Spring Board

How's that?
No Show

Q. Why isn't the Midland-Odessa NBC station (Channel 9) carrying "Summer Sunday?"

A. According to a KTPX spokeswoman, Channel 9 already had a contract to show "Star Search" in the 6 to 7 p.m. Sunday slot when the network changed its programming. Channel 9 has no plans to show the live news program anchored by Linda Ellerbee, formerly of NBC Overnight News, and Andrea Mitchell, according to 9's Sandy McIntosh, even if the show makes the fall schedule. The contract with "Star Search" extends through the summer of 1985, she said.

Calendar: Veterans

TODAY

• The local chapter of the Disabled American Veterans will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the VFW Hall on Driver Road.

• The Veterans Administration Medical Center's Al-Anon Group will meet at 8 p.m. on the fourth floor.

TUESDAY

• Big Spring Art Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Art Room at Howard College. Earnestine Day will give a program on how to frame and mat paintings.

• The Howard County Junior College District board of trustees will meet at 12:30 p.m. at the board room at Howard College.

• Overeaters Anonymous will meet at 7 p.m. at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

• The Colorado City Dance Club will host a dance from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Boys Club on W. Third Street. Admission is $2.

WEDNESDAY

• Dr. Brian Caplan will discuss smoking and methods of smoking cessation in the first floor classroom at Malone and Hogan Hospital at 12:30 p.m.

THURSDAY

• The Big Spring Humane Society will meet at 7 p.m. at the Westside Community Center at 1311 W. 4th.

Tops on TV: Democrats

Coverage of the Democratic National Convention from San Francisco will include a keynote address from Gov. Mario Cuomo (D-N.Y.) on channel 2, 7 and 13 at 8 p.m. and channel 13 at 10:30 p.m. A tribute to individual athletic achievements at the 1986 Summer Olympics will be shown in "Olympia" at 7 p.m. on channel 8.

At the movies: Rhinestone

Tom Hanks stars in "Bachelor Party" at the Cinema. Also at the cinema is "Rhinestone" starring Dolly Parton and Sylvester Stallone. Bill Murray and Dan Aykroyd star in "Ghostbusters" at the Ritz. Also at the Ritz is "The Muppets Take Manhattan."

Outside: Fair

Today, skies were fair with isolated late afternoon thunderstorms. Highs were in the mid-90s with southerly winds at 5 to 15 miles per hour. Tonight, look for lows in the upper 60s with southerly winds 5 to 10 miles per hour. Tomorrow, expect highs in the mid-90s with 20 percent chance of rain.

Tap water subject of study

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

While water from city taps still contains a cancer-linked chemical compound in amounts that exceed State Health Standards, city officials are working to bring the problem under control by the end of the year.

The compound, which is called trihalomethane and appears in city water as a result of the chlorination process used to disinfect city water, was found to be present on a yearly average of 261 parts per billion (ppb). State standards set a limit of 100 ppb for the chemical, according to Charles Maddox of the State Health Department.

Maddox said the compound was "implicated as being a carcinogen." Federal Environmental Protection Agency studies done with rats found a "slight probability" of cancer exists if "approximately two liters of water a day are ingested over a (human) lifespan," Maddox said.

City Public Works Director Tom Decell said Friday his department is currently reviewing a preliminary report on eradication of the compound from the Lubbock engineering firm of Parkhill, Smith

SWINGTIME — Juan "Tiger" Garza inspects a swing at the new Howard County Park, located at N.W. Fourth and Dundee, the site of the old YMCA building and the county boxing club. Commissioner Louis Brown said the park needs some work but provides a neighborhood gathering place for persons on the northside of town.

Volunteers tackle park

County to join renovation

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

On the outside, the new Howard County Park building doesn't look too impressive.

The yellow paint is chipped and weather-beaten. Grass is sparse, but mesquite trees are plentiful on the rocky grounds surrounding the old YMCA building on the northside of town.

A reminder of the days when the county supported its own boys' boxing club — actually just a few months ago — the wooden-frame building still sports a sign saying, "Home of the Howard County Boxing Club."

But to Commissioner Louis Brown, the fact that the county has created a park on the minority side of town, which he says is traditionally shortchanged when it comes to recreational facilities, is something to be proud of.

The boxing club sign will probably stay, but an additional sign will be put outside the building, he said. As the only commissioner from a minority district, Brown said it was his responsibility to push other commissioners to create the park after county financial support of the boxing club was ruled illegal.

"We're going to put a sign up here. It'll say 'Howard County Park,'" Brown said, showing off the old YMCA building at the corner of Dundee and N.W. Fourth that is the basis of the new county park. "The boxers can still use the building because they live in the county, but everybody in the county can use it. The park is for everyone," he said.

Commissioners now can legally provide money for the upkeep of the building and the grounds and for recreational equipment. The boxers will be able to use the park like any other county group, he said.

Inside the building, currently being rented by the county from the Big Spring Independent School District for $100 a month, the paint is fresher.

"It may not look like much, but it's a start," Brown said. "We've done a lot of work, all by volunteers."

Volunteers, he says, supplied the labor when the interior was painted last year. They also put plywood over the windows, "so nobody can knock out a window and break in," said boxing club coach J.V. Martinez.

"You know, we've never been broken into," Martinez said. "The kids in the neighborhood keep an eye on the place."

Brown said he wanted a park in the north and west sides of Big Spring so that residents in those areas have "a place they can walk to. Most of the parks, swimming pools and the softball fields are not within walking distance," he said.

"People come down here in the evening to shoot the breeze anyway," Brown said. "It's a neighborhood meeting place."

Among some of the improvements he wants made at the park site are the addition of picnic tables, benches and barbecue grills. Eventually, he would like to clear off land in the back of the building for use as a softball field. The park already has swings and other playground equipment that he would like repaired.

"Grass would be nice, but it's too dry and it costs too much to plant," Brown said. "Maybe some day we can plant grass."

Inside, the building has a boxing ring that Brown said he would like to put on wheels so it could be moved.

Theater cleanup progresses

While a re-inspection of Big Spring's Ritz Theater by city health officials last week showed the theater still in violation of city health codes, health officials are satisfied that progress has been made in cleaning up the theater.

"In our eyes, he is moving forward," City Health Inspector James Luck said this morning about work so far completed by Ritz owner Keith Pherigo of Coahoma.

After the building's first inspection

June 25, Pherigo was reprimanded for violations related to the theater's daily clean-up program, its insecticide program and its restroom conditions and given two weeks to remedy the problems.

Luck said Pherigo has completed cleaning up the theater building, made several improvements on the theater's restrooms and brought in insecticide specialists twice in the two week period after the building was first inspected.

Health officials gave Pherigo an additional two-week extension on his original reprimand to bring a plumber into the building and begin hot water service to theater restrooms, Luck said.

According to Luck, scheduling of the plumber was a problem over which Pherigo had little control. "If it's something he has no control over, we're going to have to work with him," Luck said.

Pherigo today was unavailable for comment on theater's cleanup program.

'Underdog' Demos head for California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Underdog Democrats assemble today in their 39th quadrennial convention, hoping that an intramural squabble will stay buried and gambling that a woman on their ticket might push a popular Republican president into retirement.

Walter F. Mondale, the nominee for sure, headed off an old-fashioned Democratic bloodletting by hastily pulling away from his awkward attempt to reshuffle the party hierarchy and impose his will on the party.

That restored harmony for the moment and Mondale called the uproar the sort of "inevitable rumble" that always occurs when Democrats gather. He predicted "one of the sweetest conventions in the history of the party" that thrives on family fights.

To capitalize on the good feelings generated by Mondale's designation of Geraldine Ferraro as his running mate, the team was coming here today to meet with women delegates — a love-in session for sure — then be welcomed at a mass rally at Market and Powell Streets, where the cable cars clang.

Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado and the Rev. Jesse Jackson, remained Mondale's surviving opponents, but presented no real challenge for the nomination. They planned to take on Mondale over a few issues, but seemed unwilling to tear the party apart in order to prevail.

Efforts were under way to arrange a meeting today between Hart and Mondale, perhaps with Jackson sitting in, too.

Jackson had breakfast with Bert Lance, President Jimmy Carter's former budget chief, who Mondale has designated general chairman of his campaign.

Hart and Jackson met twice over the weekend, with Jackson saying they were coordinating a challenge to Mondale's platform and Hart saying he's chiefly interested in the adoption of a stay-out-of-Latin America plank that goes further than Mondale wants to go.

Hart's strategy was reduced to hoping for a miracle, some sort of unforeseen development that would keep Mondale from winning the presidential nomination on the first ballot. But Frank Mankiewicz, a campaign adviser, conceded that denying Mondale the nomination "would be an unlikely result."

At a fund-raiser, Hart told some of his delegates, "I always said, 'On to San Francisco.' Now we are here. You do not quit. I do not quit. On to the White House!"

In interview with NBC, former first lady Rosalynn Carter sat with her husband and confided that she had urged her husband — the loser four years ago — to enter the 1984 Democratic race. The former president wasn't interested, she said.

With a schedule designed for television viewers east of the Mississippi, the gavel bangs down at 2 p.m. PDT — early evening in the East — for an opening session of greetings, oratory and song.

Tonight's highlight is the keynote address and the advance word was that Mario Cuomo, governor of New York, planned to punch away at Ronald Reagan's economic and foreign policies, to defend traditional family values and to salute America's ethnic diversity.

