The prince speaks English

LONDON — Prince William held his first "press conference" Tuesday, showing his mastery of words including "ant" and "tractor" and even saying two complete sentences.

The toddler prince, who turns 2 next week, could only gurgle and coo when he last appeared for reporters six months ago. But on Tuesday, he stood just over 3 feet tall and asked, "What's that?" and "Who's that?"

Because of his birthday June 21, Prince Charles and Princess Diana showed him off for photographers on the grounds of Kensington Palace, their London home.

Carter's kin cops plea

OROVILLE — William Carter Spann, the nephew of former President Jimmy Carter, pleaded guilty to a felony escape charge that could send him back to prison for three more years.

Spann, 37, who has been in and out of California jails since 1969, was arrested at his home in nearby Chico by his parole officer May 3 for "suspected use of amphetamines."

Spann, who has described himself as "the bad peanut" of the Carter family, had been on parole for a 1981 attempted burglary conviction.

Spann, who faced up to 12 additional months in custody for the alleged parole violation, escaped May 29 from a minimum-security kitchen crew at the Butte County Jail.

Spann called the jail later that night to apologize for escaping, and said he would return. He surrendered two days later.

In Monday's court hearing, Spann pleaded guilty to a felony escape charge, which could add three years to his prison term.

The movie brings tears

QUINCY — The mother-in-law of dissident Soviet scientist Andrei Sakharov fought tears as she watched a film depicting events in her life.

"Let's stop," said Ruth Grigorievna Bonner, 84, mother of Yelena Bonner, Sakharov's wife. "I'm afraid I will cry."

She and other members of the Sakharov family in exile in the Boston suburb of Newton saw a private screening of a television movie, "Sakharov," according to Monday's Patriot Ledger of Quincy.

When a Norwegian envoy appears at the Sakharov apartment armed with red roses to announce that the scientist — played by Jason Robards — has won a Nobel Peace Prize, Alexsei Semyenov, 28, Sakharov's stepson, remarked, "Actually, the roses came in a vase."

O'Neill says aid to rebels should be used for U.S. jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaker of the House Tip O'Neill says President Reagan's insistence on more money to aid rebels battling Nicaragua's leftist government is holding up needed funds to put American youths to work at summer jobs.

O'Neill said he telephoned Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., on Tuesday to ask if the two issues could be separated so that the $100 million for summer youth employment could be sent to Reagan for his signature.

"We have done our part and they should not be holding it up just because of covert action in Nicaragua," O'Neill told reporters today.

Baker said the $1.1 billion appropriation bill containing the two items would be taken up after the Senate completes action on defense appropriations, probably next week.

TIP O'NEILL

"Clearly, summer is here and we have got to do something about it," he said, although telling reporters the summer jobs portion of the legislation would not be singled out for separate action.

The speaker said Baker told him he would take the question up with the president. A Senate Republican leadership source said the appropriation bill was discussed at a meeting of GOP leaders Tuesday, but no decisions were made.

A Senate Appropriations Committee source said it appeared to be "up to the White House" what the next step would be.

The sources spoke on condition they not be identified.

Both the Senate and the House have approved all of the items in the appropriation bill, which provides emergency funds for various government agencies, except for the $21 million the administration wants for CIA operations in Nicaragua.

The Republican-controlled Senate approved the funds for CIA backing of the so-called "contras" in Nicaragua.

Indian army after mutineers; stops desertions

NEW DELHI — The government says desertions by Sikh soldiers angered over the bloody raid on the Golden Temple have been halted and a military commander said those who mutinied may face death sentences.

Thousands demonstrated in the capital today to protest the storming in Amritsar last week of the holiest Sikh shrine.

Shouting slogans against Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and President Zail Singh, about 4,000 Sikhs gathered in and around a major Sikh temple in central Bombay to protest the army action. Police dispersed the protesters with clubs and no violence was reported. Some demonstrators were briefly detained.

Military sources have said at least 2,000 Sikh soldiers deserted bases in eastern, northern and western India last weekend to head for the northern state of Punjab, site of the Golden Temple, or to the capital.

But Defense Ministry spokesman M.L. Juneja said Tuesday all of the desertions had been quelled and the situation was under control.

Lt. Gen. T.S. Oberoi, chief of the army's southern command, told reporters in Bombay that deserters would be court-martialed and would face possible death sentences.

"Nobody in the Indian army would dare a mutiny," he said.

About 3,000 troops armed with tanks, rockets and machine guns stormed the Golden Temple to flush out Sikh extremists who had been waging a terror campaign to win greater political and religious autonomy.

Civilian and military sources said Tuesday at least 1,000 Sikhs and 220 soldiers had died and that the death toll was likely to reach 1,300. The government has not revised its original statement that 300 to 400 people were killed in the assault.

On Tuesday, soldiers were still removing bodies from the temple grounds and cremating them in mass funeral pyres.

At least 7,000 people have been arrested in the temple siege and subsequent raids of suspected extremist hideouts, sources said.

Juneja said the Indian government would "examine sympathetically" each case of desertion, and added that military investigations were under way to find out how the Sikh soldiers were influenced to join the protest march.

Army officers also have been instructed to explain to soldiers why the government ordered troops into the Golden Temple complex to flush out Sikh extremists, he said.

