How's that? Handicapped

Q. Does the post office in Big Spring have a parking space reserved for the handicapped?

A. Yes, according to postmaster Frank Hardesty. The space is located at the back of the building on the south side, next to a slanting ramp, he said. The person can then ring a bell, and postal employees will escort the person through the workroom floor to the front office or upstairs.

Off the wall: Namesakes

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Christening a baby girl Submit or Mindwell might be considered giving the infant less than an equal chance at life these days.

But 250 years ago, in colonial Connecticut, Submits and Mindwells were common. In fact, they were among the 15 most popular names for girls of the day, says a researcher.

Charity, Desire, Experience, Freeloove, Honor, Hope, Mercy, Patience, Prudence, Silence, Temperance, Thankful and Tryal also found their way into the lexicon for girls in the pious early 1700s.

Puritans believed names could inspire virtues, according to John J. Waters, a University of Rochester history professor, writing in the July issue of the New England Historical and Genealogical Register.

"virtue" names were less popular for boys, who might nonetheless find themselves addressed as Return, Wait or Waitstill, Waters said.

Waters, whose study was based on names of people in East Guilford, Conn., between 1696 and 1759, said most children were still given traditional or biblical names.

Labor force grows

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

Area jobless figures for Big Spring and Howard County released today show June unemployment held steady at 5.1 percent, the same percentage figure reported last month.

The figures, which were released by local Texas Employment Commission Director Joe Wallace, reflect an increase in the civilian labor force of 466 persons and an increase in employed persons of 438 over the previous month.

Howard County currently has a civilian labor force of 17,747 persons, with 16,842 of those persons presently holding jobs, Wallace said. Persons without jobs in the county numbered 905, an increase of 28 persons over last month, he said.

Wallace compared the figures to those of June, 1983, when the jobless rate was 9.6 percent and only 15,765 persons were employed in the county.

"It seems like everybody is hiring just a little more than expected," Wallace said this morning in explanation of June's comparatively low rate.

"The agricultural slowdown hasn't hurt all that bad, yet, and the oilfield has picked up some," he said.

Medical-related jobs remained stable in the county, he said. Wallace said he was unsure of the effect that the opening of the new Canterbury II retirement home will have on the local economy.

Wallace also noted a small increase in the number of manufacturing jobs in the county over the

Bullock pulls out of race

AUSTIN (AP) — State Comptroller Bob Bullock, who once said he planned to make Mark White a one-term governor, announced Monday that he had changed his mind and would not run for the office in 1986.

"Frankly, there has been no great public clamor for my services as governor," Bullock said. "If I were looking for a draft, I think I can now quit waiting."

White, who has not announced his political plans, was in Tucson, Ariz., for a meeting of border governors and was not immediately available for comment.

Bullock, 55, filed the day before the November 1982 general election for an unspecified future political race. In January 1983, he said he would run for governor regardless of whether White sought reelection.

"It's something I've dreamed of all my life and I want it and I intend to run for it, and I intend to get it," he said.

On Monday, however, Bullock released a statement that said, "Since my announcement, I've had about 100 expressions of support and one $5 contribution from a Mr. Lan Nelson of Walker County which I am returning."

Bullock once remarked four years ago that he had abandoned his lifelong ambition to be governor because he decided a person had to be rich to win.

"Seriously, though," Bullock said Monday, "I respect the comptroller's office and the governor's office both too much to continue to hold one office and be a candidate for the other when it works to the detriment of both."

The statement was surprising in that Bullock, in an apparent preview of a 1986 race against White, has criticized the governor on several occasions during the past year.

MURDER MYSTERY — Donna Mehan, who portrays Paravichni, and Cindy Appel, who portrays Molly Rawlston in the play "The Mousetrap," are shown in rehearsal at Howard College. The play is one of three to be presented by the Ice Cream Supper Summer Repertory Theatre Company. The first, "A Coupla White Chicks Sitting Around Talking," opens Friday, followed by "The Mousetrap" Aug. 3-5 and "Wally's Cafe" Aug. 6-10.

Summer theater schedule sizzles

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Theater-lovers in Big Spring will have plenty of comedy, drama and action to view this summer thanks to the efforts of Tim Haynes and the Howard College Creative Dramatics department.

Haynes and Lois Brace, both of the Howard College drama and speech division, are heading up the Ice Cream Supper Summer Repertory Theatre Company. The company will produce three full-length productions within the next three weeks.

Children and teens involved in the Brown Baggit Theatre summer program are working on two additional summer shows.

The program kicks off this Friday, Saturday and Sunday with "A Coupla White Chicks Sitting Around Talking," featuring Mary Owens as Hannah May Bindler, a Texas woman who relocates to New York City and meets Maud Mix, played by Pam Riddle.

"The Texas woman is pushy, almost obnoxious. She drives the woman from New York crazy," Haynes said.

Both women are having trouble with their husbands, and the play, which unfolds over the period of a week, outlines the developing friendship of the women.

"A Coupla White Chicks Sitting Around Talking" opens Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. with a 2 p.m. Sunday matinee. The show will be held in the Howard College Auditorium.

"The Mousetrap," by Agatha Christie, is slated Aug. 3 through Aug. 5 in the auditorium. Performances are at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday.

The play, which ran for more than 30 years on the London stage, deals with a typical English household which has been converted to a manor house.

"A murder is committed, and everyone has a motive," Haynes said. The first murder is followed shortly by a second, and "everyone's motive is strengthened."

The play features "a lot of new faces," including Donna Mehan as Paravichni; Cindy Appel as Molly Rawlston; Jan Sims as Mrs. Boyle; Daniel Bristo as Giles Rawlston; and Terry Dobson as Trotter.

Other performers are Kathy Thurman as Miss Casewell; Jamie Gustin as Christopher Wren; and Lanton Hamby as Maj. Metcalf.

Both "The Mousetrap" and "A Coupla White Chicks Sitting Around Talking" are directed by Haynes. Mrs. Brace will direct the third show, "Wally's Cafe."

"Wally's Cafe" is slated Monday through Friday, Aug. 6-10, in the little theatre located just off to the side of the Howard College auditorium. Show time is 8 p.m.

The comedy deals with a couple from New Jersey who buys a diner near Las Vegas, Nev. The play spans a period from 1940 to 1958, during which time the couple meets a footsore young woman

Jury delivers indictments

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Sealed indictments handed down Friday from the Howard County Grand Jury named 15 people from Mitchell and Nolan Counties as participants in a burglary ring.

The persons, which included five couples and three brothers, were indicted for felony burglary of a habitation in connection with thefts from the John Cole ranch, located in Howard County, according to 118th District Attorney Rick Hamby.

The indictment states that the burglary took place on March 1, 1984. However, Hamby said the burglaries could have been going on "for as long as six months."

"The indictments are the result of a long investigation by the Howard County sheriff's office, Texas Ranger Charles Brune and Coahoma Police Chief O.D. Majors," Hamby said. "It's something they've been working on a long time."

According to Sheriff's deputy Bill Shankles, investigators recovered about $32,000 in stolen antiques — including tables, furniture and china. Law enforcement officials have recovered "a second batch" of items taken from the homestead, but have not been able to determine a total value yet, he said.

Indicted for the burglary were: three brothers, Sam Williams, 28, Johnny Lee Williams, 27, and Henry David Williams, all of Colorado City; Lonnie Albert Wyrosdick Jr. and his wife, Ruby Lee Wyrosdick, both of Colorado

City; Vernon Gene Young and his wife, Tammy Lynn Young, both of Mitchell County; Granville Ray Dering and his wife, Pamela Dering, of Colorado City; Omer Hughes, his niece, Debby Jo Franklin and her husband, Ruben Lewis Franklin, all of Sweetwater; and Ida Belle Epperson, her son Don Epperson and his wife Suzanne Epperson, all of Mitchell County.

According to indictments in Hamby's office, suggested bond for Sam and Johnny Lee Williams is $15,000. Henry David Williams' suggested bond is $10,000. The remaining persons had a suggested bond of $5,000 each. No arrests in connection with the case had been made at 10:30 a.m., according to Shankles.

• Former Big Spring used car dealer Anthony "Tony" Ginnetti was indicted on six counts of felony theft of more than $20,000 for his use of fake car titles to secure credit. Among Ginnetti's victims, according to law enforcement officials are Coahoma State Bank, Howard Wright Motor Co. of Tulia and the Big Spring Citizens' Federal Credit Union. The Coahoma Bank lost about $250,000, according to complaints filed by a former bank official and used to secure warrants for his arrest.

