Spring Hall captures city council spot Board

..new councilman

By RICK BROWN Staff Writer

District 3 voters turned out in record numbers yesterday to give Harold Hall a solid victory over Danny Heckler in that distict's city council runoff election.

Voters cast a total of 786 ballots in the election, prompting City Secretary Tom Ferguson to comment, "We've never had that many as far as I can recall in a runoff electon before. (The total) was more than in a regular election in some years," he said.

him 59 percent of the vote, while Heckler tallied a total of 324 votes, or 41 percent.

Hall could not be contacted for comment because he is out of town at a family member's funeral.

Informed of the election's results by phone, Mayor Clyde Angel said, 'Harold is a fine fellow and with his experience and background, I'm sure he'll do a fine job.

Heckler, who estimated he had spent about $1,700 on the election, was present at City Hall when the voting boxes were opened. At that time he said "didn't know yet" if he would contest the election.

"I did my best job and I appreciate the people who got out and voted for me. I'll be running again next term," he said.

The District 3 race was thrown into yesterday's runoff after the April 7 regular election when Hall came up 50 votes short of the majority he needed to win.

Hall logged 43.8 percent of the vote at that time. Heckler, the next highest vote-getter, registered 23.5 percent of the ballots cast.

In yesterday's runoff, Hall took solid majorities at each of District 3's two polling places. Hall tallied 224 of the votes at the 18th and Main fire station to Heckler's 148 votes.

At the Wasson Road fire station polling place, Hall took 238 votes to Heckler's 176.

The election saw one write-in vote, which was cast for Garner Thixton. Ferguson said the vote could not be counted because the election was a runoff

Lamesa chooses first black city council member

LAMESA - Voters in the newly created District B elected Henery Johnson to the City Council in Saturday's runoff.

Johnson won the election by seven votes. Businessman Ray Brewer received 165 votes to Johnson's 172

Johnson, according to outgoing Mayor Nelson Hogg, will be the first black councilman in the history of Lamesa.

Johnson, minister of a Church of God in Christ church, trailed opponent Ray Brewer in the April 5 general election, garnering 34 percent of the vote to Brewer's 39

District B has a 60-percent minority population. It was created to settle a lawsuit brought against the city by the League of United Latin American Citizens.

The settlement, which was filed in federal district court in Lubbock, expanded the council to seven members and provided for the creation of three single-member districts.

Wheeler dealer

Estes book seeks to put history straight

"I'm working on history," the former Big Spring Prison Camp inmate explained yesterday afternoon after a book-signing party at Big Spring Mall.

Estes has already set history straight on one count since his release from prison by implicating former president Lyndon Johnson in the death 20 years ago of Henry Marshall, an official of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Estes testified under immunity before a Robertson County grand jury that Marshall was killed on Johnson's order.

According to Estes' daughter, Pam, Marshall's death officially had been ruled a suicide, but officials changed the cause of death entry on Marshall's death certificate to murder after hearing her father's

"So they evidently believed Daddy," she said. Of his testimony, Estes said, "I didn't want to go down there. I just had a missing link or two.

"This was a tiny part of a conspiracy...a political force that ran our country and our state...that did a lot a things that were not right or illegal," he said.

"It's just always been very carefully covered up," he added. Miss Estes writes that Johnson was "unavailable"

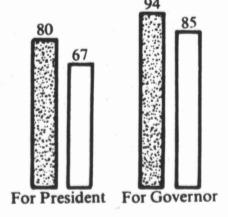

when called for help after her father was arrested in 1962 for selling non-existent fertilizer tanks, a charge for which he was later convicted. Nonetheless, the wheeler-dealer gave Johnson his

Michener talks Texas in Odessa

By JIM BROWN Staff Writer

ODESSA - Noted author James Michener, currently working on a novel to commemorate Texas' 150th birthday, told the Permian Basin Historical Society today just what kind of effort it takes to corral the Lone Star state Michener, who has penned "Hawaii," "Centennial," "The Bridge Over Toki Re," was guest of the group and he spoke at the student lounge of the University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

"Texas is one of fifty states, each one of which would probably make a good book," he said. "However, in the balance of such things, when you evaluate all the components I found that Texas does have certain unique features which make it especially attractive for a social story of historical significance.' Michener, who was 40 years old before he began his first book, said he chose to write about Texas because of its diverse social and economic parameters. "I chose Texas because there was so much to write about, you are the only state that once was an independent nation, you are the center of some of the most exciting early oil economy in the world, cotton, cattle, avaition, and now high-tech sicience are equally at home here.

Michener moved into the state two years ago and has delved into Texas literature for some glimpses of the of the state's vast an complex makeup. He said would not attempt to write about Texas without first reading its authors and historians.

"I let books like "Imperial Texans" teach me about the area, its history and its cultural interests," Michener said. "Other things I like to look for are books about the intellectual development of the area that tells me its legends, its visions, its writers, philosophies in folklore and self image. That kind of background allows me the freedom to roam rather widley

Long drought could threaten tourist industry

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Unless long-needed rain soon falls in the parched area between San Antonio nd Austin, the region may experience immediate damage to its tourist industry and long-term harm to some of its rapid development, water resource officials say.

Edwards Underground Water District officials say the area could be in for economic hardship if spring waters in Comal and Guadalupe counties countinue to

"If those springs go dry, it would be the equivalent of taking tourism out of San Antonio's economy," EUWD General Manager Tom Fox told the San Antonio Light. Springs feeding both the Comal and Guadalupe rivers are "down to a trickle," Fox said, and some already have ceased to flow.

A "prolonged dry spell," which some area officials now are willing to call a drought, has caused water levels in the Edwards Aquifer to drop dangerously low,

Fox predicted the Comal and Guadalupe county springs could dry up as early as mid-May, spelling disaster for tourism in the corridor.

Edwards officials say they fear a return to conditions similar to those experienced during the drought of 1956, when water levels in the aguifer dropped to a record low of 612 feet above sea level.

Current readings indicate aquifer levels are at 635 feet, with one test well in New Braunfels at 622 feet. Oliver Haas, a Comal County EUWD director, said the problem was a combination of the dry weather and the area's rapid growth. "A lot of people have moved here since the 1956 drought, and every one of them wants a glass of water," Haas said. The small towns between Austin and San Antonio are sharing in the growth of the two metropolitan areas, and some planners believe Interstate 35 soon will become a fully developed suburban pathway.

But without water, that kind of growth would be impossible, EUWD engineer Russell Masters said

"I don't think there is any doubt that development is going to be hurt," Masters said. "The Edwards in that region is very narrow anyway, and not much growth can occur except in the I-35 area.

But the general manager of San Antonio's water board said he sees no need for water conservation in San Antonio.

"If your springs run dry, you just pump some water out of a well to keep them wet," Robert Van Dyke said. Springs at New Braunfels feed the Comal River, which provides some hydroelectric power and a large amount of recreational activities.

Haas said the Comal River "is so low right now you can't float down the river in an inner tube without getting hung up on rocks."

"There were some people down there last Sunday," he said, "but all they did was sit on the banks."

Haas measured spring flow yesterday morning at 117 cubic feet per second

'Normally, we have about 300 cfs, so it's well below half," he said.

That's causing problems for the hydroelectic facility on the Comal River in New Braunfels.

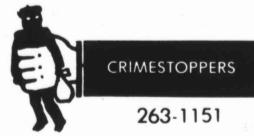

Utilities Director Bob Sohn said the electric output was down from a standard 850 kilowatts to 180 kilowatts.

Estes, who was raised in the Church of Christ, said his own involvement in politics was based on religion. He said he and others were trying to "accomplish goals we had all set" to fight job discrimination, segregation and hunger

"I was the money at the time, and money was power in politics," he said.

He speculated that if he had told what he knew at the time it happened, the course of history would have been very different.

"There would have been no Vietman, and Goldwater would have been elected," he said.

Estes and his daughter are working on a "five-year plan" to "put history straight" and are negotiating with Home Box Office cable television for a featurelength movie and with other agents for a television mini-series based on the ex-convict's life.

Also in the works is another book based on "12 things to do and 12 things not to do" to achieve success, he

Estes said he spends a lot of his time at his Abilene

"(I think about) exactly what I am and exactly where I want to go," he said. "I have to look at a painful past to find out where I am now.

An admitted alcoholic, Estes devotes large portions of his time to Alcoholics Anonymous. "(Alcoholics) might call at 2 in the morning to ask for help," he said.

Echoing the Bible, he said he believes there is "a time for meditation, a time for prayer, a time to go to AA meetings, a time for work and a time to enjoy being with my family.

"I'm planning from here to use this time wisely," he

According to Estes, there is a lot of opportunity in West Texas for entrepreneurs. "I look at this desert land and I see the right climate, water, proper soil," he said, adding that he will not get involved in business activities again.

"If I were a younger man, I would," he said. On his checkered history, Estes said, "People commit crimes every day that make my crime look like a

Poll

"I think there's been an enormous change in attitude" regarding women political candidates since then, Farenthold said.

She said she faced the gender issue constantly in her campaigns and found the prejudice particularly strong in rural areas. She thinks her candidacy split many households, and that many women voted for her when their husbands

A decade later, the Texas Poll found no significant divisions between men and women or between urban and rural areas on the question.

But the poll shows that a clear generation gap does exist on the issue. People over age 45 were less willing than younger people to support a qualified woman candidate, particularly for president.

Only 67 percent of older persons said they would vote for a woman for president, but 80 percent of younger people would. The differences narrowed on supporting a woman candidate for governor: 85 percent of older persons would do so compared to 94 percent of younger

The results suggest that women may enjoy greater political success in Texas in the future, as the younger "baby boom" generation matures. The 18-to-44 age group already accounts for more than half of the state's potential voters. The poll also found greater than average support for women candidates among the better educated segment of the population, a group that typically votes and contributes money to candidates.

Farenthold believes a woman could be elected governor now, if she could overcome the campaign financing problem.

She says that one of the most encouraging political events in the last decade was the election of Ann Richards of Austin to the state treasurer's office two years ago.

Richards became the first woman elected to a statewide office in 50 years when she handily won the 1982 general election after upsetting incumbent Warren G. Harding in the Democratic primary. "Each time someone who's been in an out-group succeeds, that changes some attitudes," Farenthold said. "There's still a big leap between changing an attitude and pulling a voting lever, but the attitude has to change first.'

Richards says if any gender gap exists, it works in favor of a woman in Texas politics today.

"I think women are generally perceived as hard-working and honest - and those two factors are a real asset in a political race.'

Gallup surveys taken nationally over the last 40 years indicate voter prejudice against women has declined markedly. In 1937, for example, only 31 percent of those polled would support a woman candidate for president. But in last year's poll, 80 percent said they

Women traditionally have not fared well politically in Texas. Since 1917, only two women have served in the U.S. Congress — Lera Thomas of Houston in 1966-67 and Barbara Jordan of Houston in 1973-76.

In the state legislature, women have never accounted for more than the current 7 percent of the representatives, although that's higher than the 2 percent level of the early 1970s.

The state treasurer says more women haven't been elected to the legislature because they haven't had the political contacts or fundraising experience to even get into

Prior to Richards' election, the last woman to hold a statewide office was the state's only woman governor, Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson, elected to a two-year term in 1932. She had become the first woman elected governor in the country when she won an earlier term in 1924. Her tenure was dominated by her husband, former Gov. Jimmy Ferguson, who was impeached in 1917.

when I'm looking for the economic history of some district. I then use a symbol, it could be a bank or a historical building to symbolize that history. In Texas it was cotton, that's going to be very large in my book."

Michener told the group that his forthcomiong book on Texas would not be confined to the Houston, Dallas, Austin triangle. In fact, he said that he had been impressed by such places as the Permian Basin, Lubbock, Fort Michener said was of the most interesting things that has happened to him in Texas was at a speech in Jefferson.

It seems the town of Jefferson takes its name from Jefferson Davis and adheres to its historical importance.

