How's that? Moonwalk

Q. Where did the astronauts first walk on the moon?

A. Neil Armstrong did the first moonwalk in the Sea of Tranquility on this date in 1969, fulfilling Kennedy's prophecy to have Americans land on the moon by the end of the decade. Armstrong called it "a small step for man, but a giant step for mankind." He was accompanied by Edwin Aldrin Jr., and the Apollo 11 ship was piloted by Michael Collins.

Fire pay burns

City offer set; union may sue

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

City administrators are standing firm in their offer of $15,000 in back pay for city fire fighters substituted into higher ranking positions but not paid at a higher rate.

The news came in a memorandum from City Manager Don Davis to fire fighter's union president John Branham released to the press this morning by City Personnel Director Emma Bogard.

"We feel that $15,071 is the correct and just amount owed based on our records," the memorandum said.

"Again, we would extend the offer to you of the assistance of the Personnel Department and our records in trying to reconcile the discrepancies between your claim and our findings," it said.

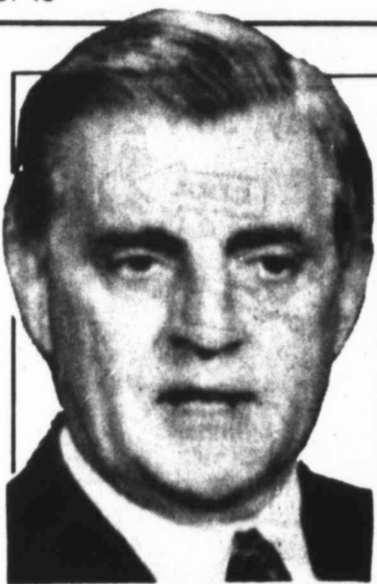

Davis' memorandum comes in response to a union demand for $45,000 in back pay for a two-year period between Dec. 1981 and Dec. 1983. In a letter to Davis received last Friday, Branham set out the union's $45,000 demand and gave city administrators five working days to respond or face a lawsuit on the issue.

Branham's letter also proposed three extra holidays per year for his union in lieu of its monetary demand. "What we're asking for in our holidays is a very minimal cost outlay to the city versus a cash settlement," Branham said last week.

Neither the union nor the city questions that firemen were substituted into higher paying positions but not paid at a higher rate. City administrators last December instituted a policy giving fire fighters the higher pay. At issue is the amount of money owed firemen for the period before the new policy went into effect.

'Taxes will go up, and anyone who says they won't is not telling the truth to the American people.' WALTER MONDALE

Acceptance speech by Democratic presidential nominee Walter Mondale.

New realism:

Higher taxes
Lower budget

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With Geraldine Ferraro his ticket mate by his party's shouted acclamation, Walter Mondale is running for president on promises to "stop the illegal war in Nicaragua," meet the Soviets once a year, slash the deficit — and raise taxes.

Accepting his party's nomination, Mondale launched his uphill battle for office from the rostrum of a Democratic National Convention that finally achieved unity — over his choice of a woman as vice presidential partner.

Ms. Ferraro's nomination Thursday night was approved by unanimous, long, loud shout.

Even when she said no more than, "My name is Geraldine Ferraro," the 3,934 delegates shouted themselves hoarse.

Democrats gave Mondale the harmony he needed if he is to have a chance against President Reagan. Mondale was meeting today with the Rev. Jesse Jackson, one of his final two rivals. He met Thursday with Sen. Gary Hart.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, who four years ago failed to wrest the nomination from incumbent Jimmy Carter and then avoided the nominee's embrace on the podium, delivered a rousing introduction for Mondale.

"By his choice of Geraldine Ferraro," Kennedy said, "Walter Mondale has already done more for this country in one short day than Ronald Reagan has done in four long years."

"If this administration has a plan for a better future," said Mondale, "they're keeping it a secret."

He said the next president — whether he or Reagan — will have to raise taxes, an unusual concession. Most politicians shun such talk.

"Taxes will go up, and anyone who says they won't is not telling the truth to the American people," Mondale said. The differences between himself and Reagan, he said, are that he is willing to admit to the tax increase now and he would raise taxes "fairly." He did not say by how much.

Mondale promised, if elected, to end within 100 days of taking office the United States' covert but well-known involvement in attempts to overthrow the leftist government of Nicaragua. He proposed to meet with the Soviets annually, to cut the deficit by two-thirds, and he said he would like to see the states ratify the Equal Rights Amendment by the end of his first term.

Thus started the fall's campaign. Reagan and George Bush will be renominated next month in Dallas. "Americans want the truth about

In 1944 Vic Ames was introduced to the atrocities of a German concentration camp.

Shot down over France on May 25, 1944, and captured by German soldiers, he found himself thrust into a nightmare that would haunt him for the next 40 years.

For Ames and other American soldiers, one of the hardest parts of being in a POW camp was the separation from family. Especially hard for Ames was that he had married only months before being captured.

Armed with a different set of memories is his wife, Edna Ames, who spent the early part of her marriage wondering if her husband had survived being shot down.

Mrs. Ames was a spunky young woman from Westbrook in the early 1940s who decided to do her part for the war effort. At 18, she loaded up her belongings and headed for San Raphael to work as a welder in a shipping yard.

Ames was a pilot in the U.S. Army Air Corp. The two met in a skating rink in San Raphael. A month after their wedding, Ames received orders to head for the European Theater of World War II.

"He was shipped east, so I decided to get as close as I could," Mrs. Ames said. The young woman found a job with the National Housing Agency in Washington, D.C. On her way to Washington, she stopped off in Westbrook to visit her family.

On D-Day, while the rest of the nation sat close to their radios listening for news of the mammoth invasion, Mrs. Ames received notice that her husband had been shot down weeks earlier and was listed as missing in action.

"That was the total of what I knew. I was scheduled to leave that day for Washington, D.C. I had been listening to the radio and thought Vic was taking part in the D-Day invasion. I got the telegram at mid-morning. That was a numbing shock."

She remembers "my parents and friends tried to talk me out of going to Washington. But I thought work would ease the pain. I went ahead to my job. Looking back, I think that was the best thing for me."

It would be 24 days before she would receive word from the Red Cross that her husband had survived and that he was a prisoner.

"That was a relief. It was the best news I'd ever heard. I was called to the personnel office and they gave me the telegram, which was like a heaven-sent gift."

Knowing her husband had survived eased her mind but did little for her loneliness. It was six months before she received a letter from her husband.

Meanwhile, her husband was being shipped around to various points in Europe. He remembers being escorted through Paris on the subway, then being sent into an interrogation center in Frankfurt, Germany.

From there, he was put on a train and sent into eastern Germany to a camp 20 miles from the Polish border. The camp, Stalag Luft 3, would be where he would stay for the next nine months.

In Stalag Luft 3 there were 2,500 men in each compound. "There were two outside privies for each compound," he said. "A truck would come in to clean out the privies, then they'd dump the contents

State heatwave returns

By the Associated Press.

Texas awoke to clear skies, light winds and mild temperatures today, although the mercury was expected to soar into the 90s and 100s before the end of the day.

Isolated showers and thunderstorms dotted portions of East Texas along a line stretching from south of Lufkin to near Waco.

Light easterly winds breezed across North Central and Northeast Texas, with southerly winds at 5 to 10 mph common elsewhere.

Early morning temperatures were in the low to middle 70s statewide with the exception of the Davis Mountains in far West Texas, where temperatures had dropped into the mid 50s.

Scattered thunderstorms brought heavy rains to Southwest desert areas today as cloudy skies and scattered showers and thunderstorms spread from Nevada and southern interior California to the southern and central high Plains.

Showers and thunderstorms also dampened areas of the Southeast, mostly across northern Florida, southern Georgia and eastern South Carolina.

Other showers and thunderstorms were scattered along a cold front from the central high Plains through Iowa to southern Lower Michigan.

Cloudy skies and a few showers broke over southern Louisiana and eastern Texas.

Temperatures were in the 70s across the southern and central Plains, middle Mississippi Valley, central Gulf Coast region, southern Atlantic Coast states and over portions of the northern high Plains. Temperatures were in the 50s in the upper Mississippi Valley, upper Great Lakes region, upper Ohio Valley and northern Atlantic Coast region, in the 90s in the southwestern deserts, and in the 50s in the northern Rockies and Pacific Northwest.

Today's forecast called for scattered showers and thunderstorms over the southern Atlantic Coast states, with thunderstorms most likely in eastern South Carolina and southeastern Georgia. Showers and scattered thunderstorms also were expected across south central Texas, along the central Gulf Coast, and from Arizona through Utah and eastern Nevada to the western half of Wyoming. Scattered showers were expected over the northern Pacific Coast region.

