May ask for recount

Krueger stunned by defeat

By JAY ROSSER

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — In football lingo it's called the old double-team. That strategy, moved to the political arena, appears to have spelled a stunning defeat for former U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger's U.S. Senate ambitions.

For the second time in six years, voters have dashed Krueger's political plans, according to final but unofficial totals. And, as in his 1978 general election defeat by incumbent Republican U.S. Sen. John Tower, Saturday's Democratic affair was a nail-biting event.

KENT HANCE

LLOYD DOGGETT

Analysis

The vote compiled by the Texas secretary of state Sunday shows all three candidates within one-tenth of a percentage point of each other. Hance pulled 455,768 votes (31.2 percent), Doggett garnered 454,807 ballots (31.2 percent) and Krueger won 454,497 votes (31.1 percent).

The rest of the 1.45 million Democratic ballots cast, or about 6 percent, were scattered among three lesser-known Democratic hopefuls.

That means Krueger, a former congressman from New Braunfels, double-teamed by Doggett from the political left and by Hance from the right, was only 310 votes shy of earning a runoff berth.

Krueger aides said Sunday that they have not rejected the possibility of requesting a recount but wouldn't make a decision until Monday.

"If we were talking about 4,000 or 3,000 votes we probably wouldn't even consider it," said Krueger campaign spokesman Bob Mann. "But at the 310 level, we certainly have an obligation to consider it."

State election law requires the candidate seeking the recount to pay for it. Mann said such an effort could cost about $65,000.

Hance's conservative philosophy, mirrored in his opposition to amnesty for illegal aliens and to gay rights legislation, played well in rural areas. In East Texas, far from his West Texas political base, Hance scored big victories.

In that region, Hance easily outdistanced his rivals with 34.8 percent of the vote, compared with 30.7 percent for Doggett and 27.8 percent for Krueger.

Hance's strength in rural areas overshadowed a dismal showing in the state's major urban areas. Hance finished third in the state's six largest metropolitan counties where 45.5 percent of the state's registered voters live: Harris (Houston), Dallas, Bexar (San Antonio), Tarrant (Fort Worth), Travis (Austin) and El Paso.

Doggett claimed victory in all of those counties except Bexar in which heavily Hispanic San Antonio sided with Krueger.

Hance also trailed overall — albeit slightly — in the state's 19 next most populated counties. In the remaining 229 counties, however, Hance won an overall majority.

Snyder bank reopens with new owners

SNYDER, Texas (AP) — The failed First National Bank Snyder reopened today under a new charter, new management and a new name — American State Bank of Snyder.

American State Financial Corp., a Lubbock-based holding company, purchased the bank's assets Friday, a few hours after the First National was declared insolvent because of bad loans.

It was the sixth West Texas bank to be closed in recent months by the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency.

"The lack of available funds to meet depositor demands coupled with substantial loan losses led to the insolvency," said Dean DeBuck, a spokesman for the comptroller's office.

A few hours later, American State submitted a bid of $962,000, the highest of four offers, said Alan Whitney, a spokesman for the FDIC.

Whitney said funds belonging to depositors with accounts below the federal insurance limit of $100,000 still would be available to the owners and that checks drawn on First National would continue to be honored.

First National, which was granted a national charter on Jan. 15, 1981, had $16 million in deposits as of last Wednesday.

About $15.2 million in 3,400 accounts were under the federal insurance limit, Whitney said.

Holders of 29 uninsured accounts would share in the failed bank's liquidated assets, Whitney said.

American State Financial Corp. also owns Brownfield State Bank in Brownfield, and Liberty State and American State banks in Lubbock.

Snyder is 70 miles southeast of Lubbock. Banks in Abilene, Midland, Odessa, Lubbock and Brownfield also have failed in recent months.

Talbot trial reset

ABILENE — The trial of Harold Gaida "Guy" Talbot of 814 W. 17th, who is charged with five federal cocaine-related counts, was postponed today until June 11, federal Judge Hal Woodward announced here this morning.

Talbot's attorney, Edward Paynter of Abilene, earlier filed a motion for continuance in the case originally set to begin today. Paynter said the continuance was sought because he is representing another client also scheduled to stand trial in federal court this week.

Talbot was indicted Jan. 24 by a San Angelo federal grand jury on the five cocaine-related charges. Five other Big Spring men were also indicted on similar charges at that time.

Of the five men indicted with Talbot, four have pleaded guilty to lesser charges in plea-bargain arrangements.

Charges against one of the men, Santos Mendoza Jr., have been dismissed.

Students voice ideas on education

CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

While educators and administrators battle over the Select Committee on Education's report on Texas schools, local students have made up their own minds about the condition of education in Texas.

Wendy Walker, 18, Vickie Halfmann, 17, all members of the BASICS, a community involvement group, and Melinda Corwin, 18, the president of the National Honor Society, discussed points in the report spearheaded by Dallas businessman H. Ross Perot.

All four young women are in the top 25 percent of the graduating class at Big Spring High School and are involved in a number of activities ranging from the BASIC program and other clubs to sports and band and choir.

Last in a series

Miss Walker had this to say about lengthening the school day and year by five days:

"(Lengthening the day by) one hour on our level wouldn't make that much difference. But for younger children it would be hard.

"As for the school year, it's so hot in August we don't learn much during the first week of school," Miss Walker said.

Miss Halfmann said, "It's hard to concentrate when it's hot. You'd rather be doing something else."

TALKING ABOUT REPORT — Four Big Spring High School graduating seniors have their own ideas about a report issued by H. Ross Perot and his Select Committee on Education. Pictured over, clockwise, from top, are Melinda Corwin, Vickie Halfmann, Wendy Walker and Kim Kirkham.

