How's that?
Electric

Q. When was the first electric power plant built in Howard County?

A. Sometime in 1900 part of the Big Springs Gin was converted to a power plant, according to Joe Pickle's book, "Gettin' Started." On Oct. 1, 1901, electric lights were placed in the county offices of the sheriff, the treasurer, the county judge and the county attorney, at a rate "not to exceed 25 cents per light per month," according to Pickle.

Calendar: Soccer

TUESDAY

• VFW Post 2013 and its auxiliary will meet at 7:30 at the post home on Driver Road.

• Soccer registration forms are due at the YMCA before 5 p.m. Coaches will meet at 7:15 p.m. at the YMCA.

Tops on TV: Burnout

Mary Beth succumbs to the intense pressures of her job on "Cagney and Lacey" at 9 p.m. on Channel 7. Gene Wilder and Carol Kane star in "The World's Greatest Lover" at 11 p.m. on Channel 7. An ambitious but neurotic baker decides in 1926 to become a Hollywood studio's rival to Rudolf Valentino.

Outside: Cool

Twenty percent chance of rain is predicted today with highs in the low 80s. Winds will be northeasterly at five to 15 miles an hour. Lows tonight will be in the lower 60s.

Off the wall: High interest

DETROIT (AP) — State Treasury Department officials "didn't know whether to laugh or cry" when they learned a family was trying to cash in a 145-year-old state certificate now valued at more than $21 million.

The certificate had only a $1,000 face value when it was bought in 1839. But the 7 percent biannual interest it promised has raised its value to eight digits, said John Bissell, a lawyer representing the Jack Smith family of Mason, Mich.

Smith and four members of his family claim the certificate, which matured in July 1842, remains valid because it never was redeemed and carried no expiration date, Bissell said Saturday during a telephone interview from his East Lansing home.

Bissell said treasury officials, whom he did not identify, told him the certificate still is on state books. But the attorney said his inquiries with the state yielded no response, so he sued for the money Aug. 18 in the Michigan Court of Claims.

Shelton Bristol, special assistant to state Treasurer Robert A. Bowman, said Bissell's original letter was forwarded to her by Bowman's secretaries.

The Smith family has possessed the certificate about 30 years, but they did not know who originally bought the document, Bissell said.

"I immediately discussed it with the state treasurer," Ms. Bristol said. "We didn't know whether to laugh or cry."

Officials are still exploring whether the claim is valid.

Kickoff to fall

LAST RUN AT SUMMER — Heather Shockley, 9, holds on tight as brother Michael Lyons, 4, and cousin David Shockley, 4, give it their all to test out her roller skates recently in Middletown, Ohio. Children across the nation are enjoying their last fling of summer before returning to school.

Good-bye summer

Nation enjoying one last fling

By the Associated Press

Thirty women built a house at a New York street fair, 1,000 striking copper workers rallied in Arizona and more than a million people flocked to California beaches for summer's last fling as Americans mixed the frivolous and the serious on the Labor Day holiday.

The three-day weekend, the traditional kickoff to the fall campaign season, found politicians pressing the flesh in search of votes.

President Reagan was to appear today at a public rally in Orange County, Calif., a bedrock conservative area, while his opponent, Walter Mondale, was starting a cross-country jaunt in New York City.

Labor groups planned parades in many major cities, while fireworks and picnics were the order of the day elsewhere.

With millions of Americans visiting relatives or recreation spots, weekend highway fatalities mounted. By 5 a.m. today, 276 people had been killed on the nation's roads.

Fun-seekers mixed spaghetti and the symphony in Nashville, where the Symphony Guild's 30th annual Italian Street Fair attracted thousands to taste pasta and sausage and hear music. In Seattle, more than 100,000 people listened to jazz, rock, country and folk music at the annual Bumbershoot — British for umbrella — Festival.

Fireworks drew thousands to Boston's waterfront, and picnickers feasted Sunday on the Common to mark the park's 350th anniversary.

In his Labor Day message, Reagan said that more Americans are working than ever before, but too many are "out of work or down on their luck. We must not and will not rest until everyone who wants a job has found one."

Mondale and Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro meanwhile led an estimated 250,000 working people and their families up Fifth Avenue in New York City's annual Labor Day parade.

"We're marching to protect our future and defend our past," said Harry Avrutin, secretary of the AFL-CIO Central Labor Council, which sponsored the parade, with the theme "Justice and Jobs."

Along with ethnic bands and 150 floats, marchers carried signs calling for the curtailment of imports to save jobs at home. Marchers far outnumbered spectators along the sunny parade route.

On Sunday, thousands of New Yorkers strolled through a street fair sponsored by a hospital workers union which last week ended a 46-day strike. The fair offered exhibits on health, puppet shows and documentary films on labor, including "The Life and Times of Rosie the Riveter," about American women workers during World War II.

Thirty women studying carpentry, plumbing and electrical wiring showed off their skills by building a wood frame house.

Mondale's wife, Joan, was to represent the Democrats at Detroit's Labor Day parade and rally and at the annual Hamtramck Polish Day Festival.

Hundreds die in wake of typhoon

DESTROYED — A child stands today at what is left of his house in Surigao City, about 450 miles south of Manila, after typhoon Ike battered the city Sunday. Hundreds died and were left homeless.

SURIGAO CITY, Philippines (AP) — Typhoon Ike battered the southern Philippines today and officials said the death toll stood at more than 300 and might reach 1,000.

Military and civilian authorities said the storm flattened houses, sank a dozen boats and left 100,000 people homeless.

At least 340 people were injured in the affected provinces.

In Seoul, South Korea, meanwhile, the South Korean Home Ministry reported today that flooding fed by three days of heavy rains caused 90 deaths and forced almost 200,000 South Koreans from their homes. The ministry said 45 people were missing and 106 were injured.

Vice Gov. Salvador Spring of the southern Surigao del Norte, one of the hardest hit provinces in the Philippines, told Air Force officers and reporters who toured this typhoon-ravaged city he feared as many as 1,000 people in the entire province may have died in the storm. Surigao del Norte is at the northern tip of Mindanao Island.

"This looks like this has been hit by a bomb," Air Force spokesman Col. Pablo Gonzales said after See Typhoon page 2-A

2 die in local district

From staff and wire reports
Two persons were killed this weekend as the result of motor vehicle accidents in the West Texas district that includes Howard County, according to a Department of Public Safety spokesman in Midland.

However, no one from Big Spring or neighboring counties was killed or injured on Texas highways, according to DPS reports Monday.

Mary Rodriguez, 28, of Odessa died in a one-vehicle accident at 12:35 a.m. Saturday when the 1968 International truck-tractor in which she was riding struck a deer and rolled over about 14 miles northwest of Ozona on state Highway 137 in Crockett County.

According to DPS reports, Ms. Rodriguez was thrown from the vehicle, which then rolled over her body before coming to rest in a bar ditch. She was pronounced dead at 1:15 a.m. at the scene of the accident by Crockett County Justice of the Peace Raymond Davee.

Also injured in the same accident were the driver, Robert Lee Corbett, 35, of Odessa and two passengers, 10-month-old Jeremy Rodriguez and Sandra Rodriguez, 13, both of Odessa. All three are in good condition at Crockett County Hospital, according to a DPS spokesman.

In the other accident within the DPS region, a 35-year-old Fort Hancock man died Sunday morning when his car collided with another motor vehicle about one mile east of Fort Hancock in Hudspeth County, according to See Deaths page 2-A

Rain, clouds forecast

From staff and wire reports
Big Springers hoping to put the last touches on a summer tan were disappointed today but others weary of a hot, dry summer were greeted with cooler temperatures, cloudy skies and patches of rain in the Big Spring area.

Residents on the city's southwest side received a shower Sunday afternoon which lasted for more than an hour. Early this morning, thunder gave way to another rain shower on the southwest sections of the city.

Nearer downtown and on the city's eastside, however, residents were reporting no rain Sunday or today.

The wet weather did cool off temperatures which last week had reached the century mark. Today, forecasters are predicting highs only in the lower 80s with northeasterly winds, 5 to 15 miles per hour. Look for a 20 percent chance of continued rain in the area.

Lows tonight are forecast to fall into the lower 60s with light and variable winds and a chance of isolated thunderstorms.

It is expected to be a wet Labor Day over much of the southern half of Texas today. And scattered showers and thunderstorms were expected over many portions of the state at times today.

Scattered showers and thunderstorm, some reaching heavy levels, were reported early today along a slow moving cold front located across central and western portions of the state.

Showers and thundershowers were reported across portions of the Edwards Plateau and in the mountains of the Trans Pecos region.

Weather

Thunderstorms erupt

By the Associated Press

Thunderstorms rumbled over Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania today and marched into New York state, as another series of rainshowers stretched from southwest Texas to southern Illinois and cloudy skies covered much of the rest of the nation.

Hail the size of golf balls and high winds accompanied storms that spawned three funnel clouds across Michigan's Lower Peninsula on Sunday, knocking out electrical service to about 7,000 people but causing no injuries, officials said.

Three major fires continued to smolder in the woods of western Montana, keeping crews busy along the fire lines. More than a dozen major fires and several smaller ones ripped through timber and rangelands in Montana last week, destroying more than 250,000 acres, killing one firefighter, destroying nearly 40 homes and forcing hundreds of people to evacuate.

Today's forecast called for thunderstorms over the lower Mississippi Valley and the Gulf Coast. Scattered showers and thunderstorms were expected over New England, the Appalachians, the upper Ohio Valley, the Tennessee Valley, the upper Great Lakes and southern Florida.

