.P. Bryan of Houston. It now is a historical landmark in Texas.

The rooms, which are labeled by names of local points of interest instead of traditional numbers, offer only the basics. No telephones or televisions here.

"Yeah, this isn't the place for people who have to have everything in their rooms," Ms. Martini said. "If you're a Holiday Inner, you won't be happy here."

But history buffs or museum regulars — "they love it." The front desk is separated from the living room-like lobby by Tarahumara Indian corn cribs, Ms. Martini said.

The cribs, four wooden poles held together in a square by webbed rawhide strips, were used by the Indians to store corn off the ground.

Furniture throughout the lobby and bar is made of pignskin in Tlaquepaque, Jalisco, Mexico.

And tiles that display some of the oldest registered brands in Brewster County and West Texas surround a large fireplace in the lobby.

Among the tiles is one with a V-6 symbol — the brand of James Perry Bryan, the great grandfather of J.P. Bryan.

The Bryan family's influence also is seen on one wall of the lobby, where the tanned hide of a foreboding alligator hangs. The alligator was killed in Brazoria County in the early 1950s by the hotel's owner and by his father, Ms. Martini said.

In the bar, a variety of Texas-made wines are displayed in the original post office of Murphyville, which now is known as Alpine, a town of about 7,000 people 30 miles east of Marathon.

In one of the guest rooms, "The Persimmon Gap," a large four-poster bed made at Nacogdoches in 1847 fills the small room. And in another room, a 19th Century French bed, with a gold painted headboard awaits weary travelers.

"We tried to keep everything in its original form as much as possible," Ms. Martini said. "In some cases, we couldn't keep the same things, but where we could, it's all the original."

Some of the rooms do not offer private baths as in the 1920s, hotels generally were built with large community rooms for bathing, Ms. Martini said.

The rooms without baths all have sinks and nearby shower rooms with toilets, she said. Those rooms also are less expensive than the bath-equipped rooms, she said.

Ms. Martini said most visitors to the Gage, which also offers one of the few restaurants in Marathon, are travelers on their way to Big Bend National Park. The popular tourist attraction is 40 miles south of Marathon, a town 250 miles east of El Paso that claims to be the "official gateway" to the park.

"Many of our guests just see the hotel and stop and many others have come because friends have stayed here," she said. "A lot of our business is by word of mouth."

"But they always have a good time," she said. "Our guests don't just lock themselves in their rooms at night. They mingle. We have games at night and they talk to one another, just like when the hotel first was built."

Restoration of the Gage took four years to complete, Ms. Martini said. Included in the work was the chore of having to scrape more than 15 coats of paint off the walls and of having to strip linoleum off the hard wood floors.

"The work obviously was worth it," said one Marathon resident, who added that the Gage is the community's "pride and joy."

prison does not have bars saves taxpayers money. "It costs about $6,300 a year to house a prisoner here. With bars and guards, it costs upwards to $30,000 a year per prisoner."

ballroom of a local hotel. He also brought cheers with criticism of "weapons contractors who are picking the pockets of the taxpayers of this country."

Hart and his supporters are desperately trying to convince Texans not only to support him but also to go to precinct conventions and register for him on election night.

There will be no direct vote on the presidential race on the Democratic ballot. But soon after the polls close at 7 p.m., more than 6,000 precinct caucuses will be held across the state to kick off the state convention process to select most of the state's 200 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco in July.

Backers of both Hart and Mondale, the front-runner in the delegate count so far, say Texas will be extremely important in determining whether Mondale will sew up the contest before the convention.

U.S. Rep. Martin Frost of Dallas, Hart's statewide campaign coordinator, said the campaign in Texas is like "trying to find 20 needles" in each of more than 6,000 haystacks.

Average attendance at a Texas precinct caucus is 20 people, Frost said. "If we identify 20 people for Gary Hart and get them out to every precinct meeting, we feel we will have a majority of the delegates going away," Frost said.

Hart told potential North Texas voters in Wichita Falls he endorses energy independence for the United States, amnesty for illegal aliens and a one-year halt to bankruptcy proceedings against family farmers.

At a town hall meeting at Midwestern State University, which was a highpoint of his swing through Texas, Hart said the 1984 campaign and a closet, Allman said. Inmates are not allowed to have a television in their room, but they are allowed to have a radio if they want to buy it themselves.

Allman said he felt it was untrue that people "would believe one of our rooms is like home."

The article also criticized the fact that prisoners are allowed to wear their own clothes instead of prison uniforms.

"Yes, they do wear their own clothes, and that saves the taxpayers money" by not having to purchase uniforms, Allman said.

Prisons cited in the article in addition to Big Spring are the Allenwood Federal Prison Camp in Montgomery, Pa., the Eglin Federal Prison Camp in Eglin, Fla., the Maxwell Federal Prison Camp in Montgomery, Ala., the Safford Federal Prison Camp in Safford, Ariz., and the Boron Federal Prison Camp in Boron, Calif.

"must be a national dialogue in which the American people debate and discuss our own future as a society, as a people and perhaps the future of the human race."

He told a crowd of about 750, "I would restore to this nation a sense of urgency about becoming energy independent."

Blasting President Reagan for "losing the public trust," Hart said 50 to 60 Reagan administration members have resigned in disgrace after working for private interests instead of the public good.

He told representatives of Hispanic Coalition '84, an assembly of Wichita Falls Mexican-American groups, that illegal aliens who have lived in the United States for several years and who have contributed to the economy deserve amnesty. He added that immigration quotas should be more liberal and that illegal immigrants crossing the Texas-Mexico border must be stopped.

White said he fully supported the Perot committee's report. He said he favored cutting the number of members on the state Board of Education, whom he said should be appointed, not elected. Also, he said teacher salary raises would depend upon the mood of the people and state lawmakers during a special session of the Legislature he plans to call in September.

White told the group of 600 educators, "What I see and hear is very important. Hey, I didn't even think that we needed the Perot committee."

Holiday closings listed for county

Many schools will be closed both Friday and Monday for Easter holidays, and county offices will close for Good Friday.

School holidays are scheduled for Friday and Monday for students enrolled in Big Spring, Coahoma and Forsan Independent School Districts. Students enrolled in all area private schools, including St. Mary's Episcopal, Hillcrest Christian and Immaculate Heart of Mary, are also scheduled for days off on Friday and Monday.

Students at Howard College and the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf will have no classes Friday, but classes for these students will resume on Monday.

The Howard County courthouse will be closed Friday. There will be no absentee voting for the coming May 5 election on that day.

However, voters will be able to cast absentee ballots Friday for the April 28 city council runoff election since the city of Big Spring has scheduled no employee days off for Easter.

City services, including garbage collection and water services, will continue as usual on both Friday and Monday.

State agencies such as the Department of Human Resources and the Texas Employment Commission will also remain open Friday and Monday.

Postal service will continue as usual Friday, Saturday and Monday and local banks will remain open for their usual hours.

Jury call canceled

Persons receiving jury duty notices telling them to report to 118th District Court Monday, April 23, do not have to report, District Clerk Peggy Crittendon said today.

The jury has been canceled because it is the day after Easter, Mrs. Crittendon said.

Absentee voting brisk

Eighteen persons voted absentee Wednesday in the May 5 Democratic primary and two Democratic ballots were mailed out, according to county clerk's records.

Wednesday's voters brings the three-day Democratic absentee in-office voting total to 71, and the mail-out total to 38, records show.

Three persons voted Wednesday in the Republican primary in the clerk's office, and three Republican primary ballots were mailed out. One Republican ballot was returned through the mail, records show.

Republican absentee voting totals since Monday are: in-office voting, 7; ballots mailed out, 52; ballots returned, 2.

Deaths

Clemmie Johnson

Clemmie Johnson, 74, died in a San Bernardino, Calif., hospital Wednesday.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Mt. Bethel Baptist Church with the Rev. Karl Hockenhuil officiating.

Burial will be at Mount Olive Cemetery under the direction of Jackson Funeral Home in Midland.

Mrs. Johnson was a long-time Big Spring resident. She moved here 45 years ago from Sulphur Springs.

She was born July 1, 1909, in Titus County, and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gus Lillard.

Her husband, Charlie Johnson, died in 1978. She was a member of Mt. Bethel Baptist Church and was church secretary for 15 years and a member of the senior choir. She also served on the kitchen committee and was counselor for the youth department and young matrons of the missionary society. She was a captain of the Baptist training union.

Mrs. Johnson served as executive board chairman of the Stokes-Parker District for four years.

Survivors include her son, Billy J. Crook, of Sulphur Springs; two granddaughters, Billie Jean Tolbert of Cucamonga, Calif., and Wynette Cook Smith of Dallas; a sister, Mahalia Robinson, Baltimore, Md.; three nieces, Essie Person of Big Spring, Gussie Snyder of Kansas City, Mo., and Imogene Alexander of Sulphur Springs; two nephews, the Rev. Glenn recalls training CLEVELAND — Sen. John Glenn has many fond memories of his years as a pioneer astronaut, but a visit to NASA's Lewis Research Center here brought back an experience he'd rather forget.

It was at Lewis, while in the early stages of space flight training, that Glenn and fellow astronauts suffered through the "multi-axis space training inertial facility."

The round contraption, the 62-year-old Ohio Democrat said Wednesday, consisted of three rotating rings, or gimballs, about 18 or 20 feet across, with a simulated cockpit in the middle.

Technicians from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration would "turn this thing up to speed at a certain axis and then cut it loose so it was coasting," he said. The spin simulated "a runaway spacecraft," with the astronaut at the controls.

The "graduation exercise" — spinning at up to 30 revolutions per minute — was "the worst training we ever went through," Glenn said. "For me it was," added the first American to orbit the Earth. "Scott Carpenter and I have had a continual 20-year argument of what was the worst training. He didn't fare too badly on this, but this thing came closer to bringing up my cookies than anything in the whole space program."

Margaret Trudeau ties knot

OTTAWA — Margaret Sinclair Trudeau, former wife of Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, called the television station where she had been working to announce her marriage to a wealthy Ottawa businessman.