Jimmy Carter, who won renomination four years ago in a bitterly divided convention only to lose to Reagan, has his moment at the podium in tonight's program.

The delegates will watch a filmed tribute to Harry S. Truman, and a civil rights speech by Coretta Scott King, the widow of Martin

Texas midsection wilting from lack of rain

DALLAS (AP) — Businesses along Texas' Guadalupe River are buying torrents of water to revive tourism. Streets in Corpus Christi are patrolled for water thieves. One small town on the brink of losing its supply built a 7 1/2-mile emergency water pipeline.

And mandatory water rationing starts today in Austin, one of dozens of cities imposing conservation measures.

From the Red River along the Oklahoma state line to the Rio Grande along the Mexican border, the story is much the same: the midsection of Texas has gone bone-dry this summer in what some say could prove to be the worst drought in 30 years.

"The last beneficial rain we had was in May of 1982," said Paul Werner, water superintendent in the coastal city of Corpus Christi, the first city to begin mandatory rationing and patrol the streets with non-police officials hunting offenders.

"We now have some of the brownest lawns in the state," he said. "What we really need is a hurricane to fill the reservoirs." Corpus Christi, which built a second reservoir too late to collect any water before the drought, is not alone.

The drought, combined with rapid growth that has depleted water supplies, has forced 67 cities and towns into water conservation measures, according to the Texas Department of Water Resources.

Austin's city manager last week announced that a mandatory program would begin Monday. San Antonio, the nation's 10th-largest city, is on a voluntary plan. The town of Newcastle rushed a 7 1/2-mile pipeline into service when one lake dried and the other dropped to 2 feet. Abilene saw cattle ranchers line up recently for a marathon sale of stock they could neither feed nor water.

"It all boils down to this: people all over the state are having problems right now. Just about everybody's hurting," said Bill Hoffman, chief of the Water Use Technology unit of the Water Resources Department.

For two years, Mother Nature has been cruel to Texas. In 1983, drought devastated farming and ranching in West Texas. Hurricane Alicia ravaged the Galveston-Houston area and the worst freeze in history ruined the citrus crop in the Rio Grande Valley.

All but 59 of Texas' 254 counties have been declared eligible for disaster aid, said George Svatek of the Farmers Home Administration.

Spring rain eased the situation in most of West Texas, but the drought just slid east.

In Big Spring, however, farmers have lost hope of a successful cotton crop, and the area remains locked in drought conditions.

East of this area, business evaporated this summer for the merchants along the Guadalupe River, a popular water sports area in central Texas. But the innovative entrepreneurs pooled their resources and bought river water in bulk.

Each weekend, 125 acre-feet of water bought from a water authority upstream is released from Canyon Lake into the river, raising the flow from 20 cubic feet per second to 100.

"We've decided to do it every weekend through Labor Day. It's costing us $65,000. But the economy is real bad here right now and we didn't know what else to do," said Don Moses of Texas Canoe Trails.

"Nobody's buying sprinklers or mowers or anything," said Nina Johnson, co-owner of the Turf and Irrigation Co. in Corpus Christi. "We're looking at having to lay off our employees if we don't get rain soon."

Corpus Christi's mandatory program, which prohibits lawn watering and other non-essential uses, has cut consumption by about 30 percent since it took effect early this month, said Werner.

Austin's program bans some outdoor uses and allows lawn watering only every fifth day.

Violating either city's ordinance is punishable by a $200 fine.

Meteorologists say prospects for showers are bleak in south-central Texas.

George Bomar, meteorologist with the state Water Resources Department, said the drought really began for the southern part of the state last winter. High pressure over Texas prevented the usual winter and spring precipitation that fills reservoirs. "We entered the summer in poor shape," he said.

From January to June, Abilene had only 4.23 inches of rain — the driest six months on record. Most cities and towns in the heart of Texas have received less than 60 percent of their usual rainfall.

"Really all it would take to erase this drought would be for a long tropical storm," Bomar said.

Dallas and Houston had had close-to-normal rainfall this year.

But experts say the rapid growth of Austin and San Antonio has stretched water sources and supply systems beyond their intended use.

"The growth has just been too fast and some places would have problems even if there wasn't a drought," said Wayne Jordan, director of the Texas Water Resources Institute at Texas A&M University. "By the turn of the century, it's going to get worse whether it rains or not."

Rain hits Panhandle

By The Associated Press

Scattered showers and an occasional thundershower fell in the Texas Panhandle today along and behind a weak cold front that pushed southerly into the state.

Elsewhere, skies were mostly clear. Winds across the state were southerly except for the Panhandle and the Trans Pecos region, where northeast breezes were present. Winds were averaging 5 to 10 mph statewide.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s. The readings ranged from 69 at Amarillo to 83 at Wichita Falls.

The National Weather Service said northern and coastal sections of the state would probably get more rain. It was expected to continue to be partly cloudy and hot.

Thunderstorms dumped up to 5 inches of rain on parts of the South overnight, killing at least one person and washing out roads in the Carolinas, while temperatures in the 90s seared California.

A cold front early today pushed a line of thunderstorms from the southern Plains across the Tennessee Valley, with more than 1 inch of rain reported at Jackson, Tenn., and Valdosta, Ga.

In the nation's midsection, nearly 3 inches of rain drenched Plains, Kan., late Sunday, and winds gusted to more than 75 mph at Torrington Wyo.

Up to 5 inches of rain fell overnight in Charlotte, N.C., causing mudslides which washed out several roads east of the city. Nearly 3 inches was reported in Greenville, S.C.

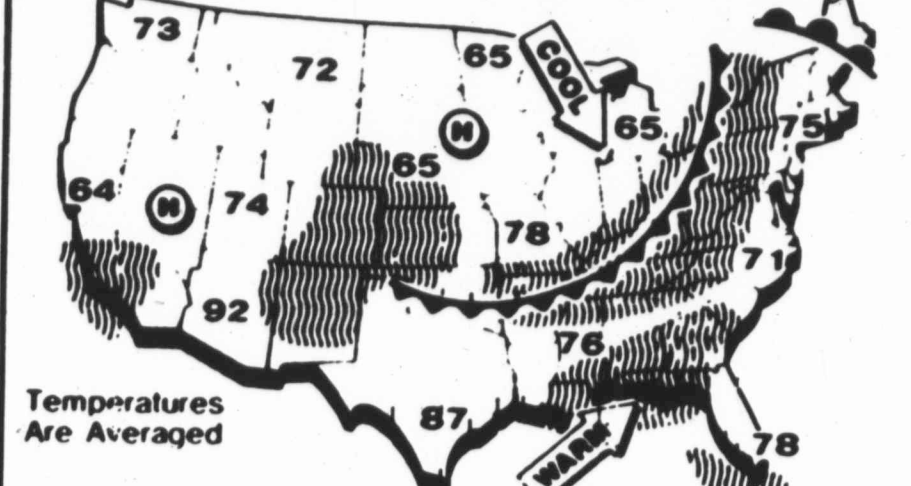

In South Carolina, Oudia Sybil Gay, 73, of Hogansville, Ga., drowned Sunday when she was swept off a flooded bridge in Pickens County into a rain-swollen creek after the car in which was riding stalled, authorities said. The other three people in the car were not injured.

Several thunderstorms cooled parts of the parched West, with more than 1 inch of rain falling on Riverside, Calif. But intense heat wilted much of California, with Fresno sizzling under a 90 degree reading at 3 a.m. EDT today.

More than 1.2 million people crowded Southern California beaches Sunday as hot, muggy air prompted a smog alert in Los Angeles.

WEST TEXAS: Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms most areas tonight and north Tuesday. Cooler panhandle Tuesday. Lows tonight 60s Panhandle and mountains to mid 70s extreme south. Highs Tuesday upper 80s Panhandle, 90s most areas and near 104 valleys of Big Bend.

Midland man treated for injuries received in mishap

A 27-year-old Midland man was injured Saturday morning when his pickup truck rolled over on a farm road about 5 1/2 miles north of Vealmoor. David Earl Moore was treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital Saturday after being transported to the hospital by Shaffer Ambulance, according to a hospital spokeswoman. According to a Department of Public Safety accident report, Moore was travelling southbound on Farm Road 1054 less than a half mile from mile post 32 when the accident occurred at 10 a.m. Moore lost control of the 1978 Ford Courier pickup he was driving when it veered off the west side of the road because of excessive speed, according to the DPS report. The truck flipped over and landed on its top, facing southwest on the road. A car driven by a Fort Worth man was damaged Saturday morning when it collided with a pair of wheels that came off of a refrigerated trailer being towed by a Missouri trucker. According to a DPS report, a 1978 Ford Mustang II being driven westbound on Interstate 20 by Richard Paul Clem was struck by a loose pair of wheels. The wheels separated from a 1979 Trailmobile refrigerated truck trailer being towed eastbound by a 1971 Peterbilt truck driven by Joseph Everett Bilyeu of Vienna, Missouri, on I-20 near mile marker 177, and crossed the median, where they struck Clem's car. No one was injured in the accident, which took place about 9:45 a.m. Saturday, according to the DPS report.