"At the end of the meeting the chairlady got up and said 'Will you all please rise.' They all rose and about half the audience put their hand over Miller their hearts as the chairlady said in a quavering voice, 'We will now sing "Dixie." Somehow I could not imagine this happening in El Paso — it was a very emotional rendention. Several blacks were sitting in the front row and they joined in the singing of the Confederate anthem

"Leaving I told one of my hosts that if somebody was to blow a bugle right now that I felt most of Jefferson would march North. He said 'Yeah, and this time we would whop them."

Michener who brought the crowd to its feet clapping several times ended by saying, "I don't know what my next project will be but, I bet it won't be as interesting as this one has been."

Plane crashes near McKinney

McKINNEY, Texas (AP) — Three men were killed Saturday when a twin-engine plane crashed west of this North Texas city's municipal airport, police said. The twin-engine, six-passenger Cessna was attempting to land about 1 p.m. when it made a sharp turn to the left and then crashed about 220 yards west of the runway, said police investigator R.D. Renfro. Police and fire officials along with investigators from the Federal Aviation Administration were trying to determine the cause of the crash, Renfro said.

Investigators did not know where the plane was flying from, Renfro said. The pilot, Todd Lee Welborn, 23, of Richardson, was pronounced dead at 1:50 p.m. at Wysong Memorial Hospital in McKinney, Renfro said.

The two passengers were identified as John Paul Miles, 23, of Richardson and Stephen K. Leonard, 23, of Waco, Renfro said.

Miles was pronounced dead at 2 p.m. at North Texas Medical Center in McKinney, while Leonard died at 4:04 p.m. at Dallas Methodist Hospital, according to

Ex-POWS plan fishing dock on Cosden Lake

The Permian Basin Chapter of American Ex-Prisoners of War are planning to build a fishing dock on the old Cosden Lake south of the Veterans' Administration Medical Center, according to Carl Ruse, commander.

Ruse said the group needs about $4,000 to build the dock. An account for donations has been established at First Federal Savings and Loan. The account number is 103172, under the name "POW Fishing Dock Fund." Ruse said the organization had been working on building the dock for almost three months. Employees at Cosden Oil and Chemical have donated floatation and two-inch tubing needed for the dock.

John Allman, superintendent of the Big Spring Prison Camp, told the organization that workers from the prison will assist in actual construction.

Richard Dormier of Crim Engineering made drawings and listed materials needed for the project. Materials will also be accepted as donations, Ruse

"The idea of building the fishing dock was born in the head of John Webb, chief of social services and POW coordinator at the VAMC," Ruse said.

"John decided it would be good for hospitalized veterans, especially those confined to wheelchairs, to be able to get out and wet a hook occasionally, or just get out where they could see some water," Ruse said.

W.R. Purser, a Big Spring member of the organiza-tion, approached the Big Spring City Council to gain approval for the project.

The dock will be 24-feet with an 8-foot square fishing hole in the center. 'Since it will be constructed on a public lake, it will also be available to the public," Ruse said. "This will be a nice fishing dock," Ruse said. "Not some little make-shift thing.

Ruse said the organization chose the old Cosden lake for the project because "there are no steep inclines. It For more information, call Dub Purser at 263-1933.

group accused of destroying military equipment at an Air Force base. About 450 people attended Friday night's Festival of Hope, sponsored by supporters of the anti-nuclear activists who take their name from the biblical reference: "beat swords into plowshares." A group of seven Plowshares members entered Griffiss Air Force Base in Rome, N.Y., on Thanksgiving

MARTIN SHEEN Day last year and are accused of doing about $80,000 worth of damage to a B-52 bomber and other equipment. The defendants go on trial in federal court here May 14.

"I thank God for their presence," said Sheen, master of ceremonies for the benefit at Syracuse University. "They are in a far brighter place than where all of us are and I seek that light, inspiration and nourishment." The Plowshares, including Jesuit priest Daniel Berrigan and his brothers, Philip and Jerome, profess to believe that destroying nuclear equipment is a non-violent demonstration. "I believe in their cause," said Sheen. "The military equipment destruction is a symbolic act that is harmful to no one.' Sheen, who has starred in such films as

"Apocalypse, Now," and numerous TV dramas, said he personally did not have the courage to participate in the Plowshares activities, but said he "will do everything short of a courageous law-breaking act to support them."

Producer out of business

NEW YORK — A judge has effectively put David Merrick out of show business by telling conservators of the ailing producer's $50 million estate that they may not invest in the theater because it is too "volatile" and "speculative."

Manhattan Supreme Court Justice Arthur Blyn on Friday also ordered a hearing May 29 to determine whether Merrick's wife, Etan, should be removed as one of the two conservators of the estate, apparently because she ignored a previous order not to invest in theater productions.

Mrs. Merrick's lawyer, Raoul Felder, called Blyn's ruling "an absurdity" because speculative investments were what enabled Merrick to amass

Divorce hurts child rearing

MANCHESTER, N.H. - Dr. Benjamin Spock, who has advised two generations of parents how to raise their kids, says divorce, the repeated uprooting of families and general uncertainty in the world have made the task much more difficult.

Spock offered several possible solutions to the malaise Friday at a conference on educating young children. They included advising parents that a livein relationship for older teens is not such a bad idea.

"I think it's not good for 13- and 14- and 15-yearolds," said Spock, "but it is good for 17-, 18-, 19- and 20-year-olds to try it out first so they can find out if it's just a physical infatuation or if there is really a chance of a relationship."

Fighting increases in Beirut

BEIRUT -The sound of rocket-propelled grenades, artillery and heavy gunfire resounded Saturday inside the Lebanese Parliament building where Prime Minister-designate Rashid Karami consulted with legislators on formation of a Cabinet he hopes can end nine years of civil war.

The fierce fighting between Christian and Moslem militias was the gravest violation yet of the 10-day-old cease-fire, said the Voice of Lebanon radio station, controlled by the rightist Christian Phalange Party.

Police said at least three civilians were killed and 22 wounded in the fighting, which started near the midcity frontier crossing shortly before noon and spread after nightfall to the area near the presidential palace in suburban Baabda, five miles east of Beirut.

A volley of rockets slammed into the edge of the gardens surrounding the palace, and one guard was slightly injured, police said.

Apparently undaunted by the heavy fighting a few hundred yards from the government building, Karami declared "I am more determined to go ahead and succeed.' 'We've had enough tragedies. Let us stop destruction. Let us stop killing. Let us close ranks to serve the people, not to kill them," Karami told reporters after his meetings with parliamentary leaders.

Toole convicted of murder

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. - Drifter Ottis Elwood Toole, linked to a cross-country string of slayings, was convicted of murder Saturday in the 1982 death of a man who perished in a boarding house fire. Toole also has charges of capital murder pending against him in Big Spring for the deaths of Happy Howry of Odessa and William Boyd Hite of Meridian, Miss. The seven-woman, five-man jury deliberated about 31/2 hours before finding Toole, 37, guilty of killing George Nicholas Sonnenberg by setting fire to the Jacksonville building where they both lived.

OTTIS TOOLE Sonnenberg, 64, was described during the weeklong trial as Toole's homosexual lover.

Jurors return to court May 11 for a hearing to recommend whether Toole should be sentenced to life in prison or death in the electric chair. Under Florida law, the judge may override the jury's recommendation

Toole is a suspect in the death of Howry, 66, who disappeared in Odessa April 25, 1981, and whose body was found May 8, 1982 in a field near the 500 block of Toole also is charged with the murder of Hite on June 1, 1982. Hite's body was found by a Texas Highway Department crew June 1, 1982 on FM 2599 just off Interstate 20 west of Big Spring, according to sheriff's office reports.

Libyans get heroes' welcome

LONDON - The government said Saturday it is demanding that Libya release two Britons still detained after diplomatic relations were severed. In Tripoli, the Libyan capital, the Libyan diplomats expelled from Britain received a heroes' welcome.

Their departure Friday ended an 11-day police siege of the Libyan Embassy here that began after gunfire from the building killed a British policewoman and wounded 11 Libyan dissidents demonstrating across

Col. Moammar Khadafy, Libya's authoritarian ruler, met Saturday with the expelled Libyans, who were described in aLibyan telecast monitored here as "the revolutionary force which was based at the Libyan Arab People's Bureau (embassy) in London.' In what was seen as a possible peace signal, however, a "basic popular conference" in Sabha, south of Tripoli, ruled against Libya cutting relations with Britain, saying "relations are between peoples, not governments." The conferences, nominally people's forums, always reflect Khadafy's will.

The issue is academic, however, as Britain severed relations with Libya when it refused to surrender the embasssy killer to police. But London has said it has no quarrel with the Libyan people and wants good relations, provided Libya renounces violence.

Man killed after chase

HOCKLEY, Texas - A man killed by a state trooper after a high-speed chase that ended in a fiery crash was wanted for robbery and drug violations in two states, a Department of Public Safety spokesman said

Martin Wayne Bradberry, 32, was wanted for drug violations in Arizona and robbery in Ohio, said David Wells of the Department of Public Safety. Wells said Bradberry was from Indiana but did not know his Bradberry was driving a 1983 Chrysler convertible stolen from Houston when he was stopped on a speeding violation along U.S. Highway 290 about 9 p.m. Friday, DPS Lt. Larry Snider said.

He said the accident occurred about 3 miles south of Hockley, which is approximately 35 miles northwest of

Why Texas needs Krueger in Senate

BY D.A. BRAZEL

I think it's time that proper evaluation be given to the current Democratic candidates for the Senate which to date has from a media

Even though I disagree with the Republican turncoat Phil Gramm and his voting record plunging the Federal Government to an all time deficit, the voting record of Kent Hance is almost the same. Gramm did betray the Democratic Party and become a Republican which coincides with his philosophy; Hance just stayed in the party. Hance raised $450,000 in his last race for Congress and according to the election reports he kept $230,000 of this money that was raised for his Congressional campaign but not used. The out of state fat cats have rushed to his aid once again; he was the last to enter the race, but now heads the list for monies raised in that list at the time of the last federal reports. Hance is one of the Democrats who gave Reaganomics its slim victory in the House of Representatives. He voted for the MX missile even though they can't decide where to locate it or how to use it. He voted for the B-1 bomber which will be out of date before it flies and replaced by the Stealth bomber. These two items are a waste of taxpayers' money. Hance has voted for continued military involvement in Central America. Further indication of Hance and Reaganomics votes are revealed in his votes against housing assistance, Medicare, and education funding and favoring arms spending. Now he is campaigning and saying he is proud of his record supporting and introducing tax cuts and increasing federal spending.

Viewpoint

It was recently reported that about one-half of all income taxes that will be paid this year will go for interest alone. This can only lead to higher interest rates as the government is the nation's largest borrower; the natural law of supply and demand applies to money just as it does corn, cotton, cattle or any other commodity. When the Fed borrows money, there is that much less left for public and private enterprise; it depletes the money supply which, according to economic law, can only result in increased costs of money, i.e., higher interest rates.

It kills the dream of most newly married couples of owning their home. For example, a few days ago I talked with a young man who was recently married and purchased a home, a very low priced one as related to today's prices. The price of the home was $19,000 and he was pleased that he was able to get a V.A. loan at 11% while other rates were 13% to 14%; he then said, "Do you know what that $19,000 house is going to cost me at 11% when paid out? It will cost me $57,000 not counting the maintenance it will

This is the kind of economy Kent Hance has supported and voted for in Congress. We need a true Democrat in the Senate, one who will vote for the people in keeping down this enormous deficit, one who understands getting along with our allies and border countries.

Bob Krueger served as Special Ambassador to Mexico and was able to establish good relations with Mexico during that period when Mexico was trying to take the lead in peaceful settlement of the wars between divisions of people in Central and South America. Portilla, then President of Mexico, advised Krueger that arms and American troops sent to the revolutionaries would only increase hostility toward the U.S.A. The current president of Mexico takes the same position. These nations supporting Mexico call themselves the Contadoras and say food, jobs, and negotiations only will cause these countries to return to peace.