High temperatures were forecast in the 50s and 60s across the upper Great Lakes and northern New England; 70s from southern New England across the Ohio Valley, the lower Great Lakes, the upper Mississippi Valley, the northern Plains and along the Pacific Coast; 90s over the mid- and southern Atlantic Coast states and the southern intermountain region; 100 and higher over portions of the desert Southwest; and 80s elsewhere.

Temperatures at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 36 degrees at Yellowstone Park, Wyo., to 88 at Yuma, Ariz.

Police investigate shooting

Police today are investigating a Sunday afternoon shooting in the 1200 block of Mobile near Airport street.

According to police reports, Betty Gamboa of 1207 Mobile reported at 2 p.m. Sunday that a white male fired two shots from a rifle into the air at her and the other occupants of her house.

Police also are investigating a Sunday evening burglary at the Wesley United Methodist Church at 1206 Owens in which more than $1,800 of stereo equipment was stolen. According to a police report, Johnny Robertson told officers someone took two 100-watt speakers, valued at $600; a cassette deck, valued at $250; a 60-watt amplifier, valued at $400; two microphones, one valued at $350 and one at $40; and microphone cords, valued at $20.

Jose Anguiano of 1308 Wright told police at about 5 p.m. Sunday that someone took an unknown amount of medicine and cash from his house between 3:15 p.m. and 4 p.m. Sunday.

Martha Caffey of 701 E. 13th told police at about 5:20 p.m. Sunday that someone, between 8 p.m. Saturday and 5:20 p.m., took a nickel-plated, .32-caliber automatic pistol with a 2 1/2-inch barrel, valued at $150, and a pinkie ring valued at $200 from her house.

Thomas Evans told police that someone, between 11:30 p.m. Saturday and 9:30 a.m. Sunday, smashed the plate-glass window at Kelly's at 2401 Gregg. The window was valued at $250, according to reports.

Police arrested Armando Salinas Hinojosa, 27, of Garden City at 2:44 a.m. Sunday in the 2300 block of Wason on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, no driver's license and failure to maintain financial responsibility as the result of a one-car accident.

Both Hinojosa and a passenger, Gilbert Salinas, 29, of Garden City were treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital after the accident. Hinojosa was transferred to the sheriff's office where he was released on bond.

According to a police accident report, Hinojosa was driving a 1973 yellow Chevrolet westbound on Wason approaching the intersection of the 2300 block of Wason with Wason Road extension. Instead of turning, Hinojosa continued driving straight and collided with a dirt embankment, according to the report.

Two other persons were arrested early Monday morning in separate incidents on suspicion of DWI. Police arrested Raymundo Galvan, 28, of 2911 W. Highway 80 in the 100 block of W. Third. Department of Public Safety troopers arrested Martin Diaz, 30, of 711 N.W. Eighth on Highway 350 one mile north of Big Spring.

Police Sunday night arrested two minors in the 200 block of Scurry on suspicion of possessing alcoholic beverages. Arrested were Stanley Phillips, 17, of 1509 Kentucky Way and Robert Mendoza, 17, of 1903 S. Monticello.

Texas Alcohol Beverage Commission agents Saturday night arrested two men on suspicion of alcohol-related crimes in the 100 block of E. 17th. Arrested were Christopher Erik Curtis, 21, of Gail Route on suspicion of making alcoholic beverages available to a minor, and Wayne Allen Holland, 18, of 1000 E. 21st on suspicion of being a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages.

2 women die in high-speed chase

MAGNOLIA (AP) — A woman who was fleeing a Montgomery County deputy constable at high speeds collided head-on with another car, killing the drivers of both cars, authorities say.

Cecilia Guajardo was traveling more than 85 mph when she struck a car driven by Nancy Whitty on a rural road late Saturday, said

Department of Public Safety Trooper Charles Haight. Haight estimated the combined speed of both vehicles on impact at 120 mph.

Precinct 5 Deputy Constable Bob Elkins pursued Ms. Guajardo, 50, of Magnolia, for almost two miles after she ran a stop sign and forced another motorist off the road.

viewing hundreds of wooden houses blown down by Ike's 115 mph center winds in this city of 80,000 people, 450 miles southeast of Manila.

Roofs were ripped off stone houses and buildings which weathered the typhoon. Fallen trees, toppled electric posts and debris littered the streets.

"This is the worst typhoon to hit Surigao in 20 years," said Mayor Constantino Navarro Jr. He said the typhoon raged over his city for about 45 minutes beginning at midnight Sunday before moving on, leaving 82 people dead in Surigao.

In nearby Mainit town, Mainit Lake overflowed and 200 people drowned in lakeshore towns, Surigao-based army battalion commander Col. Eduardo Picar told reporters. The Social Welfare Ministry in Manila also reported 200 deaths in Mainit.

In Manila, reports from the Office of Civil Defense, the Philippine News Agency and provincial offices contacted by The Associated Press showed 12 dead on Negros island and 11 on Cebu island, in the central Philippines; 23 killed on Nonoc and Capaya islands off Surigao, and six dead in Misamis Oriental, also in the south.

The Office of Civil Defense had a lower death toll of 24 for Surigao city and had not received casualty reports from other Surigao areas. Provincial reports normally arrive slowly because of distance and erratic communications.

Navarro said Surigao residents were "caught by surprise" by the typhoon's force. He said they knew a typhoon was on the way as early as Saturday, but "typhoons are not taken seriously here because we are used to them."

An undetermined number of people, mostly children, were missing after a temporary bridge collapsed and spilled them into a raging river on Negros island, the Philippines News Agency said.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos, who last week proclaimed a state of calamity in 19 provinces hit by a tropical storm in June, widened the declaration today to include Surigao, Iloilo province and Palawan island.

In Seoul, the Central Meteorological Service said North Korea also suffered in the rains that battered the central Korean peninsula starting Friday. The storms were reported moving south today.

There are no direct contacts between the Communist-ruled North and the pro-Western South, but meteorological officials in the North broadcast reports that 28 inches of rain fell in a 36-hour period in Jangjung in the southeastern part of North Korea.

A total of 25.7 inches was reported in the south during the same period.

Deaths

DPS reports.

Anselmo Ceballos Blanco was pronounced dead at 11:25 a.m. CDT by a doctor at the Vista Hills Hospital in Hudspeeth County, almost an hour after the two-vehicle collision at the intersection of F.M. 1088 and Interstate Highway 20.

Blanco was driving a 1958 Chevrolet Impala northbound on F.M. 1088, and was turning left onto I-20 when his car was struck by a 1981 coach driven by Elmer Ramsey of El Paso, according to the DPS.

Ramsey was not injured, according to the DPS report.

Single-vehicle accidents claimed 13 of the 24 lives lost in Labor Day weekend traffic accidents in Texas, the Texas Department of Public Safety says.

The death toll was 24 by late Sunday with two nights and a full day today remaining in the holiday period.

The DPS has predicted 54 deaths by the end of the holiday period tonight. The DPS count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight tonight.

Ronald Lee McAfee, 20, of Gainesville, and a passenger in his car, Carol Thomison, 20, of Gainesville were killed about 3:15 p.m. Sunday in a head-on collision. Authorities said the accident occurred on FM 372 in Cook County as the car went off the highway, went out of control before striking another vehicle.

Stephanie Juarez, 21 months, died at 3:58 p.m. Sunday at a Temple hospital following an accident earlier in the day in a residential driveway.

John Bryan Cook, 18, of Hico died after his car ran off U.S. Highway 281 five miles south of Stephenville and rolled over. Cook, who was not wearing a seat belt, died at 9:31 a.m. Sunday in Fort Worth's Harris Hospital.

Wade Raymond Read, 38, of Marquez was killed after he was thrown from his vehicle at 7:20 a.m. Sunday on F.M. 1469 west of Jewett in Leon County. His car had crossed the center stripe, sideswiped a second vehicle and rolled over.

Cecilia Guajardo, 50, of Magnolia died after she swerved into an oncoming car's path on F.M. 1774 in Magnolia. Troopers say she was traveling at a high rate of speed before the 11:30 p.m. Saturday collision.

The other car's driver, 38-year-old Nancy W. Whitty of Magnolia, also died in that accident, police say.

Amos Crooks Jr., 29, of Garland was killed at 12:10 a.m. Saturday while working on a disabled vehicle on Interstate 35 near Temple. Another vehicle struck his car in rear, pushing his car into him, police said.

Couple accused of assault

HOUSTON (AP) — A suburban couple was jailed today on charges of sexually assaulting four neighborhood girls, ranging in age from 8 to 16, authorities said.

Richard Dean Shore, 43, of Channelview, was charged Sunday with three counts of aggravated sexual assault and one count of sexual assault, the Harris County district attorney's office said. Bond was set at $35,000.

His wife, Marinelle, 21, was charged with one count of aggravated sexual assault and held on $10,000, authorities said.

Investigators also found nude photographs of the children in the couple's home, said sheriff's detective Marcel Dionne.

Over the past three years, the Shores gained the trust of the girls, ages 8, 9, 12 and 16, frequently including them to dinner, giving them snacks and drinks and taking them to movies, Dionne said.

The parents of the victims also trusted the Shores, giving them money when they were having financial difficulty and helping them find jobs, Dionne said.

"The assaults didn't occur daily but whenever it was available, when they felt they could get away with it," the detective said.

Mrs. Shore "coerced" the 12-year-old into sexual activities with her husband by holding the girl's hand, Dionne said.

Authorities learned of the assaults after one of the girls fled the Shores home late Friday after advances were made. The girl's mother called investigators the next day.

