Davis responds to job bid

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

City Manager Don Davis, one of almost 100 people who have applied for the vacant Abilene City Manager's position, said Friday he "didn't know" if he would accept the job if it were offered.

"I have felt for some time that there are only a few cities — three to be exact — that I would consider as a career move, Abilene, obviously, being one of them," Davis said Friday.

"I have been in situations where, having gone over and been interviewed, I have contacted (the interviewers) and said I'm not interested," he said.

He said he has turned down "three or four" job opportunities since coming to Big Spring.

Davis is one of 98 people from Texas and around the country who have applied for the position, according to a list released yesterday by Abilene city officials.

"Should I not be selected for this Abilene job, I don't think it would affect my attitude and ability to function in Big Spring," Davis said.

He said his application had "nothing to do with the recent election" on whether the city should elect its police chief.

Abilene Mayor David Stubbeman said Wednesday he hopes a new chief administrator for the city will be hired by mid-September. He said the Abilene City Council will begin the selection process as soon as possible.

The job was vacated earlier this year by former City Manager Ed Seegmiller, who left Abilene City Hall for a newly-created position at the West Central Texas Municipal Water District.

"One of the points I want to make is that I'm not out looking for jobs," Davis said. "Linda (Davis' wife) and I are very happy in Big Spring. It would have to be the right situation," he said.

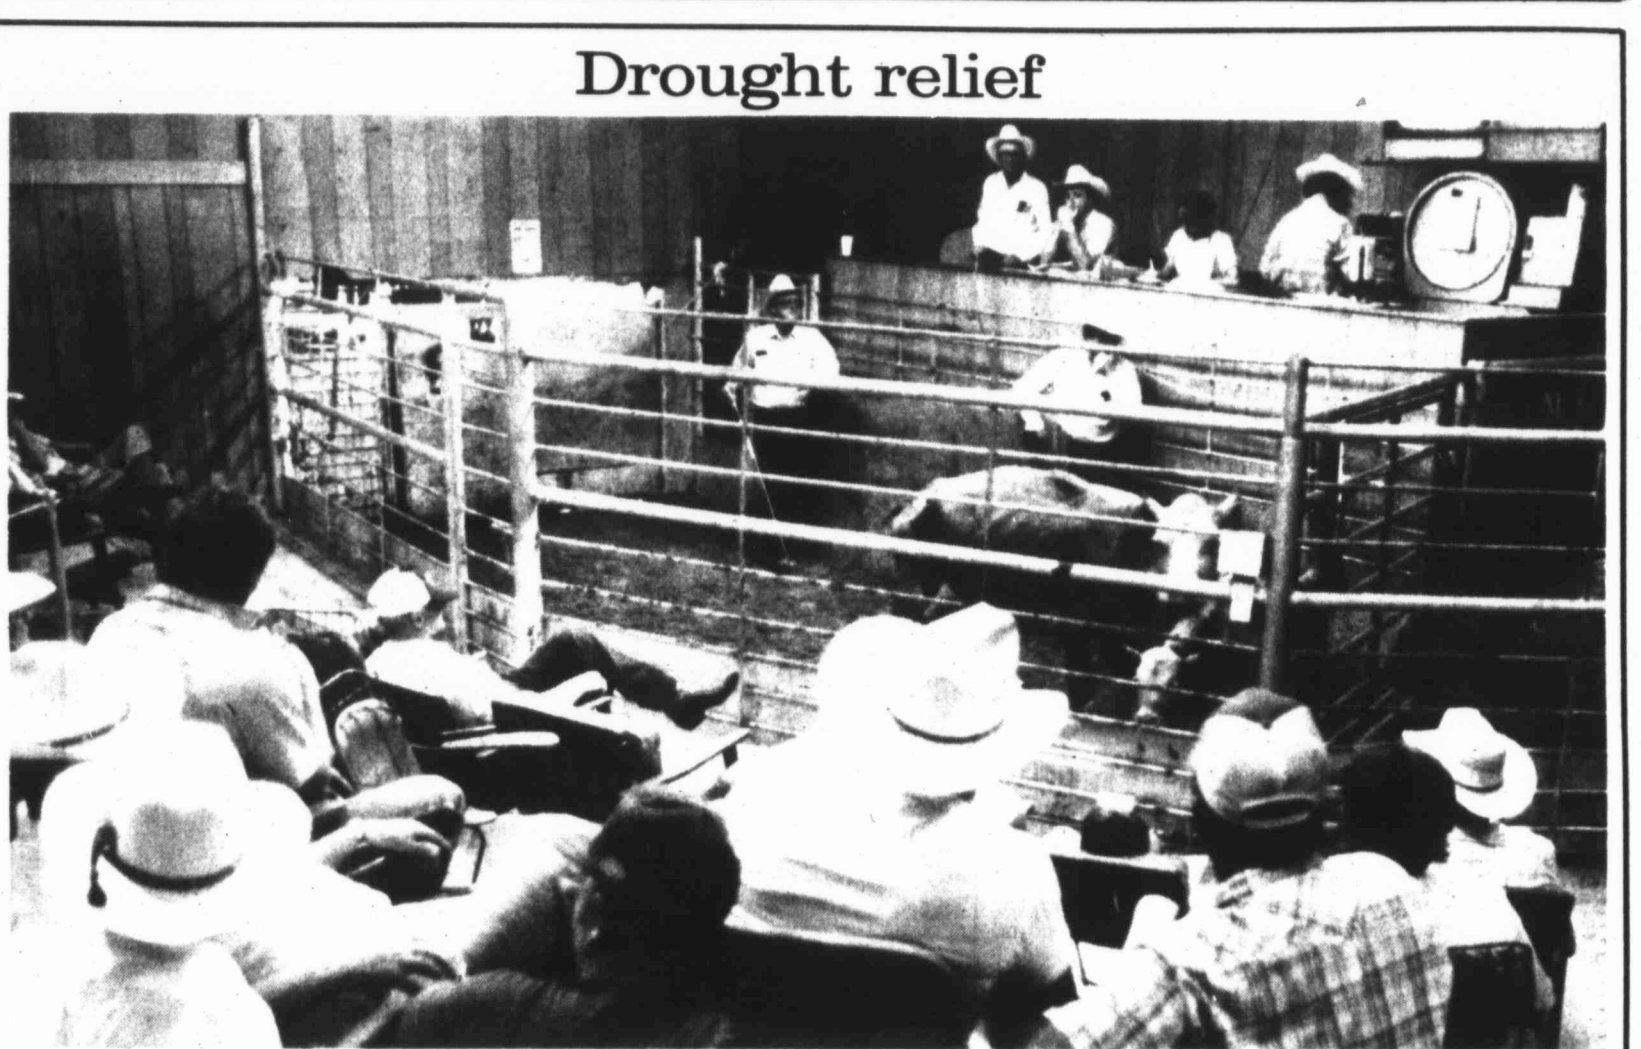

Although he could not remember exactly when he had made application, he estimated it was submitted in the "latter part of June."

The list released yesterday includes six applicants from Abilene City Hall, including acting City Manager Curtis Hawk, the assistant city manager, the police and fire chiefs, and the planning and water utility directors.

In addition, to these and others from Texas, applicants from as far away as Michigan, Kentucky, Illinois and Colorado are included in the 98-person list.

"We didn't want to limit any possible applicants," Stubbeman said Wednesday when asked why the council decided to advertise for the job nationwide.

