Spring Tax board votes for rollback

Chief appraiser asked to return values to '82-'83 levels

By KEELY COGHLAN

Staff Writer Directors for the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District in an emergency meeting today approved a motion, 3-2, that recommends the district's chief tax appraiser roll back 1984 valuations to the 1982-83 appraised values.

On the heels of that resolution came action by Chairman Billy T. Smith to dismiss a motion by Harold Pierce to "terminate" Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira with 30 days' notice. Smith dismissed Pierce's motion because a prior motion for adjournment had been made and seconded, and took precedence over other business, he said.

News reporters sitting about 10 feet from the board members agreed that they did not hear anyone make a motion for adjournment.

In a motion made by board member Rob Roberson of Forsan. the board recommended that appraised values - which went up 150 percent in some cases this year be lowered more than the original 10 percent decrease Pereira already said he would grant all home owners.

The resolution exempts new construction, partially constructed buildings, personal property and real property located along F.M. 700 from the rollback.

Board members Pierce and D.D. Johnston opposed Roberson's motion, which was supported by Ar-

However, the number of appeals filed this year is "not near the number that was filed in 1982," Mrs. Mitchel said.

Smith emphasized during the meeting that the board had no control over Pereira's appraisals under recent tax law changes, and said the motion was a recommendation only.

But Johnston stood up and announced he would call for Pereira's resignation if the chief appraiser did not follow the recommendation.

"If he don't do it (follow the recommendation), I guarantee I'll make a motion that we fire him," Johnston said.

His statement was greeted by loud clapping from most of the 200 people gathered in the county courtroom, its doorway and the courthouse hall, and by some voices who urged that he make the motion

Shaw juggles 'hot' topics at local meeting

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

Rep. Larry Don Shaw, (D-Big Spring), talked about several "hot" topics ranging from education to taxes during a town hall meeting Monday at the county courthouse

Shaw told about 50 people gathered at the meeting that, "I feel like we're close to a special session" in the T e x a s

Legislature. He said the session may fall around

June 4. He said primary topics of action at the session will be education reforms, highways, and funding for these projects.

Funding projects being discussed are the five cent a gallon gasoline tax, the one cent sales tax, and a "sin tax."

Shaw said the sluggish economy makes tax increases unpopular with the public, but he said people need to weigh the importance of education and highways against the cost factors.

The five cents a gallon gasoline tax and the one cent sales tax "pass the (tax) burden to a greater number of people.'

One woman in the audience asked Shaw about "more railway service" in Texas.

Shaw talked about a "triangular system" under consideration in Houston, Dallas and San Antonio. However, rail service in West Texas "is not cost effective for passengers." He added that, '(Rail service) is cheaper for shipping heavier goods. 'Some form of a rail system makes sense," Shaw said.

Shaw also was asked about alternatives to the one cent sales tax

Shaw said he had heard talk about certain tax exemptions and 'a half-cent sales tax increase instead of a full cent. The debate is just now starting."

He has also heard discussions on "sunset" taxes which "are not permanent. They will be phased out" is the state's economy rebounds. "I'm hoping all the alternatives

COLDSPRING, Texas (AP) - A tornado destroyed a mobile home, damaged two brick houses and downed about 100 trees Monday as thunderstorms battered Southeast Texas and spawned a flash flood watch in the area, officials

The tornado touched down at about 4:40 p.m., said Pat Russell, dispatcher for the sheriff's department in neighboring Polk County, who was handling calls for San Jacinto County because phone service there was knocked out by the

There were no injuries, but about 100 trees were downed by the twister, she said.

"We're all saying our prayers," Mrs. Russell said. "It (the sky) is looking green again."

In Walker County to the northwest, Huntsville street supervisor Sam Park said several roads were closed because of flooding.

The National Weather Service said the storm was caused by the interaction of moist unstable air over the state's eastern half with a stable front.

Severe thunderstorm warnings were issued for a number of Southeast Texas counties: A flash flood watch was issued because of the threat of more heavy rains on the already saturated ground, the weather service said.

