How's that? Poisonings

Q. Is it against the law to poison a cat? If so, what is the punishment for such an act?

A. According to Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard, someone who intentionally kills, injures, abandons or poisons a cat belonging to another person is committing a misdemeanor.

Standard used as his basis the Texas Criminal Law code of criminal procedure, Sec. 42.11, which deals with cruelty to animals.

Standard said it must be taken into consideration whether or not the act was inhumane and without the consent of the owner. In some cases, such as with veterinarians dealing with sick animals, animals are put to sleep. But a person who poisons a cat maliciously may face a fine.

DA candidates divide on role

RICK HAMBY

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Incumbent District Attorney Rick Hamby, using strong and colorful language, defended his philosophy of prosecution and criticized those who would ask that "I not follow the rules" of law.

Hamby, who is seeking reelection to a third term of office, and his challenger, current County Attorney Bob Miller, spoke in a "debate" before the Big Spring Rotary Club Tuesday.

Hamby warned the audience of the "winds of Satan" that could break down West Texas' protection from a police state. Asked later who he was referring to, Hamby said he was citing "history and common sense."

Miller later said he thought the reference was to himself and to the city police department. "Hitler and Satan," Miller said. "He implied I was the winds of Satan. ... That's a little strong."

Hamby said, "If a prosecutor permits overzealous vigilante action to dictate his actions, the walls will collapse and the winds of Satan will lash across the West Texas plains and there will be no place for the innocent to hide," Hamby said.

Hamby's comments followed Miller's speech in which Miller said, referring to technicalities such as faulty wording in indictments, "I will not be a part of this type of system. I, as prosecutor, am willing to go for non-reversals on technicalities."

Miller said he wanted to bring leadership and credibility to the DA's office. "As your next DA," the current county attorney said, "It is my goal to bring the same type of leadership and professionalism to that office."

Hamby defended his record by saying, "My opponent has talked about technicalities as though I look for virtually any technicality, for an excuse not to take a case. That's the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard. ... We don't look for technicalities, we look for justice."

Hamby cited a case he tried which had a technical problem but which resulted in a guilty verdict. The case was appealed but eventually the conviction was upheld by the Supreme Court, he said.

Earlier in his speech, Hamby said of his philosophy, "If you think the innocent don't have something to fear, you better think again, because I have seen these winds. ... I've seen the devil that makes them

Bell rate increase gets OK

By JANET WARREN
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. won $816.7 million of its $1.7 billion rate request Tuesday, which would boost residential bills across the state by 30 cents a month.

Chopping a little from the hearing examiners' $854.8 million recommendation, Public Utility Commission Chairman Al Erwin said he hoped the ruling would make Bell "not too thin to sustain itself but not so fat that it takes more than its share."

While the case has dragged on for about 10 months, Tuesday's ruling may not be the end of the matter. Bell should decide within two weeks whether to appeal, Harris said.

In Big Spring, the rate as approved by the Public Utility Commission calls for a 30-cent increase from $8.05 to $8.35 a month.

Business rates are not available.

TAKING A BREATH — Democratic presidential candidate Gary Hart closes his eyes for a few moments after arriving in Fort Worth Tuesday night. Hart is slated to debate Walter Mondale and Jesse Jackson Wednesday.

Demo debate slated tonight in Fort Worth

DALLAS (AP) — The eyes of Texas are on three Democratic presidential candidates who are vying for the state's 200 national convention delegates as they face off tonight in a one-hour televised debate.

Debate telecast at 8 p.m. on channel 5

Former Vice President Walter Mondale, Sen. Gary Hart and the Rev. Jesse Jackson meet in the fourth League of Women Voters debate, to be held at 8 p.m. at the Amfac Hotel at the DallasFort Worth Airport.

The debate will be broadcast statewide by PBS and will be moderated by Sander Vanocur of ABC-TV.

It's believed to be the first time that presidential candidates have debated in the Dallas area. In 1980, Republicans Ronald Reagan and George Bush took part in the League of Women Voters debate in Houston shortly before the Texas primary.

Ellen Dudley, a League spokeswoman, said the format of the Democratic debate includes opening statements by each of the candidates, segments on domestic and foreign policy and closing statements.

She said the candidates will be asked to respond to each other's statements, but they will not pose questions to each other.

Mondale, Hart and Jackson hope the debate will boost their campaigns as they head into the final days before Texas Democrats vote for delegates in Saturday night's precinct caucuses. On Tuesday, Texans completed absentee voting

Chemical in water exceeds state limits

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

A chemical compound contained in water supplied by the city of Big Spring exceeds established State Health Department limits, according to information released today by the city Public Works Department.

The compound, trihalomethane, has been "implicated as being a carcinogen," according to a State Health Department official, but the city information sheet said there is "no cause for alarm" by Big Spring residents.

City water has been found to contain on a yearly average 261 parts per billion (ppb) of the compound, Health Department official Charles Maddox said this morning. The department's limit for the chemical is 100 ppb, he said.

According to Maddox, the department standard was developed as a result of federal Environmental Protection Agency studies done with rats that found a "slight probability" of cancer exists if "approximately two liters of water a day are ingested over a (human) lifespan."

The compound appears in city water as a result of the chlorination process used to disinfect the water, Maddox said. Chlorine combines with chemicals that appear naturally in the water to create the trihalomethane, he said.

"Public Health Officials see no cause for alarm ... The effects of trihalomethanes are still the subject of many studies and much debate ... (Officials) are also of the opinion that the benefits of chlorination still far outweigh the adverse effects that might result from the chlorination process," the Public Works release said.

The city says it "has an ongoing engineering study to determine the most cost-effective and efficient method to reduce" the chemical's presence.

According to Maddox, the city is studying a process whereby forming of the suspect compound can be interrupted by the introduction of ammonia into city water.

Chlorine reacts with the ammonia, making it "unavailable to combine with" the offending organic materials, he said.

He said the ammonia process has long been used in cities such as Dallas, Austin and Corpus Christi, whose water was found to be in compliance with the trihalomethane standard.

The 100 ppb limit on the chemical was instituted starting Jan. 1 of this year after a year of tests of water all over the state, he said.

Interest growing in GOP primary

By DR. DAVID HILL
Texas Poll Director

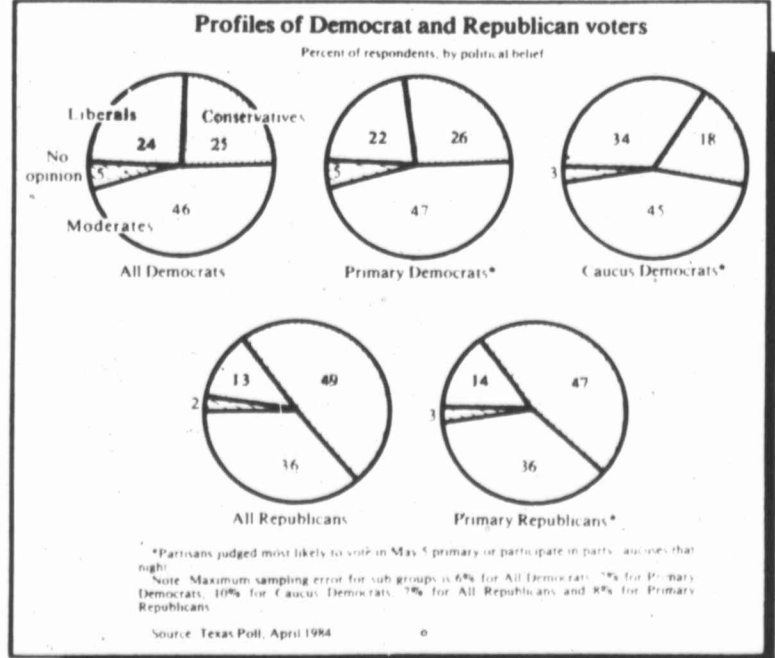

A record percentage of Texas voters will cast ballots in the Republican primary on May 5, according to a Texas Poll released Sunday.

The Texas Poll, a survey of 1,008 Texans taken between March 24 and April 7, found that 33 percent of the respondents said they were more likely to vote in this year's Republican primary than in the Democratic primary. Another 48 percent are more likely to vote in the Democratic primary; the rest didn't express a preference.

The chairmen of the state's two major political parties both like the idea of a higher turnout in the GOP primary.

"It'd be a nice present on May 6," Republican Chairman George Strake said. "It's also a pretty strong message to the Democrats that they don't like the three candidates that now control the party: Hart, Mondale and Jackson."

Democratic Chairman Bob Slagle had a very different reason. "I think it's fine for them to be fighting themselves for a change," that in the Republican primary. This year, more people appear likely to vote in the GOP primary for three reasons:

- Republicans are running for more offices than ever before. Almost 600 Republicans are on the ballot in 451 races this year.
- An influx of new residents and a change in party identification of some longtime residents means that more Texans now consider themselves Republicans. In 1964, for example, a similar statewide poll conducted by Belden Associates of Dallas found that 8 percent of the respondents considered themselves Republicans. The Texas Poll's figure this year is 26 percent.
- As would be expected, that increase has hurt the Democratic Party's strength. In 1964, 65 percent of the respondents told pollsters that they were Democrats. This year, 37 percent gave the same answer.

Presidential candidates are not included on the Democratic primary ballot this year. More people vote when presidential candidates are on the ballot.

Over 700 absentee votes cast

More than 170 persons voted absentee Tuesday in the Saturday primary elections, bringing the total to 671 Democratic and 99 Republican ballots at the 5 p.m. deadline, according to the county clerk's office.

On the last day of absentee voting, 150 Democrats and 21 Republicans cast ballots at the clerk's office, County Clerk Margaret Ray said.

In addition, 37 Democratic ballots mailed out ballots and 32 Republican mail ballots may be returned before the 7 p.m. Saturday deadline, for a potential total of 708 Democratic and 131 Republican absentee ballots, Mrs. Ray said.

In 1980, the year of the last presidential primaries, 646 Democratic and 154 Republican ballots were cast absentee, she said.

Rain covers most of U.S.

By the Associated Press
The wet spring of 1984 plagued the nation today from Utah, where the Great Salt Lake was rising toward its highest level on record, to Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley, where more strong thunderstorms were predicted.

While temperatures were in the 70s early today along the Gulf Coast, the mercury hovered near the freezing mark in much of Michigan, where 80,000 people remained without electricity after high winds felled power lines Monday.

A severe thunderstorm watch was in effect from southern Arkansas across northeastern Texas and southeastern Oklahoma, in the wake of strong thunderstorms that produced winds up to 70 mph Tuesday night near Paris, Texas.

A tornado swept through the small town of Matador, Texas, on Tuesday night, destroying the local high school and at least 30 homes and businesses, injuring an elderly woman and cutting electricity and telephone service, the state Department of Public Safety said.

At least three people were injured when strong thunderstorm winds flipped a mobile home near the Dallas suburb of Garland, police said.

