Deputy beaten, patrol car taken

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

A Howard County sheriff's deputy was injured and his patrol car stolen this morning while he was trying to arrest a man suspected of stealing another car.

Sheriff's deputy John Wolf is being treated at Hall-Bennett Hospital for injuries received in "a fray" with the suspect, later taken into custody by another officer, according to Sheriff A.N. Standard.

Standard said it appeared Wolf was bruised and had suffered "mainly superficial" injuries. "We're having him take a physical (to determine if there are any other injuries)," Standard said.

Wolf was left lying by the side of Highway 350 about 10 miles northwest of Big Spring after the suspect drove off with his patrol car, which was later recovered, according to Standard. Standard said Wolf stopped the suspect, seen driving a car reported as stolen that morning, and was attempting to arrest him when he was assaulted.

The suspect made several attempts to get Wolf's gun and then tried to drive off with the car. "He (Wolf) was able to pull the keys from the ignition and was able to exit the car," Standard said.

"The car was still operating and went down the road about 2 miles," Standard said.

Wolf was later picked up by Department of Public Safety trooper Ben Lockhart, who said he believes Wolf's leg might have been run over by the car.

The suspect, a 30- to 35-year-old man now in custody in the county jail, was not injured, Standard said. His office has not identified the man yet because he is refusing to answer questions, Standard said.

"Fortunately, the officers were not seriously injured nor the suspect," Standard said. "That could very well have happened. Thankfully, it was averted."

Sheriff's deputy Bennie Green, acting as back-up on the call, also got into a fight with the suspect before he was "forcibly taken into custody" with the help of a passerby in a pickup truck, according to Standard.

Green, who said he was uninjured in the scuffle, said he saw the man "driving John's car about 6 1/2 or 7 miles out of town (on Highway 350), driving real slow. I blinked my lights and he just stopped right there in the middle of the road. He didn't pull over."

Green said the suspect tried to take his gun during the fight. "I finally got the handcuffs on him with the help of a man in a pickup truck who stopped. I kept waving for cars to stop. Finally someone did."

The Big Spring police department and DPS troopers were called in to support Wolf after the dispatcher in the sheriff's office lost contact with him, according to

Jury gives 75 years for murder

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

An 11-man, one-woman jury Wednesday afternoon sentenced a 21-year-old Big Spring man accused of fatally shooting a drinking companion to 75 years in the state prison.

The defendant, Juan B. Marquez of 606B S. Douglas, who was dressed in black throughout the trial, did not react when 118th District Court Clerk Peggy Crittenden read his sentence. The maximum sentence is 99 years or life in prison; the minimum, five years in prison.

Earlier that afternoon, the jury had found Marquez guilty of shooting Robert Dutchover Jr. once in the stomach and twice in the head with a .45-caliber automatic pistol on Jan. 23, 1984.

Marquez, the victim and a third man, Ralph Rodriguez, who provided key eyewitness testimony against the accused, were driving around and drinking beer the night of the incident, both Marquez and Rodriguez testified.

The three had stopped to urinate by the side of Gail Road near Snyder Highway when Marquez shot Dutchover, according to Rodriguez' testimony, which Marquez denied.

District Attorney Rick Hamby had asked the all-white panel of jurors for a sentence of no less than 40 years in prison, saying they needed to send a message to the community.

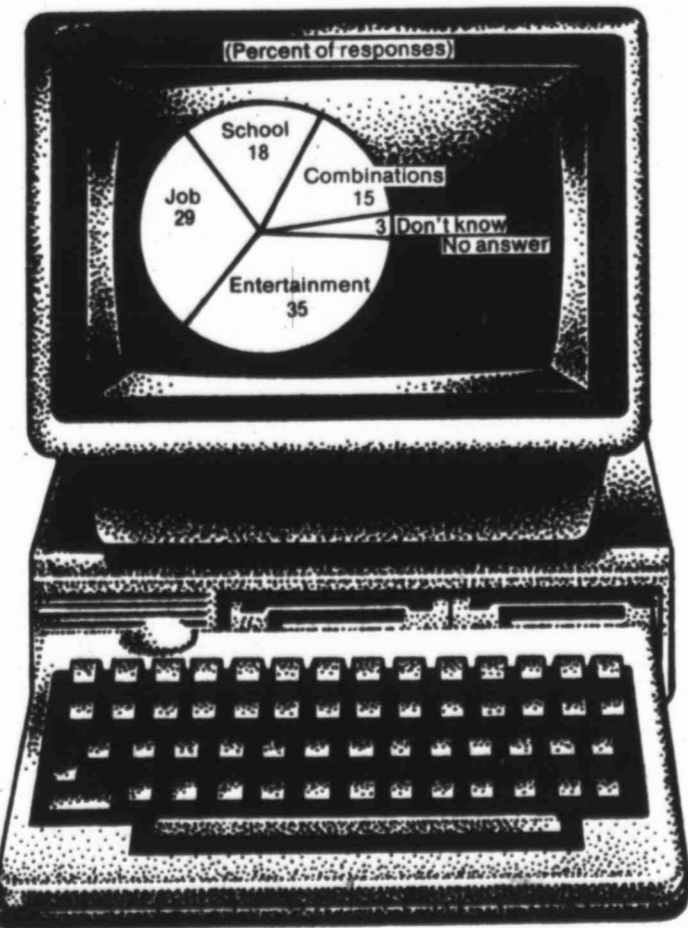

"We are tired of being kicked around," Hamby told jurors in his arguments during the punishment phase of the trial. "We are tired of turning the other cheek."

Marquez' attorneys, Tim Yeats and Harvey Hooser, said Marquez intended to appeal his conviction and sentence. The jury deliberated less than 30 minutes before reaching agreement on the sentence, and took about two hours to determine Marquez' guilt.

Even after the verdict was delivered, Marquez maintained his innocence. Asked by 118th District

Hughes estate pays $50 million

AUSTIN (AP) — The estate of billionaire Howard Hughes will pay Texas $50 million in an agreement that settles what one official called probably the most complicated probate case in history.

The agreement, signed Wednesday by Texas, California and Hughes estate officials, ended eight years of legal maneuvering over inheritance taxes that began on April 5, 1976, when Hughes died aboard a private jet that was en route from Acapulco to Houston.

Texas will get $50 million cash. California will get between $119 million and $150 million in cash and land.

California officials said the federal government's share would be between $150 million and $180 million, but William R. Lummis, a cousin of Hughes and a Las Vegas, Nev., attorney representing the estate, estimated the federal tax at about $100 million.

"The Howard Hughes estate case probably has been the most publicized and complicated probate case in this country's history," Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox said.

"You realize that when you look at the amount of money involved and also because of the rather eccentric lifestyle of Howard Hughes," Mattox added after signing the agreement.

Lummis, who flew to Texas after signing the agreement in Sacramento earlier in the day, said he believed the settlement was the best for all parties involved.

"I think they did nick us pretty good," he said. "Dealing with the payment of sums of this magnitude, it's hard to say you're elated..."

"It's a good settlement. Litigation tends to take on a life of its own. I think that's what was happening," Lummis said.

Texas and California each had pursued inheritance tax claims on the massive Hughes estate since the reclusive billionaire's death. The case had been before the U.S. Supreme Court three times.

Hughes left no verified will. More than 40 purported wills and hundreds of prospective heirs surfaced over the years. A series of trials in 1981 trimmed the number of heirs to 22.

Hughes, the son of the inventor of an oil drill bit, was born in Texas and lived in the state for 20 years.

High-tech Texans digest computers

By DAVID HILL
Texas Poll Director

Even though a small number of Texas households have computers, most Texans say their public schools make computers available for children, according to the most recent Texas Poll.

While 14 percent of the poll's respondents said they have a computer in their home, 62 percent said their schools have computers available for student use. More than a quarter (26 percent), however, don't know to what extent computers are available in schools.

The number of Texas households with computers was almost double the national figure of 7 percent compiled in April by InfoCorp, a California marketing consulting firm.

Texas, however, is no better than average when it comes to providing computers for public-school students. Texas ranks 38th in the nation in the percentage of schools having computers (57.6 percent), and 25th in the number of students per computer (87.8), according to Market Data Retrieval Inc.

Computers are touted as sophisticated educational and business tools, but more Texans use their computers for games and entertainment, the poll found.

More than one-third (35 percent) of those with computers use them for entertainment. Another 29 percent use computers for job-related activities, 18 percent for school and 15 percent for combinations of the three.

Most of the state's home computers can't talk to other computers. Only one-fourth of the people with computers said they had modems, the devices that allow computers to transmit or receive information via telephone.

