How's that? Geepers

Q. I heard the word "cheeper" the other day, but couldn't figure out what it was. Do you know what they were talking about?

A. A cheeper is a baby grouse, quail or partridge. The origin of the name is unknown but probably refers to the noises made by the chicks.

Calendar: Gun Club

- The Potton House is open from 2 to 5 p.m.
- The Western Sportsmen Gun Club will host a Big Bore Pistol Silhouette Match nine miles west of Big Spring on the Andrews Highway.
- MONDAY
- Big Spring Amateur Radio Club will have a regular meeting at the club on S. Highway 87 at 7 p.m.
- The Howard County chapter of the NAACP will meet at 7 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce conference room.
- TUESDAY
- Overeaters Anonymous will meet at 7 p.m. at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Tops on TV: Quo Vadis

Moderator Bill Buckley leads up to discuss the future of the Democratic Party on "Firing Line" at 1 p.m. on channel 5. For the less intellectually inclined, "Eighteen Weapons of Kung Fu" airs on channel 8 at 6 p.m.

At the movies: Bachelor Party

Tom Hanks stars in "Bachelor Party" at the Cinema. Also at the cinema is "Rhinestone" starring Dolly Parton and Sylvester Stallone. Bill Murray and Dan Aykroyd star in "Ghostbusters" at the Ritz. Also at the Ritz is "Cannonball Run II", starring Burt Reynolds.

Outside: Hot

Temperatures will soar into the 100s this afternoon as a high pressure dome settles over West Texas. Next week promises to remain very warm, with highs near 100 and lows in the mid to upper 70s. Winds will be light from the Southwest.

Off the wall: Ps and Qs

EAST WINDSOR, N.J. (AP) — Pre-schoolers at a summer camp here are learning manners and morals from a former counselor for runaways who says he wants them to know the difference between right and wrong.

Kevin Mahoney said Friday that each of the past two summers he has taught 24 children, ages 3 and 4, in the camp. "It can change their lives," said the 24-year-old Allentown resident, who recently graduated from Trenton State College.

Mahoney started the eight-week camp at the suggestion of the East Windsor Recreation Department, but the curriculum is his own.

Mahoney said he learned while working with juvenile runaways in New Orleans and Ewing Township that children need lessons in etiquette and morals. "That lack causes them problems in school and in life."

Coahoma's King won't trash contract

By LUIS RIOS
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — Mayor Pat Harrison told the City Council and about 20 residents here Saturday that cutbacks in personnel would be the last alternative considered as a remedy to an already ailing city financial situation.

The special afternoon meeting resembled more an old-fashioned town meeting as Mrs. Harrison asked both council members and residents for solutions to the controversial trash collection problem and financial dilemma facing the city.

Harrison announced last week the city of Coahoma was over $100,000 in debt and said the situation called for "drastic action."

The meeting, which lasted over two hours, saw council members and residents alike offer advice to the problems now plaguing the city.

Gerald King, who contracts with the city for trash collection, was scheduled to appear and cancel his contract with the city. However, Mrs. Harrison said he had changed his mind about canceling the contract.

However, despite King's absence, the council discussed his contract in great length.

"He told me he wanted a raise," Mrs. Harrison said. "He did not say how much of a raise he wanted."

King is scheduled to appear before the council at the next meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. and present figures to argue his case, she said.

"We are not that bad off," Mrs. Harrison said concerning the city's

State: no nukes for Garza

Authority drops option to buy land

Staff and wire reports

The Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority says it no longer is considering a potential disposal site near Kalgary in Garza County.

"Our technical requirements cannot be met at the Garza site and we feel it prudent to withdraw that site from consideration," said John Simak, chairman of the authority's board of directors.

The authority had signed an option to buy land in Garza County for the waste dump.

Representatives of the state agency have visited Borden County in search of a suitable site. The authority also has said it continues to consider Howard and Mitchell counties as possible locations for the nuclear dump.

Simak said Friday that initial data indicated the possible existence of deep clays at the site. However, tests revealed sand at a depth of about 40 feet.

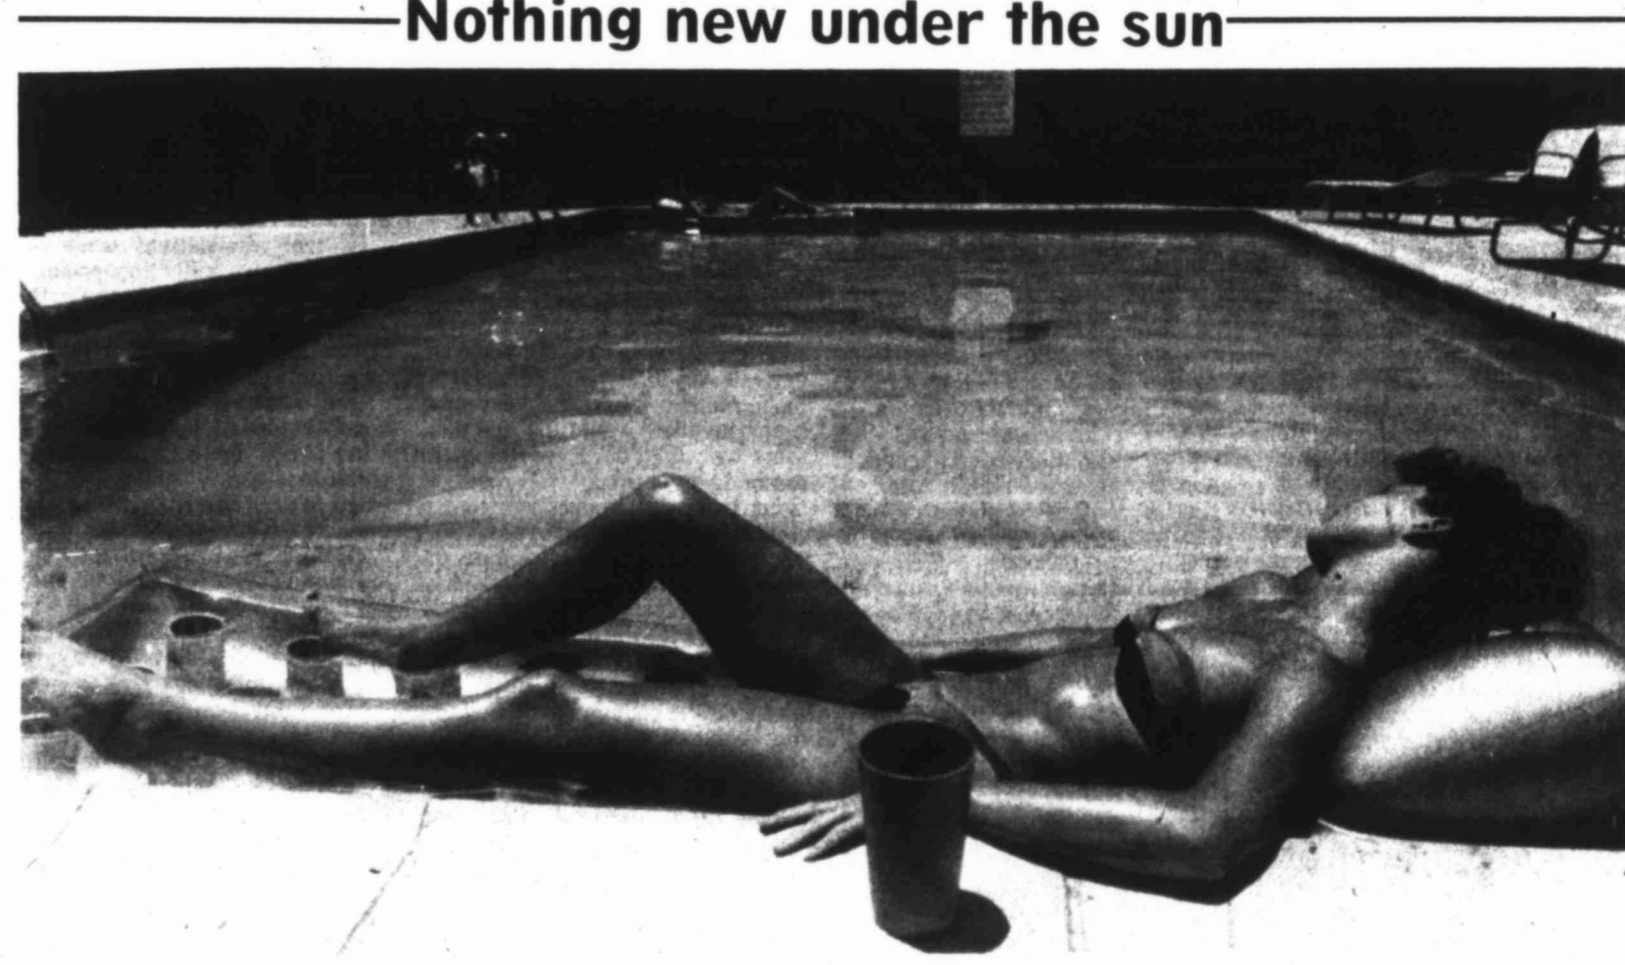

State Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, said the authority "has assured me all along that if the site didn't meet the technical requirements, they would walk away from it."

Simak said the Garza County site was the fifth tract examined in detail by the authority and four of them have failed to meet technical requirements. He said the fifth potential site is in Dimmit County, three miles south of Asherton.

The authority was continuing its search for other suitable sites, Simak said.

The state says it needs a site in a sparsely populated area to dispose of low-level nuclear waste, such as uniforms, equipment and other materials exposed to radiation.

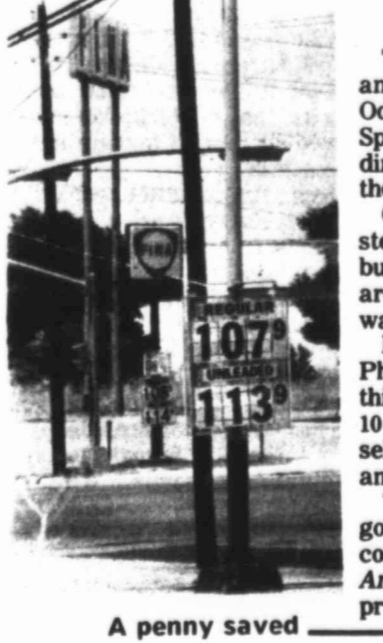

A subcommittee of the Legislature, which included State Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring, met during the special session to debate whether the authority adhering to the guidelines instituted with the agency's creation.

Gas wars

Permian petro prices plummet, but not here

A penny saved

From staff and wire reports

The rumored gas price war among service station owners in Odessa has not filtered into Big Spring and probably won't, according to service station operators in the city.

Gasoline prices have dropped steadily in Odessa in recent weeks, but operators of service stations aren't agreed on whether a price war is on.

Fred Phillips, owner of Fred Phillips Texaco in Odessa, clearly thinks so. He's had to cut prices by 10 cents in recent weeks, and now sells regular gas for $1.02 a gallon and unleaded gas for $1.06 a gallon.