Juneja said the Sikh soldiers who abandoned their army bases to join civilians in protest marches had been influenced by rumors that the Golden Temple was damaged in the army attack.

At least 102 Sikh deserters were killed in firefights with army and police pursuers in nine different states, including Punjab, over the past few days, said sources who spoke on condition they not be identified. About 600 were arrested and most of the others surrendered, they said.

The sources said 14 suspected Sikh extremists were killed since Tuesday night by security forces in Amritsar, Ferozepur and Faridkot districts in Punjab state.

About 1,200 Sikh deserters from Bihar state have surrendered in neighboring Uttar Pradesh and given up their efforts to reach Punjab, the United News of India said, quoting official sources.

Two civilians were killed in skirmishes with the deserters and a large quantity of arms and ammunition was seized from those who surrendered, UNI said.

The desertions apparently involved only a small percentage of the Sikh troops who make up about 10 percent of India's 1.2 million troops.

Rebel soldiers captured near the western port city of Bombay said they had planned to take over the airport in the city.

Death squad group ended

SAN SALVADOR — The new government of President Jose Napoleon Duarte has taken a step toward combating rightist violence by dissolving a police intelligence unit that had been linked to death squads.

The Treasury Police director, Col. Rinaldo Golcher, said Tuesday the S-2 intelligence unit in his agency was dissolved earlier this week and its 100 agents were sent to combat positions at isolated posts in the east, scene of some of the heaviest fighting in the government's 4½-year-old war with leftist guerrillas.

Dutch debate missiles

THE HAUGE — Parliament opened debate today on the Cabinet's decision to link the number of NATO cruise missiles to be deployed in the Netherlands to Soviet deployments of SS-20s and progress in U.S.-Soviet arms talks.

A vote was expected today on whether to accept the 48 U.S.-built missiles NATO has allotted for the Netherlands. Parliament, which has the final word on the issue, was expected to narrowly approve the Cabinet plan.

Solidarity 4 trial date set

WARSAW — The trial of four top Solidarity advisers accused of plotting to overthrow Poland's socialist system has been scheduled to start on July 13, a defense lawyer said.

The announcement came a day after Jacek Kuron, one of the defendants, reportedly began a hunger strike to force authorities to free him or set a date for the trial.

The trial of Adam Michnik, Henryk Wujec and Zbigniew Romaszewski and Kuron is expected to last until October in Warsaw's military court, said Kuron's attorney, Jerzy Wozniak. All four face maximum prison terms of 10 years if convicted.

Beirut fighting subsides

BEIRUT — The newly confirmed coalition Cabinet cancelled a planned meeting today. Newspapers reported Prime Minister Rashid Karami said there was not enough time to shift police forces to the site of the meeting.

Most of Lebanon's active police force had been assigned to guard Parliament during the week-long debate that culminated Tuesday afternoon in a 53-15 vote of confidence that formally installed the half-Christian, half-Muslim government. Three deputies abstained.

Grenada party formed

ST. GEORGE'S — A new party named for slain leftist Prime Minister Maurice Bishop says it will take part in upcoming elections, campaigning against U.S. troops on the island and a pro-capitalist shift in the economy.

Bishop's government collapsed in bloody fighting eight months ago. Within days, U.S. and Caribbean military forces invaded and took control of the island.

All quiet on Persian Gulf

Iran and Iraq today entered the second day of a moratorium on attacks against civilians with no reported violations of the agreement — the first such pact achieved between the two foes in 3½ years of war.

After a last-minute exchange of shellings and bombings on border towns Tuesday, an Iraqi military commander reported that the "cease of attacks on residential targets is holding."

GOP says White breaking '82 campaign tax promises

AUSTIN (AP) — A high-tech executive told legislators Tuesday that education is a bipartisan issue and he was "inflamed" by a Republican billboard reminding voters that Democratic Gov. Mark White once promised not to raise taxes.

Bobby Inman, president of Microelectronics and Computer Technology Corp., a Austin-based computer research consortium, said he has been a registered independent but probably voted Republican more than Democrat. But he said education should be above politics.

"Education is a bipartisan issue. I've never endorsed a political candidate, and I don't plan to start. But I greatly admire Gov. Mark White's courage in coming to grips with the public education problem and the cost — no matter what he may have promised before. I was inflamed last night with some coverage about some ads focusing on taxes."

The billboard near the Capitol quotes White as saying in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram on Oct. 23, 1982, "There will be no new taxes for Texans when I am governor."

MARK WHITE

White now proposes a three-year $4.8 billion tax increase to improve public education and highways, and called a special session of the Legislature to consider it.

George Strake, chairman of the Texas Republican Party, said Monday the billboard was purchased by the GOP to "graphically demonstrate how (White) has broken this important promise."

Inman, a retired Navy admiral, told a joint legislative session he had called around the state Tuesday and found that "old friends" such as former Republican Gov. Bill Clements and former state GOP chairman Peter O'Donnell "are out working to support the governor on this issue of reforming public education and on paying for it."

"It's a bipartisan issue that holds the future not only of the youngsters that are coming along but potentially of the nation. If this state rises to the occasion, it will provide the leadership this country must have in competing effectively at the international market place in the year 2000."

