CHICAGO (AP) — Salespeople looking for a pitch prospective clients can sink their teeth into may find that chocolate business card is just the thing to leave a sweet impression.

The 2 1/2 by 4 1/4-inch confection can be made to duplicate almost any business card, said Rosanna Bernstein, owner of the Yummy-Gram store in suburban Riverside, which recently came up with the idea.

The logo and lettering on the cards are hand-drawn by an artist.

The minimum order is 50 cards. The company charges $75 to prepare the mold and $1 per card, each weighing about 2 1/2 ounces.

And just in case a hungry client swallows the phone number, Yummy-Gram encloses the more traditional paper business card inside the wrapper.

Area jobless rate down

Preliminary unemployment figures for Big Spring and Howard County during May indicate a drop of more than one percentage point over the previous month, according to local Texas Employment Commission director Joe Wallis.

Wallis quoted a 5.1 unemployment figure for the county during last month, compared to 6.4 percent during April.

Big Spring's jobless rate stood at 5.9 percent in May, down from April's 7.4 percent.

According to Wallis, the 1.3 percent decrease accompanies a 270-person increase during May in the civilian labor force. The TEC director attributed the increase to students who entered the labor force after school let out for the summer.

The local economy was able to come up with 500 more jobs in May to offset the labor force increase.

"Everything except agriculture has picked up a little bit," Wallis said.

The number of employed persons in the county rose from 15,917 in April to 16,404, he said.

May's 5.1 percent figure represents 878 unemployed persons in the county out of a total 17,280 civilian labor force population, ac-ording to Wallis. During April, the number of unemployed persons surged over the 1,000 mark to 1,093, Wallis said.

Figures for the city of Big Spring told a similar story, according to Austin TEC labor market analyst John Kruse.

The city's 5.9 percent May figure represents a total of 767 unemployed persons in Big Spring out of a labor force of 13,015 workers, he said.

Statewide, the TEC reported a dip of .8 percent in unemployment, from 6.4 percent in April to 5.6 percent last month.

Unemployment percentage figures for surrounding cities were: Abilene, 3.8; Lubbock, 5.2; Midland, 3.6; Odessa, 4.8; San Angelo, 3.7.

Widow closes The Record Shop

Fate of famous store awaits settlement of Oscar's estate

By JIM BROWN
Staff Writer

For the first time in 45 years, the Record Shop at 211 Main has closed its doors to business.

Bobbie Glickman, widow of the late Oscar Glickman, said the world-famous store will remain closed until Oscar's estate is settled.

"You know, it's really confining," Mrs. Glickman said. "A lot of work. You wouldn't believe how much. And after 45 years of it, I've about quit work."

She said she had plans for the store if her son Jake, a Big Spring psychologist, doesn't want it.

Jake Glickman, who kept the store open after his father's death May 10, said this morning, "You'll have to talk to my mother about the store. She's the one that closed it."

Glickman was also survived by another son, attorney Julius Glickman of Houston, and a daughter, Martha Bres of Eagle Pass.

"Oscar really loved that store, and I'll let you know what I'm going to do with it as soon as I can," said Mrs. Glickman.

The Record Shop opened in 1942 and gained worldwide fame as a place to find rare and out-of-date recordings.

The shop that drew buyers from across the United States, Europe and Australia was written about in publications throughout the world.

Glickman told friends before his death that he wanted to sell the shop with the restriction that the new owners would continue the policies that he had established over the years.

Just weeks before his death, he said, "I've had a lot of offers, but they don't want to continue the store. They just want the records."

Glickman, who also helped his brothers found the Margo's clothing store chain, often said, "I don't know if anybody could make enough money to live on if they operated the store the way I do."

Glickman continued to run the store until his death.

LOCKED UP — The downtown Record Shop has closed its doors after more than 45 years of business. Bobbie Glickman, widow of the store's owner, Oscar Glickman, said the world-renowned store will remain closed while Glickman's estate is in probate.

Shaw to back Lewis school plan

'The vast majority of school districts in my area actually gain...The substitute bill does more of what I want to see in education and makes me feel safer about possible court action.'

Larry Don Shaw D-Big Spring

Lewis' plan, Shaw said, diverts state aid from rich urban school districts to rural school districts with less taxable property more equitably than the committee proposal.

"The smaller school district superintendents fear the handprints of the Dallas school district and others are on" Lewis' proposal, Shaw said. "But from my research, I find the contrary is true. His plan recognizes that it costs more to educate a child in a smaller school district than it does in a large school district."

Lewis' compromise proposal, he said, would increase state aid to the Big Spring Independent School District by $1.37 million each year. The committee proposal, he noted, calls for an increase of $723,000 annually.

Shaw said he favors Lewis' alternative in at least one area: equalization aid to state school districts. The Lewis plan, Shaw said, treats school districts in his legislative area more equitably and is better suited to standing a court challenge than the House Public Education Committee's proposal.

That panel's proposal retains much of the state's current education finance system that is being challenged as inequitable in state court by minorities and poor school districts.

Canterbury signs contract for units

Construction on 59 new apartments at the $2.5 million Canterbury II retirement center will begin next week, according to Bob Shapland, executive director.

The apartments will be located north of the present 120-unit facility at 1700 Lancaster.

Construction was delayed for more than two years because of a snag with funding. On Tuesday, O.C. Shapland, chairman of the board, and attorney Guilford Jones III flew to Dallas and signed a contract with the Department of Housing and Urban Development for a Section 202 mortgage loan.

Bob Shapland said today, "We're all signed up." A groundbreaking ceremony for the new facility was held in January 1983.

"The ceremonial part is over. We're in a hurry to get it started," Shapland said.

Concerning the contract, Shapland said, "There were no problems. Everything went very smoothly."

The executive director said, "We're relieved. We've been trying for 2 1/2 years to get it completed. I don't think it's sunk in yet because we've had our hopes up so many times and been hit with delays. It's hard to believe."

Shapland said tenants may be able to move into the facility a year from now.

CONSTRUCTION TO BEGIN — Construction on 59 new apartments at Canterbury retirement center will begin next week. Construction had been delayed while Canterbury officials sought funding from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Weather

Clear skies prevail

By The Associated Press
Mostly cloudy skies covered sections of West and South Central Texas today, but clear skies were generally the case across the state.

A high-pressure system continued to dominate the state, and no rain was reported.

Southerly winds continued to sweep across the state early today, with speeds averaging 5 to 10 miles an hour.

Temperatures were in the 70s and 80s early today except for the Panhandle, where readings in the 60s were reported. The early morning temperatures ranged from 65 at Amarillo to 83 at Wichita Falls.

The National Weather Service said widely scattered showers and thunderstorms were likely today in the Big Bend and along the Rio Grande.

Persistent rains that have ruined millions of dollars in crops in the Midwest continued today as powerful thunderstorms cooled record temperatures in the Southeast, where the mercury has lingered at 100 degrees.

Thunderstorms were reported today from the lower Mississippi Valley into Georgia and South Carolina. In Fayetteville, Ark., 2 1/2 inches of rain fell in a six-hour period ending early today.

Overnight, rains in the Midwest fed floodwaters which already have claimed two lives and damaged more than $430 million in crops, while volunteers in Idaho stood in chest-high water to bolster an earthen dam that broke.

More rain was forecast today from the northern Plateau region through the northern Rockies, the northern Plains, across the upper Great Lakes region and the Ohio Valley to the southern Atlantic Coast.

Storms early today in Georgia followed a day in which the mercury climbed to a record 102 in Columbus and 101 in Savannah. Temperature records were set or tied Wednesday in four other southern cities, the National Weather Service said, as spring gave way today to summer.

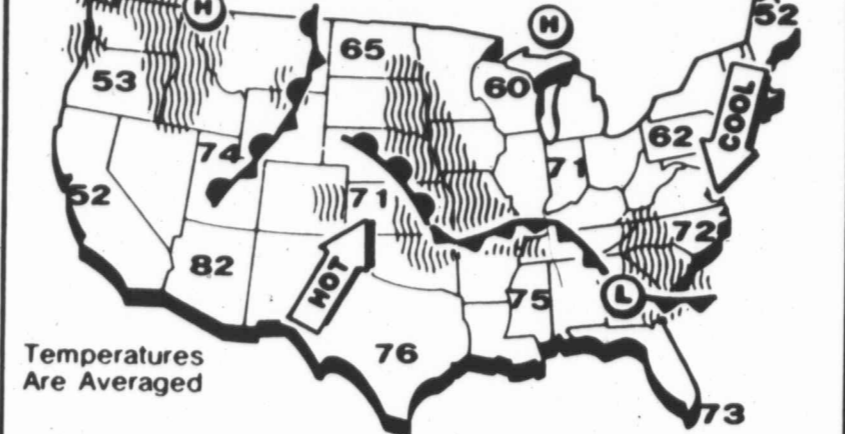

Two men drowned Wednesday in swirling floodwaters in Missouri.