"There's definitely a price war going on. I'm sitting here below cost," Phillips told the Odessa American. He's had to cut his prices to keep up with competitors, he lamented.

"The last three weeks it's been dropping a penny or so a week," Phillips said. "The bigger guys are starting it. ... They're selling it cheaper than we can buy it."

However, according to an employee for the Dominguez Brothers Texaco in Big Spring, prices at their pumps have remained fairly stable for the past month.

He also pointed out that his station is a full service operation and gas is approximately 10 cents higher than self-service stations.

"Our prices have remained pretty stable for the past month," said Wayne De Vore of De Vore's Exxon station. "I really don't think the prices will go down here, or I hope they don't."

De Vore said that a station could not stay in business if it continued to sell gas too cheaply. He said the most time a station could sell below cost is for "about a month."

"I don't think you will see major brand companies in Odessa stay that low very long," he said. "A guy came through here this morning and said gas in Dallas was 95.9 cents a gallon."

Larry Hensley, an Odessa distributor for Gulf Oil products, agreed that prices have dropped some, but said gasoline is selling now for just about what it was at the beginning of the year. Hensley said his buying price has dropped "2 or 3 cents in the last 60 days."

Another Odessa distributor, Don Wood, operations manager for Wood Oil Distributing Co., expressed doubt that any dealers are having to sell below cost, even with the

The ABCs of new state school reform bill

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Now that the Texas Legislature has finally sewn together a school reform package, the Texas school boards and administrators are beginning to unravel the new mandates to see what needs to be done by when.

Many of the changes will begin in the coming school year or within the next few years.

In penning a new school finance plan, lawmakers took from the rich districts and gave to the poor. The financial formulas will take effect this coming school year, with some extra money poured in to wean wealthy districts over the next three years.

"I think the majority of concerns being expressed by many superintendents is what effect the second and third year will have on local taxes," said Charles Matthews, executive director of the Texas Association of School Administrators.

"In many cases where school districts are receiving less state aid than last year or minimal increases, there will be tax increases required to pass on the new minimum salaries" for teachers, said Johnny Veselka, Matthew's assistant director.

In other changes, school officials also must look ahead to the smaller class sizes and 4-year-old prekindergarten program which will take effect in the 1985-86 school year. Waivers can be sought by the districts. The 4-year-old program is voluntary for the parents.

"You'd have to develop plans now to have any reasonable chance for additional facilities for 1985-86. That will be difficult," Matthews said.

Texas Association of School Boards spokeswoman Karen Bailey said it will be harder for school boards to draw their budgets this summer since the money will be packaged so differently.

"How much of what you have been raising will be used for some of these new programs? Can you reprioritize? It's hard to make those decisions in six weeks," she said.

The 1985-86 school year will be

Out on a limb for a life
 BOSTON — Mayor Raymond L. Flynn, perched 85 feet above the Chelsea River in a firefighters' bucket, talked a despondent man down from a bridge by assuring the man that he "had every reason to live."
 Flynn had been visiting emergency medical technicians at Boston City Hall early Thursday when he heard a call about a man on a bridge. He followed a city ambulance to the bridge and offered to help, witnesses said.
 "Flynn went right up there. He never even looked back," an unidentified emergency medical technician told The Boston Herald. "He didn't know who was up there, and it was very dark and you couldn't see anything. They talked for a while up there, then they came down," the medic said.
 "The mayor told him that he wasn't going to be harmed by anyone and reassured him that he would get help," said James Jordan, a spokesman for Flynn. "They talked about 10 minutes."

 DALLAS — Eleven-year-old Ladonna Jones will get her wish to see the Jacksons perform at Texas Stadium even though her efforts to earn enough money for tickets fell short.
 The sixth-grader wrote singing star Michael Jackson last week to tell him she was disappointed that despite her hard work to save $30, she still couldn't attend one of the concerts because tickets had to be purchased in blocks of four, at a cost of $120.
 But in a news conference Thursday in Kansas City, where the group's Victory Tour was to begin Friday night, Jackson mentioned the girl's name and predicament and said he had asked promoters to work out a new way to distribute tickets.

 NEW YORK — Celebrated actress Lillian Gish says she's glad she never married, thinks the world of Brooke Shields and rarely watches television.
 "I worked 12 hours a day, seven days a week. Now, what kind of wife would I have made?" the 84-year-old star said in an interview with Family Weekly magazine. "I'm glad I never ruined the lives of all those dear men who would have given me their names."
 Miss Gish, whose 102nd film, "Hambone and Hillie," is due for release this summer, says she would advise young actresses to be like Brooke Shields "because she looks like herself. You can't fool the camera."

4 killed, 130 injured in train derailment

WILLISTON, Vt. (AP) — An Amtrak passenger train with 278 people aboard derailed while crossing a washed-out culvert Saturday, tumbling cars into a streambed, killing at least four people, injuring more than 130 and trapping passengers in a crushed sleeping car.
 Workers using a crane and blowtorches rescued at least five people from the crushed car, but an undetermined number remained trapped inside more than 12 hours after the accident. Rescuers used stethoscopes against the side of the sleeping car to detect movement within, but they said there were no signs of life.
 Nine cars of the 13-car Montrealer jumped the weakened track around 7 a.m., officials said. Three cars were mangled as they piled into each other after plummeting down a 30-foot gully in northwestern Vermont.
 Three people were pronounced dead at the scene, said state police Sgt. Nick Ruggiero. A fourth person died at the Medical Center Hospital of Vermont in nearby Burlington.
 The death toll was expected to go higher once rescue workers were able to open up the crushed car at the bottom of a three-car pile-up.
 "Bodies were just falling every which way. People were screaming for help," said passenger Frank Coles of New York City.
 One worker who was able to crawl close to the bottom mangled car said he spotted several bodies. Witnesses said they saw at least two bodies taken to a baggage car, which was being used as a temporary morgue.
 A crane was brought in by late afternoon to try to free the crushed car and allow rescue workers to get inside. The plan was to use the crane to lift two cars from the crushed car, making it possible to reach the passengers, authorities said. The operation was expected to take several hours.
 "They've accounted for most of the people," said state police Lt. Truman Way.
 Helicopters and buses were used to ferry out the dead and most seriously injured from the remote, hilly, muddy site. An estimated 300 rescue workers, including 150 National Guardsmen, removed the passengers, many on stretchers, after passing them through train windows.
 "I have never seen anything like this," said Gov. Richard Snelling, coordinating the rescue effort at the scene.

China names new ministers

PEKING (AP) — China's legislature announced three new ministerial appointments Saturday without explanation, indicating a possible shakeup in the government.
 The National People's Congress approved Rui Xingwen as minister of urban and rural construction and environmental protection, the official news agency Xinhua reported. The post was formerly held by Li Ximing.
 Qian Yongchang replaced Li Qing as communications minister, and Yang Taifang replaced Wen Minsheng as posts and telecommunications minister.
 Xinhua described Rui as a 58-year-old former vice minister of the State Planning Commission, with extensive experience in plant engineering and management. Qian, 51, was formerly a vice minister of communications, and Yang 57, formerly ran a telecommunications plant and held several posts in the Telecommunications Ministry.
 All three new ministers were nominated by Premier Zhao Ziyang, Xinhua said.
 The agency did not mention the names or new positions of the outgoing ministers, indicating that they have been unceremoniously demoted.

Pope condemns S. Africa

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II on Saturday called for independence for South-West Africa, or Namibia, and condemned South Africa's racial policies, terming them "a grave violation of the rights of the human person."
 The pope, who met South African Prime Minister Pieter W. Botha in Vatican City last month, said he "earnestly hopes" South Africa will change the system of apartheid.
 Speaking in English, John Paul expressed the hope "that a population so sorely tried and whose right to be treated without discrimination is systematically flouted may be spared further painful and tragic experiences."
 He made the statement in a Vatican audience for Joseph N. Garba, president of the Special U.N. Committee against Apartheid.

 Scotland Yard held four men believed involved in the attempt to snatch self-exiled millionaire Umaru Dikko and freight him back to Nigeria, where he tops the military's government's list of those wanted for purported corruption.
Punjab security tightened
 NEW DELHI — President Zail Singh, a Sikh, extended by three months an order declaring Punjab state and the city of Chandigarh "disturbed areas."
 The order empowers security forces to shoot suspected terrorists on sight, destroy hideouts and arms dumps and search vehicles and houses without warrants.
 Security measures were tightened at all of India's major airports following Thursday's hijacking of an A-300 airbus shortly after takeoff from Srinagar, the capital of Kashmir state.

 MANILA — The army has launched the largest military offensive against leftist guerrillas since rebel activity began in the mountains of the northern Philippines.
 Among the military's targets is a fugitive Roman Catholic priest, wanted dead or alive, with a price on his head.
 The operation, which reportedly began two weeks ago, is aimed at more than 600 New People's Army guerrillas on the border between Kalinga and Mountain province, in the Cordillera Mountains about 185 miles north of Manila.

 BEIRUT — Relatives of civil war hostages blocked the only open crossing between Beirut's Moslem and Christian sectors with burning car tires Saturday in a renewed campaign to force militia groups to release all their prisoners.

Sad verdict is in on cotton in '84

The waiting and wishing is over. Spring has not brought the life-giving rains for area fields. Cotton will not make this year for dryland farmers.

For the farmers, the impact is devastating. Their very way of life is at risk. For the general public, there is empathy for the farmers' plight. For all of us, there is the economic loss to the farmers and the community.

In checking records from 1900 to 1979, this spring reports in as the driest we've ever had. To date, we've received 1.77 inches. In the span from 1900-1979, only 1952 comes close to that mark. In the first six months of 1952, we recorded 1.88 inches. In 1933, the total was 2.25 inches; in 1917, it was 2.87 inches; 1962 brought 2.95 inches.

According to officials, replenishing rains — if they do come — will not salvage this year's cotton crop. The year is too far along: we have passed the point of no return. It's a terrible loss.

Not for El Salvador

In the days before Gen. Jaruzelski crushed the movement for Polish freedom with his decree of martial law, some Poles managed to get out and make their way to the United States. Would it be humane to send them back, ignoring the likely consequences? Obviously not. So we don't. Five thousand Poles have been granted refuge here until matters back home improve, under a status known as extended voluntary departure.

The Poles are not the first to benefit from this policy. In the past, this status has been granted to migrants from a variety of nations — Chile, Laos, Iran, Nicaragua. Right now, Lebanese Poles, Afghans, Ethiopians and Ugandans are allowed to stay temporarily. Given the dangerous conditions in their homelands, we would be cruel to send them back, possibly to die.

But President Reagan has made a conspicuous exception to this humanitarian approach. He won't acknowledge that the dangers faced by Salvadorans are as great as those faced by Poles — never mind that some 30,000 noncombatants have been killed in El Salvador since 1979. The administration is deporting about 500 Salvadorans a month.

Amnesty International calls this policy "an unconscionable endangerment of their basic human rights to life and security of the person as protected in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights." Congress agrees. In the State Department appropriation for 1984 and 1985, it urged that Salvadorans be given a temporary haven. The administration paid no mind. Now both chambers are considering a bill to suspend the deportation of Salvadorans, whose numbers in the U.S. are estimated at between 300,000 and 500,000.