Inman also said he visited Texas State Technical Institute at Waco on Monday, and "was discouraged to hear" that two-thirds of the students enrolling there require remedial work — "some in reading and writing, as well as math."

TAXING QUESTION — In the opening shot of what they call 'political education' efforts, Texas

Republicans posted this billboard near the Capitol showing a Gov. White promise not to raise taxes.

Lawyer sues for 'equality hour'

DALLAS (AP) — When James Carroll, a Dallas attorney, had to pay $2.50 for a drink after work in a local bar, and two women before him received free drinks, he took his case to the city — and won.

Now Ed Gattus, owner of Monopoly's Park Place, must offer a "happy hour" for men.

"From a business standpoint, it's all wrong. We're trying to attract people in here, not discriminate against anyone or drive anyone away," Gattus said. Carroll complained that Gattus was violating a Dallas city ordinance that forbids discrimination based on sex in public accommodations. After some reluctance, Carroll says, the city's investigation department decided to press the case.

A city investigator negotiated the settlement with Gattus by having him do something special for the men. The happy hour for men will be from 2 to 5 p.m. weekdays. During that time, men will drink for free.

Reagan rejects summit talks with Soviets on routine basis

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has rejected a plan advocated by top Republicans and Democrats for regularly scheduled summits with the Soviet leadership to discuss general world problems and ways to avert global war.

White House deputy press secretary Peter Rousell said Tuesday that Reagan is insisting that any summit have a carefully prepared agenda and a good chance of producing concrete results.

"Setting a fixed schedule for summit meetings would not in and of itself solve the very real substantive problems existing between our two countries with such different values and interests," Rousell said.

The idea of regularly scheduled summits, possibly once a year, has been endorsed by Democratic presidential hopefuls Walter Mondale and Gary Hart, and by Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Percy and Baker took their arguments for an annual summit to the White House Tuesday and presented them to Reagan. Baker said Reagan's guidelines for conducting summits were anachronistic.

But shortly after the meeting, the proposal was dismissed as "questionable" by Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

Shultz told reporters a get-acquainted meeting between Reagan and Soviet President Konstantin U. Chernenko could disappoint people around the world if it failed to produce results.

Besides, Shultz said, "all of you would immediately write a story about an election-year ploy, and probably the Soviets would evaluate it that way."

Percy said he had urged "that we meet at least once a year" with an agenda of "of whatever happens to be the problems facing the world that involve both the Soviet Union and the United States."

Expectations for such meetings "do not have to be high because they'd be regular meetings," Percy said. "But it's dangerous not to do it."

PRESIDENT REAGAN

Armed youths near VP Bush's home arrested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police arrested two men with a pellet gun near Vice President George Bush's home while President Reagan was helping Bush to celebrate his 60th birthday party.

The two, Carlos Parada, 21, and Jose H. Hernandez, 16, were charged Tuesday night with possession of a prohibited weapon. Hernandez said they were on a bird-hunting expedition, police Lt. John Bowden said.

Hernandez was released on personal recognizance but Parada was held overnight. Police said he was held because he does not live in the Washington area.

Bush spokesman Peter Teeley said it appeared that the two men "were just in the wrong place at the wrong time."

A uniformed Secret Service woman spotted them outside the fence surrounding the Bush compound in northwest Washington, agency spokesman Mike Tarr said. He said she asked about the contents of a paper bag and, when they refused to answer, checked and found the pellet gun.

The two men were arrested "a least a couple of hundred yards" from the vice president's mansion. Police said the two were arrested near a gate of the Naval Observatory. The Bush home is on the observatory grounds.

Tarr said the incident was "totally unrelated to anything going on in the house."

"There was nothing to be concerned about because it was an unrelated incident," he said.

Dear Abby

Pastor tries to make session a confession

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion of a minister who would say to a bride, "I have to know if you are a virgin or not." I was asked this question during a premarital counseling session. My fiancé was present and was as shocked as I was.

When I told the minister it was a private matter, he replied, "Then I will have to jump to conclusions." I said, "That is your privilege." The minister then insinuated that I had to get married. Abby, we announced our engagement in August of 1982 and set our wedding date at that time. The minister was aware of this, so he had to know that we didn't have to get married.

He then said he had to know if we were living together, because if we were, it would reflect badly on him and the church. My fiancé and I are not living together, never did, nor do we intend to until we are married. Neither my fiancé nor I is Catholic, and confession to a clergyman is not required by our faith. We are both over 21. I have been very upset since this meeting, and I don't want to have this minister officiate at our wedding. Am I wrong?

BOTHERED BRIDE
DEAR BRIDE: You are not wrong. Ask your minister's superior if the questions you were asked were appropriate in your situation. I certainly understand your wanting another minister to marry you. "Seek and ye shall find."

DEAR ABBY: Can you explain why a 57-year-old Christian woman would want to spend all her time with an 83-year-old Jewish widower?

He calls her every day, and she takes every opportunity to go to his home. Every time they meet, they embrace like lovers.

What is the motive? His and hers?

PERPLEXED IN SUN CITY, ARIZ.
DEAR PERPLEXED: Maybe she's looking for a father figure. Or he's looking for a daughter figure. Or his income figures in the millions. I can't figure it out. But then, it's really none of my business.