Predictably, who make more money are more likely to have a computer. One-fourth of the people living in households with incomes higher than $30,000 per year have computers, while only 4 percent of those in households earning less than $10,000 do.

Storms hit North Texas

By The Associated Press
Showers and thunderstorms roared southward out of Oklahoma early today, bringing beneficial rainfall to areas of North Texas along the Red River.

The showers and thunderstorms, triggered by a low pressure trough aloft, weakened as they moved southward.

Wichita Falls received .33 of an inch of rain and wind gusts up to 43 mph as the activity moved southward. Brief heavy rain, high, gusty winds and some small hail fell at Iowa Park.

Heavy thunderstorms were also reported near Haskell and Mineral Wells. The National Weather Service warned of possible heavy rain, gusty winds and hail in that system.

The rest of the state had clear skies and continued warm temperatures.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s, ranging from the low 60s in the Davis Mountains of West Texas to the low 80s across North Central Texas and along the upper Texas coast. Extremes ranged from 62 at Marfa in Southwest Texas to 86 at Fort Worth.

Other readings around the state included 68 at Amarillo, 69 at Wichita Falls, 79 at Waco, 76 at Austin, 74 at Houston, Corpus Christi and Brownsville, 76 at San Antonio, 70 at Lubbock and 72 at El Paso.

Forecasts called for clear to partly cloudy skies and hot temperatures statewide. Some widely scattered thunderstorms were expected over North Texas and Southeast Texas. Highs today were to be mostly in the 90s, except along the coast where slightly cooler readings were expected and in North Central Texas and the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas where readings were expected to approach the 104-degree mark.

Thunderstorms roamed over northern Illinois and Lower Michigan today, bringing some relief to a sizzling heat wave in the Midwest that toppled temperature records for a second consecutive day.

Golf-ball size hail struck Apple River, Ill., and large hail pelted parts of Lower Michigan during the storm.

Thunderstorms raked much of the intermountain region, Oklahoma and Arkansas and lingered along the Louisiana coast and the southern coast of Florida and over New York state.

Meanwhile, Montana authorities classified 18 fires ravaging that state as "major." So far, 160,000 acres of prairie and forest land have been burned since Saturday, 30 homes have been destroyed and 500 people evacuated.

WEST TEXAS — Fair to partly cloudy with no important day-to-day temperature changes. Lows in the mid to upper 60s. Highs in the 90s, climbing to 105 near the valley.

Local police awarded grant

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Gov. Mark White announced on Tuesday the awarding of more than $24 million in anti-crime grants to local governmental units, including one to Big Spring to continue its Crime Prevention Unit.

The grants are awarded annually and are funded through fines assessed against persons convicted of criminal violations in Texas.

Big Spring will receive $46,645 for second-year funding of the Crime Prevention Unit.

The Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, which includes Howard County, will obtain $72,108 for continued law enforcement training.

Lamesa is due $21,761 for initiating a crime prevention program with a major crimes officer, and Dawson County will receive $21,900 for a new program to purchase juvenile services, such as medical and housing needs.

In a written statement accompanying a list of the grants, White said, "To establish safer communities, we must encourage citizens and the police to work together to swiftly apprehend criminal offenders and to support programs designed to discourage young people from engaging in criminal activity."

LULAC sponsors celebration

also increases with education. Among college graduates, 23 percent own computers, while only 6 percent of grade-school graduates and 15 percent of high-school graduates do. And while college graduates are more likely to use the computer for business, they're also about half as likely to use computers for games or entertainment.

City-dwellers also are more likely to own computers than people who live in small towns and rural areas. Small-town and rural Texans also aren't as likely to use computers for business as their urban counterparts.

The Texas Poll, conducted between June 23 and July 7, interviewed 1,003 of the state's residents, resulting in a sampling error of 3 percent. The poll is conducted through the Public Policy Resources Laboratory at Texas A&M and sponsored by Harte-Hanks Communications Inc.

Sentence

Court Judge Jim Gregg if he had anything to say before he pronounced the sentence, Marquez replied: "I didn't do it, sir."

Rodriguez, recently discharged from serving a prison sentence for burglary, supplied key eyewitness testimony about the shooting. According to Rodriguez, he helped Marquez drag the body to the side of the road to prevent Marquez from driving over it.

Rodriguez also testified that Marquez killed "Dutch," as he was called by his friends, because Dutchover was selling drugs and was talking too much about customers. Rodriguez also testified that Marquez showed him $500 that Marquez said he received for the murder from his cousin, Clemente Sanchez, also a drug dealer, according to Rodriguez.

Dutchover's father, Robert Dutchover Sr., 52, said he felt the sentence was "pretty fair. I'm happy enough. Of course, he won't bring my boy back."

Saying Marquez would have to serve more than one-half his life in prison, the elder Dutchover said Marquez would be "too old to hurt anyone else when he gets out."

The victim's oldest sister, Emma Anaya of Lubbock, said she thought Sanchez should be tried for his part in her brother's death.

"It is justice," Mrs. Anaya said. "His name was brought in. He was involved."

Her father agreed, saying: "He (Sanchez) should be tried for hurting all these young kids, I think. Robert and Sanchez were good friends at one time, I think. I don't know what happened."

Charges have not been filed against Sanchez, according to Hamby. However, law enforcement officials are continuing to investigate the case, he said.

The car, a 1977 gold Monte Carlo, was reported stolen to police by Jeff DeKeyser of Lindbergh, according to Standard, who said the police department notified him a suspect was seen driving the car about 25 miles northwest of the city on Highway 350 near the Howard-Scurry County line.

The incident is being investigated by Texas Ranger Charles Brune and sheriff's deputy George Quintero.

Ordinance goes to the dogs

HOUSTON (AP) — City officials, trying to put a dent in the hundreds of thousands of stray animals estimated to be roaming Houston, are considering an ordinance that would make it illegal for people to feed stray dogs and cats.

Those caught feeding the strays could be subject to fines of up to $200.

Specifically, the ordinance now awaiting a public hearing next month would make it "unlawful for any person intentionally to cause, suffer, or permit the maintenance of an attractive environment for the congregation of stray cats or dogs by the placement of dog food or cat food in such a manner that it may be consumed by stray dogs or stray cats."

Lois O'Connor, an aide to Councilman John Goodner, said Wednesday the law is aimed at people who leave food in their yards for strays.

One woman has generated daily complaints from her neighborhood because she feeds about 40 stray cats a day, an aide to Councilwoman Christin Hartung said.

2 die in African jet fire

CAMEROON — A Cameroon Airlines passenger jet caught fire today as it prepared to take off for Yaounde, and National Cameroon Radio said two people died. U.S. officials said five Americans were hurt, but none of the injuries appeared serious.

The radio report did not say how many of the reported 116 people aboard the Boeing 737 were injured. An early report by the French news agency Agence-France Presse had quoted unidentified sources as saying up to 100 people were killed.

Iranian pilots defect

BAGHDAD — One of Iran's U.S.-made jet-fighters landed at an Iraqi airport today and its two pilots requested and were granted political asylum, a military spokesman announced.

Meanwhile, Iraq's ruling Revolutionary Command Council issued a statement saying it had released an unspecified number of Iranian POWs to mark a Moslem feast, and was inviting more Iranians to defect.

Dali injured in fire

PUBOL — Surrealist painter Salvador Dali suffered burns on his right leg when his castle bedroom caught fire early today in Spain.

The 80-year-old artist was sleeping when the fire broke out. His nurses said friends of Dali's rushed into the painter's room after the fire was discovered and removed him from the chamber.

Dockworkers reject strike

LONDON — Longshoremen at the twin ports of Immingham and Grimsby in northeastern England, who led a dock strike earlier this summer, today voted to abandon a second walkout called in support of striking coal miners.

But the walkout, and the six-month-old coal strike that spawned it, remained serious enough for Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher to put off a Far East tour. Opposition lawmakers demanded she call Parliament back from recess.

U.S. Navy dump explodes

TOKYO — Defective ammunition that was supposed to burn exploded instead and sparked a minor grass fire at a U.N. Navy ammunition dump near Sasebo naval base in Western Japan on Thursday, the Nagasaki Prefecture Police said.

No injuries or significant damage were reported, police said.