"I had no idea we'd have this type of response," he said.

CATTLE SALES — Area ranchers are getting good prices for most of the cattle they are being forced to sell. Ranchers were forced to sell at auctions such as the Big Spring Livestock Auction because of the West Texas drought which choked pastures and made it impossible for them to feed their herds. Here, ranchers crowd into the local sale barn to bid on cattle on display.

Bull market at the sale barn

Ranchers rope good prices for cattle

Area ranchers selling their cattle because of withered pasture grass are escaping the drought with good prices for healthy stock.

"They're getting a good price all over," said Wes Miller, in the audience Wednesday afternoon at the Big Spring Livestock Auction. Miller raises feed heifers on a small area farm. "It's holding (as) steady here as it is in the Panhandle or Oklahoma City, San Angelo or Fort Worth."

Ouida Tate, an auction clerk, said the market has "held up exceptionally well." However, because ranchers have been selling so much of their herds, she said, "I don't know where any more cattle will come from."

"Prices are higher in a drier area," said Donald Airhart, one of five owners of the Howard County sale barn. "Buyers come to a drier area to buy. The prices are held up, except that people are selling at a lot lighter weight."

Airhart said he is seeing "a lot of real thin cows" at the cattle auction, held every Wednesday. Cows who have been in drought conditions and are in poor health and lighter weight have been bringing about $325 to $375, he said. Better cows are bringing $425 to $550, he said.

"The drought could easily cost ranchers $100 a cow and calf. They just have no flesh," Airhart said.

According to Miller, cattle are bringing the following prices at the sale barn: heifers weighing 200-300 pounds, 60 to 63 cents a pound; heavyweight bulls, 48 cents a pound; 200-300 pound steer calves, 67 cents a pound; mediumweight cows, 32 to 34 cents a pound; and mediumweight pairs, $450 to $475.

Airhart, who operates the sale barn with his father J.E. Airhart, J.P. Senter, Randall Sherrod and David Poe, said he buys between "100 to not any" head of cattle a day at the auction to help the market. "We try and hold the market up for the locals," he said.

"Ranchers in the area and to the west of Pecos have pretty well been selling off most of their herd," Miller said. "They can't afford to feed them. They're trying to keep their well-bred heifers and better cows."

Rancher who only had a few head of cattle have mostly sold their stock, ranchers said. Jimmie Hewitt, who only had about five cows and five calves, said he sold everything but one cow. "They kept tearing the barbed wire fence and getting out on the road (to eat the grass along the roadway). It's too dry. I couldn't feed them," Hewitt said.

Some ranchers with larger herds have also sold all or 90 percent of their cattle, including Bill Wilson of Howard County and Buster Haggard of Stanton, according to Airhart.

"A lot of people have sold their calves away early. Calves usually sell at 500 to 600 pounds," Airhart said. Some ranchers have been selling calves as light as 250 to 350 pounds, "just to hang on to the cows," he said.

Ranchers in West Texas have either shipped their cattle to wet areas until their pastures and particularly stock ponds and tanks receive enough rainfall, or they have sold their stock, said rancher Leland Wallace.

Wallace, who says this drought is "probably worse than in the '50s," said he shipped about 80 cows to North Dakota at a cost of $50 a head; others are near Fort Davis, he said. He still has cattle remaining on his ranch in Scurry County, and his ranch in Midland County is about half-stocked, he said. No cattle remain on his ranch in Howard County.

"It's hard to know what kind of lasting effect the drought will have on the economy," Airhart said. "When you sell at a reduced price, it's hard to know what kind of inflated price you may have to deal to go back to what you were at."

Ranchers improve their herds over the years through cross-breeding for particular attributes. Once they start selling cattle used for breeding purposes, they have to start the process of improving and breeding all over, ranchers said.

"You can never buy back exactly what you sold," Vincent rancher David Barr said. Barr, who raises some exotic breeds of cattle, has had to sell many of his heifers, according to Airhart.

Recent rains, however, have improved prospects for some ranchers whose land is further west, Wallace said. Some of these ranchers are starting to restock, he said.

Airhart agreed with Wallace, saying some Dawson County ranchers were at the auction Wednesday to buy, rather than sell, their cattle.

Throughout the summer, Airhart and other ranchers said, buyers have been mostly representatives for packers and feedlots. The recent rains, particularly in Dawson County, have brought ranchers from that area down to buy cattle for their reserve acreage, he said.

"Dawson County and west of us is in pretty good shape," Wallace said. "That's what's helping the sale. Prices look up today."

Storms rumble over plains

By The Associated Press
Scattered thunderstorms rumbled across the Plains, the Rockies and part of the South Friday, as temperatures in the low 40s chilled Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

The National Weather Service said thunderstorms were reported early Friday in South Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado, New Mexico, Montana, Arizona and along the southern Atlantic Coast.

In Marquette, Mich., the mercury stood at 44 degrees early today as lows in the 50s were recorded over much of the nation's northern tier.

The rest of the nation experienced generally fair skies as heavy thunderstorms which have drenched much of the East for several days moved out to sea.

In Cranford, N.J., officials said an autopsy was to be reported today on the body of a 36-year-old jogger who died of cardiac arrest after apparently being struck by lightning from an intense thunderstorm Thursday night.

The body of Thomas Preston was found by another jogger in Lenape Park in Cranford at 8:40 p.m., said Union County Police Lt. Daniel Vaniska.

"We don't even know if he was indeed struck by lightning," Vaniska said. "There were not witnesses to the fact."