In Mud Lake, Idaho, an earthen dike around a reservoir gave way Wednesday night, flooding an estimated two square miles of farmland before being plugged, officials said.

Bill Sammler of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo., said it did not appear the rain would stop today in the Midwest.

West Texas: Widely scattered showers or thunderstorms mainly mountains and Big Bend, otherwise partly cloudy and warm through Friday. Highs in the 90s. Lows tonight 60s mountains and north to mid-70s south. Highs Friday 90s north to near 100 extreme south.

3 Fiberflex officials named in 'test case'

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

A Casper, Wyo., couple filed suit last week in federal district court in Wyoming against three Fiberflex Products Inc. corporate officials currently involved in a court struggle for control of the company.

The suit is considered a "test case" by Charles "Chris" Christopher, the former OIL manager and owner who is battling current company management and founders for control of the multi-million dollar business.

The Wyoming couple, A.W. Reeves and Patsy R. Reeves, are asking the federal court to set aside an 11-month proxy agreement signed Jan. 3, granting voting rights to their Fiberflex stock to Woodrow "Tommy" Rutledge Jr., his brother, Russ Rutledge, and John Freeman.

According to the suit, the Reeves agreed to allow the Rutledges and Freeman to vote their 1,673 shares of Fiberflex stock after conversations with Tommy Rutledge, who told the Reeves "outsiders had been elected as directors of the corporation, that they wanted to 'sell out' the corporation and that these people would not be good for the corporation."

Instead, the Reeves want to substitute a later proxy agreement, executed Feb. 28, that would grant voting rights to Christopher. The agreement with Christopher would remain in effect until April 25, 1986, according to a copy of the agreement filed in federal court.

Christopher is battling the Rutledges for control of another 20,000-share bloc of stock, which would permit Christopher to accomplish a hostile takeover of the Big Spring-based million-dollar company.

Other papers filed by the Reeves in the federal suit show that between the Jan. 3 proxy with the Rutledges and the Feb. 28 agreement with Christopher, the Reeves signed a proxy agreement Feb. 16 with Leroy Reeves, authorizing him to vote for them at a Feb. 21 special meeting of the company's board of directors.

The Reeves' Feb. 16 proxy also named three substitutes for Leroy Reeves: Wayne Runkles, Billy Massingill and Ed Thomas. Runkles and Massingill have since been named as parties with Christopher in suits filed in 118th District Court in Howard County, and are members of what Christopher describes as "the Christopher group" in the struggle for control of Fiberflex.

Although Leroy Reeves voted for the Wyoming couple at the special February meeting, the Rutledges have since contested the suit, according to the federal suit.

The case is considered important, Christopher said, because he says he has voting agreements with other shareholders for whom the Rutledges are now exercising voting rights.

John Burgess, the attorney for the Rutledges, could not be reached for comment.

In another development in the Fiberflex trial scheduled for July 23 in the 118th District Court, retired District Judge Ralph Caton agreed that certain financial records in the possession of Moncor Bank, N.A., formerly First City National Bank of Hobbs, N.M., could be disclosed for purposes of the trial, but only to the attorneys in the case.

According to a 118th District Court ruling by Caton, the documents — records of Christopher's finances he presented to the bank when applying for a loan — are protected under state rules of civil procedure.

The documents can be disclosed only to the attorneys for the various parties in the trial, and will not lose their confidentiality if used in court. Information obtained from the documents can only be used for purposes of the trial, and not for business purposes, Caton ordered.

Childrens' vitamins stolen

A $3 bottle of childrens' vitamins stolen yesterday afternoon from the Safeway supermarket at 1300 Gregg was enough to land Mary Garcia, 34, of 1603 Lark in city jail on suspicion of theft, according to police reports.

Supermarket employee Jesse Ramirez told police he observed the woman put the Popeye brand chewable vitamins in her purse before she bought a number of other items and left the store, reports said.

Mrs. Garcia, who was detained at the store while police were called, was arrested at 12:23 p.m. yesterday, reports said.

In other police reports:

Police yesterday blocked off traffic on the 11th Place extension near FM 700 because of a bomb threat received at 11:48 a.m. at Cameo Energy Homes, according to Lt. Jerry Edwards. After a search of the business, police were unable to locate an explosive device, Edwards said.

Police received two reports of aggravated assault last night from a married couple at a 1006 Baylor address.

Raymond Wolverton told police at about 8 p.m. Wednesday that while he and his wife, Kathy, were arguing, she shot at him with a .38 caliber pistol, according to police reports.

Kathy Wolverton told police that after she shot at him, he hit her in the face with his fist and threatened her with a pistol, reports said. According to police, neither Wolverton sustained injuries severe enough to be taken to the hospital.

Jerry Varner of 109 Algerita told police at 3:19 p.m. Wednesday that someone between 6 p.m. Sunday and 3 p.m. Wednesday shot out the rear window of his car with a BB or pellet gun, police reports said.

David Flores, 26, address listed as N.W. 12th and N. Gregg, was arrested at 10 p.m. Wednesday at the Town and Country convenience store at 1101 N. Gregg in connection with a terrorist threats warrant, police reports said.

Dennis Heffington of 200 Circle Drive told police at 12:03 a.m. Thursday that at about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday someone he knows called him on the telephone and threatened to kill him, police reports said.

Parents win $9 million suit

BEAUMONT (AP) — The parents of a 3-year-old girl who lost an eye after cutting it on her baby bed have reached a $9 million settlement with two firms that made the bed parts, attorneys say.

Tamara Dickman was playing in her room two years ago when she fell and tore her left eye on a piece of angle iron that formed part of the bed's support. The eye could not be repaired and the infant, then 11 months old, was given a glass eye.

The tot's parents, Neil and Tamara Dickman, of nearby Bridge City, filed a lawsuit in federal court against Welsh Co. and Gem Industries.

Man kills wife, self

DALLAS (AP) — A man whose wife was suffering from Alzheimer's disease killed the woman and then turned the gun on himself because he "couldn't live without her and he couldn't put her in a home," the couple's son said.

The bodies of 70-year-old David Suberi and Ahova Suberi, 73, were found Wednesday morning in their apartment at the Retirement Inn in Dallas, police said.

"My father just couldn't live without her and he couldn't put her in a home," said Solomon Suberi, 40, the couple's son said.

A clerk at the home told authorities that Suberi called the front desk at 8:30 a.m. and said, "I have shot my wife. I need an ambulance."

Employees of the home told police they found the couple lying on their bed. She had been shot in the back of the head and he was shot in the mouth, they said. A .38-caliber pistol was in his hand.

Mrs. Suberi had been suffering for the past three years from the disease, a neurological disorder that causes irreversible mental deterioration and senility.

Family and friends of the couple said Suberi had provided round-the-clock care for his wife as her condition worsened. But recently, he had become ill and unable to keep up the vigilance, they said. "He only talked about not being able to go on without her. He'd been very depressed," the younger Suberi said.

Rosa Pendley, who lives down the hall from the Suberi apartment at the Retirement Inn, said Suberi had "been waiting on her for three years, but the last two weeks he's been sick himself. He couldn't do it anymore."

Another resident, Mamie Homeyer, said, "She wasn't able to talk to anybody or walk by herself. If you can't take care of yourself here, you have to get a nurse."

Solomon Suberi said his father and mother had come to the United States from Jerusalem in the late 1930s. His father originally was from Yemen, he said.

"They had a little cafeteria in Los Angeles, at the University of Judaism, where they train rabbinical students," he said, adding that they had reared five children and moved to Dallas in 1982.

Tom Schmidt, director of operations for Retirement Inns of America, which owns the North Dallas facility, said the couple "brightened everybody's lives almost immediately" after they arrived.

