How's that? Heat wave

Q. Why isn't Runnels Junior High School air conditioned?

A. Lynn Hise, superintendent of the Big Spring Independent School District, said the building is cooled to some extent by large evaporative cooling units located at the ends of the building.

Hise explained that the construction of Runnels "does not lend itself to hanging units from each window" of various classrooms. He said the large evaporative units were placed at each end because "That's about the best we can do for that vintage building."

Hise added that Runnels is not the only building in the school district cooled in this manner. "We have several buildings (in the district) that have evaporative air conditioning systems."

Mondale's son seeks support

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

William Mondale, 22, son of presidential hopeful Walter Mondale, brought his father's campaign to Big Spring Monday afternoon at a reception held in the courtroom at the Howard County Courthouse.

The son of the former vice president said he felt "a genuine affection for my father" at the reception sponsored by county Democrats, and he added he felt overall support in the state is "very good."

Mondale said, "I extend my family's greetings to you. My father would have been here himself, but all attempts to clone him have failed."

Giving a brief history of his father's career, Mondale said, "My father learned early on the value of hard work."

"He knows about your concerns. He has never forgotten that the true wealth of this country is not on Wall Street."

Mondale said his father is aware of problems facing farmers and, "He is prepared to get an agricultural policy that will work."

The elder Mondale, "is serious about ensuring the rights of Americans," his son said.

Concerning primaries slated Saturday, Mondale said, "On May 5, you will be the most powerful people in the country. The whole country will be watching. It is essential that we carry this most important state. We have to win here."

"We have to rely on your support. We need you to spread the word."

Some persons at the reception voiced concern about the caucus slated at 7:15 p.m. on May 5.

Mondale told the group, "It is a very simple process." After the caucus convenes, the chairman will say, "Everyone for Mondale come to this side of the room, and everyone for any other candidate go to the closet over there."

During a question and answer period, Mondale was asked about his father's plans to aid the elderly.

"First of all, my father will keep the integrity of Social Security," he said. "This is a bargain that should not be backed out on."

'He knows about your concerns. He has never forgotten that the true wealth of this country is not on Wall Street.'

— William Mondale

He said studies have shown that "Social Security as it is will survive... We have to protect it."

He said his father is concerned with keeping health care costs affordable. "We must cut out excesses," Mondale said. He said his father was dedicated to making sure "that the elderly are not terrorized by medical bills."

Mondale criticized President Reagan with, "We've got to get that guy out of there." Calling Reagan "the king of fluff," Mondale said, "We need a candidate who's not afraid to be himself. That's what my father is."

Mondale said his father will be "tough on trade." Countries that export goods to the United States will have "to open their doors to our products."

Mondale said his father had a plan to "raise taxes and cut spending, but he will not raise taxes where Reagan did it. He will go to places where people have been getting away with not paying their fair share."

Should his father be elected, Mondale said, "On Jan. 20, 1985, we will have a president with more experience than any man has had" in recent years. "He will know what he is doing."

Mondale discussed the financial shape of his father's campaign. The elder Mondale had been accused of accepting money from delegate committees. He later returned the money. His son said Mondale had followed "the spirit and letter" of laws regulating donations.

Despite the return of the money, "We're fine," he said. "There is no danger. Fund raising has been moving at a good pace. I don't think we'll get to the spending limit. We're not throwing money into the wind."

Mondale confided that the campaign trail "is running me ragged." He flew into Midland from Dallas Monday, attended receptions in Midland and Big Spring and planned to fly back to Dallas Monday night.

Lamesa selects mayor

By JIM BROWN
Staff Writer

LAMESA — Henry Johnson, newly elected District B representative and Lamesa's first black councilman, last night joined the expanded seven-man City Council in electing Don Bethel to a one-year term as mayor.

The seventh seat was created by extending the term of councilmen Bobby Payton, elected in 1981 for a three-year term, to 1986.

Nicky Smith was re-elected mayor pro tem. Bethel and Smith are at-large members of the council.

Bethel has served on the council for the past three years, and Smith has served six years, the last two as mayor pro tem.

When asked to comment on the new system of single-member districts, Bethel said, "It will be

Crooker, West boost primary expenditures

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

County Commissioner Bill Crooker and Justice of the Peace Bobby West, who previously had spent only a minimum amount on their primary campaigns, have each spent more than $1,000 within the last month before the primaries, according to candidate expenditure reports filed with the county clerk's office.

All proposed candidates must file campaign expenditure reports with the clerk's office seven days before the election. In addition, the candidates must file reports seven days after the election; they already filed reports 30 days before the election.

Filing deadline for the reports, which cover the period between March 25 and April 25, was 5 p.m. Monday.

Crooker, Precinct 3 commissioner and three-term Republican, has spent about $1,150 since his last expenditure report, making his total expenditures about $1,450.

West, who serves as Justice of the Peace Precinct 1, Place 1, has spent a total of $1,460 in his reelection bid, including $1,258 in the last month.

But two of West's five challengers, Robert Stapp and Doyle Lamb, outpace expenditures in all local races. Stapp spent about $991 in the last filing period, bringing his total to about $3,500.

His opponent, Lamb, has spent about $4,273 in his election bid, including about $1,073 in the last month.

Most candidates' expenditures have paid for local radio and newspaper advertising, billboards and specialty advertising items, like cards, pens, and matches, campaign expenditure reports show.

Other campaign expenditures, for the reporting period and then the total, by peace justice candidates are: Paul Silva, $78, $527; and China Long, $1,262, $1,810. Don Brooks reported no additional expenditures, leaving his total at $328.

Minority candidates gain respect

By DR. DAVID HILL
Texas Poll Director

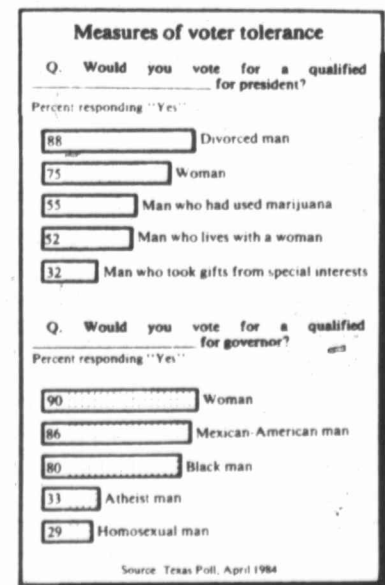

Texans by margins of more than 6 to 1 say they would vote for qualified Mexican-American or black candidates for governor, a Texas Poll released Sunday indicates.

The Texas Poll, a telephone survey of 1,008 Texas residents, also surveyed Texans' attitudes about hypothetical candidates with other traditional political liabilities: homosexuality, atheism, divorce, cohabitation, marijuana use and gifts from special interests.

The poll found that 86 percent of the respondents said they would vote for a qualified Mexican-American man for governor. Eighty percent said they would vote for a qualified black man.

Nationally, a 1983 Gallup Poll found that 77 percent of the respondents would vote for a qualified black man for president. Gallup does not yet ask Americans whether they would vote for a Hispanic.

Among the Texas Poll's respondents, 6 percent said they would not vote for a Hispanic for governor; 10 percent wouldn't vote for a black.

Only one black or Hispanic has been considered a serious contender for statewide office in modern times: U.S. Rep. Henry Gonzales of San Antonio ran a distant second in the 1958 gubernatorial primary. The highest offices achieved by Texas minorities have been in the state Senate and U.S. House.