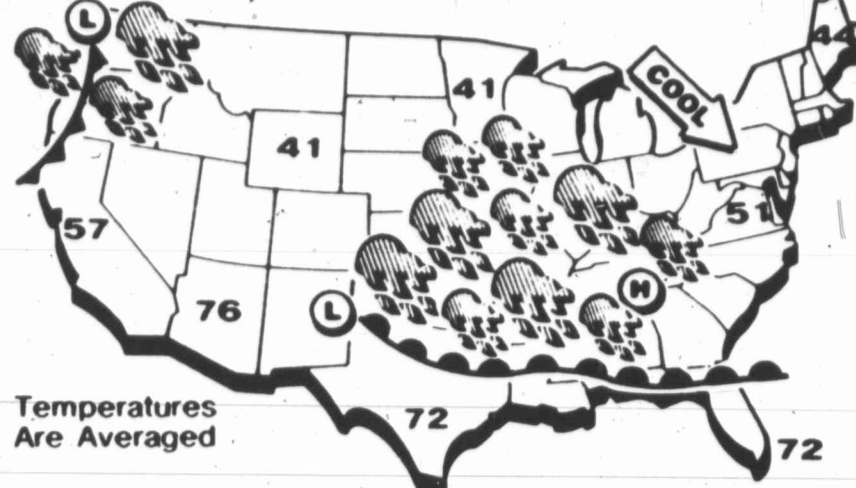

Another tornado was reported in southeastern Oklahoma near Boswell, while a thunderstorm felled trees and produced large hail.

Bell

However, a Bell spokesman estimated that most business customers will see a 70- to 90-cent increase in the current monthly rate of $18.85.

These rates include charges for one phone line. They do not include rates for instrument rental, touch-tone, custom calling and other special phone services.

In Stanton, the residential charge is going from $7.85 to $8.15 a month, while the business charge is likely to increase 70 to 90 cents above the current monthly charge of $18.40.

Last October, Bell officials requested a rate of $16.65 a month for residential customers in Big Spring and $16.45 in Stanton. That rate included a $2 "access charge" to replace losses in long-distance revenue, which Bell said had been subsidizing local service.

For business customers, the company request was $35.40 a month in Big Spring and $35.15 in Stanton. That rate included a $5.10 access charge.

Harris predicted that most of the rates would take effect by mid-May. Bell's area long-distance rates and those of independent telephone companies such as General Telephone Co. of the Southwest will climb 10 percent under the commission decision.

for the primary.

Texas will send the third largest delegation to the Democratic National Convention. The state has 200 delegates at stake, 154 elected through the caucus system and the remainder party and elected officials.

Mondale arrived in Dallas Tuesday night and was to make several appearances today before the debate. He was to stop at L.B. Houston Park on the Elm Fork of the Trinity River to talk about the environment. Through his four-day Texas visit, Mondale will stump for votes in Austin, Waco, Houston, Corpus Christi, Laredo and Donna.

Hart and his Fort Worth supporters celebrated Tuesday night at a western-style party and rally in west Fort Worth. He'll be in Dallas today for a reception and two speeches before the debate. He winds up his Texas tour in San Antonio Thursday morning.

After the debate, Jackson planned to visit Tyler, McAllen, and San Antonio on Thursday. He will be in Beaumont and Galveston on Friday.

Although the three Democratic presidential contenders have crossed Texas blasting President Reagan before the caucuses, the Reagan-Bush re-election committee is working hard to get Republicans to the polls.

Linden Kettlewell, executive director of Reagan-Bush '84 in Texas, said the campaign hopes to offset some of the media attention centered on the Democrats by having several prominent Republicans campaign for Reagan in Texas.

One of the high-ranking Republicans to visit the Lone Star state is Vice President Geogre Bush, who will give the commencement address at Texas A&M University on Saturday. Afterwards, he will attend a Cinco de Mayo celebration in his hometown, Houston, where he will cast his primary ballot.

blow," Hamby said.

He said that none of the three sheriffs in his district told him, "I wish Rick Hamby wouldn't follow the rules." Absent from the list was Big Spring Police Chief Rick Turner, who — according to Miller — is privately supporting Miller's candidacy. Hamby said in an earlier interview that he and Turner do not get along because of a personality conflict.

Miller, in his opening statement praised local law enforcement agencies, including sheriff's deputies. However, Sheriff A.N. Standard, like the Martin and Glasscock County sheriffs, endorses Hamby in an ad last week.

"We have excellent law enforcement agencies," Miller said. "The citizens of this community and the state of Texas demand crime be prosecuted. Working together we can bring the reversals (in appellate courts) down," Miller said.

In the question-and-answer session of the debate, Miller said he took exception to implications that he would not be "hampered by technicalities" if elected.

"The picture has been painted a little wrongly in the sense that I don't support the Constitution, because I do," Miller said. He said his remarks about technicalities referred to requiring the defense attorney to make motions to suppress evidence from searches and allowing the judge to rule in those cases.

Culp wins Lamesa ISD seat

LAMESA — Incumbent school board member Ronnie Culp has won the Lamesa Independent School District runoff yesterday defeating Jerry Harris.

Culp received 494 votes to Harris' 322 votes to win one of two contested positions.

Culp, and another new board member, Cora Brown, were elected under an at-large system that was challenged by the Southwest Voter Registration Project. The group charges that the at-large election system is discriminatory against Hispanics.

Lamesa ISD business manager Claude Estes said that, "the suit has not been settled, but under our current at-large system two out of seven board member are of minority groups."

Miller also said he wanted to keep the campaign on a purely professional level and not descend to personal attacks.

"I tried to keep the debate limited to statistics" and to performance in office, Miller said. "He can dig through (statistics kept in the county clerk's office) like I'm digging through his records."

Allen gets settlement

NEW YORK — Woody Allen, whose many roles include comedian, writer, actor and director, has reached a partial settlement to stop Phil Boroff from playing the role of Woody Allen.

WOODY ALLEN

Under the agreement approved Tuesday by U.S. District Judge Constance Baker Motley, advertisements featuring Boroff will be labeled clearly with his own name or "celebrity look-alike."

Allen, however, will continue to seek $10 million in damages and a ban on anymore look-alike advertising.

The suit stems from magazine ads by National Video Inc. of Portland, Ore., in which Boroff is photographed holding cassettes of Allen's films. The aim is to assure no one is misled into believing Allen endorsed a product advertised by Boroff, said Allen attorney Jacob Laufer.

National Video agreed to recall all the disputed ads for its movie rental chain and turn over the negatives to Allen's lawyers.

Boroff also promised not to be photographed with cassettes of Allen's movies, or to pose with anyone who looks like an Allen friend.

Allen, 48, was at the federal courthouse in Manhattan in the event he should be needed as a witness, but never came into the courtroom.

Boroff said he never has met Allen, but that he is "thankful that I look like someone I admire."

Prince likes the press

LONDON — Prince Philip, the husband of Queen Elizabeth II, says that despite having once drenched reporters with a garden hose, his reputation for not being fond of the press is undeserved.

Philip, 62, spoke Tuesday at the 250th anniversary dinner of Lloyd's List, which describes itself as the world's oldest international daily newspaper.

"For someone who has, in my opinion at least, a wholly undeserved reputation for disliking press photographers, and whose family is not unknown to be the subject of comment by journalists, to be invited to dinner by the oldest international daily newspaper in the world is balm to the soul," he said.

The prince, who drenched photographers with a garden hose at a London flower show in 1959, was speaking two weeks after his son Prince Andrew, 24, created a furor by spraying American cameramen with white paint during a visit to Los Angeles.

Lloyd's Lists, which is published by Lloyd's of London insurers, concentrates on shipping insurance news.

"The fact that Lloyd's List does not, as far as I know, indulge in a gossip column, does not employ photographers with long lenses, nor does it stray very far from maritime affairs, does nothing to spoil my appreciation," Philip said.

Miss America cautious

MOUNT KISCO, N.Y. — Vanessa Williams, whose reign as Miss America ends Sept. 17, says she wants to get on with her life, but will take things one step at a time.

The 21-year-old beauty queen from Millwood, N.Y., says one thing she doesn't want to do is "endorse everything and get burned out."

Miss Williams said in a series of interviews being broadcast on WVIP radio that she is looking forward to a career as an entertainer.

Speaking about pressure facing young people today, Miss Williams said, "It was a lot easier 20, 30 years ago when all a girl had to do was go to high school, go to college and find a husband and that was it. A guy just had to work hard and get the rewards."

But now, she said, "There are so many avenues, so many opportunities that it can get confusing."

MATADOR TORNADO — Holly Hobbs, 18-year-old senior at Motley County High, examines the remains of her high school building after a tornado ripped through the small town late Tuesday. Although the high school and 30 homes were leveled, only one person was injured.

Twister hits Matador

MATADOR, Texas (AP) — Work crews today were clearing roads and attempting to restore electricity and telephone service to this small Northwest Texas town after a tornado injured one person and destroyed a high school and about 30 homes, authorities said.

Department of Public Safety trooper Dudley Steed said the twister came down in the Motley County seat of 1,052 residents about 8:45 p.m. Tuesday, cutting a path of damage about 1.4 miles wide and a mile long.

The Matador high school was heavily damaged, along with about 30 homes, Steed said.

Addie Murphy, in her 80s, was in listed in satisfactory condition today at Central Plains Regional Hospital in Plainview, authorities said. Rescue workers found Mrs. Murphy under a table in the wreckage of her home.

Betty Stephens, a volunteer dispatcher at the sheriff's office in Matador, said she was in the basement of her home when the storm hit, just five minutes after the Matador Fire Department reported a tornado on the ground, approaching town.

The funnel hit the Stephens home, but Mrs. Stephens, her husband and 14-month-old baby escaped injury by going in the basement. She described a "roar like a train" that accompanied the twisting winds.

The National Weather Service said the tornado moved into Motley County from the west and was traveling to the southeast at speeds of about 25 miles per hour.

Sheriff's officers and DPS units from Paducah, Childress, Floydada, Tulia and Briscoe County were assisting at the scene, their work hampered by the power blackout.

Meanwhile, a line of heavy thunderstorms packing gusty winds and hail also moved across North and Northeast Texas late Tuesday. Other showers drenched sections of the Panhandle and South Plains, while scattered rains dampened South Texas.

High winds damaged a mobile home in the Dallas suburb of Garland and injured at least three people, authorities said. A 19-year-old woman and a 26-year-old man were taken to Garland Memorial Hospital, where they were admitted for treatment. A third was treated at the scene for minor injuries.

No tornadoes were reported in Garland but several businesses and homes suffered wind damage to roofs and awnings, police said.

The heaviest storm activity moved across portions of Northeast Texas covering Grayson, Collin, Fannin and Lamar counties.

President, Pope cross paths

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — President Reagan greeted Pope John Paul II in this inland Alaskan city this morning, saluting the pontiff's "quest for human rights and world peace."

The president and the pope, crossing paths here, were trying to cram discussions on arms control, Poland and East-West relations into a 20-minute airport conference.

"I can assure you, the American people seek to act as a force for peace in the world and to further the cause of human freedom and dignity," Reagan said in remarks prepared for the pontiff's arrival by chartered Alitalia jet, from Rome and bound for Seoul, South Korea.

Reagan, describing John Paul as "a minister of peace and love," turned to a theme he brought up repeatedly in the speeches he gave during his six-day trip to China.

He told the pope: "An appreciation for the unalienable rights of every human being is the very concept that gave birth to our nation."

"But no one knows better than your holiness that the quest for human rights and world peace is a difficult, often disheartening task," Reagan said.

The president said that "far more can be accomplished by the simple prayers of good people than by all the statesmen or armies of the world."

"Only when the fellowship of all men under the Fatherhood of God is recognized and acknowledged, only then will the world finally know true peace and understanding," he said.

Joyride turns into death

ALLEWELLYN, Pa. — Six people out for a joyride on terrain dotted with abandoned coal mines were believed dead today after rescuers pulled the body of a 25-year-old woman from a car wedged more than 70 feet down an abandoned shaft, authorities said.

Emergency crews working throughout the day with heavy equipment found Connie Bluis in a 4-wheel-drive Chevrolet Blazer that family members said three couples used Saturday for a trip on backwoods trails enjoyed by off-road enthusiasts.

Efforts to locate the other five people were scheduled to resume today.

