How's that? County Rainfall

Q. What's the official rainfall total for the county this year?

A. According to figures from the Big Spring Experiment Station, the county has received 1.77 inches of rain since Jan. 1. Average rainfall for the same period is eight inches.

Calendar: Olympic Car Wash

TODAY

• Tri-Hi-Y will hold an olympic car wash from 12 p.m.-5 p.m. at Citizen's Federal Credit Union. It will accept donations of $3.

SUNDAY

• The Potton House is open from 2 to 5 p.m.

• The Western Sportsmen Gun Club will host a Big Bore Pistol Silhouette Match nine miles west of Big Spring on the Andrews Highway.

MONDAY

• Big Spring Amateur Radio Club will have a regular meeting at the club on S. Highway 87 at 7 p.m.

Tops on TV: Wimbledon

Defending women's singles champion Martina Navratilova faces three-time winner Chris Evert-Lloyd, hot after her crushing defeat of Hana Mandlikova in the semi-finals, at 8 a.m. on Channel 13. On Channel 6 at 7 p.m., Fredric March and Janet Gaynor star in the 1937 version of "A Star is Born."

At the movies: Bachelor Party

Tom Hanks stars in "Bachelor Party" at the Cinema. Also at the cinema is "Rhinstone" starring Dolly Parton and Sylvester Stallone. Bill Murray and Dan Aykroyd star in "Ghostbusters" at the Ritz. Also at the Ritz is "Cannonball Run II", starring Burt Reynolds.

Outside: Thunderstorms

Look for widely scattered thunderstorms this afternoon and tonight. However, the chances of rain are less than 20 percent. High will be in the mid-90s both today and Sunday. The low Saturday night will be in the low 70s. Winds will be 10 to 20 miles an hour, and will be southerly.

Off the wall: Dizzy diodes

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Nobody likes a smart-aleck machine, so computer experts are now working on a way to make the electronic brains just as fuzzy as those of their imperfect human creators.

A new mathematical theory called "fuzzy relations" is bringing computers a step closer to the way human beings think by enabling the machines to understand imprecise, fuzzy instructions, said Dr. Wyllis Bandler, a Florida State University professor of mathematics and computer science.

Although it might seem like a step backward to make computers less exact, Bandler termed fuzzy relations "the greatest mathematical breakthrough since the discovery of the circle."

"Before fuzzy sets were discovered, we had to program computers in a rigid way ... there was only a crisp 'yes' or 'no,' nothing in between or fuzzy," he said.

Boll forecast: bad news bales

By KEELY COGHLAN

Cotton crops for Howard County have "passed the point of no return," according to County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service director Tim Hall.

Hall estimates only a 5,000-bale crop this year. Last year, county farmers managed to produce about 20,000 bales in what some called "the worst drought since the 1930s." In a good year, farmers will turn out about 75,000 bales, he said.

"Even if we get a 2-inch rain steady for a week, it's not going to help the cotton that hasn't come up yet," Hall said. A rain would help those whose cotton already has sprouted, he said.

"It was better than this last year," Hall said. "We got 1- and 1½-inch rains then. We didn't even get a planting rain this year." Official rainfall figures from the Big Spring Experiment Station show the total rainfall for the county at 1.77 inches. Normally the county receives about eight inches a year, he said.

Neighboring counties aren't faring much better, according to their ASCS officials, who are in the process of certifying the number of acres farmers planted this year.

According to Mitchell County officials, between 500 to 700 irrigated acres have been planted with cotton. Added with dry-land cotton acreage, only 1,000 acres in the county will produce cotton this year at no more than a bale an acre, according to an ASCS

BLEAK OUTLOOK — The long lines of cotton bales shown here after the 1982 Howard County cotton harvest are not likely to make an appearance this year, according to area county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service officials. Howard County farmers are expected to harvest only 5,000 bales this year.

Reagan: Social Security dying

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — President Reagan said Friday that many people paying into the Social Security system probably will never get all their money back, but pledged anew that benefits will not be cut for those already receiving them.

The president's comments came in an interview with Texas television stations during a campaign visit on which he unleashed a new attack on congressional Democrats and what he called "a flash from the Gipper" warning that they can't defeat him.

In the television interview, Reagan was asked whether he could guarantee that, if re-elected, he would not have to "go at Social Security with an ax." He repeated his promise that his administration "will not pull the rug out from under" people presently receiving Social Security benefits and said that has always been his intention "in spite of a lot of political demagoguery that flowed out of Washington and was multiplied as it went out through the country ... that somehow we are out to destroy this program."

"This has been my pledge from the very beginning," he said.

But he said that if the program needs to be adjusted, it will concern people who are presently paying in "and whether they're being treated fairly" in light of the large Social Security payroll tax increase in 1977.

"And there is a possibility — well, probability — that many people, young people now paying in, will never be able to receive as much as they're paying," Reagan said.

In the interview, Reagan also said he hopes a House-Senate committee will produce an immigration reform bill that he can sign into law.

The Simpson-Mazzoli bill before the committee is controversial in states such as Texas which border Mexico and have large Hispanic populations. A group of demonstrators picketed against the legislation outside the convention hall while Reagan addressed the Texas Bar Association Friday.

Reagan said he is convinced Hispanic citizens can be protected from discrimination under the bill.

"I think that the bill can be worked out to the point that it will resolve some of our work problems and will benefit a great many people presently living in this country," Reagan said.

"And it's also necessary because the simple truths we've lost control of our borders, and no country can afford that," he said.

In his speech to the lawyers, Reagan said his administration would pull out the stops to win passage of tough anti-crime laws.

"This administration seeks no

Windmill pulls the plug on electric power costs

By The Associated Press

Ask James Johnson of San Marcos how to pull the plug on the power company, and he will tell you the answer is blowing in the wind.

Sitting in Johnson's yard is a giant machine that generates electricity when the wind blows. Three silver blades, which cut a circle 19 feet in diameter, are perched on a 54-foot-tall steel tower. The blades rotate to turn a turbine that generates electricity for Johnson's home. Behind the blades is a large weather vane that keeps them facing into the wind.

The harder the wind blows, the more power is produced. Sometimes it is enough to make Johnson's electric meter run backwards as excess electricity produced by the wind turbine flows into the lines of the Pedernales Electric Cooperative.

"I don't have a vendetta with the power company," said Johnson, who lives in the Country Estates development off Route 12 west of San Marcos. "I just thought it was time to cut my electricity costs."

A Pedernales official suggested that the wind turbine is an awfully expensive way to reduce an electric bill, however.

The wind turbine is visible for miles and has been catching the attention of passers-by since it was installed in late May, said Johnson. He works out of his home running a firm that builds microwave communication towers.

When the wind isn't blowing, Johnson buys his power from Pedernales. But when the wind is whistling and generating more power than Johnson needs, the extra electricity automatically flows into utility power lines.

Last month Johnson and Pedernales officials signed a contract under which the utility will pay for any surplus power the machine generates. It was the first time the utility made such an arrangement.

Under federal law utilities are required to purchase surplus power from small power producers like Johnson. The price varies, depending on the price of fuel. But for now it should average 3 to 4 cents for every kilowatt-hour of power Johnson sells. That is about half what he pays for power from Pedernales.

Pedernales plans to install a special meter to record the amount of power that goes into its lines, Johnson said. Then, he will be the only customer to get a check each month along with his electric bill.

But for the time being, when excess power flows back to Peder-

Ackerly native new U.S. envoy

Howard County native Clint Arlen Lauderdale has been named by President Reagan to serve as U.S. ambassador to Guyana.

Lauderdale, now living in California, was born Sept. 14, 1932, in Ackerly and graduated from Ackerly High School in 1950. He is a career member of the Senior Foreign Service.

