Girl, 10, dies from accident

A 10-year-old Big Spring girl, injured Wednesday morning in a carbicycle accident north of town, died Monday morning, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

Vicki Hollingsworth, daughter of Carl and Joyce Hollingsworth of Gail Route, died at 9:25 a.m. Monday from a head injury she received in an accident Wednesday, according to a spokeswoman for Medical Center Hospital in Odessa.

According to an accident report by the Department of Public Safety, Miss Hollingsworth was riding her bicycle near the intersection of North Birdwell Lane and Hilltop Road when the bicycle collided with a car driven by Patricia Rhotan of 12 Village Road.

She was transferred to the Odessa hospital from Malone-Hogan Hospital the day of the accident.

She was born Sept. 18, 1973 in Big Spring and lived here all her life. She was a member of the Girl Scouts and last school year finished fifth grade at Washington Elementary School. She was to begin classes at Goliad Middle School this fall.

Iraqi planes attack Greek tanker

BAHRAIN (AP) - Iraqi warplanes attacked a tanker in the Persian Gulf today - apparently a Greek-owned oil tanker that Greece said was hit by a rocket near Iran's Kharg Island terminal.

Greece said the 26-member crew of the Friendship L was unhurt and quickly ex-tinguished a fire caused by the explosion.

In Athens, the Greek Merchant Marine ministry said the Liberian-registered tanker, laden with crude and bound for Rotterdam, Holland, continued on its voyage.

A ministry spokesman, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said the missile pierced a fuel tank near the engine-room.

A spokeswoman for El Fontana Inc., the vessel's owners, said the Friendship L was struck early today about 30 miles south of Kharg.

The 122,945-ton ship was the sixth Greekowned vessel to be attacked in the gulf since the Iran-Iraq war began four years ago.

It was the first confirmed attack on a commercial ship in the gulf since July 9, when the tanker British Renown was hit by two missiles fired from an unidentified plane.

In a shore-to-ship telephone conversation with authorities in Bahrain, the Friendship L's second mate said the crew of nine Pakistanis and 15 Greeks were "all right." He said the wife of the captain was aboard and also was uninjured. The Friendship L was sailing under its own power to the United Arab Emirates for repairs, the unidentified second mate said.

Weather Rain pummels Plains

2-A

By The Associated Press A low-pressure ridge slowly drifting into the nort-western Panhandle brought light showers and a few heavy thunderstorms across parts of the High Plains to-day, and more scattered rainfall was predicted statewide later

The National Weather Service said a high-pressure ridge centered over the northern Gulf of Mexico pumped moist tropical air into the eastern half of Texas. Fog reduced visibilities at South and Central Texas to about 2 miles

Some high-level cloudiness was observed in western portions of the Lone Star State, while low clouds dotted parts of South and Central Texas.

The weather service said an area of scattered showers redeveloped over North Central Texas between Dallas and Sherman. Skies were clear in the low Rolling Plains and Edwards Plateau.

Low temperatures were generally in the 70s. Extremes ranged from 69 degrees at Amarillo to 83 at Galveston. Winds were southerly statewide at speeds from 5 mph in the south and east to about 10 mph elsewhere.

Forecasters said locally heavy rains were possible through Wednesday in the western mountains, Panhandle, Southeast Texas and Coastal Plains. Other scattered thunderstorms were expected statewide.

Otherwise, skies should be partly cloudy with highs in the 90s to 102 degrees in the Big Bend valleys.

A cold front pushed thunderstorms across the Rockies into the Plains today as cooler weather settled into the northwestern states.

Today's forecast called for scattered thunderstorms from the Gulf Coast states through the Appalachian region into to New England.

A few thunderstorms were expected to linger over the southwestern states, but sunshine was expected elsewhere.

The high temperatures were expected to be near 100 from Kansas to northern Texas, from 100 to 110 over the desert Southwest and in the 80s and 90s over the rest of the nation.

West Texas - Scattered mainly afternoon and evening thunderstorms, otherwise fair nights and partly cloudy days. Panhandle and South Plains highs in the low 90s and lows in the upper 60s. Permian Basin and far west highs in the mid 90s and lows near 70. Concho Valley highs in the upper 90s and lows in the low to mid 70s. Big Bend highs from the upper 80s mountains to near 101 along the river and lows from near 60 mountains to low 70s lowlands.

50 attend hospital meeting

COLORADO CITY - The Root Memorial Hospital District board Monday night received a petition with 117 names asking Ray Dillard not be removed from his position as hospital administrator.

Over 50 people turned out for the meeting at the hospital. The board immediately went into executive session. Bob Reily was the only board member to vote against going into executive session. The board had received a petition two weeks ago asking for the resignation of Dillard. The controvery over Dillard's resignation has come over the hospital losing its Medicare and Medicaid certification effective Aug. 1.

Hospital staff, doctors and department heads went before the board during the executive session. The six-hour executive session ended without any action taken.

A special meeting was called by the board for Aug. 13 at the City National Bank C.C. Thompson Room.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) - President Reagan and Vice President George Bush, who normally speak with one voice, are disagreeing publicly over whether a post-election tax hike is possible - or at least over whether to admit it.

Bush, who has earned the respect of the White House staff for his loyalty and low profile, seemed embarrassed and uncomfortable about the division when he met with reporters here Monday following a lunch with Reagan.

In a campaign appearance Sunday, the vice president acknowledged the administration may have to raise revenues next year in an effort to cope with the federal deficit, approaching $200 billion a year.

That put him at odds with Reagan's repeated declaration that he has no secret plan to raise taxes, as Democratic challenger Walter F. Mondale has been asserting.

