Got a feeling

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The new pagers for Wake County sheriff's deputies are leaving lawmen a bit shaken.

The devices vibrate instead of emitting the customary beeping sound.

"Sometimes it's better if you don't have that beep blaring out," said sheriff's Capt. David F. Waller.

"It's embarrassing when you're in church and a beep goes off right in the middle of the sermon," said Sheriff John Baker.

"And if a man's in a surveillance situation he doesn't want the sound, either."

"It's just funny to get used to."

Coahoma in debt

New mayor wants 'drastic action'

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — The City of Coahoma is more than $100,000 in debt, and the city council will have to take "drastic action" to escape its budget crunch, Mayor Pat Harrison told council members at a meeting Monday night.

"We have to take some drastic action. We've got some hard choices to make," Mrs. Harrison said as the council reviewed a draft of the budget.

Council members' proposals to save money included temporary layoffs of city employees or cutbacks in their hours, discontinuation of the city dog catcher's job, discontinuation of the city trash collection service, discontinuation of the city office janitorial service, a stoppage in city purchases unless items are necessary, discontinuation of the police department and discontinuation of street repairs.

Council members have not spoken to employees about temporary layoffs yet, they said, and stressed that they were just discussing possible ways to cut city expenses. The council will meet with Coahoma State Bank president Bill Read and vice president Johnny Justiss Saturday evening to discuss the city's outstanding loans from the bank and to conduct a budget workshop.

"It's sort of a shock," City Secretary Cindy Langston said Tuesday morning. "The first we heard about it was this morning."

The bank has three separate outstanding loans, council members said. The smallest note has a $5,800 outstanding balance.

Other bank notes include a $17,000 loan and a $78,000 loan, taken out in February this year, before the current city council was elected.

Both the general fund and the water fund are in the red, according to figures presented by the mayor. The general fund shows a deficit of $17,000 and the water department has a $78,000 debt, she said.

The water department debt was brought on by the cost of major water and sewer main repairs caused by a big freeze at the beginning of the year and also because the city delayed passing through increased costs for water purchased from the Howard County Water Improvement District onto its citizens, according to council members.

Chief election likely

Petition filed with City Hall

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

After two months in circulation, a petition signed by about 1,100 persons who say they want an elected police chief was presented to City Secretary Tom Ferguson at 1 p.m. Monday.

The petition seeks to replace by charter election the city's current policy whereby the chief of police is appointed by the city manager. The petition proposes instead a police chief elected for a two-year term of office, with candidates for the office residing in the city for one year prior to filing for election.

Asked yesterday why she organized the petition drive, bail bond company owner Mary Thomas said: "I think elected officials are more responsive to the public. We want (a police chief) that is more responsive to the public than to the city manager."

Speaking against the petition recently on a local radio program, current Police Chief Rick Turner said: "I feel like it would be extremely difficult to do (the) job without prejudice, without bias, if you were elected. I think it would be a very difficult role to serve within the community."

Mrs. Thomas and Danny Heckler, another bail bond company owner, said after the presentation they have spent the past two weeks verifying names and voter registration numbers on the document to make sure they had the signatures of enough city residents.

According to Mrs. Thomas, voters amounting to 5 percent of the total number of those registered in the city are necessary for validation.

The question will be presented to city voters as a whole in a referendum election if the petition is found to have the approximately 550 names that are necessary.

"My only role in this is verifying that we do have the number of registered voters (on the petition) to call the election," Ferguson said yesterday after accepting the 64 page document.

He said city administrators would need "better than a week" to complete the task.

If the names check out, Ferguson's office will in turn present the petition to the city council, which will set a date for the referendum election, he said.

Councilmembers themselves seemed against the idea of an elected police chief, but were intent on following the law.

"As an individual," said Councilman Robert Fuller this morning, "I think it's the worst idea I've ever heard in my life."

"(However), if the citizens want

From Russia with love

MOSCOW (AP) — The Supreme Soviet today sent an Independence Day message to President Reagan expressing "congratulations and wishes of prosperity to the American people under conditions of peace."

The message was signed by the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, the top organ of the Soviet Union's nominal parliament. It read:

"Esteemed Mr. President, "Please accept congratulations and wishes of prosperity to the American people under conditions of peace on the occasion of the national holiday of the United States of America, Independence Day.

"It is the paramount task of all states to ensure such conditions. To this end the Soviet Union will cooperate with all the countries which for their part are willing to contribute by practical deeds to strengthening peace and international security, to ridding mankind of the nuclear threat and to the promotion of trust among nations."

Congratulatory messages of this kind are sent to all countries that have diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union.

BOMBS BURSTING IN AIR — Eight tons of fireworks explode over the Detroit River and the Ambassador Bridge Monday night during the 26th annual International Freedom Festival fireworks display. An estimated 1 million people packed downtown Detroit and Windsor, Canada, some on boats in the river and some in the Renaissance Center (right) to watch the show.

Stay at home for a Fourth blast

With Independence Day this year falling in the middle of the week, area residents who are looking for something to do can entertain themselves with a variety of events — without leaving town.

High on the list of things to do this Fourth of July is the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center Summerfest to be held from 10 a.m. at Comanche Trail Park.

The Summerfest will feature "family entertainment," Jane Ray of the rehabilitation center said this morning. Visitors will be able to enjoy booths for food and beverages and arts and crafts, she said.

According to Mrs. Ray, a section of the park will be set up for small children, with a dunking booth, a treasure hunt and face painting featured as entertainment.

Mrs. Ray said the highlight of the day will be a series of team events in which groups of eight — four men and four women — will participate in armadillo races, canoe races, tennis, volleyball and other competitions. Trophies will be awarded in each event and the top two teams will decide the day's champion with a tug-of-war into a pool of mud, she said.

A dance at the Dora Roberts Community Center will follow the day's excitement, she said. Tickets available at the rehabilitation center or the door at $25 per couple. According to Mrs. Ray, the Larry Johnson Band from Lubbock will provide music at the dance.

Also scheduled for the city park is a Splash

Day, sponsored by KBST radio station. The Big Spring City Council had authorized free swimming at the municipal pool for the day, and KBST personnel will broadcast from poolside during the event.

The 15th Annual Highland South Parade will kick off at 10 a.m. Wednesday and will proceed through this south Big Spring neighborhood.

Line up for the parade begins at 9:30 a.m. on the east end of Highland Drive and revelers will march, ride, trike and bike to the parade's Goliad Street terminus.

Organizers are also holding a mailbox decorating contest among houses along the parade route, with four slivers dollars going to the first place winner.

Charges filed in slaying of 5

DALLAS (AP) — Five charges of murder and one of attempted murder were filed against a 39-year-old Moroccan native in last week's fatal shooting of six people in a restaurant and club.

City Magistrate Frances Goodwin set bonds of $250,000 for Abdelkrim Belachheb on each count after the charges were filed late Monday. He previously had been charged with one count of murder.

A court-appointed attorney said Monday he is considering an insanity defense.

"It is not exclusive. It's among the defenses we're considering," attorney Ted Calisi said.

Norman Kinne, an assistant district attorney for Dallas County, said the prosecution expects such a strategy.

"I don't think the insanity defense will float, but I can't think of anything else," Kinne said.

Belachheb has been held since Friday in lieu of $500,000 bond. He was arrested about two hours after the handgun slaying of the six patrons at Ianni's Restaurant and Club early Friday.

Filibuster threatened on compromise tax bill

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — House and Senate leaders, following lengthy closed-door deliberations, indicated Tuesday that they had reached agreement on a three-year, $4.8 billion tax plan needed to fund education reforms already embraced by both houses.

But state Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas, was threatening a filibuster to block the delicately balanced compromise until midnight Tuesday — the end of the 30-day special legislative session — and force Gov. Mark White to call another special session.

Leedom, complaining the compromise was reached too rapidly, issued the threat as the tax agreement was being taken to House and Senate members for approval.

State Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, represents Howard County and expressed similar sentiments.

"I just think a special session is an awful short time to try to do so much," Montford said. "We tried to do too much too soon and too quickly. If we get into too big a hurry, we'll pay for it later on."

House Speaker Gib Lewis and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby each appointed five members to what Hobby labeled a "non-conference conference" committee late Monday after the House and Senate refused to accept the other's tax plan. Neither side officially requested the conference committee deliberations.

The negotiators Tuesday came up with a compromise proposal seeking to remove a major disagreement: House plans to subject all paid advertising to the state's 4-cent sales tax.

In its place, Lewis said, the panel suggests replacing the Senate-approved one-quarter cent sales tax increase with a one-eighth cent boost and imposing the sales tax on all newspaper and subscription sales and repairs of tangible personal property.

That one-eighth-cent increase would cause consumers to pay the first penny toward the state sales tax at a lower level, state comptroller officials said.

"Well, we think we have got everybody satisfied," Lewis said before the filibuster threat. "We're going back over and talk to some members of the House and try to get some type of consensus on what we're going to propose."

The negotiators, said House Speaker Pro Tem Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, recommended sticking with House suggestions that all amusement services — such as bowling, movie tickets and sporting events — be brought under the sales tax regardless of cost.