• Faustino Rios, 33, of 307 N.W. Ninth was indicted for murder in the Oct. 17, 1983, shooting death of Elida Gutierrez Luna, found shot that morning in the back seat of a 1978 Lincoln Continental parked

Gas rate hike to be discussed

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

An across the board rate hike of about 7.7 percent in gas charges will be the subject of a presentation before the Big Spring City Council at an 11 a.m. Tuesday meeting at City Hall.

Dearl Pittman, Energas district manager, will make the presentation that could include reasons for the rate hike, Pittman said this morning.

The council is also scheduled to set an Aug. 28 date for a public hearing on the rate increase.

In other business, the council is scheduled to consider:

• A presentation from city administrative assistant Pat Hardy proposing a punch card system for keeping track of small business use of the city landfill.

• A resolution creating the Big Spring-Howard County Sesquicentennial Commission. The sesquicentennial, which will mark the 150th birthday of the State of Texas, is scheduled to occur in 1986.

• Specifications and bidding for advertising to be carried on the back of city water bills.

• Plans, specifications and bidding for water system improvements in the Mountain View, Indianola and Avion Village additions, which are commonly known as the "Bird Streets."

• Specifications and bidding for a new radio recorder for the Big Spring Police Department. The department is recommending the purchase of a new eight-channel recorder with an estimated cost of $9,397.

• Selection of an engineer for improvements at Big Spring Airpark.

• A set of Parks and Recreation Board recommendations that include approval of a Labor Day carnival for the Big Spring Boys Club; a reduced rate for use of the municipal swimming pool by Big Spring Girl Scouts; approval of city participation in a grant program for building of a game field jogging course at the city park; approval of a patio shelter to be built next to the golf pro shop at the municipal golf course; and appointment of golf course marshals to make sure golf carts at the facility are only driven on the provided cart paths.

Labor Party expecting Israeli win

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Battered by 400 percent inflation and unsure of prospects for peace, Israelis voted today in an election expected to produce a narrow victory for the opposition Labor Party over Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's Likud bloc.

The results forecast in the final round of opinion polls suggested that small parties would hold the balance of power and produce the kind of unwieldy coalition government that has always governed Israel.

It could take several days of inter-party maneuvering to establish which of the two major parties is able to form a new government.

More than 2.6 million Israelis were eligible to vote at the 4,850 polling booths, choosing among Labor, Likud and 24 other parties ranging from the extreme right to left-wing and communist groups and including a number of religious factions.

Armed Forces radio quoted former Prime Minister Menachem Begin as saying today that he would not vote "for personal reasons." He refused to elaborate, the report said. Begin, the founder of the Likud, had not urged voters to support the Likud.

He told The Associated Press on Sunday that he hoped the Likud would win, but his comment was unlikely to have much impact since Israel radio and television are barred from broadcasting statements that can affect the election outcome.

Shamir voted at a school near his party headquarters in Tel Aviv. "There is only one poll — the election. I am very confident," Shamir told reporters.

Labor Party leader Shimon Peres voted at a school in the Tel Aviv suburb of Neve Avivim.

Asked about pre-election polls that showed Labor's lead dwindling as the election approached, Peres said: "The polls are confused. My feelings in the field are excellent."

Seven hours after the polls opened, about 40 percent of eligible voters had cast ballots. The turnout was about the same reported after seven hours in the 1981 elections, when 78.5 percent of the electorate voted by the end of the day.

Israel radio reported 6,000 police were guarding the polls.

Some 70 percent to 80 percent of the soldiers in occupied south Lebanon had cast their votes in a procedure that began Sunday, Israel radio said today.

Military sources in Tel Aviv said Israel's army closed the crossing points into Israel-controlled south Lebanon along the Awali River, in an effort to provide extra security for soldiers during the elections when guerrillas might be expected to step up attacks.

At Election Committee headquarters in Jerusalem, officials said they had received two reports of ballot tampering but no incidences of violence. The liberal Shinui Party complained that someone had punched a hole through its pile of ballot slips in Netanya. Likud officials said someone had sprayed their stack of ballots in Kiryat Ono with a sticky substance.

Both major parties mobilized tens of thousands of volunteers and thousands of vehicles to take supporters to the polls.

The Labor Party had promised to withdraw Israeli troops from Lebanon within six months and expressed an interest in opening peace talks with Jordan by offering it control of part of the occupied West Bank.

Two independent polls published Sunday showed Labor winning a plurality but not a majority in the Knesset. One poll showed Labor ahead 46 seats to 40 seats; the other 48-41.

In a last-minute bid to convince voters of its determination never to relinquish the West Bank, Shamir's government approved plans to build two more Jewish settlements there Sunday.

Likud officials denied it was an election maneuver, but it came alongside a surge of support in opinion polls for the ultra-nationalist Tehiya Party, which is drawing votes away from Likud with its campaign to annex the West Bank outright.

Showers anticipated

By The Associated Press
Clear skies and warm temperatures were reported across Texas again today, but the National Weather Service said scattered showers and thunderstorms could be numerous in South Texas and East Texas tonight and Tuesday.

Light winds from the east and southeast were common across the state, with wind speeds generally in the 5 to 10 mph range. Most Texans awoke to temperatures in the 70s, but afternoon maximums in the 90s were anticipated, with scattered thunderstorms developing in South Texas.

The National Weather Service said the state's clear skies were caused by a high pressure system over the eastern United States that expanded southwestward into Texas.

Showers and thunderstorms continued from Southern California across Utah and southern Idaho to the central high Plains today, while heavy flooding swept areas near Las Vegas, Nev.

One man was killed and three others were missing in Las Vegas while hundreds were evacuated Sunday from the Moapa Valley as the Muddy River backed up into about 150 homes. Lightning knocked out power to about 10,000 customers in the area, including Nellis Air Force Base.

Summer storms also brought flash floods to Southern California and other parts of the Southwest on Sunday.

Meanwhile, showers and thunderstorms also continued in the southeastern United States mainly over northern Georgia, the central Gulf Coast region, and along the southern Atlantic Coast.

Today's forecast called for scattered showers and thunderstorms from Mississippi and eastern Louisiana to Florida and southern Georgia.

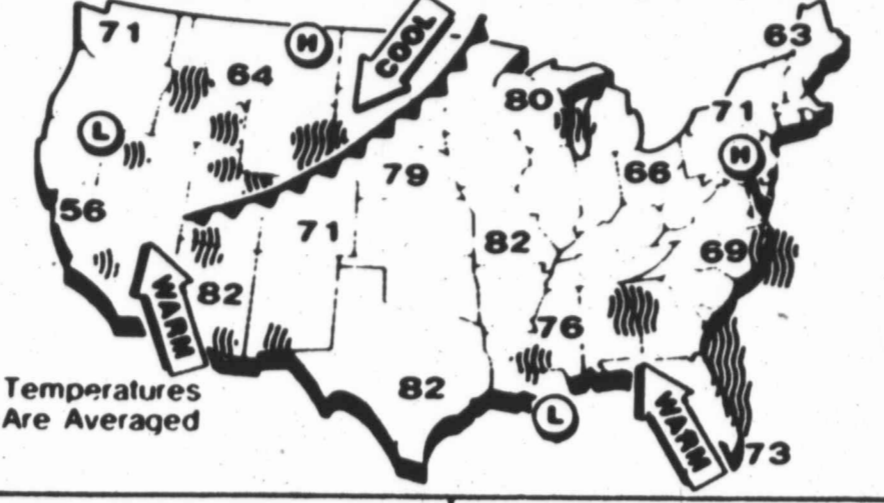

Showers and thunderstorms were expected from lower Michigan through New York state to northern New England, and from the southern intermountain region to the northern and central high Plains at scattered locations.

High temperatures today were to be in the 90s from the lower Mississippi Valley and the lower Ohio Valley to the southern and central high Plains, possibly above 100 in the desert Southwest, and in the 70s elsewhere.

Temperatures at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 45 degrees at Cody, Wyo., to 84 at Yuma, Ariz.