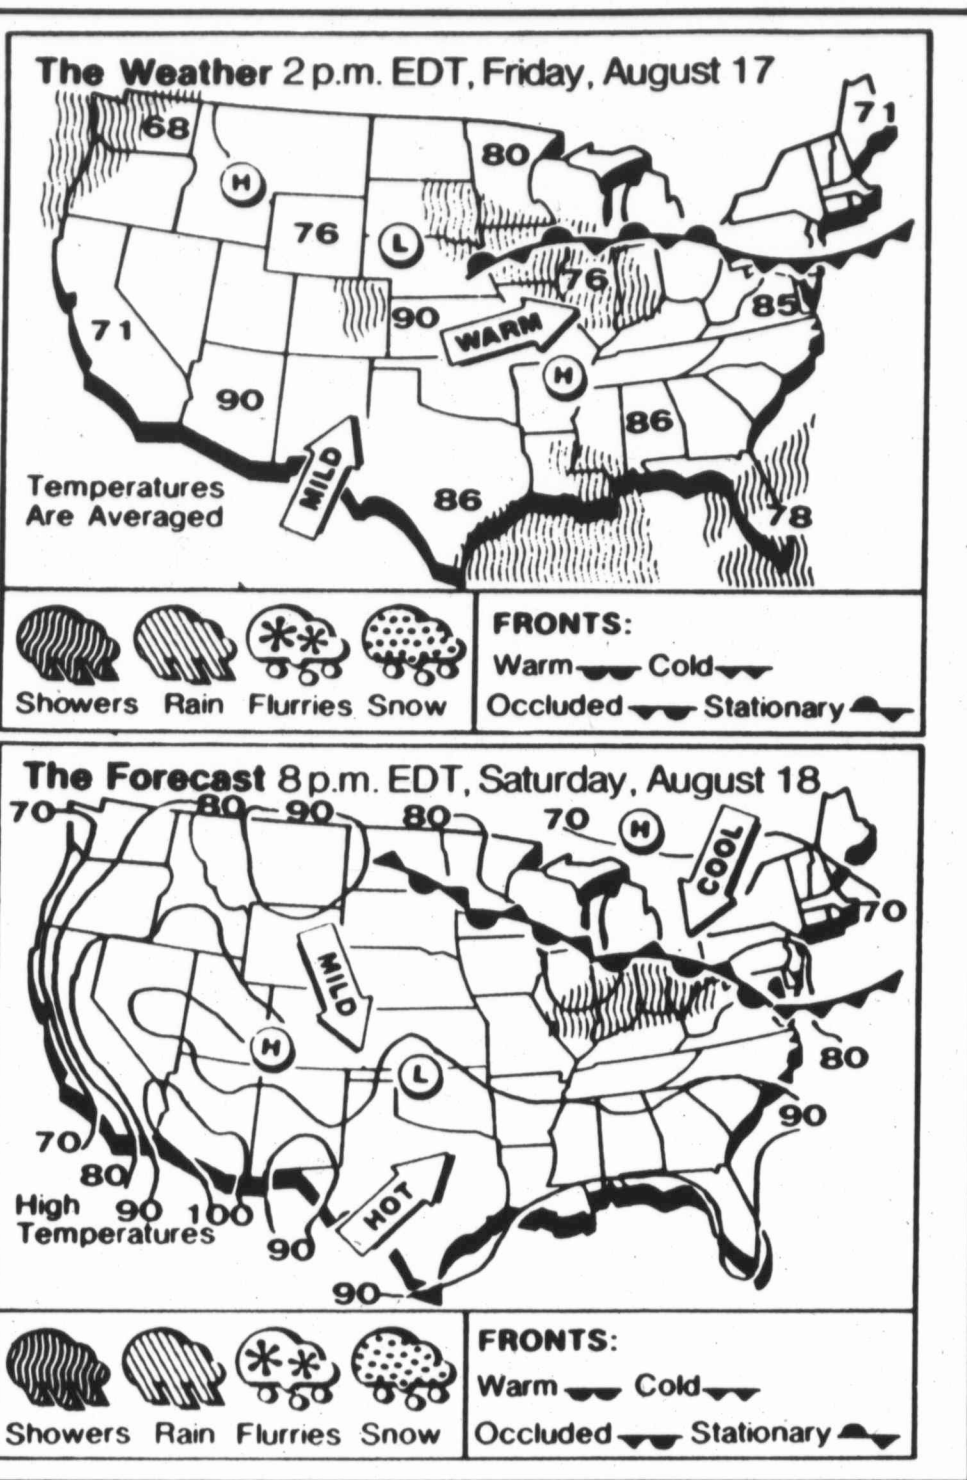

In Middlesex County, N.J., the storm knocked out electrical power to 510 customers of Public Service Electric and Gas Co. for about two hours, a utility spokesman said.

For the rest of today, the National Weather Service predicted scattered showers and thunderstorms for the upper Mississippi Valley, the northern and central Plains, the Plateau, and from the lower Mississippi Valley to Florida.

Generally fair skies were forecast for the rest of the nation.

Afternoon highs were expected to be in the 90s from the south Atlantic Coast to the southern and central Plains, with highs in the 90s or above 100 degrees in the Southwest deserts. Afternoon highs will only be in the 70s across the Great Lakes region and northern New England and along the northern Pacific coast.

West Texas — Generally fair with no important change in temperatures Monday through Wednesday.

Bell objects to phone plan

AUSTIN (AP) — AT&T Communications asked the Public Utility Commission Friday to require Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to give it cheaper phone connections that AT&T says would save it $100 million annually.

Southwestern Bell, saying AT&T wants the same service for less money, asked the commission to rule that it need not honor AT&T's request.

AT&T wants to offer cheaper service to long-distance customers and stay competitive with other long-distance companies, said spokesman Phil Bode.

Southwestern Bell lawyer Jon Dee Lawrence said AT&T's request ultimately means "AT&T will have short-changed Southwestern Bell and its (customers) in excess of $310.1 million a year in interstate and intrastate revenues."

At issue are "access charges," or fees paid by AT&T and other long-distance companies to Bell and other local phone companies for use of the companies' local telephone networks. AT&T wants to purchase cheaper phone connections from Bell.

Bode said AT&T, Bell's parent company before the court-ordered divestiture on Jan. 1, has the right "just like any other (Bell)

Federal judge blocks execution

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A federal judge Friday blocked next week's scheduled execution of convicted killer Walter Key Williams, who was condemned for the fatal shooting of a San Antonio grocery store clerk during a robbery attempt.

U.S. District Judge Edward Prado granted Williams' request for a stay about 3 p.m. Friday, a court clerk said. No further hearings were scheduled.

Williams, 22, was scheduled to die early Wednesday for the Feb. 10, 1981, shooting death of Daniel Liepold, a clerk at Circle K food store in San Antonio.

Williams was just 11 days past his 19th birthday at the time of the crime. He was convicted, sentenced to death and placed on death row outside Huntsville before he was 21.

In April, the U.S. Supreme Court left intact Williams' sentence of death by injection, which previously had been upheld by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin. "For the first time in weeks I'll get to sleep tonight and for the first

2 sentenced on drug charges

LUBBOCK — Two Big Spring men were sentenced here Thursday on cocaine-related charges that stem from the 1983 federal investigation of drug trafficking in Howard County.

Receiving 9-year federal prison terms were Santos Mendoza Sr. and Felipe Juarez, both of 901 N. Gregg.

Sentences for both men were pronounced by Federal Judge Hal Woodward in Lubbock federal court, Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger McRoberts said Friday.

McRoberts said the two men were also given 4-year "special parole terms," whereby each man, upon release, will report to a parole officer four years beyond any other parole he might receive.

McRoberts said he did not know when the men will be eligible for parole.

Mendoza pleaded guilty in the Lubbock court April 27 to one count of distributing 6 grams of cocaine to a Department of Public Safety undercover officer on July 1, 1983.

Juarez pleaded guilty on the same date to one count of distributing one-eighth ounce of cocaine to a Big Spring police officer on May 13, 1983.

McRoberts said the prison terms will go to will be determined by the Federal Bureau of Prisons at a later date. He said he doubted if they would serve their terms in the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp because of the "nature of their sentences."

With the sentencing of Mendoza and Juarez, the number of people who have been given prison terms or parole as a result of the Howard County investigation has reached eight.

Two cases remain pending in Abilene Federal court — those of Caitano Chavarria of 3703 W. Highway 80 and Kay Jiminez, address unknown.

Chavarria pleaded guilty June 12 to one count of distributing 2½ grams of cocaine on April 19, 1983. Ms. Jiminez pleaded guilty to selling one-eighth ounce of cocaine for $675 on April 4, 1983. Both could receive maximum penalties of 15 years in prison and fines of $15,000.

'Exorcism' turns into shouting match

DALLAS (AP) — An "exorcism" of the Rev. Jerry Falwell by four transvestite nuns who call themselves "The Sisters of Perpetual Indulgence" turned into a shouting match between the black-habited sisters and a 55-year-old man wearing a red, white and blue vest and carrying an American flag.

