How's that? No grace

Q. Will there still be a five-day grace period after July for persons who pay their state motor vehicle registrations late?

A. Yes, persons will not have to pay a 20 percent late fee if they pay within the first five days of August, according to County Tax Assessor-Collector Dorothy Moore. However, because fees are going up effective Aug. 1, those who pay in the first five days of August will have to pay the increased fees, she said.

Spring Study shows arsenic danger Board

By LUIS RIOS

Staff Writer KNOTT - The level of cancercausing arsenic contamination in groundwater here "does not constitute an acute threat to the health of the residents," but more data is needed to more accurately assess potential chronic effects, according to a new report by the Texas

Ron White, assistant commissioner of the state agriculture department's regulatory division, and several members of his staff met with about 15 cotton farmers Thursday afternoon to discuss the latest results of an arsenic study by his department. White met later with reporters.

Representatives from the Texas Department of Water Resources, Texas Department of Health and Texas A&M University accompanied White.

The source of the contamination likely is arsenic acid and possibly calcium arsenate (a cotton defoliant used approximately 30-50 years ago), according to the study.

The tests showed soluble arsenic to the maximum depth of 17 feet. Arsenic was present at greatest depth in areas where gin trash had been dumped, the tests revealed.

State: poison drenches Knott area

"About all they told us is what we knew before they started," said Larry Shaw, a Knott farmer present at the meeting. "I don't think there's too many people that worried about it."

Shaw said he doubts that insecticides could cause such extensive contamination. He said he and other farmers believe there may be a natural source for the high levels of arsenic.

The first arsenic poisoning of livestock in Knott was reported in December 1983. The cattle died from arsenic poisoning through accidental contamination of tank water. The well water on the farm showed low levels of arsenic contamination, the report said.

The TDA began immediate testing of the area, collecting 21 water samples and three soil samples. Arsenic was detected in all the samples taken, the report revealed.

The new study also revealed it is possible additional arsenic is reaching the groundwater through seepage around improperly sealed well casings. "The arsenic may have come from several sources," said White. "It is hard to tell how many sources. The arsenic will be in the soil for 50 to 100 years in high concentration.

ravis Newsome glances up at his opponent as he selects a domino from a row in front of him on a card table. At tables to his left and right other players mimic his actions and the sounds of dominoes clinking against one another fills the East Room of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Newsome, like each of the more than 120 players registered in the Sixth Annual Texas Style World Championship Domino Tournament, has come to Big Spring to win. Each July scores of players assemble here from around the nation to try and win hefty jackpots.

Although most of the players are men, some women are interspersed in the crowd of tables on the East Room floor. Newsome, 34, has been playing dominoes for 22 years, and he has been coming to Big Spring since the inception of the tournament in 1978.

This year, Newsome traveled from Kansas City, Mo. Asked why he makes the trip to Texas year after year, he said, "I haven't won the championship yet. I'm going to keep coming until I win the championship.'

Newsome learned to play dominoes as a child. "I grew up in Chappell Hill, Texas. I have a large family. Dominoes is the only game my parents would let us play. We weren't allowed to play cards. My mother didn't want us playing anything else."

"I consider myself a domino fanatic. When I was attending the University of Oklahoma, I set up an extra-curricular program called domino theory and strategy. There was no credit offered, of course.' Newsome found himself with 15 students who learned to enjoy the game. "It was a fun course.' Newsome graduated from col-

But he has higher hopes for the local tournament. "I've been here every year. My partner and I finished in fourth place last year."

He praised the Big Spring tournament. "This is an excellent tournament. The tournament in Alabama was larger, and there was more prize money, but I call it the "Peo-

Swing stock sale disputed

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

Guy Matthews, the Houston patent attorney for Fiberflex Products Inc. of Big Spring, testified in 118th District Court that a Big Spring business entrepreneur lied to him when purchasing company stock.

The morning after Matthews agreed to sell 20,000 shares of Fiberflex stock to former OIL manager and owner Charles "Chris" Christopher on Feb. 27, he was told by company president Tom Rutledge that he (Matthews) "had sold control of the company," Matthews testified.

"I said, 'What do you mean?"" Matthews testified. "I said they told me they already have control. He (Rutledge) said, 'They do not.' He said in effect the 20,000 shares were the swing stock."

"I said, 'They lied to me," Matthews testified.

According to Matthews' testimony, he immediately called Christopher and told Christopher he would void the arrangement because Christopher had misrepresented the facts.

"He said, 'Guy, why are you trying to do this?' I said, 'Because you lied to me," Matthews testified.

Ownership of the 20,000 shares of stock is one of the major legal questions in a case that could determine whether Christopher's group of "outside directors" or corporate management — led by Rutledge, his brother Russ Rutledge, John Freeman and Fred Morrow - will control the company.

As a result of the disputed stock sale, both Matthews and Christopher have sued each other for fraud. Matthews claims he was not told the 20,000 shares would grant Christopher control of the company. Christopher, in turn, claims Matthews failed to tell him Matthews had already signed two voting rights agreements with the Rutledges, one for 11 months and one for 10 years.

The 10-year agreement is still under legal scrutiny, although it might not have been sent to lawyers at the time of the stock sale to Christopher, Rutledge testified under cross-examination. Matthews also testified he mailed only the 11-month voting rights agreement to Christopher and not the 10-year agreement.

According to Matthews, he had purchased the stock from former company director and West Texas banker Sam Spikes in return for assuming Spikes' promissory note with Moncor, a Hobbs, N.M., bank.