If his appointment is approved, he will succeed Gerald E. Thomas, who was named ambassador to Kenya.

Lauderdale received a bachelor of arts degree in 1957 from the University of California at Berkeley. He speaks German and Spanish.

He was a personnel specialist with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Washington, D.C., and Boston from 1959-62. In 1962, he entered the Foreign Service and served as Foreign Service Officer-General in Mexico City, personnel officer in Rio de Janeiro (1964-66) and a General Services Officer in Brussels (1967-70). He attended the University of Michigan in 1970-71.

In the state department, Lauderdale was administrative officer in the Bureau of European Affairs from 1971-72. He later became administrative officer in Bonn from 1972-75 and counselor for administration in Madrid from 1975-79.

He was director of personnel from 1979-80 for the department, and since 1980 he has been Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Personnel.

Rain soaks Midwest

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms were scattered from New England to the Gulf Coast on Friday with strong storms moving through the eastern Ohio Valley.

A funnel cloud was sighted over the northern Detroit suburb of Troy about 1 p.m. Friday, but did not touch down as a thunderstorm passed over. Heavy rain and lightning was reported but no damage, said Troy police.

Cleveland got 0.87 inches of rain and small hailstones, while Findlay, Ohio, got 0.73 inches of rain. A violent weather system also swept across east-central Colorado, and a tornado touched down Friday in the middle of Aurora, Colo., blowing out windows and damaging roofs and fences.

There were no reports of injuries, said Aurora Police agent Tom Lancaster. He said the area was pelted with pea-size hail and buffeted by strong winds about the time the tornado touched down.

Cool weather settled over the Great Lakes region and northern Plains, with early afternoon temperatures in the 50s scattered over northern Michigan and northern Wisconsin. Fargo, N.D., had a low of 43 degrees that matched its record for the date, set in 1942, and Sioux Falls, S.D., had a record matching low of 49.

By contrast, hot weather continued across inland California and the desert Southwest. By noon Palm Springs, Calif., had reached 110 degrees while Fresno, Calif., was at 101. Las Vegas, Nev., was 108 degrees and Phoenix, Ariz., was 104.

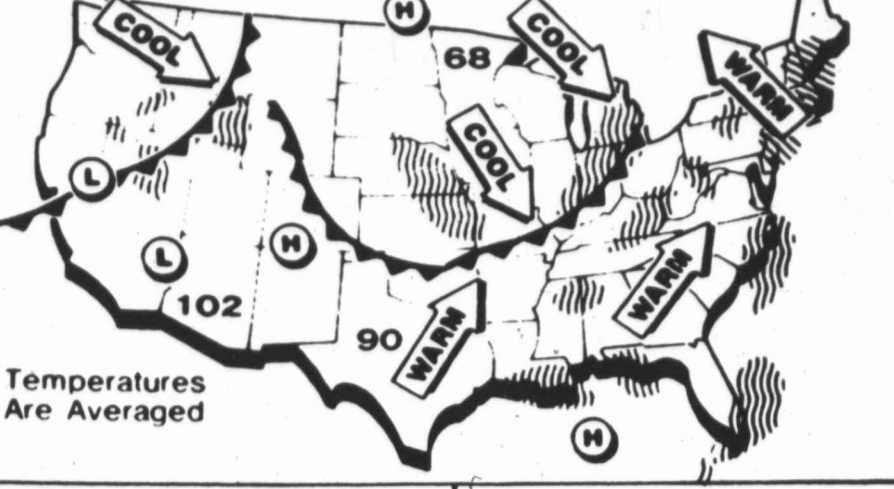

A cold front brought a few showers to the northern Plateau region.

In Pennsylvania, cleanup began Friday after tornado-like winds raked southern parts of state on Thursday, damaging several homes, knocking out power lines and toppling a tree that briefly pinned two people in a car. At least 20 houses and mobile homes in Lehigh, Berks and Somerset counties were damaged in a series of storms that officials classified as "unconfirmed tornados."

Burglars hit day care center

Charlene McKinney of Elbow reported a burglary at the Jack and Jill Day Care Center, 1708 Nolan, where several items including a portable Panasonic television and a video recorder were taken, according to Big Spring Police Department reports.

The burglary occurred between 7:45 a.m. Thursday and 6:30 a.m. Friday, according to reports. Also taken were five Beta L-750 video tapes valued at $145, two portable radios and a cassette recorder. Entry into the building was made through the two front glass doors, the report said.

The burglary was reported at 8:55 a.m. Friday, according to the report.

A Big Spring woman was injured in a two-vehicle collision on 13th and Main streets at 9:14 a.m. Friday, according to police reports. Injured was Donise Perkins of 1905 Wasson. She was transferred to Malone and Hogan Clinic by Schaffer ambulance. She was treated and released, said a clinic spokesman.

Arrest made in car theft

Howard County sheriff's deputies Friday arrested a 26-year-old Big Spring woman on a Bastrop County warrant for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle shortly after recovering a stolen car.

Arrested and released at 2:45 p.m. Friday on a $10,000 bond was Tonya Edwards of Clanton Trailer Park. County Judge Milton Kirby set the bond.

At 2:10 p.m. the same day, Deputy Charles Hall recovered a 1976 yellow Ford LTD reported as stolen on April 1 to the Bastrop County Sheriff's office, according to Howard County sheriff's records.

Andres Rubio, 21, of 1001 S. Main remained in county jail Friday evening after his arrest earlier in the day by Howard County sheriff's deputies on a warrant for revocation of probation for carrying a weapon on licensed premises. Bond was denied.

Palemon Garcia Diaz, 24, of 1600 Robin was transferred Friday to the Howard County sheriff's office from the police department on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

Sheriff's deputies reported a burglary Thursday night at the Big Spring Iron and Metal Works on Snyder Highway. According to Sheriff A.N. Standard, someone entered the building through a window and took cash, two guns and jewelry. Deputies are still investigating the incident, he said.

Fire chief charged in killings

FORT WORTH - A district fire chief charged with murder in the shooting deaths of his wife and a doctor has been relieved of duty pending a grand jury investigation, authorities said.

Joe Dinkins, 42, was arrested about 1 p.m. Wednesday after driving his wounded wife, Pamela, 39, to the North Richland Hills police station and saying he had shot her, authorities said.

Mrs. Dinkins died shortly after arriving at a local hospital, authorities said.

Dinkins was charged Thursday in her death and that of Dr. Kenneth Dooley, who had delivered a baby only minutes before his body was found in his car, which was parked outside North Hills Medical Center.

Fire officials said they were shocked by the arrest.

In 1979, the best cotton-producing year on record in Mitchell County, farmers produced about 81,900 bales. In 1981, they produced 51,700 bales; in 1982, 58,700 bales, according to Mitchell County ASCS figures.

"There's no telling" how much cotton Martin County will produce, according to Martin County ASCS director Nestor Hernandez. The county has an acreage base of 172,000 acres, of which 75 percent can be planted, he said. "We'll get about half a bale to an acre," he said.

Most of the cotton production in Glasscock County this year will be from irrigated land, said Glasscock County ASCS director Joe Esparza. He expects the 35,000 irrigated acres to produce about 30,000-35,000 bales this year. Last year, the county produced 23,000 bales, less than half of its usual 50,000-60,000 bale production.

The 23,000 acres of dryland cotton in the north and northwest part of Glasscock County is not so poorly that 90 percent of the dryland cotton farmers in the county have plowed or are plowing their land to plant grain sorghum, Esparza said. Dryland cotton acreage this year will produce "5,000 acres or less," he said.

