Bond bid OK'd

Issue funds phase III plan

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

A New York firm has won the right to sell approximately $2 million in municipal bonds to finance phase III of Big Spring's capital improvements plan.

Investment companies bid for the AAA-rated bonds at a special council meeting this morning.

The bonds will be sold by the investment firm of Kidder, Peabody and Co., with offices in New York and San Antonio. The bonds were given a AAA rating from Moody's Investor's Service and will be insured by a consortium of national insurance companies, city financial advisor Joe Smith said today.

As a result of the insurance arrangement, Big Spring will be the only city in West Texas selling bonds under the AAA rating, Smith told the council.

Kidder, Peabody and Co. will sell the bonds, which will reach maturity in 2001, at a 9.6 interest rate. Net interest costs to the city will be about $1.7 million.

Today's council meeting was scheduled for 11 a.m. to accommodate bidders on the bonds. "The bidders needed to know as soon as possible so they could start selling (the bonds) as soon as possible," City Finance Director Tom Ferguson said.

In other action, the council approved plans, specifications and bidding for an estimated $300,000 in water improvements in the city's Mountain View, Indianola and Avion Village additions. The city will replace existing water mains in these areas and then repave most of the streets involved.

County: No raises

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Howard County employees apparently won't receive any salary increases next fiscal year, according to statements made by a majority of the county commissioners in a budget workshop Monday.

Commissioners Paul Allen, David Barr and Bill Crocker said they were opposed to granting any salary increases to employees because of economic hard times in the county.

"I don't think there ought to be a raise at all," Barr said. "I don't want to take anything away from the employees. It'll be hard on everyone. It's been hard on every one in this county, and it's going to be harder. I wish we could give them a raise."

County Judge Milton Kirby disagreed with Barr, saying employees should receive at least a small raise. "It doesn't have to be very much, but we need to give them something," he said. "The interest we're drawing ($292,000 on the county surplus) can give them a raise."

"Nobody in the county is getting a raise this year," Barr said. County Auditor Jackie Olson told commissioners that employee Social Security contributions and hospitalization insurance costs would increase, she said.

"By not giving them anything, the employees lose," Mrs. Olson said. However, after Barr, Allen and Crocker all stated their opposition to a raise, she said. "The county has gotten good raises in the past. Nobody can complain."

Allen said he opposed a raise because the economies of both agriculture and the oil industry, the county's two main employers, were suffering this year. "If everybody made a bumper crop, it would take all they made to pay the interest on the last two years. There would be no money to spend," he said.

Fiberflex trial Jury picking stalled

Staff report

Attorneys in the Fiberflex Products Inc. corporate takeover trial are continuing to select a jury for the case today.

No jurors were picked Monday despite intense questioning by attorneys on various sides of the corporate battle.

Several jurors were eliminated from the panel because of their friendships or business relationships with the Rutledges, founders and current officers of Fiberflex, or with original plaintiffs, members of the board of directors upset because the Rutledges added five new members to the board to change the board's alignment.

Attorneys said they believe a jury will be picked by the end of today.

At one moment during the jury selection, attorney Tom Thomas of Dallas, who represents Charles "Chris" Christopher in his takeover bid, drew a laugh when he asked members of the jury panel to raise their hands if they knew someone else on the jury panel. Almost everyone on the 44-member panel raised his hand.

Attorneys also argued over the number of persons each could strike without cause from the jury. Attorneys for the current company management complained the attorney representing Moncor, a Hobbs, N.M., bank involved in the litigation received six strikes, and claimed the bank's interests were not separate from the persons trying to gain control of the company.

Retired 118th District Judge Ralph Caton then added three strikes to the Rutledge's panel of lawyers.

During the arguments, attorney See Fiberflex page 2-A

Amtrak...again

1 dead, 115 injured in July's 4th crash

NEW YORK (AP) — Investigators were trying to determine whether a broken signal or human error caused two passenger trains to collide head-on, killing one rider and injuring 115 in Amtrak's fourth fatal accident this month, officials said.

The collision Monday on elevated tracks in the borough of Queens occurred when the Boston-bound Zip failed to wait for the southbound Shoreliner to pass, said Amtrak spokesman Clifford Black. The trains were traveling on the same track because of repairs, he said.

The impact derailed both locomotives and four cars on each train. Firefighters had to break windows to rescue trapped passengers, and the most severely injured were lowered in cherry pickers 80 feet from the tracks waiting ambulances below.

"When two trains are on the same track and they collide, someone is responsible...and it's not the passengers."

N.Y. Mayor Edward Koch

Others were evacuated into another train that pulled up alongside the derailed cars and taken to Pennsylvania Station. Traffic started moving on the line again during Monday afternoon, a little over three hours after the 10:45 a.m. accident.

"It sounded like a terrific explosion," said Joseph Specht, who owns a store underneath the tracks. "I ran out and saw smoke." "There was a big crash," said Kristin Gager, 22, of Princeton, N.J., who was aboard the Shoreliner. "...A lot of people were hurt.... Seats were thrown onto the ground, a lot of luggage fell from the top racks."

"There was no warning," said fellow passenger Jim Overlin, 61, of Laverne, Calif. "... When we derailed, I thought the car was going to tip over."

Emergency Medical Services treated 115 people for injuries, including nine who were admitted to area hospitals, officials said.

Enrique Gilarranz, 53, a Spanish government administrative official vacationing in New York, died Monday at Booth Memorial Medical Center from chest and ab-

Too close to call Israeli vote may return Likud coalition

TEL AVIV (AP) — The opposition Labor Party won more seats in the Israeli Parliament than Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's Likud bloc, but nearly complete returns today appeared to give Shamir the best chance of forming a governing coalition.

The two major parties battled to a virtual stalemate in a free-for-all election Monday that raised doubts that either Labor or Likud could form a stable coalition government. But Shamir's conservative Likud bloc seemed to have the best possibility of putting together a coalition with help from several religious parties.

With 95 percent of the vote counted the Central Elections Committee said Labor got 35.4 percent of the vote to 31.9 percent for Likud. That would translate into 45 seats for Labor in the 120-member Knesset, or parliament, compared with 40 or 41 seats for Likud.

And while both Shamir and Labor leader Shimon Peres claimed success, their parties were far short of the 61 seats needed for an outright majority in Parliament.

The results showed that 13 small parties would win seats — the most since 1951 — and their support will determine which large bloc heads the next government. Those winning seats ranged from pro-Arab leftist parties to U.S.-born Rabbi Meir Kahane, an anti-Arab extremist, but the most influential bloc may be the six religious-oriented parties who together won a projected 14 seats.