When pressed on the contradiction between the two positions, Bush got flustered. "What was it I said?" he asked during the press briefing. "Refresh my ... Well, let me try again to do it the way I'd-like it to come out.'

Then, sidestepping the question, he said: "I would like any questions from now on here, on taxes, to be referred to Mr. Mondale. They are the ones that are the experts in it. They demonstrated a tremendous ability in knowing how to raise taxes.

Bush's confusion may stem fom Reagan's repeated strong disavowals of any intention to raise taxes, while at the same time refusing to flatly rule out a tax increase of any kind.

"I don't know," he said. "I don't By the Associated Press know how you'd read it. I'd ask him for clarification the next time he talks.'

At still another point in the questioning, Bush exclaimed, "Now, does anyone want to talk about anything other than taxes, because I am late.'

That prompted a query about the administration's stand on the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's vote to grant a full license to the Diablo Canyon nuclear plant in California.

"Well," Bush grinned, "anybody got any taxes on questions mean questions on taxes?"

"I don't want to talk about ..." he joked, before finally saying he didn't believe the NRC would allow it to operate if it weren't safe.

Since Reagan's press conference two weeks ago, Reagan has maintained repeatedly that he does not intend to raise taxes except if federal spending is ever cut to the bare bones and the huge deficit persists

During a series of campaign appearances before he began his 18-day vacation and in his Saturday radio broadcast, Reagan repeatedly denounced Mondale for saying he would raise taxes to handle the deficit.

But there is widespread agree-"Walter Mondale is not telling ment among economists, business leaders and politicians that spending cuts alone will not produce enough reductions in the deficit I will say it again and no matter how many of you try to put in a and that a tax increase in 1985 will hedging line, we have no plans for, be needed.

On another topic, Bush refused to commit himself to a debate with By contrast, Bush did not sound the Democratic vice presidential so positive when he appeared at a nominee, Rep. Geraldine A. Ferraro, D-NY. "I'm perfectly willing local hotel to brief reporters. Asked whether there would not be a need to debate her and no final decision for a tax hike, he said, "... VIEWPOINT

Herald editorial rebutted

By PAT GITHENS The article in Sunday's Big Spring Herald, The Real Issue In Police Vote, written by Publisher Tom Watson is a shameful piece of journalism. Such an article might be excused had it been written by someone not educated in the field of journalism, but it is absolutely inexcusable for a person in Mr. Watson's position. Mr. Wat-son made some statements in the article that I doubt very seriously he can prove. In my opinion, he has questioned the integrity of every individual that signed the petition calling for an elected police chief. I did not sign the petition, and I am not especially in favor of an elected Police Chief. However, I resent the remarks that seemingly question the character and integrity of some of the fine citizens of our community.

Mr. Watson claims that there are hidden reasons concerning this police chief election. He states, "This election is an attempt by those involved in drug traffic in Howard County to gain control of the Big Spring Police Department. If the measure passes, they can run their own candidate in a well financed campaign." To my knowledge, the petition asking for the election was cir-culated and presented to city officials by Mary Thomas and Danny Heckler. I do not know their motives for the petition, but I do know that more than one thousand voters in Big Spring agreed with them and signed it. I am not personally acquainted with Danny Heckler, but I have known Mary Thomas for several years, and I have never heard her name being associated with the drug traffic in Howard County. As a former newsman in this city, I have worked closely with law enforcement officers, and on occasions with the FBI, and not once did I hear her name mentioned in association with drug traffic in Howard County. If Mr. Watson has such information, I suggest that he come forward at this time and give his information to the FBI or to Chief Turner.

I also noticed that the County Judge, and a former District Attorney signed the petition for an elected police chief. Is the publisher of the Big Spring Herald suggesting that these men are involved in the dope traffic in Howard County because they are in favor of having an elected police chief? If not, then perhaps he should retract his statement that this election is an attempt by those involved in the drug traffic in Howard County to gain control of the Big Spring Police Department, or at least offer some solid evidence that supports his claim.

Mr. Watson also stated, "Those who are pushing to have the chief elected are playing for any emotional response or negative reaction they can in order to hide the real reasons behind this election." I ask the distinguished publisher what his motives were for writing such an emotional article that has surely prompted much negative reaction?

Mr. Watson encouraged voters to ignore petty peeves and gripes about city government and personalities, and consider what is beneficial to everyone in Big Spring. Who determines what is beneficial to the people of Big Spring, the voters or the publisher of the Big Spring Herald?

The article states, "of the people who signed the petition, at least 286 are persons who have been arrested in the past. Their arrests involved 867 misdemeanors and 79 felony offenses. Drugs were involved in 47 of the offenses. If one adds the family members of these people, this group with some gripe against the police represents nearly half of those who signed the petition." It is not stated how many of the 867 misdemeanors involved traffic violations such as speeding or not having proof of insurance. Such violations of the law would hardly qualify an individual for membership in Howard County's drug ring, and most people fined for traffic violations seldom carry lasting grudges against the police department.

The 79 felony offenses is equal to about seven percent of the total number that signed the petition. The 47 that were arrested on drug related charges would be equal to approximately 4% of the total petition signatures. Unless each family member be questioned, ed last year in a report that their bosses ignored.

Tax questions may sway election

WASHINGTON — The presidential rivals have raised an issue that could decide the election: Should the government boost taxes or cut spending to stop the federal deficit from exploding?

Jack Anderson

Walter Mondale would raise taxes. He wants to reduce the deficit by two-third, without giving up social programs so dear to Democrats. This will take more revenue, he admits, with a candor he calls the 'new realism.'