WEST TEXAS: Fair tonight with lows in the 60s and 70s. Highs Saturday in the 90s, rising to near 100 in the Big Bend. Isolated late afternoon and evening thunderstorms through Saturday.

GOP judge nominee visits city

Judge Virgel E. Mulinax, Republican nominee for Place 1, Criminal Court of Appeals, said in a noon speech at yesterday's Kiwanis Club meeting he hopes to make the public more aware of who it elects to this little-known position.

"I am concerned that this extremely important position does not receive the attention it deserves by the voter," said Judge

Mulinax. "My opponent's name is Sam Houston Clinton. This name appears to be my opponent's greatest asset," he said. Mulinax said he faces an "uphill battle" for the position because of his opponent's name recognition factor.

Judge Mulinax has served since Jan. 1975 as 115th District Court Judge in Upshur and Marion counties.

Price may get CRMWD bid

The Colorado River Municipal Water District probably will award the bid for construction of a dam and balancing reservoir to Price Construction Co. of Big Spring, according to CRMWD officials.

Price submitted a low bid of about $1.5 million for the construction, key parts of a district project to improve quality of water flowing into Lake E.V. Spence.

According to a CRMWD official, Price probably will receive the contract, pending verification of its bid specifications by district engineers. The district board of directors already has authorized District Manager Owen Ivie to award a bid. Construction should be finished by April 15, 1985, according to CRMWD officials.

Prison camp may get facelift

New buildings may be added to the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp under requests for next year. Prison manager John Gluch told the Downtown Lions Club this week.

Gluch said he would like to replace the two warehouse buildings, located across the street from the camp, with an on-site industrial building. He also said he may request demolition of unusable old barracks buildings and expansion of the dining room facilities.

Highland loses water service

Water service to the Highland South section of the city was interrupted for a 8-hour period last night because of a break in a 12-inch water line near Goliad Street and FM 700, Public Works Director Tom Decell said this morning.

The break happened at about 9 p.m. last night, he said. City water crews after repairing the break were able to restore service at about 5 a.m. this morning, he said.

While permanent repairs were completed on the line last night, crews will work today to cover the large hole that resulted from the break, he said.

Firemen, crews contain fire

Big Spring firemen and local construction crews worked until early this morning to contain a fire at the city landfill that covered about 45,000 square feet and was visible from all over the city.

According to Public Works Director Tom Decell, firemen along with crews from Price Construction and L.C. Nix Construction worked until about 2:30 a.m. pouring dirt on the fire to extinguish it.

He said that water could not be used on the fire because of possible danger to groundwater and soil caused by the mixture of solid waste and liquid.

Firemen received the call to the fire at 7:50 p.m. Thursday, Fire Investigator Burr Settles said this morning.

Settles said he has no cause to believe the fire was the result of arson.

Horseman club slates shows

The Howard County Youth Horseman Club is planning four horse shows through October, according to the club's show manager, Kenneth Williams.

Shows are scheduled this Saturday, and on Aug. 18, Sept. 15 and Oct. 13, Williams said. Registration starts at 9 a.m. each day, and the show begins at 10 a.m. at the Howard County Youth Horseman Club arena, located on the Garden City Highway off Highway 87 south of Big Spring. Entry fees are $2.50 for youth and $3.50 for adults.

Each show has 38 classes, for Shetland ponies, ponies, stallions, mares, fillies and geldings. Awards also will be given for showmanship, western pleasure, trail class, western riding, poles and barrels competitions.

In addition, jackpot barrel racing will follow the show. Registration for this race begins at 3 p.m.

Man jailed on drug charge

A 27-year-old Big Spring man was transferred Thursday to the sheriff's office from the police station for possession of less than two ounces of marijuana.

Russell Dean Felts of 802 Lorilla was released on $1,500 bond set by Assistant Municipal Judge John Stanley.

Cocaine gets man life term

BEAUMONT (AP) — Sixty-three pounds of cocaine found in a pickup driven by a Colombian man is probably half of a shipment that entered the United States through Miami, a prosecutor says.

Gustavo Roldan was sentenced to life in prison and fined $50,000 Thursday by the jury that convicted him. Roldan was behind the wheel of the pickup in November.

State District Judge Leonard Giblin congratulated the jury on their verdict.

"For what it's worth, I agree with your verdict and agree with the punishment," he said. "It's time somebody did something about this kind of narcotics coming through our community."

Assistant Jefferson County District Attorney David Grove said the large haul of cocaine was thought to be half of a shipment that entered the U.S. through Miami and was transferred to Houston.

west of the compound. We were surrounded by filth and flies. I never saw so many flies in my life. The stench was awful."

He was housed in a barracks with 18 other men. He remembers searches at 2 a.m. "Security was very, very rigid."

He was so cold that he shivered in his bunk, trying to keep himself warm in a room heated with a small coal-burning stove.

"Of the nine months I was there, I can remember only one hot shower. We had water for spit baths," he said.

For meals, he was served "cracked barley soup or rotten potato soup. We had old, black bread for filler, and coffee with acorn hulls in it." The men calculated they were receiving 300 calories a day.

Ames lost more than 50 pounds and became depressed, suffered from frozen feet and malnutrition.

"I never knew from one day to the next what the Germans would do," he said. A rumor spread through the camp that Hitler had order the execution of the American airmen. Such rumors kept the men constantly on edge.

Ames remembers with a smile the 18 men he shared his barracks with. "For the first two weeks, we joked about wine, women and song. Talked about good times. After two weeks, all we talked about was food. That was the No. 1 thing. We had to look out for ourselves."

Ames was moved again, this time on a "cattle car" bound for Nuremberg.

"We were crowded on there like cattle, crowded in there with our own excrement. I remember getting on, but I don't remember getting off," Ames said.

He stayed in Nuremberg two months before being marched to a camp near Munich. Before leaving Nuremberg he remembers American planes dropping bombs near his prison camp. One night, a 2,000-pound "blockbuster" fell within a half-mile of his barracks. "We could feel the heat in our barracks."

It was in the camp near Munich that General Patton's Third Army marched in to liberate the POW's, and Ames began his long journey back to the United States.

Thousands of miles away, Mrs. Ames, who had relocated to Houston, kept her hopes high that her husband was safe and would soon be released.

Throughout the year he spent in German camps, Ames managed to mail two post cards and one letter per month. Mrs. Ames received 18 pieces of the correspondence, some of them blackened out by censors. Post cards could have only 21 words on them and everything had to be block printed. But Mrs. Ames cherished each letter and card, and has saved them for 40 years.

She also sent a package of goods monthly. Ames would receive only one package.

1945 gave Mrs. Ames new hope that her husband would be released. "I had tremendous hope. That was an exhilarating time...We were winning the war, and I knew there was a possibility that he would be released. Newspapers began publishing names of prisoners who had been released, and I watched that."

Ames' family lived in Illinois, and it was here that the War Department sent notice that he had been released. His mother called Mrs. Ames in Houston, and Mrs. Ames hurried up to Havana, Ill., for his homecoming.

Mrs. Ames has a great empathy with other wives who have gone through the agonies of having a husband in a POW camp.

She especially sympathized with women whose husbands were in Vietnam. For those POW's, their prison stay would span several years. For others, no word of their whereabouts would ever be released.

It's been 40 years, but the Ames still have their scrapbooks and clippings to serve as visual reminders of the war. But the visual reminders are only a fragment of the reminders of a very difficult time they both have locked away in their memories.

Branham, the $30,000 discrepancy between the two sides stems from their differing ways of figuring the amount of back pay owed. Ryals said the city's figures are based on reports including those of the city personnel office, while the union used figures solely from Ryals' office. "We feel reasonably sure (the personnel office figures) are more up to date than mine," Ryals said last week.

Union figures also reflect the addition of an officer's slot on each piece of fire equipment, as recommended by the National Fire Protection Association Standards, Branham said.

According to Ryals, who said he negotiating the State Board of Insurance on the issue, "there is no set rule that there should be an officer on each unit. (The board said) that I as chief could designate anyone I so choose to operate that vehicle."

Mrs. Bogard said this morning the addition of the officer's slot on city fire equipment accounts for about $14,000 of the union's demand. She said the officer's slot was neither budgeted by city administrators nor called for by state law.

Branham said that if his union should win its proposed suit against the city, which would include a provision for an officer's slot on city fire equipment, then a precedent would be set and "other fire departments would have to follow suit."

According to the union president, he has the backing of state and national fire fighters union officials in filing the lawsuit.

The dispute caps some seven months of negotiations on the issue between city administrators and union officials, Branham said.

One reason Big Spring fire fighters formed a union seven months ago was to "get things that are due us by law," he said.

He's shooting at stardom

LOS ANGELES — Chuck Connors, the fast-shooting Lucas McCain in "The Rifleman" television series and the star of more than 35 motion pictures, has received a star in Hollywood's Walk of Fame.