Spikes was trying to liquidate some of his holdings to pay off debts at Security National Bank in Lubbock, one of several of Spikesowned banks to fail within the last year, Matthews testified. The Hobbs bank was not and is not owned or directed by Spikes, according to bank attorney Mike McKinney of Midland.

Spikes was to have paid off the note, according to an oral agreement Matthews testified was made at the time of the sale Sept. 17, 1983, at the Houston Intercontinental Airport in the presence of Moncor executive vice president Scotty

Prior to Matthews' September deal with Spikes, Matthew's had agreed to buy as many shares as he could afford — possibly 50,000 — at $8 a share, Matthews testified Friday.

In September, Matthews signed a blank bank note prior to the stock sale at Spikes request, Matthews testified. The 20,000 shares of stock was transferred to Matthews name after he signed the blank note, he testified.

Questioned why he signed a blank bank note, Matthews said, "I had been dealing with Sam Spikes for a long time. I had no reason to mistrust him.'

Matthews testified that Spikes financed a previous sale of 10,000 shares to Matthews through Spikes bank, Security National Bank of

Matthews testified that as part of his July deal with Spikes, he was looking for other people who might

Clear skies top Texas

By The Associated Press Most of Texas enjoyed clears skies today, with only Scattered thunderstorms were reported along a weak cold front that covered the northern portion of the Texas Panhandle. Other stoms developed offshore in the Gulf of Mexico - in an area east and southeast of Galveston.

Winds were southerly over much of the eastern twothirds of the state and west to northwesterly over most of High Plains and the Trans Pecos. Wind speeds were generally in the 5 to 10 mph range.

Overnight temperatures were generally in the 60s and 70s, with a range from 59 at Marfa, in the Davis Mountains, to 80 at Austin.

The National Weather Service said partly cloudy skies are likely through Saturday, with a chance of widely scattered mainly afternoon and evening thunderstorms.

Thunderstorms laced with hail pelted Indiana, Georgia and South Carolina, while rain-swollen creeks swept rocks as big as one foot in diameter along roads in Colorado on Thursday. Despite a flash flood watch in parts of Southern California on Thursday, National Weather Service forecasters said it would be a "near impossibility" for it to rain on the Los Angeles Olympic Games' opening ceremonies Saturday. Instead, forecasters were more concerned about air pollution.

Heavy downpours hit the Southern California desert regions of Yucaipa, Victorville and Yucca Valley Thursday afternoon, along with the soggy Big Bear Lake and Forest Falls areas of San Bernardino County, which have been repeatedly pelted with rain in recent weeks.

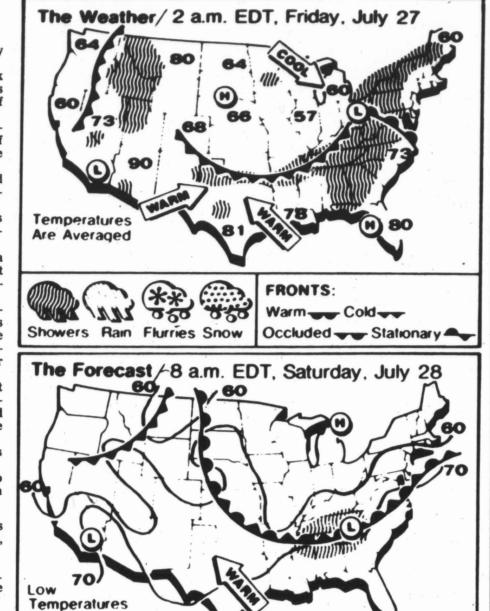

But except for one road closure, no major problems were reported. About a foot of mud and rocks closed the only road into Forest Falls, said Sharon Zell, dispatcher with the San Bernardino County Flood Control Dept. Meanwhile, a tropical depression packing 35 mph winds was centered about 350 miles southeast of Kingston, Jamaica, on Thursday night, forecasters said. The depression passed just south of Haiti at 10:30 p.m.

EDT and moving west-northwest at 20 to 25 mph, said the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables. West Texas - Partly cloudy with isolated late afternoon and evening thunderstorms and no important temperature changes. Panhandle and South Plains lows mid 60s and highs near 90. Permian Basin and far west lows upper 60s and highs in lower 90s. Concho Valley lows lower 70s and highs mid 90s. Big Bend lows near 60 mountains to low 70s lowlands and highs upper 80s mountains to near 100 Big Bend valleys.

Union rejects latest city offer

By RICK BROWN

Members of the Big Spring Professional Firefighters Association have voted "100 percent" to reject a city offer of $20,000 in back pay and are set for 9 a.m. Monday "final airing of differences" with city administrators, union president John Branham said Thursday.

The meeting will cap over seven months of negotiations between union and city officials. The issue in question is what compensation firemen should receive for periods when they were substituted into higher job classifications but not paid at a higher rate.

Branham said Monday's meeting will provide "the final airing of differences to see if we can come to a negotiated settlement" before the union files suit in district court on the issue.

"We don't want to take it to court," said Branham yesterday. "All we want is our holidays. That's it," he said, referring to an alternate union proposal that the men be given three extra holidays per year as compensation.

The firemen, who work shifts in a "one day on, two days off" arrangement, are currently allotted nine shifts per year as vacation or holidays. Their proposal would increase the off time to 11 shifts per year, according to union officials.

Branham said Thursday the extra holiday time would add about $1,000 to the city budget.

He said the extra time off is justified because firemen work more hours than other city departments and because "we're away from our families 24 hours every third day."

He said if the case goes to court, the suit will "cost taxpayers several thousand dollars more than what we're asking for now" because of court costs and attorney's fees.

Because of previous precedents that have been set in similar cases, Branham said the union "is definitely in a position to win this case. How much we'll win, I'm not sure. What the end figure will be is up to the district court to allot."