President Reagan would rather slash government spending. Collecting more taxes, he argues, will simply encourage the bureaucrats to spend more money. Not until he is convinced that no more savings can be squeezed out of the budget will be consider a tax increase, he says.

There has been an ingrained nonchalance about deficits in Washington. Yet clearly, the public debt cannot go on ballooning without causing economic chaos. Already, economists are having nightmares over the crushing interest payments, which have a dismaying habit of compounding.

Just the slight increase in interest rates since last January will cost the taxpayers more than $12 billion during the next fiscal year. And this staggering amount will cover only the increase, not the interest which will run another $110 billion or so.

The total public indebtedness, if it were calculated the same way that the rest of us must keep books, would be $4.6 trillion, not $1.5 trillion. Half of this monstrous and menacing iceberg is hidden, thus doubling the threat to the ship of state. The Titanic could go down if it doesn't change course.

The good news is that government spending can be drastically yet safely slashed. This has been discovered by the Grace Commission, which spent 18 months prying into the dark corners of government and fund 2,478 ways to cut costs.

The White House has reviewed 20 of the commission's 48 reports and has already figured out how to save $103.5 billion over the next three years. The General Accounting Office and Congressional Budget Office, both bipartisan, have concluded a similar review and found $98 billion that can be cut.

Confronted with these possible savings, members of Congress have rallied around the Grace Commission with a great clanking of the crusaders' armor. Sen Robert Kasten, R-Wis., introduced a bill which the Senate passed almost unanimously - calling for the $98 billion budget trimming.

The bill, however, has one shortcoming: It's not mandatory. "These specific recommendations," it says in small print, "are not binding."

By CAROL BALDWIN Maybe it's because Big Spring has its own Olympian in the games, this year, or maybe it's because women seem to be on equal ground this year with previously maledominated sports, or maybe it's because the games are on U.S.A. soil. Whatever the reason, the Los Angeles Olympics has been the only game in town at our house for the past 11 days.

Rose Magers is Big Spring's first Olympian and she makes the games extra-special. At my house we're glued to the television while the U.S.A. women's volleyball team plays. I find myself screaming at the television with handy hints like "Rose, spike to the center of the court. It's wide open." I also screamed at the commentator who said, "That was Rose Magers from Big Springs, Texas." "No, no, she's from Big Spring, not Big Springs." At least it made me feel better to set the guy right.

The Olympics has thus far proven to be quality entertainment stuck in the middle of boring summer programming. The brass at ABC must be counting their lucky stars for the types of performances turned in at the games. I know they shuddered when the Soviet Union pulled out several months ago.

there is no way to prove that each family member agrees with the political viewpoint of the one who signed the petition. There is no mention of how many convictions resulted from the total number of people arrested. Arrests are not convictions, and people in this country are still supposed to be considered innocent until proven guilty. Despite all of these figures, I assume that these signatures in question were qualified registered voters and will be allowed to cast their vote this Saturday without having to give an explanation for any arrests they may have on their record.

It would be interesting to see the source of these figures on the arrests. Where did they come from? How valid are the numbers of arrests?

In the heat of the battle over the coming election, there is one point most people seem to be ignoring. If our city does vote to have an elected police chief, there is nothing to keep Chief Turner from seeking the position he now holds. Many people in our city realize that he is qualified for the job, and would cast their vote for him in an election.

The people that signed the petition have followed the requirements of the law in calling for this police chief election. City officials obviously believe there were enough qualified voter signatures on the petition to require an election to be called. Why are so many in Big Spring opposed to the Democratic process of a called election taking place? The election has been called, now let the voters decide the issue one way or the other.

Many of us may not agree with having an elected police chief, but let us remember San Angelo and Brownwood both have elected police chiefs, and their cities seem to grow while Big Spring is losing ground. The Chief of Police does not make a city grow or die, but that is the point I'm making. Our city will still function regardless of which way this election goes.

I understand that Mr. Watson's article was just his opinion, but to be fair, opinions should be based upon some degree of fact. I certainly thank the Publisher for the opportunity to express my opinion in his newspaper.

Yet the interest, after it's all paid, won't reduce the national debt one penny. And the debt is absolutely mind-boggling: $1.5 trillion - and growing. But you haven't heard the worst. By the miracle of government bookkeeping, the official debt figure doesn't include another $3 trillion in federal liabilities.

Unlike corporations which must disclose to stockholders all their financial obligations, the federal accountants blithely omit from the public ledger the multi-trillion-dollar social security payments, military and civil service pensions and other liabilities that the government has guaranteed

To the editor:

What is wrong with elected government? This nation was founded on a Republican form of government - now all at once, this is wrong?

It is like all Socialistic countries that embrace a dictatorship. The first thing they do is take away your right to vote. This has already happened here in Big Spring. You did not have the right to vote on 3 council members (Angel, and councilmen Fuller and Miller). Mr. Jack Y. Smith was wrong when he said we had an elective form of government. What's wrong, Mr. Smith, do you think we are so stupid we can't count?

Why did the entire Council vote to extend the terms of Mayor Angel, Fuller and Miller? Why didn't they run for office this year as the Constitution and the City Charter call for?

I'd like to know what has happened that all of the sudden city employees are writing letters to the editor? Also why all the pressure groups that make their living from the City have jumped on the band wagon.

It is a fact there have been more charges filed for assault on a police officer in the last two years than there had been in the last ten years. Why?

Big Spring has one of the highest crime rates of any town its size in should apologize Texas. Why?