Franklin Burke, who said he was a supporter of President Reagan and wanted only to present another point of view, voluntarily left the demonstration at Dealey Plaza, the site of the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy. "It is appropriate that we gather here at the scene of a horrible tragedy 21 years ago," said Sister Boom Boom, the leader of the so-called exorcism. "If the Moral Majority has its way, Dallas will again be the birthplace of a horrible political tragedy."

The sisters, who recited chants and danced in a circle during the exorcism, criticized Falwell's stand against gays and called on the Reagan administration to provide more funds for research.

Hearing starts off shaky

LOS ANGELES — A preliminary hearing for seven former preschool teachers accused of sexually abusing at least 42 children got off to a shaky start Friday when a judge denied a defense request for a continuance.

Municipal Judge Aviva Bobb ordered the combined proceedings to continue, despite claims by defense attorneys that they will be a logistical nightmare.

The preliminary hearing for key defendant Raymond Buckley, 25, started June 8 and continued through Friday morning before it was consolidated with hearings for the other six.

Ms. Bobb estimated that about 14 hours of testimony, dealing with defendants other than Buckley and given before the hearings were consolidated, will have to be repeated.

Buckley and the six women have been charged with 207 counts of rape, sodomy and other forms of sexual abuse during the past 10 years at the McMartin Preschool in suburban Manhattan Beach. They have pleaded innocent to all counts.

Despite defense objections, the hearing was open to the public and media. But the judge said she reserved the right to ask everyone to leave if she feels the psychological needs of a child or the rights of a defendant warrant it.

More legal battles ahead

LOS ANGELES — John Z. De Lorean, after celebrating his cocaine conspiracy acquittal with a night on the town, faced renewed legal battles Friday here and in Britain stemming from the collapse of his business ventures.

One bright spot for the failed automaker, who owes mammoth legal bills from his five-month trial, was that his wife, actress-model Cristina Ferrare, will soon be at work full-time as a television personality.

The Los Angeles Times reported Friday that a Detroit grand jury will be asked to indict De Lorean on criminal charges stemming from a yearlong investigation of a missing $17.78 million from the bankrupt De Lorean Motor Co.

The case centers on allegations made here and in Great Britain that De Lorean funneled millions of dollars out of his car company and into private bank accounts. He has denied the claims through his defense attorney, Howard Weitzman, who said they were "outrageous" and based on "hearsay, speculation and half truths."

Sheldon Toll, an attorney representing unsecured creditors of De Lorean Motor Co., said in Detroit on Friday that a motion will be filed next week asking U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Ray Reynolds Graves to resume liquidation proceedings on the remaining assets of the defunct sports car company. Graves froze the assets before De Lorean's cocaine conspiracy trial began.

Kennedy, son injured

HYANNIS — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and his youngest son, Patrick, suffered cuts and bruises Friday after his car was hit head on by pickup truck near their Cape Cod home, authorities said.

Kennedy, 51, and Patrick, 17, were treated for cuts and bruises at Cape Cod Hospital, said Ed Martin, a spokesman in Kennedy's Boston office. Another passenger in the car, Thomas Gargan, 13, apparently was not injured, Martin said.

Rapid-transit trains collide

CHICAGO — Two rapid-transit trains collided during Friday's evening rush hour, killing one person and injuring as many as 30, authorities said.

Two inbound trains heading toward the Loop crashed just after 5 p.m., said Chicago Fire Department spokesman Richard Villa. He confirmed one person was killed in the crash.

Details of the accident were sketchy, but police said that one of the trains had rear-ended the other, trapping at least one person inside one of the cars. Villa said fire department workmen freed the trapped person.

Delegates arrive in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Republican leaders, sounding a confident battle cry for President Reagan's renomination, trumpeted "a new dawn in the American spirit" Friday as delegates arrived to the searing heat of Texas for next week's GOP national convention.

The opening session Monday will follow a weekend of parties. The main event of the convention week — the uncontested renomination of Reagan and Vice President George Bush on a single roll call of the states — comes during prime time Wednesday night.

"The Republican Party looks at our nation and sees a new dawn of the American spirit," the platform committee said in a preamble to its conservative statement of party dogma. "The Democratic Party looks at our nation and sees the twilight of the American soul."

Reagan himself "has demonstrated the boldness of vision, the optimism for our future, and the confidence in the American people that can transform human lives and the life of a nation," the platform said.

The White House blessed the platform earlier in the week; delegates will add their approval on Tuesday night.

The first of 2,235 delegates to arrive were from Michigan, Rhode Island and Utah. They flew to a city sweltering in the mid-summer heat, but putting its most hospitable foot forward — an all-day "Barbecue Invitational Tournament and Chili Cook-off."

The delegates take their seats Monday in the vast, over-airconditioned convention center where the carpeting was blue, the delegates' seats red and the speaker's podium brown, an attempt to give a nationwide television viewers a "soft," comfortable feeling about the four-day convention.

On the floor, workers installed a computer system, placing a terminal at the site of each delegation's location for instant communication with the president's convention staff.

Reagan arrives from Washington on Wednesday, a few hours before his nomination, a solid favorite in the public opinion polls. The latest NBC survey, released Thursday, gives him a 23-point edge over Democratic rival Walter F. Mondale.

Reagan will be staying in a plush presidential hotel suite stocked with champagne, chocolates, fresh flowers and perhaps even a whirlpool bath.

Bush, arrives on Sunday to begin making a round of pep talks to delegate caucuses. Back in Washington, his aides released a statement of financial worth showing the vice president and his wife Barbara have net worth totalling $2.1 million.

The vice president's office re-released his tax returns in the years before 1980, but nothing since. Spokesman Peter Teeley said to do so would violate the terms of a blind trust. Several prominent Republicans, in calling for complete tax disclosure from the family of Democratic vice presidential nominee Geraldine Ferraro, also had pushed for disclosure by Bush.

The convention will be Reagan and Bush's from beginning to end, even if the moderates said the party was swinging so far to the right that it would hurt in the fall election.

Some of the party's most prominent moderates decided to stay away — Sens. Mark Hatfield of Oregon; Charles Percy of Illinois and Mark Andrews of North Dakota among them.

An exception was Rep. Claudine Schneider of Rhode Island. Although not a delegate, she said she would travel to the convention to demonstrate that the GOP is "much broader than the platform is reflecting."

Conservatives said they couldn't have been more pleased, even those outside the hall.

"If the president runs on this platform, I think he will have a tremendous landslide victory," John T. Dolan of The National Conservative Political Conservative Action Committee told reporters.

With the Republicans set to stage their political lovefest, the Democratic opposition chipped away from the sidelines, unveiling television commercials with the theme: "Who do the Republicans think they're fooling?"

One commercial, prepared for the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, features a gray-haired man looking directly into the camera and declaring that four years ago, the Republicans said they would balance the budget by cutting taxes.

"Well, they won the election. They won their tax cut. But the budget deficit went up — to nearly $200 billion. And now, this year, they're saying balance the budget? And pretending they won't raise taxes? Who do they think they're fooling?"

UN rejects S. Africa law

UNITED NATIONS — The Security Council adopted a resolution Friday rejecting South Africa's new constitution, which creates separate legislatures with limited power for Asians and people of mixed race.

The resolution said the constitutional changes are aimed at entrenching white minority rule and the system of racial separation. The new constitution makes no change in the status of South Africa's blacks, who cannot vote.

