Juggle jogging

CHICAGO (AP) - Some people can't walk and chew gum at the same time, but Jim Piaskowy has no problems in the coordination department. He's chasing a world's record for joggling - juggling while jogging.

Piaskowy, 30, a high school
math teacher from Crete, Ill., plans to challenge the International Juggling Association's one-mile joggling record of 5:13 at the association games July 14 in Las Vegas.

Piaskowy said Thursday that he already has recorded a personal best of 5:12 for the joggling mile. He has gotten so adept at joggling that he ran a 6.2-mile race in June without dropping a ball, and finished 40th out of 300 runners even though he was the only one juggling.

"Juggling is a rhythm, and you have to keep that and put it together with your stride," he Piaskowy began running in high school and has been juggling for 18 years, but it didn't occur to him to do both simultaneously until a year ago. He then learned that joggling was a competitive sport.

Spring Jobless rate tumbles to 7.1%

State figure bucks trend, down 3% from 1983

WASHINGTON (AP) - Civilian seasonally adjusted rate of 4.8 perunemployment tumbled to 7.1 percent in June, the lowest in more than four years, as 460,000 Americans found jobs, the government reported today. The 0.4 percentage point drop in the seasonally adjusted rate, the steepest plunge since unemployment fell from 8.8 percent to 8.4 percent from October to November last year, took this key economic indicator to its lowest ebb since April 1980. At that time, unemployment stood at 6.9 percent.

Battle of the budget

Coahoma targets trash, finances

From staff reports COAHOMA — The controversial trash collection issue and a discussion of the city budget head a twoitem agenda for a special meeting of the Coahoma City Council at 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Gerald King, who is contracts with the City of Coahoma for trash collection and also as the city dog catcher, will ask for a cancelation of the trash hauling contract, according to the posted agenda.

The discontinuation of the service has been under discussion at everal previous meetings because of protests by some citizens. Among those favoring the discontinuation of the trash hauling service is council member Lawrence Aberegg, who has been quoted as saying the collection fee was too high and the city should do its own

The city does not have an ordinance enforcing payment of the $7.50 fee for collecting trash. King collects $7 of the fee.

However, the most pressing item on the agenda probably will be the city's budget, following Monday's announcement by Coahoma Mayor Pat Harrison saying the city was more than $100,000 in debt.

The council will be looking at alternatives other than borrowing money to curtail the debt problem. Council members Aberegg, Jerry Brockman and Gary Roberts said they would not borrow money from the bank or raise taxes to ease the financial dilemma.

Mrs. Harrison and member Brian Jensen said they did not want to borrow to curtail the financial problem.

Some proposals considered by the council Monday included temporary layoffs of city employees, discontinuation of the trash collection and dog catcher positions, discontinuation of the city office janitorial service, a stoppage in city purchases unless items are deemed necessary and the discontinuation of the police department and street repairs.

Storms strike East

By The Associated Press

Violent thunderstorms carrying 60 mph winds and up to 2 inches of rain hammered the eastern half of the nation today from Georgia to Maine, while the Southwest sizzled under a relentless summer sun.

cent in 1980, when Reagan was elected. Since November 1982, when unemployment reached a post-Depression peak of 10.7 percent with more than 12 million out of work, the economic recovery has generated more than 6.5 million jobs, the Bureau of Labor Statistics figures show. At the same time, the unemployment rate has plummeted 3.6 percentage points in the speediest post-recession labor market rally since the early 1950s.

In one negative note, the bureau reported that the ranks of the socalled "discouraged workers" remained unchanged at 1.3 million in not so bright.

the year's second quarter. Analysts noted, however, that this total was 500,000 below that recorded at the peak of the recession in the fourth quarter of 1982.

These "discouraged workers" are people shown by government surveys to have abandoned efforts to find jobs because they feel they cannot get work. This pocket of hard-core unemployed is not included in the monthly unemployment rate computation because they are not actively seeking jobs.

Despite the overall up-beat employment report, the Labor Department was picketed by several dozen people protesting that for some Americans things are

They were armed with two pistols, knives and two axes, and also carried a roll of toilet paper with a string attached, apparently to serve as a decoy bomb.

At one point, the hijackers announced their intention to blow up the plane and asked those on board to say their prayers, according to passenger Anil Anora, who was interviewed by the domestic news agency, Associated Press of

Pakistan. "There was some difference of opinion among the hijackers because one of them wanted to burn the aircraft," said passenger Richard Bonnichsan, a Danish journalist who also was interviewed by the news agency. Another passenger, Harhajan Singh Longman, claiming to be personal photographer to Indian president Zail Singh, told the news agency the hijackers "were very nice to all the passengers and only wanted to agitate for the cause of the Sikh movement."