"Most of the dryland farmers have already given up on cotton this year. They decided they're not going to get a good stand and have replanted to sorghum," Esparza said. "It looks like it'll be a little bit worse than last year," Esparza said. "If we do get rain, most of it's already plowed up."

Irrigated cotton is "doing a little bit below average," Esparza said. Most Howard County farmers have turned to planting maize, because it requires only 90 days for a crop, and "it's too late for cotton," because it requires 150 days for a crop, Hall said.

But the power savings will not come cheap. The machine and associated equipment cost an estimated $19,000, and qualify him for a $4,000 federal tax credit, Johnson said.

He insists the investment will be worth it, but for now he avoids questions about how long it will take to pay for the machine in power savings. It's going to take a year of operation before anything definite can be determined, he said.

negotiated settlement, no detente with the mob," Reagan said. "Our goal is to cripple their organization, dry up their profits, and put their members behind bars where they belong."

He said "the American people are fed up with leniency... with those wrongdoers who are openly contemptuous of our way of justice." And he contended that Americans have "lost patience Planting maize might allow farmers to make some kind of a crop (even though maize actually needs more rain than cotton) and to provide the land with cover, Hall said.

"This winter could be a wampus cat on our blowing," Hall said. "We really lost a lot of topsoil. It's the third worst loss (of topsoil) in 50 or 60 years."

Borden County farmers will produce only about 4,000 bales this year, according to ASCS director Jerry Stone.

"The south end near Howard County is pretty poor," Stone said. Of the 23,000 acres planted, "we'll be lucky to get 4,000 bales."

Cotton plants "that look good" are coming up on only a few acres, he said. "The rest of it's just coming up to die out. Some of it's never coming up."

Borden County received only 1 1/2 inches of rain since last October, Stone said. Most has come in 2- or 3-inch showers.

Farmers in both Howard and Mitchell Counties could seriously suffer this year, according to their respective ASCS offices. "It's going to affect the whole community," Hall said.

A Mitchell County ASCS spokesman said farmers might not be financed by banks next year. "A lot of the farmers had a tough time getting financed this year. There just might be a bunch going out. Some of the area banks are trying to get together with (U.S. Rep. Charles) Stenholm (D-Stamford) for relief on the insurance."

Previous attempts to delay planting deadlines set by the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. failed.

"We keep saying every year that this is the year farmers are going to go out of business," Stone said. "But it really looks like this is the year. We've got an awful lot of producers who have had a tough time. There's no relief coming that I know."

Sales tax collections jump

AUSTIN - Sales tax collections for Texas cities are up more than 17 percent over last year, state Comptroller Bob Bullock said Friday in distributing $55.3 million to the 996 cities that levy the 1 percent tax.

The money distributed was collected on May sales. Bullock said it brought the cities' total for the year to nearly a half billion dollars.

"Every one of the 20 biggest sales tax cities is ahead of last year's total," Bullock said.

He said Houston received $9.4 million for May, pushing its yearly total to $82.1 million. Dallas received $6.8 million for May, up 20 percent over 1983 collections.

San Antonio got $3.1 million, bringing its yearly total to $26.9 million. Austin received $2.6 million, a 31 percent increase over last year.

117 gas, 68 oil finds made

AUSTIN - Texas oil and gas operators reported 117 gas and 68 oil discoveries in June, the Texas Railroad Commission announced Friday.

The June finds brought the 1984 total to 701 gas and 353 oil discoveries. In the same period of 1983, there were 669 gas and 430 oil discoveries in Texas.

A total of 558 dry holes were reported in June, down from 650 in May.

The commission also reported Friday that 3,700 drilling applications were filed in June, down from 4,367 in May.

Texans driving under 65 mph

COLLEGE STATION - Texas motorists may not all be complying with the 55 mph speed limit, but a lot of them are driving under 65 mph, a transportation researcher says.

Citing a recent state survey, Dr. Quinn Brackett, a Texas Transportation Institute researcher, said less than 10 percent of all state motorists are exceeding 65 mph - a big difference from previous years.

Brackett said that results from the latest surveying period, which ended April 23, showed that only 54.9 percent of Texas drivers were exceeding the 55 mph speed limit.

After the new speed limit was passed in 1974, Brackett said 62.2 percent of motorists were failing to abide by the law. The highest rate of speeding violators was recorded in 1978 when 77 percent indicated they drove above 55 mph.

Brackett, who is stationed at Texas A&M University, said motorists tend to slow down when gasoline prices go up.

"There is an historic association between the price of gasoline and noncompliance with the speed limit," Brackett said. "But this shouldn't be looked at as a cause-and-effect relationship."

And even though the 55 mph speed limit seems to have slowed down Texas drivers, Brackett said researchers are not sure that is responsible for a decrease in the number of traffic injuries and deaths.

"Some may feel it may be more from changing economic conditions. Personally I feel it is from a change in the attitude of the driving public," he said. "For example, it is less acceptable to drive while intoxicated."

Foreign bee mite discovered

AUSTIN - A parasitic mite that slows bees has been discovered in a hive in Weslaco, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced Friday.

The acarine mite, never before seen in the United States, was discovered on Tuesday, and identified by USDA scientists on Wednesday.

Dudley Smith, a Texas A&M bee expert, said the acarine mite "debilitates the bees and reduces their vigor."

"It's like having a low-grade fever. You still go to work but you might not be as industrious," he said of the mite's effect on bees.

Smith said the mite spreads "very slowly" and would not be an immediate danger to hives in the area. He said the presence of the mite on the U.S. side of the border would be no reason "to go out and leap off a building."

State and federal agriculture officials plan a Monday trip to the Rio Grande Valley to study the mite situation.

Columbian ship owners sue

HOUSTON - The owners of a Colombian ship seized last week on allegations that the vessel was involved in cocaine-smuggling are suing the U.S. government, claiming the seizure is costing them thousands of dollars a day.

The suit, filed Thursday in U.S. District Court in Houston on behalf of Flota Mercante Grancolombiana, S.A., of Bogota, Colombia, alleges that U.S. Customs Service officers acted illegally June 29 when the 545-foot Ciudad de Cucuta was seized. The suit also asks that the ship be allowed to leave the Port of Houston.

The seizure came two days after Houston police and customs agents took from the ship 235 pounds of cocaine with an estimated street value of $60 million.

Houston attorney Thomas Green III, who filed the suit, contends the government cannot seize the vessel or enforce a forfeiture "because neither the owner nor the master of the vessel was, at the time of the alleged illegal acts, a consenting party or privy to those illegal acts."

Eight men, including four crew members, have been charged in state court with possession of cocaine with intent to deliver.

Truett DeVaney, 78, died Thursday in Llano. Services will be at 10:00 A.M. Saturday at the Presbyterian Church in Coahoma. Interment will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

A reservoir of humor

ST. PAUL — Garrison Keillor, the gentle storyteller who created Lake Wobegon, the mythical "town that time forgot and the decades can't improve," is marking the 10th anniversary of his Prairie Home Companion radio show.

GARRISON KEILLOR

A special performance tonight at $50 and $100 a ticket will serve as an anniversary celebration and a benefit for the World Theater, the 960-seat auditorium that was home to Keillor and his cronies until plaster started falling from the ceiling in January.

At a dress rehearsal Thursday, Keillor, 42, talked about the success of the weekly two-hour show, broadcast Saturday afternoons by 218 public radio stations.

"The last thing I want to do is recommend that people move to Lake Wobegon," he said of his sometimes harsh portrayal of small-town life. "I left it 20 years ago, and I liked it, but I don't want to live there. It's not a friendly town."

He doesn't need tickets

LOS ANGELES — Actor Raymond St. Jacques will be among the 65 special envoys who will try to make athletes from 142 nations feel at home during the summer Olympics.

