How's that? License

Q. Do you have to have a job as a commercial driver before you can obtain a commercial drivers' license?

A. N.J. Lucas of the Department of Public Safety, Drivers' License Division, said as of Jan. 1, 1984, there are no more commercial or operators' licenses. Instead, licenses, all good for 4 years at the price of $10, are broken down into Class A, Class B and Class C.

Lucas explained that Class A licenses are for combination vehicles such as 18-wheelers. These were known as commercial licenses.

In order to qualify for a Class A license, a person must undergo testing but is not required to have a commercial driving job at the time they apply for the license.

Class B licenses are for buses with more than 24 passengers or for vehicles weighing more than 2,400 pounds in gross weight. Class C licenses, similar to the old operators' licenses, are for two axle-single vehicles weighing under 2,400 pounds in gross weight or carrying less than 24 people.

County OKs Northside park

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer
Howard County Commissioners Monday approved the creation of the first county park, to be located at N.W. Fourth and Dundee.

The park, proposed by Commissioner Louis Brown, was approved unanimously. The park will include the former YMCA building, which until recently housed the Howard County Boxing Club. Commissioners also are trying to acquire an adjacent vacant lot for use as a softball field and other recreational activities.

"We don't have anything on the northside," said Brown, who represents Precinct 1, which includes the north and west sides of Big Spring.

Brown proposed turning the site into a county park after a ruling from the state attorney general's office declared county financial support of the boxing club to be in violation of Article III of the Texas Constitution.

The boxing club benefited mostly underprivileged minority teens, some of whom were recommended by the juvenile probation department in an effort to keep the boys from becoming delinquents.

The boxing club would be entitled to use the county facilities because members are county residents, Brown said. He was the strongest supporter of the boxing club during the controversy that surrounded its funding.

Under state law, the county can create its own park. Because of the size of the county, which has a population of less than 80,000, the park will be under the direct control of the commissioners' court.

Commissioners are allowed to provide $5,000 a year to the park for operations and maintenance. They also can sell park bonds to provide for work and maintenance in addition to the $5,000. They can allow organizations to bid for the rights to sell concessions at the park, but any fees the county receives from the sale of concession rights must be applied toward park maintenance costs.

Commissioners Paul Allen and Bill Crooker agreed to Brown's request, "if we stay within the (state) guidelines," Allen said.

County Judge Milton Kirby replied, "Of course we'll stay See County page 2-A"

OPEC over a barrel

Oil glut, low prices threaten cartel unity

VIENNA (AP) — OPEC ministers began deliberations today on their pricing and production policies, with financially pressed Nigeria making an early demand for a bigger share of the cartel's market.

An advisory committee of the 13-member organization is recommending no changes in its 17.5 million barrel per day production ceiling and its reference price of $29 per barrel. But Tam David-West, Nigeria's oil minister, said as the meeting began that he would not leave without some concessions for his country.

The ministers adjourned early in the afternoon, and Oil Minister Subroto of Indonesia said they were scheduled to reconvene this evening.

Experts outside the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries say there is no room for increases in prices or production because world demand for oil is slack. The oil glut and the Iran-Iraq war are two major threats to OPEC unity.

Iranian officials have said they would press for a return of the base OPEC price to $34 a barrel, but analysts doubted that quest would succeed in the closed-door meeting.

David-West gave no indication of how big an increase he would seek in his country's quota, but he said: "I must go back to Nigeria with what is best for Nigeria. Everyone is aware of the excruciating economic situation in Nigeria, and Nigeria has the right to bail itself out." The African nation is allotted a production of 1.3 million barrels a day under OPEC plans. The worldwide surplus has hit Nigeria hard, and analysts say the country's financial plight was a major factor in the military coup last New Year's Eve.

Nigeria, Africa's most populous country, is said to owe about $5 billion in short-term trade debts, and negotiations are at a standstill on rescheduling some of that amount.

The military regime has balked at austerity measures suggested by the International Monetary Fund, according to observers at the conference.

David-West said he expected agreement from other oil ministers. "I'm sure our colleagues will allow us to survive," he said.

"I am sympathetic with Nigeria," said Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani of Saudi Arabia, OPEC's biggest producer. But he predicted "no fundamental changes" in current structures.

Kamel Hassan Maghur of Libya said OPEC deserved credit from other producing countries for stabilizing oil prices over the past year. He criticized non-OPEC countries Britain and Norway for producing too much, at OPEC's expense.

"The actions of those countries greatly contributed to destabilize the market and aggravate the situation of oversupply," said Maghur, who is president of the current conference.

The oil ministers agreed 16 months ago to hold their production to 17.5 million barrels a day to stave off a price collapse. At the same time, they staged a tactical retreat, decreeing the first price cut in the organization's 24-year history, from $34 to $29 a barrel.

Bent Tree

Owners offer luxury living, pegged to a premium price

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

With the once-tight housing market loosening, the logical question to ask is how Bent Tree, nestled in the shadow of fashionable Coronado Hills, will succeed in luring renters to one of the most expensive apartments in the city.

Without hesitation, Bent Tree manager Darla Loving will tell you, "It's because there's nothing to match it. If you really enjoy living, I don't think a little more is that important."

Owners of the first major apartment construction here in seven years are confident that luxury amenities will prove their worth, and though they claim not to have targeted any market, the appeal is to "young couples just starting out and single professionals," says George Williford of Lubbock-based Brinkcraft Developers.

Rents range from $425 to $585, with amenities to match. Each unit features a brick fireplace, ceiling fans, a patio or a balcony, a dishwasher, a microwave oven and a utility area for a washer and dryer.

A one-bedroom apartment rents for $425. For $585, Bent Tree offers a two-level, two-bedroom 2½-bath studio apartment. At $525 monthly, the offering a single level two-bedroom apartment.

The units are built without common walls, to help in noise reduction and energy efficiency, according to assistant manager Melody

Wright. While the primary appeal is to the young and upwardly mobile, Williford isn't ruling out anyone. "With the amenities we've got, people whose children have grown and left them or have retired" would also be interested in the complex, he said, because they would be able to "get out from under the overhead and maintenance of a large home."

Actually, Williford contends, "The apartments are not priced where they would preclude any renters except those with very, very low incomes."

Williford said one of the deciding factors for his company in choosing Big Spring for Bent Tree was the length of time since a major new complex was built here. Additionally, the decision to build was made at a time when apartment rentals were scarce.

Bent Tree is made up of eight separate buildings that open onto Courtney Place, a street leading to the heart of the Coronado Hills neighborhood.

A total of 45 of the units are currently ready for occupancy, with completion of the remaining units, as well as the complex's clubhouse and landscaping, set for within 6 weeks, according to Ms. Loving.

"Don't you think Big Spring is ready for a change? (Bent Tree) is something it deserves but hasn't had up to this point," said Ms. Loving.

ROOMS FOR RENT — The city's newest apartment complex, the Bent Tree Apartments, currently has 45 of its 96 units ready for occupancy. The remaining units — as well as the complex's landscaping and clubhouse — should be ready within six weeks.

Delinquent farm loans reach 50%

WASHINGTON (AP) — A little over half of the 30,000 or so Texas farmers who have taken out $1.5 billion in federal loans are behind on their payments, but the federal government doesn't expect to be owning a lot of farms.

The policy of the U.S. Department of Agriculture is "if anybody has a chance of making it, we stay with them," said Merlin Aycock of the Farmers Home Administration, the farmer's lender of last resort.

Most of Texas' total $13.7 billion farm debt is in commercial loans, but in 1983, Texas took out more federal farm loans than any other state — $287 million. Arkansas was second with $151 million. FmHA has a total of about $25 billion loaned nationally.

Texas' 51 percent delinquency rate is fourth highest in the nation, Aycock said. Florida has 61 percent, Georgia 60 percent and Arizona 57 percent.

Aycock said the figures are misleading anyway because any borrower more than 15 days late on payments is categorized as "delinquent." He said the department has no figures on how many are further behind than that.

"We're not unduly concerned" about the delinquency rate, he said.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is concerned about the delinquency rate and has charged See Farms page 2-A

Weather

Dome produces breezes

By the Associated Press

A weak high-pressure dome over the deep South pumped light breezes into Texas today, producing partly cloudy skies and steamy humidity in the eastern half and clear skies and milder temperatures in western sections.

Isolated thundershowers developed along the Gulf coast from Brownsville to southern Louisiana, the National Weather Service said. Greatest rainfall concentrations were near San Antonio Bay, north of Freeport and near Beaumont.