He said state union officials are set to attend a Wednesday union meeting in Big Spring to advise the firemen on their suit.

Union officials had previously demanded a total of $45,000 in back pay for the firemen, but came down to a $40,000 figure during Tuesday negotiations with City Personnel Director Emma Bogard, Branham said.

The union president said his men also voted Thursday to reject a $30,000 back pay offer if it should be tendered by city administrators.

$400,000 note for the September 17, 1983 deal due on March 14, 1984, and did not sell "a huge ranch in New Mexico he and his wife owned" to pay off the note as he promised, Matthews testified he became concerned.

Matthews was trying to get someone else to assume the promissory note with Moncor - then known as First City National Bank of Hobbs, N.M. - "because I didn't necessarily have $400,000 at the time," he testified.

Christopher asked to buy all of Matthews' 31,500 shares of stock, Matthews testified, but Matthews would only agree to the sale of 20,000 shares he bought from Spikes. "... I was going to get out of that $400,000 note," Matthews testified.

Matthews also testified

Christopher had an agreement Christopher filled out at the time of the stock transfer and Matthews signed that would last through April 25, 1986. Matthews said he asked for a copy that he could fill out to Christopher's direction, in which they marked out the date of the agreement.

According to Matthews, he had Christopher mark out a paragraph regarding control stock. He testified he asked Christopher, 'Why do you have that paragraph (in the agreement)? If you already have control, you don't need it (the paragraph).

Asked by his attorney, John Skrhak of Dallas, "Mr. Christopher struck from the agreement the paragraph that made it conditional for control?," Matthews replied, 'Yes, sir. Including the voting rights.

PHOENIX - Frank Zappa, the self-trained guitarist and singer known for his innovative, sometimes strange songs, says he's about to release five more albums ranging from rock to orchestra to chamber music.

Zappa, 43, says the works will include a double rock album called "Them Or Us" featuring parodies on videos, and a threerecord boxed set entitled "Thing-Fish" - an original Broadway show he wrote but never was produced.

Other-projects are the FRANK ZAPPA first of five seven-record boxed sets of original Mothers of Invention material to be titled "The Old Masters," a single record containing the works of Mozart contemporary Francesco Zappa (no relation) and an LP entitled "The Pefect Stranger" containing works by Varese.

Zappa, in Phoenix for a concert this week, called his music "optional entertainment for the discriminating individual."

Castro makes an offer

A tough speech, but Cuban leader wants peace

CIENFUEGOS (AP) - President Fidel Castro declared that Cuba is better defended than ever before but said the United States has no cause for alarm and should cooperate in improving relations between the two countries.

"Just as we are ready to fight and die, we are not afraid to debate and talk to find solutions," Castro said in a three-hour speech Thursday night marking the 31st anniversary of a 1953 attack that began his revolution.

"We will not reject any gesture that might reduce any tension in our area. We threaten no one. We cannot threaten anyone. Do we want war? No. We will wage war if it is imposed upon us. We are not warmongers," Castro said.

For possibly the first time in a major speech since 1980, Castro didn't mention President Reagan by name.

His personal attacks on Reagan in last year's 26th of July speech prompted the head of the U.S. interests section to walk out. But Castro concentrated Thursday on stressing his desire for improved relations. He praised the Rev. Jesse Jackson for his trip to Cuba last month on "a mission of peace," and said that as a result, Cuban and U.S. negotiators began to talk abourt immigration issues two "We are willing to continue these talks with the maturity, seriousness, courage and conviction of our revolution," Castro said, insisting,: "We are serious, we do not use lies, we are not using tricks.' The United States has virtually stopped issuing visas to Cubans since 1980 and has demanded that Castro take back about 1,000 hardcore criminals who were sent from

Cuban jails during the 1980 boatlift to Florida. Castro would like to resume Cuban emigration to the United States because it provides a MADRID — An Iranian diplomat was expelled from Spain today for his alleged involvement in a hijacking and assassination plot, the Spanish Office of Diplomatic Information announced.

Mohammed Jafar Niknam, cultural and press attache at the Iranian Embassy, took a flight out of Madrid to Zurich, Switzerland, it said.

On Monday, Spanish police arrested four Iranians - three in Barcelona and one in Madrid believed to be planning the hijacking of a Saudi Arabian Airlines jetliner and the assassination of an unidentified person or persons.

Likud gains in Israeli vote

TEL AVIV — The final tally of election ballots pushed Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's Likud bloc to within three seats of Labor in Parliament, tightening the battle between the two parties to head a new government.

Final unofficial results - adding soldiers' votes to civilian ballots cast Monday - gave Shimon Peres' Labor Party 44 seats to Likud's 41 in the 120-member Knesset, Israel radio and television reported Thursday.

Soviets call off arms talks

MOSCOW - The U.S. position on a Soviet proposal to discuss a ban on space weapons makes it "impossible" to begin the talks, Deputy Foreign Minister Viktor G. Komplektov said today.

At a briefing for Soviet and foreign reporters, Komplektov said the United States had in effect rejected a Soviet proposal to issue a joint statement in which both sides would agree to limit negotiations to space weapons. The Soviets also proposed a moratorium on testing and deployment of such arms. That proposal, made last week, was announced in Moscow on Monday at a similar press briefing.