Mr. Reagan blindly goes his own way and Hance is a supporter of such Reagan policies. We need a man like Bob Krueger who has been on the scene personally in an official capacity for the U.S.A. and who speaks Spanish fluently. He can make an intelligent contribution to this serious problem so near our borders.

Party politics

If you think you're going to the polls Saturday to vote for Mondale. Hart or Jackson in the Democratic primary, think again.

Texas delegates to the national convention in San Francisco this summer will be chosen through the caucus system.

That means if you want to vote for Mondale, Hart or Jackson, you'll have to return to your precinct polling place at 7:15 p.m. Saturday and attend a caucus.

I'm not quite sure how this caucus system works, but here's a valiant try at an explanation.

The polls Saturday open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. During that time, you can vote for your party's candidate in county, district and statewide races There will not be a place on Saturday's ballot for the presidential contenders.

Exactly 15 minutes after the polls close, the party precincts will caucus. Be sure and get there at 7:15. Precinct chairmen are an impatient lot.

When you arrive at the caucus, you will sign in for the candidate of your choice. You must vote in the regular primary that day to attend the caucus

So far, so good. Now for the tricky part.

Democratic precincts will be allotted a number of delegates to the county convention based on how many Democrats in that precinct voted for Gov. Mark White in the last general election.

Of this number, a certain percentage will be apportioned to the presidential candidates based on how many Democrats have signed up under his name at the caucus.

In other words, if a precinct gets 10 delegates, and 60 percent of the persons at the caucus support Mondale, then Mondale will get at least six of the delegates.

If a candidate cannot muster at least 15 percent of the total number of persons present, then that candidate's supporters must realign themselves with another candidate or lose their voting strength.

If at this point you're confused, rest assured. Of the 98 Democrats who had this explained to them last week at a meeting, very few came away with clear heads.

Anyway, once the delegate numbers are figured, the different candidate groups choose the persons they want as delegates to the county convention.

At the county level, the process begins all over again. Delegates are selected for the state convention, which makes the final choice for delegates to the national convention.

Now, all this is a rather simplistic explanation. It's really a much more complicated process than this short outline.

So many women, a certain number of minorities and a small amount of young persons must be among the delegates at the national convention. The party calls this balancing, which means delegate selection is going to become too arcane a process for most party members to follow.

But this is party politics, and the caucus system is the best way to ensure only Democrats are involved in picking delegates. It also makes sure the delegate slate represents the full spectrum of the Democratic

I have no idea what the GOP people will be doing after the primary. It really doesn't matter. They've already crowned Reagan emperor. The point is, if you're a

Democrat, you must attend the precinct caucus to vote for a presidential candidate. This is party politics. Don't gripe if you don't show up.

You're going to like what you see

The Big Spring Herald will have a new look Tuesday. That's May 1, the date of our conversion to a new format which virtually all newspapers in the country will adopt between now and July 1.

It goes by a stodgy name, the standardized advertising unit or SAU, but it will have an exciting effect. Basically, it will mean the the design of the newspaper will be cleaner, easier to read, easier to hold and easier to use. Instead of each page being divided into eight columns of type, each page will be divided into six.

The six-column format has been a trend in news presentation. The front page and many of the interior pages of news have been designed in six columns (or less) for years. Six columns of type mean that each line of type is wider than under an eight-column presentation, and researchers have long told us that the wider lines are more easily digested by readers. So news staffs of newspapers take a bit of credit for influencing the change to SAU on every page of the newspaper.

What SAU means is that advertisements will be composed in the wider format, too. They will be as wide as the news type is across the six columns of the new look newspaper, and come in widths of between one and six columns (full

By July 1, there will be standardization of newspaper size and format across the country in this six-column format. When you pick up a newspaper, whether from Big Spring, Dallas or Topeka, it likely will have a familiar look and feel. I say "likely" because there is nothing which compels newspapers to adopt SAU; it has been a voluntary transition - but it has been widely accepted by newspapers big and

Slightly narrower pages will make it easier for readers to physically handle the new Big Spring Herald. Wider lines of type — more like the look we now have on page one - will make it easier to read. And the universality of presentation will offer opportunities in some cases at better packaging of the newspaper, occasionally as one big section, to minimize "scattering" portions across the living room floor and under

The SAU conversion has been a long time coming, and it represents a great deal of work by all departments of the newspaper - particularly production and advertising. I think you'll like what you see.

Emotional upsets can cause illness

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Recently I read an article in which some doctors who were interviewed said emotions can play a part in making us ill. Do you think this is possible?

DEAR L.B.: I am not a doctor, of course, but my understanding is that physicians universally would agree with this. Our bodies and our minds are very closely related, and just as a lengthy physical illness (for example) might make some people emotionally depressed, so an emotional upset or illness could cause a physical problem as well.

A good example of this is found in the Bible in the life of David. He had been a great king who served God well, but once he sinned greatly by committing adultery with another man's wife. He knew it was wrong, and he tried to push it out of his mind and hide it from others. But he could not eliminate it from his mind, and his emotions were in turmoil. His action affected him emotionally - but it also affected him physically as well "When I kept silent, my bones wasted away through my groaning all day long .. my strength was sapped as in the heat of summer" (Psalm 32:3-4).

Not all illnesses are caused by our emotions, of course. But there may be times when this is the case, or at least our emotions may contribute to a physical problem we are having. When this seems to be the situation, we need to face it and deal with whatever problems may be upset-

We also need to face the fact there are often spiritual reasons for our emotional upsets. For example, in David's case his emotions were in a turmoil because he knew he had sinned against God. Only when he confessed his sin and turned to God for forgiveness did he find real inner peace. "Blessed is he whose transgressions are forgiven" (Psalm 32:1). Or, our minds may be filled with anxiety about the future, causing us to be upset or depressed. When that is the case, we need to learn in a deeper way to turn to Christ and trust him for the future. He knows our needs, and because he loves us, we can trust him in every

Perhaps you are facing some problem right now that is bothering you greatly. Turn to Christ in faith. "Cast all your anxiety on him because he cares for you" (1 Peter

Are Olympics worth preserving?

Here we are in another leap year, which always means endless months of tedious bickering and namecalling by self-aggrandizing politicians pandering to the worst instincts of their constituents, demeaning what was once a quadrennial ritual dedicated to our noblest ideals. The presidential election? No — the Three months before the first race is run, politics already has elbowed its way onto the victory stand. The Soviet Union has been dropping hints, with characteristic Soviet subtlety, that it will refuse to attend this year's Summer Games in Los Angeles.

Its complaints include everything from the American refusal to admit some of its spies masquerading as athletic officials to "uncontrollable commercialization" to coverage of the Games by Radio Free Europe. This week the Soviet Olympic chairman held a press conference in Moscow to announce that though his country would never boycott an Olympics, it "makes a distinction between boycotting and not

The Russians have a good precedent for using the Olympics as a forum for political gestures — the U.S. government's enforced boycott of the 1980 Summer Games in Moscow, in protest of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. But it wasn't the United States which first thrust such matters into what was once a simple athletic festival. Every recent Olympics has been soiled by political quarrels.

For years, the International Olympic Committee (IOC) refused to allow East Germany to field a team separate from West Germany's, fearing that would imply endorsement of the postwar division of Germany. Because of its racial policies, South Africa has been barred from the games since 1964.

At the 1976 Montreal Games, in deference to Communist China and under pressure from the host Canadian government, the International Olympic Committee required the delegation from Nationalist China to compete as representatives of "Taiwan." In 1972, there was the most ghastly political intrusion of all the massacre of 11 Israeli athletes by Palestinian terrorists in Munich.

All this is a long way from the ideals of the Olympics. In ancient Greece, they were a sacred occasion, honored by a truce among the warring towns and states of the region. When he revived the movement in 1896, the French educator Baron Pierre de Coubertin hoped to promote friendship and understanding among people around the world through sport. Instead, the Games have become a vehicle for jingoistic nationalism, aggravating international tensions rather than ameliorating them, demeaning the individual athlete for the glory of governments. Nations have trampled on the principles of the movement, and the IOC has abetted them by caving in again and again to intolerable demands

But the national chauvinism afflicting the Olympics goes beyond the obvious political disputes that precede each installment of the Games. It is only the inevitable fallout of the way in which the competition itself is conducted. What basis is there in the Olympic ideals for organizing the Games by nations? Or for having the athletes march behind national flags? Or for the playing of national anthems during the presentation of medals? The IOC has tried half-heartedly to resist the growth of nationalism, by such measures as refusing to award an official team championship for the entire Games. Lord Killanin, when he headed the IOC, argued for the elimination of all national symbols from the games flags, anthems, uniforms. But he didn't get his way. As a result, instead of honoring simple athletic pro-government. Small wonder that governments use them to publicize a variety of political grievances. It is up to the IOC to cleanse the Olympics of this corrosion. That transformation requires that athletes be admitted on the basis of ability, regardless of their citizenship. It would also mean that nations would have no standing whatever in the games. Last, it may

Marshall speller takes Dallas bee

DALLAS (AP) — After 65 rounds of letter perfect spelling, 12-year-old John Stephens of Marshall leaned over the microphone to spell one last noun.

No problem. "P-ER-GE-LISO-L," he said, for the word that means permanently or perenially frozen ground.

With that, the Marshall Junior High School seventhgrader and Harrison County spelling champion was named champion of the The Dallas Morning News Spelling Bee on Friday.

"It was no sweat," John said, flashing a big smile. Minutes before, John had finally taken the lead over Rachel Earp, 13, of Denton - after 42 one-on-one rounds with her — when she misspelled "isagoge," the word for a scholarly introduction to a branch of study. John spelled the word correctly, then spelled that last

"I simply had done my homework," he said. "I asked the head of the Marshall schools to do me a favor and compile all the older spelling list booklets back to 1964 into a major list. I found that all the words not used in last year's competition were in this year's book. So I knew what words would most likely be used this

John now advances to the National Spelling Bee in Washington on May 28.

In addition to the all-expense-paid trip to the nation's capital, he will receive a 30-volume encyclopedia set, a portable color television, a watch, a dictionary a 1984

And when it came down to the wire with Rachel, he said he wasn't nervous.

"I knew what I had to do," he said. "It was just a matter of wearing her down.'

His parents, Harry and Bettye Stephens, said they had fingers and toes crossed throughout the spelldown. But they said they were confident their son would win. "I told John to keep calm and just do his best," his mother said. "He just kept his hands in his pockets and never asked for a definition. He was cool - always the preppy — so cool. But I was on the edge of my seat the whole while.

John's triumph over 30 other fifth- to eighth-grade contestants was a goal toward which he said he has

"I spend about six to eight hours a day studying and then a little more after that," he said. "When we travel, my brother (Steve) and I call words back and forth to each other. He usually enters the contests, but this year he sat out so I could win."

Richardson high schoolers win world's academic 'Super Bowl'

RICHARDSON, Texas (AP) - In a year when Texas' top leaders are trying to figure out both what is wrong with the state's educational system and how to improve it, a few students from Richardson proved some Texas school children can beat the brains out of Richardson's J.J. Pearce High School won the U.S. Academic Decathlon Friday — the first time a Texas team has won the competition, school officials said.

The group of six students from Pearce faced teams from New Zealand, Canada, Mexico and 33 states in the "Super Bowl of the Mind," which was first held three years ago.

"It's really great to get this kind of news after a year of nothing but the negative and what's wrong with Texas education," said Dr. H. Reg McDaniel, who represents north Dallas on the state Board of Education.

A blue-ribbon panel chaired by Dallas businessman H. Ross Perot recommended earlier this month that the elected Board of Education be replaced with an appointed panel, that teacher salaries be raised and that children spend more time in the classroom and less time in sports in a sweeping reform package designed to revitalize schools in Texas, which have ranked below the national average in standardized test scores. "After several years of self-flagellation over our education system, this is a delight," McDaniel said.

Favored California finished second in the competition at Loyola Marymount University in Westchester. Calif., a suburb of Los Angeles. California was followed by Kentucky, Ohio and Missouri.

"We told our kids it wasn't important to finish first, just do the best they coudl this time," said Vivian Schermer, an English teacher who with school librarian Polly Gilbert coached the students.