A Pakistani military source said the Sikhs would be put on trial in Pakistan on charges of air piracy. The source, who requested anonymity, said they were in custody at a Lahore police station. The passengers were released after the ringleader, Harminder Singh, had talked to a Pakistani general in a car outside the plane. One of the Americans aboard the plane was this reporter — Stephen R. Wilson, 26, of Washington, D.C., who was returning to The Associated Press office in New Delhi from Srinagar, Kashmir. The identities of the others were not immediately known.

A Western diplomat, speaking on condition that his name not be used, said U.S. officials at a consulate in Lahore were in contact with the airport but they were not involved directly in the negotiations.

Press Trust of India, in an unconfirmed report, said the hijackers belong to a suicide squad of Sikh fundamentalist Jarnail Singh Bhindranwale, who was killed last month in the Indian army's assault on the Golden Temple of Amritsar, the Sikhs' holiest shrine.

Last month, Indian army troops assaulted the Golden Temple to clear out armed extremists who authorities said were responsible for hundreds of killings. Officially, 492 of the Sikhs and 92 soldiers died in the attack, but military and police sources put the death toll at more than 1,200.

Troops have been rounding up suspected extremists since then, and on Thursday they killed one man and arrested 57 other people in Punjab, the United News of India said.

Unrest in Punjab and Kashmir have become major problems for Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government.

Besides the Sikhs' agitation for greater political and religious autonomy in Punjab, where they are a majority, there has been scattered violence in Kashmir this week because of the firing of Chief Minister Farooq Abdullah by Mrs. Gandhi's administration.

Thursday's hijacking was the ninth of an Indian plane since India's independence from Britain in 1947. The previous three, one in 1981 and two in August 1982, also were by Sikhs.

In each case the Sikhs tried to divert the planes to Lahore. Two of the attempts ended in Amritsar. where one hijacker was shot and killed and another surrendered. Pakistani authorities jailed the hijackers in the third case.

in a crate that was scheduled to be loaded on the Nigerian plane. Lagos radio said in a broadcast monitored in London that the Nigerian government had noted 'that a Nigerian crew and aircraft have been detained by the British authorities No explanations have been given by the British."

The British Foreign Office declined to speculate on Nigeria's reasons for grounding the British aircraft.

Home Secretary Leon Brittan told Parliament today that the crate containing Dikko was addressed to the Nigerian Foreign Ministry in Lagos from the Nigerian Embassy in London.

Dikko, who vowed to launch a holy war against the military government that seized power in Nigeria in a New Year's Eve coup, has been described as the West Africa nation's "most wanted man." Nigerian Ambassador Maj. Gen. Halidu Hannaniya denied his government was responsible for Dikko's abduction.

NEW YORK — A judge has set a date for Martina Navratilova to give a deposition in a suit filed by a photographer who charges that the tennis star once roughed him

Justice Arthur W. Lonschein ruled last week that Miss Navratilova, now play-ing at Wimbledon in England, must give her deposition on July 19 at the office of Clair & Daniele, lawyers for free-lance photographer Art Seitz. Seitz has sued Miss Navratilova for $2 million, charging that she "viciously attacked and physically assaulted" him during the 1982 U.S. Open.

Seitz claims the incident occurred after Miss Navratilova was upset in the quarterfinals by Pam Shriver. He said she pushed him and took away his camera, causing "embarrassment and physical injury, resulting in severe pain and suffering, as well as mental and physical anguish."

Watt's good vibrations

ANAHEIM — Former Reagan Cabinet member James Watt, whose last Fourth of July was mark-

Watt later resigned, and the Beach Boys returned to Washington on We mesday, playing to some 420,000 people.

Watt, meanwhile, told more than 6,500 people at a Full Gospel Business Men gathering that the United States can only assure its future by returning to strong moral values.

The Kennedy tapes

Conversations show concern for civil rights

BOSTON (AP) - Nearly 10 hours of secretly recorded White House tapes released Thursday show an earnest President John F. Kennedy cajoling mayors, governors and congressmen to accept integration in the South and support his civil rights programs.

The cratchy recordings, made 21 years ago in Kennedy's Oval Office, also include dramatic meetings between Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr.

"There is a danger we will face the worst race riot we've ever seen," the civil rights leader warns the president in a White House meeting Sept. 19, 1963, four days after a bomb killed four children at a black church in Birmingham,

King asks Kennedy to send federal troops to protect the city's black community, saying, 'Something dramatic must be done at this time to give the Negro in Birmingham, Alabama, a new sense of hope and a good sense of

But Kennedy expresses reluctance at sending troops, saying it is only a short-term solution.

"It doesn't really mean a damn thing," the president tells King. 'First of all, we've got to get the white community to take on its responsibility."

King apparently sat silent during a meeting with Kennedy and other civil rights leaders on Aug. 28, 1963, the day King led 200,000 marchers to Washington and delivered his famous "I Have a Dream" speech.

At that meeting, Roy Wilkins, then executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, tells the president the demonstration proved there was massive public support for civil rights.

