Off the wall: Flag dame

MORROW, Ohio (AP) — Garnette Boothby won't have to do anything special today to celebrate Flag Day — for the last 16 years, she has never appeared in public dressed in anything but red, white and blue.

"I was always patriotic. I didn't know any other way to be," she said, explaining that she donned the colors of Old Glory when her nephew was in the Marines. "I just decided one day that I would wear red, white and blue until he (her nephew) came home. I put everything else up in the attic and never wore any of it again."

Although Michael Harper, her nephew, made it back safely, Mrs. Boothby, 64, still wears the colors.

Pereira under fire

Tax boss' job may be on line

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira's job performance will be an item for closed-door discussion at the July meeting of the Howard County Tax Appraisal District Board, board members agreed Wednesday afternoon.

After a two-hour Wednesday afternoon meeting in which audience members repeatedly called for the board to fire Pereira, members said they would probably include the item on the next agenda as a topic for executive session.

Emotions have run high against Pereira since his office released 1984 tax appraisals in May showing an overall increase in property values, and some specific increases of 100 percent. Most of the appraisal work was later overturned in favor of 1983 values.

Although a motion to adjourn the meeting had been made by Robert Roberson and seconded, board members stalled on the vote when the full house of spectators became upset and questioned the board about a prior motion on which no action was taken.

The motion in question was made by Harold Pearce, who moved that the board enter executive session to discuss personnel. Audience members, including Cecil Gilstrap, angered by the motion to adjourn, called on the board to have the county attorney rule on whether such a session was legal.

When County Attorney Bob Miller arrived at the meeting, he informed them an executive session on personnel would be illegal because the agenda did not clearly state a reason for an executive session.

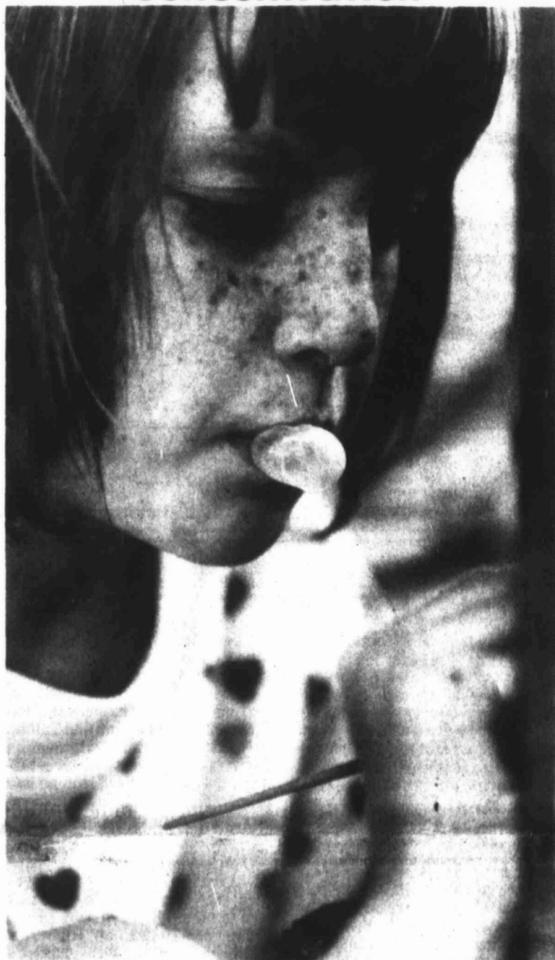

Most of the session was taken by audience comments, which centered on Pereira's requirement that county residents file homestead exemptions every year and the frequency of reappraisals.

Although the state only requires residents to file homestead exemptions once, Pereira requires the exemptions be filed every year, under the authority of an attorney general's opinion placing the matter at the option of the chief appraiser.

Pereira defended his policy to require yearly filing of homestead exemptions, saying the annual filings enable him to keep closer track on changes in ownership of property.

Defendant takes stand in drug trial

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

ABILENE — Harold Gaida "Guy" Talbot of Big Spring took the witness stand today in his own defense in a federal court drug trial here.

Talbot, 37, is president of Talco Inc., an electronics security firm at 701 FM 700. He was an investigator for the 118th District Attorney's office from January 1973 to June 1976, according to court testimony.

He is charged in a five-count indictment alleging both distribution and conspiracy to distribute cocaine between Nov. 10, 1981 and April-May 1983.

Judge Hal Woodward is presiding in the case, which is expected to go to the jury today.

Talbot used records from his security business to support his testimony this morning on his whereabouts during the dates detailed in his indictment.

Talbot also described his business relationship with Donnie Reagan of Abilene, a distant cousin of Talbot's, with whom he entered a business venture for buying and selling jewelry and guns in 1981-82. Talbot said the relationship began to deteriorate when Reagan deposited into his own account money from a $50,000 line of credit Talbot had set up for the business.

The relationship got to a point where "it was more than animosity between us," Talbot said. He said it is "ridiculous to think I would be selling him cocaine when he owed me $50,000."

Talbot is alleged to have delivered 1 ounce of cocaine to Reagan on Dec. 2, 1981. Defense attorney Ed Paynter of Abilene referred to telephone company records he had previously introduced as evidence. According to previous testimony by Reagan, the records show that two calls were made from the Talbot residence on Dec. 2, 1981, one to Reagan's business and another to his home.

Reagan testified Tuesday that he had made the calls himself from the Talbot home. Today, however, Talbot said he had made the calls, not reaching Reagan at either number because Reagan was "ducking me."

Talbot also refuted the claim of prosecution witness Larry Clawson of Coahoma, an oilfield supervisor, that Talbot sold about 2 grams of cocaine to Clawson on Dec. 31, 1981 between noon and 6 p.m.

Talbot testified that he and his wife had gone to a liquor store that day to deliver a bid for a security system and after that went to the Big Spring Country Club to decorate for a New Years eve party. Talbot said that at 5:30 p.m. they realized they were "running late" and went home to dress for a

Hispanics blast immigration bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hispanic leaders both in and out of Congress predict a House decision making it a crime to hire illegal aliens will fail to deter foreigners from sneaking across the border to get jobs.

"As long as people are hungry and starving, they're going to get here," said Rep. Robert Garcia, D-N.Y., a foe of the sweeping immigration control bill that has been the focus of bitter argument this week in the chamber.

The House turned its back Wednesday on a proposal by congressional Hispanics that would have stripped the heart from the legislation — fines against employers that hire, recruit or refer undocumented workers for employment in the United States.

The decision came on a 304-120 vote against a proposal by Rep. Edward Roybal, D-Calif. He wanted to spend up to $30 million to beef up existing labor laws in order to keep employers from using and exploiting undocumented laborers, rather than imposing penalties.

Sponsors of the bill hold that if employers are threatened with warnings and fines, they will not supply the jobs that tempt impoverished foreigners to cross borders without permission. At the present time, it is against the law to be in the country without the proper permission, but it is not unlawful to hire such a person.

The Hispanic bloc has fought the employer sanctions, charging they would lead employers to discriminate against any foreign-looking person out of fear of being penalized.

Garcia, the chairman of the Hispanic Caucus, admitted that "the tide has turned against us" on the bill, which he insisted "is not going to work."

Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Texas, said the penalties would have no effect on illegal immigration, which he said is caused by poverty south of our border.

"Unless we're prepared to station a soldier every three yards and build a fence to boot all along the 2,000-mile border, illegal immigration will continue," Gonzalez said.

"There is an unbelievable obsession in the House that sanctions (against employers) are a panacea," said Arnaldo Torres, executive director of the League of United Latin American Citizens.

Torres suggested that contrary to the notion that U.S. jobs are the magnet that draws most illegals across the border, in actuality the pressure that makes them move is the poverty in their homelands.

"The pressures are so great that people will come here no matter what law is on the books," he said.

It is not known exactly how many aliens are in the country, but most estimates hold that there are between 3 million and 6 million. Last year, the Immigration and Naturalization Service apprehended more than 1.2 million aliens.

Keeping CLEAN

Teens tidy up Big Spring's past

By JIM BROWN
Staff Writer

Teens are tidying up the past. CLEAN crews — kids doing summer clean-up work — have begun removing trash and debris from around one of Big Spring's designated historic homes. The home, located at 510 Gregg, is currently owned by former District Attorney Bob Moore.

Once marked by a hand carved totem pole now on permanent display at the Heritage Museum, the Covert-Shick home has a colorful history.

Nat Shick was perhaps the house's best know resident. Shick and his wife, Holly Covert, made the house their home for many years. Shick served as Big Spring Postmaster for several decades and carved the colorful totem poles, which have since become symbols of civic pride, as a hobby.

Lillian Shick Dawson, who sold the house after her parents' death, said the condition of the house so distressed her that she no longer drove down Gregg Street; she wanted to avoid seeing the old home.