The Texas Poll's findings suggest that a qualified minority candidate could do well in a statewide race.

Texans are also favorably disposed toward the prospect of a woman governor, but more of them balk at the idea of voting for a woman for president, the poll found. More than 90 percent of the respondents would vote for a woman for governor; 75 percent would vote for a woman for president. Gallup found that 80 percent of its respondents in a 1983 nationwide said they would vote for a qualified woman for president.

A qualified Mexican-American gubernatorial candidate would draw the overwhelming support of Hispanics, and a large amount of support from blacks and Anglos. Among the poll's Hispanic respondents, 91 percent would vote for a Mexican-American for governor. Among blacks, the figure was 85 percent; among Anglos, 86 percent.

Similarly, black candidates would fare well among their own race, but they wouldn't do as well among Anglos as would a Mexican-American. Almost 91 percent of the black respondents would vote for a qualified black for governor, but only about 80 percent of the Anglo respondents and 73 percent of the Hispanic respondents would.

Although support for both minorities was broad-based, conservatives were less likely to vote for them. Among conservatives, 70 percent said they would vote for a black; 76 percent for a Mexican-American. Among liberals, 83 percent said they would vote for a black, 87 percent for a Mexican-American. Among moderates, 78 percent said they would vote for a black, 90 percent for a Mexican-American.

Generally, the younger the respondents, the more likely they were to vote for a minority candidate.

New design debuts today

The Big Spring Herald today unveils a new six-column format for both news and advertising, including classified advertising.

The six-column format conforms to standard advertising units adopted nationwide, according to advertising manager Thad Byars. The classified design is special to this newspaper. It incorporates a six-column format with larger typeface than the Herald has been using, and bigger, bolder headlines to distinguish classified sections, he said.

The changeover will put advertising widths more in-line with a wider column design the news department has been using, managing editor John Rice said. Research has shown that wider columns are easier to read, with less eye fatigue and greater comprehension, he said, and the format reduces the number of hyphenations and awkward spacing.

Rain returns to forecast

By The Associated Press

A few showers and thunder-showers dotted sections of East and South Texas before dawn today.

Most of the shower activity was near a warm front which extended across the southern tip of the state from near Laredo to the coastal bend to just off the upper Texas coast.

Another area of thunderstorms straddled the Texas-Louisiana border in far East Texas. Low clouds covered most of Central and South Texas, while mostly clear skies were the rule over the northern half of the state.

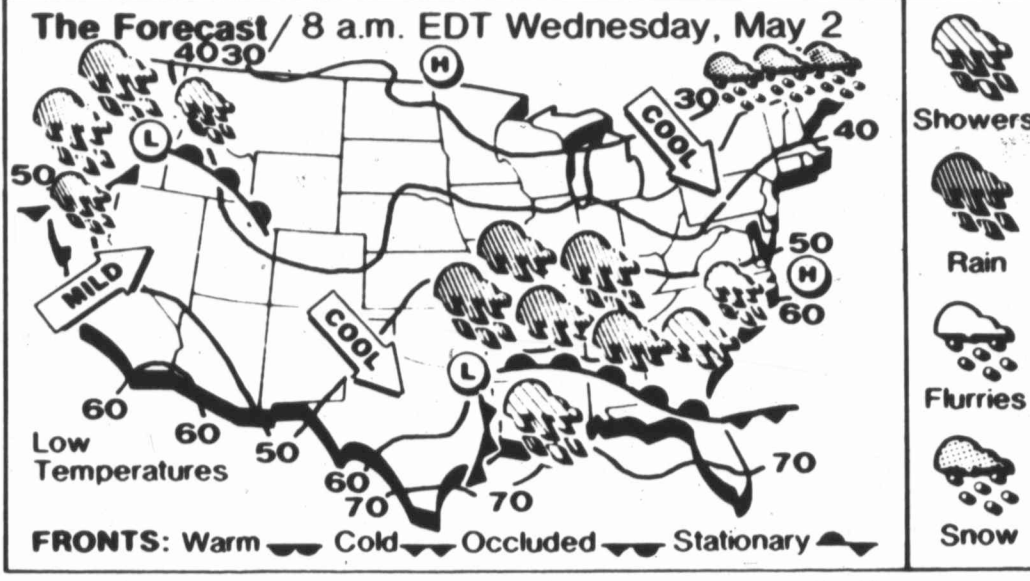

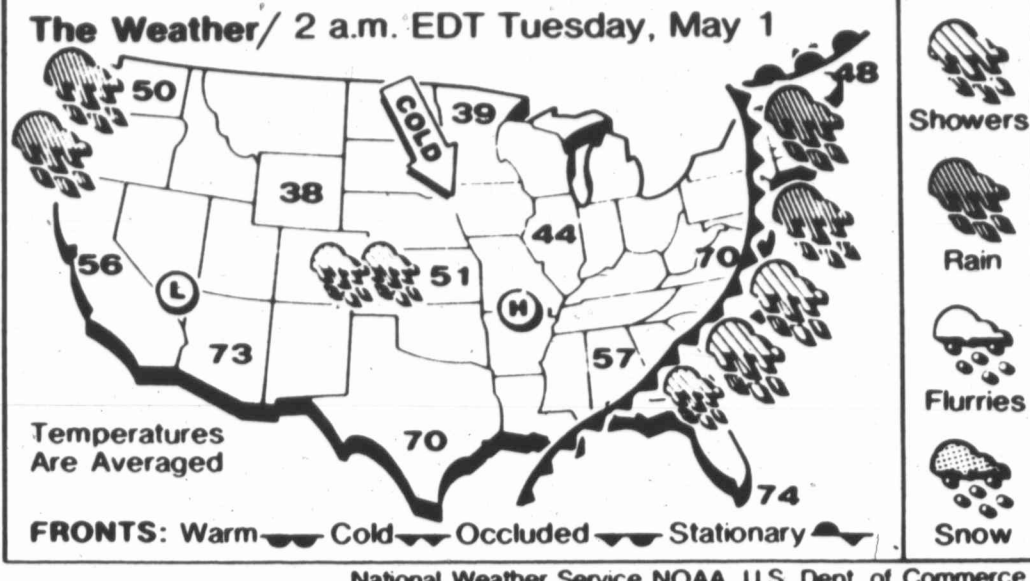

Pre-dawn temperatures were generally in the 40s and 50s across the northern half of Texas, while readings in the 60s and 70s dominated the south. Temperatures at 4 a.m. ranged from 39 at Marfa to 75 to McAllen.

Winds were mostly from the east and southeast at five to 15 mph.

The forecast called for the shower activity to spread across North Texas and continue over South Texas through tonight. Scattered showers also were possible tonight over northern sections of West Texas. A few showers were expected to linger early Wednesday in eastern sections of the state.

State board slates hearings

The State Board of Education is holding 56 public hearings across the state to receive input on public education in Texas.

Board member Jewell Harris will host the District 17 meeting May 17 in Big Spring in the board meeting room at Big Spring High School from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Hearings will focus on school finance recommendations under consideration by the state board, other major education issues and recent recommendations adopted by the Select Committee on Public Education.

The State Board of Education is required by Section 11.26 of the Texas Education Code to report to the Legislature all activities and expenditures of the Central Education Agency and to make recommendations for the biennial budget. The information presented in the budget request includes all public education programs such as teachers salaries, equalization, transportation and categorical program support.