"It means that they — not Martin Luther King, or Roy Wilkins or Whitney Young (another civil rights leader) or Walter Reuther (head of the United Auto Workers union) - dreamed up this civil rights business. They feel it in their

The tapes, released by the John F. Kennedy Library in Boston, cover conversations from March to October 1963. Kennedy was assassinated the following month, on Nov. 22, 1963, and King was shot to death in 1968.

The period was a time of turmoil, when demonstrations and violence sparked by the civil rights movement swept through the South. Bombings and other disturbances led to Oval Office discussions on the use of federal troops to bring peace to troublespots.

EAVESDROPPING — A Massachusetts schoolteacher listens to copies of tapes recorded in the White House during the JFK administration. The John F. Kennedy Library in Boston released the tapes Thursday.

we've ever seen.'

"God, there must be some bright young fellow down there you can get," Kennedy is heard to say on June 18, 1963 as he tries to persuade Allen Thompson, then mayor of Jackson, Miss., to quell demonstrations demanding that he hire black police officers.

"If these people all went home for a period, when do you think you could take the (black) policemen and how many?" asks the president.

Thompson agreed to make the appointments, but added, "When I Martin Luther King to JFK put a policeman on, I want him to be responsible to me and not to the NAACP.

The conversations reveal a somber side of Kennedy, who worried about the national impact of the racial troubles in the South. In a June 3, 1963, conversation with Louisiana Gov. Jimmie Davis. Kennedy acknowledges that civil rights is a national problem.

Earlier, on May 12, a worried president discussed sending troops to Birmingham following disturbances brought on by the bombing of King's brother's home. Attorney General Robert Kennedy placed the blame for the night of violence on "special deputies" sent by Gov. George Wallace.

Army clears Beirut mines

BEIRUT - Mine-clearing sweeps slowed an army operation to reunite Beirut's Moslem and Christian sectors today, but government voiced confidence that its plan to end Lebanon's nineyear civil war was working.

Government officials said the delays were due to public safety concerns and shortage of equipment, and they stressed there were no disputes among the principal civil war factions over the normalization process.

But the only open crossing between the two sides of the city was closed for at least three hours today when the families of civil war kidnap victims set car tires afire and barricaded the Moslem end of the crossing with stones, the state radio reported.

SOUTH-WEST AFRICA - Police said today that three bombs had exploded in this South African-ruled territory, one at an office complex in a black township near Windhoek and the two others in the far north.

Centrist parties win vote

GUATEMALA CITY — The moderate Christian Democrats edged another centrist party in the final returns of voting for a new constituent assembly, but the government says the two parties will have an equal number of seats.

The 88-member assembly is to write a new constitution and prepare the country for a return to elected civilian rule. The election was held Sunday, and the military government finished counting ballots Thursday.

The official returns showed the Christian Democrats with 318,300 votes, or 17.2 percent of the total.

Cisneros gamble would help ticket

Henry Cisneros is a long, long shot as a vice presidential candidate. Many of the candidates for the Democratic ticket have name identification far greater than does Cisneros, the mayor of San Antonio. But from what we're able to tell about Mr. Cisneros, we doubt any would be better qualified for the post.

Cisneros is worshipped by many of his constituents. There's a reverence and an awe that San Antonio voters associate with his name. He's a straight-shooter, long on savvy, poise, tact and ethics. He was apparently shocked even to be considered for the vice presidential spot. "The very fact that I would be invited — a person whose grandfather came to this country in 1924, whose mother was born in Mexico, whose father was born in New Mexico one of 12 children of very, very humble means - speaks to our party as the party of unprecedented opportunity," Cisneros told reporters.

That's the kind of gentlemanly appraisal one would expect from Cisneros, who no doubt knows what the odds are on his invitation to the No. 2 position on the Democratic ticket in November. Cisneros, the object of rare praise by the usually cranky "60 Minutes" TV news program, has brought vision to a growing city and an enhanced sense of self-esteem to its large Hispanic population.

A virtual unknown outside this region, Cisneros for VP would pose risk to the party's chances of election. But Cisneros is capable of the undertaking and could carve a national following in short order. If presidential nomineeapparent Walter Mondale were a gambling man, Henry Cisneros would be a good bet.

"It looks awfully long." "That's what I thought, but it moves pretty fast. Every once in a while a volunteer brings out coffee and doughnuts so it isn't as bad as you would think." I had nothing to do for the afternoon so I went to the end of the line.

There was a woman senior citizen in front of me. "You going to go for it?" I asked

Soviets pull Persian Gulf strings

WASHINGTON - Like some deadly caricature of a television game show, the Persian Gulf war has a mystery player behind the curtain: the Soviet Union. And U.S. intelligence sources are afraid the Kremlin will wind up the winner after the years of slaughter and stalemate.

When the war exploded in 1980, the Soviets saw what they thought was a golden opportunity: By simply double-crossing their longtime client, Iraq, they hoped to win Iran's allegiance. So they cut back drastically on shipment of arms to Iraq.