St. Jacques, who starred in such film as "Cotton Comes to Harlem" and "Mr. Moses," will play host to teams from Kenya, Nigeria and Somalia.

St. Jacques, 54, spent six months in Kenya filming "Mr. Moses" in 1962.

"This is really not bad for a black kid from New Haven who nearly didn't graduate from high school," St. Jacques said Thursday. "I think that it's a great honor... I'm really excited."

Of the athletes, he said: "I'll be eating with them, talking with them, telling jokes, sharing life experiences. Then when I see them on the big silver screen at home, I'll say: 'I know that child right there.'"

LOS ANGELES — Britain's Princess Anne will be on hand when Placido Domingo and Gwyneth Jones take to the stage in the first Royal Opera production to premiere outside England and the first performance ever by the troupe in the United States.

PRINCESS ANNE

Mondy's premier of Puccini's "Turandot" will be a dramatically different interpretation, director Andrei Serban said Thursday.

"Turandot," set in Peking, tells the story of a vengeful princess and the exiled prince who seeks to win her hand by solving three riddles.

But did he have soap?

ALBUQUERQUE — When friends call Steve Gutierrez all wet, they aren't kidding. Gutierrez spent 23 days in a shower as a fund-raising stunt for a local girls club and claims he broke the record of 366 hours set by an Australian in 1978.

"I'm glad it's all over," he said this week. "It was a great experience mentally and physically."

The Bernalillo County Youth Development worker began his watery three weeks on June 8 and stayed all wet until June 30. He covered his body with vegetable shortening to protect his skin, but he said his hands still aren't completely dry.

Gary Hart

HART TALKS — Sen. Gary Hart tells the audience at the 75th annual national convention of the NAACP in Kansas City that the struggle for civil rights must continue. Hart's fellow Democratic presidential hopefuls Walter Mondale and Jesse Jackson also addressed the group earlier in the week.

A moral imperative

Hart tells NAACP Reagan must be defeated

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Gary Hart told a civil rights organization Friday that Democrats have a moral duty to defeat President Reagan because his administration lacks commitment to justice and equal opportunity.

"You and I must lead this fight," the Democratic presidential candidate told the annual convention of the NAACP. "There is one thing more important than fiscal responsibility — and that is moral responsibility."

Hart said the Reagan administration is threatening to erode some of the civil rights achievements of the NAACP.

"We have a president who presides over an administration which fundamentally does not believe that government has a responsibility to guarantee justice and opportunity," Hart said.

"For the Democratic Party in 1984, the defeat of Ronald Reagan and the redirection of our country cannot be merely political goals," he said. "They are, and they must be, nothing less than a moral imperative."

In his speech to the NAACP on the closing day of the convention, Hart praised the civil rights organization for its support of "what is best in America: commitment to human dignity, insistence on equal justice, dedication to the common good."

"All Americans, whether they realize it or not, are in your debt," Hart said.

While claiming to care about equality, Reagan has supported a tax credit bill that would subsidize racially discriminating private schools, Hart said.

He also said Reagan has cut back on low-income legal assistance, school lunches and fair housing enforcement.

Hart called for the elimination of hunger in this country by the end of the 1980s, urging the United States and the Soviet Union to enter into a joint program to end world hunger by the start of the next century.

Although Walter Mondale has become the almost certain winner of the Democratic party's nomination, Hart reiterated Thursday that he is reviewing possible vice presidential choices in case he upsets Mondale.

Hart is among those understood to be under consideration as Mondale's running mate.

Hart said in a statement Thursday that Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., has selected 25 possible names to run with him and that he has added other potential selections on his own.

German printers end strike

DUESSELDORF — Negotiators signed a compromise agreement Friday for a 38.5-hour work week, heralding the end of a 13-week-old printers' strike that crippled West Germany's major newspapers.

Representatives of employers and the printers' union approved the pact for the country's 165,000 organized printers after overnight bargaining talks, negotiators said.

"We've made it," said Erwin Ferlemann, chief negotiator for the IG Druck und Papier union, the printer's union.

The agreement provides for cutting 90 minutes from the present 40-hour workweek, in a contract period running from April 1, 1984 to March 31, 1987, sources close to the negotiations said.

Wages will be increased 3.3 percent, retroactive to July 1, and go up another 2 percent on Aug. 1, 1985, the sources said.

According to figures from the printing industry employers' association, the average hourly wage for a printer at present is $4.64.

Union members will vote on ratification next week, but strikes are expected to end this weekend, they said.

Bolivia strike in 2nd day

LA PAZ — A general strike caused shortages of gasoline and bread in Friday as government and union leaders, fearing a long strike could provoke a coup, worked to break a deadlock over wages and foreign debt payments.

Labor Minister Horst Grebe said most workers remained off the job for a second day at mines, schools, public offices and factories in the Andean nation of 5.8 million people.

President Hernan Siles Zuazo's leftist civilian government, which survived a coup attempt last Saturday, and the Bolivian Labor Confederation held separate meetings to study the result of the negotiations that broke off early Friday.

Iran promises offensive

TEHRAN — Iran's parliament speaker said Friday his country's long-expected "grand offensive" against Iraq was inevitable and could occur at any time within the next year.

At a congregational prayer service in Tehran, Parliament Speaker Hojatoleslam Hashemi Rafsanjani said the "final attack will not be based on revenge motives. Rather, it will be the product of careful planning."

An estimated 400,000 Iranian regulars and volunteers have been reported stationed along the Iraq-Iran border in the southern Iraqi Basra region in preparation for an Iranian offensive.

Ceasefire called in Tripoli

BEIRUT — Plans for re-uniting Beirut and reopening its airport ran into delays Friday, but in two encouraging signs of progress, Lebanon's civil war combatants agreed to release dozens of kidnap victims and a cease-fire stopped the blood-bath in the northern city of Tripoli.

The cease-fire in the port city of Tripoli, 50 miles north of Beirut and the nation's second largest city, halted four days of street fighting between pro- and anti-Syrian militias. The fierce combat had overshadowed the successful demilitarization of Beirut. Police said 42 people died and 153 were wounded in the Tripoli combat.

In the capital, the re-unification delay — blamed by government officials mostly on technicalities — came after the Lebanese army successfully took over Christian and Moslem militia posts in Beirut for the first time since the civil war flared on Feb. 6, shutting the port and airport.

Police quell Manila riot

MANILA — Riot police broke up a protest march by about 2,000 students Friday, lobbing tear gas bombs as the marchers approached President Ferdinand E. Marcos' residence. The protesters demanded military spending cuts, lower tuition and less foreign involvement in the economy.

Four demonstrators taken to a hospital were sent home after treatment for tear gas inhalation, a hospital nurse said. There were no serious injuries and no arrests were immediately reported.

Getting tough with terror

NAIROBI — Uganda's parliament has passed a law imposing the death penalty for the new offense of terrorism and life imprisonment for cattle rustling, Radio Uganda said Friday.

Up to now, terrorism has not listed on the statutes as a crime.

It's BYOB at Big Spring's Water Store

Man bottles thirst for big success

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

D-Eon Priest's business is strictly "bring your own bottle" — to hold your own water, of course.

It's not Perrier or high fashion, but Priest and his business partner, Karla Kay, are counting on Big Spring residents' good taste to sell their reverse osmosis water.

Priest and Miss Kay opened their Water Store on Fourth Street near Birdwell Monday, and already they are talking about selling franchises to their water stores.

Claiming water run through their on-site reverse osmosis system is 94 to 98 percent free of salt and other particles, the two say they have had lots of favorable comments from Big Spring residents who don't like the taste of the city's tap water.

"We started it because of the quality — well, the lack of quality — of Big Spring water," Priest said. He got the idea a month ago from a smaller version of his store in New Mexico that "had people lined up with their bottles to buy water," he said.