Since Shamir's right-wing Likud is the logical ally of several of the conservative religious and nationalist parties, he could muster a 61-seat coalition needed to form a government. But it would be an unwieldy affair of eight or nine parties.

Labor, on the other hand, can rely on only six solid coalition partners drawn from two small liberal parties, giving Peres a firm base of 51 seats — 10 short of a majority.

Although he won the lowest number of seats for an incumbent prime minister since 1955, Shamir could take the outcome as a triumph for his campaign. The pre-election polls had shown Shamir trailing badly, and his government was blamed for Israel's 400-percent annual inflation rate and the army's predicament in Lebanon.

Rain dampens drought

By The Associated Press
Early this morning a sub-tropical disturbance crept westward into North Texas and brought widespread rain showers and thunderstorms.

Some of the thunderstorms in North and Central Texas were very heavy, producing brief rain and obscuring the pre-dawn sky with brilliant lightning displays.

A half inch of rain fell at downtown Fort Worth within about 40 minute's time, while rain of equal intensity occurred near Weatherford, north of Waco and in North Austin.

The upper air disturbance responsible for the welcome rainfall was accompanied by a surface trough that extended from near Wichita Falls southward to Del Rio.

The forecast calls for the rains to spread southwestward today and give at least some relief to the drought-stricken Hill Country. Showers and thunderstorms will be scattered over all but the Panhandle and Western Trans-Pecos while afternoon highs will march into the 90s most sections.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms erupted from Florida and Georgia to eastern Oklahoma and eastern Texas today, with the strongest cloudbursts over south central Oklahoma and north central Texas and along the central Gulf Coast.

Today's forecast called for showers and thunderstorms scattered from the northeastern states, the Ohio Valley and the middle and lower Mississippi Valley into Texas and the southern and central Rockies. A few showers and thunderstorms were possible over the Pacific Northwest.

High temperatures today were expected to run in the 70s along the California coast and from northern New England to western Pennsylvania and the northern half of the Great Lakes region. Highs in the 80s and 90s were expected for most of the rest of the country, with 100s in the southwestern desert.

Temperatures at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 51 at Quillayute, Wash., to 87 at Phoenix, Ariz.

Some other reports:

West Texas - Partly cloudy with widely scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms and no important temperature changes. Panhandle and South Plains lows mid 60s and highs near 90. Stanton views sewer project

STANTON — The City Council discussed the central plan for the city's Sewer Improvement Plan Project but took no action on the issue during a meeting Monday night, said City Manager Jimmy Mathis.

The project calls for major renovation of the sewer system throughout the city, said Mathis. The project will be funded by a state grant and city matching funds, he said.

Stanton applied for the grant about four years ago, Mathis said.

The city will supply $110,000 of the costs for the estimated $525,000 for the project, he said.

The low bidders for the project were Bruce Plumbing and Heating and Graves and Sam Baker Construction, both of Stanton, Mathis said. The bid and specifications for the project were approved June 9.

The contractors will accompany Mathis to Austin tomorrow for the awarding of the contract, which has been held up again, he said. Mathis said he believes work on the project will start in three weeks.

Rides available for festival

Anyone over 55 years old who would like a free ride to the "Heart of the City" celebration Saturday may call Vicky Griffin or Linda Johnson at 263-7633, Pat Hardy, city administrative assistant, said. Hardy said the women will pick up persons at their homes between 10 a.m. and noon and transport them downtown for the event. Rides home will be provided between noon and 2 p.m. Pickup for rides home will be on Fourth Street between Main and Runnels.

Local featured on 700 Club

Brandi Fortune, a local 6-year-old who was to have been featured on the "700 Club" in July, will be featured on the program Aug. 8.

Brandi is the daughter of Jim and Dixie Fortune of 2603 Albrook. Brandi's mother had Rubella during the first 10 weeks of her pregnancy, and doctors advised her to terminate her pregnancy because they feared the baby would be born blind, deaf, mentally retarded and with the possibility of heart problems.

Mrs. Fortune chose not to terminate the pregnancy and Brandi was born with no birth defects.

Scholarship auditions slated

Singers and musicians interested in joining the New Dimensions at Howard College may audition for scholarships Aug. 11 and 12, according to Lois Bruce of the speech and theater department.

Mrs. Bruce, 24, joined the Howard College faculty in May. She will direct the New Dimensions program this fall.

Anyone who wishes to audition for the New Dimensions must prepare one musical number. Auditions will be from 10 a.m. to noon Aug. 11 and from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 12. About 10 scholarships will be awarded, Mrs. Bruce said.

She added she is looking for a drummer, bass guitar player, lead guitar player, pianist and singers.

Mrs. Bruce holds a bachelor's degree in speech and English from Southwest Baptist University in Bolivar, Mississippi and a master's degree from South West Texas State University in San Marcos.

Her husband, Craig, is employed by Malone and Hogan Hospital.

For the record

A story in the July 18 edition of the Herald which stated that Dr. Roscoe Cowper donated money to Howard College's dental hygiene program was incorrect, according to Linda Woodley of Howard College.

Dr. Cowper donated money to pay for a portion of the salaries in the medical technology program which has been offered at Howard College in the past. He did not donate money to the dental hygiene program.

John Skrhak, who represents the company's patent attorney, told the judge and other attorneys the bank's interests were only divisible from the original plaintiffs if the original plaintiffs lost.

Skrhak's comment drew a heated denial from Big Spring attorney, Gil Jones, who represents the original plaintiffs. "What I'm saying is, 'In the alternative, stick it in your ear, Mike,'" Jones said, referring to the bank's attorney, Mike McKinney.

The case originally arose from a claim that Tommy Rutledge, Fiberflex president, and other company officials violated the corporation by-laws by adding five persons to the board of directors so they could retain control of the company.

According to testimony during a pre-trial hearing, stockholders were having a policy dispute over whether more profits should be funneled into shareholder dividends or whether the money should be reinvested in the company.

The case was further complicated when Billy Massingill, one of the original plaintiffs, asked former OIL owner and manager Christopher to assist his side in gaining control of the company.

The company's patent attorney, Guy Matthews of Houston, then filed suit against Christopher, charging Christopher used fraud to gain control of his 20,000 shares of swing stock.

Christopher has since claimed Matthews engaged in fraud in the same agreement, because the voting rights to the 20,000 shares had already been granted to the Rutledges in a voting rights agreement.