Infant's death investigated

GRAPEVINE (AP) — Officials at Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport say they will file charges later this week against a 21-year-old woman suspected of delivering a baby in an airport restroom, then strangling it and dumping the body in a trash can.

Airport Police Chief Tom Shehan — who said the woman was out on a writ of habeas corpus — said the baby boy's body was discovered Friday night by a janitor who was emptying a trash can.

The woman, believed to be the mother, was detained Saturday after she returned to the airport and was preparing to board an airplane.

R.O. Medford, a medical investigator at the Tarrant County

Medical Examiner's office, said the boy died by "asphyxiation due to manual strangulation." He ruled the death a homicide.

Shehan said investigators learned the woman's name from airport personnel who said they had assisted a woman found hemorrhaging at the airport Friday night.

The woman told the airport workers she did not need medical assistance and left after giving her name, Shehan said.

Shehan said police began checking flight rosters and found that the woman was scheduled to leave on a Saturday afternoon flight to an unnamed city in Louisiana.

"We waited for her to come for her plane and then we arrested her," he said.

Officers claim discrimination

FORT WORTH (AP) — Hispanic police officers say they have been denied transfers, discriminated against and laughed at by their supervisors, but the Fort Worth chief of police says the officers are being oversensitive.

But some of the Hispanic officers don't agree.

"It's the old school that's been here for 30 years, and they are insensitive," Cpl. Ed Mendoza told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "How can they be sensitive to the public when they (police administrators) are insensitive to their officers?"

Six Hispanic officers recently discussed the situation with the newspaper, claiming among other things that the term "wetback" is used when Anglo supervisors speak with Anglo and Hispanic officers.

They said the discrimination applies to most minority groups, including women officers who are subjected to certain forms of sexual harassment.

They cited one case in which they said a Hispanic officer, who ranked third in a field of five, tested for a transfer to prestigious tactical division but failed to win assignment to the division.

The officers told the newspaper that David D. Cortez, 26, became an officer in 1982. About two years later, they said, the officer applied for a highly coveted position in the department tactical division.

They said Cortez, a U.S. Marine Corps veteran, had one written reprimand, one oral reprimand, a day off without pay and four minor traffic accidents. But they said that according to departmental documents, all the offenses were behind him.

After being tested, Cortez finished third on the list for one open position. The top officer was given the post, but the list was to remain good for 90 days should another opening occur.

Knott man arrested

Howard County sheriff's deputies Sunday arrested a 27-year-old Knott man on a Martin County warrant for aggravated assault.

Arrested was Eloy Garcia. He was released on $10,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Hefflin.

The Department of Public Safety Sunday transferred Michael Fred Lee, 26, of Abilene to the sheriff's office on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

Johnny Olivas Valencia, 24, of 505 N. Goliad was transferred Sunday to the sheriff's office from the police department on suspicion of criminal mischief and evading arrest. He was released on $5,000 bond for the mischief charge and $1,000 bond for the evading charge.

Armando Salinas Hinojosa, 26, of Garden City was transferred Sunday to the sheriff's office from the police department on suspicion of DWI stemming from a one-car accident Friday night. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Daratt.

Toilet blocked

SPACE CENTER — The space shuttle's million-dollar potty was working fine, for a change, on Discovery, but the astronauts were ordered not to use it because of an unrelated plumbing problem.

Engineers simplified the frequently troublesome space toilet after it quit working on 10 of the previous 11 missions. The new design of the indoor facility seemed to work without problems during the first half of Discovery's maiden voyage.

But a build-up of ice on a vent where the waste is dumped into space forced Mission Control on Sunday night to order the crew to start collecting their waste in plastic bags.

Acid tank emptied

OMAHA — Chemists and firefighters today emptied a leaking acid tank at a computer factory that sent a cloud of eye-and-skin-irritating gas over southwestern Omaha, forcing hundreds of people out of their homes for several hours.

There were no reports of injuries.

People were allowed to return to their homes near the Control Data Corp. plant at 1:09 a.m. after the nitric acid remaining in the 4,000-gallon tank had been transferred to a tanker truck, according to police Capt. John Maley.

When the slow leak began Sunday night, police asked people to evacuate 10 square miles near the plant. Residents in another 2 1/2-square-mile area to the east were advised to stay inside, close their windows and shut off their air conditioners lest the gas enter their homes.

Fires smolder

HELENA — Three major fires smoldered in the woods of western Montana today, keeping crews busy along the fire lines, but many of the more than 5,000 firefighters hurried home to their families for what was left of the Labor Day weekend.

More than a dozen major fires and several smaller ones ripped through timber and rangelands in Montana last week, destroying more than 250,000 acres, killing one firefighter, destroying nearly 40 homes and forcing hundreds of people to evacuate.

State and federal officials plan to meet Thursday to discuss ways to help victims of the fires.

The only major efforts today were against the 12,000-acre Houghton Creek fire 20 miles south of Libby and the 3,400-acre Napi Peak fire on the Blackfoot Indian Reservation adjacent to the eastern border of Glacier National Park.

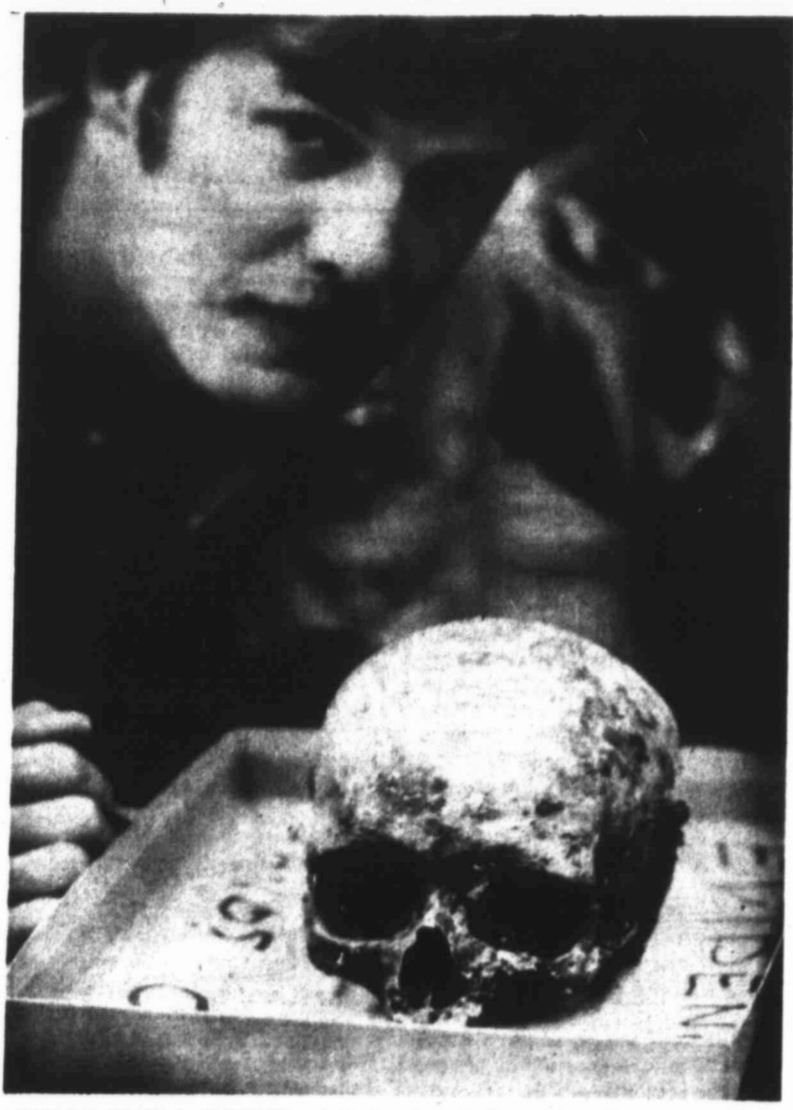

Working vacation

NEW YORK — Former President Jimmy Carter, wearing a yellow hard hat and white carpenter's apron, today joined 50 other volunteers on Manhattan's Lower East Side to renovate a tenement into new homes for 19 families.

To the sound of hammering, Carter told interviewers that he and his wife, Rosalynn, had decided to take a vacation by working to house the poor "instead of going to the beach or the Virgin Islands."

Four years ago, Carter was mounting his unsuccessful bid for re-election, but today he said that "from down here on East Sixth Street, the campaign seems quite remote."

"I hope that no matter who the next president is, they'll be concerned about human rights and about people who want to help themselves and live a better life, and that we can share what we have in this enormously blessed country with those who are in need," Carter said.

HUMAN SKULL FOUND — Galveston Police I.D. officer Sgt. Rick Boyle looks over a small skull found wrapped in a muddy bath towel in Galveston Sunday. A Galveston man, Stanley Levy, made the startling discovery while walking his dog in the 5500 block of Swan Street. Boyle said the skull will be kept as evidence until it can be turned over to the county medical examiner Tuesday. Boyle said that officers would check cemeteries in the area for evidence of vandalism.

Jerry Lewis hoping to raise $30 million

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The annual entertainment blitz of the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon got under way Sunday with President Reagan and Walter Mondale in full agreement — both praising comedian Jerry Lewis and supporting his campaign against the crippling disease.

The telethon is airing locally on channel 2. Phones lines in Big Spring are opened and local groups were out yesterday and today raising money for the event.

Lewis hopes to top the $30.6 million he raised last year during the 21 1/2 hours of a "holiday tradition where Americans get a chance to show their love and concern for some very special people," Lewis said.