The former Mrs. Trudeau, 35, had taped the final Segment of her talk show, "Margaret," Wednesday at station CJOH. In the afternoon she telephoned to say she had been married to Fried Kemper, who deals in real estate.

Ottawa Judge Hugh Poulin confirmed that he had performed the late-afternoon ceremony in his chambers, but would give no details. The station said the Trudeaus' three sons, Justin, 12, Sasha, 10, and Michel, 8, attended the ceremony.

The Trudeaus' divorce was completed April 2 after a separation of almost seven years. The couple married in 1971.

Pulitzer may appeal case

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — Divorce lawyer Marvin Mitchelson, saying Roxanne Pulitzer was left with "absolutely zero," vowed to appeal a court decision upholding terms of her settlement with publishing heir Peter Pulitzer.

Mrs. Pulitzer lost custody of twin sons Mack and Zack and was awarded $48,000 in alimony after a steamy divorce trial in November 1982. This Gold Coast resort community was shaken by testimony of cocaine abuse, extramarital affairs, incest and lesbianism.

The state's 4th District Court of Appeals on Wednesday denied Mrs. Pulitzer's request for more alimony and upheld the custody ruling.

Mitchelson, in a telephone interview from London, said the original award by Circuit Judge Carl Harper left Mrs. Pulitzer "with absolutely zero."

U.S. helicopter downed

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras — One of two U.S. senators whose helicopter was hit by gunfire and forced down in Honduras says hundreds of shots were fired at the craft by "a nest of guerrillas."

A second helicopter carrying Diana Negroponte, wife of U.S. Ambassador John Negroponte, also was fired upon but was not hit in the attack, which occurred near the border with El Salvador. "This was not a single gun. We figure there were hundreds of rounds fired at the helicopter," said Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., who was aboard the craft Wednesday with Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla. The two men were on a fact-finding mission in Honduras.

No injuries were reported among the nine passengers and six crew members aboard the two aircraft. There was no official confirmation of the source of the fire, which Johnston said came "presumably from Salvadoran guerrillas."

The helicopter was struck three times by .50-caliber ammunition. Johnston said he didn't realize what was happening until after he heard a woosh of air coming into the craft.

"Then over a period of time there were sounds like gravel rattling in a pan and it became clear that we were being shot at," he said.

The senators' copter landed at Marcala, 55 miles west of this capital city and 10 miles from the Salvadoran border province of Morazan, a longtime stronghold of leftist rebels fighting the U.S.-backed government in El Salvador, said U.S. Embassy officials here.

point their weapons at the Libyan Embassy and prepared for a long siege. Khadafy was reported to have told the Libyan diplomats and student radicals in the embassy to wait out the police "even if it takes a year."

In Libya, up to 500 chanting demonstrators gathered today outside the British Embassy, said Western diplomatic sources in Tripoli, the capital.

Embassy Second Secretary Redmond Norton, reached by telephone by AP Radio from Washington, said the demonstration ended peacefully and police held the protesters back from the embassy. The demonstration lasted one hour 45 minutes, he said.

Reagan starts China trip

WASHINGTON — President Reagan began the first leg of his 11,000 mile journey to China today, leaving the White House after shaking hands with the deputy chief of mission at the Chinese Embassy, Hu Dingyi.

A group of perhaps 100 school children, as well as a few Chinese officials, were on hand on the South Lawn to watch the president and his aides board the presidential helicopter, Marine One, for the short trip to Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland.

Reagan was escorted to the helicopter by Vice President George Bush. The president saluted the Marine guard stationed at the helicopter's steps, waved to the crowd, and left for his first stop — a Tacoma, Wash., timber conglomerate that is helping the Chinese replant their depleted forests.

Reagan planned to visit a log export facility operated by the Weyerhaeuser Co. and to address trade industry representatives at the Weyerhaeuser headquarters.

The White House said the president was visiting Weyerhaeuser because it exports wood products to China and is helping China with a reforestation project.

Many of China's forests were devastated in the mid-1960s when they were randomly consumed for firewood to help fuel China's backyard steel mills during Mao Tse-tung's disastrous effort to industrialize China overnight.

Reagan will not actually arrive in China until a week from today. From Tacoma, he planned to go to his ranch near Santa Barbara for three days of rest and further preparation for the trip.

He will go to Hawaii on Sunday for an additional two days of rest and trip preparation. He will go to Guam, a U.S. possession, on Tuesday for an overnight stay. He will arrive in Peking on Thursday, April 26 and remain in China until May 1.

Reagan already has been extensively briefed by China experts both in and out of government and has even viewed films of President Nixon's 1972 trip to China.

Khadafy berates British Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy said today that British police — not Libyans — killed a British policewoman, and that British security forces must withdraw from around his embassy in London before the standoff can end.

Ending the two-day-old siege in London "is the responsibility of the British government. We did nothing," Khadafy said from Tripoli in a live broadcast of an interview with NBC television.

The Libyan leader repeated his country's version of the events Tuesday — a version contradicted by witnesses, videotape and British officials, who all said a gunman in an embassy window fired on demonstrators outside the mission Tuesday, killing the policewoman and wounding 11 protesters.

Khadafy, speaking in English, said there was "an armed British attack by air and ground" against his embassy in which a policewoman was killed and 11 anti-Khadafy Libyan demonstrators were injured.

"I heard that the British police force used arms and shot at the bureau..." Khadafy said, adding later that his information came "from many sources."

The Libyan Embassy, which Libya calls a people's bureau, "is part of our (sovereign) territory. They have the right to defend themselves if attacked. The British government committed this attack... and the British government is responsible for any accident that takes place there," Khadafy said.

Asked if he knew the identity of the person who fired the fatal shots, Khadafy skirted the question and finally said he thought British police were responsible.

"I think the British policemen killed themselves. Because they shot our bureau during the attack. They are responsible for killing this woman."

As Khadafy spoke, British marksmen continued to

High Temperatures: Rain, Snow, Showers, Flurries, High Temperatures

By the Associated Press
West Texas — Partly cloudy tonight with widely scattered thundershowers north. Partly cloudy with widely scattered thundershowers area-wide Friday. Windy southwest Friday. Lows 40s north to 50s south. Highs 60s and 70s north to 80s and 90s south.

Showers possible over state

A weak cool front moved into Texas before dawn today, bringing milder temperatures to North Texas and the possibility of showers and thundershowers to wide sections of the state.

Widely scattered showers and thundershowers were forecast tonight and Friday in sections of North and West Texas, the National Weather Service said.

Thunderstorms erupted in Northeast Texas late Wednesday, triggering golf-ball size hail in the Mount Pleasant area. Winds gusting to 60 mph were reported along with the storm activity. The shower activity moved eastward into Arkansas and Louisiana before midnight.

Pre-dawn temperatures over the northern half of Texas dipped into the 40s and 50s, while readings in the 60s and 70s dominated the southern portion.

Winds were variable in speed and direction statewide. Gusty winds were possible in West Texas.

Cloudy skies stretched from East Texas southward through the coastal plains. Clouds also covered the Panhandle and South Plains. Otherwise, skies were mostly fair.

The forecast called for showers to develop during the day over the Panhandle and South Plains, as well as sections of North Texas. The shower activity was expected to spread across most of North and West Texas Friday.

Slightly cooler temperatures were on tap Friday for most of Texas. Afternoon temperatures in the 60s and 70s were forecast for the northern half of the state, while the mercury was expected to hit the 80s and 90s over the southern half.

In other parts of the U.S., rivers topped their banks or threatened to overflow as record snowpacks continued thawing and rain further dampened the flood-plagued West today.

The National Weather Service issued flood warnings for the Owyhee, Portneuf and Snake rivers in Idaho and southeast Oregon today.

Temperatures on left indicate previous day's high and overnight low to 8 a.m. EST. Temperatures on right indicate outlook for tomorrow.

Stirrings of peace in southern Africa

Something remarkable is happening in southern Africa. Reason is triumphing over blind ideology. Radical, black-ruled states are talking peace with white-ruled South Africa; a development that bodes well for blacks and whites alike in a troubled and strategic region.

On March 16, Mozambique's Marxist president, Samora Machel, and South African Prime Minister P.W. Botha signed a non-aggression pact. That should end Mozambique's clandestine support for the African National Congress, an anti-apartheid group that has carried out several terrorist bombings inside neighboring South Africa. For its part, South Africa will presumably terminate clandestine support for guerrillas fighting to overthrow Machel's ramshackle dictatorship in Mozambique.

The Machel-Botha deal was preceded by negotiation of a de facto cease-fire between South Africa and Angola. That could set the stage for a more permanent arrangement under which Angola's Marxist regime would do less to help Angolan-based guerrillas fighting South Africans in next-door Namibia. South Africa, in turn, could agree to launch fewer and smaller punitive raids against those guerrilla bases in Angola, and perhaps provide less material support for the pro-Western guerrillas fighting the Marxist regime in Angola.

Such an agreement could conceivably prompt Fidel Castro to begin withdrawing the 25,000 Cuban troops propping up the Angolan regime. Castro is reportedly tiring of his African burdens and might like to cut his losses in both Angola and Ethiopia. If the Cubans did leave Angola, that would eliminate South Africa's chief reason for denying independence to Namibia.

Credit for this boomlet of peace in strife-torn southern Africa belongs less to anyone's idealism than to undisguised self-interest. Mozambique and Angola are failing countries, wrecked and impoverished by misrule since Portugal abandoned its former colonies precipitously in 1975. Internal conflicts and proxy wars against South Africa have only made things worse. And neither Angola nor Mozambique has anything of value to show for their flirtations with the Soviet bloc.

Apartheid still rankles in black Africa, of course. But survival comes first. South Africa's black neighbors need peace, stability and openings to the West if they are to progress. And they need to recognize also that change and reform inside South Africa will be more likely if white South Africans are not confronted by pro-Soviet regimes on their borders. All the more reason, then, to welcome the signs of peace in southern Africa.

The KGB and high-tech theft in Japan

WASHINGTON — The KGB has found Japan a rich source of Western high-technology products that can be turned to military advantage by the Kremlin.

Yet Japanese officials are unwilling to stop the massive leakage of technology — or even admit it's going on. When confronted privately with the evidence, they profess skepticism that their trading benefits the Soviets militarily since, they say, it involves only commercial products.

