Off the wall: Narrow streets

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Kansas City has 12 shiny new fire trucks. It also has at least five old streets that are too narrow for the vehicles to travel.

When cars are parked on both sides of those streets, the trucks' doors won't open.

"There could be a possibility that we pull up to a house and it's too tight a fit and we're not even able to open the doors to fight the fire," said Fire Chief Lawrence Bowers. "I don't want to take that chance."

Bowers said he knows of no new trucks narrower than the ones the city purchased, so officials are looking at ways to make the streets usable for emergencies by trimming the number of parked cars.

One suggestion calls for restricted parking in the neighborhoods with the problem; another would have the city build neighborhood lots for residents to park their cars.

The city has already taken delivery of 12 of the 10 new Pierce pumpers and four aerial trucks it purchased for $2.1 million.

Local man cuts album

By JIM BROWN
Staff Writer

Mike Henderson is fiddling with guitars again and this time his fingers have walked their way through his first long play record.

Henderson, 28, has recorded "It Goes Without Saying" in Dallas's Summit-Bernet Studio.

The former University of Houston and Angelo State student said that he spent just over $4,500 recording his first album and that he plans to sell them locally from his mother's office at Quail Run Apartments.

The album will also be available at Deathridge Music in Abilene and stores throughout the state. Henderson said that he only pressed 1,000 LP's, and 500 cassettes.

Henderson has played the guitar for 18 years and frequently serves as an accompanist at fiddle contests. Henderson is also legally blind and has less than 20 percent of his vision.

Over the last couple of years Henderson has won several dozen guitar contests throughout the United States.

Mike said that his interest in guitars started early in life. His father Leonard, played guitar in a band and taught Henderson the basic chords. He learned the rest from music books that he bought.

"When I lived in Houston, there was a shopping mall that fiddlers would go to every Saturday and play at a music store," Henderson said.

"I just happened by there on Saturday and I liked it. I kept going back and started playing with them. They started asking me to go with them to fiddle contests and accompany them."

Musicians Bart Trotter, Randy Elmor, Bill Mitchell and Bill Lyell and Charlie Smith join Henderson on the record.

Fellow musician Wild Bill Lyell says, "Mike is one of the most talented and popular rhythm guitar players in Texas... his long skinny fingers go crawling along the neck of guitar like a 'daddy long leg spider'."

Henderson's fingers don't stop at just picking a guitar. He has created more than 15 of his own.

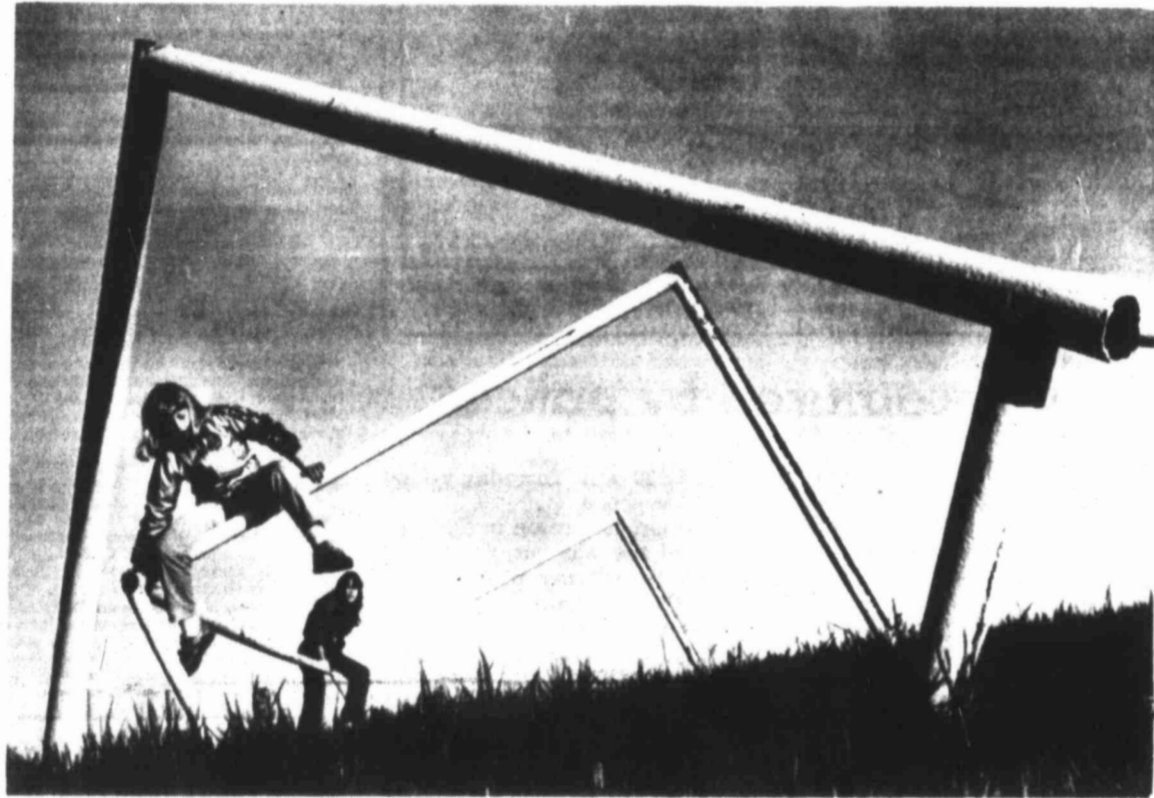

The guitars sell for as much as several hundred dollars and can take months to make.

Henderson said that he will spend this summer on the road as he has the past several years, attending and participating in fiddling contests in Oklahoma, Tennessee, Utah and Idaho.

"The largest contest that I ever played at was in the Astrodome in Houston," said the musician.

NEW ALBUM — Michael Henderson has completed his first album, called "It Goes Without Saying." Henderson plays and also builds guitars.

REDEFINING GOALS — Overturned soccer goals Householder, 8, and Rebecca Bradshaw, 9, found out make for an interesting playground as Kristen while playing in Midland, Mich., recently.

Census says farms in county decrease

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

The number of farms in Howard County decreased by about 35 since 1978, according to preliminary figures from the 1982 Census of Agriculture.

The five-year agricultural census, conducted by the Bureau of the Census, showed Howard County as having 398 farms in 1982, about 35 less than the 433 county farms counted in 1978.

But County Agricultural Extension Service Agent Don Richardson said he thought on first appearance the figures might be misleading.

"I don't think there's been that much of a decrease," Richardson said. He said the decrease might be caused by relatives consolidating ownership of farmland.

Most farms were owned by individuals or families — 347 in 1982 — followed by 33 partnership farms, and 10 family-owned corporation farms.

Although the number of farms might have decreased, the number of acres of farmland was up, from 458,171 in 1978 to 460,561 acres in 1982.

The average size of a farm in the county decreased by one acre, from 1,058 in 1978 to 1,057 in 1982.

The census bureau defines a farm as any place from which $1,000 or more of agricultural products were sold or normally would have been sold.

Land from which crops were harvested in the county decreased to 96,569 acres in 1982 from 102,251 in 1978, according to the census report.

County farmers sold $17.5 million in agricultural products in 1982, an average of $43,953 for each farm. In 1978, $13.5 million in products were sold, an average of $31,179 per farm.

Fiberflex trial delay OK'ed

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

The court date for a complex trial involving an attempted hostile takeover attempt of Fiberflex Inc. was postponed today until July 23.

Retired 118th District Judge Ralph Caton, presiding in the upcoming jury trial, today granted a motion by attorneys representing the original defendants, current company management including Fiberflex president Tommy Rutledge, to reset the trial. The case had been scheduled for Monday, and has been delayed twice before.

Caton told attorneys he would review sealed financial statements by former OIL owner and chief executive officer Charles "Chris" Christopher provided by Moncor, a Hobbs, N.M. bank.

After reviewing the documents, Caton then will determine whether attorneys for company management should be allowed to examine the bank's records in its loan file on Christopher, who said he entered the court suit at the request of Billy Massingill, one of the original plaintiffs.

Christopher and his attorney, Gil Jones III, contend that the financial statements contain information irrelevant to the issues in the case and that the bank did not use the statements as the basis of granting loans. Attorneys for the opposite side, John Burgess, Steve Kizer and John Skrhak of Dallas, quoted a deposition by a bank official who said the documents were used in granting the loan.

Both sets of attorneys for the original defendants and plaintiffs claimed during hearings Friday "hat the other side was delaying the discovery process by not producing documents or witnesses for depositions.

Spikes said he refused to answer questions that he said would incriminate himself. Although he is not under any criminal investigation, Spikes testified that "we have had some very nasty, hearsay, third party rumors from the FDIC" involving Spikes. Spikes is a significant shareholder in First West Financial Corp., and has banking interests in several West Texas towns. Some of the banks have had liquidity problems, according to Jones.

Another member of Christopher's group, Sam Spikes, came under fire from attorney Skrhak, who represents Fiberflex patent attorney Guy Matthews of Houston.

Spikes repeatedly took the Fifth amendment when questioned on matters regarding his relationship to the bank that granted Christopher and himself loans, but refused to grant one to Matthews, Skrhak's client. In one of the focal issues of the case, Matthews claims Spikes and Christopher used fraud to obtain a swing bloc of stock he controlled.

In refusing to answer only unfavorable questions at the deposition, Skrhak said had waived his Fifth amendment privileges by using them as a "shield," instead of a "shield." Skrhak asked Caton to either require Spikes to answer all questions or to refuse to let him testify in the case.