Al Roman, the rescue coordinator, said a hole six to eight feet across had opened up in the isolated road many weeks ago, and hunters had placed two logs across the road as a warning.

The driver of the Blazer apparently drove over the logs and the road gave way around the hole, opening it to about 15 feet in diameter, he said.

Drug war in Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia — President Belisario Betancur, alarmed by the murder of a Cabinet minister who was battling Bolivia's cocaine industry, says the government is starting an all-out war today against drug traffickers.

Justice Minister Rodrigo Lara was killed Monday night in Bogota when two men on a motorcycle riddled his Mercedes Benz with submachine gun bullets.

In response, the government declared a nationwide state of siege which enables security forces to make arrest without warrants and allows the president to issue emergency decrees and appoint military governors.

"We are unleashing a war without quarter against the crooks that sow terror in cities, the countryside and towns," Betancur said Tuesday in an address televised nationwide.

He said he was declaring a state of siege so that "Colombia can recover its national dignity that has been trampled by drug traffickers, giving us a black image throughout the world...."

Senate tackles deficit

WASHINGTON — After a week of delay, the Republican-controlled Senate is sorting through a series of deficit-reduction plans to determine if it wants to go beyond the $144 billion election-year package President Reagan worked out with GOP leaders.

The strongest challenge to the three-year, Republican package was being mounted today with debate on a bipartisan plan for a one-year, across-the-board freeze on government spending to save about $45 billion next year.

The aim is to make a significant deficit-reduction quickly while the president and Congress work out a long-term strategy for eliminating red ink.

Under the plan Reagan backs, next year's projected deficit would be reduced about $26 billion, to about $180 billion.

Shooting evidence found

LONDON — The search of the abandoned Libyan Embassy continued today after police found loaded pistols and "proof" that a gunman fired from inside, backing witnesses' accounts of the shooting that led to an 11-day siege.

Commander William Huckleby, head of Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist branch, told a news conference Tuesday night that the discoveries refuted claims by Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy that Britain was responsible for the April 17 incident that triggered the siege.

Kudos for press in 'bubble' case

It was a well-kept non-secret. For 12 years, the "bubble boy" identified only as David was news on five continents. The Houston youth, born with an immune system deficiency, was kept alive his short life only by living in a germ-free environment, a "bubble" home.

By the time of his death in February, more than 200 reporters had had access to the story — and hence his family name — as they covered the it for every press media. But in all that time not one breached the agreement with the family that the name would be withheld.

Good journalists all, the reporters on the story realized the "news" was the boy and the attendant medical efforts to deal with his problem. Certainly there was need to reveal as much about David as was necessary to make clear that this was a real case, in a real city, with real doctors and a real family coping with a continuing crisis.

Early on, though, the family requested they not be identified, and media representatives knew that the family was certain to be deluged by curiosity seekers worldwide if the last name was published or broadcast. In this case, respecting the privacy of the family outweighed any public need to publish the name. It was Houston Post medical writer Mary Jane Schier who first wrote about David: "In terms of the medical story, the name was irrelevant," she told the Washington Journalism Review.

Gayle McNutt, director of communications at Baylor College of Medicine, said it took no special trick to keep the anonymity going. "When anyone tried to insist, I explained that I had given my word, that it would be a matter between the reporter and his conscience," the Review quoted him as saying. A former newspaperman himself, McNutt calls the 12 years of honor to a commitment as "a tribute to the caring and the integrity of reporters."

Failed policy

WASHINGTON — Foreign policy could be a hot issue in the presidential campaign. For one large failure and a number of costly bungles can be ascribed directly to Ronald Reagan's points of personal vulnerability — age and a loose grip on affairs.

But the Democrats are ill-equipped to exploit the opportunity. For to hit at Reagan on foreign policy is to divide the party along its worst fault line.

Nicaragua offers the most salient example of bungling by the administration. The mining of harbors was intrinsically difficult to keep secret. It was managed with such clumsiness that the American sponsorship of that action — and other actions, too — became known to the whole world.

To make matters worse, the Central Intelligence Agency garbled the briefing of the Congressional Oversight Committees. The CIA came relatively clean with the House Committee. But it played fast and loose with the senators. There is no surer way to forfeit cooperation on the Hill than to play one body off against the other. That is how it happens that two senators most keen to rehabilitate the CIA — Barry Goldwater, the Arizona Republican, and Pat Moynihan, the New York Democrat — have led the charge against the agency on Nicaragua.

Lebanon represents another awful botch by the administration. The existence of terrorist elements linked through Syria to the Ayatollah Khomeini in Iran has been a familiar ingredient of the Beirut scene since 1980. So the Marines were exposed from the minute they set foot on Lebanese soil.

For a time an Israeli military presence held the Syrians and their allies in check. The Israelis began pulling back unilaterally in the spring of 1983. Their moves were no secret. But the White House and the Pentagon, as well as the commanders on the spot, kept acting as though nothing had changed. They bear responsibility for the Marine massacre. And since the administration even refused to acknowledge the change in the balance of forces after the killing, it can also be blamed for the disorderly pullout which ensued.

Both of those particular fiascos are connected with a larger foreign policy failure — the failure to reach an accord on arms control with the Soviet Union. For in Nicaragua as in Lebanon, the administration asserted force and then backed down. Similarly in dealing with Russia, Reagan has been a rhetorical tiger. He has said nasty things about communism and tried to get others to invoke sanctions against Moscow. But he has not been prepared to take tough American measures — like the draft, or a grain embargo.

The Russians now suspect they are dealing with a windbag. So they elude with impunity the increasingly desperate moves by the administration to engage them in some agreement in arms control. Russian diplomatic officials these days give the impression that they think U.S.-Soviet relations are terrible — but that they're not worried. In other words, the Reagan administration has left Moscow with the impression that it has nothing to gain from dealing with the U.S. — and nothing to lose.

President Reagan's personal responsibility for these failures is easy to document. He is the foremost practitioner of tough talk and needless provocation. But he sustains a secretary of defense and a chairman of the Joint Chiefs who want no part of messy military actions — not even reprisals for the massacre of the Marines. He also, because of a general distaste for detail, stays remote from day-to-day foreign policy business. So the onus for weak coordination, which has State saying one thing, Defense another and the CIA a third, falls on his shoulders.

A vigorous Democratic candidate could hammer home these issues effectively. Fritz Mondale, who seems likely to win the nomination, is well-suited to that role. For he is associated with the labor unions, which have always led the way in advocating an activist foreign policy. He is himself so visibly intelligent, so used to the business of government, and so much the master of relevant detail, that he sets up a strongly advantageous contrast with Reagan.

Post office sends clear message

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Postal Service would like to charge its mistakes and inefficiencies to the people who use the mail. This could add another nickel to the cost of mailing a first-class letter.

The latest example of poor planning and worse execution is INTELPOST, The Postal Service's 1978 brainchild that has turned into a dismal, $6 million failure. By the end of 1983, INTELPOST had brought in gross revenues of less than $60,000 — and there is little hope that the costly toy will ever become a paying proposition.

My associates Donald Goldberg and Indy Badwar have been keeping close watch on the Postal Service. Here's what they've learned about the INTELPOST disaster.

The project was announced in 1978 by Postmaster General William Bolger as an experiment to test delivery of electronic messages overseas by satellite. It was supposed to give businesses and individuals a quick, cheap way to send letters abroad from five major cities: New York, Washington, Chicago, Houston and San Francisco.

INTELPOST is quick enough. But it is far from cheap. At a cost to the sender of $5 a page, customer reaction was predictable — to everyone but the Postal Service, that is. The resulting financial fiasco was described in a report by investigators for a House Government Operations subcommittee chaired by Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla.

To date, INTELPOST has been a complete failure in the market place," the reports states. "Through the end of 1983, cumulative Postal Service INTELPOST revenues were $58,000. No zeros have been omitted from this figure." Notwithstanding that market testing was underway for portions of this period, a service that generated so little revenue must be considered a failure by any measure of performance."

Since 1978, development, testing and operation of INTELPOST have cost $6,232,000. This means the system has taken in less than 1 percent of its cost. "There is little reason to believe that revenues will even come close to matching current expenditures in the near future, let alone recover past costs," the report warns.

The House investigators were particularly exasperated at the Postal Service's lack of the most elementary records. It couldn't even tell them the number of messages that had been set by INTELPOST. "The failure of the Postal Service to compile and maintain information on the number of INTELPOST messages is, to say the least, surprising," the investigators wrote. "Any manager would want to know the number of messages in order to be able to analyze the traffic on the system. ... The committee is mystified that the Postal Service has not routinely compiled and made use of this basic management information."

The investigators found that, over the years, there was little discussion of the costly boondoggle at meetings of the Postal Service's board of governors. Furthermore, "some of the information reported by Postmaster General Bolger in his presentation to the board was misleading," the report states. At a meeting two months ago, for example, the losses were understated by more than $1 million.

"The committee does not criticize the Postal Service solely because its approach to INTELPOST has failed," the report states. "The most serious aspect of the failure is the inability of the Postal Service to demonstrate competence in planning, implementing and marketing of electronic services in a competitive and unregulated environment."

The bottom line: The committee urges the board of governors to "terminate INTELPOST as soon as practicable."

UNDER THE DOME: One paradoxical reason Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., was well briefed on the CIA's Nicaraguan mining operation is that he missed two key briefings held for other members of the Senate intelligence committee. Instead, he got a personal briefing by the CIA. Unlike his colleagues at the group meetings, Leahy asked the CIA people specifically if they had participated in the mining. They said they had. At a CIA briefing, you have to ask the right questions; the spooks don't volunteer much of anything.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., chairman of the Agriculture Committee, has been asked to hold hearings on the enforcement of pesticide laws, particularly the many "emergency exemptions" that allow dangerous chemicals on the market. Helms may agree, in hopes of wooing environmentalists' votes in his tough reelection fight against Gov. James Hunt.

Hamby shows he's soft on drugs

To the editor: Our community is in desperate trouble when our present District Attorney Mr. Rick Hamby states that illegal drug use "is more of a cultural problem than a law enforcement problem". (Big Spring Herald, Sunday April 30, 1984).

To adopt this theory is to adopt the same theory with regard to any crime. There are those liberal thinkers who choose to blame everybody except the criminal for his misdeeds. I believe they call them "victims of society."

Illegal drug use leads to crime by the users and very frequently "small" users sell drugs to their classmates and friends to finance their own usage. The greatest cause of crimes is drug use.

If our present DA doesn't think the courts should be utilized to prosecute drug related cases then he advocates non-prosecution of DWI or manslaughter by a drunk driver because alcohol abuse is the biggest "social or cultural" problem this country has, followed by other substance abuse.

Mr. Hamby says "parents must instill in their children a moral value system." I agree with that entirely but alas it is not that simple. So don't pass the buck to the parents or society because you are soft on drug users and traffickers Mr. Hamby. If drug users and traffickers know they will be tried and convicted we would have fewer of them. All one has to do is read the history of the Chinese culture to see how they got rid of opium users and dealers.

I think it is the height of ignorance for a prosecutor who is supposed to protect the citizens from crime to make such an irresponsible statement and let all the drug users and dealers know how soft he is on drugs.

Think very carefully voters before you vote for Rick Hamby to represent you in the prosecutor's court.

Around The Rim

Communicate

By KEELY COGHLAN

We're not listening, not to ourselves and certainly not to others.

Most people talk beneath the surface, sending out hints to their buried feelings like messages in bottles from a shipwrecked survivor.

Unfortunately, few people even listen to the surface chatter.

Sure, we observe the forms of ritual conversation. "Hello, how are you?" "Fine. How are you?" The responses are automatic, and if you aren't careful, you'll ask the same question twice.

