How's that? Lake name

Q. What is the name of the small lake at Comanche Trail Park?

The lake goes by two names, neither of which is official, according to our research. It is known as both Comanche Trail Park Lake and Big Spring Lake. It formerly was called the Cosden Lake when Cosen Oil and Chemical Co. operated a country club adjacent to the park. The lake and land around what is now the Dora Roberts Community Center (formerly the Cosden Country Club) was later donated to the city.

Dog search

RAMSTEIN, West Germany (AP) — The U.S. military is looking for a few good dogs. European, if you please.

It seems the pickings are slim in the United States, so a team of American military dog experts will try its "recruiting" luck in Western Europe next month.

They will roam West Germany, the Netherlands and Belgium with authorization to pay "top value" for about 200 large-breed dogs, said Senior Master Sgt. Roy Adams, spokesman at the Ramstein headquarters of the U.S. Air Force in Europe.

The Pentagon will take the recruits to the Department of Defense Dog Center at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas for specialized training.

The dogs will be used for routine sentry duty and trained to scout, track, search, observe and attack on command.

Family reunion

Woman finds mother after 20-year search

BROWNWOOD (AP) — This Easter is a special day for Judy Frantz Monette, a 40-year-old woman reunited with the woman who gave her up for adoption during World War II.

The Salem, Ore., woman labored 20 years looking through phone books, schools records and other documents in hopes of finding her mother, Thelma Darnell, and her brothers and sister.

But it was during a cross-country hitchhike from Bakersfield, Calif., to Oklahoma City that she learned about her family.

The couple who gave her a ride were from Brownwood and the conversation turned to the Darnell name.

Ms. Monette knew she had a brother named David and the couple knew a David Darnell, whose parents were Bert and Thelma Darnell.

"I grew up as an only child and the idea of having brothers and sisters is still hard to comprehend," Ms. Monette said Saturday as some of the family prepared for Easter. "But we tease each other just like we grew up together."

The women's story began in 1943 during World War II.

Thelma Darnell, who today is Thelma Landrum, lived in Salem with her three children and her husband who she said refused to support his family.

Times were tough. The couple See Reunion page 2-A

Robbery victim was working on day off

Jean Randolph may think twice the next time someone asks for a favor.

Ms. Randolph, 59, a part-time employee of Vernon's Liquors at 602 Gregg, was substituting for a co-worker Friday night when two armed Hispanic men entered the store about 8 p.m.

The men, armed with a sawed-off shotgun and perhaps another weapon, made Ms. Randolph lie face-down on the floor while they forced another worker at gunpoint to open one of two cash registers.

"I had gone to the back of the store to get some stock, and when I came back to the front of the store a man shoved a gun in my face and told me to lie face down on the floor," she said. "The barrel was so big around, that for the first few seconds I thought it was a joke."

Brenda Stevens, who also was working, was forced to show the men how to open one of the cash registers, Ms. Randolph said.

Neither of the women was injured in the incident.

"As I lay there, I wondered if he would kill me, because I had seen his face," Ms. Randolph said.

"Twice I raised my head, and twice he pushed it back to the floor with the gun. He opened my register like he knew what he was doing, removing the change tray and taking all the bills and leaving the change," she said. She said she saw only one of the men. She said she did not know for sure if the other man had a weapon.

"I'm not positive that I could identify the man, but I have the strangest feeling that I have seen him before," she said. "In fact, I think he may have been in here before, but I'm just not sure."

"He was very clean cut, Hispanic, khaki or fatigue-like pants, had a moustache, in the 25-to-30 age range and wore a toboggan (hat)," she said.

The women's purses also were taken in the robbery, she said.

"I feel safe here tonight," Ms. Randolph said Saturday. "Last night was the first time in 32 years that the place was robbed, and they're not going to come back here tonight."

The men fled the scene on foot, police said.

Police would not release any further information about descriptions, the type of guns used or the amount of money taken. Although a composite drawing of one of the robbers has been made, police declined to release it.

Store owner Vernon Smith said that a sawed-off shotgun was used by one of the men in the robbery.

"Bill Decker called me this morning, and the sawed-off shotgun was the same caliber and type used by a Hispanic male in an attempt to rob him as he left his liquor store a few weeks ago," Smith said Saturday.

Decker's store, Decker's Liquors at 1010½ West Third, was robbed two weeks ago. Police would not say whether the robberies were related.

Women take shot at firearms seminar

The masked man crawled through the bedroom window, and with slow, silent steps began to approach the lone figure asleep on the bed.

Perhaps it was the wind blowing through the open window or maybe it was just the intuition of danger, but the sleeping figure suddenly became aware she was no longer alone in the room.

Pretending to still be sound asleep, she sighed and rolled toward the nightstand and its slightly open drawer. With the precision born of knowledge, her hand swept into the drawer. Before the attacker even realized she was awake, three flashes of gunfire erupted in the dark room.

Stunned, her would-be attacker dropped to the floor, afraid to move. When the police arrived, he was still stretched out on the floor pleading with his intended victim to let him go.

It was the confidence with which she held the .38 caliber automatic pistol that convinced the attacker his intended victim was deadly serious.

To introduce local women to the protection benefits of a well-handled firearm, the Big Spring Police Department Crime Prevention Unit Saturday held first gun seminar for women.

Death row inmate says he's con man, not a grisley killer

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Convicted mass murderer Roger Dale Stafford, spared from death twice this month by the U.S. Supreme Court, says he is a con man — not a killer — and could become a millionaire in a year if he were released from prison.

"I didn't kill those people. I am innocent," Stafford said in a copyright article in the Sunday Oklahoma newspaper. "Even if I die, I hope someone will clear my name. It was a party I didn't join."

In a wide-ranging interview, Stafford also said he wouldn't mind serving a life prison term; said he was going to write a "thank-you" note to Supreme Court Justice Byron White for staying his scheduled execution; said his ex-wife was his "enemy" because of their differing astrological signs, and said he spends his time on Death Row writing letters and reading romance novels.

He was convicted and given two death sentences for nine grisly murders in a one-month span in 1978, including the shooting deaths of an Air Force technical sergeant and his family as well as six Oklahoma City steakhouse employees.

Stafford has steadfastly maintained his innocence despite trial testimony by Verna Stafford, then his wife, in which she said she watched him commit the murders.

"Verna was a Taurus," said the prisoner, himself a Scorpio, in an interview at the Oklahoma State Penitentiary. "That's supposed to be my worst enemy. I guess she was."

He came within 16 hours of a scheduled April 3 execution before the Supreme Court ordered a stay to decide whether to consider his appeal, which is based on the contention that he was poorly represented at the original trials.

That execution had been ordered for the slayings of Melvin Lorenz, his wife, Linda, and their 12-year-old son. The three were shot to death on Interstate 35 near Purcell in June 1978.

Less than a month later, six employees at a Sirlain Steakade restaurant were herded into a meat locker and shot. Stafford was to die May 1 for his convictions in that case, but the high court again delayed the execution.

Testimony at the Sirlain Steakade trial indicated Stafford was robbing the restaurant when he became angered at a comment made by one of the employees and ordered them into the meat locker.

Prosecutors said robberies at the steakhouse and of the Lorenz family netted about $1,700.

"No matter what — someday it's going to come out that I didn't do this," Stafford told the Oklahoman. "That's the only thing that keeps me going."

"It just drives me bananas. Think about it: Kill nine people for a lousy 1,700 bucks? You gotta be joking."

The prisoner said he was "a jack of all trades and a master of none — except conning. I could panhandle $300 a day. I never stole nothing. I never paid for a meal."

Stafford said he was a professional con man who cheated the government out of welfare money and others out of free meals because "they let me go hungry as a child ... I was raised to get it every way you could, short of robbery."

"If I got out today, 365 days from today I'd be a millionaire — and I wouldn't steal nothing," he said. "I cheat the system."

Stafford said he had studied a stack of papers describing the lethal drug injection he is to be administered, figuring that "you're better prepared if you know."

Police Beat

3 DWI arrests made

Police said Alfred Emmanuel Taylor, 55, of 634 Tulsa was arrested for driving while intoxicated at 12:12 a.m. Saturday.

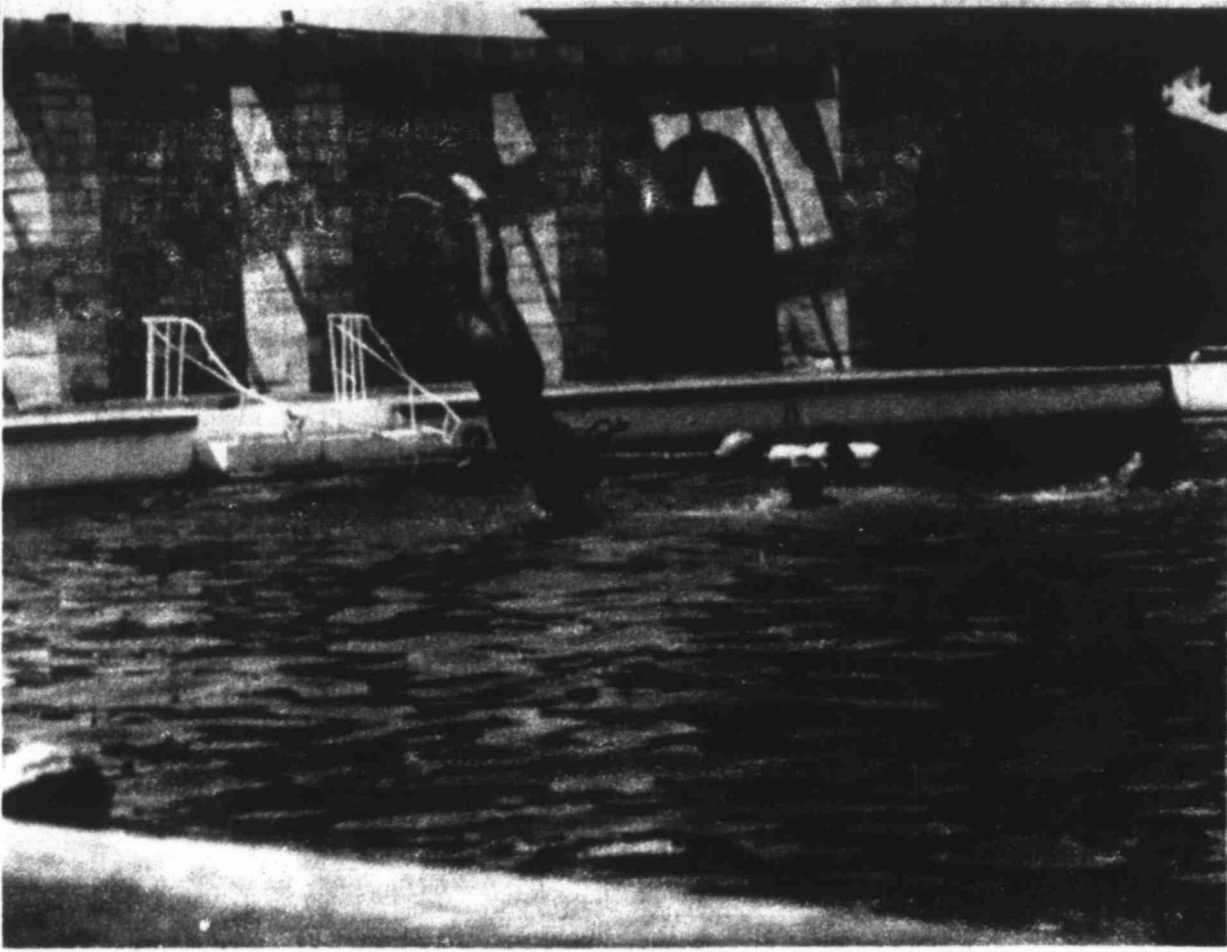

- William Elbert Taylor, 63, was arrested on Highway 87 near the Ponderosa Inn for driving while intoxicated at 1:40 a.m. Saturday.
- Albert Cruz, 25, of 1101 Wood was arrested at Sixth and State streets at 2:24 a.m. for failure to drive in a single lane, driving while intoxicated and driving while license suspended.
- Terry Clark of Lamesa reported that someone stole the T-top from his red 1981 Pontiac while he was shopping at Big Spring Mall. The top was valued at $200.

Rosalinda Lopez of P.O. Box 2865 told police that someone she knows damaged the tail light and trunk of her car by firing a shotgun at it. The same person shattered the front windshield out later in the evening, police said.

COOL POOL — Swimmers enjoy the Balmorhea State Park swimming pool, the world's largest walled in bathing facility. It holds more than 3.5 million gallons in its 68,000 square-foot hole.

Beat the heat

Staying cool in the world's largest pool

BALMORHEA (AP) — If swimming is your idea of the way to beat the heat on a warm West Texas day, Tony Carrillo has just the pool for you — as long as you don't mind treading water with more than a thousand other people.