Odessa woman dies from ant bite

ODESSA (AP) — Physicians have added a 20-year-old Odessa woman to the list of people who have died from reactions to insect bites. Nancy Kay Nix died Tuesday in Odessa Medical Center Hospital, two days after she was bitten on the right hand by a red ant while working in a neighbor's yard. She died despite taking allergy medicine 10 minutes after the bite, her mother said. According to her doctor, she suffered an anaphylactic reaction that caused her heart, spleen and lungs to swell, virtually suffocating her. Mrs. C.W. Nix of Odessa said her daughter had known since childhood that she was allergic to ants. "She carried her medicine faithfully and it always worked," the woman's mother told the Odessa American. "Doctors had never told her that she could die from a bite, and I don't think any of us ever imagined it." But Dr. Adhar Rana, an Odessa allergist, said about 100 people die each year from serious allergic reactions to insect stings. "Adults have a higher risk than children of receiving an insect bite that will cause a serious allergic reaction," he said. "Adults over 40 suffer larger and more serious reactions than younger people." Most fatal reactions to insect bites are attributed to the same reaction that killed Miss Nix, said Dr. Louis Cole of Odessa. "Anyone who experiences tingling, swelling, dizziness and/or difficulty in breathing after receiving an insect bite should go to an emergency room immediately," Cole warned.

Houston ship channel closed

DEER PARK (AP) — The Houston Ship Channel remained closed today as workers continued cleaning up thousands of gallons of oil that leaked from a grounded Venezuelan tanker, the Coast Guard said.

said Coast Guard Cmdr. E. Roe, alternate captain of the Port of Houston. The 520-foot tanker "Turpia" was between the docks of Diamond Shamrock Corp. and Shell Oil Co. when it struck the bank.

Water

Continued from page 1-A and Cooper. "It's my number one project in the water department," Decell said. The engineering report recommends a process whereby formation of the suspect compound can be interrupted by the introduction of ammonia into city water, Decell said. According to the Public Works Director, chlorine reacts with the ammonia to make it unavailable to combine with organic materials in the water to form trihalomethane. Decell said changeover to the new process would cost "in the vicinity of $40,000-$60,000." However, he said the new process would result in some savings to the water department, since, "in the long run, people have found that they have had to use fewer other chemicals." After his department completes its review of the engineering report, the city council will have to authorize specifications and bidding for the process, and then award bids on putting the process into effect, Decell said. "I expect this to be done this year," said Decell.

Park

Continued from page 1-A ed into a corner when not in use. The same room could be used as a basketball court also, he said. He also would like to put weightlifting equipment in one of the rooms, which already has some barbells and wrestling mats. One of the bathrooms has already been renovated, including the showers, Martinez said. And the building has a small kitchen that could serve as a snack bar, complete with sink, refrigerator, stove and coffee pot, he said. Brown also said he wanted to add a ping-pong table. The building already houses a pool table, he said.

Convention

Continued from page 1-A Mondale retreated from his attempt to shake up the party hierarchy by firing National Chairman Charles T. Manatt. When word leaked that Mondale had discussed turning the job post over to Lance, the labor leaders, who have long disliked Lance, were offended, as were Manatt's fellow Californians and blacks, who were not consulted. In an about-face Sunday, Mondale rehired Manatt, at least through January, with an assignment to concentrate on fundraising; Lance stayed in as Mondale's general campaign chairman; and long-time Mondale aide Michael Berman was put in charge of the fall's political effort. "I wanted to get on with our work," Mondale said, explaining why he tried to oust Manatt before the convention, rather than wait until Friday's post-convention meeting of the Democratic National Committee, when the party's nominee often dictates the choice of a new chairman without raising a fuss. Ms. Ferraro, meantime, took issue with Maureen Reagan, daughter of the president, who said that her designation was unfortunate because women's progress would be set back if the Democrats lose with her on the ticket.

For the moment, pessimism was set aside while more than 150,000 working people in this strong labor town marched behind a "Reagan Out in '84" banner Sunday and sang the praises of Mondale-Ferraro. In their footsteps, 50,000 male and women homosexuals followed, without a bit of tension. The visible support for the ticket and goodwill in the streets stood in sharp contrast to the street brawl between anti-Vietnam war dissidents in the party and police at the 1968 Chicago convention. Attempting to hold together these unaccustomed signs of unity,

Woman treated for injuries

Pascuala Rodriguez, 22, of 1507 B Wood was treated and released at Malone-Hogan Hospital after a major accident that happened at about 1:41 a.m. Sunday in the parking lot of the Players private club on E. I-20, police reports and a hospital spokeswoman said. Ms. Rodriguez was a passenger in a 1976 Chevrolet Monte Carlo driven by Maria Sosa Gutierrez of Garden City at the time of accident, reports said. According to reports, Ms. Gutierrez was east bound on the interstate south service road when she traveled about nine inches into the Players parking lot and struck a 1982 Datsun 200 SX driven by Rawlin Ray Dupre of 805 W. 17th. Ms. Rodriguez was taken to the hospital by Shaffer Ambulance following the accident, reports said. In other police reports: Santos Mendoza Sr. told police at 1:58 a.m. Sunday that someone sometime between 9:30 p.m. Saturday and 1:30 a.m. Sunday entered his residence and stole a .38 caliber revolver and a .45 caliber automatic, both of unknown value, police reports said. Karen Ann Walker, assistant manager at the Crazy Horse Saloon, told police at 11:50 p.m. Saturday that sometime between midnight Thursday and 11:45 p.m. Saturday someone she knows caused damage estimated at $500 to the left rearview mirror and three louvers on her white 1981 Datsun, police reports said. The incident occurred while the car was parked outside the club at 1400 W. Hwy. 80, police reports said. Weekend arrests reported on the police activity sheet at Big Spring Police Headquarters included: Michael Huff, 20, of 1017 B Johnson, who was arrested at 3:08 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of 11th and Johnson on suspicion of unauthorized use of motor vehicle. Larry Austin Parker, 33, of 1002 N. Main was arrested at 11:03 p.m. Saturday two miles north of the city on Hwy. 350 on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, driving with license suspended and failure to maintain financial responsibility, police reports said. Katie Knox Gilbreath, 60, of Sterling City Route was arrested at 12:02 a.m. Sunday on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, police reports said. Juan Hernandez, 36, of Los Ybarez, Tx. was arrested at 12:08 a.m. Sunday one mile north of the city on Hwy. 350 on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, police reports said. Richard William Proffitt, 17, of 702 W. 18th was arrested at 3:58 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Third and Lancaster on suspicion of driving with license suspended, police reports said. Ray Paul Rodriguez, 18, of 1508 Young was arrested at 4:52 p.m. Sunday at the Big Spring Industrial Park in connection with a theft warrant and traffic warrants, police reports said.

Sheriff's Log

Trucker reports robbery

A North Carolina truck driver Sunday reported an aggravated robbery that happened at a rest area west of Big Spring more than a week ago. William Stevens of Red Springs, N.C., told Howard County sheriff's deputies Sunday that he was robbed about 1 a.m. July 7 when he stopped to check his tires at the rest stop on Interstate 20. According to the sheriff's report, Stevens said he was grabbed around the neck by a white male who pointed a hunting knife with a four- or five-inch blade at his throat. He said the man and his two companions — one male and one female — robbed him of $190 in cash, his billfold including two Mastercharges and one Visa credit cards and his wedding band. The three persons left in an older model van, and the man who held the knife on him had a tattoo of a black panther on his inner forearm, according to the report. Stevens said he delayed in reporting the incident because he had to make a delivery. He also said he was reporting the incident for insurance purposes, according to the sheriff's report. Ricky Franklin Dyer, 32, of 602 W. 16th turned himself into the sheriff's office Sunday on a city warrant for telephone harassment of his wife. He was released on $500 bond set by County Judge Milton Kirby. Jose Ines Casillas, 31, of 2203 Main was released from county jail Monday after serving 48 hours of a 72-hour county court sentence for driving while intoxicated. Klaus Quenrheim, 26, of Gail Route was released from county jail Sunday after serving two days of a three-day court sentence for driving while license suspended. He was sentenced to a $100 fine, $86 court costs and credited with already serving one day in jail. Eric Lowell Johnson, 30, of 803 Caylor also was released Sunday from county jail after serving part of a 15-day sentence for DWI. He also was sentenced to a $400 fine and $106 court costs, and his driver's license was suspended for 180 days. Juan Alexander Jr., 34, of Los Ybarez was transferred Saturday to the sheriff's office by the Department of Public Safety on suspicion of DWI. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Assistant Municipal Judge John Stanley. Katie Knox Gilbreath, 60, of Sterling City Route was transferred to the sheriff's office from the police department on suspicion of DWI. She was released on $1,000 bond set by Stanley. Larry Austin Parker, 33, of 1002 N. Main was transferred Sunday to the sheriff's office from the police department on suspicion of DWI, DWLS and failure to carry insurance. He was released on $1,000 bond for DWI, $500 for DWLS and $200 for the insurance charge. Roy Biddle Jr., 45, of 321 November Circle was transferred Sunday from the police department to the sheriff's office when his bondsman went off bond on a charge of DWI. He was released on $1,000 bond. Richard Proffitt, 17, of 702 W. 18th was transferred Sunday to the sheriff's office from the police department on suspicion of DWLS. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Bobby West.

Misguided punch

WEST HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Comedian Eddie Murphy was "minding his own business" when he got caught in a nightclub brawl on Sunset Strip that left him with a cut lip, his agent said.

Murphy, who starred in the movies "Trading Places" and "48 Hours," and NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live," was standing with friends when a young woman tried to hide behind them from an assailant, Robert Wachs said Sunday. "The guy tried to grab the girl and wound up grabbing Eddie instead."