She said she was afraid if the year were lengthened, many summer programs would suffer or be abandoned.

She also pointed out that, "It would be expensive. They are not considering that."

Concerning testing teachers, Miss Walker said, "As a whole, Big Spring teachers are really dedicated. They are really trying."

She did have an idea for continuing education for educators. "It might be good for them to go to school every five years or so to have refresher courses."

Miss Walker said, "Just because teachers have the information doesn't mean they'll get it across to students. Knowing it and teaching it are two different things."

Miss Walker said students "should be tested to see who is getting what across." Miss Halfmann added that "every teacher, every classroom and every student is different." Testing teachers may not yield accurate results, she said.

All four coeds were against a proposal to limit the seven-hour school day to academics and curtailing extracurricular activities.

Miss Walker said, "The way I feel, there are a lot of Big Spring High School students who are not involved (in extracurricular activities) and they have the lowest grades and are dropouts."

Cool front settles across state

By the Associated Press
After a weekend of sunny skies and warm afternoon temperatures, a cool front settled across Texas today and brought the promise of thunderstorms to eastern and southeastern sections of the state. Before dawn, the front was located along a line extending from Sherman to Abilene to Midland, the National Weather Service said.

No significant rain was reported during the night. Pre-dawn skies were mostly cloudy, except for West Texas, where mostly clear skies were the rule.

Pre-dawn temperatures ranged from the 50s in the Panhandle to near 80 along the Rio Grande in far South Texas. Most readings were in the 60s and 70s. Temperatures at 4 a.m. ranged from 54 at Amarillo to 80 at Laredo and Del Rio.

Ahead of the cold front, winds were mostly from the south at speeds ranging from 10 to 20 mph. Behind the front, West and Northwest Texas reported northerly breezes at 10 to 15 mph.

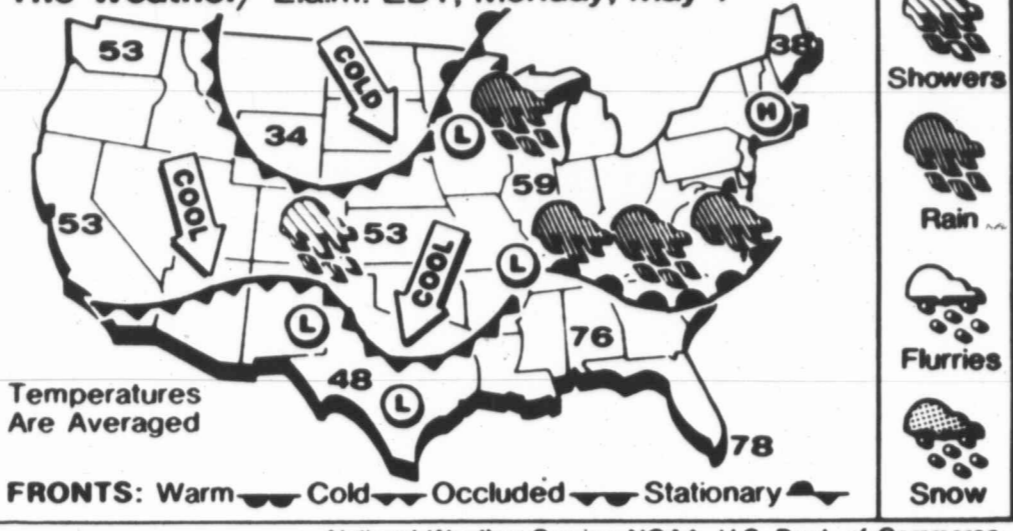

The forecast called for widely scattered thunderstorms to develop ahead of the cold front in East and Southeast Texas. Slightly cooler temperatures, along with increasing clouds, were on tap as the front moved through the state.

Big Spring sales tax down

Sales tax rebates for Big Spring are off 13 percent in 1984 from 1983 levels, the state comptroller's office reported today. For the reporting period which ended April 20, the one-percent rebate on sales taxes totaled $189,557, compared to $203,433 last year. Year-to-date figures are $619,715, compared to $712,566 last year, a decline of 13 percent. Statewide, the trend is toward increases in rebates, a measure of retail trade. Comptroller Bob Bullock said the latest checks rebating the one-percent sales tax to cities across the state reflected a 12.5 percent increase thus far in 1984. Rebates for Coahoma did show a gain. In 1984, the city has received $15,434, compared to $14,129 in the same time period of 1983, a gain of 9 percent. For the current reporting period, Coahoma received a check for $5,827, compared to $4,369 last year.

For the record

A quote reported in Sunday's story on the justice of the peace winners incorrectly identified the speaker as County Clerk Margaret Ray. The actual speaker of the quote was Kay Burns, who was looking at results in the peace justice race. She said, referring to peace justice candidate China Long's lead, "Next we'll have a woman running for county judge." She was speaking to County Judge Milton Kirby. An article in Sunday's Herald listed incorrect results in the Glasscock County Precinct 3 commissioner's race. The article said ballots in the race were cast as follows: John Phillips, 18 votes; David Sisson, 16 votes; Jack Tom, 13 votes. The article said Phillips would face Sisson in a run-off election for the spot. According to the Glasscock County clerk, a fourth candidate, Randall Sherrod, won the election with 66 votes. There will be no runoff election.