Dr. Donohue

Heel pain may be Plantar Fasciitis

Dear Dr. Donohue: I got a blister a year ago on my heel. I stride two or three miles each day, and although the blister is gone right now, there is still pain and a tendency to have the blister return. Will this condition ever go away? Or can you come up with some other idea?—Mrs. S.

Abnormal pressure, sufficient to form a blister, can also cause pain deeper in the foot. That is plantar fasciitis, inflammation of the supporting tissue on the bottom of the foot. The tissue attaches to the heel bone and in time, if the irritation continues, the bone spur will form. That's a possibility. Or you may have an inflammation of the tissue surrounding the heel bone itself. That is periostitis.

Whatever the problem, you definitely are continuing to irritate your heel. The blister reformation is a sign to have your foot examined. If there is a bone spur at heel, your foot is constructed that feet, for example, can lead to irritation, even from normal walking. Rest will help, but it's not going to be the ultimate answer. That lies in finding out what is wrong with the foot. The answer could be as simple as changing shoes or using a heel pad with a shock-absorbing cushion.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have had emphysema. My daughter has invited us to visit them and that means I have to take a long plane trip. I feel OK generally, but wonder if I'll be safe in the plane. I've never flown before, but I understand the plane pressure will be lower than normal. Please advise.—Mrs. P.R.R.

Most plane cabin pressures on commercial flights are no problem, even for those with breathing illnesses. But for the person who is quite severely affected, the lower oxygen content could create difficulties. The only way to be sure is to contact the medical department of the airline and ask if they will provide you information about testing for your safety in flight. That can be done.

You can breathe air with the same oxygen concentration of the atmosphere in the plane. Then a sample of your blood can be drawn and its oxygen content measured. If it is quite low, you will need to have oxygen supplied to you during flight.

The matter can be settled for you either by your personal doctor or by the airline's medical department. Your other questions on this illness are discussed in the booklet "Emphysema-Bronchitis: The Twin Problems," which other readers may obtain by writing me care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.00 for printing and handling.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am told I have adrenal gland problems. Can you explain just what the adrenals do?—R.P.

That's a tall order for this limited space. The adrenals are glands located on top of the kidneys. They make many different hormones necessary for regulation of blood pressure, controlling potassium and sodium balances, controlling inflammation, and activating our responses to situations perceived as dangerous or anxious. You are probably familiar with some of these hormones—adrenalin and cortisone, for examples.

You may not be familiar with the adrenal hormone that regulates sodium and potassium balance. That is aldosterone. When adrenal gland hormones are over- or under-produced, various symptoms appear. When the glands overproduce cortisone, for example, the condition is Cushing's syndrome. When they underproduce, it's Addison's disease.

Death sentence upheld

AUSTIN — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today upheld the death sentence of a man who said his victim made homosexual advances to him.

The court also affirmed the death sentence of Gary Graham, found guilty in the robbery-slays of Bobby Lambert in Houston on May 13, 1981.

John Michael Lamb was convicted of capital murder in the Nov. 6, 1982, shooting death of Jerry Chafin in Hunt County.

Lamb's appeal said jurors should have been asked to decide if Lamb acted as a result of "sudden passion" caused by Chafin. The Court of Criminal Appeals said records show Chafin "made a gesture which could perhaps be interpreted as a homosexual advance."

In a statement to police, Lamb said Chafin "put his hand on my leg."

The appeals court said "the confession does not state that (Lamb) was in any way enraged or angered by this advance."

"Rather the confession indicates that (Lamb) in no uncertain terms made clear that he did not wish to engage in any sexual activity with (Chafin) and shortly thereafter (Chafin) asked (Lamb) to leave. (Lamb) then shot (Chafin) four times," Judge Charles Campbell said in the opinion.

Chafin told investigators that he took Chafin's wallet and car and drove to Florida, where he shot a gas station attendant.

In the Graham case the appeals court overruled Graham's complaints about the jury selection process.

River down, but business up

NEW BRAUNFELS — Business leaders say rumors more than dropping river levels are hurting tourism in their city, where the Guadalupe and Comal rivers are a focal point of recreational activity.

"We've had people call us and tell us they've heard the Comal River is dry," said Eddie Temple of the New Braunfels Chamber of Commerce.

"The rivers are down, but we have plenty of water to tube, canoe, kayak and raft," he said today.

on the Guadalupe River, only 50 of 600 inner tubes were rented last weekend. The business usually rents almost all of them, employee Zero Rivers said.

Jewel Kreider, who operates a restaurant-store along the Comal River, says she is trying to organize merchants to get the word out that the rivers are flowing.

Ms. Kreider said tourism could be hurt severely if the rumors aren't stopped.

Temple admitted when river levels are down, the speed of the water declines.

But he said, "New Braunfels still has a large number of people coming and enjoying themselves."

Temple said he could not estimate how badly rumors about the dropping river levels have hurt tourism in New Braunfels.

The reports apparently haven't hurt business at the local Holiday Inn. Food and Beverage Director Steve Gutierrez said his hotel was full as usual last weekend.

Temple said other hotels and campgrounds reported they were at capacity last weekend.