EDDIE MURPHY

Murphy, 23, was treated at Cedars Sinai Medical Center for a cut lip after he was thrown against the wall at Carlos and Charley's and punched in the mouth by a companion of the assailant on Saturday, Wachs said.

Phillip Shumway, 26, of Venice, claimed Murphy had thrown a glass at him, gashing his arm, but Wachs said the glass was thrown by someone else.

The allegations will be submitted to the district attorney to determine whether charges should be filed, said Los Angeles County Sheriff's Deputy Mason Kenny.

Statue is headache

AGANA, Guam — A 900-pound rotating statue of Pope John Paul II, commemorating the pontiff's 1981 visit to this Central Pacific island, has become a headache for the man who commissioned it.

Agana Community Commissioner Felix Ungacta, who put up his home as collateral for a $40,000 bank loan to build the statue, says private donations he hoped would defray the cost haven't come through.

Attorney General Richard Opper says the government is negotiating an out-of-court settlement of a $23,000 lawsuit against Ungacta and the government, filed by Alan Anub, who built and wired the pedestal.

But Ungacta says that doesn't help with his Bank of Guam loan, which he hopes the government will assume.

Singer falls from stage

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Steve Tyler, lead singer of the rock group Aerosmith, escaped injury when he fell from a stage during a weekend concert at the Prairie Capital Convention Center.

Tyler's fall Saturday forced the cancellation of the concert after 45 minutes, and 20 police officers were called when some of the 6,000 angry fans began demanding refunds, said Cmdr. Bob Shipman.

There were reports of bottle throwing and minor fights, but the crowd calmed down once police arrived, Shipman said. Three people were arrested on trespassing charges.

Choir changes leaders

SALT LAKE CITY — The Mormon Tabernacle Choir will be singing its hallelujahs under a new president — Wendall M. Smoot Jr., who has been picked to be only the fifth president in the choir's history.

Smoot, who has been the choir's vice president, replaces Oakley S. Evans, who is retiring after nine years in the post.

The appointment was announced Sunday on the choir's afternoon broadcast, the 55th anniversary of the weekly radio show on KSL. The program originated over KSL on July 15, 1929, and is the longest continuous broadcast in radio history.

DANCING IN THE STREETS — A man in a ballerina tutu dances to music from the Stanford University band outside San Francisco's city hall to welcome the Democratic National Convention delegates.

Soviet Christians battle obstacles

DALLAS (AP) — One year after fleeing decades of persecution in Siberia, members of a Soviet Christian family say they cherish their newly found freedom in the United States, but are still having trouble finding good jobs and overcoming the language barrier.

"We stay at home most of the time. It's very hard to communicate with people," said Maria Chmykhalov. "We need help to learn English. We try very hard. But some of us are old and it's very difficult to remember words."

Mrs. Chmykhalov, 62, and her son Timothy, 22, were among the group of seven Soviet Pentecostals who in 1978 rushed past Soviet guards at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. The group, which became known as the "Siberian Seven," lived in one basement room at the embassy for almost five years.

On July 18, 1983, after months of talks between U.S. and Soviet officials, Mrs. Chmykhalov and 14 family members were allowed to emigrate. Another family involved in the embassy standoff, the Vaschenkos, also are now living in Idaho and Washington state.

The Chmykhalov family first went to St. Louis, but moved to Dallas in August when Timothy — who learned English at the embassy and now acts as the family's interpreter — was invited to study at Christ for the Nations Institute in Dallas.

"Language has been the biggest barrier to adjusting," Timothy said. "It was like a dream the first month here. Everyone helped us. Then we were left by ourselves."

"One of the biggest fears my family has is getting lost in the city and not being able to communicate with people to find their way home," he said.

Timothy said his 58-year-old father, Peter, wandered the streets for 12 hours after getting lost while trying to come home from church in April because no one could understand what he was talking about.

"He decided to return by a different route that was shorter. I got a call at 5 a.m. from my father," he said. "He was at a police station and he asked me to come and pick him up."

Finding good jobs poses another major problem, Mrs. Chmykhalov said. Her husband works in a maintenance job at the Christ for the Nations Institute, which also provides the three-bedroom apartment where much of the family lives. Two of her other sons, Anatoly, 27, and Alexander, 24, do appliance maintenance and factory work. Her daughter, Nadezhda, 32, and an aunt, Anna, work in the institute's nursery.

Timothy lives in a nearby apartment with his pregnant wife, Tatyana, and works in the institute's circulation office.

Timothy — who no longer uses his Russian name Timofei — was 16 when he and his mother and five members of the Vaschenko family traveled 2,500 miles from their home in Siberia to Moscow. They stormed past Soviet guards outside the U.S. Embassy on June 27, 1978, to begin the standoff that resulted in their freedom.

"In the Soviet Union my husband and sister were in prison," Mrs. Chmykhalov said through her son. "I was in prison for 24 days. Now we don't worry that this will happen."

Marketing consultant in city Friday

A marketing consultant connected with the Texas Main Street Project will give a slide presentation at noon Friday on downtown marketing techniques at the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

All interested persons are invited to the presentation by Kay Harvey-Moseley which will deal with do-it-yourself window displays, marketing strategies and space allocation. The presentation is sponsored by the Marketing Education Committee of the Big Spring Heart of the City Project.

According to city Administrative Assistant Pat Hardy, Ms. Harvey-Moseley is employed full-time by the Texas Main Street Project in Austin to assist cities designated as Main Street Cities.

Although Big Spring is not a participant in the project, Ms. Harvey-Moseley is assisting the city "as much as time allows because our problems in Big Spring are similar and because we are attacking our problem in a similar way," Hardy said.

After 1 p.m., Ms. Harvey-Moseley will be available to consult free-of-charge with individual merchants on their specific problems, Hardy said. Those interested attending the seminar and in scheduling a consulting session should contact Hardy at City Hall at 263-8314.

News in brief

Farrakhan repeats praise

SAN FRANCISCO — On the eve of the Democratic National Convention, Muslim minister Louis Farrakhan repeated his description of Adolf Hitler as "a very great man" for a national television audience.

Farrakhan, a supporter of the Rev. Jesse Jackson's presidential campaign, stirred political problems for Jackson, and to a lesser extent for the expected Democratic nominee, Walter Mondale, with earlier anti-Semitic remarks.

Interviewed Sunday in New York on NBC's "Summer Sunday USA" by reporters at the Democratic convention here, Farrakhan repeated some of his most controversial statements.

New York Mayor Ed Koch replied in a later segment of the program that the Democrats, to win, must reject "the racism of Farrakhan and Jesse Jackson."

Koch did not expand on the remark about Jackson, although he said earlier that "Jesse Jackson doesn't represent black people."

Jackson has repudiated Farrakhan's remarks, but not the Muslim minister himself.

Channel crippled by strike

LONDON — Dock workers voted today to stop handling freight traffic at Dover, adding Britain's busiest English Channel port to the list of 90 idled by a six-day-old strike.

But the vacation plans of thousands of European travelers were saved when the dock workers said they would continue to handle passenger ferries to the Continent from Dover.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, confronted by nationwide coal mine and dock strikes, convened members of her Cabinet today to discuss options. She hinted over the weekend that army troops might be called in to do the work of 35,000 longshoremen at the ports.

The dock workers struck last Tuesday to protest the use of non-union labor to unload iron ore destined for a British Steel plant that the striking miners had tried to shut down to increase the effectiveness of their work stoppage.

The 25,000-member National Union of Seamen has also stopped working, halting freight ferries in a protest against the government's plan to sell profitable ferry services to private enterprise.

The 500 Dover dockworkers voted to join the rest of their Transport and General Workers Union in the strikes as the summer school holiday season began.

U.S. warns New Zealand

WELLINGTON, New Zealand — The United States has warned that it will break defense ties with New Zealand if the New Labor government follows through on threats to ban port visits by American warships, top officials said today.

Washington has made it clear privately that the ANZUS defense pact of Australia, New Zealand and the United States will be discarded if the New government moves against American defense interests, according to high-placed sources who declined to be identified further.

U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz said during a break in the first day of the annual ANZUS defense summit, "We hope to continue in partnership with the new government."

Miss Texas tells hopefuls winning is 'mental attitude'

FORT WORTH (AP) — Tamara Hext, who entered the Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant initially three years ago, says her improved singing helped her win the title.

"I'd worked so hard to improve my singing. I had a fantastic voice coach, Ginny Falk in Arlington, she made the difference," she told a news conference Sunday.

The 21-year-old Miss Arlington defeated 68 other contestants as she was crowned Miss Texas 1984 Saturday night. Among participants in the pageant was Tracey Dawn Estes, Miss West Texas. Miss Estes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Estes of Big Spring.

Miss Hext is a communications student at the University of Texas at Arlington. She won a prize package worth more than $35,000 and the right to represent Texas in the Miss America pageant.

"It's all in your mental attitude," she advised title seekers. "You can do anything you think you can."

She won the preliminary swimsuit competition Wednesday night and returned to top Friday's talent competition with her rendition of "I've Got a Crush on You."

She is an experienced pageant winner, starting in 1980, when she was Miss Texas T.E.E.N. and fourth runner-up to National Miss Teen.

Miss Hext, who is from Vidor in Orange County, was a competitor for Miss Texas in 1982 as Miss Beaumont. Last year she was first runner-up in the Miss Arlington pageant before winning a spot in the Miss Texas competition as Miss Hurst-Eules-Bedford. She made it to third runner-up in last year's state pageant.

