County split over tax rate

BILL CROOKER

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

The Howard County tax rate may go down slightly, but officials who manage county funds say a decreased taxes won't fund proposed new buildings.

According to Howard County Judge Milton Kirby, some of the commissioners want the 1985 tax rate lowered by one-half cent, to

'We've built up a surplus. It's not fair to continue taxing at the same rate.' Commissioner Bill Crooker 22½ cents per $100 valuation.

Kirby, however, said he wants the tax rate to remain at the 1984 rate of 23 cents.

"I don't think they need to change (the tax rate) because they are talking about building," Kirby said. "We need the money (if we build a courthouse annex or a new jail). That way we don't have to borrow and pay interest. We're in good shape where we're at."

However, Commissioners Bill Crooker, Paul Allen and David Barr disagree, according to Crooker.

"We've built up a surplus," Crooker said. "It's not fair to continue taxing at the same rate."

Commissioners lowered the tax rate last year from the 1983 level of 23½ cents. They meet at 9 a.m. See Taxes page 2-A

Pirates holding jetliner

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — An Iran Air jetliner carrying more than 120 people was hijacked on a domestic flight Saturday and forced to land in Bahrain and then Cairo. Egypt's official news agency said 52 passengers dashed to freedom here after a door was opened to remove a wounded person.

The crew of the hijacked Boeing 727 "requested a rest for some time before taking off again to an unknown destination," said Egypt's minister of civil aviation, Wajih Shindi.

Egypt's official Middle East News Agency said that the plane, with 62 of the passengers, a nine-member crew and the hijackers, would depart Sunday morning from Cairo airport, "for a destination unknown so far."

There was an unconfirmed news report that the flight engineer was wounded, but Shindi said without elaboration: "All of this happened without violence and there were no incidents. The plane and the passengers were left free to go (from Egypt) to the destination of their choice."

There was no immediate indication of what the hijackers wanted, and there were conflicting reports on the number of hijackers, with one account saying there were seven.

The Egyptian agency at first reported there were only two hijackers on board. In a later report, it put the number of sky pirates at three and identified them as former military policemen who served under the Iranian monarchy that was overthrown by Moslem fundamentalists led by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini in 1979.

It was the third Iranian passenger jet hijacked in a month.

Endless drought

Rain no help for W. Texas

By the Associated Press

Despite sporadic rainfall throughout Texas this summer, much of the state's parched land still thirsts for water and ranchers and farmers say a seemingly endless drought will not break until "good old Mother Nature really cries on us."

"Every time the media says West Texas is getting rain, people think the drought is over," said Kent Powell, Upton County agriculture agent. "But people don't realize how big West Texas is."

Powell said his county, just southeast of the Midland-Odessa area, "looks like it did last year and the year before. It's dry as dry can be and it's getting no better."

And officials say that this year the drought has spread to other areas of the state, causing some ranchers to go out of business, hurting crop yields and leading to mandatory water rationing in one city, and voluntary measures in dozens of others.

The latest drought belt stretches across the midsection of the state from the Dallas-Fort Worth area to the Rio Grande Valley.

Powell and other West Texas agriculture agents said ranchers have sold nearly all their livestock, retaining only breeding stock.

In Upton County, Powell said, only 200 head of cattle and 8,000 head of sheep remain, compared to an average of 2,000 head of cattle and 44,000 head of sheep.

"It's just bad out there and the only thing we can do is wait and pray that good old Mother Nature really cries on us," Powell said.

Bill Braden, communications specialist with the Texas A&M University Agriculture Extension Service, said, "As you go from one part of the state to the other, you will see a lot of variation, but for the most part, most of the state is very dry."

Cotton crops in the Lubbock and Amarillo area and in the Rio Grande Valley were expected to do well this year, Braden said.

"But on the average, our crop yields will be hurt," he said, explaining that because of the lack of moisture, many farmers simply did not plant this year.

"Oh, and sure, now they may have gotten rain and could plant, but it's too late," Braden said.