I don't know why we have so much trouble communicating. We just don't seem to take the time.

The personal stereotypes and televisions are just symptoms of our desire to shut ourselves off from the rest of humanity.

If you are so visibly absorbed in another world, you don't have to deal with the noise of traffic, or the neighbor's chitchat about the dog in her gardenia bushes.

And most of all, you don't spend time answering silly, repetitive questions, such as "How are you?"

Have you ever replied "Horrible," just to see what type of response you'll receive? Chances are, the person who asked the question is already down the hall, asking someone else the same inane thing.

Too often our contact with others is only routine that never reaches beyond the daily tedium. Granted, you shouldn't tell everyone your bridge partner has a set of marked cards, but too often our knowledge of each other is limited to our vital statistics and our social security numbers.

We say we "know" each other well, even though we don't even know another's greatest joy.

Most people are too complex to be summed up in a single phrase. Nowadays, when everyone is in too much of a hurry to write, and phone calls are too short because Ma Bell and her friends like to "touch" you too much, we hardly say the things that matter.

And so we talk of Jonathan's cold, and your sister's new kitten who just clawed an arm off dad's favorite chair, and sometimes even Aunt Josie's cancer — but never too long. It's painful.

It is painful often to tell someone else what is driving you crazy — oh, not the silly, petty things such as the way a person folds a newspaper — but the universal insecurities that leave you shaken and alone. It's painful, but it's necessary to understand the other.

I'd like to say I'm more sensitive to the undertones in my friends' speech, but I can't. There have been too many times I've been preoccupied with my own worries instead of listening to panic.

It's always easier to turn on Happy Days or Fantasy Island. The best poets and musicians always reveal too much of themselves. Perhaps that's why we don't pay enough attention to them until they're dead.

Of course, then it doesn't matter.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Prime rate may increase

HOUSTON (AP) — The prime interest rate probably will rise above the current 12 percent by the end of the year, according to a survey of 250 bank directors and management officials.

According to the survey, 51 percent of the bankers expect the prime rate to be higher by the end of 1984.

Nineteen percent of those surveyed predicted a prime rate of more than 13 percent, while 16 percent forecast the rate will drop below 12 percent. Thirteen percent of those polled predicted a prime interest rate of under 11 percent.

The prime interest rate, which is charged of the most credit worthy customers, currently is 12 percent.

The bankers also were asked about mortgage rates and 64 percent predicted that the interest charged on home loans would remain in the 13 to 14 percent range.

Almost a fourth of the bankers, 23 percent, forecast, however, that home mortgage rates would rise to more than 14.5 percent by Dec. 31. Only 8 percent of the bankers forecast mortgage rates to drop to 12 percent or lower.

The survey was conducted by Peat, Marwich, Mitchell & Co., a Houston accounting firm.

Bankers were also surveyed on the types of services they believe a commercial bank should be permitted to offer.

Fifty-nine percent of the bankers said banks or holding companies should be allowed to sell insurance, while 46 percent of those in survey wanted banks to be able to own insurance underwriters.

The bankers also wanted to get into real estate and mutual funds, according to the survey. Fifty-four percent said banks should be allowed to offer real estate brokerage services, and 60 percent would like to offer mutual funds directly to customers.

Pol. Adv. paid by O.L. (Louis) Brown, 1508 Oriole St., Big Spring, Tx.

ON SATURDAY, MAY 5TH,
HOWARD COUNTY VOTERS WILL CHOOSE A
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
TO REPRESENT THEM FOR THE NEXT 4 YEARS.
CHINA LONG WANTS THE JOB

A 38-year Big Spring resident, church and civic leader, China worked at Webb Air Force Base over a period of 20 years, attaining a wide variety of administrative skills and performance awards. When the base closed, she earned a Bachelor's degree in mass communication from the University of Texas of the Permian Basin. She has reported local radio news for six years, winning seven state broadcasting awards. She is News Director of KBST.

For 27 years, she's been married to Frank Long, Energas supervisor and son of the late A.E. Long, longtime Howard County juvenile officer. Frank's grandfather was the first Big Spring police chief. The Longs have two daughters, Leslie Greer and Lisa Long, both college graduates. All four members of the family have been inducted into the Big Spring High School Hall of Fame.

China promises to bring honesty and integrity to the justice of the peace office. She will work closely with pathologist Bob Rember in performing her duties as county coroner. She will volunteer, cost free, to perform back-up services as municipal judge. She will work with businesses and individuals in resolving small claims cases and in collecting hot checks. She will routinely schedule hearings and process citations within her jurisdiction, as well as administer warrants and bonds.

Please vote on May 5th in the Democratic Primary, and vote for China Long, the candidate the people can trust to perform all the duties of the job after the election.

RE-ELECT BILL CROOKER

Republican Candidate For:
County Commissioner, Precinct 3
(May 5, 1984)

WHY IS THERE A DIFFERENCE IN CITY AND COUNTY SALARIES?

The citizens of Howard County have been deliberately misinformed on the salaries of the Howard County Commissioners. A statement has been made that the Commissioners receive approximately $1,000.00 per meeting and the Big Spring City Council members receive $50.00 per meeting.

The Annual City Budget 1983-84 reflects a salary of $5,450.00, office and food supplies of $1,300.00, and contractual services of $42,830.00, making a total of $49,580.00 per year. The Administrative Services, including the City Manager and personnel, have a budget of $118,900.00. The City Manager is responsible for the administration of City Council policy. Thus, to determine the cost of the City Council per meeting you must total the above figures, $168,480.00, divide by 12 to get $14,040.00 per month, and divide this figure by 7 — the number of council members — or $4,005.71 — and finally divide by 2 — the number of meetings per month — and you come up with $1,002.85 per Council member per meeting. So four County Commissioners cost $1,000.00 per meeting and 7 City Council members cost $1,002.85 per meeting. Howard County Commissioners manage and are responsible for all their own business.

Compare the salaries of County Commissioners of surrounding counties:

| COUNTY | COUNTY SEAT | POPULATION | YEAR | YEARLY SALARY |
|---------|-------------|------------|------|---------------|
| Andrews | Andrews | 14,500 | 1983 | $33,838.00 |

Dr. Donohue

Boy obsessed with idea of heart problems

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Up to now our son has been a happy, well-adjusted, fun-loving kid. Now a clinker has been thrown into his life and it is showing up in day-to-day relationships. His father had two heart attacks and bypass surgery, and his father before him died of a heart attack. His father in turn died at a relatively young age. All this has succeeded in making my son morbidly obsessed with the idea that he is destined for serious heart problems and an early death. It pains me to see this happening to him. Can you say a few words on the subject that might be comforting? — D.P.H.

You tell me (another part of your longer letter) that the boy's father is insisting on careful attention to dietary factors, avoidance on fats and smoking, and limits on alcohol. Those are all very valid bits of advice for anyone. And certainly the family history of heart disease makes them even more important and urgent. But once those sensible steps are taken, the need for obsession with the problem is particularly silly and counterproductive. Certainly, you then add mental stress to the list of minuses.

There is little one can do about heredity beyond recognizing it. Forewarned as your son is, and with due attention to factors he can control, he can at least cancel the hereditary hand dealt.

Local teacher to be honored for retirement

MAMIE LEE DODDS
...to retire from BSISD

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Long-time teacher Mamie Lee Dodds will be honored for her retirement from Big Spring Schools at a reception at First United Methodist Church Sunday. The event will be held from 2 to 3:30 p.m.

Hosting the event will be Bonnie Anderson, Audrey Arnold, Molly Balios, Norma Crockett, Mary Eckert, Helen Gladden, Jo Gresham, Jeanette Harris, Margaret LLOYD, Debbie Mahlman, Beth Tevis and Jane Thomas.

Mrs. Dodds is finishing her last year as a 5th grade teacher at Marcy Annex Elementary School. She has taught all elementary grades from pre-first grade for non-English speaking children through sixth grade, with the exception of fourth grade.

Mrs. Dodds teaching career has spanned 30 years altogether. She taught three years in Lubbock, one year in New Mexico, 25 years in Big Spring, and was a principal and head teacher one year with the kindergarten at Webb Air Force Base.

She is a 1937 graduate of Big Spring High School and a 1954 graduate of Texas Tech University in Lubbock. She earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Home Economics with a major in child development and a minor in elementary education. She has done graduate work at Texas Tech University, Southern Methodist University in Dallas, and Western Colorado College in Gunnison, Colo.

Deciding to retire from the teaching profession has been a gradual process over the last few years, Mrs. Dodds said.

"Teaching is no longer fun," she said as one reason why she wants to retire from the profession. "More and more of my time is spent trying to motivate students rather than teach. When I first started teaching, students were eager to learn."

She believes parents have been too permissive with their children in the last several years, thus leaving the teachers to raise and educate children rather than parents.

"I think the pendulum is beginning to swing back to parents taking more of the responsibility for educating and raising children. I think the last two years, I've seen the climax of this trend, especially this year," she said.

Today, "(students) are not self-motivated. They have to have outside stimuli to motivate them," she said. "It may be they watch video programs that demand no response from them for conversation. And it may be that most don't know how to respond (to conversation)," she said.

"Learning ought to be fun. Children learn more when they are having fun than through drudgery work. (Teachers) can teach through play," she said.

Mrs. Dodds once was offered a child development job with the Department of Agriculture in Washington D.C. making three times the salary she would receive as a teacher. But she turned it down because, "I love teaching."

She originally planned to become a home demonstration agent while at college. While she was student teaching she realized she wanted to work with children all her life and that teaching was her niche.

She believes students should be supported when learning all the time, not just in the classroom. At the beginning of each school year, she gives her students her telephone number and tells them to call her if they have a problem with their homework.

"I don't cease being a teacher when I leave the classroom." Teachers are role models, she said. Anything a teacher does, even outside the classroom, children will pick up on. "Everything you do, they see."

As for the teaching profession's future, Mrs. Dodds sees the swing toward parent involvement with students in the home and taking more responsibility for the education of their children. She believes more parents will volunteer to help in classrooms. Mrs. Dodds also sees trends in teachers continuing their education and upgrading their profession.

As for education, she believes it is going from a trend of individualized instruction back to mass education. "I think it is wrong because if a child isn't ready to read on a fifth grade level, you're not going to teach him fifth grade work."

Mrs. Dodds plans to work on several projects during her retirement. She is interested in composing music, writing, refinishing furniture, sewing, knitting, crocheting, arts and crafts, and being involved in her church and civic affairs.

Mrs. Dodds has been a member of the Big Spring Classroom Teachers Association, Texas State Teachers Association, National Education Association, Classroom Teachers Association and Association of Texas Professional Educators.

Mrs. Dodds is the daughter of the Mrs. A.E. "Preach" True and the late A.E. "Preach" True. She has two children: Arthur D. Dodds III of Springtown, and Biddie Haynes of Sumter, S.C.

Dear Abby

Bad experience in finding parents

DEAR READERS: "Curious in Florida," the parents of three adopted children, asked me to poll my readers to find out what to expect if their adopted children decided to search for their biological parents. Yesterday, I gave a sample of letters with happy endings. Today, I'm sharing other letters with less than happy endings:

DEAR ABBY: Last September, I opened my door to a total stranger who announced that she was my child! She was 39 years old and I had not seen her since she was 1 week old. It's a good thing I had a strong heart or I might have had a heart attack.

My daughter looked just like her father, whose face I had been trying to forget since he left me when I told him I was pregnant. He said the baby couldn't be his. (It couldn't have been anyone else's!)