Board chairman Joe Kelly Butler of Houston said the elected board is requesting input from the people of Texas to use in making these recommendations to the Legislature.

Lamesa

Bethel said, "I've not had any negative comment on the new districting system."

Joining Johnson on the new council were KPET announcer Bobby Gonzalez and Adcock Gin owner Terry Adcock. Both were elected in the new single member districts.

Johnson's District B is 60 percent minority. Adcock's District A has the smallest minority population with only 15.1 percent, and Gonzalez's District C has a 58.9 minority population.

The new council must deal with shrinking revenue and the possibility of the local economy being damaged by a continuing drought.

City Manager Paul Feazelle said although city sales tax receipts had fallen for the past 18 months, he is optimistic about the future.

"This year's budget was planned around a continuing drop in the city sales tax receipts," he said.

In other action, the council authorized the mayor and city secretary to issue five-year warrants to the Lamesa National Bank for $306,000 at 8 percent per year interest. The money will be used to purchase new maintenance equipment and install a new 4,000 square-foot maintenance facility.

Feazelle said the city will repay the money out of projected revenue sharing funds.

Dors undergoes surgery

WINDSOR, England — Actress Diana Dors, who had two cancerous tumors removed in the last two years, has undergone major abdominal surgery for an undisclosed ailment, a hospital official said.

Miss Dors, 52, was suffering from stomach pains when she was taken over the weekend to Princess Margaret Hospital in this town 25 miles west of London, said a hospital official asking not to be identified. Miss Dors was operated on Monday night, the official said.

"A large intestinal blockage has been relieved and an abscess drained," the official said, adding it was "too early to tell" whether the problem was cancer-related.

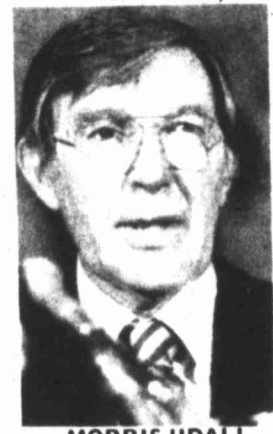

"Miss Dors is making a good recovery and is comfortable," the official said.

She was expected to be hospitalized for some time, and her husband, actor Alan Lake, was at her bedside, the official said.

The actress had a small cancerous tumor removed last year. And the previous year, doctors removed another tumor during surgery for an ovarian cyst.

Udall gets Adams award

WASHINGTON — Calling Rep. Morris K. Udall "Mr. Conservation, lion of the wilderness," the Wilderness Society gave the Democrat from Arizona its Ansel Adams Conservation Award.

MORRIS UDALL

Udall, who received the honor Monday night, is chairman of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee. He was cited for writing environmental legislation such as the Alaska Lands Act of 1980, and was credited with helping organize the National Wilderness Preservation System.

Adams "knew Mo, he loved Mo, he even lobbied Mo," said William A. Turnage, executive director of the society. A noted nature photographer and conservationist, Adams died April 22. He "intended to come to Washington for the presentation. Nearing the end, he asked me to tell Mo to 'carry on,'" Turnage said.

Royal arrested for DWI

WARNER ROBINS, Ga. — Singer Billy Joe Royal, best known for his 1960s hit single "Down in the Boondocks," was arrested on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol.

Results of a breath test showed Royal, 44, had .12 percent alcohol in his bloodstream, according to a ticket issued by Cpl. P. M. Hood of the Georgia State Patrol.

A blood-alcohol content of .06 percent is sufficient for a drunken driving charge under Georgia law if other evidence of intoxication is present. Royal was stopped by Hood about 3:08 a.m. Sunday because of a burned out headlight in the car he was driving near Centerville, the ticket said.

Authorities said Royal apparently had just left a night club where he performed Saturday night. The singer was released on $1,000 bond and told to answer the charges in court May 30, authorities said.

MINISTER'S CAR — Officials examine a car belonging to the Columbian Justice Minister Rodrigo Bonilla, who was assassinated Monday. The attackers were later killed.

Colombia's justice minister assassinated by guerrillas

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Colombia's justice minister, who had received threats for spearheading a major anti-drug crackdown, was killed by a volley of bullets when gunmen ambushed his limousine. The government responded today by declaring a nationwide state of siege.

Security police said Rodrigo Lara Bonilla was struck by seven bullets fired by two men on a motorcycle and others in a car which had blocked the path of his limousine Monday night on an avenue in northern Bogota.

Although leftist guerrillas had launched a series of attacks over the past two days, killing three policemen, it was believed Lara Bonilla, 39, was assassinated because of his campaign against illegal drug traffickers.

The nationwide state of siege was announced early today by Minister of Government Alfonso Gomez following an emergency Cabinet meeting. Gomez cited the assassination and the general escalation of violence as reasons for the action.

Four departments in southwest Colombia where guerrillas have been active already were under a state of siege, which enables security forces to make arrests without warrants and empowers officials to suspend the right of public assembly.

Bodyguards accompanying Lara Bonilla engaged the killers in a gunfight, and officials of the Administrative Security Police said one of the men on the motorcycle was killed and the other was wounded and captured.

Caracol radio station identified the captured suspect as Bayron Velasquez, 20, and quoted police sources as saying he told detectives he was paid $20,000 to kill Lara Bonilla.

Security police said the chauffeur-driven Mercedes, carrying Lara Bonilla and two bodyguards, was en route to the minister's home with a trailing jeep carrying four other guards when it had to slow because of a car blocking part of the two-lane Boyaca Avenue.

As it came to a halt, an undetermined number of men in or near the blocking car and the two men on the passing motorcycle opened fire, riddling the limousine, police said. Lara Bonilla was struck three times in the head and four times in the chest and throat, and one of his bodyguards was seriously wounded.

The chauffeur drove to a nearby clinic where the minister was pronounced dead.

The other assassins jumped in the car and managed to escape despite pursuit from the guards in the jeep, police said.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — President Reagan, ending his six-day trip to China, says he and leaders of the world's largest communist nation "found that we could agree on a great many things" and that relations between the two nations are now "on a new plateau."

Speaking with reporters on board Air Force One before he landed on American soil, the president said, "I feel very good about this. I really believe we've reached a new level of understanding."

Before returning to Washington Wednesday night, the president will hold a 30-minute meeting here with Pope John Paul II as the pontiff begins an 11-day tour of the Pacific.

Polish protesters beaten

WARSAW — Riot police beat protesters with truncheons outside Lech Walesa's home today and used water cannons and tear gas elsewhere as thousands of pro-Solidarity demonstrators joined May Day rallies in at least three Polish cities.

The crowds were protesting the Communist government's suppression of Solidarity, which Walesa founded. The only independent workers' movement in a Soviet-bloc country, it was outlawed in December 1981 with the martial law crackdown.

Dallas busing reduced

DALLAS — More than 3,900 elementary school children will return to neighborhood schools next fall following a federal judge's order scaling back forced busing in the Dallas Independent School District by 35 percent.

U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders on Monday also issued a mandate that the district implement smaller classes and special learning programs for students in mostly black south Dallas, where all busing in elementary grades will stop.

Sanders said the shift in emphasis from busing to remedial education for minority students is a "creative approach" that has been "sanctioned by the Supreme Court" and "endorsed by black educators."