Otherwise, Texas was sunny over the western sections and fair to partly cloudy over the east. Afternoon temperatures climbed into the 80s and 90s over much of the state, with a few readings in the 60s and 70s in East Texas due to the cloud cover and rain.

Cotulla, in West Texas, stood at 103 degrees at 5 p.m. and the mecury was still rising, the weather service said. Southerly winds of 10 to 25 mph blew across the eastern two-thirds of Texas, shifting to the west and northwest at 10 to 20 mph over West Texas. The forecast called for continued fair and warm weather over the western half of Texas with partly cloudy to cloudy skies and widely scattered showers and thunderstorms in

Crowd shut out of tax meet

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

Residents who crowded into a meeting of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District board Monday afternoon to protest property appraisals were denied access to the emergency session.

Although directors called the 2 p.m. meeting on an emergency basis without notifying local news media, about 150 to 200 persons who heard of it by word of mouth came to the session called to discuss the district's recent property

During the brief public meeting, several persons began shouting at board chairman Billy T. Smith when he asked the crowd to go home. Smith said he wanted the board to meet in executive session because it could not operate with interruptions from the crowd.

topic they are discussing.

However, Smith refused to tell the audience what topic was under discussion, and said the board "could discuss anything it wanted to in executive session.

At the request of the Big Spring Herald, County Attorney Bob Miller agreed to talk with the board members. After first consulting with the state Attorney General's office, Miller entered the closed door meeting and said he advised board members their meeting was

After 30 minutes of meeting with Miller, during which Miller said the only thing which was discussed was the legality of the meeting, the board adjourned, announcing its intention to call another meeting today at 10 a.m.

Meeting

One man asked Shaw if he thought all the flap over education was the governor's fault.

Shaw said Gov. Mark White did run on a platform which sought the support of educators and "he's under a lot of pressure. There has been a dramatic increase in Texas salaries (for other fields) and education is falling out of line with competitive businesses. Shaw said, "Education is a hot issue. There has been a decline in committment to education." Shaw said the state had not dealt with educational reforms for 30 years.

Dealing with educational problems might alleviate other problems, Shaw said. "Look at our prison systems,"

Shaw said. "The Texas prison population is one of the highest in the world and a large number of prisoners are under 25 and have had educational problems. It makes sense to try and deal with (problems in education.)"

Shaw was asked how he felt about certain points of the Governor's Select Committee on Education report.

Concerning longer days and school years, Shaw said he would like to see "the unneccessary stuff cut out. We should try and keep (students) in the classroom as much as we can. I'm supportive of some increase if necessary."

Shaw listened to parents wary of mandatory school attendance for five-year-olds. He said the state must be "flexible" in considering yield intersections. On the agenda under bids are: Approval of specifications and as stop intersections and others as permission to advertise for bids for a new animal shelter. Approval to purchase a tractor from Texas Surplus Property.

Councilmen will also discuss: A resolution authorizing a contract with Giraffe Communications and the Big Spring Bass Club for a tournament at Comanche Trail A resolution authorizing the filing of a suit against E.L. Terry for enforcement of obligations mandatory attendance because

"What works in Houston is different than what works in Big Spring and rural areas." Shaw said he could see where

'half-day attendance'' kindergarten programs "could be beneficial to some" students. One parent asked, "Do you not the parents should judge think when their kids should enter school." Shaw said, "There is a segment of the population that needs some extra help." Shaw warned of parents who, if not given guidelines about attendance rules, might keep young children out of school and put them to work instead of educating them. Shaw said he was "supportive of some increases' in college tuitions. "It's fair to look at those things," he said. "I don't think you'll see very dramatic increases" in tuition "Everybody should have to give a little bit," he said. One teacher asked, "Are you for giving teachers a raise with no strings attached."

Shaw paused a moment, then said, "Yes, I want strings attached. But I don't see it as strings attached." He said he wants to see problems resolved and salaries improved.

"My approach is not negative.

(Some reforms) could be productive," he said. "It's been 30 years since we've had reforms in education. If not now, when?" he asked.

Rogers hauls in hefty sum

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Country crooner Kenny Rogers, whose million sellers include "The Gambler," has hauled in a pretty hefty pot, totaling more than $20 million

Rogers has sold his 11-acre estate here to Denver oilman and movie mogul Marvin Davis for $20,250,000 a record for a California home, a realtor said Monday.

