Drought aid sign-up extended

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has extended the application deadlines for emergency disaster loans for drought-stricken farmers and ranchers in 166 South and West Texas counties, including Howard County.

Those affected during the 1983 crop year now have until Dec. 4 to apply for loans through the Farmers Home Administration, according to information released by the Governor's Division of Emergency Management.

The USDA also approved Bowie and Cass counties as disaster areas because of severe drought conditions in those counties between May 1 and Oct. 10, 1983. Bowie County ranchers and farmers have until June 14 to apply, while those in Cass County have until July 23.

Among those given until Dec. 4 are 67 counties recently approved because they are adjacent to 99 counties already declared disaster areas. They are:

Archer, Atascosa, Austin, Baylor, Bosque, Brooks, Burnet, Calhoun, Carson, Castro, Coryell, Deaf Smith, Denton, Duval, Edwards, El Paso, Erath, Frio, Gillespie, Grayson, Grimes, Hardeman, Hardin, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Jack, Jackson, Jefferson, Jim Hogg, Kenedy, Kerr, Kinney, Kleberg, Knox, Lampasas, Live Oak, Llano, Lubbock, McCulloch, McMullen, Mason, Maverick, Medina, Montague, Moore, Nueces, Palo Pinto, Parmer, Polk, Roberts, San Patricio, Shackelford, Sherman, Stephens,

Los Ybanez taps beer business

Brew battle comes to a head

From staff reports
LOS YBANEZ — Dawson County residents can now legally buy beer for the first time in a century, but the break in the draft drought may not last long.

Israel Ybanez, a Lamesa car dealer who bought a town, named it after himself and has been trying ever since to sell beer in it, Friday morning capped the keg on a two-year legal fight, selling cases of brew in the newly-incorporated town of Los Ybanez southeast of Lamesa.

But the battle of the beer is not over.

The Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission granted Ybanez a beer retailer's off-premise license March 30. Ybanez opened a store here Thursday, and the sales have been soaring since.

"The license was granted after the Ybanezes incorporated their own city in an unincorporated portion of Dawson County and adopted rules that allow their new city to sell beer legally," said Dawson County Chief Deputy Sheriff Richard Garcia.

Garcia said Ybanez began selling beer at 4 p.m. Thursday and shortly thereafter was served with a citation notifying him that his license was being challenged in district court.

The challenge claims the sale of beer in Los Ybanez would threaten the health and morals of Dawson County residents.

The petition was filed by Dawson County farmers John Barron and Milton Earnest in their latest attempt to stop the sale of beer in Los Ybanez.

The beer battle came to a head last year when the farmers persuaded the district judge that a mistake had been made on the town's incorporation documents.

LINING UP — A steady stream of cars passes by Ybanez Beer in Los Ybanez selling cases of beer to residents of Dawson County, which had been legally dry for a century.

Arabs split on attacks in gulf

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Syria on Saturday accused Iraq of trying to draw other Persian Gulf nations into its 3 1/2-year-old war with Iran. Iraq has promised it would not attack commercial ships in gulf waters if Iraq would also refrain.

Iraq said Friday that it destroyed eight more ships near Iran's main Kharg Island oil terminal, but more than 24 hours later there was no confirmation of the reported strikes.

The Syrian government of President Hafez Assad issued a statement Saturday accusing Iraq of hitting commercial vessels in hopes of drawing other gulf nations into the conflict. It also said Iraq was "sabotaging Syrian efforts to ensure free navigation for all countries" in the gulf.

Iran's U.N. ambassador, Said Rajaie-Khorassani, said Friday his country's air force would not hit gulf ships if Iraq abides by an expected Security Council resolution calling for a halt to such attacks.

"If they abide, we will abide," said Rajaie-Khorassani. He boycotted Friday's opening of a Security Council debate on the latest gulf crisis. The session, which resumes Tuesday, was requested by six Arab gulf nations after air strikes earlier this month damaged Saudi and Kuwaiti tankers.

"Either there is security for all, or there is no security for anyone," Rajaie-Khorassani told reporters at the United Nations. He refused to participate in the Security Council debate because the six-nation Gulf Cooperation Council was seeking condemnation of Iran while making no mention of Iraqi attacks on shipping.

In Bahrain, Foreign Minister Sheikh Mohamed Bin Mubarak al Khalifa told reporters Saturday "What we want from the U.N. is (to note) that we are not in a state of war and we do not want to be part of it. ... Iran is attacking our ships and affecting our imports and exports. We want the U.N. to produce a resolution to stop any aggression (and) try to accommodate parties for an agreement for peace."

Syria and Libya are the only Arab nations that support non-Arab Iran in its war with Iraq, which is a member of the Arab League.

Syrian Vice President Abdul-Halim Khaddam and Foreign Minister Farouk al-Shara went to Tehran last week to try to persuade Iran to negotiate an end to the gulf conflict. The Syrian officials conferred with Saudi King Fahd Saturday to convey the results of their talks in Iran.

OVERBITE — Dr. Carl Fairley of Midland College examines the jawbone of a Ruiton Phytosaur, a prehistoric reptile whose remains were discovered on a ranch outside Big Spring.

Dry bones

Prehistoric reptile unearthed in county

By JIM BROWN
Staff Writer

Two hundred million years ago, Rutiodon the Phytosaur was strolling along the banks of his favorite stream.

Rutiodon was especially pleased with the lush undergrowth of the basin, its many rivers and streams and murky climate.

No one knows quite what or how it happened, but Rutiodon had an accident and fate decreed that he would spend eternity on the Dorland Ranch east of Big Spring.

Bob Palmer of Midland found Rutiodon, still embedded along the banks of his favorite stream, just a week ago. Dr. Carl Fairley of Midland College calls the find archeologically significant.

Palmer, an amateur paleontologist, owns Palmer Pipe and Supply of Midland. This is his second major find in recent weeks.

Palmer said he and his son were on a fishing trip to the Dorland ranch. They decided to walk along the creek bed where the fossilized remains of Rutiodon the Phytosaur were found.

The phytosaurs were predatory, aggressive reptiles that lived in streams and lakes and preyed upon fish and other animals. The front of his skull and the lower jaws were elongated and studded with sharp teeth. Unlike the crocodiles, however, the nostrils in the phytosaurs were set far back, just in front of the eyes. These reptiles could float downstream with only their nostrils exposed, an advantage for amphibious predators.

The reptile's front legs were large, but smaller than the hind legs, revealing its bipedal ancestry. The body was protected by heavy, bony plates, covered by thick skin.

These creatures were among the dominant reptiles of late Triassic Period and often reached 20 to 30 feet in length.

They predated the giant dinosaur by 30 million years.

The Phytosaur that Palmer found was probably about 10 feet long, according to Fairley.

Palmer said that an almost complete lower jaw has been found, with some teeth still intact.

Parts of ribs, scales and legs also have been found. Palmer estimates that it will take approximately a year to completely excavate the site.

Bone fragments of an amphibian from the Triassic Period were also found, leading Fairley to speculate that several skeletons may be located in the formation.

Palmer said the creek of 200 million years ago still flows and serves as a watering place for animals.

Palmer found the jaw bone protruding from the red clay of the stream bed. He said Fairley had earlier told him that clay-like soil signaled Triassic Period formations.

Last month Palmer discovered the undisturbed grave of a 30-year-old Comanche warrior near Stanton in Martin County. The grave contained beads, pottery and a horse's bridal.

A gopher had entered the burial chamber and brought some of the artifacts to the surface. While searching the area, Palmer found the gopher hole and discovered the skull of the Comanche.

Originally part of the Edwards Ranch, the area around the Howard County find is dotted with some of the oldest producing oil wells in Howard County.

The Dorland Ranch is private property and patrolled by armed guards 24 hours a day. It is not open to the public.

Weather

Hot holidays on hand

By The Associated Press

A weak cold front briefly stalled across North Texas near the Red River Saturday and then stretched West near Midland, producing some heavy thunderstorms and showers in the region.

Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms were also reported in southeast Texas and in Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange. Isolated showers and thunderstorms also dropped much needed rain in the Rio Grande Plains, the southwest and Big Bend National Park.

Elsewhere, partly cloudy to clear skies ruled the western half of the Lone Star State.

Winds were light and mostly southerly at 5 to 10 mph. Temperatures ranged from the upper 60s in the Panhandle to the low 90s across far west and deep south Texas.

The forecast called for the cold front to move South Saturday night and stall across central Texas on Sunday. Rain activity was to subside Saturday night, the National Weather Service said.

Lows will range from the mid 50s in the Panhandle to the 70s across South Texas. Sunday's highs will soar from the 80s in the Panhandle and to the 90s in most other regions. Temperatures near 104 degrees were predicted in the Big Bend Valleys.

At Grand Junction, Colo., the city just west of the Rockies which suffered widespread flood damage a year ago, police Capt. Robert Kibler said four homes just south of the city limit were waist deep in water and their residents were evacuated Friday night.

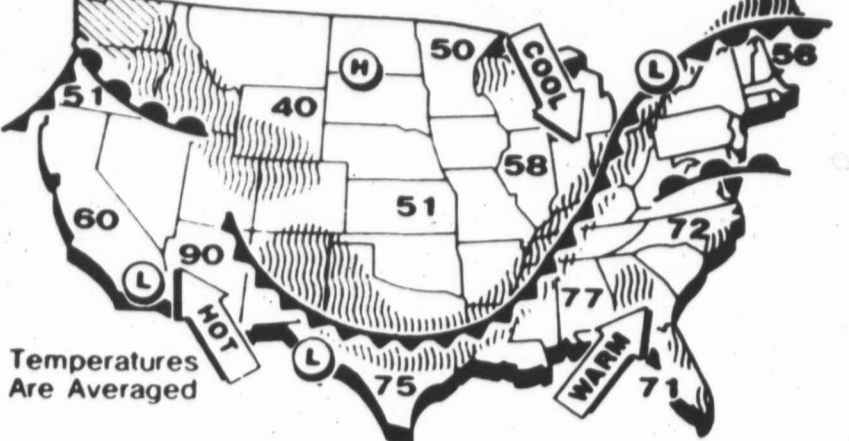

Meanwhile, a major mudslide early Saturday closed all four lanes of Interstate 70 for about nine hours and injured one man slightly. The Colorado State Patrol said the two eastbound lanes were reopened to traffic about 10 a.m., and westbound traffic was being detoured some four miles along a frontage road.

I-70 remained closed to westbound traffic between Fruita and Loma west of Grand Junction because of high water and traffic was detoured over parallel U.S. 6 and U.S. 50.

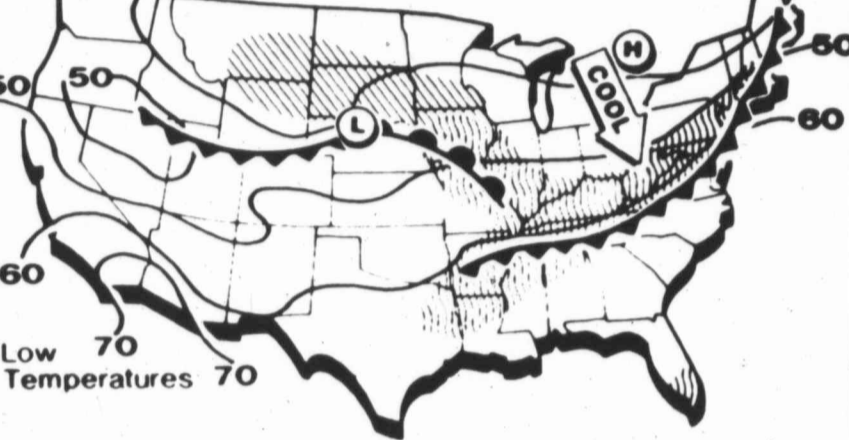

Temperatures around the nation at 3 p.m. EDT ranged from 48 degrees at Marquette, Mich., to 106 at Palm Springs, Calif.

'Bonnie and Clyde' bank robbery team arrested in Texas

HALTOM CITY (AP) — An investigation into a 13-year spree of small-town bank robberies led to the arrests of a couple that fit the description of a modern-day "Bonnie and Clyde" team of bandits, authorities said.

Lawrence Edward Byrom, 55, and his wife, Alice Hart Byrom, 36, were arrested about 6 p.m. Friday on sealed indictments charging them on a federal count of conspiracy to commit armed robbery and on state counts of auto theft, senior FBI agent Jim Adams said.

The pair appeared at a bond hearing Saturday afternoon. U.S. Magistrate Alex McGlinchy set bond on Byron at $250,000 and at $50,000 for his wife. Byron asked the court to appoint them attorneys and McGlinchy said that would be arranged on Monday. The couple is being held at the Tarrant County Jail. An arraignment hearing was set for June 4.

U.S. Attorney R.H. Wallace had requested bond be set at $100,000 on Mrs. Byrom, but her husband asked it to be lowered, saying "100,000 for my wife is a little harsh. I was the ramrod of the whole show."

Byrom told the court he had $20 in his wallet and $200 in savings.

Officers who executed search warrants at the man's home and a rural Wise County residence found vehicles that had been reported been stolen and confiscated guns and clothing believed used in bank robberies, Texas Department of Public Safety spokesman David Wells said.

Documents used to obtain the warrants from a magistrate implicated the pair in bank robberies beginning in March 1970 and extending through November 1983, he said.

Wells said the arrests culminated a lengthy investigation by the FBI, DPS troopers, Texas Rangers and three other state law enforcement agencies.

"The estimated take in the robberies altogether will be about $500,000, with most of this taken in small towns," Wells said.