My daughter was interested in the possibility that she might come into some kind of inheritance. I gave her all the information I had on her blood relatives. I even told her the truth about her father, but suggested she give him some advance warning if she intended to look him up.

She told me her adoptive parents were both dead, but for some reason I didn't believe her.

The whole ordeal was a nightmare.

BAD SCENE IN TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: I was adopted when I was less than a week old and I have absolutely no curiosity about "who I am." I know who I am. I am the product of a home that gave me all the love and support a person could want.

These adopted people who think they have to meet their biological parents in order to find out who they are strike me as being a little weird. You are exactly what you make of yourself—that's who you are. To go digging around to unearth what somebody buried years ago is, I think, an invasion of privacy.

Why should I look up people who gave me away? They had their chance!

I KNOW WHO I AM

Extended Hours Center sees after-work health care need

"Response to Malone and Hogan Clinic's new Extended Hours Medical Center indicates there was a definite need in Big Spring for after-work health care," says Richard Lehigh, clinic administrator.

The clinic opened its after-hours facility, Jan. 9, to provide a less expensive alternative to emergency room care for minor injuries and illnesses.

"Hours of 5 to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 to 12 a.m. Saturday mornings were chosen to provide a more convenient time for folks who have difficulty taking off work to see a doctor," Lehigh said.

Operating on a no-appointment basis, the center served 45 patients its first week. It peaked during the flu epidemic with one 84-patient week. The Saturday morning pediatric clinic which functions separately has cared for as many as 45 additional children on a single morning, says Bill Hess, clinic comptroller.

"There has been some confusion about fees charged in the afterhours center," said Hess. "It is a separate operation from our regular 8 to 5 weekday clinic."

"The only way to keep the cost of an afterhours visit to less than half the usual hospital basic emergency room visit," Hess said, "is to operate on a cash only basis like other recently introduced 'emergency centers.' During normal clinic hours, credit arrangements can be made if necessary. That isn't possible after-hours because of the many out-of-the-pocket expenses of staying open late."

"Malone and Hogan Clinic is cooperating with the American Medical Association's voluntary cost containment program," said Lehigh. "Anything we can do to reduce our operating costs will help patients."

"We've already reduced costs for mailing, labor to prepare monthly statements and insurance forms, computer time and account follow-up by a switch in 1982 to cash at time of service in the regular clinic. These reductions, about $100,000 per year, have covered many increases in medical costs which otherwise would have been passed on to patients."

Use apples to make delicious treats

By RHONDA WOODALL
Lifestyle Writer

Apples are low in sodium, contain important vitamins and minerals and provide fiber to the diet. One medium-sized apple contains approximately 80 calories.

Choose Golden Delicious apples with firm skin. Apples will range in color, depending on maturity, from light green to creamy yellow. Light green apples will have a slightly tart flavor and creamy yellow fruit will have a sweeter flavor.

Store apples in a plastic bag in the refrigerator. Apples ripen ten times faster at room temperature and five times faster at 40 degrees than at 32 degrees.

Here are some ideas to prepare apples simple and quick. Serve slices or wedges of Golden Delicious apples with assorted cheeses for a continental-style snack or appetizer. Add chopped Golden Delicious apples to peanut butter and spread on whole-wheat toast for breakfast or for a snack. Serve slices of crisp Golden apples with a refreshing yogurt dip for a light dessert.

Another idea is to dice, chop or slice Golden Delicious apples and add to tuna, turkey, chicken, potato, tossed green or spinach salad. Add Golden Delicious apple slices to stir-fried chicken, fish or beef and heat thoroughly.

Other ideas for serving apples are given in the following recipes.

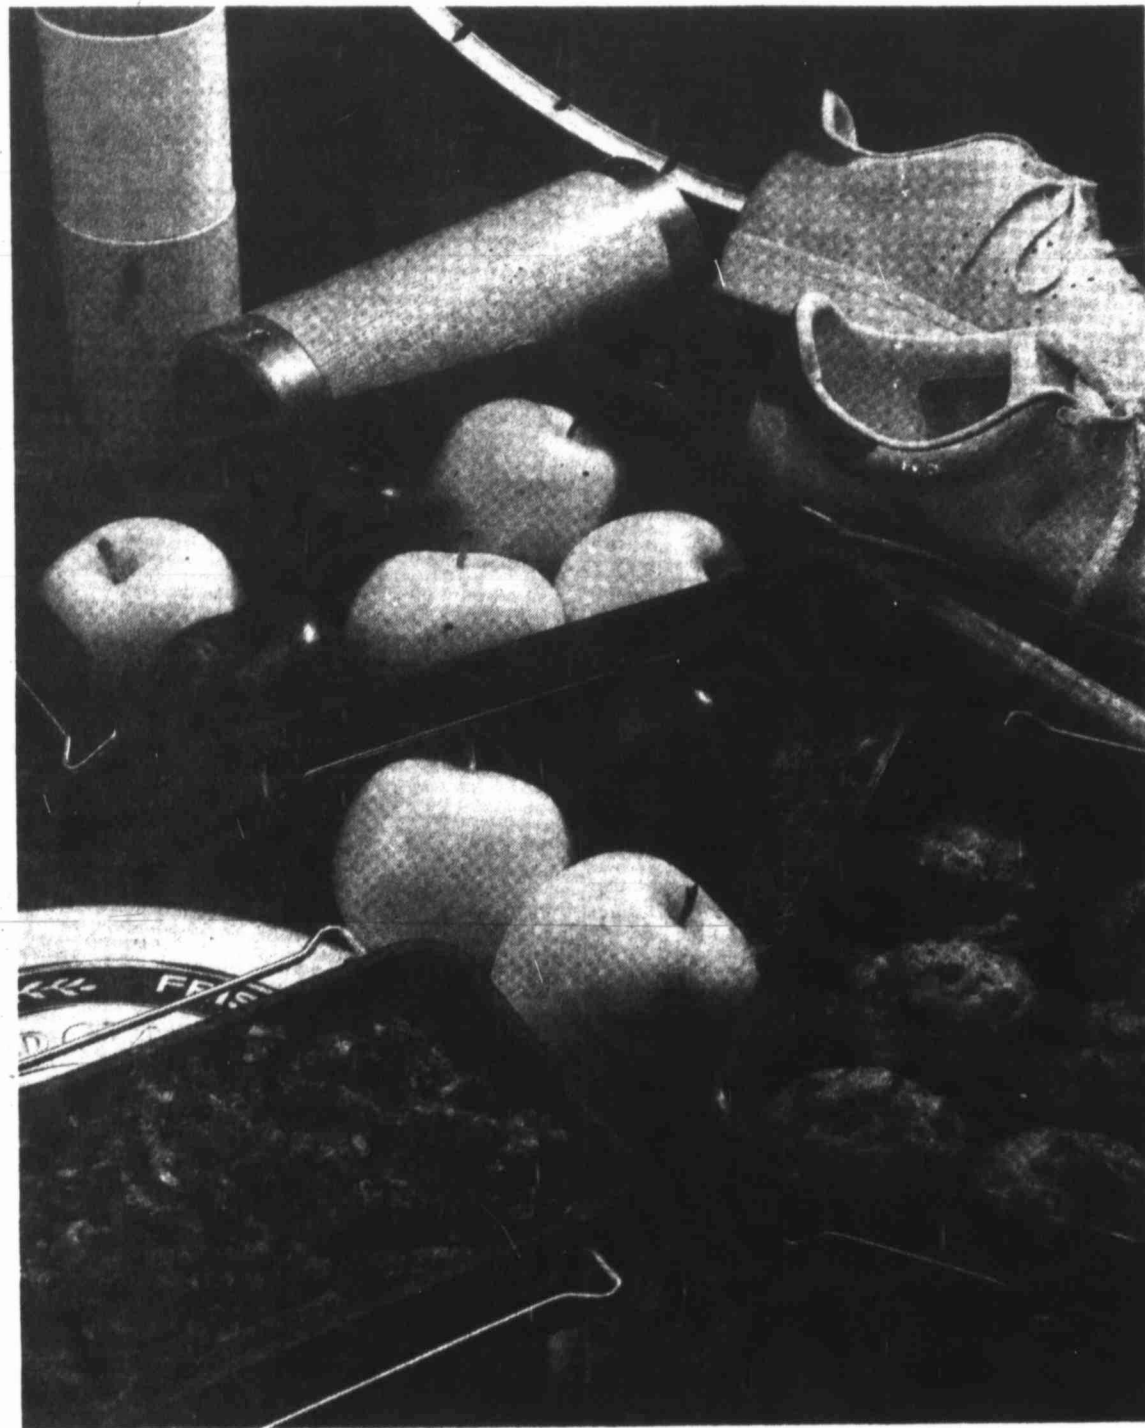

GOLDEN APPLE GRANOLA

4 cups old-fashioned rolled oats
3 cups chopped Golden Delicious apples
¾ cup whole-wheat flour
½ cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup packed brown sugar
½ tsp. ground cinnamon
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup apple juice
½ cup chopped dates
¼ cup oil
1 tsp. vanilla

Combine oats, apples, flour, walnuts, brown sugar, cinnamon and salt; mix well. Heat apple juice; add dates and let stand 15 minutes or until softened. Mash and blend well; slowly beat in oil and vanilla. Pour mixture over dry ingredients; stir to moisten evenly. Crumble in thin layer on greased large baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 250 degrees; bake for one hour. Stir; bake 1½ to 2 hours longer or until mixture is dry. Stir every 45 minutes. Makes 6 to 7 cups.

WHOLE WHEAT APPLE MUFFINS

1 cup each flour and whole-wheat flour
¼ cup sugar
2 tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. ground allspice
1 cup lowfat milk
¼ cup oil
1 egg, beaten
1 cup finely chopped Golden Delicious apple

APPLES — You can eat apples on-the-go or enjoy highlighting the moist, naturally sweet flavor and them at home. Treats also can be prepared juicy texture of Golden Delicious apple.

½ cup chopped nuts, (optional)
Combine flours, sugar, baking powder, salt and allspice. Add milk, oil and egg; stir only until ingredients are blended. Fold in apples and nuts. Fill 12 greased muffin cups almost full. Bake at 400 degrees for about 30 minutes or until wooden pick inserted near center comes out clean. Makes 12 muffins.

GOLDEN APPLE CHICKEN SANDWICHES

1 cup chopped Golden Delicious apple
1 cup diced cooked chicken
Mayonnaise
2 Tbsps. each minced parsley and toasted almond slices

1 tsp. lemon juice
¼ tsp. curry powder
12 slices whole-grain wheat bread
6 lettuce leaves

Combine apple, chicken, 3 tablespoons mayonnaise, parsley, almonds, lemon juice and curry powder. Spread bread slices with small amount of mayonnaise. Spread ½ cup filling on each of six slices. Top each with lettuce leaf and bread slice. Makes six sandwiches.

Salad Variation: One-half cup filling for Golden Apple Chicken Sandwiches can be served on lettuce leaves as a salad. Makes four servings.

APPLE CALICO BEAN SALAD

1 can (16 ounce) each red kidney beans and garbanzo beans, drained
1 package (10 ounce) frozen cut green beans, thawed and drained

1½ cups diced Golden Delicious apples
¼ cup chopped celery
2 Tbsps. minced green onion

Vinaigrette
Combine all ingredients. Marinate at least four hours; stir several times while marinating. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Vinaigrette: Combine ¼ cup each oil and white wine vinegar, 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon celery seed, ¼ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper; mix well. Makes ½ cup.