Davis, chief of 20th Century Fox, becomes at least the third person to pay top dollar for the 25,000-square foot KENNY ROGERS French neoclassicalstyle mansion and grounds known as The Knoll. Real estate agent Bruce Nelson, who handled the sale, said escrow closed last Wednesday. Agent Elaine Young, who also specializes in high-priced properties, said the previous record was the $14 million Rogers paid Italian film producer Dino De Laurentiis for the same property several years ago. Rogers reportedly spent some $5 million remodeling the estate.

TDC chooses director

By DANA PALMER

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN - The man who brought the New Mexico prison system back from the bloody riot of 1980 is the new director of the Texas prison system.

State prison board members hired Raymond Procunier after a 2 ½-hour closed-door meeting in the State Capitol on Monday.

Procunier has served over the past 27 years as director of prisons in Utah, California and Virginia, and now serves as deputy secretary for operations of the New Mexico prison and parole system. His second-in-command will be Army Col. Lane McCotter, commandant of the 2,300-inmate maximum security military prison at Fort Leavenworth,

After the unanimous vote, prison board Chairman Robert Gunn of Wichita Falls praised Procunier as strong, knowledgeable and compassionate.

The 60-year-old New Mexico prison official came with strong recommendations and references that included President Ronald Reagan, who as governor named Procunier director of the California prison system in 1967, and presidential counselor Edwin Meese III.

Procunier said Texas officials seem dedicated to having the best prison system in the country, and he promised that "it'll be an open, honest, humane and decent system that you'll have here very shortly."

Both men declined extensive comment about their plans for the troubled Texas prison system for at least another 30 days while they survey the situation. When we get through with that, we'll sit down with the wardens and the deputy directors and we'll plot out a course for Texas," Procunier told reporters.

Austin attorney Harry Whittington, who headed the prison board's search committee, said Procunier has agreed "to close out his illustrious career" with his stint as director of the Texas prison system. Whittington noted that Procunier (pronounced Pro-coon-e-a) "has more experience in operating large prisons than anyone available. He is especially noted for his ability to come to prisons which are undergoing serious problems and through strong and firm leadership have them operating properly and smoothly in a short time."

Procunier's latest fame came after he joined the New Mexico system in 1983 and put it back on course. In January 1980, while consulting with that state's prison officials, he warned that they were playing 'Russian roulette" with the lives of inmates and staff because of overcrowded conditions and poor training for guards.

A month later, a bloody, two-day riot that claimed the lives of 33 inmates and involved the beating, torture and rape of hundreds of inmates and guards erupted at the Santa Fe prison.

No good excuse for closed doors

Board members of the Howard County tax appraisal district have enough troubles on their hands without the problems of holding illegal meetings. It was through misinformation, rather than malice, that such came to pass Monday. Whatever the cause, though, an illegal meeting is an illegal meeting — it denies the public access to important public work.

In the face of 150 to 200 spectators — some of them angry and vocal — who crowded the meeting room at the courthouse Monday, members of the appraisal district board announced they couldn't accomplish their work in an open session. Their answer was to ask the crowd to leave and move their meeting into private chambers. That action defied both the spirit and the letter of the Texas Open Meetings Act, which specifically provides that all meetings are open to the public, with a few very specific exceptions.

None of the acceptable exceptions were cited Monday. The closed-door session would be held to discuss "whatever comes up," member Billy T. Smith told the crowd. The Big Spring Herald filed a formal protest, citing the statute to Mr. Smith and advising we felt that the closed-door meeting was illegal on two grounds: first, proper notice had not been given; and second, a specific reason for the executive season, acceptable under state statute, had not been cited.

County Attorney Bob Miller was asked by the Herald to intercede on behalf of the public, and did so. After 30 minutes with the board members, the appraisal board came out of the closed meeting, adjourned, and called another meeting for today. It was scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

The action of the board, we believe, was taken out of what was felt to be necessity — refuge from a few hecklers intent on disrupting a public meeting. But such is not the proper, nor legal, approach. Better that law enforcement people be called, if necessary to keep the peace, than to deprive everyone assembled of their rightful opportunity to observe a public meeting.