A very heavy thunderstorm also moved south of Sabine Pass, with light rain along the lower coast between Corpus Christi and Brownsville, the weather service said.

Early-morning temperatures ranged from the upper 70s in the Davis Mountains of West Texas to the lower 80s in North Texas, the middle coast and Rio Grande Valley. High, thin clouds covered South and Southeast Texas and the Panhandle. A patch of low cloudiness moved from the Coastal Bend into South Central Texas.

More sunny skies and hot weather were expected, with some thundershowers scattered along the coast. The weather service predicted a mild 88 both in the mountains of the Trans-Pecos and along the upper coast. The rest of the state should swelter in 90 to 100-plus degree heat.

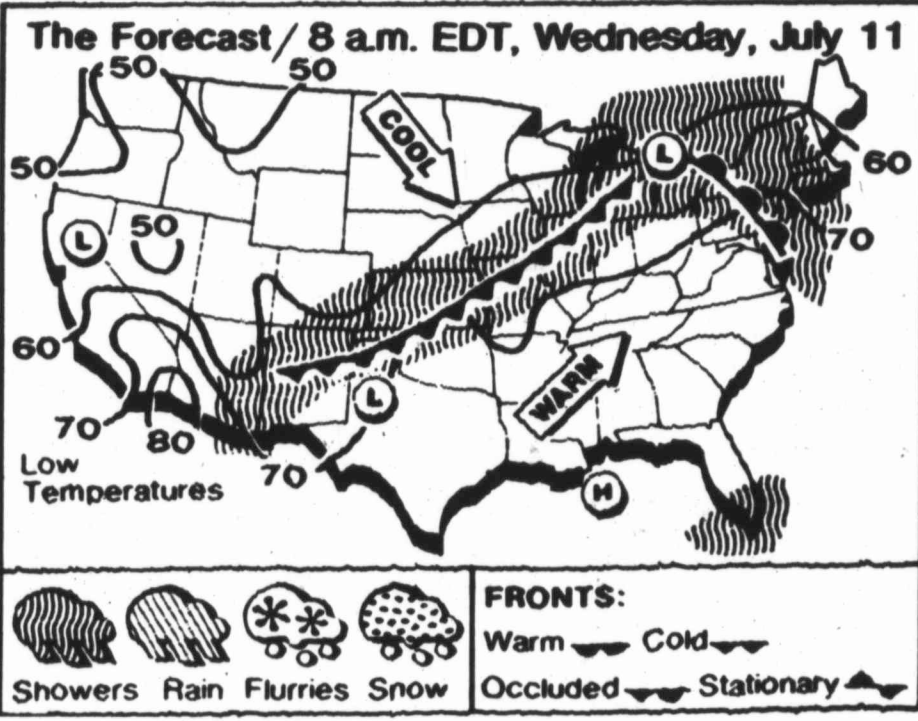

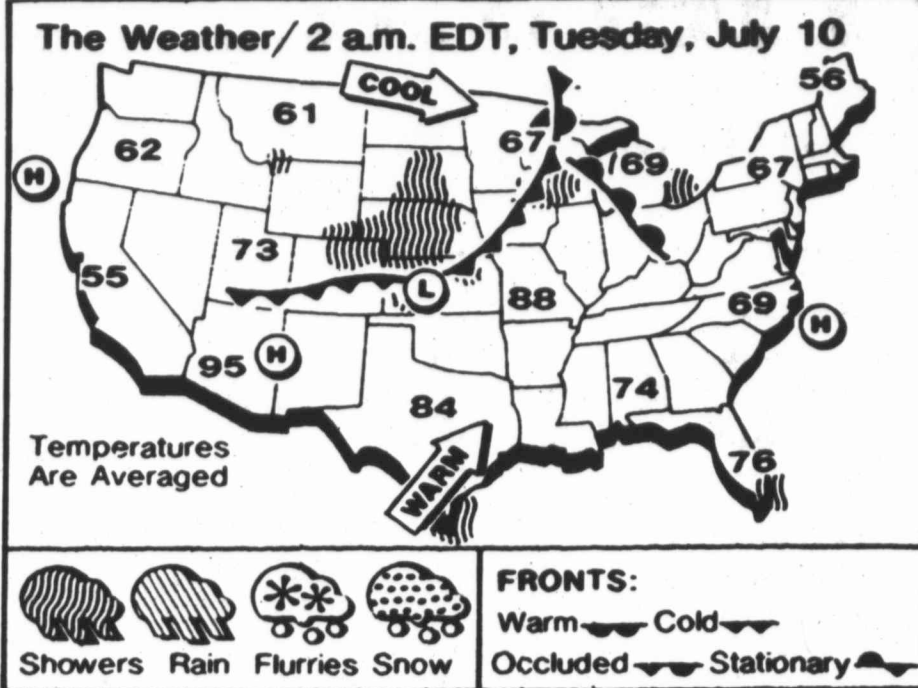

Thunderstorms packing 80-mph winds in northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin drew a bead on states eastward today as another storm ambushed northern Illinois from the Iowa prairie.

Other heavy thunderstorms moved across Nebraska and northwest Kansas. Some areas of Iowa and Wisconsin were subjected to flooding from sudden heavy rainfall.

A tornado touched down in Nebraska on Monday, causing property damage but no injuries. A Minnesota man was electrocuted in the central part of that state when he moved a sailboat that had blown over on a country road and the metal mast hit a power line.

The national forecast for today called for thunderstorms widely scattered from the southern intermountain region, through the southern and central Rockies and the Great Lakes region, to the middle Atlantic Coast.

West Texas — Partly cloudy and very warm to hot afternoons with fair and mild nights. Isolated late afternoon and evening thundershowers mainly Panhandle, Panhandle, south Plains, Permian Basin and far west highs in low to mid 90s and lows near 70. Concho Valley highs in upper 90s and lows in mid 70s. Big Bend highs in lower 90s mountains to near 104 valleys and lows in mid 60s mountains to mid 70s along the Rio Grande.

Burglars strike C-City

COLORADO CITY — The police department here is investigating two burglaries and five different reports of criminal mischief that struck the city over the past two weeks, said Chief Ken Farrow.

Johnny Forbes told police that someone had broken into his house at 9th and Austin and took a rifle, shotgun, a pair of high-powered binoculars, three hunting knives and ammunition on June 30. The burglary occurred between sometime the 30th and 1:45 a.m. July 1, said Farrow.

The second burglary happened at 11th and Chestnut where another break-in occurred between 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. July 8, according to reports. The intruder broke into the house and was rummaging through the victim's purse before he was detected. The suspect was identified as a Hispanic male between the ages of 25-35, having a beard, standing at 5-foot-7 and weighing 150 pounds, according to reports.

A rash of tire slashings have been reported in one area of the city, Farrow said. The slashings happened at 14th and Chestnut and 9th and Cedar, according to reports. Six car tires were slashed at five different locations, Farrow said.

"The burglaries are not related, or not to the best of our knowledge," Farrow said today. "We believe all the tire slashings are related. We do have some suspects in the burglaries and slashings and both are still under investigation."

Petition work begun

City Secretary Tom Ferguson said this morning his office will need 10 days to two weeks to complete the arduous name verification process for a controversial petition that proposes an elected police chief for the city.

The 64-page document, which asks for a charter election on the question, was presented to Ferguson's office July 2 by bail bonds company owners Mary Thomas and Danny Heckler after about two months of circulation throughout the city. Ferguson's office yesterday morning received from County Tax Assessor-Collector Dorothy Moore the complete alphabetical listing of Howard County registered voters that was necessary to begin the verification process, Ferguson said.

An employee in Ferguson's office will work full time checking each of the approximate 1,100 names on the petition to make sure the signatures are from persons who live in one of the city's twelve election precincts, he said.

The petition can then be presented to the city council for certification, he said.

DA secretary resigns

The secretary for the 118th District Attorney's office will resign from her job for personal reasons, effective July 20.

Sharon Johnston, who acts as the secretary for the district attorney, his assistant and the office's investigator, said she needed to spend more time with her children.

She remarried earlier this year, and now has six children.

Mrs. Johnston will have worked for the DA's office for two years this July.

She is being replaced by Sara Mott, a secretary who formerly worked at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp.

Food-pickup date set

People who have been certified for July may pick up food commodities during new hours, 8:15 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday, at the National Guard Armory, Farm Road 700.

Commodities are provided through the West Texas Opportunities Emergency Food Assistance Program. All recipients must have their yellow certification card with them to receive food.