Our city wants an appointed Chief of Police so they can loot more money from the people by giving stupid tickets instead of rounding up the criminals. If the Whipkey, Joe Pickle, Tommy Hart

Totalitarian government is (pertaining to a government in which authoritarian political control is concentrated in one party) what we

Eardrop overuse can cause scaling

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My problem is causing me lots of trouble - ear wax and a scaliness in the ear canal. Try as hard as I do with eardrops, I always end up having to go to the doctor's office to have my ears cleaned. It is very embarrassing to me and I always feel like pain in the neck. This and the flakey kind of scaliness makes me very self-conscious about my ears and I am constantly trying to keep them covered. Any help you can give me with these problems will be greatly appreciated. - D.K.

you can damage the ear drum. Maybe I can relate your twin pro-you overuse ear drops, you can get an allergic kind of reaction in the skin of the ear canal, and that can be a source of scaling. About the most you should do is gently flush the ears with warm water from a soft rubber ear syringe about twice a month (unless for some reason you happen to have an eardrum problem). When the wax builds up do what you have been doing, letting the pros do the work.

I cannot tell you for sure that the ear drops are related to the scaling. Other possibilities exist seborrheic dermatitis (dandruff), reaction to hair dyes or sprays getting into the canals, infections. Perhaps your doctor will ferret out the possibilities and come up with your answer soon; I hope so.

NOTE FOR R.K. - I don't know what your question was going to be, but all I received was a copy of the medical report, the conclusion of which was "enlargement of the prostate with large post void olems - the wax and the scaling. If residual and bladder diver-ticulum." Perhaps your note was misplaced.

Anyway, I can tell you what that conclusion means. A large postvoid residual means you can't completely empty your bladder because urine flow is blocked by an enlarged prostate gland.

The male urethra, leading from the urinary bladder, passes through that gland. If the post-void residual is great and is giving you trouble, your doctor may recommend having the prostate removed.

A bladder diverticulum is like a diverticulum anywhere. It is a small sac protruding from your urinary bladder. I hope this is the information you wanted. If you have other related questions, you can review the booklet "The Pesky Prostate," which other readers may order by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printing and handling.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about my long and painful experience as the "wife of a Filipino immigrant. I met this charming man, fell in love with him, and was courted by him for over a year before he married me in a church wedding. Now I found out that my "husband" is married to a Filipino woman who is the mother of many children by him. She and her entire family knew that he had entered into a marriage with me, but they kept his secret so his wife in the Philippines could continue to get the money he sends her for their children's education. He promised to support her forever in return for her silence. After learning that I had been used by this man, whom I sincerely loved and believed that he loved me, I discovered that this happens every day to American women! I am not saying that every foreign man is playing this game, but I want to say to all American women: Do not marry a foreigner until he has taken you back to his country to meet his friends and family. Even if he has a green card and a job that pays good money, he could still have a "real" wife back

CALL ME USED DEAR USED: Thank you for telling your sad story. Too bad you and will never know how many women will be saved from a similar fate because you cared enough to write.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are expecting our first child soon, and we're constantly "teasing" my father about how we expect him to do some baby-sitting.

Dear Abby

He says, jokingly, that he has sat all the babies he is going to sit. (He already has several teen-age grandchildren.)

Abby, have you any words of wisdom on the responsibilities of grandparents?

WAITING IN LYNCHBURG, VA. DEAR WAITING: No. But I have a few words of wisdom for you. Although some grandparents consider it a privilege to baby-sit their grandchildren, all the responsibilities of child care belong to the parents.

So quit "teasing" your father about how you expect him to babysit and he won't have to tell you "jokingly" not to count on him.

Rose Magers U.S. Olympic Volleyball Team

Her list of honors and awards stretches a mile long. Rose Magers, a 1978 graduate of Big Spring High School, has capped an astonishing sports record by making the 1984 U.S. Olympic Volleyball Team. Rose played high school volleyball four years, becoming all-district, allregion and all-state. She led the 1978 team to the State tournament and a third place finish. She went to the University of Houston on a scholarship; during her two years there the Cougars won the Southwest Conference tournament and advanced to the nationals, finishing 5th and 3rd. Rose was all-Southwest Conference, all-region and was recognized as one of the top players in the country. She moved to TSU and continued her winning ways, becoming all-Southeast Conference and guiding the Tigers to a 2nd place finish. Rose tried out for the Olympic team in 1982, and has been in training since that time. Rose believes education is basic to all athletes' success: "You've got to put school first - it's the main priority." After her education is completed - she's a major in health and physical education - Rose wants to play pro ball. The daughter of Ellihue and Opal Magers, Rose is used to winning — but even for her the Olympics are something special.

GOLDEN EFFORT - Carl Lewis sticks out his tongue in concentration as he flies through the air in the long jump competition at the Olympics Monday. Lewis captured his second gold medal of the Games with a leap of 28-1/4, but was booed by a crowd wanting to see him break the wolrd record.

Volleyball men fall in three; women set for golden effort

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) -The United States, with a berth in the medal round wrapped up, ran into a desperate team in the final match of pool play in the men's volleyball competition at the Olympic Games.

Desperation won out.

Brazil, which had to beat the Americans to earn a berth in Wednesday night's medal round, did more than that. The Brazilians swept Monday night's match 15-10, their match with Brazil, and all for Brazil. They played exactly the they had to do to capture the Pool A title was win one game over the Brazilians, but they failed.