Access ain't cheap

Nathan the Innocent was a good citizen who knew nothing about the American Political System. All he wanted to do was get someone to stop a chemical plant from dumping toxic wastes in his cow pasture. He wrote to the EPA, his congressman, his senator and the president of the United States. EPA replied they would look into the matter some day. His congressman wrote that if he was reelected he would stop the dumping. His senator said he would forward his letter to the EPA. And the president thanked Nathan for supporting his policy in Central America. "Why don't you go to Washington yourself, Nathan?" his wife pleaded. "Then they will listen to you." Nathan the Innocent bought a ticket on "People Express" and flew to Washington. He put on a suit and tie and went to the Environmental Protection Agency. The receptionist told him everyone was in an important meeting and suggested he come back in three months.

Nathan then went to see his congressman and was turned over to a summer intern who didn't know what toxic waste was because he was majoring in Chinese literature.

He then went to see his senator. The receptionist said the senator was out of town but gave him ten campaign bumper stickers which she suggested he distribute to his friends.

Finally, Nathan went to the White House. He asked to see the president to discuss his cow pasture. Since he wasn't violent they took Nathan in an unmarked car to St. Elizabeth's Hospital for observation.

He was placed in a locked hospital room with a Washington lobbyist who was suffering from deep depression. It seemed a bill he worked on to make the MX launching pad into tax shelters had fail-

Nathan told his story to the lobbyist who said, "You are really an

"What is Access?"

"Access is the grease that opens doors in Washington."

"How do I get this Access?" Nathan wanted to know

"You make political contributions to the people who can help you. You can donate directly to your congressman, your senator or the president, and indirectly by joining 'clubs' that have been set up to get around how much you can give the candidates. The more you donate the more Access you will have."

"Doesn't that get expensive?" Nathan asked.

"Good government doesn't come cheap.'

A few days later the psychiatrists decided, although Nathan was neurotic about toxic wastes, he wasn't a danger to the community

He went back to his motel and wrote out checks to his congressman, senator, the president, and clubs such as "Citizens for a Better America," "The Fund for Honest Elections," "Americans for the Little Guy," and the "Presi-dent's Golden Circle." dent's Golden Circle."

In two days he found all doors were open to him and everyone listened sympathetically to his problems and said they would get on it right away. He was even invited to the White House to watch the president issue a new EPA postage stamp, with Anne Burford Gorsuch's picture on it.

Nathan the Innocent came home in triumph and told his wife, "The chemical company will never be allowed to dump toxic wastes in the cow pasture again.'

'Good," said his wife. "The bad news is I had to sell the

Shoplifting is sin

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: For years I have shoplifted things from stores — although my husband has a very good job and I don't really need them. I know I really shouldn't do this and I am running the risk of a lot of embarrassment, but I don't seem to be able to fight it. Will God help me? — Mrs. C.C.S.

DEAR MRS. C.C.S.: Yes, God wants to help you with this problem, and He will if you will truly admit your helplessness and turn to Christ. One of God's greatest promises has to do with temptation: "No temptation has seized you except what is common to man. And God is faithful; he will not let you be tempted beyond what you can bear. But when you are tempted, he will also provide a way out so that you can stand up under it" (1 Corinthians 10:13).

How will God help you deal with this particular temptation? First of all, you need to face honestly that it is sin against God. It is not just a bad habit, or one that might embarrass you - it is sin. One of the Ten Commandments states, "You shall not steal" (Exodus 20:15). Confess this sin to God, and ask Jesus Christ to come into your life and forgive you of it - as well as all the other sins you have ever committed.

You also need to take some practical steps. Although it may be painful, you need to make restitution wherever possible - and it will help you make a clean break with your past. Perhaps you need to make it a rule to take someone with you whenever you go into a store.

Then you need to find out why you have this particular weakness. It may be important for you to seek out a trained counselor who can help you uncover the reasons why you have this tendency to steal things. (Your pastor can recommend someonc). For example, perhaps you gain a secret sense of power by doing this and getting away with it. But Christ can help you deal with these motives as you commit each day to Him.

Foreign ammo comes under fire

WASHINGTON - An international arms dealer is under federal scrutiny for allegedly shipping to El Salvador unreliable foreignmade ammunition instead of the American-made rounds the Pentagon paid for.

A federal grand jury is trying to find out whether the U.S. and Salvadoran governments were ripped off in the deal. The subject of the investigation is a Virginiabased weapons firm called Nordac Manufacturing Corp.

The sale was made through the U.S. Foreign Military Sales program. El Salvador's defense ministry was given nearly $5 million in credit to purchase more than 15 million rounds of M-16 ammo from Nordac. Federal law requires that munitions bought under the program be manufactured in this country

The contract called for the bullets to be bought from a U.S. firm, the Winchester Group, and in fact Winchester did supply the first 2 million rounds. But the rest allegedly came from a Yugoslav munitions firm; one expert believes the ammo may have been manufactured in the Philippines.

Sources close to the investigation told my associates Indy Badhwar and Donald Goldberg that Pentagon officials should have smelled something fishy when they examined the contract. The sources said the price was far too low; Nordac would have lost money on the deal if the ammunition had all come from Winchester.

As it was, the Pentagon first became suspicious when Salvadoran soldiers began reporting problems with the ammo. The Embassy's military attache and Salvadoran government officials called in experts to look at the suspect rounds.

"It was obviously poor quality,"

I have been told that every time I

I am writing this letter (for) the turkeys as some say

P.S. A plug for our president and VP nomination. What you see is what you get. Truth. Not covered up with paint and powder.

said one expert, who added that chose at least 400 delegates from tests showed the ammunition had a misfire rate of 5 percent to 10 percent — an obvious danger for Salvadoran soldiers whose automatic rifles would jam in comsession. bat because of a faulty round.