The man and woman were both armed when arrested, but they did not resist and no shots were fired, Wells said.

Federal authorities have said the so-called "Bonnie and Clyde" team is suspected of committing at least 14 bank robberies in North Central Texas.

Authorities have said the same man robbed four banks in Justin, Milford, Tom Bean and Prosper by himself between 1970 and 1974. The woman made her first appearance as a visible partner in a second robbery of the Justin State Bank in 1975. But it was not until 1980 that law enforcement authorities linked the string of robberies to the pair.

The pair is believed responsible for two robberies each of banks in Justin, Tom Bean, Milford and Rhome, authorities said recently.

FBI agents said the robbers followed the same method in each heist. All of the robberies occurred in towns with fewer than 1,000 residents and unlikely to have a local police officer.

The robbers stole a car several days before each robbery, usually from a new car dealership in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, and took plates for the vehicle, authorities said.

Entering a bank, the man did all the talking, witnesses said. He was armed with a Ruger 14 automatic rifle and the woman carried a shotgun, police said.

Both were outfitted with ski masks, cowboy hats, gloves and bulletproof vests, authorities said. The woman often dressed in baggy clothes in an attempt to disguise herself, authorities said.

During the latest robbery, which occurred Nov. 4 at the Fannin Bank in Windom, the robbers dressed in camouflage hunting attire, witnesses told police. The robbery occurred during the dove hunting season.

After each robbery, the getaway cars were dumped between two and 10 miles from the bank, authorities said. Police suspect the robbers then drove away in their own car.

Oilman sentenced in pot smuggling ring

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Houston oilman and former All-America football player Thomas Melvin Head Jr. was sentenced to 10 years in prison for organizing a marijuana smuggling operation.

U.S. District Judge Emmett Cox imposed the sentence on Head at the end of a court hearing Friday that included a parade of prominent witnesses asking for leniency for the former professional football player.

Head, 39, was convicted in federal court earlier this month on all 14 counts of a federal indictment accusing him of organizing a smuggling operation that used airplanes to fly marijuana from Jamaica to south Alabama for distribution.

A native of Mobile, Head started his college career at Auburn University, but switched to Southwest Texas State University, where he earned All-America honors his senior year in 1968. He later played for the Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League before entering the oil business in Houston.

Appearing before the judge, Head said, "I'm ashamed. I would like to have leniency if you can see it in your heart."

Cox sentenced Head to the minimum sentence. He could have received life in prison and a $100,000 fine.

Four others indicted with Head await trial. They are James Ronald Looney and James Austin McCall Jr., both of Mobile; Joe McKenna of Houston; and Charles Mosley of Birmingham.

Among the witnesses appearing on Head's behalf were All-Pro defensive tackle Doug English of the Detroit Lions and Southwest Texas State Athletic Director Bill Miller.

English said Head had helped him get into the oil business in the off-season. "He helped me in a number of ways... He's had a great influence on me," English said. "I think that's why I'm here and that's why these other people are here — to see what we can do on Tommy's behalf because he's helped us."

Miller said Head is "highly thought of" in the Southwest Texas university community and has supported the school financially.

"He's proud of our university and we're proud of him," Miller said.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Charles White-Spunner told the judge that Head's social and community relationships were not at issue.

"Mr. Head is not before the court because he neglected his family, nor because he is not loyal to his educational institution; Mr. Head is before this court because he is less than a business leader; nor because he is not personable and not friendly," said White-Spunner.

"Mr. Head is before the court because he was found guilty of violating 14 counts of the drug laws of this nation. He is here because he is a leader in the drug industry. He is a personable individual who organized others in the drug industry just as he did in the oil industry."

Beer

Ybanez had to hold new elections and the town — population 300 — reincorporated itself and re-elected Ybanez mayor.

Ybanez first tried to organize his town in 1982 when he purchased the former labor camp for $85,000 from the federal government.

The townsites consists of 75 acres that hold a Pentecostal church, several small houses and now a package store called Ybanez Beer. Ybanez and his wife, Mary, have tried for a decade to bring legal liquor to this farming county. He sponsored five elections, and they all failed.

Ybanez said he sold beer to more than 100 customers Thursday afternoon and had a long line of brew buyers waiting for the store to open Friday morning. By Saturday afternoon he had sold over 400 cases.

He said he intends to sell about 15 brands of beer, fetching $1 more per case than the going price in Big Spring and Lubbock.

Gulf

A spokesman for Lloyd's of London insurers on Friday estimated that 30 to 40 ships have been attacked this year in the gulf during Iraq's blockade of Kharg. Iraq has declared the area around the Iranian oil terminal a war zone and has attacked vessels within the zone in an effort to shut off the Persian state's major source of income and force Tehran to negotiate an end to the war.

Iran refuses to bargain with Iraq unless the Baghdad administration resigns and Iraqis agree to major war reparations.

The aircraft carrier America was en route from the Mediterranean Sea to the Indian Ocean, near the approach to the gulf. Pentagon officials said the ship was headed for the area to replace the Kitty Hawk in mid-June.

2 killed in carnival mishap

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP) — The suspension on a gondola car at a carnival snapped Saturday, hurling the car into a parked vehicle and killing a man and critically injuring his 6-year-old son, authorities said.

Richard O. Stahl, 36, of Pontiac died of multiple injuries at Pontiac's St. James Hospital, said Michelle Wolf, a Livingston County sheriff's deputy. His son, Randall, was transferred to St. Francis Hospital in Peoria suffering from multiple injuries. He was in critical condition, Ms. Wolf said.

The pair were riding in one of the gondolas on a circular, rotating ride called the "Comet" at the carnival at the American Legion Billet, Ms. Wolf said.

Ms. Wolf said the suspension on the gondola car apparently failed and the car broke loose. She said the father and son were the only people in the gondola and there were no other injuries.

The accident was being investigated by the county sheriff, coroner and state attorney's office, she said.

Last week, three teen-age boys were hospitalized after breaks and safety equipment failed on an amusement park ride, authorities said.

Four ordered to jail in cocaine scheme

FORT WORTH (AP) — Federal prison terms have been ordered for a Fort Worth man described by prosecutors as a Florida-to-Texas cocaine courier and three of his dealers.

Jack Wade Warren, 34, was sentenced Friday to 12 years in prison by U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon.

Warren, who prosecutors said flew back and forth between Florida and Texas to pick up cocaine and sell it in Fort Worth, also was ordered to serve eight years on probation after completion of his prison term.

He was arrested Aug. 2 by Arlington and Fort Worth police and FBI agents after a search of his east Fort Worth apartment netted them $100,000 worth of high-grade cocaine, authorities said.

Three people described by authorities as dealers who worked for Warren also were sentenced Friday.

James Barker, 32, of Fort Worth, received a seven-year prison term to be followed by five years of probation.

Sherrie Moon, 22, of Fort Worth, was sentenced to six months in prison and three years of probation.

Anthony Tovar, 23, of River Oaks, was sentenced to a six-month prison term followed by five years of probation.

In a plea bargain arrangement with prosecutors, all four pleaded guilty to a charge of distribution with intent to sell cocaine.

Not back in the USSR

CHICAGO — Walter Polovchak, the 16-year-old youth who has been the focus of a lengthy Cold War-style custody battle, says he would like to see his family in the Soviet Union but fears he would be exiled if he returned to his homeland.

WALTER POLOVCHAK

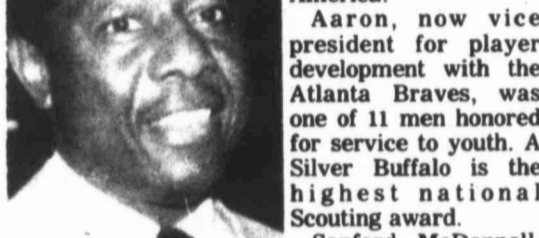

Walter, who ran away from his parents and has waged a four-year court battle to remain in the United States, said Friday he believes Soviet authorities "would probably send me to some camp (in exile)" if he returned for a visit.

Walter said he wasn't close to his family, but he'd still "like to see my mother and father and my younger brother again," as well as a baby sister whom he's never seen. The youth lives with another sister, Natalie, 21, and their cousin.

He said he enjoys living in the United States because "I've got the freedom of religion (here). I'm free to speak out... to express my mind." He decided to stay here while visiting Chicago with his parents, who returned to the Soviet Union and subsequently lost custody. He said Friday he has no regrets about his decision.

Aaron, now vice president for player development with the Atlanta Braves, was one of 11 men honored for service to youth. A Silver Buffalo is the highest national Scouting award.

Sanford McDonnell, chairman and chief executive officer of McDonnell Douglas Corp., was elected president of the national Scouting organization Friday.

Both Aaron and McDonnell were scouts in their youth.

Eclipse to take a big bite out of the sun

VIEWING THE SOLAR ECLIPSE SUNLIGHT AND MOONBEADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The dragon the ancient Chinese believed ate the sun during an eclipse won't finish his meal on Wednesday, but he'll take a whopping bite.

The partial, or annular, eclipse of the sun at noon will be visible across most of the nation, with more than 99 percent of the solar surface covered for viewers in the Southeastern states.

Residents of every state except Alaska will be able to see at least part of the sun eclipsed, according to astronomers at the Naval Observatory in Washington. But the experts warn against looking directly at the eclipse.

They report there is a good chance that viewers will see a "diamond necklace in the sky" when the eclipse occurs, a display known as Bailey's Beads.

Because of their positions in the sky, the moon appears to be a tiny bit smaller than the sun when it moves in front. If the moon's surface were smooth, a simple ring of light would then form at the height of the eclipse.

But instead, the moon has mountains and valleys. And in the seconds just before the maximum eclipse, light shining between the peaks gives the appearance of bright beads around the moon, a "diamond necklace in the sky," as some have described it.

Baily's Beads were named for their discoverer, 19th century astronomer Francis Baily.

Naval Observatory spokeswoman Gail Cleere said another rare phenomenon is possible during the eclipse — the shadow band effect.

That effect resembles the way sunlight bands that can be seen at the bottom of a swimming pool. It is caused by the distortion of light as it passes through the earth's atmosphere.

The best place to view the eclipse is in the Southeast, along a path from just north of New Orleans to just south of Richmond, Va.

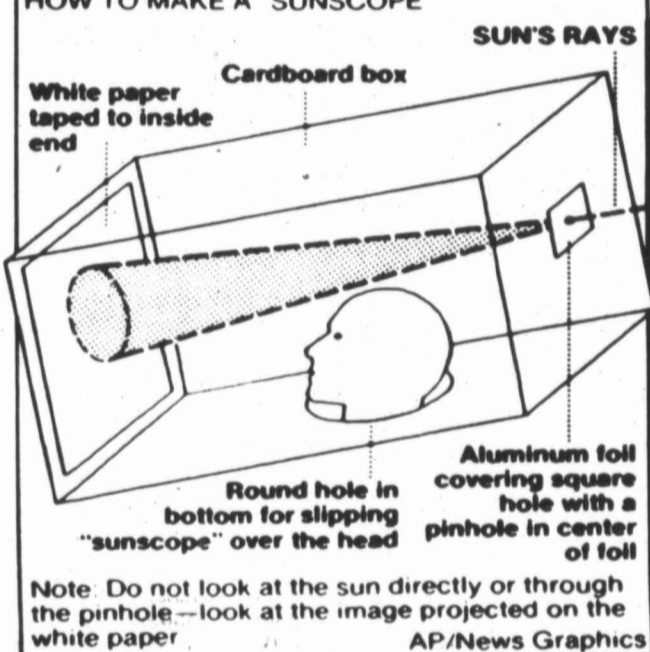

Along that line the eclipse will be nearly total, with 99.8 percent of the sun covered by the moon. Across the rest of the United States and Mexico a partial eclipse will also be visible — with less of the sun blocked out farther from the line.

The eclipse isn't total because the path of the moon around the Earth is not a perfect circle. The closer the moon is to Earth, the bigger it appears; the farther away, the smaller. Thus, sometimes the moon blocks out the whole sun and sometimes, as this time, it doesn't.

The eclipse will begin out in the Pacific Ocean at 9:54 a.m. (EDT), and will move eastward across Mexico and into the United States. It will be most visible in the late morning and early afternoon. It will peak, for example, at Petersburg, Va., at 12:43 p.m. EDT.

Officials of the Naval Observatory said that at no time will it be safe to look directly at the sun.

News in brief

Indian violence subsides

BOMBAY — Two people were stabbed to death in Bombay early Saturday but the city and outlying areas were later reported calm after 10 days of Hindu-Moslem rioting that claimed at least 221 lives.

Two people were knifed to death and another seriously injured in a street fight early Saturday in northern Bombay, police said.

Scattered incidents of arson and stone-throwing were reported overnight, but no attacks were reported during the day.

Nine areas of the city remained under night curfew and army troops continued patrolling Bombay, Thane, Bhiwandi and seven nearby towns.

Gradual withdrawal of the 6,000 troops dispatched to the area by the government could begin as early as Sunday.

Saudis may get U.S. arms

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration is close to a decision to send 200 Stinger anti-aircraft missiles to Saudi Arabia, but is facing pressure from Congress to lease them rather than sell them outright, congressional and administration sources said Saturday.

The missiles are to help Saudi Arabia in bolstering its defenses in the face of the escalating Iran-Iraq war in the Persian Gulf which has led to attacks on gulf shipping.

The administration favors a sale because it would have "symbolic impact" as a show of support for the Saudis. A leasing arrangement wouldn't have the same impact.