Friday's vote was 13-0, with the United States and Britain abstaining. Both are permanent members of the council, with veto power, and a negative vote by either would have killed the resolution.

Copters sweep Red Sea

CAIRO — U.S. helicopters towing mine-exploding devices swept approaches to Saudi Arabia's main Red Sea port on Friday and Iran warned it would retaliate if its ships are harassed in the Suez Canal.

Three American Sea Stallion helicopters dragged special sleds across Red Sea waters near the Saudi port of Jidda, U.S. officials said. Attached to the sleds are acoustic devices that can explode sound-triggered mines, the officials said.

11 killed in India riots

NEW DELHI — Gangs of rioters and arsonists took to the streets during a day-long general strike Friday in Andhra Pradesh state, said police, who reported nine people killed and scores injured. The strike was to protest the ouster of the state government's chief minister.

At least 11 people have been killed in two days of violence prompted by the dismissal of opposition politician Nandamuri Taraka Rama Rao by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's federal government.

USSR rips De Lorean case

MOSCOW — The official Soviet news agency Tass said today that John De Lorean's acquittal demonstrates the U.S. government's "hypocritical claims that they were out to stamp out drug trafficking."

De Lorean, a former auto executive who failed in an attempt to produce his own car, was acquitted by a federal jury in Los Angeles on Thursday of conspiring to distribute cocaine worth $24 million.

19 Irish arrested in riots

BELFAST — Nineteen Protestants appeared in court on Friday charged with rioting, at the end of a troubled week in which police also clashed with Roman Catholic demonstrators in this British province.

The Protestants were arrested Thursday night in a second night of rioting.

Gunmen fired on police patrols Thursday night, and authorities said they believed the attackers were Protestants. It would mark the first time in 10 years that Protestants, who outnumber Catholics here 2-to-1, had fired on the mainly Protestant police force.

Infant heart patient dies

LONDON — Eighteen days after becoming the world's youngest heart transplant patient, Hollie Roffey died Friday in the hospital where she spent most of her short life wired to machines and fed by tubes. She was 28 days old.

Having suffered two major medical setbacks since she received the heart of a 3-day-old Dutch baby, Hollie developed breathing problems and died at 4:15 a.m. CDT in National Heart Hospital.

J.W. Charde observes grand opening; honors employees

J.W. Charde, a women's apparel shop located at 125 E. Third Street, celebrated its grand opening Friday.

The shop, owned by Joyce Wash, is located in what was once Swartz clothing store. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The grand opening also was a chance to honor Jan Sursky and Roberta Shive, who together have worked for 50 years at the store, both when it was Swartz and now as J.W. Charde.

The Swartz clothing shop occupied the building for several decades in Big Spring. Mrs. Wash said she first thought about purchasing the store more than a year ago when she heard Swartz was moving from Big Spring. She rejected the idea, then decided to look into buying the store again last September.

"I've always wanted a clothing store," she said Friday. "I played dress-up as a kid," she said with a smile, adding that owning her own clothing store was the realization of a life-long dream.

Mrs. Wash said, "There are so many things a woman can learn" through owning her own business. "There are so many directions I can go," she explained.

"You meet a lot of interesting people" through the store, and "I am learning from people I come in contact with." Mrs. Wash has added a computer to the store to keep track of business, and she has had an introduction into marketing, advertising and all phases of the fashion industry.

Mrs. Wash said she has two other goals, one to make customers "feel" welcome in the store, and the other to work with Joe Whitten, who is involved in a prison ministry program throughout the southwest.

Mrs. Wash said she hoped in some way to benefit that program. She has been visited by several women who have come through the program and are interested in starting new lives.

J.W. Charde features a remodeled showroom, dressing rooms, alteration rooms, several storage areas and office space. Mrs. Wash has spent several months remodeling the store and expanding a salon area with furs and evening wear. She has also added a room to display a wide variety of shoes.

In addition to Mrs. Wash, Mrs. Shive and Mrs. Sursky, other employees include Jim Brown, advertising and merchandising consultant, Karen Bearden, Doris Zimmerman Hicks, Marge Schulze, Maria Perez, Mary Mendoza, Linda Cathy, Kelli Bearden, Jo Cope and Anne Wilkerson.

Opportunity to show pride

We are in need of more positive role models — good heroes — for our young people to emulate. Now we have one from our own hometown in Rose Magers.

Parents are urged to bring children to the courthouse north lawn to talk to her and get her signature Monday morning from 10:30 p.m. to 11:15 a.m., and then to the high school auditorium from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Monday we have an opportunity to show pride and appreciation to Rose for her outstanding accomplishment and we hope the high school auditorium is packed for the ceremonies at 11:30 a.m. Bring placards if you wish or we'll make you one when you get there.

Take an early lunch hour and spend it honoring this local celebrity. Several television crews will be there and we need to turn out in force. Don't forget — Monday is an important day.

House starts decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — In mixed signals of economic performance, the government says housing starts declined 6.6 percent in July while U.S. industry operated at the highest level in more than four years.

The Commerce Department said Thursday that new housing was started at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.76 million units in July, with the construction level for single-family homes falling to its lowest point since December 1982.

The decline was blamed on high mortgage interest rates, which have been going up for five months.

But in recent days there have been indications that mortgage rates could decline. The Veterans Administration announced last week it was lowering its rate from 14 percent to 13.5 percent.

In a separate report, the Federal Reserve Board said Thursday that industry operated at 82.5 percent of capacity in July.

It was the 20th consecutive monthly gain in the operating rate figure.

Air attack escalated

MIAMI (AP) — People Express has escalated its attack on popular air routes by announcing new discount service between Miami and the New York area, the seventh-busiest air route in the nation.

Jack Browning, a general manager of the Newark, N.J.-based airline, said Thursday that beginning Sept. 5, People will have four direct flights a day to Newark International Airport at $79 for off-peak flights and $99 for trips during the most-traveled times.

Additional flights between Miami and New York may be added later, Browning said.

The expanded service also will include connecting flights through Newark to 17 cities, including London, Los Angeles, Detroit and Washington, at prices ranging from $85 to $258. It was the third time this month that the low-cost, no-frills carrier said it would expand its services to popular air routes.

People Express' service between the New York market and Detroit also is scheduled to begin Sept. 5 with seven round-trips a day. Discount flights between Chicago and Newark are set to start Aug. 22.

Since its founding in April 1981, People Express has offered fares far below those of the existing airlines in all markets it has entered.

NOW files class-action suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Organization for Women has brought a $2 million class-action suit against Mutual of Omaha, claiming the nation's largest individual health and disability insurance provider illegally overcharges women for health coverage.

Marsha Levick, legal director of the NOW Legal Defense and Education Fund, said Thursday that NOW picked Mutual of Omaha because of its size and "because it has personally helped finance the industry's fight against such change on the national level," Ms. Levick said at a news conference.

According to NOW figures, women typically pay $16,000 more than men for a lifetime of auto, health, disability and life insurance.

The group's suit was filed in District of Columbia Superior Court under a local law barring sex discrimination in public accommodations.

A spokesman for Mutual of Omaha had said Wednesday that it seemed unfair for the company to be singled out by NOW.

"Sex is a much better predictor (of risk) ...." agreed Kenneth White, vice president of the Health Insurance Association of America. "The fact is, women are the higher-cost sex in health insurance."

Mutual of Omaha said it received more than $650 million last year in premium income from individual health and disability policies.