GOLDEN APPLE STUFFED FILLETS (Microwave Method)

½ cup chopped onion
1 Tbsp. oil
1 cup each shredded Golden Delicious apple and carrot
¼ cup chopped parsley
2 Tbsps. lemon or lime juice
¼ tsp. each salt and ground ginger
¼ tsp. thyme, crushed
1 pound sole, cod or other white fish fillets
¼ cup dry white wine
Salt and pepper

Saute onion in oil until tender. Add remaining ingredients except fish fillets, wine, salt and pepper. Spread mixture evenly over length of fillets; carefully roll-up. Place seam side down in oiled microwave-proof dish. Pour wine over rolled fillets; season to taste with salt and pepper. Cover with waxed paper; microwave at medium for 8 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork; turn once halfway through cooking time. Makes about five servings.

Conventional Method: Prepare and roll-up fillets as above; measure thickness. Bake at 450 degrees allow about 10 minutes cooking time per inch of thickness measured at its thickest part after stuffing or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Baste once or twice during cooking.

COUNTRY APPLE RELISH

2 quarts peeled, cored, and chopped apples (about 10 to 12 medium)
2½ cups brown sugar (1 pound)
1 cup golden raisins
½ cup chopped walnuts
½ cup red wine vinegar
1 tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. allspice
1 pouch liquid pectin

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Combine chopped apples, sugar, raisins, walnuts and spices in a large saucepot. Bring to a full, rolling boil over high heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in liquid pectin. Carefully ladle into hot jars, leaving ¼-inch head space. Adjust caps. Process ten minutes in a boiling water bath canner. Makes about seven 8-ounce jars.

GOLDEN APPLE CORN MEAL PIE

6 to 7 Golden Delicious apples, pared, if desired
1½ tsps. lemon juice, if desired
3 Tbsps. sugar
1 to 2 Tbsps. all-purpose flour
¼ tsp. cinnamon

Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 45 to 55 minutes, covering with foil part-way through baking to prevent overbrowning. Cool completely before serving. Makes one 9-inch pie.

CORN MEAL PIE CRUST

1 cup all-purpose flour
¼ cup enriched corn meal
¼ tsp. salt
½ cup lard
4 to 5 Tbsps. water
Combine flour, corn meal and salt. Cut in lard until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add water, 1 tablespoon at a time, stirring lightly until mixture forms a ball. Roll out on lightly floured surface to form 13-inch circle; fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate; trim edges under; flute.

E. Texas blueberry industry blossoms

AUSTIN — Fresh berries are a seasonal gift made sweeter by their brief lifespan. No one tires of berries — there's no time. And who would it given the chance?

At their best, berries are juicy, tartly sweet, intensely colored. Perfect eaten alone, they make flawless companions paired with cream, sweet batters and confections.

For 60 years spring in Texas meant the arrival of Strawberries from Poteet, a small town near San Antonio where carloads of the jewel-like fruit were harvested between late March and early May. Poteet historian Sammie Franklin said 200,000 to 400,000 flats of strawberries used to be air-freighted from Texas every season during the 1960s.

High costs of production took its toll on strawberry production in the 1970s. Acreage dwindled from a high of 1,000 acres to less than 50 today. Today, most Texans never get to look at a home-grown strawberry, much less eat one. However, there's a good possibility that another berry, this one from East Texas, will win their hearts and palates.

In the mid-1960s Texas A & M University planted the state's first experimental blueberries at Magnolia Springs. Today East Texas growers are raising 250 to 300 acres, a figure that is expected to double by fall. Around 125 acres have reached bearing age and will be ready for harvest when the June 15-July 31 season rolls around.

Dr. Donald Cawthon, blueberry researcher at A & M's Overton extension center, predicts 5,000 to 10,000 acres within 15 years. "Blueberries," he said, "have the potential to become the largest cash crop in East Texas. We're looking at $5,000 profit per acre." The sandy, acid soil of East Texas is practically the only land in the state where blueberries can be grown successfully with the possible exception of the Cross Timbers region in North-Central Texas where test plots are also planted. Commercial acreage is marketed totally through pick-your-own operations, and it will be several years before enough berries are available for statewide consumption.

Once enough Texans can enjoy blueberries, growers will gear up to sell out of state. Only Georgia blueberries ripen as early as those grown here. This gives Texas an advantage over traditional blueberry producers in Michigan and along the East Coast, who do not harvest until late summer. Early production will give Texas a jump on the fresh market.

Growers are also looking at other options in berry production. Two hundred acres of strawberries were harvested this year in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, perhaps signaling the revival of a business that died there years ago. East Texas growers, noting the success of pick-your-own peach and blueberry outlets, are also considering strawberries, which once flourished in the area. Blackberries are still grown commercially, though acreage has dropped drastically since the 1970s.

Though Texas berries are currently available in limited quantities and only in certain parts of the state, Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) home economist Carol Ware offers these tips on buying the best quality.

Blueberries — Choose firm, plump berries with a light grayish bloom, the berry's natural waxy coating, and a good blue color. Skip cartons with stained bottoms, an indication of overripe or moldy berries.

Strawberries — Look for berries with full red color and a bright luster, firm flesh and cap stem intact. Berries should be dry and clean. Usually medium to small berries taste better than large ones.

Blackberries — Bright, clean berries with uniformly good color are the ones to buy. The individual small cells making up each berry should be plump and tender but not mushy. Berries should be fully ripened with no attached stem caps.

Microwaves show no incidence of injury

Although the number of microwave ovens in use is at an all time high, many consumers question their safety.

"Yet the microwave oven is the only product to show zero incidence of injury under the federal government's National Electronic Injury Surveillance System," says Bonnie Piernot of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Recent research suggests that consumers should be more concerned about the hazards resulting from how they use the microwave oven than its manufacture. Consumers can easily insure safe use of the appliance by following the recommendations in their service manual. When in doubt about a potential microwave hazard, Piernot suggests that consumers contact their county Extension home economist.

Justice candidates wage bitter feud

Harte-Hanks News Service
If this year's Democratic races for the Texas Supreme Court somehow could become television shows, the feud between incumbent Justice C.L. Ray and Fort Worth lawyer Shelby Sharpe could make a prime-time soap opera.

And the chief justice race between former Attorney General John Hill and current Supreme Court Justice Sears McGee could air as a Sunday morning talk show. However, despite the importance of the court and the media attention on the Ray-Sharp brawl, few voters are expected to pay attention to the contested races. That could make name identification on election day the most important factor.

The Texas Supreme Court might be called the pocketbook court or the court of last resort for civil cases. As the justices are fond of noting, the Legislature may pass the laws, but the Texas Supreme Court says what the laws really mean.

Decisions by the court can involve, among other things, millions of dollars, the rights of those who buy homes, cars or even television sets. They can affect, as well, those concerned with water disputes, safety in the work place and compensation for work-related accidents. The justices do not take criminal cases, however. Those are left to the Court of Criminal Appeals.

An underlying concern in this election is what some perceive as a 5-4 split on the court — five justices who tend to favor plaintiffs who file suits against businesses and doctors and four who side more with the businesses and doctors.

Sharpe backers are hungry for the defeat of Ray, who has written

Sharpe is creating one of the most bitter court campaigns in almost a decade.

Then there is a second challenger, one with little money but sporting the vote-drawing name of Texas S. Ward. The three-way scramble makes the May 5 showdown for the Supreme Court Place 2 Democratic nomination one of the top events of the primary election season.

Sharpe, 43, accuses Ray of appearing to be unethical in his dealings with lawyers having cases pending before the court. Most frequently criticized are seven telephone conversations Ray had with San Antonio lawyer Pat Maloney and rides in airplanes owned by Maloney and Austin lawyer Tom Davis, while both had major cases pending.

Ray's counter-attack says Sharpe is trying to cover up his own unethical behavior, including telling voters how he would vote on controversial cases that might come before the court after the election.

Ray adds that he is allowed by judicial ethics to socialize with attorneys as long as cases are not discussed, and he denies talking with any lawyer about particular cases.

Ward, a 58-year-old El Paso attorney-engineer, has studied some of the court's most recent opinions. He concludes that the "ivory tower" atmosphere has led to poor legal reasoning by the court majority, and especially by Ray, who has received some stinging criticism in the court's dissenting opinions.

The Texas Supreme Court might be called the court of last resort for civil cases. As the justices are fond of noting, the Legislature may pass the laws, but the Texas Supreme Court says what the laws really mean.

As court races go, the one between Hill, 60, and McGee, 66, has been quieter than usual. This is prompted in part by McGee's lack of active campaigning and shortage of campaign funds, about $20,000 compared to Hill's $246,000, as of early April.

Hill, armed with tons of name ID from his days as attorney general, secretary of state and unsuccessful candidate for governor, describes his candidacy as broad-based, including support from labor, the Coalition of Democrats, the Mexican-American Democrats and many in the business community.

But McGee says money and endorsements aren't everything. The 15-year veteran of the Supreme Court says, "Hill made some enemies when he ran for governor. When he lost (to former Gov. Bill Clements), he let those people down." McGee claims many Democrats will never forgive Hill for allowing a Republican to take the Governor's Mansion in 1978 for the first time in more than a century.

Also running for chief justice is Waco attorney John L. Bates, 62, the only Republican seeking the post.

A third race for associate justice has Justice Franklin Spears unopposed on the Democratic ballot and without a GOP challenger for the November general election.

or joined in some of the controversial 5-4 decisions favoring plaintiffs. The Sharpe people want to reverse the 5-4 split with a Sharpe victory.

But Ray, 52, isn't making their job easy. His willingness to trade accusation for accusation with

Tipsters help find missing children

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Two children whose pictures were broadcast at the end of the TV movie "Adam" have been reunited with their mother, nine months after she reported them missing, officials said.

Jessica Hagjizadeh, 4, and her brother Robert, 2, were among six or seven missing children on whom authorities culled "very hot leads" from thousands of telephone calls group after the movie, spokesmen for the Florida Department of Law Enforcement said.

NBC's Monday night rerun of the film, which depicted the 1981 kidnap and murder of 6-year-old Adam Walsh from a Florida shopping mall, concluded with pictures of 49 missing children.

Acting on a telephone tip, police found the Hagjizadeh children Tuesday in Burleson, Texas, where they had been living with their father, said Fred Schneyer of the Florida law agency.

The children were in good health when they were reunited in Texas on Tuesday evening with their mother, Carol Hagjizadeh, who had not seen them since July, Schneyer and Burleson police said.

Unconfirmed leads on missing children were being withheld.

I will further request the Grand Jury meet at least bi-monthly to insure speedy justice. My office is for the people and of the people. At all times it will be open to you for your suggestions and recommendations. The D.A. must be an aggressive leader in the fight against crime. The Big Spring Chapter of the West Texas Dietetic Association will offer a screening at the Big Spring Health Fair May 19 at the Big Spring Mall.

The screening will help participants determine their ideal weight and will help participants understand the relationship of calories to energy and the roles nutrients play in fueling the body.

AUSTIN — For senior Lin Scott it's the last hurrah, for sophomore Sherry Fite and junior Staci Free it's a unexpected trip to the "big house" and for sophomore Sandra Williams it's just the halfway point of an illustrious high school track career.

The Colorado City foursome will be competing in the 400 meter relay and Williams is entered in the 100 dash in the Class AAA state finals in Austin Friday afternoon and of course all are hoping to come away with something for their work.

The Lady Wolves earned the trip to the state meet with a second place finish at the regional meet two weeks ago in Lubbock by dashing to a season-best 50.23. This is quite remarkable since C-City had competed in only four meets before district, and started the season with a 54.0 at the Lamesa Tornado Relays.

Through the coaching of mentor George Martin and the swift Williams on the anchor leg, the Lady Wolves have rose to each and every occasion.