In response, Caton said Spikes should be recalled to continue his deposition, and that he would rule on each individual question on which Spikes invoked the Fifth Amendment. If Spikes refused to answer a question the judge ordered him to, Spikes could face jail for contempt, Caton said.

Caton did grant a motion by Spikes' attorney that would remove him from the case as an original plaintiff. Spikes still would be a witness in the trial, Jones said.

Jones would not comment on whether Spikes might be involved in later litigation regarding the Fiberflex case.

Canterbury loan may be finalized

On-again, off-again mortgage loan money to build an additional 59 units at Canterbury Apartments, 1700 Lancaster, is on again, according to O.C. Shapland, chairman of the board of directors.

Shapland said Friday he and Guilford Jones III are planning to fly to Dallas Thursday to sign a contract with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban development for a Section 202 mortgage loan. Jones, an attorney, is housing consultant for St. Mary's Episcopal Retirement Homes Inc.

The planned five-story building will be north of the existing 120-apartment Canterbury building and will be "architecturally compatible" with the present structure, Shapland said.

Shapland expressed caution in discussing the proposed construction Friday because an earlier agreement in late 1982 failed to produce mortgage loan funds. "I believe we'll sign the contract Thursday, if there are no hitches," he said. If the contract is signed, "construction will begin in the very near future. We'll have more definite information when we return (from Dallas)."

The amount of the loan money discussed in 1982 was $2.3 million. The HUD Section 202 loan program provides funds to non-profit corporations to build such housing. Another HUD program, Section 8, authorizes elderly or handicapped residents in need of rental assistance to obtain HUD subsidized rent at the retirement center.

Humidity relieved

By The Associated Press
 A shroud of muggy, warm weather hovered over most of Texas on Friday as a few scattered showers and thunderstorms relieved the humid conditions over eastern and southeastern sections of the state.
 A trough of high pressure extending from the Panhandle and the Big Bend was responsible for the fair skies in West Texas, the National Weather Service said.
 Afternoon highs ranged from over 100 degrees at Childress to the lower 80s in the Guadalupe Mountains. The remainder of the state had readings in the 80s and 90s.
 Winds were westerly over the Trans Pecos and southerly over the rest of Texas. Speeds generally ranged from 10 to 15 mph.
 The forecast called for cloudy to partly cloudy skies with humid and warm afternoons throughout the state Saturday. Afternoon highs were expected to reach the 90s, with some readings topping out over the 100-degree mark in Southwest Texas and the Big Bend.
 Isolated showers along the coast were possible during the daytime hours through Sunday. Some thunderstorms also were forecast along the lower coast Saturday.
 Thunderstorms that spawned more than 30 tornadoes from Kansas to Minnesota, killing several people and injuring dozens of residents, rumbled eastward today.
 More record-setting temperatures in the 80s and 90s and suffocating humidity were also forecast today for the East as the thunderstorm system moved over the eastern edge of the northern and central Plains through the Ohio Valley and the Great Lakes into New England.
 Barneveld, Wis., took inventory of the damage from a tornado that struck that south-central Wisconsin town early today, leaving a trail of damage and at least nine people injured. Officials said more than 75 people were being sheltered in schools after the twister struck.
 Iowa was hardest hit Thursday — a tornado destroyed most of the northern Iowa community of Burt, and two deaths were reported in southern Iowa. In Kansas, heavy rain flooded part of the community of Sparks, while water two feet deep blocked highways north of Topeka. And winds gusted to nearly 70 mph in Minneapolis and Rochester, Minn.
 Fears of a rain-triggered mudslide forced evacuation of a posh section of Aspen, Colo. In Vermont, sudden rains triggered flash-flooding that caused more than $1 million in damage, and spring winds brought traffic to a halt in Nebraska with a blinding dust storm and closed several highways in Kansas as trucks overturned by high winds blocked lanes of traffic.
 Showers were expected today over the Pacific Northwest and into the central and northern Rockies.

Police Beat

Girl injured by car

A Big Spring girl was injured in an accident about 6 p.m. when her bike collided with a blue station wagon driven by a man who lived two blocks away from the accident.
 The girl was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital by Shaffer Ambulance. Ambulance attendants said the girl had bruised her knees and hit her head when she was thrown from the bicycle. Reports Friday night indicated the girl was in satisfactory condition.
 Howard Rogers of 1504 Tucson was driving north on Kenney past the Wood St. intersection.
 "It's unfortunate," Rogers said. "I didn't see her. I pulled up to the intersection. I just experienced a bump in the car. I didn't see her."
 A Coahoma woman was treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital Friday afternoon after being injured in a two-vehicle accident, according to a hospital spokeswoman.
 Connie Fowler, 33, was taken to the hospital by Shaffer Ambulance after an accident around noon, according to a police report.
 Mrs. Fowler was driving her 1978 Ford LTD eastbound in the 100 block of E. Fifth at the time of the accident. She had stopped in the intersection of Fifth and Runnels to avoid another collision and attempted to make a left turn onto Runnels, when her car collided with 1977 International truck driven by David Ray West, 22, of Midland.

 West was unaware his right turn signal was on when he pulled into the intersection, and collided with Mrs. Fowler's car, according to the report.
 Fred Escobedo, 22, of 311 N.E. Eighth was arrested Friday on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and failure to control speed. He was transferred to the county jail and released on $1,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.
 Delbert Donelson of 2613 Rebecca told police Friday at State National Bank of Big Spring that a person left town with a motor vehicle between October 1983 and June. The person had an outstanding balance on his bank note of $1,600, according to the police report.
 Arthur Hernandez of 908 N. Goliad told police at 8 a.m. Friday that someone took a $65 battery from his car between 8:30 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. Friday.

Man recaptured by police

CLEBURNE (AP) — A man who fled from police with his girlfriend's 3-year-old girl was captured on a Johnson County ranch Friday after a 24-hour manhunt, authorities say.
 The search began Thursday night after the arrest of the girl's mother, who allegedly kidnapped and robbed a woman and stuffed her in the trunk of her car, Johnson County sheriff's investigators said.
 Shots were fired at the couple as they tumbled out of the car but the man escaped into nearby woods with the child.
 The child appeared to be unhurt Friday but was hospitalized for observation, said sheriff's department dispatcher LaVerne Collins.
 The girl was taken into custody after the man was cornered in woods on the 7,000-acre ranch about 10 a.m., said sheriff's department dispatcher LaVerne Collins.
 His female companion, a parolee from the Texas Department of Corrections, was captured late Thursday and arraigned before Cleburne Magistrate Joe Post.
 Post said the woman, identified as Mackie Jo Hancock, was charged with aggravated robbery.
 The abducted woman, Helen Clements, said she was dumped in a pasture about 10 miles north of her home Thursday about an hour after a woman came to her door about 12:30 p.m. Thursday asking to use the phone.
 "The girl just came to the door and said she was out of gas and needed to use my phone," Ms. Clements said. "She kept calling and said the line was busy. I was washing dishes and I offered her lunch and iced tea."
 "Then I turned around from the sink and she pulled a pistol."
 Ms. Clements said the woman stole her car and stuffed her into the trunk. She said she did not see the man and child.
 The alleged abductor was caught after police chased the stolen 1979 Lincoln Continental Mark V into a ravine on the Grady York ranch, near Lake Pat Cleburne, said Johnson County Deputy Jearl "Tinky" Godwin.
 "We got behind the vehicle and they went through a barbed wire fence and wrecked in the cedars," Godwin said. "He bailed out with the child and she couldn't keep up."
 The fleeing man was diverted from another ranchhouse in the area after a rancher called police. Police chased the man into a grove of trees.
 Ms. Clements said that the woman stole some jewelry, including her wedding ring and family heirlooms.

Man says tar caused cancer

HOUSTON (AP) — As a kid, Boney Bonin chewed gooey, black tar from a sludge pit like it was bubble gum. Now the 47-year-old tavern owner is concerned it may have caused cancerous growths on his lower lip and an eye.
 Shortly after surgeons removed the growths, Bonin read that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency planned to spend $2.5 million to clean up the sludge dumped in the Highlands Acid Pit.
 The pit, located on the banks of the San Jacinto River in east Harris County, is one of 11 Texas spots on the EPA's superfund list of the nation's most hazardous waste sites.
 The late H.K. Johnson Jr., a sand miner, allowed tank trucks to dump wastes at the site to fill some of the sand pits in the early 1950s. His widow said her husband never knew the substances — some now suspected of causing cancer — were dangerous.
 EPA tests showed the sludge contained unsafe levels of arsenic, benzene, cadmium, lead, chromium, manganese and dimethylphenol.
 Bonin, owner of the Hard Times saloon, said the river front around the dump site was a playground for kids in the tiny community of Highlands, about 20 miles east of Houston. Second Lake, a popular swimming hole, was just a stone's throw from the dump, he said.
 "I used to stay in that place day and night. Every time it rained some of that stuff would run into the lake and kill the fish," recalled Bonin, puffing on a cigarette.
 The black tar was flavorless, but had an appealing rubbery texture, he said.
 "I thought that sludge was some kind of roofing tar," he said. "I don't know if that stuff caused my cancer, but I wonder about it. Knowing what I know now, I wouldn't go near that place."
 He said he never thought the sludge might be dangerous, but there were lethal signs.
 The sludge used to bubble like it was boiling. Whenever one of the bubbles burst, steam was released.
 "If it was really going, the bubbles could put out an odor that would stifle you so you couldn't hardly breathe. Whichever way the wind blew, trees would die," Bonin told the Houston Chronicle.
 Bonin said he started checking with some of his "running buddies" who once went to the river front with him.
 Most were healthy, but one died of lung cancer two years ago, he said.
 Bonin said he reported his case to Gloria Chaplin, a Highlands homemaker trying to link the dump site to cancer cases around town.
 But George Buynoski of the federal Centers for Disease Controls and Charles Faulds of the Texas Department of Water Resources said there is no solid evidence to link any of the cancer cases to the dump site.