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy and very warm to hot through Tuesday. Isolated late afternoon and evening thunderstorms Big Bend and far west through Tuesday evening. Lows in the mid to upper 60s except low 70s in the Big Bend. Highs Tuesday in the upper 80s to low 90s except near 101 in the Big Bend.

The city has kept pace with an increase of 352 persons in its civilian labor force by adding 327 persons to the employment ranks, she said.

June's 5.9 unemployment percentage is virtually the same as for the previous month, according to Mrs. Richardson's figures.

The city has kept pace with an increase of 352 persons in its civilian labor force by adding 327 persons to the employment ranks, she said.

June figures show the city had a total labor pool of 13,367, with 12,575 persons holding jobs. A total of 792 persons were without jobs, reflecting an increase of 25 persons over the previous month.

from Illinois on her way to Hollywood. By 1958, she is back at the cafe, working as a waitress.

Starring in the production are Terry Dobson as Wally; Donise Perkins, better known to radio listeners as Charlie D, as Louise; and Terry Theford as Janet.

Tickets for the productions can be purchased individually or as a season pass, Haynes said. Tickets for each performance are $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for students and senior citizens. Matinees are prices at $3 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens.

Season ticket passes are $9 for adults and $6 for students and senior citizens. Tickets may be reserved in advance by calling the Howard College Theatre department at 267-6311.

Big Spring will have a chance to watch performers in the "Brown Baggit Theater" at the "Heart of the City" celebration this weekend. Children ages five through 11 will perform in "A Clown's Play" during the festivities Saturday. The performance will unfold at the north end of the courthouse.

Junior high and senior high students will perform "The New Adventures of Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy" Tuesday, July 31, at 8 p.m. at the Comanche Trail Park amphitheatre. The show is free of charge and is one of a series of Starlight Specials planned this summer.

Working on five different performances with a cast and crew of 60 people "has been tiring, exhausting," Haynes said, but "it's exciting. Everything has been timed to the minute. Lois and I are teaching classes until 3 p.m. We begin rehearsals at 6 p.m. and work until 10 p.m. We work on each production every day, and we're here at the theatre department from 7:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m."

Haynes said each show features its own set, designed with the help of former Big Spring High School drama teacher Jimmy Smith. For the productions, Haynes and his crews have been building "a whole cafe, a fire place, complete kitchen, breakfast room," and other scenes which fit the various productions.

Haynes admitted that he began the summer with the idea of producing one show. The number of interested people grew, and so did the production schedule.

"I think this is a fun thing to do," Haynes said. "I like to have group activities. During intermission of each show, we'll have an ice cream supper. People can buy their ice cream and toppings and eat them in Wally's Cafe."

Elections

"It's going to be very hard to form a government) with less than 50 seats," Mordechai Gur, Labor's campaign manager, told The Associated Press. In the 1981 election, Likud won 48 seats to Labor's 47.

Likud officials say 45 seats will be enough for them to form a coalition, and they say they have more potential coalition partners to allow them to stay in power. Peres appealed to voters to give him a solid majority so he wouldn't be dependent on splinter parties.

The main issues at stake are: —The economy: with inflation hitting an annual rate of 400 percent, Israel's currency has been debased, the black market in foreign exchange has flourished, and Israelis want the next government to cut spending and reduce the foreign debt. But neither Labor nor Likud has gone beyond vague promises of a better future. —Lebanon: Israeli soldiers are trapped in a steadily deteriorating situation in south Lebanon, and the only visible gain from the 1982 invasion is the uprooting of Palestine Liberation Organization bases. The troops remain for fear the PLO will come back. Labor and Likud both promise a speedy withdrawal, but only Labor has provided a deadline, saying it can bring Israel's troops home within three to six months and still prevent renewed hostilities from Lebanon.

—The West Bank: Likud adheres to its pledge to work for the de facto annexation of the territory captured 17 years ago, by building more settlements while offering its 800,000 Palestinians limited autonomy. Labor says it will restrict settlement construction to keep peace options open and save money, and will launch an initiative to draw Jordan's King Hussein into peace talks by offering him control of about 60 percent of the territory.

Sheriff's Log

Area home burglarized

A Sand Springs residence was broken into and burglarized early Sunday morning, according to a Howard County sheriff's office report.

Lisa Eddins of Sand Springs told deputies Sunday that someone broke into her family's house between midnight Saturday and 1:30 a.m. Sunday, and took $40 from a wallet. The front screen door was pried open and a door frame was busted, according to the report.

Jose Ines Casillas, 31, of 2203 Main was released from Howard County Jail today after serving one day of a three-day county court sentence for driving while intoxicated.

Oscar Solis, 23, of 1208 Marijo was transferred Sunday to the sheriff's office from the Department of Public Safety on suspicion of DWI, driving while license suspended and failure to maintain financial responsibility. He was released on $1,000 bond for the DWI and two $500 bonds for the other charges. Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Larry Joe Garibay, 26, of Cuero was transferred to the sheriff's office from the police department on suspicion of DWI. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Heflin.

John Thomas Roberson, 30, of Lubbock was transferred from the police department to the sheriff's office on suspicion of DWI. He was released on $500 bond.

Robert Caldwell Carr Jr., 22, of 808 Abrams was transferred to the sheriff's office on suspicion of his second offense of failure to maintain financial responsibility. He was released on $200 bond set by Heflin.

Pedro Rosendo Aguilar, 23, of 312 N.E. 10th was transferred to the sheriff's office Saturday from the police station on suspicion of driving while license suspended. He was released on $500 bond.

Dana Charles Cook, 31, of 3703 Hamilton was transferred to the sheriff's office from the DPS on suspicion of DWLS and on Lubbock County traffic warrants. He was released on $500 bond.

Danke schoen, Wayne

BOISE — Las Vegas entertainer Wayne Newton is a partner in a $3.2 million Salmon River resort, with construction slated to begin Tuesday, says the marketing director for the resort club.

WAYNE NEWTON

Nick Nicholas said 25 people have purchased memberships at $20,000 each in the private club, which will include 10 wilderness cabins and a 4,000-square-foot lodge and recreation building. The club next to the Frank Church-River of No Return Wilderness Area represents the second try for Newton and partner Jim Campbell.

Their plan to build a lavish country club across the river from the Salmon River Resort Club site collapsed in 1983 because people perceived the club to be out of tune with the primitive and remote Salmon River area, said Nicholas.

LOS ANGELES — Gymnast Nadia Comaneci, a five-time Olympic medalist, will be a special guest at the Summer Games in Los Angeles, officials said.

NADIA COMANEI

Ms. Comaneci, whose country, Romania, is the only Warsaw Pact nation to defy the Soviet-led boycott of the Games, will arrive Monday as a guest of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee. Now retired at 22, Miss Comaneci will live in the Olympic Village and help the Romanian gymnastic team prepare for competition. She is best known for her performances at the 1976 Olympics in Montreal.

BEVERLY HILLS — Move over Hollywood. Kentucky Gov. Martha Layne Collins says her state wants a piece of the film industry action.

"If you're scouting for that perfect film location, we've got it," she told industrial and film executives at a luncheon Friday with host Occidental Petroleum Chairman Armand Hammer. Occidental owns Island Creek Coal Co., headquartered in Lexington, Ky.

"When you film in Kentucky, I will personally see you get all the assistance you need," said Mrs. Collins, adding that Kentucky opened one of the first state film offices, requires few permits, and has "almost non-existent" location fees.

Miss America feels 'violated'

NEW YORK (AP) — Vanessa Williams, who was to decide today whether or not she would give up her title as Miss America, says she's gone "from shock to depression" to feeling "violated and angry" in the 10 days since she learned that Penthouse magazine would publish nude photographs of her.

"I don't want to say it's making me feisty, but it's making me want to move on," Miss Williams said in an interview with The Associated Press Sunday.

Miss Williams was expected to announce this afternoon whether she will give in to the Miss America Pageant's request that she turn over her crown to first runner-up Suzette Charles, Miss New Jersey. It is the first time any of the 57 women to hold the crown has been asked to step down.

Miss Williams refused to say what her decision would be, but her mother, Helen, described the 21-year-old beauty queen as "a fighter."

"If she decides to continue to hold the crown, they'll have to take it off her head," her father, Milton, said. "My personal decision is yes, she should fight."

Pageant executive director Albert A. Marks Jr. told the Philadelphia Inquirer that Miss Williams will not be permitted to attend this year's show, nor will there be any acknowledgement of her reign. Pictures of Miss Williams will not appear in the Miss America program, Marks said.