Agents help prevent discoloration

Special treatments can be given to the cut surface of certain fruits and vegetables to prevent discoloration when they are canned, frozen or dried.

To stop browning in fruits, several choices are available. Ascorbic acid, or vitamin C, is an effective anti-oxidant. You can buy vitamin C tablets or crystals at a drug store or supermarket and then crush or dissolve them. Ascorbic acid is used most often with apples, apricots, nectarines, peaches and pears.

Citric acid comes in a powder that you can get at a drug store. It's about a third as effective as ascorbic acid for controlling darkening. So to get the same result, you could wind up masking the delicate flavors of some fruits.

Lemon juice contains both ascorbic and citric acids. Fresh and bottled lemon juice has about five percent acid strength, so it's about one sixth as effective as ascorbic acid for preventing darkening. Even more of a flavor maker than citric acid, it also adds a distinctive lemony taste to the food.

Commercial color-preservers are widely available in supermarkets by the home canning supplies. Some brands have a sugar base with ascorbic acid and an anti-caking agent. Another brand contains sugar and citric acid, plus several other ingredients, but no ascorbic acid in the mixture. So read the label, both to find out how much to use for canning or freezing and to learn what you're paying for.

At least one color-preserver for cut potatoes contains sodium bisulfite. Now that sodium bisulfite has come under fire as a health hazard to allergy prone consumers, some people are wondering what would be a suitable substitute. Citric acid can be substituted in the following proportions: use 1 teaspoon citric acid per cup of water as a soaking solution for fresh fruits and vegetables. If the product tastes too tart, add 1 teaspoon of sugar or more to the solution.

MICROWAVE DRYING NOT ALWAYS BEST

It's safe to dry fruits, vegetables and jerries in a microwave oven, but most results aren't very satisfactory. The end product usually has more of an overcooked than a dehydrated appearance, texture and flavor.

But leafy herbs like parsley, chives, basil, sage and the leaves of celery are an exception. Small amounts of these herbs can be satisfactorily dried in a microwave oven.

To microwave dry leafy herbs, wash them thoroughly and pat dry between paper towels. Then place the herbs in the microwave oven between two dry paper towels and heat on high or full power for thirty to sixty seconds at a time until the herbs are dry and brittle to the touch. This will usually take two to five minutes, depending upon the amount being dried. Watch carefully to prevent overdrying and burning.

Once dry, allow the herbs to cool, then crumble them and place in small airtight containers for storage in a cool, dry, dark place.

'Exotic' flowers bloom in Texas

How times have changed! Now kalanchoes are available year round. Their colors have been pepped up to include not only all the bright fiesta-like colors of a sunny day, but have been extended to soft pinks and other pastels which complement more muted decors. Kalanchoes were once Christmas plants, favorites for the winter days with their bright red color.

Among the best of these are the AZTEC kalanchoes whose color range extends from a deep cherry red, through festive oranges, yellows and corals to muted pastels.

And once brought home, the colorful bloom lasts for weeks; after bloom AZTEC kalanchoes make very attractive foliage plants with their lush, succulent leaves. Kalanchoes require little care because the succulent stems and leaves hold substantial moisture. They need watering only when soil is dry to the touch.

You can rebloom these beauties, too. Just shorten the day length to less than 12 hours (by placing them in a closet or other dark place for at least 12 hours a day) until you see new buds forming. They'll reward you with their cheerful color once again.

Would you believe that pineapple and Spanish moss are related? They are. They're both bromeliads. While neither of these plants make an excellent house plant (pineapple comes the closest, but it requires fairly high light intensity) these two well-known but very different plants give some indication of the diversity to be found among bromeliads. Many bromeliads do make good house plants though requiring little care and being tolerant of low humidity and low light levels.

There are two types of bromeliad. There are Epiphytes which grow with their roots in the air usually in tree crotches or, when grown by the homeowner, attached pieces of bark, and terrestrial types of bromeliads which grow with their roots in the soil.

Many species of both types make good house plants. Except for those species which grow best attached to a piece of bark, bromeliads should be grown in a loose fibrous potting media. Many benefit from water and nutrients in the leaf axils or in the cup of the plant. The terrestrial types also require water and fertilizer in the soil.

Bromeliads have many attractive foliage features. Some have beautiful foliage—leaves may be green, gray, maroon, spotted or striped. They may be grasslike and less than two inches long such as some of the Tillandsias.

Or they may be quite large as in the case of the pineapple. The flowers are also quite prominent in many species and are often born in the cup or center of the plant. Much of the time the showy portion is not really a flower but a modified leaf called a bract. Since this bract is not delicate tissue like a flower petal, those beautiful blooms often last for months.

There are so many variations of bromeliad that it's almost impossible to describe their general culture. There are always specific plants that require special care, but for the most part bromeliads require good light. A nice bright location will be necessary. Usually bromeliad species with hard, thick, grayish-green or fuzzy foliage will withstand the highest light levels, while species with soft, green, thin leaves often require moderate to heavy shade. A window with a southern, eastern or western exposure is usually satisfactory for growing bromeliads, but most real enthusiasts at some time or another end up with a greenhouse.

Most introduced species for bromeliads should be exposed to temperatures below 40 degrees Fahrenheit. Average home temperatures are usually satisfactory for most varieties, however.

Dear Abby

Grandmothers

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing something I came across a while back in the Catholic Digest. It was written by a 9-year-old third-grade girl, and it made me smile. I hope you think it's worth passing along to your readers.

ILLINOIS GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: It's well worth it, and here it is:

WHAT IS A GRANDMOTHER?
A grandmother is a lady who has no children of her own, so she likes other people's little girls. A grandfather is a man grandmother. He goes for walks with the boys, and they talk about fishing and tractors and things like that.

Grandmas don't have to do anything except be there. They're old, so they shouldn't play hard or run. It is enough if they drive us to the market where the pretend horse is and have lots of dimes ready.

Or, if they take us for walks, they should slow down past things like pretty leaves or caterpillars. They should never, every say, "Hurry up."

Usually they are fat, but not too fat to tie kids' shoes. They wear glasses and funny underwear. They can take their teeth and gums off.

It is better if they don't typewrite, or play cards except with us. They don't have to be smart, only answer questions like why dogs hate cats and how come God isn't married. They don't talk baby talk like visitors do, because it is hard to understand. When they read to us, they don't skip or mind if it is the same story again.

Everybody should try to have one, especially if you don't have television, because grandmas are the only grown-ups who have got time.

DEAR ABBY: ***
What is your opinion of a wife who insists that each time I take a shower I wipe down the walls and glass doors in the shower?
Frankly, if it weren't for co-workers and customers, I wouldn't shower at all.

HENPECKED IN WISCONSIN

DEAR HENPECKED: Somebody has to tidy up, so why not the person who made the mess?

And since you showed only out of consideration to co-workers and customers, it's obvious why your wife doesn't feel like doing anything for you.

DEAR ABBY: ***
Last year my daughter, who had just turned 12, did not want me to see her yearbook. We had some words about it, and when I looked at it I knew why she didn't want to see it. A girlfriend had written something really obscene, so I called the girl's father and told him about it.

My husband wrote to the school authorities and made a case out of it. This year just before the annuals came out, we won a school-wide vote requesting that parents carefully examine their children's yearbooks, and if we come across anything offensive, we should call the parents of the offending writers.