The Senate-passed plan suggested imposing the sales tax on amusement sales of $6 or more.

The conference committee was appointed after the Texas Senate made massive changes in the House-backed tax plan that sought to fund education and highway improvements.

Throughout the Senate debate, the Senate sponsor of the tax plan, Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, warned senators that further tinkering with the tax plan threatened to delete enough money to finance education and highway improvements.

Storms roam state

By The Associated Press

Scattered thunderstorms were considered likely for much of Texas tonight after a mostly sunny day.

The National Weather Service said rain was expected over western and southeastern portions of North Texas, across Southwest Texas, and along the Texas coast and the Rio Grande Valley.

Temperatures in the 90s were forecast statewide. Skies were generally clear across most sections of the Lone Star State early today. However, humid air continued over the eastern half of Texas as a high pressure system was located over the central Gulf of Mexico.

Otherwise, scattered high level clouds were observed over the southwest and South Plains while dense fog dropped visibilities to near one half mile in some locations of Southeast Texas.

The only precipitation reported in the state was an isolated thundershower near Paris in Northeast Texas.

A light southerly breeze of 5 to 10 mph kept temperatures in the 60s and 70s before dawn.

While parts of Texas were parched for rain and were rationing water to save underground springs today, a plentiful supply fell over the north-central states, the Gulf Coast crescent and the mid-Atlantic states.

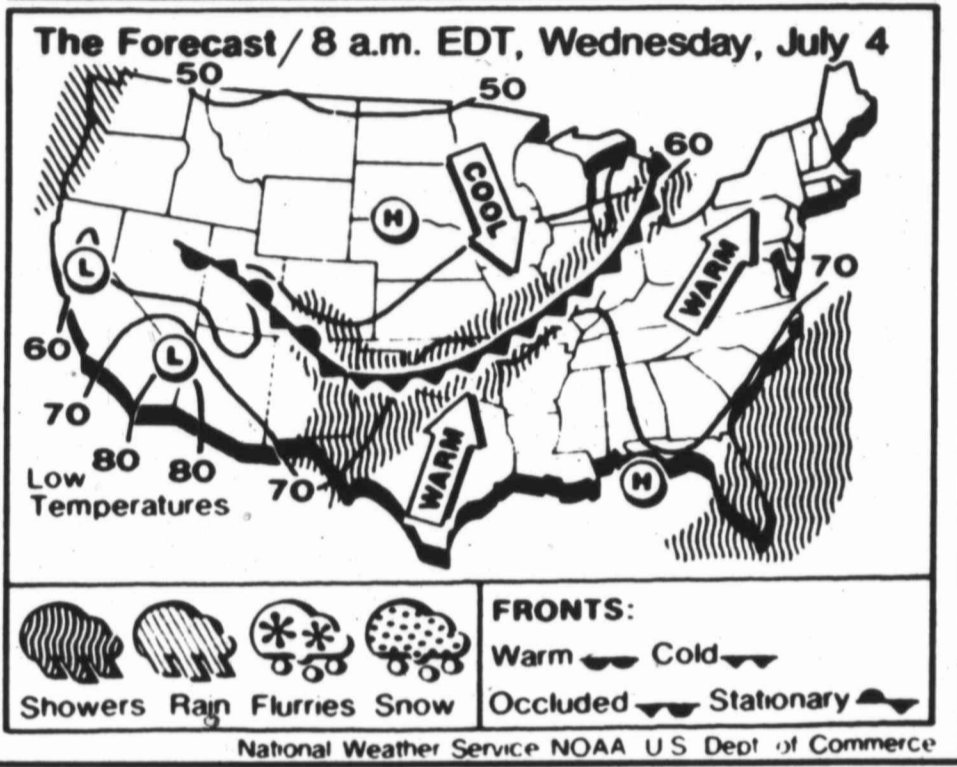

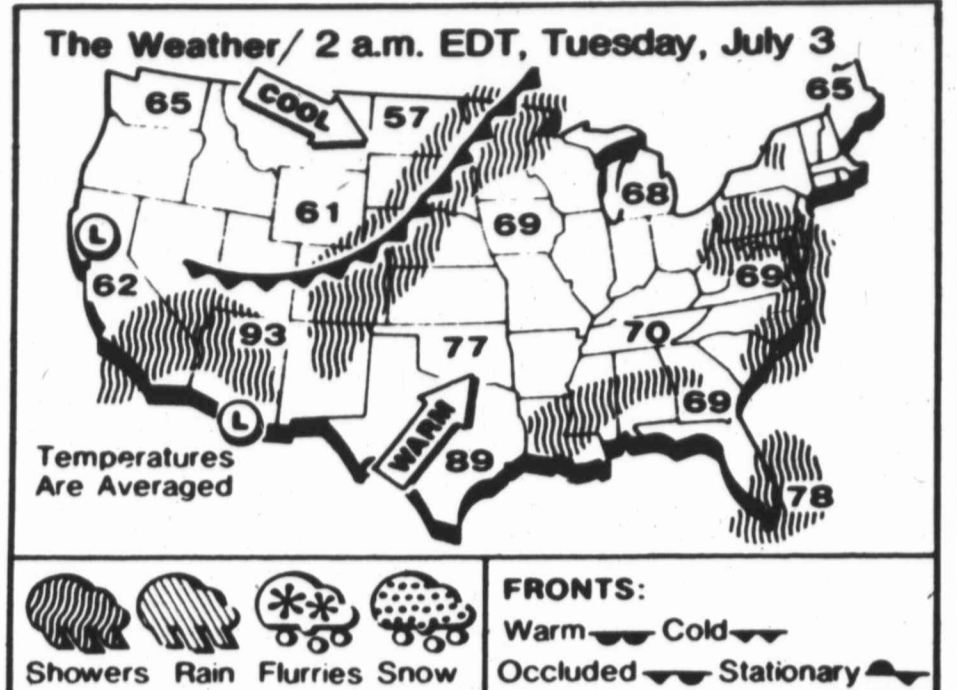

On the West Coast, a heat wave around San Francisco eased.

Strong thunderstorms swept areas from northeastern South Dakota across central Minnesota into northwestern Wisconsin. Scattered thunderstorms extended from eastern Colorado to South Dakota.

Meanwhile, widely scattered thunderstorms rolled through Florida and southern Georgia and a few thunderstorms dotted the central Gulf Coast states.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms also touched the mid-Atlantic coast region and along the Carolina coast.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were expected later in the day over the eastern Gulf coast region and along the southern Atlantic coast.

Forecast

West Texas: Widely scattered thunderstorms tonight and north on Wednesday. Lows tonight mid 60s north to mid 70s south. Highs Wednesday mid 80s Panhandle to mid 90s south except near 104 in the Big Bend.

C-City council names member as manager

Tarter takes over her old job

COLORADO CITY - Council member and former city manager Brenda Tarter was appointed as the new city manager here during a called meeting of the City Council Monday afternoon.

Tarter, who served as the city manager and also city secretary from 1975 through 1981, will resume her duties effective July 16, said Mayor Elmer Martin in a telephone interview this morning.

The appointment, which came on a unanimous vote by the council, left a seat vacant on the city council, Martin said. The city charter includes a provision that calls for the city council to make an appointment to fill the vacancy, Martin said. Tarter resigned from her council seat shortly after her appointment.

"I am delighted to be back in the position," Tarter said. "I was on the (screening) committee and saw who was wanting the job. It is in my blood, so I decided to go for it."

"The council will have to appoint someone to fill her unexpired term," Martin said.

Tarter's appointment will fill the gap left by former city manager Rick Crowley, who resigned earlier this year. The former member served on the council since her election victory in April. The starting annual salary for Tarter will be $26,000, Martin said.

BRENDA TARTER
...new city manager

Tarter, who is currently employed by the accounting department at Root Memorial Hospital, served as the city manager until 1981 when she was forced to step down due to an illness in the family. She has been employed by Root Memorial Hospital since 1982.

Tarter was raised in Colorado City and graduated from Colorado City High School in 1962. She and her husband, Joe, have two daughters.

Tarter's successor will be discussed during the next meeting of the council, Martin said.

Fireworks in the dark

COLORADO CITY - The Second Annual Colorado City July 4 fireworks display sponsored by the Volunteer Fire Department is set for tonight at Wolf Stadium, said CCVFD spokesman Brian Bassham.

The demonstration will be performed by Paramount Fireworks of Texarkana, Ark., Bassham said. There will be no admission to the display and special seating will be available for the elderly and handicapped, he said.

The demonstration will last approximately 45 minutes, Bassham said. The CCVFD will be accepting donations at the gate.

The display is scheduled to begin at dark, he said. The event was scheduled tonight so it would not conflict with the fireworks display in Snyder.

A big kick from fly-in

COLORADO CITY - The 22nd Annual July 4th Colorado City Fly-In at the city airstrip will feature the Air Force C-130 and the Ultra Light plane from Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene, according to a fly-in spokesman.

Herrington and Tracy Engle are also scheduled to perform at 9 a.m., 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. Plane rides will be given to spectators at the fly-in. The pilots giving the special rides will be Mac Morris, Frank Derrigibus, David Marion, V.W. "Matt" Matlock and J.O. Dockrey.

