Lawmakers await school plan

Big Spring could pick up extra $1 million state aid

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — If it were available, the best seller at the Texas Capitol Thursday morning would have been a computer printout showing how much state aid each school district would lose or gain under a proposed $2.8 billion school finance plan.

House members and senators anxiously awaited information on how their school districts would fare under the report by a House-Senate conference committee. The House and Senate are expected

Friday to review the agreement, which includes several education reforms.

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock estimated that the Big Spring Independent School District would receive an additional $1.3 million in state aid, but he noted that is a very rough estimate.

Taxpayers may find themselves digging deep in their pocketbooks to pay for the reform, as legislators review a slate of possible state tax hikes. In addition, some legislators are concerned that although their school districts would receive more state aid than before, their local share of the costs would go up, causing local tax increases.

Conferee Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, claimed that the plan should not necessarily force local school districts to boost property taxes. "That is a local decision," he said.

On education policy, some provisions in the conference committee report are a temporary, 15-member appointed State Board of Education; competency testing for teachers and administrators; smaller class sizes K-4; teacher starting pay increase from $11,100 to $15,200 per year; a career ladder for outstanding teachers; and a prohibition against failing grades to participate in extracurricular activities.

"There is no question in my mind, this is the finest educational reform bill in the history of the United States," Gov. Mark White said in a prepared statement.

VETERAN — Tom Hadley announces for the 51st annual Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion.

Veteran voice aims to chute

By CAROL BALDWIN

Interspersed between the spirited horses, angry bulls and seasoned riders at a professional rodeo is the voice of the announcer. It's a voice that many take for granted.

Announcers tie the rodeo together by providing a running commentary of the event. They joke with the clowns, bark out names and scores and provide a little history on the side.

Tom Hadley, 56, has been doing that for 40 years. The veteran announcer is back in Big Spring this week for the 51st annual Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion.

He was in high school when he got his first job announcing the rodeo.

"I got into it by accident." Hadley didn't have enough money to pay his entry fee in the roping event at a rodeo in Lawton, Okla., so he told the producer he was a rodeo clown.

"The guy paid me to be a clown. But the first bull out of the chute about ran over me," Hadley said.

He decided clowning was out of the question and told the producer he was a rodeo announcer. See Hadley page 2-A

Ceremony honors Charlie Creighton

A crowd of more than 4,000 people at the 51st Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion gathered in the rodeo bowl Wednesday night to pay tribute to one of the founders of the event, Charlie Creighton, who died last Friday at 83.

Creighton's horse, covered with a blanket made of bright red carnations, was led into the arena by Creighton's daughter, Luan Stallings. Creighton's boots were placed backwards in the stirrups.

Tom Hadley, announcer for the rodeo, remembered Creighton had been involved with the local rodeo since its inception. He remembered

Creighton at the first rodeo held in the rodeo bowl: "That man has been in the arena ever since...until now."

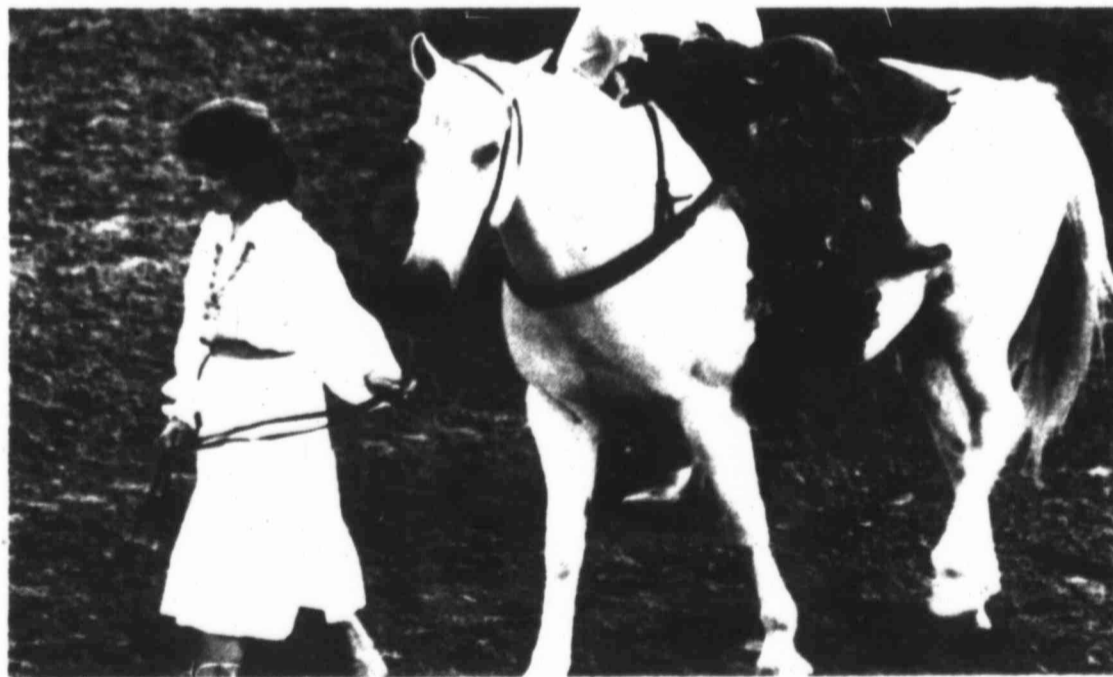

Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church, called Creighton "Mr. Charlie." He told the crowd that Creighton was the last survivor of the original rodeo board.

"Rodeo was near to his heart," Patrick said. "He worked unceasingly, and he inspired others to keep the rodeo going."

Patrick told the crowd, "This is a fitting memorial...He was always a cowboy at heart."

The memorial service followed the traditional grand entry in 4-H students key Far East friendship tour

Three area teen-agers who are going to Japan next month on a 4-H exchange program said this morning they are excited about the trip — and a little scared.

"I'm going to have a good time. I'm really looking forward to it," said 18-year-old Ken Hart, a recent Big Spring High School graduate.

"I really have my mind set on going to a Buddhist temple," said Denette Dick, 14, of Coahoma High School.

Thirteen-year-old Tonya Rock of Forsan Junior High School said she's excited about renewing ties with her friend, Wakako, a former Japanese exchange student who visited her school last year.

The kids gathered this morning in the Howard County Agriculture Extension Office to receive keys to the city of Big Spring from Mayor Clyde Angel.

The teens in turn will present the city keys to mayors of Japanese cities they visit on their trip.

Ken, Denette and Tonya will begin their journey July 21 when they fly from Dallas to Seattle, Wash., to meet 200 other participants in the exchange program. And from Seattle, the group will fly to Tokyo.

According to County Extension Agent Naomi Hunt, the summer exchange program is a joint effort sponsored by 4-H and LABO, a Japanese organization that promotes the learning of languages among young people.

"They meet in their clubs like our 4-Hers, only they learn languages," Ms. Hunt said about the LABO organization.

Among excursions planned for the exchange students during their one-month Japanese visit is a trip to the newly-built Tokyo Disneyland. The Disney theme park opened last year on reclaimed land from Tokyo Bay and is the most modern of the three parks owned by the company.

Other features of the country the kids are excited about trying are the high-speed "bullet trains" that run north and south from Tokyo and the indigenous Japanese baths, which are similar to American hot tubs.

And they will also take part in a four-day LABO camp, where they will camp and cook-out with Japanese language students.

However, none of the teens mentioned a desire to try sushi, the raw fish and rice delicacy that is a staple of the Japanese diet.

Japan exchange students, from left, Tonya Rock, 13; Denette Dick, 14; and Ken Hunt, 18, receive keys to the City of Big Spring to present to mayors of Japanese cities they visit on their trip to the oriental country.

Showers continue

Scattered showers and thunderstorms dampened parts of the nation's midsection early today, dumping up to 2 inches of rain on drought-stricken central Texas, while most of the nation basked under sunny skies.

Tornadoes touched down overnight near the South Dakota towns of Little Eagle and Moberge, but no injuries or damage were reported. Scattered showers also were reported in a broad band from Texas to Minnesota, with several overnight storms scattered in New England and the Carolinas.

About 1 1/2 inches of rain soaked Abilene overnight while golf ball-sized hail fell on Selfridge, N.D., and winds gusted to 70 mph near El Dorado, Texas.

The flood-plagued Plains enjoyed a day of sunshine Wednesday, along with the upper Mississippi Valley east to the Atlantic Coast. Fair skies also were reported in the central Rockies, the Southwest and Pacific Northwest.

Despite the respite from nearly two weeks of rain, the flooded Missouri River reached 29.1 feet near Omaha, Neb., on Wednesday afternoon, matching a summer record set in June 1908, the National Weather Service said.

For the rest of today, the weather service forecast scattered rain and thundershowers along the Atlantic Coast, the eastern Gulf Coast, the lower Mississippi Valley, the Southwest and the Pacific Northwest.

The rest of the nation was expected to enjoy another day of sunny weather.