This sets higher expectations.

Dr. Donohue

Thallium X-ray

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is a thallium X-ray of the heart? Is this a radioactive substance? — T.D.

Thallium is a metallic element, which like other such substances can be made radioactive in order to produce bold X-ray pictures. It is injected into the body. The radiologist can then view outlines of an organ and note changes.

Thallium is readily taken in by the heart muscle. At points where that muscle has been scarred — as from a heart attack, for example — the thallium shadows on the X-ray will tell that story. The doctor can then estimate the severity of the heart attack.

That's only one use of the thallium X-ray. It can also show areas of heart muscle that have reduced blood flow, the forerunner of a heart attack.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Your recent article on tinea versicolor indicated a lotion treatment was used. Will this lotion help in the treatment of vitiligo, which appears to be similar in nature? — Mrs. J.C.

No, it won't. Tinea versicolor is a fungal skin infection for which there are a number of lotions, selenium sulfide being the one I mentioned. No treatment for tinea versicolor is helpful in vitiligo. That depigmentation problem arises because of failure of the melanin (pigment-producing) cells to function properly. Limited areas of vitiligo can be camouflaged with cosmetics. Dermatologists are evaluating treatment of vitiligo with drugs called psoralens together with ultraviolet light.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can you translate grams of alcohol into fluid ounces and also indicate what is referred to by the term proof — 86 proof, 200 proof? — W.K.P.

Proof of a drink is twice its percentage of alcohol content. For example, 80 proof whiskey means that the alcohol content is 40 percent of the volume. Most beers are 4 or 5 percent alcohol (eight to 10 proof). Most wines are 12-14 percent alcohol (24-28 proof).

You want a formula to give you grams of alcohol in a drink. First you have to know how much is drunk and the proof. Grams equal .0117 times the proof, times the ounces. Conversely, if you know the proof of the drink and the grams of alcohol in it, you can find the number of ounces of alcohol by this formula: ounces equal grams divided by the sum representing proof times .0117.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are tempted to lambast a partner who is not keeping promises, but study the situation and discuss the matter calmly.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You find very little seems to go right at work and that fellow workers non-cooperative. Try to get things better organized.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) There is much work ahead of you that is important, so forget that amusement you had in mind and get at it.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You or a close tie could be confused today and cause trouble at home, but use right tactics and all will be well.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very fast mentally and will need to be taught to think before making comments and to finish one project before jumping into another one and thereby avoid getting into much trouble. Sports are a definite must here.

Soviet-backed athletes shatter Olympic marks

MOSCOW (AP) — East Germany's Irina Meszynski set a women's world record in the discus throw and all but one of the gold medal-winning performances in the men's field events at the Los Angeles Olympics were shattered by athletes from Eastern Europe on the first day of the Friendship '84 Games Friday.

Meszynski threw the discus 240 feet, 8 inches in Prague, one of several cities playing host to the Games, which are being staged mainly for nations who boycotted the Olympics. Her throw bettered the old mark of 240-4 set by Galina Savinkova of the Soviet Union in 1983.

Besides Czechoslovakia and Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria and Cuba are also slated to join the Soviet Union in staging the Games.

While only one world record was set in the track and field competition at the Olympics, five world record holders and several other field event specialists here easily surpassed marks that won gold medals at Los Angeles.

In the first of the field event finals, Yuri Sedykh of the Soviet Union heaved the hammer 281-6.

If Sedykh had the same heave in Los Angeles, it would have given him his third consecutive Olympic gold medal.

Finland's Juha Tiainen won the Olympic hammer with an effort of 256-2.

Igor Mikulin was second in the hammer throw Friday at 270-10, followed by last year's Helsinki world champion, Sergei Litvinov, who threw 266-9.

Ten of the 13 events on the first of two days of track and field were won by Soviet athletes, but the next world record holder to make his mark after Sedykh was East Germany's Uwe Hohn, the only man in the world to hurl the javelin over 329 feet.

Hohn was way short of his world record of 342-6½ set in East Berlin just before the Olympics. But his throw of 309-10 was way ahead of the gold medalist at Los Angeles, Finland's Arto Harkonen, who could only manage 284-8.

The next two in the javelin, Detlef Michel of East Germany and Zdenek Adamec of Czechoslovakia, also beat Harkonen's best.

It was the same story in the shot put, where the three best performers all bested the Olympic winning toss of Alessandro Andrei of Italy.

In the pole vault, Konstantin Volkov, a silver medalist in last year's World Championships and runner-up in the 1980 Olympics, soared to 19-0¼. But world record holder Sergei Bubka could manage only 18-8¼ and would have had to settle for bronze at that height at the Olympics, where Pierre Quinon of France climbed to 18-10¼ to take the gold.

Soviet world record holder Yuri Dumchev threw 218-10 in the discus, but Jochen Danneberg of West Germany, who won the Olympic gold, was not far behind with 218-6 at Los Angeles — better than anyone else here.

In the long jump, Konstantin Semykin set a Soviet national record with a leap of 27-6. That came nowhere near American Carl Lewis's winning 28-0¼ at Los Angeles, but beat the rest of the Olympic field.

Friday's events also produced some impressive performances on the track, especially in the 20-kilometer walk, where the first three finishers surpassed anything achieved at Los Angeles.

SAFE AT THIRD — Pete Rose, right, is congratulated by third base coach Joe Sparks as Rose stands on third after hitting a triple in his first at bat after becoming player-manager for the Cincinnati Reds. The Reds took on the Chicago Cubs at Riverfront Stadium Friday evening.

Committee bowls over invite rule

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — The NCAA Executive Committee and Council has approved the abandonment of the second Saturday in November as the earliest date a bowl committee can invite a prospective team, effective in 1985, it was announced Friday.

Such a decision means a team can be invited to play in a post-season bowl game prior to the beginning of a football season, or at any time during a season.

The decision will have to be ratified at the annual NCAA convention next January.

Also approved by the Executive Committee and Council was the establishment of two new bowl games, the Freedom Bowl, to be played at Anaheim, Calif., and the Cherry Bowl, to be played at the Pontiac, Mich., Silverdome.

The Freedom Bowl will be played on Dec. 26 this year while the Cherry Bowl will be played Dec. 22. Both bowl games will be open to Division I schools.

The Executive Committee and Council, which completed a week-long meeting on Friday, took steps toward toughening academic eligibility requirements and instituting a drug testing program for college athletes.

Proposed language on those subjects have yet to be drawn up. The drug testing proposal will be heard at next January's convention while the academic requirement proposal will go before the University Presidents' Commission at an unannounced future date.

"The general membership will decide whether we will do it or not," John Toner, NCAA President and athletic director at the University of Connecticut, told the Monterey Peninsula Herald, referring to a drug testing program. "We have a plan to do it."

Concerning the new bowl games, Toner said, "The council approved the plan that was adopted by the executive committee" that met earlier in Kansas City.

"Today's announcement by the NCAA is a marvelous climax to a 2½-year effort by a very devoted committee," said Karl Wray, publisher of the Anaheim Bulletin.

Everything comes up roses in Pete's return

CINCINNATI (AP) — New Cincinnati player-manager Pete Rose cracked two hits and batted in two runs and Dave Parker and Cesar Cedeno clouted solo home runs Friday night to give the Reds a 6-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Rose, 43, appointed manager Thursday to replace Vern Rapp, inserted himself in his first line-up and immediately thrilled the roaring fans at Riverfront Stadium in his first at-bat by lining a run-scoring single and reaching third base with a headfirst slide when the ball was misplayed for an error.