"We've made very little hay in some areas," he said. "There probably will be some shortage of hay and we'll probably see a lot of buying from our neighbors this winter."

Braden added that grazing land in the state is "bone dry."

"A lot of moisture is needed and just a little bit won't do," he said. "After this long a period without it, you need an awful lot to make up for the loss."

Powell said four ranchers in Upton County have put their places up for sale.

In Pecos County, agriculture agent Zan Matthes said the amount of livestock has dropped by 70 percent in the past 18 months.

"One small part of the county has gotten some rain and looks pretty good, but that's leaving the PARCHED LAND — Small amounts of rainfall during August didn't help patch the cracks in West Texas soil as a three-year drought ends in to another calendar. Without significant rainfall soon, officials say, West Texas agriculture will wither.

Bowl Jam sweetens summer

By LUIS RIOS
Staff Writer

About 100 people, young and old, had slowly filtered through the gates at the Comanche Trail Park amphitheater by 9 p.m. for the Second Annual Dust Bowl Jam Saturday.

The proceeds from the benefit concert will go to the Howard County Boxing Association and the Youth Committee of the Chemical People, said Jam organizer Elaine Oliver.

The audience got a taste of country and rock 'n' roll music performed by four bands. And the relaxed atmosphere was what Ms. Oliver had hoped for the summer-end city concert.

"All we wanted to do was have a concert and make it a family thing," Ms. Oliver said. "We hadn't had a concert for a while. We wanted to cover the whole realm of Big Spring and create a family atmosphere."

Arts fund rules favor big cities

It's Catch-22 at the Texas Commission for the Arts. If you can't assure the state appointees that your artistic or cultural endeavors are of high quality, you can't get any money. And the state commission can't determine the quality of a project unless they can see it. So the ax automatically falls on funding for anything new, unless funds are available to launch it without the state's help.

State Rep. Larry Don Shaw believes that kind of thinking discriminates against the smaller communities where, as he says, "creative imagination is no less than in larger cities," but where local money may be decidedly skimpier. Communities are the ones most in need of the state help, and least likely to receive it under this system of judging worthiness.

For example, the inaugural year of the Big Spring Symphony was denied state matching funds. It didn't qualify on the "quality" criterion. It couldn't qualify because it hadn't been started yet — there was no basis by which to measure its quality.

In public hearings before a task force of the commission last week, Shaw broke new ground as a state representative willing to give testimony as a concerned citizen. And because of his stature, he no doubt got a better ear with the study group. In addition to the "quality" rule, Shaw challenged a proposed rule change which would add lead time to applications for funding. A long lead is both unnecessary, Shaw feels, and — again — weighted in favor of large cities with mammoth planning capabilities.

Shaw's arguments make imminent sense. Shaw is all-too-aware that rural areas are less inclined to look favorably toward state tax money being spent on the arts. It's apparent that the commission shouldn't aggravate rural Texas with metropolitan-slanted policies.

Shaw said Friday he intends to pursue his call for change. He anticipates being active in committee hearings before the commission in 1985. If we were inclined to bet, we'd put our wager on Shaw's ability to tilt the odds back in favor of equality for cities like Big Spring in bids for state arts money.

Reporting on taxis

Suppose you're a youngster just finishing college, and you're contemplating career choices. Unfortunately, you're not qualified for much. Well, you could go to law school, thus assuring yourself a fat salary, a big house and a membership at the country club.

Trouble is, law school takes money. Three years at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign (not an expensive school), when you add up tuition, room, board, books and No-Doz, will cost you about $21,000.

You haven't got it? Too bad, but at least you won't starve. I mean, you can always drive a cab, right? Whoops — not so fast. To operate your own cab in Chicago, you need a city-issued medallion, and the city isn't giving any out. In fact, it hasn't issued any new ones since 1963 — about the time you were born, youngster.

And the people who already have medallions aren't allowed to sell them. If they were, says Jerry Feldman, president of the Checker Taxi Co., they'd go for about $25,000. Law school would be cheaper.