Residents of a south Big Spring neighborhood which is the location of a proposed manufactured housing development will have a chance to view the development's plans at a 5:15 p.m. Monday public hearing at City Hall.
 The hearing will be sponsored jointly by the city Planning and Zoning Commission and the Zoning Board of Adjustment.
 Gil Cuadra of the Cuadra Financial Group of San Antonio is the owner of the 17.61 acre tract at the southwest corner of U.S. 87 and Hearn that is the location of the proposed development.
 According to a letter received by the city inspector's office concerning the new development,

"manufactured homes will be used, each dressed up differently to make an appealing community, and avoid the old 'trailer park' concept which remains in many people's minds."
 Currently standing on the site is the Crestwood Trailer Park. Cuadra is asking the two city authorities to change the zoning of his land so he can build the new development.
 He is also requesting variances relating to lot area, lot width and front yard setbacks.
 Public Works Director Tom Decell has sent notification of Monday's public hearing to all property owners within 200 feet of the proposed development.

Sheriff's Log

Tool burglaries cleared
 The Howard County sheriff's office Thursday cleared two burglaries of tools from a local construction company and is expecting to solve other local tool burglaries reportedly committed by the same person, Sheriff A.N. Standard said.
 According to Deputy Sheriff George Quintero, Basin Construction Co. officials Thursday afternoon identified between $4,000 and $5,000 of stolen tools recovered by the sheriff's office as missing in recent burglaries.
 The sheriff's office recovered $10,000 of used and new tools Friday from a residence in Sand Springs. The tools were reportedly taken by a fugitive felon now in custody out of state, Quintero said.
 The tools Basin officials identified were reported taken in two burglaries in the last year, one on Sept. 10, 1983 and another on Monday, Quintero said.
 Officials from Clyde McMahon Concrete Co. Friday also identified $2,000 of the tools, according to Quintero.
 The sheriff's office Friday night was investigating a complaint of inhumane treatment of three dogs tied up at a trailer park.
 According to the sheriff's office Sharon Peterson of the Desert Hills Trailer Park told deputies Friday

Drinking days over

MALMESBURY, England — Actor Richard Burton said Friday his legendary drinking days are over and he's now in "semi-retirement."

"In the old days I'd relax after filming by getting rolling drunk," Burton, 56, told reporters during the shooting of his latest movie, the George Orwell classic "Nineteen Eighty-Four."

"I can't do that any more. I can't drink when I work. Now I just go through my lines for what remains to be done and then read a good book," he said.

Burton plays the interrogator O'Brien in the latest movie version of Orwell's nightmare vision of a totalitarian state in Britain.

Burton took the role just a month ago, after being semi-retired.

"I put the word around that I wasn't interested in working all the time as I have for the past 30 years," he said. "I didn't make any public announcement. I just turned down everything and sent it back unread. Then I heard about this, looked at the script and it was brilliant."

Next, Burton said he'll go to Hollywood for a TV mini-series with daughter Kate, then to Berlin for two months filming "Wild Geese II," then to India for another movie.

"After that, I plan to retire again for at least six months," he said.

Grandpa scares fans

INDEPENDENCE, Iowa — Grandpa Jones, a popular character on the television show "Hee Haw," gave his manager and fans a scare the other day when he accidentally drove to Arkansas instead of Iowa.

Jones was supposed to travel to Independence, Iowa, for a battle of the bands concert Thursday. When he was three hours late, fans started to worry, said his daughter and manager, Eloise Hawkins.

An all-points bulletin was put out from Tennessee to Iowa, looking for Jones and his car. It turned out he had been told to drive to Independence, Ark., which doesn't exist, his daughter said.

Jones eventually realized the mistake and managed to fly from Arkansas to Iowa in time for the concert. His daughter said it was all her mistake.

"It's been a very confusing day," she said.

Boating for good cause

KETCHIKAN, Alaska — About 1,000 people crowded Ketchikan's city dock Friday morning as Michael Reagan set out to try to break a world speedboat record and raise money to fight cystic fibrosis.

The eldest son of President Reagan will try to cover the 700 miles to Seattle in less than 14 hours in what is billed as the "Assault on the Inside Passage." He hopes to raise $500,000 for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Reagan's 38-foot red, white and blue Wellcraft Scarab, powered by three 400-horsepower Evinrude V-8 outboard engines, left about 4:30 a.m. with overcast skies and calm seas.

Although the craft can go faster than 90 mph, Reagan said he expected to hold it to the low 80s to lessen wear and tear.

The record-breaking attempt was dedicated to the memory of Alex Deford, daughter of Sports Illustrated writer and author Frank Deford. The girl died of cystic fibrosis when she was 8.

In 1982, Reagan set a New Orleans-to-St. Louis record on the Mississippi River to raise money for the U.S. Olympic Committee.

TWISTER DAMAGE — The village water tower stands amid the damaged and destroyed buildings of Barneveld, Wis., Friday following a tornado that hit the southwestern Wisconsin community, killing at least nine persons.

Storms level Wisconsin town

By The Associated Press

Waves of thunderstorms pummeled the Plains and upper Midwest with 49 tornadoes, virtually destroying a small Wisconsin town early Friday and heavily damaging another in Iowa. At least 16 people were killed and hundreds injured.

The storm system, which earlier dumped up to a foot of snow in the Colorado Rockies, began spinning off tornadoes late Thursday and howled through the night from Kansas into Missouri, Iowa, North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin. The storms also produced hail and heavy rain.

Iowa reported 26 tornadoes, a record for one storm in that state.

"In my 25 years here, I don't remember a storm that has been so widespread," said meteorologist Wayne Ellingson at the National Weather Service office in Des Moines. "I don't think there was any part of the state that was spared."

One of the Iowa tornadoes "cut a mile-wide path of 30 miles or longer" before blasting the town of Delta, said state trooper Virgil Behrens. That tornado moved so fast that police didn't have time to sound an alarm.

Worst hit was the town of Barneveld, Wis., where at least nine people were killed early Friday and estimates of the injured ran as high as 200. Nearly every building in the town of about 500 people was smashed or severely damaged.

"There is no home to go back to. It's about 90 percent gone," said Steve Polishinski, a member of an American Red Cross disaster team at Barneveld. "The bank is gone, and about every business in town is gone."

"It's a sound you'll never want to hear," said Steve Johnson, 22, who saw a flagpole bend over and telephone poles fly past as the roof and side were torn off his apartment building in Barneveld.

Larry Spurling of the Wisconsin Division of Emergency Government said 86 homes and 18 public buildings were destroyed at Barneveld, while 24 homes had major damage and 27 minor damage.

The storms in Iowa left four people dead and injured at least 35 others, authorities said. Places that weren't hit by tornadoes had wind as high as 70 mph and up to 3 inches of rain. Delta had 40 to 50 homes destroyed, and the town of about 480 people was sealed off Friday as repair crews went to work.

Sue Dale said she and her husband, Delta police officer Eldon Dale, left home just before 9 p.m. to see if they needed to sound the town tornado alarm.

"We never got to it," she said. "The tornado came too quick. When we got outside it was calm and then it sounded like a big jet airliner coming, and then stuff just started flying."

"I heard it hit the side of a house like a train whistle," said Ruth Ludwick.

Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad signed proclamations Friday providing state assistance to Delta in the state's southeast corner and the town of Burt in north central Iowa.

An elderly man was killed and his wife was injured Thursday near Eagleville, Mo., when a tornado destroyed their mobile home, authorities said. Police in St. Joseph said one man died when he was swept away by floodwaters early Friday while walking along a street.

St. Joseph got more than 7 inches of rain that sent a 6-foot wall of water along Blacksnake Creek. "It was like some rapids came shooting through ... cars were just floating by," said Roger Allen, who was marooned on the roof of his supermarket.

Tornadoes struck Albert Lea and Austin in southern Minnesota, tearing the roof off a bowling alley while more than 100 people were inside. Rain flooded streets and backed up sewers in Minneapolis-St. Paul and a young man was killed by lightning as he worked on a new house.

In Aspen, Colo., where the danger of rain-loosened landslides forced the evacuation of 200 people Thursday, officials said Friday they could return home. Authorities warned, however, that the danger remained, and said residents who returned did so at their own risk.

Aspen Mayor Bill Stirling said Friday that instruments showed the upper part of the mass of earth and rock on the side of Aspen Mountain moved an inch overnight, but he said a landslide was not thought to be imminent.

A heat wave settled over the East with record highs Thursday in the 90s and high 80s from Georgia north to Massachusetts and higher temperatures expected were over the weekend. Richmond, Va., hit 99 Thursday, and Boston was expected to get close to 100 Saturday.