Brazil, the United States and Korea all finished with 3-1 records in Pool A. However, the Brazilians earned the title by virtue of their 10-4 record in all games played. The Americans were 9-4 while Korea, which outlasted Argentina 15-6, 14-16, 13-15, 15-7, 15-12 Monday morning, was 9-6.

way we expected them to play. They played very well and we played poorly.

"I hate to lose a match 3-0, but we have to put that behind us and focus all our attention on Canada. This is not like a tour or a tournament that is over. We now have to go on.

Said Brazil Coach Paulo Freitas: "For us, it was do or die and the United States didn't have to play it

Track and field blitzkrieg sets five Olympic marks

Lewis may be the big star of the track and field show at the Olympic Games, but the tens of thousands who have packed Los Angeles Coliseum haven't seen much of him in action

Lewis has won two gold medals and qualified for the finals in another but the time he has spent in competition totals about three minutes

While he was winning his second gold of the Games in the long jump with just one fair leap Monday night, five Olympic records were being broken, providing plenty of other action to keep the capacity crowd of more than 90,000 occupied.

RECORD SETTERS

Among the record setters were Roger Kingdom of the United States, who upset his heavily favored teammate Greg Foster in the 100-meter hurdles, and Valerie Brisco-Hooks, who led a 1-2 U.S. finish in the women's 400 meters to win the first American gold ever in that event, which was added to the Games in 1964. Joaquim Cruz of Brazil ran the third-fastest 800 meters in history to beat world record-holder Sebastian Coe in Olympic record time, while Anne Louis Skoglund of Sweden broke the record in qualifying for the 400-meter hurdles and Tessa Sanderson of Great Britain shattered the women's javelin mark.

But, as usual, it was Lewis who was the focus of most of the attention

He breezed to victory in a pair of 200-meter preliminary heats in the early session, then won the long jump on his first and only fair effort at 28-feet, ¼-inch. His decision not to jump again after fouling on his second try drew boos from more than a few of those in attendance.

"It was the most difficult event I've had," Lewis said in a taperecorded interview released by the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee. "The hammer got going late (delaying the start of the long jump). It got cold quite early. was sore after the second jump. Lewis, whose only communication with reporters since he began competing here has been through

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Carl such taped messages, said he wouldn't have jumped again after his second try even if someone had bettered his mark. He promised a big effort in the 200 when track competition resumes Wednesday after a day off today.

"I'm going to come back with the best race of my life.'

The silver medal went to Gary Honey of Australia, whose best jump was more than a foot shorter than Lewis' effort. Giovanni Evangelisti captured the bronze.

Kingdom, a 22-year-old from Pittsburgh, broke out of the blocks ahead of Foster and held on to win in 13.20 seconds, four-hundredths of a second better than Rod Milburn's Olympic record and threehundredths of a second ahead of Foster, who finished second.

"Greg came over and congratulated me and said, "This is a once-in-a-lifetime dream,' Kingdom said. "He told me he was happy for me.

Foster said he was satisfied as long as an American won the event. He said he felt he had a false start in the race and eased up thinking he would be called back.

"If I hadn't have eased up, I would have been ahead. There's no doubt about that," he said. Arto Bryggare of Finland wound up third.

Brisco-Hooks, who returned to Olympic competition after the birth of her child two years ago, also bettered the American record with her 48.83-second clocking. Chandra Cheeseborough, who held the old U.S. mark, was second at 49.05, while Kathryn Cook of Great Britain took the bronze medal at 49.42.

"Going across the line was the ultimate," Brisco-Hooks said. "It was like all the work had finally paid off.'

Cruz, the strong Brazilian who led the University of Oregon to the NCAA track and field title in June, continued his impressive showing at these Games with his 1:43.00 effort. Faster times have been recorded in the event only twice, both times by Coe, the Briton who finished second Monday night in 1:43.46. Earl Jones of the United States won the bronze.

Cruz, who answered questions after the race in Portugese and to make the finals.

English, said he was somewhat tired from his earlier qualifying efforts

"If I had just one race I think the world record would be broken, said the Brazilian sensation, who also plans to run the 1,500 meters. '80 WINNER IS LAST

Steve Ovett, another British veteran and winner of the 800 meters in 1980, finished last in the event and was hospitalized with what was described as a mild lung disease

Skoglund broke the Olympic 400-meter hurdle mark that she broke earlier in the competition, winning Monday's semifinal in 55.17 seconds. The final is set for Wednesday.

Sanderson broke the javelin mark by nearly four feet with a 228-2 mark. The silver medalist. Tiina Lillak of Finland, also broke the old record with a 226-4 mark. The bronze medalist was another British athlete, Fatima Whitbread. In the women's 800 meters, Doina Melinte of Romania won the gold medal, while her teammate, Fita Lovin, took the bronze. Kim Gallagher of the United States won the silver. Alberto Cova, winner of the 10,000 meters at last year's world championships, repeated that feat Monday night, sprinting away from Finland's Martti Vianio in 27:47.54. Vianio was the silver medalist, while Mike McLeod of Great Britain captured the bronze. Juha Tiainen of Finland was the gold medalist in the hammer throw with a 256-2 (78.08 meters) effort. Two West Germans, Karl-Hans Riehm and Klaus Ploghaus, won the silver and bronze, respectively. Bert Cammeron of Jamaica, one of the favorites in the 400 meters, nearly failed to make the finals of the event when he suffered a leg cramp about 100 meters into his semifinal heat Monday.

He came to a virtual stop and hopped a bit before accelerating again at a furious pace. He barely made it to fourth place at the finish and was in a grim mood as he left the track, not wanting to talk to reporters. His doctor said he believed the injury wasn't serious, but Cameron was upset because he had to expend so much energy just 15-11, 15-2 before a capacity crowd of about 12,000 at the Long Beach Arena to win the Pool A title.