Lebanon pact may get OK

BEIRUT — Shiite Moslem leader Nabih Berri told a news conference Saturday that he expects the nation's new coalition government to win a vote of confidence from Parliament, possibly this week.

Prime Minister Rashid Karami selected a half-Moslem, half-Christian national unity Cabinet last April 30. The ministers have met several times with President Amin Gemayel to develop their policy paper.

Under the Lebanese constitution, the document must win parliamentary approval before the government is formally in place.

On Saturday, Beirut newspapers quoted Karami as saying U.S. Ambassador Reginald Bartholomew had offered to have the United States act as a mediator between Lebanon and Israel.

Soviets scuttle spacecraft

MOSCOW — A cargo craft that carried supplies to three cosmonauts aboard the orbiting Salyut-7 space station was jettisoned and has broken up in space, the official news agency Tass reported Saturday.

It said the Progress 21 supply vehicle was undocked from the Salyut-7 at 1:41 p.m. Moscow time, descended toward the dense layers of Earth's atmosphere "and ceased to exist."

Man hangs kids, self in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — Three days after he won visitation rights to see his two young children, a man who had a history of mental problems hanged the boy and girl and then himself, police said.

The bodies were found when the estranged wife of Antonio Centeno took police to his Brooklyn apartment because he failed to return the children after their first visit on Friday, said Sgt. Ed LeSchack, a police spokesman.

Police climbed a fire escape, looked in a window, and saw a body hanging, LeSchack said. Officers broke in and found the bodies of Centeno, 59, and the children hanging by clothesline.

On Tuesday, a family court judge had awarded custody of the children, Manuel, 6, and Chris, a girl, 2, to the mother, Yvette Vasquez, 24. The father got visitation rights from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, authorities said.

Authorities said Ms. Vasquez had moved out of Centeno's apartment and was living with a friend nearby. Centeno had been under psychiatric care, police said.

Big Spring needs leaders program

Imagine the perspective you could gain from a broad-brush sketch of the workings of the entire city. You'd meet with city and county managers, industrial leaders, civic and cultural support groups, and local charitable organizations.

You'd sit down with the police chief and the city public works director, hear what goes into providing the city with utility services, discover the breadth of involvement by the Salvation Army.

You can have this special knowledge of the city in a new program of leadership development sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and capably produced by a five-member advisory team. It's called Leadership Big Spring, a program adapted here from similar successful ones in other cities including Abilene and Odessa.

Leadership Big Spring has completed its first year of comprehensive training of the city's future leaders. One day a month for eight months, 12 selected individuals have done just what was described above — met with and obtained working knowledge from people in key community positions.

The 12, who will graduate from the program in ceremonies Wednesday, come away with a perspective richer even than the community leaders who shared their expertise with them. These 12 people have learned a bit from all with whom they've had contact this year, and thus can understand the interrelationships that form Big Spring's fabric.

Leadership Big Spring is an exciting venture for this city. It will further the cause of communication and involvement, and enrich the lives of participants who will in turn give the city better continuity.

Immigrants, us

Today our topic is immigration. Before we get started, let me ask everyone whose ancestors immigrated to this country from somewhere else to please leave the room. Only those of us who can claim some native American ancestry — sure, mine is only 1/32 or so, but I'm making the rules here — can stick around. The rest of you, out.

Whoops! That's nearly everyone, isn't it? OK, OK, you can all stay. But it's only out of charity that we're putting up with you — not because you have any rights here. And we'd appreciate it if you'd keep your inferior status in mind during what follows.

As it happens, the House of Representatives is due to vote on an immigration bill in mid-June. The Senate passed its version last year. The House was supposed to consider it sooner, but there's a presidential primary on June 5 in California, and California has a lot of illegal immigrants, and — well, you can figure out the rest.

One motive for the postponement is the bill's surprise impact on Texas' May 5 Democratic primary for the U.S. Senate. A dark horse candidate, Rep. Kent Hance, used it to gain a first-place finish (albeit with 31 percent of the vote). He opposed the amnesty this bill provides to some illegal immigrants.

Some of my fellow Texans, few of whom can trace an unbroken lineage to the Apaches, Comanches and other Indians who originally inhabited the area, think they have enough immigrants from Mexico already, thank you. I suspect the immigrants these Texans really want to keep out are those from New York and Boston, but we forfeited that right when we let the United States become part of Texas. So Mexicans get blamed instead.

No doubt the 1982 Supreme Court decision that the state has to provide a free public education to the children of illegal immigrants still irks some Texans. But why that should inspire opposition to granting the parents citizenship is mysterious, because the state's burden is the same either way.

Nor, contrary to fears, will the amnesty permit these new citizens to plop themselves down on the welfare rolls. The Senate bill bars them from getting benefits for three years. (Of course, no shrewd layabout would park his welfare Cadillac in Texas, which ranks 47th in the country in welfare benefits.)

Not that this is a good bill. It maintains the threadbare fiction that it's possible and worthwhile to keep out all those people who want in. Only the amnesty provision reflects a mature acceptance of that which can't be altered — namely, the presence of millions of illegal immigrants, who can't be rooted out except at huge cost in money and liberty.

The bill has several flaws, like a provision that may lead to a national identity card and, in the Senate version, a lower effective ceiling on legal immigration. It also would punish employers who knowingly hire illegal immigrants. Not only would this be impossible to enforce — a driver's license or Social Security card, which can be easily forged, is all the "proof" a personnel officer needs — but it turns businessmen into unpaid auxiliaries of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

It also presumes that foreigners who want to work at jobs that Americans don't want somehow constitute a threat. (Or is it the ones who want to collect welfare who are a threat? I can't keep track.) In fact, the only danger is that they'll raise our standard of living.

The smart sort of immigration reform is to accept more legal immigrants, who tend to be the kind of ambitious, hard-working people a dynamic society needs, instead of forcing most foreigners who come here to live outside the law. But if this bill is the best Congress can produce, then doing nothing might be preferable.

The virtue of existing law is that it formally satisfies the urge to pull up the drawbridges, but without actually keeping out anyone who really wants to come. Better benign hypocrisy than malignant consistency. After all, as Samuel Johnson said, hypocrisy is merely the tribute vice pays to virtue — vice here being xenophobic sentiment, virtue being the American tradition of refuge.

Of course, you may argue that the tradition is a bad one. Unfortunately, the time to pull up the drawbridges to unwelcome foreigners was about 1492, when some of my ancestors still had the run of this place. But I'll make you a deal: As soon as all you palefaces go back home, then the rest of us will be happy to crack down on immigration.

Mr. Nice Guy

It's not easy being a nice guy. To keep one's composure while everything around is dematerializing requires a cool complacency I do not possess.

I therefore tender my list of gripes for the past week, confident that this small catharsis in print will purge my soul of bitterness.

1. I have it on good authority that Big Spring High School seniors, following their graduation practice, were given Bibles by members of a local business club.

No copies of the Koran, the Talmud or the Veda were distributed.

2. Speaking of graduation, Tuesday night at the BSHS commencement (a state-supported event, I remind you), I was forced to endure a religious prayer. I don't know if this invocation had any denominational slant, because I was doing my best to ignore it.

3. Paul Harvey, a nationally syndicated radio program host who does nothing more than make in-sipid little comments about wire service news, continues to amaze me with his stupidity.

Last week, Harvey descended to the depths of intellectual depravity when he proclaimed the Soviet Bloc countries are boycotting the Summer Olympic games in Los Angeles because they realize their athletes are inferior and would disgrace socialism by defeat at the hands of capitalist-country contenders.

Paul, have you ever seen the East Germans swim, the Russians sprint and the Cubans play baseball?

4. Bob Carpenter, a damn fine human being and one of the best newsmen with whom I've worked, left the Herald last week to work at the newspaper in Bryan.

He leaves a hole we shall not easily fill.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Plunged into the dark corridor

Scenario: A world of the future where the antithesis of George Orwell's 1984 has come to pass.

Revolt came. People were fed up with the information explosion, pack journalism, the probing television eye, insensitive reporters waiting at the doorstep to record a G.I. mother's reaction to her son's death.

Spontaneously the idea spread, like a raging brush fire. Across the nation, almost as one, viewers refused to listen to television news reports. They automatically turned off their radios at the top of the hour to avoid the headlines. They cancelled news magazine and newspaper subscriptions. The result was dramatic.

It was socially unacceptable to be curious about the news. Anyone caught discussing news was an outcast. Neighborhoods appointed media watchers to keep an ominous name-list of anyone who had a newspaper thrown in his yard. No one would ride in a car unless it was equipped with a radio that automatically shut off during a newscast. Social engagements were cancelled with those who watched the television evening news.

A stalwart few surreptitiously received newspapers, discreetly retrieved from blind postal boxes. Their numbers were so few that their knowledge did them little good. They couldn't convey to anyone else what they'd learned, for to do so would be to risk disgrace. And alone, these brave could effect no change. They carried no voting clout, no voice at city hall.

The smart sort of immigration reform is to accept more legal immigrants, who tend to be the kind of ambitious, hard-working people a dynamic society needs, instead of forcing most foreigners who come here to live outside the law. But if this bill is the best Congress can produce, then doing nothing might be preferable.

Advertisers, reeling from the loss of income, abandoned all news markets. Newspapers could no longer afford syndicated features — no comics, no editorial page columnists. They brought their foreign correspondents home. Their size shrunk — half-size, quarter-size. Finally the one-page mimeograph sheets were all they could afford.

Slick, full-color news magazines disappeared. Radio affiliates dropped their syndicated state and national news services. Television news networks dropped all overseas bureaus and, unable to prop up news production costs with sitcom ad revenues, cut their broadcast time to irregular five-minute programs.

It all happened so quickly that no one knew what the impact would be until it slammed into the nation, throwing a free country into a dark corridor.

One woman was bold. The boss was overwhelming, and it sickened her. But it made her angry enough to act. Like a modern-era Paul Revere, she trekked day after day, knocking on doors, daring to ask what her neighbors and countrymen would risk to see a free and open press restored.

"I don't think it's worth it," one balding man with a pot belly said. "The newspaper published so much bad news."

"I just didn't want to hear about all those scandals," said a prim spinster, clucking her tongue as she spoke. "Why, you'd have thought the world was coming to an end the way the media carried on."

At the next house, a man with shifty eyes, droopy jowls and a big nose answered the door. He looked familiar. "Came too late," he growled. "If we could have had this kind of cooperation a dozen years ago, no one would have had to know. And I could still be President of the United States."

Billy Graham

Marriage won't change him

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My family is against me marrying the man I am in love with, because we are of different religions. Actually, he has never been very religious, but I think I can change him to my point of view when we are married. How can I persuade my parents they are wrong? — J.H.P.

DEAR J.H.P.: Almost every day I get at least one letter from someone who says they married a person who had no real commitment to God, thinking they could change that person and make them love God. But almost without exception they have discovered it seldom happens that way, and often they find instead they have married someone who is selfish and even scornful toward their wife's (or husband's) religious commitment.

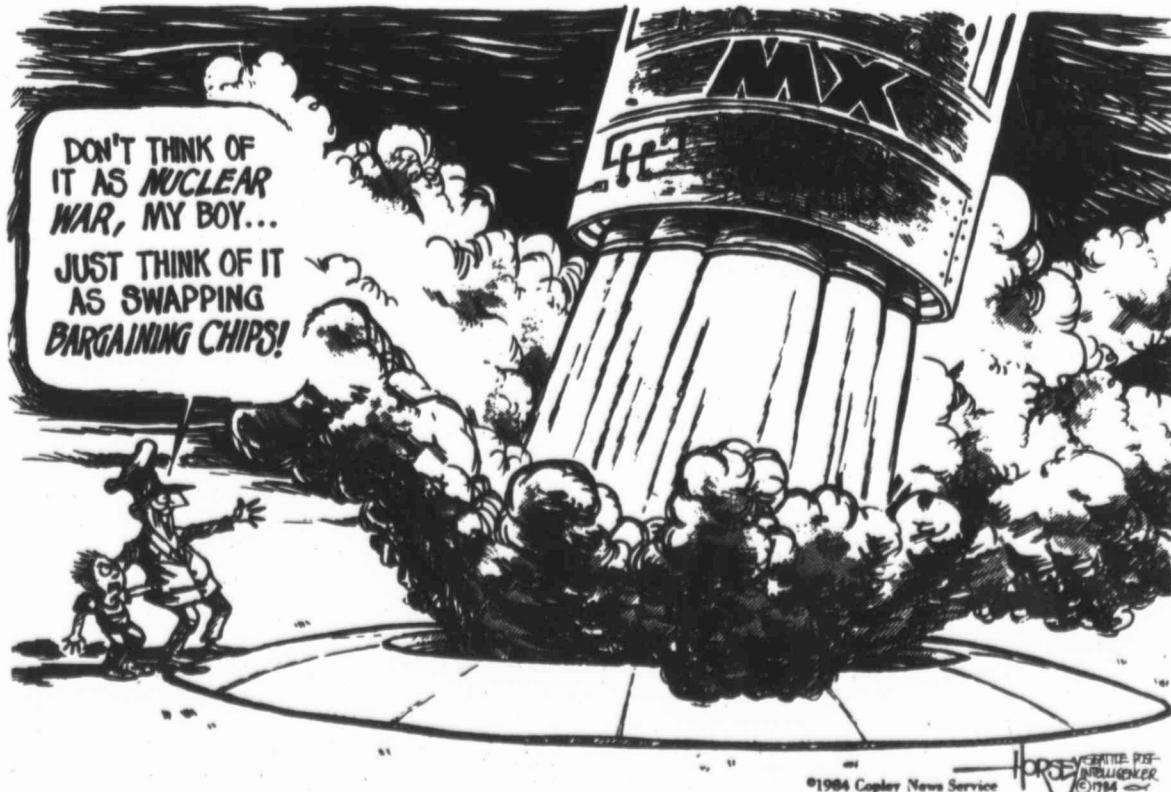

This is one reason the Bible makes it clear that a person who puts Christ first in his life should not consider marrying a person who is uninterested in Christ and his will. The Bible says, "Do not be yoked together with unbelievers. For what do righteousness and wickedness have in common? What does a believer have in common with an unbeliever?" (2 Corinthians 6:14, 15).