Intelligence sources laid out the problem of Japan's weak export controls to my associates Michael Binstein in Washington and Dale Van Atta in Tokyo.

The sources said there have been about three dozen documented cases of high-tech diversion by the Soviets through Japan since 1968. The CIA is disturbed that more than half of these diversions were commercial transactions approved by the Japanese government — which, U.S. officials charge, puts short-term profits ahead of the West's long-term security needs.

But that's only the tip of the iceberg. The suspected cases of high-tech theft run into the hundreds. The very uncertainty over the numbers is a source of continuing frustration for U.S. intelligence agencies.

By legal and illegal methods, the Soviets have bought Japanese manufacturing equipment and used it to build up their own microelectronics industry for military purposes. The Soviet objective is to improve both the technology and productivity of industries that have historically lagged behind the West's: microelectronics, machine tools, automation and specialty steel.

Technology acquired from the Japanese has enhanced the Soviets' ground-based weapons systems and solid-state circuitry for missiles and aircraft, according to intelligence sources. The Soviets have obtained a satellite navigation system through Japanese trading firms.

The Russians also used illegal means, such as industrial espionage and outright theft, to evade U.S. and other Western export controls on products reaching Japan. In fact, there's a large KGB force working out of Soviet diplomatic residences in Japan whose sole mission is high-tech diversion.

Japan's national police and public-security investigative agency have the primary responsibility of countering the high-tech theft, and they have impressive files on KGB agents and their operations.

But the police authorities have not been permitted to take action against the KGB's high-tech larceny, thanks to bureaucratic niceties. Japanese law puts such matters outside the jurisdiction of the police and gives it to the ministries of foreign affairs and international trade. The best the lawmen can do is provide "administrative guidance" — but no enforcement — for companies considering trade with the Soviets.

Multiple trans-shipment (shipments to four, five or more destinations) and creation of dummy corporations are two methods used by the KGB and profit-hungry Japanese businessmen to get around whatever restrictions there are.

Sometimes the illicit trade is a small-scale enterprise, as when Japanese fishermen win the privilege of fishing off islands claimed by the Soviets by meeting KGB agents at sea and slipping them everything from digital watches to microchips and information on U.S. and Japanese military bases.

Footnote: In an attempt to stop the high-tech drain, Congress is rewriting the Export Administration Act. The debate has pitted Rep. Don Bonker, D-Wash., who believes Japan and other countries are adequately controlling high-tech exports, against Rep. Toby Roth, R-Wisc., who questions Japan's record.

DISPATCH FROM EL SALVADOR: My roving reporter, Jon Lee Anderson, has just returned from a foray into rebel territory. He found the guerrillas more edgy, more hostile toward Americans.

In the small town of El Triunfo, he talked with guerrillas who had American-made M-16 automatic rifles slung over their shoulders. They were dressed in a bewildering hodgepodge of civilian garb and cannibalized military uniforms. Most were peasant boys.

As Anderson chatted with a sentry in the town's hot, squalid little plaza, an army helicopter clattered overhead. The guerrillas didn't scramble for cover; they seemed indifferent to the enemy chopper.

But the sentry blurted: "We know American pilots are flying the bombing missions against us, and so we're ready to fight against the Americans, too."

Anderson, who speaks fluent Spanish, prodded him cautiously. The guerrilla responded fiercely: "We want to kill gringos! We're waiting for them!"

In the battle-scarred hills of northern San Miguel, my reporter was stopped by guerrillas outside the town of Sesori. The local guerrilla leader, a short man in his 20s, approached Anderson and two companions.

They tried to appeal to higher authority, but they were told by the guerrillas that the radio had "gone dead." For more than an hour, there was a tense stand-off. At one time, they were warned: "Don't you dare leave (by car)." Finally, they were allowed to go.

Billy Graham

Why did Jesus die so painfully?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I recently read through one of the gospels for the first time, and I had never realized what a horrible and painful death Jesus must have undergone. Why did God allow him to die like that? — M.C.

DEAR M.C.: Let's be clear about one thing. The Bible makes it very clear that God did not want his son to have to undergo the suffering and agony of the cross — and yet he allowed it for a very important reason.

The real question is, why did Jesus Christ die? The answer in the Bible is this: Jesus Christ died to bring salvation. The Bible puts it this way, "You see, at just the right time, when we were powerless, Christ died for the ungodly. Very rarely will anyone die for a righteous man, though for a good man someone might possibly dare to die. But God demonstrates his own love for us in this, while we were still sinners, Christ died for us." (Romans 5:6-8).

What does this mean? It means first of all that you and I have a deep spiritual problem which we cannot solve by ourselves. The problem is that we have sinned against God, and because of that we separated from him. We therefore, deserve only his judgment, and have no right to go to heaven when we die.

It means secondly that God has done for us what we cannot do for ourselves. Because he loves us (in spite of the fact we have not loved him as we should), he has provided a way for us to be saved. In God's perfect wisdom there was only one way for this to happen, that was for God himself — in the person of his son — to take upon himself the punishment for our sins.

This means therefore, that we can be reconciled to God and have our sins forgiven, if we will turn to Christ and trust him alone for our salvation. You see, Christ's physical agony on the cross — terrible as it was — was but a sign of his deeper spiritual agony, because he was undergoing the death and hell that you and I deserve. But because he did it, you and I do not have to fear death and hell.

Around The Rim

By RHONDA WITT

Things change

Rhonda Woodall! Who is she? That was a question several readers were asking themselves last Sunday when they opened their newspaper to the Lifestyle section. Did the Herald go and hire another writer?

No, it's just me, Rhonda Witt with a new last name as of last week. I didn't change my name due to the happy event of matrimony. I changed it because I got a divorce.

It doesn't bother me that I'm unattached again. I've learned that not everything lasts forever. Things change as you get older. Sometimes, things change so much you can do nothing else other than move on to new things. That's what I'm doing now. It would be foolish for me to keep living in the past.

Things never stay at a stand still but are always changing. Change is good, because that means people are thinking and using their heads. When things stay the same that is when it is time to worry. Everyone should be open-minded. When people keep their mind closed to new ideas, they are holding the future back. Not every idea is good, but each idea should at least have the chance to be considered.

During the years, the world has seen lots of changes which have improved our lifestyle.

What would we do if someone hadn't thought of the automobile? We are always in a hurry, and panic if our car won't start in the morning. Think about what our forefathers went through. They didn't have the modes of transportation we have nowadays. Until 1860, road vehicles were powered by steam engines. Then in 1860, Lenoir of Paris built an internal combustion engine which ran on city gas. The engine was used to propel a road vehicle in 1862. This was just the beginning of the new automobile. Through the work and ideas of several people, the automobile has evolved into what it is today.

How about the airplane, too? Although William and Orville Wright made the first successful flight, Leonardo da Vinci (1452-1519) conceived three distinct devices for carrying man in the air. I'm sure everybody thought Leonardo was off his rocker. But some men believed in his ideas. During the 1800s, Sir George Cayley and William Henson developed some new ideas about air travel.

Through new ideas, the telephone, radio, television, refrigeration and ovens were invented. People take these things for granted. But they forget we wouldn't have them if someone hadn't been smart enough to listen to someone else's crazy ideas.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

FAMOUS QUOTES IN HISTORY!

Steve Chapman

Doing nothing about religion issue

If you thought the Senate's March 15 defeat of the school prayer amendment quieted the wrangling over the place of religion in schools, think again. Prayers sponsored or led by school employees were rightly banned as unconstitutional by the Supreme Court two decades ago. The Senate decided not to overrule the court by amending the Constitution. That was the easy issue. Now comes a thornier one.

It arises from a bill sponsored by Rep. Donald Bonker (D-Wash.) and approved by the House Education and Labor Committee on April 5. The bill is supposed to ensure that student-initiated, student-run religious groups have "equal access" to secondary school facilities provided to other student organizations. In the view of its supporters, this upholds that part of the First Amendment which protects the free exercise of religion, without violating that part which forbids an establishment of religion.

The American Civil Liberties Union and some (though not all) other separatists disagree. They argue that providing school facilities for religious activities inevitably implies an official endorsement of them. And they complain that the bill permits invited members of the clergy to attend the meetings of these groups, raising the prospect that, as the ACLU's Barry Lynn puts it, "it might become difficult to distinguish the public school classroom from the Sunday school."

Neither argument is terribly persuasive. Most high school students (unlike grade-school children) are surely able to grasp the distinction between government sponsorship of religion and government neutrality toward religion. And all the bill requires is that if other student groups are allowed to invite outsiders to their meetings, religious groups must also be allowed to do so. But the ACLU is nonetheless right to harbor doubts about this measure.

The bill tries to enshrine for secondary schools a principle already established by the Supreme Court for colleges and universities. In 1961, it ruled that a university which makes space available for student groups in general can't specifically exclude religious ones. It hasn't yet ruled on whether the same principle applies to lower institutions. When it does, of course, it will render any law enacted by Congress either unconstitutional or superfluous.

Given that, Congress would be better off doing nothing. It ought to let the court decide what, ultimately, only it can decide. In fact, doing nothing might be the best answer for the court itself — declaring that schools are neither required to bar religious groups from school grounds nor forbidden to do so. That would, in effect, leave the matter to be decided by each school district, which may be the least bad answer to a painful dilemma.

The dilemma is posed by the First Amendment, whose components are not entirely compatible. It protects religious expression, even as it grants it a less elevated status than other types of speech. The government may endorse any other type of belief, but it may not sponsor religious belief. The First Amendment protects religious speech when uttered by citizens but censors it when uttered by representatives of the state.

Neither a ban on religious groups nor a requirement that they be given free rein is very easy to reconcile with the First Amendment. On the one hand, students shouldn't be required to check their religious freedoms at the schoolhouse door. On the other, no separationist can be comfortable with the idea of full-blown religious services being conducted in a public school. Either the free exercise clause or the establishment clause has to yield — not an inviting choice.

The only alternative is to split the difference, making both yield a little. The court — and, in the meantime, Congress — could declare that the First Amendment offers no definitive guidance on this issue. Hence, school districts may choose to offer their facilities to all student groups, to only nonreligious student groups or to no student groups.