But the pragmatists in the Polit-buro misread the depth of the Ayatollah Khoemeini's fanatical determination to maintain his own personal power in Iran and pursue his goal of fundamentalist Islamic revolution throughout the Persian Gulf. The Soviets were counting on the Tudeh — the Iranian Communist Party, with its power base in southwest Iran — as one arm of a Moscow-directed pincers that would ultimately cow Khomeini into subservience. The other arm, of course, was the 26 Soviet divisions poised on Iran's northern border.

The remorseless Khomeini was not at all intimidated by the Tudeh's power to shut down oil production. He suppressed the Communist Party with his usual ruthlessness: Its leaders were rounded up and executed as spies. Meanwhile, the victims of the Soviet double cross, the harassed Iragis, played their own poker hand. They used what one intelligence source described as "the American card." Top Iraqi officials visited Washington, ostensibly in hopes of persuading the United States to replace the Soviets as their munitions supplier.

As one source explained to my associate Lucette Lagnado, the Iraqis never seriously expected to get arms from Washington. They were simply trying to make the Soviets uneasy. The Iraqis got no arms but the strategy worked. The Soviets, unable to bully Khomeini, abruptly resumed arms shipments to Iraq after a two-year interruption. By no coincidence, the Iraqis' rhetoric has become noticeably more anti-American in recent months.

What worries U.S. analysts is that the Soviets' reconciliation with Iraq appears to have finally made Khomeini blink. I'm told that Tehran asked the Kremlin for a high-level meeting, and the Soviets granted it. A top Iranian official flew to Moscow and begged the Soviets to cut back on their arms shipments to Iraq. The spectacle of Khomeini crawling to any superpower was an unprecedented development.

The upshot of the Soviets' behindthe-scenes maneuvering is that they now have clout with both combatants in the Persian Gulf war. This puts the Kremlin, not the White House, in the position of playing the role of "honest broker" and negotiating an end to the slaughter. Any Soviet-negotiated settlement, of course, will be in Russia's best interests

BELATED FBI CLEARANCE: With the 12th anniversary of the Watergate break-in last week, it seems an appropriate time to report that the FBI has finally after years of prodding — cleared a Greek journalist of spurious charges. The accusations played a crucial role in derailing the first Watergate investigation.

The defamed journalist, Elias Demetracopoulos, incurred the enmity of the Nixon administration by disclosing financial ties between the first Nixon presidential campaign and the CIA-backed military junta that seized power in Greece in 1967. His early enrollment on the Nixon enemies list earned Demetracopoulos constant harassment by the CIA and the FBI.

As I reported, the CIA last fall admitted that its suspicions about Demetracopoulos were baseless

But the FBI was a harder nut to crack. In 1972, the only serious official investigation of the Watergate break-in was being conducted by Rep. Wright Patman. Hot on the trail of the money — the trail that Deep Throat later advised Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein to follow - Patman needed subpoena power to pry loose the facts from the Nixon cover-up artists.

The House committee vote on subpoena power was a close one. And at the last minute, the FBI produced a $150 expense check Demetracopoulos had received for arranging a speaking engagement for Patman. Patman's opponents used this as evidence of a link between him and a "dangerous" Greek exile. In the political climate of the time, that was enough to swing the committee vote against Patman. Denied the subpoena power, Patman's Watergate investigation collapsed.

After a series of letters last April between Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., and FBI Director William Webster, the FBI has finally admitted that there was nothing in its files to suggest that. Demetracopoulos was ever a subversive.

Billy Graham Different churches

separate family DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband and I have a problem about where to go to church. We each grew up in different denominations, and I guess we each feel comfortable in them. But my husband wants us to decide on one church, especially for the sake of our children. Do you think this is a good idea? - Mrs. T.K.

DEAR T.K.: Yes, as a general principle, it would definitely be better for both you and your children if you went to the same church as a family. I know there are sometimes exceptions; occasionally families have been able to maintain a fairly strong spiritual foundation - in spite of the husband and wife going to different churches - as long as those churches were ones where the Bible was being taught and people could grow spiritually. However, you and your husband need to do what is best for the spiritual growth of both you and your children, and this is difficult when the parents attend different

Neither of you should insist on a particular church for your family just because you grew up in it or are familiar with it. Have/you thought carefully about what kind of church you and your family really need? It should not only be a place where you feel "comfortable;" most of all, it should be a church which will teach God's Word to you and your children, and give you opportunities for fellowship and spiritual growth. Pray that God will guide you as you make your decision.

But more than this, make Christ the Lord of your home. Yes, church is very important. But your children also need to see that Christ makes a difference in your family life every day.

Have you and your husband committed yourselves to Christ personally, and are you seeking to share Christ with your children? Make Christ first in your family. The Bible says concerning the truths of God, "Impress them on your children. Talk about them when you sit at home' (Deuteronomy 6:7).