In light of the carnage going on in El Salvador, much of it financed by American tax dollars, that's about the least we can do. The change would not allow Salvadorans to acquire citizenship, to stay permanently or to collect welfare benefits. It would merely let them stay and work until life back home returns to some facsimile of peace.

The administration opposes the bill for several reasons. The first is that it would encourage more illegal immigration to the U.S. from El Salvador. But temporary refuge is bound to be considerably less of a lure than the permanent legal status granted to millions of illegal immigrants in the administration support.

The second objection is that Salvadorans have always come to the U.S. in large numbers, purely for economic reasons, not out of fear for their lives. But it's anyone's guess which impulse is dominant these days. In the past, notes the ACLU, refuge has been granted "to an endangered national, regardless of the original reason for the individual's entry into the U.S." Poles and Ugandans may also be "economic migrants," but that doesn't minimize the risk they would face back home.

The administration's third argument is that any Salvadoran who would be truly endangered by deportation can get political asylum. Maybe, and maybe not. Barely 3 percent of the Salvadoran applicants get asylum, compared with 25 percent for Nicaraguans — even though El Salvador is much more dangerous than Nicaragua.

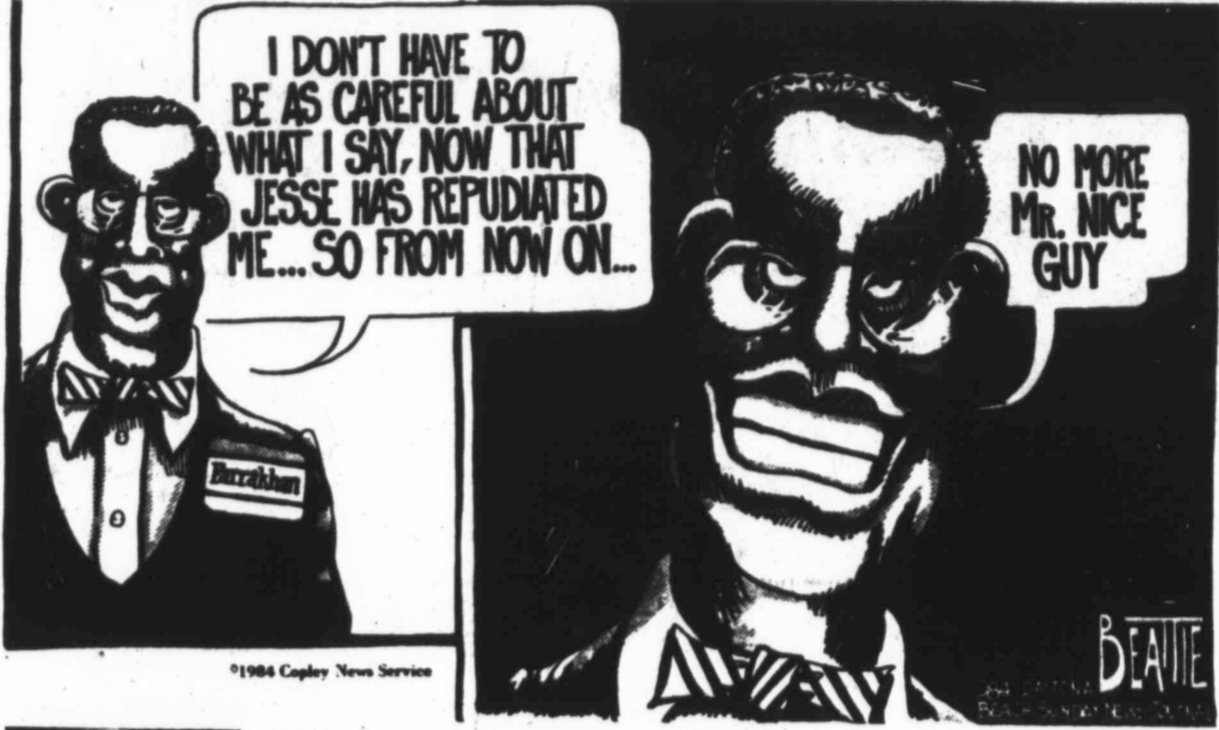

Anyway, the point is irrelevant. Political asylum is different from temporary refuge. It is permanent, it is for people who reasonably fear being singled out for persecution for political reasons and it leads to citizenship. It also has stricter eligibility standards. By its nature, political asylum applies to only a few people.

In the case of a large number of immigrants, all of whom have only a general reason to fear returning home, a blanket, temporary reprieve is the only approach that makes sense. Reagan doesn't insist on deporting all Poles or Ugandans or Lebanese who can't qualify for asylum. Why single out one nationality?

The administration has no good answer. Its real motivation may be that letting Salvadorans stay here temporarily would make the government of El Salvador, a U.S. ally, look bad. It might also make it harder to justify the aid we provide.

But granting a temporary haven to refugees shouldn't be merely one more way to express disapproval of our enemies. It ought to be no more and no less than what it has been in the past — a concession to humane principles. If the administration can uphold those principles for other peoples, it can do so for Salvadorans.

Tough courts won't curb crime

"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized."

—The Fourth Amendment

Before we applaud the tough stance of the Supreme Court in its recent decisions, we should remember that "innocent until proven guilty" means exactly what it says, and that the Lenell Geters of the world are living proof mistakes can make nightmares of innocent people's lives.

In less than a month, the court has ruled:

- that evidence obtained in violation of a suspect's Miranda warning rights can be admitted as evidence if police can prove they eventually would have found the evidence legally.

- that the Miranda warning can be ignored if a trial judge determines that "public safety" would have been jeopardized if police didn't bypass Miranda for expediency in questioning.

- that illegally obtained evidence may be admitted in a trial as long as the mistakes made in getting the evidence are the fault of a "detached and neutral" magistrate and not the police.

In Thursday's ruling, the court decided that when judges make mistakes that lead police to violate a person's Fourth Amendment rights — a faulty search warrant in this case — the exclusionary rule generally should not come into play. Specifically, the court decided evidence seized by police using a defective search warrant may be used at trial.

The exclusionary rule, created by the Supreme Court in 1914, was fashioned to curb law enforcement excesses. It restricts the use of evidence obtained illegally.

The court's reasoning was that since the "neutral" magistrate made the mistake, "there is no police illegality and thus nothing to deter (by use of the exclusionary rule)."

Writing for the 6-3 majority, Justice Byron White cited "substantial social costs exacted by the exclusionary rule." He said "...an objectionable collateral consequence of this interference with the criminal justice system's truth-finding function is that some guilty defendants may go free or receive reduced sentences."

If Judge White is inclined to conclude that the rule might unfortunately protect the guilty, then by extension he must also concede that the absence of the rule could injure the innocent. While I'm as inclined toward anger as anyone about criminals who seemingly get off on "technicalities," I find abhorrent the implication that America can tolerate false imprisonment for any "larger good."

In a dissenting opinion to Thursday's decision, Justice William Brennan concludes that the court has found "the costs of adhering to the exclusionary rule ... exceed the 'benefits.'" But, he wrote, "the language of deterrence and of cost-benefit analysis, if used indiscriminately, can have a narcotic effect." This is the end-justify-the-means approach to criminal justice.

"At bottom," Brennan reasons, "the court's decision turns on the proposition that the exclusionary rule is merely a judicially created remedy designed to safeguard Fourth Amendment rights generally through its deterrent effect, rather than a personal constitutional right."

He concludes: "... When the public ... demands that those in government increase their efforts to combat crime, it is all too easy for those government officials to seek expedient solutions. There is hope, however, that in time this or some later court will restore these precious freedoms to their rightful place as a primary protection for our citizens against overreaching officialdom."

Public rage that accompanies grotesque acts of violence is completely understandable. I feel it, too. But to assume that sacrificing constitutional guarantees in the pursuit of convictions will serve to deter crime — which a majority of the court believes it will — is fallacious.

First, the exclusionary rule is a factor in only a tiny number of criminal trials. And, it is by definition related to law enforcement activities occurring after a criminal has done his deed. As such, the court's ruling cannot be a deterrent to criminals because criminals have no way of knowing how police are going to handle the case.

If law enforcement does its job properly, the criminal has no "out" under the exclusionary rule; whether the work is done properly or not, the crime cannot be undone. Certainly, no get-tough tact in the courts could curb a Henry Lee Lucas in his random acts of violence.

If we're willing to whisk away the minor details of proper conduct in evidentiary procedure, we ultimately sweep aside the essence of justice. At the risk of sounding paranoid, I worry that some Orwellian court of the future might hold that a defendant's refusal to take the witness stand is tantamount to an admission of guilt; that a wife should be required to testify against her husband just like any other witness should; that an innocent witness to a crime is a guilty accomplice because, "well, he shouldn't have been there in the first place."

My imagination runs. I hope it is only imagination and not premonition.

Cocaine trap snares society

To the editor:

I am not so naive as to believe that the recent unfoldings in the Abilene drug trial are representative of Big Spring alone. It probably demonstrates the extent of this problem across the country.

I do not wish to reflect on the issues or outcome of the trial, but want to deal with the real issue, the cocaine marketplace. I assume all the people involved could afford a clean transaction by pulling the money out of their hip pockets and paying. My experiences over the last year have shown me that not all people can.

From first-hand knowledge, I know of two people imprisoned during the last year, not for cocaine usage but because they could no longer afford clean transactions. Their usage increased to the point that they could not support their habit and began to steal.

Merchants were knocking at my door trying to get their hot checks cleared. At first I tried to help, thinking they were in legitimate financial difficulties. When the truth came out, these individuals left several merchants holding thousands of dollars in checks and no telling how many persons robbed, including myself. They were imprisoned for hot checks and robbery, not cocaine usage.

I am sure our criminal justice people felt they had apprehended two devious marauders. I can only remember two highly skilled, hard-working and contributing individuals who became victims of the cocaine marketplace.

You and I pay, the non-cocaine users in our community. We pay with our tax dollars, our losses due to theft, and our tears. Those who can pay for their drugs should realize that their support of this cocaine marketplace does nothing but create and contribute to criminal activity, not only in the act itself but in the delinquency created by those who cannot pay.

Our children deserve our continued support of projects and law enforcement efforts to curtail and stamp out this market. It is for these reasons that I wish to publicly applaud the FBI and local law enforcement officials for all their efforts. Their efforts paid off in our community by helping to make us aware.

We can only hope that new disclosures and trials will be forthcoming. Also we can hope that our district attorney Rick Hamby, through our public awareness and outcry, will begin to see the cocaine marketplace as a criminal matter — and not a moral one.

White on a lucky roll

AUSTIN — Maybe on his way to California next week for the National Democratic Convention, Gov. Mark White should stop by Las Vegas with a couple of million dollars from the state treasury. With his luck, he could win enough revenue to finance state government for the next 10 years.

In order to imagine the magnitude of luck that White has enjoyed recently, think of watching a movie about an ambitious politician who campaigns successfully for governor by promising higher teacher salaries and no new taxes.