When the rights of the disputants are as murky and as contradictory as in this case, no one should hasten to grant either side all it demands. Leaving the matter to the preferences of local school districts and their constituents is a distinctly unsatisfying solution to this bitter clash of principles. But it is less unsatisfying, and less dangerous, than any other.

Color principles demonstrated

A program, "Color Your World," was presented by Virginia Roberts, Wanda Lee and Fay Roberts at a meeting of the Elbow Extension Homemakers Club in the Elbow School Cafeteria, April 5.

Members learned how to use color in interior decoration and furnishings to make an attractive, functional home. Colors have a psychological effect on people. Color schemes should be chosen, based on individual preferences and style, purpose, exposure, size and shape of a room.

A color wheel uses the three primary colors of red, blue and yellow. By mixing these colors, secondary colors of orange, green and purple were made. Black, white and gray are neutral colors. Any color plus black makes a shade, which has a darker value. When white is added to a color, a tint is made. Pure colors are the most intense.

Several members attended the Extension Homemakers District 6 Meeting in Midland, April 13. They also attended the Women's Seminar in Big Spring, April 14.

A Talent Show will be held at the next meeting at 2 p.m., April 19 in the music room of Elbow School.

Suckers rob African violets of beauty

Mrs. Allie Moore presented "There's a Sucker Born Every Day" at a meeting of the Texas Star Violet Club in the home of Fannie Wilkinson, April 5.

In the world of African Violets, suckers are not the victims, they are the aggressors. They rob the plants of their symmetry beauty, grace and incipient buds. If allowed to flourish, they multiply and can make a promising queen look like a head of cabbage.

A sucker is four leaves without evidence of a bud, that forms at the base of the plant or in the axils of the petioles. A weekly check to remove these unsightly growths is a must. A pencil tip, tweezers or nut pick can be used to eradicate them. Work very gently so that you do not cut into the leaf petioles. Very small ones can be flicked off. Larger ones can be used for propagation as you would a leaf.

Place them in a sterile rooting mix like vermiculite or half each vermiculite and perlite, using a prop box (aluminum trays, plastic shoe boxes). If the humidity is low they can be covered with plastic for a few weeks until they form roots. They root and become blooming plants very readily.

The next meeting will be in the home of Lona Crocker, May 3.

POW display featured at VA hospital

Through the efforts of Tom Purcell, a Korean prisoner of war for 27 months, the Dallas Veterans Administration Medical Center has loaned the Permian Basin Chapter of Ex-POW a powerful and dramatic display portraying the starvation and mistreatment of American soldiers who were prisoners of war.

Some information contained in the display, developed by Laurie Skelton, POW coordinator in Dallas, is as follows:

- Former POWs of the lost Battalion and the USS Houston built by hand a single-line, one gauge railroad that was 250 miles long called the Bangkok-Morielmen Railway of Bridge Over River Kwai fame.

- 7,140 servicemen were captured during the Korean War, and 2,701 of them died during internment.

- There were 766 servicemen captured during the Vietnam War and 114 died during internment.

- During World War II, 34,648 service members were captured in the Pacific Theater and 95,532 were captured in the European Theater.

- The state of Texas is the home of most of the survivors from the lost Battalion and the USS Houston.

- Most recent estimate indicates that there are nearly 100,000 American POWs living today.

- There are approximately 2,727 Ex-POWs living in Texas.

During World War II, there were 12 times as many deaths during captivity in the Pacific Theater than in the European Theater (12,935 verses 1,124).

The public is invited to view the display, located in the lobby of the VA Medical Center during the week. This information will next be on view at Odessa College in preparation for a meeting of the Permian Basin Chapter of Ex-POWs at 4 p.m. April 21.

Dr. Donohue

Angiography process explained

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is the purpose of having an "intravenous digital subtraction angiography" done? A copy of my patient information aid doesn't explain its purpose. — C.A.

You'll find out why it doesn't when you get my explanation. Angiography is an X-ray picture of blood vessels. And because vessels don't show up ordinarily you have to inject a dye before they can be seen. Formerly, the dye had to be put into the artery. It would have been better to put it into the veins, but by the time it got to the arteries it would have been too diluted to provide the contrast needed for a good picture. Veins are better routes because blood in them is not under such high pressure as it is in the arteries.

Enter intravenous digital subtraction angiography. With this technique, as the name implies, you can inject the dye into the veins. The rest of the long phrase describes how the dilution factor is overcome so that the arteries will stand out for blockages to be detected.

To make a very long and complex story short and probably oversimplified, the technique permits a kind of erasing of all structures being X-rayed but the arteries. All disturbances are removed and don't cast shadows.

Dear Abby

Reporter struggles with rewriting future plans

DEAR ABBY: I am a bright, pretty, college-educated newspaper reporter in love with an older professional man. He's married and his wife is expecting next month. She conceived after I began seeing her husband, which made me doubt his love for me. He promised me that he would leave her and file for divorce as soon as the baby is born, but so far he hasn't even told his wife about me.

He is wonderful to me. He's loving, caring, generous, gentle, understanding and sincere.

Am I as stupid as I think I am? Am I ignoring the obvious? Should I wait until after the baby is born, or get out now?

BAFFLED

DEAR BAFFLED: Yes, you are as stupid as you think you are, if you think this man is sincere. Are you ignoring the obvious? Not any more; I think you are catching on.

Don't wait until the baby is born. Get out now. And stay away from married men. They make lousy husbands.

DEAR ABBY: A reader named Barbara who married a man named Gene McGraw asks, "Just who is Mrs. Gene McGraw?" (She says, "I am not a bisexual, nor do I have two heads.") Then she signs herself, "Mrs. Barbara McGraw."

The name "Mrs. Barbara McGraw" means she married someone named "Barbara."

The title "Ms." is available for women who prefer using their own first names; she could call herself "Ms. Barbara McGraw," or she could skip any title completely.

Whatever she decides, the one thing she isn't is "Mrs. Barbara McGraw" — unless she's planning a divorce. Archiac, maybe, but still true.

Mother and child honored

Mrs. Jimmy Shanks and son Timothy Steven were honored with a baby shower at the Fellowship Hall of East 4th Street Baptist Church, April 14. Hosting the event were: Mrs. Randy Gee, Mrs. Craig Rhoton, Mrs. Jerry Oliphant, Mrs. Dick Davis, Mrs. Ricky James, Mrs. Barry Dunnam, Mrs. M.L. Kirby, Mrs. Mike West, Anna Vick and Muriel Denton. The hostesses presented the honorees with a car seat.

Guests were served from a table covered with a blue cloth and white lace. A baby doll in a bassinet, surrounded by yellow flowers, centered the table. Two ceramic angels on pedestals were above the centerpiece looking down on the baby. The registry book was made by Mrs. Kirby.

Special guests were Mrs. Wade Shanks, the baby's paternal grandmother; two aunts, Mrs. Kevin Murphy and Mrs. Donnie Shanks; his sister and brother, Melissa Shanks and Jimmy Shanks Jr.

Timothy was born March 17.

Probe nets possible condo fraud

DALLAS (AP) — Federal criminal investigators have received evidence of possible construction-loan fraud on condominiums built along Interstate 30, a federal savings regulator said.

Scott Taylor, associate director of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. in Washington, said examiners questioned the loans during a continuing audit of Empire Savings & Loan Association of Mesquite.

That bank closed March 14 because of questionable lending practices in the I-30 corridor in eastern Dallas County, Taylor said told The Dallas Morning News Wednesday.

"I've seen badly managed institutions, but I've never seen apparent fraud and mismanagement on this scale," Taylor said.

The FSLIC has given federal investigators evidence that loans from Empire exceeded the actual construction costs by $10 per square foot, he said.

Bureaucracy drives former professor to suicide

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A former professor who stormed the president's office at the University of South Carolina, seized a student at gunpoint and killed himself had become increasingly bitter and frustrated after losing his job, officials and friends say.

Philip Zeltner, demanding to be reinstated to the faculty, shot himself in the head Wednesday in the office of President James Holderman, where he had barricaded himself after seizing Pat Bowman, police said. Bowman, a student aide to Holderman, was released unharmed after about two hours.

Zeltner then talked by phone with Holderman, who had been out of his office, and with lawmen and a local television weatherman, but hung up and within 30 minutes was dead.

Zeltner, who was named the university's teacher of the year in 1978, lost his job as an assistant professor of philosophy in 1982 after failing to gain tenure. Over the next two years, he worked only intermittently, growing increasingly bitter and withdrawn as unemployment persisted, said Ward Briggs, an associate professor at the university.

Zeltner thought of the classroom as "a sanctified area," Briggs said. "It was a domain where a pure exchange of ideas could take place. When he lost his job, he had nothing."

"He was a natural-born teacher," said Morse Peckham, a friend and retired philosophy professor. "He was very interested in students... He could make very complex ideas clear to someone who had very little background."

But in the bureaucratic, political side of college teaching, the New York native who came South to pursue his beloved profession was not as skilled, said

Briggs.

The 37-year-old teacher liked to sleep late, wanted to dress like the students and loved teaching far more than the other required side of the profession, publishing, he said.

Zeltner got to know the university president and attempted to parlay that to advantage in squabbles with the chairman of the philosophy department, according to Briggs.

"It all started with a schedule problem," he said. "Phil didn't like to get up before 11 in the morning. The department chairman wanted to give him a 10 o'clock class. Phil went to Holderman."

Friends say there were personality conflicts in the department the year Zeltner was considered for tenure, which junior faculty members must gain to guarantee keeping their jobs. Zeltner was denied the safeguard by his colleagues, then by a tenure panel and finally by Holderman and the university board of trustees.

University officials would not disclose their reasons for denying Zeltner tenure. Spokesmen said the records were personal and would remain closed.

"He was sure at the last minute that Holderman would save him," said Briggs. "He was convinced that Holderman betrayed a friendship that never really existed."

When Zeltner won the teacher of the year award in 1978, he told an interviewer that he loved teaching, but found other aspects of the job difficult.

"I can get frustrated with the bureaucracy of college teaching," he said. "But when I get in that classroom, all that disappears. I learn as much from my students as they learn from me."