"Mrs. Suberi had been experiencing health problems recently, but one thing about them never changed — it was clear that they were very much in love," he said.

Man plucks darts from body

HOUSTON (AP) — Police say they were stunned when a suspect calmly plucked from his body two 50,000-volt Taser darts that were supposed to knock him unconscious and then surrendered.

The suspect, Lonnie Henry Rector, a 30-year-old transient, was charged with aggravated assault and threat with a deadly weapon, the Harris County district attorney's office said.

Rector was arrested following a 30-minute confrontation Wednesday afternoon with police outside a downtown hotel, said Houston Police Department Patrolman H.R. Montgomery.

Montgomery said Rector was loitering outside the hotel. When he was asked to leave, Rector pulled a pocket knife from his pants, he said.

Police fired four rounds from a Taser gun before two electrically charged darts lodged in the suspect's right arm and stomach.

The darts are designed to knock a potentially violent person unconscious for at least 30 seconds.

Rent subsidies not offered

Rent subsidies will not be offered to low and middle income renters who want to move into a new local apartment complex constructed with federal tax free bonds, the apartment complex developer said.

"The normal flow" of renter applications — without subsidies — should be sufficient to fill the Bent Tree Apartments' quota of 20 percent low and middle income renters, said Delbert McDougal of the Brinkcraft Development Co.

The complex, located in the city's Coronado Hills addition, has a starting rent of $425 monthly for a one-bedroom apartment, according to apartment manager Darla Loving Adkins.

Construction of the complex was completed with $3.6 million in multi-family revenue bonds sold through the Permian Basin Housing Finance Corp., a division of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission.

As part of the bond arrangement, Brinkcraft agreed to rent 20 percent of the complex's apartments, or 18 units, to persons with low or middle incomes.

According to McDougal, such persons are defined as having yearly incomes less than $20,000, or 20 percent less than the median West Texas income.

He said other stipulations set out by the bonding agreement are that 70 percent of the complex's renters must have yearly incomes less than $50,000 and 10 percent of the renters may have yearly incomes over that amount.

"It's not subsidy housing. It's no different than any other privately financed housing operation, but the bookkeeping is a little different," McDougal said.

He said that persons who wish to rent at the complex will have to produce verification of their incomes, such as an Internal Revenue Service W-2 form.

He said the renter quotas for the complex will be periodically checked by the IRS.

$5,000 fire damages home

An early morning fire at a 1500 E. 11th Place wood-frame house brought four units of the Big Spring Fire Department to the scene and caused an estimated $5,000 damage, according to Fire Investigator Burr Lea Settles.

Settles said the fire, which was contained in the house's upstairs bedroom, was the result of an electrical short in the house's wiring system.

Firefighters took about 20 minutes to extinguish the blaze that was called in at 12:45 a.m. this morning, Settles said. The home is owned by Bonnie Bennett and was occupied by Mary Lozano at the time of the blaze, he said.

After ventilating the home, firemen returned to quarters at 2:50 a.m., he said.

Pistol-packin' mouth

LONDON — Johnny Rotten, whose now defunct group the Sex Pistols helped propel punk rock music to popularity, let loose with a stream of four-letter words after a brush with customs officials at Heathrow airport.

JOHNNY ROTTEN

Other travelers looked shocked and parents ushered their children away as the singer, sporting green sunglasses and orange hair, stormed out of a baggage search area on Wednesday.

Rotten was reportedly in a jovial mood on the flight from Los Angeles, where he now lives. His mood apparently turned sour when custom officials on the lookout for drug-smuggling celebrities rifled through his luggage.

Asked why he was visiting Britain, Rotten said between expletives: "It's none of your business. I was born here if you hadn't noticed."

Thicke's marriage thin

LOS ANGELES — Talk show host Alan Thicke and soap opera star Gloria Loring are filing for divorce after 13 years of marriage, a spokeswoman for the actress said.

The divorce announcement came only two weeks after the couple was named International Parents of the Year by the Juvenile Diabetes Association.

The couple cited "irreconcilable differences" for the breakup, spokeswoman Susan Patricola said Wednesday.

They have two sons, Brennan, 9, and Robin, 7. Miss Loring stars as Liz Chandler on the NBC daytime show "Days of Our Lives." As a singer she's made more than 300 appearances on such shows as "The Tonight Show," "The Carol Burnett Show" and "The Dean Martin Show."

LONDON — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher says the new painting of her hanging in the National Portrait Gallery has a noticeable squint

The painting unveiled Wednesday was done by Rodrigo Moynihan, 74, a former professor of painting at the Royal College of Art. Mrs. Thatcher did not attend the official unveiling.

Eyeing the high stars

LOS ANGELES — Dan Haggerty, who starred in movies and on television as Grizzly Adams, is the first actor "of import" busted on drug charges by the newly formed entertainment unit of the narcotics division, police said.

Haggerty, 41, faces arraignment Friday on charges of selling cocaine to an undercover officer, police said Wednesday. He was arrested at his Beverly Hills home on June 13 and freed on $5,000 bail, Lt. Dan Cooke said.

Haggerty is accused of selling the officer 18 grams of cocaine with an estimated street value of $2,160, Cooke said.

Mitterrand, Chernenko want increased trade

By The Associated Press
MOSCOW — French President Francois Mitterrand and Soviet Premier Konstantin U. Chernenko began talks with their aides in the Grand Kremlin Palace today, but a private conversation between the two leaders was postponed.

After the joint diplomatic exchanges, the delegations from both governments were scheduled to hold their own meetings.

No official reason was given for postponement of an hour before a welcoming banquet.

But French sources said the delay was to enable Radio Moscow reported that this morning's talks were attended by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Geidar Aliev, a first deputy premier.

On his first visit to the Soviet Union, Mitterrand brought along his foreign minister, Claude Cheysson, Transport Minister Charles Fiterman and Foreign Trade Minister Edith Cresson.

Mitterrand was to meet with Gromyko again for an hour on Friday, and French officials said Mitterrand

Gromyko had met Mitterrand at the airport Wednesday night and Chernenko greeted him briefly

Before the talks began today, Mitterrand reviewed an honor guard at the tomb of the unknown soldier just outside the Kremlin wall, placed flowers before the eternal flame on top of the grave of a soldier killed in the 1941 battle for Moscow, and laid a wreath before a plaque near the Moscow River in memory of 42 French pilots of the Normandy-Niemen regiment who were killed on the Soviet front during World War II.

Quake jiggles California N-plant

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — The Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant, criticized by some groups for its earthquake safety, was jiggled by a moderate quake but no damage occurred, officials said.

The quake, measuring 4.0 on the Richter scale, occurred at 12:28 p.m. Wednesday and was centered 20 miles to the southwest in the Hosgri earthquake fault system offshore, said geophysicist Robert Cockerham of the U.S. Geological Survey in Menlo Park.

Residents up to 25 miles north and south on the central California coast felt the quake, but no damage was reported.

Sikh arms from Portugal

NEW DELHI — Weapons used by Sikh extremists based at the Golden Temple in Amritsar were smuggled from Pakistan with the aid of a former Indian army general, the United News of India reported today.

Quoting unidentified official sources, the agency said interrogation of Sikh militants arrested during the army invasion of the shrine has revealed that arms were smuggled across two main points on India's border with Pakistan.

Florida calls for quarantine on Med-fly infested oranges

MIAMI (AP) — Agriculture officials, saying they consider the finding of four Mediterranean fruit flies in a downtown orange tree "an infestation," ordered a quarantine on fruit and vegetables and announced that pesticide spraying would begin today.

State inspectors set up an 81-square-mile quarantine Wednesday after the Medflies — four adults, three male and one un-mated female — were found in a trap during a routine monitoring program.

In addition to ground spraying in the immediate area today, aerial spraying of the pesticide malathion is planned Friday, said Charles Poucher, chief of Pest Eradication and Control for the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services.

Agricultural Commissioner Doyle Conner said he believed they "had gotten on the infestation at its early beginning" and that he expected they would have a successful program at the end of 60 days.

"We will treat this as an infestation," Conner said.

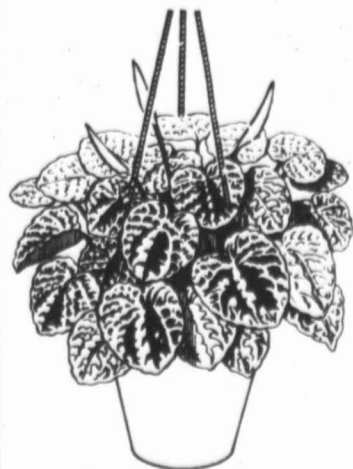

The quarantine means that no fruit or vegetables should be moved from the area, he added.