Take, on a practical level, just one question as an example — the question of how you will raise your children. If he is of another religion, what kind of religious instruction will they get? If your husband has no interest in spiritual things, don't you realize how difficult it will be to teach them about the importance which God should have in our lives?

Your problem is not how to persuade your parents to accept this young man. Your problem really is whether or not you will seek God's will in this important decision. Does God care for you? Of course he does — he proved it by sending Listen to your parents. Don't let your emotions lead you into doing something you will regret later. His Son to the cross for your sins. And, because he loves you and cares for you, he can be trusted to guide you to the right man who will love both you and God.

Q. I've heard the advantages of listing with a broker when selling a house, but I'm still not convinced I can't do as good a job myself. What else can you tell me to "sell" me on a broker?

A. Okay, First — consider ... Professionalism. An agent knows the business, with all its ins and outs, quirks and foibles, puzzles and predicaments. When you employ an agent, you're really employing experience, education and know-how. Second — remember — the consultant aspect. Having lived in your home, you might tend to be less objective about its faults and pluses than a realtor. A real estate agent is looking at it through "new eyes" — the same as a prospective buyer, and can consult with you on correcting those faults before a buyer does — by making a lower offer.

The NBA forecast

It's that time again — the time to see who is the best basketball team in the world, yea that's right; the NBA Championship series gets underway today at the Boston Garden when the Celtics host the LA Lakers in the opening game.

I don't mind telling you that this series has me wired up, I can't wait to see these two warlord clubs go at it tooth and nail. It could possibly be one of the most exciting and highest championship caliber of play ever in the NBA.

You have two of the best all-around players to ever play the sport in Boston's Larry Bird and LA's Magic Johnson. These guys do just about everything but sell beer in the stands, in fact rumors have it that Johnson did sell a couple bags of popcorn in an earlier rout of a Western Conference foe.

Larry Bird is like the pilot of the Celtics' ship, as the Birdman goes, so goes Boston. Name another forward who averages over 20 points, 10 rebounds and assists. He is definitely a blue-collar worker that gets the job done in an unspectacular way.

Then you have Johnson, and they don't call him Magic for nothing. The man is breath-taking with his smooth drives to the bucket and then dishing it off to his teammate for an easy basket. When he has to, he scores and you don't hear many people say it, but he plays pretty good defense. It's hard for a 6-4 guard to shoot over his 6-9 frame.

Critics are billing this championship series as the meeting of the two best all around players in the game, but who can forget the most prolific scorer in NBA history — Kareem Abdul Jabbar. George Mikan made the patent for the hook shot, but Kareem has perfected it to the tee.

Even in his old age it's very hard to stop Kareem for getting his 23 points. Sure he has slowed down alot but the big man gets fired up at this point in the playoffs.

Now it comes down to the million dollar question, who will win it all? My pick is LA, although Boston had the best win-loss record in the NBA this season and had an easier time in the playoffs. So I guess you could say I'm picking an upset.

You have teams of slightly contrasting style. Boston is a good shooting, hard nosed team that thrives on playing good defense and dominating the boards. LA is a fastbreak team with excellent shooters than can blow you out in a three minute time period.

The good thing about Boston is they can play a transition game if they have to, mainly because Danny Ainge, Dennis Johnson, Cedrick Maxwell, Robert Parish and Bird are all-around athletes.

Guards Johnson and Ainge work good together. Johnson is a defensive catalyst while Ainge is a pure shooter. They should matchup well against Magic and high-flying Michael Cooper. My bet is that Johnson will stick Magic and Ainge and Cooper will renew their Brigham Young University and University of New Mexico rivalry like in their college days. I give the edge to LA because of Magic and their strong reserves like Byron Scott.

The battle of the forwards will be awesome. Maxwell and the Birdman versus Silk Wilkes and James Worthy. Maxwell will be looking to try to do a fine defensive job on Wilkes, who is deadly from the corner, while Worthy and Bird will battle toe to toe. I'd have to give the edge to Boston in this department because of Bird and Maxwell's defense. Anyone that can hold Bernard King to 13 points is a defense-playing dude.

The center matchup will be a battle with the Kareem the Master versus Parish. Kareem has the edge in knowledge but Parish, who is very underrated has a younger body. Parish is a super defensive player and has a good shot from the outside. I'm calling this matchup a toss up.

Now we get to the bench strength, and I think this is why the Lakers will take it all. They have too much firepower coming off the pine in the likes of Scott, Bob McAdoo and Kurt Rambis. They just keep coming at you. The Boston reserves are no slouches with Kevin "I don't take nothing from nobody" McHale and cagey veteran M.L. Carr.

The Lakers will keep running at the 'Celts until they run them down, in six games mind you, because if it comes down to game seven in Boston, the Lakers might be in trouble.

As for the coaches, both K.C. Jones and Pat Riley do a good job with their respective teams. Unlike Bill Fitch, Jones encourages his players when they do well, while Fitch hounded his players for things they didn't do just right.

Riley seems to be made for the Lakers' job. He knows he has some throughbreds on his team and he runs them, which usually results in running the other team off the court.

So there is my forecast for the upcoming battle. Both teams are so good I hate to see either lose. It's going to be a war on the hardwood, but Jones and his Celtics will have to wait another year to get the brass back to Boston.

Drivers ready selves for Indy 500

By The Associated Press
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The bullet-like racer whistles down the backstretch at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway at more than 210 mph, heading for the tight third turn.

Suddenly, a puff of smoke explodes from the right rear, and the car veers toward the white concrete wall surrounding the 2½-mile track.

It does a three-quarter spin and smashes the wall with a gut-wrenching thud. Pieces of the 1,600-pound racer spew from the carcass as the car grinds along. It finally stops near the entrance to the fourth turn, more than 1,000 feet from the spot where the wall now is marked with a dirty swirl from the impact of a tire and a splotch of color from the side of the demolished car.

The smoke drifts away and there is an eerie silence before the track safety crews arrive. The driver, stunned by the impact, sits in the steaming remains, semiconscious, his head lolling to the side. That scene involving Jacques Villeneuve, and several similar ones, occurred this month as drivers qualified at record speeds for Sunday's Indianapolis 500.

All of the drivers survived. Villeneuve suffered a concussion, which kept him in nearby Methodist Hospital for two days. Steve Chassey also suffered a concussion and Steve Krisloff had a badly broken leg.

Michael Chandler, in an accident almost identical to Villeneuve's, suffered a cerebral contusion, a broken nose and cuts on his face. He has had to undergo minor plastic surgery and is making steady improvement after being in a coma for 2½ days, doctors said.

Danger and death are part of racing's world, and — as speeds climbed this May to a record average of 203.692 mph — talk of tragedy on the track has grown louder. Those involved, however, say the cars are safer than ever.

"The cars look fragile, but they're not," said Robin Herd, the chief designer of March race cars. All of the injured drivers except Chandler, in a Dan Gurney Eagle, were in Marches.

"All the new cars are made with space age materials," Herd continued, "like carbon fibers, and they are made with honeycomb construction — not because it's lighter, but because it's stronger."

"When these cars impact, they appear to just fall apart, to go to pieces. But, what they do is absorb the impact and fling its energy away from the cockpit, away from the driver."

The key, Herd said, is making sure the "tub" — the central part of the car holding the cockpit — remains intact.

"The driver is protected in that cocoon as much as possible," he said.

Herd noted that both Villeneuve and Chandler were injured by flying debris, not the impact. Villeneuve was hit by a tire and Chandler by a piece of suspension that broke through the face shield of his helmet.

"We've got to do something about that, especially here at Indianapolis where the walls and fences are so close to the track. The debris is often flung back at the driver."

"Putting a protective shield behind and at the sides of the driver's head — maybe some sort of carbon fiber — would help. That could well be in next year's design."

Gordon Johncock, a veteran of 19 Indy races, reflects the view of most of the drivers about the integrity and safety of the race cars.

"We're going faster than we ever have before," said Johncock, a two-time Indy winner who will start from the middle of the second row in a March. "But I feel like these cars are safer at 210 than older cars were at 195."

"They are very stable and they're forgiving. You make a mistake and it's not the end. Most of the time you can correct. In the past, if you made a mistake, let the car get away even for a second, you were in trouble. This way, there are less guys crashing, so less injuries."

Most of the crashes at Indianapolis this month have been due to the suspension failure or flat tires.

NEW AMERICAN RECORD — Brian Oldfield makes a new American toss of the shot of 72-10 inches, beating his old mark of 72-3 at the Bruce Jenner Michelson Light Classic Track meet in San Jose, California.

Oldfield breaks U.S. shot record

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Carl Lewis tuned up for the Olympic trials with a double victory in the 100 and 200 meter sprints, and Brian Oldfield, the old man of shot-putting, smashed his American record Saturday in the Bruce Jenner Classic.

Oldfield, who turns 39 on June 1, heaved the shot 72 feet, 9¾ inches, breaking the U.S. record he shared with Dave Laut by 6¼ inches and missing East German Udo Beyer's world mark by an inch.

Oldfield and Lewis highlighted a star-studded meet that also featured victories by Steve Scott in the mile, Lewis's sister, Carol, in the women's long jump, and Mary Decker in the 1,500.

Carl Lewis surpassed his own meet records in both sprints, although neither was official because winds were slightly over the legal limit of two meters per second.

He ran 10 seconds flat in the 100, reversing a loss here last year against Ron Brown. Brown finished second in 10.07. In the 200, Lewis won in 20.01, easily beating Kirk Baptiste who was second in 20.40. Lewis said he is passing up the big TAC meet here in two weeks and would concentrate on training for the trials later in June.

"I ran relaxed and smoothly," Lewis said. "There was no reason to push myself."

Oldfield thrust his massive arms in the air and paraded triumphantly after his winning toss. Oldfield, who finished sixth at the 1972 Olympics, is ineligible for the Games this summer because he was a professional for several years.

The shot put competition set another record. It was the first time in history that at least three men went over 70 feet at the same meet. Laut was second at 70-9, followed by John Brenner at 70-5 and Mike Carter at 70-3.

"It's time for American throwers to begin showing their best," Oldfield said. "This is the best meet I've won in a long time. If I had lost this one, it could have been the end of an era. I felt I might have a demon and couldn't shake it."

Carol Lewis surpassed the American record of 22-1¼ by Jodi Anderson in the long jump with a leap of 23-0¼, but was denied the record because the wind was slightly stronger than the legal limit.

Decker easily won the 1,500 in a relatively slow 4:05 workout, the fastest time by an American this year but nearly eight seconds off her own U.S. record.

Boston, Lakers set to bang heads for NBA title

BOSTON (AP) — It's the grand finale of the National Basketball Association season, the Boston Celtics and the Los Angeles Lakers.

It's the board-banging, blue-collar workers of the Eastern establishment against the glittery, gold-clad greyhounds of the West. It's the Magic Show and the Birdman. It's the team with the top regular-season record and the team with the second-best mark.

It all begins Sunday when the ball is tossed for the opening tip toward the 14 green-and-white championship flags that flutter from the Boston Garden rafters.

It's the final best-of-seven series of the playoffs from which a new NBA champion will emerge.

"Everybody in the world, I think, wanted this matchup," says Boston Coach K.C. Jones. "L.A. and Boston, East against West."

"If there's an America's basketball team, I think we are it, kind of the working-class guys. And if there is a glamour team, it's been L.A., most of the time, being out there in Hollywood."

Boston, the 1981 champion in its last appearance in the Final Two, rolled to a 62-20 record this season. In the playoffs, it downed Washington, New York and Milwaukee to capture the Eastern crown.

Los Angeles, the 1980 and 1982 champion before losing to Philadelphia in last year's finals, is making its fourth appearance in the title round in five years. It was 54-28 in the regular season, then eliminated Kansas City and Dallas before advancing Friday night with a 99-97 victory over Phoenix.

The last time Boston and Los Angeles met in the playoffs, the Celtics beat the Lakers, 4-3, for the 1969 title. The Lakers want to even the score.

"Everybody's looking forward to it," said Earvin "Magic" Johnson, the director of Los Angeles' up-tempo offense. "We're two knowledgeable basketball teams.

It's going to be a great running series."

It will provide a rare opportunity to gauge the talents of Johnson and Boston's Larry Bird on the same court. In their two regular-season meetings, the Lakers won 111-109 in Boston and 116-108 in Los Angeles.

"I don't even try to get involved in that. It's media hype," said Bird. "He handles the ball better, and I shoot a little better... but I compare Magic Johnson to me in the respect that he's a winner, just like I am."

Maxwell said the Bird-Johnson comparison is emphasized "because they're the two greatest all-around players right now in the game."

Soviets claim pullout is not revenge

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin's chief spokesman on Saturday said the West was wrong to view Soviet withdrawal from the Los Angeles Olympics as revenge for the U.S.-led boycott of the 1980 Moscow Games or as a calculated political move.