But at Rockin R Toobs & Canoes

"Our summer tourism should be up, but instead it's down," she said. Edwards Underground Water District general manager Tom Fox said the Comal River Tuesday was being fed by springs at a rate of 78 cubic feet per second. The rate usually is 300 cubic feet per second. Fox said the level began to decline in April and since has risen and fallen to between 75 to 80 cubic feet per second.

The Guadalupe is being fed at a rate of 50 cubic feet per second, down from the usual "couple hundred" cubic feet per second, Temple said.

River levels are declining because of the drought that has hit the state this year.

EPA to clean up waste dump

GRAND PRAIRIE — A $3.5 million cleanup of an abandoned toxic waste dump has been approved by the Environmental Protection Agency, which plans to monitor waste leakage at the site for 30 years.

EPA officials said the cleanup, which will take 18 months, will involve digging up more than two acres of contaminated ground at the 11-acre dump, formerly operated by BioEcology Systems Inc.

The agency identified the dump, which closed in 1978, as one of the nation's 546 most hazardous toxic waste sites.

EPA spokesman Roger Meacham said Tuesday the contaminated material would be solidified and stored in a vault elevated above a 100-year floodplain, and a drainage system will be installed under the vault to catch any leaks.

The agency's Superfund will finance 90 percent of the construction costs and all of the $291,000 in planning costs, officials said. The $1.6 billion Superfund was established by Congress in late 1980 to clean up hazardous chemicals in the environment.

Meacham said the EPA would try to reimburse the fund by collecting the cleanup cost from the 122 parties it alleges are responsible for the chemicals' presence in the dump.

GOP vanguard arrives

FORT WORTH — The vanguard of an expected 6,000 delegates and visitors to the Texas Republican Party's state convention arrived today as pre-convention activities began.

Committee meetings were scheduled today and Thursday, with general sessions Friday and Saturday.

Ambassador-at-Large George Duncan speaks Thursday at a seminar concerning peace in Central America.

Highlight of the convention comes Saturday when Vice President George Bush will speak.

U.S. Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada, chairman of President Ronald Reagan's re-election campaign, will be the keynote speaker Friday at the opening general session.

Other featured speakers include U.S. Sen. John Tower; Ron Walker, manager of the Republican national convention in Dallas and U.S. Rep. Phil Gramm, the U.S. Senate nominee.

Chairmen of the temporary convention committees include James Cribbs, Arlington, resolutions; Leonard Davis, Tyler, rules; Robbie Borchers, New Braunfels, credentials, and state Rep. Bill Carter, Fort Worth, organization.

Healthy quadruplets born

SAN ANTONIO — For five weeks, Patricia Rios stayed in bed and took medicine, struggling to defy the odds against having healthy quadruplets.

It apparently paid off.

The Rios quads — two boys and two girls — were reported in stable condition, and breathing without respirators Tuesday at Methodist Hospital.

Rios said his wife had taken a fertility drug, clomid, before the birth of their first child — Patrick Bryan, now 2 years old — and before this pregnancy because she had had difficulties becoming pregnant.

Michael Errin, Matthew Elliot, Catherine Lee and Lauren Marie were born in rapid succession in a four-minute span beginning at 11:41 a.m. Monday. The infants weighed 3 pounds, 2½ ounces; 3 pounds, 5½ ounces; 3 pounds, 2 ounces; and 2 pounds, 7½ ounces.

Texas woman found dead

DENVER — Denver police have identified the body of a woman discovered in a southeast Denver motel Monday as a 30-year-old Texas woman.

Preliminary autopsy results show that Jennifer Della Costa, of El Paso, died of asphyxiation, a spokesman for the Denver coroner's office said. Police are investigating the death as a homicide.

A maid found the nude body in a bed in the La Quinta Motor Inn.

Beer-belly bear facing death row for 2nd time

FORT WORTH (AP) — A pet Himalayan bear named Puppy who escaped execution last summer only with a judge's restraining order may be headed for Death Row, a health official said.

The bear, who last summer scratched a man but won a reprieve in court from rabies testing, has been accused of biting and clawing an Arlington woman who gave him a beer.

The woman, Dorothy Sue Airehart, is in fair condition at Arlington Memorial Hospital after surgery to repair her right forearm and hand, hospital officials said.

Mrs. Airehart told police she and her husband Charles were visiting the bear at his cage behind a Fort Worth construction company when the bear clawed her and bit off part of her fingertip late Sunday night.

Airehart told police his wife gave the bear a beer and he drank it. She tried to feed him another beer, but the bear grabbed her arm instead.

A friend stabbed the 6-foot black bear about seven times with a pocket knife to get the animal to release his grip, police said. No one else was injured.

Charles Vaught, environmental health manager for the Fort Worth Health Department, said state law requires that the animal be treated for rabies. Under the state Rabies Control Act, wild animals that bite humans must be killed and their brains examined for the disease.

After Puppy scratched a Watauga man last July 5 twice on a finger, a state district judge decided against ordering the bear's death. The bear's owner, Johnny Morrow, obtained a restraining order preventing the bear's death, and health officials are unsure if the restraining order applies in this case.

"We're not sure where we stand legally or if last year's legal action takes precedent," Vaught said.

Pope defends papal power before Swiss

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Pope John Paul II on Tuesday opened his six-day visit to Switzerland with a ringing defense of papal authority in a country where the papacy remains a bitter point of disagreement between Roman Catholics and Protestants.