"They really do love to learn, don't they," Ms Schermer said.

The Pearce students — Keitrah Arnold, Susen Nolen, Marc Keffer, Brian Tagtmeier, Louann Qualls and Steven Wingard — competed against about 200 other students in 10 areas. The teams had to answer questions on math, science, grammar, literature, economics, social studies and the fine arts, and give speeches and write essays for judges.

'The news hit like a bombshell," said Richardson Schools Supt. Arzell Ball. "We were delighted with winning state, but this was beyond our expectations.'

The teams are composed of two "A" students, two 'B" students and two "C" students, a competition spokeswoman said. No Texas school had finished in the top 10 before Pearce won the competition, she said.

The Richardson Independent School District in cludes students from north Dallas areas as well as the suburb of Richardson.

BOBBY WEST

West: Judicial experience necessary for justice job

Incumbent Justice of the Peace Bobby West said he should be reelected because he is the only candidate with judicial experience.

Although several of his opponents in the race cite West's absenteeism as an issue, the Big Spring resident and Coahoma native said "there really is no major issue" in the crowded Democratic primary race. "The other people just want to become justice of the peace," he

He also defends his performance in office since 1975, including his long periods of absence from the office within the last year as related to illness and injury.

Last year he said he spent six months recovering for an operation on his right shoulder for arthritis. Last fall, he had problems with the flu and in December a fall on the ice broke his left arm, laying him up for 30 days, he said.

"I had the flu, and I couldn't get rid of it. I was under the doctor's care all that time. It's the first time that's happened to me in my lifetime," West, 54, said.

West says he has his health problems cured and has been ready to work since the beginning of February. While he is not always in his office, his secretary always knows where to reach him, he said.

"My secretary knows where I'm at," West said. "That wasn't true with my old secretary." West fired his former secretary, Linda Arsiaga, for excessive absences from the office in June 1983, he said.

West also said he has had a chronic disease. Meniere's Disease. since childhood that causes him to be disoriented, dizzy and nauseous. He said he is being treated for the disease by Dr. R.K. Reddy.

"It affects you just like you are intoxicated," he said. "Sometimes it gets so bad you feel like you are intoxicated.

When questioned about the small number of cases being filed or tried in his court and the low number of bonds he sets in comparison to other peace justices or the municipal West said he was not to

"I'm just not being called. I don't know why law enforcement officers or bail bondsmen aren't calling me. I don't go nosing around," he said. Law enforcement officers have discretion in which peace justice court they file charges. They are allowed to file charges with the court in an adjacent precinct, he

West, who is trying for his third term, says he has 280 hours of specialized justice of the peace training at state-sponsored schools.

Prior to serving as justice of the peace, he worked 12 years as the criminal investigator for the district attorney's office.

West, who served as part-time municipal judge in addition to his duties as a peace justice from 1981 to 1982, said he stopped working for the city because officials there wanted their own full-time judge.

He said he did not receive any complaints about his performance

Long: Reporter, civil servant background will help

Justice of the Peace candidate China Long says claims she can't do the job because she is a woman are unrealistic. "One of the most effective JPs in the county is a woman," Mrs. Long said, referring to Peace Justice Willie Grant of Coahoma. Many of a peace justice's duties are administrative, she said, and should be carried out in "an effective, efficient and timely manner.' Mrs. Long, 46, says she will be able to run "a good office as well as the other elected justices" because she worked as a federal civil servant at Webb Air Force Base for 20 She called statements by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin (who is not up for election this year) that "a woman can't handle the job" a "communications problem.

"He's probably interested in having someone who will carry her share of the duties," Mrs. Long said. Heflin has made those statements "because he thinks I wouldn't carry my share of the duties. Anyone who knows me would know I carry my share of the

Mrs. Long, who took a leave of absence from her job as KBST radio news director, said her six years experience gathering local news helped her become familiar with a peace justice's duties.

Ruling in unattended deaths would not be too "gory" to handle, she said, because she has covered accidents and homicides as a Objectivity may be lacking in candidates with law enforcement backgrounds, Mrs. Long said. "There is a difference between a law background and a law enforcement background. If a law enforcement background was the only requirement, why would we have a JP?" she asked.

"I can see both sides of the story, the law enforcement officer doing the arresting as well as the person being arrested," she said. A former law enforcement officer "may have tunnel vision. They may see only one side of an issue.

Mrs. Long also said the county's peace justices should cooperate more, and work together. Absenteeism by incumbent Bobby West contributed to a lack of cooperation between the peace justices.

"The issue boils down to availability. Who can the voters elect and be assured he (or she) will perform?" Mrs. Long asked. "No one is in charge of elected officials. A JP has to work on his own. He has to have the discipline to be a selfstarter."

She has that discipline, she says.

And she volunteered to fill in for the city's municipal judge when he is unavailable, on a cost-free basis. "A city taxpayer is also a county taxpayer," she said. Mrs. Long and her husband, Frank, have been residents of Big Spring for 38 years. They have two children in their 20s, and attend St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

She attended journalism classes at Howard College after Webb Air Force Base closed, and graduated with a degree in journalism from the University of Texas at the Permian Basin in Odessa.

She also is a member of the board of directors of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Stapp: Law enforcement experience a qualification

Former police Sgt. Bob Stapp said his law enforcement background and his community volunteer work qualify him to be justice of the peace. "I don't mind work. I'm well acquainted with work," Stapp, 42, said. As a detective for the Big Spring Police Department, Stapp said he worked 10- to 16-hour days. "I certainly don't mind the JP job."

"The public's paying my salary.
I'll be up there and work," Stapp

Stapp, who said he received several commendations for his performance in law enforcement, retired from the Big Spring Police Department in July 1983 after receiving a leg injury while on duty as a sergeant in the burglary division. He was offered a desk job, but refused the position because his doctor said it would have worsened the injury, Stapp said.

He also has served as a sheriff's deputy and police officer in New Mexico, and received training as a homicide investigator and emergency medical technician. He has taken college classes in law and the judicial system, and is a graduate of both a New Mexico and a Texas police academy.

In addition to being present at the courthouse office from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, Stapp said he wants to set up additional office hours on Saturday, such as 8 a.m. until noon. The additional hours would serve people who work 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays, he said. Stapp said he would be available on call 24-hours

Availability is a key issue in the campaign, Stapp said. "The present JP is not attending functions, and is not available," he said. Stapp said he and his wife, Rosie Lucero Stapp, who works for the Salvation Army, have been involved in community affairs and volunteer work.

He is a member of the Masonic Lodge, the Big Spring Police Association, and is on the board of directors for the Blue Knights Police Motorcycle Club. He has been a troop leader of the Explorers Law Enforcement Post, involved in volunteer services for the Veterans Administration and directed the Salvation Army Christmas Toy Drive for the Needy for three years.

In addition, Stapp, who has three sons, was named Volunteer of the Year by the Salvation Army, he said.

'As another service if elected justice of the peace, Stapp said he would try to hire an interpreter fluent in sign language, or try to receive training in sign language himself.

In addition, Stapp says he speaks 'passable" Spanish and his wife is Stapp said his law enforcement background has made him familiar with a peace justice's duties in areas of criminal law, such as the issuance of search warrants, arrest warrants, and judging traffic cases. His background also would give him special insights in investigating unattended deaths, he said.

He already is a notary public, an office requirement, and is familiar with setting bonds and an accused's rights, he said.

At the same time, his law enforcement background would not make him biased toward law enforcement officers.

Lamb: Incumbent absenteeism hurts public service

Justice of the Peace Precinct 1, Place 2 challenger Doyle Lamb says incumbent Bobby West's absenteeism has generated support for Lamb's candidacy from another peace justice and a local oil millionaire.

Oilman D.L. Dorland, who lives outside the peace justice precinct Lamb is campaigning for, is "just a man who wanted to see a change," said Lamb, a 48-year-old semiretired businessman.

The Big Spring native said Dorland's $1,000 contribution would not pose a conflict of interest because "there's nothing I could help him with where he lives." Dorland maintains residences in Midland and Coahoma Precinct 1, Place 1 Peace Justice Lewis Heflin supports Lamb because "he's got to have some help" with a caseload made heavy because of West's absenteeism, Lamb said.

Heflin has provided Lamb with information on running campaigns and on the office's duties, he said, as well as contributing $100 to his campaign. The major issue in the race is an incumbent who "obviously is not discharging his responsibility to the voters or the media. He's not on the job," Lamb said. West's secretary is almost incapacitated in the office without a judge, Lamb said. The situation is "a black eye on our judicial system," he said.

"If a man is sick, he should get out of office. If a man has a social problem, he should get out of office, too," Lamb said. "Anyone willing to dedicate time (to the job) would be an improvement.

"It's a full time job. I'll be on the job," Lamb said. "If I get sick, I'll

Lamb said he also gained investigative experience while serving as a staff sergeant in the intelligence division of the Marine Corps between 1953 and 1958. The semi-retired businessman who works summers as a plumber and teaches scuba diving classes said his business experience would also help him in his job. Lamb sold his string of motels and grocery stores in New Mexico before returning to Big Spring in 1978, when his oldest child entered high school.

He also is trained as an emergency medical technician, and would take advantage of any schooling available if elected to add to his experience, he said. Lamb attended college at Eastern New Mexico University and South Plains College in Lubbock after he married in 1962.

Lamb has been married 23 years to his second wife, Irene, with whom he has two children, one who lives at home and one attending college. He has two other children by a previous marriage who live in

Brooks: Knowledge of duties important

Knowledge of a justice of the peace's duties is the most important qualification for the job, candidate Don Brooks, a retired radio announcer says.

A candidate should "learn the office before he runs for the office,' Brooks, 63, said. "So many JPs and county commissioners have been elected on political reasons."

The 23-year-old Big Spring native says he is ready to take over the peace justice's duties because he has studied textbooks written by attorneys and other peace justices.

One of a peace justice's main duties is to serve as the county coroner at inquests. In such cases, Brooks said he would work in conjunction with law enforcement officials to get their viewpoints.

He also said his experience as a broadcaster, handling "dramatic" stories and wire stories, helped him become knowledgeable about a peace justice's duties.

Brooks retired after working 35 years as a radio broadcaster, 20 at KHEM, later KKIK.

The court system needs stronger judges, he said. "I believe in upholding the law. We have enough laws. They just need to be enforced," Brooks said.

And the 12-year U.S. Army veteran, who attained the rank of master sergeant when he left the service, said he would not permit plea bargaining in his court if

"If a person is charged with DWI (driving while intoxicated), he'll be tried for DWI in my office," Brooks

Other important duties of a peace justice include hearing all traffic violations, acting as coroner for unattended deaths, marry people and hearing small claims suits, and setting peace bonds.

Paul Silva said his most important qualification for the Justice of the Peace job is his law enforcement background. Silva, 42, was the deputy sergeant

Miller: DA must cooperate with law enforcement

District Attorney candidate Bob Miller said he would take a more active role in assisting law enforcement officers in investigations than incumbent Rick Hamby.

He also would stress prosecution of gambling and drug cases as DA,

A Houston native, Miller has been county attorney since 1980, and has practiced law in Big Spring for 11

"The district attorney should work with law enforcement personnel and help them make cases," Miller said. "Every prosecutor likes to have the best case. You have to take cases and go with

Miller said he has a good relationship with law enforcement officials, and will educate them on requirements for warrants and surveillance.

"I personally believe we have good law enforcement officers. No policemen are doing anything illegally. They want to work within the system," Miller said.

County and district attorneys have a duty to prosecute, and must try "imperfect" cases, Miller said. As an example of fulfilling this duty, he cites jury acquittals in driving while intoxicated cases he tried in county court.

"You do have prosecutor's discretion, but a prosecutor works for the state, not the defense," he said. "The defense attorney should protect the rights of the accused." The district judge should decide on the admissibility of evidence, not the district attorney, Miller said. He also said he would let grand juries decide whether he should prosecute cases that may not be very strong. Failure to present cases to the grand jury would waste months of work by law enforcement of-ficers, he said.