Tough luck, kid, but you're not the only one who suffers. Cab riders also have troubles, like not being able to find cabs. Chicago has only 4,600 licensed cabs — just 12 percent more than it had 50 years ago. That's one cab for every 653 people. Washington, D.C., which is less stingy with medallions, has one cab for every 74 people. It also has lower fares.

Your political science courses probably didn't tell you how Chicago got such an odd system. As usual in this city, it didn't emerge from long hours of careful analysis and contemplation by public-spirited officials, but from a straightforward deal. To settle a lawsuit, the city agreed in 1963 to limit the number of medallions. It also guaranteed that Yellow and Checker (which have the same corporate owner) would always have 80 percent of them.

Luckily, Mayor Washington is trying to put an end to this arrangement. Last spring he agreed to settle a lawsuit against the city and the two big cab firms by getting rid of the medallion ceiling and the special treatment for Yellow and Checker. But the majority bloc in the city council has balked, so the matter will probably be settled in court. That won't necessarily help our ambitious student, who'll probably be ready for Social Security by the time the case is finished.

The industry would no doubt function better in a freer environment. Opening things up would bring in more cabs, which would benefit consumers by making it easier to get rides and by holding down fares. Marcus Alexis, a Northwestern University economist, figures the number of taxis in the city would rise by 40 percent.

Who would benefit most from the change? Not just our collegian. Surprisingly, the city's poor may gain more than the well-to-do. The Federal Trade Commission, which has sued Minneapolis and New Orleans for antitrust violations in their taxicab regulations, says poor people generally spend a bigger chunk of their income on cabs than the well-to-do. Allowing more cabs would also encourage better service to poor and remote neighborhoods.

Drivers would also be better off. Those who now rent medallions would be able to get their own, without having to fork over a share of their earnings to Yellow or Checker. Those people who would like to drive cabs but can't get medallions would no longer need them. Only the people who have profited from the limits on competition would be worse off.

They naturally oppose any change, warning that disaster has befallen cities that have opened up their cab industries. In fact, the problems they've had (like incompetent drivers and occasional price gouging on tourists) aren't unique to deregulated taxi markets. Nor are they terribly serious next to the benefits, and they probably would have been eradicated in time by competition.

But so far, the city council hasn't seen it that way, preferring to keep its friendly student in the lurch, with no skills, an inadequate education and a weak resume. Sorry, kid — I'm afraid it's journalism for you.

'Momdy' girls and 'hangobur' boys

Every parent recalls with affection the fractured words and phrases that composed his offspring's personal trademark for an all-too-short time. As I scooted two of mine off to public school recently, those unique sayings came to mind.

It is with mixed emotion that parents mark the passing of this era of not quite knowing how to enunciate English. It means on the one hand that the kids' horizons are expanding and life's new challenges are at hand; it also spells the end of a charming time in a child's life, a time when fledgling independence crumbles easily into soft vulnerability.

Our eldest daughter, now 8, was famous for the standard of many children, "pus-getty." Our favorite was her composite word for mommy and daddy, "momdy." It was particularly special when she applied it, as in the sentence, "I love you momdy."

The youngest, 3, still has trouble with her words. "Th" somehow comes out as "w," which converts the title cut of the Michael Jackson album to "Willer." Like a cute little moll, the transposition of letters in "girl" has an affectionate quality: "I'm a grill," she booms.

The 5-year-old boy was always ready for a McDonald's "hangobur."

As children grow up and begin growing out of these fractured pronunciations, they leave clues to their increasing sophistication. They grow self-conscious of the slip, knowing by the reaction it draws that it's not quite right.

There is sadness in the fact that the same physical, intellectual and emotional development that takes them out of disposable diapers carries them away from their cute quirks. My boy no longer says "hangobur." And, a sure sign of the dawn of culture, he thinks twice now before wiping his mouth with his sleeve.