She said she is honored to represent Texas in the Miss America contest.

"I know you feel as I do," she said. "This is a wonderful state. I'll do my best to represent it well."

Sherry Lynn Elkins of Greenville was first runner-up, and Jonna Gail Fitzgerald of Duncanville was second runner-up.

Recovery misses hardcore jobless

First the good news — the unemployment rate, which dropped to 7.1 percent in June, is the lowest since April 1980. But there's grim news, too, for the more than 8 million Americans still out of work: They're facing tougher times than ever.

The number of long-term unemployed, those out of a job for at least six months and still on the job market, is one-third higher than in April of 1980 — that's a million more Americans. Black Americans have been particularly hard hit. At 15 percent, black unemployment is up considerably from the 1980 levels. Unemployed workers are off the job longer — two months longer — and, because of administration cutbacks, are less likely to get any government help to tide them over.

During the mid-1970s recession, some 70 percent of those out of work received unemployment benefits. Even at the trough of the recent recession two years ago, almost half had unemployment insurance coverage. Today, fewer than three unemployed workers in 10 are getting benefits, a smaller percentage than at any time in the history of the unemployment insurance program.

Those calculations don't account for the millions more "discouraged workers" who have given up on finding a job. There may be an economic recovery, but it's not for everyone.

On freedom

WASHINGTON — It was fit that the Statue of Liberty was being renovated on Independence Day this year. For the role of this country in supporting freedom is also undergoing major change.

The U.S. no longer serves the cause chiefly in the passive ways symbolized by the torch held high — as a role model and place of refuge. On the contrary, America has become the active mainstay of freedom, defending it in embattled corners and promoting its survival in the marketplaces of the world.

The statue itself drew its inspiration from 18th century France. Its theme was Enlightenment, the cherished belief of the famous philosophers. Their doctrine — now contested by bitter experience and not a little science — held that ancient wrongs could be righted, privileges swept away, superstitions ended and tyrannies toppled by giving the light of reason free play in the mind of man.

Many of those views bulked large with the Americans who declared independence on July 4, 1776. Jefferson, in particular, was a child of the Enlightenment. The truths he held to be self-evident, were those endorsed by Voltaire, Rousseau and Diderot.

As an active force for the spread of those ideas, however, the U.S. played only a secondary role. The young republic was too weak, and too distant from the centers of thought and power, to set the intellectual pace for the world in the 18th century. Insofar as "enlightened" ideas gained ground, and they did, the propelling force was the French Revolution of 1789 and the Napoleonic conquests which followed. In that sense, as Sir Lewis Namier once observed, the Statue of Liberty transplanted French ideas onto Anglo-Saxon soil.

By the time the transplantation took place — in 1886 — the U.S. had acquired a different, and very special, role in the struggle for freedom. It had become the refuge par excellence. Not just for a relative handful of dissidents in England and the Low Countries, who fled the religious persecution of the 17th century and then — on becoming country gentlemen — declared national independence.

No, the new migrants arrived en masse. They tended to come from submerged peoples threatened with annihilation by the dominant nationalities which increasingly asserted themselves in 19th-century Europe. Among the victims were the Irish, the Rhinelanders, the Bavarians, the Sicilians and Neapolitans, and the Poles and Jews. They came not for delicate reasons of individual conscience, but to live and to prosper away from the storms of Europe. Hence the famous lines of Emma Lazarus about the "huddled masses."

World War II, and its aftermath, foisted upon the U.S. a larger responsibility for the maintenance of liberty. The American role became environmental. It fell to this country to foster around the globe the atmosphere that made freedom possible.

Power — crude military power — was one requirement. First, the Fascists in Germany, Italy and Japan, and then the Communists in Russia, posed threats to the independence of many states and millions of people. The American nuclear deterrent and the commitment of troops in Europe and Asia barred the way. At the same time this country used its influence on the colonial capitals to promote a peaceful transition to independence for much of Asia and Africa.

Economic strength, applied in an original and magnanimous way, was a second requirement. American capital and managerial skill, made available directly or through multinational institutions, helped rebuild the prostrate economies of Europe and Japan. A monetary trading system, largely underpinned by this country, promoted rapid growth in the underdeveloped world.

Since the mid 1960s, if not before, this country has experienced grave difficulties in balancing the various commitments made in the name of liberty. Considerations of military power repeatedly ran athwart the spirit of the Enlightenment — in Central America now, and before that in Vietnam and other underdeveloped countries. Only recently has the U.S. begun to reopen its doors to aliens shut out during a period of nationalist fright.

Shortsighted preoccupation with narrow American interests has often caused the U.S. to do unfair damage to the economies of its friends and neighbors. In the 1970s, for example, this country exported inflation. And at least some parts are now paying the price in higher interest charges.

But if the nature of the American role in defending liberty has changed, if conflicting objectives sometimes mock old commitments, the general place of this country has remained steady. The U.S. stands for peace, freedom and prosperity — the modern equivalents of famous words from the great document. Namely, "Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness."

CIA picks a fight, then walks

WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency has an ugly history of inciting rebellions, then tiptoeing away. Left behind to be slaughtered are the native recruits whom the CIA has befriended, armed and trained.

This happened in 1974 to the Meo tribesmen in Laos, then in 1975 to the Kurds in Iraq, each time with tragic consequences. Now the CIA has abandoned the Indians and Creoles who had been encouraged to revolt against the Sandinista regime in Nicaragua.

The leaders of the betrayed guerrillas flew to Washington a few days ago to appeal to higher authority. "Don't turn your back on us," pleaded the anguished Creole leader, Teofilo Archibald, at a meeting on Capitol Hill. "My people are suffering real bad, and you sit back and do nothing."

The words choked in his throat. "You give me candy," he added huskily, "and then haul back the next piece." He could no longer hold back his emotion and sobbed.

The Indian leader, Steadman Fagoth, had betrayed his own seething anger to me in private. But he kept it under control at appointments my office arranged for him in Washington. He spoke calmly, factually, almost with an air of resignation.

The supplies the CIA had given him would soon run out, he said. Then it would be only a matter of time before the Sandinistas counterattacked. "If there's going to be any holocaust in Central America," he added wearily, "at least I'll be a witness."

The two guerrilla chiefs have now returned to the steaming jungles and swamps their people occupy along the east coast of Nicaragua. They will wait sullenly for the Sandinistas to herd their people into "relocation camps" — the communist terms, says Fagoth, for concentration camps. They will resist with knives after the CIA's bullets run out. Then they will probably die, as did hundreds of thousands of Meos and Kurds before them.

At first, the Indians and Creoles fought side by side with the Sandinistas to oust the hated dictator, Anastasio Somoza. But after the revolution, the Sandinistas decided that the natives' communal way of life would make excellent socialist demonstration projects.

Those who resisted this oppressive communist encroachment got harsh treatment. Both Archibald and Fagoth were imprisoned and tortured. Archibald showed the scars where his fingernails had been pulled out. Fagoth went through the standard, communist-style psychological torture — loss of sleep, erratic schedule, intensive interrogation, dehumanizing treatment.

The fiery Fagoth heads a coalition of Miskito, Suma and Rama Indians called the MISURA group.

My roving reporter, Jon Lee Anderson, is traveling with them inside Nicaragua. He reports that they are desperately short of food, medicine and ammunition.

Fagoth showed up in my office with a message from my reporter and an appeal for help. He was especially eager to meet the critics of U.S. intervention in Nicaragua and tell them what was happening to his people. I tried to arrange appointments for him to talk to Sens. Joseph Biden, D-Del.; Christopher Dodd, D-Conn.; and Patrick Leahy, D-Vt. On the eve of the Fourth of July adjournment, none of them could find the time.

But Fagoth met with other senators and aides. He also briefed staff members of the Senate intelligence committee.

Now that the CIA has cut off supplies to his forces, Fagoth was asked, what will they do? "It doesn't matter," he said glumly. "We will fight anyway."

Of course, it does matter. They cannot fight — indeed, they cannot survive — without weapons. The issue is not whether the CIA should have armed the MISURA and promoted an insurrection in Nicaragua. That decision was made 18 months ago. The issue is whether the CIA should now abandon its surrogates to a relentless enemy.

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Quick city work saves a business

To the editor: So many times as citizens we criticize the city government for the bad things that happen and when something good happens we conveniently forget to acknowledge a job well done. I would like to say Thank You to several folks that came to my aid.

On the night of July 4th, a fire broke out at Fraser Industries in our lumber storage area. Apparently, a firework had landed in some dry lumber, had ignited and was blazing when some unknown lady called the fire department. Because of their quick reaction time, the fire department was able to contain the fire to a very small area, and save thousands of dollars in lumber inventory. When I arrived, the fire was out and several night shift employees of Fiberflex Inc. had brought their forklifts to start moving lumber away from the smoldering wood. Because of the concern and reaction time of the Big Spring Fire Department, and Captain Davidson and his men along with those employees of Fiberflex Inc., a possibly disastrous situation was contained to a minor mishap.

Out it goes

About once every year, or every other year, it's time to clean out my wallet. Every time I collect some scrap of paper, I put it in my wallet, but it remains forgotten until I run across it at cleaning time.

Okay, let's open this thing up. At least the velcro is still holding up. I guess I'll start cleaning where I keep the thousands of business cards I gather each year.