Pageant promoters said the photographs, published in September's Penthouse, violated her contract regarding morals and upholding the pageant's image.

Miss Williams said the pictures, some posed with another female model, were to be artistic photographs, never to be shown publicly, and that she was told she would not be identifiable. She also said she didn't recall signing a release for the pictures.

"I think it is a violation of my rights," said Miss Williams, the first black woman to wear the Miss America crown. "It's obviously my own fault, but I trusted the photographer."

As Penthouse arrived in newsstands in some cities, vendors reported brisk sales, with nearly 800 copies purchased at one stand in Dallas. Clerks in other cities said they had waiting lists for the $4 magazine.

Outside Miss Williams' Millwood, N.Y., home, about 100 supporters gathered Sunday, chanting, "Vanessa, we love you."

In the interview with the AP, Miss Williams said she'd forgotten the photo session until she found out about the planned Penthouse publication.

When she learned of the plans, she said, she went "from shock to depression. Right now, I feel violated and angry."

She said the pictures were shot in 1982, shortly after she took a summer job as a makeup artist and receptionist with TEC Model Registry, and that she had never "made any agreement" with the photographer, Tom Chiapel, or Penthouse to use the pictures.

"I don't recall signing anything with Tom," she said. "I remember signing a stat sheet as a model. Every model at the registry had to fill one out."

According to Penthouse publisher Bob Guccione, who bought the pictures from Chiapel, a Mount Kisco, N.Y., photographer and co-owner of a local model registry, the magazine has a signed release. Guccione has also said the pictures were taken last year before the pageant.

At Chiapel's studio, she said, he asked her to do nude shots. "I was a bit curious, but I didn't know if I wanted to take the chance."

She said she did it after he assured her they would only be seen by her. Of a contact sheet, she said: "I wasn't really thrilled about them. I didn't want anyone to see them."

Sometime later, he asked her to pose with another model "in a silhouette art form. He assured us that both of us would be unidentifiable."

Miss Williams said that when she talked to Marks about the photographs on July 15, he was "very reassuring," adding, "We all make mistakes. He was very supportive and compassionate."

In an interview Sunday night, Marks said he asked Miss Williams about the nature of the photos. He quoted Miss Williams as responding: "A few pearls here and a few drapes there."

Marks said he told her: "Don't worry about it. The girl was in hysterics. I said we'd do everything we could to help."

The phone number for Chiapel's TEC Model Registry was reported temporarily disconnected or no longer in service. The Syracuse Post-Standard has reported that Chiapel recently closed the Mount Kisco business and opened another studio, which also has closed.

Miss Williams said she had not talked to Chiapel and did not know why he released the photos at this time.

"I guess no one owns the right to the pictures," she said. "It's a legal question."

Miss Williams said she has received offers for various show business projects, would like a good Broadway role, a TV spot or film, but added she didn't think the Penthouse pictures would aid her career. "I don't think the photographs make me look like what I want to be perceived as."

Miss Williams, who never thought to be Miss America and who was recruited during her sophomore year at Syracuse University, said she had "thoroughly enjoyed the past 10 months."

Protesters dispersed

MANILA, Philippines — Police used tear gas and truncheons to disperse 18,000 anti-government protesters today shortly before President Ferdinand E. Marcos addressed the opening session of the new National Assembly.

Marcos told the assembly, which includes the largest opposition faction since he disbanded an American-style congress and imposed martial law in 1972, that his emergency law-making powers make a return to martial law unnecessary.

At least 13 of the anti-Marcos protesters were treated at hospitals for minor fractures, bruises and gas inhalation, but there were no immediate reports of arrests as police broke up the demonstrations, staged at a downtown plaza several miles from the assembly building.

In his speech, Marcos said demonstrations were a "necessary part of our democratic life" but contended they were being infiltrated and manipulated by Communist subversives.

The president, who retains the power to make laws by decree, said the opening of the assembly marked the "full restoration of representative government."

Opponents of Marcos, who had held a maximum of 13 seats in the previous assembly, won 71 of the 183 contested seats during elections May 14, with the outcome of some contests still in dispute. Seventeen of the 200 seats are filled by presidential appointment.

Reagan, Duarte meet

WASHINGTON — President Reagan conferred today with President Jose Napoleon Duarte of El Salvador in a meeting underscoring the administration's continued support for the Central American country and kicking off a drive for more aid to the troubled region.

Duarte flew to Washington today from New York, where he arrived Sunday at completion of a five-nation tour through Western Europe. It was the second Duarte-Reagan meeting this year and their first since Duarte took over the presidency. "We're delighted to have him here again," Reagan said as he posed for pictures with Duarte on a muggy, hot day outside the Oval Office on the colonnade overlooking the Rose Garden.

The meeting, scheduled for 30 minutes, came as Congress was returning from a three-week recess. The lawmakers faced an agenda that includes administration requests for $116 million in additional aid for El Salvador and $21 million in undercover funds for CIA-backed rebels fighting Nicaragua's Sandinista regime.

Information about your changing telephone service from Darlene Gifford, Manager-Community Relations

New "Premises Work Charges"

There has been an important change recently regarding telephone wiring. The change involves the installation and repair of jacks and "inside wiring."

Inside wiring is required from the point where our lines end in a "network interface." On most new homes, this interface — a large plastic box — is usually installed near the power meter. (In new apartments, it's usually located near the circuit breaker box.)

If you don't have a new home, you probably don't have a network interface (we just started installing them in 1982). Instead, you have a similar device called a "protector."

Like a network interface, the protector is the point where our line ends and your inside wiring begins.

Until recently, we did all the installation and repair of wiring inside our customers' homes. We will still perform that work if you ask us — but the way the work is charged has now changed.

If we do the wiring, we'll now bill you "Premises Work Charges." These charges are billed for each 15-minute period required on the job. Charges cover all costs associated with the work, including materials, but costs differ for installation and repair.

Here's how the charges break down if we do the work for you:

		PREMISES WORK CHARGES FOR JACKS AND INSIDE WIRING
		8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday-Friday	Monday-Friday All-day Saturday	Other Times Sundays and Holidays
Installation	Initial 15 Minutes	$18.50	$22.75	$27.00
	Each Additional 15 Minutes	$10.50	$12.50	$14.75
Repair	Initial 15 Minutes	$28.25	$31.75	$35.25
	Each Additional 15 Minutes	$10.50	$12.75	$15.00

If you don't wish to have Southwestern Bell Telephone perform the work, you now have two other options. Those are hiring someone else (such as an electrical contractor), or doing it yourself (materials are available from many retail stores).

New rates — Small increase to you

By now, you are probably aware that Southwestern Bell Telephone received final approval for a rate increase effective June 1, which included the change in Premises Work Charges. I say you are "probably aware," because most customers will hardly notice it on their local exchange phone bill.

The rate award sounds like a lot of money — and it is, but the increase for residence flat-rate local exchange service is only 30 cents per month, or less.

Most of the increase (about 89%) was put on one group — Texas' long distance companies (who pay for access to Southwestern Bell Telephone's network).

Ferraro ready to hit campaign trail

NEW YORK (AP) — Geraldine Ferraro, enjoying a triumphant homecoming to her Queens congressional district, said she "can't wait to get out on the campaign trail" to prove herself to the entire nation.

The Democrats' historic choice for vice president was returning to her local congressional office today to clean up paperwork that has accumulated since her nomination last week at the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco. She is expected back in Congress on Tuesday.

During a weekend of errands and time with her family, Ms. Ferraro demonstrated some of the qualities that have given her success as a congresswoman and are expected by party leaders to spark the presidential ticket headed by Walter F. Mondale to victory in November.

Kidnapper described as 'courtly,' 'polished'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Houston piano teacher arrested in the kidnapping of wealthy bridge player Edith Rosenkranz from a tournament here was described by his bridge partner as being a courtly and polished financial consultant who at times seemed "the stereotype of a southern gentleman."

Mrs. Rosenkranz, 60, wife of pharmaceutical millionaire and tournament bridge player George Rosenkranz, told a news conference Sunday how she was kept blindfolded and threatened with death for two days of captivity.

Computer programmer Georgiana Gates said in an interview she flew to Washington a week ago to play in the tournament with Glenn I.