CHUCK CONNORS

Connors' star was unveiled Wednesday in the sidewalk outside the Paramount Theater on Hollywood Boulevard in noontime ceremonies sponsored by the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce.

"People can walk all over me now," the square-jawed, 6-foot-5 actor quipped to family members and celebrity onlookers that included "Rifleman" co-stars Johnny Crawford, Patricia Blair and Joan Taylor, plus Los Angeles Lakers Coach Pat Riley.

Connors, 60, who most recently co-starred in "The Yellow Rose" on NBC-TV, was the 1,783rd celebrity to be honored in the Walk of Fame. His star was placed between those previously dedicated to Pearl White and George Gobel.

Born in New York City, Connors starred as "The Rifleman" from 1958 to 1963. He has had numerous TV guest-starring roles, and won an Emmy nomination in 1976 for his part in TV's "Roots" mini-series.

All this for a tank

LOS ANGELES — Comedian Eddie Murphy's billing as "strategic guest star" in "Best Defense" is a studio ploy to disguise his minor role, say disgruntled theater owners who claim they were led to believe Murphy was a full-fledged co-star.

EDDIE MURPHY

In the Paramount comedy scheduled to open Friday, Murphy briefly portrays a soldier who field-tests a tank developed by an engineer played by Dudley Moore, the main character.

"It's a rip-off," an executive with a large Midwestern theater chain told The Los Angeles Times.

"It was quoted to me as an Eddie Murphy-Dudley Moore movie," added the executive, who asked not to be identified by name. "But Murphy's in it for about 15 minutes, and it's obviously a secondary story line."

The Times said other theater owners who booked the film say Paramount's description of the film exaggerated Murphy's role in order to drum up buyer interest.

Despite the criticisms, a Paramount spokesman said the studio has been "extremely meticulous" not to overstate Murphy's role.

Meanwhile, the district attorney's office Wednesday said that Murphy will not be charged in connection with a bar fight in which he was slightly hurt. Murphy's manager, Robert Wachs, said Murphy was caught in the middle Saturday when a woman being pursued by a bar patron tried to hide behind the 23-year-old entertainer.

Ben Hur had chariots

DALLAS — The blood, decapitation and general mayhem contained in the newest Arnold Schwarzenegger movie "Conan the Destroyer" is suitable for children under age 16, a jury said in overruling a city movie board.

"It was nothing compared to 'Ben Hur,'" Pat Chancey, one of the 12 jurors, said after the panel voted 10-2 Tuesday to overrule the Motion Picture Classification Board's rating of "not suitable" for children under 16.

Fugitives

FATHER, SON — A task force is searching for Don Nichols, 53, (left) and his son, Dan, 19, wanted in a bizarre kidnapping scheme.

No trace

'Mountain men' may have fled to Canada

BIG SKY, Mont. (AP) — Two mountain men who kidnapped and wounded a woman athlete and killed a would-be rescuer may have already fled the area and headed for neighboring states or Canada, authorities said after an intense search found no trace of the pair.

Officers planned to search one more area today before concluding that Don Nichols, 53, and his son Dan, 19, self-styled wilderness buffs who have roamed the hills for years, have eluded a four-day manhunt and fled, Madison County Sheriff Johnny France said Thursday.

The sheriff said charges of deliberate homicide and kidnapping probably would be filed against them today in the killing of Alan Goldstein and the wounding of Kari Swenson.

Eleven men in helicopters failed Thursday to uncover any new trace of the Nicholoses, France said.

If a final aerial search of one more mountain campsite is unsuccessful, "I feel it's safe to assume these people have left the area," the sheriff said.

The heavily armed tactical team combed two campsites in a daylong ground search Thursday after helicopters ferried them into the remote Spanish Peaks area of the Madison Mountains.

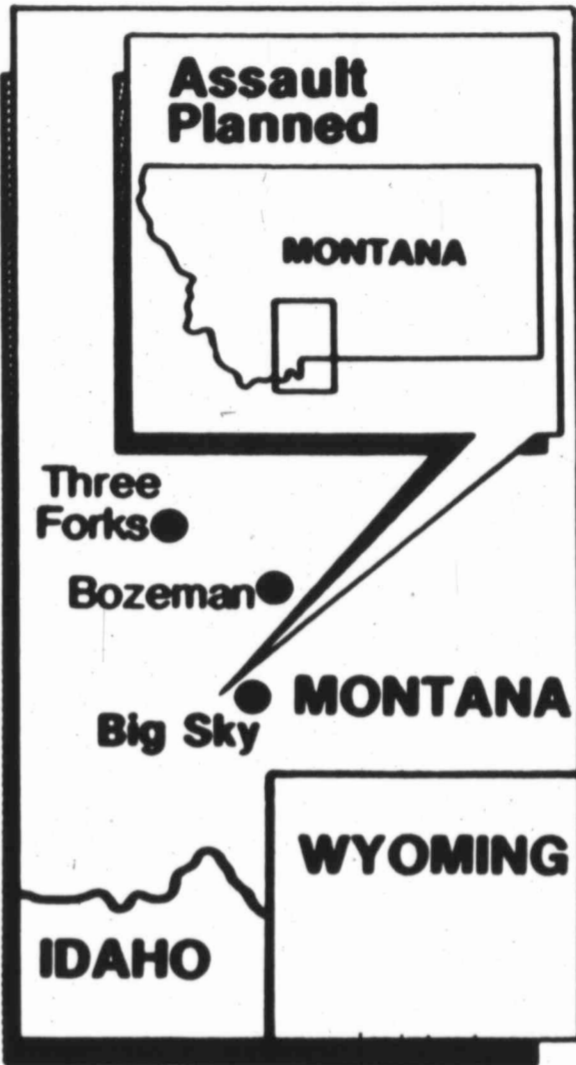

France said the searchers found no signs of recent activity, but found a large vegetable garden believed to be one of several the Nicholoses have planted in the mountains. He said it had not been tended for about a week.

Miss Swenson, 23, said the two men abducted her on Sunday, apparently to make her the wife of the younger Nichols. She was wounded, possibly accidentally, and Goldstein was shot to death when he and another man tried to rescue her Monday.

Miss Swenson topped the U.S. women's biathlon team at the world championships last winter in Chamonix, France. She remained hospitalized in stable condition in Bozeman with a bullet wound in the chest.

"They're going to have to cross boundaries where they may be seen, may be recognized," France said of the Nicholoses. "Sometime they're going to have to run into someone."

The sheriff said the men's major goal now is probably to avoid people. He said he believes they will experience a "psychological problem with taking another man's life," and they will also find it more difficult to buy supplies.

Authorities said the Nicholoses have lived in the mountains for the past 12 summers and have lived there continuously since August 1983. They reportedly have an extensive network of campsites, food caches and vegetable gardens in the mountains, and have walked the mountains from Wyoming to Canada.

News in brief

120 Poles seek asylum

VIENNA — About 120 Poles on a religious pilgrimage to the Vatican drove into Austria's largest refugee camp in four tourist buses and asked for political asylum, Austrian officials said today.

The Poles arrived at Traiskirchen camp about 16 miles south of Vienna on Thursday and were being processed today, officials said. Sixty other members of the tour group reportedly continued on the planned trip to Rome.

British dock strike ends

LONDON — Union officials and port operators agreed today on a "reasonable deal" to end a 10-day dock strike that had crippled Britain's foreign trade, closed scores of major ports and prompted stranded truck drivers to threaten violence.

The agreement, reached after a 15-hour bargaining session at offices of a government mediation service, came shortly after 511 dockworkers at Dover, Britain's largest ferry port, decided to break ranks with about 34,500 other strikers and return to work.

Iran denies Iraqi attack

TEHRAN — Iran, in an unusual step, has directly denied Iraq's claim of a successful attack on a "very large naval target" near Iran's main Persian Gulf oil terminal.

Iran has rarely made direct and prompt comment on Iraqi claims since the series of attacks and counterattacks on oil tankers and other commercial shipping started last February.

But Iran's official Islamic Republic New Agency quoted the War Information Office in Tehran as saying that "no event took place Thursday" in the gulf and that shipping was normal.

1 arrested in riot death

JOHANNESBURG — Police say they have arrested a civilian in connection with the death of a black man discovered dead in his police cell after weekend rioting in a black township.

Police Lt. Col. Koos Calitz said the 38-year-old civilian was arrested in connection with the death of Johannes Ngalo, 24, whose body was discovered Monday less than 24 hours after he had been detained.

Calitz said the suspect was to appear at a court hearing today, but did not identify him or provide any other details.