Speaking to the World Council of Churches, an organization representing 400 million Christians — but not Roman Catholics — worldwide, the pontiff also acknowledged "frequent differences" between Catholics and Protestants.

"From the beginning of my ministry as bishop of Rome, I have insisted that the engagement of the Catholic church in the ecumenical movement is irreversible and that the search for unity was one of its pastoral priorities," said the pontiff, looking tired midway through a day that began with his 7:20 a.m. departure from Rome.

Switzerland was one of the cradles of the Protestant Reformation, but the spiritual leader of the world's 790 million Roman Catholics took a hard line on the question of papal authority.

"To be in communion with the bishop of Rome (the pope) is to give visible evidence that one is in communion with all who confess that same faith," the pontiff said of Christianity. "That is our Catholic conviction and our fidelity to Christ forbids us to give it up."

The pontiff, delivering his address in French, called the papacy the "visible pole and guarantee of unity" of the Christian tradition.

He acknowledged there have been "moral afflictions which have marked the life of its (the church's) members and even of its leaders in the course of history."

John Paul added: "The Catholic church believes that the bishop who presides over the life of that local church (Rome) ... brings about the unity of believers."

Ulrich Zwingli and John Calvin led the Swiss Protestant Reformation in the 16th century. Tensions between Protestants and Catholics were particularly strong in the late 19th century, fed in large part by Protestant rejection of the doctrine of papal infallibility.

Strong religious disagreements between Catholics and Protestants have endured in Switzerland, and the pope's visit was intended in part to improve relations between Catholics and Protestants.

World population growth rate declines

LONDON (AP) — For the first time in modern history, the growth rate of the world's population has declined, a United Nations report said Wednesday.

In the last decade, the annual population growth rate declined from 2 percent to 1.7 percent, according to the report.

Although the rate of increase in the decade has slowed, the world population still grew by nearly 800 million — more than the size of India.

Vatican denounces book saying John Paul I murdered

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican on Tuesday denounced as "absurd fantasies" a new book which claims Pope John Paul I, who reigned for 33 days in 1978, was murdered.

"A number of press sources are drawing attention to the book 'In God's Name' by David Yallop, publishing extracts and comments. It is shocking and deplorable that anyone could so much as think let alone publish theories of this kind," the Vatican press office said in a communique.

It was the first Vatican reaction to the book, in which the British author says he believes John Paul I was poisoned. The book is to be published Thursday.

The Vatican's report on the death of the pontiff Sept. 29, 1978, said he was found in his bed by his private secretary at 5:30 a.m. and had suffered a heart attack around 11 p.m. the previous evening. In accordance with Vatican practice, no autopsy was performed on the 65-year-old pope.

Yallop's book alleges the pope was killed because he was preparing to act decisively in several areas including liberalizing the church's rules on birth control, an inquiry into the Vatican's finances and the removal of several high church officials.

Missionary family dies; 9 drowned

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — A panel truck carrying an American missionary family became caught in a rain-swollen river, and all nine people inside drowned, police said. The dead included five children age 5 or younger.

Authorities said the bodies of six Americans and three Dominicans were returned Monday to Santo Domingo from the remote, normally arid region where the truck was inundated.

The U.S. Embassy identified the U.S. citizens as Marvin Robert, 30; his wife, Magney, 27; their three children — Priscilla, 3; Marla, 2; and Dustin, five months; and Lena Robert, 33, whose relationship to the other family members was not immediately known.

Embassy officials could not provide the hometowns of the Americans. A spokesman said they belonged to what he called "the Witness Church" and had been carrying out an evangelical campaign in the Dominican Republic.

The dead Dominicans were identified by authorities as Ramona Lopez Perez, 28, and two children, Magaly Lopez, 5, and Raquel Encarnacion, 3.

Authorities said Robert apparently attempted to drive the truck through a rain-swollen river near the village of Las Matas de Farfan, about 185 miles west of Santo Domingo near the border with Haiti.

The river is normally passable, but heavy rains had been reported in the area over the past few days, authorities said.

Three from Lamesa go to Boys State

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — While state legislators took a break Friday from the special session, 1,000 teenage boys converged on the Capitol for their own version of lawmaking.

During their mock session, participants in the Texas 1984 American Legion Boys State had another thing in common with actual state legislators — they heard Gov. Mark White promote his efforts for educational reform.

Participating from the Big Spring area were Ricky Guzman, Gilbert Arrendondo, and Michael Schildknecht, from Lamesa.

Boys State is a government and citizenship program for "highly motivated, concerned, energetic, dedicated, and talented" high school boys, said Dr. Firman Haynie, director. The program is held annually at the University of Texas.

The program is set up as a mythical 51st state with a constitution, statutes, and ordinances constructed by Boys State participants, so they can govern themselves, Haynie said. The fictitious state is divided up into 21 cities, eight counties, and four districts.

Each youth is assigned to a city as well as to one of two political parties — Nationalist or Federalist. Then the political process is enacted in every step, from precinct to county to state conventions, with boys running for offices at each level of government. "A kid that goes through this program gets more experience in the political system than the average adult gets in his entire lifetime," Haynie said.