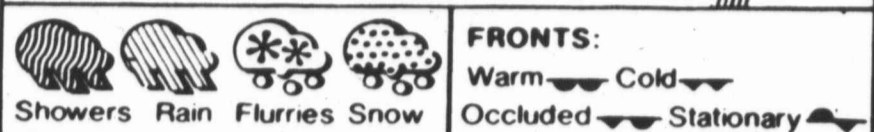

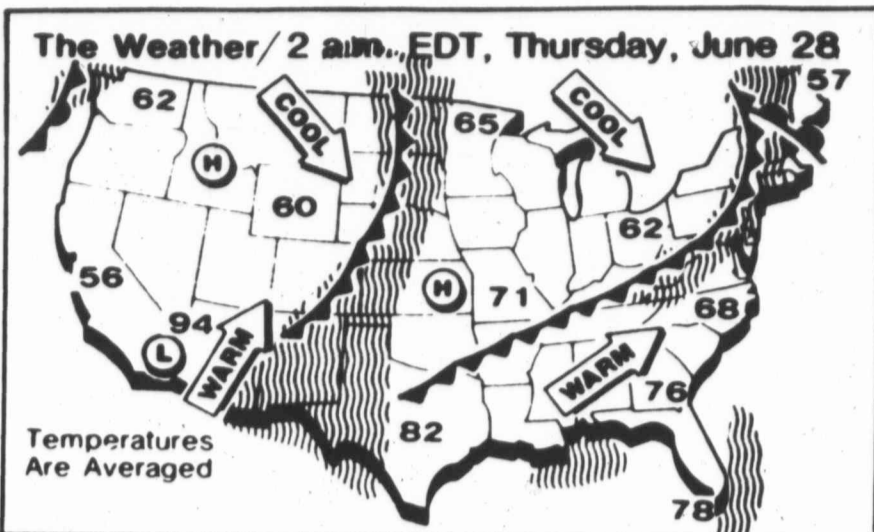

Today's high temperatures were expected to reach the 60s and 70s in the nation's northern tier, with readings in the 80s likely in a broad band reaching from southern Oregon to the Northeast.

Highs in the 90s were forecast for the southern Plains and the South, with the mercury expected to soar over the century mark in the Southwest deserts and the interior valleys of California.

Showers and thunderstorms continued roaming across central and western portions of Texas early today and forecasters said the pattern would continue throughout the day.

The activity was being triggered by the collision of a weak cold front pushing southward into moist air from the Gulf of Mexico.

West Texas - Partly cloudy with little day to day temperature change through Friday. Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms this evening south with isolated showers and thunderstorms north. Isolated to widely scattered showers and thunderstorms south Friday. Lows tonight lower 60s Panhandle to mid 70s extreme south. Highs Friday lower 90s Panhandle to near 106 Big Bend of the Rio Grande.

Police Beat

Man sent to state hospital

A Lubbock man who led police on a Saturday morning high speed chase across the city was transferred to Big Spring State Hospital at 11:02 a.m. Wednesday.

Police chased Rex Davis, 27, who was driving a 1968 tan Volkswagen, across the city's north side and apprehended him as he raced his car across the hilly, mesquite-covered terrain behind Goliad Middle School. After he was stopped, Davis reportedly attempted to assault approaching police officers.

The Lubbock man refused medical treatment at Malone-Hogan Hospital after the chase.

Police charged Davis with aggravated assault, resisting arrest and several traffic violations, and he was released from custody Tuesday afternoon on $6,000 bond.

However, he was arrested again Tuesday night after a Denny's restaurant waitress told police a man ordered $4.67 in food from the restaurant but was unable to pay for it.

In other police reports: Rodney Newell, an employee at the Gregg Street Shamrock service station, told police Wednesday someone entered the business sometime between 9 p.m. Tuesday and 7:50 a.m. Wednesday and stole $500, police reports said.

Jerry Hopkins of 1801 Wallace told police Wednesday that someone damaged the paint job on his red 1970 Volkswagen sometime between 1 a.m. and 6 a.m. Wednesday by using soap, mud, rocks, tomatoes, cheese, a tar-like substance, and possibly ice cream and cooking grease, police reports said.

Randy Burks of 902 Birdwell told police Wednesday that someone sometime between 9:30 p.m. Tuesday and 9:15 a.m. Wednesday entered his yard and stole a 1972 Honda motorcycle, police reports said.

W.E. Phillips of 900 Birdwell told police Wednesday someone between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. Wednesday damaged four tires on two of his vehicles, police reports said. Value of the tires was set at $213, reports said.

Joe Speer of Snyder, owner of a vacant house at 1010 E. 20th, told police someone between midnight and 6 a.m. Wednesday entered the house, stole two nine-socket chandeliers valued at a total of $400, a wall-mounted candle holder valued at $75 and caused $200 in damage to the house's ceiling, police reports said.

ducer he was also a rodeo announcer. The producer, wary of the young man, asked him where he had worked.

"I told him Silver City, N.M., because that sounded way far off." The producer let him try, and Hadley found himself much more comfortable in the announcer's booth.

"I was too scared to be nervous. I didn't know what I was doing," he remembers now with a laugh.

But Hadley was paid $21 for announcing, paid his entry fees in the roping event and won $150. It was enough incentive for the youngster to stay in the profession.

"That was the big time," he said. "I left my bed roll in the trailer and got a room at the motel and ate in a restaurant."

Hadley later attended college on a rodeo scholarship. One day, he and a group of friends tired of the lack of organization on the college level. They gathered one night in 1948 in Alpine and "decided there should be more organization."

That meeting was the beginning of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association. Hadley was the steer wrestling champion in the first NIRA rodeo in 1949 at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.

Hadley quit competing in 1953. "The competition got so good that I couldn't beat them anymore," he said candidly. But his rodeo career was far from over.

He began working as an announcer. Rodeo "is not a get-rich thing. It's a way of life," Hadley said. "I've been all over, to most of the major rodeos."

But Hadley discovered he prefers the smaller rodeos.

"I've worked more than 20 cities where we had big indoor deals. I wore a white tuxedo and used a great vocabulary that I learned in school. But it wasn't natural. One time in Alabama I was out walking (around the rodeo grounds) and I realized I was talking to basic, normal people and I didn't need that language."

Throughout the years Hadley has been a big supporter of rodeo.

"I've seen some guys killed in action, and others hurt so bad it was almost sickening, but they'd be out of the hospital the next day. There are less bad injuries in this than other professional sports."

"Rodeo has done a lot for a lot of people. Rodeo is a very professional sport. It involves every class of people. It is wide-open to the world."

Hadley credits local roping great Toots Mansfield with repairing the reputation of rodeo.

Years ago, "You saw a different class of people in rodeo. There were alcoholics, poker-players, rowdy guys. They might rob a service station."

But when Mansfield took over the job as president of the Rodeo Cowboys Association, he and others on his board "decided they could kick these people out of the association."

"It is so much better these days," Hadley said. "Of course, we've still got boys we're not proud of."

Hadley used to travel constantly. "One year I was on the road for 50 weeks." But today, "the closer I can stay to home, the better I like it. I've seen it, so I'm satisfied."

Hadley has been living in Mason for several years. He and his wife, Jane, live in town, and Mrs. Hadley's family owns a ranch in that area.

Mrs. Hadley travels with her husband as often as she can. The couple drives an old Lincoln to various engagements and has a brand new Cadillac at home. The profession has done well by Hadley.

But these aren't the best times in his career, Hadley said. He remembers being very poor and riding with five friends in one car to a rodeo in Phoenix.

"We were pulling two horses in a trailer. We had just enough money to get there. We ate potatoes we found in a cow barn and stuff we stole out of a garden. We were sleeping in the trailers."

But all five won some cash at the Phoenix rodeo and "we went to town and ordered a beer, a steak and a cigar. We were on top of the world. Those were happy times. That was the best time of my rodeo career."

That's not to say that Hadley isn't grateful to be living his present lifestyle. In January he almost lost that opportunity.

Hadley was driving alone when he rolled his car into a ditch.

"I had to be cut out of the car. My hip was crushed, my ribs were broken, my pelvis was broken and my other hip was broken. (Doctors) gave me no chance to live. I remember thinking 'Well, I've had a good life.'"

But Hadley's wife told him in the hospital, "Tom, don't give up. Don't you give up."

He spent 45 days in the hospital, including two weeks in intensive care. He didn't give up, however, and in March was back on the rodeo circuit.

Rodeo

The rodeo itself was highlighted by the appearance of rodeo clowns Quail Dobbs, Kirby Burney and Rick Young, who provided comedy to the crowd and protection from kicking horses and bulls to the participants.

The rodeo will continue through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. nightly.

Families confirm

15 layoffs at Cosden

Although Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. officials refuse to confirm or deny that layoffs will be discussed during a meeting of top Big Spring plant officials today, employee's families say their relatives brought home news Wednesday night of layoffs or forced early retirements.

A secretary for Russ Westbrook, who heads Cosden's public relations office in Big Spring, said the company would issue a statement later this afternoon. She also said company officials would be in a meeting "most of the day."

She would not disclose the topic of that meeting. "Nothing is finalized," she said.

Fifteen persons will be laid off, according to one employee's wife. "The bosses talked to the men yesterday, and told them there would be layoffs," said the woman. "They (company officials) already had a list."

Cosden also is retiring some of its employees early, she said.

All employees and their relatives spoke on the condition that they not be identified.

The wife of another employee, contacted at home, said her husband found out Wednesday he is being retired early from the company.

"He did find out yesterday (that he was being retired). They can hold him until Dec. 31 so he can train someone else for that job," she said. "But the day he leaves, he starts retirement."

"He didn't know that was going to be until they (company officials) came back from Dallas Wednesday," she said. Her husband will be retired at the end of this month, unless he is needed to train another employee, she said.

About 40 employees were eligible for early retirement, she said. Cosden officials had tried to get 75 percent of that number to agree to early retirement, but were able to get only half, or about 20 persons, to agree to early retirement, she said.

Her husband was one of the persons who agreed, she said.

"He hasn't said anything about layoffs, just retirements," she said. "Of course, I've heard rumors."

Another employee's wife said her husband had talked about layoffs recently and expected the company to layoff some employees.

Employees have been discussing the possibility of layoffs for several months, according to an employee, who said his superior discussed the possibility as long as two or three months ago.

VFW chapter to sell poppies

The local chapter of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Saturday will sell "Buddy Poppies" to "honor the dead by helping the living," according to VFW members.

Funds from the annual sale of the small white poppies benefit disabled and needy veterans, and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans, according to chapter commander John Hughes.

The flowers will be sold by VFW members, who will be assisted by a local Boy Scout Troop, at both malls, in front of the Post Office, the Walmart and TG&Y stores and the Safeway store in the College Park Shopping Center, Hughes said.