In an early scene, the new governor broods as the state's economic outlook darkens, teacher salaries as low as ever and the Legislature refuses to even consider his proposal for a small tax increase to hike those salaries.

Faded to a scene of the governor going on television with ads to pressure key legislators into supporting his proposal. He flies into key members' districts to lobby their constituents to pressure them. Everything fails.

In the next scene, the House speaker says something about how there ought to be a blue-ribbon committee to look at educational needs. In desperation, the governor grabs the idea. Then he surprises everyone by naming as chairman a controversial billionaire known for rescuing people from crazy foreign governments.

For a little humor, you have the billionaire starting a personal crusade for education, stirring up the lethargic school system bureaucracy and antagonizing coaches and proud parents across the state by claiming that education is more important than a football championship.

Suddenly, almost without explanation, the legislators start jumping on the bandwagon. The House speaker sees the light and promises to help pass a tax bill to fund educational reforms.

But there is no consensus on what taxes to raise and some lawmakers are nervous about doing anything controversial during an election year. Nevertheless, the governor gambles and calls a special legislative session.

By the end of the movie, utility bills are still up, teacher salaries have been increased but not nearly as much as promised and the legislature of the imaginary state has just passed the biggest tax bill in history.

In the closing scene, we see the smiling governor waving to the cheering crowds in the Capitol gallery as a television reporter in a live telecast tells everyone that the governor "is the big winner" in the tax session.

Just try selling that script to a producer. No one would believe it. Yet, that's exactly what has happened in Texas.

Gov. White's incredible luck and sense of timing have struck again. Most governors would consider themselves lucky if they came out of a tax session without tar and feathers.

White emerged with added prestige and, again with perfect timing, carries it with him to the Democratic convention in San Francisco next week. Although he's still only a long, long shot for the vice presidential spot, his victory in the 1984 special session keeps his name in circulation and gives him a greater voice in the party's circles of power.

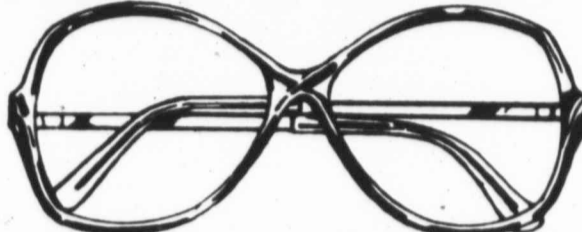

House Speaker Gib Lewis, who suffered a severe image problem in his first 17 months in office, also came out a winner this summer. Previously, his frequent foot-in-the-mouth comments, sputtering leadership abilities and blindness to ethics problems brought dismay to his friends and chuckles to his.

This time Lewis showed he had learned something through his painful early period. He made his views clear on education reform and taxes and applied the pressure to convince House members to follow his lead.

Some members complained that too much raw power was used, that too many arms were twisted, and that the resulting anger will hurt Lewis later. But this view overlooks the fact that a speaker wins more power through fear than friendship.

Textbook panel draws fire for excluding 15 witnesses

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas textbook selection process, usually a controversial event, has drawn criticism before its start this year from a witness who said he has been unfairly barred from testifying.

Education Commissioner Raymon Bynum has notified about 15 people that their requests to testify had been denied because they were not specific enough. In a Thursday letter to Michael Hudson, state coordinator for People for the American Way, Bynum said: "Your request to testify at the hearing that was received did not specify the subject area nor the particular books about which testimony will be presented. ... Your request to speak at the hearing will be denied."

The hearings begin Monday. Hudson's request to speak said he would testify about "books in the areas of elementary science, introductory biology, biology I and biology II."

Hudson, a leading critic of Texas textbook selection procedures, said Bynum's "11th hour notice" is "the ultimate abuse of government power."

Acupuncture: Won't hurt to try it

NEEDLE NOSE — Phu Vinh Bui sticks his patient.

PARIS, Texas (AP) — Henry Davis said he's had back problems for years. He blames his latest pain on a donkey basketball game he took part in a year or so ago at North Lamar High School. It was just too much.

Unless you've suffered from back problems, it's doubtful you can imagine what the pain is like. Being "down in the back" is not as simple as it sounds. The pain is agonizing, and more often than not it's prolonged.

Last year, Davis underwent surgery on his fifth lumbar vertebra in a Dallas hospital. But back pain seldom goes away so simply. Even after the operation, he said pain continued, particularly along the sciatic nerve in his left leg.

"(The doctor) said it would probably eventually get all right."

But Davis isn't waiting.

Phu Vinh Bui arrived from Vietnam about five months ago. He now lives in a small frame house on 3rd Street SE with several of his relatives. He's one of the Boat People who risked storms, pirates and government patrols to escape the communist regime of his own country.

When Phu was 11, he was injured while taking lessons in one of the martial arts. In Vietnam, he said through an interpreter, there are few doctors. For help he went to an old Buddhist priest trained in acupuncture. It worked.

Phu lived with the priest for 14 years, he said, learning the art of acupuncture and eventually helping others. Now, Davis said, Phu is helping him.

"Even though it's a different custom ... it won't hurt to try it," Davis said. "Fact is I even talked to my doctor over in Dallas after I had done it a while ... He said it's not uncommon. He said lots of people have taken acupuncture."

"I'll tell you this: Those needles can be in my leg, and 10 minutes after they've been in there, my leg feels like the other leg."

Q.: I am selling my home which is situated on a fairly good size piece of property. I've been told that I must have the property resurveyed before closing. Why is this necessary?

A.: When a surveyor "recertifies" your property, he goes over the property to make sure everything is the same as when originally surveyed. This is important because if there has been a change in the buildings on the property, those changes will be reflected in the survey, and such a change could mean a violation of local zoning laws, or something unfavorable to the property which was not unfavorable before. The survey should also reveal easements and encroachments that public records do not reflect.

Low-income mortgage plan begins

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Housing Agency says it has $210 million to help low and moderate income first time homebuyers.

The agency said Friday it has issued $238.8 million of mortgage revenue bonds of which about $210 million will be available for 12 1/4 percent 30-year fixed rate mortgages.

Nearly 200 lenders in 48 cities have received allocations, the agency said.

Those lenders will begin accepting applications from the public on a first come, first served basis on Monday July 23.

About $42 million will be set aside for loans which must be reserved for one year for use in target areas designated by the federal and state governments.

Nightclubs sued for DWI death

BEAUMONT (AP) — Two men injured when a drunk driver struck their car in a head-on collision which killed a fourth man have sued two nightclubs, saying their employees let an intoxicated customer drive home.

Randy Lee Ryan and Walter McElroy filed the federal suit in Beaumont this week, claiming the clubs' workers should have realized 22-year-old Charles Joseph Miller Jr. was drunk when he left Nov. 25, 1982.

The two are seeking $6.5 million from the clubs.

Miller was convicted of involuntary manslaughter last year in the wreck which killed 31-year-old Hermie Smith of Silsbee. Miller, who was driving down the wrong side of a freeway when the wreck occurred, was given a 10-year probation sentence plus a $2,000 fine.

The suit names Copperfield's and Get Down Brown's Club as defendants.

Stanton '49ers hold reunion

STANTON — The 1949 graduating class of Stanton High School will hold a reunion July 14th to coincide with Martin County's Centennial Celebration and Old Settlers Reunion. The class reunion, the first in the 35 years since graduation, will take place at the Bellvue

Church of Christ beginning at 10:30 a.m. Class members living in Big Spring include Laverne Gross Morris, Betty Blissard Bain, Martha Fuqua Cummings and JoAnne Jones Forrest. For further information, call Mrs. Forrest at 267-6286.

Budget tops county agenda

Howard County commissioners will discuss next year's budget when they meet Monday at 9 a.m. at the county courthouse. In addition to their 1984-85 budget workshop, commissioners will approve amendments to the 1983-84 budget. In other business, commissioners will:

- Debate a policy for placing pipelines, utility lines and communications lines within the right-of-way or crossing county roads.

- Hear reports from the county treasurer and justices of the peace Lewis Heflin and Bobby West.
- Discuss AT&T Informations Systems with Travisid Crow.
- Hear Commissioner Louis Brown's report on a county park.

Water deliveries down

The amount of water delivered to area cities in June was reduced by a little less than 5 percent because of showers in the Midland-Odessa area, according to figures from the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The amount of water delivered to Big Spring was up from a year ago, while deliveries to Stanton were down, figures from CRMWD show.

The water district delivered 1.765 billion gallons of water to clients this June, down 4.75 percent from last year's total deliveries in June.

More than 1.636 billion gallons of water went to cities in June, down 1.21 percent from last year's figures for the month.

Oilfield deliveries also were down, by 34.55 percent, to 128 million gallons of water, caused mostly by a decision to cut-off deliveries of surface supplies to the companies as a conservation measure.

Big Spring received about 325.3 million gallons of water this June, up 2.75 percent from last year. Stanton received about 11.9 million gallons, down 4.33 percent, figures show.

Other cities and the amount they received in June this year are: Odessa, 738.8 million gallons, down 6.57 from a year ago; Midland, 395.6 million gallons, down 3.63 percent; and Snyder, 148.3 million gallons, up 25.8 percent.

Nursing school scheduled

The Howard College School of Vocational Nursing is now accepting applications for the next class, which will begin in August. This class, limited to 36 students, is a 12-month course, including 681 classroom hours and 1,120 hours of clinical experience.

Prospective applicants should call the LVN office at 267-6311, ext. 280, for an appointment.

The Howard College School of Vocational Nursing is accredited by the State Board of Vocational Nurse Examiners and approved by the Texas Education Agency and the Veteran's Administration. All hospitals affiliated with the school of vocational nursing are accredited hospitals, including Cowper, Hall-Bennett, and Malone-Hogan hospitals.

MC registration begins Monday

MIDLAND — Registration for Midland College's second summer session will be from 2-4 p.m. and 6-8 p.m. Monday in the Physical Education Building.

Classes for both daytime and evening courses start Tuesday, July 10, and continue Monday through Thursday until August 14.

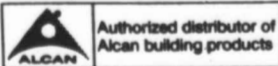

Among the courses being offered during the second summer session are: art, biology, typing, word processing, business law, accounting, chemistry, data processing, economics, English, French, geology, government, history, math, algebra, trigonometry, calculus, voice, aerobic dance, physical conditioning, tennis, first aid, physics, psychology, real estate, speech, sociology and Spanish.

Olympic hoopsters ready to test pros

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — U.S. Olympic basketball Coach Bobby Knight said Saturday that he still has not selected his starting lineup...

"I've already said I don't have them (picked)," Knight told persistent reporters during a Saturday afternoon press conference at the University of Iowa's Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

Assistant Olympic basketball Coach George Raveling, who is the head basketball coach at Iowa, confirmed that Knight had not yet made up his mind about starters by Saturday.

While Knight's starting team has been an ongoing topic of speculation, the National Basketball Association team grabbed headlines Friday when it was revealed that several of the stars reported to be playing for the pro team were not coming to Iowa City.