At first the investigators thought the unreliable bullets were captured Soviet-bloc rounds that had somehow been slipped into the shipment. But when they followed the paper trail, it led to a Yugoslav company, which has a reputation for stamping ammunition with any identification the middleman requests. For example, a shipment of ammo to a Maryland manufacturer was stamped with the company's own marks, though the bullets were made by the Yugoslavs.

One expert thinks the ammo may have come from the Philippines, explaining that Nordac is believed to have extensive dealings with manufacturers in that country. The rounds would simply have been repackaged in unmarked boxes before shipment to El Salvador.

The ramifications of the case are potentially serious for the Reagan administration's embattled Central American policy. If the investigation does indeed turn up solid evidence of hanky-panky, it could endanger the entire program of military aid to El Salvador. A procurement scandal - proof of profiteering and Pentagon incompetence — could give critics of the military aid program just the ammunition they need.

Footnote: An attorney representing Nordac denied that the ammunition came from the Philippines, and insisted that it was of good quality. He declined to comment on the Yugoslav connection.

OLD SCANDALS NEVER DIE: The House Select Committee on Aging is showing renewed interest in charges that the Reagan administration rigged a 1981 White House Conference on Aging to stifle any criticism of its Social Security

As I/reported last year, General Accounting Office investigators were told in sworn testimony that those in charge of the conference tried to stack key conference committees with friendly delegates,

Republican donor lists, and even planned to tinker with the airconditioning system to stifle potential critics at one conference

A still-unreleased GAO memo noted "strong circumstantial evidence" of political meddling in the conference by the Republican National Committee. Key individuals allegedly involved had refused to cooperate with investigators, the memo charged. One of these is Paul Manafort, a political consultant now working with the Reagan-Bush re-election team. He was in charge of the 1981 aging conference.

The House committee wants to know about a $19,500 payment to Manafort from the Republican National Committee during the period he was handling the conference. The GAO memo said Manafort originally told investigators the committee was not a client of his consulting firm at that time.

When confronted with evidence of the $19,500 payment, Manafort said it was for work he did on the 1981 election campaign of New Jersey Gov. Thomas Kean. The GAO sleuths could find no evidence to coroborate this.

The House committee intends to follow the money, by subpoeaning Manafort if necessary.

SAD ANNIVERSARY: Ten years ago last Friday, in resposne to a right-wing coup by the Greek military in Cyprus, Turkey invaded the island. The Turks proceeded to partition Cyprus and occupy the northern half, where they remain to this day.

In Cyprus, a new book by Christopher Hitchens, the respected British journalist reveals that the United States, despite its public expressions of dismay, never had any intention of pressuring Turkey to withdraw from Cyprus. Hitchens singles out then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger as the architect of U.S. hypocrisy.

Taking risks

Like Maggie the Cat in Tennessee Williams' famous play of the 1950s, the Democrats are alive and walking a hot, tin roof.

It's an old, banal tenet of American political wisdom that a standing president with all his economic ducks in a row can sail into a second term.

And with inflation standing at its lowest rate since John Kennedy's administration and unemployment falling to levels not seen since the days of Gerald Ford, Ronald Reagan looked like a shoo-in.

Yet Democrats have refused to roll over and play dead. Firebranding oratory from Mario Cuomo, Jesse Jackson, Ted Kennedy, Geraldine Ferraro and even Mondale himself did more than make for several exciting evenings of television. It focused a party that had been splintered and disheartened by the Reagan electoral landslide of 1980. The Democrats left San Francisco with their issues clear and their ground staked.

Moreover, the Democrats with two strokes of risky political genius have managed to dominate the debate agenda so far in the infant campaign.

The first stroke, of course, was Ferraro's selection as vicepresidential nominee and its resulting focus on women's issues.

Surely enough has been said at this point about how "historic" the decision was. What counts is that it was sexy. It grabbed attention and focused into a single symbol the bum rap Democrats say women have been getting under Reagan.

Despite off-color remarks that she might prove to be "the biggest bust in political history. Republicans are saying they will focus their campaign on her liberal record. Yet that didn't deter Reagan from an attempt to keep the joke alive. Not "with a ten-foot would he touch questions about the off-color comment, he said. Republicans can only hurt themselves with this kind of demeaning response to Ferraro's nomination.

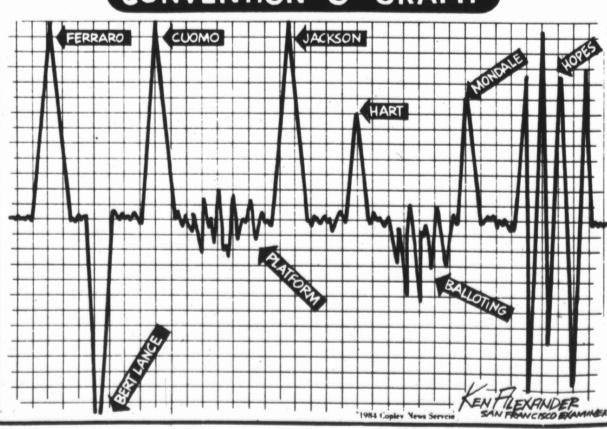

The second brilliant Democratic move was Mondale's unexpected call for a tax increase to reduce the federal deficit. "Taxes will go up and anyone who says they won't is not telling the truth to the American people," he told the convention and not since Nixon's recognition of China has a political maneuver been such a surprise.

Reagan's response on the issue so far has been unclear. He has waffled from outright denials to calls for "tax reform" to admissions that an increase might be necessary. Surely a more cogent response will come from next month's Republican convention, wrapped in appropriate red, white and blue bunting.