If time permits, Miller said he probably would maintain a private civil practice if elected to the DA's job. His private practice would not conflict with his public job, nor would he be unavailable while at his private office, he said. "I'm available right now. The city police can see me, and talk to me. will do the job and be responsible for it. I will not have my body up there drinking coffee," Miller said. "The people who have trouble talking to me don't want to (talk to me) or can't pick up the phone," Miller

Under the Professional Prosecutors Act, the district attorney's office can decide to take a salary reduction if the DA wants to keep a private civil practice. Hamby has no civil practice, but did at one time before the act was passed.

Miller said his private practice would be ruined when he stepped down from the DA's job if he discontinued his civil cases. And he said he would have to sell his office building and fire his private employees in that case. Miller said he restricted his business, with the exception of rental property, to his legal practice. In contrast, Hamby has had business ventures that detracted from the office, Miller claims. Hamby does radio and television commercials. and was a short-term partner in a private bar, the Green Parrot.

"When you have time to hammer and build a bar, you want credibility as a DA," Miller said. "I feel like it (his interest in a bar) taints the office. No matter how classy (the bar is), you have problems with too much consumption."

with prosecution duties, Miller said. He said he regards his solo pracof a private office he built on Scurry, as a community investment that helps qualify him for the office, he said.

Other qualifications include his business experience - he owns rent houses in town - and his decisionmaking abilities, he said.

"The community has been good to me and I feel like I owe it something. I have prepared to be district attorney,' father of two said.

Miller said he has continued to keep current on legal issues by becoming a member of the Texas State Bar College of Continuing Legal Education, which requires 90 hours of classes in legal education after licensing as a lawyer.

Miller, 38, graduated in December 1972 from the University of Texas Law School. He received a bachelor's degree from the University of Pennsylvania Wharton School of Finance in labor relations.

He was licensed as a lawyer in April 1973 after making the highest grade in his class on the bar exam. He finished law school after leaving the U.S. Navy in 1971, where he served as a lieutenant, junior grade, on an aircraft carrier. He entered the Navy in June 1969.

Another change Miller would make as DA would be a stronger hot check collection service, he said. If possible, he would move collection of misdemeanor checks to the DA's Department collections since 1981 total more than $350,000, almost triple the amount collected in a similar three-year period from 1978-80, under the previous county attorney, Miller said.

"The county court has done the same thing without illegal intent, Miller said, referring to the county's violation of the state constitution by spending funds on the boxing club. "I'll stand by what I've

Miller said he informed the county of its violation of the same statute because he had a duty to tell them of the legality of its actions. "I've never attacked or gone after anybody," he said.

He said the district attorney and Texas Ranger Charles Brune presented the case to the prosecutor's council in Austin in August 1983, "under a pretense to protect me.

"At no time did anyone say to me, 'We don't think you are using the money right,''' Miller said.

Miller said he might use money from the hot check fund to purchase new video and camera equipment for the police department.

Miller also would emphasize collection of more felony fines, he said. His office collected a total of $362,742 in fines and court costs in 1981-83, compared to $22,559 in fines collected by the district attorney's

Miller said the increase in fines collected by his office was caused by prosecution and increased individual fines, not a rise in the crime rate.

Also, Miller said he would increase the number of felony jury trials and grand jury sessions conducted in district court. Under Hamby, 16 felony jury trials had been conducted in 1981-83, and the grand jury had met just 22 times, he

Hamby: Office needs an independent prosecutor

Although he describes himself as independent, 118th District Attorney Rick Hamby says he is not a maverick.

"I hope people out there are of-fended by the same things I'm offended by. I'm not perceived as an extension of the police department. That office shouldn't be an extension of anything but justice," the third-generation Howard County resident said.

"A prosecutor must have the courage of his conviction to say, 'Wait, something's not right here, even if it means raising a hue and cry from some special interest forcement organization," Hamby said. "A prosecutor is up there to use his judgment. If not, we might as well get a seeing-eye dog." Hamby said he is concerned about all crimes presented to him. However, because of the size of the office caseload, he assigns priority to "crimes where there are victims," such as physically violent crimes Illegal drug usage, he feels, is "more of a cultural problem than a law enforcement problem," Hamby said. "I'm not saying anyone who breaks the law shouldn't be prosecuted. The law can help (fight drug abuse), but it can't do it

Courts are being asked to do too much in drug-related cases, he said. Citizens are asking the courts to fill areas once filled by the church, the neighborhood and the family, all things they are unable to do, the Luther-born lawyer said.

To counteract the cultural problem, parents must instill in their children a moral value system, and society must develop honest, hardworking role models, he said.

Hamby said he maintains a good working relationship with local enforcement agencies, including the police department. However, he said he does have a personality conflict with Big Spring Police Chief Rick Turner. The conflict, however, does not interfere with his prosecutorial duties because he has a good relationship with the detectives division, he said. "If I'm given the opportunity, I'll work with him. A man doesn't have to like me to work with me," he

Turner is the only local law enforcement agent Hamby has problems with, Hamby said, citing good working relationships with other area law enforcement officials, including all three sheriffs in his district and the local Texas

Ranger. A current Hamby advertisement lists endorsements from Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders, Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard, Glasscock County Sheriff Royce Pruitt, Coahoma Police Chief O.D. Majors, local attorney and former DA Bob Moore and local attorney and three-term former DA

Guil Jones. In contrast, Turner and other city officials are "pushing" Hamby's opponent in the May 5 Democratic primary, current county attorney Bob Miller, Hamby said.

"I can only assume they don't like me personally, or they don't like my independence. And perhaps they have made some decisions based on some gross misinformation," Ham-

Hamby attacked Miller's statement that he would try to keep a civil practice if elected as DA, a decision that is no longer feasible because of the caseload, he said.

When he first took office, Hamby said, he maintained a private practice. He later discontinued it when the Professional Prosecutors' Act took effect. Under the act, district attorneys receive additional pay from the state if they drop their private work while in office. Maintaining a private practice poses a conflict of interest, he said.

"It's very difficult to take $500 on retainer for a divorce, and in the afternoon be called for an aggravated assault case on a man who beat the hell out of his potential ex-that served alcoholic beverages, but realized after "about three weeks" the potential for conflict of interest and sold his portion of the business. He also writes radio and television commercials and short stories, he said. Hamby received his bachelor of arts degree in history and English in 1970 from Texas Tech University before attending St. Mary's Law School in San Antonio. He graduated in 1974, and moved back to Big Spring, where he entered private practice with his brother, Lanny. He took office in 1977.

Hamby and his wife, Debbie, have three children who live at Hamby said if he is re-elected to a third term in office, he would like to open a "satellite" office in Martin County if funds became available from the commissioners' court.

Hamby said his opponent's criticism of his dismissal rates and actions as a prosecutor during his two terms in office are unfounded.

Hamby said dismissal rates of 34 to 50 percent for his office quoted by Bob Miller did not accurately reflect the situation.

Actual dismissal rates were "fairly good," said Hamby. Decisions to dismiss cases were not made for their effect on statistics, he said.

In a comparison with 44 other counties with populations between 25,000 and 60,000, Howard County ranks about 27th in size and dismissal rates for the period between 1977-82, Hamby said.

Responding to charges by Miller that he has not prosecuted persons indicted by the grand jury, he said some defendants pleaded guilty to other charges or had turned state's evidence. Other cases dated from prior administrations, and were unprosecutable, he said.

The practical effect of pleading the defendants to the additional charges would be "zero," and would cost more than it was worth, said Hamby, who remarried after a Hamby also said Miller's accusations that he has not actively prosecuted gambling and drug cases are untrue.

Of the three gambling cases police presented to him during his eight years in office, two defendants pleaded guilty, Hamby said.

The other gambling case was rejected because law enforcement officials refused to provide an undercover agent when the search warrant was found to be defective, he said

Federal agents have been brought in to assist in local drug investigations at the request of the police department, Hamby said. With federal involvement, any cases which are made bypass the district attorney's office and are handled by federal prosecutors. As the result of the investigations, 11 persons have been indicted by federal court grand juries, of which nine have pleaded guilty in federal court on plea bargains.

"I can only assume that they entered the case because the local police department didn't have the special expertise or specialized equipment," Hamby said. "I'm all for the prosecution and investigation of just cases by a regular observer."

DA race marked by ad campaigns

Residents throughout the 118th Judicial District - Howard. Martin and Glasscock Counties - will vote for a district attorney Saturday.

The race — the highest elected office with a contested race in either the Democratic or Republican primaries for the three counties - has been characterized by sizzling ad campaigns by both candidates.

Listed in order of appearance on the ballot are Robert (Bob) D. Miller, current Howard County attorney, and Rick Hamby, the incumbent who is trying for his third term in office.

Salary for the DA, who also serves as county attorney for Glasscock County, is paid partially by the state and partially by Howard and Glasscock counties.

Howard County contributes $10,000 a year and $3,600 annual car allowance to Hamby's salary. Glasscock County pays him about $160 a month for his services as county attorney. And the state contributes about $45,000 a year. If Miller were to maintain his private civil practice, his state salary would be cut by about $6,000 under the Professional Prosecutors Act.

Senate candidates trade TV blows

By The Asociated Press

The major candidates campaigning to suceed U.S. Sen. John Tower are battering each other with 30-second television spots down the homestretch to Saturday's Texas primary.

U.S. Rep. Phil Gramm, the Republican frontrunner from College Station, is the only major candidate in either party whose commercials ignore his opponents, one of whom, Ron Paul, doesn't even mention his own candidacy in ads.

Paul, a Houston congressman, has a new commercial, for example, that shows a picture of Gramm flipping from left to right while an announcer asks questions such as, "Which Phil Gramm do you like? The who's for Ronald Reagan or the one who once backed Jerry Brown for president?

'Just three days before Phil Gramm became a Republican," the spot concludes, "he voted for Tip O'Neill as speaker of the House. Three days. Don't you want a senator with principles that last a little longer than that."

A third Republican candidate, Rob Mosbacher of Houston, sits in front of a bookshelf and tells voters that "Democratic leaders say I would be their toughest opponent only make it tough for him to win in November.

One of Gramm's spots, which Mosbacher has criticized as "a misrepresentation of the president's position," uses Reagan's description of Gramm as "a tireless supporter of our efforts to restore economic sanity.

Mosbacher says the commercial implies that Reagan has endorsed the College Station congressman, when the president actually is neutral in the race.

Among the Democrats, State Sen. Lloyd Doggett had ads produced that portray opponents Bob Krueger, a former New Braunfels congressman, as an ineffectual lawmaker with a poor attendance record and U.S. Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock as a friend of the rich. A less strident spot endorses Doggett's pen: "(State) Sen. Lloyd Doggett's pen only cost 49 cents but it's been worth millions to the people of Texas. Doggett's pen wrote 125 new laws that help you On election day, stand with him and send his pen to Washington."

Krueger's ads portray Doggett, of Austin, as the pawn of special interests.

One spot begins with a smoke-filled room populated by power brokers with cigars in "In the old days," a narrator says, "the about who they wanted. Yet, even today, Lloyd Doggett says, 'This election is just a 15-round boxing match of endorsements. And so far, we've won."

Krueger then appears to say that "there's only one endorsement that counts. Yours.

All four of Hance's new spots stress his position on amnesty illegal aliens. "The big difference between me and Doggett and Krueger," Hance says, "is that fact they support amnesty for illegal aliens and I'm opposed

In other political news, U.S. Rep. Martin Frost, chairman of Gary Hart's Democratic presidential campaign in Texas, acknowledges that the Colorado senator's support among young urban professional may not translate into votes at Saturday night's precinct caucuses. While the so-called Yuppies like Hart's "new ideas" campaign, they can't be counted on to intend the caucuses, Frost said Friday.

"The people who are going to participate in caucuses are the people who regularly vote in primaries," he said. "You certainly can't base a campaign on an appeal to young professionals. George Christian, former press secretary to Lyndon B. Johnson and a radio poltical analysist, agreed with Frost.