The West Texas Opportunities office in the Ventura Building will be closed Thursday. Commodities will be distributed Thursday only at the Armory.

Police Beat

Camera, case stolen

Joe Tolson of 307 1/2 W. Eighth told police at 1:16 p.m. Monday that someone between Sunday and 1 p.m. Monday entered his residence and stole camera equipment valued at a total of $613, police reports said. Among items stolen were a 35mm camera, a 200mm zoom lens, a camera case and 12 rolls of film, according to reports.

Nick Bernard, manager of the TG&Y five-and-dime in the College Park Shopping Center, told police at 10:45 a.m. Monday that someone between 9 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. Monday broke into an amusement ride located in front of the store and stole 500 quarters valued at $125, police reports said.

Perry Davis, 39, of Odessa was arrested at 11:04 a.m. Monday on Interstate 20 six miles east of Coahoma on suspicion of driving with license suspended, police reports said.

Bob Corley of 214 W. Third told police at 2:37 p.m. Monday that someone sometime between July 3 and July 9 stole four bicycles from the front yard of a 1707 Yale location, police reports said. Total value of the bicycles was set at $370, reports said.

Linda Banks of 120 Airbase told police at 7:01 p.m. Monday that someone sometime between 10 a.m. Thursday and 7 p.m. Monday stole her welfare check, police reports said. The check was made out in the amount of $128, reports said.

Gary O'Neal, 40, of Lubbock was arrested at 10:47 p.m. Monday on Interstate 20 near mile marker 176 by Department of Public Safety Troopers, police reports said. O'Neal was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, driving with license suspended and failure to maintain financial responsibility, according to reports.

Sheriff's Log

Man jailed on order

Howard County sheriff's deputies Monday arrested a 22-year-old Big Spring man on a county court judgment order.

Garrett Dean Burgess of Sterling City Route is sentenced to serve two days in jail on a judgment for possession of less than two ounces of marijuana.

Deputies also arrested Franklin D. Roberts Jr., 20, of Route 1 on a warrant for simple assault. He was released on $1,000 bond set by County Judge Milton Kirby.

Deputies also arrested Dickey Luther, 50, no address listed, at the Tarrant County sheriff's office on a Howard County warrant for revocation of probation on theft. He remains in jail on no bond.

Willie Fitzgerald Watson, 20, of Houston was transferred Monday to the sheriff's office from the Department of Public Safety on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, driving while license suspended and failure to carry liability insurance. He was released on $1,500 bond for the DWI charge, $1,000 bond for the DWLS charge and $500 bond for the no insurance charge.

Richard Hicks, 37, of Coahoma was transferred Monday to the sheriff's office from the police department on suspicion of assault. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Perry Davis, 41, of Odessa also was transferred Monday to the sheriff's office from the DPS on suspicion of DWLS. He was released on $500 bond set by Kirby.

The Christian Broadcasting Network will air live programming from the Middle East today. The segment on Brandi will air at a later date, Mrs. Fortune said.

County

COMMISSIONERS FAILED to take any action on a request from the Heritage Museum to increase its allocation of county funds for 1984-85 to $10,000. Commissioners have tentatively set contributions to the museum for next year at $7,500, the same as the 1983-84 contribution. County funds and equipment also were used to supply some maintenance work on the building housing the museum, including roof repairs, bringing the actual cost of county contributions to about $10,000 last year, according to Allen.

After examining the list of the museum's trustees, which do not include any minorities, Brown said he would not vote in favor of increasing the museum's funds from the county. "He wants to see some Pancho Villas on the board," joked fellow Commissioner David Barr.

Brown said he would "go on record as not favoring the increase," and told County Auditor Jackie Olson, "Before you increase their funds, you come talk to me."

Funds cannot be increased without the approval of a majority of the commissioners' court.

"I went in there once," Brown said. "I saw some brides. I looked at some ropes. I saw some Caylor paintings. I was real thrilled."

A letter from the Heritage Museum director and trustees requested the county match city contributions to the museum's operating and maintenance costs.

The city of Big Spring will contribute $10,000 to the museum's operating budget next year, according to the letter.

Commissioners will meet at 11 a.m. Friday to discuss a request by Co-Exx Pipe officials to issue industrial bonds.

At their next regular meeting, commissioners will discuss requests by county employees for salary increases for the new budget.

Farms

The U.S. Department of Agriculture blames circumstances beyond its control — especially weather — for farmers' economic hardships.

Half of the farmers listed as delinquent are behind in their payments by three years or more, said Heather Ball, a TDA economist, "and that we have from FmHA's own figures."

There are no delinquency or foreclosure figures on commercial loans, she said.

Farmers can only borrow from FmHA if they cannot get a commercial loan.

Although foreclosure is an option, the agency avoids it, Aycock said. Of FmHA's 270,000 loans, 253 have been foreclosed.

"We realize these are unusual times for everybody," Aycock said.

Foreclosure, he said, is "the absolute last resort. There's no merit in that for us, taking the farm. We don't want somebody's farm."

Ms. Ball said 42 Texas farmers were foreclosed on by FmHA during fiscal year 1983. Another 642 were sent "acceleration letters," which means the farmer must pay the full amount of the loan or face possible foreclosure.

FmHA "discontinued" 526 farmers, Ms. Ball said. That meant they sold out voluntarily rather than have a forced sale that would bring them less money.

Of Texas' 254 counties, 161 are currently labeled disaster areas because of a two-year drought. Emergency loans account for about half of the amount Texas farmers have borrowed from FmHA.

The delinquency rate on the emergency loans is 82 percent, according to TDA.

"Throwing more loans at them is not the answer," said Ms. Ball. But Aycock said FmHA assesses a farmer's balance sheet annually, usually at the end of the crop year, and if it appears a farmer will eventually be able to pay, he is carried or refinanced.

FmHA lost 3 percent of its borrowers through voluntary sales or foreclosures last year.

The percentage is expected to be less this year, said Aycock, and "we take that to be an encouraging sign that most of them are going to make it."

Joe tackled on tax run

REDWOOD CITY — San Francisco 49ers quarterback Joe Montana owes $40,000 in back taxes, according to court documents. Montana, who was involved in a bitter divorce suit, has argued in court that his ex-wife, Cass, should pay half the tax bill under their joint filing arrangement. Montana's total tax liability on a 1983 income of $290,400 was $94,300, and he already has paid $54,300 in federal and state income taxes, San Mateo County Superior Court records showed. San Mateo Domestic Relations Commissioner James L. Browning last week ordered Montana to pay the entire tax bill and settle the dispute later with his ex-wife.

ALBANY — Gov. Mario Cuomo, who will deliver the keynote address at the Democratic National Convention later this month, labeled a syndicated columnist "a hater" for a statement about the Italian-American politician in a column.

MARIO CUOMO

Cuomo said Friday that Sobran's remark "appeals to the very worst instinct in our people."

"We have worked for generations to overcome words like kike, wop, guinea, Jap — all those ugly sounds that are used to denigrate ethnic groups," Cuomo told the Albany Times-Union, which published the column locally on Thursday.

Sobran, whose column is distributed through Universal Press Syndicate, could not be located for comment Friday by the newspaper. The Associated Press tried to reach him through the syndicate and The National Review, where he is a senior editor, but phone calls went unanswered.

The remark came in an analysis of the Democratic presidential race and Walter F. Mondale's interviews with possible running mates.

"... He probably shouldn't yield to the feminists who want him to take a woman to be his lawful wedded running mate. He needs a man just to balance the ticket. Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York looks and talks like one of the characters who got gunned down at the end of 'The Godfather,' but under the circumstances that may actually make him an asset," Sobran wrote.

John doesn't pay interest

BEVERLY HILLS — A bronze statue of the late actor John Wayne on horseback, originally painted in lifelike colors to the chagrin of those who commissioned it, now stands before a savings and loan institution.

The statue was shipped from the Italy studio of expatriate sculptor Harry Jackson to Galveston. It was hauled by truck Friday to the offices of Great Western Savings & Loan in this posh suburb of Los Angeles.

Jackson painted the 21-foot, 6-ton work, a Renaissance technique in which he specializes. But the Beverly Hills Architectural Review Board — and Wayne family members — objected, and the paint was stripped, leaving the simple bronze.

Stormie's calm over bills

DALLAS — Stormie Jones, the 7-year-old girl who became the world's first heart-liver transplant patient last Valentine's Day, is getting some help in paying medical bills.

She and her mother, Lois Jones, were presented a check Friday for $3,689 from the Irving-based ShowBiz Pizza Place chain, which sponsored a "Stormie Month" to raise funds. Medical bills for the complex surgery came to more than $250,000.