The fly-in is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce with Dockrey serving as the aviation committee chairman.

Awards will be given to the youngest and oldest pilot attending and also the most unusual airplane.

The fly-in will kickoff with a breakfast at 7 a.m. The two military planes will be on display and also perform until 11 a.m. There will be no admission to the fly-in, and refreshments will be served.

A 22-year-old New Mexico woman and her two daughters were treated and released from the hospital for minor injuries suffered when their car rolled over Monday afternoon on Highway 87 north of Knott.

bound in the outside lane on 87 when the accident occurred at 1:45 p.m. at the turn-off to the Brown Community, about 15 miles north of Big Spring, according to a Department of Public Safety accident report.

Sherly Lynn Shade of Hobbs, N.M., and her two daughters — one-year-old Tara Nicoale Shade and five-year-old Kristie Lanette Reel — were treated in the Malone-Hogan Hospital emergency room and released, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

They were taken to the hospital by Shaffer Ambulance.

The three were traveling south.

When Ms. Shade's 1974 blue Toyota Corona Mark II veered off onto the west shoulder of the highway, she overcorrected the steering, and crossed the roadway and went into the median.

The car then overturned one time and rested right side up, facing northeast, according to the report.

The back of the car was bent and mangled.

Coahoma

Past council policies of "holding the line on taxes" have contributed to the problem, Mrs. Harrison said. As a consequence, the city's income didn't keep pace with inflation or emergencies, she said.

"All along, it (the taxes) should have been kept up. The streets and water lines were not improved because we were holding the line and having the minimum taxes," Mrs. Harrison said. "They never put anything by for an emergency. Every time we've had an emergency, we've had to wring it out of somewhere else. We've had no leeway for 50 years."

Council members have little option but to cut the budget, since at least three of its six members say they will not borrow more money from the bank or raise taxes. Taking that stand were Jerry Brockman, Lawrence Aberreg and Gary Roberts. Mrs. Harrison and council member Brian Jensen said they did not want to borrow more money.

Council member Steve New was not at the meeting.

Among some of the options discussed at the meeting were discontinuing the dogcatcher's job and the city trash collection, both performed by Gerald King. Mrs. Harrison and Aberreg charge that the city is losing money on the trash collection, which they contract out to King.

King maintains the city should not be losing any money and that he is not making a profit on the garbage collection. The city still does not have a trash collection ordinance, which he says was to have been in effect at the time he started collecting trash.

Without the ordinance, the city cannot enforce payment of the $7.50 a month trash collection bill per household. Fifty cents of that amount is a billing fee collected by the city; the $7 is King's fee.

Discontinuation of the service has been discussed at meetings of the prior council because of protests by some citizens, including Aberreg, who said the trash collection fee was too high and that the city should perform the service itself.

Also under consideration is the future of the city's one-man police force, which has been discontinued in the past in times of financial difficulty, Mrs. Harrison said.

Alderman Roberts and Aberreg said most citizens and businessmen were not in favor of keeping a police force.

The council also tabled discussion of annexation rules and regulations until a 7 p.m. July 12 meeting. At that meeting they will also discuss plans to stop the location of a low-level radioactive waste dump in the salt flats near Coahoma.

"It's just an open door to high-level waste," Mrs. Harrison said. "The wells here are too shallow."

an elected police chief, then they'll get one. We will follow the law," he said.

"Personally, I'm kind of leery of any elected chief of police due to the politicization of the office," said City Councilman Henry Sanchez yesterday.

However, Sanchez called for a special council meeting on the issue "so people can hear the pros and cons and make up their own minds about it."

"If (the petition) complies with the law, it's up to the people now to vote," said Councilman Jack Y. Smith.

By state law, local elections can only be held on prescribed dates, Ferguson said, and the next such date would be in August, according to the city secretary.

According to Mrs. Thomas, the election must be scheduled "no less than 30 days and no more than 90 days" from the date the petition is certified.

After yesterday's petition presentation, Heckler said he was releasing into circulation another petition to "abandon the city manager" in favor of a full-time elected mayor.

He said that signatures totalling 20 percent of the number of people who voted in the last mayoral election were necessary to force a referendum on the question. According to Heckler, the new petition would need "less than 400 signatures."

Jacksons concerts sold out

DALLAS (AP) - All three Jacksons Victory Tour concerts scheduled for Texas Stadium next week have been sold out, a publicist for the tour announced today.

"We have sold all 117,000 available tickets," said Ellen Golden of the Howard Bloom Organization.

A ticket agency official in Dallas had said it appeared that over-the-counter ticket sales would be necessary to sell out the concerts. But "that is absolutely not the case," said Ms. Golden.

The tour opens Friday night in Kansas City, where three concerts are sold out and promoters say they are returning more than 65,000 unfilled orders for the 135,000 seats available.

Ms. Golden said the promoters' accounting firm had not counted the number of unfilled orders for the Dallas concerts, July 13-15.

Postal officials said only about 11,900 money orders had been sold in Dallas and Fort Worth as of Saturday, apparently not enough to guarantee a sellout for the performances. But the tour's publicist noted that fans from at least three states, not just the Dallas-Fort Worth area, had sent for the tickets by the deadline Monday.

After Texas, Michael Jackson and his brothers will head for the Gator Bowl in Florida, July 20-22.

Just acting natural

SALT LAKE CITY — Actor Wilford Brimley says the key to his performances in such films as "Tender Mercies," "China Syndrome" and "The Natural" is, well, just being natural.

WILFORD BRIMLEY

"I am the character I play," says Brimley, who once earned his living training and shoeing horses.

Although known as a character actor — he was a baseball manager in "The Natural," a plant manager in "China Syndrome" and managed a country singer in "Tender Mercies" — Brimley says he is not sure exactly what that means.

"I never really understood those terms — 'star' and 'character actor.' Robert Redford is as good a character actor as there is," he said. "Right now, I'm out of work. If a good year does that to you, I don't want any more of them."

Brimley said in an interview with The Salt Lake Tribune that the sort of films he prefers are "simple, honest stories about emotions and people."

"I did one story about steam and pigs guts, and I shall not do another," he said, referring to John Carpenter's "The Thing."

"But that's how you learn — by experience. Not by hearsay, not by suspicion, but by actually doing it," he said. "The only way I learned how to do anything in my life was by first doing it wrong."

As long as he doesn't hit

TRENTON — Former boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter, whose life sentence for triple murder was the subject of the Bob Dylan song "Hurricane," has been transferred from a maximum to a medium security prison, officials said.

"It's a routine inmate move as far as we're concerned," James Stabile, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections said Monday.

Carter was moved from Trenton State Prison to Rahway State Prison on Friday, Stabile said, adding that "He's done a lot of time and he doesn't need the security of Trenton."

Carter, 47, once a top middleweight boxing contender, and John Artis, were convicted in 1967 of killing a white bartender and two white patrons at the Lafayette Bar and Grill in Paterson on June 17, 1966.

Authorities said the murders came as revenge for the killing of a black bartender by a white man elsewhere in Paterson on the same night.

Artis and Carter won retrials in 1976 but both were convicted again.

Mondale searching for woman VP candidate

By DONALD ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON — Three women, two blacks, a Hispanic and a white male — that's the lineup so far for Walter F. Mondale's vice presidential search, a process suddenly showing signs of careening out of control.

At its best, the Mondale search opened the door for the first time to people other than white males as serious prospects for a spot on the national ticket.

"Never again will a nominee make headlines by considering a woman," Mondale told the National Organization for Women on Saturday. "Next time headlines will be made only if women are not considered."

But Mondale quickly found out that the women delegates to the NOW convention want more than an open door. They want to be invited in. And if they are not, they are threatening to kick down the door.

The negative side of Mondale's search and his determination to exclude no one has been to endow the process with the air of an effort designed to satisfy the demands of the special interest groups the candidate feels he needs.

The NOW delegates threatened Sunday that if Mondale doesn't choose a woman, feminist delegates at the Democratic National Convention will challenge his decision by proposing a woman as an alternative.

NOW is playing old-fashioned, tough interest politics. More than 53 percent of the electorate this year will be women. NOW broke precedent to endorse Mondale for the nomination and the group feels it's time to collect on that obligation.

At the NOW convention, Mondale said he was considering women "not because they are women, but because they are among the best."

Would Mayor Dianne Feinstein

HIGH FIVE — Rep. Geraldine Ferraro gestures as she answers questions following her meeting Monday with Walter Mondale about the Democratic candidacy for vice president.

of San Francisco has been invited to Minnesota for a vice presidential interview if she were a man?

For that matter, would black Mayors Tom Bradley of Los Angeles or Wilson Goode of Philadelphia have been interviewed if they were white males?

Or Mayor Henry Cisneros of San Antonio, the Hispanic on the Mondale list?

Only Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, the white male on the Mondale list, appeared to represent traditional considerations for a running mate.

Bentsen is from Texas, a state high on the list of those Mondale needs to carry against President Reagan in November. He would appeal to conservative Democrats and independents uncomfortable with Mondale's traditional liberalism.