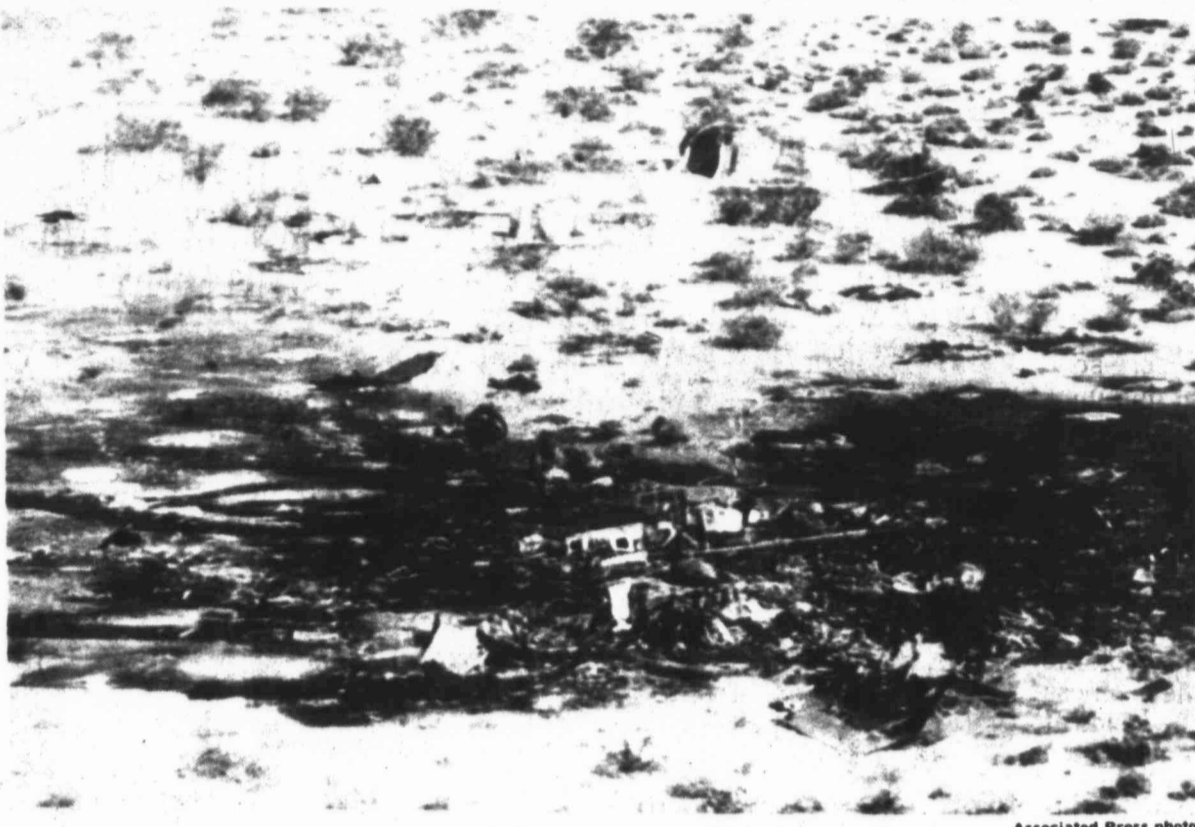

The fire started shortly before noon as workers at the ammunition dump were disposing of defective ammunition, police spokesman Masaki Kuriyama said. The dump is at Hario, about nine miles from the navy base.

Fuel spews from freighter

OSTEND — Divers hindered by wind and a choppy sea tried to plug a fuel leak from a sunken freighter today, and French officials confirmed that among the ship's 30 barrels of radioactive cargo were three containers of lightly enriched uranium.

Two French ministries, the Ministry for the Sea and the Atomic Energy Commission, said the freighter Mont Louis was carrying three different types of uranium hexafluoride when it sank Saturday.

The way of dusty death

CRASH SCENE — A B-1A bomber Wednesday morning disintegrated when it crashed in a California desert north of Edwards Air Force Base. The escape capsule is shown in the background.

The B-1 debate

Fatal crash fuels controversy over bomber

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The first crash of a B-1 bomber, which killed the manufacturer's chief test pilot and injured two crewmen, will have little or no impact on the future of the controversial aircraft, proponents and critics say.

Air Force investigators converging on this desert base to study Wednesday's fiery crash of the $200 million prototype said it could be months before they determine the cause and why there were casualties when the three-man crew escaped in a parachute-equipped capsule.

The B-1A, one of four prototypes, crashed on sagebrush- and greasewood-dotted federal land about 10 miles northeast of the Mojave Desert base and 75 miles northeast of Los Angeles while on a low-speed, low-altitude test flight.

It came just six days before Rockwell International Corp., the prime contractor for the B-1, was to unveil the first production model of the B-1B, which is to be the bulwark of America's nuclear bomber force.

In Washington, Air Force Lt. Col. Ron Greer said the four-engine plane was engaged in "extremely low-level, extremely low-speed" tests on its 127th test flight.

Development of the B-1 began in 1970, and its history has been characterized by sharp debate.

The Defense Department has argued that the nation needs an advanced, multipurpose bomber with low-flying capabilities to penetrate enemy defenses. Critics say the B-1 is expensive, lacks maneuverability and that its job can be handled by existing B-52s.

The crash scattered wreckage in a circle roughly 200 feet in diameter, said Associated Press photographer Doug Pizac, and sparked at least three small brush fires that were quickly extinguished. A guard at a nearby U.S. Borax plant who wouldn't give her name said she saw the plane trailing smoke shortly before it went down at 10:30 a.m.

"The crew escape capsule successfully separated and landed near the crash site," the Air Force said.

The dead pilot was identified as T.D. "Doug" Benefield, 55, of Marshall, Texas.

Benefield, the chief test pilot for Rockwell's B-1 program, was a veteran of Air Force F-4C Phantom combat missions in Vietnam.

Storm targets East Coast

MIAMI — Forecasters warned boaters to be cautious today as Arthur, the first tropical storm of the Atlantic hurricane season, churned slowly toward the eastern Caribbean packing 45 mph winds and driving rain.

An Air Force reconnaissance plane that flew into the storm reported it was located about 110 miles east of Barbados and moving northwest at 10 mph, the National Hurricane Center said in a 5 a.m. CDT statement. The center said gale force winds extended 75 miles from the storm's center.

Auto unions reject offers

DEARBORN — The head of the United Auto Workers says a decision to target both General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. for possible strikes means the companies should "start all over" and make better contract proposals in time to avert a walkout.

UAW President Owen Bieber said Wednesday that GM and Ford should propose new contract terms "with haste because there's only 16 days left" to avoid a strike when the current contract expires Sept. 14. Bieber's comments at a meeting of nationwide union locals came one day after GM and Ford offered nearly 500,000 domestic auto workers no increase in basic wages and no guarantee that more jobs won't be lost to foreign countries or non-union shops.

Montana fires spreading

HELENA — Windborne flames that have scorched 160,000 acres of forest and prairie leaped battle lines toward more homes, disappointing firefighters as air support and reinforcements from seven states joined the war against fire today.

Residents of the 15-home El Dorado Heights subdivision near Helena were told to evacuate Wednesday after winds shifted the 22,400-acre North Hill fire toward their neighborhood.

Authorities classified 18 Montana fires as "major." Because of the number of state and federal agencies involved, there have been no firm figures on the total number of fires still burning. Most of them started last weekend or early this week, presumably by lightning.

LONG BEACH — The 23 crewmen rescued from the stricken freighter Blue Falcon were aboard a U.S. Coast Guard cutter heading toward Southern California today as their ship drifted in the Pacific Ocean off Mexico.

The 350-foot Blue Falcon was left alone Wednesday night 570 miles southwest of the tip of Baja California in the same area where it began taking in water through cracks in its bow when Hurricane Lowell churned through Monday night.

Policy change is welcome move

The city staff and council are moving to soothe a sore spot with business owners in amending city policy about dumping at the balefill. As a conciliatory gesture, the city has extended to businesses the right to dump refuse at the balefill as many as 12 times a year in addition to collection privileges already provided. It is a move that deserves attention because it is an indication of responsiveness in city government.

When the city changed its garbage collection and disposal system, it ended the policy of free access for businesses to what had been the landfill (now a balefill because of the change to "baling" trash for space efficiency). Some business owners grumbled that they were being double billed — once at the office and again when they hauled bulky items to the balefill. The animosity was compounded because the business owners felt they were doing the city a service by hauling their own debris, and then were being made to pay for the privilege.

The city's point of view was that on-site collection was ample for what business owners paid, and "extra" trash should draw an extra fee.

Passed on first reading Tuesday, the compromise provides business owners with a "punch card" entitling them to 12 free trips to the balefill each year. That should accommodate business' "extra" needs, and should quell complaints of double-billing. But more important than the settlement detail is the fact that the city not only listened to criticism, but really "heard" — and then moved to address the perceived problem.