Mad Mongolian

It was admittedly a body blow to the West when the Soviets pulled out of the Olympics, but it was nothing compared to what happened when the news reached Mongolia.

While the Soviet athletes had to accept their government's decision whether they liked it or not, it wasn't easy to persuade Outer Mongolia's only long-distance runner that he wasn't going to Los Angeles.

Ghengis Kahn was jogging out on the Gobi Desert when his track coach, Yurt Temujin, rode out on his camel 20 miles to break the tidings

"How am I doing?" Ghengis asked, hardly puffing.

"You're doing fine. But we just got word from Ulan Bator that Mongolia is withdrawing from the 1984 Olympics."

Kahn was flabbergasted. "You're putting me on."

"I'm not, Ghengis. We just got orders from the KGB to tell you to stop running. The Russians are pulling out, and they told us we have to support their boycott or

"You mean I've been pounding barefoot on this hot sand for four years for nothing?"

"What can I tell you, Ghengis?
The Kremlin says they're doing it for your own good. They were afraid if you went to Los Angeles your life would be in danger."
Kahn said, "Who would want to hurt a Mongolian in California?"

"Ghengis, it isn't for us to question the decisions of Moscow. But if the Russians don't field their team,

"Why not? We don't have any quarrel with the United States."

"If we showed up and they didn't, it would be a signal to the West that the Socialist nations are in ferment."

"Good. Let's go."
"It's not that simple. They won't fly us out of the country."

"Maybe I could run to the Caspian Sea and pick up a foreign freighter? It would be good practice for me."

"I'm sorry, Ghengis, but you're going to have to live with the idea that you won't be competing this year."

Olympic rules like Swiss cheese

WASHINGTON — The Soviet boycott of the Summer Olympic Games presents an opportunity to take a sober, second look at this sports spectacular. There is an urgent need for a top-to-bottom overhaul of the Olympic structure.

The time has come to stop pretending that the games are above politics. The Soviet bloc nations have always used Olympic stadiums as political arenas.

They have been assisted, incredibly, by the International Olympic Committee, which has rigged the rules of the games to give Soviet-bloc athletes an advantage. Communist countries count all their athletes as amateurs, though they are subsidized by the state. Every living, breathing Soviet athlete, for example, is eligible for Olympic competition.

In contrast, America's professional athletes are mostly barred from the games, though the rules have become so bollixed that some professionals are accepted as amateurs and some amateurs are considered professionals.

For example, amateur trackand-field stars, if they happen to play professional football, have been ruled ineligible. Yet other amateurs can accept money for track events and product endorsements, without endangering

Billy Graham

Make it right

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Some months ago I stole something fairly valuable from a store, and I have felt guilty about it ever since. I would like to take it back because I know I would feel better, but I'm afraid of what might happen to me. Would it be all right to mail it back without my name on the package, do you think? — E.B.

DEAR E. B.: Jesus once met a man who had apparently stolen a great deal of money from people. His name was Zacchaeus, and he was a tax collector for the Roman Empire. From what we know of such people, it was not uncommon for them to collect more from people than they actually owed, and then pocket the difference.

When Zacchaeus met Jesus he was stricken with a great sense of shame for all he had done. He also was filled with a great sense of joy, because he knew Christ had forgiven him for his sins and given him a new purpose in life. When he met Jesus he declared, "If I have cheated anybody out of anything, I will pay back four times the amount" (Luke 19:8). In other words, he knew he had a responsibility to make things right and let people know he was a changed person.

What does this incident from Jesus' life tell you? First, it tells you that you need to get right with God. Yes, you have done something wrong against the store - but more than that, you have lived your life apart from God and sinned against him. You need forgiveness, and only Christ can bring that to you. Nothing you could ever offer Christ would pay for your sins. But Christ offered himself as a perfect sacrifice for you. Open your heart to Christ and let him come into your life by faith. Billy Graham's religious column is dis their Olympic amateur standing — provided the money is placed in a trust fund. It can be doled out to pay living, training and other expenses.

