An official total at the Big Spring Experiment Station Friday morning showed that .71 of an inch had fallen in Big Spring during the year. That totals out to the unofficial 1.06 of an inch of rain.

In the Elbow community, a resident called the Herald about 6 p.m. to report 1.03 inches of rain fell Friday afternoon.

The rainfall, all of which was recorded after 4 p.m., was the first significant rain of the day for the Elbow-Forsan area. Heavy showers hit Big Spring about 4:30 p.m. Friday afternoon after several lighter showers throughout the day. Some light street flooding was noted in the downtown area about 5 p.m. By six p.m., the sun was again shining and water run-off

Showers bring relief

By the Associated Press

Showers and thunderstorms Friday brought welcome relief to residents of south Texas, some of whom had not seen rain for almost two months, while cooler temperatures helped slow the melt of a near-record snowpack in the Rockies.

At Brownsville, Texas, the 2.60 inches of rain that fell Friday morning made it the rainiest May 18 ever; the previous ecord was 1.59 inches in 1968.

The rain also caused the suspension of the Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament on Friday afternoon in Fort Worth. Palacios, Victoria, Corpus Christi, San Antonio and Houston also had heavy rainfalls. Thunderstorms generated tornadoes near Seminole, Texas, and Hobbs, N.M., the weather service reported.

Runoff from the spring snowmelt eased slightly across the Rockies, but the weather service said many rivers are still near or above flood stage and will likely stay high for the Sunny to partly cloudy skies dominated the weather across much of the rest of the country, although cloudy skies and scattered showers prevailed from southeast Colorado, across northeast Nebraska and southern lower Michigan into western Pennsylvania and in coastal sections of Washington and Oregon. Cloudy skies were the rule from New York state to eastern Virginia.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 p.m. EDT ranged from 45 degrees at DuBois, Pa., to 96 at Gila Bend, Ariz. New record lows for the date were set at Atlantic City, N.J., 39; Hartford, Conn., 31; Columbia, S.C., 41; Jackson-

In the junior division of the same contest, Howard County teammates Lex Christie, Vance Christie, Duncan Hamlin and Jimmy Miller placed second in overall team competition.

They also swept second place in team reasons, beef judging, swine judging and sheep judging

Duncan placed fourth in individual standings and sixth in reasons, and Jimmy placed fifth in individuals and ninth in reasons.

Lex placed fourth in reasons, while his brother Vance places seventh in reasons and third in high individual overall scoring.

Avery, Weeks honored at community luncheon

By JIM BROWN Staff writer

Johnnie Lou Avery and George Weeks both received awards for their contributions to the community Friday during a Chamber of Commerce community luncheon held in the Dorothy Garrett

The luncheon was hosted by the Big Spring Rotary Club and sponsored by radio station KBYG.

Mrs. Avery was awarded the "Women in Business Advocate" award by the U.S. Small Business Administration. The regional award was presented to Mrs. Avery by Bill Longley, District Representative for Congressman Charles Stenholm.

William Beaucamp, from the Lubbock SBA office said, "Johnnie Lou has been a strong voice for this area for many years. The fact that she continually fights for a stronger educational ststem promoting free enterprise demonstrates that she is a true advocate of small business.

Mrs. Avery was nominated for the award by the local Chamber of Commerce

George Weeks received the first Small Business Person of the Year award. The award was conceived by the Business Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Jerry Reid said in presenting the award, "Weeks has been an inspiration to local merchants. His professionalism personifies the small businessman that has done well." Johnny Rutherford, one of the originators of a Big Spring cleanup campaign, told the group that C.L.E.A.N. would be contacting local businessmen in the coming weeks asking that they hire students in the organization to clean up Big Spring. Sherrie Bordofske updated the group on plans for a barbcue cookoff during the rodeo.

Chamber officials said this veekend will be one of the busiest of the year for the chamber. The group is helping sponsor the Pro-Am golf tournament, a Health Fair at Big Spring Mall and is urging its members to participate in the Rainbow Project's Rainbow

Connection. Claudia Patterson and Don Fisher told the group that plans for Summerfest, a fund raising event scheduled to benefit the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, will be July 4. The new event will be patterned on the "Network Battle of the Stars" series and involves teams sponsored by local Independent oil and gas operators often buy oil and gas leases from individuals, but frequently sell those leases to major oil companies.