Jesse's chances slim in Texas

AUSTIN — Jesse Jackson's "rainbow coalition" is a frayed and faint dream these days, but his role as an inspiration to black citizens across the nation is written across the sky in blazing colors.

This role is expected to shine again Saturday as Texas voters go to the polls and some return that night to support their favorite presidential candidates in precinct conventions.

No one realistically thinks Jackson will win a large number of the 200 delegates that Texas will send to the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco next July. The real battle is between former Vice President Walter Mondale and U.S. Sen. Gary Hart of

As in other states, Jackson's successes will be in the heavily black precincts, particularly in urban areas. Leaders of both the Mondale and Hart campaigns virtually have written off those precincts.

Mondale will be the big loser in the precincts that Jackson captures. Without Jackson in the picture, Mondale's pull on traditional Democratic coalition groups probably would put these precincts in his camp. Hart has shown no real strength among black voters so There's no way Mondale could inspire as much enthusiasm and voter turnout among black voters as Jackson will. Loyalty to a party organization is a faint glow next to the burning flame of racial pride.

But that lack of enthusiasm wouldn't matter in the overall job of picking delegates to the national convention. Under the Texas caucus system, each precinct is assigned a fixed number of delegates to the county convention the following week. That number is determined by the vote for Mark White in the November 1982 gubernatorial election.

But it doesn't matter how many people attend the precinct conventions on election night this year.

If the precinct has 25 votes to the county convention and only 25 people show up for the precinct meeting, they can all attend the county convention. If only five come on the night of May 5, they can be delegates for the next step up and name some friends to go with

Jackson might bring out 100 supporters to control that precinct's 25 votes, but, without Jackson in the picture, Mondale probably could do the same thing with five backers.

The party activists supporting Mondale are old pros at controlling convention politics with a few loyal people. Unless something sparks in the coming week to greatly increase the number of people willing to go to precinct conventions on election night, the party people will pull it off again.

But they might find it difficult in the future to reestablish control in those minority precincts that go to Jackson. In the past, many of these precincts have experienced low voter interest and high influence by a few political leaders willing to trade that influence for favors from politicians and party officials.

Sports Nabourhood

By BILLY NABOURS Sports Editor

The 'game' of the year

You've read about it in the Rims of Keely Coghlan and Rhonda Whatsername. You've been exposed (and at least one of the parties should be considered highly radioactive) to it in short form through Thursday Notes, but now — in this very column — here is the rest of the story.

IT is the game. The game between the unbeaten, untied and unscored on Herald Angels and the Big Spring Steers baseball team.

The game will help kick off a busy month in May for local sports fans. A partnership golf tournament and the Shriners Pro-Am are also happening next month, but those are also stories in themselves.

Matching athletic semi-talent against athletic talent was the idea of this scribe. It's been a fun activity in another community when it was tried and last time I checked, my old compadres in Angleton have yet to beat the Wildcats.

This dynamic duel between one very adequate (term used loosely) softball team and one very competitive baseball team will be fun for all involved. It will also be beneficial

Proceeds of the game will benefit Big Spring's entry into this summer's Texas Teen League. The league is for young men ages 16-18 and allows them the opportunity to sharpen their baseball skills. With two teams in Midland and two in Odessa, there promises to be plenty of action when Big Spring makes its lone entry.

What will this spectacle (note I said spectacle and not spectacular) cost? One green $1 is the cost. Game time is Sunday, May 6 at 3 p.m. at Steer Field.

Yours truly has the sort of dubious honor of managing the Angels. Manage is the correct word. You don't coach a bunch of allstars like the Angels. We're already good. Well, make that adequate again.

For starters there is rover Marianne "Rover" Pierce from the composing room. Marianne takes a licking and keeps on ticking as evidenced from our first practice when first baseman Steve "Dancing Man" Belvin lined a shot that caused Marianne's right leg to take on all the colors of the purple sage. Steers beware, Steve is our cleanup man and I don't mean with a broomhandle.

"Gentle" Bob Carpenter is the team's third baseman and bats second and rumors have it Bob is contemplating retirement once this fiasco, make that festival, is over. Billy "Martin" Nabours — yes, sports editors can play - plays leftfield (been told that on more than one occasion), bats third, manages, and supplies all the water the team can drink. Steve follows his sports associate and takes orders for whatever else the team wishes to quench its thirst with should water not suffice.

"Mean" Dean Glenn will man centerfield. Dean is one of the Herald's pressmen and is guaranteed to roll you over. Former Heralder Louie "Moose" Smith is in rightfield and is even larger than life than Steve. We're good for at least two homeruns in the game Steers. "Smart" Art Williams is another pressman who figures to show the youngsters a thing or two or three or four (depending on how many times he falls down when he gets on the field).

"Speedy" Cindy Cole will hold down shortstop. The lady weilds a good glove, but is sooooo fast that it would really be unfair to the Steers to have her on base all the time (should she rap the ball). In the instance the unthinkable happens, the odds will be evened out by inserting Cindy's designated runner, "Peppermint" Patty Fincher. Cindy and Patty give the Angels a composing

And because she is so deadly with her bat, second baseperson Rhonda Woodall (that's her name) will have her batting duties taken over by dh Karen "Traffic Jammer" Bellinghausen. Truthfully, Rhonda is all field, no hit. Karen is all hit and no field, no field at all.

Our token yankee is pitcher Tim "The Beaver" Appel. Noah had a better arc and more on the ball than Tim. Tim's biggest problem though is that he keeps wanting to use his hockey stick as a bat.

Batting last in the order, but not in our hearts is Keely "Red Raider Rides Again" Coghlan. Hailing from Texas Tech, Keely is the team's catcher and threatens to hasten Texas Tech softball a thousand years. It's not known whether she'll hasten it backwards or forwards, however.

Hawks make HC history with win

State tourney berth awaits after Ranger series

By BILLY NABOURS Sports Editor

Saturday, Apr. 28 will go down as one big day in Howard College sports history. The HC baseball team, behind solid pitching, good defense and timely hitting, came away Saturday with a 3-0 shutout over the Ranger JC Rangers, a win that gives the Hawks a berth at the Texas State Junior College Baseball Tournament in only HC's second year of re-fielding a program that had been discontinued in the Chuck Ashcraft scattered five hits in recording only the second shutout in Howard's brief baseball rebirth. The freshman from Fort Worth raised his record to 9-2. He walked three and struckout three and said he may have pitched his best game of the year.

Ashcraft said he didn't feel any pressure from the standpoint of knowing one win in the three game series would cleinh second place in Region V and the playoffs for HC. "I got knocked down against McLennan (3-2 loss) in our last series at nome. I still didn't feel real strong aganst Hill (despite strikingout 14) on Monday, but today I felt strong the whole game," he said. "I needed a good game to get me back up for state," he

"I was just placing the ball and letting them hit. I wasn't thinking strikeouts. I just thought about how badly we needed to get the win," Ashcraft added.

Ashcraft looked particularly impressive on two occasions when Ranger managed runners to second with one out. The first came in the fourth when Ashcraft walked a batter and gave up a single. He took out the runner at second on a throw to third on a fielder's choice, forced another hitter to fly out to second baseman Jim Garcia, and received help from behind the plate when catcher Joey Ortiz threw out a runner trying to advance on a passed ball. That was as near as HC came to committing an error.

In the eighth Ranger threatened again, but Ashcraft played a fielder's choice to first and then notched a strikeout to end the inning

HAWK BATS AWAKE

Meanwhile, Ashcraft got battering ram suport from a 10 hit HC attack that was led by the two hit showings of John Friesenhahn, Bobby Behnsch, Ortiz and Blake Rosson. Stephon Hodge and Gary Carr chipped in single base raps

And it was former Big Spring High School athlete Rosson that supplied the Hawks with all the runs they really needed against last year's Region V runnerup.

After battling through three scoreless innings, Rosson drew first blood in the fourth when he singled in Carr, who had been walked. Rosson and Carr struck again in the fifth when Rosson totaled his second rbi by knocking in Carr with another single. Carr singled in what amounted to a four hit inning by the Hawks. HC scored another run during the inning when Behnsch picked up his first hit of the day, a single bringing in Doug Hatch, on via being hit by a pitch.

And with the exception of putting Ashcraft in a pair of crucial situations, Ranger did little else.

HC coach Bill Griffin said all the elements fell

'We got good pitching, had some timely hits and played our best defensive game of the season," said Griffin. He added, however, "We knew going in that one win would put us over the top and in the state tourney. Now that that's acomplished, Sunday's doubleheader will defintely be more relaxed.'

Griffin remarked, "This team has accomplished a great deal, but still has some things left to do. By winning two games Sunday maybe we'll get some momentum going for the tournament."

Kevin Kolodzie (1-2) is scheduled to start today's first game of a doubleheader. Griffin has not named a starter for the second contest. Game time in game one

WINNING IS GREAT — HC winning pitcher Chuck Ashcraft (left) and his catcher Joey Ortiz display the traits of a winner and a job well done after the pair figured in a 3-0 win by the Hawks, propelling the second year baseball team into the state junior college tournament May 10-13. The Hawks close out ther regular seson today starting at 1 p.m. with a doubleheader against the Rangers.

Spring football drills hailed as time of believing in Big Spring

By BILLY NABOURS

"I believe."

The well known words of inspiration from the dean of Southwest Conference coaches - Grant Teaff of Baylor. And while Baylor and Big Spring High School are worlds apart, BSHS head football coach Quinn Eudy figures on using that same bit of philosophy in his continuing bid to give Big Spring a competitive high school football program.

Eudy will start testing that philosophy Monday, Apr. 30 when approximately 111 young men don shoulder pads and helmets for the first day of Spring football workouts. Workouts will end May 19 with the third of three scheduled Black and Gold skirmishes.

Eudy said, "I hope people in the city begin believing and stay positive that Big Spring can win. The kids are believing that already and intend to be very competitive. The kids' atitude about winning has improved greatly. If folks around town will get behind them, that will be a shot in the arm."

SIX LETTERMEN

Going in, however Eudy is faced with replacing alot of experience. Only six lettermen - all starters return from last year.

Jay Pirkle, Doug Walker, Tommy Gartman, Jerry Meyer, Derrick Logback and Tommy Rodriguez are the old hands who went through last year's wars. Pirkle and Walker went both ways at strong safety-fullback and defensive-offensive tackle respectively Gartman also did some time in the secondary while playing quarterback. That is one thing Eudy wants to get away from.

"We're going to try and find a player for every position and get away from two-way football," he said. "That was one of our problems last year. We could stay with most teams for three quarters, but were just worn down due to too many folks going both ways."

Eudy pointed out that he really feels confident about players going one way this year. "We have 30 more kids out for football this Spring than last year. We should be able to play one way football." And this year's crop of 111 prospects is the highest number Eudy remembers in his four years in Steerland. "Four years ago only 57 kids came out for football - and those numbers had to fill a sophomore, junior varsity and varsity schedule," said Eudy.

DEFENSE IS STRONG POINT NOW Eudy expects his defense to shine during Spring drills and really be the strong point of the team even when August practices begin. "Defense is where most of our experience is," he said when noting that five of his lettermen started in the Oklahoma defense that the Steers employ.

Eugene Vanderbilt and Luis Puga (6-1, 225) are two younger players being lined up for defense. Eudy remarked that some of his better athletes will be found

San Angelo hurler Jim Osbourn started and finished his season with a prefect record after limiting the Big Spring Steers to four hits as the Bobcats downed the Steers 14-2 in the District 4-5A baseball season finale for both teams at Steer Field Saturday.

Osbourn was making his first start of the season after suffering an arm injury. The big righthander ended his season in style by going all seven innings. He struckout eight Steers along the way.

He was in command most of the game, getting into trouble in the first, third and sixth innings. The LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Devil's Bag prepped for the May 5 Kentucky Derby with a front-running victory in the $54,500 Derby Trial Stakes Saturday on opening day at Churchill Downs.

The 1983 2-year-old champion will now go into next Saturday's 11/4-mile Derby with two straight victories - at seven furlongs and a mile - but without ever having won a race around two turns.