Amtrak

The five-car Shoreliner, bound for New York from Boston, had received written instructions to use the northbound track because the southbound track was closed for regular maintenance, Black said.

The seven-car Zip, which had originated in Washington and stopped in New York, was supposed to have waited for the Shoreliner to pass, he said. Each train carried about 160 passengers.

"Whether it was dispatcher failure, an engineer failure or a signal failure we do not know at this point," he said. "The northbound train was to have held for the southbound train. That did not happen."

Mayor Edward I. Koch, who surveyed the scene, charged negligence on the part of whoever was responsible. "When two trains are on the same track and they collide, someone is responsible," he said, "and it's not the passengers."

Black said the stretch of track where the collision occurred was straight, with nothing to block the engineers' vision. There were indications that both trains braked when the collision occurred, but apparently were unable to stop, he said.

The speed limit on that section of track was 45 mph, and it appeared the trains' combined speed "was way below 80 mph," he said.

Both engineers and at least one Amtrak employee were among the injured, according to hospital officials. The Shoreliner's engineer, Bob Hurley, was in critical condition at Elmhurst Hospital with head injuries; the Zip's engineer, Willis Copeland of Bethany, Conn., was in stable condition at Flushing Hospital.

County

Crooker also said commissioners should lower taxes rather than use the interest accrued from the county surplus to grant raises.

Barr and Allen also turned down a suggestion from County Clerk Margaret Ray to make cuts in all department expenditures, including the road and bridge department, if raises were not going to be granted. The county commissioners increased the seal-coating budget for county roads this year by at least $100,000.

"Y'all do it that way (fail to give a raise to employees) and see if you don't pay for it," Kirby said.

UK strikers block bridge

LONDON — Striking coal miners today blocked the world's longest suspension bridge by abandoning cars on the main span over the Humber River Estuary, causing huge traffic jams around Hull in northeast England.

Police had to close the Humber Estuary Bridge, which has a 4,626-foot span, and divert morning rush-hour traffic to the bridge at Goole, 20 miles to the west. Lines of traffic backed up for as long as 10 miles before the miners lifted the blockade.

Soviets launch offensive

NEW DELHI — Soviet occupation troops have launched a major offensive against anti-Marxist rebels in northeast Afghanistan, bombing several districts and killing numerous civilians, a Western diplomatic source said today.

Soviet troops intensified bombing raids last week in Logar province, bordering Kabul province in northeast Afghanistan, he said.

Warsaw frees 82 inmates

WARSAW — The Communist government freed 82 prisoners to set its general amnesty in motion, and a White House official says President Reagan will decide soon whether to respond by lifting some punitive sanctions against Poland.

About 35,000 prisoners, roughly half of Poland's inmate population, are included under the amnesty, and the first group was released Monday. Ten of the 82 had been jailed for political offenses.

Opposition leader returns

MANAGUA — Former Sandinista official Arturo Cruz has returned from the United States to consider running as an opposition presidential candidate against the leftist government's nominee.

Cruz, who flew into Managua late Monday, was greeted at the airport by a crowd of about 400 supporters, some chanting, "Democracy, yes, communism, no," and others carrying signs saying "With Arturo in power everybody will be able to eat."

Didn't forget her lines

NEW YORK — Had she been thinking about "career risks," actress Shirley MacLaine says she wouldn't have taken a role in the "current movie," "Cannonball Run II."

SHIRLEY MACLAINE

But, she says, she and the film's other stars, including Dean Martin, Frank Sinatra and Sammy Davis Jr. "had a wonderful time."

"None of us read the script — at least no one I talked to. I mean, I tried, but I couldn't get through it. I just wanted to work with all of them again. And it probably will show."

But Miss MacLaine said she cared about the Oscar she received for "Terms of Endearment" and about "being recognized for a body of work over 30 years."

And she said that while she "got along" with co-star Debra Winger, the younger actress "has very different interests and different ways of looking at life," Miss MacLaine said in the interview for September's Playboy magazine.

Showing a little respect

HYANNISPORT — The atmosphere at the Kennedy summer home was "very quiet and somber" as the family observed the 94th birthday of matriarch Rose Kennedy, said a reporter covering the event.

"There weren't many cars in the parking lot," said Will Crocker of low-level television station W58AO.

The observance Sunday was closed to all but family and close friends, said Brian Delaney, spokesman for Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

Mrs. Kennedy has been confined to her bedroom since suffering a stroke earlier this year, The Boston Sunday Globe reported. She is fed intravenously and receives oxygen to help her breathe.

He's too rich to die

READINGTON TOWNSHIP — When a balloon piloted by Malcolm Forbes made a rough landing during a New Jersey race, the publisher joked, "There goes my ninth life," an aide said.

There were no injuries Sunday when the balloon, in the shape of a sphinx, "deflated" about 2,500 feet off the ground and thumped to the ground in housing development under construction, said the aide, Dennis Fleck, who was also on board.

Forbes, who is in his mid-60s, was hospitalized for several days earlier this month when he broke three ribs in a motorcycle accident in Montana.

About 30,000 people had gathered to watch the more than 60 balloons in the race at the Solberg Airport, Fleck said.

Fleck said he did not know the cause of the mishap, which caused minor damage to the nylon balloon.

Blacklist's best seller

LOS ANGELES — A writer who pretended to be Hispanic in writing about growing up in the East Los Angeles barrio says his book is "the important thing. Not the skin color or the ancestry of the author."

Danny Santiago had been widely praised for his short stories and the novel "Famous All Over Town." But Santiago is actually Daniel James, who was blacklisted as a communist in the 1950s, according to articles published Sunday in advance of an article by author John Gregory Dunne for the New York Review of Books.

PETRO FIRE — Firemen this morning had controlled a deadly oil fire that broke out last night at a Union Oil Co. refinery near Chicago.

Refinery explosion

Illinois blast kills 9, injures 23; 7 missing

ROMEDEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Rescue workers searched today for seven Union Oil Co. workers still missing following a refinery explosion that killed at least nine people, injured 23 others, cracked concrete foundations 15 miles away and cut off power to 10,000 homes.

The blast Monday evening was felt for 35 miles and left the refinery looking like "a giant erector set that had been stepped on," said Romeoville police Lt. Andy Barto.

Rescue workers were hampered for hours from recovering charred bodies at the site by the choking smoke and intense heat.

Officials early today had no information on what might have caused the explosion, which firefighters said occurred inside the refinery's coke plant.