Alaska's combat fishing

ON THE RUSSIAN RIVER, Alaska (AP) — If you're seeking quiet solitude or a real Alaskan wilderness experience at the confluence of the Russian and Kenai rivers, you've come to the wrong place.

This is the annual red salmon run — 24 hours a day of craziness in hip waders, shoulder-to-shoulder sockeye slaughter. Some call it Combat Fishing.

On each side, others continued to cast, lobbing their flies underneath the hopeless snarl. A fish looking for a little excitement nailed a fly low in the hole and zipped upstream, darting between legs and hauling lines with it.

"It's a meat market down there," said Dixon Sherman, a U.S. Forest Service recreation technician. "I fish for fun, and that's not even fun."

"There's too many people. You just stand shoulder-to-shoulder to fish — and it's not even bad today," said Anchorage painting contractor Chuck Reichenbach as he waded out of the river.

On a recent night six fishermen — two on one bank, four on the other — tangled their lines for the umpteenth time, creating a bird's nest of monofilament and flies dangling about three feet above the current.

Indians and cowboys

Currying favor in a North Dallas suburb

RICHARDSON (AP) — Just as he would do in New Delhi, Calcutta or Bombay, market manager Iqbal Patel carefully weighed and bargained for baskets of leeks and doodhi brought in by a family from the countryside.

He needed the fresh vegetables, including the squash-like doodhi, to stock his depleted shelves before the daily rush of Indian shoppers arrived.

But this small market is not located along a crowded street in a city of India. Instead it is in the shadow of busy North Central Expressway, where a handful of Indian stores have opened, catering to the steady influx of Indians moving to Richardson.

"It is a limited market here, but here is much demand now for Indian products," said Patel, manager of Tajmahal Imports at Richardson Heights Shopping Plaza. "There was a time when a store like this could not have existed here, and now we have a store."

Patel says about 200 Indian families live in Richardson. Other Indian merchants say that of the 5,000 Indians living in the Dallas and Fort Worth area, more than 3,000 live in the northern Dallas suburbs. Most have moved into the area during the past five years.

Indicative of the growing Indian community in the area is the arrival last week of Satya Devji, an Indian guru who came to the United States to visit with Indians in Richardson and neighboring suburbs.

The small Indian community is much less visible than the Chinese community in Richardson, where scores of Chinese businesses have changed the face of Greenville Avenue. But like the Chinese, members of the Indian community say they are attracted to suburbs such as Richardson because of the availability of engineering and high-tech jobs and good schools.

In India, religious factionalism has divided the country and spurred renewed violence. In Richardson, that strife is not apparent.

"I think maybe it has something to do with us being a minority," said Raj Sharma, 41, a Richardson resident and part owner of an Indian clothing store across the street from the Indian market. "When we are outside (of India), we are like one family."

Prompted by the growing numbers of Indians arriving in Richardson, Sharma and his cousin, Rita Sharma, in December opened what they say is the only store that sells nothing but saris, the brightly colored clothing worn by many Indian women. Most of their customers are Indians, although the "Priya Sarees" store sign outside also attracts an occasional Westerner.

"There was a time when it was very difficult to find products from India," said Sharma, who also owns a video store in North Dallas. "The businesses now fit the demand."

The demand by Indians for Indian products is not limited to Richardson. There are two Indian groceries in Mesquite, two in Garland and others in Irving, Arlington and Fort Worth, said Patel, who lives in Garland.

TEXAS INDIANS — Rita Sharma dresses mannequins at the saree shop she operates in Richardson.

Of the 5,000 Indians living in the Metroplex, 3,000 make their home in Richardson.

BRIDLED PASSION — Jackie Crisp straddles a 26-inch miniature horse at the ranch he manages near Whitesboro.

Tiny horses mount hurdle to saddle state's respect

WHITESBORO, Texas (AP) — Bigger isn't always better. Just ask the folks at the NFC Miniature Horse Farm just southeast of here. They figure any horse more than 34 inches tall is too big. And that ain't a very big mount, pardner.

Miniature horses are gaining popularity, according to manager-trainer Jackie Crisp, and the goal of NFC is to be the top farm in the country with the smallest horses.

Boasting 161 miniature horses on the 154-acre farm, Crisp said he thinks the farm is well on its way to being number one. To back up that claim, he has a room full of trophies and ribbons from shows around the country.

Crisp, with some help from his sons, runs the NFC Farm, which is owned by Bob and Sandy Erwin of Dallas. Erwin is the president of National Family Care (NFC) of Dallas.

In order to reach the goal of having the smallest horses, Crisp said they have purchased several of the tiny critters in the past few months.

One of the most recent acquisitions is a 26½-inch horse named Lil' Hustler. Crisp said he purchased the 10-year-old miniature horse for $20,000 from a farm in Virginia for breeding purposes. "Smaller horses have more value," he said, and he hopes Lil' Hustler will father smaller horses.

Crisp said he and Lil' Hustler flew in a passenger airliner from Virginia to Texas — the horse traveling below with the freight in a 34-inch tall crate. Anything less than 34 inches tall is allowed to travel on an airliner.

Since last December, Crisp said nearly $400,000 has been spent in pursuit of the goal of being the top miniature horse breeder. Not only have they bought horses, but they've remodeled the barn, which includes miniature stalls for the horses, an office and showroom and facilities for visiting horsemen.

Crisp runs the farm with the help of his children, especially his three sons, Jackie, 14; James, 13, and Jarrett, 6. They help with the horses and participate in the shows.

"The horses are small and easy to handle and they have a good temperament so the younger kids can work with them," Crisp said. His 5-year-old daughter, Jennifer, recently won three trophies at a horse show with one of the undersized equines.

Jarrett, the youngest of the boys, isn't much taller than the horses, but he handles them easily, Crisp said, and he's not afraid of them.

"I like making money," the 6-year-old said, grinning, "but I don't like to work."

Crisp said the maximum height for a miniature horse is 34 inches and there are only about 6,000 of them registered in the United States. The mini-horses are measured from the last hair on the mane to the ground.

Fewer than 300 of this country's miniature horses are less than 30 inches tall and 17 of them are at NFC Farm, Crisp said.

"They're smart little horses," Crisp said. "They can sit and walk on their hind legs on command."

And there are advantages to owning the miniature animals, said Crisp.

'Bluebonnet King' Carroll Abbott dies

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — Carroll Abbott, known as "The King of Bluebonnets," has died of cancer in Kerrville, where he devoted the last years of his life to the preservation of Texas wildflowers that had captured his fancy as a youth.

A former newspaperman and political consultant, Abbott retired in 1970 and began a long study of the state's wildflowers. He eventually became an unpaid lobbyist for more than 5,000 species of Texas wildflowers — including the bluebonnet.

Services for Abbott, who died Thursday at the age of 57, are scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday at Kerrville Funeral Home.

A Kerrville resident for 29 years, Abbott was born Dec. 6, 1926, in Texarkana. He was a botanist and operated a Kerrville nursery.

During his career, Abbott worked for the Houston Post and Houston Press. He also owned and operated the Comfort News, was a former Kerrville Daily Times editor and formerly was associated with radio station KERV. He attended the University of Southern California and worked for the Los Angeles Express newspaper.

Abbott also worked as a publicist for campaigns of John Connally and John F. Kennedy. He was in charge of a banquet in Austin for President Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963 — an event that never was held. Kennedy was assassinated earlier that day in Dallas.

Abbott once said he remembered the first wildflower he saw "in the days when little boys didn't express an interest in things like wildflowers."

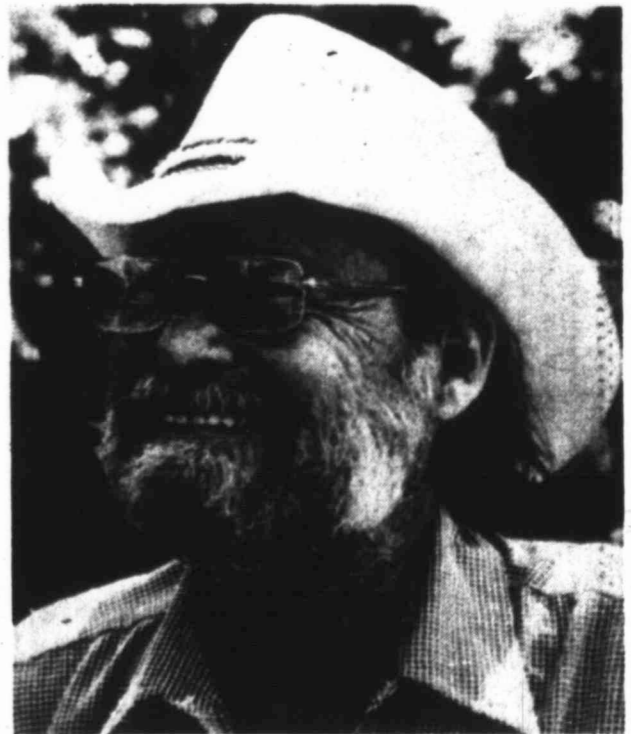

He kept notes on the best places to see wildflowers when he was traveling on political business. He decided to spend his time on the wildflower trail in 1970 and immerse himself in the lore and study of native Texas plants.

Abbott gathered seeds, roots, and cuttings on the property of cooperative ranchers and farmers. He sold them through a mail order business and began writing the Texas Wildflower Newsletter.

"I'm flat broke but awfully seedy," he once said. "The first three years in wildflowers I made less than I made in a month when I was in politics. During our first year my pickup truck was repossessed one night," he said.

Abbott later was in demand as a speaker on the subject of Texas wildflowers.

Abbott is survived by his wife, Pat, a daughter, three sons and his mother.

Joy to the World

By JOY CULWELL
C-City Correspondent

Jill Lowe, only daughter of Bea and Pint Richards, has moved back to Colorado City and brought with her a husband Rich, two children, Teri, 11, and Joni, 9½, a dog, Dinki, two hamsters and numerous and sundry plants in various stages of life. They left a producing garden in Camp Wood to make the move home.

Jill is an elementary school teacher who believes that the word MOVE is four letters and should be avoided at all costs. The move did need to be made, though; so move she did. One thing Jill knows for sure is that if a marriage can survive a move in summertime heat into a smaller house, it can survive anything. Any other trauma known to man (or woman) pales in comparison.

I agreed with my long-time friend Jill all the way. I was genuinely sympathetic. You see, I have done my share of moving. I heard one woman mutter under her breath one day that if anybody else mentioned moving to her that she would die right there on the spot.

I had lived comfortably in our home in Anson for 21 wonderful years when my husband walked in and said "Guess what?" I said, "What?" and my heart fell when I heard him say we were being transferred to Colorado City.

Well, after I was revived, I rallied and started making plans to move our accumulation to a new location. I knew our garage closet had to be cleaned out, so I said to my lover, "Darling, we have to agree to throw some things away."

In that place we both had stored many of our treasures and a lot of junk. Well, what it boiled down to was that I agreed to throw his stuff away and he agreed to throw away mine. We started the job relatively calm and ended up in a shouting match. He had the audacity to suggest that I throw away my fruit jars and I wanted to know why on earth he was keeping a muffer off a '50 model Mercury. He intimated that I kept too much junk and I said that anybody who kept their World War II uniform hanging in the closet ready to go needed mental help. If that war had started over, he couldn't have worn that suit because, it was too little. Besides, I might want to preserve some food in those fruit jars, if I ever had time.