Ridden by Eddie Maple, Devil's Bag finished 214-lengths in front of Biloxi Indian after racing the mile on a fast track in 1:35 3-5 under 122 pounds.

The bay colt owned by James P. Mills, who has been syndicated for $36 million, earned $35,425 and paid $2.20. There was win betting only.

Devil's Bag's victory was achieved without the Hall of Fame trainer Woody Stephens present. The 70-yearold Stephens is in a Louisville hospital recuperating from pneumonia and Devil's Bag was saddled Saturday by Mike Griffin, a former trainer who breaks yearlings for Claiborne Farm.

Devil's Bag now has won three of four starts this year and eight of nine career races.

Biloxi Indian, who chased Devil's Bag for most of the mile, finished 23/4-lengths in front of Secret Prince. Coax Me Gipsy finished fourth and John Bright last. John Bright was the only starter not eligible for the

John Bright, ridden by Same Maple, Eddie's brother, broke on top but Devil's Bag quickly took the lead, Devil's Bag led Biloxi Indian, 122 ridden by Garth Patterson, down the backstretch and into the turn. John Bright was third until the turn and then faded

Devil's Bag took a 2-length lead into the turn and came out of the turn with a 11/2-length margin over Biloxi Indian. But that was as close as Biloxi Indian

SECOND PLACE FINISHER - Lupe Hinoios, a fourth grader at Bauer Elementary, makes a leap in the long jump during the Big Spring Elementary Track and Field meet held Saturday at Blankenship Field. Hinojos was second with a jump of 12-1/2. His Bauer teammates collected 30 points to give Bauer a sixth place finish in the boys fourth grade division.

Islanders narrow playoff gap

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) - Greg Gilbert scored twice, and goaltender Billy Smith set a Stanley Cup record with his 81st career victory Saturday night as the New York Islanders closed the gap on the Montreal Canadiens in the Prince of Wales Conference final series with a 5-2 decision.

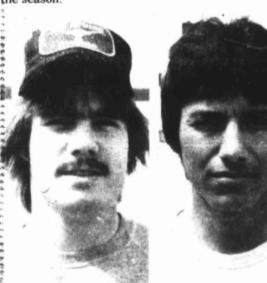

The four-time National Hockey League champion Islanders trailed the best-of-seven series 2-1 with Game 4 set for here Tuesday night.

The Islanders finally found their championship form in the third game after being manhandled in Montreal. They made it easy for Smith by scoring twice in a team-record 13 seconds in the first period and three more times in the second.

Gilbert's second breakaway goal of the game, at 8:24 of the middle period, made the score 5-0 and drove Montreal rookie goalie Steve Penney to the bench in

1984 NFL draft holds little suspense By The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League holds its annual draft Tuesday, with a lot of the suspense and about four dozen of the top prospects already gone.

There is no question who will be the first pick — wide reciever Irving Fryar of Nebraska has already been signed by the New England Patriots. They acquired the top choice from the Cincinnati Bengals after the Bengals were unwilling to match the U.S. Football League's bid for Brigham Young quarterback Steve Young, who signed with the Los Angeles Express for $40 million over 43 years.

Fryar, considered a game-breaker in the James Lofton-John Jefferson mold, might have been the first pick overall in any event. But so might have Young, or Heisman Trophy winner Mike Rozier, who signed with the Pittsburgh Maulers, or mammoth defensive tackle Reggie White, now of the Memphis Showboats.

In fact, according to the assessment of NFL scouting combines, independent sources and professional "draftniks," the USFL has picked off about a third of the potential first-round choices; a quarter of the college players expected to make it in the NFL, and about 90 who might have been among the 336 players drafted in Tuesday's 12 rounds.

That means that when representatives of the 28 teams convene at the Omni Park Hotel at 8 a.m. EST, each choice will be even more important than it has been in the past.

"There are 130 guys with 'make it' grades left in the on defense. "If we can solidify our secondary, we'll be very tough defensively," said Eudy. Going into his third year at the Steers helm, Eudy is already convinced that the Steers will get in their licks. "We will not only put a heavy emphasis on hitting, but the biggest thing will be wrapping up," he said. "Too many times last season we would knock the devil out of folks, but if you don't get your arms around them it's not much consolation," added Eudy.

Offensively Eudy said, "Big Spring will continue to throw the ball a little more than some," in District

Gartman or Carl Speck could emerge as the quarterback of the Steers Houston Veer operation. Mike Wilson and Billy Russell are two names Eudy mentioned when talking about his wide receivers and Rodriguez is an able flanker.

Finding an adequate line is a project Eudy intends to work on and while he does not want to call names at this time, he did say, "We'll be real young in the line, but the kids we are looking at have the ability. They are just real young though and need to be tested under fire this Spring."

draft right now. Without the USFL there would have been 175," New York Giants Coach Bill Parcells said. "But there are enough good players out there to have a really good draft if you pick them right. You just have to pick right because the margin for error is greater."

Fryar's signing leaves the Houston Oilers, who pick second, as the draft's controlling team.

Houston has been talking with at least three players - linebackers Wilber Marshall of Florida and Carl Banks of Michigan State and guard Dean Steinkuhler, a 267-pounder with speed and strength who was Fryar's teammate at Nebraska.

Steinkuhler, in fact, is considered the best available player left and is coveted by the lineman-poor Giants. who pick third. Houston could exchange places with New York in return for other considerations — as it did last year when it traded the pick that eventually became Eric Dickerson to the Los Angeles Rams - or it could take Steinkuhler.

That would leave the Giants with the alternative of trading down and taking a lineman with a later pick or making a choice - the most likely would be Banks or Maryland's Boomer Esiason, the top-rated quarterback prospect.

Among the other players expected to go high are wide receiver Kenny Jackson of Penn State, who may be taken by the Philadelphia Eagles choosing fourth; defensive linemen Rich Bryan of Oklahoma and Bill Maas of Pitt, and defensive backs Mossy Cade of Texas and Don Rogers of UCLA.

With Rozier gone, the top-rated running back is Stanford Jennings of Furman, considered a low first-roundhigh second-round pick.

This may be the last year the NFL draft is held so late. Many coaches and genral managers prefer the late April-early May draft because it allows them to make better evaluations of prospects, but the USFL raids have led to pressure to move it back to Feb. 1

That change may come up for discussion at league meetings in June, when the NFL will also conduct a three-round draft of players who have signed with the USFL. That draft will include only players in the class of 1984 - last year's USFL signees were included in the regular draft and those who weren't drafted are free agents who can sign with any NFL team.

The Kansas City Chiefs have the fifth pick of the first round, followed by the San Diego Chargers, Cincinnati Bengals, the Colts, Atlanta Falcons, New York Jets, Chicago Bears, Green Bay Packers, Minnesota Vikings, Buffalo Bills, New York Jets (with a choice acquired from New Orleans for Richard Todd), Cincinnati (with a choice acquired from the Patriots for the top pick), St. Louis Cardinals, Cleveland Browns, the Colts (a pick acquired from Denver in the John Elway deal last year), Detroit Lions, Los Angeles Rams, Seattle Seahawks, Pittsburgh Steelers, San Francisco 49ers, Dallas Cowboys, Miami Dolphins, Washington Redskins and the Bengals again with a pick acquired from New England, which got it from the Los Angeles Raiders as compensation for the Raiders' signing of Mike Havnes.

Chemical People

Task forces work to fight drug, alcohol abuse problems

By RHONDA WOODALL Lifestyle Writer

Even though they have been quiet during the last few months the Chemical People have been working diligently in Big Spring area.

'Chemical People is especially important in this area because of the intensity of our drug problem," said Cindy Marshall, Chemical People's Legal Affairs task force chairman. "We are going to have to attack it now, rather than let it slide by like in years past."

Local people are working with Chemical People by serving on task forces. "A task force is a group of individuals from a community who have gathered together to share their concerns and impact on the local problem of teenage drug and alcohol abuse," said a Chemical People pamphlet. "This is a unique opportunity for citizens to work cooperatively at the grassroots level to help diminish drug and alcohol abuse by our young people and adults.

THE BIG SPRING Chemical People Task Forces are the Parent Support Group, Alternate Student Activities, Media Monitoring and Education and Awareness, Hotline, and Legal Affairs.

One task force, Parent Support Group is lead by Tom Watson. The task force is to help parents and improve parent-child communications. The task force is working on two types of parent groups.

The first group is a parent peer group, which is in the preventive measure. "The group is for parents of youngsters who run around together. They get to know each other and communicate their values." These groups discuss all the things that concern parents about adolescents, such as dating, curfews, academic expectation, drugs and alcohol.

'One problem (with getting the groups started) is teens think if their parents become involved in Parent Support Group, people will think the kids are on drugs. It's amazing how many teenagers control their households," Watson said. "The group is preventive. It's to help parents to help their children by opening up

"Parents are doing wrong by denying that a potential problem exists At some time their child will be exposed to the pressure of drugs and alcohol," Watson said. "Parents need to learn to recognize change in behavior pattern, and the symptoms of drug and

A second area the task force is looking into is a parent group that would provide counseling for parents who kids have already been involved in drugs

If interested in the Parent Support Group, contact Tom Watson at 263-7331 or 263-8664 or Judy Atkins at

GLEN CARRIGAN IS chairman of the Alternate Student Activities task force. The purpose of the task force is "to find alternatives to running up and down Gregg Street." By doing this, Carrigan says, hopefully some kids won't be pressured into drugs

Alternate Student Activities is presently trying to establish a youth center, where teenagers would be able to go and dance, watch television, and play games. "Young folks don't have that much to do," Carrigan said.

The group has done the preliminary work and is trying to find a building for the center. Carrigan said a conservative figure for opening the center was $5,000 to $7,000. Criteria for the building includes "a place large enough to house the center, and in a location where the young people will want and be able to go to,'

Those wanting to help the Alternate Student Activities task force can call Marae Brooks at 267-1039. Media Monitoring and Education and Awareness task force is chaired by Ron Logback and Loyce Phillips. The task force's purpose is to make the public aware of the effects, the symptoms and the problem of drug and alcohol abuse.

The task force's projects include monitoring television shows and commercials for alcohol abuse, making public service announcements for the media, sponsoring a poster contest and making the public aware of alcohol and drug abuse.

The Media Monitoring task force will sponsor a "Choose Not to Abuse" poster contest for students in

"We will follow procedures. We will always operate with two people on duty or not at all. And we will never just take people off the street, and put them on the phone."

The hotline "is really a referral service. We hope we can help the people ourselves or direct them to where they can get help."

The Hotline task force plans to open the hotline in early May. The Hotline service will be open Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights from 8 p.m. to midnight. "That's so there won't be more than three days between times to call," she said. The service is offered in the evenings, because that is when other agencies are not available. "I wish we had the manpower to do it 24 hours a day but you can't stretch 18 people that far."

Mrs. Hepner said all calls and information is confidential unless the person calling is in "imminent danger of physical harm.

Volunteers for the hotline will be trained on an on going bases, Mrs. Hepner said. Interested people can call

Another task force is Legal Affairs. "Because of the nature of our group it is small. The work has to be done during the working hours (8 to 5)," Mrs. Marshall said. The purpose of the Legal Affairs task force is to participate in court monitoring and to improve drug laws. "The group tries to do what it can to improve prosecution of sentencing in drug cases through court monitor

The task force will follow a drug or alcohol-related case from the time the arrest is made until the sentencing is completed. "We have actually been going through the district clerk's files on drug-related cases to see what has happened to them.

"For the next few years, the group plans to continue court monitoring. We feel this has done more good than anything else we have done so far," she said.

The task force's goal, is to improve the community's attitudes toward the drug problem, and to make the public aware of how intense the drug problem has

Association says

More than 100 Big Spring area dancers are expected to participate in the Dance for Heart event at the Big Spring Mall, May 5.

The dancers have fun while raising public awareness of aerobic exercise and funds to benefit American Heart Association.