"It hurts when something that was so beautiful and that you remember so fondly is in such sad shape," she said. "I'm awfully glad that someone cares enough to have the house and grounds cleaned and the debris hauled away."

Mrs. Dawson recalls that her mother told her that fences were once necessary to keep cattle from coming into the yard.

History buffs note that the Shick-Covert wedding day saw white cheese cloth stretched along the bridal path from the home to the First Baptist Church several blocks away.

The house, which has a basement, has been remodeled and added on to several times. Many of the original square nails that were used in the late 1890s to build the house remain.

HISTORIC HOME CLEANED — Member of CLEAN remove debris from the Covert-Shick home on Gregg Street. The house, built before the turn of the century, has been vacant several years.

Weather

Rain washes W. Texas

By The Associated Press
Widespread showers and thunderstorms brought welcome relief to dried-out areas of West Texas before dawn today.

The rain, which extended before dawn from the mouth of the Pecos River northward through the South Plains and Panhandle, developed Wednesday night. The heaviest activity was reported to the west of Andrews.

Thunderstorms developed around El Paso late Wednesday and spawned a rarity for the area — a tornado warning. The warning was issued about 8 p.m. MDT when radar at the El Paso International Airport showed a funnel cloud dangling from a heavy thunderstorm, the National Weather Service said.

It was the first such warning in the El Paso area in four years, the weather service said. The tornado apparently did not touch ground and no damage was reported, authorities said.

In eastern Bexar County, more than 100 homes were damaged late Wednesday when a thunderstorm unleashed winds estimated at 50 to 75 miles per hour. No injuries were reported, but Bexar County Sheriff's Sgt. Ray Gerlach said the high winds damaged windows, roofs and fences in the Woodlake Country Club area.

Country club employee Bob Hey said the force of the winds bent three flag poles, ripped off part of the tennis pro shop roof and snapped several mesquite trees.

"It (rain) came blowing up against the windows so hard you couldn't see out of them," said Hey, who was inside the clubhouse when the storm hit. "The wind was moving lawn furniture around on the patio. I had not seen rain like that since I was in a hurricane."

Board

In defense of Pereira, board chairman Billy T. Smith said, "I was not aware it was such a burden to sign a paper and put it in an envelope."

Pereira also came under fire for the frequency of appraisals. While state law only requires appraisals to be performed every four years, the policy set by the Howard County board requires appraisals at two-year intervals.

In response to comments by Gilstrap, who called the money spent on this year's reappraisal "wasted," and asked how many more mistakes the district could afford, Board Chairman Billy T. Smith said, "I don't know whether it was wasted. A lot of it will be used (to determine values of new construction)."

Audience members also questioned Pereira on how he could appraise their property without visiting it. "I know you haven't been to my property," Gilstrap told Pereira. "I've got three pit bull dogs waiting on you."

One member of the audience, angered when Roberson made the motion to adjourn as the audience threatened to get unruly, said, "This man (Roberson) wants to adjourn ... What you want to do is keep pushing it back and pushing it back until we accept it (referring to appraisals and Pereira). We're not going to accept it."

Among barbs directed toward Pereira were remarks by Lloyd Murphy, a self-described World War II veteran, who said, "I'll give him three hours, three days, four days to get out (of the county)... because some old fellow he's hurt real bad is liable to hurt him."

He insisted to board members "the reason I'm up here today is to tell the board to get rid of this man. I want him out of this county. I want him out."

In other action: Board members agreed to amend the minutes of the last meeting. Directors Pearce and D.D. Johnston said they abstained from voting on a resolution that would substitute 1983 valuations for 1984 appraisals.

The minutes indicated that Pearce and Johnston voted against the motion.

The board also accepted the 1983 audit, covering Jan. 1, 1983 to Dec. 31, 1983, from accountant Max Green.

The report indicates the district spent $120,600 more than it received in revenues during 1983. Revenue sources are all the taxing entities located in the county. An approximate $50,000 excess expenditure was budgeted.

Woman on Tulsa St. shot, police say

An unidentified woman was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital about noon today suffering from what police said was a gunshot wound to the head.

Police were called to 632 Tulsa near the intersection of Stadium and Tulsa. According to one of the woman's neighbors, Mrs. William McMahon, the woman works for the city's water department.

Police would not give any details surrounding the incident.

Mrs. McMahon said the woman's first name is Norma. She said she did not know her last name.

The woman's medical condition was unknown at press time.

Canterbury contact signing delayed

Officials with the Canterbury Apartments in Big Spring expect to sign a contract Tuesday for $2.5 million in federal loans to build an additional retirement home complex.

O.C. Shapland, director of the board, said the meeting with Department of Housing and Urban Development representatives in Dallas was postponed from today until next week because the agency had not completed the loan documents.

Trial

dinner engagement before the party.

Two witnesses called Wednesday by Paynter addressed testimony by Howard County farmer Dan Patterson. The two said they knew Patterson and met him occasionally at the Greenhouse, 1102 Scurry, a Big Spring private club.

William Jack Watson, 26, a truck driver who was indicted June 6 by a 118th District Court grand jury on a charge of burglary, said Patterson admitted to him that he lied to the FBI about Talbot. Patterson said "he had no choice because of the pressure they (the FBI) put on him to tell them what they wanted to know," according to Watson.

David Terry, 28, owner of two out-of-town fast food franchises, testified Wednesday that Patterson told him on Feb. 9 that he had been contacted by the FBI and Patterson "seemed anxious for them to leave him alone."

Watson also testified to an early August 1983 meeting with Big Spring police Sgt. Bill Price and Department of Public Safety officer Mike Dawson. Watson said they offered to pay him and intervene in his probation proceedings — he was on probation for a DWI conviction — if he bought cocaine from Talbot with money they provided.

"They said it could make or break my probation," Watson said. Under cross-examination by Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Stephens, Watson acknowledged that he did not know of any FBI involvement in the offer. Stephens did not question Watson about his recent indictment.

Testifying in Talbot's behalf Wednesday was assistant 118th District Attorney Don Richard. Richard said that Clawson had "a reputation for untruthfulness."

Richard also said that Keith Bristow, an independent oil operator in Big Spring, told him he had lied to FBI agents in a statement about Talbot's drug involvement.

According to Richard, Bristow said he had to "make something up" when he talked to the FBI. He told Richard he tied his statement about a cocaine purchase from Talbot to the 1983 Signal Peak Golf Tournament, "a day that Guy could handle."

Richard said the comments came at Bristow's residence where he had been invited "to drink wine" three weeks after the Talbot indictment was handed down.

Richard also testified about "ill feeling" between prosecution witness Donnie Reagan and Talbot. He said he based his judgment on the 1981-82 business venture between the two. Richard said he had prepared the contracts for the venture and had acted as a "go-between" when the enterprise fell apart.

"Ill feeling between the two was such that they couldn't even talk face to face," Richard said.

The remainder of Richard's testimony dealt with Talbot's whereabouts during the periods of time specified in Talbot's indictment.

Other "alibi" witnesses were Talbot's mother, Mrs. Harold Talbot; his wife, Paula Talbot; his cousin and manager of the Dewitt County Gauda estate ranch, Frank Gauda; and friends, Dr. and Mrs. Dick Stanley and Mrs. Wally Slate, all of Big Spring, and Kay McDaniel of Kerville.

Visibly distraught while on the stand, Talbot's mother was taken to a local hospital after finishing her testimony, Talbot said during a court recess.

During the testimony of each witness, evidence was introduced — including gasoline and merchandise receipts, party invitations and personal photographs — to attempt to account for Talbot's whereabouts during the times cited on the indictment.

Jurors passed some 25 pieces of evidence from hand to hand as Mrs. Talbot told them of children's birthday parties, trips to the family ranch, charity functions, private Christmas parties and "dinner club" get togethers.

The charges against Talbot are: Conspiracy to possess cocaine, with intent to distribute it, between Nov. 10, 1981, and Dec. 15, 1981, and again on Feb. 5, 1982.

Distribution of an ounce of cocaine to Donnie Reagan on Dec. 2, 1981.

Distribution of 2 grams of cocaine to Larry Clawson on Dec. 31, 1981.

Distribution of one-quarter ounce of cocaine to Keith Bristow between mid April and early May 1983.

Restraining order prevents Fiberflex from paying lawyer

Retired 118th District Court Judge Ralph Caton Wednesday afternoon granted a temporary injunction that prevents the management of Fiberflex Inc. from paying any attorneys' fees to a Dallas lawyer representing the company's patent attorney in a fraud suit.

The ruling, which favors a group led by Charles "Chris" Christopher trying to gain control of a majority of Fiberflex stock, prevents the corporation from paying an estimated $17,000 of legal fees to Dallas attorney John Skrhak's firm.

Christopher's group was required to post a $15,000 bond. Fiberflex corporate lawyers had asked for a $75,000 bond.