'Special' problems

Lillian Garland looks like the stuff of which feminist martyrs are made. She was a receptionist at the California Federal Savings and Loan Association in Los Angeles until she had a baby. When she asked for her job back, two months later, she was refused. Short of money, Garland was kicked out of her apartment and lost custody of her child to the father.

So she did what people do in circumstances like this: She filed a lawsuit against California Federal (which had given her a different job seven months later), charging it had broken a state law that assures women up to four months' unpaid leave for pregnancy or childbirth — without losing their jobs.

Somewhat surprisingly, she lost. A U.S. District Court not only threw out the lawsuit but also struck down the law on which it was based. More surprising still, Garland's case has been criticized by both the feminist National Organization for Women and the liberal American Civil Liberties Union.

The court ruled that by requiring "preferential treatment for female employees," the state's law violates the 1964 Civil Rights Act ban on sex discrimination. In legal terms, the decision looks shaky: The Supreme Court in 1973 ruled that distinctions based on pregnancy are not necessarily illegal.

But the California law plainly does establish special rights for pregnant women. Other employees, temporarily disabled by other ailments, are not assured they'll get their old jobs back. Only pregnancy carries the guarantee.

Here is where some feminists see a risk. Like old laws that limited the number of hours they could work, or the type of labor they could do, this one "protects" women from being allowed (or required) to compete on equal terms with men. Here, said NOW and the ACLU in a brief filed in a similar case, "pregnant women have been placed in a class by themselves, a classification system which is inherently dangerous, since it enables them to be singled out for adverse treatment as well."

Aside from the precedent, the law also directly harms the women it is supposed to help. By putting a burden on firms that hire women of child-bearing age, it is likely to deter them from hiring those women. An employee who is entitled to special benefits is more expensive than one who isn't. So firms will prefer the latter. Instead of losing her job when she has a baby, a woman may never get the job to begin with.

As NOW and the ACLU note, granting special status to women puts the burden of child care on them. "There is, of course, no biological reason why fathers cannot care equally well for their newborn children," they argue. But a law like this "would deter such choices, because it grants only women benefits and thus rewards them for remaining at home."

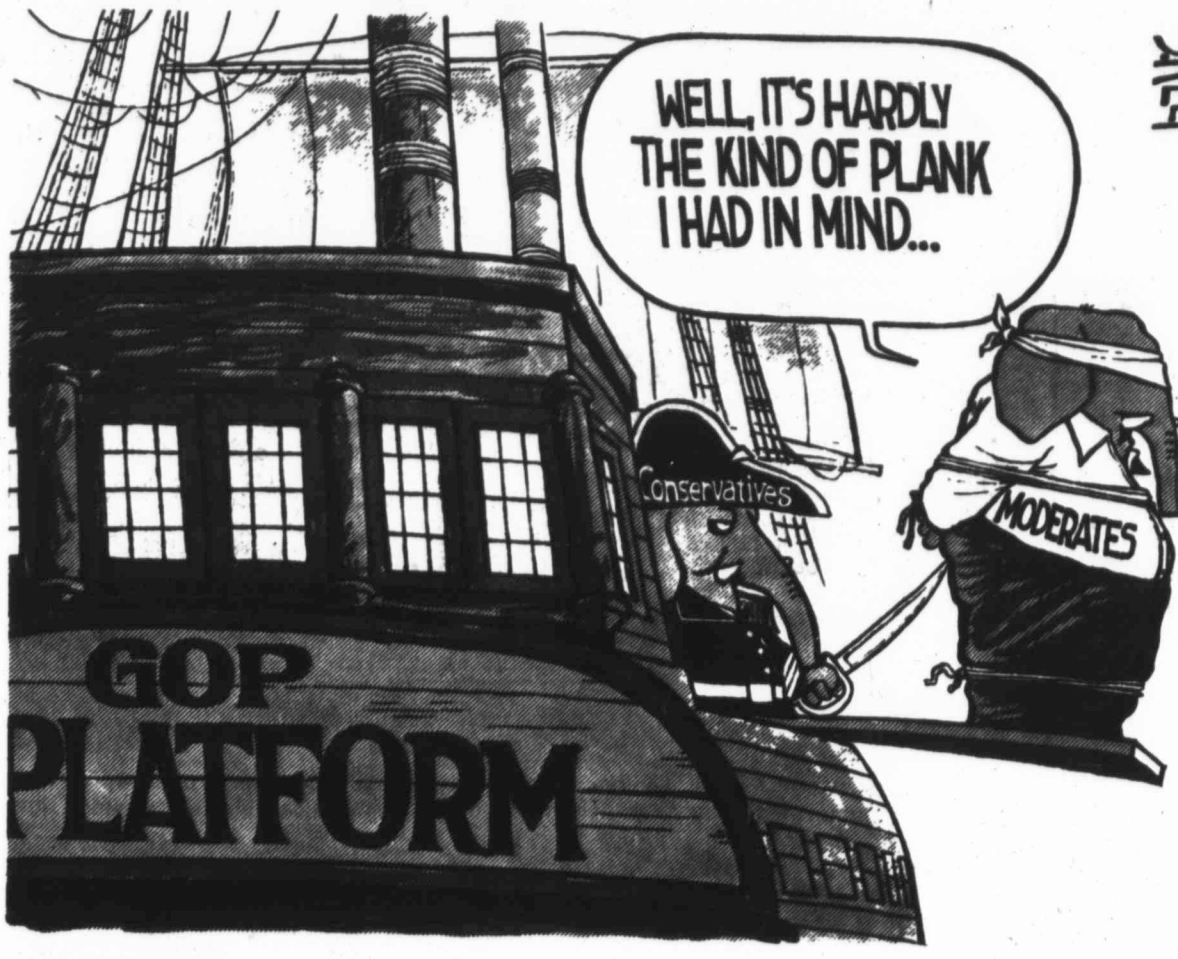

A better answer is to leave the matter to employers and employees, like other terms of employment. A firm with miserly leave policies would have trouble attracting workers, and would have no choice but to change the policy — or else increase wages to balance workers for the risk it creates.

By the same token, women who take advantage of liberal leave policies might be paid less than other employees in the same job — a reflection of the higher costs they impose. Women who prefer higher pay, without a guarantee that their jobs will be waiting when they return from having a child, would be able to find firms with the same preference; women who are willing to accept lower salaries in exchange for job security would do likewise.

In this case, women's groups have rightly opposed forcing employers to make special arrangements for pregnancy. This may signal a new maturity in the movement, as suggested by San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein: "I don't think the market has to accommodate itself to women having children."

Until now, the impression has been left that feminists think the market should be overruled whenever it suits them — as in the campaign for "comparable worth" laws. But relying on the government is as likely to harm women as to help them. Relying on the market will protect their freedom as well as their equality.

Germ warfare is easy, low-cost

WASHINGTON — The gravest "clear and present danger" posed by chemical and biological weapons is not from aggressor nations, which are restrained by fear of retaliation, but from terrorists or lunatics who decided to use these hideous weapons for blackmail or to publicize their causes.

A secret CIA "Special National Intelligence Estimate," which had the concurrence of eight other federal intelligence agencies, expresses concern that the use of poison gas by the Soviets and the Iraqis (who got the ingredients from West German companies) "could influence the attitudes of terrorists toward use of chemical and biological weapons."

The report, which was reviewed by my associate Dale Van Atta, points out that chemical biological weapons are not yet popular among terrorists — probably because they're terrified of them. But it warns that "one successful incident involving such (lethal) agents would significantly lower the threshold of restraint on their application by other terrorists."

In fact, there have been isolated cases of these weapons being used by terrorists and others. In 1978, for example, a Palestinian group injected cyanide into citrus fruit exported by Israel. Guerrillas in the Philippines poisoned pineapples destined for export. In both cases, rapid and effective response to the discovery of the poisoned fruit prevented fatalities.

Similar incidents of "consumer terrorism" have been attributed to individuals, like the culprit who injected cyanide into pain-releiver capsules, and the ex-convict in Australia who threatened to infect herds with hoof-and-mouth disease last January.

The low cost of chemical biological weapons and their relatively easy availability make them attractive to terrorists. And once they have overcome their fear of the weapons through training — by the Soviets, for example — terrorists will see the advantage of deadly agents that can be smuggled into a target area virtually immune from detection.