Outage darkens Delhi

NEW DELHI — A power failure plunged most of India's capital city of 6.1 million people into darkness for three hours before electricity was restored late Thursday night.

Affected by the blackout were Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's residence and the presidential palace.

The cause of the outage was not immediately known, but police and utility officials said there was a breakdown in the main power station. The only lights in the streets were those of cars and buses and a few street lights powered by separate generators.

Postal contract ends tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postal union and management negotiators, resuming contract talks, are attempting to reconcile money differences before the labor pacts expire tonight one minute after midnight, a union spokesman says.

Spokesman Alan Madison, of the American Postal Workers Union, said Thursday that union and management attorneys informed the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service that bargaining would resume today.

Despite the expiration deadline, strikes by postal workers are illegal under federal law, which provides for fact-finding and automatic binding arbitration if the negotiators can't settle their differences.

Postal labor leaders, while urging members to remain on the job, have not ruled out the possibility of wildcat actions beyond their control. And, they said if there's no settlement by the time the two largest unions hold their conventions in late August, the leadership might consider a nationwide walkout even though the Postal Service has vowed that strikers would be fired.

When the joint bargaining teams of the Postal Workers Union and the National Association of Letter Carriers stormed out of contract talks Monday, the Postal Service still was pressing for a three-year wage freeze.

The unions were insisting on broad increases in wages and benefits.

CLEAN: It's only begun to pay off

CLEAN is important to Big Spring. Sure, it's helped with sparkle and shine. Yes, it's given summer jobs — good, healthy, rewarding summer jobs — to young people. Perhaps CLEAN's greatest contribution, though, has been the can do spirit it has instilled in this community.

It was an idea that didn't die. Instead it grew into a viable, bootstrap program with which Big Spring could help pull itself from the doldrums. Since CLEAN have come a July 4th resurgence in SummerFest and the birth of a downtown renaissance. Whether CLEAN inspired these other successful projects, we don't know. But all of them are cut from the same mold: a take-charge attitude.

Now CLEAN is in danger of falling to the side. We are not through with this project; we have barely begun. We need an active CLEAN not only for its accomplishments in beautification, but also for its contribution to community spirit. CLEAN can continue its cleanup campaign only if people are willing to keep it busy. An active CLEAN program will mean much more to this city than spruced up alleys and lots.

Jesse go home

The Reverend Jesse Jackson has indicated he would like to be secretary of state. He claims his recent meetings with leaders of left wing and totalitarian governments is evidence of his diplomatic skills. Maybe. But there could be an argument made that the reason he is welcomed by all the adversaries of the United States is because he is NOT secretary of state.

Let us suppose that Mondale wins and he appoints Jackson as his secretary of state.

"This is Secretary of State Jackson. I'd like to speak to Fidel." A third-rate Cuban foreign office functionary says, "Castro is in a meeting. I don't know when he'll be out and he told me to tell you he has nothing to say to you, so stop calling him."

"But when I saw Fidel the last time he said his casa was my casa."

"That was before you became secretary of state. Now that you have official status, he considers you part of the American big policy to overthrow his revolution and continue CIA efforts to destroy our economy."

"How can he say that? I told him how impressed I was with the great strides he has made for peace, and if I had anything to do with it we would resume normal diplomatic relations."

"What did you want to talk to him about?"

"I'd like to arrange another political prisoner release, which will show Americans Fidel has the human rights of his people at heart."

"You must be joking. The only reason Fidel agreed to give you the ones he did was to put the screws to Reagan. He has nothing to gain by giving you any prisoners now. And he isn't going to take back the 1,500 criminals he sent you with the boat people either."

"But he promised he would."

"That's because you were a private citizen. Now he considers you just another pinstripe American diplomat who has lost touch with the people."

Secretary Jackson hung up. Then he told his secretary to get President Assad of Syria on the phone.

"Mr. President," said Jackson. "This is Jesse. I want to meet with you about Lebanon."

"We have nothing to discuss," Assad said coldly. "Why did you give Israel 24 more F-15 fighter planes?"

"I didn't give them to Israel. President Mondale did."

"You're the secretary of state."

"The secretary of state doesn't make foreign policy. He just advises the president of the United States what it should be."

"So why should I see you if you have no power in stopping planes from being shipped to Israel? When I gave you Lt. Goodman you were your own man. Now you're just a flunky of Mondale's pro-Israel policy. I should have suspected you'd sell out for a fancy title."

"I'm doing the best I can, but I not only have to deal with the president, but Congress as well."

"So who needs you?" Assad said. Jackson heard a click and the line was dead.

The secretary said to one of his aides, "Did Gromyko return my call?"

"No sir, and neither did Ararat."

"I don't understand it. When I had no official capacity, I could see anyone I wanted to. Now that I'm secretary of state no one will talk to me."

"Sir, I believe there is a simple explanation. Before, you were a powerful voice whom the Third World thought was speaking for the American people. But since you became secretary of state, you've lost all of your credibility because you can no longer embarrass Ronald Reagan."

Freedom flights common in Laos

WASHINGTON — Catastrophe and conflict have become commonplace in Laos, a faraway land abused by the communists who rule it. Thousands of Laotians, most of them Hmong tribesmen from the hills, risk their lives to escape across the Mekong River into Thailand.

Many of the people are persecuted because they were U.S. allies during the Vietnam War. Their travail is described in a secret cable from the U.S. Embassy in Vientiane.

With characteristic diplomatic understatement, the cable states that "many people in this country have had a pretty rough time." This has caused "surreptitious flight from the country by Lao and others who feel themselves threatened by the (communist) regime or who see grim economic prospects under it."

No early end to this flood of human misery is likely, according to a Defense Intelligence Agency report, because "the Laotian communists are determined to pacify the Hmong and integrate them into the new order." But the tribesmen, the report declares, "will vehemently struggle to maintain their way of life free of government interference."

My associate Dale Van Atta visited Thailand recently and spoke to Laotian refugees who have reached the dubious haven of Thai refugee camps and detention centers. They had harrowing tales to tell.

The stories most deeply etched in the hearts of the escapees involved babies — those who were born along the escape trail and died during its rigors, those who were killed by government soldiers and those who died from inhaling too much opium smoke, blown in their faces to calm them down and prevent crying that could betray the whole party to communist troops.

Van Atta's interpreter, Pngkaset Suwannakoon, told about a refugee mother he had interviewed. Her baby began to cry just as they were stealing into a raft to cross the Mekong. Afraid the Pathet Lao soldier patrolling the river bank would hear the crying, she put her hand over the baby's mouth. But in her panic the mother covered the infant's nose as well, and by the time the raft reached the Thai side of the river, the baby was dead.

At Ban Nong, a fishing village on the Mekong, a leader told my associate about a problem the village fishermen had encountered in recent years: snagging bullet-riddled bodies in their nets.

The ordeal of escape was described by You Toua Xiong, 36, a Hmong leader who had fled his mountain village with nine family members last February.

They crossed a dam north of Vientiane by boat and caught a bus to the capital. They were able to acquire a small truck, and they started driving toward the border. Other hopeful escapees joined along the way until they had 26 people crammed into the little truck.

At the Mekong crossing, they managed to obtain two small boats, which made repeated trips across the river in the dead of night. With 10 refugees still left on the Lao bank — three men, five women, a 4-year-old and a 1-year-old — the boats went back for another pickup.

Suddenly the refugees on the Thai shore heard gunfire, then silence. The boats never returned.

WORLD BANK SEXISM: For the past five years Susana Mendaro has been fighting a lonely, losing battle against sex discrimination at the World Bank, which is headquartered in Washington. She is an Argentine, 40 years old, who worked as a researcher at the agency for two years. She was recommended for promotion to consultant at a salary of $100 a day.

"She is working very competently at the level of a full professional and dealing with professionals as peers," her supervisor wrote on June 15, 1978.

In February 1979, Ms. Mendaro was transferred to the Latin American division of the bank at the urging of the division chief, who was impressed with her work. She was sent to Mexico with a World Bank team for appraisal of a regional development project.

But this apparent step up proved to be her downfall. Ms. Mendaro said she was not allowed to deal with Mexican officials — because she was a woman. Instead, she was told to stay in her hotel room. Bank officials, who do not refute some of her essential charges, said the meetings were too "delicate."

When she complained, her supervisor suggested in a "joking and friendly manner," according to the bank — that she undergo a sex-change operation. Ms. Mendaro also charges she was verbally and physically harassed by a male consultant on the trip. The bank denies this.

After she complained, she was abruptly let go. She filed a complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which said it lacked jurisdiction because the bank is an international agency. A suit in U.S. District Court met the same fate. Her complaint to the World Bank's administrative tribunal is currently under review.

Now Ms. Mendaro has asked the Congressional Women's Caucus for help.