Carrillo is park ranger at the Balmorhea State Recreation Area, which proudly boasts the world's largest walled-in swimming pool — a 68,000-square-foot hole in the ground that can hold more than 3.5 million gallons of water.

"It's massive, all right," Carrillo said. "People come here and sometimes just stare at it. They can't believe it's a pool. It's the same size as a lot of lakes they've seen."

The pool, which on some sizzling summer days has more than 1,000 swimmers diving into it, is fed by the San Solomon Springs. Carrillo said between 16 million and 24 million gallons of water flow into it daily.

It is the focal point of the recreation area that offers weary travelers a resting spot in the middle of far West Texas. The park is 120 miles southwest of Odessa and about 180 miles east of El Paso.

"The pool is itself a spring," Carrillo said. "The water flow is carried out of the pool by a canal system and from there it goes to Balmorhea Lake." San Solomon Springs has provided water to this West Texas area for centuries, Carrillo said. Artifacts found in the area indicate the springs were used before Indians and U.S. soldiers came in the 1800s, he said.

The pool was built during the late 1930s by the Civilian Conservation Corps, which also constructed the canals.

With a depth that ranges from three feet to 31½ feet, the pool also is used for scuba and skin diving, Carrillo said.

Small fish, including two rare species, are found in the pool's 72-degree waters.

"That, of course, turns some people off," Carrillo said. "You'd be surprised at how some people won't swim with a lot of fish around them. I hear it all — 'I'm not about to get in there with a bunch of dirty fish.'"

"But it beats the heck out of all those chlorinated pools."

Despite its massiveness and lack of chemicals, the pool looks like most others — four diving boards and a slide are scattered around it and steps lead down into the shallow end.

Carrillo said six lifeguards oversee the swimmers.

The park is open year-round but the pool is open only from Memorial Day through Labor Day, he said.

Visitors from throughout the world have stopped at the park, although Carrillo said many people don't know about the pool until they arrive.

"They just come in to camp overnight and then they see it," he said. "It's funny to see their faces because you know, it just sits there right next to the highway — this huge hole and all this water."

Carrillo said people also are surprised at the pool because of West Texas' arid terrain.

"I guess it is sort of weird that the rest of this area suffers from drought and we have this pool here and all this spring water," he said. "But it's always been that way. And we depend on the rainfall, too, for the springs."

Balmorhea, which is just four miles east of the park, always has been known as the oasis of West Texas, Carrillo said.

"And that's how it should be," he said. "We've got to be known for something. After all, we sit out here in the middle of a good stretch of nothing."

always hurt me to realize I had given her away," she said about the denials. "I had three children after Judy, and I knew then that no matter what the circumstances would be, I would never again give one of my children up for adoption."

"I thought it best not to tell the others about a sister they would never see," she said.

During her teen-age years, Judy Frantz discovered she had asthma and wanted to find out if the disease was inherited. Her adoptive mother gave her a copy of her adoption decree and she tried to follow it up.

"I collected phone books in cities across the West Coast wherever I went, looking for Darnells. I continued doing this all those years and never gave up."

She married Richard Monette and eventually had six children, but continued to search for her family.

When she got there she called David Darnell in Brownwood to confirm his parents' names.

"It took me about 30 seconds to say another word, but then I blurted out that I was born Judith Flora Darnell and that my parents are Bert and Thelma. His comments were, 'Oh my God, it's true. I have found you!'"

Ms. Monette has been staying with her family since early March and said she knew she would find them.

"If it's fate then God will help you find your natural mother," she said. "I have no bad feelings at all (about the adoption). I am just pleased."

Capt. Lonnie Smith, Lt. J. D. Carter, Detective Ken Hallark, Sgt. Fred Pace, Sgt. Troy Hogue and Patrolman John House conducted the day-long seminar.

During the morning session, participants were told how to handle, load and check small firearms. The instructors brought several of their personal guns for the women to study.

Participants were made aware of safety features, the correct way to handle the deadly weapons and the type of ammunition available for each gun.

Two paperback books were recommended for further study: "Fire Arms For Home Defense" and "Home Defense Handguns."

In an afternoon session, the women were taken to a gun range east of Big Spring and taught to fire the weapons.

Several of the 16 participants said they were very glad the police department had presented the seminar, saying it is education badly needed.

Police said the seminar was filled within hours of its announcement. It will be offered again this fall.

Pace told the group that .38, .45 and .357 magnum caliber guns are probably the most effective firearms for home defense.

Participants will be allowed to return to the range and practice their marksmanship or call on the instructors, police said.

"The course is designed to teach women how to select the right gun for them and how to use it safely, quickly and accurately in emergency situations," Pace said.

Girl, 16, killed in crash after high-speed chase

AVINGER (AP) — A 16-year-old girl was killed after a high-speed chase by police officers who believed the vehicle she was driving was stolen from a man murdered in Tyler, authorities said Saturday.

Angelique Elena Gibson of Hughes Springs died at Linden Hospital in Avinger where she was taken after shots were fired when the vehicle attempted to run through a road block near Avinger late Friday night, Department of Public Safety spokesman Larry Todd said.

An autopsy was ordered, he said.

Todd said law enforcement agencies set up the roadblock after the vehicle was chased into Hughes Springs on Highway 11 by two DPS patrol units and a Daingerfield police unit.

Rose Kennedy recovering

PALM BEACH — Rose Kennedy, the 93-year-old matriarch of the Kennedy clan, had recovered enough Saturday from a fainting spell that she might attend Easter Mass, an aide said.

"They'll certainly observe Easter and I think that she would attend Mass," said Bob Schrum, a spokesman for Mrs. Kennedy's son, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Mrs. Kennedy remained at her Palm Beach home Saturday, Schrum said.

She had fainted Friday night during dinner with her son.

"I think she'll be fine. She was having dinner with the family and she got a little bit faint, a little weak," her personal physician, Dr. Robert Gerard, said Friday night.

"Her nurse took her upstairs and gave a little oxygen. She responded fairly well. I came by yesterday (Thursday) and she was actually more lethargic then. Tonight, she squeezed my hand and seemed to recognize who I was and who other members of the family were," Gerard said.

"She's talking about going to Mass Easter Sunday and she's ready to roll," Gerard said of his famous patient, a devout Roman Catholic.

Mrs. Kennedy's sons also include President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert Kennedy, both assassinated in office.

Jazz man recues a dog

HARTFORD — Jazz saxophonist Jackie McLean owns a dog, so when he came upon a mutilated Doberman pinscher in a Hartford park, he took immediate action.

He fed the starving animal, then summoned police and the city dog warden, who brought it to a veterinarian for treatment. McLean says he'll adopt the dog himself if its owner doesn't claim it.

It was McLean's own dog who brought him to the wounded Doberman while he was taking her for a walk Friday in Keney Park.

"She led me right up a trail and into a thicket where I found the dog. He was just skin and bones. His eyes were half closed — like he was dying," McLean said.

When he fed the dog, he noticed its tail had been cut off and it had a 9-inch-long stab wound that was festering.

McLean, who lives in Hartford, has played alto saxophone for Charlie Mingus, Miles Davis and other jazz figures.

Jerry Lee to rock again

MEMPHIS — Rock 'n' roller Jerry Lee Lewis will marry a 22-year-old aspiring singer Tuesday, his road manager says.

It will be the sixth marriage for the 48-year-old singer, whose fifth wife died of a drug overdose last August.

Road manager J.W. Whitten said Lewis' fiancée is Kerrie McCarver of Memphis. Miss McCarver was with Lewis last month when he was admitted to a Memphis hospital for a reported drug reaction and she accompanied him to court earlier this year when he was charged with income tax violations.

Whitten said the wedding would be private. "It's going to be restricted to family and friends," he said.

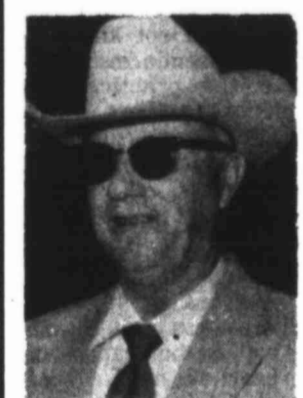

A young woman who identified herself as Miss McCarver's sister answered the telephone at the McCarver family residence and said the wedding would be held there.

Lewis, on tour in Canada, was unavailable for comment.

Three of Lewis' marriages ended in divorce, and his fourth wife, Jaren, drowned in a friend's swimming pool in 1982.

The news in brief

Reagan's visit threatened

PEKING — Chinese police said Saturday that there have been threats to bomb President Reagan during his visit to China, and they urged a Peking hotel to tighten its security, a source said.

"They (the police) said there had been bomb threats, not at the hotel but against Reagan," said a source helping to arrange the banquet Reagan will host at Peking's luxurious Great Wall Hotel.

The source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the police gave no details.

U.S. Embassy information officer Tony Sariti said he had not been informed of any threats in his discussions with Chinese authorities, and he was against imposing too many restrictions at the hotel, which will also serve as the press center for Reagan's visit.

Security during the first U.S. presidential visit to China since 1975 has been the subject of lengthy negotiations.

Reagan is setting a precedent among world leaders by bringing his own bulletproof limousine to China, traveling in Air Force One and having his regular contingent of Secret Service men.

The Chinese normally provide protection for visiting dignitaries, and U.S. officials say the special arrangements for Reagan reflect China's desire to make the visit a success.

Lebanese forces disengage

BEIRUT — Government forces moved into remaining buffer zones between Christian and Moslem militias in Beirut on Saturday, completing disengagement along the mid-city frontier as rival political leaders worked to form a national coalition Cabinet.

Police said a cease-fire that started Wednesday night held Saturday.

Lebanese policemen and army conscripts deployed in buffer zones around the city's closed port and in the bomb-ravaged downtown commercial district shortly after midday. The move completed a three-day disengagement operation along Beirut's "green line" dividing east and west Beirut.

The operation was completed without incident, police said.

Police said 1,500 policemen and conscripts and 200 truce observers were in position between the civil war antagonists along the frontier and in the Shiite Moslem-inhabited southern suburbs. Police said 300 more troops were on their way Saturday afternoon to the town of Souk el-Gharb east of the capital.

Police attributed a delay in movement of the truce units to the Souk el-Gharb area to mine fields between government troops holding the town and Syrian-backed Druse opposition forces surrounding it.

President Amin Gemayel started consultations on forming a half-Christian, half-Moslem government to lead Lebanon out of its nine-year-old civil war.

His emissaries briefed northern Lebanon's top two opposition leaders, ex-President Suleiman Franjeh and ex-Prime Minister Rashid Karami, on Gemayel's summit talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad on Thursday and Friday, presidential palace sources said.

Bomb inflames negotiations

LONDON — Home Secretary Leon Brittan said negotiations to end the Libyan Embassy siege were going "painfully slowly" Saturday and that feelings about the five-day-old standoff were inflamed by a bomb attack at Heathrow Airport.

British Ambassador Oliver Miles in Tripoli, the Libyan capital, met with Libyan Foreign Minister Ali Abdussalam Treiki for a third straight day but both sides remained at loggerheads.

Airport workers said the timebomb that ripped through a baggage claim hall at Heathrow on Friday, injuring 25 people, was in baggage from a Libyan plane. Police said they were investigating the dozens of flights that came around the time of the blast. They said the device was similar to those planted in London last month in a bomb blitz aimed at exile opponents of Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy.

Helicopter incident probed

STUTT GART — The U.S. Army's European headquarters is investigating whether a U.S. Army helicopter was in Czech air space when it was fired on by two Soviet-built warplanes, an Army spokesman said Saturday.

The U.S. Cobra helicopter was not hit Friday by the rocket and cannon fire from the planes. It returned safely to its home station in West Germany, officials said.

Lt. Col. Charles White, an Army spokesman in Stuttgart, said today the helicopter was from the 2nd Armored Cavalry Regiment, based at Nuremberg. He said officials at U.S. Army Europe in Heidelberg were investigating whether the aircraft had entered Czech air space or the MiG warplanes crossed into West Germany air space.

They also were trying to determine the nationality of the MiGs, he said. White said he had no information on the identities of the helicopter pilots.

U.S. Army Europe is one of three divisions of the Stuttgart-based U.S. European Command.

In Washington, the Pentagon issued a brief statement about the incident, saying that it occurred at 2:40 p.m. (6:40 a.m. CST) and was under investigation.

Bus wreck kills 2, injures 30

PAROWAN, Utah (AP) — A chartered bus carrying high school students and scouts home from a ski trip rolled over early Saturday, killing two people and injuring 43 others, authorities said.

The cause of the accident on Interstate 15 was under investigation, but "it looked like a case of a sleepy driver. That's our main line right now," said Utah Highway Patrol trooper David Excell.

The injured were taken to Valley View Medical Center in nearby Cedar City, where six people, mostly teen-agers, were admitted for treatment of broken bones, fractures and a concussion. All either were in satisfactory or fair condition, said Dahl Gardner, hospital administrator.