Firefighters from about 30 communities battled five separate fires, which sent smoke swirling thousands of feet into the air. By early today, only one fire was still burning, and that was under control, said Romeoville police Sgt. Richard Nugent.

Nugent said the bodies of nine badly burned victims had been recovered from the explosion site, but none had been identified. There were 48 workers at the plant when the explosion occurred shortly before 6 p.m. Monday, he said.

Twenty-one workers were injured, two of them critically, in the blast and ensuing fires, area hospitals reported. Two Romeoville firefighters also suffered minor injuries fighting the blazes, said Assistant Chief Stephen Clancy.

The refinery straddles Romeoville and Lemont, about 25 miles southwest of Chicago. About 15,000 people live in Romeoville.

The explosion blew out windows and cracked building foundations in Joliet, said Sgt. Paul Dixon of the Will County sheriff's office.

"We're about 15 miles away here and we thought it was an earthquake," he said.

In Morris, 35 miles away, Lou Anne Lenzie of radio station WCSJ said the station was flooded with calls from residents who said the explosion shook their homes.

"I was talking on the telephone," said Angela Schmidt of nearby Lockport. "The door blew open like someone threw something at it."

Some witnesses reported a second explosion shortly after the first, and others said there were also a series of smaller explosions.

"I heard the explosion, I turned around and hit the pavement," said Virgil Powell, a truck driver who was unloading a shipment inside the refinery's main gates.

VP Bush on stump in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush, in his campaign debut against Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro, is giving Texas the message that the Democratic challengers are too liberal for the traditionally conservative Lone Star State.

Bush planned stops in the Texas cities of Tyler, Wichita Falls, Abilene and Waco today as a warmup for a appearance Wednesday with President Reagan at a rally in Austin. It is Bush's first outing since Mondale and Ms. Ferraro were formally installed on the Democratic presidential ticket last week.

With 29 electoral votes at stake — more than one-tenth of the total needed to win the White House — Texas is one of the biggest prizes in the presidential sweepstakes.

Oil supply seems safest when free

There has been a surplus of oil on the world market for the last two years, but we have been warned that it probably would be temporary. Warfare in the Persian Gulf easily could turn the surplus into a shortage. If not that, the economic recovery would surely stimulate demand for energy and wipe out the surplus.

Well, tankers have been bombed in the Persian Gulf. Economic recovery is surprising everyone with its strength and duration. U.S. oil imports are running 5 percent ahead of last year. In the face of such events, oil markets should be getting jittery about the adequacy of future supplies.

But what's happening? The price of gasoline in the United States is falling, not rising, in a season of peak travel which usually sends prices up. The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries recently met in Vienna and found that it is no closer than ever to a return of the halcyon days of a seller's market.

The $29-a-barrel OPEC price for benchmark crude, set in March 1983, will remain in effect, and the producing nations will be lucky to get it. Prices in the spot market have been running at more than $1 below the official OPEC price. Neither the Iran-Iraq war nor recovery from recession in the United States has strained the capacity of the oil producing nations to meet demand. Some analysts believe prices may drop to the $26 level in spite of OPEC efforts to keep them higher.

The Saudis agreed at Vienna to reduce their oil production by 250,000 barrels a day so that the hard-pressed Nigerians can increase their production by a corresponding amount. This will help Nigeria increase its oil revenue without breaking the 17.5 million barrel daily production quota which OPEC is seeking to maintain among its members. If the quota were violated, the market surplus would become greater and it would be even harder to keep prices from falling.

Supply and demand appear to be firmly in control of oil prices. OPEC has lost its power to raise prices and may be unable to forestall their collapse. The U.S. government tried to control oil and gasoline prices for years, and succeeded only in creating shortages. The ability of a free energy market to work for the benefit of the consumer was never more evident than it is today.

Dingbat for veep

Archie Bunker was sitting in his home in Astoria, Long Island, when he saw the news on television that Mondale had chosen Geraldine Ferraro as his running mate. He let out a scream and Edith came rushing in from the kitchen. "What is it, Archie?" Edith asked. "That meathead Mondale has put our Congresswoman Geraldine Ferraro on his ticket as V.P." "Isn't that nice," Edith said. "You would say that. She's one of your people."

"That's the way your people always think. I knew we was in serious trouble when them women liberators was allowed to march in the street without the cops shooting tear gas at them." "I wish you'd stop referring to women as my people," Edith said. "All right. I'll call them by their right name — dingbats." "Archie, you have no right to call a woman vice presidential candidate a dingbat."

"What does a man know about it?" "The vice presidency of the United States has always been reserved for a male. The founding fathers of the Constitution wanted it that way." "There is nothing in the Constitution that says a woman can't be vice president."

"That's because at the time it was written no one in his right mind could imagine a meathead presidential candidate choosing one. But I'll bet you if you took a poll of the great men who signed the Declaration of Independence, they would have said, 'No women vice presidents or we give the country back to England.'"

'Angel of death' remains elusive

WASHINGTON — There is nothing that produces as much exhilaration and all-around gratification for me as tracking down a notorious war criminal and bringing him to justice.

Several years ago, I found Adolf Cukers, a brutal Nazi overlord who had butchered thousands of Jews in Latvia. He was living quietly on a lakeshore in the Brazilian countryside.

Not long after I confronted him there and revealed his whereabouts to the world, his body was found in the trunk of a car, with a note pinned to his jacket. The note said simply, "The Committee that Never Forgets."

But I failed to find the most notorious of the surviving Nazi war criminals. The real object of my search was Dr. Josef Mengele, the "Angel of Death," who consigned an estimated 2 million Jews to the gas chambers or the lingering horror of quack medical experiments at Auschwitz during World War II.

Over the years, I have continued the search. I have spoken to witnesses who have seen him. One witness met him at the home of a Nazi sympathizer in Venezuela. Another encountered Mengele at a ski resort in Switzerland. Still another saw him in the south of France.

Apparently, he has traveled under various identities, using forged passports. His favorite alias, I'm told, is "Gregory" or "Gregorovich." His luxurious lifestyle is financed by members of his family who live in the Bavarian town of Gunzburg.

Recently, I sent my associate Lucette Lagnado to Israel to seek out the surviving victims. They remember Mengele from Auschwitz as an exquisitely handsome, soft-spoken man who loved to play German ballads on an old-fashioned, hand-cranked phonograph.

According to reliable sources, he has not lost his good looks, and his manners are still polished. He is now in his 70s.

Meanwhile, he remains the world's most wanted fugitive, sought by at least three governments and various private groups. My sources believe he's under the protection of Paraguay's dictator, Alfredo Stroessner. At one point, a CIA document pinpointed his hideout as the southern Paraguayan city of Encarnacion, just across the Parana River in Argentina.