Skrhak represents Fiberflex patent attorney Guy Matthews in the court battle surrounding the takeover bid by Christopher and a group of original shareholders.

Fiberflex president Tommy Rutledge had told Matthews the corporation would pay the attorney's fees because Matthews' suit was in the interest of the corporation.

Skrhak would not comment on the ruling.

A central issue in the case focuses on Matthews, who entered the suit as an intervenor. He claims Sam Spikes and Billy Massingill, former Fiberflex directors who are members of Christopher's group, used fraud in an attempt to purchase 20,000 shares of stock from Matthews by saying that the shares would not be the swing bloc of stock, when in fact they were.

Christopher has filed a cross-suit against Matthews, claiming Matthews tried to defraud him by selling him the stock when Matthews had already signed a multiple-year voting rights agreement with Tommy and Russell Rutledge, co-founders of the business. Tommy Rutledge is the company's president; Russell Rutledge is a vice president.

Police Beat

Death ruled accidental

A 35-year-old Big Spring man died accidentally Wednesday afternoon at his house, according to police reports.

Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin ruled Preston McNeese of 1005 E. 15th died of an accident at about 2:40 p.m. Wednesday.

Heflin would not describe the nature of the accident.

A 39-year-old Big Spring man was injured Wednesday night in a motorcycle accident when he lost control of his 1981 Yamaha in the 2100 block of Fourth Street.

William Leslie Estes, 39, of 1400 Harding remains in critical condition today with multiple trauma in Medical Center Hospital in Odessa, according to a Medical Center nursing supervisor.

Estes was transferred to the Odessa hospital from Malone-Hogan Hospital where he was admitted last night in critical condition, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Estes was taken to Malone-Hogan by Shaffer Ambulance after the accident, which occurred at 8:42 p.m.

According to police reports, Estes was travelling east in the 2200 block of W. Fourth "at a very high rate of speed." Witnesses told police he lost control as he entered the curve on the 2100 block, about 250 feet east of Highway 80, and struck the southwest curb of a private driveway. He began rolling end over end and was thrown off the motorcycle, which traveled 64 more feet before coming to a stop, according to the police report.

Big Spring Police at 10 a.m. Wednesday morning arrested three Missouri men working at Motel 6 on armed robbery warrants issued from Lebanon, Mo.

Arrested were Kenneth L. Koster, 19, of Marshallfield, Mo.; Richard Palmer, 20, also of Marshallfield; and Richard Banks, also known as Richard Burns, 21, of Ashgrove, Mo.

Sheriff's Log

Odessa man arrested

Howard County sheriff's deputies Wednesday arrested a 38-year-old Odessa man on a warrant for revocation of probation for driving while intoxicated.

Johnny Larry Merrick was released from county jail on $1,000 personal recognition bond set by County Judge Milton Kirby.

Deputies also arrested Leslie McCurtain, 24, of 2300 Morrison on a peace bond warrant. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Deputies about 1:30 a.m. today also found a broken glass door on the south side of the U.S. Post Office in Coahoma.

Deaths

Preston McNeese

Preston Quinn McNeese, 35, died Wednesday. Services will be at 4 p.m. Friday at Trinity Baptist Church. Dr. Claude N. Craven, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

He was born May 28, 1949 in Big Spring. He was a member of Trinity Baptist Church. He was a veteran of the U.S. Army and served in Vietnam. He was born and raised in Big Spring, attended Big Spring Schools and graduated from Big Spring High School in 1967. He graduated from North Texas State University in Denton with a bachelor of arts degree. He was currently employed by the Spring City Do It Center.

Survivors include one daughter, Nicole McNeese of Plainview; one son, Paul McNeese of Hollis, Okla.; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.O. McNeese of Big Spring; and one sister, Tina Neal of Big Spring.

Deacons of Trinity Baptist Church will serve as pallbearers.

A tarnished silver throat

NEW YORK — Singer Frank Sinatra has canceled two concerts at Carnegie Hall because of a sore throat, a spokesman said.

Sinatra canceled the shows on Wednesday night and tonight "upon the insistence of his physician, who strongly advised him not to perform because of a sore throat," said spokesman Len Rosen.

Sinatra began a 13-night engagement on June 4. He expects to perform in this weekend's shows, which are sold out, and end his run on Sunday as planned, Rosen said.

FRANK SINATRA

Have ants, will picnic

AUSTIN — Country singer Willie Nelson says he'll stage a July 4 concert in Austin, continuing the annual holiday "picnic" shows he began in 1972.

This year's concert will be held at the 11-acre South Park Meadows. Also performing will be Waylon Jennings, Jessie Colter, Kris Kristofferson, Leon Russell, Joe Ely, David Allen Coe, Moe Bandy, Jerry Jeff Walker, Gary Busey and others, the promoters said.

"The places we've had to have the picnic before were not the best places in the world to have one," Nelson said Wednesday. "There were neighbors. Those people... have a right to be a little concerned if they wake up to see 50,000 hippies in their front yard."

WILLIE NELSON

Mother would be proud

SENECA FALLS — Mother Jones, the fiery leader in the struggle to organize coal miners and other workers in the early 1900s, will be inducted into the National Women's Hall of Fame in New York, the organization said.

The Hall of Fame, a private organization founded in 1979, has inducted more than 30 women.

Mother Jones, born Mary Harris Jones in 1830 in Ireland, died in 1930. She will be inducted on July 21, the organization said Wednesday.

Reagan backs drinking bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration says it supports legislation designed to prod states into adopting a minimum drinking age of 21.

Transportation Secretary Elizabeth H. Dole said at a news conference Wednesday that the administration now believes the federal government should play a role in encouraging states to adopt a uniform drinking age, in an effort to reduce highway fatalities.

Sen. Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., had said late Tuesday that he had received a telephone call from Mrs. Dole in which she assured him the administration was now behind his bill.

"We must raise the drinking age to 21 in all of our states to protect all of our people," Mrs. Dole said. "I have no higher priority than safety."

Supporters of the Lautenberg measure said they welcomed the president's support, but questioned why the administration had waited months to actively back the increasingly popular proposal.

Rep. James Howard, D-N.J., sponsor of an identical bill that was approved by the House last Thursday, stood by as Mrs. Dole made her announcement and was heard to say, "About time."

In response to a question, Mrs. Dole said the administration was moving now because momentum in the states to increase drinking ages was slowing. She said 19 states had rejected attempts this year to increase their legal drinking ages to 21.

In December 1982, the Presidential Commission on Drunk Driving recommended that state laws be changed to raise the legal drinking age to 21 to reduce highway deaths.

Until Wednesday, the administration has said the decision to raise the drinking age should be left to the states.

The Howard and Lautenberg legislation would give states two years to raise their drinking ages to 21.

PROTEST — Police restrain demonstrators after the Dutch parliament voted to accept on a conditional basis U.S. missiles as part of NATO's European defense.

Dutch decision

Parliament votes to accept U.S. missiles

THE HAGUE — Parliament today approved a Cabinet decision to conditionally accept U.S. nuclear missiles as much as two years later than NATO's schedule, capping a debate that has split the nation for nearly five years.

The decision was a compromise between domestic anti-missile forces and Holland's NATO allies — who pressed strongly for deployment of all 48 cruise missiles, part of 572 the allies plan to place in Western Europe as a counter to existing Soviet weapons.

The 150-member legislature took no direct vote on the government's June 1 decision, but approved it by rejecting several modifying motions.

The Netherlands becomes the first NATO nation to back away from the NATO schedule for deploying the missiles in five countries.

It set a 1988 deadline for deploying the weapons, which had been scheduled for deployment starting in 1986. It said it would reduce the number of missiles if the United States and Soviet Union reach an arms control pact. And it left open the possibility that the Dutch may not deploy any of the missiles at all.

Premier Ruud Lubbers, whose center-right coalition government forged the plan, said before the vote that his government would not deploy any missiles if the Soviet Union does not add to the number of SS-20 nuclear rockets it had placed in Europe by June 1.

Lubbers' Cabinet announced June 1 that if there were no superpower arms limitation agreement by Nov. 1, 1985, and if the Soviet Union had added to its own missile force, then all 48 NATO missiles would be stationed in the Netherlands.

If a U.S.-Soviet pact is achieved, the government said, the Netherlands would accept "its share" of the cruise missiles. That number wasn't specified, but it presumably could be less than 48.

The primary modification that the Parliament voted down would have linked the number of missiles deployed in the Netherlands to NATO's efforts at arms limitation, as well as to Soviet actions.

A motion by the opposition Labor Party, also rejected, called for a government assessment by Nov. 1, 1985, of how the Netherlands could contribute to reducing nuclear weaponry.

Lubbers has been under strong pressure from his allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to abide by the 1979 missile deployment plan. He said backing out of the agreement "would estrange the Netherlands from the allies."

State Department press officer Joanne Reams said in Washington that the United States had nothing to add to the comments it had made earlier on the Dutch decision.