Oil production linked to quakes in S. Texas

AUSTIN (AP) - Earthquakes in South Texas may have been caused by oil and gas production in nearby fields, says a University of Texas

Over the past 11 years, there have been 15 earthquakes near the towns of Fashing and Plesanton in Atascosa County, said Dr. Wayne Pennington of UT's Institute for Geophysics and Department of Geological Sciences.

He said earthquakes during the past year have reached 3.2 and 3.9 on the Richter scale. A quake of 3.5 can cause slight damage, and a quake of 4 can cause moderate

Pennington said the South Texas earthquakes have caused no appreciable damage and can be expected to pose only minor hazards to the communities involved.

"The earthquakes all appear to originate on known faults where those faults form boundaries of an oil or gas field," Pennington said.

He said oil and gas production lowers fluid pressure in the reservoir rock, and this affects the strength of the rock.

Religion Gil leaves homeland to preach in Texas

By RHONDA WOODALL Church Editor

Ernesto Gil, pastor of the First Mexican Baptist Church, sitting behind a desk, converses in Spanish with his youngest son Joel. Gil explains that he grew up in Mexico and has a Spanish accent, so he prefers to speak Spanish with his son interpreting.

Gil, who was born in Mexico City, Mexico, moved to Texas 10 years ago to preach. He graduated from Mexico City University. He graduated from Mexico City Seminary in 1960. Following his seminary training, he studied theology and the Bible.

Gil said he "gave himself to God," Feb. 5, 1955. He said he entered the ministry because he felt God told him he should start.

'Since God accepted me, I feel I have a duty with God, and I keep on being on duty with Him," Gil said. "Many people live their lives sad just for preaching, because they time Gil enjoys fishing.

and empty. That is the way I lived before I knew Christ. That's why I try to bring the message to people. It's a message of love and hope.'

In 1962, Gil began evangelizing in Mexico. Gil said he would go and try to open churches, and he was ordained to be a pastor in 1962. In 1965, he was asked by the General Baptist Convention of Mexico to work with the Hispanic churches in

The General Baptist Conventions of Mexico and Texas, working together, invited Gil to pastor Mexican Baptist Churches in Texas. Prior to the invitation, Gil had worked in missions throughout

Gil said preaching in the United States is a little different from preaching in Mexico. "In Mexico, most of the religious people are Catholic. Over there it's a little hard, because people kill people don't want to hear it. "In the U.S., more people have more ways to listen to religion, like radio and television," he said.

Gil enjoys living in Big Spring, and said he plans to stay in Big Spring "until the Lord tells him to move on." While in Big Spring he wants to work with the Hispanic people in bringing them to Christ. Gil's wife, Bertha is supportive of his ministry. "She has been a Baptist since she was born," Gil said. "She has always helped him and supported him in his ministry." Mrs. Gil is active in teaching Sunday school classes and working with the church women.

The Gils have five children, Martha of Dallas, 29; Ernest Jr., of Dallas, 27; Noemi, 24, who lives in Monterrey, Mexico; Ester in Midland, 20; and Joel, 14.

Gil has pastored churches in Combes and Menard. In his spare

Southern Baptist leaders denounce Farrakhan

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Baptist leaders have denounced recent remarks by Black Muslim minister Louis Farrakhan as anti-Semitic, but members of the denomination's mission board say the phrasing of the criticism could damage Baptist ministries in Arab countries.

Charles Stanley, who was elected president at the denomination's convention last month, issued a critical statement Tuesday during a joint news conference at the First Baptist Church of Dallas with Rabbi Ychiel Eckstein of Chicago.

Farrakhan, an outspoken supporter of Democratic presidential candidate Jesse Jackson, has called Adolf Hitler "a great man ... wickedly great," and termed Israel an "outlaw" nation. He also gave a speech in which he apparently referred to Judaism as a 'gutter religion," although he

Keith Parks, president of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board, said he agreed that Farrakhan's remarks should be denounced but said the statement "implies we would reject the Arab nations."

The statement was signed by Stanley and eight other fundamentalist Baptist leaders, including outgoing convention President James T. Draper, who said later that he had reservations about the Catholic cardinal praises dialogue with Lutherans

TORONTO (AP) - The Lutheran and Roman Catholic churches have progressed from the silent treatment to open dialogue, but more can be done to narrow the 450-year-old gap between them, a top-ranking Vatican official says.

The two churches must combine their work to overcome poverty, disease and anxiety over nuclear war, Cardinal Johannes Willebrands, 74, told a news conference Tuesday night before speaking to almost 1,000 delegates at a convention of the Lutheran Church in America.

'We've had 20 years of dialogue and we have other subjects to discuss but we are approaching new stages," said Willebrands, the highest-ranking Vatican official to address a Lutheran convention. He is president of the Catholic secretariat for promoting Chris-

Willebrands, greeted by five minutes of applause when he was introduced, told delegates: "I hope that this encounter will be understood as an expression of the interest and closeness that has become increasingly characteristic of the relationships between our two churches."