But I'm told he never stays long in one spot. He reportedly has held up for brief periods with devout Mennonites in a Paraguayan village called Philadelphia and with fellow expatriates in a Nazi colony called Colonia Dignidad in Chile.

He may now be in a military zone, protected by a small army of mercenaries. The former head of the Israeli secret service, Issar Harel, told Ms. Lagnado that in his opinion, Mengele's security system is so strong it would take a combat brigade to penetrate it.

For years, Mengele lived openly in Buenos Aires — his name in the telephone book — under the wing of Argentine President Juan Peron. In 1968, West Germany asked for Mengele's extradition. The Argentines stalled, claiming their investigation "disclosed no record" of Mengele's presence. The Germans provided more specifics, and renewed their extradition request in January 1980.

But because there was no extradition treaty between Argentina and Germany, the case had to be submitted to the Argentine solicitor general. The foreign ministry didn't do this until June 1980. By then, it was too late.

A month earlier, Israeli agents had kidnapped Adolf Eichmann, another Nazi war criminal, on the streets of Buenos Aires. Not wishing to risk similar "extradition" to Israel, Mengele skipped to Paraguay.

The Paraguayans' official line, then and now, is that they don't know where Mengele is. Only a few weeks ago, they told me they'd be happy to arrest Mengele if I'd tell them exactly where to find him. Some day I may oblige.

Footnote: In a future column, I'll tell you about Mengele's U.S. connection.

POLITICAL PIPELINE: The Republicans quietly sounded out Utah's Gov. Scott Matheson about heading a "Democrats for Reagan" movement. The conservative Democratic governor said he couldn't abandon the party that had supported him all his career. He'll back Walter Mondale for president.

One convention souvenir the Democratic National Committee declined to put its official seal of approval on was a hand-carved donkey pulling a little cart. A Tennessee congressman several months ago asked the committee to approve mass production of such a trinket by one of his constituents, but in vain.

Abuse raises divorce dilemma

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I believe my husband must be mentally sick. He has grown more and more abusive and violent toward me and our children and is hurting us physically all the time. He refuses to get any counseling or other help, and I am even fearful for our lives now. I don't believe in divorce, but what should I do? — Mrs. W.R.V.

DEAR MRS. W.R.V.: First of all, if you and your children are actually in serious physical danger, you need to take steps to remove yourself from your husband. Like you, I do not approve of divorce, because the Bible makes it clear that the marriage vow should be life-long and, "what God has joined together, let man not separate" (Matthew 19:6). However, you may need to explore the possibility of a legal separation, or at least arrange for some type of shelter until your husband gets the help he needs, so you and your family are no longer in danger. Your pastor may be able to point you to the right kind of help in your community.

Beyond that, you need to do all you can to encourage him to get help. If he has relatives that might help, they need to be aware of his problems. Unfortunately, if he is in the grip of serious mental problems it can be difficult to make him see that he needs help.

But do all you can to let him know that you love him, and that it is because you love him that you want him to find help and become a better person.

Most of all, seek God's wisdom and strength during this painful time.

Around The Rim

By CAROL HART BALDWIN

It takes 'heart'

Downtown Big Spring a quarter of a century ago was a sharp contrast to downtown Big Spring today.

I can remember going downtown with my folks every Friday. The streets were bustling and shoppers had to hunt for parking spaces. The sidewalks were filled with people.

Twenty-five years ago the steps from the streets to the sidewalks were so steep that little kids had to crawl up them and adults had to watch where they were walking. But it was all a part of the flavor of downtown.

Gradually, things changed. People had good intentions but the deterioration of the downtown area slowly destroyed parts of Main and the Third and Fourth Street area.

I remember the city upgraded the steps to get rid of the steep inclines. We had clean-up campaigns, but they soon fizzled out and people lost interest. Planters were installed but never really kept up. Downtown lost its sparkle.

But I'm hopeful that with some hometown enthusiasm downtown will have a chance to shine again. Thanks to people like Pat Hardy, maybe the area won't stay on its downhill decline.

Hardy, the city's administrative assistant, must remember how Big Spring city streets looked years ago. And Hardy, with several downtown merchants and others interested in the area, is spearheading a drive to save the downtown area. He has enthusiasm, the key ingredient for the project. It's going to take a lot of enthusiasm from a lot of people to keep downtown from turning into a ghost town.

The first annual "Heart of the City" celebration has been scheduled this weekend and I can think of no better reason for a celebration than an organized drive to save a part of this city.

When a representative of the Texas Historical Commission was in town last week, she pointed out that downtown has several historical buildings. Other cities have refurbished their downtown areas and turned them into areas of pride. We can do it here, too.

On a recent trip to Galveston, my husband and I walked along Strand street. Years ago, downtown Galveston was deteriorating and the city was losing tourism. But folks who were dismayed by the deterioration of their city banded together and began turning Galveston around.

As we walked down Strand, we noticed the buildings were old but the street was beautiful. Workers were everywhere, fighting to preserve buildings which would have been torn down long ago if someone in the city didn't fight to save them.

This weekend, the "Heart of the City" celebration will give everyone a chance to lend some support to a section of the city worth saving. There is a lot of life left in the downtown area. I hope the city turns out to show they are behind the project all the way.

Physicians attend medical meetings

Dr. Max Wolf, Malone and Hogan Clinic radiologist, is one of the local medical group's specialists who have attended recent continuing medical education meetings.

While on a visiting fellowship at M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston during June, Dr. Wolf studied new procedures in the rapidly developing field of interventional radiology. He also attended the spring Roentgen Conference of the New Orleans Radiological Society, June 14-16.

"Medical Management of Ischemic Heart Disease: 1984" was a Houston meeting attended by clinic internist Dr. Douglas Park in June. Sponsored by the Baylor College of Medicine, it included sessions on the role of bypass surgery and cardiac catheterization in management of the angina patient and the use of cardiac drugs to control hypertension and angina.

Another internist, Dr. Gordon R. Golden was Big Spring's delegate to the annual meeting of the American Heart Association in Texas July 13-15 in Fort Worth. Discussions on coronary angioplasty, improved cardiac pacemakers and new pharmaceutical products were advances in treatment of cardiovascular disease of special interest to Golden.

Malone and Hogan Clinic urologist Dr. James Cowan was on the program of the 133rd Texas Surgical Society meeting in Lubbock. He presented a paper on colovesicle fistula. Dr. James Matthews also attended the meeting of Texas surgeons.