Medflies are not native to Florida, usually hitchhiking on fruit brought into this country from Central and South America.

'Exclusionary rule' mustn't be ironclad

Criminal justice officials and victims got a welcome break on June 11 when the U.S. Supreme Court created a reasonable exception to the controversial "exclusionary rule."

Written by Chief Justice Warren Burger, the decision relaxes curbs against evidence obtained in violation of a suspect's rights if police can prove they eventually would have found the evidence legally.

First adopted by the Supreme Court in 1920, the exclusionary rule was intended to make sure prosecutors don't benefit from illegal conduct by police. It held that any evidence that police obtained by violating a suspect's constitutional rights would be barred from introduction in a trial.

The problem with this, according to Burger, is that it excludes evidence police may have obtained anyway, evidence which proves guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. The case in question shows how justice can be twisted by the exclusionary rule.

The court reinstated the conviction of Robert Williams, who on Christmas Eve in 1968, abducted a 10-year-old girl, killed her and hid her body in a culvert. The suspect was arrested before police found the body, but led police to the girl when a detective suggested, without a lawyer present, that she deserved a "Christian burial."

Although Williams was convicted, the verdict was overturned on the grounds that the detective violated the defendant's constitutional rights by beginning to question him outside his lawyer's presence. The high court originally upheld the verdict in 1977.

If the Supreme Court had not changed its mind during this new appeal of Williams' second conviction, the murderer could have gotten off on what can only be construed as a technicality. While there are many circumstances where illegally obtained evidence should be excluded by the court, some cases cry out for tempering rights with reason.

Odds on Reagan

The only thing worse than losing the Democratic nomination for president this year is winning it. If the race is over, as Walter Mondale insists, then Gary Hart and Jesse Jackson can go back to normal lives. Mondale, meanwhile, gets to spend the next four months campaigning against the master campaigner. As Mark Twain said of being tarred and feathered, if it weren't for the honor, he might prefer to pass it up.

No one would blame him. In the latest poll conducted for USA Today, President Reagan holds a formidable lead, with 58 percent preferring the President and only 35 percent for Mondale. Hart, still the candidate the GOP fears most, runs closer — 52 percent for Reagan, 40 for Hart.

That's not the only bad news for Mondale. Sixty-one percent of the people who chose Reagan are "very committed" to him. Only 41 percent of Mondale voters express such enthusiasm. Among independents, the crucial bloc, Mondale is extraordinarily weak, trailing 66-to-27.

A plausible strategy for victory is nowhere to be found. Though Mondale doubtless will make up a lot of ground in the popular vote, it's hard to see where he could collect the 270 votes needed in the electoral college.

The West is nearly solid for Reagan, as is the Midwestern farm belt. The South, which he swept (except for Georgia) in 1980, is in doubt only because black voters may turn out in unprecedented numbers. But this time, Reagan won't be up against a native son, which will count for something. In fact, the President has a bigger lead in the South than in any other region except the West. Even if Mondale can pry away several large industrial states, his chances aren't encouraging.

Democrats disparage Reagan's 1980 "landslide" because he got just 50.7 percent of the popular vote, winning many states (like arch-Democratic Massachusetts) by a plurality, and then only because John Anderson siphoned off votes from Jimmy Carter. But one fact hidden in the 1980 totals bodes ill for Mondale: Reagan carried just 19 states by an absolute majority, but they gave him 254 electoral votes. Of that group, only Iowa, Missouri and Ohio look like Democratic possibilities.

But Reagan, in many ways, is a better candidate this year than before. Fears of nuclear war or another Vietnam won't work as well for Mondale as they did for Carter, since Reagan has gotten through four years without pressing the button or committing large numbers of U.S. troops abroad. Whatever worries people had about "supply-side" economics have been eased by a thundering recovery and a low inflation rate.

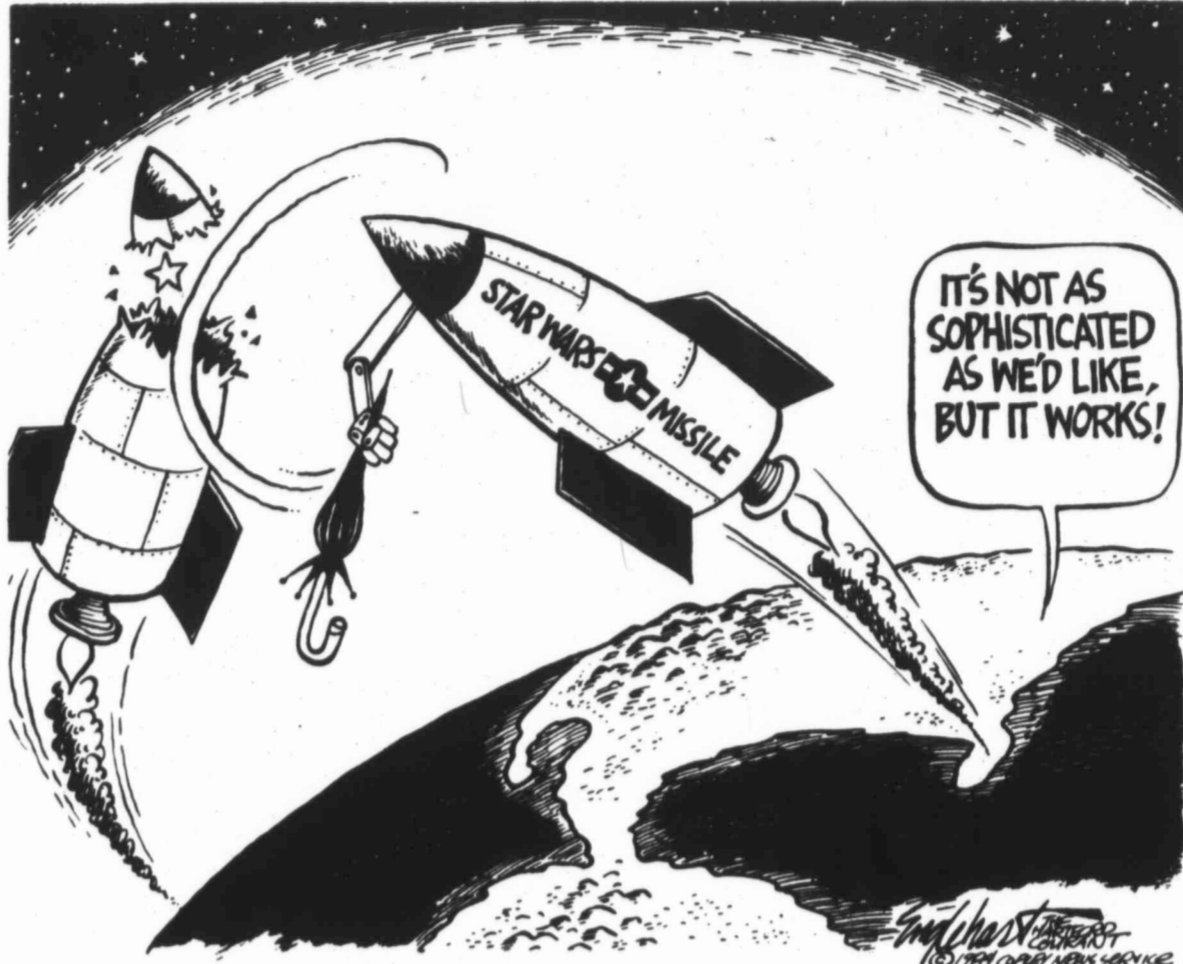

That leaves Mondale with few options. Part of his campaign, moreover, has to be geared toward overcoming the effect of Hart's attacks. Not since 1972 has any Democratic nominee taken so long to secure the nomination, or had such strong resistance. George McGovern didn't profit from the experience, and neither will Mondale.

So what should he do? One handicap is his dull, stogy image. He might correct that with a female running mate, giving his campaign a new glamor. The risks, of course, are high — no one knows just how voters, male or female, will react to the idea of putting a woman on a heartbeating away from the Oval Office. But Mondale can't afford to be cautious.