Retaliation threatened

IRAN — Iran warned the Arab states of the Persian Gulf on Friday to stop helping Iraq, and threatened retaliation against the Saudis for shooting down an Iranian Phantom jet. Gulf oil ministers gathered in Saudi Arabia for talks on the dangers the Iran-Iraq war poses to their nations.

The Arab League came out strongly in support of the Saudis, who it said had acted in defense of their territory and national airspace.

An Iraqi war communique released in Baghdad said Iranian guns shelled the southern Iraqi port of Basra and three central border towns. It said Iraqi border gunners and troops attacked Iranian positions in the southern and central sections of the front.

Iranian President Ali Khamenei told a congregation in Tehran that the gulf powers were making a "big mistake" in supporting Iraq. The gulf Arab states have remained officially neutral in the war but several are known to support Iraq, an Arab nation, against Iran, which is not Arab.

Repression launched

ROME — Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy has launched "the worst repression in memory" to crush opposition following an apparent attempt to assassinate him last month, diplomatic sources and recent visitors to Libya said.

There are also indications that the opposition is fighting back and has wounded several members of Khadafy's security forces, they said.

"He wants to keep the population scared and cowed. It is a very tense situation," said one source in Rome, who like others interviewed by The Associated Press asked not to be identified for fear of retaliation.

Pictures of public hangings are shown almost nightly on state-run television, foreign residents in Libya said, and the official news media have issued frequent reports of arrests and executions of what they call CIA-backed terrorists.

The sources said Khadafy was frightened by a May 8 attack by a small band of commandos apparently trying to overthrow his nearly 15-year-old regime. Libyan officials have denied reports that the attackers reached the barracks in which Khadafy lives, but they have refused to show the area to reporters.

"It was the first time that the regime realized there was an organized opposition with widespread support in the country and prepared to carry out sabotage," said another diplomatic source.

As a result, the radical Arab leader has clamped down with what one long-time Libya resident called "the worst repression in memory. There is no indication it is going to end soon."

Snipers fire on soldiers

NEW DELHI, India — Snipers fired on soldiers moving through Amritsar's Golden Temple complex Friday to recover bodies of Sikh militants slain when troops assaulted the shrine to end a violent campaign for greater autonomy in Sikh-dominated Punjab state.

At least seven soldiers were wounded by Sikh holdouts firing from the temple's management committee offices, Maj. Gen. R.K. Gaur told reporters in the Punjab state capital of Chandigarh.

"It now appears that the Golden Temple area is still not free from terrorists," Home Secretary M.K. Wali said in New Delhi, 250 miles south of the temple in Amritsar where more than 300 people were killed Wednesday and Thursday.

Wali said 15 extremists firing from the offices had surrendered, but some Sikhs were still taking "pot shots" at troops from the buildings overlooking the sprawling, walled temple compound.

El Paso lawmaker seeks

restructured fund plan

Plan based on property tax

AUSTIN (AP) — An El Paso lawmaker on Friday called for a restructured school funding plan based on a new state property tax.

Democrat Jack Vowell's plan would do away with local school district property, but allow district voters to revive the local tax as a supplement to the state tax.

Vowell told the House Public Education Committee that his proposal would result in a tax decrease in 243 of the 357 large school districts that contain 80 percent of the state's students.

"This plan places upon the state government the responsibility for assuring that the standards it establishes are funded in every school district in Texas," said Vowell. "To this end, the state of Texas is treated as a single educational community, rather than a collection of 1,180 disparate and unrelated school districts."

Under Vowell's proposed constitutional amendment, which would require voter approval, the State Board of Education would levy the state property tax — 45 cents per $100 worth of property. Local districts could add a tax up to the same amount.

The 1981 Legislature killed a state property tax that had been long used for higher education.

The committee took no action on Vowell's plan, but there were questions and comments.

Rep. Milton Fox, R-Houston, said the property tax is "last on the list by a long shot" in terms of popularity among his constituents.

"I almost think they might prefer an income tax," he told Vowell, who said the plan could result in tax decreases for many Texans.

"My folks are skeptical of tax relief," Fox replied.

Vowell said the object of his plan is "to put the money where the students are and to assure each child that the state's obligation under the Texas and United States constitutions will be fully met."

Also Friday, the committee heard from teachers' organizations upset with some portions of the Select Committee on Public Education recommendations, now before a special session of the Legislature.

John Donaldson of the Texas State Teachers Association said some of the proposals from H. Ross Perot's committee are "perhaps more suited to the production of widgets" than to education.

"Teachers are different than robots and assembly line workers," Donaldson testified.

"We're not unaware of the hue and cry in the public arena. We are interested in reform. We ask you to address it with compassion and understanding. I don't think that was always evident in the proceedings of the select committee," he said.

READY FOR WINTER'S CHILL — It may be summer with temperatures in the upper 90s, but in the fashion world winter comes in the spring and summer. Designs by Pauline Trigere were shown at a New York presentation of fall and winter 1984 fashions recently. At left, a dress and coat ensemble is made with Paisley silk and wool; on the right, her fur-trimmed birds-eye check walking suit is bound to offer warmth from winter's chilling winds.

R for your garden

by Don Richardson
County Extension Agent

Garden check list for June

1. Take a critical look at your landscape while at the height of summer development. Make notes of how you think it can be better arranged, of plants that need replacement, over grown plants that need to be removed, and possible activity areas that can be enjoyed by family members. These are all good projects to take care of next winter.
2. Check for insects and diseases. Spider mites can be especially troublesome at this time.
3. Supplemental irrigation is essential for Hydrangea, Coleus, Caladium, Geranium, Delia, Azalea, and garden thoroughly but not too frequently. As a general rule, soak to a depth of 8 inches. Finish watering by 2:00 p.m. to lessen the chance of disease.
4. During summer, water or soil moisture becomes extremely important and essential for good plant production. Because continual watering is oftentimes costly and time consuming, it pays to conserve the moisture around plants.
5. The best way to conserve garden moisture is by mulching. A good mulch will not only retain valuable moisture needed for plant growth but will insure several other things as well to improve gardening success.
6. A mulch insulates the soil and protects it from drying, and prevents crusting of the surface. Mulched soils are cooler than unmulched soils and generally show less fluctuation in soil temperature.
7. Mulches also break the force of rain and irrigation water reduces erosion, reduces weed growth or at least makes them easier to pull. A mulch helps the soil absorb water more readily and reduces the splashing of soil and plant disease organisms onto plants and flowers during a rain or overhead irrigation.
8. Mulches are usually applied 2 to 6 inches deep, depending on the material used. In general, the coarser the material, the deeper the mulch. For example, a 2-inch layer of cotton seed hulls will have about the same mulching effect as 6 inches of oat straw or 4 inches of coastal bermuda hay.

9. There are inorganic mulches such as gravel or crushed rock. Even though these are attractive in the landscape and prevent the soil from drying so rapidly, they do reflect heat which can be damaging to some plants when in sunny locations.
10. Some of the more widely used mulches include: bark (pine and redwood), grass clippings, hay, leafmold (oak), peanut hulls, pine needles, sawdust, and wood chips. A mulch should be weed free, clean and long lasting. Organic mulches improve the soil structure when they do break down and decompose into the soil, making for better aeration, drainage and water holding ability.
11. Still time to plant some of the colorful heat tolerant summer annual. You can direct seed zinnias and portulaca and purchase plants of periwinkle, salvia and marigolds. Just be sure to water transplants as needed until roots become established.
12. Removing faded flowers from the plant before they set seed will keep the plants growing and producing more flowers. A light application of fertilizer every 4 to 6 weeks will also be helpful.
13. Houseplants can be moved out of doors this month. Sink the pots in cool, shaded garden bed to prevent them from drying out so quickly. Water pots, container plants and hanging baskets often. Monthly feeding with a houseplant fertilizer will encourage continued growth.
14. Now is the time to plan for spring. Consider digging and dividing any crowded spring bulbs. Once the bulb has matured and the foliage has turned brown, it is time to spade them up and thin out the stand. Crowded bulbs produce fewer and smaller blooms. They usually need thinning every three to four years.
15. Good time to select day lily varieties as they reach their peak of bloom.
16. Continue to spray roses with a good black spot control such as Funginex, Benlate, or Manzate.
17. Fertilize rose beds every 4 to 6 weeks. Best to apply a high nitrogen fertilizer immediately after a flush of bloom.

Focus on the family

Saving water this summer

The summer fun of swimming, cool drinks and even car-washing, all require an ample water supply that we often take for granted.

By now, most Texans should know that our groundwater supplies are being depleted faster than they can be renewed. That means everybody needs to do their part to conserve water.

- Keep a thermos of cool water on the kitchen cabinet or a jug of water in the refrigerator. Running the tap to wait for cooler water sends about five gallons of water per minute down the drain.
- Take a quick shower. Every inch of water in a tub represents about 4 1/2 gallons of water and a shower without a water-saving device typically uses 5-10 gallons per minute.
- Use full loads of laundry to clean those summer clothes. Washing machines can use 40-60 gallons of water per load.
- Resist using the toilet for a trash basket. Every flush uses 4-7 gallons of water.
- Watch out for water hoses with the water left running. A water hose can deliver several hundred gallons of water in an hour. For that reason, it's probably better to fill the kids' wading pool than let them play with the hose.

- You can save water as you wash your car too. After you wet the car down, turn the water off or use a hose with a shut-off nozzle. Use buckets of soapy water to wash it and then give the car a final rinse with the hose.