The cardinal's appearance follows other recent efforts to lower the barriers between Martin Luther's heirs and the theological descendents of the Catholics who opposed his 16th-century Protestant reformation.

Willebrands told reporters one of the differences still to be resolved between Lutherans and Catholics is the eucharist, or communion.

Lutherans do not believe in the presence of Christ in the eucharist whereas Catholics believe the "Cooperation can grow," he bread and wine offered in the said. "Twenty years ago, we either sacrament is the body and blood of

Simple math stumps her

DEAR ABBY: So you think I'd have to pay for a dress marked figures.) you've heard it all? Well, please don't make a face or roll your eyes up into your head when you find out what I want. First off, I am no dummy, but there are times when I think I am. There may be others who suffer from the same problem. If so, you may print this, but for heaven's sake don't use my name.

I am 22-year-old married woman who is absolutely stupid when it comes to math! I can count money, and if I take my time I can figure out how much to tip, but if I'm in a big hurry I draw a complete blank! Recently I went to a sale where all merchandise was marked 25 percent off, and I felt like a fool because I couldn't figure how much

Call your county department of public education and explain your need to learn math "from the bottom up." Carcinoid tumor a rare form

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: When I gave birth by C-section recently I had my appendix removed at the same time. A pathologist examined the appendix tissue and found evidence of a carcinoid tumor. It was small. A 24-hour urine test was ordered. The results were "1.8" and three months later another urine test showed "2.1." I have heard some scary stories about carcinoid tumors. I have talked with three doctors who suggest that I not worry about this. Please tell me what you have heard or read about carcinoid tumors. I am hav-— D.B.

I think the three doctors who gave you the opinion that you are cured are right. You are continuing to have the urine tests, which should be comforting. THSCA president feels rules unfair ecutive vice prsident of the Texas High School Coaches Association has criticized as "unrealistic" a provision in a new education reform bill in Texas that will require high school athletes to pass all courses with a grade of 70 to remain eligible.

Some coaches said the provision will be challenged in court and expressed the fear that some athletes will find no reason to stay in school once they are ruled ineligible for inter-school sports competition.

"It's unrealistic to think a 15 or 16-year-old child is not going to stub his toes somewhere along the line," Eddie Joseph, who led his organization's lobbying efforts against the eligibility provision, told the Austin American-Statesman.

'But it passed, and it goes into effect in January.

Despite fierce opposition from the coaches' association, the Texas Legislature included the provision in the reform bill - spurning pleas of coaches to allow athletes to fail at least one class.

Ebbie Neptune, athletic director and football coach of Austin Westlake, said the new rule will be especially costly to athletes who try hard in the classroom but just don't have the ability to pass something like math or science.

"We're going to take athletics away from him," Neptune said. Once that happens, such a student would have no incentive to stay in school, he said. The bill requires that all students pass all academic subjects in a grading period with a grade of 70 on a scale of 100 to retain eligibility. If they do not, they will be suspended from extracurricular activities until the next grading period, which in most schools is six

Because the reform bill was passed only this week, Joseph said, 'many coaches and parents across the state are probably not aware of exactly what it means and what impact it may have."

Even so, in some ways we (the THSCA) feel fortunate. We were able to get some other things eliminated from the bill," Joseph said. One proposal would have had the effect of eliminating athletic periods during the school day.

Joseph said another measure to ban extracurricular activities on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays would have curtail-

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The ex- ed basketball programs and would have virtually eliminated junior high athletics.

Joseph declined to speculate on what the outcome of a legal challenge to the Legislature's eligibility standards would be.

"It is not an inherent right for a youngster to participate in extracurricular activities," he said.

"If it were, coaches could not enforce discipline on athletic teams. I do think educators have thought extracurricular activities are part of the educational process, and it seems that legislators are confused about that."

Jim Streety, athletic director and football coach at New Braunfels, said the coaches and administrators felt they could live with a University Interscholastic League rules change, effective in September, requiring students to pass four courses for eligibility.

In the past, students have been required to pass three courses to participate in extracurricular

"I think coaches and administrators were prepared to accept being allowed one failure," Streety told the American-Statesman. "I've talked to many coaches, and most of them feel it is discriminatory. I expect to see it challenged in court pretty quickly. It is a denial of participation, and I expect it will be challenged."

He added, "In some places, you're going to see youngsters denied participation, and they won't come to school if they can't participate. If there is not something there for them, they won't be there.

Neptune said he was also in fullhearted approval of the UIL requiring students to pass four courses to qualify for participation in extracurrucular activities.

"But I think we're asking too much of the kids that do try in the classroom and don't have the ability to pass everything.'

Neptune told the American-Statesman that he read of a California study that showed almost 19 percent of high school athletes in Los Angeles lost eligibility for extracurricular activities during one period after rules requiring a C average and no failures in any course went into effect.