Professional basketball teams can't compete in the Olympics — unless they happen to play in a league that the International Basketball Federation recognizes as amateur. An All-American player from Wichita State, for instance, was allowed to try out for the U.S. Olympic team, though he earned a reported $200,000 last year playing in the Italian Basketball League. And the new Olympic tennis competition will be open to professionals if they happen to be under 21 years old.

The hypocrisy has aroused the indignation of former Treasury Secretary William Simon, who is president of the U.S. Olympic Committee. He's a veteran political skirmisher, whose visage looms cheerfully above the wreckage of a hundred battles. Forcefully, he has called on his peers to reform and simplify the eligibility rules.

But the International Olympic Committee is ensconsed behind walls that won't easily crumble before the trumpets of reform. Behind those walls, the Olympic barons tend to be deaf to argument and indifferent to injustice.

The most practical solution, therefore, might be to throw out the eligibility rules and open up the Olympics to all athletes. "If we can't have honest amateurism," Simon stated, "then let's open it up."

The existing rules are as riddled with loopholes as Swiss cheese and "encourage our young athletes to cheat" he told me cheat," he told me.

Simon's lips curled in a gargoyle's inward grin as if he savored the coming confrontation.

INSIDE THE WHITE HOUSE:
White House polls show that Gary Hart would make a stronger showing than Walter Mondale against President Reagan in November.
But the president isn't worried. "If we have to go against Hart," he cracked to aides, "all we'll need is a barber to win the election." He explained that Hart's John F. Kennedy hair-do conceals a pair of jug ears. "If you cut his hair above the ears," said Reagan, "he'll look like a sail plane."

• The president's campaign strategists are relieved over the results of another poll, which show that the "sleaze" issue may backfire on the Democrats. The strategists say that by harping on the "sleaze factor," the Democrats have given the impression that they're conducting a smear campaign, that they themselves are up to their elbows in sleaze. In the end, they may wind up splattering more sleaze on themselves than on Reagan.

● Sources close to the president say he's convinced that the Kremlin will do anything short of war to prevent his re-election. This is the real reason, he believes, that the Soviets are boycotting the Summer Olympics in Los Angeles and are refusing to hold disarmament talks. They just want to make him look bad, he thinks.

 President Reagan is furious at Paul Volcker, the towering chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, for pushing up interest rates. The president fears this could choke off the economic recovery before the election. Aides are urging him to summon Volcker to the Oval Office for a confrontation. But Reagan doesn't like to deal with Volcker directly. The Fed chairman's rambling discourses, economic mumbo jumbo and condescending manner turn Reagan off. The president's subordinates, however, have had little success in dealing with Volcker. "Negotiating with the Fed," one White House aide complained, "is like dealing with a foreign government.'

• Some presidential advisers are looking beyond the 1984 election to 1988 when they expect Vice President George Bush and Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker to be the top two. Republican contenders. Already, aides are choosing sides between Bush and Baker. This factionalism is beginning to split the staff and could hurt Reagan's campaign.

Around The Rim

Night 'n' day

By CAROL BALDWIN

This is my tale of two cities.
I'm talking about Big Spring, Texas, and Bountiful, Utah. Never in my life have I been involved with two such extremes.

My husband's kids live in Bountiful, which is right outside Salt Lake City. If you read the news or watched television recently you know people in parts of Wyoming, Idaho, Montana and Utah have been waging a battle with too much water.

In Big Spring and most of West Texas we've been waging a battle with the lack of water. We've been holding onto the edge for months now, watching the skies and praying for rain.

It's enough to make anyone's personality split. My husband and I talk about floods and droughts in the same sentence. We worry about the kids and we worry about West Texas.

The drought has been a hot topic of conversation for months. Days of anticipating rain turned into months and I know I wasn't the only West Texan wondering if we'd ever see rain again.

In Utah about this time last year a large, accumulative snowfall and hot temperatures combined to flood the streets and in some cases literally wiped out whole neighborhoods with walls of mud cascading down from the Wasatch Mountain range. Throughout our long, dry winter here the weather page carried information about record snowfalls in Utah and the chance that this spring would be worst than last.