But it's readily apparent that this year's election will be one of the most exciting in years, most of all because the Democrats are taking chances again.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

REMOTE AIRFIELD — The pilot of a Super Cub prepares to land at Bates Field, a remote, 320-acre air field in Midland County which is home to about a dozen flying families.

Best little airport in Texas

Bates Field is home to a family of fliers

ODESSA (AP) — "Danger" — the road sign from a tiny, private airfield in Midland County warns in bold, red letters. "This is the road to and from the While Bates Field isn't exactly out of this world, it definitely is off the beaten track and home to about a dozen admittedly unconventional families that share a passion for airplanes and wide, open spaces.

Their similarities, however, seem to diverge at that point - except for a shared tragedy that likely will stick in the memories of many of them for years.

The owners of Bates Field, Marcus and Jo Ann

Bates, run the Permian Basin's only patent office. When they purchased the 320 barren acres about six miles southeast of Odessa about eight years ago, they intended to live there alone.

By 1981, they decided to create two runways with materials from a nearby caliche pit and sell the lots to friends who build and fly airplanes, Bates, 56,

Alton Teague, a 25-year-old consulting engineer, said last week he doesn't really consider Bates Field "that remote."

"Before, I lived in Monahans," Teague said with a laugh.

Other residents include an oil field contractorentrepreneur, a machinist, an airport operator and an electronics expert.

And they're like a "big family," Hirsch said.

A year ago on the Fourth of July, that "big family" along with about 100 other residents and friends of Bates Field gathered to enjoy an Independence Day barbecue and airborne stunts by a visiting pilot friend.

The pilot, 49-year-old Jesse Donald Gathright of Richardson, was performing in a rebuilt, highly modified, two-seat Taylorcraft about 8:13 p.m., Mrs. Bates recalled last week. His passenger was Gail Allen, 32, of Austin.

"I was standing right beside his wife," Mrs. Bates said, when Gathright appeared to lose control of the aircraft at about 1,000 feet. The aircraft hit some power lines about a mile north of the Bates Field runway and crashed.

The pilot died on impact and his body lodged against Ms. Allen, who was severely injured and 'suffocating' against the weight of the dead man's body, Mrs. Bates said. Gathright's wife, she added, 'went into shock and fainted.'

250 saved from flood in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Torrential rainwaters overflowed a big dam west of the capital Thursday and flooded a small town 30 miles west of here, but 250 villagers were saved by timely relief efforts, Red Cross officials said.

They said there were no injuries. "The people heard a roaring sound and they all left their houses," said Antonio Garcia Vasquez, a Red Cross official in Naucalpan, 12 miles west of the capital. "Luckily, the local officials got them out in time."

More than 250 villagers from the tiny village of Santa Cruz Ayotusco, some 18 miles west of Naucalpan, were rounded up at 5 a.m. Thursday just as the Ayotusco Dam began to overflow and flood their village below, Garcia said. They were temporarily resettled at a schoolhouse in Huixquilucan, another nearby town, he said.

Garcia said relief workers quickly built up a sandbag retaining wall to divert the flood waters into nearby fields and keep them from flooding other towns further downstream. But he said the dam, built about 10 years ago over the Hondo River, could overflow again if heavy summer rains continued in the area.

Guillermo Quevedo, a Red Cross official in the capital, estimated damages from the flooding at about $500,000.

The army earlier this week ordered an emergency plan put into action in at least six states because of concerns that especially heavy seasonal rains could result in serious flooding.

As geological formations go, the mound is not particularly outstanding, but the legends and history asssociated with the mound have led a group of Flower Mound residents to fight to preserve it. After 10 years' work, long-time Flower Mound resident Otto Consolvo and others interested in the mound have brought it from private hands into the public domain. They have gathered enough mound history to have a historical marker approved for the site, northeast of the intersection of Farm Roads 2499 and 3040.

Those seeking markers from the Texas Historical Commission bear the burden of proof that a site is indeed historical. The mound group's proposal was accepted and the marker approved for the site in early February, and the marker was set to be delivered within three months. That date has passed, but Consolvo is expecting the marker any time.

Residents rally 'round mound

Consolvo, who has lived in Flower Mound 32 years and once owned much of the land in the mound area, said his interest in the formation began years ago, when he and his family used to ride the horses past the hill.

"My wife was a Cherokee Indian, and naturally, it being an Indian mound, she kind of like it." he recalled.

Contrary to early legend, the mound is not an Indian burial site, according to a letter to Consolvo written by Helen Moore Hasten of Lewisville. Instead, Consolvo said, the Wichita Indians used it for worship services.

Never has there been a house or building on the mound, he said, though some people, including some church members, have tried to

"The story is the Indians said nothing should be built on it," he said. "The Presbyterians hauled their logs up there and, lo and behold, that night, the wind blew them pioneer) took his ox team and hauled the first load of lumber up to the top for a house and, the story goes, the wind come along and blew it over to the north side. Uncle Ben said 'I guess that's where the Lord wants me to build, so that's where I'll build it.' "

"Then Uncle Ben Lester (a Flower Mound

The Lester house burned in the 1920s, but the Presbyterian Church of Flower Mound is several miles down the road on a flat stretch

Local playwright Mary Webb's play "Sweet Flower Land" traces the history of the Flower Mound area and is produced each year using local actors and actresses. Mrs. Webb has immortalized the Indians and settlers who gathered around the mound, as well as the modern Flower Mound settlers.

There are aspects of the mound's history that can never be traced. Consolvo said he walked the 121/2-acre mound site recently with a geologist, who told him the mound was three million to five million years old. The area was once entirely under water, and creeks formed in the areas the water receded.