The United States will face Pool B champion Canada at 8:30 p.m., CST and Brazil will face Pool B runnerup Italy at 10:30 p.m. in Wednesday's semifinals.

The winners battle Saturday night at 8:30 for the gold medal, with the loser of the championship match earning the silver.

The losers of the semifinals square off for the bronze at 2 p.m. Saturday.

WOMEN'S GAME TONIGHT The U.S. women's team shoots for a gold medal when it faces China at 10:30 tonight. The loser will receive the the silver medal. Japan and Peru battle for the bronze medal at 6 p.m.

The American men had clinched a berth in the medal round prior to Canada and Italy earned the medal-round berths with one-sided victories - the Canadians trounced previously unbeaten Japan 15-10, 15-8, 15-9 and the Italians thrashed winless Egypt 15-4, 15-7, 15-6. Canada, Italy and Japan all finished with 3-1 records in matches played, but the Canadians had a 10-3 record in games played while the Italians were 11-4 and the Japanese were 9-5.

U.S. Coach Doug Beal was asked if his team had been affected by the fact that it already had qualified for the medal round before Monday night's match while Brazil had to win to qualify.

"It may have hurt us a little bit." he replied. "I would hate to think that it did. Brazil played a great match

"I thought we prepared very well like we did. I think under the circumstances, we played the best we have played in a long, long time."

Like Brazil, Canada had to beat Japan to reach the medal round. And like Brazil, the Canadians swept a previously unbeaten team. Japan failed to qualify for the medal round for the first time since volleyball was introduced as an Olympic sport in Tokyo 20 years ago, excluding 1980, when the Japanese didn't compete.

Ironically, Canada Coach Ken Maeda grew up in Japan.

"I was born in Tokyo and went to Canada six years ago to coach volleyball," he said. "Every time we play Japan, we have a special feeling about it.

"But we shouldn't worry about that. We should just worry about winning the game, no matter who we are playing.'

American basketball team taken to limit by Germans

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (P) -Canadian basketball players, cherishing their 78-72 upset of 1980 silver medalist Italy, now go after bigger Olympic game — the unbeaten United States.

The Canadians think they can pull off another stunner. And, they could be right, if the Americans play as they did in a 78-67 triumph over West Germany in another quarterfinal Monday night.

"This was just not a good performance for us. We had a lack of concentration on what we were do-' said U.S. Coach Bobby ing.' Knight after watching the Americans struggle through their closest game here.

WOMEN TRY FOR GOLD

But before Knight's squad takes to the court again, the U.S. women make their bid for the team's firstever gold medal. They meet South Korea, which they beat by 37 points last week, tonight at the Forum in the title game. Depth has been the biggest factor for the U.S. women's team in the Olympic tournament. The Americans have ripped five preliminary-round opponents by an average margin of 33 points with their merry-go-round substitutions.

South Korea is 4-1, and Coach

Seung-Young Cho suggested his outside shts and led the Americans players did not try so hard in their loss to the Americans.

"To be honest with you, we didn't want to use all our strength. We'll do our best in the gold medal-game and show how good we are," he said.

But Don McCrae, coach of the Canadian women's team that will play China for the bronze, predicted the South Koreans would have no chance.

"There are an awful lot of allstars on the American women's team," McCrae said.

In the tuneup for the men's semifinals Wednesday, West Ger- mans with 27. many used a 2-3 zone to shut off the Americans' potent inside game. The U.S. fast break practically was non-existent. And Michael Jordan, the team's principal scorer, put up a 4-for-14 shooting performance for 14 points.

We had a lack of concentration on what we were doing," Knight said. "I'm not sure the West German zone created problems. Our own lack of movement created problems. When we moved, we got the shots."

Steve Alford saved the night for Knight.

The 6-foot-1 guard, who plays for Knight at Indiana, sank seven of 12 the Canada-U.S. contest.

with 17 points. Ralph Klein, the West German coach, was surprised. Knight, of course, wasn't. "He (Alford) was really a big surprise. I never saw him shooting like this in a tournament," Klein said

Said Knight: "Alford, by far and away, was the most effective player in the game."