Aerobic dance, which has become immensely popular in recent years, is a fitness sport combining the cardiovascular benefits of jogging with easy-tolearn movement routines choreog aphed to music. Students hop, kick, slide, lunge. skip, bend, twist and stretch in continuous motion. In addition to trimming the figure and firming the body, aerobic dance also strengthens and conditions the heart by making the body work hard and demand an increased amount of oxygen.

Dance participants are getting pledges this week for 10 cents or more per minute from as many sponsors as they can contact. The event itself is four hours long. There are 45 minute dance sessions in each hour, and the participants will dance as many sessions as they can in that time. Later, they will collect the pledges they have earned.

The Dance for Heart event is being conducted statewide under the sponsorship of the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness. The funds raised will be used to support research, public and professional education and community service programs of the American Heart Association signed "Impossible Dream" consulted you as to the meaning of a recurring dream she'd been having. She dreamed she was pregnant — at age 74! Your reply, "Perhaps you have a fertile imagination." was less than adequate and even flippant.

Fertile dream bears possibilities

Nature does not waste time with "impossible dreams." This lady's dream of pregnancy definitely has a possible meaning.

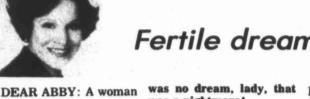

I suggest that it meant she still had a potential for growth in a new area of her BEAUTIFUL DREAMER

DEAR DREAMER: Although dreams surely have some significance, I am not "Jung" enough to interpret them. Many readers, however, offered the following: 1. Dreaming of being pregnant means something could be "growing" inside her. A tumor, perhaps. She should see her doctor without delay.

2. Her dreams of pregnancy indicate that she is unconsciously longing for romance.

3. Pregnant at 74! That

DEAR ABBY: Now I've heard everything! Impotent men getting a penile implant, surgically implanted in order to have a normal sex life? What Abby, do you really believe that nurse who wrote to tell you about it, or do you think she was just hoping to arouse a lot of comment? Have you ever heard of it from any other source?

A lot of questions come to mind: What kind of woman would get any satisfaction out of intercourse with a man using a "falsie"? And what pleasure could he possibly get from an imitation? And how would he accomplish a climax?

Please ask your readers if any of them have ever had the experience. Or is this a gag?

also a son Tim and a daughter Danna that live in Amarillo. I have been self-employed since 1960. In 1968 we purchased College Park 66 Service station and operated it until 1972. At that time we opened Smallwoods Western Wear which we are now operating

I think we all would agree that we live in the greatest country in the world, but I think we are taxed about as much or more than we can stand. If I am elected to be your County Commissioner Prec. 3, I will do my best to see that your tax dollars are used to the best Interest of Howard County.

event from 2 to 4 p.m.

Robert D. Miller doesn't tell you...

The D.A.'s office has a 25 to 34% dismissal__90% of these dismissals represent defendants with multiple indictments who have already pled guilty or been tried on related charges or are old cases going back to 1969 which other D.A.'s found unprosecutable for one reason or another. Neither does the county Attorney tell you that since 1981 his dismissal rate as County Attorney has averaged almost 70% of cases handled by his office. A glaring example is that in 1981, Bob Miller dismissed 1204 cases in the County Attorney's office vs. 33 dismissals in the District Attorney's office.

Too many drug cases have been dismissed

Most of these cases were dismissed as a result of the defendant pleading guilty in another case. He further neglects to tell you that from 1981 through 1983, he dismissed more than twice the number of drug cases in the County Attorney's office than did the D.A.'s office.

Miller intimates we're soft on gambling_

What he either doesn't know or fails to tell you is that in my entire term in office, the police dept. has brought me a total of three cases to prosecute. Two of these defendants pled guilty and in the remaining case, the search warrant was fatally defective. To my knowledge, Miller as County Attorney has prosecuted only one gambling case (a case which he managed to lose based on one of the "technicalities" which he says he will ignore if elected to the D.A.'s office).

Miller tried to indicate that in 1983, we have only 4 jury trials...therefore we didn't do anything!

To begin with, that's more jury trials than Mr. Miller had in 1983. Further, in 1983, my office moved more cases through district court resulting in more punishment for more defendants than we've ever done before. This yielded a sizeable savings to the taxpayer. He doesn't tell you that since 1981, we have had five times the number of contested jury trial convictions than he has had as County Attorney. This was done in spite of the fact that it's easier and less expensive for him to have a jury trial in county court than for us to go to trial in district court.

Robert Miller says that he will seek a paycut_He has no choice in the matter. To encourage professional, full time prosecutors, the state pays nearly $6000.00 additional salary. Since he elects to be a part time prosecutor and maintain a private law practice, the state will cut that $6000.00 out of his salary.

Bob Miller says that he has the best interest of the pepole at heart and will perform all duties required of the D.A. while at the same time carrying on his complete private practice

As County Attorney, he was present in the court room as the county's representative for less than 10 guilty pleas during his entire term in office. He does not want to tell us what business he was attending to that was more important than the people's business. Rick Hamby was present in the court room as the people's representative for nearly 500 guilty pleas and revocations of probation just since 1981.

Mr. Miller tells you he is not going to be__ hampered by "technicalities".....

Think about it... Those technicalities are the law and the constitution. For a District Attorney candidate to tell you that he is going to ignore the law should send a cold chill up the spine of a free people. This means that the constitution is going to be interpreted by the police department and not by an independent elected representative of the people. If a D.A. lets law enforcement officers know they don't have to follow the rules, they won't follow the rules. Anarchy results and innocent people are helpless

With the aid of sheriff A.N. Standard, the D.A.'s office has sent more lawbreakers to the penitentiary than ever before.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted with a reception at the church. The bride's table featured a pale yellow cake accented with white daisies

Following a cruise to Mexico, the couple will make its home in Austin.

To keep roses in the pink, use the package of preservatives usually included in the florist's box. And always use warm water (100 degrees). Though roses like warm water to drink, they prefer a cool atmosphere, so keep them out of direct sun and drafts. If you put roses in the refrigerator overnight, make sure there are no fruits stored there especially apples, because they give off a gas that

Q.: Someone said the interest rate on a mortgage is not the actual interest rate you pay — that the actual rate is lower. How?

A.: True. You will pay the interest rate as stated in the mortgage contract. However, mortgage interest is deductable from federal income tax and should be viewed as a "real" or after-tax interest rate. To compute: Multiply the stated mortgage interest rate by your income tax bracket (tound in the Federal Income Tax Table). Subtract this from the mortgage interest rate. As an example, take a 12% mortgage and a 25% income tax bracket. 12 x 25 = 3.00 and 12 - 3.00 = 9% — the "real" after-tax interest rate. Deductions for interest payments as well as taxes such as city and county are all part of this important investment and should not be overlooked.

A locket is a unique form of sentimental jewelry Those containing portraits or another item of personal significance are treasured by those who receive them. The great age of lockets was during the nineteenth century. In the sentimental jewelry of the early Victorian period, they had a popular role as containers for the locks of hair and little medallions of hairwork which were worn almost universally. Lockets containing a miniature painting of the fiance were worn by girls after their engagements, while small lockets were worn by children. In the 1870s a locket became a fashionable necessity intended for photographs and were sometimes extremely heavy. The miniature had seen its day.

Fine jewelry makes the perfect gift for almost every occasion. At BLUM'S JEWELERS, 222 Main, 267-6335 we feature a fine selection of beautifully designed jewelry, distinctive gift items, and the personal service that comes from over 22 years of experience and expertise in the field of fine jewelry. Dr. Donohue

When should exercise pulse drop?

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am confused about what is meant when they say that the heartbeat should continue at a fast pace for 15 minutes to get aerobic exercise benefits. Do they mean 15 minutes during the exercise or continuous 15 minutes after a person is through with the exercise? - E.H.Q.

The 15-minute reference applies to the elevated pulse rate during the exercise. Your heartrate (pulse) should return to the resting stage within 10 minutes after quitting the exercise.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have heard or read that drinking coffee will make one lose weight. Is there any truth to this or is this another one of the fad diet ideas?

Caffeine causes a release into the blood of so-called free fatty acids from fat stores. That means fat is being broken down. Also, fatty acids are burned by muscles in preference to their burning of their stored sugar supplies. The latter fact may be of importance to the jogger, for example, because of some potential sparing of muscle sugar and bit more energy over a bit longer period. However, the effect is not that great.

Similarly, coffee drinking to lose weight really won't get the job done, so you should not launch into a coffeedrinking binge, thereby hoping to become lean. I don't think any nutritionist advises drinking coffee for weight loss. If you want to "mobilize" your fatty acids by coffee, don't drink more than three cups a day and don't expect great changes in your weight, or your energy levels, for that matter.

Caffeine, as you know, can have undesirable effects. like jitteriness and a slightly erratic heart. And you may find yourself running to the bathroom more than usual — from the diuretic effects of caffeine.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have a daughter in gymnastics. So many of the girls have come up with knee injuries. can you comment on this and perhaps suggest ways to avoid such problems? — Mrs. I.G.

The knee seems to be the most injury-prone joint in the body, no matter which sort is mentioned. Gymnastics is no exception. I don't know anything special to suggest beyond the usual advice about being sure exercises are done diligently. The stronger the musculature around joints, the less the chance of an injury being incurred.

Many of the gymnast knee injuries occur during the dismount phase of an exercise, and that is no surprise whatsoever. And the more difficult the dismount maneuver, the greater the risk of injury. So it is best to approach difficult dismounts gradually in training. Also, it is found that most injuries occur during actual competition, as opposed to during training sessions. All this brings to mind the need to provide sufficient training time prior to getting into a new maneuver to be used in competition.

Mrs. Ferguson honored at baby shower

Terri Ferguson was honored with a baby shower at the Fellowship Hall of Phillips Memorial Baptist Church, April 14.

Hosting the event were: Bessie Taylor, Effie Miears, Joy Weaver, Rebbecca Taylor, Shree Moore and Tena Parker. The hostesses presented Mrs. Ferguson with a complete nursery consisting of a baby bed, stroller, high chair and mobile.

Mrs. Ferguson's mother and father, Mrs. Roger Brown and Bobby Miears, completed the nursery with a playpen and all bedding and a bumper pad in a rocking horse pattern.

Guests were served from a table covered with a yellow cloth and white lace overlay. A baby sitting beneath a parasol surrounded by daisies centered the table. The cake was decorated with rattles, rocking horses, jack-in-the box, and baby blocks. Baby games were played.

Special guests included Mrs. Austin Ferguson, paternal grandmother; Mrs. Roger Brown, matergrandmother: Joy Weaver and Effie Miers, great-grandmothers; James Ferguson, the father-to-be.

Baby Ferguson is expected on the day of its "honorary" grandmother Bessie Taylor's birthday, May 19.

A BLESSING FROM C.H. SPURGEON

If I carefully consider others. God will consider me; and in some way or other He will recompense me. Let me consider the poor, and the Lord will consider me. Let me look after little children and the Lord will treat me as His child. Let me feed His flock, and He will feed me. Let me water His garden, and He will make a watered garden of my soul. This is the Lord's own promise; be it mine to fulfill the condition, and then to expect its fulfillment

I may care about myself till I grow morbid; I may watch over my own feelings till I feel nothing; and I may lament my own weakness till I grow almost too weak to lament. It will be far more profitable for me to become unselfish, and out of love to my Lord Jesus begin to care for the souls of those around me. My tank is getting very low; no fresh rain comes to fill it; what shall do? I will pull up the plug, and its contents run out to water the withering plants around me. What do I see? My cistern seems to fill as it flows. A secret spring is at work. While all was stagnant, the fresh spring was sealed; but as my stock flows out to water others the Lord thinketh

I am County Attorney Bob Miller and I want to serve you as District Attorney. I want my children to grow up in a community free of drug traffic. It is time we take care of our own problems and not depend upon Federal Officials to fight our drug traffic. Your District Attorney must lead this fight and work closely with law enforcement officials. This has not been the case in the past. Too many grand jury indicted cases have been dismissed. And too many drug cases indicted have not even been prosecuted, but only held on file.

As your District Attorney, I will lead that fight against the rable effects, art. And you m more than