Childhood shapes the adult

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have had a chaotic life ever since I was a child. Our home was like a battlefield, and my parents never showed any love for each other or for me. Now I find myself getting depressed very easily, and I read a book that said bad childhood experience could make a person depressed in later years. Do you think this might be my problem? — Mrs. C.W.U.

DEAR MRS. C.W.U.: It is true, of course, that our minds are very complex and there are undoubtedly many things that shape us. And two children growing up in the same family can often be very different as adults. But yes — it is entirely possible your depression could be caused in large measure by your difficult childhood.

Modern psychology is discovering a truth the Bible stressed many centuries ago: Early childhood experiences can be very important in shaping us into the people we later become as adults. This is one reason the Bible places such stress on the importance of being responsible and godly parents. "Train a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not turn from it" (Proverbs 22:6).

Speak with your doctor or your pastor about your true feelings. It may be they would suggest you would benefit from professional counseling which will help you understand yourself better and deal with your feelings. It may be also that your depression comes from other problems, such as a chemical imbalance in your body, and, if so, you need to find that out.

But the greatest discovery you can make is that God loves you, and He accepts you just as you are. Have you ever thanked Him for His love, and asked Jesus Christ to come into your heart as your Lord and Savior?

Around The Rim

The real thing

"You know, I've sat through a few of these things with friends while I was working overseas," said ABC anchor Peter Jennings during Wednesday night's Democratic Convention proceedings, "and they thought we were nuts."

Well, sure our conventions can sometimes resemble zoos, and maybe party polls and the media have gone a bit ga-ga over Geraldine Ferraro, but imagine how dull the whole exercise would be without the exuberance we've seen so far from the Democrats.

And why shouldn't the Democrats celebrate? Sparked by the most inspiring oratory in years, they've given us the most interesting convention in years, and not from the infantile political maneuvering that goes on at these things. Broad ideas were emotionally debated and a hard consensus was reached.

Who can resist the Democrats' story? Truly like the symbolism used in Mario Cuomo's keynote speech, they are a bickering family that has finally found a reason to get along.

I don't know what countries Peter Jennings was talking about when he made his comments, but I know from living in Japan for some 3½ years that I'll take a bawling American campaign any day over the superficial process that passes for politics in that oriental country.

Noise pollution ordinances go out the window as candidates, with voices amplified louder than any rock concert, drive through their respective cities in Toyotas and Datsuns. "Arigato gozaimasu, yoroshiku onagasimasu," thank you, think well of me, they shout over and over in crazed voices from dawn to well into the night.

The temptation is strong to throw rocks or rotten fruit at the passing cars after one is woken up at 6 a.m. by the uproar for the umpteenth day in a row. The decibels reverberate off the close-set buildings of the country and rattle the glass.

Sadly, these loud exhortations make up the sole discussion of issues, for consensus in this very private country has already been reached behind the scenes.

More concerning were the reports of vote-buying that one read in the English-language newspapers. According to one report, votes in Niigata Prefecture were running at about $15 a piece when I left.

And in a comical piece of political irony, candidates wear the traditional white gloves to show their hands are clean of political graft. After the trial of former Prime Minister Kakue Tanaka, who was convicted last year of taking million-dollar bribes from the Lockheed company, you can imagine how seriously voters take that piece of political symbolism.

This is not to say that we in America are without our embarrassments. My only point is that I feel so much more comfortable with the heart-felt hoopla, the craziness, the out-and-out emotional honesty that seems to go with American political campaigns.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Dear Abby

Woman finds she has animal magnetism

DEAR ABBY: This is regarding the animal lover who wrote to say that wherever she went, animals — and even wild birds — seemed to sense her love for them and instinctively came to her:

I don't doubt her story, but how do you explain this? I would never abuse an animal, but I don't particularly care for them. However, wherever I go, they seem magnetically drawn to me.

For example, I went to a friend's home for a barbecue supper recently. There were about 50 people there, but my friend's dog, with no encouragement from me, followed me around all evening. I ignored him but I couldn't get rid of him.

Another time I was a guest in the home of a man who had a cat. The cat kept rubbing against my ankle, so I picked it up and placed it on the lap of a woman I know is a great cat lover. No sooner had I sat down when the cat jumped off her lap and came running back to me.

I've also heard that animals "know" who likes them and who doesn't. How do you account for this?

CALIFORNIA MAGNET

DEAR MAGNET: Animals, I'm told, are endowed with a "sixth sense" that enables them to distinguish between dangerous and life-threatening situations and safe and non-threatening ones.

Apparently, you project an aura of love, kindness and security.

Animals sensing this are drawn to you instinctively. Even though you don't particularly like animals and your magnetism is meant for people, these animals assumed that it included them.

So humankind, rejoice! The old saying "You can't fool all of the people all of the time" doesn't hold true for animals.

DEAR ABBY: Recently while eating at a restaurant I have always favored, about halfway through my dinner I found a long hair in my food.

I called the waitress, showed it to her, and removed it in her presence. By that time I had lost my appetite. She said she wouldn't charge me for the meal, which cost $5.50. A few minutes later she returned to say her boss said she could take off only $2.75 because I'd already eaten half the meal!

Not wanting to cause a fuss, I accepted the $2.75 discount and let it go at that.

I think it was tacky of the restaurant to credit me with only half the meal because I'd eaten half of it, don't you?

How do you think the restaurant should have handled it? Also, how should I have handled it?

EX-CUSTOMER

DEAR EX: I think the boss used poor judgment. He saved $2.75 but lost a customer. You should have been given a complimentary meal. They blew it. You handled it properly.

Dr. Donohue

Reader suggests dry mouth tip

Dear Dr. Donohue: Your recent column discussing dry mouth due to Sjogren's syndrome took my attention. I have had this condition for years and the mouth dryness has become more difficult. The best solution is to carry plain water in small flip-top bottles found in camping supply stores. The smallest size can be held in the palm, the top flipped up quickly, and a few drops of water relieves the very real problems of dry, burning mouth and throat. The little bottle is almost unnoticeable in church during hymn singing, for instance, and enables one to continue without coughing or choking.

I carry the bottles in larger sizes in the car, one in my purse, and some in pockets so my handicap has been relieved. I think others could be helped in this way.

Screwtop bottles are not satisfactory. My husband keeps me supplied with the flip-tops. I find your articles informative and hope you will not mind my suggestion. I find this method superior to the special products for this. — M.H.F.

If this dry mouth threatment works for you, I'm sure it might for others. I am always most pleased to pass on a tip like this. Thanks for taking the time to send it along. It sounds like a good one.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What is the suppression test used to diagnose Cushing's syndrome? — T.N.

I'll explain one kind of gland suppression test used. In Cushing's, your adrenal glands are making too much natural cortisone. In the suppression test, a cortisone-like drug is given you by mouth. It's a powerful drug, so powerful that if you're normal your glands would stop making cortisone. The cortisone has suppressed the production. But if you have Cushing's syndrome the drug will have no effect and glands will continue making the cortisone. That's evidence that when it's not needed. It's overproducing.

This is a simple answer, but it will give you the idea behind the tests. And, of course, the level of the cortisone is measured in the blood for diagnosis.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can a woman who has had a complete hysterectomy suffer from premenstrual syndrome (PMS)? — Mrs. S.S.

I don't see how this could happen. If a woman has no ovaries (I presume this is what you mean by "complete" hysterectomy) she is not producing the monthly surge and ebb of hormones. Those hormones are the basis for PMS. And if she doesn't have a uterus (has had a hysterectomy) she lacks the organ where pain originates.

If afflicted with problem fingernails or toenails, learn about the practical, medically correct form of treatment. Write to Dr.

the future — not after the election, but now," Mondale said.

Today, the Democratic team goes its separate ways, after jointly attending the traditional unity meeting of the party's National Committee.

Ms. Ferraro returns home to her working class district in Queens, N.Y., for the weekend with her family and then heads for her congressional office in Washington on Tuesday. Later next week, she'll join up with Mondale in Minnesota for several days of meetings to map their campaign.

Mondale plans to decompress by fishing for a few days in the cold waters of northern Minnesota, looking for walleyed pike.

Mondale's speech was political and traditional; Ms. Ferraro's was philosophical.

As the first woman ever nominated for national office by a major political party, she made history — and she made the most of it.

"By choosing an American woman to run for our nation's second highest office, you send a powerful signal to all Americans," she said. "There are no doors we cannot unlock. We will place no limits on achievement."

Mondale said he is wiser than four years ago, when Democrats had "the pants beat off us." He lost re-election then as Carter's running mate.

"We are wiser, stronger and focused on the future," Mondale said. "If Mr. Reagan wants to re-run the 1980 campaign, fine. Let them fight over the past. We're fighting for the American future — and that's why we're going to win."