CATHOLIC MARCH — Monsignor Miguel Obando y Bravo, archbishop of Managua, leads a march of 27 priests in support of Luis Pena, a priest accused of counterrevolutionary activities by the Sandanista government.

State vs. church

Nicaragua expels 10 priests in crackdown

MANAGUA (AP) — The government on Monday ordered 10 foreign Roman Catholic priests to leave the country, accusing them of anti-government activity and planning "to provoke a confrontation between the church and the state."

The expulsions followed a protest march, led by the archbishop of Managua, in support of a priest accused by the leftist Sandinista government of aiding rebels.

In a communique Monday evening, the government said it expelled four priests who were from Spain, one from Canada, two from Costa Rica, two from Italy and one from Panama.

"The reason for cancelling their residency permits is that they have violated the laws of the country and were carrying out labors against the government and taking part in plans to provoke a confrontation between the church and the state," a communique from the Foreign Relations Ministry said.

The Interior Ministry identified the expelled clerics as Francisco San Martin, Vicente Caudelli, Santiago Anuitua and Francisco Cassell, from Spain; Benito Laplante of Canada; Manuel Huerta and Jose Joaquin Montero, of Costa Rica; Mario Fiamdri and Benito Petitto, of Italy, and Mario Madriz, from Panama.

It was not immediately clear whether they had taken part in the march.

The communique said the Sandinistas had met recently with church officials and tried to persuade them to adopt an attitude of "sensitivity."

"But far from accepting this call for sensitivity... they have been developing a plan... to heighten supposed contradictions and have been complementing the aggressions against Nicaragua," the communique said.

Archbishop Miguel Obando y Bravo led 27 Roman Catholic priests and 300 other people in the half-mile march from the Monte Tabor Church to the seminary where the Rev. Luis Amado Pena is staying during the government investigation.

"This was a pilgrimage of solidarity and support for Father Pena, but there are people who try to twist our intentions," Obando y Bravo said. "It certainly is not a political march."

"We don't want a confrontation of any kind with anybody, and neither do we want an ideological revolution, because the church always has been against totalitarianism of the right or the left," he said in a homily delivered in the seminary gardens.

The march was held despite restrictions on demonstrations under the national state of emergency, which has been in effect since March 1982 because of attacks by U.S.-supported rebels trying to overthrow the Sandinistas. Police and three military vehicles trailed about 300 yards behind the marchers, but no incidents were reported.

Before the government communique was issued, the archbishop had said four foreign priests were arrested and would be expelled.

After the march, a priest at Calasanz Catholic High School, who asked to remain anonymous, said two teachers at the school, Caudelli and Cassell, were arrested, presumably by immigration agents, and taken to the international airport.

At the Don Bosco Catholic Youth Center, Montero and Fiamdri were arrested by people who appeared to be immigration agents and taken to the airport, according to a priest and a secretary at the center.

"This is the answer from the Interior Ministry to our march," Obando y Bravo said in a statement. "This is evidence that Marxism is trying to eliminate the church in Nicaragua because Marxism is the enemy of the church."

An Interior Ministry communique issued Sunday said Obando y Bravo would be considered responsible "for the policy he is promoting." In his homily Sunday, the archbishop urged churchgoers not to be provoked during the demonstration.

On June 20, Interior Minister Tomas Borge accused Pena of supplying explosives and hand grenades to the rebels. The Bishops Conference of Nicaragua has said the allegations against Pena were false and designed to discredit the church.

The government has been at odds with the church, which accuses it of being totalitarian and has called for discussions with the insurgents.

The day after the accusations against Pena were made, about 1,000 pro-government demonstrators invaded a church in the capital and broke up the evening Mass. Nicaragua is predominantly Catholic, and the church is considered the last viable independent force inside the country.

News in brief

Soviet fleet damaged

LONDON — A series of explosions at a major Soviet ammunition depot disabled the Soviet navy's northern fleet and killed at least 200 navy personnel, Jane's Defense Weekly reported today.

The May 13 blasts that rocked the Severomorsk base on the Kola Peninsula, about 60 miles from Norway, destroyed about two-thirds of the northern fleet's surface-to-air and ship-to-ship missiles, Jane's said.

In its report, the authoritative defense publication said destruction at the base, about 900 miles north of Moscow, "represents the greatest disaster to occur in the Soviet navy since World War II."

British tanker attacked

BAHRAIN — A British tanker was hit by two missiles fired from an unidentified warplane in the Persian Gulf today, according to marine shipping sources and the ship's insurer, Lloyd's of London.

The international insurer confirmed that the vessel, the 133,000-ton British Renown, was hit in gulf waters east of Bahrain.

Marine sources here said the attack took place 72 miles northeast of Bahrain.

Taiwan miners trapped

TAIPEI — Fire swept a coal mine northeast of Taipei today and police said they feared 133 miners were trapped in a tunnel. It was Taiwan's second mine disaster in a month.

Police said an early report that three miners had made their way to safety was incorrect. Authorities said no miners escaped the tunnel where the fire occurred.

UK longshoremen strike

LONDON — Authorities said key British ports were shut down today as dockworkers began a nationwide strike, their first in 12 years, in a potentially crippling dispute linked to the 17-week-old walkout by coal miners.

London, Liverpool, Manchester, Southampton, Bristol, Cardiff, Glasgow and most of the country's smaller ports were at a standstill after leaders of the Transport and General Workers Union ordered the union's 35,000 longshoremen off the docks.

Beirut protests end

BEIRUT — Families of civil war hostages today ended four days of protests that paralyzed Beirut with burning tires and barricades of junk, allowing the seaport, airport and major traffic crossings to resume normal operations.

The army command said four roads linking Christian east and mostly Moslem west Beirut were clear of the debris that had kept them closed. The protests had stalled the government's plan to reunify the city and halt the nine-year civil warfare between rival militias.

The crossings were declared open to two-way traffic this morning, and four ships from Europe and Latin America sailed into Beirut's harbor, carrying grain, iron bars and paper.

2 killed in derailment

PRAGUE — Two people were killed and eight seriously hurt when five cars of the Kosice-Prague express train derailed outside the city, according to the official news agency CTK.

The accident took place Monday at Uvaly, about 13 miles east of Prague. A commission headed by the Minister of Transport was investigating the cause.

An unspecified number of other passengers suffered minor injuries and were not hospitalized, the report said.

Nurses end 5-week strike

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Hospitals were gearing up today to return to full operations after registered nurses overwhelmingly ratified a three-year contract to end the largest nurses' strike in U.S. history.

Nurses voted 3,014 to 37 on Monday to approve the pact with 18 hospitals, including the 16 that were struck for five weeks, according to the Minnesota Nurses Association, which represents 6,300 nurses.

Opinion

Prayer, access and Karl Marx

In their eagerness to overturn a wise 1962 Supreme Court decision invalidating organized vocal prayer in the public schools as a violation of the constitutional guarantee of religious freedom, the promoters of school prayer have gotten the Senate to pass a jerry-built religious access measure that doubtless raises more questions than they anticipated. The amendment giving student religious groups the same right as other organizations to meet on public school property was attached in the Senate to a popular House-passed bill providing federal aid for teaching mathematics and science. The idea was that the House would be forced to accept a religious provision incorporated by a conference committee in the final bill.

In May the House rejected a so-called religious access bill because of many legitimate objections. It would have elevated religious speech, for example, above all other forms of speech by cutting off federal aid to schools only for their denial of access to that kind of expression; it would have left schools free to set a minimum student participation requirement, thus effectively barring religious groups with fewer members; it would have allowed adult leaders, including clergy, to lead doctrinal discussion or worship services. To meet these objections, the Senate bill would prohibit schools from barring a student meeting on the basis of "religious, political, philosophical or other content of speech," would prohibit meetings from being barred by a limit on the number of participants, would prevent persons not connected with the school from conducting, controlling or regularly attending such meetings.

While forcing a backdoor opening for prayer, the Senate bill, we assume, would also force admission for the Karl Marx Club or the Student Klan. That may be more free speech than its sponsors bargained for.

Concert craze

The trouble all started when I told my wife's sister that I had been taken to the Orlando airport by the same chauffeur who had driven Michael Jackson the previous week. My sister-in-law apparently got the story mixed up and told her 15-year-old daughter I had driven Michael Jackson to the airport. The next day I got a call from my niece. "Uncle Arthur, I have to go to the Michael Jackson concert or I'm going to die." "I'm sorry to hear that," I said. "Mommy said you know him personally." "I don't know him personally," I said. "I told your mother I met the man who took him to the airport from Disney World." "What's he like?" "He's a very good chauffeur." "I don't mean him. I mean Michael Jackson." "I've never met Michael Jackson."