About one quarter of all household water use can be traced to the kitchen and laundry room. But with just a few adjustments, families can cut the amount of water they use for cooking and washing dishes.

Here are some water-saving suggestions:

- Cut down on the number of utensils used in preparing meals and on the plates and glassware used with the meals themselves. Plan more one-dish meals in which vegetables are cooked or baked in little or no added water and save nutrients too.
- Because a kitchen faucet can deliver five gallons of water a minute, find ways to avoid running water. For example, use a pan of water to wash fruits and vegetables instead of doing it under the tap. If you wash dishes by hand, use a dish pan and rinse all the dishes at once rather than a few at a time.

Find ways to make double use of water. Ideally, the liquid from cooking vegetables and other foods should be used again as stock for soups or broth. But even if you don't intend to use it for cooking, don't throw it away. Cooking liquids can be used to soak baked-on food off cookware before washing.

Washing dishes by hand requires anywhere from 8 to 20 gallons of water. A dishwasher typically uses between 12 and 16 gallons of water, so the dishwasher should not automatically be considered a water waster. However, a dishwasher uses the same amount of water whether it is completely full or only partially full, so it pays to wait until the dishwasher is loaded to capacity.

Most of the newer models of dishwashers are designed to make pre-rinsing unnecessary. Many automatic dishwasher owners use their appliance more as a sanitizer than an actual dishwasher because they essentially wash their dishes before loading them into the machine. Pre-rinsing is often a habit begun when they used earlier model machines without the same cleaning capabilities.

Dear Abby

Angry child seeks apology

DEAR ABBY: Do you think parents should apologize to their children for the mistakes they made in raising them? This may seem like an absurd question, but I'm dead serious. I doubt that I've ever get over the hurts I've suffered at the hands of my parents until I hear them say those golden words, "We were wrong."

Without going into the details, the mistakes my parents made were big ones. Had I not spent years with a shrink working through a lot of emotional garbage, I would not have been able to write this letter.

One day I sat my parents down and explained some of the problems I've had — and why. I pleaded with them to acknowledge their guilt, and encouraged them to tell me their side of the story.

"It's all water under the bridge," my father said.

My mother said, "We did the best we could, and I don't think we have anything to apologize for."

Where do I get from here, Abby? VICTIM

DEAR VICTIM: Go back to your shrink and find out why you can't seem to let go of your anger and resentment.

All parents "make mistakes" in raising their children, so in a sense, we all suffer from our parents' mistakes of their parents.

Your passionate need to hear your parents acknowledge their "guilt" presupposes that their mistakes were made deliberately to hurt you, which is highly unlikely.

Most parents try to do their best, so their mistakes should be attributed to lack of knowledge and understanding rather than intentional malice.

***

DEAR ABBY: I believe that one can tell a great deal about a person by what he values in literature. Will you please share with your readers something you consider a literary or philosophical treasure? Thank you.

ROSEMARY IN PASADENA

DEAR ROSEMARY: With pleasure. It is from a slim little volume titled "The Prophet" by Kahlil Gibran:

ON CHILDREN
"Your children are not your children. They are the sons and daughters of life's longing for itself. They come through you but not from you, and though they are with you, yet they belong not to you. You may give them your love, but not your thoughts. For they have their own thoughts. You may house their bodies but not their souls, for their souls dwell in the house of tomorrow, which you cannot visit, not even in your dreams. You may strive to be like them, but seek not to make them like you. For life goes not backward nor tarries with yesterday. You are the bows from which your children as living arrows are sent forth. The archer sees the mark upon the path of the infinite and he bends you to his might that his arrows may go swift and far. Let your bending in the archer's hand be for gladness; for even as he loves the arrow that flies, so he loves also the bow that is stable."

Serotonin affects pancreas

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please tell me what you can about serotonin and its effects on the pancreas. My M.D. bet me I would never hear from you. — E.S.F.

Your M.D. loses. Serotonin is a chemical made by certain body cells. Among other things it causes constriction of the bronchi, the branched breathing passages of the lungs. In that sense it can cause a simulated asthma. Serotonin also increases the action of the muscles in the digestive tract, producing diarrhea. And it can cause small arteries to narrow. Also, certain pancreatic tumors produce serotonin, and if they do then all of the above effects may follow. That's the pancreas connection.

You can lose weight if you really want to! The booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.00. Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Bird and Company fly for 121-103 win

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Bird had 34 points and 17 rebounds to lead the Boston Celtics to within one victory of their 15th National Basketball Association title with a 121-103 triumph Friday night over the Los Angeles Lakers.

Bird hit 15 of his 20 field-goal attempts in his best game of the best-of-seven series, which the Celtics now lead 3-2. The Lakers, who have lost all seven of their Championship Series appearances against Boston dating back to 1959, play host to the Celtics in Game 6 Sunday.

Playing before a sellout crowd of 14,890 in steamy Boston Garden, where it was 92 degrees on the floor, Bird scored 11 of his points in the pivotal third period.

Boston broke away from a two-point halftime edge as Bird and Cedric Maxwell scored all of the Celtics' points during a 13-3 spurt that gave them a 68-56 lead. Bird swished his second three-point basket of the game to top the run, during which Maxwell had eight of his game total of 13 points.

Nine straight points by the Lakers trimmed Boston's advantage to 68-65 with 6:42 left in the third period. But the Celtics rebuilt the margin to 88-77 when Bird beat the period-ending buzzer with a corner jumper.

Two straight baskets by Bob McAdoo, who had 18 points for the Lakers, cut the deficit to 93-86 with 9:09 left in the game. But that was as close as Los Angeles got as Boston reeled off a 12-1 streak to pull away to an insurmountable 114-93 lead with four minutes left.

Dennis Johnson added 22 points and Kevin McHale, who played all of the fourth quarter with five fouls, had 19 for the Celtics. James Worthy led Los Angeles with 22 points while Kareem Abdul-Jabbar finished with 19.

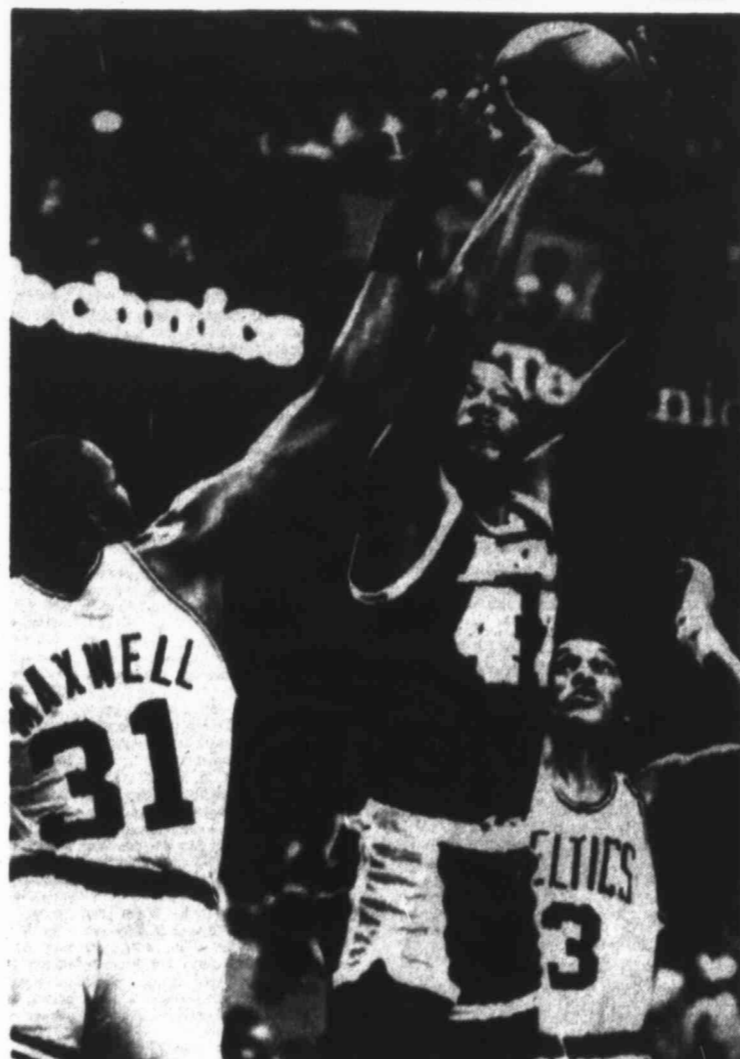

Reserve Celtics guard Scott Wedman, who suffered a hairline fracture of the left fibula in Game 4, was unable to play for the Celtics. Referee Hugh Evans was another casualty as he could not work the second half because of dehydration.

The Lakers got five points apiece from Worthy and Michael Cooper in the first 4:32 to open a 12-6 lead, and the margin seasawed between four and six points for the next three minutes.

Then Johnson and Bird, who had eight points apiece in the first quarter, sparked a Celtics rally that gave them their first lead of the game.

Bird, who also had nine rebounds in the quarter, made two straight offensive rebound baskets to cut Boston's deficit to 23-22, then Johnson, hitting only 36.1 percent of his shots in the series, made his fourth outside jumper of the period to put the Celtics ahead 24-23.

McHale committed his third foul with one second left in the quarter, but McAdoo missed both free throws to leave the score 26-26 at the buzzer.

O'Brien powers Rangers to 6-4 whipping of A's

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Pete O'Brien drove in six runs with two doubles and a single to lead the Texas Rangers to an 8-4 triumph over the Oakland A's Friday night.