Winner Mario Soto, 13-6, hurled a five-hitter, striking out three and walking five.

The Reds spotted the Cubs a run in the first inning on Gary Matthews' RBI single, then scored three times in their half of the inning with Rose's help. Gary Redus singled and scored on Rose's base hit to left. Rose took third on Bob Dernier's two-base error in center and came home on Brad Gulden's single. Gulden then scored on Dave Concepcion's double for a 3-1 Cincinnati lead.

After the Reds went ahead 3-1, Leon Durham blasted a three-run home run in the third, his 17th, to give Chicago a 4-3 lead after Ryne Sandberg singled and Matthews walked.

Cedeno's homer, his seventh, in the bottom of the inning, tied it at 4-4. Parker's home run, his 12th, came in the fifth and Rose's second RBI came in the seventh on a double, giving the Reds their final margin.

Rose, who spent 16 seasons with the Reds before leaving as a free agent in 1979, demonstrated his local popularity by drawing 35,066 for his first game as manager. Dick Ruthven, 3-8, was the loser as the Cubs dropped their fourth straight.

Indians 5 Brewers 3

CLEVELAND (AP) — Brett Butler snapped a fifth-inning tie with a two-run single and Andre Thornton homered Friday night to spark the Cleveland Indians past the Milwaukee Brewers 5-3.

The loss dropped the Brewers below the Indians into last place in the American League East.

Bert Blyleven, 13-5, yielded eight hits in 6 1-3 innings to pick up the victory before Mike Jeffcoat relieved and finished the seventh. Ernie Camacho went two innings for his 16th save.

Jamie Cocanower, 8-13, took the loss.

Milwaukee took a 2-0 lead in the first on RBI singles by Robin Yount and Ben Oglivie.

Astros 7 Pirates 4

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Jim Pankovits delivered a two-run single in the 10th inning as the Houston Astros rallied for a 7-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday night, extending their winning streak to seven games.

The Astros trailed 4-3 after Doug Frobel's solo eighth-inning home run but singles by Mark Bailey and Kevin Bass and Don Robinson's run-scoring wild pitch in the ninth sent the game into extra innings.

Phil Garner drew a leadoff walk in the 10th before loser Kent Tekulve, 2-8, retired the next two batters. Tekulve then walked Terry Puhl and Bailey before Pankovits singled into left field. Bill Dawley, 8-4, who worked two scoreless innings, then made it 7-4 with an infield single that scored Bailey.

TAG MISSES RUNNER — Kansas City Royals centerfielder Willie Wilson (6) slides into home plate before Texas Rangers catcher Donnie Scott can make the tag during third inning action of their American League game Friday night at Arlington Stadium. Home plate umpire Larry Barnett ruled Scott missed the tag.

Oilers hosting former coach in quarterback 'horse race'

HOUSTON (AP) — New Orleans Saints Coach Bum Phillips plans to use the "horse race" theory in choosing a starting quarterback from among three prime candidates this season.

And the race isn't over yet. "If you watch three horses race for four weeks, even if you don't know anything about horse racing, you could pick the best one after four weeks," Phillips said. "So I'm just going to let them play."

That will be the plan for quarterbacks Ken Stabler, Richard Todd and Dave Wilson Saturday when the Saints return to Houston for an exhibition game against Phillips' former National Football League team, the Houston Oilers.

The Saints will take a 2-0 record into the game while the Oilers, trying to regain the playoff glory they experienced during the Phillips era, are 1-1 under new head coach Hugh Campbell.

Campbell will have less of a problem selecting a starting quarterback. Warren Moon, who signed a $5.5 million contract in the off season, has shown improvement throughout training camp and probably will get the nod over backup Oliver Luck.

Moon has completed 17 of 38 passes for 258 yards and three interceptions in two pre-season games. Luck has completed 14 of 17 passes for an 82 percent completion rate.

"Moon is a good veteran quarterback, you can tell that," Phillips said. "He's got good movement. It will take him just a little while to adjust to the NFL."

Moon made an immediate impression last week, in his home debut in the Astrodome. His first completion before the home crowd was a 61-yard touchdown bomb to rookie Eric Mullins.

The Oilers have been hit by a series of knee injuries that has depleted the starting lineup.

Earl Campbell, recovering from arthroscopic surgery in May, won't play against the Saints. Defensive end Bob Hamm, offensive guard Mike Munchak and linebacker Tim Joiner also are recovering from knee operations.

Kickoff is at 8 p.m. CDT.

In the past five years, long distance telephone companies have redefined the long distance industry. Here's why:

Competition for the long distance dollar is completely redefining the market. With the breakup of the Bell System on January 1, 1984, the courts ruled that MCI, Sprint, NTS Communications and others could compete equally with AT&T for long distance revenue. Time should eventually bring competition to all communities.

Here's how you can take advantage of this phenomenal growth.

NTS Communications, Inc. of Lubbock, Texas is expanding its West Texas network. If you would like further information and disclosure on our franchise please contact us at 806-762-4565.

Player, Trevino tied at PGA tournament

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gary Player matched the tournament record with a 9-under-par 63 and moved into a 3-way tie for the lead Friday early in the second round of the 66th PGA National Championship.

Player, 48, who claims 127 worldwide victories in a 3-decade, globe-trotting career, scattered 10 birdies across his card and one-putted 11 times in his effort over the 7,145 yard Shoal Creek Club course.

"A dream round; it really is," said Player, one of only four men to score career sweeps of the game's Big Four events, the Masters, U.S. and British Opens and the PGA.

With about one-third of the field still out in hot, humid weather, he shared the top spot with Lee Trevino and 1977 PGA champion Lanny Wadkins at 137, 7-under par for two trips through the deep, wiry, punishing rough of the Shoal Creek Club course.

Trevino, 44, who counts the 1974 PGA title among his five major titles, slashed his way to a second round 68.

Wadkins was one of 30 men who were stranded by darkness Thursday and had to return to the course early Friday morning to complete first-round play. He finished off a 68 that gave him a share of the lead, then added a second-round 69.

A single stroke off the pace at 138 were Scott Simpson and Victor Regalado, each of whom had a second consecutive 68.

The group at 139, five under par and only two back at the tournament halfway point, included British Open champ Seve Ballesteros of Spain, Donnie Hammond and Jay Haas, each with a second round 69.

Ray Floyd, a former Masters champion, twice a winner of this title and the overnight leader with a 68, was one of the late starters Friday.

Defending champion Hal Sutton and Jack Nicklaus, designer of this course, also were late starters. Sutton had a first-round 74, while Nicklaus struggled to a 77 and faced the need for improvement if he is to qualify for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Masters champion Ben Crenshaw didn't make it. He had a 73-153 and was certain to miss the cut when the field is trimmed to the low 70 scorers for the last 36 holes.

Arnold Palmer, the 54-year-old PGA Seniors champion, was another casualty. Palmer, who has never won this title, shot 73-152.

Player, who has not won in the United States since 1978, said he had "a good opportunity to break 60" in his superlative effort.

However, he took note of the deep, difficult rough and made no rash predictions concerning the next two rounds.

"As thrilling as it is, you can't get too excited because you know it's out there waiting for you again tomorrow," he said.