Plan

People who remain active in outside activities usually stay in school, Miss Walker said. She added that extracurricular activities give students "a chance to get along with people and to function in society. They give you a better self-concept." Miss Halfmann said extracurricular activities "are another reason to be in school, another reason to be involved and do a better job" with academics. Miss Corwin feels "extracurricular activities are a vital part of the school day. They will help us in the future. We can be in (many organizations) and still maintain high grades." Miss Kirkham said she felt a slight curtailment of extracurricular students might be beneficial but that completely ruling them out would be detrimental to all students. All four agreed with a proposal to limit to 10 days the number of days students can miss for non-academic activities. As for vocational cutbacks proposed by the report, Miss Corwin said many students benefitted from the option to enroll in half-day work programs and the opportunity to learn vocational trades. However, she said, "I don't like (the students) who work half a day just to make a car payment or a stereo payment." Miss Kirkham said many vocational students faced hardships and "if they had to go to school a whole day, they would drop out." The program allows students who need to work or who want to learn a trade the opportunity to do so while in school, the young women said. Miss Halfmann, who served as

Channel 13 has trouble

Big Spring Cable channel 13 is temporarily off the air because of the Midland station's transmitter problems, Big Spring Cable TV manager Randy Rogers said today. The signal loss is caused by transmitting problems with KTPX (Channel 9)/KWAB (Channel 4)'s microwave. Rogers said he was told by KWAB's general manager, Gil Schneider. Members from both groups participated in solo competition with 100 students receiving division 1 (superior) awards and medals in the competition. The beginning band, with 97 members, performed two selections at the contest: "Chorale and Dance," by Sandy Feldstein and John O'Riley, and "Hoedown," by James Ployhar. Judges rated the band as a division 1 and it was awarded a sweepstakes trophy. The advanced band, with 62 members performed two selections: "Little Irish Suite," by Leroy Jackson, and "American Suite," by Jacques Rizzo. The advanced group from Goliad

Sophia works with son

SORRENTO, Italy — Italian movie star Sophia Loren says her 11-year-old son Edoardo, who is co-starring in her latest film, has the "determination of a professional" and shows an interest in an acting career.

SOPHIA LOREN

Miss Loren, 49, who is in this southern coastal town for the shooting of the film "Qualcosa di Biondo" ("Something Blond"), said Saturday the joy of working with Edoardo is "indefinable." "The tenderness, the sweetness of our relationship is something I can't compare to any other cinematic experience I've ever had," she told reporters.

She said her husband, producer Carlo Ponti, was "enthusiastic and proud" about Edoardo's first film role.

"For several years (Edoardo) has shown a calling for acting. He has the seriousness and determination of a professional," Miss Loren said.

Mother and son portray a female taxi driver and her nearly blind son for whom she is seeking money for an operation.

It marks Miss Loren's first appearance in an Italian production since 1977, when she and Ponti were placed under investigation for tax evasion. Miss Loren served 17 days in jail in 1982 after being convicted of the charges.

Miss Loren and Ponti have a second son, Carlo Jr., 16.

Mama gets a Rolls-Royce

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — "You could feel the love in that room," as rock superstar Michael Jackson gave his mother, Katherine, a red Rolls-Royce with a white ribbon on it for her birthday, pianist Floyd Cramer said.

MICHAEL JACKSON

Cramer flew in from Nashville to perform at the surprise party Saturday at the request of Jackson, 25.

"About three weeks ago, Michael called me up to say that they were planning this surprise party for their mother, and that I was her favorite recording artist," Cramer said Sunday in Los Angeles.

About 50 people were at the "very private family affair," at the Bistro Garden, including "all the children, the father, Joe Jackson, the grandchildren," said Frank Rogers, Cramer's manager, who also attended.

Cramer, known for his "slip-note" piano style, said he rehearsed with Michael Jackson about an hour before the party. Cramer played one of his biggest hits, "Last Date," and did a duet with Jackson on "For the Good Times."

"Everything you read in all the publications about the closeness of that family is true," he said. "You could feel the love in that room," he said.

How old is Mrs. Jackson, herself a former singer? No one was saying.

Barrymore misses debut

WILMINGTON, N.C. — Child actress Drew Barrymore, star of Dino De Laurentiis' movie "Firestarter," missed the film's world premiere because of an ill-timed airline flight.

"We were trying to literally patch a flight through to Wilmington for her," said Michael Levitt, a spokesman for De Laurentiis. "But we couldn't get her here before 7 o'clock. She would have missed all of the reception and part of the movie, so we decided it would be better for her not to be here at all."

In the film version of the Stephen King novel, Miss Barrymore portrays a girl who can start fires with her mind — a talent complicated when her temper later flares gut of control.

The film features multiple special effects, including a variety of exploding cars and burning people.

Miss Barrymore also was featured in "E.T." and "Poltergeist."

EARNED REST — Presidential candidate Jose Duarte, of the Christian Democratic party, relaxes in a hammock in the backyard of his San Salvador home Sunday after voting in the presidential runoff election. Duarte is favored to win.

Salvadorans jam polls

SAN SALVADOR (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of Salvadorans streamed to the polls for a runoff presidential election largely free of rebel disruption and of the bureaucratic bungling that marred the first round.

Sunday's runoff matched Jose Napoleon Duarte, a moderate Christian Democrat, against Roberto d'Aubuisson, candidate of the ultra-right Republican Nationalist Alliance.

The Central Election Council said unofficial results might be available sometime today, but that it would be about a week before the final tally is released.

Representatives of both parties said returns they had compiled showed their candidate leading with 55 percent of the vote.

A survey of voters leaving the polls gave Duarte 54 percent of the vote against 46 percent for d'Aubuisson. The poll had a 4 percent margin of error, said a spokesman for the Miami-based Spanish International Network, which released the survey based on interviews with 2,800 voters.

Officials said they had eliminated many of the snags which prevented some 200,000 of the eligible 1.8 million voters from casting ballots in the initial round March 25. Initial reports indicated about 1.6 million voted Sunday, compared with 1.2 million in March, officials said.