New machine blasts away kidney stones

HOUSTON (AP) — A $2 million experimental machine being tested at the Texas Medical Center is leading the way to eliminate surgery for most forms of common kidney stones, the director of the project says.

The machine, called a lithotripter, uses shock waves on a patient seated in a tub of water to literally pulverize kidney stones, which annually affect more than 2 million people.

Dr. Donald P. Griffith, a urology professor at Baylor College of Medicine and director of the lithotripter project at Houston's Methodist Hospital, said Wednesday that similar shock wave research has been conducted in Europe for 10 years. The Houston project, along with similar experiments at five other U.S. hospitals, is designed to duplicate the European successes and ultimately win approval from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

"This will make stone surgery considerably less frequent," Griffith said. "I think traditional stone surgery is on the way out."

Five people in Houston have undergone the treatment, which began this week, Griffith said. Three series of 50 patients, with each series handling more complicated cases, will comprise the experiment, he said.

The common kidney stone, often a piece of calcium that resembles a chunk of gravel, is ground into sand-like particles after bombardment from hundreds of shock waves travelling at 1,500 meters per second. The procedure lasts about an hour. The patient then passes the particles routinely in urination.

"They started blasting and I could feel mild slugs," said George Black, a 58-year-old Houston insurance manager who was one of the first five patients to undergo the treatment.

Black said the procedure was painless. In fact, he fell asleep in the tub of heated water while trying to keep track of the 500-800 loud staccato-like clicks that mark the shock wave.

The patient is strapped into a chair device and lowered into the oversized steel tub, then the aim of the shock wave is adjusted so it will bombard the kidney stone.

In a demonstration Wednesday, Klaus Koelsch, a representative of Dernier, the Munich, West Germany-based firm which manufactures the lithotripter, dropped a kidney stone into the tub while a nurse watching a television monitor lined up the stone in cross-hairs like a hunter looking through a rifle scope.

"If you look into the tub, you will see a little thunder and lightning," Koelsch said.

To the beat of 200 shock waves, a spark plug at the base of the tub sent up repeated pulses — which resemble lightning bolts — and dissolved the stone into a fine powder.

"There was some discomfort," Sarah Wilson, 29, the first to use the machine, said. "It's hard to describe." But she said compared to kidney stone surgery she had earlier, the lithotripter was much better.

"I get to return to work on (next) Monday," Ms. Wilson, a teacher, said. When she had her earlier surgery, she was told to limit her movements and not lift heavy items.

Griffith said it was likely that Ms. Wilson's discomfort could be attributed to insufficient anesthetic when she received her treatment on Monday.

The doctor said the short recuperation period, short hospital stay and the patient's brief time away from work are the main advantages of the new machine.

For $5, service will let you phone home to ET

SUDBURY, Mass. (AP) — Want to reach way out and touch someone — or some thing? For $5, Stan Kaplan will beam your love letters to Venus or a query to the star Betelgeuse.

It's part of a new service for star gazers that uses astronomy, astrology and healthy doses of marketing.

"I felt that this is the only way we as average people can explore space affordably," says Stan Kaplan, 37, a former executive with a radio paging company who has turned his home into an earth station for intergalactic greeting cards.

Using an IBM personal computer to chart the course of the stars and planets, Kaplan's company, Teleplanet Services Inc., sends "SpaceShots" — 25-words-or-less bursts of coded English from a nearby 18-foot antenna. Kaplan says he will also transmit pictures.

The service begins May 1. A transmission to the moon — which takes two seconds to travel from this Boston suburb — costs the same as a transmission that will take 15 billion years to reach the 3C9 star system.

"It's a little bit of immortality," said Kaplan. "It's something we can leave behind."

Kaplan sees his biggest market in what he calls "high tech greeting cards" — messages of love, congratulations and encouragements that are broadcast to the appropriate planet.

"If you wanted to send an anniversary card to your wife, it would go to Venus, the planet of love," he said. "Then we send her an attractive certificate, a picture of solar system that includes the destination, when the message will arrive and what the message was."

But SpaceShots doesn't end with messages of love. Kaplan suggests beaming a note to Jupiter — the planet astrologers associate with good luck — on the occasion of a new business venture. Get well cards go to Pluto.

If you're interest is in long-distance calls, SpaceShots can also send messages to 17 different star systems like Tau Ceti, Vega or Cygnus X-1. But Kaplan makes no guarantees there will be someone at home to accept the call.

"There are a lot of ifs on that aspect of the offering," he said. "If there were intelligent life out there, if they were tuning into our frequency, if they could decode it. We take no position on the receiving end of the signal."

Kaplan admits the concept behind his new business "began as a pet rock idea."

"When we first began to think of it, it was primarily for fun," he said. "But as we understood the concept better, we realized we had something that other people would think was very serious."

To get the message out on Earth, Kaplan will advertise in several national newspapers, campus and "alternative" publications, concentrating on the East and West coasts — markets Kaplan said "typically respond best to new ideas."

HC pre-registration slated

Pre-registration for the fall session at Howard College will be April 23-27 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

No drops or adds will be made until the drop/add period in September. No refunds will be made until the second week of September.

Students may pay tuition and fees at time of registration. The final day for tuition and fee payments is Aug. 16.

Full schedules are available in the Admissions Office at Howard College.

Hance aides selected

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore III have been named coordinators for the Kent Hance for Senate campaign in Howard County.

Moore is a graduate of Texas Tech University and received his law degree from the University of Texas at Austin. He served as district attorney for the 118th judicial district from 1973 through 1976.

Michener to visit Odessa

ODESSA — Historian and novelist James Michener will be the speaker for the Permian Historical Society meeting April 28 in Odessa.

Michener is working on a book about Texas and is noted as the author of "South Pacific," "Chesapeake," "Hawaii," and "Centennial."

He will address the luncheon session of the annual meeting of the society at the University of Texas, Permian Basin. Non-members may attend but must make reservations, at $6, for the luncheon.

Reservations may be made by calling the Heritage Museum at 267-8255, or Joe Pickle at 267-6341.

The program, which includes several historical papers, will include one by Barbara Anderson on the Muleshoe Ranch in Borden County. The program begins at 10 a.m. in the student lounge.

'Red Hot Revue' to debut

Howard College students, under the direction of drama instructor Tim Haynes, will present "The Ultimate Red Hot Revue" April 28 at 8 p.m. in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Haynes said the program is "basically a contemporary revue. There is a lot of singing and dancing."

Haynes said music from "Thriller" and other best-selling albums will be featured.

"We'll also be performing comedy routines and a little bit of everything," Haynes said.

Laurie Churchwell is choreographer for the show. Tickets, available at the door, are $2.50 for students and senior citizens and $3.50 for adults. Reservations may be made by calling Howard College.

Thursday Notes

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

With the advent of May right around the corner, so is a busy sports calendar for Big Spring.

No less than three prestigious events will be happening during that month.

The first of which will be the first ever benefit softball game between our own Herald Angels and the Big Spring Steers baseball team. Yes, some of the more able bodied employees (the term is used loosely) have been holding secret practices in anticipation of the event — proceeds of which (at $1 a head it's still a bargain) will benefit the teen-age summer baseball program in Big Spring.

Game time is Sunday, May 6 at 3 p.m. at Steer Field. Be there!

And there are a pair of good golf tournaments on tap in May.

The first is the Comanche Trail Annual Partnership Tournament with $10,000 in prizes and gift certificates. Club pro Al Patterson is proud of the revamped course and indicates he expects a good field for the tourney. The field is limited to 224 players, however so get your entry in early. The tourney will be May 5-6.

May 23-24-25 are the dates on the calendar for the Second Annual Signal Peak Shriner Pro-Am to be held at the Big Spring Country Club.

Like last year, the event will benefit Shriners Hospitals in Texas. This year the celebrity-laden affair will also use part of the proceeds to help former SWC and pro kicker Steve Little, left paralyzed in an auto accident several years ago.

New Orleans Saints' kicker Russell Erxleben, a longtime friend of Little's, will again ramrod the event along with assistance from the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, Big Spring Ambassadors Club and the Big Spring Shrine Club. So get ready to support another worthy cause and bring your autograph books.

Turnabout is fair play in all sports — even in rodeo.

Howard College cowgirls proved that old adage at the Western Texas College rodeo in Snyder last weekend, returning a favor since WTC took the women's division at HC's recent rodeo. Sul Ross was second and Eastern New Mexico took third.

Sissy Doss took one of HC's first places with a super time of 2.9 in breakaway roping.

Karen Salter and Kathy Cochran pulled a 1-2 in barrel racing. Salter had runs of 13.88 and 13.45 for a total of 27.33. Cochran went 13.86 and 13.71 for 27.67.

Cyd Hillman was the final HC cowgirl ending up in the top 10 with her fourth in average showing in breakaway roping. Hillman totaled 8.6 on two runs.

In regional standings, from which the top two advance to national competition, Cochran stands second in goat tying, 10th in breakaway and fifth in barrels. Salter is third in barrels and Doss stands sixth in goat tying and eighth in barrels.

In the team standings the HC women are third behind WTC and Sul Ross.

From the arena to the track:
Several Big Springers participated in a road race held in Lamesa last weekend sponsored by the West Texas Running Club.

Bo Hardy was first in the 30-39 age group two mile run with a time of 15:54.

Lisa Brooks and SWCID student Chris Phillips also ran in the ladies' division.

John Bingham in the 30-40 age bracket and Doug Moore in the over 40 division were Big Spring men who ran. And while Moore met with little success, he did win at the Tall City Race held the week before in Midland.

In six mile competition Linda Davis ran first in the 30-39 age group with a time of 54:28.

Dee Jeter, a Coahoma Junior High trackster, set a boys seventh grade record for the Bullpups at the 6-3A district meet. Jeter, under the direction of coach Donnie Wiley, leaped 5-4 in the high jump. Well done Dee!

Turning back to golf:
Mike Weaver and Pat Weaver earned championship flight honors in the recent partnership tournament held at the country club. Their total was 134.

Ronnie Brodrick and Don Osbourne took second in 136 and third place went to Royce Cox and Howard Stewart with a 137.