The injured included students from Laguna Hills, Dana Point and Capistrano high schools in Orange County, Calif., two advisers and a driver. Gardner said 38 others were treated for minor injuries and were released.

The dead were identified by the highway patrol as Amy George, 17, of Dana Point, and Byron Hearne, 16, of Mission Viejo.

Excell said the relatives of one victim were driving to Cedar City from Orange County to make a positive identification of the body. "They can't believe it," Excell said.

The bus, chartered by the Boy Scouts of America from California Charters Inc., was taking its occupants home from a skiing vacation in Steamboat Springs, Colo., when the accident occurred about 5:30 a.m. four miles north of Parowan, Excell said.

There was a light mist, but "the road was not slick at all," he said.

Excell said it appeared the bus went off the side of the freeway and then "the driver overcorrected and the bus went across the interstate into the divider, where it rolled over three-fourths and came to rest."

Passers-by were helping students out of the crumpled bus when Excell arrived. "It was pretty chaotic," he said. Excell said one of the injured was driver Samuel Peyton, 37, of Compton, Calif., whom he described as "pretty shook up." Bill Athey, the hospital's public relations director, said Peyton and another person admitted asked that their injuries not be disclosed.

He identified the others hospitalized as Kelly Kinksten, 18, of Laguna Hills; Michelle Soljak, 15, of Dana Point; Danielle Clark, 15, of Capistrano, and David Campbell, 15, of Mission Viejo.

James Daniels, who had two children aboard the bus, said his son Jeff called about 1 1/2 hours after the accident.

"He said he was asleep when the accident started," Daniels said.

The real danger of radioactivity

The power of the modern media in America is measured in megatons. So, with all of the attention focused on Three Mile Island, there was a blockbuster of horror and concern, despite the fact that no injury occurred and only a microscopic amount of radiation escaped. Now, five years later, the reverberations of that billion-dollar catastrophe still are shaking the nuclear power industry.

How striking, then, is the relative lack of concern about an accident in Mexico which has released far more radioactivity, injured an unknown number of persons and caused a serious threat to the health of many more, both in Mexico and in the United States.

The reason must be that it was the potential for frightening danger at Three Mile Island that caused the towering concern. There was talk of a nuclear meltdown and "The China Syndrome." But, in truth, there was no actual damage outside the nuclear reactor.

On the other hand, radiation from cobalt pellets stolen from a Juarez hospital has spread across two countries. Four workers at a junkyard suffered high doses of radiation, and at least a dozen persons received enough radiation for them to fear an increased risk of cancer. We have learned that more than a hundred buildings in Mexicali alone will have to be torn down because traces of the radioactive cobalt contaminated steel reinforcing rods used in the buildings. Contaminated steel is suspected at nearly a thousand other Mexican building sites and was shipped to construction projects in Arizona, California, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, Missouri and Illinois.

All of this has attracted little attention in this country. Ho hum. But if the same amount of radiation had escaped from a power plant, doomsday. It's hard not to believe that many Americans are more afraid of the specter of radioactive danger than of the reality.

Closed for holidays
Area public schools dismissed classes early Thursday afternoon and will resume their schedules Tuesday morning.

The two-day interruption in the curriculum, I assume, is to allow students the opportunity to celebrate Good Friday and Easter.
If this is the case, I fear our well-intentioned school officials are flagrantly violating the U.S. Constitution and blissfully ignoring the salient rulings by the Supreme Court on the separation of church and state.

Altering the normal school schedule to accommodate Christian holidays involves the mechanisms of the state (schools) in the furtherance of that religion. In short, the public schools are being used to establish a religion.

I know the schools didn't close for Passover, and I highly doubt if next year's fall semester will be delayed for the observance of Ramadan.

Can any one give me a legally defensible explanation for dismissing public school in coincidence with Good Friday and Easter?
And can anyone tell me why the Howard County Courthouse, a government facility, also closed Friday?

Cold War cuts
Former President Richard Nixon, whom I did not vote for and for whom I will gladly write an epitaph, continues to show evidence of competency in the only field for which he was ever qualified.

I'll give Nixon credit for having the savvy to arrange a treaty and make it stick, for mastering the intricacies of international relations, for having the guts to scrap tradition in the interests of this county's future.

In a recent speech to the New York Economics Club, Nixon expounded on the theme of detente which marked his two terms as chief executive.

The U.S. and the USSR are here to stay, he said, and nothing is going to change their status as superpowers short of nuclear holocaust. His thesis: We'd better learn to live with the Soviets, because we can't live without them.

Nixon said detente is our only hope for a peaceful world.
"One stark fact dominates the international scene," he said. "Without a new relationship between the United States and the Soviet Union, there is no chance peace will survive in the world."

Warm words from an old Cold Warrior. Nixon should have been secretary of state. What a tremendous waste he was as president.

Let's have a party
I don't understand why municipal and school elections are not conducted according to the same political party primary system that governs county and district races.

There are just too many school and city races for the voter to intelligibly differentiate among Tom and Dick and Harry.

I don't know how many persons are running for justice of the peace here, but I do know that in November my political party will have slated someone for that position. And I feel confident that I can hold him to the party line through his election and tenure in office.

City councilmen and school trustees, because they are not representatives of a party, are beholden to no political philosophy and thus are free to govern by caprice and fiat.

I know my political party would not have allowed its councilmen to do something as undemocratic as extending their terms without voter approval.

The difficult job of being ethical Editors and publishers from across Texas and beyond opened the proverbial can of worms at a recent seminar in Austin. The topic was newspaper ethics.

It is an area of journalism increasingly scrutinized both from within and outside, and rightfully so. But it is one thing to have concern for ethics in publishing; it is another to easily resolve those concerns.

Journalists are ethical. We shy away from decision-making roles in community service because of conflict of interest — and even the appearance of such — is anathema to us. That's why we don't present ourselves as candidates for public office, why we cannot comfortably serve in publicity capacities for boards and organizations, why we fret that the church to which we belong will inadvertently receive more ink than is "fair."

Add vested interest to conflict of interest. Can an opinion writer whose spouse is a teacher comfortably write a persuasive piece in favor of higher teacher salaries?

The converse of a jading involvement in community interests is isolationism. Put on the blinders and judge all news clinically. It cannot be done, but some claim this feat. Journalists are people. Trained people, true, but shaped by their experience and their environment just as everyone is.

Somewhere between the extreme of over-involvement and isolationism is an acceptable balance. If we don't watch it, though, editors can give reporters a severe case of schizophrenia. We tell them to mingle, to get to know the community, to be a part of it so they don't write from a vacuum.

Then we warn them against conflict of interest, vested interest, coziness with news sources — a thousand perils.

We assign them a beat — such as city hall, or the courthouse — so they can become familiar with the workings of the institutions they write about and bring depth to their reporting. Then we cast a baleful eye if they should — heaven forbid — become personally close to a news source.

There's a valid argument in favor of involvement, that news gatherers cannot operate at arms length from the community and expect their stories to reflect any kind of depth. Yet the pitfalls are obvious.

So we pursue neither extreme, but work from a nebulous middle ground. And live with our schizophrenia.

I wish there were automatic, iron-clad, easy answers to ethical questions. In some cases, there are. In most, there are not. It's only slight comfort to know the ethical considerations faced daily at the Big Spring Herald are no different than those the 19 other seminar participants grapple with in their communities. They are not much different than the concerns of the Los Angeles Times, Boston Globe and Christian Science Monitor, whose representatives could offer no pat answers to their Texas counterparts.

Did I learn anything at the seminar? I learned that my problems, that this newspaper's problems, are not unique. I learned that newspaper reporters, editors and publishers make lots of decisions every day, some big and some little, some insignificant and some of them destined to draw a volley of criticism.

Many of those decisions are not easy. But none of them are made in a vacuum, none are made flippantly, and none are made maliciously. I can live with that.

Steve Chapman

Whose life is it, anyway?

The issue of what to do with sick children whose parents deny them medical care because of their religion isn't new. But now it's being settled. Says Time magazine, "States are beginning to bring charges of neglect or abuse against parents who endanger their children's lives by adhering to religious teachings."

Time's editors clearly endorse this trend, citing several cases "in which children died, seemingly unnecessarily," like the Indiana baby killed by pneumonia when "$5 worth of antibiotics might have saved his life." They quote approvingly one woman whose nephew died from lack of treatment: "When it comes to letting little children die, that's beyond religion."

The opinion implied by the article is that the lives of children should be valued over the religious convictions of their parents. It will get only applause here. But compare Time's coverage of these children with its coverage of a similarly unfortunate child, Baby Jane Doe.

Baby Jane was born on Long Island last October with a protruding spinal cord and excess fluid on her brain. Her parents decided against corrective surgery, knowing that, without it, she would die within two years. They also won a lawsuit challenging their right to deny her that treatment. This month, she was released from the hospital.

In that case, Time, like most news organs, unabashedly took up the parents' cause. One story began: "Despite its objections to overbearing Big Government, the Reagan administration has been trying to intervene in the painful private dilemma of a Long Island, N.Y., couple with an incurably ailing child." Subtle, huh?

In a later story, Time titled again. Noting the frustrations that led a quadriplegic woman to try to kill herself, it said, "Baby Jane's parents have concluded that their daughter should not have lived through a similar struggle. 'We love her very much,' her mother said last week, 'and that's why we made the decision we did.' It didn't consider that the child may have rights of her own — which death will prevent her from exercising."

Time was also careless about facts, saying flatly that Baby Jane would be "severely retarded," "almost totally disabled" and dead by age 20. It could easily have found experts who disagree. Dr. David McLone, head of pediatric neurosurgery at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago, says he has treated patients with the same defects who, with surgery, have developed normal intelligence and the ability to walk with braces. Baby Jane's doctor, contrary to reports, didn't put her life expectancy at 20.

But Time's paradoxical stories only illustrate a prevailing double standard. They also raise questions: Why do many Americans think the government ought to demand care for a child whose parents object because of their religion, but not for a child whose parents object because he's handicapped? Why is the former case child abuse, but the latter a "painful private dilemma"?

One reason is that few of us have any patience with sects that reject medicine in favor of faith and prayer. These days, that qualifies as superstition, and superstitious fools deserve what they get. It may be less sympathy for the child than disdain for the parents that justifies intervention.

Most of us also know we'll never be affected by that type of government action. Only Jehovah's Witnesses and their ilk need worry. But anyone who has children, or expects to, can readily identify with the parents of a defective child, and knows that, there, but for the grace of God...

Even if you question what Baby Jane's parents did, why give up your right to let your own prospective child die, should his handicap prove too imposing? But neither impulse fully explains our schizophrenia. At bottom, we are driven by our lack of understanding of — even revulsion for — the handicapped. Who, on seeing someone retarded or deformed or paralyzed, hasn't thought, "I'd rather be dead"? Because most of us can't imagine enjoying life in such a condition, we doubt that anyone could. That's why the defenders of this kind of infanticide can claim, outrageously, to act in the child's own interests.

Moreover, many Americans simply believe that a baby who is likely to be a burden to his parents doesn't deserve the same protection as a normal child. In a conflict between parental preferences and children's rights, a normal child is saved; a handicapped child is left to die.

That is how many, perhaps most, Americans now think — discounting the rights of the individual in direct proportion to his handicap; saying to a dying child, "If your misfortune is your parents' religion, you're in luck, but if it's your own physical or mental defects, we'd rather be rid of you." It's an ugly sort of people we're becoming.

Billy Graham

Nuclear arms race must be checked

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why have you made comments about the arms race and nuclear weapons? It seems to me those are political problems that you ought to leave to the politicians. — R.E.

DEAR R.E.: God has called me to be an evangelist, and my primary calling is to declare the Gospel of Jesus Christ as God would give me the opportunity. I want to assure you, therefore, that I have no intention of becoming involved in political issues and problems which would divert me from my spiritual ministry.

However, I have expressed concern about the unchecked arms race because it is not just a political issue, but a moral and spiritual one as well. We live in a time which is without parallel in the history of the human race, because for the first time we now have it within our power to kill millions of people in a matter of minutes. If this were to happen — and it well could, either by design or by accident — it would be a grave tragedy. If a person murders someone in our community, we know that is wrong. It would likewise be wrong for someone to press the nuclear or biochemical button that would condemn millions to an early death.

I am not a pacifist; a nation has a legitimate right to defend itself. Neither am I for unilateral disarmament, nor am I naive about the threats to our nation that are very real. I frankly do not know the answer to the present arms race; I must leave the practical and political solutions to others. But the goal of reducing and even eliminating these terrible weapons must be pursued.