EPA gets around to the gas pump

Most people probably don't give much thought to the gasoline fumes that envelop them as they're filling up the car. But the amount of fuel that escapes into the air this way is substantial: 10 pounds for each 10,000 gallons of gas pumped. The wasted fuel poses a real hazard to the gas jockey (laboratory animals exposed to high doses of gasoline fumes developed cancer), but what's more, it makes such a substantial contribution to air pollution that, unless something is done to reduce it, nearly a dozen states are unlikely to meet federal deadlines for reducing smog by 1987.

In 1981, the Environmental Protection Agency turned its back on the issue, as part of the Reagan administration's program of deregulation to help the auto industry. Now, though, the problem is getting more difficult to ignore and the EPA is once again discussing ways of cutting back on this source of pollution.

Among the proffered solutions it will consider is a more tightly fitting collar on gas lines in future car models that will keep escaping fumes to a minimum. Cost of installation, by EPA estimates, will be about $20 a car.

In the coming days, the EPA's science advisory board will be looking at these and other means of curbing this too-long ignored source of pollution. Quick action by the EPA in adopting regulations to control gasoline fumes will be the right approach.

The minority party

The ramshackle collection of minorities known as the Democratic Party usually compromises its differences enough to command a national majority. But this year, the bidding for competitive advantage among different factions overcame the common interest in electing a president.

That reckless reversal of form is deeply bound up with the personality of the Democratic candidate, Fritz Mondale. It explains Mondale's choice of Congresswoman Geraldine Ferraro as running mate, but it makes winning the election nearly impossible.

The intensity of the factional bidding centered around Jesse Jackson. All along he made it plain he wanted more in the way of power and dignity than black leaders had ever achieved previously within the Democratic fold. He put down as Uncle Toms many prominent elected black officials. He battled openly with other constituent groups — notably labor, white Southerners and Jews — within the Democratic Party.

Jewish leaders moved strongly against Jackson. They asserted openly that unless Mondale moved to repudiate Jackson and his anti-Israeli remarks and anti-Semitic associations, they would lead Jewish voters and — more importantly — Jewish money into the Reagan camp.

Labor had staked its claims before anybody else with a demand that Mondale support protectionist legislation — the so-called domestic content bill — that works against the interest of all other Democratic constituents. After Jackson surfaced as a serious player, the unions added a pro-union prescription against him as running mate.

With blacks, Jews and labor thus cancelling each other out, an enormous opening was left for women. They were more than ready. They were visible and demanding at every level of party work. They aggressively asserted claims to the vice presidential nomination. While meritorious in many respects, the candidates put forward were lacking in the experience to lead the nation. Still, some women leaders declared they would boycott the ticket if one of their own did not become the vice presidential nominee. In picking Mrs. Ferraro, Mondale yielded to that pressure. It was a defensive choice made to prevent a disastrous bout of infighting at the convention.

The only serious opposition came from white Southerners. They had let Mondale know in no uncertain terms that a woman on the ticket would mean Goodbye Dixie for the Democratic Party. Being professionals, and with no great media stars available, the Southern whites were less clamorous than the others in presenting their views. Still, the choice of Ferraro probably means the loss of the South for a long, long time.

No doubt Mondale hopes that the historic first of naming a woman running mate will capture the public imagination and undo the impression that he is a dullish dog, unable to make bold decisions. But in fact Mondale himself bears no little blame for the unrestrained pressures asserted upon him by minority groups. As vice president under Jimmy Carter, he courted all the constituent groups assiduously. He enters the convention with enough votes for the nomination precisely because he has the support of all the main factions.

Apart from soliciting interest group claims, he sought them in the worst way. A law of politics is that minority leaders tend to establish their ascendancy by being more militant than their followers. Appeals to the rank-and-file, accordingly, can work to restrain the most egregiously assertive captains. But Mondale, a Washington politico used to the face-to-face dealing of the Senate, did not reach around the committed chiefs to the more moderate Indians. He dealt publicly with the front men of far-out positions.

General circumstances, moreover, did not foster among Democrats a disposition to compromise. Reagan is widely considered a safe bet for reelection. With Mondale unlikely to win, the minorities lacked incentive to make concessions for the common cause. On the contrary, Gary Hart, Mondale's only serious challenger for the nomination, resisted overtures from Mondale with lippy comments. It was when rapprochement with Hart proved impossible that Mondale turned to Ferraro.

Still, it is hard to see how the choice can help the Democratic cause in the election. The gender gap will be widened. But not so much by women going to Mondale as by a move to Reagan of middle-class white males who admire his cold turkey style in dealing with economic and international problems. The west and Mountain states will probably join the South in turning against the Democrats. So the regional base of the party has been narrowed. The Democrats are ceasing to be a national party. The party of the minorities has become a minority party.

Secrecy surrounds money policy

WASHINGTON — About 10 times a year, a mysterious council of 12 assembles in imperial grandeur in a Washington, D.C., conference room two stories high, with an 8-foot marble fireplace and a 10-foot crystal chandelier. Their deliberations are veiled for secrecy only by the sacred proceedings in Vatican City when the College of Cardinals selects a new pope.

At least the cardinals send up wisps of smoke to let the waiting world know when they have taken a vote, and they announce their ultimate decision the day it is made. So secretive are Washington's dour doers that they don't announce their decisions until six weeks later, and then they release only a cryptic summary.

The enigmatic group is the Federal Open Market Committee, which sets the nation's monetary policy. Its members are the seven governors of the Federal Reserve Board and five representatives of Federal Reserve bank presidents.

Although few outside Washington have heard of the Federal Open Market Committee, its Jovian decisions affect the course of the U.S. economy. The dozen eminences, who completed one of their two-day meetings recently, influence what interest rates you will pay, how much money will be available for businesses to borrow, and whether inflation will once again eat up your earnings and reduce the value of your bank accounts.

The committee's obsessive secrecy has long irritated White House economists and congressional planners, who for six crucial weeks are reduced to reading tea leaves for clues to its momentous decisions. Legislation that would compel the Fed to disclose these decisions immediately has been introduced by Sen. Roger Jepsen, R-Iowa, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, and Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., the economic guru of the House.

In late May, Jepsen thought he had secured Fed Chairman Paul Volcker's support for the disclosure bill. But a prerogative once clutched to the bosom is not easily given up, and Volcker is a master of cautious feelers, retractable bluffs and muted confrontations.

What Volcker told Jepsen in a private meeting has since been "clarified" by the Fed's congressional liaison office. Given the urgencies for secrecy and the imperatives of dignity, the Fed doesn't support prompt disclosure after all. Volcker has told some members of Congress that there's already too much sunshine on the Fed.

This bait-and-switch maneuver left the Joint Economic Committee staff in a fury. The Fed's stand "appears to be at variance with (the views) expressed in Volcker's conversation with Sen. Jepsen," protests an internal committee memo seen by my associate Michael Binstein.

The Fed contends that the six-week lag is necessary to prepare the public for the policy decisions. But the memo comments: "The Fed's position, of course, is silly. Why should it take six weeks to justify a policy position? Either the Federal Open Market Committee had a basis for making a decision, which should be revealed, or they had no basis for making a decision, in which case nothing should have been done."

The six weeks of secrecy hampers the plans and predictions of economists in other federal agencies. Congress would also like to avoid economic surprises. Its handling of the federal budget might have been different, for example, if the legislators had known that the prime interest rate was going to rise four times in the past six months — decisions that increased the servicing cost of the national debt by $12 billion.

There's another reason some congressmen want to end the six-week blackout — the possibility that the delay gives big bond traders what amounts to insider information on future trends in the bond market.

Although no one seriously believes that Fed officials are leaking information to outsiders, the six-week delay gives knowledgeable bond traders time to look for clues that could be worth millions. The big bond houses have whole platoons of full-time Fed-watchers, who can make educated guesses on the Fed's next move from the signs. Small businessmen can't afford such costly, constant scrutiny.

The real reason the Fed insists on secrecy, outsiders suspect, is to prevent Congress from exercising control over the agency. Knowledge is power, and the Fed doesn't want to share either one.

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: The Soviet bloc is putting pressure on the head of the International Labor Organization in hopes of delaying and softening a 320-page report by the United Nations agency that is highly critical of the Polish government's heavy-handed treatment of labor unions, particularly Solidarity. The report was the result of a lengthy ILO investigation of conditions in Poland. In March, the Soviet bloc pulled the same kind of pressure tactics on another UN agency, the Commission on Human Rights. That time they succeeded in getting a critical report on Poland watered down.