Following the Cabinet's action on June 1, State Department spokesman Brian Carlson said the United States was "disappointed that the government of the Netherlands has not decided now to go ahead with full implementation of its part in the December 1979 decision."

Bert de Vries, parliamentary leader of the Christian Democrats, warned during the debate, "If NATO is unable to carry out the 1979 double-track (deploy missiles while negotiating for arms control) decision, that will be perceived in Moscow as weakness." His party is part of the government coalition.

News in brief

Rebels take Americans

ANGOLA — Guerrilla forces of the Angolan rebel movement UNITA captured 11 Americans, Portuguese and Colombians during attacks on government troops in the southern African nation, a spokesman for the group said today.

The foreign workers were captured at the town of Quibala in central Kwanza-Sul province and they will be marched hundreds of miles to rebel bases in southern Angola, said UNITA spokesman Jarido Muecalia.

The UNITA rebels claimed to have killed 210 Angolan soldiers and 30 Cuban troops in battles in four provinces Wednesday. Forces of UNITA — the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola — suffered 15 killed and 32 wounded in the fighting at Quibala, he said.

Arabs sign defense pact

MANAMA — The foreign ministers of six Persian Gulf countries have agreed on joint action to protect their oil installations and their customers' tankers from attack, Prince Saud Al-Faisal of Saudi Arabia said today.

Without giving details, the Saudi foreign minister said three days of talks on how to keep world markets supplied with oil despite the Iran-Iraq war had produced agreement on combined action "surpassing expectation."

Iraq and Iran have attacked more than 40 ships in the gulf, making customers reluctant to enter the region and threatening to sharply erode the oil income of the gulf states.

Beirut fighting resumes

BEIRUT — Police said one woman was killed and a soldier was wounded in sporadic overnight clashes with mortars, rocket-propelled grenades and machine guns between Christian and Moslem militiamen on the southern outskirts of Beirut.

In a statement published by city newspapers today, former Prime Minister Saeb Salam called for a general strike in the capital until all militiamen pull out of the city with their weapons.

On Wednesday, top Sunni Moslem politicians and the community's spiritual leader, Grand Mufti Hassan Khaled, demanded that artillery and multiple rocket launchers be removed from Beirut and other population centers.

Salam set no date for the beginning of the strike and no response to his call was reported anywhere in the capital.

Pope grilled by Swiss

BERN — Pope John Paul II arrived in the Swiss capital today for two meetings with the nation's Protestant leaders after facing unusually tough questions from Swiss youths in Fribourg.

During the third day of a six-day trip to this Alpine nation, the Roman Catholic leader also was scheduled to meet with the Swiss Federal Council, the country's executive branch.

Olympic politics muddies Games

The idea of the Olympic Games is to bring the world's greatest athletes together so that they can test their skills against each other. It is not to provide a propaganda forum or a contest between nations, but that is how the Games are being used.

The original Greek Games were competitions among individuals. When they were revived in modern times, the testing of individual prowess was the goal of the Games. But rivalry between nations has dominated the events in recent years.

When the United States withdrew from the 1980 games, it was a political protest against the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. This year, the communist bloc nations have retaliated by withdrawing.

This should not mean that individual athletes from non-competing nations cannot compete. But the International Olympic Committee has ruled that athletes from boycotting nations are not eligible to enter as individuals.

Few athletes from boycotting countries would be able to come to Los Angeles for the Games. Those who would come, however, should be welcomed for their courage as well as their prowess. By refusing to allow these athletes to compete, the IOC has dealt another blow to the already battered Olympic spirit.

Steve Chapman

Wrong century

The prime fact of life in the nuclear age is that the United States and the Soviet Union are perpetual hostages to each other. They can annihilate us at any time; we can do the same to them. But the certainty that the enemy can respond to attack with hideous consequences deters either from using its weapons. This is the balance of terror.

No one likes living under the constant threat of incineration. Mutual deterrence may make for stability — the two most powerful enemies in history have been at peace, however uneasily, for 39 years since the invention of nuclear weapons. But it doesn't make for peace of mind.

So the hostages are always looking for ways out. Last year, President Reagan offered one. "What if free people could live secure in the knowledge that their security did not rest upon the threat of instant U.S. retaliation to deter Soviet attack; that we could intercept and destroy before they reached our own soil or that of our allies?" he asked.

It was an alluring vision, and the administration pressed ahead with it, proposing a $26 billion "Strategic Defense Initiative." But on May 23, the House of Representatives voted to bar anti-satellite weapons tests for one year, if the Soviets also refrain from testing.

The appeal of retreating behind invulnerable walls is hard to resist. But it ought to be resisted. In the grandiose scheme conceived by Reagan, it is doomed to failure. In less ambitious forms, it is unlikely to succeed and likely to prove costly and dangerous.

The idea of placing American cities under leakproof nuclear umbrellas is so far-fetched as to be impossible. There has never been a perfect defense — but nothing less will suffice here. If the defense managed the astounding feat of destroying 95 percent of the enemy's land-based warheads, the Soviets would still be able to kill 65 million Americans.

Using defenses with narrower objectives, such as protecting land-based missiles, probably won't work either. It will be cheaper for the Soviets to circumvent the defenses than for us to improve them.

The Soviets would be able to foil a defensive system by using decoy warheads to confuse it, designing warheads that can take evasive action, attacking its radars or "blinding" them with high-altitude nuclear explosions. And cruise missiles would make a defense against ballistic missiles irrelevant. All this just encompasses the problems in destroying missiles as they near their targets. The obstacles to destroying them at an earlier stage, which is critical to an effective defense, are even more daunting.

Fixed orbiting stations, set to blast Soviet missiles as soon as they're launched, are highly vulnerable to simple countermeasures like space mines, which would follow close by in the same orbit and detonate by remote control. Ground-based lasers, assuming they can ever be perfected, would rely on space-based mirrors that would be even easier to destroy.

Reagan's defensive system would be horrendously expensive — "many hundreds of billions of dollars would be needed," according to the Union of Concerned Scientists. Worse, it would run the risk of wrecking the nuclear balance. What is billed as a defensive undertaking will look to the Soviets like an attempt to gain the power to attack them without fear.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger says the chance that the Soviets would acquire a defensive system of their own is "one of the most frightening prospects" he can imagine. They will perceive our measures in the same way. If they think the U.S. is deploying an effective missile defense, they will have every reason to attack before it can be put into place.

The president's proposal only dramatizes his rejection of arms control, which remains the only hope for restraining nuclear competition. It would mean tearing up the existing Anti-Ballistic Missile treaty, spurning repeated Soviet offers to ban an arms race in space and, almost certainly, abandoning arms control. Once the U.S. tests its new anti-satellite weapons, it will be too late to turn back.

Like previous proposals, this one fails to alter the reality imposed by the existence of nuclear weapons. Nuclear defense, like unilateral disarmament, remains a delusion that will enhance rather than reduce the excruciating hazards of our time. Anyone who hopes to avoid those hazards, as Leon Trotsky said of people who yearn for peace and quiet, picked the wrong century to be born in.

Killer dolphins may be enlisted

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration was embarrassed earlier this year when it was revealed that the CIA had been directly involved in the mining of Nicaraguan harbors — without adequately informing congressional oversight committees.

Now there's a bizarre possibility that the Navy may be planning to take over the CIA's dirty work, using one of its least known weapons: trained dolphins. The hint of dolphin use off Nicaragua was contained in a secret directive sent out by the chief of naval operations. It ordered that "Navy Marine mammal capability" be expanded to include the Atlantic Ocean.

Does this portent flipped forays against Soviet bloc ships carrying munitions to the embattled Sandinista regime in Managua? The Navy won't say.

But dolphins do have certain advantages over CIA hirelings sowing mines from speedboats. They're smarter than a floating mine — and if they're captured, no amount of KGB-style interrogation can make them talk.

My sources suggest that the principal reason for deploying dolphins in the Atlantic, though, is to protect our own ships. The Navy has a substantial flotilla patrolling the Atlantic coast of Nicaragua, keeping an eye on the Sandinistas and on munitions shipments from Cuba and the Soviet Union.

Billy Graham

A little porno is too much

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you really think there is anything very harmful about magazines that are a bit pornographic? I'm talking about the kind of thing you can buy in almost every supermarket or drug store — not real bad stuff. I rather enjoy them and don't see anything wrong with it. — H.P.

DEAR H.P.: I do not agree with you at all. These appeal only to your selfish, lustful desires, and when you feed those desires, you are harming yourself morally and spiritually. Such things also are degrading to women — no matter what the publishers try to do otherwise — by treating them as objects for selfish gratification. They also degrade the gift of sex, which has been given to us by God and is to be used to glorify him within the commitment of marriage.