Child faces auto theft charge

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - An 11-year-old boy was arrested for the third time on auto theft charges today after leading police on a 45-minute high-speed chase through town, authorities said.

The youngster, who was not identified, was being held at a Bexar County detention center pending a hearing late today.

"This is a unique case," said Tom Broussard, chief juvenile probation officer for the county. "Very rarely do we have an 11-year-old implicated like this three times in three weeks."

The two previous auto theft charges against the boy have been dismissed, Broussard said.

If the youngster is convicted in today's case, he could be placed on juvenile probation, in a halfway house or group home or be committed to a state school for juveniles, Broussard said.

The boy was arrested today after Castle Hills police officer Johnny Andrada noticed two cars racing at about 2:15 a.m., said Police Lt. Al Marin.

One of the cars got away and a check on the other vehicle showed it had been stolen Monday, Marin said.

Sheriff's Log

Man arrested on warrant

Howard County Sheriff's deputies Wednesday arrested a 44-year-old man on a warrant for revocation of probation.

Benjamin Deanda Sr. of 400 N.W. 11th was released from county jail on a $1,000 bond set by County Judge Milton Kirby.

A 16-year-old Stanton boy was arrested Wednesday by the Martin County sheriff's office and transferred to the Howard County sheriff's office. He remains in jail on the authority of the Howard County Juvenile Probation Office.

Carl Winton, 18, of 1904 Nolan was released from county jail on the authority of the 118th District Chief Probation Officer Frank Martinez. Winton had been arrested on a warrant for revocation of probation.

For the record

An article in Tuesday's Herald dealing with city landfill dumping charges stated commercial users of the landfill must pay a $6 fee each time they dump in the site.

According to Public Works Director Tom Decell, commercial landfill users are charged on a variable scale which is tied to the length of the dumping vehicle.

Pickup trucks are charged $2.50 for dumping, vehicles with sideboards that are less than five yards long are charged $4.50 and vehicles longer than five yards are charged $1.25 per yard, he said.

NASHVILLE — Veteran singer Eddy Arnold is lending his famous voice to an Alabama hospital that helped his son survive brain damage from a car accident 13 years ago.

Arnold went to Birmingham, Ala., to make a television-radio commercial Wednesday for Lloyd Noland Hospital, where his son Dick spent 7½ weeks being treated for critical head injuries.

"The hospital helped me, my son and my family," Arnold said before leaving. "I'll never forget them."

Dick Arnold, 35, had been out of the University of Alabama just two weeks in 1971 when he was hurled into the car windshield near Bessemer, Ala. He recovered and now works in the records section for Metro Nashville government.

Royko said he was returning from a late dinner when he saw the two men in the vestibule of the lakefront high-rise. He said he ordered them to leave and they did.

COLUMBUS — R. David Thomas, founder of the Wendy's International fast food chain, has donated 119,000 shares of Wendy's stock to a cancer research hospital to be built at Ohio State University.

The gift is valued at $2.1 million. The hospital is expected to cost $54 million.

"I've known a lot of people who died of cancer," Thomas said Wednesday in announcing the donation. "It's the worst disease with terrible suffering and physical deterioration. Maybe our cancer hospital here will some day find a cure."

"We want Ohio State's Cancer Research Institute to be the best in the nation," he added.

The state has released $40 million for the hospital. OSU spokesman Leon Rubin said $14 million more was needed before Thomas' donation to pay for equipment, operations and for radiation therapy.

FACES OF HOPE — Three of 22 Americans about to be freed from Cuban jails listen to Jesse Jackson (inset) explain plans for their departure to the United States.

'God bless Jesse'

Families await release of Cuban prisoners

By The Associated Press
Families of 22 Americans ordered freed from Cuban jails after negotiations between the Rev. Jesse Jackson and Fidel Castro eagerly awaited the return of their loved ones today, while others were shattered by the news that their relations were not coming home.

"I just knew that Jesse Jackson would bring those boys home," said Betty Wertz of North Miami, whose 29-year-old son, Robert Dana Johnson, has spent his last three birthdays in a prison about 30 miles from Havana.

"I don't even know what kinds of words to use," Mrs. Wertz said.

"I say God bless Jesse," Zina Mazura said Wednesday from her Lake Ronkonkoma, N.Y., home. Her son Richard, 30, has been in a Cuban prison almost three years. "For me, it's like the end of a never-ending nightmare."

As Jackson was leaving for Managua, Nicaragua, Wednesday night, he announced that Castro, the Cuban president, would also free 26 Cuban political prisoners, many of whom have relatives in the United States. No list was given for the political prisoners.

Most of the 22 Americans to be released were serving time on drug charges, and some may face arrest when they return to the United States.

In Stuart, Fla., Patricia Marker Hinton has lobbed for the release of her 62-year-old father, John Marker Sr., ever since he and three others were seized when his boat strayed into Cuban waters in July 1983.

"Until I heard the words from Fidel's mouth, I didn't believe my daddy was ever coming back," Mrs. Hinton said. "I thought he would die over there."

Mrs. Hinton and her brother, John Marker Jr., like many other families, said they would fly to Washington to greet the plane tonight as it arrives from Havana.

"It's something we'd been working for very hard, praying for and hoping for," said Bill Snyder of Niota, Tenn., the father of 24-year-old Alan Snyder, one of three crewmen accompanying Marker on the trip from Jamaica to Vero Beach, Fla.

"There's no telling how many calls my wife's made to Washington," Snyder said via telephone Wednesday.

For other families, however, news of who would be released sent hopes dashing.

"I kind of had myself prepared for that," Barbara Kiefer of Allentown, Pa., said after she learned that her 20-year-old son, Mark, was not listed with those Castro promised to free. "I just kind of knew that his name wasn't going to be on the list."

The prisoners

Here is a list of the 22 American inmates to be freed by Cuba today:

Omar Ortega, 21, Miami; Julian Rodriguez, 62, Florida; Robert Dana Johnson, 28, Miami; Bill Wicks, Miami; Lesley McElveen, 37, Miami; Reuben Dingell, 37; Terry Jacoby, 32; Doug Hudson, Miami; Calvin Privette, 27, Newport News, Va.

James Decker, 32, Naples, Fla.; Mark M. News in brief

By the Associated Press Israel bombs PLO island

BEIRUT — Twelve men were killed and at least 20 wounded in an Israeli attack on an island near Lebanon's northern port of Tripoli, police said. Israel said its navy destroyed a "terrorist boat" today near the island.

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv said the attack Wednesday night was directed against a Palestine Liberation Organization base used as a launching point for guerrilla attacks against Israel. It was the 12th Israeli air raid on Lebanon this year.

Twenty-five people were reported missing after Wednesday's attack.

Israel, Syria swap POWs

TEL AVIV — Israel today exchanged more than 300 Syrian military and civilian prisoners for six Israelis who had been held by Syria, the first prisoner transfer between the two countries in 10 years.

The Israeli military command said Israel released 291 Syrian soldiers captured during Israel's 1982 invasion of Lebanon and 20 Syrian civilians imprisoned on security and espionage charges.

Also exchanged were the bodies of two Israelis and three unidentified war casualties who may be among Israelis missing in action from the Lebanon war. Israel returned the remains of 72 Syrians.

Iraqi jet attack kills 7

BAHRAIN — Seven crewmen were killed in the Iraqi missile attack on the Swiss-chartered oil tanker Tiburon, and ship was still on fire in the Persian Gulf near Iran, shipping sources said today.

The casualty toll, if confirmed, would be the highest reported in a single raid since commercial ships began coming under attack in the gulf four months ago as an outgrowth of the Iran-Iraq war.

The shipping sources said the 260,000-ton Tiburon, hit by Iraqi warplanes Wednesday, was burning today near Iran's Kharg Island oil shipping terminal. They said an undetermined number of crewmen were injured.

UK unions call strike

LONDON — Union members supporting striking coal miners disrupted commuter rail service Wednesday and kept off the streets three newspapers that refused to print a statement backing the 16-week-old walkout.

But bus and subway drivers in London largely ignored a call by the national labor federation, the Trades Union Congress, to stop work and attend a rally in London.

Drought's effect could be worse

The drought gripping Big Spring is part of a wider phenomenon affecting much of Texas. In some cities, the concern reaches beyond agricultural and ranching interests to basic water supply for individuals.

Barring an unexpected downpour, San Antonio will begin voluntary water conservation measures next week. Mandatory rationing goes into effect in Corpus Christi on July 1, making two big cities with big water problems.

San Antonio draws its water from the Edwards Aquifer, which Thursday was at 627.85 feet at one test well — its lowest level since the prolonged drought of the mid-1970s. The level has been sinking an average of a foot a day.

The best prospects for substantial rains have passed with the passage of spring and ahead lies the possibility of a hot, dry summer. We're still optimistic for moisture in the fields. But at least we'll have water for our lawns — and for our tables.

This vote is crucial

As the Democrats prepare to nominate Walter Mondale for president, they are resigning themselves to defeat in November. Big deal, right? They've lost elections before without endangering their majority status. There's another election in four years. Things will be different then.

Well, maybe, and maybe not. This is beginning to look like one of those pivotal elections that establishes voting patterns for decades to come. In 1984, Ronald Reagan may do for the Republican Party what Franklin Roosevelt did for the Democrats half a century ago.

Democrats shouldn't be scared by the mere prospect of getting trounced. George McGovern did that, with no lasting damage to his party. The problem is not that they may lose, but how they may lose.

Gordon S. Black, who does polls for USA Today and an assortment of private corporations, says the danger lies in Ronald Reagan's popularity among young voters. Mondale, everyone knows, has done poorly among the young in the Democratic primaries. That's no surprise: Mondale is as different from Gary Hart as Perry Como is from Michael Jackson. But it is surprising that the oldest president in history, and one of the most conservative, will probably capture the youth vote.