• The Iraqis thought Iran would have strong defenses around its vital oil terminal on Kharg Island. But my intelligence sources say the facility is virtually defenseless against Iraqi air attacks. The Iraqis have been trying frantically to buy short-range air defense hardware from Western European companies. They want rocket launchers and short-range automatic cannons for their patrol boats guarding Kharg.

Give gifts to God, but not selfishly

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Is it really true that God will reward me if I give money to God's work, and the more I give the more God will reward me? If I understood him correctly, this is what a preacher I heard on television said the other day. — MRS. Y.W.

DEAR MRS. Y.W.: It is true that God will bless us when we support His work, although I want to see exactly what the Bible promises — and does not promise. Occasionally, for example, I have met people who thought you could win your salvation if you gave enough money to God's work. But this is not true; we can never buy God's love for us. Salvation is a free gift of God, which He gives to us when we accept Christ as our Lord and Savior. Nor will God necessarily give us more money if we give to Him.

In Malachi the Bible says, "Bringing the whole tithe into the storehouse ... and see if I will not throw open the floodgates of heaven and pour out so much blessing that you will not have room enough for it!" (Malachi 3:10). The people of Malachi's time had turned from God, and were not giving Him what was due to Him — including the tithe (one-tenth of their produce) each year. As a result, God's blessings were being withheld. Their problem was sin, and they needed not only to give their tithe to God, but to repent and turn back to Him. We, too, need to be sure we are putting Christ first.

We must never give out of a selfish motive, hoping God will reward us by giving us more money. But God will bless us when we give because we want to serve Him and see His work go forth.

At times, he may bless some people with even greater amounts of money — but if so, it is because they are to be faithful stewards in using it for Christ's work. But God also blesses us in other ways when we put Christ first in our lives, by giving us the joy of knowing we are partners with Christ in spreading His Kingdom.

Today in history

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, July 23, the 205th day of 1984. There are 161 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On July 23, 1914, Austria-Hungary issued a list of demands to Serbia in the form of an ultimatum following the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand by a Serbian terrorist. The dispute led to World War I.

On this date:
In 1829, William Austin Burt of Mount Vernon, Mich., received a patent for his "typographer," an early version of the typewriter.

In 1886, New York City saloonkeeper Steve Brodie claimed that he had jumped off the Brooklyn Bridge into the East River.

Dr. Donohue

Platelet problem causes bleeding

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I would like to know more about immune thrombocytopenic purpura (ITP). I know it is a blood disease. I needed surgery this past year, but it was found that my blood would not clot properly and ITP was diagnosed. I was treated with vincristine and cyclophosphamide. It brought up the platelet count and I had surgery. Now the count is down again and my hematologist is trying to decide what to do. I've never seen an article on this. What is the usual treatment? — Mrs. P.L.B.

Platelets is another name for thrombocytes, the tiny blood cells that form clots whenever a blood vessel breaks and bleeds. The term penia means "scarcity," in this case a scarcity of thrombocytes. The immune part of the phrase refers to the cause of the scarcity, here production by the body of antibodies that coat the thrombocytes (platelets) and cause them to be gobbled up by the spleen when the blood gets to that organ.

The consequences of immune thrombocytopenic purpura (ITP) are rather what you'd expect. Small bruises appear in the skin, because without proper clotting the blood is not able to seal off tiny breaks in capillaries, the small vessels. That, incidentally, is the purpura part. If the platelet count drops precipitously, overt bleeding may occur, which, even though it may be hidden deep in the intestinal tract, can be quite serious. There is more than one form of such platelet problems. One kind, which may follow a viral infection, occurs especially in children and clears on its own. The more chronic type is seen in adults, especially in women.

There are many different approaches to therapy, depending on the seriousness of the platelet deficiency and the length of the illness. One is to give steroids. Another is to remove the spleen, which in addition to eating up the platelets also contributes to the antibody production. The two drugs you mention are used also.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am one of those older persons who questions the way one gets a virus, as of the common cold. When I was a child I never got a virus or cold so long as I stayed fully bundled up for the damp and cold. However, if I strayed from home in such weather I took cold as surely as there was day or night.

My question: Is it possible that almost everyone has these viruses, or cold germs, in their bodies and that they become activated from their dormancy by the condition of the weather or body temperature? — N.M.H.

There are some viruses that do just what you suggest — lie dormant in the body only to surface at a later date. The chicken pox virus is such an example. And I'm sure you're aware of the fact that when it does it appears as shingles. But to the best of my knowledge, there is no cold virus that does this. They do not have hibernation spots within the body the way the chicken pox virus does (in the nerve cells).

Colds come from being exposed to the virus in the environment. The fact that there are so many cold viruses explains why there are so many colds. Our bodies may learn how to fight off a virus, but when it meets a new and different cold virus, we catch another cold. It's not the same virus in hiding.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My doctor has prescribed a diuretic for my high blood pressure. He also has prescribed potassium pills. I eat a lot of fruit each day and I know it contains potassium. I read that you can get too much potassium. Am I getting too much? — Anon.

Let me give you some potassium facts and let you be the judge. The normal diet provides between 1,900 and 5,900 milligrams of potassium. The pills usually contain between 780 and 1,560 mgs of potassium. But you are losing some of your potassium because of the diuretic you are taking. Your potassium level has to get fairly high before you get into trouble.

But you can settle this simply. Ask your doctor to check your blood potassium level. Then you'll know for sure whether your pills and perhaps inordinate fruit intake is providing too much.

To find out what causes high blood pressure and what can be done to treat it, send for a copy of "Blood Pressure and Your Health." Write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.25.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Letter gets panned and praised

DEAR ABBY: For years, the first thing I used to read in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat was your column, but you have just lost a reader.

Why? Because I hate your reruns! These people who ask you to print a letter because they think it's so good, let them get a scrapbook and save the ones they like, so the rest of us won't have to be bored with them. "Please, God, I'm Only 17," about the dead teenager in a car wreck, is one I really hate. I don't feel sorry for some jerk kid who kills himself doing 80 mph in a souped-up jalopy. I see kids like him every day around here, bouncing up and down in their seats, hitting the roof of the car with their heads. Most of them are either so high on dope or drunk on beer they can't feel a thing. And they all turn up their radios so loud you can hear them a block away.

This may sound cold to you, but if they kill themselves, it's fine with me; there's just one less nut on the road. Like I said, Abby, you just lost a reader in St. Louis.

—FRED D., ELDON, MO.
DEAR FRED: Sorry, I hate to lose a reader, but I've heard from hundreds of readers (mostly teenagers) urging me to run that letter every year. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old boy, and I usually have fairly good control of my emotions. I mean, it takes a lot to make me cry, but when I read that letter in your column, "Please, God, I'm Only 17," I couldn't hold back the tears. I just never had anything hit me like that letter did.

It made me realize a lot of things. For one, it made me realize how much it would hurt my parents and grandparents if I ended up like that kid did, all because I chose to drive faster than I should.

It also made me promise myself that I would never, never take a drink of anything — not even beer — and then get behind the wheel of a car. I also promised myself that if I am in a car and the driver starts to drive recklessly or foolishly fast, I will try to talk some sense into him — or her — and if I can't, I will insist on being let out of that car no matter where I am or what time it is.

Thank you, Abby, for printing that letter. Please run it every spring just before the kids have their proms because that's the time most kids get killed in car accidents.

I never realized how much one letter could change my life. Keep up the good work.

Caplan presents smoking seminar

Dr. Brian Caplan presented the program, "Smoking and Methods of Smoking Cessation," for Malone-Hogan Hospital's continuing medical education seminar for area medical professionals, July 18.

Using slides, Caplan discussed the incidence of smoking and its relationship to diseases such as lung cancer, emphysema and heart disease.

According to Caplan, eight methods which may help persons stop smoking are: standard physicians' recommendations, formal commercial programs, nicotine chewing gum, behavior modification programs, hypnosis, acupuncture, psychological counseling and self-help kits.

A family practice physician at Malone and Hogan Clinic, Caplan was a smoker himself until five years ago. "I used the ninth method of smoking cessation: will power," he joked.