Voting took place in about 220 of El Salvador's 261 municipalities, compared with 204 in the last round, election officials said.

Leftist rebels staged scattered raids but stopped few people from voting, authorities said.

"The voting went well," said Eliseo Rovira of the Central Election Council. "It was not nearly so bad as in March."

In March, ballot boxes arrived late at many polling stations, voters were confused over where they were supposed to cast ballots and the electoral registry had numerous errors.

Eight candidates from moderate to far-right parties competed in the first round. Duarte took 43.4 percent of the votes in that election, with d'Aubuisson winning 29.7 percent. Since neither won 50 percent, a runoff was required.

Duarte proposes a national conciliation, including talks with rebels, to end a 4½-year-old civil war. D'Aubuisson says the guerrillas must be crushed militarily. D'Aubuisson is said to have links to the death squads, but that has not been proven and he denies it.

Officially, the U.S. government has taken a neutral stance in the election, but members of Congress and the Reagan administration have indicated a victory by d'Aubuisson would jeopardize the chances of additional U.S. military aid being approved for El Salvador.

Leftists boycotted both elections, dismissing them as a farce and saying the only way to hold a fair vote is by negotiating a share of power first.

News in brief

Salvador gets attention

WASHINGTON — Two issues that have dogged Congress more than any others this year, U.S. military aid for El Salvador and an election-year prescription for trimming federal budget deficits, will be the focus of House and Senate activity this week.

Beginning Tuesday, the House will be debating several approaches to aiding El Salvador as legislators consider a $10.5 billion worldwide foreign aid authorization bill for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

Congress has earmarked $64.8 million in Salvadoran military assistance this year, and a Senate-passed supplemental appropriation for $61.7 million is awaiting House action.

The bill being considered this week would authorize $64.8 million in military aid for El Salvador next year if the president reports "demonstrated progress" in human rights and other reforms by the Salvadoran government, and an additional $124.5 million if he reports that military involvement in death squads has ended and unconditional negotiations with leftist guerrillas have begun.

Also on Tuesday, the Senate will begin its third week of debate on a three-year $144 billion "down payment" on reducing deficits that has the president's blessing. Savings would be accomplished through a mixture of tax increases and restraint in military and domestic spending.

Hart vows to stay in race

Walter Mondale is looking to Tuesday's next big round of primaries and offering himself as a latter-day Harry Truman, as Gary Hart insists he's not about to pull out of the Democratic presidential race despite two fresh losses.

Hart expected to pick up a victory today in his home state of Colorado, where Democrats hold local caucuses and 43 national convention delegates are at stake.

Mondale was conceding Colorado to campaign today in all four of the states holding primaries Tuesday — Indiana, Maryland, North Carolina and Ohio. A total of 368 convention delegates are at stake on that day.

Hart, trailing Mondale nearly two-to-one in delegates, was a loser twice Saturday. He finished second in Louisiana's primary behind the Rev. Jesse Jackson and in Texas caucuses behind Mondale.

The Texas loss was a particular blow, since Hart had staked much of his nomination hopes on a showing in the western states, among which Texas has the second largest number of delegates.

"The issue is not who wins states but who wins delegates," Hart said Sunday, contending that Mondale would score a net gain in delegates of only about 30 out of Texas and Louisiana.

Violent thunderstorms hit south

Violent thunderstorms hurled tornadoes and poured up to 6 inches of rain from the mid-Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic shore today, causing flooding that chased hundreds from their homes. At least four people were killed and one was missing.

The National Weather Service said at least 15 tornadoes touched down Sunday from Arkansas to South Carolina and the same storm system produced overnight rains that caused flooding across much of the Tennessee Valley, blocking highways and forcing schools to close.

The heaviest flooding came in Kentucky, where evacuations were under way in 11 counties, schools were closed in 10 counties and many highways were blocked by high water from two days of intensive rain.

In Letcher County today, the swollen Kentucky River surged out of its banks and trapped residents of Neon, with the center of town under 6 to 8 feet of water, said Fire Chief Carter Bevins.

"About 100 families have had to leave their homes, but there's no dry place to set up as a shelter and no way to get out of town," Bevins said. "If you want out, you're going to have to walk, or swim."

Up to 6 inches of rain had fallen in Kentucky, with that much more expected in places, and rivers were climbing as fast as 2 feet an hour.

"This storm could produce flooding that would give a replay of the severe floods of 1978," Dick Brown of the Kentucky office of Disaster and Emergency Services said today.

Man surrenders to police

ADDISON, Texas (AP) — A 50-year-old Addison man, despondent over losing his job, has surrendered to police after holding his wife and son hostage for three days, authorities said.

The ordeal ended at 10:15 p.m. Sunday, two hours after police officers surrounded the apartment building in this Dallas suburb where Jose Cal, armed with a sawed-off shotgun, was holding his son prisoner.

Ease up on entry to United States

Americans wishing to visit Europe need only a passport to enter the country of their choice. But foreigners who wish to visit the United States must pass a rigorous test, the McCarran-Walter Immigration Nationality Act. The law gives U.S. consular officials wide authority to deny visas not only to prostitutes, polygamists and psychopaths, but also to suspected communists, anarchists and anyone thought to be planning activities "prejudicial to the public interest." This relic of McCarthyism has no place in American law.

The McCarran-Walter Act has been used to keep out of the United States such distinguished writers as Gabriel Garcia Marquez, Carlos Fuentes, Graham Greene and Julio Cortazar. In 1982, it was invoked to prevent more than 300 peace activists from attending a U.N. disarmament debate. Last year, it blocked a visit by Hortensia de Allende, widow of the slain Chilean president. Most recently, it was used to turn away Roberto D'Aubuisson, the right-wing Salvadoran presidential candidate, and Ricardo Alarcon, the Cuban vice foreign minister. Thousands of others — teachers, artists, scientists and political officials — suffer the law's indignities every year.