The oldest long ago got the syllables in the right place for spaghetti. And, alas, she no longer relates to her parents as one mass of "momdy."

The exuberant "gril" offers that transposition with less frequency.

One of the boy's language lapses, though, shall stay with me forever. As a reporter, I was eager to teach my preschooler the value of news, and hoped to interest him in current events. (I succeeded there. He keeps an ear tuned to newscasts and has been known to rush into a room proclaiming, "There's a tornado ... somewhere.")

As part of the instruction, I frequently told him about my work, how I listened at meetings, wrote down what happened and then put it in the paper: Or, I'd tell him, sometimes I talked to someone about something special to them, and put that in the paper. I pointed out the news gatherers on television, likening my work to theirs and adding, "That's what a reporter does."

The training paid off. At Brian's day care center, the 2- and 3-year-olds were asked, "What does your daddy do?"

Brian answered without hesitation. "My daddy's a porter."

Jealous in-law creates problems

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My problem is my mother-in-law. My husband and I have been married two years, but she is very jealous of me and always is saying things to make me feel like I can never measure up to her standard of what her son's wife ought to be. So far, I have held my tongue, but what can I do? — Mrs. T.B.B.

DEAR MRS. T.B.B.: I suspect you have detected part of your mother-in-law's problem. She has somehow never accepted the fact that she is no longer the most important woman in her son's life. She also may be insecure, fearful that you will take her son away from her and he will never have any love for her in the future. It is sad (and even childish) that she thinks this way, for she is only making herself more bitter and miserable as time goes by — and hurting you as well.

There are two things you can do on a practical level. First, you and your husband need to assure her — by word and deed — that you do care for her. It may well be that, at some time, your husband will need to take his mother aside and tell her frankly (yet lovingly) that he is concerned about her attitude and wants her to do everything she can to be positive and helpful. He also may need to help her face the fact that she is reacting selfishly to his marriage. Then ask God to help you get along with her as much as is possible — even if she does not change. If you and your husband have never committed your lives to Christ, open your hearts to Him and learn to walk with Him each day.

"Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, bless those who curse you, pray for those who mistreat you" (Luke 6:27-28). Christ loves us in spite of the way we often treat Him — and He can give us that same kind of love and forgiveness if we will let Him.

Fans find 4-letter cheer offensive

To the editor: We were ashamed at one of the cheers given by the cheerleaders and the cheering section of the Big Spring High School at the Big Spring vs. Snyder football game Friday night. The cheer was unbecoming, obnoxious and totally unnecessary, and we apologize to the people of Snyder and all the Steers fans who were offended and embarrassed by it. The "cheer" was: Give them H—, Give them H—, Make them eat S—!

We deplore such action and call upon the supervisors to see that this cheer and others like it be forever eliminated! We are strong supporters of the Big Spring Steers and back them 100 percent, but a cheer like this is ugly and degrading and it casts a reflection not only on our team but also on our community as well. We call upon the administration to make a public apology for this action.

Unionbusters

Last week's column extolling the virtues of organized labor brought several unexpected rebuttals from readers who claimed unions today should be considered as nothing more than fossils of civilization.

• "The unions had a place in America once," was one reply. "But what have they done lately?" Just look around, I said.

The electrical appliances you use at home are inspected for safety before sale because the unions demanded quality control of production.

Your workplace must meet strict occupational safety standards because the unions insisted employees be protected from shoddy construction, dangerous operations and unhealthy working conditions.

• "The unions only want more money," another respondent said. "A guy who does the same thing I do who's in a union makes twice as much as I do."

If you make half what a union member makes, that's 10 times what you would be making had this country no organized labor movement.

In their battle against unionism, businesses that employ non-union labor have had to keep reasonable pace with union wages lest their employees be tempted to organize. And if you make half the union wage, shouldn't that tell you you'd be better off in a union?

• "The unions are corrupt," was one cynical retort. "Look at how many union officials are in prison."

Yes, let's look. Compare the number of union officials in prison with the number of business executives in prison. There's no comparison.