The Bible's standard is much different. It declares, "But among you there must not be even a hint of sexual immorality or of any kind of impurity... Nor should there be any obscenity, foolish talk or coarse joking, which are out of place" (Ephesians 5:3-4). One reason for this is because sex is not a toy, to be played with casually or selfishly. God also knows that when we deliberately feed our minds with this kind of thing we become that much more likely to commit open immorality.

Your question, however, indicates that you have never really thought about your own relationship with God. Why are you here? Are you here simply to have a good time, trying to do whatever you can to squeeze the most pleasure out of life? Many people live that way, but in the end they discover they have never found the lasting happiness and peace they desire.

No, you are here because God put you here, and the only lasting happiness in life is found when we turn to him and make him the foundation of our lives. Jesus said, "I have come that they may have life, and have it to the full" (John 10:10). Don't build your life on the false hopes of happiness apart from Christ. Christ came to make it possible for you to be reconciled to God. He wants to enter your life right now and show you the excitement of walking with God each day. Turn from your sins and the false path you are following, and turn to Christ. He will give you meaning and happiness you never dreamed possible.

Around The Rim

By KEELY COGHLAN

Ms. Clean

By KEELY COGHLAN

Sister Blanche would be disappointed in me, I know. I still can't keep a neat desk.

I try. I still remember her standing over me with a ruler, telling me that "Cleanliness (read keeping your desk neat) is next to godliness."

After the second time, I always finished her lecture for her: "And at this rate, young lady, you'll never reach sainthood."

I'm probably no nearer to canonization now than I was back in fifth grade. For Sister Blanche, who equated moral character and intelligence with how clean you could scrub a desk or a window, I will always be a failure.

She tried, I have to admit. Between Sister Blanche, my mother and the Proctor and Gamble commercials ("Honey you're a failure if you leave film on your waxed floors"), I should have awakened each morning panting to wash, mop and polish everything in sight.

To this day, I'd still rather read the dictionary or plot plat descriptions than mop a floor or do dishes.

I am a failure in more ways and to more persons than one.

My mother always tried to organize me into neat little notebooks and cubicles, but her systems usually lasted a grand total of a month before I reverted back to utter chaos.

Even today, she gets upset when she realizes the only time I correctly file my documents and receipts is when I'm moving. I'd try telling her the universe is decomposing, but she'd still tell me it wasn't an adequate excuse for not keeping a running total of your checking account.

I don't know why I'm so enamored with casual sloppiness. It might have started as a reaction to all the nuns and the teachers telling me to stand up straight, don't chew gum, and straighten your desk. It's a legacy that's outgrown its usefulness, I suppose, if it ever had any.

Lately, I've gotten tired of the nicknames my desk has acquired. My friends, when they are being polite, call it "the desk" or "the eyesore." I prefer the term "comfortable clutter."

I know better. I used to try to defend the clutter, at least in Catholic grade school, by saying I was a non-conformist and that I needed some distinct self-image to separate myself from the masses of navy plaid skirts and white blouses.

Now, I just give up when anyone talks about the piles of books and papers. I'm even thinking about making a serious attempt — as distinguished from a half-hearted effort — to organize things.

After the third time this year that I've managed to misplace a set of keys or my glasses, it's about time to start straightening things up. It's either that, or have my desk condemned as a fire hazard.

I think I'll have a feasibility study done first, though, before I act too hastily. Old habits are hard to change. As Scarlet O'Hara would say, "Tomorra. Ah! I'll think about it tomorra."

Trees and shrubs used for energy conservation

Ever since the Garden of Eden, living plants have been prized for the beauty they bring into our lives, foods they provide, clothing materials, screens for outdoor rooms, and so on. Lately, though, still another major benefit has become apparent: the value of trees and shrubs for energy conservation.

Heating and cooling authorities as well as landscape and nursery professionals have agreed on a number of ways the proper placement of trees and shrubs and vines and other living plants can reduce energy use — and energy costs. Some of these are being passed along by the American Association of Nurserymen — the national organization for the firms that grow, distribute and plan the environmental horticulture that graces our country. Her are five of their suggestions...

1. Plant deciduous shade trees (the varieties that shed their leaves in the winter) on the south and west sides of the "outdoor rooms" in your yard you'll be using in the summer. They'll help keep those "rooms" cooler — a sort of natural air conditioning.
2. The same kinds of fairly large growing deciduous trees planted about 15 feet apart and 15 feet from the house on the southern and western sides of the house, itself, will help to keep the inside cooler. One recent study showed that an 8-degree difference between shaded and unshaded wall surfaces is equivalent to a 30 percent increase in insulation value for the sheltered wall.

3. For winter energy savings, plant two or three rows of evergreen trees on the north and northwest sides of the home — a distance from the structure equal to about five to seven times their height. Tests have shown savings in heating energy costs as great as 30 percent with this kind of natural windbreak.

4. Screen your outdoor air conditioning condenser with shrubs on the eastern, southern and western sides. As much as 3 percent savings in the efficiency of the system can be accomplished by shading the condenser from summer sun.

5. Vines you plant to climb on southern and western walls will block summer sun to act as a natural energy-saving insulation, but be sure they're deciduous varieties so leaves are shed to let winter sun in. If your home is of wood, construct a trellis next to the walls and encourage the vines to grow on it to avoid rotting problems created by vines on wood.

Dear Abby

Mother thinks kids should be allowed to stay kids

DEAR ABBY: I very carefully select what my children watch on TV because I care what they hear and see. I will not allow people with low moral standards to influence my children's lives in any way.

We don't go to PG-rated movies because I don't believe in forcing my children into early maturity. If there is even a glimpse of something sexual they should not see — regardless of how brief — they are better off not seeing it.

It is very disturbing to know that many of my children's friends get to see PG and even R-rated movies, then they tell my children what they have seen. When I am within hearing distance I can stop the conversation, but there are times when I am not around; therefore, I am forced to tell them to refuse to listen to such talk when one of their friends starts in with it. If persistence prevails, then they are to leave that child alone.

I explain to my children that the child knows no better and the fault lies with the parents, which is unfortunate, as it makes that child an undesirable playmate.

You may not agree with me, but I can assure you that I am not alone.

CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your concern is commendable. Too many parents make no effort whatsoever to prevent their children from watching violence and vulgarity on TV, or attending PG-rated movies.

But when children go to school, there is no way for parents to censor what they hear from other children. In fact, what's forbidden is usually more attractive.

The most parents can do is to try to give their children as much wholesome guidance as possible, and trust them to make wise choices.

DEAR ABBY: I'm presently sharing an apartment with a friend I'll call Carol. She's getting married in three months, which will leave me with no place to live. I can't afford this apartment alone.

Carol feels terrible about leaving me out in the cold, so she's offered to let me move in with her and "Charlie" (her fiance) until I can make other living arrangements.

Here's the problem: Charlie has made some passes at me in the past, which makes me leery about moving in with them. What should I do? I've already told Carol I'd move in with them, and if I tell her I've changed my mind, she will be hurt and want to know why. Should I tell her about Charlie? (It would devastate her.) Or should I go against my Christian principles and lie?

THREE'S A CROWD DEAR CROWD: Tell Carol you've changed your mind. Simply say, "Three's a crowd." That's no lie.

Dr. Donohue

Mobility exercises help elderly

Dear Dr. Donohue: What can you do to help an elderly person regain lost mobility? Grandmother, who is 76, has always been active. Then she developed a touch of arthritis and has decided just to sit out the rest of her life. We know that if there are some simple exercises for her that she'd gain interest in them. Can you suggest some simple ones that would help an older person like her? We have a nurse who comes in to check her for us, and she says grandmother should be encouraged to walk. — Mrs. E. B.

You should encourage the maximum mobility possible. The more sedentary she becomes the more difficult will be any rehabilitation. The Swedish physician, Lars Lonnblad, suggests a series of daily exercises to help aging people regain mobility of limbs. Here are a few she might want to try:

- Seated on a chair with its edge at the bend of the knees, the person slowly elevates the lower part of the leg, trying not to raise the upper leg. The leg is held out with the knees extended, then it is slowly lowered to the starting position.

- Standing (preferably next to some support for the hands), the person alternately places weight on toes, then on the heels. A slow pace is important in doing this exercise. Dr. Lonnblad also recommends the technique of trying to pick up objects, such as pencils, with the toes.

- For hip muscles, the patient, standing, slowly raises the straightened leg backward, sideways and forward. Again, some support is advisable.

As muscles become stronger, the exercises may be made a bit more difficult. For example, for the seated leg-lift exercise, weights can be added to the ankles. The visiting nurse should be able to suggest others. If she'd care to study Dr. Lonnblad's exercises, they were printed in the February 1984 issue of the magazine Geriatrics.

Having trouble getting to sleep at night? In his new booklet Dr.

Donohue examines the insomnia problem and offers some ways to help you get your needed rest. For a copy of "Why Can't You Sleep?" send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has filed a tariff with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to make end user common line charges associated with Centrex CO service equal to those to be billed to Private Branch Exchange service. The Commission has suspended the proposed tariff until October 1, 1984, or before, and assigned the matter to Docket No. 5686.