Sen. Gary Hart also is assumed to be high on Mondale's list of running mates. He, too, would fit traditional political molds. Hart ran a strong race against Mondale in the battle for the presidential nomination and, more important, appealed to a constituency markedly different from Mondale's and holding the prospect of broadening the Democratic Party's base for the fall campaign.

Mondale's effort might have greater credibility if, after his meeting Monday with Rep. Geraldine Ferraro of New York, he gave as much emphasis to the fact that she is an Italian Catholic from New York — three ticket-balancing virtues — as to her sex.

Israelis free 4, detain 4

BEIRUT — Five Lebanese passengers from a ferry boat intercepted by the Israeli navy four days ago were released by Israeli authorities and crossed into Lebanon this morning.

Three male passengers and one woman were still being held. There was no word on their whereabouts or when they might be freed.

Four men and one woman were escorted across a border crossing in two International Red Cross cars after spending the night in a guest house on the Israeli frontier.

Soviets interrogate Katzir

PARIS — Former Israeli President Ephraim Katzir said today he was "deeply offended" over being interrogated for an hour and a half by the Soviet secret police after he was prevented from visiting a Soviet Jew in Leningrad.

Katzir said Soviet authorities were aware he was a former president and suggested the interrogation "might have been a message to the refuseniks and any future or potential refuseniks."

TEHRAN — Two crewmen aboard a Cypriot cargo ship were killed and four were injured when the ship was attacked Sunday near the Iranian port of Bandar Khomeini, a spokesman for the ship's owners said today.

The spokesman did not say who staged the attack on the 13,316-ton Alexandra Dyo, but Iraq has claimed that its forces attacked five ships in that section of the Persian Gulf on Sunday.

Kashmir strikes in protest

NEW DELHI — Shops and businesses across the Himalayan state of Kashmir closed today in a protest against Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's dismissal of a state government led by one of her main critics.

The government imposed a 24-hour curfew on Srinagar, the state capital, and paramilitary troops were alerted to prevent more violent protests. Several people were hurt Monday in scattered riots protesting the ouster of Chief Minister Mohammad Farooq Abdullah.

Centrist party takes lead

GUATEMALA CITY — The centrist Christian Democratic Party has taken the lead in voting for an assembly is charged with rewriting the constitution to allow for a return to civilian rule next year.

The Supreme Electoral Tribunal said late Monday that the Christian Democrats had 206,024 votes, or 17.6 percent of the total. Votes from 59 percent of the 4,090 polling stations had been counted.

NAACP to sue over civil rights

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sharp attacks on the Reagan administration and the announcement of a lawsuit accusing the Justice Department of civil rights violations marked the opening of the 75th annual convention of the NAACP.

Separate appearances were scheduled today by the frontrunner for the Democratic presidential nomination, Walter Mondale, and the Rev. Jesse Jackson, the only black to seek the party's nod this year.

The two candidates were to meet privately before they addressed delegates to the meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Herbert H. Henderson, the NAACP's general counsel, said Monday that the civil rights group would file a suit within 60 days to stop the Justice Department "from placing its heavy thumb on the scale of justice in order to tip it in favor of the powerful and the entrenched male, white establishment."

Henderson's remarks, on the first day of the convention, were in reference to a recent Supreme Court ruling on a Memphis firefighters case, in which the court upheld the constitutionality of the "last-hired, first-fired" method for layoffs.

White firefighters had challenged the city's decision to dismiss them instead of more recently hired minorities during a budget crunch.

Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, also sharply criticized President Reagan and his administration during a floor address.

"Civil rights are under siege and they have been under siege since the beginning of this administration," Rodino told convention delegates.

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., and his wife, Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole, defended the administration.

Mrs. Dole, the official stand-in for Reagan at the convention, said she and her husband "share a deep abhorrence for the seeds of hatred sown by those misguided members of our society who would deny others their right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

She said blacks have made gains during Reagan's term.

"Blacks must be able to own lunch rooms as well as sit at the counter — to operate a bus line as well as occupy a front seat," said Mrs. Dole.

Common Market is back on track

The European Economic Community (aka: the Common Market) has never quite lived up to the free-trade expectations that prompted its creation 27 years ago. But the EEC will not improve if it does not survive, and it might not survive if member nations as important as Britain resign membership in the 10-nation, Western Europe trade pact.

That is why all who favor free trade should be relieved that leaders of the Common Market countries have at long last resolved the five-year-old dispute over how much Britain should contribute to the EEC's annual budget. Had this matter not been settled, it would have added to Britain's already lengthy list of grievances against the Common Market. And, just possibly, that failure might have tipped public sentiment in Britain decisively against remaining in the EEC.

Britain's assigned contribution of almost $1 billion per year to the Common Market's $24 billion annual budget was reduced by about two-thirds. That allowed Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher to claim victory even if her pleas for structural reform — lower trade barriers within the Common Market and fewer agricultural subsidies — were rejected for now. But the British are right to argue for freer trade within the Common Market, and Thatcher will no doubt keep trying.

Settling the dues dispute should help in this cause. The EEC agenda is now clear of a quarrel one French official called a "paralyzing obsession." Leaders of the Common Market and its legislature, the European Parliament, can get busy devising ways to advance the goals of an economically and politically integrated Western Europe.

Russia's line-up

President Reagan couldn't say it out loud at his press conference, but he hinted that one of the problems with having a summit conference with his counterpart in the Soviet Union is that he doesn't know who it is.

Just before the conference he received a briefing from Soviet experts in the CIA and State Department.

"Chernenko is sick," said one expert. "The power is shifting to Andrei Gromyko and Defense Minister Ustinov."

"Then I ought to meet with them," the president said.

"If you do, you will offend Grigori Romanov of the Communist Party in Leningrad, who now seems to be running the KGB. We're not sure if he's with the Chernenko group or against them. But I'd give him a set of cufflinks, just in case."

"Well, how do I make any progress with the Soviets if Chernenko isn't in charge?" the president asked.

"We didn't say he wasn't in charge. He's a wily old goat and has some Young Turks in the Politburo who cannot be ignored because any one of them could be Chernenko's heir apparent."

"Are they hard-liners?"

"Some are and some aren't. Mikhail Gorbachev is one of the favorites for the job if Chernenko dies. He's 52, so he'll be around for a long time. I'd also give him cufflinks to play it safe. But do it quietly. If the anti-Chernenko crowd gets wind of it, they'll use it against him if he goes for the leadership."

"How can I remember all these people if I go to a summit? I can't even remember the names of the members in my own Cabinet."

"Here are some photographs taken of Chernenko and the other Soviet leaders at the last May Day parade. We've put their names underneath them so you'll know who is who."

The president studied the photographs. "They all look alike to me."

"Call everyone 'Comrade' and you won't have a problem."

"How can I call a Soviet leader Comrade after what I've said about them?"

"It's like calling someone Mister."

"I don't think it's a good time to propose a summit meeting with the Soviets when we don't know who we're dealing with."

"It couldn't be a better time. Our intelligence indicates if you propose one now they will turn it down flat."

"Why?"

"Because if you meet with Chernenko it will acknowledge that as far as the United States is concerned he is in charge. The anti-Chernenko forces in the Kremlin can't afford this while they're lining up their support to take over the power, once Chernenko is stuck in the Kremlin wall."

"Chernenko must know this. What's to prevent him from accepting my invitation to a summit to put his domestic enemies in their place?"

"The Soviet army will never go for a summit at this time, and from what we can learn they have a lot to say about who meets with Chernenko and who doesn't."

"Then it's your opinion that I should announce that I'm willing to meet with Chernenko without a prepared agenda?"

"It will look great in an election year, particularly since there is no chance of it taking place. Our intelligence indicates that if you do this you'll be co-opting one of the major issues the Democrats plan to use against you in the fall. By taking a softer line on the Soviets between now and Election Day you'll stop all the talk that you're intransigent about Soviet-American relations."

"What happens, if in spite of your intelligence, the Soviets agree to go to a summit with no strings attached?"

"Then you have nothing to lose but your cufflinks."

Green light to cable pornography

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court has given its blessing to home pornography. Presumably, this was not the intention of the nine solemn, black-robed justices behind the high mahogany bench. But that could be the effect of their unanimous decision on cable television.

All they did, strictly speaking, was strike down Oklahoma's ban on cable-television wine commercials. But the way the decision was worded, it would bar states or communities from regulating the content of cable television programs.

This may give the green light to a few depraved profiteers, who use cable television to pipe the most disgusting sex scenes imaginable into American homes. I have spent the past three months investigating cable pornography. Here are my findings:

• Sex orgies that would make the Caesars blush are shown coast-to-coast on cable television. Hour after hour of this wanton sex programming is available in millions of homes at the turn of a dial. The scenes are filthy, obscene, lewd and shameful. The producers have the morality of the inhabitants of Sodom and Gomorrah.

• Children are getting their sex education from these prurient, perverted programs. Usually, the kids gather at the home of a friend whose parents are out. In the sanctity of the home, they watch lurid sex acts that debase humanity, degrade women and corrupt morals.

• Many studies have found a statistical relationship between hard-core pornography and sex crimes. The Michigan state police, for example, found that pornography is used or imitated in 41 percent of the sex crimes they investigate. So cable sex could lead to rape, sexual assault and child molestation.