State Department officials contend that all the would-be visitors held uncongenial views which would hurt the country. But what sort of damage do the officials fear? Surely they do not mean to argue that the foreigners' ideas are dangerous in themselves. Such an argument would contradict the philosophy behind the First Amendment: that all ideas deserve to be heard and discussed.

Stopping foreigners at the border simply because of their beliefs is a foolish practice. The McCarran-Walter Act tells the world that Americans are afraid of unconventional ideas and free speech. The act also violates the 1976 Helsinki accord, which commits all signers to "seek, receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers."

To end the hypocrisy, Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., has introduced legislation that would repeal the many provisions of the McCarran-Walter Act that empower the government to exclude visitors on political grounds. Frank's bill would limit exclusion to suspected spies, saboteurs and terrorists, and to people likely to endanger public safety or national security. Its passage would do away with a foolish and embarrassing law.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, May 7, the 128th day of 1984. There are 238 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On May 7, 1945, Germany signed an unconditional surrender at Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's headquarters in Rheims, France, ending the European stage of World War II.

On this date: In 1789, the first inaugural ball was held in New York in honor of President and Mrs. George Washington.

In 1833, composer Johannes Brahms was born in Hamburg, Germany.

In 1840, composer Petr Ilich Tchaikovsky was born in the Ural region of Russia.

In 1901, actor Gary Cooper was born in Helena, Mont.

In 1915, a German torpedo sank the British liner Lusitania off the Irish coast; nearly 1,200 people died, including more than 100 Americans.

In 1960, the Soviet Union announced that downed American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers would be tried as a spy.

Also in 1960, Leonid Brezhnev replaced Marshal Voroshilov as president of the Soviet Union.

Ten years ago: West Germany's governing Social Democrats named Finance Minister Helmut Schmidt to succeed Willy Brandt as chancellor.

Five years ago: The United States and Egypt tried unsuccessfully to pressure Israel to end its attacks on Palestinian positions in Lebanon.

One year ago: Sunny's Halo won the 109th running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs.

Today's birthdays: Actor Darren McGavin is 62 years old. Actress Anne Baxter is 61. Singer Teresa Brewer is 53. New Mexico Sen. Pete Domenici is 52. And former National Football League quarterback Johnny Unitas is 51.

Thought for today: "A straw vote only shows which way the hot air blows." — O. Henry, American writer (1862-1910).

The disgraceful Indian chronicle

WASHINGTON — For years I have been exposing the government's treachery toward American Indians. It has collaborated with their despoilers instead of protecting the tribes as it is supposed to do under solemn treaties. Murders of Indians go uninvestigated; white trading posts swindle Indians with impunity; Indian lands are leased by the government to greedy corporations and are left strewn with timber wastes, the earth torn up and the water polluted with mining poisons.

It is a disgraceful chronicle, and the latest chapter is remarkable only for its brazen attempt to use the Supreme Court to pull off one of the biggest, most outrageous land swindles in history. Here's the story:

Mary and Carrie Dann are two middle-aged Shoshone Indian sisters. For the past 10 years, they have been fighting the federal government's sneaky attempt to steal their land in northeastern Nevada.

The 6,000 acres involved would hardly seem worth the government's 10-year court fight — and it isn't. But if the government finally wins, it would set a legal precedent that could be used to take most of the 22 million acres of Shoshone land in Nevada — one-fifth of the state.

The Danns' troubles began when a Bureau of Land Management official demanded to see their permit for grazing cattle on federal land. The Danns replied that they didn't need a permit, because they owned the land. The bureaucrat didn't believe them, and charged the Danns with trespassing.

The Danns' defense rested on an 1863 treaty between the Shoshones and the United States. Though it gave the government certain access rights to the Shoshone land, the treaty did not give the government title.

In fact, when the government tried to pay the Shoshones for the land, the Indians refused to take the money. The Shoshones twice attempted to stop the proceedings, but the Indian Claims Commission in 1979 awarded the Shoshones $26 million anyway. The money is still sitting in a special Treasury account. If the Shoshones took the money, it would acknowledge the government's ownership.

In their trespassing case, the Danns argued that they owned their land despite the commission's attempt to pay. The government argued, somewhat absurdly, that just by its offer of payment it became the owner of the Shoshone land — and thus the Danns were trespassers.

This "Godfather" theory of real estate — making an offer that can't be refused — should strike fear in the heart of every homeowner in the country. You like that big house on the hill? Offer to buy it — at any price you choose — and it's yours. That's the government's argument in the Dann case. Even one of the government's attorneys admitted to my associate John Dillon that the case is a "technical one of procedural law."

The Dann sisters won in the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, but the government has taken the case to the Supreme Court. Solicitor-General Rex Lee told the court why in his petition for appeal.

"The 9th Circuit's reasoning could easily be extended to encompass much of the 22 million acres in Nevada that were the subject of the Indian Claims Commission litigation," Lee wrote. The disputed land includes parts of Nellis Air Force Base, the Nevada nuclear test site, Death Valley Monument, Toiyabe and Humboldt national forests and the Ruby Lake National Wildlife Refuge.

If the government wins, the self-sufficient Danns will be transformed into trespassers on their ancestral land, and will have to turn to the government for help.

"Those folks are going to pack up and go to town" if they lose, said Thomas Luebben, an attorney for the Danns. "The Justice Department is trying to make them into dependent Indians."