Among the dozens of celebrities scheduled to join Lewis were Sammy Davis Jr., George Burns, Liberace, Lola Falana, Dom DeLuise, Bill Cosby, Don Rickles, Andy Williams, Freddie Fender, Ann-Margret, Jack Klugman, Wayne Newton, Ben Vereen and Mr. T.

In a call during the show's first hour Sunday, Reagan noted the Muscular Dystrophy Association had grown from a few concerned parents two decades ago to some 2 million volunteers.

"We have to thank you for bringing this so forcibly to the American people," Reagan said. "This is a wonderful thing you do, and God bless you for it."

Twenty minutes later, Mondale, Reagan's Democratic presidential opponent, called and said he had tried to get through earlier, but "someone was plugging up the line."

"Whatever divides us, we're all together where our kids are concerned," Mondale said.

The former vice president reminded Lewis he had given him the Jefferson Award in 1978 for service to America in a White House ceremony and said he would like to give Lewis another medal "in the same place."

The telethon, carried by 194 stations in the United States and cable television in Canada, was scheduled to run until 3:30 p.m. today.

Lewis and telethon officials hope to raise "$1 more" than the $30,691,627 raised last Labor Day. The 1983 figure was the third highest since Lewis first became telethon host in 1956. He has been involved with the MDA since its founding in 1950.

Soviet talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration says Soviet leader Konstantin Chernenko's statement that his country is seeking a dialogue with the United States breaks no new ground and is based on a false assessment of U.S. policy.

State Department spokeswoman Sondra McCarty said Sunday the administration welcomed the Soviet leader's "statement that he is ready for dialogue," but added that it is the Soviet Union which has been balking at resuming stalled talks.

"We will, of course, study Mr. Chernenko's statement carefully, but at first reading, he doesn't appear to go beyond previous Soviet policy statements," Ms. McCarty said, reading an official response. "His assessment of U.S. policy is, unfortunately, both wholly familiar and wholly false," she added.

Israel adrift

TEL AVIV — Six weeks after national elections failed to give a majority to either major party, Israel is still without a unified leadership, newly elected legislators are adrift, and the nation's problems are mounting.

New legislators have taken to direct political action, with American-born Rabbi Meir Kahane, who wants all Arabs out of Israel, ranting outside an Arab village and liberal lawmakers clashing with religious nationalists.

After two days of media reports that agreement had been reached on a bipartisan government, Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, who leads the Likud bloc, and Labor Party leader Shimon Peres said Sunday that serious obstacles remained.

Shamir, leader of the caretaker government, said he and Peres would meet again in a few days. Peres was named prime minister-designate after his party won 44 seats in Parliament to 41 for Likud in the July 23 elections.

A Shamir aide said the stumbling blocks centered on the future of Jewish settlements in the Israeli-occupied West Bank, the rotation of the prime ministership, and the defense portfolio between Likud and Labor.

BRIGHTON — Deeply divided over a six-month strike by coal miners, the labor federation representing nearly half of Britain's work force met today to consider halting transport of fuel supplies in support of the walkout.

More than 3,000 pro-strike demonstrators gathered outside the convention center as delegates from the 10 million-member Trades Union Congress arrived. The meeting was described as labor's most critical conference since a nationwide general strike in 1926.

Presidential race

The political conventions are over. Let the fall campaigns commence.

At this point, the Republicans are on a roll and full of energy. They are coming off a highly successful gathering in Dallas and are ready for the battle ahead to re-elect President Reagan and Vice President George Bush on Nov. 6.

The Democrats had to take a back seat during all the GOP convention activities, but now their juices are flowing. Democrats are charged up and eager to take on Republican candidates.

President Reagan is popular at this point — perhaps the most popular president in his fourth year since Dwight Eisenhower. A poll shows 56 percent of the voters think the country is going in the right direction, compared to 20 percent four years ago.

Other polls show that Mr. Reagan has great strength in the South and the West and that the Democratic presidential candidate, Walter Mondale, has a tough fight ahead. However, Mondale proved in the primaries that he is no quitter. He's been the underdog before and survived.

If there are trouble spots for Mr. Reagan in the campaign ahead, they will be the national deficit, chilly relations with the Soviet Union and the nuclear arms race. Mondale and his vice presidential running mate, Geraldine Ferraro, are bound to come out campaigning on these issues.

The weeks to come will ring with so much political accusation and promise that most of us will be glad to see the matter solved at the polling booths in November.

The Ferraro case

WASHINGTON — Hard scrutiny of Geraldine Ferraro's finances is only a small episode in a vast saga. Behind it lies perhaps the most important social development in postwar America — the entry of women into the job market on a huge scale.

In the process women have created special issues for which they lobby with skill and force. They thus become subject to the same hardball standards applied to men in politics. Hence the devastating significance, and ultimate sadness, of the Ferraro case.

The transformation of women's roles in the past 40 years can hardly be exaggerated. Before 1950, the great majority of American women were housewives. Now women comprise over 40 percent of the work force. Together with blacks and Hispanics, they make up a majority over the white males who used to hold most of the jobs. In a few years, women will by themselves be the major jobholders in this country.

A string of consequences follows. The basic social unit is the nuclear family rather than the extended clan. Within each family, relations tend to be more casual. Older persons and children are increasingly left to their own devices. Meals are fast food affairs. Divorce is commonplace, and singles comprise a significant fraction of the population.

As workers, women have enjoyed singular success. A strong impression is that they are more industrious than men — the "true bearers of the work ethic" as sociologist David Riesman once put it. Their contribution explains in part why the U.S. has recovered so much more rapidly than Europe from the years of stagnation.

Graduation from low-paid, pink-collar jobs to the executive level has not been easy. But once over the hurdle, women have advanced rapidly. They are increasingly important as lawyers, doctors, educators, economists, journalists and in all the arts. They have begun to appear in corporate board rooms. They have moved steadily up the political ladder, until, with Congresswoman Ferraro, they won a shot at the vice presidency.

The first women entrants in the political field — like the first Jews and the first blacks — were individual notables who established themselves through family connections or in some other line of work. As such, they enjoyed a certain immunity from attack. Frances Perkins, secretary of labor under Franklin Roosevelt, tended to neutralize criticism of the New Deal's pro-union policy. Nobody picked on Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare in the Eisenhower Administration, or on Juanita Kreps, Jimmy Carter's secretary of commerce.

But as women became increasingly important in economic life, women's issues developed. Abortion is the obvious case in point. Equal treatment in the job and pension field, and funding for day-care centers and Head Start programs are others. Even peace, because women are said to feel more precariously situated than men, tends to be categorized among the women's issues.

For all these reasons, women have become a more formidable political force as a group than as individuals. Fritz Mondale, after all, picked Ferraro for a running mate as a woman — not because of individual gifts or experience. Her subsequent emphasis on middle-class virtues and "playing by the rules" made her the personification of the fairness issue.

Inevitably she became subject to the same kind of attacks men in politics endure. That means — as suggested by the current cases of Mark Hatfield, the Oregon senator accused of taking bribes through his wife's real estate business, and Edwin Meese, the White House aide whose appointment as attorney general has been subjected to a special investigation in part because of investments by his wife — some responsibility for the business affairs of the spouse.

So there was nothing intrinsically wrong on the insistence by Republican sympathizers, and the media, that there be a full disclosure of the Ferraro financial position — including the tax returns of her husband. On the contrary, pressure to come clean was one more sign of the advancing status of women. The real issue is how Ferraro handles the charges.

Her initial responses were weak. She went on the David Brinkley show before being ready to answer questions. She seemed unfamiliar with business operations in which she is technically a close partner. When pushed in questioning, she resorted to such dodges as aggrieved comparison with the easy treatment accorded President Reagan. Worse still, more details of unsavory transactions keep coming out.

Perhaps Ferraro will be able to turn the tables — using the prejudice that links Italian-Americans with organized crime to win sympathy as Richard Nixon did in his famous evocation of the family dog Checkers during the 1952 campaign. But as of now she seems to be a grave liability to Mondale. If more derogatory information emerges, she may even have to bow out. Whatever happens, what looked like a heartening change has taken a terribly sad turn.

Public debt is a public disgrace

WASHINGTON — Some terrible enervation of common sense and ordinary resolve in Washington has permitted a containable deficit to mushroom into an incalculable disaster.

The failure of government either to avert the calamitous deficit through precautions or to ameliorate its effect by timely treatment could tear the country asunder.

The interest alone on the exploding public debt has become an obstacle to the nation's economic well-being.

Reading the budget figures may cause the eyes to glaze over, but if the American people cannot absorb the intricate details, they won't escape the catastrophic results.

Each year, the deficit soars to ever higher altitudes. It is expected to ascend above $180 billion in 1985; some economists fear it will reach $220 billion in 1986.

Each new deficit, in turn, becomes another massive blast of helium into the ballooning national debt. The total debt is now $1.6 trillion; it could expand to $2 trillion by 1986.

If the government's spending habits aren't changed, the prospects are hair-raising. The public debt will become so crushing that the economy couldn't generate enough income to pay the loan charges.

I have asked my sources inside the Treasury Department to assess the financial impact in order to give the unwary taxpayer an idea of what a $2 trillion debt will mean. Here's what their calculations show:

- If the $2 trillion should be split up equally, each taxpayer would owe $21,052.63 in addition to his regular taxes.
- Federal borrowing has pushed up the interest rates for everyone by an estimated two percentage points. If the budget were balanced and the public debt reduced, mortgage rates would be about 12 percent. This would mean more Americans could afford homes.
- High interest rates have made

U.S. exports so expensive that overseas sales have fallen 14 percent since 1981. This has resulted in the loss of 1.3 million jobs. So anyone whose livelihood depends on exports must worry about job security.