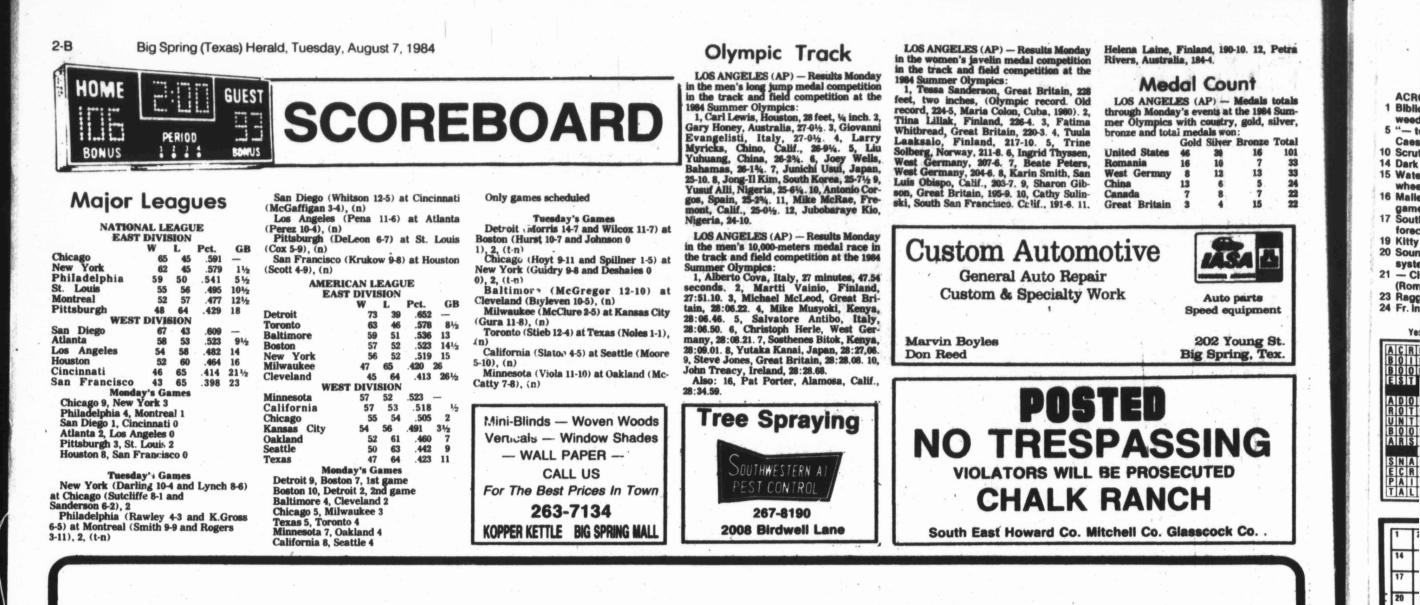

Neither coach cared for the officiating by a team from Argentina and Yugoslavia that hit the United States with 30 fouls and the Ger-

Knight suggested Olympic leaders have officials attend daily seminars instead of resting in their hotel rooms. "The officiating was incredibly bad for both teams," he said. "It's a travesty at this level."

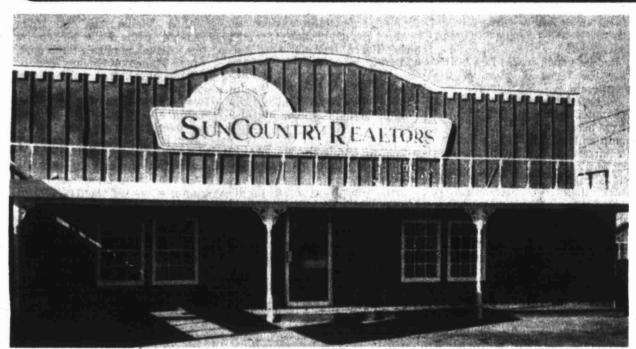

The Americans jumped their record to 6-0, the same as Yugoslavia. But they were outscored in a half and were outrebounded for the first time in these Games. The United States now has a 75-1 record in 10 Olympiads.

In the other semifinal game Wednesday, Yugoslavia's 1980 gold medalists will play Spain before FamilyValue DRUG CENTER

I HEAR YOU'RE PLAYING

DISTEMPER TOURNAMENT

IN THE "NATIONAL

ABSOLUTELY.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 8, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until shortly after noon you are able to do whatever will be of service to you in building up your goodwill in the public eye as well as with those of prominence.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can expand present interests quite a good deal today, but tonight take it easy and rest up. Be happy. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study your practical affairs from a new angle and you can make greater progress in whatever is important to you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you study your newspaper well, you get fine ideas for improving your practical affairs and gaining more security. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Talk with partners who are serious and businesslike and find out how you can be more like them.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Go to the finest expert in your field of endeavor and get the backing and data you need the most. Make sure your car works. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make it a point to get in touch with your friends and plan the recreations you mutually like. Don't forget to pay important bills.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan what should be done to get family matters more as you would like them to be and consult with kin.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study messages from others well and then you can decide exactly how best to handle them. Be clever.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal mid-week day to seize an opportunity to get your financial affairs greatly improved. Try to conserve energy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Good day to take health treatments you may need and to make yourself look more charming. Be active and happy. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Stop dashing hither and yon and quietly plan a course of action that will gain you your most cherished wishes.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) State your aims to good friends who can assist you in gaining them. Be sure to dress in fine style.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will automatically know how to please people, so slant the ducation along lines where such qualities are the prerequisites. Teach to deal farily and squarely with playmates so that no enmity is incurred, and then the ife can become successful when reaching adulthood.

Critics concerned about D-FW airport traffic

DALLAS (AP) — Air traffic at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional airport has increased so dramatically since an controllers strike three years ago that the congestion is raising concern from some critics about whether busy airports are operating safely.

6-B

On Aug. 3, 1981, 11,400 members of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers union went on strike and were later fired by President Reagan. The Federal Aviation Administratioon responded by limiting flights in 22 of the country's largest airports.

Air traffic in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, where restrictions were lifted in September, is 16.6 percent higher today than it was a month before the PATCO strike.

The problem, critics say, is that fewer controllers are handling the increased traffic, resulting in an overburdened system.

"The air traffic system is a mess and it's getting worse, and unless the FAA takes serious steps, they're risking disaster," said S. Aviation Consumer Action Project, a Washington-based organization sponsored by consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

It's estimated that between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. on a typical August week night, 128 planes pass port. That's a plane every 28 seconds - an amount that was not allowed before the PATCO strike.

In addition, the number of fully qualified controllers is still half of what is was before the walkout, officials say.

"There's more traffic being moved today with fewer controllers,' one unnamed controller with 20 years' experience told the Dallas Times Herald. "It doesn't take a genius to see what that means."

Dallas-Fort Worth control tower traffic control duties. Only 37 were left after the walkout.