Black's polls show Reagan leading Mondale among all voters by a 58-to-35 margin. But he's loved best by voters who are young enough to be his grandchildren. Sixty-nine percent of the voters between the ages of 18 and 25 prefer Reagan, with only 28 percent choosing Mondale. His second strongest showing is among voters between 26 and 39.

This is a distinct improvement for Reagan over his showing in 1980, when he and Jimmy Carter almost exactly divided the votes of Americans under 30. But even that illustrated the progress the GOP has made among the young: In 1972, while McGovern was self-destructing so spectacularly, he got 52 percent of voters between the ages of 18 and 24. Voters under the age of 25 are more likely than any group except the elderly to call themselves Republicans.

The risk for the Democrats is that a Reagan-Mondale contest may push large numbers of young people permanently into the Republican camp — much as the 1936 race between Roosevelt and Alf Landon made the Democrats the party of youth.

As Black notes, shifts in party loyalty don't happen in one election. It wasn't FDR's 1932 victory that was crucial, but his reelection in 1936. Likewise for Reagan in 1984.

Once those mass migrations occur, they're nearly impossible to undo: Until the 1930 congressional elections, the GOP had dominated Congress for 36 years, losing control only during Woodrow Wilson's presidency. Between 1930 and 1980, however, the party had a majority in the House of Representatives for only two years and in the Senate for just four.

The key to the Democrats' success, Black argues, was the large number of young Americans who were won over by Roosevelt in the 1930s. After that, Democratic growth was largely a demographic phenomenon: Republicans were generally older, so they died off faster.

But the key to getting large shifts in pronounced differences between the parties — as in 1932 and 1936, as in 1980 and (probably) 1984. The sharper the contrast, the more likely voters will feel strongly pulled to one, or repelled by the other. If the differences persists for two or three elections, those voters will start to identify themselves with one party or the other.

Then, even if the losing party moves closer to its opponent's, it may be too late. The GOP, after nominating two candidates perceived as rock-ribbed conservatives against Roosevelt, tried "me-too" Republicans (Wendell Wilkie and Thomas Dewey) in the 1940s. By then, the damage was done. If the Democrats insist on sticking with Mondale this year, they risk alienating a lot of voters for good.

In doing so, they may precipitate a political transformation that Ronald Reagan would never be able to achieve on his own. This election may be a contest not just for the White House, but for the allegiance of a generation of voters, and for political control of the country into the next century.

Nuke security unfit for other lands

WASHINGTON — The possibility that terrorists could raid one of the Energy Department's 15 nuclear weapons plants and steal plutonium or nuclear devices is a recurring nightmare for government security experts.

So last March, two hours after a DOE security team told House subcommittee staffers how easy it had been to penetrate a super-sensitive Los Alamos National Laboratory weapons-assembly facility in mock attack, Energy Secretary Donald Hodel ordered the assembly plant closed.

A prompt bureaucratic response to a dangerous situation, right? Wrong. The department had been warned four years earlier that the Los Alamos plant was a sitting duck for any terrorist gang that might decide to drop in.

But DOE officials not only failed to take remedial action to protect the weapons-grade material and assembled nuclear devices, they repeatedly assured Congress that everything was being taken care of. And after four years of DOE stalling, Hodel had the gall to tell Congress that the facility had been shut down "promptly" after an internal investigation revealed inadequate safeguards against theft.

This was too much for Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the House Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee. In a scathing letter to Hodel, Dingell noted that DOE security specialist Vance Hudgins had told a recent secret session of the subcommittee just how bad the situation had been in 1980 — when the first whistle was blown on Los Alamos security.

Hudgins "reluctantly admitted that if Los Alamos, in 1980, had been a sovereign nation, he would have had to recommend to the assistant secretary for defense programs (DOE) that no special nuclear material be shipped to Los Alamos until the security at the facility was substantially upgraded," Dingell wrote. He added, "That is the single most shocking admission possible."

My associates Indy Badhwar and John Dillon have been investigating the shockingly lax security conditions at DOE's nuclear weapons plants. They learned that in January 1980 an independent assessment team reported to the Energy Department that the Los Alamos facility was so poorly guarded that the critical "S" site, where nuclear test devices were assembled, was defenseless against terrorist attack. The team had suggested that the Los Alamos facility be closed and its functions transferred to the Nevada Test Site.

After this clear warning, DOE officials told Congress that a crash program had been undertaken successfully to correct the security weaknesses. Dingell was not convinced, so in 1983 he sent subcommittee investigators to check the New Mexico weapons plant.

"They found, among other problems," Dingell wrote Hodel, "that the 'S' site at the laboratory had never been tested using viable exercises ..." The congressional sleuths concluded that the facility was still defenseless against attack.

The subcommittee staffers urged DOE officials to close down the facility. But the agency brass insisted that the plant could be defended — and even if it couldn't, any decision to close the plant rested with lower-level officials.

"In other words," Dingell wrote, "the security at Los Alamos was held hostage to bureaucratic paralysis while your office did not focus on the problem."

DOE finally agreed to send its own evaluation team to test the Los Alamos security. The results were described by Dingell as a "shocking commentary" on DOE's security programs. In two mock terrorist attacks, the DOE security team was able to steal plutonium; in another test, it demonstrated how easily a gang of intruders could have stolen a nuclear device. Two hours after they reported their frightening success to the subcommittee staff, Hodel shut down the plant.

GUATEMALAN REFUGEES: While the headlines focus on El Salvador and Nicaragua, the plight of some 46,000 Guatemalan refugees who fled for their lives in Mexico has gone largely unnoticed. The refugees — descendants of the Mayans who once ruled Mexico and Guatemala — are about to be relocated by the Mexican government 125 miles north of the border into the sparsely populated state of Campeche.

The ostensible reason for the relocation is the Mayans' own protection. In some of the 92 refugee camps along the southern border of Mexico, they are demonstrably not safe from armed attack from Guatemala, which considers them subversives. On April 30, for example, Guatemalan army troops crossed the border and attacked a camp at El Chupadero, killing six refugees.

The Mexican government responded with an official protest — and the removal of 95 families inland on May 31. Ed Fisher, a U.S. human rights worker, noted that the April attack was only the latest of 68 such armed attacks over the past three years. He insists that only a handful of the refugee camps are in dangerous locations.

Fisher suspects the Mexican government has another reason for the relocation besides the refugees' safety. Noting that Campeche officials have said they have a labor shortage, Fisher thinks it possible the Mayans will be used as forced laborers.

Whatever the motivation for the relocation, critics — including the Catholic Church — fear that it could turn into a catastrophic "long march" in which hundreds of Mayans will die as they trek through the roadless wilderness. The Catholic Church also opposes the forced relocation.

The refugees themselves dread the move for another, more basic reason: They're afraid if they go too far from the border area, they may never go home again. As one refugee wrote: "Our will and our thinking is to return to Guatemala some day. ... To go to Campeche would represent integrating ourselves into Mexican society."

Footnote: The latest word from Mexico is that 40 to 45 Indian families are being moved every three days. About 2,500 refugees have resisted and fled to a farm in the area owned by the Catholic diocese. It is uncertain whether the Mexican government will allow them to stay.

Billy Graham

Victim's fear

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I was a victim of child abuse when I was a child, and I wonder if that is the reason I seem to have so many problems getting along with people. I find I am very short-tempered, for example, and just never seem to be able to have lasting friendships. Do you think this might be the reason for my problem? — J.G.U.

DEAR J.G.U.: Yes, this could be at least a part of the reason you have a hard time with your relationships. You might even find it helpful to get some type of counseling that would help you understand yourself better and give you some insight into ways you can get along with people. Your pastor could probably suggest a trained counselor, and you should not feel embarrassed about pursuing this.

At the same time, no matter what the reasons may be for your difficulties, there are several steps you can take to be more friendly. For example, ask God to help you be more patient with others. Often we become impatient and short-tempered because people are not doing what we want them to do. But we need to be less selfish, and be more sympathetic to their problems and shortcomings. The Bible says, "The fruit of the Spirit is ... patience" (Galatians 5:22).

Then learn the art of forgiveness. When other people do things that hurt your feelings, don't react with anger or sharp words. These only make the situation worse. "Bear with each other and forgive whatever grievances you may have against one another" (Colossians 3:13). Instead, the Bible says, "Live in harmony with one another ... Do not repay anyone evil for evil ... overcome evil with good" (Romans 12:16,17,21). This suggests another clue for getting along with people: Think of ways you can do little things that will help others and show them you care for them.

The most important thing you can do, however, is accept God's friendship for you. God loves you. He is not short-tempered with you, nor does he turn his back on you when you do things that displease or even insult Him. Instead, God cares for you so much that He wants you to become His child through faith in Jesus Christ. Ask Christ to come into your heart by faith, and then you will discover He is able to give you a new love and concern for others.

The choirboys

Dallas residents arrested by singing of 'pretty tough cops'

DALLAS (AP) — They're not your typical choirboys. In fact, some of the 21 members of the newly-formed Dallas Police Choir have been described as "pretty tough officers."

But once the jokes are over and the laughter dies, people listen. "They can't believe we're that good," said group coordinator, Gene Hagen. "When they first hear us, they sit around and laugh and say, 'These guys are gonna make fools of themselves.' Within three minutes, you could hear a pin drop and they're standing there with their mouths hanging open," Hagen said.

Nevertheless, choir members have had to bear the brunt of sharp criticism — mostly from fellow officers — who can't reconcile the idea of singing with that of a police badge. The critics gripe that the chorus is creating an image they'd rather live without.

"Come on, Choirboys? Give me a break,"

one arson investigator, who asked not to be identified, told the Dallas Times Herald. "We're trying to convey a rough-and-tough image ... I mean, it's a sweet idea, but the Police Department is not supposed to be sweet."

But Police Chief Billy Prince, a big choir fan, shrugs off the criticism, arguing that the choir has been a boost to the department's civic image.