"I've seen 20,000 boys come through this program and most of them are very successful in their chosen field," he said. "The House and Senate at the Capitol are speckled with ex-Boys Staters."

The boys must be sponsored by a local American Legion post and must be a junior in high school to come to Boys State, Haynie said. High school faculties are usually left in charge of choosing their schools' representatives, he said.

"It showed me that politicians have to be respected for all the things they have to go through to represent the people," said Schildknecht, a Lamesa High School junior. "I don't think I could handle a state office after what I've seen, but I would like to hold another office."

On Friday, the last of the program's six days, the participants visited the Capitol and took part in a joint legislative session, during which White told them: "I know that the issues we are speaking about (in the special session) involve you — you are at the tail end of your education...and that's what we're trying to improve."

Like magic

The new building on 7th and Gregg, behind the Herald, will open about June 15 as Photo Magic. Owned by the Ray Walker family, it will be managed by daughter Carla Walker Harrold. Offering a photography studio, video-taping and other products and services related to photography, one of the major attractions will be the super quick service in film processing and enlargements done on-site.

According to Cheri Sparks, vice president for Student Services at Howard College, the school will formally become the sponsor of Mariah, the marching color guard formally associated with the high school. It will also become the center for the Spring City Theatre, which is merging with the college thespians.

Just as the NAACP kicked off its local membership drive this week, President Dock Voorheis learned some good news. The Big Spring Chapter sponsored four high schoolers to the African Cultural, Technical, and Scientific Olympics held in Lubbock. All four won top awards:

- Chandra Wrightsil — music
- Joi Tate — writing
- Sara Stephens — essay
- Michael Walker — drama.

Michelle Hall has taken over the Ackerly fireworks franchise from Sheri Perry. It is located on Avenue E with a full line of fireworks.

Texas First Faceters Fair is being held in Big Spring this weekend. This will bring into the city about 200 people from all over the nation. Even though Texas has a large number of gem enthusiasts and many who specialize in faceting, there has never been a Skate Show.

The general public may learn more about this, see displays and exhibits and even purchase polished stones by visiting the coliseum this weekend.

Finally, after months of working on it, Big Spring will have a rape crisis volunteer training seminar. There will be two all-day counselor training sessions in August and a session to train counselor trainers in September. Mary Kenny and Gail Earls have been in charge of this project for the Blue Blazers and are bringing Judy Edwards, an Austin professional, here Aug. 11 and Aug. 18. All women — and men — who wish to be trained as a rape crisis counselor can get in touch with me at 263-1451 for more information.

Area school teachers have been working, as part of their in-service requirements, in summer workshops. With 48 different offerings on the campus of Howard College by specialized consultants, already approximately 150 teachers and teachers aides have been enrolled. We often overlook how hard our teachers work to stay up with changes and continually hone their skills. Just two of several workshops still available for sign-up shows the diversity of the workshop topics:

- Teaching Children How to Develop Personal Responsibility (June 19)
  - Teaching About Drug Abuse (Aug. 1)
- For more information about these or any of the summer course offerings call 263-6311, extension 213.

The Howard County Amateur Radio Association is providing a critical service to this area by supplying voluntary communications in emergency situations such as weather disasters. Bill Alexander and Rafoed Dunagan coordinate this project with the law enforcement agencies, Red Cross, National Weather Service, city and county officials.

Southland boss may face new bribery trial

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal prosecutors have until June 20 to decide whether to seek a new trial against S. Richmond Dole, a top executive of the Southland Corp. who allegedly conspired to bribe a New York state tax official in the late 1970s.

U.S. District Judge Charles P. Sifton of Brooklyn declared a mistrial Monday after a jury in its eighth day of deliberations reported it was still deadlocked.

The same panel decided late Friday, its seventh day of deliberations, that the Dallas-based corporation — parent of the 7-Eleven chain of convenience stores — was guilty of conspiring to defraud the Internal Revenue Service in connection with the plot.

Eugene Mastropieri, a former New York City councilman whom prosecutors said masterminded the bribery scheme, was also convicted Friday of conspiring to bribe a state tax official.

Southland, which faces a $10,000 fine when Sifton sentences the firm on July 27, contended Monday the conviction does not pose a threat to 7-Eleven's $700 million business selling beer and wine, an activity from which many states bar convicted felons.

Prosecutors said the bribery scheme began in 1977 when Southland hired Mastropieri to help resolve a state sales tax dispute that threatened to cost the firm up to $1 million.

Former Southland Vice President Eugene DeFalco, the prosecution's chief witness, said Mastropieri told him that resolving the problem might involve "heavy entertainment expenses," which DeFalco interpreted to mean a bribe.

After a meeting in early 1977 in which DeFalco said Dole outlined the "entertainment" plan to Southland Chairman John P. Thompson, the company issued a $96,500 check to Mastropieri. The money ended up in several Canadian bank accounts.

DeFalco testified the scheme collapsed without any bribe being offered or any target being identified, and that he embezzled most of the money.

The defense argued the bribe scheme never existed and that the entire operation was an embezzlement scheme by DeFalco. DeFalco pleaded guilty to a conspiracy charge last fall and is awaiting sentencing.

The jury did not find that Southland was responsible for initiating the bribe scheme, but that it did act illegally by later concealing the true nature of the $96,500 payment from the IRS.