"Please, Uncle Arthur. I'll never ask anything from you ever. This is the most important thing I'll ever do in my whole life. I told all my friends you knew Michael Jackson and you'd get us seats. I'll never be able to show my face again if you can't get us into his concert." "How many friends did you promise?" "Just 20." "I have no idea how to get seats. I swear it." The next day I got a call from her father. "What the hell did you say to Lilly?" "I told her the truth. I don't know Michael Jackson. What's wrong?" "She doesn't believe you. She's gone on a hunger strike, until you come up with the tickets." "I can't get her any tickets," I said. "Look, I have friends at the Department of Interior. I can arrange for her to see the Beach Boys on the Mall on the Fourth of July. But that's as far as my musical connections go." "You're one rotten person," he said and hung up. That night I heard from the doctor who was trying to get Lilly to eat. He was speaking in a low voice. "One of my patients tells me you saved Michael Jackson's life in Orlando." "I can't get Lilly any seats for a concert," I said. "I wasn't calling about her. I'm trying to get some for my kids. I'll give you a hundred dollars a ticket, no questions asked." "I don't have any tickets." "Okay, $200. But that's my final offer."

"I'm not scalping tickets. If you want to get Lilly well persuaded her I've never met Michael Jackson in my life." "That doesn't solve my problem. I already told my kids I knew someone who could get them tickets. What do I do now?" "You better call a doctor." Apparently the word had spread all over town. One friend said, "I hear you're booking the Michael Jackson tour. I'll trade you my Mercedes Benz for a box at RFK stadium."

"I don't even know if he's playing RFK stadium." "I get it. You don't want anyone to know you're financing the tour. Your secret will die with me. But this is serious. If I don't get my banker a box for his kids, he's going to call in the loan on a shopping center I'm building in Seven Corners."

"I can't help you," I said. "Thanks, rat. I won't forget this."

The final call came from a friend at the Pentagon who is developing a new super death ray that can wipe out an army with one zap. He was desperate. "You have to get me a pair of tickets to the Jackson concert or my 13-year-old son will kill me."

Energy tightens nuke security

WASHINGTON — Terrorist groups are known to be trying to steal the ultimate terror weapon: a nuclear bomb. Security experts fear they will not only succeed but could sneak the bomb right out of the U.S. arsenal.

For two years, I have warned that security is lax at our nuclear weapons plants. These facilities are operated by the Energy Department, which belatedly has started to tighten its security arrangements.

Energy Secretary Donald Hodel shut down a weapons-assembly plant at Los Alamos, N.M., after a security team easily penetrated the plant's most sensitive areas in mock attack. If they had been real terrorists, they could have stolen plutonium to make a nuclear device or perhaps swiped the device itself.

Hodel has also put more guards on the payroll at other nuclear weapons plants and has set up a training center in Albuquerque. But my sources in the Energy Department say these moves may be too little and too late.

The people who are responsible for the lax security at the weapons plants, meanwhile, have been routinely rewarded for their negligence. For example, Gen. William Hoover runs the office of military application, which oversees weapons-plant programs. He has just been nominated for promotion to assistant secretary for defense programs.

Members of Congress, however, are concerned about the casual attitude toward security at the plants where nuclear bombs are made. Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich.,

ordered a congressional investigation.

Now he has written a stinging letter to Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, about Hoover. There has been no indication, Dingell charged, that Hoover took "any meaningful action to correct a deplorable situation." In fact, he actually tried to mislead a House committee on the extent of the security problem, wrote Dingell. Tower has quietly postponed Hoover's nomination hearing.

Meanwhile, my associates John Dillon and Indy Badwar have turned up more appalling examples of the Energy Department's security breaches: • The department has a disturbing habit of mislaying top secret documents. Seven of these sensitive documents were lost sometime before July 1980, but the department waited two years before even launching an investigation into the disappearances. Five of the papers originated at the National Security Council, and the responsible officials told the council that the documents had accidentally been destroyed. According to my sources, the truth is that officials haven't the foggiest notion what happened to the secret papers.

• In another embarrassing snafu, eight cartons of classified documents were sent from Los Alamos to a Rockville, Md., company that wasn't cleared to receive them.

• Last October, construction drawings for a nuclear facility in Portsmouth, Ohio, were found in woods near the town. The plans included details of the plant's security systems. Officials maintained that the drawings contained no sensitive information. Dingell was dubious about this claim and wrote to National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane, demanding "how any security plans can be considered anything but sensitive."

• Classified documents turned up in a lounge chair sent to the District of Columbia's prison in Lorton, Va.

• While letting genuine secrets slip its grasp, the Energy Department has deliberately used its classification stamp "to conceal inefficiency and administrative error; to prevent embarrassment, and to delay the release of information that does not require protection in the interests of national security," Dingell wrote.

• An independent assessment team found numerous security problems in 1980. DOE officials' response was to disband the team. Hoping to correct the basic problem, Dingell has introduced legislation that would create an independent Office of Safeguards Evaluation within the Energy Department. Hodel and his top aides oppose the legislation.

Footnote: The Navy is so fearful that terrorists might get their hands on nuclear weapons that a secret directive has gone out to fleet commanders around the world. It orders them to make sure they have available the capability to "neutralize nuclear and conventional terrorist explosive devices."

Trying too hard to win God's favor

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I've been trying to do everything I can to be good and please God, but so far, I don't seem to be able to get very far. How can I really please God and make him happy with me? — N.S.

DEAR N.S.: My answer may surprise you — but the truth is, you really can't do enough to please God and win acceptance with him. No matter how good you may try to be, you can never win God's favor by your own good deeds.

The reason for this is that God is holy and perfect, and it only takes one sin to make you impure in his sight and unfit for the Kingdom. Concerning God, the Bible says, "Your eyes are too pure to look on evil; you cannot tolerate wrong" (Habakkuk 1:13). The Bible also declares, concerning God's moral laws, "For whoever keeps the whole law and yet stumbles at just one point is guilty of breaking all of it" (James 2:10). That is why God's Word states, "There is no one righteous, not even one...for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:10,23).

Does that mean there is no hope of salvation and eternal life for us? Not at all! We can't win God's favor — but God has acted to make our forgiveness and salvation possible. You see, Jesus Christ, God's only Son, came into this world to bring us salvation. He came to do for us what we could never do for ourselves. He died on the cross as a perfect and complete sacrifice for our sins, taking the penalty upon himself that we justly deserve. And now, through Christ, we can be forgiven of our sins, and be made right in the eyes of God.

Around The Rim

Living history

When I was a kid I grumbled when my parents drug my sister and me into museums and galleries during vacations. I figured vacations were for amusement parks, zoos, swimming pools and fancy restaurants and not for boring history lessons.

When I got married last fall it didn't occur to me that my history-loving husband might want to visit museums on his vacations.

Last week, however, we spent plenty of time in museums, stopping at historical markers and circling monuments from here to Galveston.

At first I grumbled. "I don't want to spend my whole week off in some museum," I said on the way to Houston. My husband had circled the small town of Richmond on the map. Here, according to Texas history, the famous Texas spy Erastus "Deaf" Smith is buried. My husband, who is involved with a project about Smith, insisted on stopping in Richmond.

By the time we got to Richmond it was raining. Since we've lived through the driest spring in 84 years here in Big Spring, rain was a rare sight for us. But it was more than the rain that made Richmond special.

My husband pulled out a book about Deaf Smith and read directions to a monument. Locals drove by and watched the crazy tourists standing in the rain photographing an old marker.

We later drove behind the courthouse and found a museum filled with history and complete with an elderly woman who enjoyed spending her Sunday afternoons helping tourists sort through history of the area.

The museum had old photographs of the Episcopal Church grounds where Smith was buried. The church was destroyed in a storm and Smith's gravestone has been lost, but behind the museum was a gravestone for Smith. Finding these things gave him a character I had overlooked in history books.

We drove to an old cemetery in Richmond, located across the railroad tracks in a grove of trees. From the road the cemetery looks like any other, but once inside the grounds even those who have no use for history can't help but wonder about the families who lived in Richmond years ago.

In that cemetery are the graves of figures out of Texas history such as Mirabeau Lamar. As the clouds cleared and the sun began filtering through the trees, I found myself enjoying this history lesson.