At regionals, after Scott, Free and Fite had run their legs, Colorado City was in fourth place behind Coleman, Breckenridge and Littlefield. Williams, a silver medalist in the 100 last year at state, then showed her stuff.

She quickly passed Coleman, overtook Breckenridge down the straight and almost edged out the Littlefield runner at the tape for first place. Only a couple-hundredths seconds separated the two teams.

Scott, Free and Fite all agree that Williams is the key to their relay. "We know if we can stay close to the other teams Sandra has a chance to catch them," said Fite. "We have all the confidence in the world in her," echoed Free.

Williams, who competed in Austin last year as a frightened freshman, also has a new-found confidence in herself. "If I get the stick four to five yards behind, I think I can catch them."

The group feels that they are definitely capable of running in the 49's in Austin. "At the first of the year we set our goal at 49.64, which would break the school record" said Scott. "We can break it if we want it bad enough," added Fite.

To reach their goal the Lady Wolves, second leg Free, who began running on the relay only two weeks before district, and third leg Fite will have to execute their handoff, a problem which has hounded them throughout the season. The problem — Fite usually takes off too soon on the exchange. Needless to say the two have been working on correcting the problem.

"This is the first time that Sherry (who went to regionals in the 400) has run on the sprint relay," said Martin. She gets so excited that she takes off too soon. To do well we need a good first leg from Lin (Scott) and execute all our handoffs. Anything can happen at the state meet."

Although the Lady Wolves' chances of winning the 400 relay are slim, Williams has a good shot at the gold in the 100, but it won't be easy by any means.

At last year's state meet Class AAA had the fastest times of any other class in the 100 meters. Lost to graduation is defending champ Bonita Brown of Palestine Westwood, who set a state record with an 11.4. Williams finished third in 11.8.

That's the good news — the bad news is that finishers second through sixth will be returning for another crack, and Williams knows that is not going to be a cakewalk.

Martin says that his star sprinter, who has lost just two of 19 high school 100 meter races "runs with the competition." Sandra runs as good as she has to," he said. "The faster the competition the faster she runs."

"I guess I do run with the competition," said Williams, who is undefeated this season, with a season-best of 11.95 at regional. Is it good or bad to run with the competition? After a few seconds of thought, she stated "I guess it's alright, as long as I win."

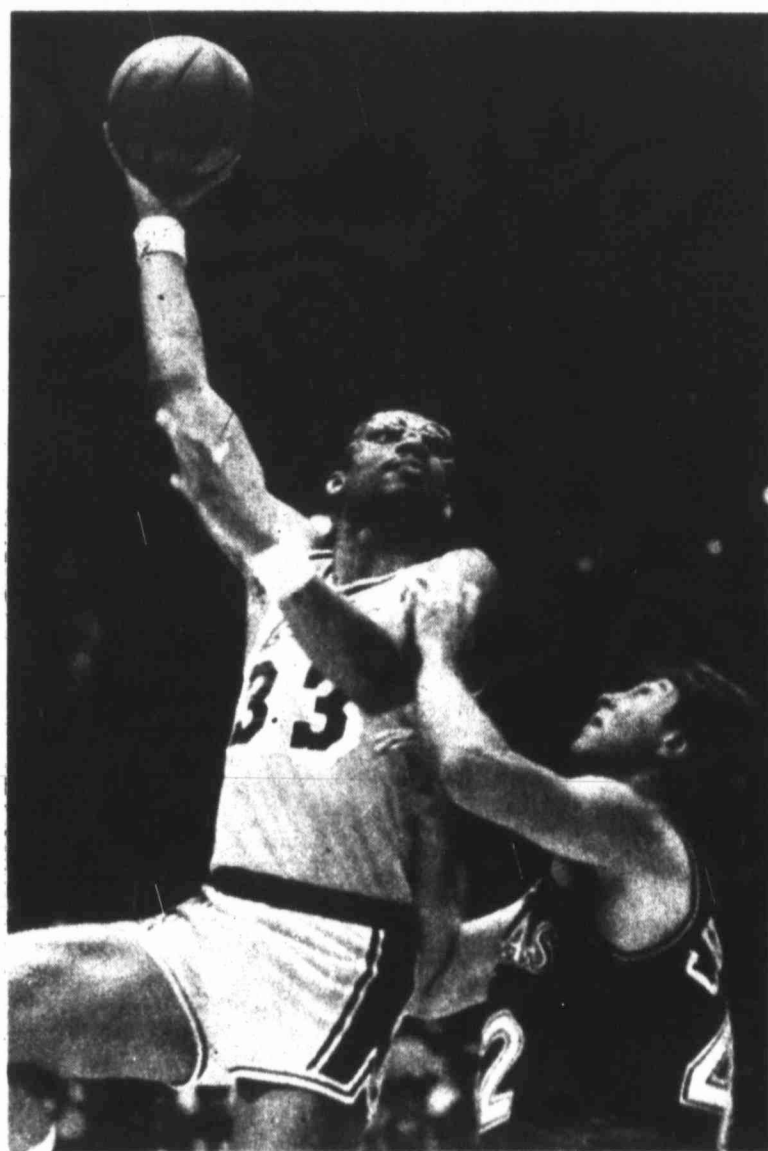

Williams and her coach both agree that the biggest improvement for her this season is her self-confidence. There are no more shades of the scared, shy freshman of a year ago. This year Sandra Williams is ready for every obstacle in her way.

Sandra recalls last year in Austin right before the 100 meters, she wished the runner next to her good luck, the runner returned the favor and added, "I'm going to beat you."

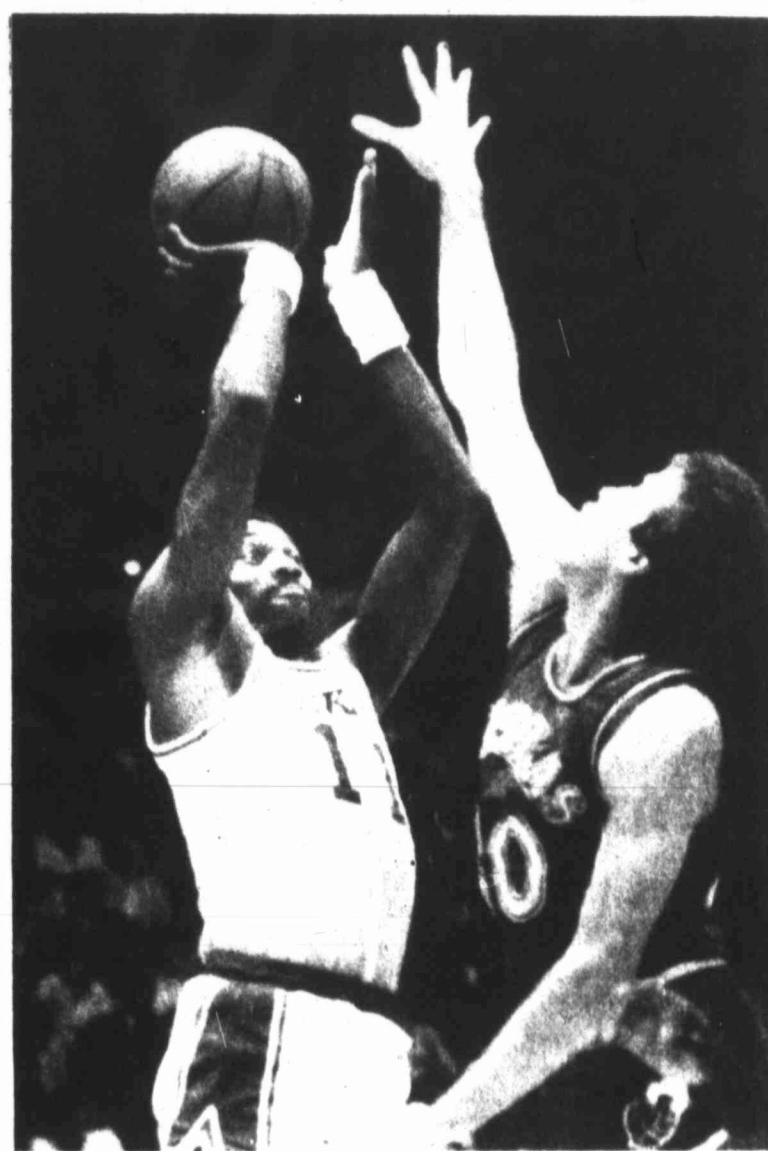

Things like this don't intimidate Williams anymore, plus she has her teammates with her this time.

"I was nervous last year not having my teammates with me at state," said Williams.

This year they will be with her, putting her mind at ease and leaving the rest up to her talented pair of legs. "The competition will be hard, but I have confidence in myself, I'm set to go for the gold."

Dallas gets Cannon to pound offenses

Cowboys opt for linebacking help; draft trackster Lewis also

DALLAS (AP) — It's still too early to call them "The Dallas Aggies" but the Dallas Cowboys are taking on a decided Texas A&M University look.

Only a month ago Bum Bright, the chairman of the Texas A&M Board of Regents, headed a group that put up $80 million to buy the Cowboys.

On Tuesday, the Cowboys drafted their first Aggie.

However, it wasn't Bright's idea. It came from "teasipper" Tom Landry.

"Bum got to pick. If you pay $80 million you ought to get first pick," quipped Landry.

It was a good joke; but Landry, a former All-SWC fullback at Texas, calls the shots on draft day.

Asked who agreed on the decision in the Cowboys' organization, Landry said "I make the decisions and I agreed on it."

Landry joked "a teasipper (University of Texas graduate) picked an Aggie."

Cannon didn't care who was his benefactor. He was just happy about it.

"I've never met Bum Bright, but I'm glad to be an Aggie and play for an Aggie," said Cannon, who flew to Dallas on Texas A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill's airplane.

"Jackie has done a lot for me and I hope someday I can do something for him," said Cannon.

Cannon played wide receiver and safety for A&M before moving to outside linebacker his senior year.

"Coach Sherrill said he needed linebacker help and I said I would do what I could to help the team. I was skeptical at first, but it worked out great," Cannon said.

Landry said "he has a chance to play his first year."

Cannon, the son of former Heisman Trophy winner Billy Cannon Sr., had a chance to sign this summer with the Los Angeles Dodgers, New York Yankees or Cleveland Indians.

"I had a good summer in an Illinois amateur league (Cannon hit 419) and almost signed with the Dodgers," Cannon said. "I figured it would take me three or four years to get to the pros. In football, you're already here."

Gil Brandt, personnel director of the Cowboys, said Cannon "gets better every year. He has been a baseball player and just recently started lifting weights. His whole career is ahead."

Brandt said Cannon also handled a ticklish situation at home very well.

After picking guard Oilers go defense

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers finished last in the National Football League in defense against the rush in 1983, recorded only 31 quarterback sacks, 14 interceptions and allowed 470 points.

The figures quickly caught new Coach Hugh Campbell's eye and he wisely decided to emphasize defense in Tuesday's National Football League draft.

After making Nebraska's Dean Steinkuhler, an All-American offensive lineman, the second pick in the overall draft, the Oilers went on the defensive, selecting Auburn defensive end Doug Smith and free safety Bo Eason from California-Davis with two second round picks.

Area boys headed for regional

The step towards possible state championships in Class A through 4A gets underway this week as young men from Greenwood, Forsan, Stanton, Coahoma, Colorado City and Lamesa compete in their respective regional track and field meets that get underway today for Class A and 4A and Friday and Saturday for 2A and 3A.

MY HUSBAND RICK HAMBY HAS NEVER BEEN DIVORCED.

A retraction is never enough to undo the hurt done to children by an error.