Earlier this spring stories about the West Texas drought began surfacing. Farmers and ranchers were having to sell their land or their cattle because they were losing hope of being able to survive the drought.

In Utah groups of people were packing sand bags, building make-shift dikes and digging trenches in hopes of diverting the water from homes and buildings.

homes and buildings.

Texas residents were covering their faces and choking in a string of dusty days. The sandstorms came in random patterns with very few clear days in-between.

Utah residents put together evacuation packs to carry on their backs should the water and mud drive them away from their homes in a hurry.

Within days of each other, relief came to both areas. In Utah, although the floods have done their share of damage and destruction, there is hope that cooler temperatures will stop the flooding and that the remaining snow in the mountains will melt at a slower, less dangerous pace.

In Big Spring, the rains came. Not enough, of course, but very welcome and very much appreciated. They gave many residents hope that maybe things will be all right.

Both areas are still on the mend.

In Utah, the cleanup begins. In West Texas, we wait for more rain. The kids are coming to Texas in a couple of weeks. We'll have lots of stories to swap with each other about the extremes of weather.

Bedwetting

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: As a mother of a large family I have wondered about bedwetting. Two of my children had it. My question: Is it hereditary? Are boys more prone to it than girls? Both my wetters were the "regressive" type (doctor's words to me at the time). I guess that means they were previously dry at night, then started to wet. Am I right? Is stress the cause of bedwetting? - Mrs.

While not technically a hereditary problem, bed-wedding (enuresis) is more likely to occur in children whose parents have also had it than in those who have never wet.

Boys are more prone than girls. Regressive enuresis is the kind that occurs after the child has been able to stay dry at night. That kind is sometimes related to some stressful event, like the loss of a parent, a move to a new neighborhood, a new school, etc.

Mypediatric source notes that "children are not generally labeled enuretic unless the symptom persists beyond the age of 5 years.'

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 23, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You can very easily realize what those of whom you are fond now desire of you. Look for ways to add to your property by being more apt in details.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do whatever will please your mate and forget yourself for awhile. Then handle financial affairs.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your friends can help you to gain personal wishes faster, so be sure to call on them. Then join with them in some entertainment.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Do something thoughtful for one who has power over you and gain favor. Show loyalty to public higher-ups.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Show friendliness for a new contact and you can easily get that data that you need at this time. Be alert.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You can handle that business affair satisfactorily in the morning, then handle practical affairs wisely.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find out what will please your partners the most and do your best to make them happy. Try to gain prestige. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make your surroundings more charming and comfortable so that you can be happier. Show more appreciation for your good co-workers. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A good day for getting into activities that bring you the greatest happiness and success. Also try to please your mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) This is a fine day for inviting persons into your home. Beautify your home. Get business matters handled. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Contact those persons with whom you want to have better alliance in the days ahead. Take a short trip.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Find the right way of improving your property and adding to other assets. You may find your newspaper very helpful. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are dynamic and charming today so get out to right places and impress others enormously.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be able to readily understand projects or ideas that are great in scope, so send to college where this fine ability can be properly trained. There is a tendency to pro-

Campbell headlines new faces

It's back again, bigger and better than ever with a slight

IT is the Second Annual Signal Peak Shriners Pro-Am Golf Tournament to be held May 23-25 at the Big Spring Country Club. The event is sponsored by the Big Spring Shrine Club, Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and the Big Spring Ambassadors Club.

Proceeds from last year's initial event went towards Shriners Hospitals, two of which are located in Texas -Houston and the Galveston Burn Center. And was the event

Last year's event, which brought celebrities from the world of sports and entertainment to Big Spring along with area club pros, raised $22,000 which was quite a bit more than the estimated $4,300 the Pro-Am committee, headed by Don Cook, thought was a good figure to shoot for.

According to Cook, "Since there will be more celebrities at the tourney this year and expenses are up," the goal of this year's tourney is to "finish in the black," in addition to raising funds for Shriners Hospitals and Steve Little.

Yes, the field will list no less than 40 celebrity-status types, including the likes of New Orleans Saints coach Bum Phillips and punter Russell Erxleben.