I taped some explicit sex scenes from cable television, sent copies to 50 key members of Congress and asked for their comments. They expressed shock and outrage. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., found the scenes so depraved he couldn't watch the full six minutes. He locked the tape in his office safe to keep it out of innocent hands. Yet children are free to view this stuff, my associate Vicki Warren has found.

Helms, thoroughly alarmed, drafted legislation that would bring home pornography under control. It would outlaw indecent, profane or obscene programs on cable television. As a federal measure, it wouldn't be affected by the Supreme Court ruling.

The National Cable Television Association has raised a legitimate concern. It is worried about government censorship. Its president, Thomas E. Wheeler, wrote me:

"As a journalist, who has often found himself in the center of controversy because you have declined to adopt the popular approach to issues... you did not mean to suggest that cable programming, or a newspaper columnist, or any information provider, should be free of government control only if a majority of its audience finds it acceptable."

I have always championed freedom of expression. But as a society, we have learned to take measures to protect ourselves against many things. We endeavor to isolate those who commit theft or violence. We impose quarantines against the spread of communicable diseases. Against those responsible for other hazards to public health or safety, we invoke injunctions and penalties.

But there are some things we have not been able to protect ourselves against. One is hard-core pornography, which can scar the minds of young people. If we were to spread poison where people were likely to be exposed or injured by it, we would expect severe penalties. But those who befool the moral and intellectual atmosphere with debauched programs are polluting the environment as surely as if they were spreading something toxic.

UNDER THE DOME: Some chatty members of Congress have been a little slow to reimburse the General Services Administration for their loquacity on the telephone. Internal GSA records show that at the end of May, 20 past and present members of Congress owed a total of $12,754.81 in delinquent phone bills dating back to late last year.

Heading the overdue list are Rep. William Patman, D-Tex., ($2,367.49); Rep. Frank Harrison, D-Pa., ($2,369.21); Rep. Brian Donnelly, D-Mass., ($1,792.68); ex-Rep. Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., ($1,490.08); Rep. Timothy Penny, D-Minn., ($1,464.17); ex-Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, ($1,182.89); Sen. Slade Gorton, R-Wash., ($426.31); Rep. Major Owens, D-N.Y., ($339.88); Rep. Sid Morrison, R-Wash., ($205.84); ex-Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., ($183.06); and Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., ($182.74).

At the bottom of the delinquent list is Rep. Robert Torricelli, D-N.J., who owes the GSA $13.50 in old phone charges.

Patman said his large overdue bill appears to be for a Corpus Christi office that's no longer in his district. He said he'll look into the matter, as did the others who were called. Donnelly's office insists it has tried unsuccessfully for more than three weeks to get copies of the bills.

BITING THE BULLETS: When the National Rifle Association throws a feed for its influential friends in Washington, it goes whole hog in every sense of the phrase. The menu for the NRA's third annual Capitol Hill chowdown featured wild game bagged by NRA nimrods from Alaska to Maine.

More than 1,000 guests — members of Congress, and White House and congressional staffers — snacked on such gamy delicacies as wild boar, antelope meatballs, buffalo steaks from South Dakota, pickled quail eggs and 12 pounds of mountain lion filets from Wyoming.

Among the riflemen's congressional friends in attendance were Sens. David Durenberger, R-Minn.; Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo.; Ed Zorinsky, D-Neb., and Ted Stevens, R-Alaska.

Find the time

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have been a single parent for several years — my husband left me — and it is really getting to me. Between having to take care of the kids and having to work all the time, I can just hardly make it through the week. I know I ought to go to church, but by the time the weekend is here, I just am too tired to enter. Do you think this is wrong? — Mrs. Y.T.L.

DEAR MRS. Y.T.L.: You need to do everything you possibly can to overcome this situation and make church a part of your life. This is true not only for your sake, but for the sake of your children as well. Yes, it is important to provide for your children's physical and emotional needs — but they also need spiritual guidance as well. In fact, the most important thing you can do for your children is to encourage them to have a strong faith in Christ. Unfortunately, by failing to make church a part of your life you are really saying to your children that you think God is unimportant.

God will help you if you will turn to Christ and put Him first in your life. The Bible promises, "He gives strength to the weary and increases the power of the weak... those who hope in the Lord will renew their strength" (Isaiah 40:29, 31). Often in my life I have become very tired — but God has given me strength to carry out what He wanted me to do. Turn to Christ, and then find fellowship with other believers in a church where Christ is preached.

Then seek God's wisdom to help you find practical ways to make your tasks easier. Perhaps there are ways you can organize your time better (such as planning your meals a week ahead). If you become active in a church, you may find it has special programs for single parents, including practical tips on coping with your special problems.

Better red

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Officials have picked a Sioux City Sue, the first in more than 30 years, and she'll probably be the last for some time because there just aren't enough redheads.

"I'm absolutely in awe," said Deb Berens, the blue-eyed redhead who won the title, along with $4,200 in prizes. "I felt so fortunate just to have made the top 20 candidates."

Miss Berens' eye and hair color exactly fit the pageant's specifications, and a panel of five judges — also redheads — picked her from a field of 20 contestants.

About 5,000 people watched Sunday as the first Sioux City Sue was named since Beverly Johnson Kolasch took the title in 1950, the fourth contest.

Pageant officials say they don't expect a repeat for some time.

"If we did this every year, we'd run out of redheads," said Charese Yanney of the Sioux City Sue Committee.

Stress can cause hives to pop out

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Could you explain what exactly is meant by the term hives? Most of the time I get red blotches and they itch most of the time. Is this stress related? Can it be controlled psychologically? — R.R.

I cannot guess about what you have. Hives are raised red patches of skin that itch and disappear in a rather short time. It's not like the skin rash of, say, measles or chicken pox. You really must find out for yourself whether your red blotches are truly hives.

If that's what they are, I can tell you what is happening. Some substance, such as histamine, is being released and that causes fluid to leak out of blood vessels, accumulating in the skin. That's where the welts come from. The itching is triggered by the same substances.

The triggers for such events are legion — good allergies, reactions to pollens, drugs, insect stings and on and on. Heat, cold and physical pressure can cause hives, and I'm just scratching the surface.

Yes, stress can do it. I recall being called on once in a class for which I less prepared than usual. I broke out in florid hives. If such stress is causing your hives (if that's what you do have) you should be able to control that eventually, I have.

But if the hives come from one of the other factors, then you need outside help. Antihistamines often keep such factors in check.

But don't assume your problem is mental stress. Find out for sure. (See the next letter).

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband's body begins to itch and burn when he exerts himself real bad. It happens often. Is there some kind of medicine he can take? — F.C.

Next time it happens, take a look at his skin more closely. See if he has some tiny hives. If he does, as I suspect, then he has exercise hives. I don't know why body heat causes this reaction for some, but it does. Ask his doctor if he would benefit from taking the antihistamine, hydroxyzine, before exercise.

FOR M.O. — Birth control pills are not altogether out for the diabetic, but the doctor should be informed of intention to take them. They can interfere with sugar control and may add to the diabetic's already increased chance of developing vessel disease. Their use, therefore, should be monitored.

Rudy Haddad presents program at medical education seminar

Dr. Rudy Haddad presented the program "Male Impotence and the Penile Prosthesis" at Malone-Hogan's continuing medical education seminar, June 27.

"Impotence is estimated to affect approximately 10 million American males," Dr. Haddad told the physicians.

Impotence can stem from organic causes including diabetes mellitus, vascular diseases like hardening of the arteries, spinal cord injuries and from certain surgical procedures. Medications, especially those used for control of high blood pressure, also can cause impotence. Stress, grief or fear of failure may induce psychogenic impotence.

"The need for a penile prosthesis is indicated in a large number of cases," said Haddad.

Both semi-rigid and inflatable prostheses have been developed in recent years. At least 10,000 American males have had sexual function restored by successful penile prosthesis implants, Haddad said.

Haddad, an urologist at Malone and Hogan Clinic, introduced the procedure to the Big Spring area. He emphasized that testing is essential to differentiate between psychogenic and organic impotence as treatment of each differs. Some impotency problems can be resolved by sexual counseling, administration of sexual hormones or changes in medications.

Dear Abby

Shoplifter wonders why she did it

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I walked out of a local department store when suddenly someone tapped me on the shoulder and said, "I'm with security; please give me the box you have in your purse and follow me."

I followed him back into the store and into the manager's office, where I was questioned for shoplifting a box of candy that cost 78 cents!

Understand, I am not a kid. I am 50 years old, the mother of five children. Should they learn of this, I would never be able to look them in the eye again. There is a hearing scheduled for a week from now. I will probably be fingerprinted, charged with shoplifting and fined about $50.

Why did I do it? I have asked myself that question a thousand times. I wish I could come up with an answer — any answer that would explain my actions. I did not enter that store with any thought of shoplifting. I didn't want the candy; I seldom eat candy. Then why did I take it? I have plenty of money to buy whatever I want. I've never stolen anything before, and I didn't get a particular "thrill" out of taking it.

Thanks for listening, Abby. I haven't been able to talk to anyone about this. I feel so lousy.