"I know some of the guys in the choir, and believe me, they're pretty tough officers," Prince said. "When I first saw them, I saw some in there that I thought to myself, 'He's in the choir?'"

"But really, they're all trained police officers and are out there every night putting their lives on the line with all the rustle-tussle on the streets," the chief said.

The choir was organized by Dick Hickman, the president of the Dallas Police Association, who wanted a group of officers to go Christmas caroling. It was kept alive by officer Dan Whittington, who once co-directed a local barbershop quartet.

"With over 2,000 personnel in the department, I thought there surely must be enough people for at least the nucleus of a choir," said Whittington, who now is the group's director.

The choir has sung at City Hall, at funerals and at luncheons, and plans to sing downtown during the noon lunch hour on July 2. Another engagement is scheduled for a Fourth of July festival at the Cotton Bowl.

Prince said he's proud of the group. "It demonstrates visually and audibly what the police are about, and that they're human beings like everyone else," he said.

But the cynics remain.

Mexico calls for bilateral immigrant laws

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican Senate called for bilateral agreements on the issue of illegal immigrants in the United States, the government newspaper El Nacional reported Wednesday.

The call was made in a Senate declaration saying such an agreement with the United States is necessary because U.S. immigration laws will affect the economies of both countries.

The Senate said it is not in the long-term interests of Mexico to permit or encourage an increased immigration into the United States. Mexico must create jobs to deal with the problem, the Senate said.

The declaration also said the Senate does not want to interfere in the U.S. legislative process and aspects of the immigration issue should be considered separately by each country. It added, however, that the general labor aspect of the issue is "an economic and social phenomenon of great dimensions and of traditional practice between our countries which, in the opinion of the Senate, requires a specific treatment on the part of both nations."

The Senate did not specify in what ways immigration could be dealt with in a joint manner. It said that it would like to encourage "bilateral agreements between the two countries, which would regulate adequately the condition of migratory workers and give them priority of work, with full respect for their dignity, without discriminations and with justice for their labor qualities."

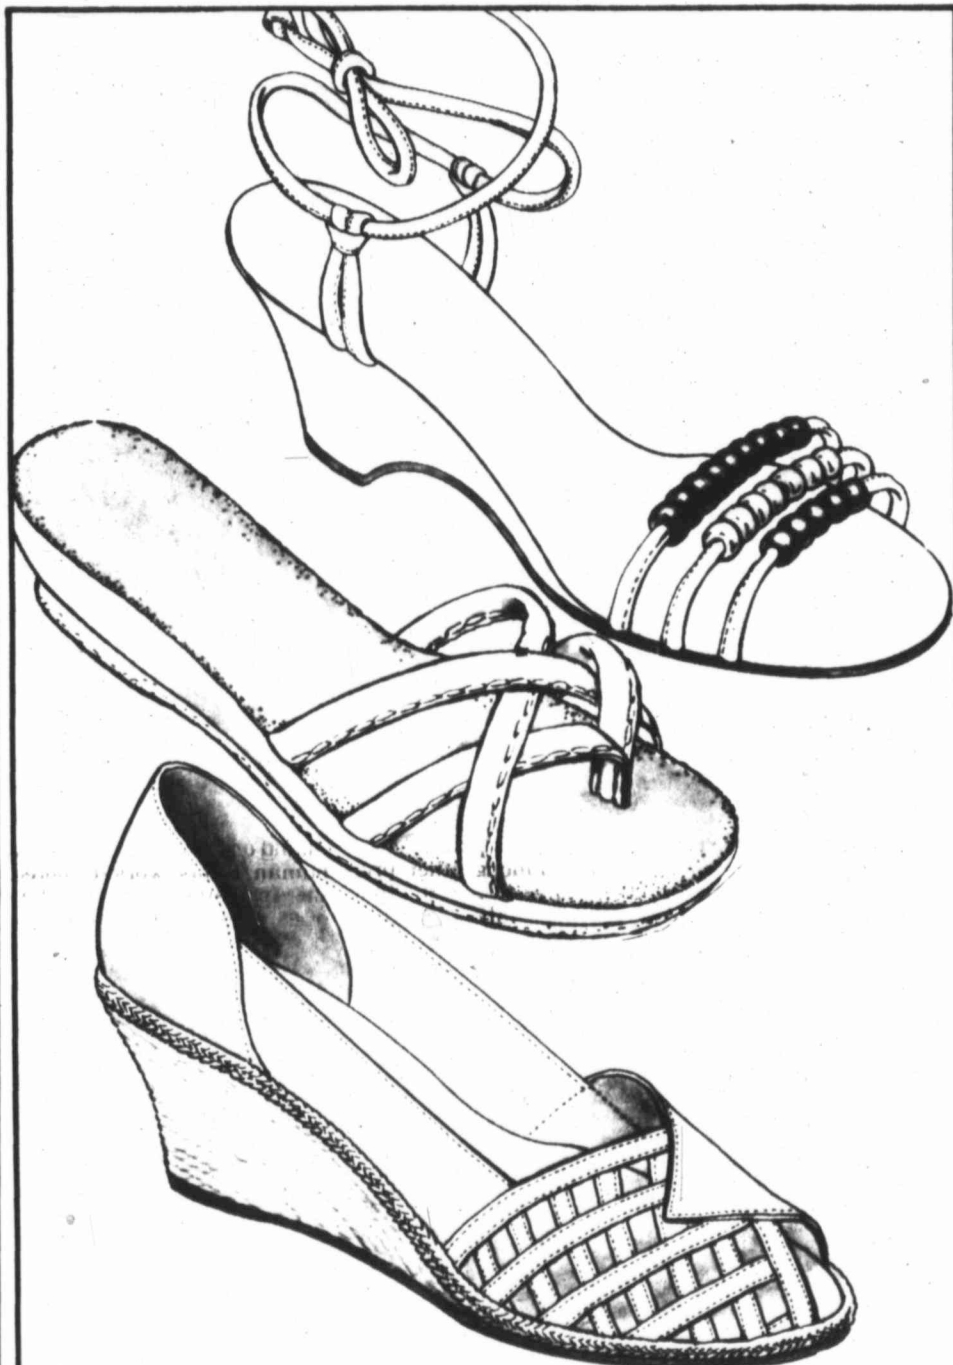

Estimates are that about half of the 6 million or more illegal aliens in the United States come from Mexico. The administration of President Miguel de la Madrid has been careful not to comment on the immigration control bill currently under consideration by the U.S. Congress, saying it is an American domestic matter.

However, the Senate traditionally reviews and makes statements on foreign policy issues. It is dominated by the Institutional Revolutionary Party that has governed Mexico for more than 50 years, and to which de la Madrid belongs.

The debate on immigration in the U.S. Congress has been of major interest in Mexico, meriting front-page treatment that continues a week after the final House vote on the bill.

A conference committee of the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives must now work out a compromise version of the separate bills passed in each chamber.

BEHIND BARS — The Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor is encased in a shroud of scaffolding while workmen Wednesday continued renovations.

Space shuttle suffers minor damage; launch in 2 weeks

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The space shuttle Discovery suffered only minor fire damage during its aborted liftoff and a third attempt to launch the craft may be made in 10 to 14 days, a NASA official said Wednesday.

But NASA officials said they do not expect to set a new launch date until they have completely assessed the impact of Discovery's engine shutdown Tuesday, just four seconds before the shuttle was to blast off with a crew of five men and a woman.

A computer detected that a valve in one of the three main engines was not operating properly and ordered a halt to the firing sequence after one engine had ignited. The astronauts sat calmly in Discovery's cabin for 45 minutes while the launch control center made sure the ship was safe.

Commander Henry Hartsfield said later his crew "never had any great apprehension or concern," although they briefly considered "bailing out" by sliding down a 1,200-foot slide wire.

It was the second straight day a launch attempt had been thwarted. On Monday, a faulty backup computer forced a postponement just nine minutes before the planned liftoff.

Glynn Lunney, shuttle manager at the Johnson Space Center in Houston, said an initial inspection showed only minor damage to the engine area and he was optimistic the flight could be launched within 10 to 14 days.

Hollywood adopts new PG-13 movie rating

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A new film rating urging parents to give "special guidance for attendance of children under 13" was announced Wednesday by the film industry.

The move to the PG-13 rating follows protests over violence in such PG-rated movies as "Gremlins" and "Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom."

The new system was announced by Joel Resnick, president of the National Association of Theater Owners, and Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America.

It will fit between the PG, or "parental guidance suggested," rating and the R rating, which requires that children under 17 be accompanied by parent or guardian.

Films already released will not be affected.

The change, to take effect July 1, is the first ratings change since the system was instituted by the Motion Picture Association in 1968, and it reflects the fact that movies — and public attitudes — have changed in the interim.

"General criticism of the ratings system has centered on the apparent real-life reduction in ratings to just two, PG and R, with the G category and the X category used with increased rarity," Valenti and Resnick said in a prepared statement.

"Moreover, there have been a number of films in the marketplace over the past several years whose content has placed them somewhat awkwardly beyond the PG and yet not clearly within the R."

Charity thinks brandy's dandy

ST. HELENA, Calif. (AP) — An annual auction of Napa Valley wines, including a case of brandy that went for $21,000, raised a record $600,000 for two local hospitals and a clinic, auction officials said Wednesday.

The June 17 auction, considered one of the most prestigious in the wine world, featured the sale of 359 lots of rarer wines, spokeswoman Pam Hunter said.

The bidding stars of the fourth annual event were Tatiana and Gerret Copeland of Wilmington, Del., who paid $21,000 for a single case of Schramsberg-Remy Martin brandy, which won't be ready for years.

The brandy is the first to be made by the partnership of Schramsberg of Calistoga, on the north end of the Napa Valley, and Remy Martin of France. Schramsberg is one of America's top makers of champagne, and Remy Martin is renowned for its cognac.