Los Angeles coaches and athletic directors vigorously opposed the no-fail provision of the rule, Neptune said.

EXPERIENCE BEFORE YOUTH - Chris Evert Lloyd(right), dismissed as "washed up" by some of her younger tour associates, came through with an overpowering display against Hana Manlikova in Thursday semifinals at Wimbledon. Evert Lloyd scored 6-1, 6-2 sets to take the match and move into Saturday's championship against a much favored Martina Navratilova.

Connors' rally lays Lendl low

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Jimmy Connors throttled a ferocious Ivan Lendl serve today to oust the No. 2 seed 6-7 (7-4), 6-3, 7-5, 6-1 and claim a place in the men's finals at the Wimbledon tennis championships.

The 31-year-old, two-time champion will face the winner of the other semifinal match between defending champion John McEnroe, the top seed, and unseeded Pat Cash of Australia.

Saturday's women's final will be a matchup of the top two seeds four-time and defending Wimbledon champion Martina Navratilova and three-time titlist Chris Evert Lloyd.

Lendl served up 19 aces in a hard-fought 2 hour, 56-minute test first advantage point in the ninth of wills. But Connors' return was more than its equal.

He alternately smashed forehand and backhand service returns down the line and across court and attacked Lendl at the net. At times, he even left the 24-year-old Czechoslovak flatfooted and staring in disbelief.

The two fought the first set to a draw without breaks of service. It was settled only by a tiebreak in which Lendl's serve gave him a 4-1 lead and Connors double-faulted to help Lendl win 7-4.

But Connors rallied in the second set, breaking in the second game when Lendl hit a backhand slice wide. Connors took the set on his game.

Connors was warned for unsportsmanlike behavior in the ninth game when his first serve at 15-0 was called long and he held his nose to indicate disapproval. After the warning, Connors stormed up to umpire Malcolm Huntington and said: "I was scratching my nose." Moments later, Connors used his racket handle to scratch his nose. The Centre Court crowd roared its approval. After the game, Connors approached Huntington and was heard to say: "Just relax up there and do your job ... If I hold my nose (he did so again) that means you stink. If you don't want to do your job ... just let me know and I'll quit."

Connors and Lendl then settled down to a closely fought third set, with Lendl breaking in the fouth game but Connors breaking right back. Connors broke again - on one point, returning a stinging serve with a hissing cross-court backhander that stunned Lendl to go up 6-5 and took the set on the next game.

Connors now has the edge in his career series with Lendl, 12-5. But Lendl had won most of their recent meetings, including this year's Volvo Masters indoor tournament and the WCT Tournament of Champions at Forest Hills in New York

NEW ORK (AP) - Strikeout specialist Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets is astounded at his leap — from Class A ball last year to the National League All-Star team this year.

"It's been an unbelievable year," said Gooden. The other starters named by National League Manager Paul Owens of the Philadelphia Phillies are Joaquin Andujar of the St. Louis Cardinals, Charlie Lea of the Montreal Expos, and Mario Soto of the Cincinnati Reds.

Andujar, who is tied with Lea for the NL lead in victories with 13, has been favoring a slightly pulled hamstring in his right leg, but promised to play.

"I will be all right for the All Star Game," he said. "My leg doesn't hurt me that much. It is a great thing to have a good year and be selected to the team. I will be there

In addition to Gooden, Lea and Holland will be making their first All-Star appearances. Gossage will and Orosco on his second.

Gossage, who has 14 saves this season, was surprised to learn of his selection. "It's always an honor and a privilege because the manager picks the pitchers. I'm impressed that he (Paul Owens) picked me.

"There are so many great relievers in this league and there are so many who deserve it, I wouldn't have been disappointed (not making it)," Gossage added.

Orosco, who has saved 16 games this year as the Mets have fought for first place in the NL East, said: "What makes it so exciting this year is that we're (the Mets) doing so well as a team and that makes my selection even more meaningful."

In the American League, the selections were the first for Boddicker, Dotson, Caudill and Hernandez. It will be the fourth appearance for Stieb, third for Quisenberry and second for

USFL takes heat off for Western contest

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — United tually die in that heat." States Football League Commissioner Chet Simmons says he changed the start of Saturday's Western Conference championship game between the Arizona Wranglers and Los Angeles Express from afternoon to night at the advise of health experts.

The kickoff time was officially switched from 1:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., CST,"in the interests of the players' health and the well-being of the Arizona fans," Simmons said Thursday in a telephone conference call.

The National Weather Service said a temperature of 103 degrees with 28 percent humidity was expected at the originally scheduled starting time. But conditions could have reached 125 degrees down on the natural grass playing surface of Sun Devil Stadium in suburban Tempe.

The temperature in the evening should be in the mid 90s, possibly dropping to the upper 80s during the second half, according to the Weather Service.