FLYNT'S CAMPAIGN: No one seems to know how much imprisoned porno publisher Larry Flynt raised in campaign contributions before he pulled out of the presidential race. If he raised more than $5,000, he must report the names of his contributors to the Federal Election Commission and tell what he did with the money.

So far, Flynt hasn't filed any detailed report, and a recent mailgram to the commission indicates that any required disclosure may be a long time in coming.

The publisher is now in the federal correctional institution at Butner, N.C., serving time for various contempt-of-court citations. His brother, Jimmy, has been appointed conservator of Flynt's considerable estate, and last month he told the commission: "Since the specter of Larry Flynt's competency has arisen in the legal proceeding, the 1983 year-end and subsequent reports for his political campaign have not been filed."

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Fighting terrorism with hot air

PARIS — "Terrorism is the newest form of war." So says the man I will call Mr. X, who heads anti-terrorist operations here in France, and who does not, for that reason, wish to be identified.

But while X has no doubts about the importance of terrorism as a political phenomenon, he entertains no illusions about the ease of combatting it. On the contrary, a cool, Cartesian analysis suggests that the disease will have to be lived with for a long, long time.

Two kinds of terrorism, according to X, work together in the modern world. First there are local minorities — often submerged nationalities — which engage in local terrorist activities against state authorities or well-known private institutions for the purpose of attracting sympathy and attention.

The Puerto Rican liberation movement constitutes such a group in the U.S. The Corsicans play a similar role in France; Kurds in Iraq and in Turkey; the Irish Republican Army in the British Isles; some Quebecers in Canada; the Sikhs in India; and the Moslems in the Philippines. These groups, together with left-wing revolutionary movements in Italy and Japan and Germany, provide a kind of sympathetic audience for another species of terrorism — the truly dangerous kind of terrorism, which is international.

International terrorism has as its main native habitat three revolutionary countries which work together to spread and promote the active use of terrorism for state, political goals. Iran heads the list, and Syria and Libya are close allies. The three sponsor training for groups of terrorists and for individual terrorists.

The Soviet Union and its friends in Eastern Europe, Cuba and Africa play a consenting role. They know about the terrorists and do nothing to stop them. Some they clearly abet. Mr. X has no hard evidence of a Communist role in the attempted assassination of the Pope. But he does not doubt that international communism was active in fomenting terror in Turkey during the late 1970s — with an eye toward actually disrupting the Turkish state.

While Iranian and Libyan natives are often used by the regimes of Tehran and Tripoli, their intelligence services are also adept at identifying groups with established political grievances, and giving them weapons, money and training. Thus the Palestinians, who have been so active in terrorism against Israel and its friends, seem to be mainly sponsored by the three revolutionary powers. The Armenian terrorism against Turkey, on the other hand, seems to be largely a Communist invention.

In theory, a good way to block terrorism would be to keep close tabs on the movements which furnish so many of the raw recruits. X believes, however, that the true activists rarely come from the official protest groups. On the contrary, he believes that when pressure is applied to such groups as the Palestine Liberation Organization, they tend to break into smaller factions.

It is the smaller and lesser-known factions who supply the terrorists. Thus dramatic actions rise when major groups with grievances sustain defeats. The PLO, having lost so heavily in Lebanon, now has small grouplets that have turned truly desperate.

Stopping the movement of the terrorists across international borders X regards as practically impossible. Even the U.S., which

As long as there has been a "younger generation," there has been talk of it going to hell in the proverbial handbasket.

The older set, of which I am a part, has railed long and loud against young people's looks, the clothes they wear, their manners, etc. This is only natural; however, in some cases I think we elders are suspect. After all, young people have only the examples of the older generation to follow. If we don't teach them what we consider society's best points, then we have little to complain about if a child doesn't meet our expectations. If we don't take an interest in what they're doing or in their needs, then we are lost.

The responsibility for the bulk of this "education" falls to parents. Institutions shouldn't have to teach a child about politeness, the difference between right and wrong, or what it means to be loyal to our commitments. These basic tenets should come from the home.

However — from what I have observed, and what teachers tell me — a growing number of parents are shirking their educational duties and responsibilities.

My wife, a teacher also, echoes those same sentiments to me daily. She says many students take no responsibility for assignments and will turn in work only partially completed, or not at all.

As an example, a veteran teacher told me not long ago that the biggest change he had seen in education was that an alarming number of students practically have to be coerced into doing their assignments. He also said parents many times make excuses for their child's lack of performance, or simply don't know the child isn't doing his work.

It seems some parents will go to severe lengths to avoid being accountable for their child's performance. I was told of a set of parents that told a teacher their child — one who was not doing his work — was a genius. He was bored by the assignments she was giving so he simply didn't do them. However, the student's academic record contained no evidence of this great intelligence.

Now, society is already plagued by irresponsibility. "It's not my fault" and "it's not my job" are heard daily. If we, as parents, can't even teach our children to be responsible for their homework, how will they fare at holding a job, at marriage...?

It's simply time for parents to become aware of the needs of their children and take charge in guiding them down the right paths.

Dr. Donohue

Prednisone used in some cancers

Dear Dr. Donohue: You have discussed the use of prednisone in various conditions, but I have never seen you discuss its use in the treatment of cancer. My son has acute lymphocytic leukemia and his protocol calls for him to take prednisone. How does prednisone work to kill cancer cells? All his other medicines lower his white blood count. Prednisone raises his white cell count. Can you tell me how prednisone can raise his white count so much yet still be considered a cancer-fighting drug? — L.S.B.

Steroids, of which prednisone is one example, are used to treat certain cancers, especially lymphocytic leukemia and lymphoma, cancer of the lymph nodes. Your question is a good one, which I'll try to answer as simply as I can.