The equalization of end user common line charges for Centrex CO service is to be accomplished by a reduction in Centrex service charges. The net effect of the Centrex service charge adjustment and an interstate end user common line charge will be an increase in total billing.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. LLOYD BENTSEN

Bentsen won't rule out VP spot

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said Wednesday he expects Gary Hart to be asked to team up with Walter Mondale on the Democratic presidential ticket, but the Texas senator stopped short of taking himself out of the running.

Bentsen is regularly mentioned as a possible running mate for Mondale, who has enough delegates to win the nomination at next month's convention. Former national Democratic Chairman Robert Strauss recently listed Bentsen, Gov. Mark White and House Majority Leader Jim Wright at the top of a list of potential Texas running mates for Mondale.

"There are a number of Texans who would be very good on the ticket. I certainly recommend that we need Texas and the best way to get it is to look at some of the people I just mentioned," Strauss said.

At his regular monthly news conference Wednesday, Bentsen said he could not make a decision without knowing what the job would be like.

"I'm certainly not interested, unless it was a responsible role where you feel you have some input," Bentsen said.

"I do remember that Lyndon Johnson was very unhappy in his role as vice president."

Mondale issued a statement Tuesday saying he would begin interviewing prospective running mates beginning next week.

McGovern endorses Mondale

WASHINGTON (AP) — George McGovern Wednesday endorsed Walter F. Mondale for president, saying he was convinced that the former vice president "will reverse the dangerous deterioration of Soviet-American relations and the drift towards war in Central America."

McGovern, who dropped out of the Democratic presidential race after poor showings in the early primaries, called on Democrats to unite behind Mondale and defeat President Reagan.

"It is imperative that the Democratic nominee be elected next November because Mr. Reagan does not have the philosophy, realism, or sense of history that can save us from war and economic danger."

McGovern said he was endorsing Mondale not only because he is "the likely nominee of the Democratic Party but also because I believe he will be a successful president."

He called Gary Hart "my special friend and former campaign manager" and said it was not easy for him to endorse Hart's chief rival. "Gary may not have won quite enough delegates to gain the nomination but he has won the support and admiration of many millions of Americans."

Compromise school plan proposes elected board

AUSTIN (AP) — A compromise education bill that bears the deep imprint of Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot's zeal for school reform was made public Wednesday by its sponsor, Rep. Bill Haley.

"Some people, I think, may feel like you could call it the mini-SCOPE bill, but, you know, we won a few things, too," said Haley, D-Center, a former teacher.

Haley, chairman of the House Public Education Committee, referred to Perot's Special Committee on Public Education, which submitted numerous recommendations for dramatic changes in the way schools operate.

The recommendations were presented as a solution to a statewide decline in students' classroom performances.

The central issue in the compromise would allow Gov. Mark White to appoint a 12-member State Board of Education, which itself would be scrutinized by a 10-member legislative panel.

The new board, replacing a 27-member elected board of education, would direct public schools until 1989. Board members then would be elected again — from 12 districts, not 27, Haley said.

"The proposal offers an opportunity for an experimental test of an appointed board's ability to implement major educational reform in this state," White said.

The governor, some lawmakers have said, put his political career on the line by calling the Legislature into a 30-day special session to raise taxes to fund higher teacher salaries and better public school education and highways.

Haley said the appointed board was put in the bill at the direction of House Speaker Gib Lewis, who stated that "a major stumbling block to the creation of meaningful public education reform legislation ... has been removed."

BILL HALEY

ROSS PEROT

Perot himself told the Legislature last week that an appointed board was absolutely essential to reform because the elected board was not doing its job.

Asked if he thought the compromise version would gain House approval, Haley said, "I don't know that it will sell." He said he expected many House members to "stay with their philosophy of an elected or appointed board."

Haley said he was satisfied with the bill's teacher pay scale, but had no overall cost on the proposed salary increases. He said he also was satisfied with provisions that would allow teachers to climb a "career ladder" by taking additional training.

Beginning teachers now get about $11,000 a year. White has proposed raising that salary to about $15,000 annually.

Haley said the bill toughens student academic requirements. As an example he said 70 would be a passing score, with students being required to make at least 70 in all classes to take part in extracurricular activities such as football.

In connection with outside activities, Haley said the bill would give the Board of Education power to change rules adopted by the University Interscholastic League, which has governed such activities as athletic and academic contests for more than 70 years.

The board issue was one of two "sticky items" Lewis said were blocking progress. Equalization — the process of distributing state financial aid to rich and poor school districts — is the second.

Haley said there would be few losers in state efforts to get state money to tax-poor school districts that need it the most. He said the bill is designed especially to reward poor districts that make an effort to raise school taxes locally.

Lewis predicted the Haley bill would be debated on the House floor on Monday.

Woman loses hair, lawsuit

SAN ANTONIO — A woman who claims she lost her hair and suffered scalp blisters when she left a dye on for five hours will not appeal a lawsuit she lost against Clairol, Inc., her attorney said Wednesday.

Kitty Burrier, formerly of Poteet, Texas, and now of Cardwell, Mo., sued Clairol for $17,000 in 1981 after using Lady Clairol 51S Black Velvet hair dye.

Mrs. Burrier claimed she got a "chemical haircut" after she left the dye on for five hours. She said she was unable to rinse the dye off because water service to her mobile home was temporarily disconnected.

An eight-woman, four-man jury in Jourdanon, Texas, Monday ruled Clairol was not liable in the case. The panel also decided Mrs. Burrier was negligent in using the dark dye, used to cover gray hair.

Her attorney, Steve Van Gaasbeck said even though he had received calls from several women claiming the same thing had happened to them, there would be no appeal.

Mrs. Burrier was on her way to her home in Missouri and could not be reached for comment.

The suit was filed under the Deceptive Trade Practices Act, which requires manufacturers to disclose any hazardous effects of the products they produce.

Firm to study N-plant change

AUSTIN — A Chicago engineering firm has been chosen to study the possibility of converting the half-built South Texas Nuclear Project from a nuclear facility into a coal-burning power plant.

The four partners in the project hired Sargent & Lundy to conduct the three-month study at an estimated cost of $185,000 and will share the cost.

The study will look at the economics of stopping construction of the nuclear power plant and converting it to burn coal, said Oscar Backus, senior engineer for the Austin city electric department.

The partners building the plant are the city of Austin; Houston Lighting and Power Co., the managing partner; Central Power & Light Co. of Corpus Christi, and the San Antonio City Public Service, which will monitor the study.

"The bottom line is to identify which way (nuclear or coal) is the cheapest for the customers," Backus said.

Sargent & Lundy was picked for its experience in the field and because it has not previously worked on the South Texas Nuclear Project, Backus said.

The firm also agreed not to bid on engineering and construction work if a decision is made to convert the nuclear plant, he said.

Felon elected to convention

HOUSTON — A Deer Park labor leader convicted of bribing a public official two years ago has been elected as an alternate delegate to Saturday's state Democratic convention in Houston.

L.G. Moore, serving five years' probation for bribery-racketeering, said he plans to support Walter Mondale at the convention and sees no reason his criminal record should matter until the conviction is finally upheld.

Harris County Democratic chairwoman Barbara Stanley said no one has attempted to have Moore disqualified.

Moore and former Houston Port Commissioner John Garrett were convicted in February 1982 of using an interstate telephone call to bribe a Houston city councilman to influence a lucrative city health insurance contract.

Moore and Garrett each were fined $10,000 and sentenced to five years' probation.

Texas Secretary of State John Fainter, the state's chief election officer, said his office has ruled that if a criminal case is still pending before the Supreme Court, the conviction is not final and the defendant is eligible to vote.

Corporate tax proposed

'Strikes at the heart of big business'

AUSTIN (AP) — Reps. Senfronia Thompson, D-Houston, and Paul Moreno, D-El Paso, introduced a state corporate income tax bill Wednesday they said would produce $3.5 billion the next two years.

"This is a fair and equitable bill," Moreno said at a news conference. "This is all we need to get out of here. Otherwise we will be here eating turkey and exchanging Christmas gifts."

Both sponsors admitted they had little hope of getting the measure up for a House vote.

"The general business lobby is against it because it strikes at the heart of big business," said Moreno.

A similar bill by Ms. Thompson in 1983 never got out of committee.

The bill would tax corporations according to the portion of their profit made in Texas.

Big Spring's Rocky Yandell will run his 1-K leg of the Olympic Torch relay Saturday in Lubbock around 2:45 p.m. The torch will be coming in from Dallas-Fort Worth on the Idalou highway (114) and Yandell will be the second runner to carry the torch on the Lubbock segment of the torch's cross-nation journey.

The Big Spring Red Sox captured the championship of the recent Ozona baseball tournament by outscoring the opposition 30-3.