The public record is littered with warnings about the danger of continued federal overspending. By the end of the decade, for example, just the interest costs on the government debt would be an estimated $219 billion — almost half of the $563 billion that the government expects to collect in personal and corporate income tax in 1989.

Budget director David Stockman told congressmen he doubted that they "could think of enough taxes to raise or enough spending to cut to offset that explosion of debt-service cost."

The key to the problem can be found inevitably in Congress — in its reluctance to recognize the onrushing danger, in the refusal of its members to expend political capital or take political risks for economic stability, in its unwillingness to tangle with the determined special-interest groups of left, right or center.

The solution depends on America's political capacity to resolve what is at bottom a problem of self-discipline. But in political affairs, it takes a catastrophe to motivate Congress.

I fear the catastrophe won't be long in coming unless millions of Americans raise a howl loud enough for Congress to hear. There is much for them to howl about.

The Grace Commission, headed by the indomitable Peter Grace, has documented government waste running into the hundreds of billions of dollars. Enough tax money is wasted, lost or stolen, he tells me, to wipe out the fearsome deficit.

To raise a howl that Congress will hear, Grace and I have formed a non-profit, non-partisan, grassroots organization that we call Citizens Against Waste. We hope to provoke a backlash from the public that will ricochet off Congress.

We invite you to sign the following protest and mail it to Citizens Against Waste, P.O. Box 1000, Ben Franklin Station, Washington, D.C., 20044.

"As the true owners of the U.S. government, we protest the appalling waste of our money by those we entrust to spend it. We demand action, not more discussion, to stop the excessive and unnecessary squandering of government funds for foolish projects, wasteful programs and inefficient operations. We want corrective measures taken against those in Congress and the federal bureaucracy who irresponsibly authorize and misspend our tax dollars."

FOIA FUDDLE: Under the Reagan administration, federal agencies have done their best to take the "free" out of the Freedom of Information Act.

Unless an applicant can persuade the bureaucrats that release of the documents will benefit the commonweal, a hefty fee for searching and copying is charged. Even journalists aren't exempt.

When I asked for U.S. Forest Service documents that might aid my investigation of the agency's $1 billion bailout of big timber companies last year, I was told the fee would be about $500. My request for a waiver was denied.

But the Forest Service sent me a box of purported documents anyway, along with a bill for $673.90. I sent the box back unopened and the bill unpaid.

Then I got a letter from the agency, warning me that "if any use is made of the material in the documents, the bill for collection will become payable, including interest."

I have no way of knowing what was in the box, of course. But if it included a certain inter-agency report critical of the Forest Service, I refuse to pay. I had already obtained the report from unofficial channels — for free.

Depression stays with reader daily

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Depression is my daily companion. I don't seem to have any reason for feeling the way I do: I have a fine husband and two wonderful children, and yet it is getting to the point that I want to curl up in bed and do nothing. Does the Bible have any solution for this? — Mrs. L.P.

DEAR MRS. L.P.: My friends in medicine and psychology tell me there are many, many different causes for depression, and you do need to discover why you are facing chronic depression. For example, researchers have discovered there are often medical reasons for depression, related to such things as chemical imbalances in the body. Often, these things can be treated or alleviated with proper medications. This is especially important when you can find no apparent reason for your problem.

But no matter what the reason for your depression may be, there is one very important truth from the Bible that you need to know: God knows your situation and He loves you. Furthermore, He wants you to know that He is able to help you.

I don't know the full reason for your particular situation, of course, but I have met many people who have been depressed because they felt no one loved them, or they had no purpose in life, or because they felt they were worth nothing.

But we need not feel this way when we truly understand God's love for us — a love that was so great He sent His Son to earth to die on the cross for our sins. Christ can give us purpose in life.

Have you ever accepted God's greatest gift, the gift of His Son? Ask Christ to come into your heart. Then let His Word, the Bible, be your guide and your companion every day. No matter what your feelings may tell you, the fact is that Christ loves you and is with you always.

Little pushers fan drug traffic in California

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Amid tree-lined streets and lush green lawns, kids on bicycles, on doorsteps and in the park flag down customers in this city's violent drug trade, which has claimed 20 lives this year.

"They kind of figure themselves as a bunch of little gangsters, like in the '20s," says Lt. Mike Wilson, head of the vice squad.

They have names like "The Mob," and "The Family," and they rove the streets, particularly in the isolated, predominantly poor, flatlands, where children help peddle cocaine, PCP, LSD, marijuana and heroin.

As a plainclothes cop drives through one neighborhood, seven children, ranging in age from 5 to no more than 15, crowd around the steps of a duplex in this city of 350,000 people. An older one spots the moving car, flags it down and peers in. "Hey want to buy some smoke?" When the officer identifies himself, the youth yells back, "Get out of here."

Blocks later, a group of teenagers mills in a park. A youth of about 16 spots the car. He runs into the street, flailing his arms over his head and yelling "weed!"

A boy rides by on a bike, marijuana sticking out of his pocket. An adult up ahead recognizes the police and screams "Vice! Vice!" while the first salesman keeps up his chase.

"The competition for buyers is so great they're waving people down before they ever see who's inside," says Sgt. Dennis Downum of the vice squad.

Although Oakland police say narcotics arrests have more than doubled since last year, sales have become more blatant and pushers have become bolder.

"The street problem has just gotten so out of hand, we don't have enough officers to deal with it," Downum says.

Kids, often too poor for summer camp and too young for work, are enticed by drug dealers who pay them $60 to $200 a day to sell their wares.

Customarily officers arrest youths for drug offenses if they spot them, but if children have no record, they are usually released to their parents, Wilson said. Youths with records are usually sent to juvenile hall.

No bail is set for juveniles under 18, and the courts are required by state law to take the least restrictive action, said deputy district attorney Jack Burke.

Officials also concentrate on adult drug offenders, but the fight is mired in infighting among city officials and police.

City councilman Wilson Riles,

Jr. says Police Chief George Hart "doesn't know what's going on," and that, after 25 years on the force, "it's time for him to go."

Riles says the city needs to invest in more innovative drug crackdowns, such as "sting" operations.

Hart says "street-level punks" will continue to operate unless police efforts to remove them are supported.

City councilman Leo Bazile says City Manager Henry Gardner should be fired. Gardner says the city is doing all it can following budget cuts brought on by Proposition 13, the tax-cutting initiative approved in 1978. The city manager blames the courts.

"Everybody's pointing at everybody else," Riles says. "It's kind of a Keystone Kops situation."

The size of the narcotics detail already has doubled this year. There are now two seven-member narcotics squads, one that infiltrates major organizations and one that focuses on street dealers.

Together they average 400 to 500 arrests a month, Downum says.

Police have started "sweeps" in certain areas. Some places are patrolled 24 hours a day. A drug education program is planned for the grammar schools.

"Everybody thinks we need a bigger narcotics unit, but we say no," says John Ream, a deputy chief in charge of the undercover and detective force. "We make more buys and make more cases than the courts can handle."

Community leaders say the pushers are back on the streets only days after their arrests, a problem Ream says the department can do little about.

"Drug dealers, like everybody else, have the right to bail. But drug dealers, not like everybody else, have tons of cash on them," he said. It isn't unusual for a busted dealer to pull out the thousands of dollars necessary to post bail, he said. And then, they're right back out, selling, until the case comes up in court — up to three years later.

Alameda County District Attorney John Meehan has ended plea bargaining in drug cases to keep dealers in jail longer. Gardner supports that idea, but says the county needs at least three more judges to relieve the case backlog.

A community group, Organized People of Elmhurst Neighborhood, has presented the city with a plan calling for 12 specially trained narcotics officers to "deal with people hanging out on the corner and interfering with quality of life," says OPEN leader June Norman.

Another community group, the Sobrante Park Home Alert, has started picketing against drug dealing in a neighborhood park each Saturday.

Ms. Norman, who has joined the picket line says up to 500 cars would roll by the park when the group first started its protests.

"These are old, classy cars, of course they're not from around Mercedes Benz's, Rolls-Royces ... here," Ms. Norman says. "Now, it's just like living in prison."

Dr. Donohue

About-faces common in medicine

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 55-year-old female. Two years ago I visited my doctor because I was having hot flashes. He told me at that time that they did not like to put women on hormones unless it was really necessary, as it could cause breast lumps, uterus cancer and other problems later on.

I visited him again recently and he said doctors are now recommending hormones for the kind of problem I was having, and that it would also help prevent bone deterioration. Do you know anything about this? I haven't been back to him because I can't believe doctors can make such an about-face in two years' time. What do you recommend? — Mrs. W.C.

As medical knowledge develops, thoughts change. Your doctor was right two years ago, and he's right today. This is not to say there is no controversy over the use of estrogens for menopausal women. We have only the most recent studies to guide us.

Based on current knowledge, use of estrogens does not appear to be linked to breast cancer, although high doses of it are associated with the risk of uterine cancer. For this reason low doses of estrogen are used in cyclic fashion and along with another hormone, progesterone. This pattern simulates natural hormone production in normal menstrual cycles, and thus the risk of uterine cancer is quite low.

Still, estrogens are not used for all menopausal women, only for those whose symptoms are great. And now there is the concern about osteoporosis, the bone-thinning process which accelerates after menopause when natural estrogen production wanes. Estrogen medicine helps minimize that process.