CLEAR PROFITS - D-Eon Priest and Karla Kay, owners of the Water Store on Fourth Street near Birdwell, have good reason to smile as they hold in their hands the couple's answer to "quality" drinking water for Big Spring residents. The new store, which opened Monday, has already drawn considerable interest, according to Priest and Kay.

And at one-half to one-third the cost of other bottled water, they already have had "hundreds of customers" and are negotiating with about four different groups to sell franchises in San Angelo, Snyder and Hobbs, N.M., Priest said Friday morning.

Selling water is hardly a new idea in West Texas, but franchising stores that tell customers to bring your own bottles to be filled with purified and filtered water is.

"My banker came by this week and said he couldn't believe it,"

Priest said. "He told me, 'The last time I saw you, you were talking about water stores, and now you've got customers lining up.'"

The Water Store sells a gallon of water for 30 cents, about half the price of a local grocery store's 59-cent-a-gallon bottled version.

Ozarka water sells for about 80 cents a gallon, he said. In addition to water, the store also sells five-pound bags of ice for 40 cents. Convenience stores sell eight pound bags for about $1.25, he said.

The Water Store is able to maintain its lower prices because of a low overhead, he said. "We don't have the shipping and bottling and local distribution costs others have," Priest said. "We manufacture our water right on site."

In reverse osmosis, pressure is applied to force water through a semi-permeable membrane that filters out salt and other particles such as arsenic.

In regular osmosis, lower concentrations of water are attracted

The Water Store's system also adds chlorine to kill bacteria, and runs its water through a charcoal filter to better the taste and odor.

The store has the capacity to manufacture 2,000 gallons of water and 600 pounds of ice daily, Priest said. He expects the ice capacity to increase to 1,000 soon, he said.

The store also sells smaller versions of the reverse osmosis process for use under an individual's sink at an approximate cost of $350, Priest said. The smaller systems have an 8-gallon a day capacity.

"It's a new process here because no one knows about it," Priest said. "But it began in the 1950s when the government was trying to figure out a way to remove salt from ocean water."

"It's still the best way to remove salt," he said. He also said the proto higher concentrations. The opposite happens in reverse osmosis, Priest said.

"In osmosis, the clean water will be attracted to the dirty water (because of the higher concentrations of particles)," Priest said. "The process is reversed and the dirty water, or scrub water, becomes separated from the good water."

For every gallon of good water, about one gallon ends up down the drain, he said.

cess is more effective at removing salt than deionization.

California and Arizona residents have been using the process for years, he said.

"They can spit out the words 'reverse osmosis' better than I can," he said. "You say R.O. water, and they know what you're talking about. It's popular."

In addition to selling water, Priest and Kay also will test well or tap water samples brought into their store, they said.

Harte-Hanks buys 2 cables

Harte-Hanks Cable Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Harte-Hanks Communications Inc., has exercised its options to acquire two cable television operators, UltraCom Inc. of Lansdale, Pa., and Jim R. Smith and Co. of Sierra Vista, Ariz.

According to Harte-Hanks officials, the communications corporation acquired UltraCom from AEL Industries Inc. Jim R. Smith and Co. was acquired from Leggett Oil Co., Curtis N. Leggett and C. Max Williams.

The officials did not discuss the terms of the transactions.

Together, the two newly acquired cable companies serve more than 97,000 basic subscribers. Their acquisition brings Harte-Hanks Cable's subscriber base to 146,000, making it the 42nd largest cable company in the country.

Harte-Hanks Communications owns and operates 27 daily newspapers, including the Big Spring Herald, and 75 non-daily publications in 27 states.

McCain takes Midland post

Former Big Spring bank vice president Jim McCain has been appointed president of Security National Bank of Midland and a member of its board of directors, according to the bank's board.

McCain's new job became effective July 1. McCain has spent 17 years in banking. Prior to his appointment, he was executive vice president and a member of the executive committee and board of directors at Western Bank in Midland.

He is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma School of Banking and also attended Schreiner College in Kerrville and Texas Tech University. He is an executive appointee of the board of directors of the American Institute of Banking.

Oil production totals up

The number of barrels of crude oil and hydrocarbon blends being processed in Texas refineries in March showed an increase from figures in February this year and in March 1983, according to figures from Railroad Commission Chairman Mack Wallace.

According to Wallace, 58 Texas refineries processed 132,479,714 barrels of crude oil and hydrocarbon blends this March, up from 129,532,853 barrels in February and 125,509,426 barrels in March 1983.

Texas refineries ran 102,640,237 barrels of crude oil in March, compared to 100,507,368 barrels in February and 98,403,393 barrels in March 1983.

Products manufactured in March totaled 133,127,430 barrels, up from 129,103,117 barrels in February and 98,403,393 barrels in March 1983.

March manufacture of motor gasoline totaled 56,079,996 barrels compared to 53,530,685 barrels in February and 50,689,741 barrels in March 1983.

Texas refineries manufactured 6,706,674 barrels of home heating oil in March, a decrease of 5,409,916 barrels from the February volume. In March 1983, the refineries put out 8,139,375 barrels.

Aetna sells oil subsidiary

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Aetna Life and Casualty Co. on Friday sold its oil field services subsidiary, Geosource Inc., to Gearhart Industries Inc. for 10 million shares of Gearhart common stock, an unspecified amount of preferred stock worth $110 million in a new subsidiary and $50 million in cash. The announcement of the sale was made jointly by the two companies.

The deal is subject to the expiration or termination of applicable waiting periods under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976.

The Arab connection

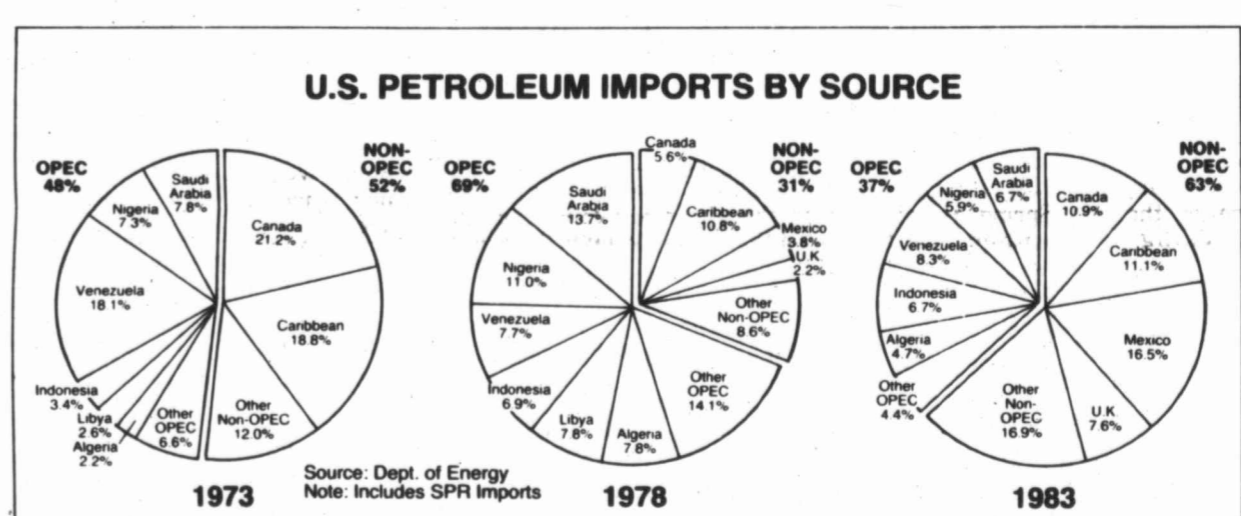

Decline in oil imports lessens chance of embargo

WASHINGTON — An Arab oil cut-off today would hardly pose a major crisis, according to a report in the June issue of Petroleum Independent Magazine.