Dallas superintendent Linus Wright was elated by Sanders' order.

"We are delighted the judge saw it our way," Wright said, noting that it was the school district that first proposed the increased focus on remedial efforts.

It was the third shooting in three days involving a DPS patrolman.

Austin police ended the confrontation in the admission office at the hospital.

2nd place enough for hats off to HC

In Howard College baseball, No. 2 is No. 1. Saturday's shutout of defending Region V runnerup Ranger Junior College cinched a playoff berth for Howard at state playoffs May 10-13 in Abilene.

The top two teams in each of three regions of Texas go to the playoffs, from which a state champion will emerge. The state victor, in turn, earns a shot at a national title later. As second best in this region, Howard College earns a spot in those games, and will carry the Big Spring banner to statewide competition.

That's quite an accomplishment for a junior college which reinstated its baseball program only two years ago after a two decade layoff. It says much for the pool of talent from which a school like Howard can draw, and speaks well for coach Bill Griffin.

Winning baseball teams are those which have strength in every area of play, and Griffin noted as much in passing around the kudos Saturday: "We got good pitching, had some timely hits and played our best defensive game of the season."

We hope that balanced strength holds for Howard College in May, where they'll be facing last year's eventual national champion, McLennan College of Waco. Howard College is zero for six this season against the McLennan superpower. But Howard has beaten McLennan once in the last two years. Who knows, maybe they can again.

High finance

As you may have read in the newspapers, Argentina was bailed out of a serious debt situation last month. It was advanced money by friends so it could pay interest on its enormous debt.

While this was not big news, the fact that Mexico and Brazil came to the rescue caused a few raised eyebrows because they owe more money than Argentina does. How does a country that is broke itself borrow money to bail out another country that is also bankrupt?

It's all done with mirrors. The Finance Minister of Brazil goes to a consortium of American and European banks and says, "We want to borrow $50 million."

"But," protests the consortium, "you are into us for billions already. How can we loan you any more money?"

"This money isn't for us. It's to give to Argentina so it can pay interest on its debt."

"Why would you want to give money to Argentina when you can't pay back what you owe us?"

"Because Argentina is our friend, and Latin Americans always help each other."

"That isn't a very good excuse for giving you $50 million."

"All right then, I'll tell you another reason why you should do it. If you don't loan us the money to give to Argentina, she will be in default on all her loans and then the American and European banks will be stuck for the money."

"We're prepared to take the loss," the consortium says.

"Wait, there's more. If Argentina goes into default, then Brazil won't feel obliged to repay her loans. Are you prepared for that?"

"You're blackmailing us for $50 million."

"It is more than 50. The Finance Minister from Mexico is outside, and he's going to ask you for $100 million to loan to Argentina."

"But Mexico's broke too."

"Who isn't? If you people want to stay in the international banking business, you're going to have to continue loaning money to countries who want to bail out the one whose interest is due at that moment. Look, I'm not asking you to give me $50 million in a satchel. The money doesn't have to leave your banks. It will be purely a paper transaction. You take the 50 million that you're loaning Brazil, and you just credit it to Argentina's account. Then you deduct the 50 million against Argentina's interest, and you have it again to loan to somebody else."

"Does the United States government know what you're doing?"

"They put us up to it. They were afraid if they bailed out Argentina by themselves it would set a precedent. So they got Mexico, Brazil, Venezuela and Colombia to go along with the deal. Everyone looks good. The U.S. doesn't have to resolve the problem unilaterally, and if we can loan money to another country it shows we're not the deadbeats everyone thinks we are. And the consortium can carry Argentina for another six months on their books as a good customer."

"Suppose we give you the money? What happens when the interest payments on Brazil's loans are due?"

The Finance Minister of Brazil smiles. "Then it will be Argentina's turn to borrow the money from you to loan to us."

God makes the difference

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: How can I make sure God will stay with me throughout the day? It seems like I let things get me down so easily, and I don't think they would if God was with me. — P.Y.

DEAR P.Y.: Yes, you are right — it would make a great difference in your life if God were with you every day and you knew it. God's presence would be an encouragement to you because you know you would not be alone. He also would help you by giving you strength and wisdom as you turn to him each day.

And you can have God with you every day by coming to know him personally through Jesus Christ. You see, the Bible teaches us that we are separated from God because we have turned our backs on him and sinned against him. Our greatest need is to have our sins forgiven and our relationship with God restored. Is that possible? Yes! It is possible because God loves us, and he has provided the way for us. His only Son, Jesus Christ, died on the cross so we could be forgiven of our sins, and by faith and trust in him.

Proposal would cut VA benefits

WASHINGTON — In a move that can only be described as unrealistic in an election year, the non-partisan Congressional Budget Office is recommending that millions of veterans be denied care in hospitals and nursing homes operated by the Veterans Administration.

The proposal would cut $3.3 billion a year from the VA's budget. It would dump most of the vets, who are now treated in the agency's 172 hospitals and 100 nursing homes, on the already overburdened Medicare and Medicaid systems. Many of the veterans would have to turn to private or community services for institutional care.

My associate Indy Badhwar has seen a copy of the hush-hush draft report. Here are the main proposals:

— "No VA-supported hospital or nursing home care would be available to veterans without service-connected disabilities unless they were unable to defray the costs of their care." Most VA hospital and nursing home care is for non-service-connected injuries or illnesses, though priority is given to veterans who were disabled as the result of their military service.

— Even help for poor vets and for those with service-connected disabilities could require reimbursement. The amount would be determined by "means tests" of the veteran's ability to pay. "The test of poverty might be based on... benefits such as veterans pensions or food stamps or income and assets," the draft reports suggest.

— A "co-payment" procedure would be started immediately. "Deductibles charged for any hospital stay up to 60 days in length would be set at $365..." A short hospital stay, 99 days or less, would cost a veteran $100 a month if he has $1,000 in annual income above the VA pension level of about $6,980.

— As for the priority patients with service-connected disabilities, the draft recommends that "eligibility could be tightened even further" by eliminating coverage for vets who are deemed to be less than 50 percent disabled.

The most severe impact of the proposed cutoffs would be on older veterans who have no service-connected condition but who need long-term care. A significant number of these World War I and World War II veterans would no longer be eligible for VA medical care.

Aggravating the situation for these old-timers would be the fact that 41 percent of them have no private health insurance. This means they'd have to rely on Medicare — the Social Security Administration's health program for the elderly.

Unfortunately, Medicare is designed for the treatment of acute medical disorders and is inadequate for long-term care. So, many elderly VA patients would have to turn to Medicaid, which provides long-term care for the indigent.

But Medicaid, which is financed mostly by the states, is already in difficulty because of the Reagan administration's cutbacks in federal aid.

James Roosevelt, chairman of the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, himself a World War II veteran and son of the president who signed the Social Security Act, pointed out that Medicare and Medicaid are already stretched to the limit.

In a moment of candor, the Budget Office's draft report admits that the annual savings would actually be less than half of the projected $3.3 billion, since about 55 percent of the VA's savings would simply be shifted as costs to Medicare and Medicaid.

In Costa Rica, he had a brief interview with Gen. Gustavo Alvarez Martinez, the former chief of the Honduran armed forces who was abruptly arrested and shipped into exile by the Honduran government. Alvarez was whisked off by Costa Rican security agents before he could say much, but he winked and said, "I may see you in Washington," and hinted that he might "tell a lot more" about his years behind the scenes in Honduras.