While it costs hundreds of millions of dollars to build a nuclear bomb, any reasonably intelligent biology or chemistry student can make a kilogram of deadly Type A botulin toxin for only $400, according to Pentagon consultant Joseph Douglas. He adds that with a forged research permit a terrorist could get anthrax germs by mail for $35. One supply house offers samples of five toxins — including the probably lethal ingredient of "yellow rain" — for less than $100.

A group of experts told a United Nations panel in 1969 that "for a large-scale operation against a civilian population, casualties might cost about $2,000 per square kilometer with conventional weapons, $800 with nuclear weapons, $600 with nerve-gas weapons and $1 with biological weapons." Inflation may have changed the figures, but not the deadly bargain ratio.

The United States is wide open for terrorists with chemical-biological operations in mind. The only federal agency that monitors the sale of deadly pathogens is the Agriculture Department. Universities and other research laboratories are poorly guarded, and the necessary knowledge is easy to gather.

"Clandestine production of chemical and biological weapons for a multiple-casualty attack generally raises no greater technical obstacles than does the clandestine production of chemical narcotics or heroin," the CIA report concludes.

Among law enforcement agencies, the Secret Service is particularly aware of the near-impossibility of protection against chemical-biological attacks. In fact, an expert told the presidential bodyguards that he could stroll through the White House with a tour group and leave behind an undetectable poison that would kill all the inhabitants of the Executive Mansion by the next morning.

Reader's worry is a good sign

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I heard you say something on one of your television programs, to the effect that the time could come when God would just give up on us if we neglect Him. That has me worried, because I admit I have turned my back on God. How can I tell if it is too late? — W.K.

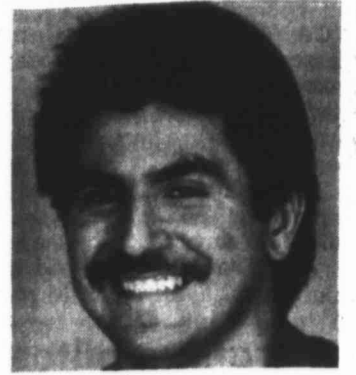

DEAR W.K.: Yes, the Bible does teach that it is possible for us to turn our backs on God for so long that we are no longer able to hear His word and respond to His call. The Bible says, "A man who remains stiff-necked after many rebukes will suddenly be destroyed — without remedy" (Proverbs 29:1). This is a solemn warning to us. I have met people who said that they did not want to turn to Christ right now, but "someday" they would turn to Him before they died. Tragically, this almost never happens, because the more we live in sin the less we are likely to listen to God's voice.

But you have not arrived at that "point of no return." One of the signs of a person who has grown hard and calloused toward God is that he has no concern about his spiritual state. The fact that you are worried about your relationship with God is encouraging and says there is hope for you. Turn to Christ and ask Him to come into your heart by faith right now. God loves you, in spite of the fact you have lived apart from Him all these years. "But God demonstrates his own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8).

If Christ was willing to die for you and wants to forgive you, is there any reason why you should stay away from Him? Jesus said, "Whoever comes to me I will never drive away" (John 6:37). God stands ready to receive you, if you will turn to Christ and receive His free gift of salvation right now. God does not lie; He promises to receive you and make you His child through faith in Christ.

Around The Rim

On the rocks

By LUIS RIOS

Divorce — that beautiful ace in the hole just in case marriage doesn't work out.

Either way you look at marriage, it doesn't seem to be working out for too many couples. We know statistics show that one out of every two marriages ends up in divorce. One of every two, mind you!

Those odds are a little hard to go against. It's a 50-50 chance that a marriage is going to work out, or that it isn't. You get married, you get divorced, you lose half of what you have on the settlement and your wife's attorney and you are miserable for failing in marriage.

Odds are you will go right back out and within a year get married again. No matter what disgusting things you said about marriage before, you are out there in the rat race asking for more punishment.

You get involved with some "absolutely wonderful" lady and the two of you get married. Financially, you are up the river without a canoe — much less the paddle. Odds are the lack of finances are what got you your first divorce.

Marriage is a touchy subject with many divorcees. They will lie through their teeth and tell you it isn't. Divorced couples should not worry that much about it; they are part of a majority.

Divorce is like cancer, there are one million and one causes for it and not a cure in sight.

Priests and ministers blame it on the Sexual Revolution plaguing the youth of today. Premarital sex has led to pregnancy and pregnancy to an unstable marriage, they say.

Psychologists blame it on an unhealthy family life during your childhood years. Economists and bankers will blame the lack of a sound financial basis for the divorce.

The husband blames the wife, the wife blames the husband, the nosy neighbor takes both sides and the in-laws take their family's side.

But it is the newly married couple that is dealt the hand and they are the ones that end up playing it. Realistically, it is a gamble against all odds.

Several famous and not-too-famous offer this insight into marriage and divorce:

- A man may be a fool and not know it, but not if he is married. — H.L. Mencken.
- One should always be in love. That is the reason one should never marry. — Oscar Wilde.
- One was never married, and that is his hell; another is, and that is his plague. — Robert Burton.
- The Japanese word for it is judo — the art of conquering by yielding. The Western equivalent of judo is, "Yes, dear." Marriage is a romance in which the hero often dies in the first chapter. — J.P. McEvoy.

The winner came from Ed Howe who said, "Of course there is such a thing as love, or there wouldn't be so many divorces."

So much for the sanctity of marriage.

Dear Abby

Boy learns lessons the hard way

DEAR ABBY: I'm enclosing one of your articles. In it is a terrific lesson for every young person. Please run it again. It is more needed today that it was when I clipped it from your column in 1970.

YOUR FAN IN STUEBENVILLE, OHIO

DEAR FAN: I agree, and here it is:

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and in a pack of trouble. I was arrested for burglary and other charges. This was not my first time, so I am locked up in Cambridge, Minn., awaiting trial. I would like to express some of the things I have learned in the 121 days I have been here.

One is that you should listen to your parents, as they will never steer you wrong. I never got along too good with my dad. Every time he tried to talk to me we got into a heated argument, but now I realize if I had listened to him, I wouldn't be here.

I would also like to tell kids, don't quit school to go out and make money. I did, and look where I ended up.

Also, there are no shortcuts. A guy needs all the education he can get. And another thing. Don't blame your mistakes on other people. My friends showed me how to break the law, but I am the one who now must take full responsibility for my own actions. I will probably get sent up to St. Cloud's, but thanks, Abby, for letting me say this. Also, I want to thank Sheriff Erickson. He is a swell guy. He let me use his typewriter to write to you. Sincerely,

"THE CAMBRIDGE BUM"
DEAR SIR: You're young yet, so don't go calling yourself a "bum." You can pay your debt and still amount to something if you really want to. I talked to Sheriff Erickson, and he told me you had already been sent to St. Cloud. He said he certainly hoped you would straighten yourself out because you had a lot of good in you, in addition to being exceptionally smart. I believe him. I wish you luck.

(Every teen-ager should now the truth about drugs, sex and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 (this includes postage) to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Dr. Donohue

Eye pupil size difference common

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My son was born with one pupil bigger than the other. My husband and I are very concerned. When we asked the pediatrician about this, he seemed very ho-hum about it. Should I pursue this further? We are very worried. The eye doctor doesn't seem worried. —A.R.

Since both the pediatrician and the ophthalmologist have given you assurance that your son is fine and that sight will not be affected, I would take that assurance and stop worrying. I'll bet the doctors were concerned at first and looked for some of the bad things that can cause inequality between the pupils. That would include tumors, glaucoma, injury, or infection. When that is done, and nothing found, the condition can be considered a harmless quirk. One out of every five of us has a difference in pupil size, usually in the range of a 1-to-2 millimeter variance.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: How does Accutane work in treating acne? —Mrs. P.L.

The action of isotretinoin (Accutane) is apparently in reducing the size of the acne cysts and reducing the sebum (oil) production of the skin glands. It is effective treatment, but one reserved for use when other forms of treatment have failed to bring improvement. Isotretinoin is a vitamin A-like compound. It should not be used during pregnancy. Your other acne questions have been touched on recently and are discussed in the booklet "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Pimples," which other readers may order by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printing and handling.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have become sensitive to commercial deodorant products, including even the hypo-allergenic brands. After much trial and error with various products I tried an application of plain baking soda. To my relief, it ended my problem. However, I have one concern. Is it possible for my body to absorb extra sodium because of this? If so, how harmful could this be over a long period of time? Is it unwise to continue to use baking soda because of its sodium content? —P.G.