Frank Tanana, 6-6, picked up the win, going seven innings and allowing eight hits and three walks while striking out five. Ray Burris, 5-3, took the loss.

American League

O'Brien singled in the fifth to score Mickey Rivers and Buddy Bell to break a 2-2 tie. O'Brien also opened the Texas scoring in the first inning, doubling home Rivers and Larry Parrish. Both runs were unearned, as Rivers singled and advanced to second when Parrish reached on an error by shortstop Tony Phillips.

Rickey Henderson tied the game in the third with a two-run homer to center. The homer, Henderson's fifth of the year, scored Bruce Bochte, who had singled. Henderson went 4-for-5, with a double and two singles.

Red Sox 11, Brewers 3

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Rice homered twice and drove in five runs Friday night as the Boston Red Sox rode a 15-hit attack to an 11-3 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Right-hander Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, recalled from the minor leagues May 30, gave up three unearned runs in the second inning, but settled down to go the route for his first victory in four decisions with the Red Sox. Boyd allowed 11 hits.

National League

CHICAGO (AP) — Greg Luzinski blasted a grand slam during a five-run first inning and Floyd Bannister pitched a four-hitter as the Chicago White Sox downed the Minnesota Twins 6-1 Friday night.

A leadoff triple by Dave Stegman and walks to Scott Fletcher and Tom Paciorek set up Luzinski's second home run of the season and the sixth grand slam of his career. It came off loser Frank Viola, 4-7, and was Luzinski's first slam since 1979 when he was with the Philadelphia Phillies.

CSF eliminates Arizona State College World Series

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Jack Reinholtz and Eddie Delzer combined to scatter eight hits as Cal State-Fullerton eliminated top-ranked Arizona State 6-1 in NCAA College World Series baseball here Friday night.

Arizona State completed its season with a 55-20 record, while the third-ranked Titans, now 64-20, advanced to Saturday's contest against the winner of Friday night's Oklahoma State-Texas contest.

Should Texas win against the second-ranked Cowboys, Saturday's contest could be for the CWS title in the double-elimination tournament. Texas was the only unbeaten team heading into its game with Oklahoma State.

Should Texas lose to OSU, the Longhorns would be given an automatic berth in Sunday's championship game, while OSU and Cal State-Fullerton would meet Saturday at 8:10 p.m. EDT.

Fullerton scored all the runs its pitchers needed in the second inning when Bob Caffrey walked, went to third on John Bryant's single and scored when ASU center fielder Oddibe McDowell mishandled the hit. Bryant then scored the second run on George Sarkissian's sacrifice fly.

The Titans added three more in the fourth when Kirk Bates singled home two runs and Bryant scored on an infield ground out.

The third-ranked Californians added their sixth run on an RBI single by John Fischel in the top of the fifth.

Arizona State, which had loaded the bases without scoring in the third inning, managed to put one on the board in the bottom of the sixth when Mike Devereaux doubled home John Wakamatsu. Following that hit off Reinholtz, Delzer allowed only two Arizona State baserunners in the final three and one-third innings.

Ore City takes 2A baseball title

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — James Johnson pitched six innings of two-hit relief, and shortstop Michael Benson drove in the winning run Friday as Ore City edged Dripping Springs 5-4 for the Class 2A state baseball championship.

Johnson, a junior right-hander, relieved starter Mark Motley to start the second inning after Dripping Springs had scored one run on two hits in the first.

Motley, a Texas A&M quarterback recruit, was the winner in Ore City's 4-2 semifinal victory over Frisco on Thursday, and he switched to catcher when Johnson took over Friday.

Ott Waddles had both hits off Johnson with an RBI single in the second and double in the sixth.

Sophomore left-hander Don Childs of Dripping Springs was almost as effective in relief as he came in after starter Jeff Hastings threw 10 straight balls to start the game.

Prosper 18, Runge 7

AUSTIN (AP) — Prosper bashed 21 hits and teammates Denny Webb and Derek Stansell set state-tournament batting records as the Eagles pounded Runge 18-7 for the Class A state baseball championship today.

Webb hit five consecutive singles for a single-game record for the most hits. The old record was four was held by six players.

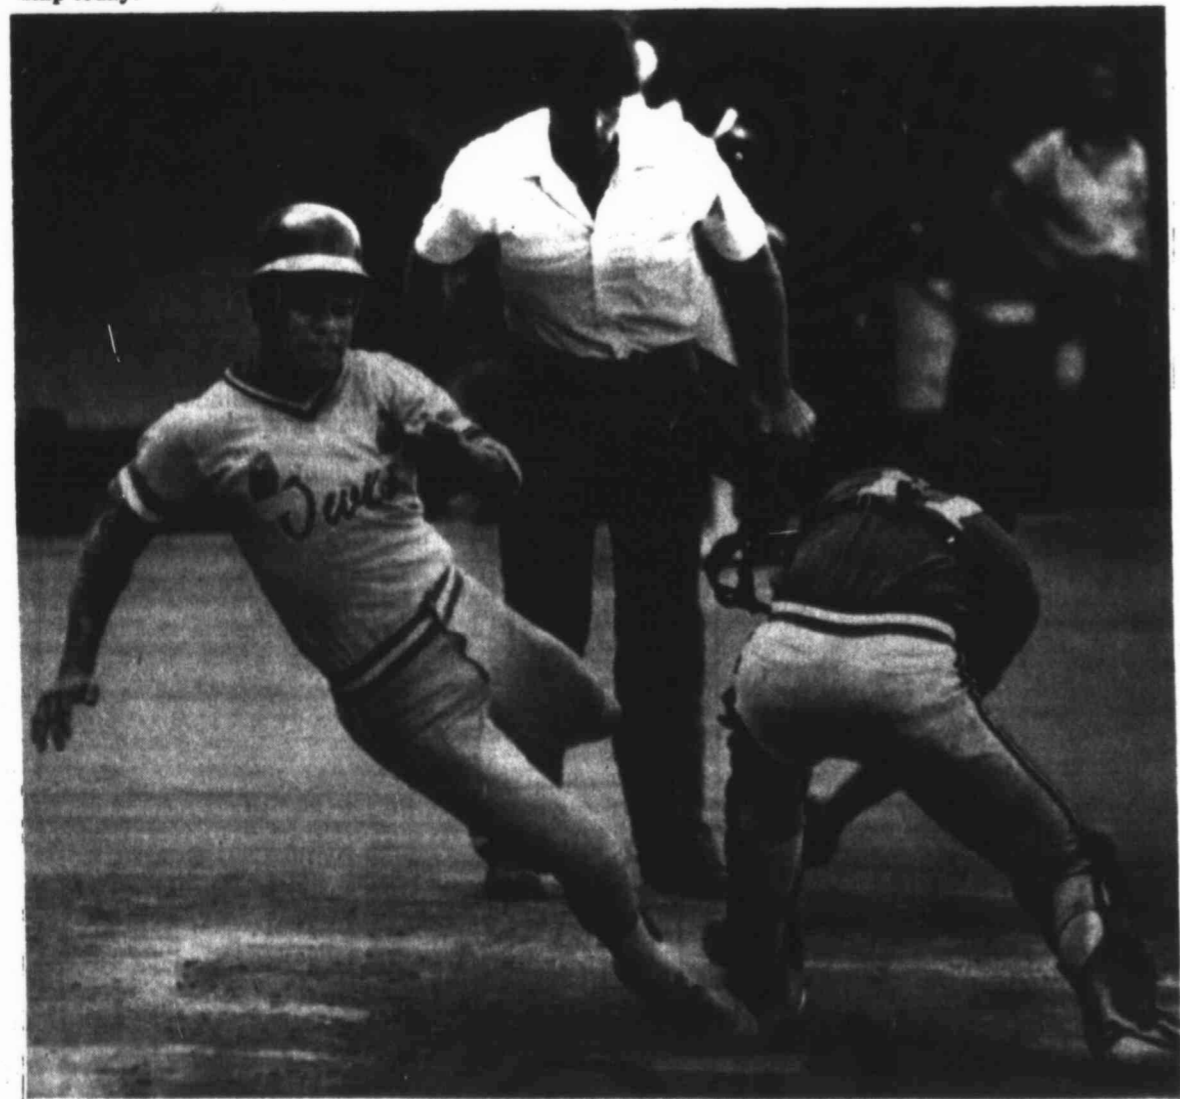

Stansell had three hits, including a home run and his third double in two games. He was seven for nine in Prosper's 12-2 semifinal victory over Lingleville and the championship game.

Stansell was also the starting pitcher today, but Prosper's second relief pitcher, shortstop Tim James, was the winner.

Webb played first base, pitched briefly, then went to left field. Every Prosper batter except catcher Steve Harpole had at least one hit and every Eagle scored at least one run.

Starter Mike Esparza was the loser for Runge, which advanced to the finals with a 4-3 no-hit victory over Apple Springs on Thursday. Freshman Augie Rodriguez, who pitched the no-hitter, relieved Esparza in the fourth inning but gave up two run-scoring singles, and Esparza returned to finish up.

James did not yield a hit in three innings of relief for Prosper, which won its first baseball title after being eliminated in the semifinals in 1982 and 1983.

SCORES FOR ODEM — Jerry Adamez scores for odem on a single by David Garcia in the third inning of their game for the 3A title with Lake Worth of Ft. Worth. The catcher is Darin Bezner (11) of Ft. Worth Lake Worth.