Prednisone destroys lymphocytes, which are the kind of white blood cells produced in excess in lymphocytic leukemia, your son's cancer. It also seems to stop those white cells from dividing so rapidly.

But if the medicine is killing those white cells you would expect the total count to drop. Yet, the count actually rises. How come? Because the medicine causes a release of another type of white blood cell (granulocytes) from their storage depots in the body.

Granulocytes are not involved in the cancer process of lymphocytic leukemia. They are, as I said, another kind of white cell. So even though the drug is killing the cancerous white cells (lymphocytes) the total white cell count rises, reflecting the rising granulocyte level.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What is the name and title, etc. of a doctor who treats men only? I mean if they wanted to get a checkup to find out if there is a problem that might be causing them not to perform sexually as well as they think they should. This is very important to me. — Anon.

The name of such a doctor is your family physician. He treats both men and women with sexual problems, and if he can't help he can direct you to a doctor who specializes in that area. But you should start with him.

For one reason, he knows your medical history intimately and he can consider many factors, some of which might reflect a particular ailment or a particular medication you may be taking. That's just an example.

There are many factors to consider when evaluating a person's sexuality — psychological, physical and medicinal. You can bet that if you start with your regular doctor you will be off to a good start in solving your problem, whatever it might be.

Dear Dr. Donohue: How many fat calories in a hot dog? — F.F.

There are about 175 fat calories in a standard hot dog. It doesn't take a great many of them to reach the limit of your ideal daily fat intake. You can figure on approximately the same saturated fat intake from other processed meats. And, of course, there is a lot of sodium in both foods.

"Bad Breath Can Be Corrected" is the title of a booklet by Dr. Donohue explaining the causes and cures of bad breath. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Abby

Mother's young lover is one son too many

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 29-year-old divorced mother of two boys. I own my own home and am presently involved with a 20-year-old man. We've been living together for two years. It was my idea that he move in. He wanted to marry me, but I hesitated because of one failed marriage.

He's very intelligent, responsible for his age and is great with my kids, but he shows his immaturity by constantly flirting and collecting girl's phone numbers.

Last week I wasn't feeling very well so I came home early. I let myself in, and when I went into our bedroom I found him in bed with a young girl. (Both our pictures had been turned facedown on the dresser!) The girl said she was sorry — she didn't know he was "married" and she had just met him an hour ago! I told him to pack his clothes and get out. He's been gone a week and wants to come back. This is not the first time something like this has happened. He lies and can't be trusted. Do you think the difference in our ages has anything to do with this? I miss him. Should I take him back? He's good in bed.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: He should be good in bed. He's probably had a lot of practice. I think the difference in your ages has a lot to do with it. He's still a little boy who needs mothering. You need a man, not another son. Don't let him come back. He's using you.

Watson's patience pays off in TC title

By The Associated Press
CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Tom Watson knew the slump was over.

It was, he said, just a matter of proving it.

"It's been a patience game with me for the last six weeks," Watson said Sunday after his convincing, front-running, 5-shot victory in the MONY-Tournament of Champions, an elite gathering of winners only from the PGA Tour for the last 12 months.

"I had to go back to fundamentals, just hit it and find it, not let one shot bother you, not put too much pressure on yourself," Watson said.

"It was just a matter of time, and not a long time, before I won again. I talked to Byron (his friend and mentor, Byron Nelson) last week and told him I thought I'd win in the next four weeks.

"Then I got myself in position on Saturday and I just told myself I was gonna go out and do it."

He did. Armed with a 2-shot lead starting the final round, he ripped a 4-wood second shot to within 15-18 feet of the flag for an eagle-3 on the second hole. And he never looked back, winning handily with a 5-under-par 67 and a 274 total, 14 shots under par on the tough La Costa Country Club course.

It was his third victory in the Tournament of Champions and second of the season. With a runner-up finish in the Masters, a victory at the Match Play championship, a leading money-winning total of $204,468, and a run-away here, hasre-established ham as tim as the dominant figure in the game.

"It feels awfully good to win a tournament in the style in which I did," said Watson, who acquired the 30th victory of his American tour career and advanced to a tie for 10th on the all-time winning list.

In the seniors T of C, a new event for the over-50 champions played on the same course and from the same tees, "Ol' Sarge" Orville Moody matched par 72 over the last 18 holes and scored an unchallenged, 7-shot victory. After making birdies on three of the first four holes, Moody had a 9-shot lead and simply coasted home, collecting a $30,000 first prize on his 288 total.

Dan Sikes had the best round of the week for the seniors, a 69, and was second at 295.

Watson, a 5-time Player of the Year, went into a deep, puzzling slump for more than a season. Even though he collected his fifth British Open title last season, and won the Match Play early this year he still had troubles. At one stretch, he missed the cut at three consecutive tournaments.

He started back two months ago, slowly, gradually improving.

"I played some decent golf," he said. "It was just a matter of putting four solid rounds together."

And it all fell into place in this one, "one of the tournaments that get me pumped up," he said. "I did what I had to do."

DEJECTION — Derek Harper of the Dallas Mavericks bites a towel as he watches the Mavericks lose to the Los Angeles Lakers in overtime Sunday in Dallas. Harper dribbled away the last few seconds of regulation thinking Dallas held the lead. Los Angeles leads the NBA playoff series three games to one.

Time warp does in Mavericks, 122-115

By The Associated Press
With the score tied and Dallas controlling the ball in the final seconds, Mavericks Coach Dick Motta looked on in dismay at what was happening in front of him.

A golden opportunity to win the game and deadlock the best-of-seven National Basketball Association playoff series with the Los Angeles Lakers was dribbled away by rookie guard Derek Harper, who thought the Mavericks were ahead. Instead, the game went into overtime and the Lakers took a 3-1 series lead with a 122-115 victory Sunday.