After Richmond we headed for Galveston, which is another living lesson. Between walking down the shoreline and touring the shops, we saw turn-of-the-century homes, a palace of a house that belongs to the Catholic church and read plaques explaining the destruction caused by the hurricane of 1900 in which 6,000 people lost their lives.

We battled six lanes of mid-day traffic to get a photo of a monument on Broadway. We also toured old ships and strolled down streets which were designed to look like the early 1900s.

I'll admit that the history lessons didn't hurt my vacation at all.

Dr. Donohue

Smoke may be dangerous

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: If a person breathes in the smoke from burning poison ivy brush can some of the substance get in his lungs? Can he get poison ivy of the lungs? — F.L.Y.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have been exposed to poison ivy along with some friends and have not been affected. Are some people immune somehow from the effects of the plants? — A.D.

It is possible for a person to develop a kind of pneumonitis (inflammation of the lungs) from breathing in the oil droplets carried away from a burning poison oak or poison ivy brush fire. So care must be taken.

For A.D.: You may be one of the few (about 15 percent) who are tolerant of the substances. Or you may be one of a much larger percentage who are temporarily insensitive to it, but who later will develop a sensitivity and be affected just like your friends. So the best rule is to avoid it anyway. I can't describe all the various forms of these poison leaves, but the best guide is to "stay away from leaves of three."

You should also wash the oil off any portion of the skin exposed. Most spread to other body parts is from unwise scratching by contaminated fingers. Change exposed clothing, for that too can carry the resin substance. Dogs may carry the resin on their fur.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have an enlarged prostate gland, which I am informed is not cancerous. Will I still require surgery to eliminate the enlargement? — R.R.

This is a judgment call for your physician. If he is convinced that the enlargement is benign, and if the enlargement is not causing you any distress (such as urinary disruption) then he may decide to do nothing. You should discuss this with him. He will explain his reasoning for or against surgery at this time. Your other questions are answered in the booklet you write for, "The Pesky Prostate," which other readers may obtain by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Would you please discuss collagen disease? Is this illness allergy-related? — V.S.

You have placed a big order. Many illnesses are included under the blanket phrase — collagen disease. They include the well-known ailment, rheumatoid arthritis, and ones with less familiar names, like periarthritis nodosa. These are just two of literally dozens.

And collagen diseases are also called "connective tissue" diseases. Connective tissues is the kind that gives form to the body; it's present in things like tendons, skin, bones, cartilage, etc. Collagen is, in fact, the major material of such connective tissue. Because connective tissue is in so many places in the body, the symptoms of its various ailments are widespread. For examples, connective tissue encases joints, lungs and the heart.

These are not allergic illnesses in the sense that we normally interpret that phrase, in the sense that hay fever, for example, is. But loosely speaking, they may be thought of as self-allergies. The more correct term would be immunological disease. For it does seem that these tissues may evoke an inner allergy, thought of as being a reaction by the body against itself. And if you are a regular reader of this column, you have seen me mention such illnesses on many occasions.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Proper care helps shoes last longer

NEW YORK (AP) — With proper care, repair and maintenance, well-made shoes should last a long time, according to industry sources. These suggestions can help you stretch the life of your shoes, as well as your shoe-shopping dollars.

Keep shoes polished. This is the single most important thing you can do for maintenance.

Be vigilant about heel and sole maintenance. Don't wait until the heels have worn down past the lifts; you may not be able to repair them then.

Don't wear "good" shoes in the rain; keep a pair of "rain" shoes at the office for emergencies.

Allow shoes to air overnight before returning them to the closet. Never store footwear near a source of heat.

As part of daily maintenance, inspect shoes for stains. Stains that have a chance to "settle in" will be harder to remove later. For alcohol stains, use more alcohol. Gently rub a light coat over the entire shoe, focusing on the stains.

Allow to dry; then polish with a rich cream.

For grease and oil on heavy leather work boots, try rubber cement. Brush it on sparingly and when dry, rub it off. The stain should be absorbed by the cement.

To remove winter's salt stains, mix a solution of warm water and white vinegar in equal parts. Dab this "brew" over the entire shoe (sole and heel, too), focusing on the stains. Allow to dry naturally; then condition and polish.

To revive rain-soaked shoes, stuff newspaper into them. This will help your shoes to maintain their natural shape while you allow them to air dry. But, better still, use preventive measures:

Use a silicone spray around the sole and seam areas to keep water out. However, avoid silicones on suedes and on light-colored leathers. Do not use mink oil on suede. Use only waterproofing products made for suede.

Take care of your shoes daily. Shoes that are well-polished and maintained repel water better.

To avoid a sticky situation caused by the 1 1/4 pint of perspiration the 250,000 sweat glands in your feet produce each day:

Change shoes daily. They need to air and dry out. Change socks or hosiery frequently; wear absorbent cotton socks. Buy breathable shoes.

In addition to caring for your shoes properly, it is even more important to fit your shoes correctly: Never buy shoes that are too small, expecting to "break" them in as you go; instead, you will "break in" your feet!

When buying shoes, be certain to vary heel heights to prevent foreshortening of the Achilles tendon and calf muscle. This painful affliction can affect women in high heels as well as men in cowboy boots.

Decorating tips highlight meeting

Loretta Burns and Jeri Farmer of Home Interiors and Gifts, Inc. presented home decorating ideas at the Scenic Chapter of American Business Women's Association meeting, July 3.

Some of their ideas are:

- When hanging a picture over a couch, it should be about 18 inches above the couch.

- Mirrors are important in a home. Use a mirror on the wall with a shelf under it to set flowers or small figurines on. Decorate the wall on each side of the mirror with metal roses for a nice accent.

- If you have a corner not in use, put a picture on an easel and stand it in the corner to fill the bare spot.

- When using candles in your decor, be sure to use them in groups of three.

- When using a picture on the wall, put a shelf under the picture and set small flowers or small figurines on the shelf.

- Don't decorate your home like everyone else. Use your own ideas.

Dear Abby

Woman wants to change her age

DEAR ABBY: I am a 44-year-old divorced woman executive presently working for a large, prosperous company, where I have advanced in position and salary beyond my wildest dreams.

When I applied for this job I lied about my age because I was afraid that they would not hire a woman my age. Believe it or not, I put "29" on my application when I was 41 — and I got away with it.

I need to know how I can change the date on my birth certificate. I've heard it is possible. You see, my company is sending some of their top people out of the country. I'll need a passport, and if my right age is on the passport, they will know I lied about my age on my job application.

I'm healthy, bursting with energy and look young enough to pass for 32, so what harm would it do?

KEEP ME ANONYMOUS
DEAR ANONYMOUS: Deliberately lying about your age on a job application is a minor infraction compared to lying about your age when applying for a passport. That, my friend, is a federal offense, punishable by a fine and/or imprisonment.

Today it is illegal to ask a woman her age when she applies for a job. (That's called "discrimination.") Play it straight. Use your right age for your passport. No one except the immigration officers are likely to see it. And they won't care.

DEAR ABBY: There's a lot of talk about how rude teen-agers are today. I would like to tell you about an incident that took place not long ago.

Some friends and I were in McDonald's having lunch after final exams. We were conversing normally — not shouting or making any kind of a disturbance — when a woman at the next table called over to us, and in a very nasty tone yelled, "Will you kids shut up? I have a baby who is trying to sleep here!"

I thought (but did not say), "So why did you bring your baby to McDonald's during the rush hour?"

Abby, who was rude? And do you think that woman would have spoken that way if we had been a table of adults?

JUST A TEEN-AGER
DEAR JUST: The woman was rude. And I doubt if she would have spoken that way to a table of adults.

DEAR ABBY: I have been a flight attendant for a major airline for 16 years. I have seen a lot of unusual things happen, but I am sick to death of the number of mothers breast-feeding their walking, talking, very large children! It doesn't even matter where they are sitting; they just do it right in front of everyone! (I'm not talking about women from another culture, either.)

I object because I, as a flight attendant, am forced to interact with the mother-child situation as I am conducting my beverage, cocktail and meal service.

I don't care what people do in their own homes, but please, mothers, on an airplane, take your child to the lavatory or feed your child before you get on the plane.

COFFEE, TEA OR WATER — NO MILK, PLEASE!