According to the report by contributing economics editor Deborah Rowell, the world oil market has changed dramatically since the gasoline lines experienced as a result of the 1973 Arab oil embargo and the 1979 Iranian crisis.

According to Rowell, there are several reasons for this. Among them are a decline in imports and the actual amount of oil being imported from OPEC sources. "Last year," notes Rowell in her article, "the U.S. imported 30 percent of its crude oil and petroleum products, compared with 35 percent a decade ago and an even higher 43 percent in 1978 before the Iranian shortage. In the first quarter of this year that ratio increased to about 32 percent, but still only about a third of all U.S. imports come from OPEC nations."

Rowell, in writing for the official magazine of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, says the reason for this decline is increased production in non-OPEC areas such as Mexico and the North Sea. In 1983, for example, Mexico was the leading source of U.S. imports followed by Canada, Venezuela and the United Kingdom. Only about 1 percent of U.S.

imports comes from Iran. "Still, their ongoing war poses the most viable threat to oil supplies through the likelihood of a Persian Gulf blockade," Rowell writes. "Although 20 percent of the free world's total oil supply passes through the Strait of Hormuz, such a disruption today probably would not cause the long gasoline lines and skyrocketing prices of 1973 and 1979 because the world oil market is a different place today."

Hunt fails to make payment

DALLAS (AP) — Hunt International Resources Corp., which is controlled by Dallas' billionaire Hunt family, failed to make a $1.4 million interest payment due on its Series A debentures, a company spokesman said Thursday.

Spokesman Robert White said the firm failed to make the payment, due Monday, because of declining sales and operating revenue from its two principle ventures — selling sugar and chartering offshore oil rigs. The company has been selling some of its assets, including Shakey's Inc., Impel Energy, Shakey's International Ltd., and California City Development, White said, but had not generated "sufficient funds ... to cover debt service requirements."

He declined to comment on why the wealthy family couldn't make the payment owed by a company it controls.

Dear Abby

Girl sweats out old crush

DEAR ABBY: I have a slight problem. Last summer when I went to summer camp I got a terrific crush on one of the counselors. I was 14 and he was a college student. I am not one to show my feelings, so he probably didn't even notice me.

Last Christmas I did a dumb thing. I sent him a mushy card and enclosed a letter telling how neat I thought he was. I said I hoped he'd be back at camp next summer because I was planning to go back, then I said I hoped he would see me as a mature, grown-up young woman instead of a shy, immature kid — or words to that effect. Like a dummy, I enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope and asked him to write back. He never did.

Now I could kick myself for writing that stupid letter. I hear that he's coming back to camp this year and I don't know how to act toward him.

Should I apologize for that childish letter I wrote last Christmas? I think I'm over that crush now and I want him to see me as a mature, grown-up person. Tell me how to act, Abby.

ALL GROWN UP

DEAR GROWN UP: Forget that you ever wrote that letter and hope that he has. If you're a mature, grown-up woman, he is sure to notice.

(Every teen-ager should know the truth about drugs, sex and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 (this includes postage) to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Dr. Donohue

Hypoglycemia

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is dieting a way to treat hypoglycemia? Should I cut down on calories? — J.M.

It's not dieting for weight loss, but dieting to get certain kinds of foods that control the usual variety of hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) in most cases. The best diet is one that is high in complex carbohydrates and somewhat high in protein. Complex carbohydrates means starches, like potatoes and pastas, and fruits and vegetables that have natural sugars and high fiber content. It is also best to take six small meals daily rather than the traditional three "squares."

The number of calories you take depends on your weight and whether you want to lose. But the control of the low blood sugar comes from the kinds of calories, as I indicated. You may be interested in scanning the booklet "Help for Hypoglycemia." Other readers may order by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.00 for printing and handling.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Do you have any information about a yeast infection called Torulopsis glabrata? I have had the problem for months. Is it really a yeast infection? How is it gotten rid of? — B.S.

I am sure you are familiar with candida, the yeast that causes so many female infections. Torulopsis glabrata is a close relative. Both these organisms are often found on the body surfaces of normal people, causing no problems. Only when there is a disturbance of normal defenses do they cause trouble.

For example, consider candida. Many times, women who are taking antibiotics experience an infection with that organisms. That's because the antibiotics kill other germs and allow candida to grow out of control. The other germs normally keep the candida in check.

Torulopsis normally doesn't cause such problems, but under special circumstances it may. In fact, it may cause serious infections in those undergoing treatment for other illnesses, like cancer.

When it causes such problems, there are special drugs to kill it. But these drugs are quite potent and may have unpleasant side effects.

I am sorry to have to be so vague about this answer, but I don't know your situation — just where your infection is, for example. Will you write me again with a few more details?

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I tried to get a Florida tan by proxy last winter and instead developed a red eye condition. I assume this was from the ultraviolet lamp I used. Could that be so? What is the usual treatment for this? — J.J.

This result of ultraviolet light exposure is called punctate keratitis. The eyeball turns reddish and is painful. The symptoms usually appear about six to eight hours after the exposure. Usually, application of cold compresses to the closed eyes helps. The compresses are used for about five minutes. Any such incident should be reported to the doctor, who may want to prescribe use of a mild optic steroid antibiotic preparation under an eyepatch.

The typical case of punctate keratitis ends in one or two days. The potential for this happening is another good reason for using proper protection and caution under sunlamps, in this case including eye protection.

Garden check list for July

1. Water lawns and gardens when needed, giving a thorough soaking rather than frequent light sprinklings.
2. Check plants for mulch. Replace or add when needed.
3. Keep close check on recently planted plants. Inadequate root system and drought can be damaging. Plants injured by last December's cold should not be allowed to suffer drought stress.
4. Check all plants for iron chlorosis (pale green leaves, darker green veins.) If necessary, use copperas or iron chelate to correct iron deficiency.
5. Sow seeds of the following annuals for late summer and fall flower: Marigold, Zinnia, Periwinkle, Petunia, Cosmos, Portulaca, Ageratum. Transplants available from your nursery or garden center will usually provide faster color.
6. Check your lawn mower. With hot weather here, you will want to raise the mower blade slightly.
7. Check junipers and marigolds for red spider mite. The brown, discolored foliage may be due to mite damage. Hold a sheet of white paper below a branch and tap the branch sharply. If the dirt specks start to move, you can be almost certain you have spider mite.

8. Don't leave landscape areas unattended for more than 4-5 days of vacation. Best to arrange to have someone take care of the yard if you leave for a longer period.

9. To keep hanging baskets looking attractive, soak the baskets in a tub of water every few days in addition to the regular daily watering. This is also a good time to fertilize baskets but never apply fertilizer to dry plants.

10. Divide Spring and early Summer perennials — including daffodils, daylilies, iris, etc., and replant the best clumps. Discard the diseased or damaged material and share any surplus with friends.

11. Low areas in the lawn may be gradually filled with shallow applications of good top soil where needed. Avoid temptation to apply a layer of sandy loam over the entire lawn area just because your neighbor does. This is an excellent way to introduce new weeds, smother your grass, and bring unwanted insects and disease problems.

12. Don't forget to water large leafed plants like hydrangea, coleus, caladiums and chrysanthemums. Even in shade the hot dry wind can soon deplete the soil of moisture where these plants are grown.

13. Bluebonnet seeds should be ordered this month so you will be ready to plant in August.

14. If you have planted copper plants for fall color, be sure to pinch out the tips of the branches to encourage branching and develop bushy compact plants.