Two other clinic physicians attended the annual meeting of the Texas Medical Association in Fort Worth. They were Dr. Thomas Long, dermatologist; and Dr. Harvey DuBiner, ophthalmologist.

Dear Abby

Commercials drive family from TV

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me what can be done to stop the advertising of personal feminine products on television.

Last night my family and I were watching a good, clean movie at 9:15 when a commercial for "panty liners" came on. Our 13-year-old son was so embarrassed he got up and went to the kitchen for a snack. Our 16-year-old daughter put her head down pretending to clean her fingernails.

The next commercial was for a douche! I became so disgusted I turned off the TV.

I find such commercials embarrassing in mixed company, and degrading to women. Is nothing sacred anymore? My daughter says it's impossible to watch TV with her boyfriend because of these commercials.

Please address this issue, Abby. I'm sure most mothers feel as I do about it.

—DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Write a letter of complaint to the president of the company that manufactures the product whose TV commercials you find offensive.

Also write to the TV network that aired those commercials:

Audience Information, ABC-TV, 1330 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Audience Services, CBS Television Network, 51 W. 52nd St., New York, N.Y. 10019.

Audience Services, NBC-TV, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 (this includes postage) to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Dr. Donohue

Gum relieves symptoms

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am very interested in the gum on the market to help people quit smoking. I have smoked for 25 years and nothing I've tried helps me quit. I would like your opinion of such products. —S.M.

Nicorettes is the name of the nicotine-containing gum to which I believe you refer. Each piece contains two milligrams of nicotine. The gum has to be chewed for 20 to 30 minutes for 90 percent of its nicotine to get into your blood. That's about the amount of nicotine you'd get from smoking one cigarette.

Don't look for miracles. It will not "make you" give up smoking, but it will relieve the unpleasant sensations some develop when they first quit. It will calm the irritability that may follow quitting and it eases the difficulty some report in concentration after stopping the weeds.

But this decided edge won't tip the scales in favor of a successful quitting campaign unless your resolve is high, unless you are really determined to stop. It sounds like you are resolved and I hope you quit. If you are successful don't forget to give yourself as much of the credit as you give the gum.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: For years, my daughter has suffered headaches. She is 3f. All the doctors have come up with is migraine for a diagnosis. A doctor here is giving her Inderal on a daily basis. We are concerned as to what the after effects might be on her heart. She has chest pains. We would appreciate hearing from you. —F.J. Inderal (propranolol) is a medicine used for migraine headache prevention by many doctors. It is also used for high blood pressure; it slows the heartbeat. It should not be causing the pains your daughter reports unless she has some other underlying heart condition.

She should report her symptoms and have her medication and/or dosage evaluated. The other questions on headache have been discussed here recently. You may want to read the booklet "How to Tame Headaches," which other readers may obtain by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.00 for printing and handling.

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications has filed with the Public Utility Commission (PUC) of Texas to introduce a new intrastate, optional long distance service to begin August 1, 1984, the same date "Reach Out America" plan will be available for interstate calls.

A new service designed to give customers the opportunity to reduce the cost of long distance in Texas has been filed with the state PUC by AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc.

"Reach Out Texas" is an optional calling plan which will provide additional discounts on long distance rates for Texas customers who frequently place calls in the evening, weekend, and night time calling periods.

The new "Reach Out Texas" plan for the first time extends the benefits of competition to many Texas consumers who previously have not had any discounted long distance service available to them.

AT&T Communications customers who choose this new optional service will pay a monthly charge of $14 which entitles them to one hour of intrastate "Direct Dialed" (1+) calling during the weekend and night rate period.

An additional customer savings for those participating in the plan will be that any Direct Dialed calls placed during the weekend and night rate period that exceeds the one hour period will be charged at an hourly rate of $12, or $.20 per minute.

Customers selecting this option also receive an additional 15 percent discount for intrastate Direct Dialed calls during the evening discount rate period for a total savings of approximately 38 percent.

A one-time charge of $6 is billed when a customer orders the "Reach Out Texas" plan. The $6 is collected by AT&T Communications and paid to the local telephone company to establish the service. This charge will be waived during the first 90 days that the offering is available.

AT&T Communications is proud to offer this optional service for its Texas long distance customers and will in the future continue to introduce cost cutting programs to help Texans reduce their long distance bills.

A complete copy of the "Reach Out Texas" tariff and rate schedule is on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas.

AT&T Communications estimates that the revenue impact of this new service would be significantly less than 2.5 percent of annual gross revenues.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

*Customer billing for the optional calling plan will be provided for AT&T Communications through billing contracts with the local telephone companies. Therefore, the introduction of these rate plans into a specific area is contingent upon local company billing capabilities. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has agreed to handle the billing in its service areas effective August 1, 1984.

A Big Spring WINNER!

Joy Decker
Project Director, RSVP

Through RSVP, 321 Big Spring senior citizens are contributing over 50,000 volunteer hours annually to the community — to schools, day care centers, the Senior Center, Canterbury Home, all our hospitals, nursing homes, the community centers, Chemical People, Crime Stoppers, Extension Homemakers, the library and West Texas Opportunities. Coordinating this enormous task is Joy Decker, who took over the program in October of 1978 (there were just 16 volunteers on the roll!) Since that time she has developed a force of senior citizens with a variety of skills and talents, and expanded the number of "stations" where senior volunteer services are needed. Orientations are held each quarter for newly enrolled volunteers. And each year RSVP hosts a Recognition Banquet for volunteers and station representatives. RSVP is a national project, and the local program receives national and state funds; the City of Big Spring is the local sponsor. "The real 'winners' are the RSVP Volunteers," Joy says. "They contribute so much to the fabric of the community through the service they give." Joy worked at Webb Air Force Base for 12 years. She became interested in RSVP in its early days here when her Mother was one of the Volunteers. Joy is a member of the United Blood Services Advisory Council and recently received her 3-gallon Donor pin. She and husband George have three children: Carolyn, Eddie and Tim.

Steve's tuff

By Steve Belvin

An enjoyable two weeks

I've been on the baseball beat these last two weeks covering the District Little League All-Star Tournament and I must say I enjoyed every minute of it.

It was really refreshing to see groups of 11 and 12-year-olds out there giving their all and playing the game the way it is supposed to be played — no silly errors or mental mistakes, just super hitting and pitching and good attitudes whether in victory or defeat.

When it was all over it was powerful Midland North Central going through the tourney undefeated and defeating Midland Western 7-2 in the final game.