It is your body, and you have a right to question therapy. Your doctor can guide you. Between the two of you, you can assess your present symptoms and your chances of developing osteoporosis. But don't be alarmed because of your doctor's change of opinion regarding hormone therapy. Such changes happen all the time. Medical truth isn't absolute. If it were, we would still be using leeches. Medicine is simply a body of knowledge with the temporary blessing of competent scientists.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My new girl friend tells me that she contracted herpes about five years ago. As we begin to become sexually active, how can I avoid catching it from her? — J.R.

I can't give you a 100 percent guarantee that you will never catch herpes from your girl friend. But you can reduce the chances by following these rules:

Do not have relations whenever there are signs of herpes on the skin or membranes. We're not sure how often herpes is transmitted when there are no visible signs of its presence. In fact, we are not sure that is possible. But using a condom at those times will make even that remote possibility less likely.

Herpes may be killing the sexual revolution, but having it doesn't mean the end of your life. Or the end of your sex life. In his new booklet, Dr. Paul Donohue separates the truth from the fiction about this controversial health problem. For your copy of "Herpes: Don't Panic," send one dollar and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Letters change meaning when pal is in pen

DEAR ABBY: I just read in the newspaper that a Canadian rancher struck up a correspondence with a woman whose name he had found in one of those lonely publications.

The man said he was not aware that the address to which he had been sending letters and money was a prison until the authorities notified him!

It seems that his pen pal, who claimed to be a "lonely widow," had been convicted of poisoning two of her four husbands, at least one of whom she had met through a lonely hearts ad.

Abby, I am appalled that all prisons are not identified as such — especially when an inmate places or answers an ad seeking a pen pal.

When I realize how close I came to answering one of those ads, I shudder.

Please comment in your column. SHOCKED
DEAR SHOCKED: I agree. All prisons should be identified as prisons, and I am as shocked as you to learn that they are not.

I know that prisoners are a lonely lot who need contact with the outside world, but "caveat emptor" (let the buyer beware) should not apply in these circumstances.

DEAR ABBY: Every once in a while you publish a valuable tip in your column on child safety. May I offer this one?

Recently, Margaret McCarthy, a sweet 5-year-old neighbor girl, was blowing up a small balloon when it was accidentally sucked into her throat and lodged in her windpipe, blocking the air passage.

When all efforts to dislodge the balloon failed, the child was flown in a helicopter ambulance to the nearest hospital, but within 15 minutes the child was dead.

It's too late to help Margaret, bless her soul, but if you print this, maybe other children will be spared.

A NEIGHBOR IN FORT MADISON, IOWA

DEAR NEIGHBOR: My heart goes out to the McCarthy family. And my profound thanks to you, good neighbor, for helping me to alert millions of readers to the insidious danger of a balloon in the hands of a small child.

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 (this includes postage) to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Salad for beauty preparations

NEW YORK (AP) — Fresh fruits and vegetables are good for you externally, as well as internally, according to an article in a new magazine devoted to fashion, beauty, health and fitness.

Many of these healthful, good-to-eat foods have hidden good looks potential as well, notes Feeling Great magazine. As an alternative to expensive beauty preparations it offers these suggestions:

— For oily skin: mash a tomato with one tablespoon each of honey, yogurt and oatmeal. Apply to face, avoiding eye area. Leave on for 15 minutes. Rinse with warm water, working mixture into skin.

— For dry skin: beat an egg yolk well and blend with half avocado until smooth. Apply to face and neck. Leave on for 15 minutes. Rinse with warm water.

— For all skin types: save juice from steamed or boiled spinach. Mix with 3 tablespoons sour cream. Apply to face and leave on for 10 minutes. Rinse with warm water.

Time for Gary!

Hogeboom leads 'Pokes into LA

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Gary Hogeboom gets his chance as a starting quarterback in the National Football League tonight when the Dallas Cowboys and Los Angeles Rams square off in a season-opener at Anaheim Stadium.

Kickoff time for the nationally televised (ABC-TV) affair that marks the beginning of the 15th year of Monday Night Football is 6 p.m., PDT.

Hogeboom, a 6-foot-4, 200-pounder beginning his fifth professional season, will be making his initial NFL start.

If form holds true, Hogeboom will make a successful debut. The Cowboys have won 18 of their last 19 season-openers. Still, the Rams were listed as 2-point favorites.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry announced last Tuesday that Hogeboom would succeed Danny White as the team's starting signal-caller, although Landry made it clear that things could change again in the future.

"It's always difficult to replace a starting player, especially when you consider Danny White's performance," Landry said. "He's been outstanding from a statistical standpoint.

"It's time to see what Gary can do. I know we have two good quarterbacks who can win in the NFL. Danny has proven he can win, Gary shows the ability to do it.

"If I didn't think Gary could win, we wouldn't be starting him. Gary has youth, he's very ambitious as a quarterback. He's very confident and has a great arm. Who knows if he'll be replaced. I wouldn't hesitate to put Danny back in."

The Cowboys were 3-1 in the preseason. Hogeboom performed much more impressively from a statistical standpoint did White during that time. Hogeboom was 11 of 17 for 151 yards in 1983.

"I don't think it's as important to us as it is to them," said Los Angeles Coach John Robinson when asked about the Dallas quarterback situation. "They're both excellent quarterbacks." The Rams were 2-2 in the preseason, but Robinson seems unconcerned about their .500 record.

RAIDERS ROLL — Los Angeles Raiders receiver Cliff Branch (21) hauls in a pass from quarterback Jim Plunkett in the third quarter beating Houston cornerback Willie Tullis (20) for a 12 yard gain and a first down during the Raiders' 24-14 victory.

"I like the attitude we showed," he said. "We had to play three games in 11 days and we were well-prepared for each one. That bodes well for our ability to get ready for a 16-game season."

"We had a very good preseason. We made progress on offense, we made some adjustments on defense. The only disappointment of camp, really, were the injuries. Those set us back, of course, but we're adjusting to them."

Among those injured were safety Johnnie Johnson, tight end Mike Barber and reserve defensive lineman Gary Jeter. All are on the Rams' injured reserve list.

The Cowboys will be trying to break a three-game losing streak, dating back to last season. They were beaten in their final two regular-season games and then dropped a 24-17 decision to the Rams at Dallas in the National Football Conference wild-card playoff.

"They look pretty similar (to how they looked in the wild-card game), probably a little better," Landry said when asked about the Rams. "(Running back Eric) Dickerson has a full year of experience, and (reserve running back Barry) Redden is running well."

"They've added speed to their receivers, which opens up their offense. The defense basically the same."

"They have a good football team. It's going to be a tough race for them in that (NFC West) division."

As a rookie last year, Dickerson led the NFL in rushing with 1,908 yards on a league-record 390 carries. The Dallas running game figures to be led by Tony Dorsett, who gained 1,321 yards in 1983.

Raiders out-fight Houston, 24-14

HOUSTON (AP) — The Los Angeles Raiders found the Houston Oilers ready to square off for fisticuffs at every turn in the National Football League opener.

The Oilers couldn't hold up, however, when it came to playing football.

When intimidation didn't work, the defending Super Bowl champion Raiders were prepared in the second half for some hard-nosed football that elevated them to a 24-14 victory.

Several scuffles broke out after a scoreless first quarter and the Oilers edged to a 7-0 halftime lead on a 10-yard touchdown pass from Warren Moon to Mike Holston.

Then, the Raiders took advantage of good field position and the elimination of errors to pull away from the struggling Oilers.

"The only thing I said at the half was that the only thing hurting us was ourselves," Raider Coach Tom Flores said. "We just had to go out and play our game. We quit giving them field position. Any time you make a team go 80 yards against our defense they are in trouble."

The Oilers started drives from inside their own 20 in all but one second half series.

"They tried not to be intimidated by us," Raider defensive end Lyle Alzado said. "Fighting is just a part of the game. You get frustrated when things don't go your way and you shove back."

"They just thought if we were going to fight, they were going to fight back."

The Raiders regained the lead in the second half on one-yard touchdown runs by Marcus Allen, Frank Hawkins and Jim Plunkett for a 19-7 lead.

Kicker Chris Bahr had one extra point try hit the goal post and another snap was high, forcing an aborted passing conversion.

Bahr managed a 28-yard field goal and the Raiders' final points came on a safety when Houston's Dean Setinkuhler was flagged for holding in the Oiler end zone.

Houston's final score came with 43 seconds left in the game on a five-yard pass from Moon to tight end Mike McCloskey. The Moon-to-McCloskey combination also set up with score with a 51-yard bomb to the Raider five.

"I don't think I did anything to hurt us but I didn't do anything to help us either," Moon said. "The poor field position in the second half hurt us. They were blitzing me a lot. They were playing so many defensive backs that when I was in the pocket I couldn't find anybody."

Flores said the Raiders settled down to their big play offense in the second half.

"In the second half, we played more our game," Flores said. "We had big plays on offense and defense and we cut down on the penalties."

Greg Pruitt's 34-yard punt return set up Los Angeles' first touchdown and a 23-yard Plunkett pass to Cliff Branch preceded the go-ahead touchdown. Los Angeles' final score came after a 46-yard pass play from Plunkett to Dokie Williams.

Oiler cornerback Willie Tullis lamented the Oilers' poor field position.

"We had no field position in the second half," he said. "We just have to get better after this. That's the life of a defensive back in the NFL. Everybody notices the great catches not the breakups."

SHRIVER ELIMINATES PEANUT LOUIE — Pam Shriver makes a backhand return against Peanut Louie Sunday at the $2.55 million U.S. Open Tennis Championships in Flushing Meadow, N.Y. Shriver defeated Louie 6-3, 7-5.

U.S. Open action

McEnroe cruises into quarter-finals

NEW YORK (AP) — John McEnroe continues to cruise along at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships. It is very likely he will move just as easily into the quarterfinals.