15. Gladiolus corms can be dug, cured, and stored as soon as the foliage turns down.

16. Many spring flowering shrubs will be forming flower buds in late July and August. Drought conditions can reduce both the quality and the quality of spring flowers. This is true of peaches, pears, forsythia and other similar plants. Don't allow time to suffer drought stress.

17. Clean up iris beds, thin out clumps if crowded. They can be transplanted anytime from late July to October.

18. Don't forget the regular spray program on roses to prevent blackspot.

19. The care you give your rose garden in July and August will determine both the quality and the quantity of flowers you will have in late September and October. Adequate moisture and an application of nitrogen fertilization in late July will be beneficial.

20. Going on vacation? There are many reliable junior high and high school girls and boys looking for an opportunity to earn some extra money. They can keep the lawn mowed, garden and lawn irrigated, and keep newspapers and ads picked up so it looks like someone is at home.

A new look at earth-sheltered homes

If you're considering an earth-sheltered home, you might want to read a recent study conducted by the Oak Ridge National Laboratories (ORNL). The researchers concluded that the higher cost of building an earth-sheltered home will not be recovered by lower heating, cooling and maintenance costs over a 40-year mortgage.

The study compared similar above and below ground homes in five cities, including Houston. According to ORNL, underground construction costs range from 30 to 49 percent more than standard construction, excluding the price of the land. And the economic advantage of the above-ground home is maintained when the cost of land is included.

ORNL researchers concluded that an underground home would be a good 30-year investment only if construction costs were no more than 10 percent higher than a comparable above-ground energy-efficient home in cities with climates similar to Minneapolis or Salt Lake City. In other cities, an underground home costing only 10 percent more to build would still be a poor economic decision.

The study also compared standard and energy-efficient above-ground homes. While initial construction costs were higher for the energy-efficient home due to more insulation and wider wall studs, the energy savings made it a better long-term investment. Savings on a 30-year mortgage ranged from 3 percent in Houston and Minneapolis to 9 percent in Boston.

The complete study, "Costs and Energy Comparison Study of Above- and Below-ground Dwellings," is available from the National Technical Information Service, U.S. Department of Commerce, Springfield, VA 22161.

Consumers can develop a home maintenance plan. The air conditioner isn't working, so you open up the windows to get the cool evening breeze. Then you wind up with a house full of bugs because the screens have holes. If things like this happen to you, the chances are you could use a home maintenance plan.

It seems like home repair problems happen all at once, when they actually occur over time. It's just that they catch up with us all at once.

A regular program of home maintenance inspections can help homeowners identify and correct problems before they become serious. It can also reduce the costs of major repairs by heading off problems in the early stages.

A home maintenance plan is simply a checklist of routine upkeep tasks. The checklist identifies a number of problems to look for in foundations and basements; doors and windows; exterior walls; the roof; gutters and downspouts; interior surfaces; heating and cooling system; electrical system; plumbing system; yard; and safety equipment.

In addition to guiding you through specific inspections you can make in each of these areas, a home maintenance plan creates a record of all upkeep and repairs to the house and its equipment.

If you would like a checklist or more information on home maintenance, contact the county Extension office.

Wimbledon set for all American singles clash McEnroe takes Cash and heads to finals Martina, Crissy set for another battle

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Pat Cash, the unseeded Australian teen-ager, may not have beaten John McEnroe in Friday's semifinal, but he continued his week of exhausting tennis at Wimbledon, falling to the defending champion 6-3, 7-6, 6-4 in a two-hour match.

On Wednesday, Cash played more than five hours of tennis — a 6-4, 6-4, 6-7, 7-6 quarter-final upset of No. 6 Andres Gomez of Ecuador and four sets of a marathon doubles match with partner Paul McNamee against Mark Edmondson of Australia and America's Sherwood Stewart.

On Thursday, Cash and McNamee finally won the fifth set of the doubles, 13-11, in 90 minutes.

One hour, eight minutes later, Cash and McNamee were back on court, winning a semifinal against fellow Australians Peter Doohan and Michael Fancutt. For the fourth straight time, Cash and McNamee were taken to five sets.

On Friday, Cash was drilled by McEnroe, the undisputed master of the men's tennis world, in the sport's biggest pressure-cooker, Wimbledon's Centre Court.

"As it turned out, it's the easiest day I've had in the last week," the laconic teenager said with a shrug.

But losing the singles semifinal doesn't give him a day off. On Saturday, he and McNamee will play the doubles final — against none other than McEnroe and his partner, fellow-American Peter Fleming.

"I'm definitely ready for a break after tomorrow's match," Cash said.

During Friday's contest, "I was feeling very tired," he said. "One of my legs was really sore during the first set."

Considering his ordeal, Cash made a respectable showing against the world's No. 1 player.

Though he lost the first set without too much fuss, Cash drove McEnroe to a tie-breaker in the second set and actually broke McEnroe in the final set before the New Yorker finished him off.

Afterward, McEnroe had nothing but praise for Cash.

"He really moves around the court. He's a strong kid," McEnroe said. "He gets back for the overheads pretty well, either backhand or forehand side. You have to hit it pretty well to get it by him. And he's pretty quick at the net."

"He got to some shots I wasn't expecting him to. At the end of the second set and in the tie-breaker he started returning my serve a lot better."

"In the third I just lost a little rhythm on my serve. He had some chances. I was a little lucky to get out of that third."

I think it stinks!

Jimmy Connors voices his disapproval to a call made in his semi-final match at Wimbledon.

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The next performance of the "Martina Navratilova and Chris Evert Lloyd Show" will be Saturday on Centre Court at the Wimbledon tennis championships. This time, Lloyd is hoping for a different ending.

The women's final will mark the 60th career meeting between the two, and the 45th time they have battled in a championship match. Although Lloyd leads in their head-to-head confrontations 30-29, Navratilova has won their last 11 encounters, all of them coming in finals.

The last time Lloyd defeated the top-ranked woman in the world was in the final of the 1982 Australian Open.

But as even Navratilova said: "She's played better and better each match here ... I know what she can do and I have total respect for her."

Navratilova, however, is such an overwhelming favorite to capture her third straight Wimbledon singles title that at least one London bookmaker refused to take bets on her.

She has done absolutely nothing during the Wimbledon fortnight to diminish her reputation, having moved into the final without dropping a set.

Navratilova's victims have been Americans Peanut Louie and Amy Holton, Iva Budarova of Czechoslovakia, Elizabeth Sayers of Australia, seventh-seeded Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria and fellow American Kathy Jordan, the No. 6 seed.

Lloyd has lost just one set in her race to the final, but she didn't show her championship form until she walloped No. 3 seed Hana Mandikova in the semifinals on Thursday, 6-1, 6-2.

Her other victories came against Sabina Golecs of Yugoslavia, fellow American Betsy Nagelsen, 17-year-old Anabel Croft of Britain, 12th-seeded Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany, and Carina Karlsson of Sweden, a qualifier.

"I don't give Chris much of a chance, but I can be wrong," Jordan said after she lost to Navratilova 6-3, 6-4 in the semifinals. "I hope she gives Martina a good match, but I have seen the past results and it hasn't been that close."

"Her game seems to get right into Martina's," Jordan noted. "She stays back and Martina then has every chance in the world to come into the net. Martina can pick her shots, so that's more to her advantage at this point."

Between them, the finalists have won seven Wimbledon titles going into Saturday's match — Navratilova in 1978, 1979, 1982 and 1983; Lloyd in 1974, 1976 and 1981.

Like Jordan, Pam Shriver also picked Navratilova, her doubles teammate, to win the title.

Houston loses another A.D.

HOUSTON (AP) — The University of Houston started its third search in six years for a new athletic director Friday following the resignation of John Kasser, who accepted a similar position at Long Beach State University.