• "The unions are hurting employment by driving companies to areas where labor is not organized," another correspondent said.

And he's right. American businesses are moving so far away from unions that they're moving away from America, setting up sweat shops in Taiwan and Korea where slave-labor wages draw no complaints.

American unions are trying to keep American jobs and money in America. And the unions want to increase employment by decreasing the number of hours in the work week.

What does a business have to lose with unions? Only those $1 million bonuses paid to executives.

What does business have to gain with unions? Only a labor force dedicated to the safety, prosperity and equality of America.

What have the unions done for you lately? Just look around. Look for the union label.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

White's black appointment may kindle minorities

AUSTIN — Just as Geraldine Ferraro's nomination for vice president renewed the political interest of many women, Myra McDaniel's selection as Texas secretary of state may kindle participation of blacks in this year's elections.

At least Walter Mondale and Ferraro better hope that is the result of Gov. Mark White's new appointee.

Two years ago, White trailed in almost every public opinion poll prior to election day but easily defeated a surprised Bill Clements, a Republican incumbent with tons of campaign cash.

The polls misread the election. One reason was they had become too sophisticated. Some pollsters had found better ways, they thought, to determine the preferences of those most likely to vote. They asked people if they had voted in the last election and gave greater weight to those who answered yes.

That proved misleading in the 1982 election because a lot of people voted who hadn't gone to the polls in 1980, and they voted Democratic. Clements collected more votes than he received four years earlier, but the number of Democratic voters, particularly in predominantly black and Hispanic areas, easily offset the Republican gains.

Now, with less than two months left before election day 1984, the polls show the team of Ronald Reagan and George Bush easily leading Mondale-Ferraro, by 2-to-1 in some cases.

Democrats can hope the polls are wrong again, but they face a major task of not only turning out those new-1982 voters but also finding ways to register and turn out those who stayed home two years ago.

High registration and voter turnout are keys to Democratic success in Texas. That's no secret. It's also no secret that blacks and women tend to vote Democratic at a much higher rate than white males.

Myra McDaniel is probably the first black secretary of state (the Texas Legislative Library sources said Friday they weren't sure if there had been one during Reconstruction following the Civil War), and is only the third woman secretary of state.

The secretary of state's job is not a particularly high profile one in Texas, but it can be important because the person in that office is in charge of registering voters and conducting elections.

Ms. McDaniel stressed in a news conference last Thursday that she will concentrate on voter registration. "I feel stronger about voter registration than many people who have held this office," she said.

If she can inspire a greater participation of blacks and women in the 1984 election, the chances of Mondale-Ferraro increase.

Hance betting on death of immigration bill

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Opponents of the Simpson-Mazzoli immigration control bill are still betting on the legislation's failure in the final hectic month of an election-minded Congress, in spite of the appointment Thursday of 29 House members assigned to come up with a winning compromise.

"We've still got a 70 to 80 percent chance of killing the (immigration) bill," said Rep. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, who has led a coalition effort in the House against the legislation.

Out of the 29 House members appointed by House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill to an immigration conference committee, 19 congressmen voted in favor of the bill in June when it passed on a tight 216 to 211 vote.

Supporters of the bill pointed to the committee's makeup as a positive sign that the legislation probably will get the necessary votes to send it back to the House for a vote on final passage.

But opponents of the bill, such as Hance, said the measure would still meet a fatal end on the House floor with the final passage vote.

The conference committee, including two Texas congressmen, was appointed to work out differences between versions of the immigration bill originally passed by the House and Senate. Although the bill passed the House on the 216 to 211 vote, Hance and others have said that enough House members have switched their votes so that the bill would now fall short of a majority.

Hance also said Friday that House Speaker O'Neill might withhold the measure from the House floor until President Reagan gives a signal that he would not veto the final version of the bill. Members of the administration already had indicated that Reagan would veto the more costly House

Hispanic leaders, who have labored against the bill for years, believe the seeds of opposition that were planted at the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco will now have to bear fruit if the bill is to be defeated at the conference committee level.