The potential $10,000 fine would be tiny when compared to Southland's $8.8 billion in annual sales. But during the trial Assistant U.S. Attorney Gregory Wallace suggested that a conviction could cost the company "tens of millions of dollars" in lost beer and wine sales if states revoke 7-Eleven's liquor licenses.

Thompson testified last month, however, that there are only "a few states where there might be a problem" if the firm was convicted. On Monday, Southland general counsel John H. Rodgers contended the conviction would have "no material impact" on company finances.

"We have surveyed each of the states where we sell beer or wine or a combination of the two," Rodgers said. "The potential impact just varies completely across the board. It will vary sometimes on a county-by-county basis. We were unable to identify any states where it was absolutely automatic that we are going to lose our (liquor) license."

Gulf of Mexico rig activity picks up

HOUSTON (AP) — Rig activity in the Gulf of Mexico rose 2.6 percent last week, reversing a four-week decline, an industry research firm reported.

The rate of active rigs in the Gulf last week was 84.8 percent or 206 rigs, compared to 82.2 percent or 200 active rigs a week earlier, Offshore Data Services reported. Idles rigs in the Gulf totaled 37 last week, compared to 43 for the previous week, the company's figures showed.

Offshore Data has predicted 90 percent of rigs in the Gulf will be active by the end of the year.

Nationwide, active rigs totaled 2,361, up from 2,328 the previous week and from 1,986 a year ago, Hughes Tool Co. reported Monday.

Hughes Tool said 855 rigs were working in Texas last week, up from 841 a week earlier and 709 a year ago.

McIlhenny decides against pro career

DALLAS (AP) — Former Southern Methodist quarterback Lance McIlhenny says he's given up on the idea of pursuing a professional football career.

McIlhenny, who guided the Mustangs to a 35-5-1 record, two Southwest Conference crowns and three post-season bowl appearances after taking over midway through his freshman year, said Tuesday that he's decided against trying out as a free agent in the National Football League.

Dallas, Denver, Atlanta and Green Bay had expressed interest in signing him to a contract, McIlhenny told the Dallas Times Herald.

McIlhenny said he knew it was time to retire when he started thinking of playing football only for the money.

"If I did go (to pro football), it would have been for the wrong reasons," he said. "I was considering it for the money part of it, and I didn't want to play football for the money. If I played, it would be because I like to play the game."

McIlhenny also said the idea of going "out there and get beat around as a free agent trying to make the ball club didn't make any sense."

"I've been reasonably injury free, and I can still play golf and still go skiing and do the things I like to do," he said. "It was fun, but everything has to come to an end."

HC sets boys camp

Hawk Queens get transfer from UTSA

Stacey Eitner, a transfer from the University of Texas at San Antonio, is the latest recruit inked by Howard College women's basketball coach Don Stevens.

The 5-11 Eitner from Anchor Bay High School in New Baltimore, Michigan will be a valuable inside force according to Stevens who said, "Stacey should offer us additional size and aggressiveness under the basket." He added, "Shoring up our inside depth has been a major priority in my recruiting plans and with her experience in that area Stacey should provide us with a strong and balanced attack both offensively and defensively."

Eitner saw limited action for a much experienced UTSA team, but is a real find based on statistics from ABHS.

Eitner lettered on the varsity track level all four years and was earned two letters in basketball in addition to earning first team All-Eastern Michigan League and Blue Water League selections as well as her school's MVP. She averaged 15 points and 10 rebounds per game during her senior year at ABHS and posted a high game of 26 points and 13 rebounds.

Martin County residents share their favorite recipes

By RHONDA WOODALL
Lifestyle Writer

Residents of Martin County are celebrating their Centennial, July 7-14. Community activities for the centennial began June 2 and included a tasting tea, June 3, and a bake-off, June 9.

The Martin County women also have several upcoming activities planned. All Martin County Belle chapters will have a box supper at Shelburne Park, at 6:30 p.m., June 21. A tea will be held at the Community Center, July 10. An barbecue, at 6:30 p.m., and an ice cream parlor, July 14, will be part of the Centennial final day's activities.

The ladies of Martin County have put together a Centennial cookbook. Recipes from the cookbook follow.

1 medium-sized onion, chopped
½ cup red chile sauce

Ice bowl servers are cool & classy

Summer get-togethers are casually cool and extremely easy when shrimp cocktail and fresh fruit are served in festive bowls of ice and flowers. Creating these frosty centerpieces is a snap.

Place a layer of ice cubes on the bottom of a large glass bowl. Center a smaller glass bowl on top of the cubes, using a food can or other weight to hold it down. Rim of small bowl should be about one inch above rim of large bowl. Half-fill space between bowls with ice. Tape bowls together securely with freezer tape, then pour water into large bowl to about 1½ inches below rim.

Arrange rosebuds or other flowers in ice water, adding greenery such as boxwood. Top arrangement with ice cubes to keep it in place. Put bowls in freezer and pour water to rim of large bowl. Freeze at least 24 hours.

To unmold: Remove from freezer, remove tape. Let stand on countertop until bowls can be removed. Store in freezer until party.

Serving note: Place plastic wrap in bottom of ice bowl to keep shrimp or fresh fruit dry as bowl melts.