Even Robert Green of Brookline, Mass., believes that.

Green is a qualifier. He had to fight his way into the National Tennis Center, one of 16 to earn berths by way of a pre-tournament tournament.

Green also is a survivor — the only one of the 16 qualifiers to have reached the fourth round. "If someone had told me a week ago I'd get this far, I'd have doubted it," said Green, ranked No. 132 in the world.

"I thought maybe I could win a couple of rounds," said the 23-year-old Boston University graduate with a degree in Russian language and literature. "Then things started to steamroll. The next one nobody thinks I can win — including me."

The next one is McEnroe, the No. 1 seed, the No. 1-ranked player in the world.

With the arrival of the fourth round, seeds begin playing other seeds.

Today's meetings include No. 1 women's seed Martina Navratilova against No. 15 Barbara Potter, No. 2 Chris Evert Lloyd against No. 12 Bonnie Gadusek, No. 8 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany against No. 13 Wendy Turnbull of Australia, No. 2 men's seed Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia against No. 14 Anders Jarryd of Sweden and No. 5 Andres Gomez of Ecuador against No. 12 Vitas Gerulaitis.

McEnroe has yet to be seriously tested. On Sunday, while Green was surprising himself and Australia's John Fitzgerald 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 7-6, McEnroe was mauling Kevin Moir of South Africa 6-3, 6-0, 6-3.

McEnroe has yet to lose a set here this year, which suits him just fine. "It does not matter if it's three-, four-, or five-set matches for me," he said.

Throws five TD passes

Marino guns down Redskins, 35-17

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
If National Football League players need four weeks of exhibition games to prepare for the season, you can't prove it by Dan Marino.

Marino, who missed all but the final week of the preseason with a broken finger on his throwing hand, rifled five touchdown passes to lead the Miami Dolphins to a 35-17 rout of the Washington Redskins Sunday in the opening day of the NFL season.

This included Marino's passing proficiency, which showed 21 completions in his first 24 attempts and 21 of 28 overall for 311 yards.

Marino had plenty of help from receivers Mark Duper and Jim Jensen and an aggressive defense that forced two Redskins' turnovers during a third-quarter Miami spurt, which extended a 14-10 halftime lead to 35-10.

Jensen scored two of the third-period touchdowns, on passes of nine and four yards. Duper scored on 74 and 26-yard strikes from Marino and finished with six receptions for 178 yards.

Jets 23, Colts 14
Pat Ryan, a seven-year veteran making his first start in the NFL, passed for 163 yards and two touchdowns to Mickey Shuler, leading the Jets over the error-prone Colts.

The Colts, playing their first regular-season game in the new Hoosier Dome since their move from Baltimore last spring, led 7-0 after Curtis Dickey's three-yard run in the second quarter but managed no consistent offense after that, losing four fumbles.

Falcons 36, Saints 28
Gerald Riggs, subbing for injured star William Andrews, ran for a club-record 202 yards and two touchdowns to lead Atlanta over New Orleans.

Atlanta's Tom Pridemore averted an almost certain winning touchdown by New Orleans with just under three minutes to play with a fumble recovery at his own four-yard line.

Broncos 20, Bengals 17
Gary Kubiak came off the bench to replace the injured John Elway and engineered a 75-yard, fourth-quarter scoring drive that lifted Denver over Cincinnati.

Elway, who had fired one touchdown pass to help stake Denver to a 13-3 lead, left the game early in the third quarter after suffering a bruised left shoulder while scrambling out of bounds.

Chiefs 37, Steelers 27
Todd Blackledge, making his first pro start, passed for one touchdown and ran for another as Kansas City turned four Pittsburgh turnovers into scores.

Blackledge, subbing for the injured Bill Kenney, fired a 22-yard scoring pass to Stephone Paige midway through the third quarter to cap an 80-yard scoring drive and boost the Chiefs' lead to 31-20. Blackledge completed seven of nine passes for 87 yards during the drive which provided the Chiefs with their winning points.

Chargers 42, Vikings 13
San Diego's Dan Fouts and Wes Chandler hooked up on a pair of early touchdown passes and newcomer Pete Johnson scored two more TDs as the Chargers routed Minnesota.

Bears 34, Buccaneers 14
Chicago turned interceptions by linebackers Mike Singletary and Al Harris into third-quarter touchdowns and rolled past Tampa Bay. It was the Bears' first opening day triumph since 1979, when the team last made the NFL playoffs.

In all, the Bears intercepted six Tampa Bay passes, including two by Gary Fencik, but the Singletary and Harris interceptions blossomed into quick touchdowns to seal the decision.

Patriots 21, Bills 17
Two Steve Grogan touchdown passes in the game's first eight minutes helped New England turn back Buffalo. Grogan hit wide receiver Stephen Starring for a 65-yard touchdown pass on the game's second play, and threw a three-yard touchdown strike to Derrick Ramsey six minutes later.

Giants 28, Eagles 27
Phil Simms became only the second Giants quarterback in the club's 60-year history to pass for 400 yards in a game as he tossed four touchdown passes to lead New York over Philadelphia.

Simms completed 23 of 30 passes for 409 yards in picking apart the Eagles secondary. The 409-yard aerial show by Simms was second only to the Giants team record of 505 yards set by Y.A. Tittle in 1962.

NFL Roundup

Packers 24, Cardinals 23
Lynn Dickey passed for one touchdown and ran for another to lead Green Bay over St. Louis in the coaching debut of Forrest Gregg with the Packers.

The Packers bolted to a 21-7 lead early in the third period and had to hold off a late rally by the Cardinals.

49ers 30, Lions 27
Ray Wersching's 22-yard field goal with four seconds remaining lifted San Francisco over Detroit.

Detroit wide receiver Leonard Thompson took a pass from Gary Danielson in stride at the 25 and raced untouched into the end zone to complete a 49-yard pass play that tied the game 27-27 with 5:01 remaining.

C-Club play goes into final day

Mary Robertson fired a 91 to move within one stroke of leader Susie Welch in the Championship Flight at the annual Big Spring Country Club Labor Day Golf Tournament.

Robertson's 91 was the leading score of the day and gave her a two-day total of 185, one stroke behind Welch who shot a 94 on a relatively windy day under cloudy skies.

It was a big day for Robertson who also captured the putting competition over Barbara Hall in the finals. Robertson held on for a one shot win. After the victory she simply replied "I was surprised to win."

It was also a good day for Hall who fired Sunday's second best score of 92 to move from third place to first in the first flight. She now leads Martha Saunders by three strokes. Hall summed up her feeling about the tournament saying "we all are having a great time."

Flo Hallam continues to lead the second flight thanks to her second round score of 105 for a two-day total of 212. She leads by a comfortable 16 shots over Eileen Womack.

It was a dismal day for Bernice Jordan who is currently in third place in the championship flight with a 195. After Sunday's round of 98 she commented "It's no way I can make up 10 strokes the way I have been playing. I've been golfing a long time and had my ups and downs, this time I'm down."

In the men's championship flight favorites Ronnie

Broadrick, Pat Weaver and Mike Hall along with Bobby Waters advanced to semi-final play.

First flight favorites Mike Scarborough and Richard Terry continued their winning ways while second flight favorites Bill Willis and Richard Atkins advanced to semi-final play.

In the third flight favorite "Beetle" Bailey advanced to the next round while HERALD Publisher Tom Watson defeated Hudson Landers, two up to move into semi-final action versus Scott McLaughlin.

In fourth flight medal play Don McDonald fired a 77 to increase his lead to four strokes over Bill Hicks who recorded a 83 for the day, for a total of 165. Robert Patterson is in third with a 172.

Today is the final day of competition for the annual tournament with the women finishing up their final 18 rounds by noon. The top competition is in the championship flight where Robertson will be trying to have another good day to overtake Welch's one stroke lead.

The women's first flight competition shapes up to have an exciting finish with Hall trying to hold off Saunders, who has three strokes to make up.

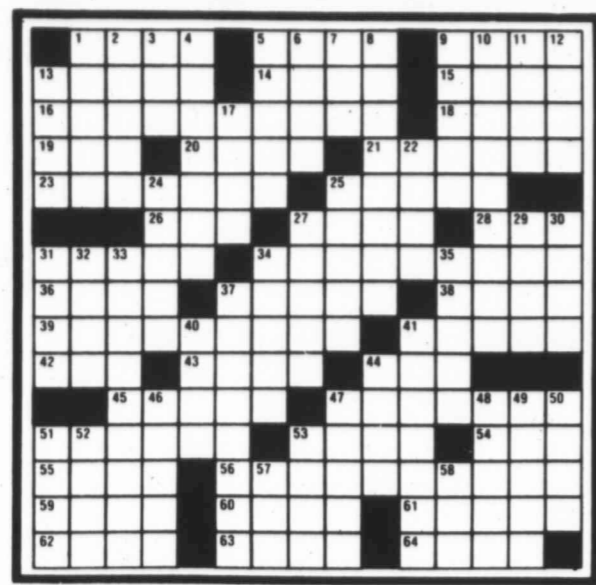

The men will be in for a last day having to play their semi-final matches in the morning and coming back for the final match in the afternoon.

Note: All results from Sunday can be found in scoreboard on page 2B.

Candidates host rallies

By the Associated Press
President Reagan and Walter F. Mondale are kicking off their campaigns on opposite coasts today with traditional Labor Day rallies.

The Democratic challenger said their race for the White House carries "the highest stakes in a lifetime."