This 1981 hockey schedule from my old college days can go. Ah, here are those cards from other photographers I've been meaning to write to. I'll put 'em back in the wallet so I don't lose them.

Here's my old press card from Oregon State. Did I really look like that back then? Out that goes. An auto club card? Since when have I been a member of this? I guess I'll save it.

All right, let's go through these funny little credit card holders. I guess I'll keep my new Texas drivers license. That picture looks like a clone of the one on my old press card. And here's my only credit card, with my wife's name on it, of course. Even though I make the money to pay for it.

Next page. Why do I still have my student body card from Bowling Green? I doubt I'll use it here. And a real nice looking picture. Wait a minute! This is my old girlfriend. Better get rid of it before my wife sees it. Nah, it'll be safe in here.

Okay, here is the picture of my wife. She looks better than my old girlfriend anyway. An old work permit card? I've had that for over eight years now. That can go. There's my Social Security card. I'll keep it, even though I've got it memorized anyway.

Finally, I'll go through the cash pocket. Boy, pretty desolate. Here's a laundry ticket. What did I take to the laundry in February? I'll stop by tomorrow and find out. I wonder whose phone number this is? Is it the sports reporter in Odessa, or is it my first girlfriend in Seattle? I'll phone it the next time I open my wallet and find out.

Wow, look at this receipt from some burger place. I think it was in Nebraska someplace. Since it's my only souvenir from Nebraska, I'll keep it. Maybe I will keep my old press card. And that old hockey schedule. It was a fun season. What the heck, I'll just keep everything. I can't bear to part with a piece of it.

Hold on one second, what is this wadded up piece of paper doing stuffed in the bottom of my wallet? Well, I don't believe it. This must be my lucky day. It's a dollar bill!

Spoiled child

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: How do you know if you are spoiling your child? I guess I tend to be a bit easy on my son, but he doesn't have a father and I don't want to give him an unhappy life. But, on the other hand, I know I don't want him to be a spoiled brat. How can I raise him correctly? — Mrs. C.A.

DEAR MRS. C.A.: I am glad you are sensitive to the problem.

There are several practical things you should do (although I can't mention everything in a few paragraphs, of course). For example, you need to set up general standards of behavior that you can reasonably expect your child to follow. Then once you set certain guidelines, stick to them.

Most of all, make Christ the center of your home. Help your son realize that even if he does not have a father in his home, he has a heavenly Father who loves him and cares for him.

Dr. Donohue

Depression linked to disease

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 28 years old, with four children. My problem is that I get depressed. I have been getting depressed for years. At first it would be for a short time. Now it seems to last longer and it's harder to pull myself out of it. I read recently about a woman who was depressed all the time. She went to a doctor and discovered that she had some kind of disease. With medication, she is fine now. What would one look for if depression is medically related? — Mrs. N.T.K.

Many physical ailments can bring on depression. It is, in fact, a natural reaction to sickness. Of course, here I am speaking about the occurrence of depression in the person fully aware of the physical problem. But I think you mean to ask about the illnesses in which depression is a prominent feature well before the physical symptoms occur and diagnosis is made. I can mention thyroid disease, pernicious anemia, multiple sclerosis, Cushing's disease and Addison's disease.

I am sorry that I cannot tell you how you can tell if your depression is part of any specific illness. The only way to answer that question is to have a physical examination. That just makes good sense, because depression is almost never the sole symptom of an illness. There will always be other physical signs — certain gland activity, blood levels of various substances, and so on.

Indeed, medicines can help ease depression, whether they are given to treat a contributing physical ailment (as in the story you read) or to treat the psychological depression itself. And, as an afterthought, I should mention that there is a test to uncover certain cases of psychological depression. It's called the dexamethasone suppression test. I wonder now if that is what you are asking about.

Certainly, there is help for you, whether your depression have psychological or physical roots. Don't give up in your search for that help.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble" — it could be dangerous. Read the booklet, "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need to Know About Them." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Voorhies attends NAACP convention

Dock Voorhies spoke about the National Convention to members of the Howard County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) at a July 9 meeting. The meeting was at the Chamber of Commerce Conference Room.

The convention was held June 30-July 6 in Kansas City, Mo. Speakers included Jesse Jackson, Walter Mondale, Gary Hart, Harold Washington, and Elizabeth and Bob Dole.

Representing Big Spring in the Afro-American Cultural Technological and Scientific Olympics (ACT-SO) in Kansas City, Mo. were Michael Walker, Chandra Wrightsil and Sarah Stephen. The youth competed in the regional competition in Lubbock, May 5 and won expense-paid trips to Kansas City to compete at the national level where they could win as much as a $1,000 scholarship in their category. ACT-SO, sponsored by the national organization of NAACP, is a cultural enhancement program for youth. Of the 22 Texas youths who competed, only Walker placed — winning a third place. He competed in three areas: oratory, dramatics, and playwriting. He won a bronze medal and $500 for his performance.

The next fund-raising project NAACP will sponsor is a food booth during the "downtown blowout" being planned for July 28. Barbecue sandwiches and dinners will be sold for $2.50 and $4, respectively.

The NAACP State Conference will be held in Fort Worth, Oct. 4-5. The $60 per person registration fee will cover lunches and a banquet.

Captain and Mrs. Carroll Braun brought dolls for distribution to members who plan to enter the Salvation Army's annual doll dressing contest.

Lavera Mitchell will chair the nominating committee. The committee will select nominees for the upcoming election of chapter officers. Arletha Jones will serve as coordinator of the annual banquet planned for the first week of December.

Members were reminded that planning for Black History Month activities should begin soon. Black History Month will be celebrated in February, 1985.

The Legal Redress committee's work on the By-Laws was discussed. Dietra Avery, liaison to NAACP members at the Federal Prison Camp, reported about her visit to the Ebony Club there. Arrangements for the club to participate in the chapter's activities may be made by presenting a written proposal to the appropriate officials 30 days prior to the actual date of the activity.

During the recent membership drive, 47 people joined NAACP. Voorhies won the prize for signing up the most new members.

For further information about Howard County Chapter NAACP activities contact Voorhies at 263-8265.

Elderly patients urged to vote

NEW HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Minnie Kerzner, 74, has a mission: she wants to sign up her peers to vote in the coming November presidential election.

She is a former volunteer on the Board of Inspectors for the Democratic Club of Middle Village in the borough of Queens, New York City. As such, she knows firsthand the issues that concern the elderly, the fastest-growing segment of the population.

"For 35 years I ran affairs for the Democratic Party," says Mrs. Kerzner, who nine months ago suffered a stroke. "Now, I can't do as much."

While undergoing rehabilitation at the Jewish Institute for Geriatric Care (JIGC) in New Hyde Park, she spends a good part of her day speaking to other patients. She has been helping run a voter registration table in the lobby of the 527-bed voluntary, not-for-profit facility.

"Patients and staff must be taught that their vote counts," Roberta Salshultz, supervisor of the Activities Department, points out, adding that she hopes to "spark a light of enthusiasm for the election."

Throughout the months before the election, the Activities Department has invited candidates to speak to patients.

According to Edith Shapiro, director of the department, government statistics have shown that only 35 percent of eligible voters with income below $7,000 will vote in any presidential election. Many elderly are among those low-income earners.

Many frail elderly don't realize how important their vote is in challenging policies, adds another patient, 93-year-old Natalie Krackow.

"You are losing your rights if you don't vote," Mrs. Krackow told an elderly passerby. "Just read about the issues and you'll see why you must continue to vote — forever."

At JIGC, both short- and long-term patients meet weekly to discuss issues relevant to the elderly and their families.

"The opportunity to talk politics opened up a new world for me here," says Marian Whitestone, 77, who came to the institute for rehabilitation following a hip fracture in April.

"I have always voted," adds the former teacher, who spends many hours talking with other patients about voting.

Dear Abby

Dad wants to reach out and hit son

DEAR ABBY: You be the judge. Junior, our married son, and his wife have a habit of taking their telephone off the hook whenever they feel like it. When the phone is off the hook, the caller gets a busy signal and has to call again.

Well, the other evening my husband tried to phone our son, and he got a busy signal for two hours straight. He became furious, got into his car and drove to Junior's house. (It's about three miles.) When he got there, he found Junior, his wife and their kids just sitting in the backyard, doing nothing. Junior had taken the phone off the hook because they didn't want to be disturbed during dinner, and nobody thought to put it back on!

My husband took our son apart for his "selfishness" and "lack of consideration" for us, his parents, saying we should be able to reach him by phone when we want to. Junior apologized, but didn't promise to discontinue the practice of taking the phone off the hook.

What do you think about this situation? Is Dad out of line to complain?

MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes. A person installs a telephone for his own convenience — not for the convenience of others. If my memory serves me well, it was the late Supreme Court Justice Brandeis who said, "One of the most cherished of all rights is the right to be left alone."

Of course, if parents are elderly or in poor health, one would hope that their children would keep their telephone line "open" in case of an emergency.

DEAR ABBY: I just read "A Parent's Prayer" in your column and feel the need to comment.

What's with all this, "Dear God, make me...; Dear God, help me...; Dear God, guide me..." and all such other weak-kneed whining?

How about, "Dear Mother, haul up your bootstraps, buckle on your armor and call on all the common sense, guts and love you were born with and raise your children yourself?"

MRS. J.G.L., MEDINA, OHIO
DEAR MRS. L.: I think you missed the point. "A Parent's Prayer" was a mother's plea for the patience, strength and wisdom to raise a child. All mothers know that raising a child is a do-it-yourself project.