Favors upset in boxing trials

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Jesse Benavides scored with right-handed bombs to the head and upset Floyd Favors, the world champion at 119 pounds, Friday night in the quarter-finals of the U.S. Olympic Boxing Trials.

It was a three-round war, with both men looking to knock the other out, the 5-0 decision was popular with a sparse crowd in the 13,500-seat Tarrant County Convention Center.

Three of the five officials gave Benavides a 59-58 margin. One had it 59-56 and the other 60-56.

In the second round, Benavides, of Corpus Christi, Texas, went down — it seemed from a left-right — but the referee ruled it was not a knockdown.

The left-handed Benavides trapped Favors, of Capitol Heights, Md., along the ropes in the third round and almost put him through the ropes with a flurry of head punches. Then late in the round, Favors hurt Benavides with a cracking right to the jaw.

"How sweet it is after losing two in a row," Benavides said. "I worked hard and it paid off. I was punching straighter and harder than the last time I fought him."

In French Open

McEnroe, Lendl advance to finals

PARIS (AP) — John McEnroe is within one match of ending a 29-year American drought at the French Open tennis championships. His opponent in the men's singles final on Sunday will be Czechoslovakia's Ivan Lendl, who is in his fifth Grand Slam tournament championship match and still looking for his first victory.

The slow red clay at Roland Garros Stadium has stymied U.S. players in the men's singles ever since Tony Trabert successfully defended his title in 1965.

"Maybe it's a little overdue," McEnroe told reporters after crushing Connors on a sun-drenched center court.

Another piece of history was certain to be made Saturday when Martina Navratilova faces defending champion Chris Evert Lloyd in the women's singles final.

Navratilova is bidding to become only the fifth player and the third woman to win the elusive Grand Slam — successive victories at the world's four major tournaments.

Lloyd, who already holds a record 51 singles victories here, is aiming to become the first woman to win the title six times.

"There'll be pressure on both of us — both of us will be making history in one way or another," Navratilova said after her 3-6, 6-2, 6-2 semifinal victory over Hana Mandlikova.

McEnroe's 7-5, 6-1, 6-2 victory over fellow American Jimmy Conners was his 42nd straight match without defeat and his first victory on the slow European clay over his great rival.

So closely have the two Americans been matched that McEnroe has now won 13 of their 25 matches. Connors had won their previous three encounters on clay.

But McEnroe, who had never gotten past the quarterfinals here previously, was totally in command on Friday, slamming 12 aces and a succession of first-service winners past the game's premier returner in a two-hour, 11-minute contest.

And while it was perfect McEnroe when it came to playing, his behavior was vintage McEnroe. The feisty New York left-hander was fined $2,000 dollars for verbal abuse after he shouted at a spectator and lost his temper with a line judge.

But his play justified his position as the No. 1 seed and tournament favorite.

From 4-5 in the opening set, he hit Connors with a series of dazzling winners and lost only three more games in the match.

Connors, failing once again in his effort to win the only Grand Slam tournament that has eluded him, returned serve well and tried to keep the ball deep.

But the 25-year-old McEnroe won most of the big points, and as the match slipped away from him, Connors was forced into a stream of unforced errors on his forehand.

The third game of the second set was marred by an incident between the two players.

Serving for a 3-0 lead, McEnroe put a forehand out to give Connors break point. As he protested that the ball had landed inside the line, Connors appeared to wipe out the mark with his foot.

"Don't do that again, all right?" stormed McEnroe. Connors heard him, wagged his finger and the two Americans exchanged words at the net.

When play resumed, McEnroe saved the game and Connors' challenge was virtually over.

"A player has the right to ask the umpire to look at the mark and the other player does not have the right to cover it up," McEnroe said. "He did that to break the flow of the game."

In Sunday's final, McEnroe will face the No. 2 seed, Lendl, who scored a convincing 6-3, 6-3, 7-5 victory over Sweden's Mats Wilander, the 1982 champion and runner-up last year.

In a long, often dour battle between two baseline specialists — one rally lasted 65 shots — Wilander held his serve only four times in the entire match and was outgunned by Lendl's powerful forehand.

McEnroe holds aces for semis win

American men's French Open drought could be ending

PARIS (AP) — John McEnroe slammed 12 aces as he dominated fellow American Jimmy Connors 7-5, 6-1, 6-2 Friday to move into the men's singles final at the French Open tennis championships.

In Sunday's title match, McEnroe will face Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, the No. 2 seed, who downed Sweden's Mats Wilander, also in straight sets.

In an occasionally heated semifinal, McEnroe, the tournament favorite and No. 1 seed, was down 4-5 in the opening set. But he lost only three more games in the entire match in another exhibition of near-perfect tennis on Center Court at Roland Garros Stadium.

McEnroe's victory was his 13th in 25 career meetings with Connors, but his first over his great rival on clay.

He is now just one match away from becoming the first American to win the men's title here since Tony Trabert successfully defended his crown in 1955, and is the first American since Vitas Gerulaitis in 1980 to reach the men's singles final.

The 31-year-old Connors, who was trying to win the only Grand Slam tournament that has eluded him in a long and successful career, started well. He broke McEnroe in the ninth game after the 25-year-old New Yorker had lost his temper with a spectator.

But when he served for the set, Connors was hit by a series of dazzling winners from his opponent, and by the time he served again, he was 5-6 behind.

A double-fault gave McEnroe the set and from then on all the big points went his way.

The third game of the second set was marred by a verbal exchange between the two players.

Serving for a 3-0 lead, McEnroe put a forehand into the doubles alley, giving Connors a break point.

As McEnroe protested that the ball had landed inside the line, Connors appeared to wipe out the mark on the red clay court with his foot. "Don't do that again, all right?" stormed McEnroe. Connors heard him, wagged his finger and the two players exchanged words at the net.

When the match resumed, McEnroe saved the break point and Connors' challenge was virtually over.

McEnroe, who has been waging a war of words with the photographers here, fumed at them again before capturing the second set, then broke Connors again to take a 3-1 lead in the third.

As he saw the match slipping away, Connors put his feared return of serve into overdrive. But against McEnroe, it only resulted in a stream of volleys coming back over the net.

Trying to play the ball deep, Connors began to rush his approach shots and quickly found himself serving to save the match at 1-5.

He won that game, but only prolonged his fate briefly as McEnroe reached the final on his third match point.

"I think I played well and Jimmy played as well as I've seen him play on clay, but I was serving much better," said McEnroe.

Asked about the 29-year drought of American men's singles winners here, he said: "That's something for the record books. I just want to win it for myself. But maybe it's a little overdue."

He was also asked about the line call dispute in the second set.

"A player has the right to ask the umpire to look at the mark and the other player does not have the right to cover it up. He did that to break the flow of the game," McEnroe charged.

Looking towards his battle with Lendl — he has won 10 of their 18 meetings — McEnroe said: "I'm just going to try to play Lendl like I have in the past — attack and try to get in a high percentage of first serves."

Swale rated as horse to beat at Belmont

NEW YORK (AP) — Kentucky Derby winner Swale is the early favorite over Preakness winner Gate Dancer for Saturday's Belmont Stakes, which will be the richest edition of the final leg of the Triple Crown.

Swale, who drew the No. 6 post position, was listed at 5-2 and Gate Dancer, No. 4 post, was rated at 3-1. Preakness runner-up Play On, going from the No. 1 post, was next at 4-1.

Eleven 3-year-old colts were entered in the 1½-mile test of speed and stamina at Belmont Park.

With a field predominantly composed of come-from-behind horses, the pacesetter is expected to come from among the top three contenders.

If all 11 go, the 116th Belmont will be worth $516,700 with $310,020 awarded the winner. The previous high purse was last year's $358,500.

It is costing the owners of Morning Bob $32,500 to post the horse as a supplemental entry since the colt was not nominated for the race.

Swale worked one-half mile Thursday, clocking 48.3-5 seconds. He galloped out five furlongs in 1:01 2-5.

"It was just what we wanted," said trainer Woody Stephens. "We wanted it in the neighborhood of 49."

Stephens feels Swale's hard workout prior to the Preakness was a factor in the colt's seventh-place finish.

Gate Dancer's fast workout of 58.4-5 for five furlongs Wednesday impressed several Belmont trainers.

"I guess that means (Angel) Cordero will try to go out and steal the race like he did before," said Billy Turner, the trainer of Play On.

Bold Forbes hung on to win the 1976 Belmont under Cordero after setting the pace from the start.

Being in the lead would seem to benefit Gate Dancer, who has a problem of bearing in on horses. That caused him to be disqualified from fourth to fifth in the Derby.

Gate Dancer's equipment to keep him on course includes purple ear muffs to lessen the crowd noise.

Trainer Jack Van Berg said that Gate Dancer's workout was faster than he would have liked, but added, "He's done that all year to us ... But he cooled out fast and good. He's strong right now and in good shape."

Gate Dancer scored his first stakes victory in the May 19

Preakness in track record time over 1:31.6 miles.

The Florida-bred colt ran on the diuretic Lasix in the Derby and Preakness as well as earlier, but the drug is not permitted to be administered in New York once a horse is entered in a race.

"I'm not worried at all about the Lasix," Van Berg said. "He ran without it down in Arkansas and I know he'll be fine."

Gate Dancer, who has had 11 career starts with four victories, finished third behind Althea and Pine Circle in the Arkansas Derby April 21.

Stephens said the only colt he fears is Gate Dancer "unless he has to have what he had," meaning Lasix.