GUILTY AS CHARGED

DEAR GUILTY: Legally you are guilty of shoplifting, but there is a strong possibility that you are a "kleptomaniac." Definition: "one who has a persistent, neurotic compulsion to steal — especially without economic motive." It's a condition that can be treated. Get a lawyer and a doctor. And in that order.

DEAR ABBY: Now that the tourist season is upon us, this might be helpful. If friends or relatives ask you to buy something for them in a foreign country ("Pick up a nice jade ring in Hong Kong" or "Bring me a pretty piece of Thai silk from Bangkok"), don't consider it unless (1) they give you the money first, (2) give you a detailed description of what they want and (3) agree to accept it whether they like it or not.

Twice I was struck by relatives who refused to accept the items I had purchased at their request. They said they weren't what they wanted and they refused to reimburse me. I had absolutely no use for these things, but there was nothing I could do about it.

Pass this along, Abby. I wish I'd been warned.

Miss Cowley honored at bridal shower

Brenda Cowley, bride-elect of Gayle Pauley, was honored recently with a shower at the Forsan Baptist Church Fellowship Hall.

Hosting the event were Anita Shoultz, Loretta Yarbrough, Mae Wash, Marie Walls, Joreen Beeson, Ida Mae Camp, Faye Day, Blanche Cardwell, Dorothy Hassell, Lola Painter, Sue Holguin, Lucille Overton, Reba Ward, Pat Barron, Donna Wilson and Willie Kate Rankin. They presented the honoree with an upright vacuum cleaner and attachments. Corsages of mint carnations were presented to Miss Cowley, Mrs. Bob Cowley, her mother; Mrs. G.L. Monroey of Forsan, the honoree's grandmother; and Mrs. Ann Pauley of San Angelo, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Other special guests were Waynann Curton and Wendy Bowden of Dallas, both cousins of the bride-elect; Betty Cowley, Kathryn Hagar of San Angelo, and Betty Monroey of Snyder, aunts of the bride-elect; and Nicholas Bowden of Dallas.

Guests registered in a bride's book that was made by the bride-elect's grandmother, the late Mrs. S.C. Cowley.

A table covered with a lace-edged white cloth was centered with an arrangement of peach flowers in a mint bowl. An arrangement of peach flowers and crystal swans accented the room.

Hayworth descendants have reunion

Descendants of John and Sally Hayworth attended a family reunion at Kentwood Center, June 30-July 1.

John and Sally Hayworth had eight children: Allen Hayworth, Bum Hayworth, Bart Hayworth, Jake Hayworth, Bill Hayworth, Delia Roland, Horace Hayworth and Den Hayworth. All the children are deceased. Attending the reunion were Horace's and Den's wives, Annabelle Hayworth and Lila Hayworth, respectively.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyce Hayworth from California received a prize for traveling the farthest. Lila Hayworth, 83, was the oldest descendant in attendance. Mrs. Ruby Daniels had the most family members there.

Canned goods and homemade items were auctioned to raise money for future reunions. The next reunion will be in Granbury during the fourth weekend of June, 1985.

A Big Spring WINNER!

Pat Hardy
Administrative Assistant to City Manager
City of Big Spring

There's a lot of optimism about the revitalization of Downtown Big Spring — and most of the credit goes to Pat Hardy. Pat came to Big Spring six months ago as an intern to satisfy a requirement for his Master's Degree in City Management from East Tennessee State University; June 30 his internship was over and he assumed the position permanently. For Pat, the move to Big Spring was a move back home; his family moved away when he was a youngster but he visited here often. Our downtown renovation is one of his chief interest; he has attended seminars, compiled ideas, researched other Texas city redevelopments, and now offers a strategy. "A strategy that calls for the utilization of our human resources," Pat declares. "It's all of us working together at the grass roots level. It's looking for innovative approaches." A July 27-28 event is the official kick-off for the downtown movement. "For a city this size, Big Spring has an amazing number of special interest and self-help groups. Their interaction is a wonderful thing." Pat's is a busy job; he attends several meetings a week — NAACP, Chamber of Commerce, Chemical People and more. Pat worked his way through college as a professional actor and hopes to spark our community theatre. He and wife, Bonita, look forward to making their home here with the family pets, dogs Lillian and Harvey, the latter an adoptee from the city animal shelter.

CAR CRAZY — B.B. Holland stands among his collection of 12 Studebakers in Bryan.

The sultan of Studebakers

High school principal keeps harem of bullet-nose beauties

BRYAN (AP) — B.B. Holland leads a double life: by day he's the mild-mannered principal of South Knoll Elementary; by night he's the sultan of Studebakers in the Brazos Valley.

More than a mere classic car collector, the Holland homestead is nine acres devoted to a Studebaker shrine.

Twelve cars, all in good running condition, line the carport. But this is only the beginning. Off to the right, sits a solid looking '50 pickup under repair, Studebaker, of course. The shop houses a Studebaker under renovation from the frame up. Another storage shed holds sorted parts. To the rear of the property sit numerous Studebakers, collected for their parts.

Holland credits his love of Studebakers to his grandfather, the late E.L. Dillon.

"I was real close to my grandparents and my grandfather always had Studebakers," Holland said.

In 1967 when his grandfather got too old to drive he bought his car. The green '50, four-door sedan was nicknamed "Sherm" by one of his daughters for its resemblance to the tank. "It was in excellent condition when we got it," he said. "It only had 57,000 miles on it."

The cornerstone of his collection and a sentimental favorite, Holland says he would never sell it. "It's a solid little car with 73,000 miles

now," he said adding, "It's going to get thoroughly restored shortly."

In 1976, 10 years after Studebakers went out of production, Holland began to add to his collection.

"I joined the Studebaker Drivers Club in Houston and heard about a '57 Silver Hawk for sale. I bought it for two hundred dollars and towed it home," he said.

"All it needed was some transmission fluid added and it's been running fine ever since," he added.

The collection grew with the addition of a '63 Avanti sport coupe added in '77. He spent the next five years restoring it.

Band opens on a high note

About 75 persons turned out at the city amphitheater Sunday night to hear a selection of traditional concert band pieces performed by the newly-organized Big Spring Area Concert Band.

Under cloudy skies, Bandmaster Russell McKiski opened the concert with "God Bless America" and led the 30-member concert band through such numbers as "Brighton Beach March," "Selections from South Pacific" and a three-song medley of Carpenters' hits.

Although gusty winds sometimes blew the musicians' music off their stands, the players tooted gamely through their pieces, ending the hour-long concert with a rousing rendition of John Phillip Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever."

The band, which was organized early this year, began rehearsals in March before Sunday night's first concert. Persons who are interested in performing with the band — especially students who are out of school for the summer — are asked to contact McKiski at 263-8822.

National League All-Stars previewed

With the Major League All-Star baseball contest just around the corner it just about time for all fans to have their ballots cast for the starters they want in the July 10 classic.

It was a very interesting move when Major League baseball decided to let the fans start back selecting the players in the early 70's. Baseball is America's pastime so surely the fans are capable of picking the players who have earned the right to start, right? Well let's take a look and see just how well America knows its baseball.

I will review the National League leaders this week and save the American league for next week, now on with the show.

Montreal catcher Gary Carter has been a steady selection to the All-Stars for a number of years and this year is no different, according to the fans. Maybe the fans are right since he has 14 homers, 53 RBI's and a .293 batting average.

But fans in the Chicago will argue about that since they have a young catcher named Jody Davis, who is currently sixth in the balloting. Davis has 13 homers, 55 RBI's and a .299 average. Fans in the Bay area have a right to argue also since San Francisco Giants catcher Bob Brenly, who is not on the ballot, has eight homers, 31 RBI's and a .315 average.

But the fans made a good choice in Carter since he is a better defensive catcher, but maybe Davis or Brenly will be chosen as reserves.

The fans like San Diego first baseman Steve Garvey with his .285 average, four homers and 44 RBI's. He has the third best batting averages of the first sackers. The two players with better ones are Keith Hernandez of New York (.319) and Al Oliver of the Giants (.291). Hernandez, who is currently second has the most power of the three with six homers, and 38 RBI's. Oliver is the best contact hitter of the lot. I like Hernandez as the starter and Oliver as the backup.

The leader at second base is San Diego's Allan Wiggins. A bad choice in my opinion since he has a paltry batting average of .216. I figured he won a lot of votes for his base stealing abilities.

If Chicago's Ryne Sandberg, who is third in the balloting, does not get picked then I'm really going to blow my stack. None of the other second basemen can compare with his 10 homers, 49 RBI's and .337 average. How can the man not be a first team choice? Chicago voters better get to work.

Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt is the best third baseman in the league and thank goodness the fans know this. The Philly strongman is hitting at a .293 clip with a league-leading 16 homers and 54 RBI's. I'm disappointed that Montreal's Tim Wallach is only in seventh place. His credentials are impressive — 12 homers, 40 RBI's and a .280 average. Graig Nettles of San Diego is in second place with his .227 batting average. I think the fans are a bit sentimental toward the aging Nettles.

The shortstop position has two defensive specialists leading the way in St. Louis's Ozzie "The Magician" Smith and San Diego's Gary Templeton. Their batting averages are not that high, .244 and .273 respectively, but they can cover ground like most other shortstops can't.