DEAR ABBY: Please contact your experts on the best way for women to remove body hair in order to wear those new swimsuits.

SUSAN IN BROOKLYN
DEAR SUSAN: There is no "best" way for all women. Electrolysis for permanent hair removal is costly, and takes a long time because each hair is removed (by needle) individually. (Some hairs grow back and must be removed again.) Waxing is popular but not without pain. Depilatories are popular, but because they contain strong chemicals, they must be used with care in certain areas.

Shaving is another option, but many complain that it encourages regrowth, and they get a 5 o'clock shadow before 6 p.m.

Then there's "Baby Touch," a simple, mitten-like buffer that's easy to use and has been a longtime favorite of women of all ages.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who has a sneeze like no other sneeze I've ever heard. His sneezes sound like a massive explosion, resembling a horrible bark!

It seems to me that everyone has some kind of warning that a sneeze is coming on — if only a few seconds — but that should be ample time to muffle to some extent.

Yesterday my husband was right behind me in the kitchen and I wasn't aware of it until he let go with one of his thunderous sneezes. I nearly scalded my feet with a kettle of boiling water I was holding! His surprise outbursts affect me as though a firecracker had suddenly gone off right next to my ear. I'm afraid one of these days I'll automatically start swinging and hit him in the mouth. Any advice?

KERCHOO IN AUSTIN, TEXAS
DEAR KERCHOO: You and your husband have a communication problem — which is nothing to sneeze at. Tell him that when he comes into a room, he should give you a "yoo-hoo" so you'll know he's there. And when he feels a kerchoo coming on, have him either head in another direction, muffle it or risk a punch in the mouth.

Pre-Olympic meet gets new records

WALNUT, Calif. (AP) — Bill Green shattered his American record in the hammer throw and Ria Stalman of The Netherlands smashed her national record in the women's discus with the best toss in the world this year in a pre-Olympic track and field meet Sunday night.

Green, 24, threw the hammer 251 feet, improving the national mark of 245-2 that he had set May 20 at Long Beach, Calif.

Green broke his record twice Sunday night. Before reaching his record throw on his fifth attempt, he had a toss of 247-7 on his third try.

Green, who is helped in his throwing by Harold Connolly, the 1956 Olympic gold medalist, also won the Olympic Trials competition last month with a toss of 240-3.

In winning the event, Green edged Giampaolo Urlando of Italy by one inch. Urlando finished second at 250-11 in the heated competition which produced two other national records.

Third-place finisher Declan Hegarty of Boston University broke the Irish mark with a heave of 250-5 and Shigenobu Mirofushi set a Japanese record in finishing fourth at 248-3.

While expressing elation over his latest record, Green admitted, "I'm a long way off from the world record."

"Just give me another couple of years," he added.

The world mark of 283-3 was set by Yuri Syedikh of the Soviet Union July 4 at Cork, Ireland.

The 32-year-old Stalman, in putting together a tremendous series, uncorked her longest throw, 233 feet, 8 inches, on her fifth attempt. The distance set an American all-comers' record — the best throw ever on U.S. soil.

Stalman, a U.S. collegiate champion while at the University of Texas-El Paso in 1978 and while at Arizona State in 1979 and 1981, as well as the 1982 and 1984 Athletics Congress champion, had set her country's national record this year at 221-9 in the TAC meet. She surpassed that distance twice Sunday night. Her first throw was 228-9, exactly seven feet farther than her previous best.

Stalman's other throws, in order, were 218-7, 218-9, 215-3 and 223-9.

Stalman's best mark made her the No. 5 all-time performer in the event, and the throw was the seventh best performance ever.

The world record is 240-4, by Galina Savinkova of the Soviet Union in 1983.

The previous best throw in the world this year was 233-0, by Gisela Beyer of East Germany.

With the powerful Eastern Bloc nations boycotting the Olympics, Stalman's superlative series firmly established her as the favorite for the Games, which begin July 28 at Los Angeles.

In last year's World Championships in Helsinki, Finland, Stalman finished seventh, behind six East European discus throwers.

She was ranked 10th in the world in 1983, and is the only member of the top 10 from last year who will be competing in the Olympics.

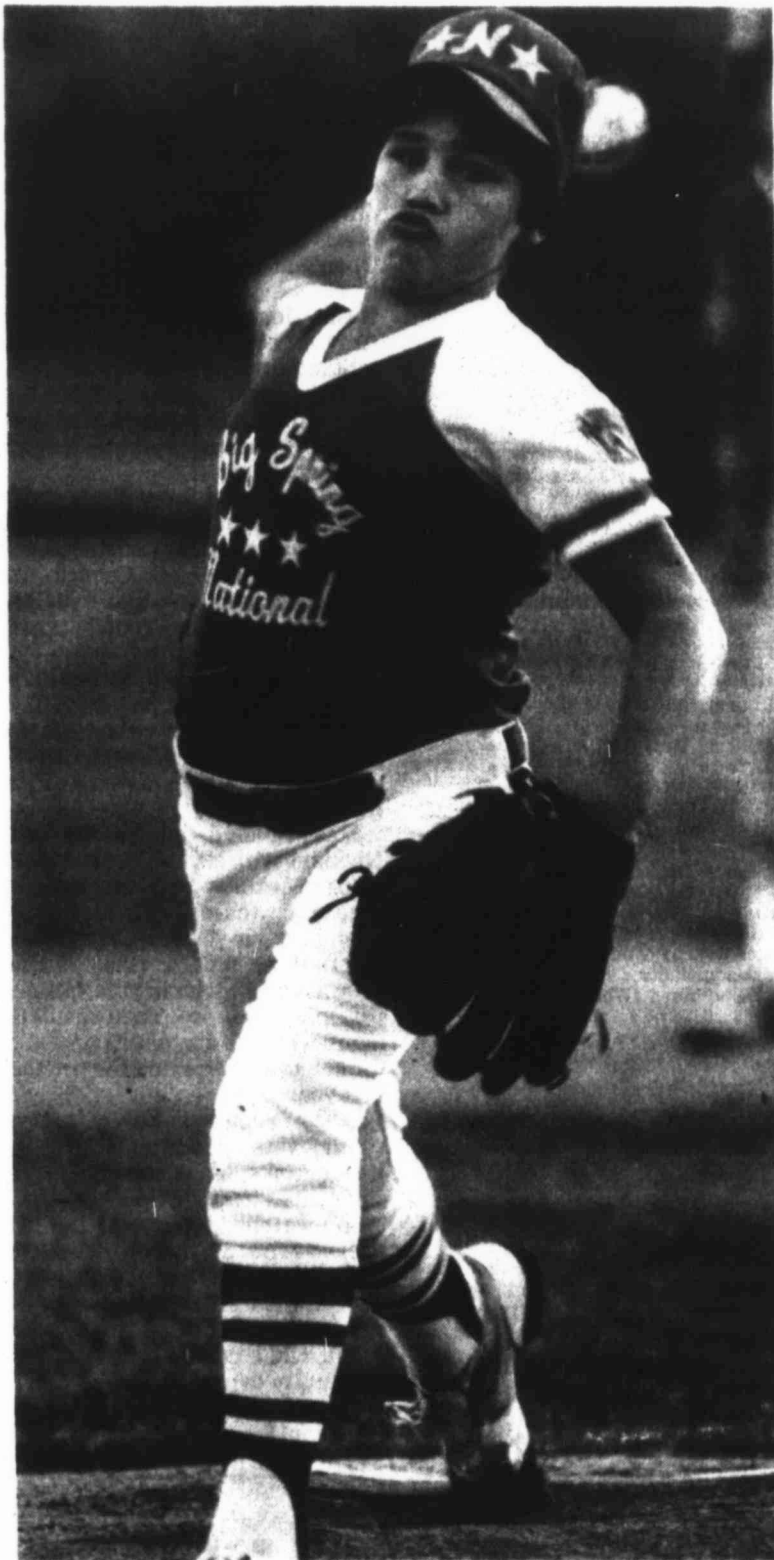

"I've had some pretty wild dreams about throwing the discus, but never anything like this," the excited Stalman said.

Asked about the possible impact of her performance in The Netherlands, she replied, "I think they'll go bonkers when they read of this one."

Usually after a long early throw like Stalman produced on her first try, there is a tendency to slack off. But she had an explanation for not letting down.

"If I fall behind in the Olympic Games, I want to feel that I can come up with my best to win because my major goal is the gold medal," she said.

Lorna Griffin, who finished second to Stalman at 206-0 and won the women's shot put at 5.7, put together the best "double" ever by an American in those events. Griffin, the all-time No. 3 U.S. performer in the discus and No. 2 in the shot put, also is a member of the Olympic team in both events.

NL ALL-STAR — Neal Mayfield gets set to let one fly during recent action in the District Little League Tournament that continues this week in Big Spring. Mayfield was the starting pitcher in this game against the Big Spring American League All-Stars, won by his teammates 8-4. The NL team will take on Western Midland at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the National League park. Games tonight pit Big Spring's Texas leaguers against Midland Eastern at the American League park and Coahoma against Midland Tower at the National League field. Both games get underway at 8.

Davis Cup match favors U.S. team

ATLANTA (AP) — Most of the suspense ended in the early going, but John McEnroe managed to keep everyone's attention on and off the court in the United States' 5-0 Davis Cup tennis victory over Argentina.