Howard Co. Fair booths available

The Howard County Fair Association is accepting applications for concession, commercial, non-commercial and sales booths during the 1984 Howard County Fair.

Groups or individuals interested in obtaining a booth may call Geraldine Posey at 398-5541. The fair is scheduled for Sept. 17-24.

4-H FASHION — D'Nae Brown models a blue split skirt and blouse set she made in a 4-H clothing project in preparation for the 4-H Fashion Show today. She is the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Brown of Ackerly and a member of Knott 4-H Club.

4-Hers to participate in county fashion show

The Howard County 4-H Fashion Show will be held today.

The garments and textile projects were due in the County Agent's office this morning. They will be judged for construction. At 4:30 p.m., the participants will model their garments for judges at the First Presbyterian Church Fellowship Hall.

The style show and awards program will be held at the Brandin Iron Inn at 7 p.m. The public is invited. 4-Hers will compete in four age groups: Mini Miss, below age nine; Young Juniors, ages nine to 11; Juniors, ages 12 to 13; and Seniors, ages 14 to 19.

The 4-Hers have constructed garments in four categories including Active Sportswear, Daytime wear, Evening and Specialty wear, and Tailored garments.

The fashion show also will include textile projects made by 4-H members. These items include personal and home accessories made by a variety of methods, such as needlework, machine sewing, ceramics, painting, leather or metal craft. These items may be original designs or made from a pre-designed kit, pattern or plan.

Method can help child in emergency

If you've got small children who can't read yet, but can use the telephone, try this picture-association method to help tots determine who to call in an emergency.

Affix a posterboard to the wall near the phone, and use symbols or pictures for the people or places to be called. Then draw a line in a bold color — try a felt-tip marker — leading to the phone number. For example, use a picture of firemen for the fire department or a picture of Dad for Dad's work number. Through this association, safety can be an easy lesson for children.

DEBBY JEAN DENNARD

She will compete for sponsorship to the Miss Texas National Pre-teen Pageant in Dallas, cash awards, tiara, banner and trophy. The winner of that pageant will advance to the national pageant.

Miss Dennard is sponsored by First Realty of Big Spring. She will participate in rehearsals, and will be judged on talent, appearance, poise and personality, and a personal interview with the judges.

Dear Abby

Nettled housewife's ditty is not a plea for pity

DEAR ABBY: I came across this write-up I've saved since my kids were little. Women are still being put down because they don't hold a job outside their homes. Give this another run, will you, please?

JUST A HOUSEWIFE IN FORT MYERS, FLA.

DEAR JUST: You bet. DEAR ABBY: I know you'll never print this because you career women have the idea that we housewives are second-class citizens, but I've kept this poem for a long time and want to share it with you. (I never did find out who wrote it.)

Just a Housewife
Hello, Mrs. Jones, I've just called to say,
I'm sorry I cried when you phoned today.

No, I didn't get angry when your call came at four,
Just as eight Cub Scouts burst through the door.

It's just that I had such a really full day.

I'd baked eight pies for the PTA
And washing and ironing and scrubbing the floor

Were chores I had finished not too long before.

The reason I cried and gave that big yelp

Was not 'cause you phoned just to ask for my help.

The comment that just about drove me berserk

Was, "I'm sure you'll have time because you don't work."

Sign me,
A HAPPY HOMEMAKER

DEAR HAPPY: I think the poem is great. And for the record, before I became "Dear Abby" (age 37) I, too, was a Cub Scout den mother, and I also baked my share of pies for the PTA.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 (this includes postage) to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Dr. Donohue

Menstrual water gain can be three quarts

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I would like to know what I could do to get rid of water gain. And, incidentally, how much water can a woman gain before her period? And does she usually lose as much as she gains? — S.B.

Bloat and fluid retention account for a large percentage of the complaints reported by women at the time of the monthly cycle. It has been estimated that a woman can retain as much as three quarts of fluid. Generally, she loses the same amount directly after the period.

I wish there were an all-purpose therapy or set of guidelines that would relieve you of your distress; there isn't. But a few steps usually do help most women in your situation. Some diet changes can be tried in an effort to keep fluid retention within bounds. Forego salt; that is most important. And you should go easy on sugar, alcohol and caffeine products. If none of these techniques helps, then your doctor can prescribe a water pill if he thinks it will help at the time of your periods.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I contracted venereal warts from my boyfriend. The doctor called it condyloa acuminatum. I had cryosurgery and the warts have not returned. My question is about my boyfriend. He contracted them years ago and apparently still has them. He has tried an acid treatment, but says this is too expensive for him and they returned on him. Is there a way to surgically remove them? I'm afraid of contracting them again. Can you advise? — H.S.

Surgery is one method. The best method for wart removal is based on its location and how many are present. Sometimes, podophyllin, a sticky resinous substance, is applied to the wart and washed off in a few hours. Often more than one application is needed. Or the wart may be burned off with electric current, or frozen off (your cryotherapy). Or in some cases, removing them with conventional surgery is the only way. And in fact, a wart may often go away on its own within a couple of years.

I'm not recommending you wait. If your companion has warts and you don't want to be re-infected, you should insist on use of a condom for your own protection until he is cured.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Thursday Notes

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

With the rodeo in town this is an appropriate time to lead off the notes with information about Big Spring's James Doss.

Doss, former Howard College cowboy, represented Southwest Texas State University at the National College Finals Rodeo last week in Bozeman, Montana. The young calf roper came away as the fifth best in the nation based on his 11.0 running during slack.

Doss' school, SWT, also brought home a men's national championship. Just one more for the trophy case at the school which already boasts two national titles in football and golf.

The state of Texas also captured the women's title as Sam Houston State brought home the gold.

James' brother Jessie kept the family's roping tradition intact by winning an amateur rodeo in Seagraves last week. Jessie's time was 9.5. Another Big Spring cowboy, Brad Jenkins, is reportedly doing well in the calf roping event while competing on the AJRA circuit.

From the rodeo arena to the racquetball court: In the recent Marquez Brothers Handball Invitational first place in "A" singles went to Bruce Strayham over Henry Flores while Jesse Marquez beat Charles Cole of Lubbock for third.

In the "B" division Larry Marquez beat Ken Roberts of Abilene for first and third place went to John Lara who beat Jerry Zambrano of Midland.

When pairs took the court it was the doubles team of Jeff Admond and Raul Marquez taking first in "A" competition over Jesse Marquez and Larry Marquez. In third place was Bruce Strayham and A.J. Pirkle with a win over Greg Coran and Rick Hobson.

And from the racquetball court to the baseball diamond: The Coahoma Blue Sox beat the Coahoma Gray Sox Tuesday night, 13-9 to successfully defend their Coahoma Senior League title.

The Blue Sox finished their season at 10-2 and are now 21-3 over the past two summers. The Coahoma White Sox came in second with a 9-3 mark.

Playing for the Blue Sox are: Jay Rainey, Scott Rodriguez, Mark Hansen, Louis Morelion, Anthony Hernandez, Andy Griffin, Schaffer Muser, Danny Johnson, Lance Reid, James White, Raymond Baker, and Willie Woodard.

Leading the team in hitting was White with his .667 average. Morelion was the leading pitcher with a 6-1 record.

Five Blue Sox players will join all-stars from Coahoma's three other Senior League teams in preparing for an All-Star contest against Big Spring's 14-15-year olds July 16.

Coaching the Blue Sox are Ricky Stone and Joe Justice.

From the all wet department: In doing his part to help the Chemical People Task Force with their ways and means project of establishing an alternate student activities center, this sportswriter will be among several lending their bodies to the dunking booth that will be set up at Highland Chrysler Dodge this Saturday.

The old sportswriter will be in the booth from 1-2 p.m. Herald publisher Tom Watson will also be one of the "lucky" ones getting dunked as will several of the Big Spring High School coaches.

Proceeds from the dunking booth will be used in the task force's project of establishing a youth center. There will also be a free car wash going on at the already mentioned location starting Saturday around 10 a.m. and continuing until 5 p.m.

Stephenville cowboys dominate opening night at Big Spring rodeo

ONE OF WEDNESDAY'S BEST — Randy Taylor of Tulsa, Oklahoma aboard Flash Dance in the bareback riding competition at the opening night of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo. Taylor holds down third place with a score of 75.

Horvath becomes first seed to be defeated

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Kathy Horvath struggled on the grass at the All-England tennis championships Thursday and became the first women's seed to be ousted from the tournament.

Horvath, the No. 8 seed, was beaten 6-0, 6-4 by Bettina Bunge of West Germany, who missed the second half of last year because of an ear injury and slipped from No. 6 to No. 29 in the world.

Bunge had won three of her previous five meetings with Horvath, but they never had met on grass.

"She played really, really well. I think grass is her best surface. On any other surface, I would have been very confident playing against her... but I lost some of my confidence and am still bothered by my hamstring and stomach muscle injuries," said the American.

Horvath, an 18-year-old clay court specialist from Largo, Fla., was one of the most feared players at the recent French Open championships earlier this month and had a fine run until losing to Martina Navratilova in the quarterfinals.

But she could not adapt to the Wimbledon grass.

"I guess I can take this as a learning experience. I have to get my first serve in and come into the net," she said.

Four other women's seeds all progressed comfortably to round three.

Stephenville cowboys showed up well at the opening performance of 51st Annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo Wednesday night at the Rodeo Bowl.

Dave Appleton, a National Finals Rodeo cowboy last season, heads up first place in saddle bronc riding with a score of 75. The Australian-born, but now Stephenville-based cowboy is fourth in barebacks with a 70.

Joining Appleton at the top of their respective events after one night are Jack Ward in barebacks with an 81 and Ed Wright, who is tied for the top steer wrestling time of 4.7.

West Texas saddle bronc rider Buddy Reynolds of Slaton is second in his specialty with a ride of 73 going into tonight's second performance scheduled for 8:30. Kevin Bowtell of Rapid City, South Dakota scored a 70 for third.