In the ruling Friday, the IRS said that oil and gas producers and royalty owners must convert the dollar figure of the bonus payment into the number of barrels of oil that could be purchased by the amount of the payment. Scoggins said conversion of the payment was necessary to comply with the legal limitation of 1,000 barrels per day for which the depletion allowance could be deducted.

The depletion allowance was available on bonus and advance royalty payments from 1934 until 1975. At that time, Congress made a change in the law that was interpreted by IRS as excluding the to 1975, oil and gas must have been percentage depletion deduction produced on the lease property from those payments.

Senate adopts package to dry up federal red ink

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate on Friday adopted a budget blueprint reflecting a $141 billion deficit-reduction package adopted a day earlier, clearing the way for congressional negotiators to draft a compromise between that plan and a Housepassed measure.

Congress now has come further than expected in its election-year effort to cut federal budget deficits, but a series of pitfalls remain before a "down payment" on trimming the red ink can be made.

Specifically, the House and Senate negotiators must find a compromise that satisfies both President Reagan, who gave his blessing to the Senate plan, and Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., who championed the $182 billion House package.

"It seemed to many of us that we're only going to get what the president and the speaker of the House, (Thomas P.) Tip O'Neill, will agree to. And I think that's somewhere in the neighborhood of about $150 billion over three years," said Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., chairman of the Finance Committee.

The Senate Thursday night followed the House in adopting legislation aimed at reducing federal red ink, leaving it to negotiators from both chambers to agree on a compromise between the packages of increased taxes and curbs on domestic and military spending.

House and Senate negotiators are expected to begin work in early June to work out the compromise.

The Senate voted Friday 41-34 to adopt a budget blueprint that reflects the deficit-reduction actions taken Thursday. The blueprint, which anticipates the government spending nearly $182 billion more than it takes in next year, will serve as a guide for Senate committees, especially the Appropriations Committee.

In acting Friday, the Senate also made room in the budget plan for Congress to later enact a 10 percent increase in benefits paid under the G.I. Bill. Such benefits have not been increased since 1980.

Meanwhile, the Senate Budget Committee staff revised downward its estimate of the total of the deficit-reduction package adopted Thursday night, saying the actions it contemplates would reduce deficits by $140.6 billion over the next three years The package had previously been estimated to total $144 billion.

"For the good of the country, I urge House members to join their Senate colleagues in moving this package through conference so it can be enacted into law as swiftly as possible," Reagan said after the Senate acted Thursday night.

The three-year Senate package, virtually unchanged from the plan Reagan announced in a White House Rose Garden ceremony in March, includes: -About $48 billion in tax increases.

-Separate ceilings, legislated "caps," on annual domestic and military appropriations over the next

-Holding military spending to about 7 percent growth after inflation

Briefing probe delayed

WASHINGTON - The Reagan administration won a temporary delay Friday of a court order that an independent counsel investigate how the 1980 Reagan campaign obtained briefing papers from the Carter White House.

A three-judge federal appeals court panel suspended an order that would force Attorney General William French Smith to appoint the independent counsel. The panel granted an indefinite delay pending its own review.

An eight-month Justice Department investigation concluded in February that there was no credible evidence that any law was violated in the Reagar campaign's acquisition of Carter White House documents and of President Carter's briefing papers for his 1980 campaign debate with Ronald Reagan.

But last Monday, U.S. District Judge Harold H. Greene gave Smith seven days to apply to a special federal appeals court panel to name an independent counsel - formerly called a special

School ends, dangers begin

Summer vacation is a dangerous time of year for school-age children. Nearly half the fatal accidents involving school-age children occur during the three months of the year when school is not in session.

As children have more time for recreation, summer work and just "messing around," the chances of an accident increase. But parents can do several simple things to reduce the summertime dangers to their children.

If young people are told how to spot and avoid situations in which accidents are likely to occur, and are restricted from dangerous activities, they have a better chance of avoiding a tragic accident. Many activities are not dangerous when carried out properly, but become dangerus when a heavy dose of youthful exuberance is added.