He also should put some distance between himself and organized labor. Some criticism from Lane Kirkland, to the effect that Mondale is insufficiently devoted to the policies of FDR and LBJ, would help. In fact, it would help him even among union members. If Kirkland and Mondale are clever, they will arrange a public disagreement, giving the candidate the chance to display some independence.

Beyond that, Mondale should hope some disaster will visit itself on Reagan. In El Salvador, a successful rebel offensive or a military coup would give the administration an excruciating dilemma. Likewise, an expansion of the war in the Persian Gulf, endangering the Saudi monarchy, would force a choice between the intolerable (the loss of the gulf's oil) and the unacceptable (U.S. military intervention).

The war no one talks about

WASHINGTON — For almost two decades, the United States was portrayed on the world's television screens and front pages as the big, bad aggressor in Vietnam. Never mind that no U.S. troops ever invaded North Vietnam, never mind that North Vietnamese troops trespassed regularly into Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam. Hanoi's lean revolutionaries were rhapsodized in the press.

In stark contrast, the brutal Soviet conquest of Afghanistan has been all but ignored by the world press. Did you know, for example, that the Soviets have been carpet-bombing Afghan areas under guerrilla control? A single Tupolev-16 Badger bomber can dump nine tons of bombs. They fall in a close, deadly pattern, creating a carpet of explosions. One village after another has been obliterated.

This random annihilation is only the latest cruelty that the Soviets have visited upon the Afghan people. The Russian invaders have caused incalculable misery and mischief in this bleak land, massacring recalcitrant villagers and poisoning their wells. A terrible catastrophe has befallen the brave, hardy people of Afghanistan.

Yet except for a few isolated reports, the story has gone untold. Editors have failed to grasp the magnitude of the Soviet crimes in Afghanistan; reporters haven't jumped in and confronted Soviet officials; columnists haven't elaborated on the ramifications. The cruel facts should have been laid out on the front pages until mass opinion cried out against the Soviet excesses. Yet these facts have been largely discarded or ignored in news rooms around the world.

In my own journalist's presumption, I have tried to influence public opinion by sounding a number of alarms. I sent a reporter to Afghanistan to bring me a first-hand report. He grew a full, Afghan-style beard, dressed in native robes and crossed five mountain ranges with the guerrillas.

The resulting columns inspired Neal Blair, an indefatigable champion of lost causes, to form the Federation for American Afghan Action. The group has raised money and shipped supplies to the Afghan resistance.

It has also sent Andrew Eiva, a West Point graduate and former Green Beret, on four trips into Afghanistan. He found that the arms reaching the freedom fighters are incredibly poor. Some kill more Afghans than Soviets, he said. And invariably, the good weapons are short of ammunition. "The current level of aid is a condemnation to a slow death," he reported.

Meanwhile, Neal Blair's stalwarts, skilled in the ways and rhythms of exerting pressure, have taken their plea to Congress. In response, Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., and Rep. Don Ritter, R-Pa., have introduced legislation calling for effective U.S. aid for the Afghan resistance.

This has the endorsement of no less than President Reagan. But behind the president's back, the State Department has been quietly lobbying against the legislation. One of the department's worthies, Howard Schaffer, urged the Senate Foreign Relations Committee behind closed doors to water down or eliminate the bill altogether. Apparently, the State Department doesn't want to antagonize the Soviets — who, as I recall, never hesitated to pour arms into Vietnam for use against American troops.

Meanwhile, the Afghan guerrillas are continuing their resistance with more courage than weapons. The legendary mujahideen commander, Ahmed Shah Massoud, has succeeded in uniting diverse factions and has stopped the seventh Soviet offensive against his forces.

With pitiful firepower, he has fought a hit-and-run war against Soviet troops, which are heavily backed by armored vehicles, helicopter gunships, jet fighters and high-flying bombers. An estimated 30,000 troops participated in the latest Soviet offensive.

Yet they have been no match for Massoud's elusive mountain fighters. He is known in the rugged Afghan back country as "the lion of Panjshir." But without claws, the lion cannot withstand many more assaults.

Footnote: Schaffer would not comment about his Senate testimony.

Southside gets good things first

To the editor: I would like to make an observation.

While driving within Big Spring I have noticed all the new trash containers and carriers are all on the southside.

Having lived here all of my life it truly bewilders me why they always have to start putting new things on the southside first. As a taxpayer, am I only entitled to the leftovers and the lame excuse that they have been ordered and as soon as they arrive ...?

To some it may sound mundane but it's time that the northside was considered first when beautifying our city. I too am a taxpayer and regardless of whether I pay a lower tax base, I am still a taxpaying voter and want to voice my displeasure (about) the city's continuing practice of allocating.

Hail to Keith, a true journalist

To the editor: Hail to Keith Briscoe — a much maligned and possibly misunderstood man — a word of praise!

Tho' there are many who would like to hang him in effigy — if not in fact; he is still deservant of praise.

He speaks out what he thinks and what he feels — stirring public opinion — causing people to think — to use their minds — to shake us from our apathy — after all this is the true purpose of a journalist — to make us think — to move our souls. He reminds us of our freedoms!

Those who would speak out against this person — who wish that he would speak no more — may someday wish that we had more Keith Briscoes and not less.

Let it not be construed that I support any, or all of his opinions because I do not most of the time!

However, I do praise him for the courage to speak his mind — even if I don't always agree with him — Keith — God still loves you!

Alcohol laws

I am always amazed at the people who clamor about raising drinking ages. They might just as well appear in a Miller Lite commercial, the way they promote drinking.

Persons advocating higher drinking ages never mean to make drinking seem attractive, but they do.

The idea that laws can stop drinking by teenagers or young adults is simply not realistic. The assumption is no more valid when used to promote raising the drinking age to 21 than it was when Texas raised it to 19.

In fact, it simply makes drinking more glamorous, and the laws more fun to flout. When I was in high school, the drinking age was 18, and beer and liquor were easily obtainable. By the time my brother graduated three years later, the drinking age was 19 and the alcohol was still more plentiful.

The laws will only make it that much more of a status symbol; kids will devote that much more effort to getting hold of a bottle somehow.

Someone will always sell liquor to under-age drinkers. Prohibition simply created a greater demand for alcohol. And unfortunately, the well-meaning sponsors of the bill before Congress probably will watch their bill have the same effect.

Stop and think about it. At an age when most persons are rebelling against their parents and authority, society is setting up a big taboo against drinking. Unfortunately, what parents view with distaste is usually idolized by teenagers.

The solution lies with us, the adults, to teach children that drinking isn't that important or that glamorous. Instead, we send out messages that drinking is a totem of adulthood, a symbol of coolness, one of the unspecified items necessary in the pursuit of happiness.

Look at the liquor commercials and their slogans. Grab for the gusto, Michelob light for the winners, Heineken — because you deserve the best.... Have you ever seen an unhappy person in a commercial with a glass of beer or a mixed drink?

We make alcohol seem so important and focal in our lives. We make it attractive. We say alcohol isn't healthy, but how many sports greats do you see promoting beer?

What we need to do is to teach our children how to drink maturely. My parents never hid the fact that they drank, but I remember very few occasions when they were drunk. They always stressed that no one should drink and drive, and they usually followed their rules.

They even made sure that the first time I tried beer and wine was at home under their supervision. As a result, drinking never had the aura of doing something exciting and forbidden. Unlike several of my college roommates and friends, I didn't spend my first year away from home recovering from hangovers every morning and throwing up every night because of excessive drinking.

We don't need to change our laws; we need to change the examples we set.

Sherry Lehigh chosen as employee of month

Sherry Lehigh, secretary in the personnel department of Malone-Hogan Hospital, was chosen as the hospital's employee of the month for June.

The program is sponsored by the hospital's employee activity committee. Winners are chosen from nominations submitted by employees.

"Sherry is like the sunshine for the hospital. She always has a smile for people she meets walking down the hall or just walking by her office on their way home," one employee said. "She is very helpful if you have questions about insurance, vacation time or sick leave. If she doesn't have an answer, she will get the correct information and call you back."

"She is an asset to the hospital," said personnel director Richard Hoolahan, her supervisor. "She genuinely loves her job and the people who come into contact with her."