However, it is important to realize this issue is basically a spiritual problem. If the nuclear button is ever pushed, it will be because a person has pushed it. The problem is not just the weapons, but the human heart. We need a change of heart — and only Christ can do that. The Bible makes it clear that "there is no one righteous, not even one" (Romans 3:10). Even if we were somehow to eliminate all weapons, there still would be the problems because the greed and lust of the human heart still would be there. We all need God's forgiveness, and he has made it possible through Jesus Christ. Our greatest need today is spiritual revival, and it can begin with you, as you open your heart to Jesus Christ.

Not much room at the top

AUSTIN — It is often said that politics makes strange bedfellows. It is equally true that politics too often makes strange enemies.

The competitive nature of the beast almost always creates animosity among candidates, potential candidates or even persons who think that some day they might be opponents in the same race.

One of the more interesting psychological studies in the Texas Legislature is to watch the constant maneuvering for position to fulfill some unannounced ambitions.

Several years ago two bright young men came to the Texas House from the same area at the same time. They became friends, worked on legislation together and parted together.

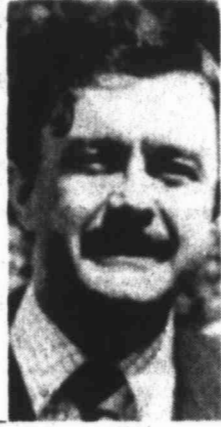

After a couple of years they came to realize that the state senator from their area might be vulnerable to challenge and might even step down voluntarily. Each began thinking how nice it would be to move up to that more-prestigious body. The maneuvering began, and soon they were cutting each other down in various ways. Today, neither is a senator and they hate each other.

If things can get that dirty and damaging just from thinking about a political race, you can imagine how rocky relationships can become in an actual race.

We can expect to see some increased tension among the current crop of top-elected state officeholders. Historically, comptrollers, treasurers, land commissioners and agriculture commissioners held on to their jobs for dear life. Few were considered seriously as candidates for higher office.

BOB BULLOCK

Things have changed. Comptroller Bob Bullock, Treasurer Ann Richards, Land Commissioner Garry Mauro and Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower act and sound like ambitious politicians with dreams of higher office.

They have cooperated the past couple of years, but there isn't room enough for all of them at or nearer the top. Conflict sure seems likely.

One sign of that may be the current Democratic race for the U.S. Senate.

Mauro ran Bob Krueger's almost-successful U.S. Senate campaign in 1978, and shares his passion to remedy that six-year-old disappointment. Mauro has a prominent role in the current campaign.

Richards and Hightower are campaigning for their friend, State Sen. Lloyd Doggett of Austin.

No matter how hard these officials try to keep their campaign roles polite and friendly, some prestige is on the line and each would be helped personally by a victory for his or her candidate.

The Democratic Senate race itself is a good example of how tough good people can be on each other when they find themselves locked in a campaign.

My personal opinion is that the Democrats will have a good candidate no matter who wins. I've seen close up the intelligence and hardworking habits of Doggett and Kent Hance, who served in the Texas Senate from Lubbock before his election to the U.S. House of Representatives.

My views on Krueger come from less personal contact, but it's hard not to be impressed with his intelligence and energy even from a distance.

Q: We are finally getting to move closer to our children and grandkids. Since I am semi-retired, why should I pay a real estate agent to sell our house?

A: You shouldn't if you want to spend extra time and possibly money selling your house yourself. Services a realtor can do include: *Help you get a better price for the property. The agent may suggest simple improvements or save you from making expensive changes which won't add to the selling price. *Because of market knowledge, the agent can help you set a price for the property — one favorable to seller and buyer. *A realtor can make it possible for many prospective buyers to view the property, with the least inconvenience to you. *An agent can direct prospects toward available mortgage money.

Mom, child reunited after custody battle

HOUSTON (AP) — A mother who gave up her handicapped baby daughter 2½ years ago because she couldn't afford the infant's hospital bills has been reunited with the child after winning a custody battle with the child's foster parents.

Patty Cochrane, 26, was awarded custody of her daughter Eileen by family district court jurors Wednesday after an eight-day trial.

The child's foster parents, Jim and Peggy Fore, sent her clothes and toys to Ms. Cochrane after the court ordered them to surrender the child to her mother.

Eileen smiled at her mother and seemed surprised by the press, family and attorneys invited to gather at the Cochrane residence to witness the reunion Friday. Ms. Cochrane said the reason for the publicity was to keep other mothers and babies from going through the same ordeal.

She was unmarried and had no job and support from her parents when she gave birth to Eileen, who was born with one lung and a severe hearing loss.

Ms. Cochrane said she gave up the baby because she could not afford private hospital bills and did not want the infant transferred to a charity hospital.

She says she will work to change the Texas law that allows mothers no grace period to "get a grip on motherhood emotions and find out if it's possible to keep the baby after all." She said she wants to see the state institute a 30-day waiting period for mothers.

Alan Nielsen, Eileen's father, helped Ms. Cochrane financially in the custody fight for the child.

4 bodies discovered in bayou

FREEMONT (AP) — Brazoria County authorities searched a bayou Saturday where a day earlier divers found the bodies of two men and two women believed to have driven off a dangerous highway curve over a four-year period.

Divers pulled the bodies from their four cars in the murky East Union Bayou late Friday after a crab fisherman saw a man's body surface in the bayou, near the Farm-to-Market Road 523 bridge just inside the Freeport city limits.

Authorities identified the victims as Sam G. Hall, 33, and Cathy Jaye Stewart, 36, both of Brazoria; Roma Alexia Gibson, 25, of Freeport; and James Clay, 30, of Lake Jackson.

Divers stopped searching the bayou after finding the bodies, but resumed their search Saturday, said Deputy Marcia Thacker, of Brazoria County Sheriff's office. Ms. Thacker said she did not know how long the search would continue.

"We think they were intoxicated, missed the curve and drove into the water," said Stiles. "We suspect that they were all traffic accidents."

The cars, stacked up on top of each other, were still in gear, he said.

He said three fire department divers began looking for a vehicle missing from Freeport and a woman after Hall's body was sighted. But they also found three other automobiles, two of which also contained bodies.

The victims were pronounced dead by Peace Justice Roy Knopp of Klute, who ordered autopsies on the victims.

On Turning Heads

by Gary Don

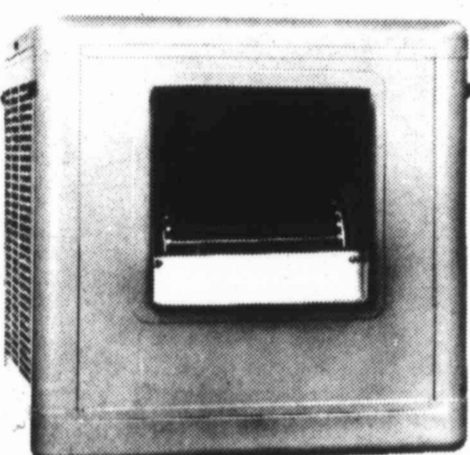

There is a proclaimed advance in many skin care products that is actually a retreat. Many moisturizers contain either perfume additives or what chemists call a "masking fragrance," which neutralizes any bad smell from the manufacturing process. The former usually appear on ingredient labels simply as "fragrance." The latter is most often listed by its specific ingredients. The cutback in fragrance is due in part to the fact that roughly 77% of all cases of contact dermatitis traceable to a single cosmetic source are traceable to fragrance additives. Contact dermatitis is a rash caused by a skin exposure allergy to one thing or another.

Sports Nighbourhood

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

Grant Teaff is a motivator.

That the 12-year Baylor coaching veteran can inspire with his rhetoric is a fact that has been written about and reported many times.

But here goes again.

Yours truly has been an avid admirer of Teaff and the Baylor football situation for the past 10 years. It started in 1974 when this writer's high school football team accomplished a great deal in a year when the Rogers Eagles were supposed to finish near the bottom. That same year the "Miracle on the Brazos," occurred as the Bears won their first SWC title in 50 years. That was only the first similarity as far as I was concerned. Both Teaff and my former high school mentor know how to work well with young men and motivate so that unattainable goals seem within fingertip distance.

This is all leading up to a few lines from the Stanton All-Sports Banquete where the dean of Southwest Conference coaches served as guest speaker.

I have had the opportunity to observe Teaff in game situations, but had never really sat down and listened for an entire evening to the man who, "enjoys sharing his philosophies with young people."

Everything Teaff spoke off can make one a better person, not only in athletics, but in any walk of life, as can very well be seen by reading the forthcoming lines.

According to Teaff one has to believe strongly in one's self. "Everyone is born with the chance for success," he said. Understanding one's mental, physical and spiritual feelings is one factor in knowing which direction you want to head in.

"Everyone can contribute and help make life more abundant," said Teaff. "You simply have to utilize your talents to the best of your ability," he added.

The very personable Teaff went on to say that intangibles such as desire, attitude and loyalty are what separates many under and over achievers, however.

You can take two athletes similar in size, speed and talent, but the race will go to the one who wants it the most, according to Teaff. That's true in anything.

"Analyze yourself after a failure and then go for it again until you succeed," Teaff told the audience. By taking the power of your intangibles and utilizing them you can be successful, he added.

And in something that really struck a chord, Teaff said, "Success on the athletic field without integrity is shallow." How true that is, not only in athletics, but on any field.

Teaff concluded by saying that success can not be determined by what an individual has in terms of wealth or titles, but by the, "way you walk your path each day and having character in everything you do."

He added that one of the best lessons in success he learned came during one season when former Baylor linebacker Kyle Wood was paralyzed after making a tackle in a game.

Long months of rehabilitation followed and while Wood eventually improved, Teaff asked him once how he is able to maintain such a positive attitude throughout an ordeal that has him confined to a wheelchair in what should be the prime of his life.

Wood answered by telling Teaff, "Coach, I might give out, but I never give up."

Gunslingers face tough task in Stars

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — San Antonio Coach Gil Steinke is realistic about what his Gunslingers must do to beat Atlantic Division-leading Philadelphia when the teams meet Sunday in a United States Football League game.

The lower the score, the better the Gunslingers' chances, Steinke said.

"We'll try to have some sort of ball control, and our defense will have to play great," Steinke said.

"Philosophically, we would prefer to have a slowdown attack, to try to keep the score low. That's our only chance to win."

San Antonio, 2-6 and in last place in the Central Division, has a good, blitzing defense that ranks fourth in the USFL in points allowed with 127 and has recorded 22 sacks and 11 interceptions.

But the Stars' defense is even better — giving up the fewest points (101) and forcing 13 turnovers in the past three games. Philadelphia, 7-1, is coming off a 41-7 rout of Chicago last week.

Moreover, the Stars feel they have the passing attack to thwart the blitzing Gunslingers, who sometimes send eight men after the quarterback, leaving the defensive backfield undermanned.

"Someone will be open," said Jim Erkenbeck, the Stars' offensive coordinator. "We'll go for the hot receiver."

Sonics take second straight over Mavs

SEATTLE (AP) — Lenny Wilkens, the Seattle SuperSonics' coach, says in order for his National Basketball Association club to be successful in the playoffs, it must communicate.

"The whole team played real hard today, communicating with one another on defense," Wilkens said after his Sonics beat the Dallas Mavericks 104-94 Saturday to take a 2-1 lead in the clubs' best-of-five first-round playoff series.

"That made the difference for us. With communication, we don't have to worry about making switches and who is going to be responsible for them. They just happen."

Jack Sikma, with 23 points, and Gus Williams, with 19, led Seattle's second consecutive playoff victory.

"We may have been a little more sharp overall," Wilkens continued. "But the third quarter of today's game was the best we played in the entire series."

"We mixed it up a little more offensively," said Sikma. "We also were a little more patient today."

"Defensively, we did a better job on them in the second half. We put a lot more pressure on them."

Dallas Coach Dick Motta said he felt "the most comfortable and controlled" he has felt this season when he left the Mavericks' locker room with a five-point halftime lead.

"But we missed three excellent shots that just didn't go in and Seattle came out quick and hit some shots," Motta said with a sigh. "It seemed like a storm front moved through and completely changed the game. Seattle was in control by the six-minute mark of the third quarter."

"Now, it's just down to the bread on the table and who wants it most."

Game No. 4 will be played in Seattle's Kingdome Tuesday night with a fifth game, if necessary, set for Dallas Thursday.

The Sonics, who gained a split of the first two games of the series in Dallas, trailed 57-52 at halftime. But Seattle came out fast in the second half, outscoring the Mavericks 11-2 in the first 2:50 of the third quarter for a 63-59 advantage.

A key in Seattle's victory was its defensive job on Mark Aguirre, Dallas' high-scoring forward, who had only five points in the second half before fouling out with 2:28 left in the game. Aguirre had 15 of his points in the first quarter.

Aguirre was shut out in a pivotal third quarter when Seattle went from a five-point intermission deficit to an 83-73 lead after three quarters.

The Sonics, who posted a glossy 32-9 home record during the regular season, got 17 rebounds from the 6-foot-11 Sikma and also got 18 points from Al Wood. Rolando Blackman paced the Mavericks with 27.