In spite of all that, we made it to Colorado City 14 years ago and we both love it!

Welcome home, Jill and family. I hope you never have to move again unless you want to.

I hope if I ever have to move again that Kiker-Seale Funeral Home will do it for me.

Jacksons' opener a thriller

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Jacksons' Victory Tour has hit the road with eye-popping special effects and high-energy performances by Michael Jackson and his brothers, opening a 13-city, 37-concert tour hailed by promoters as the largest and most expensive to travel America.

For most of Friday night's 45,000 concert-goers, the Jacksons' tour-opener was a thrill even without the hit "Thriller" and even though it was an hour later and an hour shorter than many expected.

Jackson and brothers Jermaine, Tito, Marlon and Randy hardly missed a beat as they sang, danced and went through several changes of their sparkling costumes. Michael Jackson removed his trademark sequined glove after the first number, but slipped it back on near the show's end.

The production designed by the Jackson brothers dazzled the eye and ear with red and green lasers, explosions, fireworks and even a mechanical spider-like creature crusted with lights. The 159-foot-wide stage, said by promoters to be the largest ever built for an outdoor concert, stretched from the 25-yard line to the end zone.

"I was afraid we wouldn't get our money's worth, but their showmanship, their professionalism ... it was great, astounding," said Irene Doll, 33, of Shawnee, Kan.

"It took a few minutes for the Jacksons' Victory Tour to get rolling ... but once it did there was no stopping it," The Kansas City Times said in a review.

The concert began with a bizarre prologue. As a narrator spoke of a mythical king in a prehistoric land, an actor in gleaming white — later discovered to be brother Randy — pulled a glowing sword from a stone and slew one of several strange beasts. Moments later a small platform carrying all five brothers rose into view at center stage accompanied by sparkling explosions and red and green laser beams.

Style and energy were a great part of the concert in Arrowhead Stadium. Even when Michael seemed to be gasping for breath while trying to sing, dance and jump all at once, fans continued cheering and clapping their hands.

The audience gave its most enthusiastic response when he performed "Beat It" and "Billie Jean," the two No. 1 hits from his album "Thriller," in a dynamic back-to-back sequence.

Jermaine, who has had a successful solo career and currently has an album on the charts, was greeted warmly when he began "Let's Get Serious," one of his two solos.

The group also performed some of their hits from their days as the Jackson 5, including a medley of "I Want You Back," "Stop the Love You Save" and "I'll Be There."

But the night belonged to Michael. Shrieks and screams from the fans as the 25-year-old superstar sang and danced evoked memories of the bobbysoxers' craze over Frank Sinatra in the 1940s and the adulation Elvis Presley and the Beatles once received.

"He's got all the moves, he's got more energy," said Cynthia Cartwright, 42, of Kansas City. "I thought he was gorgeous."

A notable omission from Michael's solo numbers was the title tune of the album "Thriller," which broke all records by selling more than 35 million copies and was translated to an opulent 14-minute music video. Also absent was "PYT (Pretty Young Thing)," another of the album's hits.

Skate, rattle and roll

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Like 60 baby birds with big feet flying in circles, students at Jack and Jill Day Care spend a portion of their Tuesday afternoons roller skating at a local rink.

Many of the young skaters, ages 4 to 8, had never skated until they began making weekly treks to the rink with classmates. After a few times around the floor, they have a handle on their wheels and fly like fearless birds.

They do the usual activities: reversing, partner skating, hokey pokey and limbo. "By watching others, there are enough out there that know how to skate that the others can learn if they watch and try," says a teacher. The children seem to believe if their friend can do it, so can they.

One of the teachers holds the hands of a boy who has not skated before to give him a sense of security. After 30 minutes and several laps around the rink, the boy is skating beside her without holding her hand. He has gained confidence...and balance. Whoops. He fell. He's back to holding one of her hands.

The children on wheels fall and laugh. They get up, try to go as fast as they can, fall and laugh again.

Their older counterparts may skate boy-girl, man-woman during partner skating, but these tikes wouldn't hear of it. They skate boy-boy, girl-girl. They are at that age where "boys are sickening" and "girls are ugly." One girl tries to do ballet on her skates to Michael Jackson's tune "Billy Jean."

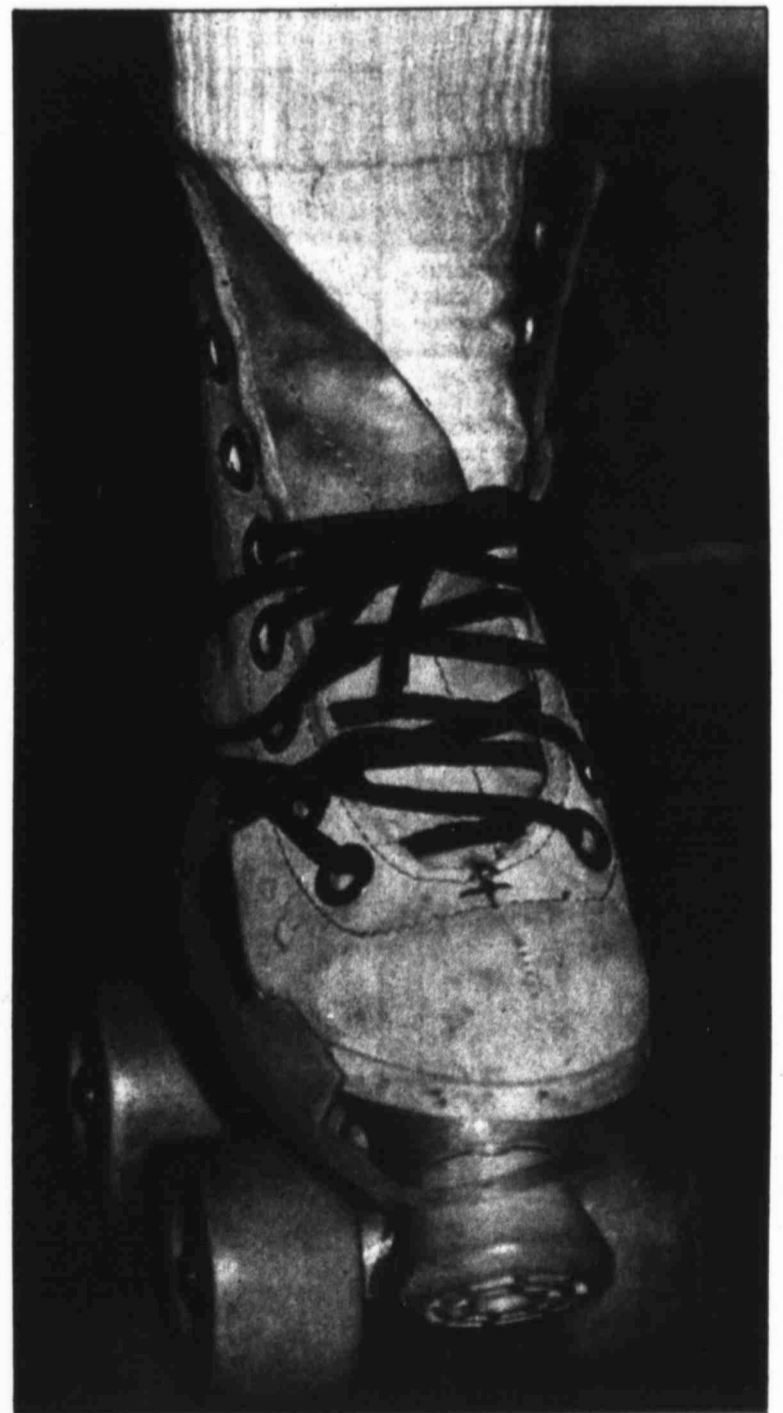

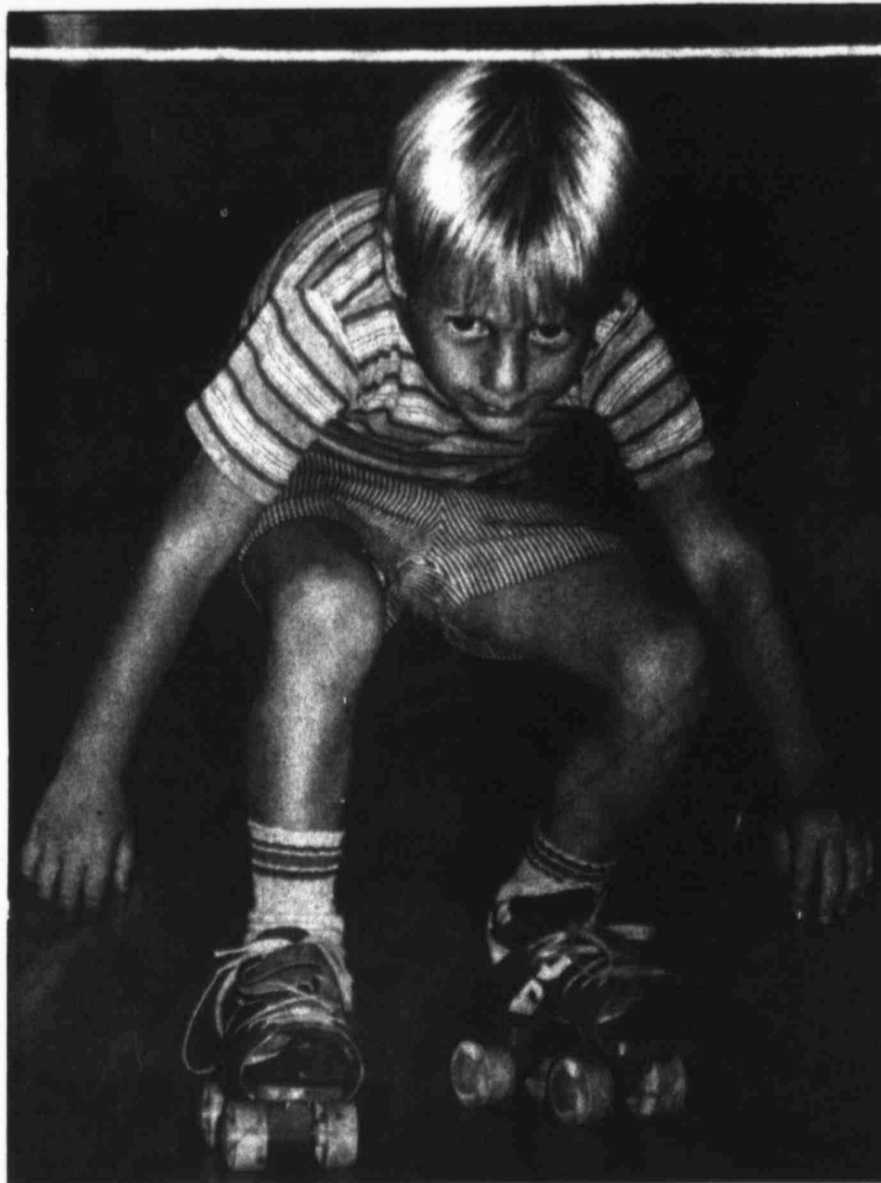

Misty McFerren, 7, enjoys skating backwards and playing it.