"Swale has been in the money 12 of 13 times and Van Berg's has been in the money 10 of 11," Stephens said.

"Van Berg is the one to beat, strictly," added the Hall of Famer who watched the Preakness winner's workout. "He's got good action. He can run and has a top rider. I fear him more than anybody."

Stephens is confident Swale, son of 1977 Triple Crown winner Seattle Slew and a winner of eight of 13 starts, can bounce back, making him the first trainer in this century and the second in history to win three straight Belmonts.

He blamed the colt's seventh-place finish in the Preakness on a dislike for the track and probably too fast a workout before the race.

"He just wasn't himself," said Stephens, who expects Swale will be close to the lead.

Laffit Pincay Jr., who rode Caveat last year and Conquistador Cielo in 1982 for Stephens, also is seeking his third straight Belmont win. James McLaughlin twice accomplished the feat in the 1880s.

Play On, who has had only five starts, rallied to finish 1½ lengths behind Gate Dancer in the Preakness, but Turner said the colt can run on the lead, if the race dictates it.

Play On breezed five furlongs in 1:01 1-5 Wednesday. Jean-Luc Samyn has the Belmont mount on the Withers winner.

In addition to Gate Dancer and Swale, Pine Circle also has run in the other legs of the Triple Crown, finishing sixth in the Derby and fifth in the Preakness.

BELMONT FAVORITE — Swale is attended the early favorite for the 116th running of the Belmont Stakes Saturday. Swale won this year's Kentucky Derby.

Coax Me Chad, second in the Derby, and Silent King, ninth in the Derby, both skipped the Preakness. The rest of the field missed the Triple Crown grind.

Texas Steeple plant expands operations

HENDERSON (AP) — Fiberglass Specialties of Henderson adds architectural grace to churches across the globe with a variety of steeples.

Under the ownership of Howard Hall, the company has been in continuous operation since 1962. More than 26,000 churches have received products from this plant, which can easily boast being the largest steeple manufacturer in the world, says Oren A. "Sonny" Web.

It maintains a consistent growth from year to year. The plant covers 10 acres and employs a minimum of 90 employees. Fiberglass Specialties has a line of church products including baptistries, crinkled stained glass, and wall crosses. In addition to their church line, the company has branched out on a more profitable line of spas, says marketing director Ed Schellinger.

The steeple-making business is a competitive venture for Hall and his associates. When the plant began its operations, Fiberglass Specialties faced 32 major competitors.

Today, only four steeple making businesses challenge the operation, according to Web. They are located in Maskatane, Iowa, Atlanta, Ga., Jacksonville, Texas, and Orange, Texas.

"The most impressive work we have ever done would be on a church in Allentown, Pa. A Greek Orthodox Church requested onion-shaped domes covered in 22-karat gold leaf. You can only imagine how much that would cost. The only problem we had was getting the gold from Fort Knox. They wouldn't send it all at once because of security and government regulations," Web says.

Joe Sparks, the steeple designer, says the plant has more than 150 types of steeples.

"Usually our customers choose one out of the catalogue. We either pull it out of stock or we make a new one out of an old mold. Occasionally, we do custom designs though," he said.

In Henderson, houses of worship such as the First Methodist Church, First Baptist Church and Shawnee Baptist Church are capped with Fiberglass Specialties' steeples.

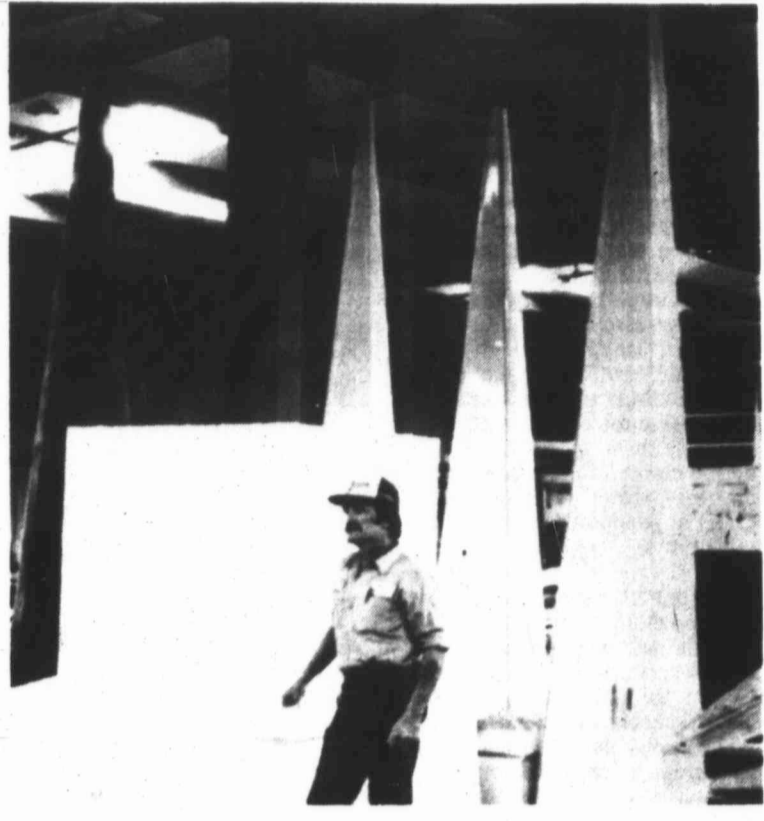

Prices vary according to size and detail. For example, a small spire, such as the one on the Shawnee Baptist church, costs about $400. A larger model, such as the one atop First Baptist (facing Citizens National Bank), would cost approximately $3,500.

The majority of their customers are located in the Southeast. A large map of the United States hangs in the general manager's office with pins marking spots where the products are. A solid blue and red mass stretches from South Texas to the New England states with scattered pins dotting the Western states.

The Christ Pentecostal Church in West Africa holds the steeple furthest from its Henderson home. Other distant customers are located in the Philippines, Hawaii, and Alaska.

"Since vandalism is so prevalent today, the crinkle glass windows have become a popular alternative to glass," says Schellinger. "They are even bullet proof. So far, the furthest one we have shipped out went to Bermuda."

When interest rates skyrocketed, steeple sales began to stabilize.

STEEPED IN STEEPLES — Paul Rasmussen, a supervisor at Fiberglass Specialties in Henderson, stands among partially assembled church steeples. The 10 acre plant employs 90 people in the production of church products, such as steeples and wall crosses, but is expanding to include spas.

Harte-Hanks Communications, Inc., has acquired the Tampa Neighbor, a weekly newspaper in Tampa, Fla., from North American Publications, Inc.

The acquisition took effect May 15, according to Charles H. Everill, president of Harte-Hanks Direct Marketing (HHDM), and Dick Mandt, president of HHDM/South.

The Tampa Neighbor is distributed to more than 140,000 households each week in Tampa.

Harte-Hanks Communications, Inc., operates in 27 states. The company owns and operates 27 daily newspapers, including The Big Spring Herald, and 75 non-daily publications.

dog is penned or tied away from the mail receptacle.

Hardesty said, "Big Spring dog owners have cooperated with our dog bite prevention program and we look forward to their cooperation this summer in our effort to eliminate attacks on letter carriers as well as all other citizens."

A major conference to help women business owners will be held in Dallas June 14-15.

The conference is sponsored by the U.S. Small Business Administration, the Association of Women Entrepreneurs of Dallas, Inc., and the University of Texas at Arlington.

More than 2,000 people are expected to attend the conference at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, 300 Reunion Blvd., Dallas.

The two-day conference will feature comprehensive workshops for women who are in the start up or early growth of business ownership as well as seminars for women who own established businesses.

For further information about the conference, contact the U.S. Small Business Administration office in Lubbock at 806-743-7471, or the Dallas office at 8625 King George Drive, Bldg. C, Dallas, Texas, 75235-3391, or phone (214) 767-7635.

WASHINGTON — Small businesses in 16 West Texas counties, including Howard County, will be eligible to receive financial help through the newly created Permian Basin Regional Development Corporation, U.S. Sen. John Tower announced.

The certified development company will operate in Andrews, Borden, Crane, Dawson, Ector, Gaines, Glasscock, Howard, Martin, Midland, Pecos, Reeves, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler counties.

The corporation has been certified by the Small Business Administration and will be authorized to lend up to $500,000 per qualifying business for fixed assets.

To qualify, the borrower must provide 10 percent of the investment package and obtain financing for another 50 percent from a commercial lending institution.

The remaining 40 percent would come from the regional development corporation, Tower said. The regional development corporation portion of the loan can be up to 25 years, although the commercial loan must be for at least half the period of that loan.

"This Small Business Administration program establishes a partnership between private and public resources. It is particularly valuable because it will spur economic development in these 16 Permian Basin counties and is an excellent example of federal funds being used in the most effective manner possible," Tower said.

June has been declared "Quality Service Month" by the United States Postal Service.

A concerted effort by Labor and Management is aimed at improving the service and image of postal employees.

Big Spring Postmaster Frank Hardesty has instructed postal employees to be attentive to customers and responsive to suggestions, both critical and constructive.

"We may be the only post office in town," Hardesty said, "but we try not to act like we are."

During June, July and August, special interest will be placed on the dog bite prevention program.

Dog bites have accounted for much pain and loss of productivity, Hardesty said. During these summer months, when a dog is reported running loose, the owner will be contacted and informed that his mail will be curtailed until the