Meanwhile, in Geneva, Switzerland, an International Olympics Committee official said IOC president Juan Antonio Samaranch will travel to Moscow next week in another apparent attempt to get Soviet officials to reverse their boycott decision.

And the official Soviet news agency Tass said South Yemen has decided to join 10 other communist countries in withdrawing from the Games. However, there was no official announcement from South Yemen, an ally of the Soviet Union in the Middle East.

In the first public comment here, from a senior political official about the Olympic boycott, Kremlin spokesman Leonid Zamyatin said on Soviet television that the decision not to go to Los Angeles was determined solely by concern for athletes' safety.

"Our sportsmen were getting ready to participate in Los Angeles but they were preparing for honest competition to defend the national merits of Soviet sportsmen," Zamyatin said.

"They were definitely not preparing to fight all kinds of outcasts, politicians and criminal elements which had and still do have intentions to use the Olympics to carry out their anti-Soviet provocative plans," he said.

However, under a plan being explored by Olympic organizers, athletes from boycotting countries may still be invited to compete.

The Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, said the possibility will be raised during a meeting next week with the IOC in Lausanne, Switzerland.

He said Friday the LAOOC has communicated with a dozen Eastern bloc athletes who were interested in competing.

Zamyatin blamed "U.S. propaganda" for arguments that the decision not to go to Los Angeles resulted from a tough Kremlin foreign policy or a desire to avenge the U.S. boycott of the Moscow Games and said, "This is a wrong evaluation."

"To consider that a political decision was made or that the decision comes from a concept of 'eye for eye, tooth for tooth' is an incorrect description of our policy," he said. "We support competitions in sports arenas, but not competitions with some kind of groups, politicians or provocateurs. That is what determined the position of the Soviet National Olympic Committee about the non-participation of Soviet sportsmen."

"We highly prize these Soviet people and we know how to protect them," he said.

Zamyatin, who heads the international information department of the Communist Party's influential Central Committee, was speaking on the television program "Studio Nine," a regular foreign affairs program in which he answers letters sent by Soviet viewers.

Zamyatin's proffered reasons for not going to Los Angeles did not differ from comments made in a well-run media campaign against the Olympics and statements by Soviet IOC chief Marat Gramov since the boycott was announced on May 8.

Ryan wins fifth in row as Astros blank Bucs

HOUSTON (AP) — Nolan Ryan pitched a five-hitter for his fifth consecutive victory and second shutout of the season and passed Philadelphia's Steve Carlton for the all-time major-league strikeout lead as the Houston Astros defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-0 Saturday night.

Ryan, 6-2, struck out nine and walked one. The nine strikeouts gave him 3,758 for his career, one ahead of Carlton in the continuing race between the top two strikeout pitchers in baseball history.

The Astros scored both their runs

Mets 2, Dodgers 1
NEW YORK (AP) — Hubie Brooks extended major league baseball's longest hitting streak of the season to 20 games with a seventh-inning home run and Wally Backman delivered the game-winning run with a single later in the inning as the New York Mets defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1 Saturday.

Tim Leary, 2-2, pitched three innings of scoreless relief for the victory, while Jesse Orosco recorded his eighth save.

Reds 7, Cubs 6
CHICAGO (AP) — Pinch-hitter Tony Perez delivered a two-run single with two out in the ninth inning, leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 7-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

One-out errors by second baseman Ryne Sandberg and shortstop Larry Bowa on consecutive ground balls by Eric Davis and Cesar Cedeno opened the door for the Reds' rally.

A ground ball by Dave Parker moved the runners to second and third, setting the stage for Perez' game-winning hit to right off Steve Trout, 5-3.

Bill Scherrer, 1-0, was the winner with relief help from Ted Power, who gained his second save.

The Cubs had battled back to tie it 5-5 with three runs in the sixth and they took the lead 6-5 on Roy Cey's tie-breaking double in the seventh inning.

Cincinnati scored twice in the second inning on successive singles by Dave Concepcion, Ron Oester, Tom Foley and Frank Pastore.

They added two more runs in the third off rookie starter Don Schulze on singles by John Milner and Dan Driessen, a run-scoring double by Parker and a sacrifice fly by Brad Gudden.

The Cubs picked up a run in the bottom of the third when Jody Davis doubled, went to third on a wild pitch and scored as Bob Dernier grounded out. Driessen's RBI single in the fifth gave the Reds a 5-1 lead before the Cubs came back in the bottom of the inning on an RBI single by Gary Woods.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Two-run homers by John Lowenstein and Rick Dempsey powered the Baltimore Orioles to a 9-5 victory over the California Angels Saturday.

Baltimore wasted no time in getting to former New York Met right-hander Craig Swan in his American League debut, scoring twice in the first inning on an RBI triple by Cal Ripken and Eddie Murray's run-scoring single.

After scoring a run in the bottom of the first on Rod Carew's

Dwyer's double. Dempsey followed Rich Dauer's seventh-inning single with his second homer.

Winner Mike Boddicker, 5-4, scattered eight hits and left the game in the ninth after giving up a leadoff homer to Juan Beniquez, his third, and a one-out single to Mike Brown. Tippy Martinez finished up for the Orioles. Lynn slammed his second homer of the game and his sixth of the season in the eighth, after the Orioles had scored a run in the top of the inning.

Royals 11, Red Sox 7
BOSTON (AP) — George Brett drove in six runs with a single, triple, and his first homer of the season Saturday to rally the Kansas City Royals to an 11-7 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Brett, activated May 18 after recovering from a knee injury, singled home a run in the first inning, tied the score 5-5 with a triple off reliever Bob Stanley in the seventh and capped a five-run eighth inning with a three-run homer off reliever John Henry Johnson.

Pat Sheridan had three singles while Willie Wilson, Frank White and Darryl Motley had two apiece in Kansas City's 16-hit attack.

Paul Splittorff, the third Kansas City pitcher, picked up his first victory against two losses. Dan Quisenberry pitched the last two innings.

Rookie right-hander Roger Clemens checked Kansas City for six innings, striking out eight before needing help from Stanley with two out in the seventh.

Twins 7, Brewers 6
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Shortstop Robin Yount's throwing error in the bottom of the ninth inning allowed Tim Teufel to score from second base and give the Minnesota Twins a 7-6 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Saturday.

Winning pitcher Pete Filton, 4-1, pitched 5 1/3 innings of three-hit relief, to get the victory. Filton retired the last 11 batters he faced.

Waiting soon pays off for Boston coach K.C. Jones

By The Associated Press
BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics already had plenty of talent. Now, they have Henry Wadsworth Longfellow on their side, too.

The superstar poet did his best work a long jump shot across the Charles River in Cambridge, Mass., from where the Celtics do their best work. And 94 years before Boston won its first of 14 National Basketball Association titles, he wrote:

"All things come round to him who will but wait."

K.C. Jones has made a career of waiting. All things, in the form of his first NBA title as a coach, may be about to come round.

A military commitment caused a two-year delay in the start of his Celtics' playing career. He waited for Bob Cousy to retire before becoming their playmaker. He waited so long, he gave up hope of becoming an NBA head coach.

The waiting wasn't wasted. "While I waited, sitting on the bench, I learned from Cousy. I learned from Bill Sharman," Jones said.

And he learned patience. "Patience? Yeah. But I knew the total situation there with Cousy, Sharman, Bill Russell, (Tom) Heinsohn, Sam Jones," he said. "They are the better players so my game became what (Michael) Cooper is to Los Angeles and that is learning the whole defensive game from top to bottom and go with it and then I learned from Bob Cousy how to run the fastbreak."

The low-keyed Jones, who turned 32 Friday, combined those 30 years of patience and learning to lead the Celtics to the NBA's best regular-season record, 62-20, and to the Eastern Conference championship in his first year as their coach.

They play for league championship No. 15 against the Western Conference winner, either Los Angeles or Phoenix.

"Few people have that expertise," Boston assistant coach Chris Ford said. But, he added, "it's never been 'do it my way or else.' He's always been open to suggestions."

The switch from Bill Fitch, who resigned as coach after last season, could hardly be more drastic.

Said guard Gerald Henderson: "Bill tried to pretty much drill it in you. 'Do it this way.' And you come back in five minutes, 'do it this way, do it this way,' over and over."

"After you become a four- or five-year veteran you don't need the hollering and shouting and screaming. K.C. can tell me to do something once and it'll be done because he puts it in another manner."

"K.C. is a little less negative-oriented," forward Kevin McHale said. "Whereas Bill would say, 'we didn't do this, we didn't do that,' K.C. says, 'we did this really well, we did this really well and we've got to try to do this better.' It gives you a lot of confidence."

Fitch's hard-hitting style was what the Celtics needed in 1979, when he took over a team that was 29-53 the previous season and in "a chaotic situation," guard Quinn Buckner said.

Jones' kid-glove approach of "gentle coercion" was what the veteran team needed this season after winning 61, 62, 63 and 56 games and one title in its four seasons under Fitch, Buckner added.

SPORTS HIGHLIGHTS

by Pat Gray

The most controversial championship finish ever seen on any basketball court happened at the 1972 Munich Olympic games. The USSR has played well enough to win and was leading 44-38 with 5 minutes to play. In a closing surge, the U.S. had narrowed the gap to 48-49 with 3 seconds to play when Doug Collins was fouled. He scored both throws. With the Soviet coach frantically trying to get a time-out, the horn sounded and the Americans thought they had a 50-49 victory. However, it was ruled that the clock be reset, giving the Russians a 3 second reprieve. It was all they needed. The ball was inbounded the length of the court. Aleksandr Belou eluded defenders and scored, making it 51-50 USSR.

CHIPS FOR LEAD — Chip Beck, of Fayetteville, N.C., blasts out of the sand trap on the 15th green Saturday to maintain his 7-under par stroke lead over Jack Nicklaus in the Memorial Golf Tournament in Dublin, Ohio.

Beck keeps lead in Memorial golf

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Chip Beck, who has yet to win his first PGA Tour title, faces one of golf's more formidable challenges Sunday in the final round of the $500,000 Memorial Tournament. From a one-stroke lead, Beck must turn back the challenge of the man who designed and built the golf course, the host and founder of the tournament, and the holder of a record 17 major professional titles, the Golden Bear himself, Jack Nicklaus. Can he beat Nicklaus on the Bear's home grounds? "You're asking me that?" Beck said, and gave a nervous little giggle. "I'm in such awe of the man..." he said, left the sentence unfinished, then took a different tact. "To be perfectly honest, you have to believe you can win a tournament. I've been growing to that point," said Beck, who had two runner-up finishes last year. "You have to believe you can win." He'll be paired with Nicklaus in the final threesome, and welcomes the matchup. "That's good," he said. "You know if you beat Jack, you usually win the tournament." Beck, now in his sixth year of Tour activity, salvaged a 68 when he got up and down from bunkers on the last two holes, and completed three trips over the subtle terrors of the Muirfield Village Golf Club course in 209, 77-under-par. Nicklaus, seeking a second victory in his own tournament and attempting to end a two-year non-winning string, had a chance to tie for the lead but missed a 12-foot birdie putt on the 18th holes. He rallied for a 71—after a lapse of three bogeys in a 4-hole stretch—and was at 210 for 54 holes. "Obviously, I'm in very good position," Nicklaus said. "I'm playing better than I have at any time this year. I'm hitting the ball well and have a lot of confidence." Gary Koch, a two-time winner this season, and Andy Bean were next at 213. Bean closed up with a 67. Koch had a wildly erratic 73 that included five birdies and six bogeys. They were followed by Payne Stewart, a playoff loser last week, and Dr. Gil Morgan at 214, five shots back. Stewart matched par 72 over the course that Jack built, and Morgan had a 74. Masters champion Ben Crenshaw, who had a one-shot lead at the end of two rounds, retained the top spot through the first nine holes — then took a visit into golf's twilight zone. Crenshaw, playing with Nicklaus in the final threesome on the course, drove into a fairway bunker on the par-4 10th hole. He hit his second shot deep into the woods, came out into another bunker, blew then next one into deep rough behind the green, chipped lone and 2-putted for a staggering 7 that sent him, shaken and reeling, to a dismal 44 on the back nine. He bogeyed five more times before he finally reached the shelter of the clubhouse with a 79 for the day and a 217 total.

own tall ship

BOSTON (AP) - On the first two visits the Tall Ships made to Boston, more than a million people turned out by land and by sea to cheer them into the harbor. But something was missing.

This time Boston Harbor has its own Tall Ship: the Spirit of Massachusetts, a graceful return of the old Fredonia two-masted schooners of a century ago.

Launched April 28 at Charlestown Navy Yard, the Spirit of Massachusetts will lead a majestic parade of sail scheduled for June 2.

Joy! To the world

Bob Motley, recently retired mail carrier on a rural route here in Mitchell County, is a lot of fun. I had him in my home recently retelling our upstairs bathroom and in the course of the day, he and I took a tea break. Bob was telling me about the joys of bowling and how much fun he and Dorothy have on their bowling trips to various championship contests. They were in Dallas and another couple was with them, the Dwain Williams'. They stopped at a service station. You remember those, don't you? That's where a very knowledgeable attendant really checks over your car while another puts gasoline in the tank.