Why stop smoking? The odds for longer life definitely lie with the non-smoker, according to Caplan. Research he quoted included:

H.F. Dorn's study of American veterans which showed that 35-year-old males smoking two packs a day can expect to live nine years less than non-smokers of the same age.

Cuyler Hammond's study in which males smoking high tar cigarettes had double the death rate and females 1½ times the death rate of non-smokers. This research showed that at any age for every 10 non-smokers who died there were 17 smokers who also died.

"After you have stopped smoking for 10 years, your chances of getting lung cancer are close to those of someone who's never smoked. You have restored yourself to the status of a non-smoker," said Caplan.

Seve denies Watson sixth British title

ST. ANREWS, Scotland (AP) — The roar on the 18th green said it all.

Severiano Ballesteros had snaked in a 15-foot putt and Tom Watson, one hole behind, knew that his dream of a record-equalling sixth British Open title was over ... at least for another year.

Almost predictably, it was the vicious 17th hole, the 461-yard, par-4 "Road Hole" that destroyed Watson's hopes.

With the title seemingly heading towards a Monday playoff after an exciting nip-and-tuck finale between the American and the Spaniard, Watson inexplicably overhit his second shot at the most crucial stage of the match.

After a strong drive to a good position on the fairway, his 2-iron shot flew across the road almost out of bounds and landed right next to a stone wall.

Watson knew his chance had virtually disappeared on the hole that had dashed the hopes of several other players before him.

"I wasn't quite sure what club I wanted to hit ... and I pushed it to the right on to the road. The ball ran up about two feet from the wall and restricted my backswing," he said.

The two-time defending champion did well to chip to within 30 feet of the pin but missed the putt and took a bogey. By then, Ballesteros — who had either been in the lead, just behind or level with Watson for most of the day — had putted on 18 to edge ahead one last time at 12 under par.

As the crowd roared, the popular Spaniard clenched his fist, punched the air and smiled broadly.

Now Watson needed an eagle-2 to catch the Spaniard. He drove well but could not chip in from 93 yards and the title went to Ballesteros for the second time.

"Seve played very well today. I just did not have the feel. So be it," said the 34-year-old two-time defending champion.

Ballesteros, who won the Open for the first time in 1979, had not won a tournament all year and was naturally ecstatic. He had started the day tied for second with West Germany's Bernhard Langer at 9-under-par, two strokes behind Watson and young Australian Ian Baker-Finch.

Ballesteros said he wanted to win for his mother, Carmen, who had flown over from Spain to watch him play for the first time ever.

"When I holed the last putt, I was so excited, I almost killed my caddie with my hand," said an elated Ballesteros.

"I so nearly missed it. It was a difficult putt. But the distance was right and it just dropped in from the lip." Ironically, the 17th hole had given Ballesteros more trouble than Watson in the previous three rounds.

Ballesteros went to the hole tied with Watson at 11 under par for the tournament. "I was very pleased to make par this time because I'd had three 5s there," said Ballesteros. "I told my caddie I'd have to finish with at least two 4s to have a chance because I thought Watson would definitely make par on the 17th.

Cowboys training camp news

White still missing from training camp

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Linebacker Bob Breunig says holdout All-Pro Dallas Cowboys' defensive tackle Randy White "is out there somewhere going crazy."

White, in the option year of his contract, refused to report to camp as scheduled last Thursday and is being fined $1,000 per day.

He wants his $350,000 per year contract renegotiated to the level of the $800,000 per year being made by the New York Jets' Mark Gustineau.

While White has been fishing, his teammates have been waiting on his arrival.

"It's just speculation on my part but I figure Randy is knocking holes in the wall somewhere because he wants to be here so bad," Breunig said. "Randy is a great team guy. I would assume the minute some progress is being made in his contract, he will be on the first plane out here."

A majority of the Cowboys are supportive of White's move. "More power to him," said cornerback Everson Walls, who missed camp time last year in his salary dispute with the Cowboys' front office. "Randy deserves what ever he is acting."

In White's absence, the Cowboy defense got its marching orders from Coach Tom Landry, who was displeased with the 1983 season. Dallas' defense was 27th in passing yardage allowed and 13th against the rush.

"One of our goals is a more aggressive attitude," Breunig said. "Tom wants us to develop more sure tackling and pursue harder. Our tackling was not good last year."

Breunig said one goal was "85 per cent tackling accuracy. It was way below 80 per cent last year."

The Cowboys' middle linebacker said a top priority would be placed on tackling during training camp.

The Dallas defense will be different this season with Dennis Thurman moving from cornerback to battle for a safety job.

"Every year there are some changes, but we will not get away from the flex defense," Breunig said. "We just need to start squaring up on our tackling. There is no major restructuring of our defense."

"However, the flex can get so darn complicated that it can be confusing. The goods far outweigh the bads," he said.

Whitworth takes Rochester golf

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth says there were times she thought she and Sam Snead might be linked forever in the record books with 84 professional golfing victories apiece.

"When you don't win for awhile you begin to think you never will again," she said Sunday after disproving her own pessimism with a victory in the $200,000 Rochester International LPGA tournament at Locust Hill Country Club.

Whitworth fell four strokes behind Rosie Jones on the first six holes Sunday, but rallied to tie Jones after 18 with a 3-under-par 69. Then she tapped in a par putt on the first hole of sudden death and watched as Jones got in trouble in the left rough and bogeyed.

Jones hit her approach shot at No. 1 into the left rough, left her chip about seven feet short and missed the putt to save par by inches.

"Now that that's over, I don't have to think about getting to 85. I just have to worry about the regular things," Whitworth said.

Whitworth, 44, a Hall of Famer who has been on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour for 25 years, had not won since the Women's Kemper Open in March 1983.

"Time is not on my side. It's getting harder and harder to win out here," she said after defeating Jones, a look of relief on her face.

Contacted at his home in Hot Springs, Va., Sunday night, Snead said, "That doesn't bother me. I hope she wins a hundred. ... She's a real nice person."

Snead, 72, figures the PGA has failed to credit him with about a dozen tournament victories, mainly invitationals, including four Crosbys, one Hagen and six at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., an invitational now known as the Sam Snead Festival.

"I hope she wins 185. That doesn't have anything to do with me at all," Snead said.

"He doesn't have anything to be ashamed of, or to be slighted," Whitworth said. "I hope I can play like he does when I'm that old."

Whitworth finished regulation with a 7-under-par 281 on four trips around the 6,261-yard course.

Whitworth said the pressure from fans and friends to win again after a 16-month drought was "really tough," and she coped by "recalling the advice of golfing great Mickey Wright."

"Mickey said, 'Whatever you do, do not let the public dictate how you play,'" Whitworth remembered Sunday. "You can't ever satisfy the public and there's no reason to try."

When Whitworth fell from a 1-stroke lead over Jones to a 4-stroke deficit on the first six holes, she didn't collapse. Instead, she birdied No. 7 and No. 8 — and watched Jones bogey No. 9.

Strawberry powers Mets by Reds, 7-6

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Darryl Strawberry says he's "not mad at the Cincinnati Reds." It only seems that way.

The New York Mets outfielder has hit 15 home runs so far this season and six of them have been against Cincinnati, including Sunday's two-run blast in the eighth inning that powered a 7-6 triumph over the Reds.

"I just think it's time to get myself into a groove where I can help this ballclub win. We're in a pennant race now, and it's important for me to do well," said Strawberry, whose heroics gave the Mets a 2½-game lead in the National League East over the Chicago Cubs, 11-5 losers to San Francisco.

The Mets have won 13 of their last 16 games, going 17-4 in the month of July for an overall 55-37 mark. The last time the Mets were 18 games over .500 was June 1972.

In other NL action, San Diego beat Pittsburgh 5-1 in the opener of a doubleheader before the Pirates took the nightcap 3-2 in 11 innings; Philadelphia stopped Atlanta 6-2; St. Louis nipped Los Angeles 7-6 and Houston stopped Montreal 6-1.

Strawberry's homer off reliever Keefe Cato, 0-1, gave the visiting Mets a 7-5 lead and helped them withstand a ninth-inning homer by the Reds' Gary Redus off Jesse Orosco.

Reliever Tom Gorman, 2-0, earned the victory despite giving up a two-run homer to Dan Driessen in the seventh that tied the game 5-5. Mets starter Ron Darling struggled through the six innings, scattering four hits and walking seven, but left with a 5-3 lead.