Individual honors went to Brodrick (141); Ernie Swart (148); and Melvin Lee (151).

Highlanders clip Hawks wings, 13-7

STURDY ON THE MOUND — Freshman Kevin Sturdy gets set to make a pitch during the Hawks game against MCC Wednesday. Sturdy started and suffered the loss as MCC took the first of a three game series from HC, 13-7. The series winds up today with a doubleheader.

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

McLennan Community College batters pounded five Howard College pitchers for 17 hits enroute to a 13-7 win over the Hawks in the first game of a three game Region V baseball series Wednesday at Hawk Field.

Included in the Highlanders' total were three homeruns, two that came in the first inning as MCC gained a 3-0 lead, never to trail.

Howard struck back for two runs in its half of the first when Bobby Behnsch doubled in Doug Hatch and Kenny Spears. That was as close as the Hawks could get to their arch nemesis from Central Texas.

Starting pitcher and loser Kevin Sturdy (2-2) lasted until the fourth when he gave way to Jeff Hodges. The Highlanders failed to hurt Sturdy in the second, but the freshman hurler was knocked around in the third when MCC took advantage of an error, walk and two hits to go up 6-2. Three more base raps in the fourth, plus another walk, made the score 8-2. Sturdy retired allowing eight hits in four innings. He walked two and struckout one.

As his replacement, Hodges got a little help in the bottom of the fifth when Behnsch hit what actually should have been a double. A throwing error by the catcher allowed Doug Hatch, on a walk, and Behnsch to both score, cutting the margin to 8-4.

Hodges got the first two men he faced in the sixth to ground out before the inning became very long. The next four Highlanders singled, tripled, doubled and walked, all adding up to a 10-4 lead for the Region V leader (17-2) and nation's number two team. Kevin Kolodzie came in and tossed a strikeout on one batter to end MCC's half of the inning.

Walks to Gary Carr and John Friesenhahn aided HC in picking up some ground on MCC in the bottom of the inning, however. Steve Carrasco's sacrifice moved the runners up and they scored on a long single by Hatch. Hatch was one of three Hawks picking up two hits in the game. The Lubbock product and Stephon Hodge and Behnsch provided most of the hitting in HC's seven hit showing. Joey Ortiz added one hit.

A run against Kolodzie in the seventh and a walk and homerun against him in the eighth added up to a 13-6 lead for MCC and drove the San Antonio sophomore from the mound.

HC's fourth pitcher was Brian Robbins who managed to quell MCC's fire for a while. In their bottom of the eighth, the Hawks scored a run without benefit of a hit.

Blake Rosson, Carr and Carasco walked to load the bases with only one out. The only score came, however when Rosson raced home on a passed ball, making the score 13-7.

The Hawks managed to get Hodge and Jim Garcia on in the ninth with one out in an effort at staging a comeback. A fly ball by Rosson and ground ball back to MCC pitcher Scotty Ayers ended the game.

Both teams were scheduled for a 1 p.m. start in today's doubleheader. The Hawks slipped to 9-7 in Region V action, still good for second though.

Lady Steers advance to regional finals

The Big Spring Lady Steers moved everyone in to the finals on the opening day of the Region I 4-A track meet in Lubbock Wednesday.

Big Spring's 400 and 800 relay teams composed of Tina Smith, Aretha Cork, Latresa Cork and Pam Palmer ran their best times of the season in a highly competitive field. Palmer, a freshman made the finals in the 400 with a season-best 25.29. Kerry Evans of Odessa had the fastest time with a 24.85.

The Lady Steers recorded a 48.69 in the 400 relay, behind the times of Ft. Worth Southwest (47.71) and Odessa (48.10). Southwest also leads the field in the 800 relay (1:40.39) while the Lady Steers clocked a 1:42.94. In the field events San Angelo's Val Schlaudt finished fifth in the discus (114-2) and Midland's Tina Knight placed sixth in the long jump (16-11).

TINA SMITH

Cindy McClure of San Angelo qualified for the finals in the 800 (2:19.27) while teammate Cherrie Wooten qualified in the 100 hurdles (15.19). Other 4-5A tracksters making the finals were Permian's Sonja McIntire in the 100 (12.32) and 400 (56.14) and the Permian 1600 relay (3:57.44). Abilene's Deborah Arrington also qualified in the 400 (58.20).

At the Region I 2-A meet also being held in Lubbock, Stanton got fifth place finishes from triple jumper Dawna West (33-11) and shot putter Sandra Henry (33-9). West also had the fastest qualifying time in the 100 hurdles (14.83). At the Region II 1-A meet in Abilene, Forsan's Lorri Roman and Garden City's Gena Schaefer had the top two qualifying times in the 800 meters with clockings of 2:29.25 and 2:29.70 respectively.

ARETHA CORK

Freshman Jacque Jost of Garden City made the finals in the 400 (62.24) while the G-City 800 and 1600 relay teams of Jost, Schaefer, Michelle Pechacek and Carol Hoelscher made the finals with times of 1:52.23 and 4:15.49 respectively.

Forsan Debra Smith tied for third place in the high jump with a leap of 4-10.

9-A BOYS MEET
At the boys 9-A district meet in Robert Lee, Ted Tarbet and Todd East of Forsan earned a trip to regionals in their respective events.

East finished second in both the high jump (6-3) and 110 hurdles (16.06), while Tarbet won the 300 hurdles (42.56). Third place finishers were Forsan's Lance Soles in the 3200, Garden City's Doug Hoelscher in the pole vault and the Garden City 1600 relay.

Nets deep six 76ers in first playoff win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Buck Williams said he was out to save face.

The 6-foot-8-inch New Jersey forward scored 25 points, grabbed 16 rebounds and blocked three shots Wednesday night as he led the Nets to a 116-101 humbling of the champion Philadelphia 76ers.

The victory gave the Nets a 1-0 lead in the best-of-five, first-round National Basketball Association playoff series.

SUNS 113, TRAIL BLAZERS 106

A pair of long-range jumpers by Walter Davis in the final two minutes propelled Phoenix past the Trail Blazers at Portland. Davis scored 10 of his 22 points in the final quarter, all from the outside.

Kenny Carr topped the losers with 24 points, while Jim Paxson added 23.

Mavericks hope to beat jitters

DALLAS (P) — The Dallas Mavericks hope they can shake the jitters in their National Basketball Association playoff game tonight against the Seattle SuperSonics.

They nervously fell behind 15-2 to the Sonics Tuesday night but rallied for an 88-86 victory in the Mavs' NBA postseason debut, leaving a soldout crowd limp.

"We are learning that this (the playoffs) is much different than the regular season," said Dallas forward Jay Vincent. "Everybody is a little tighter."

The Mavs were so jumpy against the Sonics they missed their first seven shots in the opener of the best-of-five series.

"Every play is crucial," said Vincent. "We finally lost our jitters after about four minutes. They went away but they were definitely there."

Vincent said it was a wonder the Mavs didn't panic.

"We knew we had to get a good start to beat them, but we didn't," he said. "We didn't lose our poise and finally won the game."

Vincent said the sellout crowd of 17,007 kept yelling and was a big reason the team didn't quit.

"The crowd wasn't just our sixth man — they were numbers 7, 8, and 9," he said.

Dallas did a good job of holding down Seattle center Jack Sikma, who scored 14 points and had only 6 rebounds.

Sikma's season average against the Mavs was 25 points and 13 rebounds.

"Our goal was to beat them on the boards," Vincent said. "We're not tall enough to go over people, so we had to crash the boards."

Seattle's Gus Williams had 37 points, including an NBA record 23 in the first quarter.

Now's a good time for a change.

Comanche partnership slated

Comanche Trail Golf Course will be the site of a partnership tournament May 5-6 with $10,000 in prizes and gift certificates awaiting the top three finishers plus each flight. The field is limited to 224 players. Entry fee is $90 per team. For further information contact Comanche Trail club pro Al Patter at 263-7271.

Coahoma schedules softball

COAHOMA — A softball tournament is scheduled for the Coahoma ballpark, Apr. 27-29. For more information call Paul Cano at 392-4412; Bill Bailey at 263-2798; or Ronnie Thomas at 394-4218.

HC sets Camp of Champs

Howard College's 12th annual Basketball Camp of Champs will hold court June 11-15 and July 9-13. The first dates are marked for the girls camp under the direction HC women's coach Don Stevens. Men's coach Mike Mitchell will direct the boys' camp during July. Both sessions are for youngsters from grades five through junior varsity level. A limit is set on the number of campers enrolled for each session. A $30 deposit will guarantee a reservation. Interested parties wishing to obtain a free camp brochure should write Howard College, Camp of Champs, 1001 Birdwell Lane, Big Spring, Texas, 79720 or contact Stevens or Mitchell at 267-6311.

Elementary track meet slated

The annual Big Spring Elementary Track and Field Meet will be held Saturday, Apr. 28 at 9 a.m. at Blankenship Field. The meet will include events for all third through fifth graders in the BSISD. Ribbons will be awarded at the completion of each event.

Races to be held in Alpine

ALPINE — The Second Annual Great Alpine Race to benefit the Big Bend Youth for Christ Recreation Center project will be held Saturday, Apr. 28. This year's event will focus on five different races — 440, 880, one and three miles and a 26 mile marathon from Marfa to Alpine. There will be categories for both men and women. Olympic style gold medals will be awarded to all winners and each participant will receive a t-shirt. Entry forms are available at the Big Bend for Christ in Alpine or by writing The Great Alpine Race Committee, Box 1322, Alpine, Texas 79831. For further information call 915-837-5466 or 915-837-7286.

NL late signups being taken

Late signups are continuing for all boys ages six to 12 interested in playing National Little League baseball this summer. For more information concerning registration call NL president Bill Mims at 267-6669; Jackie Thompson at 263-8119; or Sandy Mayfield at 263-8020.

UTA GUNSLINGERS — Yet another Big Springer holds aspirations of making an Olympic team. Bill Little, second from left, a student at the University of Texas at Arlington, is a member of the UTA pistol shooting team that won two national championships in the recent air pistol and standard pistol competition in Colorado Springs. In addition to Little, team members are (left to right), Grady Grisham, Little, Kevin Rilbe, Joe Fanning, Mike Mabry. Team members are now preparing for the Olympic trials this summer.