ON HIS WAY — Seattle Supersonic Tom Chambers, drives to the basket past Pat Cummings, (42), of the Dallas Mavericks during their NBA game in Seattle Saturday afternoon. The Sonics downed Dallas, 104-94.

UH continues to lead SWC golf

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — John Slaughter shot a 72 to stay in first place, ahead of three other University of Houston golfers, as Houston added 17 more strokes to its team lead Saturday in the Southwest Conference Golf Championship.

The Cougars had a 33-stroke lead, with a four-under par 572 after 36 holes, over second-place Arkansas with 605, 10 strokes ahead of Texas.

All six Houston golfers were in the top eight. "This is almost like a dream," said Houston Coach Dave Williams. "It's unbelievable that we would have such a big lead in a tournament like this."

Slaughter, playing on his home course at the Fairway Oaks Golf & Racquet Club which was raked by 40 mph winds Saturday, had a 140 total after his even-par 72. He was two shots ahead of Steve Elkington, who posted 71 both days.

Tray Tiner was in third at 144 while Billy Ray Brown, who had a 69 on Friday but a 77 on Saturday, was in fourth at 146. Brown took a quadruple-bogey eight on the 10th hole on Saturday.

Swedes dominate Monte Carlo

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Defending champion Mats Wilander and Henrik Sundstrom defeated their semifinal opponents Saturday to set up an all-Swedish final in the $405,000 Monte Carlo Jacomo Open tennis tournament.

Wilander stormed past France's Yannick Noah 6-2, 6-3, while Sundstrom bested third-seeded Jimmy Arias of the United States 6-3, 4-6, 6-1.

Sunday's championship match with Sundstrom "will be my toughest match of the tournament," said Wilander, who noted that his opponent is a good clay court player. Wilander has never lost to Sundstrom.

The semifinal between Wilander and Noah was nothing like their last meeting in the French Open finals last June, which Noah won in three sets.

"I think Mats hit the ball harder and played faster than he did last year," said the 23-year-old French star after the match, which took just 80 minutes.

"But that may just be an impression since I was a lot slower today than I was last year," Noah added.

Despite a few brilliant moments, there was little of the spectacular shot-making that boosted Noah to a No. 6 world ranking and made him a national hero in France.

"It's just the beginning of the clay court season, and I don't think Yannick played his best," Wilander said. "But he has the type of game that gets better the more tournaments he plays."

The 23-year-old Noah, spurred on by a cheering crowd that chanted his name between games, did not win a single service game in the first set.

Though Noah managed to climb back into the second set to reach 3-5, saving one match point, Wilander's consistency and hard hitting were too much for the erratic Frenchman.

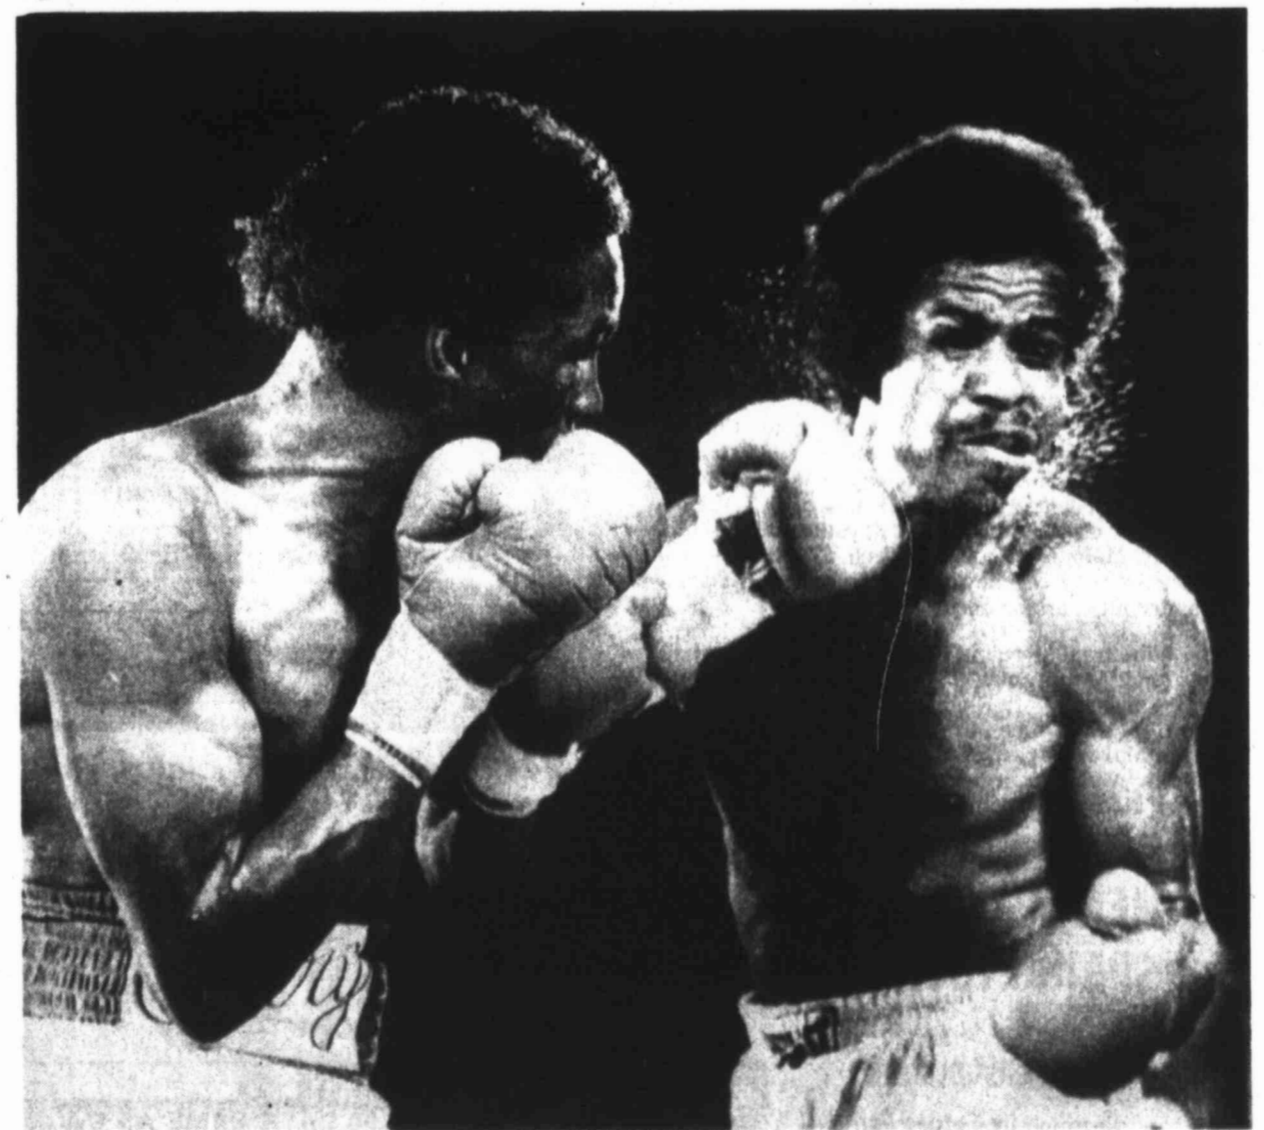

Sundstrom, meanwhile, beat Arias at his own game.

The two baseliners traded blistering forehands that skidded off the sidelines. The rallies were long until the second set when Arias suddenly began to limp and grimace with pain.

Arias had been bothered all week by tendinitis in his knee, which he said he aggravated Friday by playing nine holes of golf.

"I was lucky to pull out the second set," Arias said. "I started going for all the points on the first ball because I knew I couldn't stay back and rally."

Arias said he was not sure he would play a WCT tournament in Dallas starting Monday.

A Real Head-Twister

SOLID BLOW — Don Curry lands a solid punch on the face of Elio Diaz of Venezuela, in the sixth round of Saturday's WBA World Welterweight title bout in Ft. Worth. Curry kept his title when the fight was stopped after the seventh round.

Curry takes Diaz out in eighth round

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — World Boxing Association welterweight champion Donald "The Cobra" Curry called the round.

He said he would take out challenger Elio Diaz of Venezuela in the eighth round and that's what happened Saturday.

"I thought it would be the eighth," said Curry.

Diaz couldn't answer the bell for the eighth round Saturday, giving the hometown hero a technical knockout in his third WBA title defense.

"Elio was tough all the way and I expected him to be tough," said Curry. "I wanted to stop him bad. I wanted to win by TKO. I didn't want it to go the scheduled 15 rounds."

Diaz suffered a painful injury to his right eye, which was swollen, and did not talk to the media after the bout.

Curry of Fort Worth drilled Diaz with a left-right combination and then a stunning right at the end of the seventh round.

Curry took a standing 9-count before the bell rang to end the round. The dazed Diaz staggered to his corner and his handlers argued whether he should continue until the bell rang for the eighth round. The Diaz was knocked to his knees with the first punch of the fight, a straight right from Curry, but quickly got to his feet and took a standing 9-count. He weathered the rest of the first round, dacing away from Curry.

He added "the crowd made me feel good."

The bout was nationally televised over ABC.

Special Olympians vie for track honors

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

Although they could never be a superior track athlete like a Carl Lewis or Edwin Moses, a group of handicapped people in Big Spring have been training with every bit as much of intensity as the "superstars" of the track world. Their goal — to win medals at the area and state Special Olympics track and field meets.

Under the supervision of local coordinator Mike Cowley along with assistants Carol Green, John Williams, Linda Davis and Peggy Calhoun, 18 Special Olympic members have been training for the upcoming area meet April 28 in Monahans.

For the past month the group has been going to Blankenship Field every Thursday in preparation for their upcoming challenges.

The team got one meet at their belt at the city meet where the contestants competed in the 25, 50, 100, 200 meters and 400 relay. The standing long jump and softball throw are the two field events held.

To keep the competition even, contestants are divided into groups according to ages and ability.

After the area meet, 12 contestants will be taken to Austin's Memorial Stadium to compete in the state meet.

The local Elk Lodge pays for the expenses for the youngsters.

Although winning is fine, Cowley says that his biggest joy is just watching the contestants compete. "It's such a joy watching these people compete and win," said Cowley. "It helps build self-esteem for them."

Working out at Blankenship Field has been a big plus for the Special Olympic contestants, according to Cowley. "The commuty has not accepted this group in the past," he said. "Now the community gets a chance to see them work out and they have learned to accept the handicapped."

Cowley says that a structured sport system for handicapped children and adults is a necessity. "Often these people are told that they cannot do things as well as other people — the end result is that they feel defeated. Special Olympics gives them the opportunity to develop their skills, interact with other people in the community and develop a sense of pride in themselves."

Olympic hoop squad cut to 33

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Terry Porter and John Stockton, two of the longest shots to make the U.S. Olympic basketball team when tryouts began, were among the 33 survivors Saturday when cuts were announced.

Porter, a guard from Wisconsin-Stevens Point, an NAIA school, made it despite coming down with the chicken pox during the trials. Stockton, a guard from Gonzaga, also made the first cut.

To replace Porter, Dell Curry, a sophomore guard from Virginia Tech, was kept on the roster.

But six members of the 1983 gold medal Pam American Games team were dropped from the original 72 invitees.

"Before we started playing here the coaches told us to not be surprised if some All-Americans and first-round draft choices don't make it," said guard Leon Wood of Fullerton State, who survived.

Pan Am players who didn't stick were Michael Cage of San Diego State, Ed Pinckney of Villanova, Charlie Sittin of Oregon State, Greg Stokes of Iowa, Mark Price of Georgia Tech and Fred Reynolds of Texas-El Paso.

"I was happy to hear my name called," said Michael Jordan of North Carolina, the Player of the Year in college basketball this year.

Jordan was one of four first-team All-Americans to survive, joining Tar Heel teammate Sam Perkins, Patrick Ewing of Georgetown and Wayman Tisdale of Oklahoma.

The survivors played exhibition games Saturday night and play again Sunday night in the windup of the trials, which began Tuesday at Indiana University.

The next cuts will be made Monday, reducing the squad to from 16 to 18.

Since Porter is ill and unable to play in the weekend games, he will be invited back for the May 10 Olympic camp along with rest of Monday's survivors.

"We'll give him his two days then," said Coach Bob by Knight.

Porter, 6-foot-3, was an NAIA All-America and the most valuable player in the NAIA tournament, where he was the leading scorer with a 25.6-point average.

Stockton said, "I was a little stunned. They read the list in alphabetical order, so I had to wait a bit. My heart was pounding by the time they reached the R's."

"I regard myself as a longshot because of Gonzaga's lack of exposure," he said. "These are the greatest players in the country and I saw a lot of them on TV. But they never heard of me."

They have heard of Stockton in Spokane, Wash., where the 6-1 guard became the first Gonzaga player in history to score 1,000 points and collect 500 assists.