He dubbed his program "the new realism" — that may become his campaign slogan — and said:

"Tonight we come to you with a new realism: ready for the future and recapturing the best in our tradition."

Betty Friedan and Bella Abzug, pioneers of American feminism, danced in the aisle near the New York delegation when the convention nominated Ms. Ferraro. Male delegates yielded their seats on the floor to women alternates so they could be part of the moment. Some delegates were in tears after Ms. Ferraro's speech.

Chrysler reports record earnings

Minivan paces quarter profit mark

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — Chrysler Corp. announced its second consecutive record quarter Thursday, an $803 million profit for the second three months of 1984.

Chairman Lee Iacocca announced the profits and confirmed that one of Chrysler's two Fenton, Mo., assembly plants would be converted to production of the company's hot-selling Dodge Caravan-Plymouth Voyager minivans.

"We stand to make a lot of money," Iacocca said. "Not just in the next quarter but for the next year."

Chrysler's earnings would take the auto industry's traditional third-quarter dip because of tooling costs for the 1985 model year which begins in the fall, Iacocca said.

But the fourth quarter would be another robust one, he said, reinforcing Wall Street projections that the once-ailing car company would make about $2.5 billion for the year.

That would more than triple Chrysler's full-year profit record of $701 million set last year.

"This kind performance ain't bad for a broke company — or a company that was just recently declared broke, or bankrupt," Iacocca said.

Chrysler's auto sales were up

'We stand to make a lot of money. Not just in the next quarter but for the next year.'

Lee Iacocca

18.2 percent in the first half of the year compared with 1983, and truck sales, which include the minivans, also were brisk.

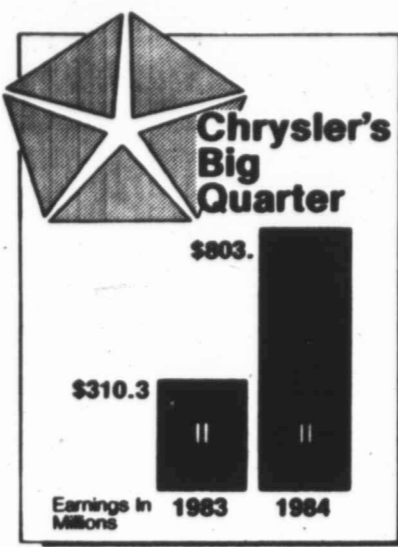

The vehicles being sold generally have more optional equipment than those sold last year, which raises the prices and company profits.

Iacocca said, for example, that the average minivan was carrying a price tag of $12,300 compared with a base sticker price of almost $9,000.

Chrysler's earnings for the second quarter came to $6.48 per common share. That compares with a profit of $310.3 million, or $2.41 a share, a year earlier.

Sales for the quarter were $5.25 billion compared with $3.57 billion a year earlier.

The $1.5 billion in earnings for the first half came to $12.12 a share, compared with $4.72 a share last year on a profit of $482.4

million. The increase in earnings was 210.9.

Sales for the six months came to nearly $10.2 billion compared with $6.6 billion a year earlier.

Chrysler for months had been looking for a second source for the minivans, the company's biggest automotive hit of the year.

The more than 150,000 minivans produced since introduction late last year were made in Windsor, Ontario, where the capacity is 260,000 to 270,000 a year.

The Fenton plant will turn out 160,000 a year, Iacocca said, giving the company an annual capacity of 430,000 more than a year from now.

The chairman said he did not know where Chrysler would move the tooling for big, rear-wheel drive cars, which the Fenton plant now makes. Industry observers have said Chrysler would make those cars in Mexico.

General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. plan minivans of their own in the 1985 model year.

Commissioner keeps oil production at 100%

AUSTIN (AP) — For the 90th month in a row, the Texas Railroad Commission set the state oil production rate for August at 100 percent of market demand.

Chairman Mack Wallace and commissioner Jim Nugent set the monthly allowable Thursday after hearing oil companies' nominations to buy a total of 2,421,520 barrels of Texas crude oil per day.

The August demand is an increase of 24,260 barrels daily over July purchaser nominations.

The August 1983 nominations totaled 2,454,667 barrels daily.

Air Force receives fighter jet

FORT WORTH (AP) — The first F-16C jet fighter, an advanced version of the operationally proven F-16A Falcon, formally was delivered to the U.S. Air Force on Thursday at the General Dynamics Corp. plant.

The F-16C resembles the F-16A externally, but contains more sophisticated radar, an advanced cockpit, increased capacity in electrical power and cooling systems, and structural changes for increased takeoff gross weight and maneuvering limits.

"This evolutionary, improved version of the Falcon incorporates a number of important system improvements which will enable it to operate effectively in virtually all weather conditions and at night," said Herbert F. Rogers, vice president and general manager of General Dynamics' Fort Worth division.

"These upgrades will significantly enhance the F-16's combat lethality, survivability and precision navigation capability," he said.

The basic improvements to the Falcon aircraft will make them compatible with several advanced weapons systems now under development for the Air Force, Rogers said.

"The F-16 is thus assured of being a highly capable, yet still affordable front-line multimission fighter into the late 1990s," he said.

The first F-16C will remain in Fort Worth to support the Air Force's technical order validation until December, when it will be ferried to Luke Air Force Base in Arizona for operational tests and evaluation.

Air forces in Korea, Egypt, Israel and Turkey are scheduled to receive the advanced fighters, the company said.

Union files suit on state agency

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas State Employees Union said Thursday it has filed suit against the Texas Department of Human Resources for allegedly violating employees' right to organize in San Antonio.

The suit, filed in Austin state district court, claims the department unlawfully harassed employees union steward Ed Hortick.

"In an effort to stop workers from organizing, DHR management issued a formal reprimand to Ed for his union activities, removed a majority of his job duties, interrogated him about his union activities and denied Ed the right to representation," the union statement said.

Texas League All-Stars topple Tower, 8-5

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Texas League All-Stars are an opportunistic team.

They take whatever they can get when it comes to winning and Thursday night they took advantage of nine Midland Tower errors and the steady pitching of Sambo Rodriguez to take an 8-5 win in the District Little League Tournament.

Unlike their 7-6 victory over the Big Spring National All-Stars in a Wednesday game when their bats didn't come alive until the final innings, Texas played excellent defense while Rodriguez stayed in control over Tower hitters to gain a win this time.

The Texas hurler was in command through the game as his variety of curveballs and fastballs kept Tower's batters off guard. He went the distance allowing seven hits, walking one and striking out two.

In fact Rodriguez was in trouble only twice the entire game, the first time being the second inning when Texas held a 1-0 lead. Tower tied it up with singles by Bob Belcher and Greg Galvin. Galvin came in to score on a fine piece of base running.

The second time Rodriguez was threatened was the sixth and final inning with his team holding a comfortable 8-1 lead.

Singles by B.J. Parish, John Crigler, Mark Burfield and a double by Guy Ray Petterson accounted for four runs.

Texas scored the first run of the contest in the top of the second off Tower starting pitcher Kraig Linville. Vallen Garcia walked and shortstop Renea Villa drilled a single to left field scoring Garcia. Villa was the leading Texas hitter for the night getting a single and a double in three trips to the plate while driving in two runs. He also played an excellent defensive game.

Linville pitched three strong innings for Tower, allowing one run on two hits. His replacement John Crigler didn't fare as well as the Texans rocked him for four hits and seven runs.

Texas iced the contest with four fourth inning runs. The big blow was a double by Villa and singles by Chris Cole and Ricky Escovedo.

Three more Texas runs crossed the plate in the sixth thanks to three Tower errors and a double by catcher Robert Lara. Valle, Chris Cole and Lara all scored.

OTHER GAME
In a battle between unbeaten Midland North Central whipped Midland Western, 12-1 to claim a place opposite either the Texas Stars or Western in Saturday's championship series.

The Texas Stars and Western will face off at the American League Park tonight at 8 for the right to take on North Central in game one of Saturday's championship series. Central has a bye since Tower's loss knocked that team out of the tournament with two losses.

In North Central's victory John Dickinson was the winning pitcher. He went the distance and allowed only two hits. Chris Duncan was the loser in only two innings of work. He did manage one of Western's hits.

For North Central, Scott Meiser had a homerun.

Clerc upset about tourney treatment

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Jose-Luis Clerc ripped apart Marco Ostojic on the court. When he stepped off the court, Clerc ripped apart organizers of the U.S. Pro Tennis Championships.

"There were so many bad things," said the third-seeded Clerc, who won the tournament in 1981 and 1983.

After beating his Yugoslavian opponent, 7-5, 6-2, in Thursday's second round, Clerc claimed that he has received poor treatment not befitting the defending champion.

The Argentine said he asked for the use of a car and to be allowed to play doubles. He said both requests were denied.