Kasser, 46, had been athletic director at Houston since August 1982 when he replaced Cedric W. Dempsey, who resigned to become athletic director at the University of Arizona.

Dempsey became athletic director at Houston in August 1979, replacing Harry Fouke, who had been the Cougars' only athletic director since the school opened in 1946.

Kasser, a former assistant athletic director at California-Irvine, replaces Corey Van Fleet, who was fired May 21.

Houston Chancellor Dr. Richard L. Van Horn was not immediately available for comment, but said in a statement:

"At present, we are talking with the senior people in the athletics area to hear their ideas and suggestions. We plan to appoint an interim athletic director in the next several weeks."

"We hope to find an outstanding athletic director of the same high caliber of John Kasser in the next few months."

A possible candidate for interim athletic director is Tom Ford, currently associate athletic director.

Ford was unavailable for comment. UH System President Dr. Charles Bishop was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Kasser grew up in Inglewood, Calif. and played basketball at Pepperdine where he finished as the school's 13th all-time rebounder.

Kasser earned a reported $55,000 at Houston and could receive as much as $70,000 at Long Beach, based on salary schedules recently approved for key administrators by the California Legislature.

Houston's athletic programs flourished during Kasser's four years on campus.

Englishman grabs pole in Dallas Grand Prix

DALLAS (AP) — The Lotus race cars of Englishman Nigel Mansell and Italian driver Elio de Angelis led the way Friday in the first session of time trials for the inaugural Dallas Grand Prix.

The torrid Texas heat that smothered the 60-minute qualifying session slowed the open-wheel cars down a bit from the slightly cooler morning practice.

Mansell, who started third on the grid in the Detroit Grand Prix two weeks ago, ignored the 102-degree heat and a blanket of uncomfortable humidity as he toured the new 2.424-mile, 17-turn circuit at Texas State Fair Park in 1 minute, 37.041 seconds.

That lap, averaging 89.924 mph (144.719 kph), was good enough to give the wise-cracking, mustachioed Mansell the provisional pole for Sunday's race.

Another 60 minutes of time trials are scheduled Saturday, with the best lap by each car during the two days of qualifying determining the 26-car starting grid.

De Angelis, Mansell's teammate in the John Player-sponsored cars, was clocked at 1:37.635, which translates to 89.377 (143.838).

Third on the provisional grid was the Ferrari of Frenchman Rene Arnoux at 1:37.785 (89.240, 143.618), followed by two-time world champion Niki Lauda of Austria in a McLaren at 1:37.893 (89.054, 143.322).

Lauda, who was quick in the morning practice at 1:36.317 (90.600, 145.807), was one of several drivers involved in crashes during the qualifying period.

Lauda, currently second in the world championship point standings, 10½ points behind McLaren teammate Alain Prost of France, escaped injury but badly damaged the right side of his car when he slammed into the wall at the end of the fast straightaway that goes past the pits.

Formula One rookie Martin Brundle of England, driving a Tyrrell, was not as fortunate. The youngster, who finished second in the attrition-marred Detroit race, suffered a fractured left ankle in one of those one-car tangles with the concrete barriers that line most of the circuit.

Another first-year Grand Prix driver, Ayrton Senna da Silva of Brazil, was fifth in the provisional qualifying at 1:38.255 (88.812, 142.929).

Mansell said the track temperature rose "at least 30 degrees" between the morning practice and the start of qualifying. And he said the temperature in the cockpit of his car was "at least 140 degrees; probably more."

Weibring, Chin tied For Western Open Lead

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — D.A. Weibring, who said he came to this event "with only one thing in mind — winning," rolled in a 25-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole and tied T.C. Chen for the second-round lead Friday in the $400,000 Western Open Golf Tournament.

Weibring, whose only previous victory in an eight-year PGA Tour career came five seasons ago, had a 3-under-par 69 in the mild, windy weather and completed two trips over the Butler National Golf Club course in 137.

Chen, a tour sophomore from Taiwan, matched the best round in the tournament with a 67 and shared the top spot at seven under par at the halfway point.

Australian Greg Norman, a winner last week in Canada and currently the hottest player in the game, birdied his last two holes after, he said, "playing rubbish for 14 holes," and salvaged a 70 that left him at 138, one stroke off the lead.

He was tied with Danny Edwards, one of the first-round leaders, who registered seven birdies on the way to a 71 that also included two balls in the water.

George Burns, with a 68, and Scott Hoch, with a 70, were another stroke back at 139.

Tom Watson, a five-time British Open champion and this year's leading money-winner, used a closing burst to produce a 69 that tied him at 140 with Dave Ogryn. Ogryn had a 71 on a course that Watson said "played a good two or three shots harder in the wind."

Loren Roberts, who shared the first-round lead, went 10 shots higher to a 77 and was at 144. Defending title-holder Mark McCumber was 71-142. PGA champion Hal Sutton slipped to a 75 and was at 144, while Masters title-holder Ben Crenshaw was 70-145.

Weibring credited his leading position with a four-day program he underwent last week in Eugene, Ore., "the same thing that Peter went through."

His close friend, Peter Jacobsen, won the Colonial National Invitation Tournament two months ago and said at the time that the program, which emphasizes the mental aspects of golf and physical relaxation, was largely responsible.

"I did the same thing," Weibring

Niekro five hits Expos in 8-2 Houston victory

MONTRAL (AP) — Harry Spillman's bases-loaded single keyed a four-run eighth inning and Joe Niekro tossed a five-hitter for his seventh straight victory as the Astros defeated the Montreal Expos 8-2 in the first game of a twilight double-header Friday night.

Niekro, who struck out three batters and walked one in completing his third game, yielded single runs in the fourth and fifth innings.

Singles by Pete Rose, Gary Carter and Tim Lincecum produced a run in the fourth, and Doug Flynn tripled leading off the inning. The 23-year-old right-hander is now within one victory of tying the Mets all-time record of eight straight wins for a pitcher, set by Tom Seaver in 1975. It was Darling's second career shutout, both this year, and third career complete game.

Jeff Russell, 4-9, was the loser, also allowed four hits before being lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. He struck out six and walked three.

Brooks' home run, on the first pitch, barely cleared the right-field wall just inside the foul pole. His previous season high was five homers in 1983.

Dave Parker and Cesar Cedeno, who had singled in the second and sixth innings respectively, were thrown out trying to steal by Mets' catcher Mike Fitzgerald.

Cincinnati's lone threat was in the fifth inning when right fielder Darryl Strawberry misplayed Wayne Krenchicki's leadoff fly ball into a triple. Darling then retired the next three batters, Ron Oester, Brad Gulden and Russell all on called third strikes.

delivered an RBI single in the fifth. Rogers, who has lost seven of his last eight decisions, served up a solo home run to Cruz, his fourth, with two out in the fourth inning.

Mets 1, Reds 0
NEW YORK (A) — Ron Darling pitched a four-hit shutout and Hubie Brooks hit his 10th homer of the season in the sixth inning as the New York Mets blanked the Cincinnati Reds 1-0 in the first game of a doubleheader.

Darling, 10-3, struck out six, walked two and hit a batter in winning his seventh straight decision.

National League

With Houston ahead 4-2 in the eighth, Denny Walling doubled and Jose Cruz's fly fell in for a second double, with Walling taking third. Jerry Mumphy was walked to load the bases. Spillman's single scored two runs and brought on reliever Gary Lucas in favor of starter Steve Rogers, 3-8.

Walling then punched a two-run single to left field, giving the Astros a 3-2 lead.

Niekro made it 4-2 in the seventh with a one-out suicide squeeze bunt on a 2-2 pitch that scored Terry Puhl from third base. Puhl had