A safe ride on a three-wheeler is possible, but only when using a helmet, off public roads, without passengers, and with precautions recommended by manufacturers. Speed, extra riders and lack of helmets are fatal combinations with recreational vehicles.

One common cause of serious accidents is riding in the back of pickups, on trailers or tractors. There will be several kids in the back and the driver will be heading down a country road toward the swimming hole and hit a good sized bump and all of a sudden someone isn't back there anymore.

Youngsters also need to learn water safety, to avoid the many swimming and diving accicents. Check to be sure that an adequate number of safety minded people will be in charge of youth activities, or volunteer to help

Idle time is often a time of tragedy for children. If kids can get on top of something they'll climb up, if they can get under it they'll crawl under, and then either fall off it or it falls on them.

During the summer parents must be especially careful about leaving chemicals or equipment in garages, barns or sheds where children can get at them without

Many parents or car pool drivers do not use their seat belts. Since children learn by observing, it's important that all drivers buckle up themselves and make sure all youngsters are buckled up before starting the car.

It's estimated that between 14,000 and 18,000 lives could be saved each year if all passenger car occupants used seat belts at all times. Many of these lives are those of children being driven to and from school or other activities. Good habits are acquired. Wearing seat belts is a good habit.

DEAR ABBY: "Gary," the man I live with, informed me on Saturday night that we would have to be out of the house on Sunday afternoon because he promised to do his friend "Johnny" a favor. When I asked him what kind of favor, he told me that Johnny wanted to use our house to meet with his lawyer. Johnny is married and has two young children. Well, I came home a little early and was shocked to discover that Johnny was using the house to commit adultery!

Dr. Donohue

F.I.T. for fitness

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 23-year-old woman who has in the past few months been on a regular routine of swimming. I swim at least three days a week for an hour at a time. My pace is slow, steady, continous. I've noticed a marked lowering of my heart rate when at rest, long after the exercise. Besides this, what are the benefits of this kind of exercise? Is it important to try to increase speed and length of time in the water? - D.R.

The lower pulse (heart) rate is evidence of increasing heart strength. It pumps more blood with each beat, so has to pump fewer times to get its job done. If that's all an exercise program accomplished, it would be enough.

But to your question. I've talked about requirements for reaching and maintaining a stronger heart many times. Let me give you an acronym that might put it in better perspective. It's F.I.T. It stands for "frequency," "intensity" and "time" (or duration) of exercise. Here's how it's put into action. "F" - You have to exercise three times a week. "I" — You have to exercise with an intensity that raises your heart rate to a training level "T" - You have to exercise at that level for at least 15 minutes each session. For a 23-year-old woman the training heartbeat is considered about 150. As for the duration, you should try to keep your heart beating that fast for the 15 minutes. Exercising for 30 minutes or more this way three times a week won't make you any fitter. It might make you a better competitive swimmer, but the three sessions of 15 minutes each at the heart rate I mention is sufficient

The other benefits? A lowering of blood pressure is one. A reduction in blood fats is another. Prevention of osteoporosis (especially for a woman) is still another.

Let me return to your question about speed of swimming. I hope it is clear this is the intensity part of the acronym. As long as your present speed is getting your heart up to the training level, then that's intensity enough. And if you want to increase that, OK, so long as you are in good enough shape to do it.

I told Gary that I no longer

for your garden

Planting fancy-leaved caladiums

Although frequently sold in the very early spring, caladiums should not be planted until nights become warmer and days become more summer like. All too often, caladiums are planted in March and April and they rot in the ground. But once the soil temperature warms up, these fancy-leaved beauties can add grace to your landscape.

Caladiums add coolness to summer gardens and are easy to grow, provided the grower observes a few basic growth requirements. Plant the caladium tuber in moderately rich, well prepared soil in a shaded or partially shaded location. The graceful caladium is rugged, but will not tolerate the hot summer sun. They, too, like a moist yet never soggy or poorly drained soil. Give the caladium adequate moisture and good drainage. Overwatering in poorly drained soils will decay the fleshy tubers or roots. The tubers should be planted 2 inches deep and approximately 18 inches apart. Pack the soil firmly around them when planting.

Started plants are usually available and may be planted throughout the summer. Caladiums prefer a well prepared garden soil containing large amounts of organix material such prefer protection from hot afternoon sun, and plenty of moisture.