In 1983, controllers at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport and the FAA's regional control center failed 31 times to maintain the minimum required distance between aircraft. During the first six through the Dallas-Fort Worth air- months of 1984, there were 104 such errors, the Times Herald reported.

In the first six months of 1984, 4,837 flights at D-FW were delayed more than 15 minutes. In June, 1,074 flights were delayed, six times the number of delays in the same month last year, the Times Herald reported.

FAA officials say the dramatic increase in errors is the result of improved methods of detecting them. Officials contend the errors are a result of unusually bad sum-When PATCO walked out, the mer weather and the airlines' practice of bringing scores of flights inhad 91 controllers qualified for all to major airports at the same time. today how two containers of toxic chemicals that caught fire ended up at a city garbage dump and were compacted.

The blaze Monday morning sent 32 people to Parkland Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries, officials said.

Police spokesperson Vicki Eiker said at least 24 sanitation workers, three firefighters and two police officers were transported to Parkland Memorial Hospital for observation after inhaling poisonous fumes Eiker and Bill Jernigan, a spokesman for the Dallas Fire Department, said the chemicals should not have been mixed in with regular city garbage.

"The city environmental health division is investigating why it was there," Jernigan said.

Fred Barnes, a Dallas environmental health official, said the poisonous gases could have been caused by both the fire and attempts to extinguish it.

If the chemicals are found to be Class 1 hazardous matter, Barnes said, dumping them at the site would be illegal, he said.

The fire broke out at about 7:30 a.m. Monday and was allowed to burn out about 1:30 p.m. Jernigan said about eight city blocks were evacuated as a precautionary measure.

"The source of ignition probably was chemical reaction," Jernigan thinned controller ranks can handle.

"There are too many airplanes and not enough people to separate them at certain times," said John Galipault, director of the non-profit Aviation Safety Institute in Ohio, founded to log complaints about air safety.

Controllers at the FAA's en route center in Fort Worth direct planes in the five-state Southwest region. D-FW's radar controllers work 5.000 square miles of airspace and 27 airports, including D-FW and Dallas Love Field.

Before the strike, the en route center had 394 full performance controllers. Now it has 298, including 138 trainees.

In the first six months of 1984, D-FW averaged a record 1,393 daily flights. Two runways were added last year and a sixth is under construction.

The chemicals were in a 18-wheel truck destined for the city landfill when the fire broke out, Jernigan said.

can have three landings and one takeoff simultaneously, or four landings, not simultaneous, but so close to simultaneous you'd never know the difference," he said. Galipault disagrees.

"D-FW, if it were alone, would be almost the ideal air traffic center," he said. "The problem is you've got Love Field, Addison, Dallas Naval Air Station and all the other small airports that reside within the terminal control area, literally in it. There is an awful lot of traffic being generated."

FAA officials said rebuilding the air traffic control system has not been an overnight process. It takes nine months to three years for a trainee to become fully qualified in all phases of air traffic control, officials said

"You can't train a controller overnight," one controller said. "You can't take a guy off the street

INCORRECT INSERTION.

DALLAS (AP) — The U.S. State Department is investigating the circumstances under which a Moroccan national charged in slayings at a Dallas nightclub was allowed into the country despite a record of assaults and mental problems, authorities said.

Abdelkrim Belachheb, 39, was a fugitive from Belgian authorities and had a police record that included convictions in 13 assaults and one child-beating, two involuntary hospitalizations for mental health disorders and alcoholism, two jail terms and one probated sentence, according to Belgian authorities.

State Department spokesman Richard Weeks said the criminal record of Abdelkrim Belachheb would have blocked issuance of a temporary visa he was granted three years ago to enter Los Angeles County.

'We want to know how this happened," Weeks told the Los Angeles Times on Monday in a telephone interview from Washington, D.C. "It is of serious concern to us."

Belachheb is accused of killing six people and wounding another in a barrage of gunfire at Ianni's Restaurant and Club on June 29. Witnesses said the attack, which police called the worst mass murder on record in Dallas, apparently was triggered when a woman refused a man's offer to Belachheb is jailed in Dallas awaiting an Oct. 1 trial date. His problems with the law began early in life, according to the Dallas Morning News. His second wife, Joanne O'Brien Belachheb of Dallas, said his parents had ordered him to leave home - at the age of 12 - after he bombed the the tiny Moroccan village of Beni-Amar. "He was a problem child," Mrs. Belachheb said. "After he bombed the constable's office, his family either had to kick him out or be chased from the village. He was shuffled around between relatives for a while, then he was on his own on the streets.' Later, while living in Brussels, he served two jails terms on assault convictions and was put on probation. He slipped out of Belgium and returned to Morocco, leaving behind a wife and two daughters, court records show.

He came to Los Angeles, where he worked in a restaurant for a year before moving to Texas, according to a job resume he submitted to a Dallas employer.

Belachheb's first wife, Jenny Piot, who married him in Brussels in 1967, said she spoke to her exhusband the day before the shootings and planned an August rendezvous in Spain.

"I was furious that our eldest daughter, Sabine, had failed her year in high school, and I called to tell him," she told the newspaper in an interview in Brussels. "He's so proud of her, it really upset him ... I thought afterwards that might have set him off.'

Under Texas law, Belachheb faces a maximum penalty of life in prison if convicted.

Federal officials said Belachheb should have never been admitted into the United States.

"If we had received any information from any source that indicated his status, we would have gone after him and tried to deport him," said Larry Rowe, spokesman for the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Government officials said that Belachheb lied about his address and denied any criminal conduct or mental health problems, the newspaper reported.