BIG SPRING COMPETED WELL

Big Spring teams held their own in the tourney as the Texas League All-Stars finished third while the National Stars finished fifth in the 12-team tournament.

North Central was simply the class of the field with fireballing Jason Stone and John Dickson leading the way. Stone won three games in the tourney including the championship game and a contest in which he fanned 16 Big Spring International All-Stars.

Stone wasn't the only top notch hurler in the tournament though. Midland Eastern 11-year-old James Madrid put on a pitching clinic versus Lamesa by fanning 17 batters. Midland Western had a nifty hurler by the name of Kevin Irish who proved to be one of the top hurlers in the tournament by fanning 14 Texas Stars in the semi-final contest.

Big Spring had its own share of talent on the mound with the likes of Texas' Sambo Rodriguez, Sammy Carrillo for the Nationals and Michael Hilario for the International All-Stars.

North Central had the big bats in the likes of Dickson, Stone, Greg Rich and Bob Belcher. They could hurt you with the long ball anytime. Texas had the consistent bats. No power hitters, but the best contact hitters in the tourney.

Hitters like Robert Lara, Rodriguez, Rena Villa and Valen Garcia should make Big Spring baseball much better in years to come. The Texas team also had the best fielding team at the tourney. In three games I covered the Texans made only five errors. Three of them came in the final inning of their last game.

Other top Big Spring hitters were Carrillo, Lance Newell and Neal Mayfield of the Nationals, Joe Downy and Chris Thorns of the American League and Hilario and Robert Perez of the Internationals.

All in all it was a super tourney. Too bad the Texans came up just short. It was a very enjoyable two weeks.

TOUGH TO SWALLOW — Two time champion Jose-Luis Clerc (left) reacts to the play of opponent Aaron Krickstein as the 16-year old defeated Clerc, 7-6, 7-2, 3-6, 6-4 Monday to become the youngest U.S. Pro Tennis Champion in the 58-year history of the tournament.

State rep will speak to coaches

THSCA wants clarification of new rules

HOUSTON (AP) — A state legislator who helped write a recently passed school reform bill will meet with school athletic officials next month in an attempt to dispel confusion over a law dealing with extracurricular student activities.

Rep. Bill Haley, D-Center, will meet with members of the Texas High School Coaches Association during coaching school which runs from July 31 to Aug. 2.

Haley and more than 8,000 athletic directors and coaches attending the meeting will discuss conflicting interpretations of House Bill 72, which goes into effect on Jan. 1.

The bill requires junior and high school students to pass, within a set grading period, all academic classes with a mark of 70 or better on a 100-point scale. Failure to do so would make a student ineligible for any type of extracurricular school-sponsored activity.

Students who failed to meet the grading criteria also would be ineligible to participate in outside activities until the next grades are released.

Most schools release grades every six weeks.

The Coaches Association vehemently opposed the bill, which was passed during the special legislative session earlier this summer and signed into law by Gov. Mark White.

The new requirements won't have much impact on the strong academic student, but coaches and athletic directors say they are more concerned with the weak student who is trying to avoid the more difficult courses.

"It's unrealistic to think a 15- or 16-year old child is not going to stub his toes somewhere along the line," said Eddie Joseph, executive vice president of the high school coaches association, who led the association's lobbying effort against the eligibility requirement.

Before the bill became law, high school athletes were required to pass three courses, not including physical education, and received eligibility updates every seven days.

In football, for example, a student-athlete could miss one game because of academic deficiencies, but return to action the following week if his grades improved.

The University Interscholastic League, which oversees high school extracurricular activities in Texas, revised its rules for this year, requiring passing grades in four of five classes.

Although the new rules approved by the legislature require passing marks in all five, the State Board of Education does not require a student to take five courses.

Money raised from the rodeo ticket sales and concession sales will go to support 4-H activities for the upcoming year. 4-H activities include the 4-H food project, County Invitational Livestock Judging Contest, Awards Banquet, Invitational Trap and Skeet Shoot, and sending representatives to leadership camp and Texas 4-H Congress. 4-H members serving as chairman of events are Blair Richardson, calf shoot workers; Wade Carper, goat tying; Lex Christie, barrel racing; Vance Christie, pole bending, and Leigh Anne Wallace, goat sacking. Goat sacking is a special two-man event. Entry fee for the goat sacking is $1.

4-H is the youth development phase of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. 4-H programs focus on the needs, interests and concerns of boys and girls between the ages of nine and nineteen. This voluntary out-of-school program provides opportunities for youth to participate in a wide variety of learning activities which are not available in school, such as the Junior Rodeo.

Crum gets lucrative contract

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Basketball coach Denny Crum has signed a 10-year contract with the University of Louisville and will receive a bonus of almost $1 million if he completes the deal, The Louisville Times reported in a copyright story today.

Crum, 47, is under no obligation to remain but has verbally agreed to stay, said Steve Bing, vice president for university relations.

The contract, effective July 1, spells out Crum's salary and benefits and establishes a "completion bonus fund" to be paid Crum at the end of the 1993-94 basketball season. The bonus will be paid with money raised initially through the University of Louisville Foundation Inc., a private fund-raising group.

The contract includes a 10 percent to 15 percent increase in the first year of Crum's salary, which will be between $125,000 and $135,000 this year, Bing said. It replaces a previous five-year pact that did not have a bonus provision.

The bonus deal was offered to Crum by the university as an attempt to dissuade other schools from trying to recruit him, Bing said.

The foundation agreed to make an initial payment of $50,000 to the interest-bearing bonus fund. After that, the amount deposited will decrease and will be tied in part to rises in the Consumer Price Index, the newspaper reported. If the CPI averages 3 percent over the life of the deal, Crum would receive a bonus of $865,000.

Crum will collect nothing from the bonus fund if he leaves before the completion of the contract.

Crum was on a fishing trip and unavailable for comment.

San Angelo hands Big Spring setback in tournament, 11-2

LUBBOCK — The Big Spring Big Leaguers fell upon hard times in their opening game of the Sectional Tournament in Lubbock Monday night as they were defeated by San Angelo 11-2.

Numerous Big Spring errors contributed to the loss as Big Spring pitcher Jay Pirkle went the full seven innings while allowing only four earned runs.

San Angelo struck quickly with five runs in the opening inning. Big Spring shortstop Sammy Watson, who went two-for-four in the contest, singled and came around to score on an error, which was as close as Big Spring would get to their opponenets.