He also complained that he had trouble obtaining practice balls, was thrown off a practice court by members of the Longwood Cricket Club, where the tournament is being held, and did not have his picture on the front cover of the tournament program.

Tournament director Alan Morell said that a fact sheet distributed to players tells them where to obtain balls. He also said no players receive cars for their private use.

Regarding the practice court, he said he couldn't control all of Longwood's 500 members. Morell added that it was his subjective decision to use brothers Jimmy and Ricky Brown in doubles instead of Clerc and his partner and to put top-seeded Jimmy Arias, a 19-year-old American, on the cover.

"I think in this marketplace, Jimmy Arias is a more marketable commodity than Jose-Luis Clerc," Morell said.

He disputed Clerc's statement that "I don't think I'm going to come next year" to the tournament.

Said Morell: "It's a clay-court tournament with $265,000 in prize money. There aren't that many around... I think we'll see Jose-Luis Clerc here until the surface changes."

But Harold Solomon, who was eliminated Thursday night by 11th-seeded Pablo Arraya of Peru, 6-4, 6-0, said, "I'm sure there's some credibility to what he (Clerc) says or else he wouldn't say it."

Seeded players besides Clerc and Arraya who won were No. 2 Andres Gomez of Ecuador, No. 6 Aaron Krickstein, No. 8 Mel Purcell, No. 10 Mark Dickson and No. 12 Fernando Luna of Spain.

In a one-sided match lasting just 62 minutes, Gomez crushed Egan Adams, 6-0, 6-2. Gomez, ranked sixth in the world, won the first 10 games against Adams.

In the other matches, Purcell handed Francisco Gonzalez of Paraguay, 6-3, 6-3; Dickson crushed Trevor Allan of France, 6-3, 6-2, and Luna defeated Roscoe Tanner, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

PASSING TIME — Dallas Cowboys backup quarterback Gary Hogeboom throws a pass during Thursday's training camp practice session at Thousand Oaks. Hogeboom is part of a quarterback controversy that has almost everyone involved with the team trying to figure just who coach Tom Landry will choose as the 1984 starter — Hogeboom or Danny White.

White's fishing trip could be expensive

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — All-Pro defensive tackle Randy White was being fined by the Dallas Cowboys at the rate of $1,000 per day while he held out for salary renegotiations.

White fished for bass in East Texas, the Cowboy brass fumed over his absence in training camp.

He failed to arrive as scheduled Thursday, saying he wanted immediate action on his contract.

White, on the option year of his contract, is making $350,000 per year but wants to be the highest paid lineman in the National Football League.

Mark Gastineau of the New York Jets makes an estimated $800,000.

White told teammate John Dutton before missing the scheduled plane to Thousand Oaks that he had been snubbed by the Cowboy brass.

"All I want them to do is make me an offer," White told Dutton. "Maybe by holding out I can get them (the front office) to move."

Coach Tom Landry said "Randy is under contract. I usually do invoke the fine."

Landry said this could be a big setback for the Cowboys if White failed to report.

"It would help if all the players are here," Landry said. "I'm surprised a little bit. It's very unusual for Randy. I don't know all the circumstances but it's very uncharacteristic of him, but who knows?" There were reports White and defensive end Ed (Too Tall) Jones, who wants his five-year contract renegotiated, planned to walk out together.

Jones, who has three years left on his contract, reported to camp. He denied he and White were working on a package deal, saying "I haven't even talked to him about the contract situation."

Asked if there was a chance he could walk out, Jones said "If there are no renegotiation meetings started I would consider it."

Jones makes some $300,000 per season but said "salaries have shot sky high recently because of the United States Football League."

Cowboy negotiations with White are being handled by Marshall Simmons, Executive Vice President Gil Brandt was taken off the negotiations by Managing Partner Tex Schramm because of acrimony between Brandt and Howard Slusher, White's agent.

Brandt said, "Slusher is historically hard to get a hold of. We have made no offer but Slusher hasn't presented his proposals either."

Asked if he was surprised, Brandt said "Sure, because I don't think White is the type of individual to let contract negotiations hurt a team's performance. He's a team conscious individual."

The once in a lifetime golf thrill came to Mark Fort recently when he recorded his first hole in one.

The feat occurred on the par-three 15th hole at Comanche Trail. Fort used a nine iron on the 156-yard hole. The ace was witnessed by Michael Russell.

Robert Stone, a 16-year old Forsan High School golfer eagled the par-four 16th at Comanche earlier this week using an eight iron on his second shot. Stone has been playing just one year and recorded his best ever round with a neat 78.

Big Spring Country Club will host a two-man scramble this weekend. The format will include a driving contest, closest to the pin and team evaluation. Entry fee is $50 per team. For more information call 267-5354.

Also, on July 27, the Country Club, will play host to the West Texas Junior Tournament. Ages 12-18 are eligible to play. To enter, go by the pro shop at the Country Club.

The year's second partnership tournament will be held at Comanche Trail Aug. 18-19. Entry fee is set at $100 per team. Haig ultra woods, irons and bags will be awarded as prizes. A barbecue and team evaluation for contestants and wives, along with other prizes, is scheduled.

Results from the Big Spring and Chicano Golf Association Match Play Tournament are complete and Tommy Young won the championship flight defeating Duane Thomas for the title.

John Munoz defeated Jerry White to capture the second flight and Joe Dominguez was victorious over Mike Sanchez in the third flight.

Amador Gonzales shaved Scott "Grizzly Bear" Patterson by one stroke to win the fourth flight.

And while on the subject of match play: Match play is making a strong comeback across the country, but many new players are not familiar with its rules.

Match play differs from traditional stroke play because in match play you are playing against the opponent. In stroke play you are playing the course. Therefore in match play you are always trying to put the pressure on your opponent.

A golden rule to remember in match play is that the player farthest from the hole plays, regardless if the closer ball is off the green.

If a player plays out of turn, he or she in turn has put the pressure back on his or her opponent. If that happens, the player who played out of turn can be recalled — that is he or she can be asked to replay in the correct order at no penalty.

Two things good players all have in common is they keep their heads steady when putting. Many puts are missed because of bobbing heads. Secondly, a good player will always fix a ball mark on the green. Remember, that putt you missed may have been deflected because someone failed to repair a ball mark.

A rare sight occurred Wednesday at both Big Spring golf courses — umbrellas were in use. Let's all hope the sight continues.

Moon keeping low profile in Oilers' quarterback situation

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — The first day of the Houston Oilers' preseason training camp ended with the revelation that Warren Moon is NOT the starting quarterback.

Moon signed a five-year, $6 million contract Feb. 3 after passing for more than 5,000 yards in his last two seasons in the Canadian Football League. He has been heralded as the savior of the Oilers after a 2-14 finish in 1983.

But Moon says he's only No. 2 and his coach Hugh Campbell agrees.

"I have some training camp goals but I can't go beyond that now," Moon said following a two-hour session on the Angelo State University campus. "I think coming into camp I am No. 2. I guess right now we are all competing for the No. 1 job.

"I'm looking at it from that standpoint."

Campbell admits that Moon has the upper hand in the battle for the starting position.

"He knows that although he certainly has the inside track on the starting job that he has to earn it and defend it," Campbell said Thursday at the conclusion of the day's second drill with rookies and free agents.

The veterans are due in camp today and two-a-day practices with the full contingent begin on Saturday.

Despite Campbell's hedging, Moon is the probable starter when the Oilers open their preseason schedule Aug. 4 against Tampa Bay.

Oliver Luck, who started the final six games last season, and Brian Ransom, a second year player who has yet to play in a pro game, will have to scramble for playing time.

Moon plans a deliberate preparation for his first season in the National Football League.

Center Les Studdard and kicker Florian Kempf, reached contract agreements with the Oilers Thursday and were due in camp with the rest of the veterans.

Studdard signed a free agent contract with the Oilers in September 1983 and played primarily on special teams last season.

SLIDING HOME — Houston Astros Denny Walling slides around Montreal Expos catcher Gary Carter to score on a sacrifice fly by Jerry Mumphy in the sixth inning Thursday in the Astrodome. The throw from left fielder Miguel Dilone was not in time and the Expos lost the game, 3-2.

Felix Ward ministers to prison inmates

By RHONDA WOODALL
Church editor

It may be a medieval description, Federal Prison Chaplain Felix Ward said, but his job is to cure souls. "If people want to change their lives, the Lord is the best one for changing one's heart, mind and soul."

People should not be discouraged about felons, he said. "Moses, David and Saul were three notorious felons in the Bible, and see what God did with them."

Ward has seen some "inmates strong with Christ and what He (God) could do with their life was amazing," he said.