BAREBACKS AND BULLS
Behind Ward for bareback honors are Lyle Sankey with a 77 and Randy Taylor at 75. Wright is tied with El Reno, Oklahoma's Matt Wynn in the steer wrestling while Tommy Puryear of Austin is second with a time of 5.7. Greg Mindemann's effort of 7.2 is currently good for third.

Oklahoma bullriders are 1-3 with Phillip Graf of Vernon sandwiched at second with his score of 75. Gary Toole of El Reno, Oklahoma had the top ride of the evening at 77 while Rocky Hickman of Okmulgee scored a 70 aboard "33 Outlaw."

Walt Rodman and Brett Boatright and the team of Sterling and Charlie Price still hold first place in team roping with a 4.7 clocked in slack on Tuesday. In fact the scorecard read Steers 8, Cowboys 3 when Wednesday's team roping was all wrapped up. Curtis Evans and Tuff Wedeman had the night's best time of 11.7 while second place on the evening went to Chuck Lambert and Jimmy Powers in 11.8. Ronnie Finley and Handley Driver, both of Midland, had a 12.8.

ROPING DONATION
In the other roping event, calves, Johnny Powell of Athens was first on Wednesday in 11.4 while Danny Haby and Chuck Lambert brought up the 2-3 spots in 11.9 and 13.1 respectively. All three marks, however are well off the runs set in Tuesday's slack. Jim Hodge of Lometa is the overall leader with a 9.3 followed by Dave Brock at 9.7 and Tod Sloan in 10.0. As a sidelight to the calf roping competition a bonus of $100 was to be given to the cowboy who roped and tied his calf in 10 seconds or better. Since no one was successful, the check for that amount was donated to the Sunshine Kids, an organization comprised of children who are stricken with leukemia and other cancer-related diseases.

In the ladies barrel racing a tie for first emerged when Sue Overton and Kim Miller rounded the barrels in identical 17.17 times. Janet Powell is not far off the pace at 17.19.

One of the top five barrel racers on the Women's Professional Rodeo Association circuit, Diltzie Edmondson of McCaulley, had her troubles when she knocked over a barrel, resulting in a five second penalty and a time of 22.27.

And World Champion Steer wrestler Joel Edmondson of Clumbus, Kansas also had difficulties. Already in third after Tuesday's slack with a time of 5.7, Edmondson is definitely out of the top money for this rodeo after throwing his steer on Wednesday in 5.1, only to be assessed a 10 second penalty for breaking the barrier and having a 15.1 recorded instead.

Gulf gets even in tournament by robbing First National, 5-3

Gressett Gulf and First National Bank hooked up in a low scoring defensive contest with Gressett downing First National 5-3 in Division II of the UGSA city tourney.

The loss eliminated First National from the tournament while Gressett will play the undefeated Kiwanis Purple Panthers tonight at 7:30. The win revenged Gressett's 13-8 opening round loss to First National.

The contest turned into a pitching duel between Gressett's Irene Jara and First National's Adela Ramariz. Pam Gill came in and got the save for Gressett.

First baseman Carrie Alexander played a sparking defensive game for the winners while Jara cranked out two hits. Veronica Viera had two hits to lead First National while right fielder Stacy Anderson led the defensive charge.

In other games scheduled for tonight, Division I pits the Eagles Lodge against Big Spring Athletics at 6 p.m. with the winner taking on the undefeated Fillies at 9 p.m.

In Division III Citizen's F.C.U. tangles with the Downtown Lions at 6:30 p.m. with the winner taking on undefeated Cunningham Oil at 8:30 p.m.

Latest court blitz on television football should affect everyone

By The Associated Press
For those who like to spend fall Saturdays watching displays of football might by the Tide, the Nitany Lions, the Cornhuskers or the Longhorns, there's nothing to worry about.

Emerging from all the legal language following Wednesday's Supreme Court decision voiding the NCAA's football television contract is one reassuring fact:

There will be more college football on television this fall than ever before.

But for those who like to see the little guy get a break, there are a lot of questions. Because the prevailing opinion is that in enforcing the antitrust laws, the courts are allowing the rich to get richer.

While the decision, which disqualifies the NCAA as the sole negotiating arm for college football telecasts, will cause a lot of scrambling by the networks, it most certainly does not mean college football is going off the air.

ABC, CBS, and ESPN, which held the NCAA contracts, assure us they will have football this fall. Moreover, NBC says it's interested in doing college games, and the decision also appears to allow local stations or syndicators to set up their own college football packages.

But the networks — particularly if they make their deal with the College Football Association, which instigated the suit — may show bigtime football only.

But there may be other options for those who want variety.

UT swimmer backstrokes to record

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Rick Carey owns the world record in the 200-meter backstroke, and with the Soviet-led boycott of the Olympic Games, there will be no one in Los Angeles who has ever come within two seconds of his best time in the event.

Carey, a 21-year-old junior at the University of Texas, Wednesday lowered his own world mark to 1 minute 58.86 seconds — seven-hundredths of a second better than his previous record, set last year.

Despite his performance, Carey said he was not overconfident. "I never feel that I have a race locked up," said Carey, who beat second-place Jesse Vassallo by 3.29 seconds. "I went into the race knowing there was a good chance I could finish seventh or eighth if I made a mistake."

"At Los Angeles, anyone in the final (eight) has the potential to win. If I'm too confident, I might not try as hard."

The six-day U.S. Olympic Trials reached the halfway point with Wednesday's four events. So far, there have been three world records and two American marks set. The top two finishers in each event automatically qualify for the Games next month in Los Angeles.

Today's schedule included the men's 400 freestyle and 200 breaststroke, and the women's 100-butterfly and 100 breaststroke.

With the boycott by the Communist countries, the fastest time by a competitor in the 200 backstroke — besides Carey's record — will be a 2:01.48 by Vassallo earlier this year.

Vassallo, who qualified for the Olympics in the 400 individual medley earlier this week, said he was surprised his second-place time in the backstroke was so slow.

"I wish I could have kept my legs going," the 22-year-old senior at the University of Miami said. "I don't think Carey is unbeatable."

Carey said breaking his own record was important. "Now I know I can do it, almost at will. This was a barrier. Now I can go on to the next barrier."

"I think I can go swim faster, and hopefully that will be out at Los Angeles," said Carey, the winner of every major title in the 200 backstroke last year.

STRESSING THE POSITIVE — Art Schlichter strains Wednesday as he trains for a return to the National Football League Indianapolis Colts. Schlichter was reinstated to the team last week following a suspension for the 1983 season for gambling.

Lietzke favored for Canadian golf title

OAKVILLE, Ontario (AP) — Bruce Lietzke, who has taken a month-long break from competition, returns to action on one of his favorite and most productive golf courses.

A five-time runnerup in the Canadian Open, Nicklaus has not yet won this title. He was third last season, one stroke out of a playoff.

In five previous starts on this Jack Nicklaus-designed course that now serves as the permanent site for the Canadian national championship, Lietzke has won twice, was runnerup once and has not finished lower than seventh. He has taken almost $200,000 in winnings from this course alone.

Lietzke, who scored his 10th career victory earlier this season in the Honda Classic, has not played since the Memorial tournament four weeks ago and chose not to play in the U.S. Open.

"I just felt I needed a break. I wanted to get away, relax a little," said Lietzke, who spent most of the time at his home in a remote area of Oklahoma.

Lietzke's outstanding record on this course makes him one of the favorites for the $94,500 and the duMurier Trophy that goes to the winner.

Jack Nicklaus, 44, holder of a record 17 major professional titles and a winner at his Memorial event last month, is making another attempt at securing the one that got away. A five-time runnerup in the Canadian Open, Nicklaus has not yet won this title. He was third last season, one stroke out of a playoff.

The Hitler paintings

Der Fuehrer has a brush with art fame

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Watercolors attributed to a "very modest Sunday painter" named Adolf Hitler will be shown for the first time, along with masterpieces plundered from Italy during the Nazi era, in a major exhibition opening this month.

The paintings by the Nazi leader were obtained by Rodolfo Siviero, a secretive Italian government art sleuth, who was responsible for the recovery of the 141 masterpieces.

The works include a marble fragment by Michelangelo and paintings by Rubens, Mengling, Tintoretto and Botticelli.

City art officials and Siviero's sister, Imelde, said it was the wish of the detective, a native of Florence who died last year at 71, that the works be shown together.

"My brother wanted a permanent museum for the city of Florence of the works he recovered from the Nazis, but he also wanted to show the poor art work which Nazi scoundrel himself produced," said Miss Siviero.

"They certainly are not works of art, rather a curiosity," Florence's commissioner of culture, Giorgio Morales, said in an interview with The Associated Press.

Twenty watercolors signed "A. Hitler" will be shown, but officials said only 18 have been authenticated by two Munich experts hired to evaluate the works.

The paintings, most of them measuring about 8 inches by 10 inches, depict street scenes in Vienna and Munich, including, for example, the Hofbrauhaus beer hall in the Bavarian city.

They are believed to date from 1910 to 1914, when Hitler was in his 20s and eked out a living in the two cities by copying and selling picture postcards.

HITLER PAINTING — Adolf Hitler, shown below in an old photograph, will finally have his works on exhibit when an Italian show features his watercolor paintings, such as the one above.

'They certainly are not works of art, rather a curiosity.'
Giorgio Morales
commissioner of culture

Pina Ragionieri, a museum curator who is in charge of press relations for the exhibit, said the Hitler works were also probably copied from postcards. "They clearly show he was a very modest Sunday painter," she said.

Just how Siviero obtained them is in keeping with the mystery that surrounded his career, which began as an undercover agent for Italian intelligence while he was studying art as a young man on a scholarship in Berlin.

Ms. Ragionieri said Siviero got them "directly or indirectly" from the wife of Martin Bormann, a member of Hitler's inner circle, in the predominantly German-speaking city of Merano in northern Italy in 1947. Siviero's sister denied that version but refused to disclose their origin.