Pirkle was another one of Big Spring's top hitters, collecting two hits in four trips to the plate. Mike Dodd also got a hit for Big Spring.

The loss moves Big Spring into the losers' bracket of the double elimination tourney. Big Spring took the field against Borger in a 1 p.m. contest today. Borger was a 15-0 loser to Abilene. If Big Spring wins, that will force another game at 6 p.m.

WATHAN TAKEN OUT—Kansas City Royals' John Wathan gets a foot in the head while sliding into second base. Toronto's Tony Fernandez tried to clear Wathan during a double play in the fourth inning, but the head and foot collided, sending Wathan out of the game with a mild concussion. The Royals prevailed, however by taking both ends of a doubleheader, 9-8 and 7-2.

Veteran champion upset by teen king

Krickstein rallies past Clerc in U.S. Pro title

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Nearly a year ago, teen-ager Aaron Krickstein went to the U.S. Open as the national boys' 18-and-under champion. He'll return late next month as the youngest U.S. Pro Tennis champion in the tournament's 58-year history.
 Krickstein, the 16-year-old son of a Grosse Pointe, Mich. doctor, won his first major title Monday night, rallying for a 7-6, 3-6, 6-4 victory over two-time champion Jose-Luis Clerc of Argentina.
 Trailing 3-0 after losing his service twice in the third set, the kid with an explosive forehand figured, "I'd go for broke."
 "In the second set, I didn't hit too many winners, but I didn't think I was playing too badly," he said. "But I didn't start attacking until after I fell behind 3-0. When I broke him at 3-1, that was the key game. It got me going."

 And, except for a brief lapse, he kept going. He collected his biggest pay check, $34,000, and became the fourth American to win the U.S. Pro since the bankrupt tournament was rescued in 1964.
 Sweden's Bjorn Borg won the first of three U.S. Pro crowns here at the age of 18 in 1974. Krickstein won't be 17 until Aug. 2.
 Clerc, 25 and bidding for his third U.S. Pro title in four years, had his consecutive set winning streak ended at 17 as Krickstein completely dominated the first set tie-breaker.
 However, he took charge in the second set with his slashing shots from the baseline. He appeared to be too tough for the kid from Michigan.

However, Krickstein—who upset teen-age pal and practice partner Jimmy Arias, the No. 1 seed, in the quarterfinals—dug deep after nearly being blown out at the outset of the deciding set.
 At 3-2, he broke Clerc in the sixth game, pulling into a 3-3 tie with the help of his whipping forehand.
 In a long seventh game, which went to deuce six times, Krickstein's forehand betrayed him and he was broken again. Clerc appeared set to wrap up another championship.
 But Krickstein stunned the South American, breaking him at love in the eighth game. After holding service, he finished the three-hour match by breaking Clerc again at love in the 10th game.
 "The momentum definitely swung my way when I got to 3-1," Krickstein said. "Until then it was a little discouraging. Then he became a little discouraged."

 "At 3-all, I thought I had lost the match," Clerc said. "I feel like I serve like a lady."
 Clerc said earlier in the tournament that he felt snubbed on his return here for the fourth year in a row. He complained that his picture was not on the program cover as defending champion, he was not provided a courtesy car and he was ejected from a practice court by Longwood members.
 Second-seeded Ken Flach of St. Louis and Robert Seguso of Sunrise, Fla., won the doubles championship with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over fifth-seeded Gary Donnelly and Ernie Fernandez of Puerto Rico. Flach and Seguso shared $12,000, the losers $5,200.

Cyclist cleared of stimulant use charges

DENVER (AP)—Olympic cyclist Alexi Grewal said he's preparing for a "death march" in the Los Angeles Summer Games, where he's headed after a U.S. Cycling Federation jury cleared him of using a stimulant in a pre-Olympic race.
 "I think it's going to be a strong man's race, and endurance is going to play a major factor," Grewal told reporters after getting the go-ahead to race for the United States in the Games.
 "I think the race in L.A. is going to be a death march, because of the heat and hard course. Especially the heat," Grewal said.
 But he said the course is similar to some he's familiar with. "The race isn't tailor-made for me, but it suits me well."
 His comments came Monday, a few hours after the panel lifted a 30-day suspension from competition he'd received following results of a urine test in the Coors International Bicycle Classic, held in Colorado.

Grewal, 23, of Aspen, was suspended July 19 after a test by Coors Classic officials revealed a prohibited substance of the phenylethylamine class in his sample. Such drugs include mild stimulants such as those found in over-the-counter cold medicines, Coors Classic officials said.
 Grewal appealed his suspension, saying he is allowed to take a drug called albuterol for an asthma condition.
 That drug, in certain tests, shows up in the same family of drugs as phenylethylamine, said Grewal's manager, Len Pettysjohn.
 Grewal told reporters Monday he still wasn't sure whether it was albuterol or an herbal capsule given to him by his masseur that caused the positive test results.
 Shortly after the suspension, Grewal blamed the test results on the herb.

"I'm sorry and I'm embarrassed for myself and for my friends and for the Coors race," said Grewal, noting that the Coors Classic is "one of my favorite events" and one he'd like to cycle in again.
 "It's my fault—which I've said before. I had a moment of indiscretion and made a stupid mistake by not knowing exactly what I was putting in my mouth," Grewal said.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
 from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 25, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime is very good for ideas you want to put across and to get out necessary correspondence. Double-check your attitude to make sure you're not being too sure of yourself.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make it a point to see those individuals you want as allies in the days ahead and gain their good will.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can hit on a good plan for increasing your assets considerably, so get busy early on such. Drive carefully.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have a fine idea how to gain your aims with less trouble and more speedily at this time. Try to be more economical.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get a plan arranged quietly in the morning so that you can get your talents across more successfully.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You need more pleasure in your life and this is a good day to go after it. You can solve a problem wisely later.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Endeavor to get an expert to give you advice so that you can become more successful in your career.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Try a new approach at whatever your interests may be and you get better results, but steer clear of one who has a super ego.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Do whatever will please the one you love the most and make this person happier. Do not run off on any foolish tangents.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Situations arise that can shed light on that puzzling situation connected with a partner. Gain greater benefits.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Have a talk with co-workers and coordinate efforts more intelligently so that production is increased.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get that fine special talent working early and you can accomplish a very great deal.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A good day to have an understanding with household members so that you can be happier at home.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be very capable at any profession that requires quick thinking and dexterity of hand and fingers and can take care of any emergency that may arise. Teach to carry through with any plan once it is made, and there can be much success during the lifetime.