In their first game the Red Sox beat the San Angelo Reds, 2-1. Tony Ontiveros evened his record at 2-2 in the win that came via a seventh inning single by Beef Armendarez.

Coming back on the same day Big Spring won a laugh against the Midland Indians, 21-0. Luis Rodriguez (7-1) was the winning pitcher. He was staked to a 9-0 first inning lead after Fernie Paradez blasted a grand slam. Rodriguez left the game in the third and Armendarez tossed the final stanza when the game was called in the fourth.

Rodriguez came back and pitched the Red Sox to the championship in a 7-2 win over the Ozona Royals. Big Spring scored three runs in the third to take the lead and never looked back.

John Morelion and Lupe Ontiveros were selected to the All-Tournament team and Armendarez was the tourney's MVP.

With a 9-4 record, the Red Sox are slated to host the Cunningham Oilers at the Roy Anderson Complex Sunday, June 17 at 1:30 p.m.

Match play begins next week at Comanche Trail for members of the Chicano Golf Association and the Big Spring Golf Association. For more information contact club pro Al Patterson at 263-7271.

Members of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Athletic Committee will soon be calling on businesses within the city about donations towards trophies for this year's Chamber sponsored slo-pitch softball tournament scheduled for June 22-24 at Johnny Stone Park. Be a cheerful giver.

On the subject of softball: the Cotton Chippers won the San Angelo Fast Pitch Softball Tournament last weekend, bringing their record to 22-3. Second baseman Mike Ritchey earned MVP honors for the Chippers who will see their next tournament June 22-23 in Waco.

More rodeo news: Local entries for the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo will be taken Friday and Monday at Driver Insurance Agency at 215 Runnels.

Frontier Airlines, the official airline of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association, will give away a pair of tickets to any location the airline serves. The tickets will be given away during Saturday's, June 30 performance. You need not be present to claim the prize. Registration for the tickets is being taken at all outlets where rodeo tickets are being sold — Ward's Boot and Saddle, Smallwood's Western Wear, Morgan's Western Wear, First National Bank and Highland Chrysler Dodge.

In one more item of interest, the Kiwanis Club of Big Spring will sponsor a barbecue at the county barn at the fairgrounds on Wednesday, June 27 following the annual rodeo parade. Price for the fete is $4 per plate. The Howard County Sheriff's Posse will hold a barbecue the same day for the visiting riding clubs in this year's rodeo.

As Little League regular season action winds down, playoffs and tournaments approach. One such is the Major League tournament scheduled for Big Spring July 9-21. More details on this as they develop.

Sports assistant Steve Belvin proved at the Hill Country Masters Track and Field Meet in Mason last weekend that he can still chunk it with the best of them.

Steve tossed the shot some 43 feet to win a gold medal in the 25-29 age division.

Steve Baldwin, another Big Springer, was second in the 1,600 and third in the 400 meters and 5,000 meters competing in the 40-44 bracket and Colorado City's Bob Reiley took first place in the 50-54 division in the 100 meter dash with a time of 13.28.

And in fishing news: Frak Mashburn of Big Spring brought in 20 stripers up to 18 pounds in two days of fishing at Lake Spence.

HURRIES THE THROW — New York Yankees third baseman Roy Smalley leaves his feet making a throw to first base in an unsuccessful attempt to put out Jackie Gutierrez of the Boston Red Sox, who bunted for a base hit in the second inning at Boston's Fenway Park Wednesday night. New York beat Boston, 4-2.

NCAA recommends testing for drugs

ATLANTA (AP) — The NCAA should start testing college athletes regularly for use of performance-enhancing drugs, such as steroids, a committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association has recommended.

The NCAA Special Committee on Drug Testing, in a preliminary report dated May 21, endorsed random, year-rounding drug testing beginning next year. The Atlanta Constitution reported in today's editions.

The panel, established at the NCAA convention in January, is to issue its final report July 1.

The committee's chairman, University of North Carolina physical education professor Carl Blyth, said the panel compiled a list of between 65 and 70 performance-enhancing drugs, including steroids, amphetamines and cocaine as well as ingredients found in commonly used cold medications and cough syrups. Caffeine, found in coffee, tea and many soft drinks, also is banned when consumed in high concentrations.

The list is, similar to one developed by the medical commission of the International Olympic Committee.

"The student athlete who may be subject to drug testing should take no drug or medication without checking specifically on its status," said the preliminary report.

The report calls for giving randomly selected schools a week's notice before a team of NCAA employees go to the school to collect urine specimens from randomly selected athletes, the Constitution reported.

The panel also discussed possible sanctions for institutions whose athletes test positive, including forfeiture of games in which those athletes competed and permanent loss of both regular-season and post-season eligibility.

The first-year cost of such a program was estimated at between $700,000 and $1 million.

Hearns predicts Duran will go down

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Thomas Hearns wants to be called the "Hit Man" again, and he intends to live up to the name Friday night against Roberto Duran.

"I think 'Hit Man' is appropriate for this fight. I plan to use my ability to punch," Hearns said Wednesday in predicting he will win the scheduled 12-round bout by knockout.

Hearns didn't like the nickname while scoring 27 knockouts in compiling a 29-0 record enroute to winning the World Boxing Association welterweight title on second round knockout of Pipino Cuevas.

He scored knockouts in three title defenses, but he has scored only two knockouts in winning six fights since being stopped in the 14th round by Sugar Ray Leonard for the undisputed welterweight title here Sept. 16, 1981.

"I'm a boxer-puncher and I can do whatever is necessary," said

Hearns, who feels he will end a string of three straight decision wins with a knockout.

One of those decision was a 15-round unanimous verdict over Wilfred Benitez, a master of defense, for the World Boxing Council super welterweight (junior middleweight title) Dec. 3, 1982.

Some observers theorize that the loss to Leonard has taken away Hearns' willingness to mix it up. There also has been talk that Hearns' vaunted right-handed punching power has been reduced by a tendon-bone injury at the back of the hand suffered in the Benitez fight and a broken third knuckle on the ring finger suffered in sparring.

Hearns maintains the hand is fine, and that he is aware of the importance of not just winning, but winning big, because an impressive showing would set up a major match with Marvelous Marvin Hagler, the undisputed middleweight champion.

"I've got to win it big, win it great," said the 25-year-old, 6-foot-1 Hearns, who will have 5 1/2-inch height and 11-inch reach advantages over Duran, who will be 33 Saturday.

"I'll be in there trying to be a great champion."

Duran holds the World Boxing Association junior middleweight title, but he will be in the role of challenger in the fight at a 26,000-seat outdoor stadium at Caesars Palace.

When he steps into the ring, the former lightweight and WBC welterweight champion, will be an ex-champ again for defying a WBA edict to first make a mandatory defense against Mike McCallum or be stripped of title recognition.

"Even if it is not for unification, we think this is the best fight we can have," said Luis Spada, Duran's manager, who thinks a victory will lead to a rematch with Hagler for Duran. The Panamanian lost a 15-round unanimous decision to Hagler here last Nov. 10.

"I feel I'll be the universal champion," said Hearns, who is expecting a tough fight despite his confidence that he will win by knockout.

"I think Roberto still has a lot of great fights in him," said Hearns. "I'll beat Thomas Hearns by knockout. I'm much better than he is," said Duran, who won the WBA 154-pound class title by stopping Davey Moore in the eighth round on his 32nd birthday.

But although Duran has scored 57 knockouts in compiling a 76-5 record, he has scored only two in posting 5-3 record since he quit in the eighth round and lost the WBC welterweight title back to Leonard Nov. 25, 1980.

Kingman returns with a big bang

Dave Kingman is back in the Oakland A's lineup, and it doesn't look like he's missed a stroke.

Playing only his second game after missing 11 contests with a knee injury, Kingman smashed a home run Wednesday to lead the A's to a 3-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

"His presence gives this club a lift, because we know he can win a game with one swing," said Oakland pitcher Bill Caudill.

Kingman's 15th homer did precisely that. The leadoff blast in the eighth inning snapping a 1-1 tie and a six-game Oakland losing streak as well. It was Kingman's first homer since May 25 and it tied him with Boston's Tony Armas for the American League lead. In addition, he has 46 RBI in 48 games.

"It's a good feeling to be back. We've got to put a winning streak together now," said Kingman, the designated hitter who played with a light knee brace. "I'm strong mentally and physically."

Kingman's homer came on the first pitch of the eighth inning from loser Bert Blyleven, 4-3, making his first start since May 17.

The A's added an insurance run later in the inning on a sacrifice fly by Mike Davis off reliever Mike Jeffcoat following a walk to Bruce Bochte and a double by Mike Heath.

The A's took a 1-0 lead in the first on Joe Morgan's sacrifice fly. The Indians tied it in the fifth on a sacrifice fly by Brett Butler.

Some people don't know their electric bills can be about the same all year round.