Hance looks at issues the West Texas way

To the editor: As I was reading Sunday's Big Spring Herald, I was disappointed to find editorial support for Bob Krueger in the race for the U.S. Senate. I was also surprised as I feel that the majority of West Texans have supported the work of Kent Hance in the Congress and support his candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

I know Martin County does as over 130 supporters contributed over $6,400 to a fund raiser we recently had for Kent in Martin County. And that is during a drought year. I doubt that Bob Krueger has done as well in Howard County. I just can't believe that Martin County and Howard County differ that much politically.

As I read your editorial page, I was appalled to discover that the editorial was actually a letter to the editor from Mr. D.A. Brazel. I had followed the political ranting and raving between Mr. Brazel and Mr. Gilstrap for a time. But they both have become so ridiculous I just ignore any letter written by either.

Kent and Carol Hance are personal friends of our family. I have followed Kent's political career very closely for the last 10 years. His accomplishments are too numerous to be mentioned in this letter so here are just a few:

- Hance legislation cut income taxes you pay by 25 percent over three years.
- Hance legislation won tax cuts to help stimulate economic expansion; voted against more than $400 million in wasteful spending; fought for a balanced budget amendment.

Hance has always been a fighter for the family farm — both as a member of the House Agricultural Committee and the Ways and Means Committee. He successfully pushed through changes in the tax code to reduce crippling estate (inheritance) taxes.

Kent looks at the issues the way most West Texans do, regardless of political party. Most of us in Martin County agree with him and are supporting him. I invite Howard County to join us in sending someone to the U.S. Senate who will work for Texas and for good government — let's send Kent Hance.

By CAROL HART BALDWIN

Only in West Texas

I like to hear people talk about their impressions of West Texas. People who move here from other areas are bound to suffer culture shock.

Like any region of the country this area has its own customs, its own weather, its own dialect and attitudes. What natives never bat an eye at is a whole new ballgame for others.

My husband and I drove to San Angelo this weekend to attend a 10-kilometer race in conjunction with the Rocky Mountain Oyster Fry. If you think Rocky Mountain Oysters are similar to the kind you find in the ocean with pearls in them you are wrong. Have somebody else explain it to you, though. I'm not going to try.

My husband grew up in Boston but has adapted admirably to West Texas. But the Rocky Mountain Oyster Fry was new to him. He was thinking that real oysters (the kind with pearls in them) would be served and was very disappointed to find out what really was on the menu.

I'll admit it's hard to adapt to West Texas weather. It can be hot one minute, cold the next, windy for an afternoon then suddenly calm. You can live here 50 years and still be shocked by the weather.

Someone told me that a group of people came to Big Spring from San Antonio last week in the middle of a raging dust storm. These poor foreigners were stunned by all the blowing dust and were ready to call off a banquet and hurry off to greener pastures because they were afraid of the dark skies and gritty atmosphere.

Once you've lived through a few dust storms you lose your fear. I figure I saw my first one when I was five months old and I've seen hundreds since then. I can't say you ever start looking forward to them, though. Every culture has its drawbacks.

I like to hear people's opinions on accents. Some people love the West Texas sound and some people hate it.

A friend from Tennessee told me she was surprised we didn't sound like Hollywood tries to make us sound. She was expecting a real heavy drawl and said we really didn't talk that differently.

Two other West Texas standouts are tumbleweeds and rattlesnakes. I don't have much use for either.

A friend from the east used a tumbleweed for a Christmas tree last year. It was a novel idea but I've spent too much time dodging tumbleweeds on the road to want one in my living room. Still tumbleweeds do have a romantic image created in movies about the old West.

Rattlesnakes are a novelty I don't brag about. People come here from other areas and ooh and aah over rattlesnakes. I would never eat a plate of fried rattlesnake meat even though other natives tell me it's delicious. They are welcome to eat my share.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Tower: Budget looks rosy

COLUMBIA, Texas (AP) — Sen. John Tower Monday predicted passage of President Reagan's "Rose Garden Budget," a three-year plan to cut federal deficits by some $140 billion.

In a speech released by his office and delivered by the senator Monday at a financial management seminar, Tower, R-Texas, said that Reagan's budget faces a critical vote next week, but he expects that it will pass, despite opposition and a number of alternative plans.

Tower said the "Rose Garden Budget" will cut domestic spending by $40 billion; raise taxes by $45 billion, and cut defense spending from Reagan's 1985 request by $56 billion in budget authority and $40 billion in outlays. This will provide a total savings, he said, of $140 billion.

"It will not be easy," said Tower, "but I believe that Congress will act responsibly in controlling our current and future deficits."

Tower, who is not seeking reelection, said that if Reagan is re-elected he expects the president to "move quickly to enact a more far-reaching deficit reduction plan."

Features of this plan, said the senator, could include a reform of entitlement programs, and an expansion of the tax base. The tax plan, he said, would include a lowering of marginal rates to produce an increase in revenues.

"There are also a number of proposals in Congress that would shift the tax burden towards consumption and away from savings," he said in the prepared remarks.

Tower said that the success of Reagan's economic recovery program has surprised many.

In the last five quarters, he said, the nation's economy has shown a gross national product increase of 8.3 percent; the addition of 5.1 million jobs, and, in March, the 16th consecutive month of rise in industrial production.

"Over the longer run, the most important characteristic of the recovery has been its relatively non-inflationary nature," said Tower.

MANY HATS — Taylor County Sheriff Ralph Sweet is touring the state, talking to residents about crime prevention in state-supported program.

Sweet success

Sheriff takes crime prevention seriously

TAYLOR (AP) — Some people might be inclined to do a double-take when they see the crime prevention officer for the Williamson County Sheriff's Department.

It seems like every time you see him, Ralph Sweet is successfully pursuing a new career.

His field now is crime prevention. And he is serious about it, just as he has been serious about all those other professions that have kept him in the limelight for years.

Now Sweet is visiting schools throughout the county to further the Ident-A-Child program, which is being partially funded by Gov. Mark White's office.

Sweet is an advocate of crime prevention programs. He believes his work among the youth of the county may help them realize what crime, drug abuse and alcohol can do in destroying their futures.

He is also alerting parents to the need for supervision and for close relationship with their children.

One way Sweet is reaching the youngsters is by actually showing them what the inside of a jail is like. They get a look at the process after arrest, and observe breathalyzer testing and video-taping.

Despite his close association with criminals, Sweet is optimistic. He sees a turn in the tide and says that youngsters are more and more willing to be themselves instead of just clones of their peers; that the "in-ness" of drugs and alcohol seems to be on the wane.

If some of Sweet's friends are a little startled to see him in his brown sheriff's deputy uniform, it is because he has worn so many other suits or "hats" in his lifetime.

A native Texan, Sweet grew up and graduated from high school in Wichita Falls where his father was the minister of a large Church of Christ.

After his college and seminary work, Sweet also became a Church of Christ minister, leaving the pastorate after 12 years to involve himself in other careers, but retaining his deep religious faith.

He farmed in Oklahoma until the poor soil refused to produce crops. He served in the Navy for three years and was on two Jims for a while. He studied Bible and Greek in an Arkansas college.

He started a religious book retail store. It wasn't much at first. In its first year it grossed only $75,000. When he sold it three years ago, the Sweet Publishing Company was grossing $10 million a year.