"bimbo" (limbo). "It's fun," she says. What she doesn't like is "hitting people" or "pushing people down."

Nine-year-old Kevin Billings, a more advanced skater, enjoys the weekly trips to the skating rink with the group. "It's fun. You get to skate with a lot of your friends and stuff." He enjoys trying the tricks that other kids do. "I've never figured out yet how they do some of

Duvall-Cooper

Green's Gardens in Weatherford was the setting for the Saturday evening wedding ceremony of Pam D. Duvall and Bill C. Cooper. Fay Murphree, Parker County Justice of the Peace, officiated at the ceremony before an altar covered with flowers and greenery. Beside the altar were Boston ferns on stands.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Tschoepe, Weatherford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.G. Cooper, 4007 Dixon.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a candlelight satin gown overlaid with Venice lace. The chapel-length train was accented with a cascade of lace ruffles. She carried a bouquet of blue tiger lilies and ivory roses.

Kellie Rutledge of Weatherford was maid of honor. Bill Price was best man. Ushers were Mike Dunn, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Randy Kehrer of Weatherford, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Parker County Sheriff's Posse Club House. A three-tiered cake was decorated with silk flowers. The table featured an arrangement of fresh flowers.

MR. AND MRS. BILL C. COOPER

The bride graduated from Weatherford High School and attended Weatherford Junior College. She is employed by Reliance Electric in Bedford.

The bridegroom graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Howard College. He is employed by the Texas Department of Public Safety Highway Patrol.

The couple will make its home in Big Spring.

Sawicki-Stanhope

Mary Lee Sawicki and Joe Stanhope were united in marriage during a double wedding ceremony, Saturday morning at Comanche Trail Park. The Rev. Clayton Hicks, senior adult minister at College Baptist Church, officiated at the ceremony.

The couple was wed before a brass arch decorated with blue and white carnations, greenery and ribbons. During the ceremony, Patsy Lynn Brooks and David Lee Tallant also were united in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sawicki, Big Spring. The bridegroom is the son of Vernon Stanhope, 1208 Mesquite.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown featuring a stand-up collar and V-shaped yolk. She carried a cascade of white roses, blue carnations, stephanotis and blue baby's breath.

Ada Hutcherson was maid of honor. Cary White was best man. Billy Hutcherson was ring bearer.

Following the wedding, a reception was held. A two-tiered cake was accented with blue flowers cascading down the sides with champagne glasses on each corner.

The bride attended Big Spring High School. The bridegroom attended Big Spring High School. He is employed by L.P. Gamble Construction of Dallas.

Following a wedding trip to Dallas, the couple will make its home in Arlington.

Brooks-Tallant

Patsy Lynn Brooks became the bride of David Lee Tallant during a double wedding ceremony, Saturday morning at Comanche Trail Park. The Rev. Clayton Hicks, senior adult minister at College Baptist Church, officiated at the ceremony.

The couple was wed before a brass arch decorated with blue and white carnations, greenery and ribbons. During the ceremony, Mary Lee Sawicki and Joe Stanhope also were united in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Rose Brooks, Amarillo, and the late Aubrey Brooks. The bridegroom is the son of Jerry Tallant, Big Spring, and Netti Molton.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle Henry Bobbitt, wore a gown featuring a fitted bodice accented with sequins and pearls. The skirt fell into a cathedral-length train. She also wore a waltz-length veil. She carried a cascade of white roses, blue carnations, stephanotis and blue baby's breath.

Teresa Brooks of Amarillo, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Terry Tallant served his brother as best man. Billy Hutcherson was ring bearer.

Following the wedding, a reception was held. A two-tiered cake was accented with blue flowers cascading down the sides with champagne glasses on each corner.

The bride graduated from Palo Duro High School in Amarillo and Amarillo College. She is employed by Big Spring State Hospital. The bridegroom graduated from Boys Ranch High School in Amarillo. He is employed by Gradskis Loft in Midland.

Following a wedding trip to Dallas, the couple will make its home in Big Spring.

Have you been contemplating a change for your hair during the warmer months? Consider a "body wave". It will give a new look and dimension to your hair as well as adding movement. It does all this without changing the length or general style. A body wave is a permanent chemical process that can last up to four months. Done on large rods, a body wave retexturizes hair. It makes it appear thicker and fuller, without adding curls. If your hair has a single-process color and has no breakage, it can more than likely take on a body wave.

A hairstyle for today's woman on the go should be easily maintained while flattering to the individual. At LA CON-TESA, our staff is experienced in the latest techniques in haircutting and styling. We have seven operators available to service your hair care needs. You will find us conveniently located at 1508 Marcy. We are open to serve you Tues.-Sat. Call us at 267-2187 for an appointment.

Mitchell-Smith

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mitchell, Stanton. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Smith, Stanton.

The couple was wed before an archway covered with greenery and purple daisies. The archway was accented by two candelabras and an unity candle. Greenery, purple daisies and votive candles enhanced the bannisters.

Lori List of Amarillo, vocalist, Bonnie Franklin, pianist, and Debbie Averitt, organist, provided music for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Renaissance-style gown of satin. The fitted bodice was decorated with lace and encrusted with pearls. The skirt fell from the princess waistline into a chapel-length train of Alencon lace. She carried a cascade of white roses, white and purple daisies, and baby's breath.

Natalie Mitchell of Garden City served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Rhonda O'Bannon of Fairfield, Jinjer Dowden of Stanton, Bridget Yater of Stanton, Donna Robbins of Midland, and Raegan Tom of Stanton. Sonja Hopper of Stanton, the bridegroom's niece, was flower girl.

John Smith of Stanton served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Mark Cook, Lance Hopper, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Marty Brooks, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Gib Wheeler and Kevin Shoemaker, all of Stanton. Ushers were Morgan Cox, Randy Kelly, Johnny Pinkerton and Ron Welch, all of Stanton. Candelighters were Reggie Franklin of Stanton and David Wetzel of Goldwaite, cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a

reception was held in the church's Fellowship Hall. A five-tiered cake trimmed with purple daisies and hearts was topped with a boy and girl figurine. A cake featured a fountain. The table was covered with a purple cloth under a lace cloth.

The bridegroom's table, covered with a lace cloth over a purple with black throw. The table was centered with a copperlamp surrounded with flowers and held a copper-colored cake.

The bride graduated from Stanton High School and attended Baylor University in Waco. The bridegroom graduated from Stanton High School. He farms with Smith and Sons.

Following a wedding trip to New Mexico and Colorado, the couple will make its home in Stanton.

Martin-Cota

Susan Martin and Mark J. Cota were united in marriage, June 2, in Weirton, Pa. The Rev. Charles Roach of Weirton, Pa., pastor of St. Catherine of Siena Church, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Patricia Martin and James Martin, both of Pittsburgh, Pa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D.H. Ward, Entiat, Wash., and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cota, Big Spring.

Liza Richards, vocalist, and Florence Kairys, organist, provided music for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a organza gown featuring a Queen Anne neckline and Bishop sleeves. The bodice was embellished with Alencon and Venice lace. The skirt fell from the waistline into a cathedral-length train. The bride wore a veil of silk illusion held by a pearly Alencon lace Victorian hat. She carried a cascading bouquet of pink and white roses.

Mrs. D.J. Turkas of Pittsburgh, Pa., was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Lynn Szymkiewicz of Pittsburgh, Pa., Denise Martin of Pittsburgh, Pa., sister-in-law of the bride, Barbra Snyder of Pittsburgh, Pa., cousin of the bride, JoAnne Cota of Montana, sister of the bridegroom, Diane Barker of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Dona Fleishaker of Kentucky.

Steve Szymkiewicz of Pittsburgh, Pa., was best man. Groomsmen were Jim Martin, brother of the bride, Bill Dempsey, cousin of the bride, Dave Bockman, Rob Barker and Ray Puskaric, all of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The bride graduated from Moon High School in Pittsburgh, Pa., and Edinboro University in Edinboro, Pa. She is employed as a visiting nurse for Mental Health Nursing Services and Home Health Care, Inc.

The bridegroom graduated from Zweinbrucken American High School in West Germany and Eastern Washington University in Cheney, Wash. He is an accountant for Stone and Webster Engineering Corp.

Parham-Fuquay

Susannah Hollingsworth (Holly) Parham became the bride of Ben Russell Fuquay during an afternoon ceremony, July 1, at the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Keith Wiseman, pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Parham Jr., Abilene. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cummings, 1105 Stanford.

The couple wed before an altar decorated with two brass vases filled with spring flowers. Merry Lee Wilson, organist, provided music for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white linen suit. A silk blouse with a high neckline accented the collarless jacket. The suit featured an A-line skirt. The bride carried a bouquet of gardenias and stephanosis.

Kim Hagood of Odessa was maid of honor. Debbie Drake was bridesmaid. Jim Griffin was best man, while Chris Shortes was groomsmen. Ushers were Jim Griffin, Chris Shortes and Ben Parham.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in Garrett Hall. A three-tiered cake over a fountain was surrounded by baby's breath and asparagus fern. Nosegays of fresh flowers adorned the top two layers. The bridegroom's cake was a double ring chocolate cake accented with marzipan fruit.

The bride graduated from Big Spring High School and attended McMurry College in Abilene. The bridegroom graduated from Big Spring High School and Howard College. He attended Texas Christian University in Fort Worth. He is an Air Force dental assistant at Laughlin Air Force Base.

The couple will make their home at Laughlin Air Force Base in Del Rio.

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcements. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS Information on engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published. If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If only grandparents live in our area, please, give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS If a wedding writeup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

Anniversary

The Cecial Allreds

Cecial and Ruby Allred will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, July 15, from 2 to 4 p.m. at 14th and Main St. Church of Christ Fellowship Hall.

Allred, a life-long resident of the Knott Community, was born within two miles of West Knott, to the late John and Effie (Shortes) Allred. Mrs. Allred, formerly Ruby Hughes, was born in Cross Plains to the late Mr. and Mrs. P.O. Hughes.

The Allreds met at the Knott School in 1927, and were married in 1934 at the Big Spring East 4th Baptist Church by Woody Smith.

The Allreds have one daughter, Mrs. Derwood Blagrove. They also have two grandsons and one great-granddaughter.

Allred has served on the Knott School board for several years, the Howard County ASCS board for 14 years, and was bookkeeper for Planters Gin. He is an elder at Ackerly Church of Christ.

The Allreds are active in the field of horses. They are members of the American Association of Sheriff's Poses and Riding Clubs, in which they have held national offices. They also are members of the ## Cotton growers: save bucks and beneficients.

DIPEL® helps protect the high-yielding bottom crop from bollworms. And, because DIPEL leaves beneficients in the field, you reduce the chances of getting locked into a regular-interval spray program. Net result: your overall insecticide costs are likely to be reduced.