Shorty Pace is one of Colorado City's sweetest senior citizens. When I moved here in 1971, he owned and operated the Phillips 66 station on Interstate 20. One day the ultimate grouch pulled into Shorty's driveway. He grunted, "Fill'er up" with a frown that would have quashed a lesser person than our good old Shorty. The driver stood by his car growling under his breath and Shorty set out to follow his directions. As he unscrewed the gas cap he thought he'd lighten up the situation a little so he read out loud the name of the car dealer on the back of the car. The grouch growled, "What's wrong with that?" Shorty said, "Nothing is wrong with that!" The grouch peeled off a bill of the top of a roll and then without a further word, drove out of the driveway. As he drove off and was totally out of earshot, Shorty told him to do him a favor and not come back. Wonder what that guys problem was? Whatever it was it caused him to miss a real blessing. He would have really enjoyed being with Shorty if he had allowed himself to. There's a lesson in this for us. Relax and take life like it comes and you'll have time to enjoy the nice people you meet along the way.

'Sheriff' believes in people helping people

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

"If all charitable organizations operate like the Shriners do, we'd save a lot because that's people helping people," says Joe Higgins, one of the celebrities participating in the Signal Peak Shriners' Pro-Am and Russell Erxleben Benefit Golf Tournament.

As a child, Higgins knew he wanted to be an actor. "I knew what I wanted to do when I was nine years old. I started acting in school plays. I started way back in early radio. I watched television grow up. I've done Broadway and a lot of national companies, old major plays — Finnegans Rainbow, Brigadoon — old musicals and detective stories, some of the great revivals that are coming back now. Then the business moved to Hollywood and I went with it.

It wasn't hard for him to break into television and theater because he already had a track record of almost 20 years. "It was a case of just putting me where the business was. And I got very lucky when I went out there. Walked right in, in 1958, to the Rifleman series and I played the blacksmith all five years.

With all the economic problems that you have...there's a wonderful indomitable spirit about the people of this community that I find very refreshing.'

"We had the Dick Powell Theater, Robert Taylor's Detectives, Big Valley, Gunsmoke. So we were kind of a family. When we weren't working on one show, we were working on another. I was the mayor of Big Valley, and the bartender in Gunsmoke," he said.

"That era is all gone now. The industry today is all run by very, very young people in management positions, all under 35 and all owned by giant corporations who don't know a damn thing about making pictures. All they know is about accounting and so forth," he said.

HIGGINS IS WELL-KNOWN for his portrayal of the sheriff on Dodge truck commercials who says the famous line, "You're in a heap of trouble, boy." He has visited every Shriners' Crippled Children's Hospital and Burn Center in the country at least once and claims he is one of the few Hollywood celebrities who has done such.

Although Higgins is not a Shriner, he wears the honorary blue fez. He was made an honorary member of a temple in Decatur, Ill. for his contributions to Shriners Hospitals. He visits and entertains at them. "I'd walk any mile I'd have to for the hospitals and the children," he said.

Terry (T.O.) Stanley, an El Paso bootmaker and former Big Spring, invited Higgins to participate in the tournament with him. Stanley makes Higgins boots and those of many Hollywood celebrities, including Mac Davis.

"We've been friends for a number of years," says Higgins. "He knew of the tournament and they asked him to invite people he knew because he knew several from Hollywood. I'm very proud that he asked me to come down."

Higgins arrived in Big Spring from a speaking engagement in Orlando, Fla. When he isn't making commercials or filming, he is a crime prevention specialist sponsored by Dodge and General Electric lamp division. He travels 200 days out of the year speaking to and working with law enforcement agencies in the United States for crime prevention and highway safety.

HE IS IN HIS EIGHTH year with the FBI Crime Prevention Task Force, a detached service from the Bureau that visit cities, service clubs, community organizations, and businessmen. They present information on everything from personal security, credit card theft, internal theft, retail and industrial theft, executive protection and international terrorism. "We travel and carry a lot of films and slides and things with us. They call me the two-by-four," he said. "You see if two FBI agents came to town to give a lecture your newspaper might not even hear about it. But when the sheriff on television comes to town, he can get the attention of the press. So the director of the Bureau calls me his two-by-four. I can get their attention."

Two of the biggest crime problems in the nation today, Higgins says, are that crime is constantly on the increase and drunk driving. One of his pet projects is fighting for stiffer drunk driving laws and supporting MADD, Mothers Against Drunk Drivers. "It's getting ludicrous," he said.

Higgins participates in several celebrity benefit tournaments a year. He wrote a guideline book to help groups with the logistics of having benefit golf tournaments. "Being part of a so-called 'celebrity' group who travels and gets invited to tournaments, we help local chapters of various charities...put on golf tournaments. These are just things that we've picked up over the years: shortcuts on how to save money to get the most money for the charity, to get the most volunteer work and how to go out and (get) prizes and just things that we've learned. It's kind of an internal thing that you pass around among groups like we have here in Big Spring." The group can pick a few suggestions that may help out in a tournament. "I just decided to compile it to help volunteer people out."

Many professional golf tournament producers are around to plan tournaments, Higgins said. When it comes to money raised in a benefit event, Higgins does not believe tournament officials should spend $7,500 off the top to pay a guy to run a tournament when all he does is tell the officials what to do. "Our little book will tell you the same thing, and we don't charge anything for it."

HIGGINS ENJOYED the Signal Peak Pro-Am. "Ah, this is a super job. These people just worked themselves to death," he said. "I said (Wednesday evening at the VIP Party) on the stage when we were doing the auction, 'You can go anywhere in the world, but you've just got to come to West Texas to meet folks. And these folks out here are the most hospitable people in the world.'"

"With all the economic problems that you have — your lack of the right kind of weather and the crops and so forth — there's a wonderful indomitable spirit about the people of this community that I find very refreshing," he said. "They are hanging in and saying 'We're coming back'. I don't think you can misconstrue that as so-called Texas braggadocio. That's just a group of good citizens with pride in their community. It's just a glorious thing to see. I think success comes to those who give of themselves to something else. And here are your people who with all the troubles they've got, they've got time to take care of a bunch of crippled children and the burn hospitals that aren't even in their town.

"I just love it here. I've already been told they are going to invite me back next year," Higgins said. "I'll be doggone if I can hardly wait to get here.

When Higgins is not traveling to speaking engagements or acting, he spends his time with his wife, children and grandchild, building a log home where he plans to retire, or trout fishing in Colorado and Wyoming. He also belongs to a flying organization and travels throughout the world with its members. By the way, Higgins has driven Dodge automobiles since before he accepted the role as the Dodge sheriff in 1960.

"So between flying, golfing, fishing, and building the house I keep pretty doggone busy. It keeps me 'out of a heap of trouble!'"

Singer Charlie Walker returns to 2nd Pro-Am

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Last year's Pro-Am Tournament was so much fun that Grand Ole Opry singer Charlie Walker had to return for more golf and good times in the benefit event which helps fund the Shriners' Cripple Children's Hospitals and Burn Centers.

"I had so much fun last year," he said last week while attending the VIP Party at the Brass Nail Wednesday. "Being a Shriner myself, the philanthropy for this tournament is one of the great philanthropies of the world. It couldn't be for a better cause and I'm thrilled to be here. It's always great to get back to West Texas where people really know how to live."

Walker was one of more than 40 celebrities participating in this year's tournament, which also benefited former pro football player and quadriplegic Steve Little. Walker is one of two celebrities that returned from last year's tournament.

"I came out here with several other guys from Nashville, entertainers, and most of them had never been out to West Texas," he said. "I said, 'Guys you're in for a treat. You're going to meet some of the friendliest people in the world. And they already told me 'you're right, we are having a good time.'"

"I HAD A GREAT time last year. And I said if it is at all possible I was going to be here. In fact, I hope they continue (the tournament) and I'm sure they will. I'd like to come back for many years to come."

Walker has played in a few tournaments already this year, and plans to play in several more. Coming up, he will be in the Danny White Tournament in Dallas, which benefits the Boy Scouts of America. "The week after that I'm going to be in Dayton, Ohio for the Bogy Busters Tournament, a big celebrity tournament kind of like Who's Who in America. I play in about 10 of the celebrity tournaments a year," he said.

Golf tournaments are run much the same way, he said. "This a Pro-Am where they have professionals, celebrities and businessmen; whereas, in just a regular celebrity tournament, you don't have any professional golfers just celebrities and businessmen." The other "ities at the Pro-Am — the VIP Party, dinners, banquets — also are much the same as at other big golf tournaments. "We usually have as we call a 'guitar pullin' where entertainers do a little pickin' and singing."

WALKER BEGAN HIS musical career in Texas.

CHARLIE WALKER
...Grand Ole Opry singer

He was raised in Collin County north of Dallas. His interest in country music developed during his youth. "Back when I was raised, on a Saturday night, somebody would have a fiddle and one have a banjo, maybe a guitar. We'd just pick and sing on the back porch...sing hymns and cowboy songs and things we had learned."

He finished high school in Dallas where he went into the radio business. His first job at 17, singing in a Dallas honkytonk, soon led him to a position as the featured vocalist with Bill Boyd's western swing band "The Cowboy Ramblers." After a year with the band, he served in the military for two years and introduced country music to Japan over the Armed Forces Radio Network from Tokyo.

Pro golfer understands needs of sick children

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Professional golfer Dick Weston of Fort Worth knows the importance of any philanthropy that helps sick children, such as the Signal Peak Pro-Am's help for the Shriners' Crippled Children's Hospitals and Burn Centers. His daughter had spinal meningitis before she was two.

"We were fortunate enough to come out of that situation with no problems. Knock on wood, she hasn't had any brain disabilities or any problems," he said. "She is progressing well." Spinal meningitis is an inflammation of three membranes covering the brain and spinal cord.

"It's one of those deals that you don't know. The most helpless feeling in the world is standing out there in the hallway in the hospital and the doctors telling you what her problem is. He said, 'she may live, she may not live. She may have learning disabilities, may have brain damage. We don't know...it's an intangible.'"

"And we were fortunate enough we were one of the lucky ones," Weston said. "We had a good doctor that caught it early, diagnosed it properly. When you start dealing with a situation like what the Shriners do, they help all types of children. So it gives me a chance as a professional golfer to come to a tournament such as this and help out," he said. Weston is one of the more than 50 professional golfers participating in the Pro-Am tournament this week. Last year, he was the winning pro and donated part of his prize money back to the Shriners.

"THESE THINGS ARE social, they are fun. Winning the tournament is secondary to me," he said. "Sure I like to compete, that is what golf is predicated on as it's an individual sport. But just the fact that I can get here and play and meet some different people every year and fill in, that's basically why I'm here."

"Last year, I was fortunate enough to play and win the tournament. I tried to set a precedent for some of the other professionals who come in to donate part of that prize money back to the Shriners to help them with their (hospital)," he said. "That's an individual decision. I felt like I wanted to (donate it) and I'll go on record that I'll do it again. I'll do it everytime I win a tournament such as this."

Weston is one of four professional golfers here from the Fort Worth Municipal Golf Courses. He won last year's tournament with a 68-71 score. "Of course the wind blew. But that's West Texas," he said. "I've grown up in West Texas and I hope it blows again."

"Being a golf professional, I honestly don't have the time (to participate in civic organizations) because their luncheon meetings coincide with my busiest times of the day. So I try to fill in with this type thing, playing in charitable tournaments. That way I play to help out."

AS LONG AS he is in this geographical area, Weston plans to participate in the Signal Peak Pro-Am Tournament every year. "I'll tell you what is so great. I play in a lot of golf tournaments. But the way that the City of Big Spring gets behind this tournament means so much to the professionals from out of town that come in. It makes that much difference, it really does," he said.

"When you come in and you see the marquees on the motels and Rip Griffin's Truckstop welcoming the professional golfers and the golfers for the Pro-

Following his time in the military, Walker lived in San Antonio for 15 years. He was in broadcasting there before he had hit records. Walker cut some records in the 1950s, of which several did well. When his records were becoming successful, he moved to Nashville. "In 1958, I slipped up on a real big hit, which was 'Pick Me Up On Your Way Down.'" He has been recording songs since and has had more than 40 tunes on the Nashville charts. "I've been with the Grand Ole Opry since 1965," he said.

WALKER'S SCHEDULE this year has included touring and playing shows around the country. "and doing the Grand Ole Opry when I'm in (Nashville)," he said.

"I'm in about half the time...and I'm out about the other half. I'm out this weekend of course. I'm not only playing in the golf tournament here, but I'm also appearing at the Players Club Friday and Saturday," he said Wednesday. "The next two weekends I'll be gone." Walker is on the road about 100 days a year.

Walker is a newlywed, married two weeks. "We have seven children; I have five and she has two. So we have quite a household. We haven't really had a chance to have a honeymoon yet. I wanted to bring her here to this fine tournament, but we still have children in school. They have another week to go there in Nashville, so there was no way she could get loose. I'm planning on taking her to the Danny White Tournament.

"I married a good Texas girl and I'm really happy about it. She's from Fort Worth. Her name is Deanna Walker. She went to the same church I did and she's a wonderful person." Walker is Mormon. "My children love her and she loves them...I guess it was just my good fortune."

WALKER'S CAREER keeps him away from home quite often. "Naturally (they would) rather I be home. I love to be home with them, too. But you know I'm the breadwinner of the family, so I go out as they say and shake the bushes and see if I can shake out a few coins."

Walker has been a Shriner since 1955 and a Mason since 1953. A member of Al Menah Temple in Nashville and a temple in San Antonio, he has performed at many Shriner's Hospitals. "Being a Shriner myself, I really know how to appreciate the great job that they do around the world...as far as aid to crippled children." Walker is an ambassador at large at his Nashville temple and a life member at his San Antonio temple.