Dear Abby

Death and taxes

DEAR ABBY: I realize that notes, tax his cash. taxes are the price we pay for living in a civilized society, but enough is enough already. I've had this poem for years. I don't know who wrote it, but I sure hope you think it's worth printing. -INDIANA READER DEAR READER: I do. And here

DEATH AND TAXES Tax his cow, tax his goal; tax his pants, tax his coat.

Tax his crops, tax his works; tax is tie, tax his shirt. Tax his chew, tax his smoke:

teach him taxes are no joke. Tax his tractor, tax his mule; teach him taxes are the rule.

Tax his oil, tax his gas; tax his

If he hollers, tax him more; tax him 'til he's good and sore. Tax his coffin, tax his grave; tax the sod in which he lays;

Put these words upon his tomb: "Taxes drove me to my doom."

After he's gone he can't relax: they'll still go after inheritance

Dr. Donohue

Pickwickian

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Last year I was in the hospital for Pickwickian syndrome. I am still on oxygen, but improving. What. can you tell me about that condition? - Mrs. C.S.

The model for the Pickwickian syndrome patient is drawn from the Charles Dickens novel, "The Pickwick Papers." Joe was a very large young man who fell asleep at inappropriate times and in inappropriate places. This and other characteristics — the tendency to be quite heavy, dozing off in midsentence and having a bluish cast added up to a set of symptoms that described certain patients. The Pickwickian syndrome was born in that way. Such people may have labored breathing at night.

All of these symptoms arise from an excess of carbon dioxide in the blood, brought about because such patients are breathing too slowly or too shallowly. Weight reduction often brings dramatic improvement. The drug progesterone is sometimes used, too. I do hope that your condition is rapidly improving and that you don't mind being put into the same picture with one of the more colorful Dickens

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Myself and several friends have thought for some time we were suffering from hives caused by nerves. However, there has been mention by my physician and another frind that I may have shingles. My question: What are shingles? And how do you get rid of them? - M.P. Shingles and hives don't look or feel much like each other. Shingles start as blisters that eventually scab. They are painful. Hives are pinkish elevations of the skin. They itch. And they come and go. Shingles eruptions last for a couple of weeks, although the pain may linger beyond that.

Shingles are caused by a virus, the chicken pox virus. It has lain dormant in nerve tissue for many years after the pox episode. Hives are an allergic reaction. Anxiety can cause hives also. All I can suggest is that you have your doctor look at your skin eruption. I know for sure that he'll be able to tell hives from shingles at a glance.

Shingles can be a painful disease! For a copy of the booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Television might hurt Olympic efforts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Basketball is the American sport — and one of the men who runs the amateur version in this country isn't very happy about the way it's being conducted at these Olympics.

Both the men's and women's teams, who cruised through their pre-Olympic tournaments, are be-ing given unfavorates times because of television, William L. Wall, executive director of the Amateur Basketball Association of the United States of America (ABAUSA), complained Thursday.

The women's team, 25-1 in pre-Olympic play, has games scheduled Monday against medalcontending Yugoslavia and Tuesday against Australia, each starting at 9 a.m. PDT. The men's team, unbeaten in nine exhibitions, has two games scheduled to start within 20 hours of each other late

"They don't think about the athletes," Wall fumed. "The game at 11 a.m. is not sport, it's money and

Wall insists the LAOOC has the American women's basketball games starting at 9 a.m. "just because of ticket sales. Nine o'clock is not when you want to watch a basketball game, especially when you're the host."

U.S. Coach Pat Head Summitt has been making the best of the situation, ordering her players to arise at 6 a.m. for the last three weeks so they could work out at 9 a.m. "She's been trying to get the women's bodies in tune after we learned of the horrendous schedule we're stuck with," Wall said.

And he blamed ABC-TV for a men's schedule that has the American team playing games against France next Friday at 4:30 p.m. PDT and against medalcontending Spain the following day

The August copy of the USGA Journal contains some interesting rules decisions I thought I might pass along... A burrowing animal is a creature that digs a tunnel for habitation and shelter.

Anything else like a dog, skunk and cat is not a burrowing animal. Therefore use extreme care when electing to use the burrowing animal rule for a free drop. In talking about holes or digging, the journal states that a hole made by a greenskeeper in the performance of his duties need not be marked as ground under repair.

Notice all the new golf balls flooding the shelves these days with all kinds of numbers like 382, 396 and 432. All these balls are the longest ball in golf as proved by independent test so the manufacturer claims. So far two of the numbered balls have been declared illegal by the USGA. It has been known for years tht the makers of golf balls could market a ball that could be hit 500 yards. This is the reason the USGA is constantly testing golf balls to make sure they conform to the rules of golf. The makers of golf balls dearly love for the USGA to rule their ball illegal because it goes too far... The golfer, then through greed, for extra yardage gobbles up these illegal balls. After being declared illegal, the manufacturer corrects the ball, but in the meantime they have acquired new customers for their product.

The Chicano Golf Association will host a Two-Man Louisiana Draw Sunday Aug. 5. All members are urged to sign up as soon as possible.

The Comanche Trail Two-Man Partnership tabbed for Aug. 18-19 will be offering a new Dodge Pickup for a hole in one on holes number 4 and 10. The truck is being put up as a prize by Highland Dodge. Field limit for the second partnership of the season is the first 112 teams.

Junior Rodriguez eagled the 379 yard par four using a pitching wedge for his second shot. The feat was witnessed by Albert Alvarez. While on the subject of personal golf feats, if you have one to relate, give us a call so we can include it in tee time.

More enjoyable golf can be yours if you keep your golf cart to an assigned area. With the lack of rain, all is being done to maintain our golf courses. Running a cart through wet areas or seeded locations destroys what is being done to improve our courses. After all, golf is for fun, competition and exercise so walk a little ... it's good for you.