And Steve Little of course. The one time kicking rival of Erxleben when both competed for UT and Arkansas in the mid 1970's has been confined to a wheelchair for the past three years after an automobile accident left him

Erxleben, after liking what he saw in Big Spring last year when he helped lineup up the rest of the field, made arrangements to combine his own Benefit for Steve Little Golf Tournament with the Shriners event. Hence the new official name for this year's affair - The Signal Peak Shriners Pro-Am and Russell Erxleben Benefit for Steve Little Golf Tournament.

So get out and support two worthwhile causes. Gallery tickets are still on sale for the three day event that starts with practice rounds at the Country Club Wednesday, May

Tickets are priced at only $5 and a gallery ticket is good for all three days. LATE ADDITIONS

Six new faces, including that of Houston Oilers star Earl Campbell, have been added to the Pro-Am field for Thursday.

Campbell, despite knee surgery slated after the tourney, along with teammates Ted Thompson and John Schumacher, New Orleans Saint Tim Wilson, San Diego Charger Billy Ray Smith and former Texas A&M runningback George Woodward, indicated late Monday that they will be in for the event.

eberroth levels stinging statement

By The Associatd Press While the chief organizer of the Los Angeles Olympics has accused the Soviet Union of reneging on a promise not to pressure other countries to join a boycott of the Games, International Olympic Committee President Juan Antonio Samaranch is still concentrating on reversing the pullout.

The IOC said Monday that Samaranch will meet with Soviet bloc sports ministers in Prague, Czechoslovakia on Thursday to renew his efforts to persuade them to participate in the Olympics.

Samaranch had asked for a meeting with Soviet President Konstantin Chernenko after Moscow announced the boycott May 8, but Chernenko has yet to reply to the request. Samaranch, however, was invited by Soviet bloc officials to the Prague meeting, the IOC said.

Meanwhile, Peter Ueberroth, president of the Los Angeles Olympic Committee, accused the Soviets of trying to influence Romania to join the pullout, which now includes 10 countries

Romania is the lone Soviet Eastern bloc ally not to withdraw from the Summer Olympics and Cuba was expected to announce a decision Wednesday on whether to boycott Ueberroth, in his most sharply worded comment on the Soviets, said they had gone back on a pro- Ueberroth said. "The world is wat- pledge. mise made last week not to pressure other countries into pulling out of the Games.

USSR National Olympic Committee President Marat Gramov personally assured International Olympic Committee officials in Lausanne, Switzerland, last week that there would be no pressure or ching the spectre of Soviet influence over these countries who so desperately want to participate in the 1984 Olympic Games.

Ueberroth said that if Romania and other countries join the boycott and "cite the same reasons as the other Eastern bloc countries," the influence applied on other (Na-world will know that the Soviets tional Olympic Committees)," have violated their hands-off world will know that the Soviets

"Here is a country that ... had every intention of participating,' Ueberroth said of Romania. "Since other countries have pulled out it appears that heavy pressure is being applied and the Romanian desire to have their athletes participate is being whittled away as each day passes

A Big Spring WINNER!

Mrs. Ben Boadle
Director, Westside Community Center

The Westside Community Center, which has served Big Spring since the early World War II years, has grown, remodelled and expanded its services since Mrs. Ben Boadle became director three years ago. For example in 1979, the Center served "over 40 children and teenagers as an after-school and weekend activity center"; in the past year it served 3,107 children — plus 461 adults and 72 families! The Center sends its own van to pick up youngsters for Brownies, 4H, Junior Girl Scouts, weekly choir practice, story hour and summer vacation church school. It sponsors a minor Little League Team, a teenage baseball team and a men's softball team. It provides Medicaid Medical transportation. The Center now serves all Big Spring residents, ages 5 through adult years, without charge. Funding is provided by United Way, United Church Women and individual donations. Mrs. Boadle began at the Center as a volunteer and board member in 1969; she always "had a dream about the kind of place it could be." When offered the job as director, she said "I'll try. I'm still trying. I have lots more ideas."

These Big Spring business firms cared enough to tell you about Big Spring's WINNERS.