"That's more like it," said Express Coach John Hadl, who earlier had feared "somebody could aclocal blackout, Simmons said he consulted a sports medicine expert in Phoenix, a physiologist with the U.S. Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo., and the team trainers with both the Wranglers and Express before making his decision.

"There was a consensus of opinion that the game could have been played in the afternoon if proper precautions were taken. But the advice I got from the people I spoke to was that it was really a question of health. The issue was just one of safety," said Simmons. "The interest in this was not in hype and not in television. It was for the particular interests of the players and the fans."

Saturday's game was to have been played in the Los Angeles Coliseum until the Pacific Division champion Express ran into scheduling conflicts with the U.S. Olympic Committee. They tried unsuccessfully to switch the site to the Rose Bowl or Anaheim

Duo shares lead at Western golf event

OAK BROOK, III. (AP) — Greg Norman, holding the hottest hand in golf, admitted he really didn't want to be playing in this tournament.

But, despite his spectacular re-cent success, he found the old, pleasantly-nervous excitement still was with him and converted it into a 4-under-par 68 that placed him a single shot off the lead after Thursday's first round of the $400,000

Western Open golf tournament.
Danny Edwards, winner of four PGA Tour tities, and career struggler Loren Roberts set the pace with 67s on the Butler National Golf Course that never played easier.

"We enjoyed optimum conditions," said Edwards. "The golf course was just fabulous, the weather beautiful and you've got a lot of great players here. That tends to produce low scores."

In fact, it produced the lowest scores in the 11 years Butler has served as the site of this old tournament. The previous record for subpar rounds in a single day was 24. That was raised to 42

Toronto, 7; KGibson, Detroit, 5; RLaw, Chicago, 5. HOME RUNS: Kingman, Oakland, 23; Armas, Boston, 21; Kittle, Chicago, 19; Thornton, Cleveland, 19; ADavis, Seattle, Tom Watson was among them. Despite a ball in the water, he managed a 71. But Masters champion Ben Crenshaw was not. He struggled to a 75 in the warm, sunny weather.

> Norman, who has won twice and lost in a playoff for the U.S. Open in his last four starts, was tied, a single stroke off the pace with six

> Chief among them was Nick Price, the young South African who led through three rounds of last week's Canadian Open.

> Also at 4-under-par were Lance Ten Broeck, D.A. Weibring, Lennie

He said his no-bogey effort Thursday, however, was "considering the golf course, probably my best round on the tour.

CLOUDS THINK THEY'RE FUNNY.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Except for the very early morning, today you would be wise to use conscious

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although conditions

seem fine with partners early, later they may erupt into a royal battle so be tactful and don't provoke.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle those services you owe others, otherwise, later, you may have interruptions. Do whatever will relieve tension with a co-worker. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) After breakfast, all seems serene, but later things change and your patience may be tested. Be stoic.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) All seems fine at home in the morning and then a big quarrel could arise if you are not tactful with kin. Entertain only close friends. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be careful not to daydream while driving, and avoid a possible accident. Not a good day to handle important correspondence. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget whatever is of a practical nature and concentrate on the spiritual and cultural today. Don't get into a depressive mood.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Early you can see how to gain some cherished goals but later can become frustrated, so raise your level of consciousness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Some private worry has you confused about how to handle it, but don't let it depress you and you soon can overcome it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Even though all seems fine in the morning, you find that friends can later be disappointing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Attending some philosophical mass meeting is wise in the morning since it can lighten your spirit. Don't ask for favors. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) New ventures look appealing but could actually keep you from finishing others that are important to your welfare. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will seem overly conscientious at one time and then overly demanding at another so teach to be more evenly balanced and dependable. One who can get so immersed in a project that it can become an obsession.

50 homeless following fire

DALLAS (AP) - Authorities say fireworks launched by a youngster probably triggered a five-alarm apartment fire that left more than 50 people homeless and caused at least $1 million in damage.

One firefighter was slightly injured when he was overcome by heat exhaustion, said Deputy Fire Chief Jimmy Hatcher. Authorities said residents of La Alta Apartments escaped unharmed Thursday.

Officials said 24 units in three buildings of the 10-building complex were damaged before firefighters extinguished the blaze, about an hour after it began.

"Some people said they saw kids shooting fireworks just before it started," said Assistant Fire Chief Jack Hickey.

Arson investigator Don Howard said it was unlikely the youth suspected in connection with the fire would be charged because he is only about 10 years old and the blaze was apparently an accident. "His parents might get a ticket for letting him have fireworks," Howard said. Possession of fireworks in Dallas is a Class C misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $200. One building was engulfed in fire and flames had spread to two other buildings by the time firefighters arrived shortly after 6:30 p.m. Flames leaped about 40 feet into the air and firefighters were hampered by strong southerly winds.

Several Southern Methodist University students told police they saw a youth shooting three or four bottle rockets from a second-story balcony before the fire began.