If caladiums are started early indoors, or purchased sprouted in pots, harden them to outdoor conditions by gradually exposing to outof-door light and temperatures. For easy plants, sprout the tubers in moist peat moss, sand or loose soil. Set into larger pots or in garden beds as soon as the roots begin to spread. If a bloom bud shoots up, pinch it off or the plant will be robbed of the food which could be used for leaf production. Colors range from pinks to reds and several variations of green and white. One reason for the popularity of green and white varieties is the cooling effect of their color combination and the fact that the white leaves reflect light so effectively and are attractive even under outdoor lighting conditions

The colorful leaves of the caladium may also be cut and used as indoor decoration. If the freshly cut stems are plunged into hot and then cold water, they will usually last for several days. The water should be as hot as the hand can bear. The stems should be allowed to stay wet in the hot water until they have cooled then placed in the watering will need to be checkcold water from the hydrant. Even as peat moss or compost. They also wilted leaves can sometimes be revived with this hot-and-cold water treatment.

> The popular 'Candidum' variety is snow white with green netted veins. This showy variety brightens the usual dark shaded areas of the garden and is particularly handsome when interplanted with white geranium, white petunia, variegated vinca or hydrangea

'Lord Derby' has a pink or rose-colored leaf with almost transparent edges, while 'Crimson Wave' has a showy crimson, crinkled center. 'Red Ensign' provides a rich metallic red summer color. and 'Spangled Banner' has a red glow with pink spots.

Regardless of the variety, caladiums are most showy and effective when the same variety is used for large displays or plantings of the same color rather than the spotted effects of different varieties mixed in the garden.

Caladiums, too, make an easy-togrow and attractive pot or tub plant, for a shaded spot on the patio or entrance area. Due to the drying of pots during the summer heat,

White washes Black, 3-2 Texas rains fail to dampen

The Big Spring Steers wrap-ped up their 1984 Spring training with the annual Black and Gold contest Friday night at Memorial Stadium where the White team withstood several turnovers to score three touchdowns to the Black team's Vance Cole got things going for the White when he raced 50-yards. The Black team did not get anything going until its third possession and then it needed defense to do that.

Using a good mix of run and pass, the Black team moved 30 yards to the 35 of the White before the drive stalled. Terry Spers pounced on a loose White ball on the ensuing play to set up a 35-yard td pass from Carl Speck to Sammy Bauchum.

Behind the running of Harry Marquez and the slick direction of the option by Paul Decker, however the White managed to score twice more before the Black tallied its final mark.

Decker went 10 and 16 yards, the final to the end zone, after a 25-yard run by Marquez took the White from deep in its own

John Hart went one yard for the White's final score, capping a 65-yard drive that took nine plays — the big one of which was a 42-yard pass from Decker to Randy Hayworth. Decker also ripped off a 22-yard scamper in the march Speck cranked up his throwing arm and showed a toughness that will come in handy this Fall when he came back to Billy Russell for an eight yard scoring pass. On the preceeding play the two had connected, but Russell was out of the end zone.

DEFENSE = TURNOVERSBoth defenses had their share of ballhawks with the Black's Luis Davila leading the way with a pair of fumble recoveries. Stacey Kilgore and Marcos Ramos intercepted passes for the Black and Ramos also found a fumble

Colin Carrol blocked one pass for the White while teammate Mike Cahill was able to make his presence known. Head coach Quinn Eudy said afterward he was pleased with both aspects of the Steers' game and expects good things in the Fall. "I was especially happy with our offense. It is young and going in we were concerned about the line and runningback. I think that offense made ing though," he said. He added, "Defensively we didn't show a whole lot. We ran our basic lineup, but found some hitters and we still managed to contain things pretty well.

The Steers begin their season this Fall against Snyder.

Morgan's Colonial parade

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Although ambushed by a double bogey in a rain squall, Gil Morgan missed the worst of the weather, nursed home a 3-under-par 67 and took a one stroke lead Friday in the rain-delayed second round of the $500,000 Colonial National Invitation Tournament.