He averaged 20.6 points as a senior and was chosen the West Coast Athletic Conference's most valuable player.

One of his competitors for the point guard spot is Steve Alford, a freshman from Indiana.

"I don't think I'll be at a disadvantage because Bobby Knight coaches him," said Stockton. "He (Knight) already knows his strong points as well as his bad points. Maybe he won't get to know my bad points."

Alford, who led the Hoosiers in scoring and is a 91 percent free-throw shooter, said he didn't think Knight would show favoritism in choosing the final squad.

"He's a fair person and a fair coach," said Alford. "But I might have the advantage in knowing the type of offense he wants to run and being on my home grounds."

St. John's swingman Chris Mullin, sporting a black eye as a result of the physically aggressive week of workouts, was another survivor.

"The coaches put things in perspective," said Mullin, a second-team All-America. "There were hundreds of players who wanted to be invited but only 72 of us came here. They said it had nothing to do with our future if you got cut; you determine your own future."

In making the choices, Knight and his staff and the selection committee gave strong consideration to players who can play two positions, guard and forward or forward and center.

Along with the 7-0 Ewing, other center candidates remaining are Tim McCormick, 6-11, of Michigan, Joe Kleine, 6-11, of Arkansas, and 7-0 Jon Koncak of Southern Methodist.

The forwards are Mark Alarie of Duke, Charles Barkley of Auburn, Michael Brown of George Washington, Antonio Carr, formerly of Wichita State, Tyrone Corbin of DePaul, Kenny Fields of UCLA, Bobby Lee Hurt of Alabama, Larry Krystkowiak of Montana, Karl Malone of Louisiana Tech, Chuck Person of Auburn, Anthony Teachey of Wake Forest, Jeff Turner of Vanderbilt, Perkins and Tisdale.

Bullets stay alive in playoffs with overtime win over 'Celts

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Jeff Ruland and Frank Johnson sank two three free throws a piece in the final nine seconds as the Washington Bullets defeated the Boston Celtics, 111-108 in overtime Saturday after blowing a 15-point fourth quarter lead, to stay alive in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Boston still leads 2-1 in the best-of-five first round series which resumes Tuesday night on Washington's home court.

Rick Mahorn put the Bullets ahead 107-105 on a field goal with 37 seconds remaining, but Robert Parish of the Celtics missed the chance to forge another tie when he missed two foul shots with 22 seconds left.

Ruland, who tied his career playoff high of 33 points converted his two free throws with nine seconds to play and after a Boston turnover Johnson made his two shots before Dennis Johnson sank a three-pointer for Boston as time expired.

A 17-5 spurt at the start of the third quarter gave the Bullets a 65-54 lead and they led 81-66 early in the final period before the Celtics rallied behind Larry Bird and Parish.

A jumper by Parish with 21 seconds remaining in regulation time tied the score 98-98, as Ruland was unable to get off a shot in the final five seconds, sending the game into overtime.

Bird scored 27 points for the Celtics, Johnson had 18 and Kevin McHale 15. Greg Ballard scored 18 for Washington, Johnson 16 and Mahorn 14 along with 15 rebounds.

Tigers keep rolling, down Chicago 4-1

By The Associated Press. Dave Rozema and Doug Bair combined on a five-hitter and Lou Whitaker hit a home run to lead the sizzling Detroit Tigers to a 4-1 decision over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

Rozema allowed two hits, striking out seven and walking two over the first six innings. Bair came on to start the seventh and notched his first save of the season to nail down the Tigers' 11th victory in 12 games, the majors' best record.

Chicago's LaMarr Hoyt, 2-1, who was thwarted in his effort to win his 16th consecutive game over two seasons, gave up 10 hits. Hoyt's last previous defeat occurred July 23, 1983, when he lost 10-7 at Milwaukee.

Whitaker, leading off the Tigers' first, hit his second homer of the season, the ninth time in his career he has started a game with a home run. He later walked and scored a run as the Tigers built a 4-0 lead before the White Sox scored their only run in the ninth on Greg Walker's RBI double.

In other American League action, Andre Thornton hit a solo homer in the fourth and snapped an eighth-inning tie with a sacrifice fly to give the Cleveland Indians a 3-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Bobby Grich drove in three runs with a homer and two-run double and Reggie Jackson stroked a two-run triple to lead the California Angels to an 8-4 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Frank Tanana allowed two hits in eight innings and Ned Yost singled home an unearned run in the sixth as the Texas Rangers blanked New York 1-0, stopping the Yankees' three-game winning string.

Mike Flanagan earned his first victory of the season, holding Minnesota to five hits through seven innings, and Eddie Murray drove in two runs to lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 5-3 victory over the Twins.

Dave Kingman belted his fifth homer of the year, a two-run shot, and Dwayne Murphy drove in a pair of runs with a homer and single, powering the Oakland A's to a 5-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Left-hander Mike Caldwell, staked to an early four-run lead, pitched a seven-hitter to lead the Milwaukee Brewers to a 6-2 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

In the National League, John Denny scattered six hits for Philadelphia's first complete game of the season as the Phillies crushed the New York Mets 12-2.

Tony Pena's run-scoring double keyed a four-run seventh inning and Marvell Wynne and Johnny Ray had three hits each to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to an 8-5 victory, snapping Chicago's three-game winning streak.

Steve Garvey and Tony Gwynn had three hits each to lead a 16-hit attack as the San Diego Padres romped to a 9-6 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Pinch-hitter Tony Perez broke a 3-3 tie with a two-out, two-run triple in the eighth inning and the Cincinnati Reds held on to defeat the San Francisco Giants 5-4 and snap a seven-game losing streak.

In NL night action, Montreal played a two-night doubleheader at St. Louis and Houston visited Atlanta.

Jackson wants surtax on high incomes

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson on Saturday called for a surtax on incomes of $25,000 or more as part of an urban policy he said would help reduce the federal deficit and restore billions of dollars the Reagan administration has cut from social programs.

Jackson said his surtax proposal, with rates ranging from 1 percent to 10 percent, could generate about $50 billion from individual and corporate taxpayers.

"It should be a temporary surtax aimed at cutting into or reducing the budget deficit," Jackson said. "We simply have an emergency on our hands, and those making $25,000 or more, and corporations, must share the burden."

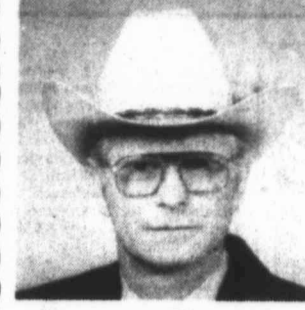

He said the surtax, lasting one or two years, should be targeted mainly at reducing the deficit, because "if we reduce the deficits we can move toward recovery."

He also reiterated his call for a reduction in military spending through eliminating unnecessary weapons and requiring "NATO to spend its fair share in its own defense."

Jackson estimated $60 billion in savings could be realized if such programs are implemented, but did not offer specifics.

The surtax and the cut in military spending would provide money to replace the $10 billion the Reagan administration cut

Elect Joneil Smallwood Vote #1 on your ballot

Hello, I'm Joneil Smallwood. I would like to ask for your vote and support in the (Howard) County Commissioner Precinct 3 election.

My wife's name is Elsie. We have one son Sammy that is still at home, also a son Tim and a daughter Danna that live in Amarillo.

I have been self-employed since 1960. In 1968 we purchased College Park 66 Service station and operated it until 1972. At that time we opened Smallwoods Western Wear which we are now operating in downtown Big Spring.

We own our home and acreage in Silver Heels. I also have interest in farm and ranch land in Scurry County, which is part of my mother and dad's estate. I tell you this to let you know I am familiar with some of the various problems some of you face.

I think we all would agree that we live in the greatest country in the world, but I think we are taxed about as much or more than we can stand. If I am elected to be your County Commissioner Prec. 3, I will do my best to see that your tax dollars are used to the best interest of Howard County.

Faldo keeps Heritage lead

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Tom Kite got a share of second with an 18th hole birdie putt, but said the 4-shot margin enjoyed by England's Nick Faldo will be a difficult obstacle to overcome Sunday in the final round of the $400,000 Sea Pines Heritage Classic.
 "It's gonna be tough," said Kite, who played the third round Saturday in the company of the 26-year-old Englishman who last year took enough time off from his American Tour schedule to gain the No. 1 position on the European circuit.
 "Nick is playing well," Kite said. "I think he missed only one fairway. He's playing very, very well. He'll be very difficult to catch."
 "But," Kite said, "it's hard to get through a week on this golf course without some sort of disaster happening to you."
 Faldo, with a solid, 3-under-par 68, completed three trips over the Harbour Town Golf Links in 201, a distant 11 strokes under par.
 "I'm just going to try to play solid tomorrow, get under par early and try to win this one," said Faldo, who has yet to take an American title and lists that as his "main objective for the year."

Harbour Town, he said, "won't let you go to sleep. It won't let you play defensively."
 "I just have to keep trying, keep going forward. I just want to try to play as well as I have the last three days."
 Kite, despite a pair of 6s, salvaged a 70 with the last-hole birdie and tied Dan Pohl and Larry Rinker for second at 205.
 Pohl and Rinker, neither of whom has yet won on the PGA Tour, each had a third-round 69.
 Tom Watson, a five-time British Open champion and twice the winner of this title, closed up with a 66 that left him at 207, six strokes off the pace.
 He was tied with Hubert Green, another two-time winner on this picturesque links, and Ronnie Black. Green, mired in a long, discouraging slump, had a 68 and Black matched par 71.
 Defending champion Fuzzy Zoeller and PGA titleholder Hal Sutton each had 69 and were in a large group at 208.
 Denis Watson, a South African and one of the first men off the tee, tied the course record of 63 set by Jack Nicklaus in 1975. He used only 22 strokes on the tiny greens that serve as a Harbour Town trademark and completed 54 holes at 210.
 Faldo, a two-stroke leader when the day's play started, opened up birdie-birdie and really wasn't threatened.
 "That got me off to a very good start and I just tried to keep it going," said Faldo, a three-time British PGA champion and winner of five European titles last season.

 He hit a 6-iron some 6 feet from the flag on the first hole, got his second just short of the green, chipped to 5 feet and made birdie-4 on the second.
 Faldo, now in his second full season as a member of the American Tour, bogeyed the third after missing the green, but got the shot back on the second hole, getting up and down from a greenside bunker for birdie-4.
 He made another good save, this time from a pot bunker at the back of the ninth green, then rapped in a pair of 15-foot birdie putts on the 10th and 16th.
 Faldo was five shots in front of the pack at that time, but pulled a 7-iron shot into a bunker on the 17th and made bogey.

 Kite, who finished sixth in last week's Masters and was in title contention until he hit into the water on the 12th hole of the final round, got the ball close to the hole for a couple of birdies on the front side, but hurt his score with bogeys on two of the par-5s.
 He missed the green with his third shot on the fifth and pull-hooked his second into the water on the 15th.
 He had to make a good save from the sand on the 17th and then birdied the 18th from about 12 feet to retain a share of second.

Navratilova advances to WTAC semis

AMELIA ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Top-seeded Martina Navratilova staved off a mid-match scare from No. 3 seed Hana Mandlikova for a 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 victory Saturday in semifinal play at the Women's Tennis Association Championships.
 In Sunday's final, Navratilova will meet Chris Evert Lloyd, who advanced with a methodical 6-1, 6-1 victory over No.12 seed Manuela Manieva in the other semifinal.
 Mandlikova used a service break to take leads of 3-1 and 4-2 in the third set but Navratilova roared back with two service breaks to win the match, thrusting her fists triumphantly into the air.
 Sunday's final marks the 58th time Lloyd and Navratilova have met, with Lloyd holding a 30-27 advantage which has dwindled recently. In the past 15 months, Navratilova has beaten Lloyd nine consecutive times.

"It will be a different game because I won't have to be racing anybody to the net," said Navratilova, primarily a serve-and-volley player while Lloyd prefers the baseline.
 "It will be an easier match to play because Chris doesn't exert the same kind of pressure on you mentally as some players do. But she won't make any silly mistakes."
 Navratilova is the world's No. 1 woman player while Lloyd is the three-time defending champion in this tournament.
 At stake Sunday is Lloyd's long winning streak on clay in the state of Florida, which was extended to 84-0 with Saturday's victory.

National Consumers' Week

Week highlights consumers' importance in marketplace

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

The idea that "the customer is always right" is sometimes, but not always, true and often poses problems in many business places.

That's one reason why so many consumer protection agencies popped into the lives of Americans in the 1960s and 1970s. They often act as mediators or arbitrators between customers and businesses to work differences out outside the courts in an objective and fair manner. They also try to stamp out fraudulent business activity, protecting both consumers and others businesses.