When he isn't entertaining, Walker enjoys playing golf, hunting and fishing.

Reflections on the Pro-Am

The Signal Peak Shriner's Pro-Am and Russell Exleben Benefit Golf Tournament is over and it's time to reflect on the event.

Everyone is already talking about next year's tournament. Many celebrities and professional golfers enjoyed themselves so much that they are saying they will be here next year. "Everybody here is wonderful," said CLIFF COCHRAN, one of the popular songwriters from Nashville. "I've never come to a small town where everybody I met were super people. I didn't see any tempers flare, other than mine. It has been fun. I had a wonderful time. I've played in bigger tournaments and didn't have as good a time." Cochran was teamed with LLOYD MOODY, TROY FRASER, EDDIE ACRI, KENNY CARTER and B. PALMER. They finished in a tie for third place.

"TROY FRASER shot an eagle on #9," Cochran said, proud of his team member. GREG HENRY and JAY LANE PHINNEY also witnessed an eagle shot on hole #10 by RICHARD ATKINS. They "applauded greatly with great astonishment as the ball bounced into the hole," Greg said. "He chipped in about 50 yards out for an eagle. It was a pretty shot on a five par."

The FIBER FLEX people put in some long and late hours shuttlebusing the pro-am celebrities and golfers all over town during the three-day event. One woman said she had hardly seen her husband much because of the time he had put in shuttling guests to the country club, hotels, and local clubs.

The Fiber Flex people, the hostesses, tournament officials and country club officials should all be commended for a job well done on the tournament. For as many people as there were participating in it, which was at least 350, it was very well organized and entertaining. Many of the celebrities participate in several large tournaments a year. They also commented on how well organized and enjoyable the tournament was.

"I think it was very well organized and went very smoothly this year considering the number involved," said SHERRI BORDOFSKE, a tournament hostess. "I think they did a great deed for all the kids. There is already talk for a bigger and better next year."

Actor and Dodge commercials' sheriff JOE HIGGINS said, Big Spring's Pro-Am "is probably the best organized, and in just two years."

"There's a lot of nice people out here," said JUDY

ATKINS, another hostess. "They are fantastic. I think the whole tournament was fantastic." Judy was unable to participate as a hostess at last year's tournament. This year she made sure she was involved.

The hostesses did the legwork to keep the tournament running smoothly during the day. They kept track of everybody's scores and made sure players were where they were supposed to be. Anything that needed to be done, they did it.

Thursday evening BUM PHILLIPS kept everybody in stitches with his humor at the barbecue that followed the first day of golf. He is a down-to-earth man who isn't nearly as huge as I thought he would be. Also at the barbecue, the songwriters and singers from Nashville entertained the crowd for several hours. They are COCHRAN, BRUCE CHAN- NEL, BUCKY LINDSEY, LLOYD BLANTON, SON- NY THROCKMORTON, JOE ALLEN, P.R. BAT- TLE, ROCK KILLOUGH, ROGER COOK, JIM PAS- QUALE and CHARLIE WALKER.

After two days of playing golf with songwriter Son- ny Throckmorton, DON COOK finally learned to imitate Sonny's yell after he hits a golf ball. They demonstrated the yell together. It goes like this, "Awh—h—h—h."

JACKIE CUPIT, pro golfer who used to be on the Professional Golfers' Association tour, says he's played in four tournaments this year. After finishing the Pro-Am Friday afternoon, he said, "I'm over- golfed."

"I think (the Pro-Am) is the greatest thing that hit Big Spring," said police chief RICK TURNER. "It goes for crippled children and that is a worthy cause. Regardless of how anybody plays, it's the thought that counts." Rick had never played golf before until he shot his first game a week ago Friday. "This is not for personal prestige or individual glory. It's for the overall cause," he said.

"We've estimated that we probably (made) around $25,000," Don Cook said. That is how much will go to the beneficiaries: the SHRINERS HOSPITALS and STEVE LITTLE. The tournament grossed somewhere around $50,000 to $60,000, according to one of the hostesses.

Following the tournament Friday evening, several people went to Players Club and listened to Charlie Walker perform. Charlie had the other Nashville singers and songwriters perform with him. He also performed at Players Saturday night.

Am, it's worth the trip right there. Whether you win, lose or draw, that's worth the trip. It's a credit to the community. I've played all over the southwest and you've got something going here that's real unique," Weston said.

"It was successful last year in its first year," he said. "It's bigger this year. It will get bigger in the future. If you are not a part of it you ought to be a part of it, because it makes you feel better when you wake up the next morning and say, 'Hey, I was a part of it, and I enjoyed it.' It makes you feel good. And you start looking at the children that it helps and that helps too."

Miss Cannon honored at brunch

Dana Cannon was honored with a senior brunch in the home of Mrs. Jackie Brackeen, May 12. Hostesses were Mrs. Brackeen, Mrs. Pat Rhoton and Miss Cannon's aunt Marae Brooks. Cary Brooks, Kim Blossom and Rhonda

Pollard assisted at the refreshment table.

The table was decorated with baskets of flowers and artificial watermelon slices. A black and gold banner congratulating Miss Cannon hung across the rafters of the living room.

Miss Cannon will be attending South Plains College in Levelland in the fall on a tennis scholarship. She also received a scholarship from the Elks Club.

Hints given to use for cleaning

Don't let spring cleaning get you down. You'll spend less time and elbow grease cleaning up by using the following hints for ceilings, walls and woodwork.

★ Grease spots: Try an application of a paste of fuller's earth and carbon tetrachloride (both available at hardware stores). Let it remain on the spot until dry; then brush off.

★ Crayon marks: Rub crayon smears lightly with a dry soap-filled steel-wool pad. Or, rub gently with baking soda sprinkled on a damp cloth.

★ Smudges: Erase light marks (pencil, fingerpaints, dirt) with art-gum erasers available at stationery and art supply stores.

Rhesa Wolf honored

Rhesa Wolf, bride-elect of Carl Elmo Dunn, Mrs. James Ellison, Lang, was honored with a bridal Mrs. Skeet Dunn, Mrs. Jake Autry, shower at the Vincent Baptist Church Fellowship Hall, May 19. Hostesses were Mrs. S. C. Rhoton, Mrs. Eston Hollis, Mrs. Vincent Baptist Church.

'Weed' touted as America's flower

The common dandelion is the bane of suburban gardeners, but it is rich in nutrients and history that a move is under way in Ohio to make it the national flower.

Lawnmower-pushers around the country might agree that the only good dandelion is a rootless dandelion. But this wildflower, long a delicacy for deer, chipmunks and geese, is abundant in vitamins and minerals and is healthy for people, too.

The dandelion blossom, leaf and root, reports Sports Afield, can be used to make salads, pancakes, stews, tea, wine and decaffeinated coffee. The dandelion contains 14.1

mg. of iron per pound — the same amount as spinach — and has six times the iron and four times the riboflavin of iceberg lettuce. Dandelion greens are low in calories, contain 85 percent water, and boast sizeable portions of vitamins A and C, thiamine, calcium, sodium and potassium.

Lazy weekend is bad for body

No matter how exhausting your week was, for your health's sake, don't spend the weekend lying in bed. Even if you're perfectly healthy, two days of inactivity can cause dramatic deconditioning. A current magazine article notes the negative effects of prolonged bed rest.

Within 18 hours, the deconditioning of the cardiovascular system gets underway. The heart gets smaller, the blood volume is reduced.

After about three days in bed, your postural and ambulatory muscles lose tone, grow flabby and start to atrophy. Your bones lose calcium.

Upon getting out of bed after a prolonged period of time, you will probably feel faint due to a reduction in your blood pressure.

To prevent bed-rest deconditioning, it's advised that you don't automatically climb into bed whenever you feel tired or under the weather. Keep active even if you stay indoors. Of course, stay in bed if you feel horrible, but try to get up as soon as possible. You'll shorten your convalescence.

Tips guard against pickpockets

Over a half-million Americans a year become the victim of a pickpocket or purse snatcher. Whether you're in school, on the street, on mass transit or even in the dressing room of a department store you can be ripped off.

However, you can easily lessen your chances of becoming a victim, says magazine, by carefully considering a few sensible and helpful tips. Officer Mike Truman of the San Francisco Police Department, and Peter Lempin of the New York City Office of School Safety advised to keep these guidelines in mind in order to keep your pockets from being picked:

At school, keep your purse with you. Leaving it in a locker or desk or hanging over your chair can invite theft. Lock your gym locker and don't leave athletic equipment at school overnight.

On the street, use a handbag with a strong, functioning clasp, zipper, or snap that keeps it tightly closed. Staah your money in an inside zippered compartment. If your bag doesn't have a zippered compartment, put your wallet in the bottom of your purse. A thief reaching in will get a comb or compact, not your money. Don't display a lot of cash or credit cards while paying for store merchandise. Be discreet coming out of a bank. Be alert. Crooks know preoccupied people are less likely to notice a pickpocket. If you are jostled, it might be a pickpocket. Yell for help if something is missing. Never fight back. If you do, you increase your chances of getting hurt.

In other public places, never hang your purse on the back of a public bathroom door or leave it on the floor near the opening. Crooks often reach over and under stalls to snatch bags. Beware of dressing rooms. While you're busy changing, a thief can grab your purse and be out of the door in seconds. Always park your car in a well-lit area, and when possible, avoid self-service parking garages. Have your keys ready before you get to your automobile, and never put your purse on top of the car.

On mass transit, stand back on the subway platform. Thieves in moving train often stand between cars or reach through open windows to grab purses. Don't be distracted by someone who drops his bus fare or trips on a subway platform. Pickpocket teams use these ploys to divert your attention. Ride near the conductor or driver.

Misconceptions About Exercise

- ★ Exercise Makes Me Tired — As your body gets into better condition you will find that you have MORE energy, be able to resist fatigue & able to handle stress better!
- ★ Exercise Takes Too Much Time — It only takes 12 minutes (minimum) in your target zone to improve your cardiovascular endurance. Three times minimum per week (more times per week is better).
- ★ All Exercise Gives Me The Same Benefits — Regular, brisk, & sustained (aerobics) exercise improves the efficiency of the heart & lungs, plus burns fat, stop & go exercises do not burn fat!

Malone and Hogan's Fetal Monitoring —

Healthy heart beats from the baby inside her are good news to this mother-to-be. "Everything looks fine," Dr. Javier del Castillo assures her. He has just run a test of the baby's cardiac activity on Malone and Hogan Hospital's new fetal monitor.

Though most deliveries progress without problems and need only brief fetal monitoring, the procedure is especially important in high-risk pregnancies. Some conditions require it. Malone and Hogan's obstetricians find fetal monitoring vital when there is premature rupture of the membranes, a previous history of complications, or when a pregnant woman has diabetes, hypertension or thyroid disease.

Patients Often Ask Us:

- Can my husband watch the birth of our baby?
Certainly! A mother can choose any one support person to be with her throughout labor and delivery at Malone-Hogan.
- Natural childbirth is what I want. How can I prepare?
New Lamaze classes begin monthly at Malone and Hogan. Fee: only $4.00 which covers cost of instruction book. Classes are not limited to Malone and Hogan OB patients. Call 263-1211, ext. 175 or ext. 183.
- Can I use a birthing bed?
Yes, one is available to anyone who prefers it to a conventional labor bed. It also converts to a delivery table. Most women can deliver in this birthing bed, but there are times when a standard delivery table must be used.
- Who will deliver my baby?
To insure that a specialist will be available no matter when your baby chooses to arrive, our obstetricians rotate "call." In case your own obstetrician is not "on call" when your labor begins, we'd like you to have met his two colleagues who are similarly trained in the management of obstetrical complications.
- Having a baby is expensive. Must we pay for it all at once?
No, most persons prefer monthly payments for OB care. So that every obstetrical patient will be encouraged to utilize the full-term pre-natal care which is vital to delivery of a healthy baby, our usual obstetrics fee covers all pre-natal visits, labor, normal delivery and post-partum care.

Campers need to prepare for trips Policies

CHICAGO (AP) — Families planning a summer camping trip should make reservations from two to eight weeks in advance, especially for campsites in the most popular locations, the National Park Service advises.

Using a modern method to help people enjoy an old-fashioned kind of vacation, the service makes reservations by computer, through Ticketron.

Whether you're setting your sights on the Colorado Rocky Mountains, the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia or Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming, you'll find they all have something special to offer visitors. More than a third of the 300 areas in the National Park system have camping facilities available.

To make reservations at the park areas through Ticketron, visit sporting goods and department stores or automobile clubs and ask for the National Park Ticketron reservation form. Or write: National Park Service, Ticketron Reservation Office, Box 2715, San Francisco, CA 94126 (no phone reservations).

Reservations may also be made by visiting the park sites or by contacting the National Park Service offices in San Francisco, Atlanta, Denver, Philadelphia, Los Angeles or Phoenix. For more information on the National Parks, write to: Division of Public Information, National Park Service, Washington, DC 20240.

With destination in mind, assembling the necessary equipment is the next priority in preparation for the camping trip, notes a spokesman for a major camp equipment manufacturer.

"Line everything up where you can take a look at it and determine whether repair or additional equipment is needed," suggests Beverly Crown, marketing vice president of the Chicago-based Henderson Camp Products, which produces the White Stag, Trail Blazer and Base Camp lines.

The tent is a good place to start, she points out, since it is also the most important to overall "creature" comfort.