An article in the Sunday, April 29th edition of the Big Spring Herald contained a reference to Rick Hamby "remarrying after a divorce." When a blatant untruth like this is printed in the newspaper ... either by carelessness or malicious intent, the hurt is still the same and the damage lingers.

It is just another untruth that my husband and our children have had to fight during this malicious campaign.

Choose the candidate who knows the importance of the truth.

Borden County tennis coach keeping things in the family

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

AUSTIN — Borden County High School tennis coach Bill May Jr., will have his girls doubles team of Tammy Miller and Kelli Williams here today through Saturday for the Girls State Tennis Tournament, but his heart and mind are likely to be spread from Gail to Paint Rock and Austin in what is a unique situation.

In addition to concentrating on Borden's first state tennis entry in four years, the younger May has the dubious honor of sending Miller and Williams against a Paint Rock pair — a pair that just happens to be coached by May's father, Bill May Sr. And if that's not keeping things in the family, May Jr. left town Wednesday hoping his wife, Tana, can hang on a little longer before delivering the couple's first child.

"My dad and I aren't real excited about facing each other in the first round of the state tournament," said the younger May. "I'm also staying close to a telephone in case I have to make a quick trip if my wife should go into labor." The hectic circumstances aside, however May is excited about Miller and Williams' chances.

"We played Paint Rock a few weeks ago and beat them, not by much, but we did win," he said. "Tammy and Kelli are both real excited and figure this (state) is just icing on the cake," he added. The Lady Coyotes duo will take the court at 9 a.m. Friday.

It will be Williams' first trip to the state tennis meet while Miller is fulfilling a goal that almost happened last spring.

"Tammy was beaten out in the regional semifinals last year," said May. "She came back determined to do better this year." May's biggest concern is the lack of practice time put in by Miller though.

The talented senior spent this past weekend in Austin winning a state shorthand title. Now, May admits it would be nice if Miller could team up on a state tennis title.

Borden County boasted the state's best in girls singles four years ago when Gena Faught took the crown. Miller and Williams are in the top half of the bracket that includes teams from Celeste and Lago Vista while the lower bracket holds teams from Nazareth, Fort Aransas, Detroit and Forsan.

Trainer has Derby hopes sliced in half

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Swale is left alone to carry ailing trainer Woody Stephens' hopes to Saturday's Kentucky Derby.

Swale and Devil's Bag had been expected to run in the Derby as an entry and likely would have been favored. But, with the announcement Tuesday that Devil's Bag, the glamour horse of this year's 3-year-old crop, won't be running, the 70-year-old trainer's hopes were cut in half.

Swale may not have been the No. 1 half of the entry, but he is not without credentials. His six stakes victories include the Florida Derby.

As for Devil's Bag, Stephens insists, "There is really nothing wrong with the horse."

The trainer got out of his hospital bed and made the announcement at Churchill Downs that the 2-year-old champion would be pointed for the May 19 Preakness at Pimlico instead of running Saturday.

Mighty Adversary, the upset Santa Anita Derby winner, also dropped out of the Derby after suffering a foot injury during a workout Tuesday.

Now, Wayne Lukas' filly entry of Althea and Life's Magic might emerge as the favorite from the maximum field of 20 3-year-olds for the 1 1/4-mile classic.

Entries will be taken Thursday for the $250,000-added Derby.

But even if Swale captures the Derby, there are no plans to run the colt in the Preakness, second leg of the Triple Crown, at Pimlico, Stephens said.

Stephens who has been hospitalized the past 10 days with pneumonia, said there was doubt that Devil's Bag could handle the Derby distance and that he was displeased with the colt's final quarter-mile (25-25) in winning last Saturday's one-mile Derby Trial.

"He was a tired horse, no question about that," said Stephens during his 15-minute visit to the track. "He looks wonderful and he's sound as a rock ... but I thought I would go this route — go to the Preakness Prep and right back into the Preakness."

The Preakness Prep over 1 1/16 miles is set for May 12 at Pimlico.

UCLA center passes up final year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Center Stuart Gray, one of the most highly recruited prep basketball players in the country three years ago, never lived up to expectations at UCLA. Now, he's decided it's time "to bow out quietly."

Gray, a 7-footer who attended Kennedy High at nearby Sepulveda, said Tuesday he will pass up his senior year in college and make himself available for the June 19 National Basketball Association draft.

"It's something I had to do," Gray said. "I made the decision last week. I've been thinking about it for about three months."

"The guy who's going to represent me, Keith Glass, knew how unhappy I was. It was a difficult three years (at UCLA) for me. I just had to close this chapter of my life and start something else."

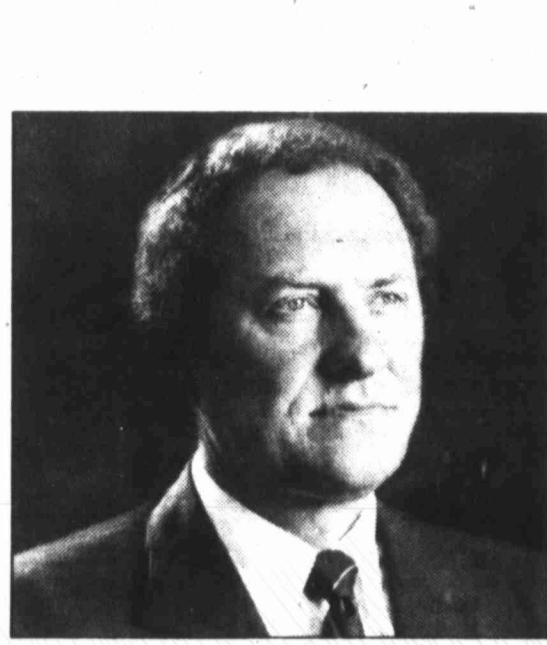

Gray, a 235-pounder who turns 21 later this month, started all 28 of UCLA's games this past season, averaging 9.9 points and 7.9 rebounds per game with a single-game high of 22 points. He made 60.5 percent of his field goal attempts and 68.9 percent of his free throw tries.

As a freshman, he averaged 4.9 points and 4.8 rebounds per game and as a sophomore, he averaged 7.8 points and 6.9 rebounds per game.

"There's a lot of things that didn't go right, but I really don't want to get into why I was unhappy," he told The Associated Press by telephone. "Things just didn't turn out like I expected."

"It was time for me to bow out quietly, that's what I have to do. It's just something I had to do for personal reasons and it was a business decision, too."

"YOU ALWAYS SAY SOME DAY WE'RE ALL GONNA LOOK BACK AND LAUGH ABOUT WHAT HAPPENED. CAN WE DO THAT NOW?"

"Not me." "Not me."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, MAY 3, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early morning can find some considerable changes taking place in your plans, especially those that concern persons from a distance or of varied ideas and background from yours.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You want to make changes in the morning that are not wise, but later you can handle existing conditions much better.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't get dramatic in the morning and later you can handle those who can be of assistance to you. Be wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't have a confrontation with one who is egotistical. You can pursue personal affairs and gain them easily.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Don't be vexed at a co-worker who does things differently from you. Be with the one you love tonight.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Your mate may make it difficult for you to see a good friend in the morning, but later you can do so with ease.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Forget that easy chair and get out in the world of activity. There is much opportunity to get ahead at this time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good day for expansion, so don't let dull routines deter you from this. Take care of any physical trouble that you may have.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try not to argue with a business person and you can make more progress. After a rather difficult day, all is well tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A partner could be difficult in the morning. Apply yourself assiduously. Act promptly on some civic problem.

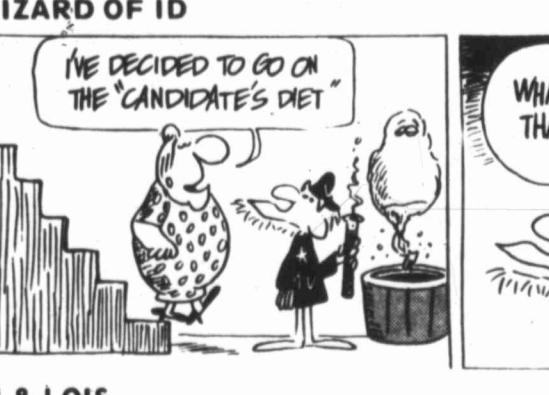

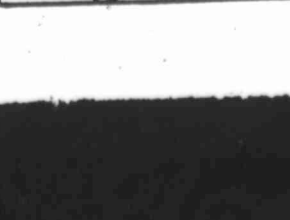

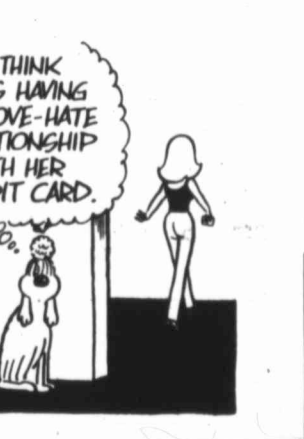

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you try any tricks with a fellow worker, there is sure to be trouble. You may not feel so well in the morning, but carry on.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You may have a few small problems in the morning but can quickly solve them. Be thoughtful of your mate. Be happy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) An argument at home in the morning should be avoided. Do some entertaining at home in the evening. Avoid troublesome person.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a fine, reasoning mind and be good in emergencies, but in early youth will be interested in so many different things and is apt to leave one project and start another without finishing any. Teach to persevere.

Comic books turning into hot investment

CLEVELAND, Tenn. (AP) — Looking for a hot investment? Bob Overstreet may be just the man you want to see.

Overstreet doesn't trade stocks and bonds, he doesn't have beachfront property for sale and he's not pushing tanning salon franchises.

Overstreet deals in the likes of Superman, Donald Duck, the Human Torch.

And when Overstreet talks, comic book collectors listen.

Overstreet is publisher of "The Comic Book Price Guide," a paperback book that is considered The Wall Street Journal of comic book collecting — or investing.

Each year, approximately 70,000 people buy the $9.95 guide, which sets recommended prices for various comic books — a mint copy of Action Comics No. 1, which introduced Superman, was listed at $14,000 in the 1983 guide — and also identifies their distinguishing characteristics.

"I'm trying to document the comic book. It's not just a price guide," says Overstreet, an owlish, silver-haired man of 45 who can cite such esoterica as the first comic book appearance of the Green Lantern.

"The main thrust of my book is to document the hobby, document all the comic books that were published ... I want to preserve the knowledge of comics as much as I can," he says.

Comics have been around since "The Yellow Kid" debuted in the New York American in 1897, but comic books did not appear until 1933 in the form of giveaway reprints of Sunday newspaper comics. The next year, comic books began selling for a dime. Then, in 1938, came Superman and the comics' Golden Age.

"That's really what put comics on the map," says Overstreet. "From that point on, hundreds of costume heroes were created."

Comic books enjoyed tremendous popularity during the 1940s, came under fire as a bad influence on children in the '50s, then rallied in the '60s with the introduction of such characters as Spiderman and the Fantastic Four. That is also when collecting took off. Overstreet says. Now comic book nostalgia shops and conventions abound.

"The typical collector is one who likes the costume heroes. The costumed hero craze is still strong today, and that's what most collectors seem to want," he says. "There's also an interest in certain artists. But people collect anything in comics."

Overstreet, a comics collector since the 1950s, published his first price guide in 1970.

"The price guide was a hobby. It was a way of producing income to feed my habit and increase my comic book collection. I worked on it nights and weekends," he says.

He sold only 1,300 copies that first year, but by 1980 the demand was such that he had to quit his job as a statistician for Bowater Southern Paper Co. Now he uses a computer to compile the guide. 4,200 titles were listed at last count