Stadler won't push panic button despite long streak of no wins

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Craig Stadler, golf's leading money-winner in 1982, hasn't won a tournament in 1½ years. But the former Masters champion is not overly concerned. "It's just a matter of time," Stadler said before teeing off today in the first round of the $400,000 Sea Pines Heritage Classic. "I played well last year. And I've played well — up until the last couple of weeks — this year. I've had some opportunities to win. I've been in position to win. It just hasn't happened."

"It will. It's a matter of time, that's all. If I keep on playing well, and there's no reason I shouldn't, it will happen eventually," he said. Stadler was in position to make a run at the prestigious Tournament Players Championship, but took himself out of it with a poor front nine on the final round. "I didn't play very well the last two weeks (Greensboro and the Masters) and I really don't know why. I just wasn't comfortable over the ball. "But I've been hitting the ball well this week. I feel like it's turned around. I'm comfortable again. I'm confident that I can have a good tournament this week," he said.

He faces a strong international, invitational field of 120 that will be chasing a $72,000 first prize over one of the most demanding courses the touring pros face all season, the Harbour Town Golf Links. Chief among his rivals are Tom Watson, twice a winner here and the runner-up in last week's Masters, defending title-holder Fuzzy Zoeller, PGA champion

Hal Sutton and Gary Koch, the only two-time winner on the PGA Tour this season. Among the other major standouts are Tom Kite, a winner already this season and a consistently high finisher; Cal Peete, Lanny Wadkins, Bruce Lietzke, Andy Bean, Bill Rogers, John Mahaffey, Ray Floyd and Hubert Green, a two-time winner of this event.

Trackster of the Week

Senior fieldman Jimmy Cearley earned Big Spring High School Trackster of the Week honors for the fifth straight week after ending his BSHS athletic career last week with a fourth place showing in the discus at the District 4-5A track and field meet. Cearley finished the year with a throw of 145-0, his fifth straight week of 145 or best. His season best was 149-5 at the ABC Relays in March.

Prison officials halt visiting room hugs

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP) — Officials have ordered a halt to long passionate clinches in the visiting room at the Montana State Prison. Prisoners and spouses once allowed an indefinite amount of kissing, hugging and touching are now limited to embraces of 40 seconds at the start and end of a visit. And the embraces must be fairly casual — more than one inmate's wife has claimed that her baby was conceived in the visiting room. The rule, which was imposed earlier this month, is designed to make the visiting room a more pleasant place for families and inmates to visit, Warden Hank Risley says. The new rule has met with both criticism and support from inmates. Some say their relatives no longer have the uncomfortable feeling that they are in someone else's bedroom, while others contend the rule forces them to ignore their normal physical urges and will only lead to tension among the inmates. Risley said he arrived at the 40-second limit somewhat arbitrarily. He intended it as a guideline for visiting-room officers so they know when they are justified in citing an inmate for a rule infraction. Before that, there was no limit to the embrace, although an inmate caught engaging in "excessive physical contact" could have visiting privileges suspended.

Inmates are now given three warnings when they prolong their embraces beyond the limit. After that, they are reported and can be suspended from seeing visitors for up to six months.

Information about your changing telephone service from Darlene Gifford, Manager-Community Relations

A look at "local measured service"

Perhaps you've heard about a new optional type of service that Southwestern Bell Telephone is proposing for its Texas customers. It's called Local Measured Service (LMS). Simply put, LMS would give you the option of paying for your direct use of the telephone network.

Southwestern Bell Telephone's LMS proposal to the Public Utility Commission (PUC) includes an option that would lower fixed monthly charges while adding a low usage charge for each completed outgoing call. Those calls would be billed on the basis of distance, duration of the call and the time of day.

Another option would be a "LIFELINE" service at a $5 monthly fee. This service would be targeted to the elderly on poverty-level income. The rate would include a usage allowance of 25 completed outgoing local calls. Additional completed outgoing local calls would be billed at the rate of 8 cents each. Customers would not be charged for incoming calls under either plan.

It's your option

LMS is for residence customers, as well as single-line, one-party business customers. And of course you could keep the current "flat-rate" monthly service if you'd prefer.

These new local service pricing plans would be available within 60 days of Commission approval in 89 offices which currently serve over 2,500,000 customer lines. The company plans to equip the remaining offices within two years after approval.

I think you'll agree there are several benefits to measured service. It would give you options for choosing the plan that gives you more control over your phone bill. You'd also have the option of paying for the service you used, rather than subsidizing those who use their phones a great deal more than you do.

While LMS as a standard service offering would be new to Southwestern Bell Telephone's Texas customers. It isn't new in Texas. Customers of three other companies in the Lone Star State — General Telephone, Continental Telephone and Cen-Tel — are taking advantage of LMS. And like us, other companies — United Tel, Palo Pinto Tel and Mustang Tel — have requests pending with the PUC.

Customer interest

We're proposing the service because we've known there has been a need for optional pricing in Texas. Last summer we conducted a survey to determine customer interest in LMS.

We found that interest was strong, particularly among those customers making fewer local calls or shorter-duration calls. The results also showed that customers want wider choices in how they pay for service by having the ability to match their cost to their calling needs.

At this time, PUC hearings on LMS are set to begin Sept. 24 in Austin. You can look for more information about LMS in the special insert in your telephone bill.

A new brochure, "Services for Disabled Customers," is now available. It has information on disabled services and how to contact AT&T's National Special Needs Center. You can get a copy by writing to:

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a day for you to return to basic and more practical ideas and plans of action than have been in effect the past several weeks. Be worldly-minded.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contacting the most prominent people you know and gaining their backing is wise today. Be sure that you handle some civic matter wisely.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You understand what changes can be made that will give you greater financial security and more prosperity in the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle important finances so that you can afford some expensive pleasure. Please the one you love by being more practical.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) If you are more straightforward with associates, they will help you to gain your goals more easily.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Be very practical in handling any outside affairs that crop up. Show that you are a person with real ability.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are now inspired how to gain whatever you desire by using a more scientific method and be more successful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study every phase of your practical needs, then confer with experts and find out how to gain them more easily.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you state your aims to partners and daily allies, they will assist you in gaining them. Drive with utmost care.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Concentrate on keeping work promises and this becomes a good and constructive day. Listen to the opinion of an expert.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good day for you to engage in those activities that can bring you much happiness and pleasure.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day to handle practical affairs and forget all that daydreaming. Be courteous and charming.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A day to go after your personal aims and cleverly gain them. Improve your appearance, and be at your best.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one who will understand world affairs and new trends and want to make a big name for the self, so be encouraging and plan for a fine education that can equip your progeny well for the business of living.

Texans adopt Korean babies

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Although 4-month-old Jason Mark Snailer wasn't delivered by the stork, he did fly a long way to be united with his new parents.

Jason was one of four Korean infants who arrived at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport on Wednesday after a 24-hour flight from Seoul, South Korea.

The Dillon International agency in Tulsa, Okla., which places Korean babies with U.S. families, was responsible for setting up the children with new homes. Agency representative Brenda O'Bannon said the infants, all full Koreans, were abandoned or given up to the agency by their parents.

Mark and Laura Snailer, of Fort Worth, along with the other three couples, sat nervously or paced the airport terminal as they tried to calm one another.

"This kind of waiting has to be worse than what other fathers go through," said Mark Snailer. "Under natural circumstances you just let nature take its course. Here all we have is a picture and a flight time, and that makes us a little more anxious."

Jason, a plump, bright-eyed baby, looked startled by the flashing camera lights and noise as a flight attendant put him into Mrs. Snailer's arms. He held his mother's hair and looked around nervously at his new family and friends.

The Snailers, who learned Saturday that Jason was scheduled to leave Korea in a few days, had planned for his arrival for weeks. A bedroom in their east Fort Worth home was filled with layettes, baby clothes and stuffed animals.

Snailer said adoption agencies told him they would have to wait five or six years to adopt an American baby. The couple decided they did not want to wait that long and contacted the Dillon agency in November. They were confirmed as adoptive parents in March.

The Snailers, who are white, said they had received good reaction from their neighbors, families and friends about adopting a baby of a different culture and background.

"Our area is well-mixed. Our church community has a large Vietnamese and Oriental community," Mrs. Snailer said. "We don't feel we've done anything special or different by adopting a Korean baby, but I guess we have."

Mrs. Snailer said preparations for Jason's arrival included buying special food.

"In Korea they feed babies powdered rice milk," she said. "They have trouble digesting milk products, so he will be on a milk-free soybean formula. Maybe later he will be able to tolerate milk in small amounts."

Mrs. Snailer said she wants to have a birthday party for the children next April along with the other couples.

"We share so much, and this is such a special day for us," she said. "I want to make sure the children keep in touch with each other as they grow up."

BABY ARRIVES — Mark and Laura Snailer watch with excitement as they await the arrival of a Korean baby they adopted. The agency placing the Korean babies places them within six to nine months of application as compared to five to six years for a U.S. baby.

Editor says reporter tortured

MCALLEN, Texas (AP) — A reporter for The (McAllen) Monitor was beaten, tortured with a cattle prod and repeatedly questioned Tuesday and Wednesday after Mexican authorities arrested him near where striking workers were having a rally, the newspaper's editor said Thursday.

Jack King, the editor of The Monitor, said reporter Scott Lind was held overnight Tuesday in a Mexican police office building, blindfolded, beaten on the head and shocked with a cattle prod. Police arrested Lind during a strike against the Zenith plant in downtown Reynosa, King said. Lind was not covering the strike and "just happened to be in area."

Nuke plant's license may be delayed

DALLAS (AP) — Unresolved safety issues probably will delay licensing of the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant until at least April 1985, according to the chairman of the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board.

The estimate, made Wednesday by Peter B. Bloch, chairman of the federal licensing panel, is eight months later than estimates by the plant's principal owner, Texas Utilities.

Texas Utilities officials have said they will begin loading the fuel in late August or September 1984, with the goal of beginning commercial operations by year's end.

But Bloch, who is overseeing licensing hearings, said the utility's estimates failed to take into account the large number of safety-related issues still to be covered in hearings, which currently are scheduled to last through early August 1984.