In fact most of the shortstops on the ballot are not hitting for a high average, especially the Giants' Johnny Lemaster (.212) and Pittsburgh Pirates Dale Berra (.213). The only other man that deserves to start is Atlanta's Rafeal Ramirez, currently in fourth, batting .315.

There is an abundance of good outfielders this season and at least nine players have played well enough to be on the team. The fans are picking young Darryl Strawberry of the Mets, Dale Murphy of the Braves and league leading hitter Tony Gwynn (.352) of the Padres.

Then you have Leon Durham and Bob Dernier of the Cubs, Tim Raines and Terry Francona of the Expos, Jack Clark of the Giants and Claudell Washington of the Braves. I'm not going to argue with the picks since the players are all so even. Only two of the nine are batting under .300.

So there you have a review of the National League fans balloting. I must admit the fans have done a pretty decent job. I guess baseball is still America's pastime.

NEXT WEEK: The American League gets previewed.

SICK AT LOSS — Tears from Australia's Elizabeth Sayers, (left), were in order after defending champion Martina Navratilova beat her 6-0 in the first set of their Monday quarterfinal match at Wimbledon. Sayers forfeited the rest of the match after suffering an illness following the first set.

Martina, Chris on course for championship contest

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Top-seeded Martina Navratilova and No. 2 Chris Evert Lloyd continued their march today toward an expected showdown at the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

Navratilova, who has yet to drop a set in this, the 100th anniversary of women's play at the All-England Club, became the first player to reach the semifinals when she ousted seventh-seeded Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria 6-3, 6-2.

Lloyd, who is one round behind because of Monday's rain delay, ousted 12th-seeded Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany 6-2, 6-4 to move into the quarterfinals. Her next opponent will be surprising Carina Karlsson, a 20-year-old Swede who had to qualify for the main draw.

It was the first meeting against Maleeva for Navratilova, who is seeking her third consecutive Wimbledon singles title and her fifth straight Grand Slam crown. And the 17-year-old Bulgarian became the left-hander's 40th victim of 1984 against only one loss.

Navratilova, serving strongly, scored service breaks in the third and ninth games to take the first set in 24 minutes. In the second set, the winner broke Maleeva — an ardent baseliner who came to the net only once during the match on her own accord — in the fourth and final games. The young Bulgarian had five game points in the eighth game, but fell on the second match point just as the clock ticked past one hour.

Lloyd won eight straight points in one stretch to grab her opening set against Kohde-Kilsch, taking the third and fourth games at love. She was serving for the match in the eighth game, but Kohde-Kilsch staged off a match point and went on to break Lloyd's service.

Kohde then held for 4-5 before Lloyd closed out the 73-minute match on her next service game.

In the men's draw, Jimmy Connors is asked the same question at almost every major tournament these days — when will you retire?

"As long as I'm playing like I'm playing, I don't see why I can't go on another year or two," said Connors after an impressive four-set, fourth-round victory Monday over fellow-American Tim Mayotte.

"But then again, if I lose my interest, I'd sooner get out." Like the rest of the men left in the singles tournament, Connors enjoyed a day off Tuesday as the women took to the show courts of the All-England Club.

Connors, 31, seeded No. 3, disposed of Mayotte 6-7 (4-7), 6-2, 6-0, 6-2. With over 100 tournament victories behind him, Connors is playing in his 14th Wimbledon.

Asked whether the spark of enthusiasm was as bright today as in the past, he replied emphatically:

"It has never left. I think that's what keeps my game alive and is why I've had such good success the last two years."

"My desire and my game and the way I play is always the same. Probably the only thing that's different is that I enjoy the game a lot more now. I'm a little older, I've won most everything that I've gotten in there to do and a lot of the pressure is off me and on the young guys."

"I go out and try to hit good returns, good volleys and have a good time."

Yet having a good time is not all the two-time Wimbledon champion is interested in.

"It doesn't mean I'm finished winning. I feel I have as good a chance as ever to win the tournament. (Otherwise) I wouldn't be here," he said.

National oldies best American Cracker Jacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The waistlines are bigger and the gait slowed, but the home run swings that cheered generations of America's baseball fans were still very much in evidence Monday night as the National League Old Timers blasted their way to a 9-4 victory over their American League counterparts in the third annual Cracker Jack Classic.

Six home runs were hit in the game, including National League blasts by Henry Aaron, Johnny Bench, Tom Haller and Billy Williams.

"This is Washington, the most powerful city in the world. You've got to bring your power when you come here," former Chicago Cub Ernie Banks said before the game.

"You never lose the joy, thrill, of hitting a home run," Williams said. "Next to a home run I hit off Bob Gibson in the 12th inning on opening day in Chicago one year, this has to be the biggest home run I ever hit."

Bench, who at 36 was the youngest participant, was thrilled to be playing in his first old timers' game.

"All these guys were heroes to me. I hope they ask me back. I would like to catch a Warren Spahn or Sandy Koufax," he said.

The American League also played long ball scoring on solo home runs by Harmon Killebrew, a new member of Baseball's Hall of Fame, and former catcher Andy Etchebarren.

"It felt pretty good to hit one out," said Killebrew, who started his major league career with the original Washington Senators in 1954. "But it seems a lot longer going around the bases than I remembered."

The five-inning game, which now serves to both open and close Washington's baseball season, attracted a crowd of 29,698 fans despite the inclement weather.

Rain delayed the start of the game but did nothing to dampen the spirit of the fans or the participants as they reminisced of a bygone era.

The biggest cheer of the evening was reserved for Joe DiMaggio. The former New York center fielder received a standing ovation from the nostalgic fans.

Gamblers ace turns up honor as Player of the Year in USFL

When he was growing up in East Brady, Pa., Jim Kelly tried to model himself after Terry Bradshaw and he still wears Bradshaw's No. 12. But Bradshaw never had Mouse Davis and his "run-and-shoot offense."

The 6-foot-3, 215 pound Houston Gamblers rookie was named Monday as the United States Football League's Player of the Year after putting together the most productive season ever by a professional quarterback. It was accomplished under the tutelage of Davis, who developed the quick-strike, short-passing offense that allowed Kelly to fulfill his promise.

"Bradshaw is my main man, I hold the ball the same way he does and I have the same number," Kelly says of the Pittsburgh Steelers' quarterback.

"But Mouse has been such a great help to me. He's taught me a lot about anticipating when to throw and how to read the zones. When I first signed with the Gamblers, I didn't even know who he was. But believe me, a lot of people know him now."

With Kelly directing Davis' offense, the Gamblers became the only one of the six USFL expansion teams to make the playoffs. They were eliminated in the first round Sunday 17-16 by the Arizona Wranglers.

Kelly, a first-round pick of the National Football League Buffalo Bills, was the first top young quarterback to sign with the new league and quickly became the USFL's brightest star.

He received 30 votes from a panel of two reporters from each USFL city. Philadelphia quarterback Chuck Fusina had three votes, Philadelphia running back Kelvin Bryant, last year's player of the year, had two and Birmingham's Joe Cribbs got one.

For the season, Kelly passed for 5,219 yards and 44 touchdowns and had nine 300-yard games in 18 starts. He also ran for 493 yards in 85 carries, an average of 5.8 yards per carry.

The touchdown passes were an all-time pro record, four more than Pete Liske's 40 for Calgary of the Canadian Football League in 1967 and eight more than the NFL record of 36 set by Y.A. Tittle in a 12-game season in 1963.

His nine 300-yard games surpassed the record of eight set by Dan Fouts during a 16-game NFL season in 1980. And the yardage mark is second to Warren Moon's 5,646 for Edmonton of the CFL in 1983.

Kelly acknowledges that he probably wouldn't have done what he did in the NFL because he wouldn't have had the chance to play as quickly. But he's not apologizing for his records.

Kelly's success also made instant stars of two hitherto little-known wide receivers — Richard Johnson, a second-year man from the University of Colorado and Ricky Sanders, a rookie from Southwest Texas.

CAR CRAZY — B.B. Holland stands among his collection of 12 Studebakers in Bryan.

The sultan of Studebakers

High school principal keeps harem of bullet-nose beauties

BRYAN (AP) — B.B. Holland leads a double life: by day he's the mild-mannered principal of South Knoll Elementary; by night he's the sultan of Studebakers in the Brazos Valley.

More than a mere classic car collector, the Holland homestead is nine acres devoted to a Studebaker shrine.

Twelve cars, all in good running condition, line the carport. But this is only the beginning. Off to the right, sits a solid looking '50 pickup under repair, Studebaker, of course. The shop houses a Studebaker under renovation from the frame up. Another storage shed holds sorted parts. To the rear of the property sit numerous Studebakers, collected for their parts.

Holland credits his love of Studebakers to his grandfather, the late E.L. Dillon.

"I was real close to my grandparents and my grandfather always had Studebakers," Holland said.

In 1967 when his grandfather got too old to drive he bought his car. The green '50, four-door sedan was nicknamed "Sherm" by one of his daughters for its resemblance to the tank.

"It was in excellent condition when we got it," he said. "It only had 57,000 miles on it."