Tax-Deferred

"It's really remarkable how the government thinks of us... every April 15th, that is."
Will Rogers

Sometimes it seems like the government doesn't know who you are, but come April 15th, it's mighty easy to feel like you're at the top of its list. To help you with your taxes, Homestate Savings is thinking of you all year 'round, by offering you ways to keep the tax bite down. Even though tax-time has come and gone, what you do today will affect what you pay next April 15th. Even Will Rogers would approve of the GNA Tax-Deferred Annuity, now available at Homestate Savings. This safe, competitive plan not only helps insure a secure retirement income, but qualifies you for a great tax break at the same time.

11 1/2% Annualized Yield (10.88% compounded daily) — GUARANTEED until December 31, 1984

Tax-Deferral You pay no taxes on the interest earnings until you withdraw money from your account. That means your money compounds faster because there's more left in your account to grow.

No Deposit Limit There is no ceiling on the amount of interest earnings you can shelter from current taxes. ($5,000 minimum deposit)

Safety Your principal and interest are guaranteed by GNA, a qualified legal reserve life insurance company.

Flexibility There are over thirty different pay-out plans to meet your future financial needs.

AL picks previewed

In my last column I discussed the good and not-so-good selections that National League fans made for their All-Star starters.

Since the game will be played tonight it's only fitting that today's space is devoted to how well American League fans know their baseball.

First base was really a tough decision for the fans. They had five .300 hitters players to choose from. The fans went with sentimental favorite Rod Carew, an aging veteran with excellent bat control. I'm with the fans, give me Rod any day.

The other four players are power hitters and rbi men in Eddie Murphy of Baltimore (66 RBI's), Willie Upshaw of Toronto (51 RBI's), Ken Herbeck of Minnesota (41 RBI's) and Yankees' rookie sensation Don Mattingly (49 RBI's). Murphy and Mattingly were selected as reserves.

Second base honors are in the hands of Detroit's Lou Whitaker and his .302 average. Bobby Grich of California is another sentimental choice for runner-up even though his .248 batting average is something less to be desired. American League coach Joe Altobelli did a good job in selecting Toronto second sacker Damaso Garcia, who sports a .308 average.

The fans really went overboard when they selected Kansas City's George Brett as the starting third baseman. I'll grant you the man is having a decent year — six homers, 23 RBI's and a .286 batting average. This is even more remarkable when you consider he missed seven weeks due to an injury.

Texas Rangers' Buddy Bell is having just as good of a season (.304) and has been healthy all year. He still has a good glove. He can't help it because he's playing with the Arlington Strangers, uh... Texas Rangers. Fortunately he was picked to the squad.

Unlike the National League, the American League shortstops carry some big sticks. The fans did a good job when they selected Baltimore's Cal Ripken (13-39-.293) as the starter. Alan Trammell of Detroit was a close second and rightly so with his .310 average, eight homers and 41 RBI's.

Robin Yount of Milwaukee (6-35-306) is another shortstop capable of being a starter. Unfortunately he didn't get selected to the team.

The voting for the catcher's position was very disappointing. Lance Parish of Detroit got the starting nod with his .275 average, 14 homers and 43 RBI's. I almost got sick when I learned that Carlton Fisk finished second in the voting despite his disheartening .197 average.

The man that should have received the starting job is Jim Sunberg of Milwaukee. He is rated as one of the best defensive catchers in the game and sports a .286 batting average. I'm glad Altobelli saw the light and put "Sunny" on the squad.

Now we get to the outfield where one man is definitely out of — that being Reggie Jackson. Now don't get me wrong, I like Reggie. He's a clutch performer, but his .239 batting average, 11 homers and 36 RBI's are not starting credentials.

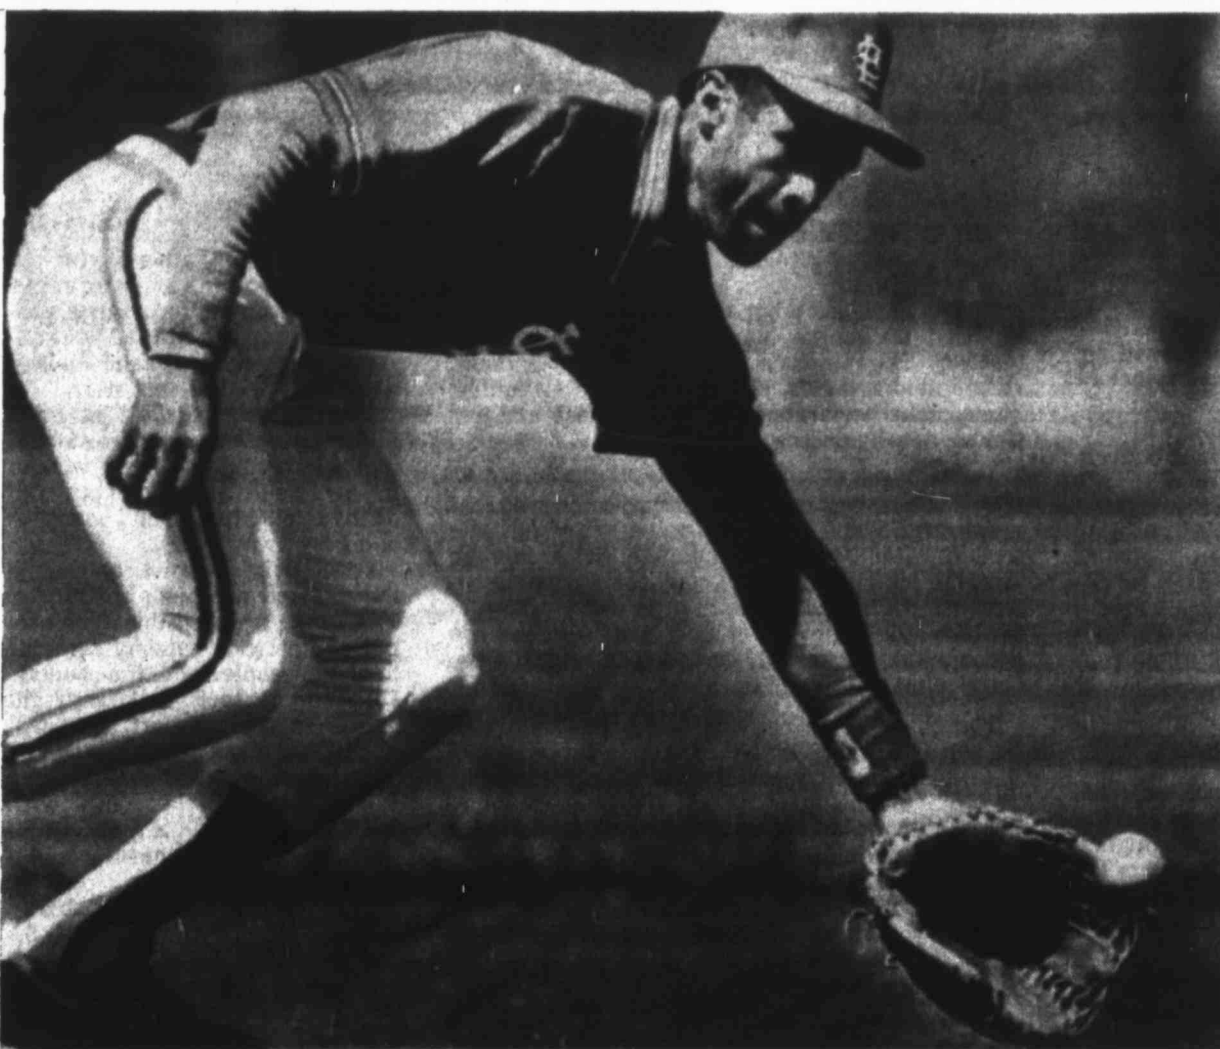

Dave Winfield of the Yankees is starting material with his league-leading .371 batting average. Chet Lemon (12 homers, 48 RBI's) rounds out the list of starters. Jim Rice of Boston (14-60-.276) rightfully deserves to be starting in front of Reggie.

Ricky Henderson of Oakland, Andre Thornton of Cleveland, rookie Al Davis of Seattle and Tony Aramas of Boston are all able and willing as reserves.

In the surprise department Oakland's Dave Kingman, who leads the majors in homers with 21, despite missing three weeks with a knee injury, Chicago's Rob Kittle (19 homers) and Toronto's Dave Collins (.311 average, 30 stolen bases) were left off the squad.

So there is a rundown on the American League fans picks. After comparing them with the National League I'd say the National League fans have more baseball knowledge.

Who knows? Maybe that's why the American League has had such a hard time winning during the last 14 years.

ALL-STAR STYLE — St. Louis Cardinals All-Star starting shortstop Ozzie Smith stretches for a low hopping grounder during the National League All-Stars practice Monday at Candlestick Park in San Francisco. The National League will face the American League tonight in the 55th All-Star Game.