Ward finds it fulfilling to work with prisoners. "I preach, teach and do a lot of counseling. You care for people and minister to them what feel Jesus wants you to," Ward said. "There is cause for great hope."

At the prison, Ward works with Jerry Scott from the Nazarene church, a choir director, Alcoholic Anonymous, Full Gospel Businessmen, a Roman Catholic priest, a Spanish protestant minister and a Church of Christ minister. Ward said "I try to keep something going everyday of the week." Ward is an Episcopalian priest who is responsible for all the protestant services at the prison.

Ward became interested in prison ministry when he volunteered to work at a California State prison. "I felt more and more lead to do prison work," he said. He has worked for the Federal Prison System for 7 years. Before going into prison ministry, he spent five years as a parish priest.

Ward didn't always want to be in the ministry. He began college with the idea of being a lawyer. "I thought it was the best way to serve the Lord, but He (the Lord) put a stop to that," Ward said. "I had strong feeling for the priesthood." Ward's wife, Kathleen, is supportive of his work, Ward said, but has been unable to help him work previously because of the level of security at the prisons he worked at.

The Wards moved here from Ashland, Ky. two months ago. The Wards chose Big Spring to move to because there were jobs for both of them. "My wife had finished college two years ago and had been unemployed. I looked for a prison where there was a job for her," Ward said. Mrs. Ward works for American Oil and Gas.

Ward attended Foothill Junior College in Los Altos Hill, Calif., Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif., and Church of Divinity School on the Pacific in Berkeley, Calif.

The Wards have two children, Rebecca, 12, and Felix, 7.

Political workshop for women offered

"Making A Difference: Women in Electoral Politics," a one-day skills workshop to prepare more women to enter public policy arenas, will be offered to women Aug. 18 in Lubbock by the United Methodist Women of the Northwest Texas Conference.

The program will be given at St. Johns United Methodist Church, 1501 University in Lubbock as part of a nationwide emphasis of the Women's Division, General Board of Global Ministries, United Methodist Church, according to Donna Echols of Freona, workshop chairwoman. The Northwest Texas Conference covers a geographic area that includes the Texas Panhandle and the South Plains from Midland to Abilene to Vernon.

Some 60 conferences around the nation have scheduled similar workshops in 1984. Professional trainers for the workshops are being provided by National Women's Education Fund, the non-partisan National Training and Information Service for Women and Public Leadership with headquarters in Washington D.C.

"This United Methodist Women's emphasis and the workshop which we are sharing with all women of the communities within our geographic bounds is a response to the fact that only 10 percent of all elected officials are women, although women are 53 percent of the population," Ms. Echols said.

The program seeks to motivate and train women to increase their public leadership capabilities and to become involved in the political life of the community, state and nation.

The project's national goals are to educate 10,000 women in workshops throughout the country, to identify 400 potential candidates, and to assure that a minimum of 250 women will run for office by 1986.

The research on women in politics and women candidates shows that two things must happen before women can be expected to be represented in public office in proportion near their population percentage.

First, the pool of potential candidates must increase significantly.

Active women in community, churches and organization who do not currently think of themselves as potential public leaders must be identified.

Second, support systems must be developed, tapping those women who do not want to enter public leadership but can choose to support women candidates with their time, money, skills and services.

"Making a Difference" addresses these needs in a systematic way. The women with ready-made skills for political leadership are those women already active in churches, synagogues and public interest organizations.

The day's agenda begins at 9:30 a.m. with a worship session and analysis of the Biblical and theological foundations for social action. The skills training program will be at 10:30 a.m. The agenda will concentrate on skills presentations and exercises under the direction of the National Women's Education Fund trainer, using materials provided by the NWEF.

The registration fee for the workshop is $25, which includes lunch and child care. Registration may be sent to Helen Releford, 1415 Ave M, Lubbock, TX 79401. Having registration forms and checks in by Aug. 1 is preferred, but registrations will be accepted through Aug. 11.

Senior adults organize club

The Senior Adults of College Baptist Church has chosen the name "The Three G's" (Golden Glory Gang). The name, suggested by Elouise McRae, means "the group of senior adults of College Baptist Church are going to have a glorious time during their golden years."

The club elected officers at a meeting recently. Officers are Joe Fortson, president and assistant song leader; Everett Barnett, vice president; Elouise McRae, secretary; Tacoma Draper, pianist; and Orville Bryant, song leader.

Club members attending the "Texas" Musical Pageant in Palo Duro, June 21-22, gave highlights of their trip. Following the meeting, members went to the Senior Citizens Center for lunch.

The next meeting will be a covered dish luncheon at 10 a.m., Aug. 14 in College Baptist Church Activities Building.

Women study Bible, July 3

The ladies of Calvary Baptist Church met for a Bible study in the home of Gladys Sanderson, July 3. The study continuing in the book of Acts was titled "Customs, Culture and Christianity."

During the study, members learned every family has its customs: a special way of doing things. Customs of people related by blood or place of living combine to form a culture. A culture is the ways of life for a group. Ways of life can differ. What seems to be natural behavior in one culture, may seem strange in another.

Difference in customs should not prevent the spread of the gospel, but it does. An American missionary must be sure to transfer the ideas and practices in the Bible rather than those of her culture.

Missionaries study to understand the traditions and cultures of the persons to whom they minister. It is important to realize "the world is made up of many different people groups."

In the United States, 119 million ethnics or person with culture or language differences exist.

A Royal Service meeting was held July 17.

Church observes anniversary

New Life Chapel in Industrial Park celebrates its tenth anniversary services at the church, Friday to Sunday. J.T. Pugh, district superintendent of the Texico District of the United Pentecostal Church, will speak at 7:30 p.m., today.

Floyd Leverton from Abilene will speak at 7:30 p.m., Saturday. Sunday services will be at 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. The evening service will be dedicated church membership.

Assembly of God plans VBS

"The Holy Spirit, Our Helper" is the theme for a vacation Bible school, July 23-27, at First Assembly of God, 4th and Lancaster. Classes for children ages 2 to 12 will be nightly from 7 to 9 p.m.

Priests request raises

By LINDSEY FANNER

Chicago Priests' Senate is seeking a $1,200 increase in salaries for pastors.

Priests would use the extra income for books, religious seminars and other items related to the job, said the Rev. Raymond Tillrock, chairman of the Senate's salary review committee.

"It would enable me to pay for some of my educational expenses this coming year," Tillrock said. "It surprises me that people are interested in this, because it's such a distance."

"If approved, the increase would raise the annual pay for parish pastors and administrators to $3,900. Associate pastors would receive $3,000 a year, a $300 raise. Those are hardly lavish sums, but they would allow priests to better assist their flock," Tillrock said in a telephone interview Wednesday.

In addition to the salary increases requested Tuesday at a meeting with Cardinal Joseph Bernardin, the Chicago archbishop, the committee asked that car allowances be raised from $3,000 to $3,600 a year.

While Bernardin accepted the increases in principle, Tillrock said, he indicated he would formally approve the request "when he thought it would be fiscally feasible."

Tillrock and others in favor of the increases hope that will be before the end of the year.

The raises are needed because of inflation and increases in the cost of living, Tillrock said. Car prices have risen to the point where "the average price for a new car is something like $10,500," he said.

Still, not all parish priests think the extra income is necessary.

Yesterday's Puzzle Solved:

7/20/84

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

From the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JULY 21, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The practical aspects of your life should be taken into consideration this Saturday and no business permitted where getting affairs on a more secure financial structure is concerned.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Improving outside affairs so they are more in accordance with government regulations is wise today. Use care in driving.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Find the best way of improving business affairs in the days ahead and don't let a partner dissuade you. Take time for amusement.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be practical in dealing with your mate and you get far better results. Don't argue with a fellow worker. Be more affectionate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Do nothing that can annoy the one you love and look to a powerful friend to get some problematical affair solved.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You are inclined to be too demanding at home but can accomplish more if you handle tasks yourself. Take needed health treatment.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Steer clear of a pal who wants to bother you with own problems when you are busy. Garner data that can bring you security.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are tempted to get into unwise monetary investments, so think twice, and refrain from so doing. Try to please your mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study into whatever can bring you greater self-improvement, but avoid an associate who can be troublesome. Be happy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Some anxiety could keep you from seeing a good friend, so get out of the doldrums early. Don't listen to your mate's advice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have fine creative ideas which should be made more practical, so get busy on this. Forget that fleeting wish.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Being at home and with family is best today, so avoid outside activities. Extend invitations to friends and entertain them nicely.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handle Saturday activities wisely, such as marketing, telephone calls, or whatever else cannot be done during the busy week.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be down-to-earth in ideas and understand how important business matters can be and will concentrate on the practical and monetary side of life. Be sure to send to college otherwise bad investments could be made and much loss sustained.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