"When I saw Derek backing up it hit me that he doesn't know the score or the time," Motta said. "I wanted to tackle him."

"I always preach time and score," added Motta. "It's a heavy burden and an unfortunate thing to happen to a young player like that."

"I thought he had lost his mind," Los Angeles center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar said of Harper.

In other playoff games Sunday, Phoenix took a 3-1 lead over Utah with a 111-110 overtime victory and New York beat Boston 118-113 to even their series 2-2. New Jersey beat Milwaukee 106-99 Saturday for a 2-2 deadlock in their second-round matchup.

The Lakers were thrilled to get out of Dallas with a split of the two games and a commanding lead in the series.

"Every time we play at Reunion, it's a barnburner," Coach Pat Riley said of the Mavericks' home arena. "I can only think of one game here in three years where we didn't go into overtime or the final buzzer."

KNICKS 118, CELTICS 113
Bernard King scored 43 points, his fifth time over the 40-point mark in nine playoff games, to lift New York to its second home playoff victory after two losses in Boston.

King hit 17 of 25 shots from the floor and was a royal thorn in the Celtics' side all day, scoring 14, seven, 11 and 11 points in each successive quarter. In the second period, he sat out five minutes because of foul trouble.

SUNS 111, JAZZ 110
Maurice Lucas sank two free throws with four seconds left in overtime gave Phoenix its victory over visiting Utah after Walter Davis saved the Suns from defeat.

"When the first one went in, I had to step back to get my heart going again," said Lucas, who scored 26 points. "But the second one was the fun one. I had that one all the way."

Davis scored a career playoff high of 32 points and hit three baskets when it appeared the Jazz would win.

Rozelle sees stability in NFL

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle says the league could lose $14 million in 1985, due in part to a rival league, but says that the NFL still is the most stable around.

"You've got to understand, the owners have had to withstand three pretty good hits in a relatively short time," Rozelle told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in an interview published Sunday.

He said that individual club losses will average $3 million by 1986, the last year of the league's $2.1 billion television contract.

Rozelle said the 1982 NFL players' strike cost the league about $200 million and that the league also has been affected adversely by the rival United States Football League — and the resulting increase in player salaries — and the Los Angeles Raiders anti-trust case.

But Rozelle, who made the remarks during last week's NFL draft, suggested the league may still be the stables, most robust sports league around.

"In all our discussions, I'd say there weren't more than six (owners) interested in moving up the date of the draft," Rozelle said. "We felt enough good players would stay, and we could avoid a situation where we'd be fighting ghosts."

No final decision on moving the draft would be made until as late as October, Rozelle said.

Rozelle also said the successful antitrust case brought against the NFL by the Raiders, who moved from Oakland to Los Angeles in 1982 without league permission, has created a state of "franchise free agency." That was the reason the league did not challenge the recent move of the Colts from Baltimore to Indianapolis, he said.

However, a bill has been filed in the Senate that would prohibit by law any franchise moves without league approval. The measure would be retroactive to include both the Colts and the Raiders.

"We didn't finance the bill or cause it to be introduced," Rozelle said. "We testified . . . and basically described to them how, at our present state, with the decision regarding the Raiders, our hands are tied as far as franchise moves."

Rozelle also said he hopes the league's policy of all teams sharing equally in the television package will be protected by legislation.

"There is a concern on the part of the clubs that, when the television package expires after the '86 season, just as the Raiders' move opened the gates for the Baltimore move, the same thing could happen to our television package," Rozelle said.

"If they wanted to, I suppose teams could choose to strike their own deals," he said. "Dallas could make a great deal with, say, HBO (Home Box Office). Rankin Smith in Atlanta could make a deal with Turner (Broadcasting System)."

Decker breaks own standard

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Mary Decker broke her own American record for a 10,000-meter loop road race course Sunday, coasting to victory in 31 minutes, 37.77 seconds.

The mark in the Women's 10,000-Meter Run bettered her old American mark of 31:52.2 set in the same race last year. It was only the third time Decker has run a 10,000-meter race — twice in a road race and once on a track.

The 25-year-old Decker, who lives in Eugene, burst away from the pack and was running by herself after the first 200 meters of the race, which was run on bicycle paths along the Willamette River.

"I'm happy," she said. "It's a better time than I had last year and I had a pretty good year last year."

A total of 275 women were entered in the race, which is sponsored by the Oregon International Track Club.

Canadian Ranza Clark of the University of Oregon was a distant second at 35:10.09.

Decker, world record holder at 5,000 meters and the winner of the 1,500- and 3,000-meters at last year's World Track and Field Championships, says she plans to enter the mile run at next weekend's Pepsi Invitational meet in Los Angeles.

East Texas athlete signs with HC

Howard College women's basketball coach Don Stevens has another player in the fold for the 1984-85 season with the signing of Carthage's Vicki Wade.

Wade attended HC during the spring semester to establish her eligibility for next fall since she chose not to enter college following graduation from Carthage High School in 1983.

Wade started for CHS for three years. During her junior year the 5-11 athlete, whom Stevens calls, "a very versatile player," helped lead Carthage to a berth in the state tournament where Carthage lost the title game to Del Valle. In that junior season Wade was All-District, All-East Texas and All-Tournament at the state tourney.

During her senior year Carthage won District, bi-district and advanced to the regional tournament where she averaged 15.2 points per game and 12 rebounds a contest. She was again selected All-District and All-East Texas.

"Vicki is a very strong and aggressive player and an excellent rebounder," said Stevens. "She is versatile enough to play either inside or outside for us. I predict she will be one of the truly fine players in the WJAC next year," he added.