RONALD REAGAN
...campaign trail

WALTER MONDALE
...on the phone

Reagan was in his home territory, Orange County, Calif., while Mondale and running-mate Geraldine Ferraro were starting in New York City with the Labor Day march up Fifth Avenue.

"It's good to be in Orange County, where the good Republicans go before they die," Reagan told a crowd Sunday as he arrived in California. "But also, I think, a lot of good Democrats, too."

The Democratic team was flying to rural Wisconsin for another parade before venturing onto Reagan's turf for an afternoon rally at Long Beach, Calif.

After an outdoor rally at Fountain Valley, Calif., outside Los Angeles, Reagan was traveling up the coast on the first day of a three-day campaign trip, while Vice President George Bush was beginning a foray into Midwestern and Southern battleground states.

Although Labor Day is the customary beginning of the general election presidential campaign, Mondale opened an offensive against the Republican incumbent Sunday in a paid network radio address.

Referring to Reagan's comments during the Republican convention week in Dallas, Mondale said the president's linking of religion and politics is "not the American way."

"The Republicans in Dallas raised doubts about whether they respect the wall our founders placed between government and religion," Mondale said. "In America, our faith has always been intensely personal. It is between the individual and God, between families and their churches and synagogues, with no room for politicians in between."

"That freedom has made America the most religious nation on earth," Mondale said, adding that "government must not be permitted to dictate the religious life of our people."

Reagan told a breakfast prayer meeting in Dallas on Aug. 23, the day he accepted his party's nomination: "The truth is, politics and morality are inseparable. And as morality's foundation is religion, religion and politics are necessarily related."

Reagan was asked about those remarks Sunday as he was departing the White House for the flight west.

"What I was commenting on," he said, "was the great movement that has been going on more and more to attack religion by some people who pretend they're acting within the Constitution — those people who would deny such things as chaplains in the military and 'in God we trust' on our coins and so forth."

"I'm not seeking to install a state religion in any way," Reagan added.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said, meanwhile, that the Republican Party may be identifying too closely with religious groups. "I think religious conventions are very good. But I think there is a fine line. I think we are near the edge," Dole said on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley."

Mondale, the clear underdog who trails Reagan by double-digit percentages in most polls, was venturing into areas where the Republican incumbent is strong with his stops in Wisconsin and California.

Mondale planned to spell out specifics of his plan for reducing the federal budget deficit during the stop in Merrill, Wis. — and to challenge Reagan to do the same.

In California, Mondale challenges the assumption that its 47 electoral votes belong to Reagan, a former two-term governor of the state.

"We are taking the debate to Ronald Reagan," said Mondale spokeswoman Maxine Isaacs.

Mondale, shrugging off the opinion polls, said: "We kick off a campaign with the highest stakes in a lifetime."

Reagan planned to fly from Orange County to Cupertino in northern California for another rally, then on to Salt Lake City to address the American Legion on Tuesday. On Wednesday, before returning to the White House, Reagan is scheduled to stop in Chicago — his third visit to hotly contested Illinois in as many weeks.

The running mates were also campaigning on Labor Day. Ms. Ferraro was traveling on to San Diego this evening and planned to campaign in the Northwest on Tuesday.

MISS TEXAS-USA — Laura Martinez-Herring, the newly crowned Miss Texas-USA, recently talked about her life, which hasn't always been glamorous. For a year, she worked as a social worker in India. Miss Martinez-Herring is from El Paso.

Pageant beauty says she lacked confidence to win

EL PASO (AP) — Miss Texas-USA hasn't always looked this glamorous.

After high school, Laura Martinez-Herring got a job as a social worker in India — a job, she thought, that would give her a chance to help children, hike and enjoy nature.

Instead, the newly crowned Miss Texas-USA found herself swinging a pick and ax, digging toilets, planting vegetable gardens, fixing pipelines and building roads.

But it was a year, she said recently, she would not trade for anything.

"It's no exaggeration that I traveled with everything I owned in a backpack," the 20-year-old brown-eyed brunette said. "It was certainly one of the best experiences of my life. If I was asked to do it again, I'd do it."

Miss Martinez-Herring said that during the months in India, she learned to live without luxuries.

"When I returned to the United States, I felt like I was in the year 2000," she said.

Now, however, Miss Martinez-Herring is becoming accustomed once again to the nicer things in life.

She received the crown, banner and prizes of Miss Texas-USA on July 23 in San Antonio. The pageant was the second she had entered — the first big pageant, she noted, and she beat out 103 other women to gain the title.

But her victory came only after months of exercising, dieting and sacrificing to mold herself into the exact woman the judges were seeking to represent Texas in the Miss USA contest.

Miss Martinez-Herring even made trips to chiropractor to gain one-quarter inch in height and make her an even 5 feet 7 inches.

Yet, she admitted with a broad smile, it was worth it.

"You have to have a lot of confidence to be in beauty pageants," she said. "I never met a beauty contest winner who thought she couldn't win."

But, Miss Martinez-Herring said, she initially lacked the self-confidence she needed.

"At first I was embarrassed about the bathing suit part, but now I realize that was just a lack of confidence," she said.

Miss Martinez-Herring said beauty pageants were the farthest thing from her mind when she returned to El Paso from Europe last September. She had graduated from a Swiss boarding school, completed her stint in India as a social worker and traveled in India, Egypt, Poland and the Philippines before returning to the United States.

Arriving too late to enroll in college, she took a job at a local clothing store, then as a photographic model.

"After the third photographer encouraged me to enter a beauty pageant, I decided to," she said. She won the first contest she entered, becoming Miss El Paso. The next step was winning the Miss Texas-USA pageant.

"I was absolutely bewildered when I made the top five (finalists)," she said. "Then the first runner-up was announced and I realized I had won. I couldn't control my emotions."

Her reign as Miss Texas-USA began immediately after the conclusion of the pageant and she already has represented the Lone Star State at the World's Fair in New Orleans.

As she the first Hispanic to win the title of Miss Texas-USA, Miss Martinez-Herring said she is "honored."

"Out of 14 million people in Texas, 3 million are Hispanics," she said. "It's nice to have a girl who can represent the Latin and Anglo elements of Texas. But just as much, I feel it is a real honor to represent Texas."

Drug abuse growing problem with country-western singers

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Johnny Rodriguez says he is among the country music stars who have fallen prey to drug abuse, a problem that some record industry officials see becoming more widespread and causing problems for producers.

"If I could say anything to keep anybody else from going through what I've been through, I would," Rodriguez told The Tennessean in an interview published today.

"It's the kind of thing that just kind of sneaks up on you. I never had any idea that I would be here or any of this would ever happen — ever."

Rick Blackburn, who supervises the contracts of 28 country music artists for Columbia Records, calls the increased use of drugs "a nightmare."

"Drugs have become a real problem in the country music industry," Blackburn told The Tennessean in a copyright story in Sunday's editions, in which industry insiders detailed the extent of the phenomenon.

"Apart from torturing the individual lives of the artists, it has come to the point where dealing with the drug problem is a serious business decision," Blackburn said.

He said "upwards of $100,000" is often spent on a single recording session and when the session sours "because the artist is strung out on drugs, you have to ask, 'What ... is going on here?'"

Psychiatrist Joe Pursch has treated several country music singers for drug abuse.

"The pressures and problems that are part of country music success make the stars particularly vulnerable to drug and alcohol abuse," said Pursch, corporate medical director of 200 Care Unit Centers that treat chemical dependency nationwide.

"The entertainers are often emotionally unprepared for the failures, insults, jealousies, rejections and insecurities that are part of country music careers," he said.

Rodriguez, 32, who found fame with the release of "Pass Me By" 12 years ago, is undergoing a 30-day drug withdrawal program in Texas for his addiction to alcohol and cocaine, he said.

Like other performers, Rodriguez now says he wants to beat his addiction before "it whips me."

Johnny Cash checked himself into the Betty Ford Center for Chemical Dependence at Rancho Mirage, Calif., in January after spending more than two months trying to kick a morphine addiction he had developed while undergoing treatment and surgery for ulcers.

Tammy Wynette told author Dolley Carlisle in an interview last year, "I have depended on Demerol, plus a lot of other medications to get me through a lot of shows."

Said Rodriguez, "I started out using drugs because I thought I had to change into a better person, or some kind of special person that I thought people expected me to be."

Now he knows better, he said. "I didn't need to change."

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF RATE CHANGE REQUEST AND STATEMENT OF INTENT

Notice is hereby given that LONE WOLF ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE, INC. (the "Utility") intends to change rates for electric utility service effective September 25, 1984. The increase requested over last year revenues is $930,636 or 18.76%.

The amount reflected above includes an adjustment of $281,460 for the wholesale power cost increase experienced by the Cooperative during the last year, and net revenue increases of $1,536 as a result of other adjustments. The Cooperative is reviewing the power cost increase described above as a part of the power cost adjustment clause. This increase in wholesale power cost amounts to approximately 7.47% of last year operating revenue.

The changes are applicable to all areas and all customers served by the Utility. The classes and numbers of Utility customers affected are as follows:

Farm and Non-Farm	1,173
Small Commercial	1,458
Irrigation	188
Large Power	493
Cotton Gins	2
Luminaires	494

The Utility intends to change its service rules and regulations including rules relating to service fees. Implementation of the proposed changes is subject to approval by the appropriate regulatory authority. A statement of intent including the proposed revisions of tariff and schedules and a statement specifying in detail each proposed change is available at the general office of the Utility located on the Robert Lee Highway, Colorado City, Texas. Its mailing address is Post Office Box 798, Colorado City, Texas 79612.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7900 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 459-0223 or (512) 459-0227, or (512) 459-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.