Meanwhile, Joiner decided to join the Chargers after a holdout of nearly two weeks. Joiner, in line to become the most prolific pass receiver in NFL history, said Thursday he has signed a one-year contract with the Chargers.

Joiner, who needs only 54 catches to surpass Charley Taylor at the top of the NFL record books, announced the signing at the Chargers' training camp at the University of California at San

"I think it (his holdout) had gone on long enough," said Joiner, who is in his 16th season. The Chargers opened summer camp July 14.

Joiner was voted most valuable and most inspirational player by his teammates in 1983, when he caught 65 passes for 960 yards and three touchdowns. The Chargers, AFC West champions from 1979-1981, slipped to 6-10 last

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JULY 28, 194

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to forget tensions and obstacles from the past and those who restrict you and look for all kinds of interesting and expansive means by which to express yourself.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Not a good day to get into long-lasting terms with others in business affairs, but fine for studying into something new TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Look to your mate for kindness, since a friend may be trying to berate you for tardiness. Be happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Forget boring tasks and be with a cheerful partner who can bring happiness your way. Don't confer with a depressing co-worker. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You have interesting work to do so forget that pleasure you had in mind and take care of it. Don't be demanding. LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid that melee at home and be off to the sports and amusements you like. The evening will be calm at home.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study well any conversations you have had with others, since they could become adverse to your best interests.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Financial affairs are apt to be unsatisfactory, so be with good friends and enjoy activities you truly like.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't use force in trying to gain some aim otherwise you lose out completely. Handle practical affairs well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Go after your personal aims and stop fussing about what you do not like. Don't be extravagant and all will turn out fine. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Keep away from an overly dynamic friend who can deter your progress, if you permit. Good day to be with one you love. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have to be well balanced in public otherwise you could get into trouble and be criticized. Be kind with others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't go off on any tangent now and be more concerned with bettering your position in life.

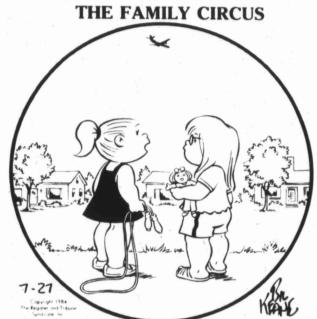

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have modern and brilliant ideas and can also get along well with bigwigs and thusly can become very successful in life. Make sure that the home conditions are charming and not restrictive so that your progeny can grow and develop graciously and accomplish a very great deal.

Loy's family are active members of the Church of God. "Dad is very supportive of the church. Every night Mom and Dad had prayer and read from the Bible." Lov said. "We were raised in a strong Christian home.

Loy learned about the opening for the First Church of God pastorial two months before he graduated from college. "I sent them a resume, and they saw fit to call to preach a weekend. We got to know each other," Loy said. "They judged whether I would be fit to be the preacher and spiritual leader for the church, and I decided if I wanted to come here. Since coming to Big Spring, July 1 the church has grown. "And we anticipate it growing much more," Loy said. The church has about 115

For the church, Loy's goals include "for members to grow in the depth of our experience with the Lord; to see the church reach out to

Big Spring and the community and meeting. Keenagers, a senior have a positive influence. Also to citizens group, mets the last Thursreach out to those that are not going to church and bring them into the church.

"My goals for myself intertwine with that of the church. I would like to stay here a long time and to be able to put in the time it takes to do what the Lord wants me to do here.'

Loy's main interest in the ministry at this time are: to communicate the gospel of Christ; to teach the Bible in an understandable way; "to help people grow spiritually into the perfection required of us by God; to do the work of an evangelist by sharing the gospel through my lifestyle and conversation, as well as through the pulpit or program; to minister to families; and to equip the saints for the work of the ministry."

Loy's wife, Judith, is very supportive of his ministry. She is active in the Women of the Church of God. She has taught Sunday School, been a choir member and a vouth director.

The Loys like to be involved in all areas of the church. Recently, they attend the state camp for the Church of God, Camp Inspiration in Eastland.

Prior to coming to Big Spring, Loy occasionally preached at Com-munity Chapel Church of God in Natchez, Miss.; Ferriday First Church of God; Gulf-Coast Bible College Chapel and Star of Hope Mission for Alcoholics in Houston. He served as an adult Sunday School teacher at Houston First Church of God and Community Chapel Church of God. He also served on the board of trustees at Community Chapel Church of God.

Loy graduated magna cum laude from Gulf-Bible College in Houston. He was presented an award for applied theology from the college's student body. In his spare time, Loy likes to oil paint and hike. The Loys have two children, Jeremy, 6, and Amy, 3.

"Since I've retired, my main ministry is to help churches," he said. "I'm here to rebuild a church and to build an evangelistic spirit.

"My first goal is to have one of the most loving churches in town. We could rebuild this church on that one goal itself."

Smith, who spends Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights at the parsonage home at 2905 Goliad, previously served the church as interim pastor for eight months three the Twenty-Third Psalm," to Hazel years ago.

Smith doesn't know how long he'll be needed in Big Spring, but "I wouldn't change anything," he said. "The Lord's blessed us...we've been real happy."

A farmer for 10 years, Smith said he sold his land, livestock and equipment to enter seminary. "If you'll strip me down to nothing...I'll serve you," he remembers praying when he decided to become a minister.

He credits his wife, Hazel, for providing strong support throughout his career as a minister. "I coudn't have made a go of it if she hadn't helped me," he said. He garden. He also makes dedicated his first book, "Living by clocks out of cypress wood.