The start of Sunday's competition was delayed 51 minutes while doctors examined McEnroe and Argentine star Jose-Luis Clerc. Davis Cup officials announced that McEnroe had tendinitis in his right lateral hamstring and Clerc had a slightly torn abdominal muscle, but that both would play.

McEnroe said later that he had planned to sit out Sunday with the injury, allowing Jimmy Arias to substitute. He said he changed his mind when he heard about Clerc. He said the Argentine faked the injury.

"I said, 'I'll play if he'll play,'" McEnroe said.

Clerc then lost to Jimmy Connors 8-6, 6-2, and McEnroe beat 19-year-old Martin Jaite 6-3, 6-4. Both matches were shortened to best-of-three sets because the contest had been decided when the Americans took a 3-0 lead Saturday.

Clerc left town without attending a postmatch press conference.

McEnroe had harsh words for Clerc on the court in a doubles match Saturday. The two argued at the net over McEnroe's accusation that the Argentines were trying to hit the American players, although McEnroe said after that match that "it's all water under the bridge."

McEnroe, who won his third Wimbledon title on July 8, said he was tired throughout the three-day Davis Cup contest.

His serve was erratic Sunday. He produced 10 aces in as many service games, but had three double-faults in the only service game he lost to Jaite.

By that time, however, the Argentine — who was substituting for the injured Guillermo Vilas — had been broken twice as McEnroe swept the first four games of the match while winning 16 of 20 points.

McEnroe broke Jaite again in the third game of the second set, jumping on short shots from the Argentine to seize the net.

Clerc was plagued by ground stroke errors Sunday, especially on his backhand, and lost his serve in the first game of the match.

He momentarily found his range from the baseline in the 10th game, breaking Connors' serve with the help of a blistering forehand on the run to pass the American.

But Clerc was error-prone again on his serve in the 13th game, dropping it to trail 7-6.

Newhouse might be next Cowboy retiree

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Dallas Cowboys fullback Rober Newhouse did not report to training camp Sunday and is considering retiring after 12 seasons, head Coach Tom Landry says.

Newhouse, facing a serious challenge for rookie Norm Granger for his roster spot as a reserve fullback, will make a final decision by Thursday, Landry said. Newhouse's daughter is scheduled to undergo surgery today and "he's pretty concerned about her," Landry said. "He said he wants to take some time and think about it."

Landry said Newhouse, 34, told him he still wants to play football, but "the outcome of the operation may change his mind."

Newhouse, who played sparingly last season, participated in the club's off-season conditioning program and had said he wanted to play one more season.

Stars shine in USFL title match, 23-3

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Coach Jim Mora has no doubt that his Philadelphia Stars, who have won 34 of their first 40 games, are the best team in the United States Football League. Nobody was about to argue with him Sunday night after the Stars captured the USFL title they thought they should have had last year by totally dominating the Arizona Wranglers 23-3.

Quarterback Chuck Fusina led the way, dancing around the Stars' league-leading pass rush and completing his first 10 passes to guide Philadelphia to touchdowns on their first two possessions. Then the defense took over, holding Arizona to practically nothing while the offense stumbled and fumbled its way through the rest of the half, blowing chances to put the game away.

The statistics tell the story of Philadelphia's dominance. The Stars had 76 plays — including a USFL playoff record 59 on the ground — and they outgained Arizona 414-119. But not until the fourth quarter, when Buddy Moor recovered Greg Landry's fumble on the Arizona 11 after Don Fielder's sack, did they score the touchdown that gave them some breathing space at 20-3.

"We had opportunities to get into the end zone and we didn't," Mora said of the first half miscues, which included a Kelvin Bryant fumble on the goal line, another fumble by tight end Ken Dunek on the Arizona 43 and a missed 27-yard field goal by David Trout, who earlier had missed an extra point.

"Sure, I think we should have scored more," said Fusina, who finished with 12 completions in 17 attempts for 158 yards and was named the game's most valuable player. "But the most important thing is that we won. I wouldn't care if it was 7-3 or 3-0."

The game was played in Tampa Stadium, site of the Super Bowl last January, and drew a crowd of 52,622, about 20,000 short of capacity. The National Football League championship contest was a sellout.

The Stars avenged a 24-22 loss to Michigan in last year's title game by clearly dominating George Allen's Wranglers.

In fact, so clear was Philadelphia's dominance that the Stars didn't punt until 1:20 into the fourth quarter.

Bryant rushed for 115 yards in 29 carries.

Philadelphia totally controlled the first quarter, taking the opening kickoff and methodically moving 66 yards in 10 plays for a touchdown.

The score came on a 4-yard blast by Bryan Thomas, who spelled Bryant more than usual because of Bryant's bruised toe. But the drive might have ended before it got going had not Fusina eluded John Lee, the league's leading sacker, and scrambled for 10 yards on a third-and-4 play from his own 40.

After the Philadelphia defense held Arizona without a first down, the Stars came right back. This time the drive covered 54 yards in nine plays, with Fusina taking it in himself from the 1 after fumbling

From then on, the Stars kept threatening but couldn't convert, even though Fusina completed his first 10 passes.

But Arizona couldn't go anywhere either as the Philadelphia defense, led by nose tackle Pete Kugler, shut off 1,000-yard rushers Tim Spencer and Kevin Long. Cornerbacks Garcia Lane and Antonio Gibson blanketed the Arizona receivers.

Finally, early in the fourth quarter, the Stars defense put the game away. Defensive end Fielder smashed into Landry, the ball popped out, and Moor recovered on the

Stacy claims third Women's Open

PEABODY, Mass. (AP) — The cool beer wet a dry whistle. She said she felt "great, just wonderful." No, there was no special impact, and there might not be one. She just was happy.

However, Hollis Stacy, only 30, moved closer to U.S. Golf Association immortality Sunday at the steamy Salem Country Club.

Stacy rallied from five strokes off the pace in an amazing comeback and won the U.S. Women's Open golf championship for a third time in a stretch duel with young Rosie Jones and longtime rival Amy Alcott.

Stacy fired a three-under par 69, equalling the tournament's best score, for a 72-hole score of 290, two over regulation, on the sun-baked, 6,285-yard layout.

Nailing down the victory on the final hole, she joined elite USGA company, such as Bobby Jones, JoAnne Gunderson Carner and Jack Nicklaus — while equalling the third lowest last round score in Women's Open history.

Jones won nine USGA championships, four Opens and five Amateurs. Carner, who tied for 20th here, has eight USGA titles — five amateurs, two Opens and one girls' junior.

Stacy pulled into a tie with Nicklaus with six USGA championships. Nicklaus won two national amateur championships before winning four Opens. Stacy captured three USGA Girls' Junior crowns before winning the 1978 and '79 Opens as a pro. Then she did it again with her dramatic comeback for her first victory on the pro tour this year.

born in 1954, the year the late Babe Didrikson Zaharias, suffering from cancer, set a USGA record by winning by 12 strokes here.

"Winning where Babe won is something special," Stacy said. "She was one of the greatest athletes in the world and won the year I was born. I think that was a lucky charm."

To help the charm, though, Stacy took extra putting practice Friday evening with a close friend, Helen Sobin of nearby Belmont.

"I had been very tentative the first three days because my putting was not up to par," Stacy said. "My friend suggested I widen my stance and it cured everything. I felt much more comfortable, more relaxed, more confident."

Stacy didn't just depend on the stars and the charm, though.

On the 67th hole, she drove into right rough. Taking a 7-iron, she then holed out for an eagle 2, putting her back into contention. She added another birdie on the 70th hole, saved par after a bad shot on the 18th and then watched.

"I gave it my best shot and it's over," Jones said. "I just didn't win."

"I felt like I would be the one to beat, but all it takes is one bad swing," said Alcott, who was betrayed by her driver on the 72nd tee.

The 1977 and '78 U.S. Open champion, Stacy played the last 14 holes in five-under par. Then, tied for the lead, she became a spectator.

Sports Briefs

Stars

Arizona 11.

But even then, it wasn't easy. It took seven plays and 3:04 to go those 11 yards, with Bryant lunging over from the 1 for the TD with 9:55 to play.

Then, after linebacker Sam Mills stopped Spencer on fourth-and-1 at the Arizona 29, Philadelphia took over. This time, Trout converted for three points from 39 yards out.

The Stars held Landry to 54 yards on six completions in 20 attempts.

Arizona was lucky to get out of the first half down only 13-3. Philadelphia outgained the Wranglers 249-49 in total yardage and kept the ball for 22 minutes 37 seconds to 7:23 for Arizona. The Stars led in first downs 15-2.

But the Stars kept stopping themselves. After their two early scores, Philadelphia began moving again from its own 37. But tight end Duneq fumbled on his own 44 after taking a pass from Fusina and Luther Bradley, who made the hit, recovered.

From there, Landry finally got the Stars moving, connecting with Trumaine Johnson for 15 yards and the Wranglers' first first down of the night. Then he hit Lenyy Willis for 17 more yards to the Philadelphia 24.

But the drive stalled and Arizona had to be content with Frank Corral's 37-yard field goal.

Back came the Stars, this time driving from their own 15 to the Arizona 2 as Fusina continued to scramble around the Wranglers pass rush and exploit left cornerback Lance Shields, subbing for the injured Frank Minnifield.

But on second-and-goal, Bryant dove into the line, was stripped of the ball by Jim Fahnhorst at the goal line and Bruce Laird — diving over the pile — recovered the ball in the end zone for Arizona.