No, it isn't. Don't worry, nothing will happen.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Lawyers haggle over $50 million lawsuit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Attorneys in a $50 million lawsuit against General Motors have become more vocal about a settlement they reached for Patrick Davis, who was paralyzed in an accident involving a Trans Am auto. But they can't agree in public on the actual amount of the out-of-court settlement, which was reached Monday.

Davis, 22, had sued GM after he was paralyzed in a 1980 accident in a Pontiac Trans Am. He was a passenger in a car traveling 90 mph when it hit a telephone pole and claimed the driver was trying to imitate racy television commercials aired by GM.

Monday, attorneys refused to disclose the terms of the settlement. But Davis' attorney Sandy McMath said his client would get housing, transportation and rehabilitation, a package that could cost $300,000 a year according to testimony.

However, Tuesday, GM attorney Thom Rumberger said Davis could receive less than $90,000 once attorney fees and other costs are subtracted from the settlement.

His remarks prompted a statement Wednesday by another Davis attorney Pat Maloney Sr., who said his client "will receive 10 times the sum suggested by Rumberger."

Davis had claimed in his suit that the Trans Am with a T-top roof was unsafe and that GM promoted it as a stunt vehicle.

He has been under nursing home care since his injury.

Rumberger, who earlier had refused comment on the terms of the settlement, flew to San Antonio from his home in Orlando, Fla., to tell reporters Davis would collect less than a half percent of the original damage claim of $50 million.

"I frankly think that's kind of disgusting," he said of Davis' share of the settlement.

Commission asking for TUEC audit

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Public Utility Commission on Wednesday ignored warnings about the appearance of a possible conflict of interest and voted 2-1 to have the accounting firm of Price Waterhouse audit the operations and effectiveness of Texas Utilities' fuel subsidiaries.

Commission Chairman Phil Ricketts noted later that a decision still has not been made as to when a full management audit will be ordered for Texas Utilities Electric Co., which was formed Jan. 1 from the sister companies of Texas Electric Service Co., Texas Power & Light Co. and Dallas Power & Light Co. However, he said that decision could come by the end of the year.

The lone dissent on the fuel subsidiaries audit came from Commissioner Peggy Rosson, who said she preferred the Chicago firm of Cresap, McCormick & Paget because it had not worked for the Dallas-based utility holding company in the past, as had Price Waterhouse.

Despite the fact that the Price Waterhouse bid was $237,000, compared to Cresap's $415,000, Mrs. Rosson said, "My concern is maintaining public confidence. If they don't have confidence in the audit, even if it's cheaper, it's no bargain."

Cost of the audit is paid by the utility, which is allowed to pass the cost on to its ratepayers during the next rate case, Mrs. Rosson noted.

The fuel affiliates are of special concern to the commission because Texas Utilities buys its fuel from its own companies rather than outside firms like most other electric utilities.

Some critics have questioned whether customers are best served by such an arrangement and whether they receive the cheapest electricity possible when a company is selling fuel to itself rather than going to the competitive market place.

Commission Chairman Phil Ricketts said the fact that Price Waterhouse supervised a training seminar for the utility's internal audit staff in 1982 and recently set up an information response system used in rate cases did not create a conflict of interest in his mind because none of that work was done in the utility's fuel subsidiaries.

Those subsidiaries are Texas Utilities Fuel Co., which operates natural gas pipelines and delivers natural gas to Texas Utilities power plants, and Texas Utilities Mining Co., which mines lignite for the lignite power plants.

Also to be included in the audit are sections of the Texas Utilities Service Co., which provides accounting and audit work for the fuel affiliates.

"It'll be impossible to get auditors who have not done work for a utility," Ricketts said.

But Mrs. Rosson countered: "This is not just any utility. This is recent work for this utility."

Grand Prairie runs out of water

GRAND PRAIRIE (AP) — Water returned to a southwest portion of this Dallas suburb Wednesday, and officials went door-to-door spreading the word about a new stricter mandatory water rationing program.

The drought gripping much of Texas has caused more public water consumption than Grand Prairie's system can handle, said Don Dietrich, assistant director of public works. As a result, the Grand Prairie City Council Tuesday amended its mandatory odd-even water rationing program by further restricting outside watering to the hours of 10 p.m. to 1 a.m., and city workers took notices and stuffed them in mailboxes Wednesday.

Water pressure increased overnight and water service returned to subdivisions that went dry Tuesday.

The lack of water was apparently caused by a low water level in a storage tank in the southwest section of the city, said David Eisenlohr, assistant city manager.

Eisenlohr said the pumps were working, but apparently could not pump water fast enough to maintain an adequate level for water pressure.

The city's water problems were compounded last weekend when the city lost a well in the eastern section of Grand Prairie, he said.

"The pump just died out. It was installed in 1965 and just wore out," Eisenlohr said.

Grand Prairie, a fast-growing suburb, buys its water from Dallas, which has a plentiful supply, Dietrich said. But as the city has sprawled to the south, pumping water from the supply line on the north side has become increasingly difficult, he said.

The City Council, meeting on an emergency basis, also directed the city staff to put the National Guard and American Red Cross on alert to help deliver and distribute bottled water to area residents if water pressure again declines.

Matagorda plan delayed by park panel

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission delayed approval Wednesday of a proposed five-year state plan to label Matagorda Island as a park and wildlife management area.

Jim Bell, parks division director, said groups such as the Sierra Club, Audubon Society and Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas had questions about the plan and the commission deferred final approval until its next meeting in October.

Following an act of Congress, the state took over management of more than 43,000 publicly owned acres of the island on Sept. 1, 1983. The military in World War II had used 19,000 acres for an air base, and that acreage was added to the 24,000 acres the state owned.

Title to the 19,000 acres, however, was retained by the federal government.

At a public hearing on Aug. 3, critics of the plan said it appeared to put people's pleasure ahead of the survival of endangered wildlife species that live on the island.

"We think we've made accommodations," Bell said Wednesday during a commission lunch break. "We have 10 pages listing what we think are significant revisions (in the original plan.)"

One complaint was that the proposed state plan would continue to allow cattle to graze on the 35-mile island up the Gulf Coast from Corpus Christi.

Bell said the revised plan "does not remove grazing, which has been going on for 150 years. Removal of grazing rights was never in our concept for the island."

Bell said the staff did eliminate food plots, which were part of the original plan. The plots were designed to encourage the grow of native plants for wildlife to feed on.

A proposal to build picnic tables also was eliminated but the revised plan authorizes building up to 12 shelters.

The plan would set aside 7,300 acres for a park and 4,000 acres for conservation zones. The public would be allowed to camp on two miles of beach on the gulf side of the island.

Bell said the nine-member Parks and Wildlife Commission would hear additional testimony in October and vote on the plan.

Pipeline spill coats river in oil

BAYTOWN (AP) — Crews working for the Exxon Pipeline Co. were cleaning up about 84,000 gallons of crude oil from the San Jacinto River Wednesday after a barge or tugboat apparently struck a pipeline, a company spokesman said.

The oil was contained inside booms in a mile-long stretch of the river, spokesman Perry Smith said. He said 10 vacuum trucks were working to clean up the mess, but that the effort would likely take five to seven days.

Technicians monitoring pipeline traffic noticed a sudden drop in pressure in the 20-inch pipeline, one of the main lines feeding crude oil to the Exxon refinery at Baytown, about 9 p.m. Tuesday.

"We sent a diver down this morning," Smith said. "It's obvious that the line was struck by something, probably a barge or a tug."

Stabbings prompt tight security at Huntsville state prison

Staff and wire reports
HUNTSVILLE — Texas prison officials hope new security measures, including the use of plastic knives and forks and metal detectors, will reduce a pattern of increasing violence blamed for the stabbings of 40 inmates this month.

Two more inmates were stabbed late Tuesday at the Texas Department of Corrections' Clemens Unit, where 22-year-old inmate Curtis Ray Williams of Big Spring was killed Monday night following an argument, prison spokesman Phil Guthrie said Wednesday.

The stabbings brought the total number of inmates stabbed this year to 267. Five have been killed this month and 12 this year, officials said. Nine inmates were killed in 1983. Guthrie said prison officials are waiting for $452,000 in grant money with which to buy metal detectors. Prison officials said they are planning to purchase 40 hand-held metal detectors, 14 airport-type walk-through detectors and 120 body alarms for guards. "There's a lot of paperwork in connection with the grants," Guthrie said.

Dallas schools rescind credit for Bible courses

DALLAS (AP) — Changes in state rules have prompted Dallas public school officials to drop their offer of class credit for studying the Bible in church — an offer that has stood for 59 years.