April 23-29 is National Consumer's Week. This year's theme, "Consumers Mean Business," highlights the importance consumers play in the marketplace and their responsibility to make their wants and needs known. The week's focus is on community projects and cooperative ventures which promote consumer well-being at the grass roots level.

THE CHOICES CONSUMERS make influence the way the market allocates its resources, says Naomi Hunt, Howard County Extension agent — home economics. "Through participation in government and corporate decision-making, consumers also influence the forming of policies."

Unfortunately, many people believes they are powerless and alienated within the marketplace and political system. Their apathy may stem from feelings that their efforts will not make a difference, she said.

Many consumers realize their participation does make a difference. And many consumers are relating their decisions and the consequences of those decisions to future conditions for themselves and society, Ms. Hunt said.

Many informed and motivated consumer groups are making improvements in their communities, even when the traditional market or public is unresponsive. Bartering networks and food banks are examples of efforts in some communities.

The Better Business Bureau, from here on in referred to as the Bureau, is one of the agencies that protects businesses and consumers.

The Bureau is an independent non-profit organization that provides specific information to help people make wise buying decisions. It does the most good to businesses, charities and individuals in helping them determine who to do business with, and where to spend their dollars where it will do them the most good.

The Bureau acts as a means of business self-regulation by exposing illegitimate businesses that do more harm than good, says Linda Truitt, president of the Permian Basin Better Business Bureau. The organization attempts to keep people from spending money with these businesses and keep them in the legitimate market, she added.

SEVERAL TYPES OF information is provided by the Bureau. "It exposes companies that are not out to do anyone any good," Ms. Truitt said. It tells whether the business is involved in any lawsuits, problems with the company, and complaints on the business, which are usually buyer/seller disputes. "We look at it as more a service to the business community than anything else," Ms. Truitt said.

The Bureau also mediates disputes or provides arbitration as a third party listening to both sides and deciding who is right. "Arbitration keeps problems out of the courts and settles them," Ms. Truitt said. "Arbitration will be a forthcoming method for solving problems due to court and lawyer costs. It will be more feasible for people."

The Bureau also provides general information for consumers. It knows what things to be aware of so it can help consumers. "The Better Business Bureau is probably one of the best organizations for (consumer education)," Ms. Truitt said. "Businesses have a bad connotation of the word 'consumer.' They think just of the person. But businesses are consumers, too. They are just as susceptible to schemes and getting taken."

THE CYCLE OF MONEY and skills go around in both directions, says Ms. Truitt. Businesses are buyers as well as sellers, as they buy merchandise and try to sell it. Or they buy equipment for use in their business.

Customers are often employed in businesses and are expected to provide the good business practices they would expect to be given to them as customers. "(Customers) have the responsibility not to cheat the business as well," Ms. Truitt said.

Prevention is the best method to make sure everyone is protected from scams, bad practices and swindles. The Bureau tries to provide information to people before they spend money so that they won't be taken, she said.

The Permian Basin Better Business Bureau is united with Bureaus across the U.S. This federation enables the Bureaus to pass on information of scams and fraudulent activities before they spread to other parts of the country. "We try to stop the crooks so they won't be profitable," Ms. Truitt said.

"People need to be aware of things to look for in products and services which keeps consumer education information an ongoing process. There are many things on the market now that weren't available 10 years ago, and people want to know what to look for," Ms. Truitt said.

"The Better Business Bureau promotes good business practices," Ms. Hunt said.

"All we are interested in is making the market place better for buyers and sellers. And they deserve that," Ms. Truitt said.

The Permian Basin Better Business Bureau serves 15 counties in the West Texas area. Area businesses support the local bureau. They provide the operating funds for the Bureau to continue operating by paying membership dues.

Anyone having any kind of business related problem may contact BBB for information or help by calling the Enterprise number listed in the white pages of the telephone book. Ask the operator for "Enterprise-84027." The Better Business Bureau will pay for the call.

FREEWHEELING AD — The above is an example of early ads, often misleading to consumers.

Bureau born in age of industrial titans

The Better Business Bureau began in the age of the industrial titans, according to an article in its latest publication, The Sourcebook.

Prior to its organization, the chief concern of many Americans was to apply their energies to exploiting the continent and others. There was unrestrained commerce, with the philosophy of let the buyer beware. It was up to the buyer to keep from being swindled.

An example of advertisement at the time was a complete sewing machine for 25 cents. It was a package of twelve needles. Another is a "bonafide offer of a genuine, steel-engraved portrait of General Grant for 25 cents," according to the article. The portrait was actually a one-cent stamp.

People have seen films portraying the past with a medicine men vending an alcohol compound or opium derivative as a cure-all for man or beast. Real estate and stock promotions also were often frauds.

HONEST BUSINESSES advertised cautiously so the public would not class them with the fraudulent promoters. In 1872, Congress voted "Fraud Order" powers to the U.S. Postmaster General enabling postal inspectors to go after mail swindlers. The move had little impact on advertising and mail order commerce was in danger of foundering on the shoals of dishonesty and mistrust.

Samuel Dobbs, sales manager of Coca-Cola and later president of Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, launched a crusade in 1909 for honesty in advertising. In two years, the crusade was making strides. John Romer, publisher of "Printers Ink" had a lawyer draw up a model statute to deal with fraud and deception in advertising. Known as the "Printers Ink Statute," the law has been since adopted by most states making dishonest advertising illegal.

IN 1911, Advertising Men's League of New York formed a committee to fight dishonesty in advertising. In 1912, the organization branched out into a National Vigilance Committee and within a year most major cities had such a committee.

At these vigilance committees, local groups tested various names to decide what to call themselves. The name "Better Business Bureau" was among the names and it caught on rapidly. It came into universal usage within a decade and a move was made toward federating the committees and the Better Business Bureaus. It is now called the Council of Better Business Bureaus and has gone international.

The Better Business Bureaus have forged a reputation throughout the world for protecting consumers in initiating and maintaining ethical standards in advertising and selling practices and encouraging business self-regulation.

The Bureau's aims are three-fold: to protect the buying power of the individual and reliable businesses; to encourage honesty in business; and to inform the public on how to do business so individuals and reliable businesses can buy intelligently and gain maximum satisfaction from their purchases.

Routine credit check can be of importance

Have you examined your credit file recently? By law people have the right to do so. This right was granted to consumers by the 1971 Fair Credit Reporting Act.

If you have made any purchase with a credit card in the past seven years and the account is still open, then your credit file is in a credit bureau somewhere, says Naomi Hunt, Howard County Extension agent — home economics. If a person believes there is erroneous information in his file, then these tips can be of help.

A person can examine his credit file for free if he has been denied credit in the last 30 days. There will probably be a charge from $5 to $12 for reading the file just to examine its contents.

A person can file a dispute form if he believes information is in error. He also can request the bureau to investigate any item believed to be either in error or misleading, Ms. Hunt said.

If the credit bureau refuses to revise a disputed item, the person can write a detailed statement explaining the controversy. He also can request the bureau to send the revised report to all credit grantors who have received his credit report in the past six months.

If the dispute is unresolved at the end of three months, the person can consider hiring a lawyer to handle the matter. If the person has not paid a bill because he thought it was in error, he can try to resolve the problem with the merchant then notify the credit bureau.

"Keep in mind that a routine credit check is important since it affects credit worthiness," Ms. Hunt said.

Advertising influences decisions

Since this is National Consumer's Week, it is a good time to consider one of the biggest influences on what we buy — advertising, says Naomi Hunt, Howard County Extension agent — home economics.

Many mail advertisements are addressed to the consumers' names rather than "occupant." When reading some magazine "articles" some people find out at the end that it was a paid advertisement?

These are a few examples of how changes in technology are beginning to affect the way consumers get information to make buying decisions, Ms. Hunt said.

"These changes may make it easier and more convenient for consumers in the future. Consumers will be able to make product decisions in their homes without having to spend time and money going to different stores."

At the same time, it may make the consumer's job more difficult as the distinctions between informational and promotional messages become blurred.

Cable television channels in some cities, for example, sell advertising time for "informercials." These are no longer than the standard 60-second commercial, are often entertaining, and present information about the product as well as promotion, she said.

Similar techniques combining information and promotion can now be found in direct mail advertising, as well as the print and broadcast media. But informed consumers can recognize the differences between information and promotion even when they are combined.

Changing technology means consumers need to be even more informed about advertising in order to make the best purchase decisions.

According to Ms. Hunt, an informational message does the following:

- gives research results.
- tells you facts about why you might use the product or service.
- gives background information about why the product or service may be necessary.

- quotes what named experts have to say.
- cites recent public investigative reports.
- presents evidence about the effects of a product or service.
- gives specific facts about the product or service.
- tells you where to buy.

"A promotional message may include some product information. But its primary goal is to get you to buy the product or service," Ms. Hunt said.

Promotional messages try to capture attention with colorful pictures, flashy type or an interesting design. They tell consumers that they will benefit from the product and they stress the immediate need to buy.

Promotional messages are also far more likely to appeal to emotion and social needs by using such words as: love, security, safe, fun, respected. "Often they will use 'authority figures' or celebrities to represent a product line or service," Ms. Hunt said.

Advertising is useful to consumers. Think how often they hear about sales on the radio or read the grocery ads in the newspaper. But changing technology means consumers need to be even more informed about advertising in order to make the best purchase decisions.

Weddings

Martin-Jobe

The wedding vows of Kathryn Martin and Jerry Jobe were solemnized Saturday evening in a ceremony at First Christian Church. The Rev. Victor Sedinger, pastor, officiated at the 7 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Martin, 2517 Larry. The bridegroom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Warne Jobe of Midkiff.

The bride and bridegroom stood between spiral candelabra draped with greenery and burgundy bows. Each side of the altar was flanked with a large arrangement of burgundy gladiolas and pink peonies.

Marjorie Rainwater, organist, and Brigham Martin, trumpeter, Susan Smith and Randall Smith, cousins of the bride and vocalists, provided music for the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal-length white gown fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline and fitted bodice embellished with Chantilly lace and seed pearls. The full sleeves ended in deep cuffs of matching lace. The full skirt fell into three tiers of lace ruffles in the front. In the back, the lace applique skirt fell smoothly into a cathedral-length train. The skirt was lifted to form a bustle during the reception. The bride also wore a fingertip-length veil held by a Chantilly lace headpiece.

The bride carried a bouquet of large burgundy and pink open roses with a cascade of pink and burgundy rosebuds draped with iridescent pearls intertwined in the ribbon. Tussie-mussie in rose scent were interspersed throughout the bouquet.

Kerry Ubrich was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Maria Womack and Jeannie Knight. Kelly Blackman was flower girl. Joni Avery registered guests.

Larry Jobe, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Dennis Sisk and Mike Glover were groomsmen. Randall Jobe, Buddy Bowen and Brad Bowen were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted with a reception at the church's Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was draped with ruffled cutwork lace over a pink underlay. The three-tiered cake featured cupids and pink satin bells atop a flowing burgundy fountain. The cake was surrounded by six satellite heart-shaped cakes. On each side of the cakes stood an ornate silver candelabra featuring burgundy and pink flowers and pink candles. The punch bowl and hors d'oeuvres tables were covered with companion lace. The hors d'oeuvres table featured a large gold candelabra flowing with burgundy tinged green ivy and burgundy candles.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a burgundy linen throw over a candlelight antique lace floor-length cloth. A hexagon chocolate cake was served. It was topped with large gold wedding bands. A 24kt. gold candelabrum with burgundy candles centered the table. A separate "special" table was set for the comfort of the grandparents of the bride and bridegroom.

MRS. JERRY JOBE
...formerly Kathryn Martin

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School. She attended Howard College and San Antonio College. She is employed by San Antonio Enterprises in San Antonio. The bridegroom is employed by Southwestern Motor Transport. Following a wedding trip to an undisclosed location, the couple will make its home in San Antonio.

Rawls-Hawkins

The First Church of the Nazarene was the site of the wedding of Dena Rawls and Curtis Hawkins Friday evening, Dr. Carl Powers, pastor, officiated at the 7 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Dean and Kay Rawls, 1611 Scurry. The bridegroom is the son of Clarence and Wonda Hawkins, 2304 Alabama.

The couple was wed before an archway covered with gypsophelia and carnations. Two seven-branch candelabra, a unity candle and a kneeling bench completed the setting. Vanessa Burchett, pianist, Gerry Spears, organist, Tammye Spears and Jerry Scott, vocalists, provided music for the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a gown of white silk organza fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline and empire waistline. Chantilly lace and pearls covered the bodice and sleeves. The chapel-length train was draped in an apron effect and accented with organza and Chantilly lace ruffles. She also wore a large picture hat of Chantilly lace with a shoulder-length veil. The bride carried a bouquet of blue carnations and white rosebuds.

Sherri Murray of White Deer was matron of honor. Jan McPherson was bridesmaid. Sandra Rieser, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

The best man was Joe Chaney. Albert Overby was groomsmen. Randy Rieser, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. Ushers were Tommy Rawls, brother of the bride, Brit Stuart and Wade Franklin, brothers-in-law of the bridegroom. Michael Burcham, cousin of the bride, was candlelighter.