"We're talking about holding hearings through November or December and possibly in January," Bloch said. "We estimate a decision in April 1985."

Last month, the director of a special U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission team coordinating the remaining oversight of construction at the plant said utility estimates apparently were optimistic. Fuel-loading at the power plant would be unlikely before the second quarter of 1985, NRC official Thomas Ip-polito said. "We have no reason to change our projected fuel-load date at this time," Texas Utilities spokesman Dick Ramsey said.

Ramsey said the utility would provide the ASLB panel with additional information demonstrating the company's ability to meet its announced schedule.

It would cost Texas Utilities $22 million a month to maintain the completed plant while awaiting licensing, Ramsey said. The company currently estimates the plant's cost at $3.89 billion.

Comanche Peak is located near Glen Rose, about 60 miles southwest of Fort Worth.

WIDE LOAD — Robert Bowers of Lafayette, Ind., loaded 170 pounds of aluminum cans on top of his car for a trip to the city's Alcoa recycling center this week.

"This ain't nothing," Bowers boasted. "One time I got 300 pounds in one trip."

Judge arrested outside brothel

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A Michigan judge booked after a dispute with a taxi driver who waited for him outside a brothel says he will fight the arrest and contends the cabbie was "a robber."

District Judge Daniel Tschirhart of East Lansing, Mich., was taken to the police station after a citizen's arrest early Tuesday by the taxi driver, Fred Spurgeon of Reno-Sparks Cab Co., according to Reno Police Lt. Thomas Robinson.

Tschirhart, who was released on his own recognizance, was charged with defrauding an inkeeper under the taxicab section of the statute, the officer said Wednesday. Robinson said he did not know if a court date was set on the misdemeanor charge.

Spurgeon, of Reno-Sparks Cab. Co., told the Lansing State Journal he picked up Tschirhart at the Reno airport and drove the judge to the Mustang Ranch, one of four legal brothels in Nevada.

"He asked me how much to take him to the Mustang Ranch. I said $13 roundtrip and about $36 with an hour wait," Spurgeon, who said he was a former Kalamazoo, Mich., resident, told the newspaper.

After a three-hour wait, Spurgeon said, the judge returned to the cab to find a $50 fare awaiting him.

"When he finally decided to leave, and saw the $50 on the meter, he became unglued," Spurgeon said.

The driver said the judge agreed to pay the fare if it included transportation to a Reno hotel. Spurgeon said he told Tschirhart that would cost an additional $12.

When Tschirhart refused to pay, Spurgeon drove him to the police station, where he was booked and released.

Tschirhart told the State Journal, "This guy had it down to a science. This guy was a robber."

"I told him he had the wrong guy. I said '$36' is what I agreed to pay you and that's what I will pay you."

Tschirhart told the newspaper that he instructed Spurgeon to drive him to the police station and that he would fight the arrest.

Lt. Dave Kieckbush, another Reno officer, told the newspaper that Tschirhart "was a perfect gentleman" at the station.

Attempts by The Associated Press to reach Tschirhart were unsuccessful. A telephone operator said he had an unlisted phone number.

A circuit court judge reinstated charges against the men, and they were acquitted last month after a three-week trial.

Jerry Lee is still rockin' after all these years

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It seems appropriate that Jerry Lee Lewis' current record is "I Am What I Am."

"I am what I am, not what they want me to be," Lewis sings.

"Seems like everybody wants to pick on ol' Jerry Lee."

And he declares:

"One thing's for sure, I'll never change." Approaching 30 years as a piano-pounding rock 'n' roll dynamo, the 48-year-old Lewis is just what he is — in controversy, in the news, in demand.

Right now, he's also free on $100,000 bond. In February, he was indicted in Memphis on charges of hiding his assets to avoid paying the Internal Revenue Service almost $1 million in back taxes, penalties and interest.

At the time he was indicted, Lewis was in Nashville. While federal marshals looked for Lewis and found his luxury car at a hotel, Lewis disguised himself and carried out business as usual.

Wearing dark glasses and an uncharacteristic huge hat, he was at a recording studio doing what he enjoys most — making music.

Last August, Lewis' fifth wife, 23 years his junior, died of what authorities said was a drug overdose. But "I'm the onliest man in the business that's made $15 million and spent $17 million. But the thing about it, I've had a ... good time."

— Jerry Lee Lewis

news accounts since her death have said official reports omitted pertinent information, such as bruises on her body.

In 1981, Lewis himself nearly died. He spent 61 days in a Memphis hospital because of a perforated stomach — a 2-inch tear no doubt exacerbated by years of high-voltage rowdiness. He underwent two operations totaling nearly 12 hours, and hospital statements at the time gave his chances of living as 50-50.

In late February, Lewis agreed to call a reporter for a late afternoon interview. At the prescribed time, Lewis' publicist called to apologize.

"Jerry Lee was up all night," he explained. "Now they can't get him woke up."

It was a stroke of independence, much like the one in 1958 when he married his third cousin when he was 23 and she was 13. His career suffered as a result: For 10 years many radio stations refused to play his records and his demand for personal appearances dwindled.

About the time they divorced in 1971, he had rebuilt his career by turning from rock 'n' roll to a country music style.

Of course, he continued to play with a frenzy the songs he made famous — "Great Balls of Fire," "Whole Lotta Shakin' Goin' On" and "Chantilly Lace."

He often played the piano with his feet and many times kept a glass of liquor at his side or atop his piano. Lots of times he played while puffing on a cigar.

He often knocked his piano bench backward, tossed his head wildly, hurled off his jacket and belted out a song.

He said in a 1980 interview:

"I think God blessed me with this great talent. Whether I've misused it, I don't know — maybe I have, some people say that I have ... I'm the onliest man in the business that's made $15 million and spent $17 million. But the thing about it, I've had a ... good time."

He was not, however, spared from tragedy. His 3-year-old son drowned in a swimming pool in 1962 and his 19-year-old son died in a traffic accident in 1973. He was divorced from his first three wives, and his fourth wife drowned in 1982 while divorce proceedings were pending.

During his February arraignment in Memphis on the tax charges, Lewis was fingerprinted and photographed. But he was undaunted.

"Honey, this is just a breeze," he said after pleading innocent.

"I feel good. I'm living and breathing ... I got a good lawyer."

Versatility keeps actress working

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Within less than a year, Linda Purl has been a neurosurgeon, a magazine reporter and a blind slave girl in ancient Pompeii.

It's been a busy time for the young actress who used to play Fonzie's girlfriend on TV's "Happy Days."

For a period in early March, she sometimes arose at 3:45 a.m. to drive to the filming location for a two-hour ABC pilot, "Midas Valley." She played a neurosurgeon in the "night-time soap opera" centering on the electronics industry.

Then, each evening, Miss Purl reported to the Coronet Theater in Los Angeles for her role as a magazine reporter in the Christopher Durang comedy, "Beyond Therapy." The critically praised production, staged by the L.A. Public Theatre, has had sold-out houses during much of its open-ended run.

"I figured at nights I was just taking naps," said the fragile-looking yet energetic blonde actress, who was curled up on a couch in her airy Beverly Hills home. Its Oriental decor recalled her childhood in Japan, where her father was an executive for Union Carbide.

"The (television) production company was very supportive to the play and bent over backwards to get me there on time," she said, but noted that she was so exhausted "there are nights when I do not remember doing the play."

By contrast, she had a leisurely four months to perform in the ABC miniseries, "The Last Days of Pompeii," which will air in early May. Laurence Olivier, Olivia Hussey and Ned Beatty co-star in the remake about the Roman city destroyed by a volcanic eruption in 79 A.D.

In preparing for the part of a blind slave girl, Miss Purl — who also once played Helen Keller in "The Miracle Worker" in Tokyo — conferred with the Braille Institute in Los Angeles. She spent some time walking around blindfolded, and during the filming kept her gaze unfocused.

"I felt in many ways as if I were acting in a vacuum because I couldn't see anybody else's performance," she said. "I had to listen much more carefully. It was a good exercise for me."

Some of the scenes were shot in the actual ruins of the amphitheater at Pompeii, which was "dressed" for the occasion to cover the rubble.

"It was just eerie," Miss Purl said of the scenes in the amphitheater. "There seemed to be nothing separating you from the event that took place so many years ago."

"There are things about Pompeii that are very close to people today. It's heartbreaking, dumbfounding to walk through the streets and realize what sophisticated people these were."

Miss Purl's interest in acting evolved naturally. Her mother had been a ballerina, her father attended drama school at Yale University before going into business, and the family gave play readings at home. She also studied acting in England and New York. Despite having appeared in some 20 TV movies as well as in feature films, Miss Purl continues to work steadily on the stage.

"It helps me immeasurably," she said. "Working in the theater stretches you in ways that film can't, and vice versa. It's like going to the country after living in the city."

Jackson surgery successful

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP) — Pop idol Michael Jackson underwent surgery Wednesday to stimulate new hair growth on a patch of scalp burned during filming of a TV commercial. His doctor said he should be back in rehearsals for his world tour within "a couple weeks."

The superstar singer of such recent hits as "Beat It" and "Thriller" was "doing well and feeling fine after a successful operation," Dr. Steven Hoefflin told a news conference following the 7:30 a.m. operation at Brotman Memorial Hospital.

"We reconstructed an area of his scalp the size of a palm, using Michael's own skin," the plastic surgeon said.

Jackson, 25, had general anesthesia for the 90-minute "major surgery," and there were no complications, Hoefflin said.

Scar tissue was removed with a carbon dioxide laser — a technique Hoefflin termed common in burn units nationwide — and Jackson's scalp then was stretched to cover the tender area.

Hoefflin said it would be several weeks before doctors could tell whether Jackson would again have "a normal, natural head of hair."

He said there had been no hair growth on the section of scalp since the Jan. 27 accident in which Jackson's hair caught fire in a shower of fireworks during filming of a Pepsi-Cola commercial at Los Angeles' Shrine Auditorium.

Jackson wore a hairpiece to February's Grammy ceremonies, where he won eight awards for his best-selling "Thriller" album as well as his work on the children's album, "E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial."