A pilot, Sweet has done missionary work, most notably flying supplies into Guatemala after the damaging earthquake that devastated that country only a few years ago.

Guard to report pot fields

AUSTIN (AP) — Under an agreement announced Monday, Texas National Guard pilots on routine training missions will begin to report to law enforcement officers when they spot illicit marijuana fields.

"This agreement permits the Guard pilots to gather drug-related intelligence information and provide it to DPS narcotics investigators," said Col. Jim Adams, director of the Department of Public Safety.

Authorities said that Texas — due to its good climate, vast size and many remote areas — is an ideal place for illegally growing marijuana.

Although much of the marijuana used in the United States is smuggled into the country, about 15 percent now is grown domestically, said Larry Todd, a DPS spokesman.

"It's a significant, increasing problem. We're taking it very seriously," Todd said.

"In remote areas, especially where there's a lot of forest or vegetation, it's very, very difficult to locate these marijuana fields from the ground," he added.

The shooting came after a Hudson Bend Volunteer Fire Department emergency medical unit answered a call to aid an unconscious person. When they arrived, they were confronted by a man armed with a machete and a pistol, Wells said.

DPS defends shooting man

AUSTIN (AP) — A Texas Department of Public Safety trooper "had no choice but to fire" in a weekend incident that left one man dead, authorities say.

A preliminary investigation indicates that the trooper, Sgt. Charles Seale, "took the proper action," said DPS official David Wells.

According to Wells, the shooting occurred Saturday night after William Alfred Johnson, 32, of Hudson Bend, threatened family members with a machete, ransacked his mother's house and then fired at the trooper with a pistol.

Johnson died after being shot in the upper chest with a shotgun. Wells said Seale, 35, was not injured. Seale, a nine-year DPS veteran, is stationed in Austin and patrols northwestern Travis County, Wells said.

DPS troopers and Travis County sheriff's deputies were called. Wells said, and Seale's unit, which was the first on the scene, arrived about 9:45 p.m.

Dear Abby

Quest for birth parents

DEAR READERS: "Curious in Florida," the parents of three adopted children, asked me to poll my readers to find out what to expect if their adopted children decided to search for their biological parents.

Today, a sample letter with a happy ending:
DEAR ABBY: Being an adopted child, I yearned to know about my "roots," but I didn't want to hurt my adoptive parents, so I waited until after I was married to start my search.

Three months later, I flew to a small Midwestern town and walked into a Dairy Queen where my mother was working behind the counter. I knew immediately that she was my mother. She looked at me and something told her that I was the daughter she hadn't seen since I was 5 days old. We were both overcome with emotion. Her boss sent her home and we talked until 5 a.m. She's been divorced twice, has three other children and seven stepchildren. She's had a hard life.

I'm glad I satisfied my curiosity. I'm also glad she had the courage to give me up. It made me appreciate my adoptive parents all the more.

GLAD I SEARCHED

Tomorrow: Letters with less than happy endings. Stay tuned.

Klondike High's Shirley Kountz speaks to Home Ec. teachers

Shirley Kountz, Home Economics teacher at Klondike High School in Lamesa, recently addressed 7,000 Home Economics teachers of Texas at the State meeting of the Future Homemakers of Texas in San Antonio.

In her topic, "Teachers, You Make the Difference," she presented classroom methods and techniques to make the Home Economics curriculum more relevant to student needs and concerns.

In addition to her classroom teaching, Mrs. Kountz is serving as one of five national consultants with the National Organization of Future Homemakers of America, Washington. She works with Home Economics teachers and students throughout the country. She has taught college credit courses in seven states and held workshops in many others.

In a recent interview while speaking in Florida, Mrs. Kountz described her work as consultant as challenging and rewarding. However, she expressed her first love and most important part of her career is her classroom, working with students on a day-to-day basis.

When asked what she thinks is the most important aim in education, she responded, "To help each individual student learn how to recognize they have potential and give them tools for developing that potential to the fullest, thus making themselves happy, productive citizens."

The most rewarding facet of education, according to Mrs. Kountz, is hearing from past students and seeing that your courses had a direct impact in helping young people become happy, successful people in America's future.

She was asked what she believed to be the biggest problem in education today. She said she felt believed the biggest problems were the lack of support from parents when teachers discipline their children and the impact politics plays in dictating policies, often more interested in pleasing prominent people instead of keeping the student's best interests in the forefront.

Mrs. Kountz is completing her 21st year in the classroom and her seventh year as national consultant. When asked what had kept her in education so long, she replied, "I love to work with young people. If I ever leave the classroom, it will not be because of my kids." Mrs. Kountz is the wife of Van Kountz, an elementary principal at Klondike. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Covie Williams of Ackerly.

Psoriasis not contagious

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I need some information about psoriasis, which is what I have on my elbows. Are the elbows common places to have it? Is psoriasis contagious? And can it be spread to other body areas? What actually causes it? Is there information available on it? — Mrs. L.C.D.

I think you'll find out most of what you want to learn about psoriasis from the National Psoriasis Foundation, so let me give you their address: The National Psoriasis Foundation, Suite 200, 6415 Southwest Canyon Ct., Portland, Ore. 97221.

But to answer your specific questions, no, psoriasis is not contagious. Yes, it can appear in other body areas, but you don't spread it yourself. I mean you don't transfer it from your elbows, knees and scalp, but it can crop up in other areas as well. It is believed to be inherited, a problem of abnormal multiplication of skin cells at the affected sites. You will find many new treatment techniques now that were not available a few decades ago.

Parents urged to mourn fetal deaths

Each year about 600,000 American babies are lost to miscarriage, stillbirth or neonatal death, and often the response from well-meaning friends and even doctors is, "It's all for the best."

This glossing over of the infant's death is frequently not the best advice for grieving parents, says an article in a recent Reader's Digest. Many groups have formed to counsel newly bereaved parents, groups formed by parents who have experienced the loss themselves. One is A.M.E.N.D. (Aiding Mothers Experiencing Neonatal Death). Counselors undergo training sessions run by professional psychotherapists before they begin to work with mothers.

To find out about such a group near you, or to help start one, contact A.M.E.N.D., c/o Maureen Connelly, 4324 Berrywick Terrace, St. Louis, Mo. 63128.

Host families sought for exchange program

More than 100 host families are being sought in Northern Texas and Arkansas willing to host French teenagers in a cultural exchange program from July 1-28.

The program is sponsored by Nace Cultural Exchanges, a non-profit organization which annually sponsors two programs. The Summer Discovery Program for American teenagers provides 13-18 year olds the opportunity to spend four weeks with a family in France. The Summer Hosting Program offers American Families the opportunity to share their home while allowing a French teenager to experience the American way of life.

French teens will come to the United States for a four week visit in Texas and Arkansas. Host families are needed for boy ages 13-18 and girls ages 15-18. The students are selected from English classes in France and have been studying English for many years; therefore, host families do not need to be able to speak French. Students are individually matched to families.

Participation in the program involves sharing the family's home with a teenager from July 1-28. Host families are responsible for welcoming the teenager as a member of the family and having the teen share in the everyday activities. The program provides comprehensive medical, accident and liability insurance. Individual participants bring their spending money.

Teenagers of Texas and Arkansas host families will have the opportunity to live with a family in France the following summer if they meet the qualifications and wish to do so.