The cornerstone of his collection and a sentimental favorite, Holland says he would never sell it.

"It's a solid little car with 73,000 miles

now," he said adding, "It's going to get thoroughly restored shortly."

In 1976, 10 years after Studebakers went out of production, Holland began to add to his collection.

"I joined the Studebaker Drivers Club in Houston and heard about a '57 Silver Hawk for sale. I bought it for two hundred dollars and towed it home," he said.

"All it needed was some transmission fluid added and it's been running fine ever since," he added.

The collection grew with the addition of a '63 Avanti sport coupe added in '77. He spent the next five years restoring it.

Band opens on a high note

About 75 persons turned out at the city amphitheater Sunday night to hear a selection of traditional concert band pieces performed by the newly-organized Big Spring Area Concert Band.

Under cloudy skies, Bandmaster Russell McKiski opened the concert with "God Bless America" and led the 30-member concert band through such numbers as "Brighton Beach March," "Selections from South Pacific" and a three-song medley of Carpenters' hits.

Although gusty winds sometimes blew the musicians' music off their stands, the players tooted gamely through their pieces, ending the hour-long concert with a rousing rendition of John Phillip Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever."

The band, which was organized early this year, began rehearsals in March before Sunday night's first concert. Persons who are interested in performing with the band — especially students who are out of school for the summer — are asked to contact McKiski at 263-8822.

National League All-Stars previewed

With the Major League All-Star baseball contest just around the corner it just about time for all fans to have their ballots cast for the starters they want in the July 10 classic.

It was a very interesting move when Major League baseball decided to let the fans start back selecting the players in the early 70's. Baseball is America's pastime so surely the fans are capable of picking the players who have earned the right to start, right? Well let's take a look and see just how well America knows its baseball.

I will review the National League leaders this week and save the American league for next week, now on with the show.

Montreal catcher Gary Carter has been a steady selection to the All-Stars for a number of years and this year is no different, according to the fans. Maybe the fans are right since he has 14 homers, 53 RBI's and a .293 batting average.

But fans in the Chicago will argue about that since they have a young catcher named Jody Davis, who is currently sixth in the balloting. Davis has 13 homers, 55 RBI's and a .299 average. Fans in the Bay area have a right to argue also since San Francisco Giants catcher Bob Brenly, who is not on the ballot, has eight homers, 31 RBI's and a .315 average.

But the fans made a good choice in Carter since he is a better defensive catcher, but maybe Davis or Brenly will be chosen as reserves.

The fans like San Diego first baseman Steve Garvey with his .285 average, four homers and 44 RBI's. He has the third best batting averages of the first sackers. The two players with better ones are Keith Hernandez of New York (.319) and Al Oliver of the Giants (.291). Hernandez, who is currently second has the most power of the three with six homers, and 38 RBI's. Oliver is the best contact hitter of the lot. I like Hernandez as the starter and Oliver as the backup.

The leader at second base is San Deigo's Allan Wiggins. A bad choice in my opinion since he has a paltry batting average of .216. I figured he won a lot of votes for his base stealing abilities.

If Chicago's Ryne Sandberg, who is third in the balloting, does not get picked then I'm really going to blow my stack. None of the other second basemen can compare with his 10 homers, 49 RBI's and .337 average. How can the man not be a first team choice? Chicago voters better get to work.

Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt is the best third baseman in the league and thank goodness the fans know this. The Philly strongman is hitting at a .293 clip with a league-leading 16 homers and 54 RBI's. I'm disappointed that Montreal's Tim Wallach is only in seventh place. His credentials are impressive — 12 homers, 40 RBI's and a .280 average. Graig Nettles of San Deigo is in second place with his .227 batting average. I think the fans are a bit sentimental toward the aging Nettles.

The shortstop position has two defensive specialists leading the way in St. Louis's Ozzie "The Magician" Smith and San Deigo's Gary Templeton. Their batting averages are not that high, .244 and .273 respectively, but they can cover ground like most other shortstops can't.

In fact most of the shortstops on the ballot are not hitting for a high average, especially the Giants' Johnny Lemaster (.212) and Pittsburgh Pirates Dale Berra (.213). The only other man that deserves to start is Atlanta's Rafeal Ramirez, currently in fourth, batting .315.

There is an abundance of good outfielders this season and at least nine players have played well enough to be on the team. The fans are picking young Darryl Strawberry of the Mets, Dale Murphy of the Braves and league leading hitter Tony Gwynn (.352) of the Padres.

Then you have Leon Durham and Bob Dernier of the Cubs, Tim Raines and Terry Francona of the Expos, Jack Clark of the Giants and Claudell Washington of the Braves. I'm not going to argue with the picks since the players are all so even. Only two of the nine are batting under .300.

So there you have a review of the National League fans balloting. I must admit the fans have done a pretty decent job. I guess baseball is still America's pastime.

NEXT WEEK: The American League gets previewed.

SICK AT LOSS — Tears from Australia's Elizabeth Sayers, (left), were in order after defending champion Martina Navratilova beat her 6-0 in the first set of their Monday quarterfinal match at Wimbledon. Sayers forfeited the rest of the match after suffering an illness following the first set.

Martina, Chris on course for championship contest

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Top-seeded Martina Navratilova and No. 2 Chris Evert Lloyd continued their march today toward an expected showdown at the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

Navratilova, who has yet to drop a set in this, the 100th anniversary of women's play at the All-England Club, became the first player to reach the semifinals when she ousted seventh-seeded Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria 6-3, 6-2.

Kohde then held for 4-5 before Lloyd closed out the 73-minute match on her next service game.

SETS NEW WORLD MARK — Fernando Mamede of Portugal crosses the finish line to set a new world record in the 10,000 meters with a 27.13.81 in Monday's International track and field competition in Stockholm.

10,000 mark bettered in International meet

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Setting a world record in the 10,000 meters, Fernando Mamede believes, 'is equal to winning an Olympic medal.'

However, the Portuguese runner, who broke the 6-year-old record for the event on Monday, would like to find out for sure. The next time he runs in a 10,000 meter race, it will be at the Los Angeles Games.

Mamede, with a tremendous finish in the last two laps, was clocked in 27 minutes, 13.81 seconds in an international meet at Stockholm's Olympic Stadium, breaking the mark of 27:22.4, set in 1978 by Henry Rono of Kenya.

Carlos Lopez, another Portuguese, also ran faster than Rono did six years ago in Vienna, Austria, clocking 27:17.48 for second.

Mark Nenow, of Lexington, Ky., was timed 27:40.56 for third in history's fastest 10,000-meter race. It was well off Alberto Salazar's American record of 27:25.61.

Lopez, who is enjoying his finest season at 37, looked like the winner as he broke away from Mamede and Nenow with seven laps left, extending his lead for every lap.

But the 33-year-old Mamede, known for his great kick, was never really worried.

"I felt very strong towards the end of the race and I knew I have a better kick and better last lap than Carlos," said Mamede, who used to run the 400 and 800 as a junior.

"I knew I had a chance to beat the record when I looked at the clock before the last lap."

DENNIS THE MENACE

"GOSH, MR. WILSON, WHAT DO YOU DO WITH ALL OF YOUR HAIRCUT MONEY?"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 4, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Early day confusion about the ideas which you should try to put across now is soon replaced by a resourcefulness and an ability to get into the various practical tasks that you have at hand.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Avoid that individual whose ideas are different to your own so that you don't have trouble and get into interesting tasks ahead of you. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Search for any errors in your books of record in the morning, and then be charming with the one you love.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) An associate may criticize in the morning, but don't let this bother you. Do whatever will please your family the most.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Look to your friends for any help you may need and don't bother co-workers, and later have a happy time with pals.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Concentrate on work tasks and you get much done, so forget whatever has to do with pleasure. Your mate could be disappointing.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Avoid family trouble and get that plan worked out that means much to you. Also plan some trip that is interesting. Be happy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't get excited over some message in the morning, and quietly organize your future success. Don't fly off the handle.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Not a good morning to handle some financial affairs of importance but study your position with partners and better it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Not a good day to have a talk with one in power, and be sure to use right methods for handling your work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A private anxiety can deter you from going through with more important affairs, if you permit. Be happy together.

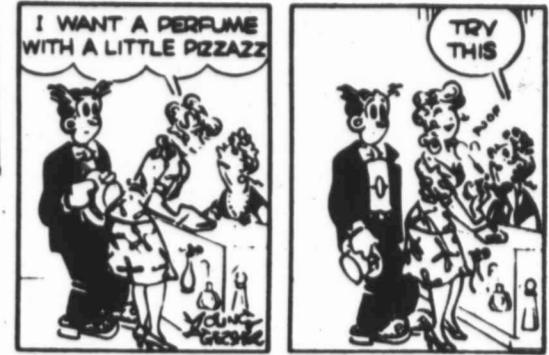

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get busy at practical affairs and don't permit friends to take up too much of your valuable time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you show a higher-up that you cannot waste time with gossip, etc. you will be able to get along much better with partners.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be able to make a plan and carry through with it in a most exacting way, but needs to be taught to first study the motives behind such a plan and be sure of what he or she is doing. Then the life can become very successful.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