The course, which taught the Bible as a lesson in history and literature, attracted hundreds of students at various Dallas churches, Dallas Independent School District officials said Tuesday.

In the past, the DISD sold books and curriculum guides for a Bible course to churches. Sunday school teachers taught the course, but the school district administered the final exam that determined whether a student received elective credit.

But this year, the Texas Education Agency erased Bible courses from its list of acceptable electives, and DISD officials decided to follow suit.

"We are just going to stop printing the material," said Dallas school board member Mary Rutledge. "Now the church can keep a master copy and keep teaching the course as long as they want. The kids just won't get credit for it." The decision to stop giving credit for Bible classes stemmed from the Legislature's move this summer to upgrade state requirements for high school graduation, said Tom Anderson, the state's deputy commissioner for curriculum.

Officials said other Texas districts offered the course as well, but they did not yet know if others had followed Dallas' lead.

"The Legislature directed the state school board to establish essential elements for every course and then those courses became the list of courses accepted for state graduation," Anderson said.

"Bible courses were not among the courses," he said.

Richard Mabry, who taught the course at the Cliff Temple Baptist Church in Dallas last year, said the curriculum provided by DISD officials always "steered clear of giving it a slant toward any particular."

"My only sorrow," Mabry said, "is that DISD is not lending its support to the course. I think it's an excellent way to study the Bible."

New Jersey man drives to S. Texas to aid poor

ROMA (AP) — A New Jersey man who read about the plight of an unemployed mother in the nation's fifth poorest county drove 1,500 miles to South Texas to bring clothes for the woman's children to wear to school.

Wayne Sutton, 47, collected clothing from friends and neighbors in his hometown of Northfield, N.J., after reading a newspaper story about the struggle of Anita Navarro of Rio Grande City.

Ms. Navarro, who has been unable to find a job, has been scavenging in the Starr County dump for clothes, recyclable aluminum cans and change. She said her children would be wearing to school the "rags" she finds at the landfill.

She works at the dump every day, hunting through garbage for items to sell or use. The aluminum cans she finds bring about $50 a week, her only source of income for feeding and clothing five children, ages 3 to 9.

Sutton was touched by Ms. Navarro's dilemma and the poverty faced by residents of the nation's fifth poorest county, so he decided to try to help.

After reading the story, he telephoned his neighbors to ask for donations of clothes. He then called a local newspaper, the Atlantic City Press, to ask for help in locating someone in Starr County to whom he could send the donations.

A church in Starr County agreed to accept and distribute the clothes and a newspaper story about Sutton's efforts generated additional contributions.

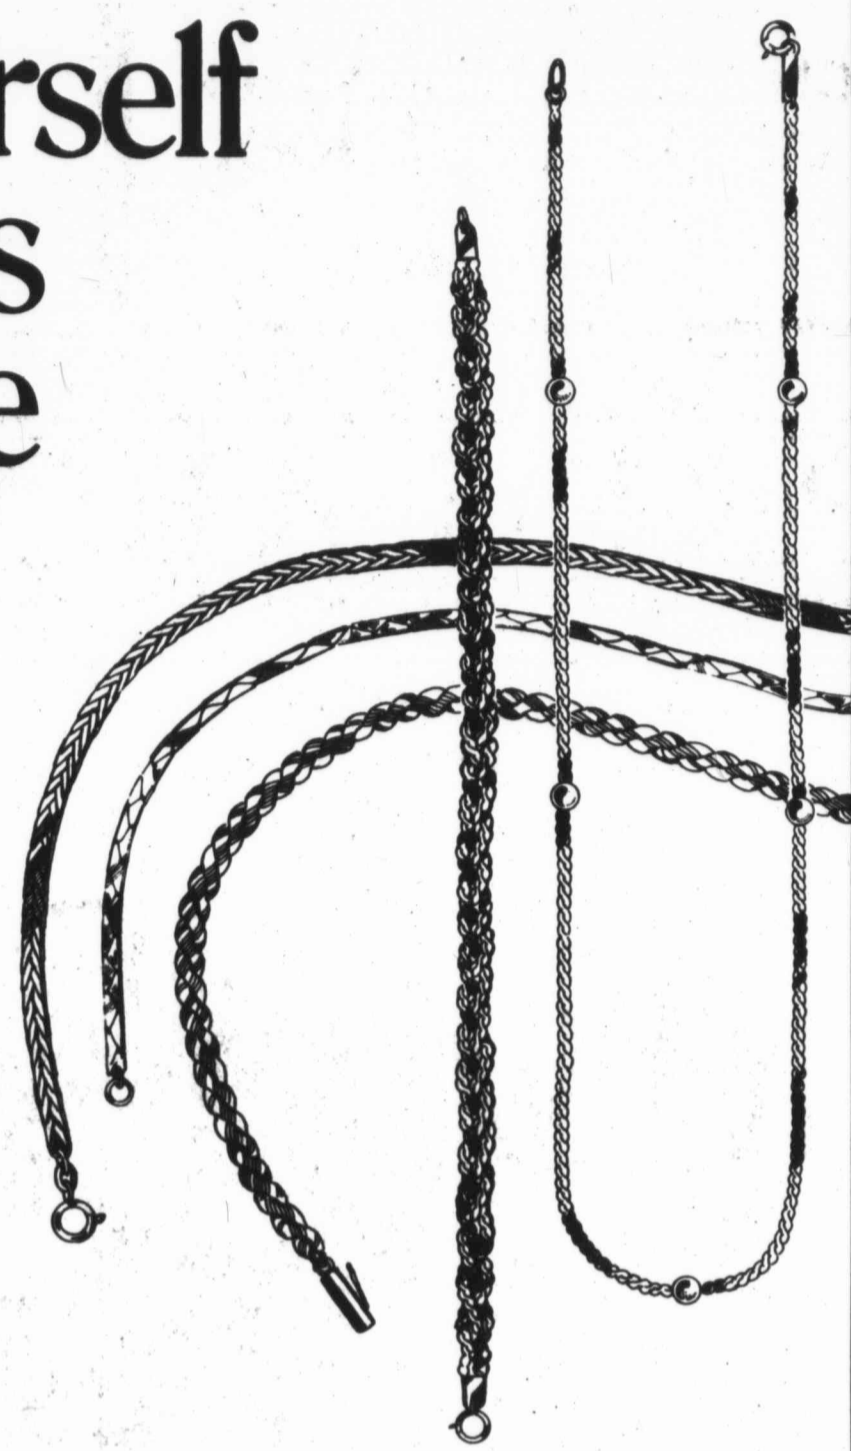

"After the local newspaper article appeared, the whole thing just suddenly took off," said Sutton. "I wasn't prepared to handle all the clothes that arrived.

With the Labor day weekend approaching, many fishermen are gearing up for a three day fishing vacation. The holiday comes on the heels of a heat wave that kept many fishermen at home.

Most of the catches during the past week at Lake Thomas were channel cat, and at Lake Spence black bass vied with striped bass in number. At Thomas, all kinds of bait were used successfully, and at Lake Spence black bass were hitting plastic worms.

At Paint Creek Marina, John Gibbs of Big Spring landed a 4-lb., 5-oz. black bass.

Now with more fishing news: The Brownwood Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the Lite Beer from Miller Open Bass Tournament Oct. 6-7 at Lake Brownwood.

There is a $40 entry fee with $9,000 in cash prizes being awarded, including $1,500 for first place. The top 50 finishers will receive some sort of cash award. A hamburger feed will be held Saturday following the competition. For additional information contact The Brownwood Chamber of Commerce at 915-646-9535.

In other fishing news: The Colorado City Bass Club is having an Open Bass Tournament on Sunday, Sept. 9 at Lake Colorado City and Lake Champion.

Entry fee is $35 with an optional $2 calculutta - a trophy for the largest bass of the tournament. First place will receive a trophy and $1,000 while second and third places will receive trophies and $500 and $300 respectively. Cash prizes will be awarded to the top 20 finishers.

To enter or for further information call the office at Lake Colorado City at 915-728-3931.

With dove season fast approaching, prospects for the Sept. 1-2 and 8-9 white-winged dove hunting season are still fairly good despite dry weather and reduced nesting success due to winter citrus freeze.

A statewide mourning dove survey conducted by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department personnel at 225 roadside routes during the second week of this month indicated mourning doves are most numerous this year within 100 miles either side of a line from Wichita Falls to McAllen.

Now switching from wildlife and fishing to a sport a little more physical - football. Nine area players were selected to preseason All-Star teams by the Top-O-Texas football publication.