The Nace organization has approval of the French government, is part of the U.S. Presidential Initiative, and is supported by French teachers in the United States and English teachers in France.

Families interested in participating in the program may write to Nace coordinator, Sue Kimbro, 2105 Wood St., Texarkana, Texas 75501, or phone (214) 794-8273.

Working out at the YMCA

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

In this generation where the trend is to look good and be physically fit, people all over the world are going on health kicks trying to get their bodies to look spectacular. The better you look, the better you feel about yourself is what the health critics say.

Two months ago this overweight and grouchy sports writer started a health kick of his own. It seemed the only logical thing to do when I started to swear at my computer and was down to only three pair of pants that would fit around my very round waist.

I started by taking a membership at the local YMCA, working out on the weights, Natulaus, (when females were around) and playing pickup basketball games with the youngsters on Saturday morning.

This was a good start for a old man with two washed up knees. But then came the invitation that would get me out of bed bright and early and work wonders for these lungs that smoke 10 cancer sticks per day — playing basketball at 6:30 a.m. at the "Y".

I must admit I was shocked at first. Who in their right minds would get up that early to shoot hoops three times a week?

Just by checking out the players present at my first appearance, I figured, "Piece of cake, I'll have these dudes begging me to quit scoring on them."

Boy was I wrong! I quickly found out that these gentlemen take the game seriously, and play quite well. In fact in the end it was myself that was begging them to quit running up and down the floor so much. I was very grateful when the game ended so I could go call Earl. In laymen's terms that means last night's supper came back up.

Some of these players are top-notch hoopsters from all walks of life. If you want to see lawyers, school teachers, council men, sales representatives, etc... get down and dirty on the court, diving for loose balls and sprinting full speed downcourt to stop a fastbreak, stop by the "Y" and tell me these guys don't take the game seriously.

There is an abundance of good post players and forwards, led by elderstatesman Ben, a former college player. He is a holy terror under the basket and is the most fundamentally sound player of all. I knew he was trouble on the first day when I stole the ball from him, sped downcourt for what looked like a sure breakaway, only to have Ben steal the ball back from me.

Then there is Big Mike and Little Mike, two bangers underneath. Little Mike is not your typical little man, a former collegiate tight end and lacrosse player standing 6-3, 220. I call him little because Big Mike stands about two inches taller.

For a big man Little Mike loves to push the ball up and down the court while Big Mike is just about unstoppable when he gets the ball down low.

Then there is Robert who was coached by Ben while he was growing up. What makes it so bad it that he plays almost like Ben. He will eat you up inside.

Sam is probably the smallest forward, standing about 5-9, but his quickness makes up for his lack of height. Then there is "Killer Victor" and "Sneaky Scott". Victor is hustling all the time, a good rebounder. He is known as killer for his aggressive style of play.

You have to watch Scott because he loves to pick off halfcourt passes and snowbird the opposing defense, now you know why I call him sneaky.

Russ or sometimes known as "Mr. Official" because of his great eyesight is probably the purest shooter of all the guards. Get him open and it's bombs away. Joey is the most stylish of the guards. He is one of the very few players I know that has a jump shot for every occasion. He seems to shoot better when people are all over him.

Don is a hard-working guard, who doesn't care about scoring, hits the boards well and looks for the open man. He also leads YMCA Early League in letting loose with obscenities.

Last but not least is Drew, all 5-6 of him, and that's stretching it. Nothing puts fear in his heart. He will drive the lane, get knocked on his fanny, challenge you the next time down, and score on you.

As for myself, I still can't play very well. But I'm in a lot better shape and I feel better in the mornings. All I can say is thanks fellows for helping me pay the price in trying to be physically fit.

West Brook's Durley dies of lung cancer

BEAUMONT, Texa (AP) — Alexander Durley, a football coach credited with pulling white and black communities together by leading West Brook High School to a state championship the year after a desegregation order created the school, has died of lung cancer.

Durley died Monday at Beaumont's St. Elizabeth High School. He had been hospitalized since April 19. His funeral is tentatively set for 1 p.m. Saturday at East Mount Olive Baptist Church.

"He was the catalyst that brought this school together and made it a community," West Brook principal Jerry Mallett said.

West Brook was created in 1982 as part of U.S. District Judge Robert Parker's order desegregating the former South Park Independent School District, now united with the Beaumont school district. The order fused chiefly white Forest Park High school and mostly black Hebert High School.

Durley had been coach at Hebert since 1975. His team won a state 3-A football championship in 1976. Forest Park, by contrast, had a mediocre football tradition.

"No one else could have done what he did," Mallett said.

STEINKUHLER NEW OILER — Nebraska blue chip offensive lineman Dean Steinkuhler holds up his new Houston Oilers jersey with Oilers general manager Ladd Herzog at a press conference Monday announcing Steinkuhler's signing.

Nebraska pair is 1-2 in NFL's draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Irving Fryar, the fleet Nebraska wide receiver already signed by New England, was officially named by the Patriots today as the first player chosen in the National Football League's college draft.

The Houston Oilers then followed by ratifying their selection of Fryar's Nebraska teammate, offensive guard Dean Steinkuhler, who they signed on Monday.

It was the first time since 1967, when Bubba Smith and Clinton Jones of Michigan State were picked 1-2, that the first two players chosen were from the same college.

Fryar was present and promptly walked to the rostrum wearing a red Patriots jersey with No. 28 where he posed for pictures with NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and New England owner Billy Sullivan.

The No. 1 choice originally belonged to Cincinnati as a result of last year's trade with Tampa Bay for quarterback Jack Thompson. However, New England acquired the choice from the Bengals for two first-round picks — Nos. 16 and 20 over-all.

Houston's choice of Steinkuhler was greeted with jeers from the gallery who had hoped the New York Giants would get him.

The draft was left somewhat depleted by the defection of several top choices to the United States Football League, including another Nebraska player, Heisman Trophy-winning tailback Mike Rozier, and Steve Young of Brigham Young, considered the top quarterback.

The 12-round draft was scheduled to be completed in one day. Teams had 15 minutes to make their selections in each of the first two rounds and five minutes in each succeeding round.

Greg Stovall and Kathy Cochran were awarded high point honors from rodeo coach Dusty Johnson and Stovall also garnered the Hawk Cowboy award as best all-around performer.

Draft

When someone said to Fryar that there was no suspense since his signing had been announced last week, the fleet wingback replied, "No suspense? How come I didn't sleep last night?"

He called his selection "a dream come true," adding, "I always wanted to play in the NFL. A lot of guys are going to the USFL, so the NFL wanted to keep good athletes in its draft."

The New York Giants then selected Michigan State outside linebacker Carl Banks, a position where they need little help. However, they may move him inside to fill the hole left by the trade of veteran Brian Kelley to San Diego.

The Philadelphia Eagles, as expected, tapped Kenny Jackson, Penn State's first All-American wide receiver and the school record-holder for reception yards and touchdown catches.

The Kansas City Chiefs, looking for defensive help, took Bill Maas, a rugged defensive tackle from the University of Pittsburgh who starred in the Senior Bowl.

The Chiefs then traded veteran defensive back Gary Green to the Los Angeles Rams in exchange for first-and fifth-round choices in this year's draft. The trade gave Kansas City a second pick in the first round, No. 21 overall.

The San Diego Chargers, picking sixth, took Mossy Cade, a cornerback from the University of Texas, who intercepted six passes last season and broke up 18 others.