Some do.

The Average Payment Plan will put you in the know; and just in time to take the heat off your hot weather bills.

You'll still pay for all the electricity you use. But under the Average Payment Plan, your bills will be more even all year round.

The plan is based on a 12-month average that's figured each month. So you can pay less during the months you use the most electricity, by paying more during the months you use less.

The Average Payment Plan is available to Texas Electric residential customers. So look into it today. It's definitely worth knowing about.

Investigator admits tapings

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A top NCAA investigator has admitted to secretly taping conversations with basketball coach Jerry Tarkanian and also says he had no physical evidence to support efforts to suspend the coach in 1977.

David Berst, the NCAA's director of enforcement since 1977 and an employee of the sports governing body since 1972, admitted under questioning Wednesday that he had made it a practice to tape conversations. Berst admitted he taped several conversations with Tarkanian without the coach's knowledge.

Berst said the practice of such tapings has been discontinued.

The testimony came in the third day of a district court battle which could have an impact on the NCAA's enforcement methods. Tarkanian is claiming the NCAA violated due process in demanding he be suspended for two years in 1977 after his University of Nevada-Las Vegas basketball program was slapped with a two-year probation for 38 recruiting violations.

Tarkanian obtained a court injunction prohibiting the suspension and the case has languished in legal limbo for seven years while Tarkanian has compiled one of the best records in college basketball.

Berst testified the NCAA announced an official inquiry into the UNLV basketball program May 29, 1973 — six days after Tarkanian announced he was leaving Long Beach State to take over the Las Vegas program.

Long Beach State also was slapped with probations for recruiting violations during Tarkanian's tenure.

Tarkanian's attorney hammered at the due process issue Wednesday, with Berst admitting NCAA investigators presented no physical evidence, no affidavits and no depositions or written statements to back up allegations of violations.

Berst said the presentations he made to the NCAA Infractions Committee came from memorandums drafted from "key word" notes he took in interviews with various people. He said those notes were later destroyed.

SPECIAL OLYMPIAN — Special Olympian Lester McCall 18, brings the Olympic flame into downtown Dallas Wednesday evening. Area residents carried the flame through the city limits. The torch is scheduled to pass through Ft. Worth on its way West Thursday. Big Spring resident Rocky Yandell will be among the torch bearers in Lubbock Saturday.

Player wants to win again

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — Gary Player has traveled the long road in sports. "I'm closing in on 6 million miles — more than any other athlete has ever traveled," the little veteran from South Africa said. That long, long road has produced victories on every continent — "127 around the world," Player said — and made him a wealthy man. He's collected checks in yen and rand, pounds and dollars, cruzeros and francs, lira and pesos. In 28 years of forays into the United States he has taken some $1.7 million from the American tour alone. "And that's a very small part of the world-wide winnings," said Player, who lives on a sprawling ranch outside Johannesburg. He's 48, and has been honored around the world. In his homeland, his portrait has appeared on postage stamps. He's a member of golf's Hall of Fame. He's won almost everything there is to win, including three British Opens, the 1965 U.S. Open, three Masters and two PGA titles. He is one of only four men (Jack Nicklaus, Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen are the others) to make a career sweep of the four titles that make up the game's recognized major championships. His mark has been made, large and bold, in the game's history. His place is secure. But one major goal remains for the doughy little man. "I would like to win another U.S. Open. That is my one big, remaining ambition," Player said before a practice round for the 84th American national championship that begins Thursday at Winged Foot. Such a victory, Player pointed out, would complete a double sweep of the Big Four titles, a feat accomplished only by Nicklaus. "It would be a tremendous achievement," Player said. And, after 33 seasons as a globetrotting tourist, after three years as a non-winner, Player feels he retains the game and the ability to win in the most important tournament in this country. "I haven't played very well for a couple of years because I haven't played very much," said Player, who now spends an increasing amount of time at home in South Africa. "If I lived in the United States, it might be different. I'd probably have played more. But going back and forth to South Africa five or six times a year..." He let the sentence trail off, unfinished. "And I do so love my ranch. I love to be with my family. And when I'm home, I don't want to play golf, or practice. "For years, for many years, I'd practice daily. I made it a point to be the last man to leave the practice area. "You get out of this game what you put into it. "In recent years, I haven't practiced as much as I should.

All parties agree that Boston security lacking

BOSTON (AP) — Seconds after the Boston Celtics won the National Basketball Association title, Los Angeles center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was trapped at midcourt by a mob of fans that stormed onto the Boston Garden floor. "It was a very unprofessional way to control the crowd," the highest scorer in NBA history said. "I got punched, people were jumping on my back, they took my glasses and they tried to tear my jersey off. I had to defend myself, just fighting them off." Plans had been made to enhance security, but there is a limit to how effective they can be, NBA security director Jack Joyce said Wednesday. "I don't think it's impossible" to have maintained order in Tuesday night's deciding game, he said, "but it is difficult." The age of the Garden, which was built in 1928, and the late start of the contest, 9 p.m. EDT, contributed to problems at the end of Boston's 111-102 victory over the Lakers as referees, players and coaches were caught in the frenzied throng, Joyce said. He cited the lack of air conditioning on a hot night, the proximity of fans' seats to the team benches and the narrow exit ramp toward the locker rooms as problems resulting from the building's age. A capacity crowd announced at 14,890, but seemingly larger, attended the game. With 26 seconds left and the Celtics leading 109-102, people in that crowd ran on the court while time was out. After play resumed, spectators edged on to the court. "With 26 seconds to go, we still could have shot off a couple of three-pointers and got closer," said Lakers' Coach Pat Riley. "There was no way the referees or anyone could control the crowd. (Referee) Earl Strom even came over to me and said, 'Pat, what can I do?' There wasn't anything he could do."

Yesterday's Puzzle Solved:

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 15, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Despite a tendency on the part of a number of persons to be disputative, there is a strong undercurrent of benefits through using your charm and magnetism. ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Any tensions with outside associates should be forgotten, and more affection should be shown for true rapport. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't try to force that new plan of action on others. Study ways to make your property more valuable and charming. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are full of magnetism and sparkle and can gain the favor of those around you easily. Do something thoughtful. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Tonight is fine for happiness with the one you love, if you are more affectionate. Drive very carefully during the day. LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get together with good friends and show more affection so that the future can be happier with them. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Put more energy into your work and gain more benefits. The evening is best spent at home with kin. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good day to get into the outside world and make important new contacts. Plan that trip you want to take for pleasure, but count cost. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Ideal day to show special thought for your mate so that you have greater rapport. Trust only your closest ties and be wise. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Doing whatever will please your partners can bring in greater benefits now and in the future. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideas for self-advancement are no good, but if you do your regular work well, you get fine benefits just the same. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) After your work is done you can have a delightful time with good friends at mutually liked amusements. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A good day to be at home as much as you can and entertain those who can be of help to you in the future. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be very good at any profession dealing with the public in general so slant the education along such lines and the career can start quite early in life. Teach to handle own financial affairs so as not get ripped off by others.

2 coal trains collide; 1 killed

MOTLEY, Minn. (AP) -- Two Burlington Northern coal trains crashed head-on today and burst into flames, killing one person and leaving two others missing and feared dead, authorities said.

One crewman was injured in the 1 a.m. crash, which derailed 50 cars on a stretch of track between Motley and Pillager, in north-central Minnesota.

"We don't know why the trains were in that (head-on) situation," said railroad spokesman Brian Sweeney at Burlington Northern headquarters in St. Paul.

Each train carried a crew of four, Sweeney said, adding that four crew members were reported safe.

The dead crewman's body was discovered in the wreckage, he said, adding that the victim's identity could not immediately be determined.

Each train carried a crew of four, Sweeney said, adding that four crew members were reported safe.

The trains collided in a heavily forested area with curves east and west of a mile-long stretch of straight track 140 miles north of Minneapolis, Sweeney said. Visibility reportedly ranged from 1 to 1 1/2 miles, he said.

"If the two trains saw each other from a mile away, they still would not have been able to stop in time," he said. "A loaded coal train takes about a mile-and-a-half, two miles to bring to a complete stop."

Fifty cars derailed, he said. Paul Affeldt, a Brainerd Fire Department engineer, said six diesel engines were involved in the crash and the fire was confined to that part of the train.

"I don't believe there was an awful lot of fire," Affeldt said. Fire departments from seven communities were called to the scene to put out the blaze.

Sweeney said the accident will be investigated by the railroad and the National Transportation Safety Board. "It could be several weeks before the final results are out," he said.

Each train had four crew members, two in the engine and two in the caboose, Sweeney said. Burlington Northern crews from St. Paul and Superior were dispatched to help in the cleanup, Sweeney said.

In April, four people died in two Burlington Northern train collisions in Wyoming and Colorado. In the Colorado crash, a coal train ran a red signal and crashed head-on into another train.