Colorado City's Doug Chitsey heads the list being selected to the Class 3A team and the All-Super team which covers all schools, 1A to 5A. C-City tight end Don Randle was named to the 3A team while Coahoma placed three players on the squad.

On offense tackle Shawn Justiss was named to the squad while end Martin Benjarano and quarterback John Swinney were named to the defensive squad.

The Steers placed three players on the 5A squad. They are punter Jay Pirkle, defensive end Derek Logback and offensive tackle Doug Walker.

Area teams getting in final tuneups

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

Howard County area teams will get their second taste of scrimmage action today and Friday as coaches get a chance to look at their troops one last time before the regular season starts Sept. 7.

BORDEN COUNTY is at LOOP in a Thursday contest where Coach Duke Frisbee's Coyotes will get starters Matthew Massingill and Dennis Buchanan back after both missed last week's tie versus Whitharral.

Massingill plays center, linebacker and fullback for the six-man squad while Buchanan plays defensive end.

Frisbee says this contest will test his secondary, led by safety Chris Cooley, who had two interceptions last week. "Loop is a passing team that uses the unbalanced line. We have been working our with our secondary this week. We must learn to read pass quicker," stated Frisbee.

The other thing that Frisbee wants his troops to work on is their ability to score when they have the ball inside the opponent's 20. "We got inside their 20 five times last week, but only scored twice. We must get tough and push it on in."

SANDS vs. BUENA VISTA at Stanton is the other scrimmage set today. The contest was originally scheduled for Saturday at the Midland Lee practice field. Coach Jim White's Mustangs are coming off a 3-1 loss to Robert Lee. Game time is 6:15 p.m.

In Friday scrimmages: WHITEFACE is at KLONDIKE where coach Jimmy Thomas' Cougars will be short-handed without fullback Robert Gura and tight end Leo Amador who will miss the contest due to a wedding.

Thomas will move Cisco Arendonado from guard to fullback while John Cave moves into Arendonado's guard spot. Rudy Landon will fill in for Amador at tight end.

The Klondike mentor is looking for good offensive production like last week versus Smyer when the Cougars rushed for over 300 yards and quarterback Scott Runge completed seven of nine passes for 93 yards.

"Last week we moved the ball real well and played good defense," said Thomas. "The line did a good job of blocking. Whiteface is a big, strong team. They will be a lot sterner test than Smyer."

Game time is set for 6 p.m. GARDEN CITY is at STERLING CITY and Bearkat coach Tony Stricklin will get a chance to look at his revamped offensive line which includes four new faces.

"I wasn't pleased with our offensive line last week," (versus Rankin) said Stricklin. "We didn't fire off the ball and didn't pick up stunts." To cope with this problem Stricklin has inserted new starters Jesse Aragon and Sergio Rosas at tackles and Larry Lopez and J.J. Caswell at guards.

"I was pleased with our hitting on defense last week, but we had a few letdowns. Our backfield executed well. Sterling City is a good team, they run a multiple-I on offense and split-four on defense. They come right at you."

Due to injuries the Bearkats will be without the services of wide receiver Doug Jost and wing back Junior Navarro.

Both school's junior varsities scrimmage at 6 p.m. with varsity action following.

LAMESA is at COAHOMA where Coahoma coach Bruce Mitchell's Bulldogs will try to get their passing attack untracked after a slow start in a 3-2 win over McCamey last week.

"To have a consistent offense we need to throw the ball well this week," said Mitchell. "Last week we were too tight and we just didn't execute. After looking at the film I was pleased with the defense. We saw some kids doing things we have been teaching for two years. Now they are coming of age. The young players performed well. The offense is just a slower process than defense."

Mitchell says he expects Lamesa to throw the ball a lot and has been working his secondary in preparation for the tilt.

Junior varsity action starts at 6 p.m. with varsity play following.

COLORADO CITY is at SNYDER and Wolves coach Tom Ramsey says his squad is excited about taking on their one-time rivals of the 60's and 70's.

DENNIS BUCHANAN

DOUG JOST

Steers vs. Sweetwater, 7 p.m. at Memorial Stadium

"We have been trying to keep a lid on this," said Ramsey concerning the scrimmage. "We have to guard against getting too high for this scrimmage and be flat against Slaton in the opening game."

Ramsey says he was very pleased with his team's 4-1 win over Stanton last week where the Wolves put on a passing display. "I was pleased with the defense the most, especially the secondary (four interceptions). Our offensive running and passing game also went well."

Freshmen kick off action at 5 p.m. while the junior varsities mix it up at 6 p.m. and the varsity clash following.

MIDLAND CHRISTIAN is at GRADY and Grady coach Currie McWilliams is breathing easier because the players are adjusting to his new system.

"The kids are picking up the system both offensively and defensively," said McWilliams. "They did well last week. We were very aggressive. We made some physical mistakes but the effort was always there."

Missing Friday's action will be fullback Fred Garza with a jammed finger and tailback Dennis Sawyer with a bruised foot. "These injuries are not that serious, but I don't want to take a chance of them not being ready for the season opener," explained McWilliams.

Luis Gonzales will start for Sawyer while Tommy Parraz will sub for Garza.

Game time is set for 6 p.m.

WINK is at STANTON where coach Dale Ruth's Buffaloes will be trying to generate more offense than they did in last week's 4-1 loss to powerful Colorado City.

Things will be just as tough this week with Wink, a Class A semifinalist last season. The Wildcats, from District 6-A, finished the season with a 13-1 record, losing to eventual state champion Knox City. So successful is the Wink football program, the Wildcats have compiled a 44-7 record over the last four seasons - best in Class 1A.

Wink will be led by Blue Chip quarterback Travis Price who is both a running or passing threat. The Stanton offense will try to produce some points. Last week they didn't score, registered only four first downs and completed one pass.

Game time is 6:30 p.m. starting with JV action followed by the varsity clash.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, AUG. 31, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening which are good for considering all aspects of what you would like to do and then to delve into the actual requirements of such a course of action.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Forget frivolity and concentrate on whatever course can bring you a far greater abundance in the days ahead.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't back partners so easily until you are sure of what they will do for you. Study any contracts most carefully before you sign.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have much to do connected with some big project, so get at it seriously and make real progress.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Plan entertainments that bring you the greatest pleasure. You may have to talk to friends to find out what they desire.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get into fundamental affairs at home, such as making sure your foundation is solid, and plumbing is right. Feel safer.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Good day to study your new paper and other brochures so that you gain the added knowledge you seek.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study your property and make it just as you want it to be and feel more comfortable in it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You love to investigate and can come up with right answers, and you have just such an opportunity today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't confide that new plan you have for advancement to others today or it could be stolen from you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You cannot gain that important wish until you are cognizant of the obstacles in the path of your progress.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Important that you are exact in your work today since bigwigs have their eye on you. Not a good day for any civic work.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Look into new interests and make sure you understand every phase of them before you invest in anything.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be full of magnetism and charm and others will come to him or her for aid and comfort and your progeny will gladly help them to solve their problems, so slant the education along lines of trouble-shooting for best success in life.

Drug traffic jams up Texas

WINNIE (AP) — Legal heat in Florida is making the Texas coast increasingly popular for drug smugglers, officials of the Drug Enforcement Administration said. The confiscation of 156 pounds of cocaine on Interstate 10 east of Houston Sunday is the latest in a series of such seizures along the Texas coast this year. Special Agent Don Perry of the Drug Enforcement Administration said law enforcement agencies seized less than 50 pounds of cocaine in Texas in 1982.

Discovery shuttles off into space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space shuttle Discovery finally soared into orbit today on its thrice-delayed maiden flight, carrying three communications satellites and a crew that includes NASA's second woman astronaut and its first paying passenger. After a last-minute wait to get a pair of small airplanes out of the way, Discovery lifted off into blue, cloudless skies on a mission critical to rebuilding confidence in the shuttle's commercial reliability that has been shaken by the series of postponements. Nine minutes after the fiery departure at 8:42 a.m., Mission Control in Houston reported the launch was perfect and the new ship and its six astronauts were in orbit 184 miles high and streaking around the globe at 17,400 mph. "We are happy the orbiter and its crew finally left town," said launch director Bob Sieck.

FOURTH TIME IS A CHARM — The space shuttle Discovery lifts off from Kennedy Center Thursday morning as the time clock at the press site is on 4 seconds into flight. The attempt was the fourth for the shuttle.

The device was removed by the bomb squad of the Harris County sheriff's office, said Bleu Beathard, an Exxon spokesman. He said it was being disarmed about 8:30 a.m.