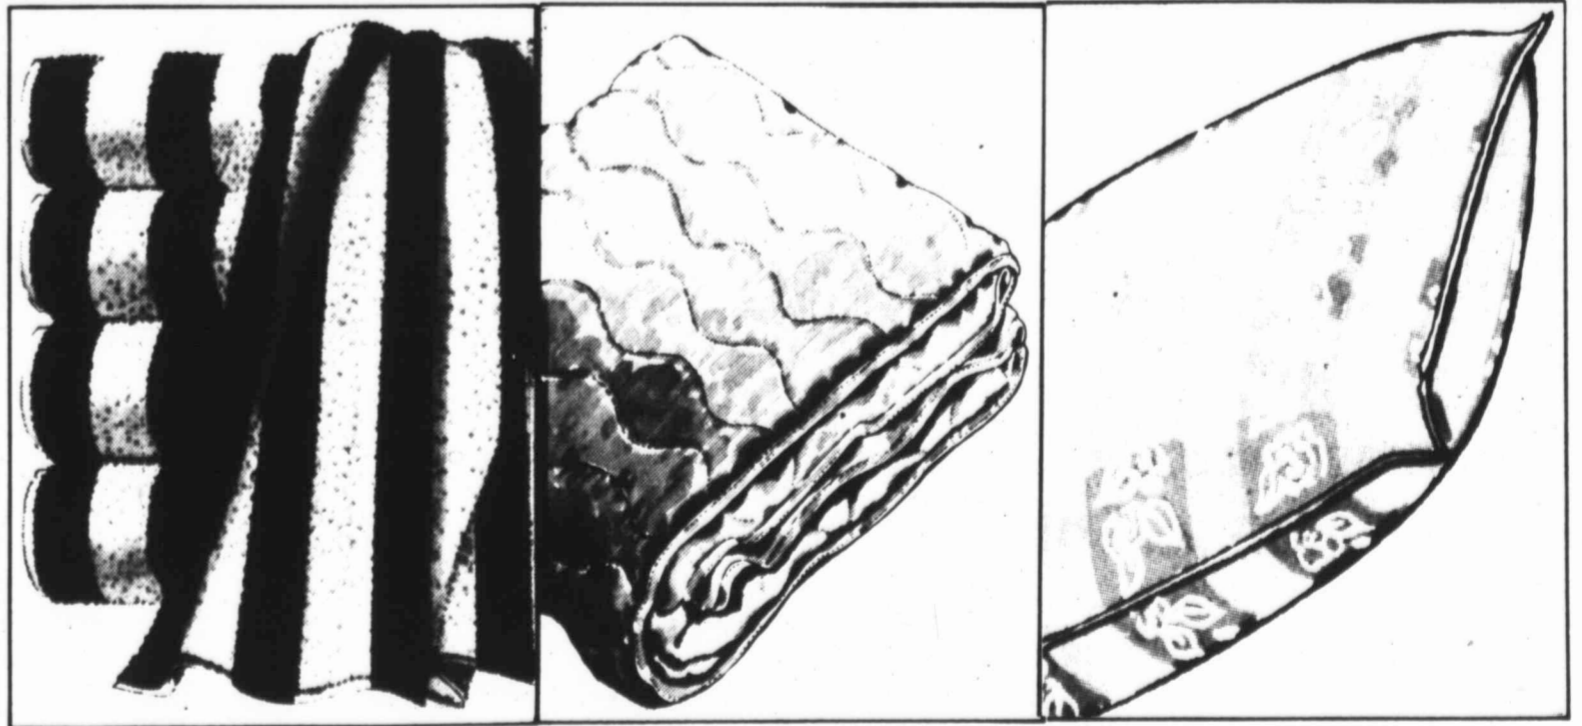

Since DIPEL costs less per acre than most conventional insecticides... and beneficients continue working your fields... bottom-line profits should be greater!

DIPEL is a natural, biological worm killer. One bite of treated foliage and worms stop feeding almost immediately... then die within a few days. DIPEL has not shown worm resistance build-up, won't affect boll maturity, and has not shown harmful affects on man or his environment.

DIPEL 4L is the only microbial insecticide which is registered for use with cotton seed oil. DIPEL may also be tank mixed with ovicides such as chlordimeform or methomyl if significant eggs are present at time of treatment.

Apply DIPEL when the majority of worms are less than ¾" long, and scouting reports show light to moderate (up to 15,000 worms per acre) populations.

This is the year you need to save bucks and beneficients while controlling bollworms. DIPEL does it all!

Dear Abby

Couple leaves tract in place of tip

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I eat out a great deal in many different places, and tipping has always been a problem for us. (Is it necessary to tip someone who is already drawing a salary to wait on you? And if so, how much is sufficient?) Anyway, you might be interested in our solution to this problem.

Several years ago, while the wife and I were waiting for a table in a busy restaurant, we overheard one waitress ask another waitress how she could afford a vacation in Hawaii. "I saved my tips," was the answer.

I told my wife, "We should do that, too." So since then, instead of leaving a tip, we leave a beautiful religious tract. These inspiring spiritual messages are a great force for good, and I'm sure they've had a wondrous effect on the many waitresses we left them for.

We put our "tip" money into a cigar box, and last year we took a trip to Jamaica!

Through this simple solution, we feel that we have made everybody happy. Pass it on.

LOVES TO TRAVEL
IN OAK PARK, ILL.

DEAR LOVES: While inspirational messages may have a "wondrous" effect on some, legal tender may be preferred by those who rely on tips to pay their bills. So before you make any more waitresses "happy" by leaving a religious tract instead of money, consider this:

As of Jan. 1, 1983, federal law requires tipped employees to pay taxes on a minimum of 8 percent of the restaurant's gross sales whether they actually received that much in tips or not.

DEAR ABBY: If a woman married a widower with children, she then becomes the stepmother to his children, right?

What happens if they get divorced and he marries again? Is wife No. 2 still considered the stepmother? Or does wife No. 3 become the stepmother? So what happens to wife No. 2?

CONFUSED IN VERMONT

DEAR CONFUSED: The woman to whom the man is married is the stepmother of his children. If that marriage is dissolve, the stepmother becomes a former stepmother, and the next wife (if there is one) becomes the stepmother.

Gatewood honored at retirement party

A retirement party honoring A. L. Gatewood, director of Rehabilitation Services at the Big Spring State Hospital, was held this week at the Tollett All-Faith Chapel. Gatewood has been at Big Spring State Hospital for 12 years.

Gatewood organized the rehab services department under guidelines of a treatment concept designed by Dr. Preston E. Harrison, longtime superintendent at the hospital. One phase of the program was chosen for publication in the "Source Book of Programs for State Hospitals". It was cited in the publication as an innovative approach by the American Institutes for Research of Palo Alto, California. For this recognition and for other services he received the Big Spring State Hospital Commendation Award in 1978.

Gatewood has attained recognition as a Certified Medical Rehabilitation Director with the Association of Medical Directors and Coordinators. He is currently serving the organization as vice-president. He was chosen for that office on the basis of qualification to advance to the presidency.

The retiring director of rehab services has received bachelor and master degrees from Baylor University in Waco. He has completed post-graduate courses at the University of Texas in sociology with a minor in education. He also attended the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, majoring in Religious Education.

Prior to his employment at Big Spring State Hospital, Gatewood served with the Southern Baptist Conference in pastoral ministries. He also served as administrator for a family services organization in West Texas, and as Superintendent of Missions and Social Ministries in New Orleans, La. During his tenure at Big Spring State Hospital, he has been active in church work, serving as pastor of the Salem Baptist Church. He has also served as moderator for the Big Spring Baptist Association.

As director of rehabilitation services, Gatewood has witnessed much growth and many changes in the hospital program. His greatest delight has always been the challenge in developing patient independence beyond natural expectations, he stated.

"My response has always been motivated by a patient's appreciation for someone who is really interested in the patient as a person," Mr. Gatewood said. "My philosophy through the years has been never to say it cannot be done. I have found that if we cannot do with the little, we will not be able to do with much."

Mr. Gatewood expressed ap-

Vonna Davis honored at luncheon

Vonna Lee Davis was honored June 28 at a going-away luncheon by fellow employees of Malone-Hogan Clinic.

Since coming to work at the clinic in 1972, Mrs. Davis has been a nurse in the surgery, pediatrics and family practice departments. She had been Dr. Hogan's nurse and most recently was nurse for Dr. Brian Caplan.

Mrs. Davis and her husband Lowell are moving to San Angelo where he will be assistant director of the physical plant at Angelo State University.

appreciation for the efficient and dedicated personnel in the department. He credited the registered therapist, the therapist technicians and the secretarial staff as being "an unusual group of fellow workers who place the patients' interest first — exercising professional expertise in ministering to patients' needs". He cherished this working relationship as the most outstanding of his experiences at the hospital.

"Retirement means for me the further utilization of experience," Mr. Gatewood said. "I plan to work as a volunteer in church-sponsored social ministries and institutional programs."

Diet Pill Sweeping U.S.

New Grapefruit 'Super Pill' Gives Fast Weight Loss

No Dieting - Eat All You Want Pill Does All the Work

BEVERLY HILLS, CA. (Special) An amazing new "super" grapefruit pill has recently been developed and perfected that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose at least 10 pounds in 10 days. Best of all, it allows you to "eat as much as you want of your favorite foods and still lose a pound a day or more starting from the very first day until you achieve the ideal weight and figure you desire."

This "super" grapefruit pill is a dramatically improved version of the world famous grapefruit diet. It is far more effective than the original and eliminates "the mess, fuss, and high cost of eating half a fresh grapefruit at every meal."

"Pill Does All the Work"

According to the manufacturer, "the pill itself does all the work while you quickly lose weight with NO starvation "diet menus" to follow, NO calorie counting, NO exercise, and NO hunger pangs." It is 100% safe. You simply take the pill with a glass of water before each meal and the amazing combination of powerful ingredients are so effective they take over and you start losing weight immediately.

Pill Has ALL Daily Vitamins

The powerful and unique combination of ingredients are what make this a "super-pill". It contains highly potent grapefruit concentrate and a diuretic to help eliminate bloat and puffiness. No need to take any vitamins to maintain your good health and energy. The pill is fortified with ALL (100%) of the U.S. Government daily vitamin requirements.

Contains Japanese 'Glucomannan'

Each pill also contains an amazingly effective amount of "glucomannan", the remarkable natural dietary fiber discovery from Japan (used successfully for over 1500 years) that expands in your stomach and gives you a full and satisfied feeling all day long.

The super-pill is already sweeping the country with glowing reports of easy and fast weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Now Available to Public

You can order your supply of these highly successful "super" grapefruit pills (now available directly from the manufacturer by mail order only) by sending $12 for a 14-day supply (or $20 for a 30-day supply, or $35 for a 60-day supply) cash, check, or money order to: Citrus Industries, 9903 Santa Monica Bl., Dept. 842, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard, and Amer. Express OK. (Send card number, expiration date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call toll free 1-(800)-862-6262, ext. 842. © Copyright 1984.