"I am fed up with all this buildup about Hitler's works, when interest should be centered on the real masterpieces recovered by my brother," she said.

Most of the works being shown were taken openly or smuggled out of Italy during the period of Hitler's alliance with Italy's Fascist dictator Benito Mussolini and later during the Nazi occupation of the country.

Some were simply sold for money, others carted off or, as in the case of the Flemish master Peter Paul Rubens' portrait of Italian Prince Andrea Doria on horseback, sold to Hitler on Mussolini's orders, according to the exhibit's records.

A painting by Venetian master Giambattista Tiepolo was stolen from a collection in Turin as part of a "Hitler group" intended by the dictator to be part of a Hitler museum in Linz, Austria. Hidden by the Nazis, the work was found by U.S. occupying forces and later returned to Italy in an agreement with West Germany worked out by Siviero, the exhibit records said.

During World War II, the detective worked with partisans and the British 8th Army to protect Italian art treasures.

Some works, however, were stolen after the war and also recovered by Siviero, who was known for his unorthodox style; he once posed as a buyer to recover a stolen Greek bronze from the Sicilian Mafia.

Morales said representatives of West and East Germany as well as five countries that helped in recovering stolen works — Spain, France, Yugoslavia, Britain and the United States — have been invited to attend the opening along with Italian President Sandro Pertini.

He said the show, which opens June 29 at the Palazzo Vecchio, will run at least until Dec. 31, when it will probably be made into a permanent exhibition on the third-floor of the fortress-like palazzo, once the home of the Medici dukes, the great Florentine art patrons.

31 nations call for clean air

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — Thirty-one nations, including the United States and the Soviet Union, called Wednesday for international cooperation to clean up the world's air.

A final communique issued after a three-day environmental congress said the world must make use of "the best available technologies" to rid the atmosphere of pollutants damaging forests and waters as well as buildings.

Because air pollutants are often carried across national borders, the communique said, international efforts are needed to fight them — especially sulfur dioxide, which comes from coal-burning plants and nitrogen oxide emitted from automobiles.

The statement did not bind any one of the 31 nations to specific measures to fight air pollution.

But it noted that 13 Western countries and three in Eastern Europe, including the Soviet Union, have said they would try for a 30 percent cut in sulfur dioxide emissions — or at least emissions that drift across borders — in the next nine years.

Six of the 13 nations made the promise at the Multilateral Conference on the Environment here.

The United States did not agree, saying it had already reduced its sulfur dioxide emissions by 26 percent since 1973.

Associated Press Writer
GREENWICH, England —

The time we keep is celebrating its 100th birthday. The guardians of Greenwich Mean Time, which has ruled the world's clocks since October 1884, moved out of their grimy Thames-side suburb of London years ago in favor of a castle in the Sussex countryside.

But they left behind an observatory, some ancient astronomical instruments and a brass strip set in the paving, marking longitude zero, the meridian from which the world measures its time zones.

Since the British love tradition, every day at five minutes to 1 p.m. a large ball is raised on a pole and dropped on the stroke of one. The 19th century contraption on the roof of the observatory, which once signaled the exact time to watching Thames navigators, now amuses tourists.

The observatory of John Flamsteed, a frail genius of astronomy, has become a museum and a shrine, where science's pilgrim can reflect on those Renaissance men who searched the skies for creation's blueprint.

Greenwich Mean Time has been the global standard since October 1884, when the international community adopted it at a conference in Washington. The centenary is being celebrated throughout 1984, with special outdoor events planned for Tuesday, because the weather is expected to be better than in October.

Also on Tuesday, Greenwich Postmaster Bill Lime flew aboard a Concorde jetliner to hand-deliver a message to the town of Greenwich, Conn., a New York City suburb named after the British borough.

The origins of the Greenwich observatory date to the 17th century, when navigators had established latitudes but had failed to work out the longitudes which would give them a cross-reference for charting their course. In 1675 King Charles II ordered an observatory built where a solution could be found.

Flamsteed had taught himself astronomy as a youth, when he was chronically ill. He worked closely with Sir Isaac Newton, but fell out with him.

Soviet chief warns West of war

MOSCOW (AP) — Defense Minister Dmitri Ustinov on Wednesday accused the West of creating a growing war threat, and urged officers of the Soviet and Warsaw Pact armies to maintain readiness for combat.

Ustinov made his remarks at a Kremlin reception for officers from the Soviet Union and its East European allies who graduated from this year's classes at Soviet military academies.

In Smolensk, southwest Russia, Politburo member Mikhail Gorbachev bestowed the Order of Lenin on the city in honor of its role in World War II and told its people to be vigilant for what he called "the enhanced aggressiveness of imperialism."

First Federal honors
Mr. & Mrs. E.G. Cates for their part in Howard County's Heritage
Friday, June 29

Meet Mr. & Mrs. E.G. Cates 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Grace and Gene Cates are expecting his 91-year-old sister from Dallas to be here for their appearance at First Federal. And they have many longtime friends in the area they're looking forward to visiting with.

The Cates moved to West Texas in 1930. They traded a place in East Texas for 100 acres in Borden and Howard counties, and later bought more land to make 640 acres. Cates was also a ginner in Ackerly and other communities.

The farm is rented now, and the community gin is a thing of by-gone times as the large, automated co-ops have come into being.

Grace Cates remembers the so-called good ole days — "When we were growing up we went to the field every morning and milked the cows twice a day. We burned wood and coal in our stoves and washed on the rub board til 1940! The sand storms were very bad in the 1930's — and the houses were not built as well, you had big cracks in the walls. No, I never wish for the good ole days!"

Grace and Gene were married in 1922 in Sulphur Springs in Hopkins County, where both grew up. "I don't remember just where we met," says Grace, "but we were married a year later."

They have two children. Marshall Cates, who married Nadine Walker of Big Spring, and now lives in Tyler; and Billie Jean Cates, who married Bill Sewell of Big Spring, and now lives in Harlingen. They have four grandchildren.

Cates was a member of the Borden County Board for seven years, and a director of West Texas Telephone Co-Op at Stanton for 23 years. The Cates have attended Ackerly Methodist Church for 54 years.

Since he retired he gardens for a hobby and "gives it all away."

Grace points out wittily that she has not "retired" and is still busy with homemaking at the house they built in 1950. She has always enjoyed crocheting and quilting.

Although they're both in their 80's, they come to Big Spring at least once a week — and drive to Dallas and other places to visit relatives.

Among longtime friends they look forward to visiting with tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in First Federal's lobby are Jack Bowlin, V.J. Coleman, Cartis White, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Coleman, Mrs. Edith Billingsly, Beatrice Dozier, Mr. and Mrs. Bevie Massingill and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bodine, and many more.

U.S., Nicaragua envoys end two-day meeting in Mexico

Security agents, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said Tinoco planned to take a commercial flight from Mexico City to Managua, the Nicaraguan capital.

Shlaudeman was taken in a car to the steps of the private plane he travels in and boarded without speaking to journalists.

Details of the talks were expected to be provided later by the State Department in Washington or by the Nicaraguan Foreign Ministry in Managua.

Tight security has prevailed since the delegates began arriving Sunday. Soldiers, and a Mexican navy patrol boat offshore, made sure no one reached a private section of the Villa Santiago club where the talks took place Monday and Tuesday.

The meeting at the club just outside Manzanillo, 525 miles northwest of Mexico City, was set up after Secretary of State George P. Shultz made a surprise visit to Managua on June 1 and met with Daniel Ortega, coordinator of the country's three-man junta.

The Reagan administration charges that the Sandinistas provide support to revolutionary movements elsewhere in Central America.

Fire destroys London film set

LONDON (AP) — An explosion Wednesday touched off a fire at Pinewood Studios that destroyed a $2.7 million set for the science fiction movie "Legend," studio and fire officials reported. Two stagehands were slightly injured.

Ten fire trucks and 70 firefighters were called in to fight the fire, which began while the actors were having lunch.

The fire destroyed the film set within an hour, according to Norman Martlew, spokesman for the studios near Iwer Heath in central England.

He said two stage hands were treated for minor burns and shock, but that no one else was known to have been injured.

The cause of the explosion was not known.

"There were gas bottles on the set, but at the moment we don't know if they were involved," Martlew said.

"Legend," a 20th Century-Fox film, stars British actors Tom Cruise and Tim Curry and is directed by British director Ridley Scott. Scott's past movies include "Alien" and "Blade Runner."

TSD officials plead no contest to charges

AUSTIN (AP) — Two top officials of the Texas School for the Deaf have pleaded no contest to misdemeanor charges of failure to report child abuse, officials say.

Victory Galloway, executive director of the school since 1981, entered his plea on Wednesday. He was sentenced to the equivalent of six months' probation and was fined $200.

Officials also said Wednesday that Charles Horton, the school's director of student life and a 22-year employee, pleaded no contest to the same charge on Friday and received the same sentence.

The two were placed on a six-month deferred adjudication, meaning they will not be found guilty if they serve the probations successfully, prosecutors said.

Three former school employees — Robert Gates, John Berryhill and Gary Hoover — earlier were convicted of having sexual contact with students at the school. The charges of not reporting the abuse arose from the case for which Gates later received five years' probation, officials said.

Galloway's lawyer, Frank Maloney, said he advised Galloway to take the case to trial.

Suit studied in closed session

Big Spring City Councilmen met in a three and one-half hour closed session that the press and public were barred from attending after Tuesday's regular council meeting.

According to Mayor Clyde Angel, the extended closed meeting was necessary to discuss a law suit brought against the city by Caldwell Electric Co. of E. Interstate 20.

"There were about as many opinions (on setting the suit) as their were people there," said Angel this morning.

Galloway's lawyer, Frank Maloney, said he advised Galloway to take the case to trial.