Youth takes over All-Star tilt

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A strong new wave of young talent has muscled its way into baseball's 55th All-Star Game.

Pete Rose, Joe Morgan, Steve Carlton, Nolan Ryan, Rollie Fingers, Dave Concepcion and Bill Madlock are among the past All-Stars whose careers are still going, but who will be absent when the 1984 game is played Tuesday night at Candlestick Park.

Of these men, 37-year-old Fingers of the Milwaukee Brewers had the strongest credentials, 18 saves so far this season in his comeback from 1983 elbow surgery. But the American League is going with three younger relief pitchers, Dan Quisenberry, Bill Caudill and Willie Hernandez.

The All-Star youth movement is most noticeable on the National League side. The roster includes 19-year-old rookie pitcher Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets, youngest player ever selected for the All-Star game, and 13 other first-time All-Stars, most of them in their early 20s.

The American League has eight new All-Stars. Four Most Valuable Player award winners — Reggie Jackson, Rod Carew, George Brett and Cal Ripken Jr. — will be in the starting lineup, and all except Ripken, 23, are 30 or older. One other MVP, Jim Rice, is on the roster.

The National League will start three MVPs, Dale Murphy, Mike Schmidt and Steve Garvey, and will have one, Keith Hernandez, ready for reserve duty.

Chicago Cubs catcher Jody Davis, one of the National League's new All-Stars, said, "Sure, there are a lot of young guys on the team this year. But there are a lot of young guys having great seasons."

Davis, 27, will be one of the backups to National League starting catcher Gary Carter of Montreal.

Homerun lifts Big Spring by Coahoma, 7-4

The Big Spring International League All-Stars got a fine hitting and pitching performance from Michael Hilario and a two run homer from first baseman Robert Perez in the sixth inning to down the Coahoma American League All-Stars 7-4 in the opening round of the District Little League Tournament.

Hilario went the distance for Big Spring allowing six hits, striking out nine and walking three.

Perez went two for three for the contest with his big shot in the sixth inning with his team holding just a slim 5-4 lead.

Perez's shot came off Coahoma relief pitcher Dutch Barr who came in for starter Alonza Ortega in the fourth inning.

Going into the top of the sixth inning Coahoma had fought back to knot the score a 4-4. After Barr had fanned Ernie Dominguez, Hilario singled and scored when John Flores doubled. Then Perez turned the lights out on Coahoma when he took Barr's third pitch over the left-centerfield fence, giving Big Spring its margin of victory.

Big Spring chased Ortega from the mound after three and one third innings. Before leaving, Ortega pitched a good game, allowing three runs on four hits while striking out eight.

Coahoma rallied for three runs in the fourth as Thomas Hoggard and David Molina singled and Michael Hernandez walked to load up the bases for Curtis Hudson. Hudson promptly hit a hard double to centerfield scoring Hoggard and Molina. Hernandez scored run number three on a wild pitch.

A Big Spring WINNER!

THE WINNER — says "Let me do it for you."

THE LOSER — says "That's not my job."

Sherrie Bordofske
Executive Director, United Way

The United Way of Howard County hadn't reached its goal in six years when Sherrie took over the office. That first year, the organization raised more money than it ever had, yet still fell short of the goal. But the next two years under Sherrie's guidance, the United Way surpassed its goal! "It was just a matter of educating the citizens of Big Spring about the benefits and services provided by the United Way agencies," Sherrie says modestly. Sherrie has made the United Way a force in the community through her hard work and personal involvement. "It's a year around effort, not just the three months of the annual campaign," she says. She oversees the entire operation, including planning, allocations, bookkeeping and public relations; she has a secretary only during the campaign. In addition, Sherrie serves as treasurer of the American Cancer Society, was co-chairman of the Whoop & Hollar Barbecue Cook-off this year, is a member of Blue Blazers, serves on the YMCA board, and is a past board member of the American Little League Baseball Assn. Sherrie has overcome serious personal set-backs with a private philosophy that carries over into everything she does: "Live today as if it were your last day" and "Life isn't worth living; you have to make it that way." Her hobbies are boating, sewing, singing and helping others — specially counseling mastectomy patients: "This is the greatest satisfying feeling I've ever had." Sherrie has lived in Forsan and Big Spring all her life. She has two sons, David and Terry, and a 10-month grandchild, Justin.

U.S. All-Stars win before record crowd

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It's fine-tuning time for the United States Olympic basketball teams as they prepare to travel to Los Angeles.

Both teams added to their victory total Monday, defeating all-star squads before a record crowd of 67,596 at the new $81-million Hoosier Dome.

"Only in Indiana could 67,000 people show up for a basketball game," said Indiana Coach Bob Knight, who is guiding the men's Olympic team and developed plans for the doubleheader.

In remarks to the crowd, Knight said that while basketball may have started in Springfield, Mass., "God had it invented there so we could import it to Indiana."

The largest previous crowd to attend a basketball game in the United States was 61,612 at the 1982 NCAA championship showdown between Georgetown and North Carolina in the New Orleans Superdome.

Five scorers hit double figures to lead the Olympians over a National Basketball Association all-star squad 97-82. St. John's Chris Mullin came off the bench to lead all scorers with 18 points in 18 minutes of play.

The NBA team, which included Larry Bird and three of his teammates from the world champion Boston Celtics along with former Indiana star Isiah Thomas of the Detroit Pistons, stayed close for about 10 minutes. Then Mullin came off the bench to spark a 12-2 spurt. The streak began with the NBA leading 20-18, but the all-stars never drew closer than six points thereafter.

Mullin had six points in the spurt. Steve Alford, a star for Knight's Indiana team as a freshman last season, had four.

"I think everyone wanted to be a part of history tonight," said Bird, who led the NBA with 14 points. "That's one reason I was here, to get a chance to play in my home state and also get a chance to play in (front) the largest crowd. You just can't pass something like that up."

Bird, the NBA's Most Valuable Player for the past season, was impressed with the potential of the Olympic squad.

"They got some great talent. I think there's no doubt they've got a great opportunity to win it," Bird said. "They go to anybody and they work the ball. They play very patient. They use their abilities very well."

The balance was demonstrated by the balanced Olympian scoring attack. All-American Sam Perkins of North Carolina, who started at center, finished with 14 points. His teammate on the Olympic squad and at North Carolina, Michael Jordan had 12.

The victory gave Knight's squad a 5-0 mark in exhibition play. Their pre-Olympic schedule continues in Greensboro, N.C. on Thursday when they face another NBA unit.

"We've got guys who aren't being paid a nickel and they're playing like they're getting a million. Everyone is giving a dedicated effort for their country," said Knight, who is still shifting his personnel to find the best combinations.

"Today we made a change in the second half," added Knight. "We started the first and second half with the same unit and then we came back with a different unit. And the five guys in the second unit played very well. What we're hoping to do is develop a situation where we have 12 players who can contribute."

WOMEN STAY UNBEATEN
 In the first game of the doubleheader the U.S. women Olympians defeated a women's all-star team 97-54 behind All-American Cheryl Miller's 18 points. Carol Blazejowski scored 20 points for the all-stars.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 11, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Make decisions in the morning about the policies under which you wish to live. Then later, you have a chance to organize them so they can work on practical level in the days ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Early go over new ideas and put the most practical ones in operation after lunch. A new contact can help you with a workable plan.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Early study the promises you made to others and know how to handle them efficiently after lunch. State your ideas.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Come to a fine understanding with business persons and then you can work out contacts, etc. Show what you are on the ball.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Improve your surroundings so that you can feel happier and work more efficiently. Show your appreciation in some tangible way.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Early decide which philosophy you wish to follow and tonight put it into practice. Don't neglect important business matters.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Have that fascinating talk with a close tie in the morning. Extend invitations to whomever you want as guests in the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Decide how best to handle your work and then full speed ahead. Get correspondence handled wisely. Learn much from them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Handle monetary affairs early so later you can confer with others regarding your other assets. Try to get your real estate in order.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Decide what it is you want in personal matters and then do any practical work connected with them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find a better way of progressing in the days ahead and put a new plan to work quickly. Join worldly-minded friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be sure you know what it is you most want and then get at the facts and figures connected with such.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do whatever will safeguard your talents in the morning and later friends will be glad to help you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one who can learn a good deal during the early years of life, so be sure to give as fine an education as you can and add foreign languages to the curriculum. The right spiritual training is important early in life.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