The Bengals quickly followed by choosing Arizona linebacker Ricky Hunley, considered the best player in the school's history. Hunley was in on 566 tackles during his career.

The Colts took Leonard Coleman, a cornerback from Vanderbilt, the school record-holder for interceptions in a game, season and career. He led the nation's cornerbacks with eight interceptions in 1982.

The Atlanta Falcons, seeking to shore up a defense that was weak against the run, picked defensive tackle Rick Bryan of Oklahoma, the Big Eight Defensive Player of the Year. Bryan is especially tough against the run and is considered Oklahoma's top defensive player since Lee Roy Selmon.

The New York Jets brought cheers from the gallery when they selected defensive back Russell Carter from Southern Methodist. Carter made a smooth transition from cornerback to free safety in his senior year, but was listed by the Jets as a cornerback. He twice led the Southwest Conference in interceptions and was the SWC's Defensive Player of the Year in 1983.

The Jets, who lost starting cornerback Jerry Holmes to the USFL, had been seeking help in the secondary.

Seven of the first 10 picks were defensive players.

The first round had been moving right along until the No. 11 pick, which belonged to Chicago. The Bears used almost 12 minutes before choosing Florida linebacker Wilber Marshall, whose agent has been seeking a $1 million-a-year contract. As a result, the Houston Oilers, who had negotiated with Marshall, declined to draft him. Marshall also has an offer on the table from the Tampa Bay Bandits of the USFL.

The Green Bay Packers took even longer than the Bears. They used 12 minutes and six seconds before choosing 6-foot-6 defensive end Alphonso Carreker of Florida State, who has the tools to be a good pass-rusher.

While the Buffalo Bills were deliberating as the opening round reached the midway point, the Eagles announced that they had signed Jackson.

DOUBLE PLAY — New York Yankees' shortstop Tim Foli fires a throw to first base to complete a double play after forcing Chicago White Sox Scott Fletcher out at second base during Monday action in Chicago. The White Sox defeated the Yankees, 5-3.

A Big Spring WINNER!

Johnny Rutherford
Owner, Dolphin Pools

If you ever start to feel a little pessimistic about Big Spring's future, just talk to Johnny Rutherford. He believes all things are possible for Big Spring, including a clean city, restoration of the Municipal Auditorium, and revitalization of downtown, just to name a few. But Johnny doesn't just talk, he ACTS. He's enrolled in "Leadership — Big Spring," a Chamber-supported voluntary study course on city government, schools, etc. He created the new CLEAN, a Youth Corps that aims to clean up our city while giving young people jobs. One of Johnny's tenets is that the average citizen WANTS to be involved. Johnny grew up in Big Spring and lived in larger cities 10 years before returning home. "Big Spring has more pluses than minuses," he believes. "I see a real trend of people moving back here. To rediscover their roots. I came back to try to make a difference."

THE WINNER — is always part of the answer.
THE LOSER — is always part of the problem.

Appeals Court hopefuls battle anonymity

Harte-Hanks News Service
The Court of Criminal Appeals represents the last chance for a criminal defendant in Texas. If the trial was unfair, or the conviction in error, the last place in Texas to discover it is the criminal appeals court.

my day," Kitzman said when a reporter told him about those ballot positions.

Clinton, a five-year court veteran, discounts such factors, however. "These are all games people are playing," he says. "We need to attribute to voters some sense of informed voting."

Clinton won the State Bar poll with 66.5 percent of the attorneys' votes compared with Kitzman's 23.5 percent. Yet Clinton is not certain he will win the election. "Voters are unpredictable," he says.

Kitzman, a former district attorney, claims Clinton is pro defense to the detriment of the victims and taxpayers and overturns convictions on technicalities. "I am concerned with the overall question of whether a fair trial has been had," Kitzman said.

But Clinton says the term "technicality" is "a buzz word" that has no meaning in the law. He says Kitzman "ignores the obvious fact that opinions of the court written by any judge are approved by all or at least a majority of the court."

Appellate experience is the primary qualification for the job, Clinton says. "I've been at it five years plus and he hasn't."

The Democratic primary winner will face Republican Virgil Mulanax of Gilmer in the November general election. Mulanax is a state district judge.

cumbent W.C. "Bill" Davis isn't a hard worker.

Davis, who has held various judicial positions for the last 30 years, bristles at the allegation.

"I work as hard as any judge on that court. He's just trying to make something. I don't like him saying that," Davis says.

Davis led the State Bar poll, garnering 45.5 percent of the vote compared with Greenwood's 32.1 percent. Former Dallas family law judge George Martinez won 13.8 percent while Angleton lawyer Buddy Stevens trailed with 8.6 percent.

Greenwood, a former administrator for the court, says the main issues in this race are lack of leadership on the court and delays in turning out opinions. Davis contends judicial qualifications are the only issue.

Martinez feels the appeals court tends to muddle rather than clarify the law with its opinions. "I want it brought to the court more clarity," he says. "The opinions need to be written in more straight-forward language."

"We need to get away from technical, procedural things and deal more with substantive issues," he says.

Stevens, a former assistant prosecuting attorney and administrative assistant to the appeals court, says the issue is whether the appellate court should legislate law.

zGerald, has a five-point program for improvement. A major plank details how to change the way cases are assigned so opinions can be delivered faster.

Walter Boyd, a Houston defense attorney, says the court needs to back away from its "procedural nitpicking."

Thomas Thorpe, a Dallas district judge, says advocacy should be reduced so "we call the balls and strikes exactly the way they are."

Bill White, former Bexar County district attorney, expects to benefit at least a little from some misplaced name identification with Gov. Mark White.

He claims the court reverses too many convictions for minor technical blemishes that really don't violate constitutional rights. Criminals are turned loose because of them, he said.

But William Phillips, a Harker Heights defense attorney and former prosecutor, claims "those technicalities may be your Bill of Rights."

"I don't want someone deciding my Constitutional issue if he already has made up his mind he is not going to follow the Constitution," Phillips says.

George Ellis, who already sits on an intermediate appeals court in Houston, leans more toward the defense although he tries to keep an open mind.

Primary Countdown 1984

But unlike in other statewide races, these battles for 6-year terms typically draw little voter attention and scant campaign contributions for advertising and travel. Many candidates are relying on newspaper articles and editorial and other endorsements to draw attention to their names on May 5.

Two other factors involved in the voting are ballot position, which varies county to county, and name recognition, which is assigned differing importance by the candidates - depending on whether they have it or not.

Place 1

The historic name - Sam Houston - is the biggest obstacle District Judge Oliver Kitzman of Brookshire foresees in beating incumbent Judge Sam Houston Clinton in their bid for the Democratic nomination, Kitzman said.

But Kitzman's name is above Clinton's on ballots in three populous counties - Harris, Dallas and Tarrant. "You've brightened

Place Two

Another incumbent judge is taking on three challengers in the Democratic primary. This race for the Place 2 Democratic nomination is tantamount to the general election since no Republicans are competing.

Perhaps the most biting charge leveled so far is Austin attorney Roy Greenwood's claim that in-

Place 3

The retirement of Judge Wendell Odom Sr. has drawn seven candidates for the Place 3 spot. Again, since there are no Republicans, the Democratic primary is as good as the general election.

But a run-off is assured by the number of contenders, candidates agree.