A native of Iowa, Mrs. Lehigh came to Big Spring in 1983, just six months after her husband accepted the job as administrator at Malone and Hogan Clinic. She filled in temporarily in the hospital's personnel office last summer, then assumed her role as secretary in September, 1983. Before coming to Big Spring, Mrs. Lehigh was assistant educational director at Freeman Hospital in Joplin, Mo.

Mrs. Lehigh and her husband, Dick, have three sons and a daughter: Troy Lehigh of Austin; Tim Lehigh of Big Spring; Todd Lehigh of Bentonville, Ark.; and Terry Hansen of Big Spring. They also have one granddaughter.

Dear Abby

Bisexual minister

DEAR ABBY: It makes me blush to write this, but I have to unload on someone. I can't talk to a minister because I am my own pastor.

I have a wonderful wife and family. The problem is me. I am in love with someone besides my wife. The person I am in love with is another man. He lives in a town nearby, and he is also married. We see each other once a week. I can't understand my feelings — I only know that this man makes me feel more loved than I've ever felt in my life. I suppose that makes me a homosexual.

My wife is a fine person, but I doubt that I was ever really in love with her. Sex was never very important to her, and when we did have sex, she didn't seem at all interested. Could that be the reason I have turned to another man for love?

I know the rights and wrongs of what I am doing, so please spare me the lectures. Thank you for letting me get this off my chest.

FEELS BETTER IN NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR FEELS BETTER: If "unloading" on someone has helped you to feel better, then your letter has served its own purpose. You did, however, ask a question that deserves an answer. You turned to another man for love not because your wife seem disinterested, but because of an unfulfilled sexual urge. You, my friend, are not a homosexual—you are a bisexual.

* DEAR ABBY: I am writing in response to "Needs Answers in Alabama." (She said her son had dated three different girls in the last two years and all three had babies and each claimed her son was the father.)

Just because her son "dated" these girls doesn't prove their babies were his. I'm sure he wasn't the only guy they ever dated. You told that lady that her son needed to learn self-control. I'll bet he didn't force those girls to have sex with him!

Come on, Abby, if someone was giving out free milk, wouldn't you be glad to accept a free gallon or two?

Dr. Donohue

Thoracic outlet syndrome

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been diagnosed as having thoracic outlet syndrome. Two physicians have agreed this is my problem. But they differ on treatment. One physician believes it is a bone causing the pressure. X-rays revealed no extra rib, however.

One physician is recommending surgery. The second doctor believes it is a neck muscle problem and is suggesting physiotherapy first. How can I determine which is the cause and whether surgery is necessary?—T.F.

Second opinions are supposed to settle such things as diagnosis and treatments, aren't they? But often they don't. I can't think of anything more frustrating for the patient than to be faced with a difference in medical opinion.

Thoracic outlet syndrome, for the sake of other readers, is a problem in how the nerves and arteries serving the arms pass out of the chest (thorax), where they originate. To get to the arms they must pass out the top of the chest cage through a relatively narrow opening. That is the thoracic outlet. If it is narrowed beyond normal, then the nerves are pinched and you get pain in the neck, shoulder, arms or hands. Often this narrowing is created by bands of fibrous or muscular tissue. Those bands cannot be seen on X-ray.

Or the outlet may be narrowed because of an extra rib at the top of the rib cage. Even a normal rib may be so placed as to cause the narrowing.

But this difference of opinion should not present a problem. Either doctor should be willing to try non-surgical treatment first. If that doesn't work, then you will need surgery. Simply altering the way you carry your shoulders may give you relief. Strengthening the neck and shoulder girdle muscles have helped some. If such techniques fail to give relief, then surgery to correct the problem can be considered.

Not all back pain originates in the back. In his newest booklet, Dr. Donohue explains the spine, its muscles and nerves and how you can help yourself avoid back problems or ease those you may already have. For a copy of the new booklet, "Backache and Spine Problems," send $1.00 and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

U.S. 87 expansion must await funds

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — State funding of Texas highways must increase before Howard County's request for expansion of U.S. Highway 87 from Big Spring to Sterling City can be considered, members of the Texas Highway Commission said Thursday.

More than 10 representatives from Big Spring, Howard County, San Angelo and Lubbock appeared in support of the highway project that would — if funded along with another project proposals — cost almost $89 million.

That cost includes the construction of a loop that would divert U.S. Highway 87 traffic around Big Spring at a cost of almost $68 million. The Howard County delegation is seeking funding only for a feasibility study of the loop project at this time.

Led by J. Arnold Marshall, chairman of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce's transportation committee, the delegation appeared before the three-member commission during a public hearing seeking state funding for the project that would expand U.S. Highway 87 from Big Spring to Sterling City to a four-lane divided highway instead of a two-lane divided thoroughfare.

Marshall said the expansion is needed for safety reasons and to ensure that the area remains a viable link to industrial and agriculture traffic traveling the route enroute to southern sections of the state.

The proposed loop, Marshall said, is crucial to steering hazardous liquid haulers out of the downtown Big Spring area.

"If we were to have a liquid spill that ran through the heart of downtown," Marshall said, "it could be quite devastating."

The commission, particularly Chairman Bob Lanier of Houston, expressed concern about the $68 million pricetag of the proposed loop. Expansion of U.S. Highway 87 between the Howard County line and State Highway 163 — almost three times as long as the proposed loop — is estimated to cost only $11.6 million, he said.

"Sounds like the loop is in trouble," Lanier said, later noting he is at least sympathetic to a feasibility study.

Lanier said the improvements to U.S. Highway 87 are likely to be placed on the commission's 20-year highway plan, but its place on the roster will depend on the amount of money the Texas Legislature appropriates to the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation in coming years.

Grady Elder, manager of the San Angelo Chamber of Commerce, also spoke in support of the proposed U.S. Highway 87 expansion project.

Delegation members from Big Spring included Johnnie Lou Avery, Hooper Sanders, F. Leroy Tillery, Jerry Worthy, Clyde McMahon Sr., Louie Brown and Jack Smith.

Aides to state Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, and state Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, also appeared at the public hearing.

U.S. Highway 87 enters Texas at the Texas-New Mexico border in the Texas Panhandle and cuts across the state diagonally, ending its course on the Texas Coast at Port Lavaca.

Code rating change cheered

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A suggested new rating code intended to keep children under age 13 from certain PG-rated films is being hailed by some industry leaders as a long overdue change for the nation's movie houses.

"It's a proper and a long overdue response to the needs of the public," Frank Yablans, vice chairman of MGM-United Artists, said Wednesday.

"I'm very happy that everybody at the MPAA (Motion Picture Association of America) and motion picture studio heads have come to their senses and established that much-needed step between PG and R," said director Steven Spielberg, whose recent PG-rated "Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom" and "Gremlins" were criticized as too violent for young children.

Adoption of a PG-13 niche in the rating code would be the first change in the 16-year-old rating system and requires approval of the National Association of Theater Owners and the MPAA, a group of nine big movie companies.

Yablans said polling of the major studios has been going on for two weeks and he expects the new code to be in place by July.

The Motion Picture Association, which has been active in seeking rating code changes, would have no comment, executive assistant Ruth Gronert said Wednesday by telephone from New York.

There remained, however, some confusion as to whether the new PG-13 rating would be a cautionary advisory to parents or a restriction keeping youngsters out of a theater unless accompanied by an adult. Unidentified association officials quoted by the Los Angeles Times today described PG-13 as "more of an advisory caution" that would not keep the youngsters out.

That description was a surprise to two studio executives interviewed by the newspaper but not identified.

"That's not what we bought," said one in reference to the association's survey of film companies for approval of a new rating.

"I don't know what... (is) going on, frankly," said the other, who noted that was not the same code approved by his studio.

The need for some change that would further break down the youthful movie-going audience was, however, generally supported.

"Parents generally don't treat preteen-agers as they do their older brothers and sisters... and the ratings system shouldn't either," said Richard Heffner, chairman of the Classification and Rating Administration ratings board, in a telephone interview from New York.

"I am absolutely delighted with these suggestions for change," he said, but warned that in 10 years as chairman he had seen similar proposals rejected.

"I'm not going to drink a toast until the marriage takes place or the baby is born..." he said.

"We favor the rating which would police the attendance of children under 13 years of age," said Richard Gallop, chairman of Columbia Pictures Industries.