"The guys here believe in winning," Strawberry said. "When you have that type of attitude, anything can happen."

The loss, meanwhile, dropped the Reds 16 games below .500 in fifth place in the NL West.

"This team just has to realize how good it can be, but they have a tendency to give in," Cincinnati Manager Vern Rapp said.

Giants 11, Cubs 5

Joel Youngblood socked a homer, double and single and pitcher Mike Krukow had two hits, including a run-scoring double, to lead San Francisco over Chicago.

Youngblood hit his ninth homer in the fourth inning and doubled and scored on a single by Scot Thompson in the sixth. Krukow then doubled to score Thompson.

The visiting Giants jumped on Steve Trout, 9-5, for three runs in the third inning when Krukow singled with one out, and later sewed up the game with a five-run ninth capped by Bob Brenly's three-run homer.

Padres 5-2, Pirates 1-3

Ed Whitson and two relievers combined on a five-hitter and a pair of early Pittsburgh errors set up San Diego runs as the Padres took the first game of their doubleheader. Steve Garvey and Graig Nettles each drove in a run during a two-run sixth inning and Tony Gwynn had two RBI.

Doug Frolen's one-out double off

Braves scored on a wild pitch. Al Holland pitched the ninth for the Phillies, giving up a homer to Bob Watson.

Carlton's victory, the 309th of his career, enabled him to break out of an 11th-place tie with Charles Radbourn on the all-time victory list.

Cardinals 7, Dodgers 6

Tito Landrum and Darrell Porter each knocked in two runs in a six-run seventh inning as host St. Louis rallied to beat Los Angeles.

With Alejandro Pena protecting a 4-1 lead, Landrum singled in the first two runs of the inning. Steve Braun's pinch double made it 4-4

N.L. Roundup

Goose Gosage drove in Tony Pena with the winning run in the 11th inning as Pittsburgh rallied to win the second game.

Phillies 6, Braves 2

Steve Carlton pitched two-hit ball over eight innings as Philadelphia won in Atlanta. The only hits allowed by Carlton, 9-4, were a two-out double by Dale Murphy in the fourth inning and a single by Glenn Hubbard in the eighth, when the before Terry Pendleton singled home the go-ahead run.

Astros 6, Expos 1

Joe Niekro pitched a five-hitter and Denny Walling knocked in two runs to pace Houston over Montreal.

Niekro, 10-8, pitched his fourth complete game of the season. Bryn Smith, 8-8, was the loser, pitching 2-1-3 innings and giving up five earned runs on seven hits.

Royals pound world champs, 8-4

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS When Don Slaught steps to the plate, the world champion Orioles are just so many pigeons.

The catcher, with a double, triple and two singles, turned in his second four-hit game against the Orioles in three days Sunday to help the Kansas City Royals to an 8-4 victory over Baltimore.

Slaught reached base 12 times in 16 plate appearances over the weekend as the Royals took three out of four from the Orioles. Slaught is hitting .257 overall this season, .457 against the Orioles. He batted .529 against them last year.

"Things like that happen. You can't explain it," said Royals Manager Dick Howser. "The Orioles probably have the best five-man rotation in the league. But one

"You wait for it to happen and then when it does you say, 'Oh, boy, let's keep it going,'" he said. "I've always felt good hitting against Baltimore. They have a few left-handers and it always seems to come together for me against them."

Elsewhere in the AL, Oakland defeated Milwaukee 5-4, Detroit blanked Texas 2-0, Cleveland downed Chicago 3-1, Boston bopped California 3-0, New York edged Minnesota 6-5 and Toronto topped Seattle 5-3.

Slaught singled amid a five-run fifth-inning outburst that buried Scott McGregor, 12-8, and handed the victory to Larry Gura, 10-7.

Greg Pryor and Darryl Motley stroked two-run singles in the onslaught.

"I think the key in this series was not to get ahead early," said Almon.

On Friday night, the A's blew an early 7-3 lead and lost 9-7. They were ahead 4-1 after seven innings on Saturday and fell 7-4 to Milwaukee.

Bill Krueger, 7-6, allowed only five hits over 8 1-3 innings, giving up only a single after Milwaukee collected four hits in a four-run second-inning rally. He retired the final 14 batters he faced before Bill Caudill came on for his 20th save.

Kingman's homer gave him 87 RBI in the 85 games he's played.

Tigers 2, Rangers 0

Dan Petry and Willie Hernandez combined on a four-hitter and Dave Bergman smacked his fourth home run of the season as the Tigers completed a sweep of the four-game series in Detroit.

Petry, 13-4, helped the Tigers to their ninth win in their last 10 games. He became the American League's first 13-game winner. Hernandez got the last out for his 20th save.

Charlie Hough, 10-8, came out on the losing end despite allowing only three hits.

Indians 4, White Sox 1

Neal Heaton also pitched a three-hitter but won, allowing no hits over the final 6 1-3 innings while retiring 18 of 19 White Sox batters. Heaton, 7-9, had won his previous start, giving him consecutive victories for the first time this season.

George Vukovich lined a two-run single in the decisive sixth inning.

Tony Bernazard and Julio Franco singled in insurance runs in the seventh.

Carlton Fisk belted his 10th home run in top of the third.

Red Sox 3, Angels 0

Dwight Evans and Tony Armas homered to back Bob Ojeda's three-hit pitching as the Red Sox swept a three-game series in Anaheim and won their ninth in 12 against the Angels this year.

Ojeda, 8-7, threw his fourth shutout of the season, most in the AL. Evans, who has driven in 17 runs in Boston's 12 games with the Angels, hit his two-run shot, his 19th, in the sixth. Armas led off the seventh with his 27th.

Yankees 6, Twins 5

Willie Randolph lined a single to right with two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning and Bobby Meacham scored from first when right-fielder Tom Brunansky allowed the ball to get past him. Brunansky's error let in sixth unearned run of the game.

Blue Jays 5, Mariners 3

Cliff Johnson celebrated his 37th birthday with a three-run homer that highlighted a five-run fifth inning. Johnson's 10th homer was his fourth in 13 at-bats.

Toronto right-hander Doyle Alexander, 8-4, scattered six hits over seven innings. Roy Lee Jackson pitched the last two innings for his eighth save.

Athletes invade city of angels

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Athletes fro around the world are streaming into Los Angeles for the Summer Olympics, and presenting officials with special problems.

With the opening ceremonies five days away, more than half of the expected 7,800 athletes had arrived, bringing with them requests ranging from where to get a bigger bathtub for one 7-foot-tall competitor.

The athlete looking for a bigger bathtub was told to take showers.

Beth Nelson, assistant manager of Los Angeles Organizing Olympic Committee food food services, said athletes were given fruit to help solve their health food cravings.

"They're going crazy over the fruit, especially the watermelon," she said Sunday.

At the University of Southern California, doctors said 380 patients have been treated. The main complaints have been shoulder tendinitis, sore throats, and minor leg and knee sprains.

Cathy Chown of the Olympic Village at UCLA said the population there had soared from 150 to more than 1,000 in the past week.

A spokesman at the village who asked not to be identified said many athletes are adhering to strict training rules, but athletes in some sports at the village were "partying." He would not specify which athletes.

Chown said athletes especially enjoyed the free computer video games and the Olympic Village discotheque.

Delores Wood, deputy press secretary for the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee assigned to the Southern Cal Village, said organizing arrivals had been difficult because, in some cases, Olympic officials would hear about an arrival only an hour before the plane touched down.

"There's no big master plan for arrivals," she said.

A.L. Roundup

thing is the fact that Slaught is starting to hit the ball well and we've been playing Baltimore. When he's swinging the bat well, he can hit anybody."

"I just wish I knew why Slaught decided to get hot against us," raved Baltimore Manager Joe Altobelli.

"He's a good contact hitter. I don't think we'll be the only team he beats up on."

Slaught traces his current hot streak to a series at Oakland just prior to the All-Star break.

Joe Beckwith and Dan Quisenberry pitched the final two innings for the Royals.

The Orioles scored their runs on solo homers by Rick Dempsey, Benny Ayala, Todd Cruz and Mike Young.

A's 5, Brewers 4

Oakland fell behind 4-0, but Dave Kingman's 28th home run in the fourth inning brought the A's within 4-2 and Bill Almon's leadoff blast in the seventh ruined the Brewers.