"If the tent's seams have stretched loose or nicks appear, allowing rain seepage, these may be filled with beeswax or wax sticks available at campstores," she says. "If, however, seams, holes and cracks are beyond repair, a tent may be item No. 1 on the shopping list."

Here are some tips in selecting a new tent.

Decide if you will use the tent for general purpose camping only, or if you will use it for camping and backpacking. If you are backpacking you may want to give up some inside room for extra pounds off. Most tents today are made of lightweight synthetic blends, with fast rigging, aluminum and fiberglass poles and stakes.

Decide if privacy is important. Would you rather have one tent for four people, or two smaller tents, for instance? Tents are available in many sizes and shapes, from geodesic dome, to cabin, and A-frame tents.

Allow about 3 by 8 feet per person for space.

Sleeping bags are also an essential part of the equipment lineup. Wash sleeping bags with mild soap by hand, when needed, suggests Ms. Crown. Dry cleaning is not recommended because of close breathing proximity, and unpredictability of solvents used.

Make sure the insulation or "loft" is suitable for the temperatures where the bags are being used. While children's sizes are often hard to find, several manufacturers provide children's designs.

Other items for assembly are: backpack, either day or overnight styles; hiking or other sturdy shoes; clothing to include one complete change, plus warm clothing for unexpected weather changes, and rainwear; food and cook kit, including dried foods, canned foods, fruits and cheeses; and other accessories such as insect repellent, sun screen, hat, knife, flashlight, camera and reading materials.

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcements. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS

Information on engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If only grandparents live in our area, please, give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS

If a wedding writeup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

On Turning Heads

by Gary Don

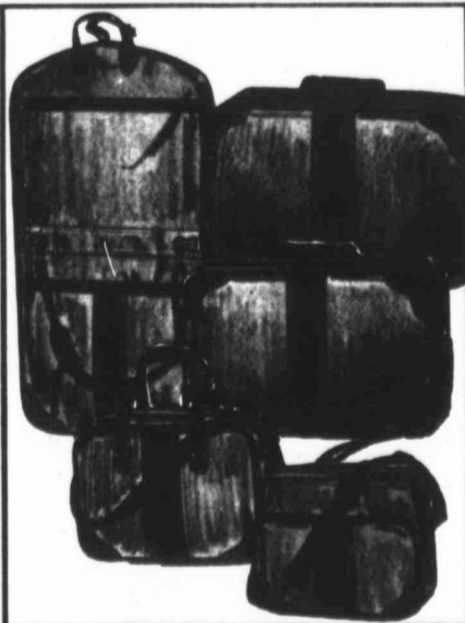

Everybody has dandruff. It is just a matter of degree as to how much. A human being's scalp is constantly producing horny cells, which can become trapped and result in at least a few scales. Contrary to popular opinion, there is no association between the severity of dandruff and oiliness of the scalp. Dandruff, however, does seem to be aggravated by stress. Humidity also appears to be a significant factor. The significantly lower humidity of the winter months tends to increase dry, scaling skin conditions. Last, dandruff hardly ever appears on children. In fact dandruff seems to occur in adults from puberty on and, usually, disappears after age 60 or 65.

There is no substitute for professional hair care. The novice too often will cause unnecessary damage to her hair by attempting to act as her own hair stylist. At LA CONTESA, we are specialists who represent the calibre of experience and training that can create the look you desire. Let the friendly, capable professionals at LA CONTESA tend to all your hair care needs. We are located at 1508 Marcy. We are open Tues. to Sat. Tel. 267-2187.

Weddings

Kountz-Leonard

Debra Chevonn Kountz and Gerald Russell Leonard were united in marriage, Saturday, at the Trinity Baptist Church in Lubbock. The Rev. David Crow and the Rev. Douglas Crow, great uncles of the bride, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Van Kountz of Klondike. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Leonard of Roswell, N.M.

Musical selections were performed by Wanda Chapman of Lamesa, pianist and aunt of the bride, Sandra Kountz, vocalist and sister of the bride, Beth Moore of Lubbock, vocalist, and Teresa White of Forsan, accompanist.

The couple exchanged vows before a setting of gold candelabra decorated with red bows. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a tea-length gown of candlelight satin trimmed in Chantilly lace. The gown featured a rounded neckline and a fitted sweetheart waistline. The lace-covered bodice was fashioned with full-length lace sleeves that ended in a point at the wrists, where they were highlighted by satin covered buttons. Matching buttons accented the bodice's back. The full skirt was fashioned with a scalloped overlay of lace. The gown was designed and made for the bride's mother 23 years ago.

To complete her ensemble, the bride wore a headpiece of Chantilly lace and a tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers on a white Bible, given to her by her parents symbolizing God as the foundation of the couple's marriage. In keeping with tradition, the bride wore her grandmother's pearls as something old, pearl earrings as something new — a gift from the bridegroom, a six-ounce in her shoe — borrowed from the Donnelle Echols family, two blue garters — one from the Rev. and Mrs. McGee and the other from her mother's wedding.

MRS. GERALD RUSSELL LEONARD

Sandra Kountz served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Laurie Leonard, sister of the bridegroom, Monica Dyess of San Marcos, and Lori Bristow of Forsan.

Perry Smith was best man. Groomsmen were Gary Leonard, cousin of the bridegroom, Alan McWilliams and Tommy Taylor of Del Rio. Ushers were Steve Harry, cousin of the bride, Billy Leavitt of Alpine, Stanley Dunbar of Sonora, and Mark Linebaugh of Del Rio. Justin Bristow of Forsan was ring bearer.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church's parlor. The bride's table was covered with a floor-length dotted swiss cloth, accented with red bows. The table featured a three-tiered cake fashioned with white spiraled roses and topped with two white doves on a small Bible, accented with a full bow of narrow red ribbon. The bridegroom's table featured a chocolate cake shaped like a cowboy boot.

Following a Caribbean cruise, the couple will live on a ranch near Roswell, N.M. and Lubbock next fall. The bride will student teach and complete her bachelor of science degree in home economics this fall. The bridegroom is a graduate of Texas Tech University in Lubbock. He has a bachelors degree in animal science.

Anniversary

The Walter Heidemans

Walter (Wally) and Betty Heideman, Forsan, will celebrate their 40th anniversary with a candlelight ceremony and renewal of wedding vows at the Chapel of Unity on the Hill in San Angelo at 7 p.m., June 1. Following the ceremony, a reception hosted by Van and Susan Gaston will be held.

Heideman, originally from Wausau, Wisc., met the former Betty Ruth Lamb of Fort Worth at a Veterans of Foreign Wars dance in Big Spring in October 1942. The couple was married June 1, 1944 in the Big Spring Air Corp Post Chapel with the Chaplain James E. Patterson officiating.

The Heidemans have two children: Susan Lynn Gaston of Forsan and Diana Leona Burns of Valdosta, Ga. The couple has three grandchildren.

The couple has lived in the Forsan area throughout their marriage except for one year in Clovis, N.M. They are members of the Unity of San Angelo Church. Heideman enjoys bowling, bird watching and gardening. Mrs. Heideman likes music studies, reading and sewing.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER HEIDEMAN

Heideman, who is retired, worked 11 years as a mechanic for Big Spring Motor after he was discharged from the Air force. Then he worked 23 years at Webb Air Force Base. Mrs. Heideman works part-time at Van's Well Service.

"It sure doesn't seem like 40 years," Mrs. Heideman said. "We've been so busy. Time has flown by. We still have many things we would like to do, so we'll just start another 40 years together."

During their marriage, the couple has lived in Hillsboro, West, Oglesby, Hanley and Lelia Lake. They have lived in Coahoma since 1947.

Dr. Donohue

Exams reveal kidney cysts

Dear Dr. Donohue: My son, age 45, went in for an exam and they found blood in his urine. Further tests revealed kidney cysts. He was told not to be concerned. Isn't this serious? He was seen by a urologist. Is this something to worry about? — Mrs. E.L.

Kidney cysts can be very serious or harmless. Polycystic renal (kidney) disease, for example, is an inherited disorder whose signs appear in midlife causing pain and blood in the urine. Kidney stones may be an early sign. Diagnosis is by X-ray. PRD can be a serious illness, leading to sustained high blood pressure and sometimes kidney failure.

Another kidney disease, with a much less ominous prognosis is medullary sponge kidney. Again, cysts are found and there may be pain and blood in the urine. But this does not progress to kidney failure, and, in fact, needs no treatment, or very little. Kidney function is seldom impaired. It's just something that may show up on kidney X-rays without causing alarm.

I suspect this is what your son's doctor diagnosed. If you can tell me more, I can do a better job in answering your letter.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My husband uses the new gravity inversion boots. He says it helps relax him and keep his spine lined up. Can you comment on this practice? I have heard where it can be dangerous. — Mrs. H.R.

He should use them with caution. Studies in which subjects were suspended in the upside-down position with such boots for only a few minutes showed rises in several important readings, including blood pressure and pressure of fluid within the eyes. The boots should not be used at all by people with existing high blood pressure or with a history of stroke or heart artery disease. Doing exercises (as weightlifting) while using the inversion boots adds to the potential dangers for such people.

There's an old saying—if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Donohue's booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get you copy, write to Dr. Donohue in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.00.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

2602 SOUTH GREGG

Dear Abby

Bridesmaid's broken arm cast shadow on wedding

DEAR ABBY: I'm in college, and one of my closest friends here has asked me to be a bridesmaid in her upcoming wedding in June. It will be held in a distant state, and I've already purchased my plane tickets, which cost $700. The bridesmaid's gown set me back $300. Abby, this is all my own money I'm spending.

Two weeks ago I fell down the dorm stairs and fractured my right arm. Right now my entire arm is in a plaster cast, which I will have to wear for four months!

Yesterday I heard through the grapevine that my friend is hoping I will drop out as a bridesmaid because she's afraid I'll spoil the looks of her wedding! I think that's not only petty and mean, it's outrageous considering the money I've spent.

I'm upset enough at the prospect of having my arm in a cast all summer without being made to feel unwanted. What do you think?

CAST ASIDE (NO JOKE)

DEAR CAST: Does this "grapevine" through which you've been getting your messages happen to bear sour grapes?

Have a talk with the bride. Tell her what you've heard and how you feel about it. You've already had one break; maybe she'll give you another.

DEAR ABBY: I met a girl while in school two years ago and we've become close friends. We usually meet for dinner twice a month. We live in different counties, so when we do get together it's special. It gives me a chance to get out of the house, away from my husband and children.

Lately, every time we get together she brings her husband along. It wouldn't be so bad if he weren't so insulting to me. He belittles me, and his put downs are becoming too much to bear. Our meetings before had always been just the two of us, and we used to sit and talk, but since her husband has been joining us, it seems she would rather talk to him. I don't see why she doesn't just stay home and save me the time and gasoline it takes to drive there.

Our friendship is wearing thin. Is there a tactful way to tell her I wish her husband wouldn't join us? How can I do this without hurting her feelings?

THREE'S A CROWD

DEAR THREE'S: Be honest. Tell her you don't particularly enjoy the threesome because her husband belittles you and puts you down. And if it means the end of your friendship, what have you lost? A "friend" who permits her husband to insult you.

DEAR ABBY: This is an open letter to my loving father and some dear, elderly friends:

When will you accept your hearing problem as something which, in most cases, can be helped? There are some wonderful, vastly improved hearing aids on the market as well as surgical techniques that might help you hear better.

Hear this! I am irritated at your expecting me to shout myself hoarse because you are too stubborn to seek professional help.

Mrs. Wood elected club's president

Mrs. Ronnie Wood was elected 1984-85 president of the Mary Jane Club at its meeting, May 10, in the home of Mrs. Carroll Choate.

Other elected officers are Mrs. Lois Ray, vice president; Mrs. Horace Nash, secretary; Mrs. David Barr, treasurer; and Mrs. James Coates, reporter. Committee chairmen are Program and yearbook, Mrs. Barr; Project, Mrs. Bobby Gee; and Social, Mrs. Don McKinney.

A salad luncheon followed the meeting. The next meeting will be September 13.

Moment of silence observed

A moment of silence was held in memory of R.E. Stringfellow, who passed away May 7, at a meeting of the National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees at Kentwood Older Adult Center, May 17.

Mrs. Ina Richardson was reported on the sick list. Mrs. D. Boyd and George Williams celebrated birthdays in May.

Electricity costs more than before but it has not increased nearly so much as other goods and services. Of course we're using twice as much electricity as we did in 1965 so any increase seems magnified. But if we compare the price of power from the member-owned electric cooperative with most anything else in the market place we find it's still a real value. Your member-owned electric cooperative is working every day to insure that it remains a value.

Blum's Jewelers
One beautiful place

There have been some fascinating wedding rings in vogue through the years. In the Sixteenth Century the gimmel ring was popular. The word "gimmel" means "double ring," and a gimmel ring was actually two separate rings that were joined together to look like one. As a rule a hand was engraved on each band, and when the rings were joined at the time of the wedding ceremony, the hands were clasped together. It was usual for the bride and groom to each wear half of the gimmel ring until their wedding day, when the two parts would be united on the bride's finger. If either party had a change of heart, he or she could break the engagement by withholding half of the gimmel ring.

At BLUM'S JEWELERS we cordially invite you to let our experienced staff assist you in selecting everything from the perfect birthday, anniversary, bridal shower, wedding and/or graduation gift. Conveniently located at 222 Main, 267-6335 we also feature complete bridal service registry, distinctive gift items and of course a fabulous selection of finely crafted jewelry for every occasion for your consideration. Master Card & Visa welcome. Hours: Mon.-Sat. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