Ronald Miller, president of Walt Disney Productions, also said he was in complete support of the new code designation.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has filed a tariff with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to make end user common line charges associated with Centrex CO service equal to those to be billed to Private Branch Exchange service. The Commission has suspended the proposed tariff until October 1, 1984, or before, and assigned the matter to Docket No. 5686.

The equalization of end user common line charges for Centrex CO service is to be accomplished by a reduction in Centrex service charges. The net effect of the Centrex service charge adjustment and an interstate end user common line charge will be an increase in total billing.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. The first annual Coahoma Girls Softball Tournament held last weekend was a smashing success thanks to a rific organizing job by Julie Hall.

Ten teams entered the tourney with the Colorado City Moonlighters coming back to win the tourney by taking two consecutive games over the Colorado City Stix.

The Coahoma Panthers finished third and the Colorado City Babes placed fourth.

Hall had plenty of help from local girls softball coaches Grady Dorsey, Mike McSwain, Ronnie Burgess and Ronnie Clanton.

According to tournament spokesperson Holly McSwain the tournament went smoothly and everyone is excited about having another one next year, hopefully with a few more teams.

Rocky Yandell completed his leg on the Olympic Torch Relay last Saturday in Lubbock and local YMCA Physical Director Bob Morton was on hand along with Yandell's wife Chris, and their two children Tasha and Ryan to cheer Yandell on his trek that carried from West Highway 114 to downtown Lubbock.

Yandell was greeted in Lubbock by the Texas Tech Marching Band and 4,000 cheering people.

The Big Spring runner stated that carrying the torch and hearing the cheering of the crowd was like "scoring a TD in pro football. "It's a once-in-a-lifetime experience" said Yandell, "like going to the moon."

The torch is on display at Highland Pontiac for the remainder of the month, $2,400 of the $3,000 proceeds donated by Highland Pontiac will go to the YMCA for youth and sports activities.

The first Annual Big Spring Summerfest Competitions will be held July 4 at Comanche Trail Park. The festivities will be held in conjunction with the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center Gala Events.

There are 10 total events including: armadillo races, horseshoes, washers, canoe races, tennis tournament, volleyball, wheelbarrow races and football throw. Other events include the three legged race, obstacle race and a mud pull.

Teams will be made up of four males and four females. Each team must enter all six of the team events and a mixed couple can enter one of the partners events.

Entry fee is $25 per couple or 100 per team. Awards will be trophies for each of the events and a prestigious large trophy will be presented to the overall winners.

For information on entry call 915267-3806.

Big Spring High School Athletic Trainer Everett Blackburn recently returned from the National Athletic Trainers Association Convention in Nashville, Tennessee which was held June 9-13. According to Blackburn there were some very good programs on throwing injuries and the care of injuries.

Lake J.B. Thomas has a new record for black bass. Leroy Geddie of Colorado City brought in a nine pound specimen to Lake Thomas Lodge, and it bested the eight pounders caught by Dennis Love of Snyder in 1982 and Vic Keyes of Big Spring in 1977.

Also at Lake Thomas, Charlie Travis and Dave Knight of Big Spring brought in a stringer with two, three, four and seven pound black bass.

Big Spring native Carla Jackson, a sophomore on the Abilene Christian University found out some terrible news last week as she was preparing for her trip to Los Angeles to compete in the long jump at the Olympic Trials.

Miss Jackson had qualified for the trials with a jump of 21-3 at a earlier meet at McMurry College. This was three inches over the qualifying standard, thus qualifying her for the trials, wrong — what everyone failed to realize is that a wind gauge must be at the site where all athletes qualified for the trials.

So Jackson was not allowed to compete in the meet after thinking all this time that she had. But somehow I get the feeling that Jackson will be around when the 1988 Olympic trials begin.

While on the subject of track and field, two Big Spring youths fared well at the Jesse Owens Meet in Midland last week. Eric Thurman won the 100 meters thus qualifying him for the regional meet in Dallas this weekend. Travis Sinclair finished second in the 50 meters.

ARCO GAMES COMPETITORS — Travis Sinclair (left) and Eric Thurman represented Big Spring in recent Arco-Jesse Owens Games competition in Midland. Thurman will be running the 100 meters in Dallas this weekend as a regional qualifier in the nation wide track and field competition.

City Little League tourney action

Mayfield powers Rangers by Panthers

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

Behind a masterful pitching performance by Neal Mayfield the Rangers of the National League downed the Panthers of the International League by a score of 10-2 in an opening round game of the city Little League Tournament played at the National League Park.

Mayfield, one of seven 12-year-olds on a veteran Rangers squad, limited the Panthers to just two hits and struck out striking out 10 while going the distance. He also aided his own cause by going three for three at the plate with two triples and a single.

Mayfield didn't allow the Panthers a hit the first three innings as he faced the minimum of nine batters, fanning six. He lost his bid for a no-hitter in the top of the fourth when Panther leadoff batter Kevin Nichols slapped a single to right field.

The Rangers held a 8-0 lead at the time, Nichols advanced to third and scored when Mark McKinney was put out on a fielder's choice. The Panthers only other hit and run came in the sixth and final inning when Panther pitcher Mike Gamboa singled. The Panthers then loaded up the bases and scored a run on a passed ball before Mayfield ended the contest by striking out McKinney.

On the other hand Gamboa did not pitch a shabby game himself. The 10-year-old hurler pitched five innings and allowed eight hits while striking out six. His teammates' fielding didn't help matters much as they committed 10 errors which led to six unearned runs — five of the runs scoring in the second inning thanks to five Panther errors.

The only hit in the stanza was a triple by Mayfield who was thrown out trying to score on an infield hit. Artie Valdez, Brandon Mullins, Jason Peterson, Rudy Diaz and John Vidlak all scored in the bottom of the second as the Rangers jumped out to a 5-0 lead.

The Rangers added three more runs in the third as Mayfield led off with his second three-bagger of the night and scored on a single by Valdez, who had two hits for the game. The Rangers then proceeded to load up the bases with two outs.

Bobby Gerstenberger then singled to left field and the ball went through the leftfielder's legs as everyone scored at it seemed Gerstenberger had an inside-the-park grand slam. But a runner didn't tag third base and only two runs were allowed, but it was than enough for the Panthers.

Rangers manager Al Garcia was pleased with Mayfield's pitching performance and the overall performance of his team. "Neal pitched a strong game," said Garcia. "He has really come on strong for us near the end of the season. We have an experienced squad, if we keep our heads in the game we'll do good."

The win ups the Rangers record to 10-5 while coach Rick McKinney's Panthers, with the entire team returning next season, end the season at 6-9. The Rangers will do battle with the Pirates of the American League at the American League Park at 7:30 p.m.

Other tourney results

In other tournament action the American League Colts and the Texas League Falcons hooked up in a extra inning battle that saw the Colts win 5-4 in the bottom of the seventh inning when Louis Solden doubled of the fence and Joe Downey singled up the middle scoring Solden with the game winning run.

Eric Hillyer got the win for the Colts as he came in relief for Solden. Falcon relief pitcher Calvin Marion took the loss, Chris Cole started for the Falcons.

Solden led the Falcon bats with two doubles and a single. Hillyer, ANOTHER ONE BITES THE DUST — Hawks catcher Lance Deal tries to dig a pitch out of the dirt in Wednesday's night game against the Ponies. The Hawks went on to down the Ponies by a score of 21-1, advancing them to the second round of tourney play against the Lions tonight at 7:30 at the National League Park.

Downey and Cam Clinton all got timely hits for the winners. Marion and Michael Williams paced the Falcons bats.

The Colts will battle the International League Indians tonight at 7:30 at the International League Park.

In a game played at the International Field, the National League Yankees rallied from a 10-4 deficit in the fourth inning to down the International League Pirates 14-11.

Yankees pitcher Gary Watkins paced a balanced Yankees hitting attack with a two run homer and a single shot. The Yankees, now 5-10 for the year will battle the Texas League Red Sox today at 6 p.m. at the Texas League Park.

Rounding out tournament action was the American League Hawks blasting the Texas League Ponies by a score of 21-1.

In assault trial Landry testifies for White

MCKINNEY, Texas (AP) — Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry came to the defense of Danny White during the quarterback's misdemeanor assault trial, testifying that he might also slap a teenager if he felt his family was threatened on the highway.

Landry also told jurors Wednesday that White's job with the National Football League team is not in jeopardy because of the trial, which was scheduled to enter its fourth day today.