Following the wedding, the couple was honored with a reception at the church's Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was covered with a floor-length white lace cloth and centered with the bride's and bridesmaid's bouquet. The three-tiered bride's cake was in the shape of a heart and decorated with white roses and light blue ribbons. The bridegroom's table was covered with champagne lace over a blue underlay. It featured a heart-shaped chocolate cake with chocolate frosting.

Wedding

Whitten-Jones

Nancy Wise Whitten and Troy Y. Jones were united in marriage at St. Paul Lutheran Church, April 14, before a brass archway decorated with greenery, pink roses, daisies, and carnations. The archway was flanked by two palm trees with mauve and pink daisies, roses, carnations and static.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed L. Wise, 1701 Alabama. The bridegroom is the son of J. Jones of Durant, Okla.

The Rev. Carroll C. Kohl, pastor, officiated at the 1:30 p.m. rite. Angela Kohl, organist, provided music for the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a formal-length candlelight Victorian gown featuring a fitted bodice and high rounded neckline. The neckline was accented by an Alencon lace ruffle. An overlay of Satin and lace strips, crested with seed pearls, accented the bodice and long fitted sleeves. The sleeves ended in satin and lace cuffs with miniature pearl buttons. The full skirt was accented with a satin bow tie in the back and was styled as an antique bustle. The skirt fell to the floor with a wide ruffle and into a chapel-length train. To complete her ensemble, the bride wore a candlelight garden hat of tulle, topped with rosebuds. The hat held a chapel-length veil.

In keeping with tradition, the bride wore a diamond pendant belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. R.E. McClure, for something old and borrowed, a gold necklace that was a gift from the bridegroom for something new, a blue garter and a penny in her shoe.

The bride carried a cascade of pink sweetheart roses, mauve carnations and baby's breath, tied with white lace and mauve streamers.

Louise Whitaker was matron of honor. Diana Currie Nichols registered guests. Steve Shugrue was best man. Eric Lansperry and Harold Kemery were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted with a reception at the church's Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and centered with a floral bouquet in shades of pink. A three-tiered cake, trimmed with pink, mauve roses and topped a bride and bridegroom figurine, was served. The bridegroom's table was centered with a candle in a crystal bowl and two crystal candelabra. A German chocolate cake was served.

The bride is a graduate of Odessa College's School of Nursing. She is a registered nurse at Hall-Bennett Hospital. The bridegroom graduated from Howard College's School of Nursing in 1976 as a licensed vocational nurse. He graduated in 1983 from Howard College with an associate degree from the nursing program. He is a registered nurse at Hall-Bennett Hospital.

Following a wedding trip to the Bahamas, the couple will make their home in Midland.

Anniversary

The Alvis Hodges

MR. AND MRS. ALVIS (A.C.) HODGES
...to be honored April 29

Mr. and Mrs. Alvis (A.C.) Hodges, 1803 Morrison, will be honored for their 50th wedding anniversary at a reception from 3 to 5 p.m. April 29. Hosting the event will be their children's families.

The couple has two children: Harlan Hodges of Midland and Marie Daniels, 3208 Drexel. They also have six grandchildren.

The couple has lived in Dallas, Abilene, New Mexico and Big Spring throughout their marriage. Before his retirement, Hodges was employed by the civil service. Mrs. Hodges is a housewife. The Hodges are Baptist, and he is a Mason. They enjoy sports, woodworking, sewing and quilting.

Dear Abby

Explaining sexual abuse

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a boy 5 and a girl 2½. Can you recommend any books that will help me explain sexual abuse to my children? I want them to be aware that they have the right to say no to anybody who does something they feel uncomfortable with. But I want to tell them in a way that won't frighten them.

The older they get, the more I realize that I won't be able to watch over them 24 hours a day. I want them to be prepared to deal with that situation if, God forbid, they should ever have to.

HOUSTON MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: Ask the librarian at your public library if there are such books. (There should be.) Also, your local bookstores will surely have some. In the meantime, tell your children that their bodies are private, and they have the right to say no to anyone who attempts to violate that privacy.

And be sure to tell them that if anybody — and I mean anybody: relatives, close friends, neighbors or sitters — tries to entice them into secret "games" and makes them promise they won't tell, they should immediately tell you. Statistics show that most children are sexually abused by relatives, neighbors or friends of the family.

DEAR ABBY: I'm an intelligent, successful woman with a silly problem I'm embarrassed to ask my friends about.

In my last semester of college I married a wonderful man. My career was beginning to bloom, my wedding festivities were tri-state and I was much less sensitive to the feelings of other people than I am now.

In short, I sent written thanks to about half the friends and family who gave me wedding gifts, and I don't know quite what to do about the others. You see, it's been five years. I still have the list of names and addresses, but I don't know what to say — if anything.

My marriage is strong, my son is adorable, but my conscience is anything but clear. What should I do? I know I wouldn't excuse this kind of negligence in anyone else, and I don't know whether I should excuse it in what was a younger, flightier me.

GUILTY CONSCIENCE DEAR GUILTY: Ignoring your problem will not make it disappear. Don't look for a "clever" way to say, "Better late than never." Admit your embarrassment, apologize for your tardiness and simply say, "Better late than never."

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a very fine young woman. She has been married before. (So have I.) I would like to ask her to marry me, but she has made it plain that she does not want a ring of any kind. She is very low-key and doesn't care for diamonds or anything flashy. Any suggestions?

A MAN OF MEANS DEAR MAN: Give her a pearl necklace — with no strings attached.

Got somethin' ya don't want? We'll take it! List with Herald Classified 263-7331

New Grapefruit 'Super Pill' Guarantees Fast Weight Loss

No Dieting — Eat All You Want

BEVERLY HILLS, CA. (Special)—An amazing new "super" grapefruit pill has recently been developed and perfected that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose at least 10 pounds in 10 days. Best of all, it allows you to "eat as much as you want of your favorite foods and still lose a pound a day or more starting from the very first day until you achieve the ideal weight and figure you desire."

This "super" grapefruit pill is a dramatically improved version of the world famous grapefruit diet. It is far more effective than the original and eliminates "the mess, fuss, and high cost of eating half a fresh grapefruit at every meal."

"Pill Does All the Work" According to the manufacturer, "the pill itself does all the work while you quickly lose weight with NO starvation "diet menus" to follow, NO calorie counting, NO exercise, and NO hunger pangs." It is 100% safe. You simply take the pill with a glass of water before each meal and the amazing combination of powerful ingredients are so effective they take over and you start losing weight immediately.

Pill Contains ALL Daily Vitamins The powerful and unique combination of ingredients are what make this a "super-pill". It contains highly potent grapefruit concentrate and a diuretic to help eliminate bloat and puffiness. No need to take any vitamins to maintain your good health and energy. The pill is fortified with ALL (100%) of the U.S. Government daily vitamin requirements.

Each pill also contains an amazingly effective amount of "glucomannan", the remarkable natural dietary fiber discovery from Japan (used successfully for over 1500 years) that expands in your stomach and gives you a full and satisfied feeling all day long.

The super-pill is already sweeping the country with glowing reports of easy and fast weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Now Available to Public You can order your supply of these highly successful "super" grapefruit pills (now available directly from the manufacturer by mail order only) by sending $12 for a 14-day supply (or $20 for a 30-day supply, or $35 for a 60-day supply) cash, check, or money order to: Civerus Industries, 9903 Santa Monica Bl., Dept. 842, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Those born in April are lucky to have the diamond as their birthstone. A diamond's hardness and durability have long stood for an eternally incorruptible principle that protects its wearer from evil. The ancients believed that the diamond's light was akin to that of the sun and was a combination of all the other precious stones. Its far-reaching magic encompassed power against poison, fears, nightmares, sorcery and possession by devils. The diamond was also reputed to be a reliable test of fidelity. If a man placed a diamond on his wife's head while she slept, she would turn to him in her sleep if she were faithful.

It's never too late to hop on down to BLUM'S JEWELERS, 222 Main, 267-6336 for a gift that is sure to please, for every occasion. For birthdays, anniversaries, bridal showers, graduations or just because you care; BLUM'S JEWELERS offers you the ultimate in fine jewelry and gift items. Reunion plans underway for 3 BSHS classes

KATIE GRIMES says plans are getting underway for the Classes of 1958, 1959 and 1960 reunion, which will take place during the Homecoming festivities at Big Spring High School in November.

The committee working on this reunion needs updated addresses of everybody in the classes. If you have this information, call TONI HAMBY at 267-7737 for the classes of 1958 and 1959, and CELIA TERRY at 267-3377 for the class of 1960.

Although it disbanded three years ago, the COMMUNITY CONCERT ASSOCIATION'S bank account has continued to accrue interest. JEAN KUYKENDALL, president of the association, called a board meeting recently to decide how to dispense the funds in the account.

Since the late BILL BRADLEY was very active with the association, and since MARIAH was his baby, the board decided to donate the funds to MARIAH COLOR GUARD. The amount donated totaled to $1,060. KENNETH BOOTHE says Mariah has some outstanding bills, Mrs. Kuykendall said. "It should cover a couple of outstanding bills," she added.

The association brought all types of concerts to the area. And by working with the Community Concert Association in New York, it was able to get programs at much less cost than it would have normally. The association usually had about five concerts a year.

Broadway actress and former Big Spring, HELEN BLOUNT KALEMBERG is on the road with LAUREN BACALL and the Broadway road tour production of "Woman of the Year." The play ran two years on Broadway, six months in Los Angeles and San Francisco, a few months in Detroit and Washington, D.C. and is now in Chicago.

When the 13th annual Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair opens in Kerrville, May 26, NANCY A. MARTIN will be among the exhibitors. Nancy, a Big Spring, uses fiber as an artistic medium. She discovered spinning as an interest in 1981 and found that her love of life turned out to be a spinning wheel and the fascination of watching a bundle of fibers become thread. In 1982 she began weaving and is challenged with the endless variations and patterns. Nancy weaves belts, shawls, rugs and has begun weaving saddle blankets and miniature coverlets for doll houses from old colonial patterns. She holds a full-time job and does her spinning and weaving in her spare time.

The art fair will be held on Saturdays and Sundays of two consecutive weekends starting May 26. If you love art and have never been to this fair then I'd advise you to attend it. It's great.

JOHN STEVEN McCLURE of Sante Fe, N.M. was a guest at the wedding of NANCY LYNN WISE and TROY JONES, April 14, at St. Paul Lutheran Church. John is a cousin of R.E. McCLURE of Big Spring.

10-year-old Cub Scout BRANT WILLIAM MURPHY has received an honor award in the Cub Scout division in the 1983 Scout Photo Scholarship Awards.

The awards were sponsored by the Eastman Kodak Company.

Brant won a $25 Kodak gift certificate. A member of Pack 113, Brant was sponsored by the Garden City Lions Club and earned his award for a picture of an oil derrick in the sunset.

The 1983 Scout Photo Scholarship Awards were open to all registered youth members of the Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers. Judges for the competition were: GENE DANIELS of Boy's Life magazine; THOMAS HOUGH of Eastman Kodak Co.; ROY MADEARIS of Professional Photographers of America; PHIL HALLENBECK of American Society of Magazine Photographers; and BARBARA PYKE of Photographic Society of America. Brant is the son of MR. AND MRS. BILL MURPHY of Garden City. Until next week...

Simply Elegant

Dr. Donohue

Push-ups

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: When I was younger, we didn't have all the fancy equipment I see these youngsters of today using. We relied mostly on calisthenics, chin-ups, etc. I am starting to get active again after many years layoff, and I know what I have to do. I want to use some of my old exercises, especially the push-up from the floor. Is that good for me still? — D.D.

Sure it is. But remember that you still have to get your body off the floor, and your body may be a lot heavier than it was when you were young. For some, it can be too much heavier. So take it easy at first.

While I am on the subject of push-ups, let me answer an interesting question from a young man in Alberta. He asks about varying the way a from-the-floor pushup is done to get maximum impact on various muscles. Let me give you some examples:

When you get into the push-up position, with the hands directly under the shoulders, you exercise the front part of the deltoid muscles (on the shoulders), the pectoralis muscles (the large ones in the chest) and the triceps (the ones on the backs of your upper arms). If you move your hands closer together, then the triceps muscles have to do most of the work. If you put your hands farther apart, your chest muscles bear most of the load. So as simple as the ordinary push-up is, it is easy to see how such an exercise can be changed to give various muscles a workout.

Returning to the first questioner, I want to re-emphasize the point made about the difference in one's age being important in selecting an exercise. The push-up may be OK. I can't say from this distance. But D.D. should be sure that he is not going to end up crippled by too exuberant use of any exercise too early, and it would be wise for him to be examined to see what his present physical fitness status is.