Morgan, who has won six titles in 11 seasons on the PGA Tour, finished two trips over the Colonial Country Club course in 133, seven shots under par. Play was held up for 53 minutes some greens and tees became briefly flooded - shortly after Morgan finished. Rain, ranging from drizzle to downpour, continued most of the day and turned the course from sun-baked to soggy and spotted with pools and puddles of casual water.

Morgan, one of the first men off the tee, got in most of his round before the rains came.

He was standing on the tee on the par-3 16th when the first shower swept over the course. And he promptly flew the green with his shot, attempted to rush his second and moved the ball some four feet, chipped again, then missed a 4-foot

"A catastrophe," he said. "I think the rain upset my composure a little bit. It unnerved me."

IOC issues strong statement over Soviet Olympic boycott

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) The Soviet Union repeated Friday its refusal to call off its boycott of the Summer Games and the International Olympic Committee deplored the withdrawal, saying it considered the move unjustified. The IOC issued its statement at the end of an emergency meeting where U.S. representatives proposed a bilateral agreement with Moscow to keep politics out of the Games.

'The commission for the Olympic movement deplored this decision, which deprives the athletes of the possibility of meeting and competing in an atmosphere of friendPresident Juan Antonio Samaranch said in a statement prepared by the IOC's top members Samaranch called the special session as a last-ditch effort to try to persuade the Soviets to reverse the boycott. Asked if he thought Soviet concerns on Olympic security and commercialization were valid, Samaranch said, "No, I don't think so.'

Peter V. Ueberroth, Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee president, said he failed to understand why the Soviets were boycotting the Olympics for security ship and good understanding," IOC reasons, but sending a contingent of up to 200 judges, journalists and officials to help with the Games.

'There seems to be an inconsistency that we're trying to discuss with our friends at the Soviet National Olympic Committee," Ueberroth said

Soviet NOC chief Marat Gramov sat silently through much of the news conference, but left when Ueberroth began to address

Asked earlier Friday if the Soviet Union would reverse its stand, Gramov said: "The decision is sion of Big Spring's 1984 Spring training.

Approximately 400 Big Spring physicals last weekend at the Malone-Hogan Hospital Clinic. The number represents about 75 percent of the athletes who have indicated they will be participating in BSISD sports programs for grades seven through 12 according to Everett Blackburn, athletic trainer for the BSISD.

And according to Malone-Hogan nursing director Shirleen Brown, who organized the one day for physicals, "All labor was donated." Free time from local physicians also kept the cost of the physicals, which included electrocardiograms and lab work,

In addition to the usual medical faces that helped, about 50 volunteers that were comprised of Malone-Hogan employees, Howard College LVN students also turned

According to Blackburn the physicals were given earlier than usual because of a, "better line of communication with the athletes at this time of year." He added that in previous years the physicals were done during the summer, but doing the physicals before the end of school is expected to help alleviate the loss of practice tie this fall. Several more physical days are planned for athletes from Forsan, Coahoma and other schools in the Howard County Area.

EYES, EARS, NOSE, THROAT - Tris Clemons (right) is checked by Dr. Brad Glass of Malone-Hogan Clinic during the physical day held at the clinic, Cleomons is a junior at BSHS. Approximately 75 percent of all prospective BSISD athletes received physicals.

The Athletic Department of Big Spring I.S.D. wishes to say "THANK YOU" in a big way to the people listed below for their volunteer service in helping with the athletic physicals given last Saturday, May 12, 1984. Your help was greatly appreciated.

Texans less optimistic about state's economy

HOUSTON (AP) - A Houstonbased bank holding company's first statewide consumer confidence index shows Texans are not as confident about the state's economy as the average American feels about the national economy.

First City Bancorporation's initial index, released Thursday, was based on a survey of 1,008 Texans, who were asked the same five questions contained in the national consumer index compiled by the University of Michigan.

The bank's first report produced an index of 99.5 for March, compared with 101.0 for the national outlook for the same month.

First City officials expected the

"The difference is minimal but ! would have expected it to be the other way around," Charles T Franckle, First City vice president and chief economist, said. "We normally think of Texans as being more optimistic than the rest of the nation.

Texans are generally optimistic about the present and future, Fran

"It (the state figure) is close to 100 and the national figure of 101.0 for March was an 18-year high, Franckle said.

Answers to the first question showed that 46 percent in the survey felt they were better off this year than last year.