White is charged with assaulting Plano High School football player Jon Michael Clark. The 17-year-old says the Cowboys signal-caller tried to run him off a rural road for no apparent reason and then punched him in the nose at a stop light.

White claims he slapped Clark in self-defense after Clark instigated a dangerous game of speeding up and slowing down and almost forced White's van, carrying three of his children, into a head-on collision at 80 mph.

White faces a year in prison and a $2,000 fine if convicted.

Landry, called by the defense as a character witness and mobbed by autograph seekers during a recess, testified that he believed White wouldn't have hit Clark without provocation.

Landry said if he and his children were "under the same type of stress situation that Danny was under, I might do the same thing."

White testified that Clark's Camaro kept accelerating as he tried to pass on the two-lane road, leaving the van in the lane of oncoming traffic.

His actions on the roadway were scrutinized Wednesday during cross examination by prosecutor Randall Blake.

"You had at least two very reasonable alternatives — you could have slowed down and fallen in line behind the Camaro or you could have pulled off the road," Blake said to White.

Rampant gobbledygook under fire

By MARCUS ELIASON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — The next time an official writes a letter that says "notwithstanding anything contained herein before to the contrary," he had better watch out for Chrissie Maher.

Mrs. Maher is co-director of the Plain English Campaign, a pressure group dedicated to stamping out the gobbledygook rampant in British government and big business.

Her latest battle is with the borough of Ealing, west London, which this month bludgeoned 150 of its citizens with the following:

"Take notice that, for the purpose of enabling the Council of the London Borough of Ealing to make Article Four Direction relating to property at the above address and to serve copies of Article Four Direction in accordance with Article Four of the Town and Country Planning General Development Order 1977, the Council pursuant to section 284 of the said Act hereby require you to state in writing to the Council within 21 days after the date on which this notice is served."

And so on through paragraphs (1) and (2), broken down into (a), (b) and (c) and climaxing with a choice between (a) or (b).

In addition, Ealing citizens were threatened with a 1,000-pound ($1,400) fine or two years in jail if they did not complete the form.

The council was trying to find out whether residents owned or rented their homes, but about 50 people — fully one-third of all recipients — had trouble reading it and complained to the council.

Mrs. Maher's organization thrives on this sort of "legalistic rubbish," as she puts it. "Writers," she says, "sometimes get so entangled in their own jargon that they need an outsider to pull them free."

The Ealing authorities are unrepentant, says her partner, Martin Crutts. He said the borough's lawyer had written to him saying that he thought the above-quoted first section of the form was "quite straightforward."

But the Ealing council says it is trying to write a simpler version.

Mrs. Maher and Crutts began their war against officialese while working for a citizen's advice bureau. Finding that most of the problems brought to them involved incomprehensible official documents, they set up their Plain English Campaign in 1979.

It has done so well that the two have gone professional. They say they have been approached by 150 government and municipal offices as well as businesses to translate their officialese into simple English.

For instance, a car rental company's contract says "in the event of breakdown, the owners will at their own expense collect the vehicle and effect repairs therein." After Miss Maher's treatment, it becomes "if the vehicle breaks down, the owners will at their own expense collect it and repair it."

Crutts said in an interview that officials often suffered from "a kneejerk reaction to reach for the legalistic phrase." He said "many people think it is beneath their dignity to use a single word where several will do. They never consider who is reading their letters. It could be an old-age pensioner, or someone for whom English is a second language."

Crutts said his organization charged the equivalent of about

$2,800 to clarify a 30-page government document and arrange it in an easy-to-read format.

Favorite flights of officialese, he said, were "notwithstanding anything contained herein before to the contrary," which means "despite what was said in paragraph 2," and "false or defective in any material particular," meaning "if anything you have put down on this form is not true."

Mrs. Maher, 46, has a special qualification for her skill. She grew up in poverty and left school illiterate. She learned to read and write at age 17.

Newspapers nix promo ads

By The Associated Press
The Michael Jackson concert tour may be the hottest ticket in the country this summer, but several Midwest newspapers are refusing to run the tour promoters' "public service" advertisements containing ticket applications.

"My feeling is that this is an opportunistic venture to try and get free advertising ... to make more millions for the Jacksons and their promoters," said Bob Haring, executive editor of the Tulsa World, which refused to run the half-page ad.

Asking newspapers to run the coupons free was the only way to give "a cross section of America" an opportunity to attend the concerts, the tour's promoters said Wednesday.

The Jacksons Victory Tour, which includes the pop music superstar and his five brothers, opens in Kansas City's Arrowhead Stadium, July 6-8, and will continue with 39 more concerts in 11 cities. So far, only two other concert sites have been announced — Texas Stadium in Dallas, July 13-15, and the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., July 21-23.

"There is only one way to buy tickets. And this is it," said the ads. Newspapers are being asked to run. It says tickets are $30 each, they'll be sold in lots of four and those getting tickets will be selected at random by computer.

Applications must include a $120 U.S. postal money order and the coupon, which promoters have said would be available in most major newspapers. Ticket-buyers will not be allowed to request dates, only cities. Those applicants not selected will have their money refunded four to six weeks after the concert.

In Kansas, the Wichita Eagle-Beacon and the Topeka Capitol-Journal refused to run the advertisement. Mary McCoy, retail ad manager for the Eagle-Beacon, said she thought the request "was pretty presumptuous. Under no circumstances would we run a promotion like this."

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR IN SITU BRINE MINING PERMIT
PERMIAN BRINE SALES, INC., Route 3, Box 303, Odessa, Texas 79763 has applied to the Texas Department of Water Resources for a Class III brine solution mining permit (Proposed Permit No. BR50081) at the Stanton Brine Station in order to recomplete the plugged and abandoned McAdams Lewis #1 Well as a brine well. The well was drilled to a total depth of approximately 8,147 feet in January, 1964, and was plugged in February, 1962. The proposed permit will authorize the production of 10 lb./gal. brine from a brine well located on a 2.3 acre permit area which consists of two freshwater wells at the site which will be operated as fresh process water supply wells with at least one well serving as a monitor well to detect any contamination resulting from the brine operation. Surface facilities consist of brine storage facilities (four 500 bbl steel brine storage tanks), two freshwater storage tanks, a pump house, loading facilities, and a lined spill catch basin. The production zone is the Salado Salt Formation in the approximate subsurface interval between 1,600 and 2,000 feet. The maximum allowable surface injection pressure of the brine well is 740 psig. No surface discharge is authorized by this permit.

The Stanton Brine Station is located on a 2.3 acre site approximately 1.5 miles northwest of Stanton off FM 3113. The brine well is located 1,200 feet from the south line and 1,200 feet from the east line of Section 9, Block 36 of the Texas-Pacific Railroad Survey, Martin County, Texas.

Legal Authority: Sections 26.028 and 27.018 of the Texas Water Code, as amended, and Chapters 341 and 353 of the Rules of the Texas Department of Water Resources.

No public hearing will be held on this application unless an affected person who has received notice of the application has requested a public hearing. Any such request for a public hearing shall be in writing and contain (1) the name, mailing address and phone number of the person making the request; and (2) a brief description of how the requester, or persons represented by the requester, would be adversely affected by the granting of the application. If the Commission determines that the request sets out an issue which is relevant to the permit decision, or that a public hearing would serve the public interest, the Commission shall conduct a public hearing, after the issuance of proper and timely notice of the hearing. If no sufficient request for hearing is received within 30 days of the date of publication of the notice concerning the application, the permit will be submitted to the Commission for final decision on the application.

Requests for a public hearing and/or requests for further information concerning any aspect of the application should be submitted in writing to the Chief Hearings Examiner, Texas Water Commission, P.O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711. Telephone (512) 475-2678.

The world is beating up on Willie. So Willie's about to beat up on Willie Jr.

Willie hasn't worked in eight months. He stays home every night now, watching Willie Jr. while Sally waits tables down at the corner bar and grill. TV's busted. The fridge is empty. The bills are piling up. And now the kid is crying his head off at 1:30 in the morning. That sends Willie flying from his chair.

Time out, Willie. Time out to cool off. Punch a pillow. Do some sit-ups. Get hold of yourself before you take hold of the kid. Sure you got problems. But he isn't one of them. So why make things worse by hurting a 6-month-old who's just asking for a dry diaper in the only way he knows how? Think about it, Willie. Think about it hard.