"I would like to see if we could keep it from coming out of the conference (committee)," said Arnold Torres, executive director of the League of United Latin American Citizens. "And the only way to do that is for (former Vice President Walter) Mondale and (Rep. Geraldine) Ferraro to do the things we discussed out in San Francisco and that we understood they had agreed to do."

In San Francisco, Mondale and Ferraro pledged their opposition to the bill and averted a boycott of Hispanic votes on the first ballot for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"We haven't had any help from Mondale at this time, but there's not been any action taking place where we needed some," said Hance, who said he believed that Mondale would get involved in the attempt to kill the legislation. Hance made his strong opposition to amnesty for illegal aliens a key position of his unsuccessful bid for the U.S. Senate early in the summer.

Roger Conner, a lobbyist in favor of the bill with the Federation for American Immigration Reform, said it would be difficult to get a compromise out of the conference committee rolling back the date for legalization of illegal aliens now living in the United States. For the bill to pass the House on final passage, he said the amnesty date would have to be moved back from Jan. 1, 1982 in the House bill to the Senate date of Jan. 1, 1980.

"I say we've got a real tough fight in front of us to make sure that happens (rolling back the amnesty date)," said Conner.

Two Texans appointed to the conference committee were Rep. Sam Hall, D-Marshall, chairman of the House Judiciary subcommittee that considered the immigration bill, and Rep. E. "Kika" de la Garza, D-Mission, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, which also considered the bill.

Hall would not guess Thursday whether a compromise bill could pass the House on final passage. "It (the bill) has become so politicized, at the Democratic convention and throughout the country in many areas, I don't know whether a bill can be written that can be passed in the House."

He noted that strong efforts in the conference committee would be made to roll back the date for amnesty to 1980 and to eliminate the guest worker program passed in the House version of the bill.

Good effort

Opening night is history, but for the present the excitement will carry on.

Only once before has this sportswriter witnessed a high school comeback similar to that posted by the Steers. The results of that mentioned rally provided that program a shot in the arm. Hopefully the same will happen to the 1984 Steers.

I've been impressed already by the caliber of youngster wearing the Black and Gold and if ever a bunch deserved to win — not only the season opener — the majority of its games, this year's team is it. And it can win more than it loses (something that Big Spring hasn't seen in 14 years when the 1970 team was 5-5) if it consistently gets the kind of effort shown in the fourth quarter of Friday's victory.

Sure, it'll take more than a seven minute drill (unless most fans and coaches hearts are stronger than yours truly). It's going to take a full 48 minutes. And it's going to take every member of the team. Starters are admittedly the cog that keeps any successful athletic team rolling along, but capable and ready backups are a must.

In recapping the Steers fifth straight win over Snyder here are some highlights:

The Steers used a fumble recovery by Todd Coker to notch their first score against the Tigers, drove the ball 48 yards for another and then recovered a fumbled kickoff to set the stage for Colin Carroll's 25-yard field goal with seven ticks on the clock.

Carroll, who shared yardage honors with Jay Pirkle (both totaled 53), scored the initial td for Big Spring and booted the extra point. Pirkle tied the game with his plunge to the endzone. Shane Forrest was the player responsible for recovering the kickoff and helping set up the field goal chance.

On the other side of the line, head coach Quinn Eudy was quick to praise his defensive unit. Steer defenders, led by linebacker Jerry Anderson and tackle Doug Walker, limited the Tigers to 161 yards including only 17 rushing in the second half. Anderson also intercepted an errant Snyder pass.

Back on the subject of successful effort, it should be noted that Steer backers were out in a sizable number Friday. Along with effort from within, a successful team thrives on the support from without. Keep up the show of support and go for more in '84.

SAME FOR AREA

The same is true for the other teams in the Howard County Area.

A very courteous young lady from Coahoma called in Saturday morning and discussed the trials and tribulations of her team which fell hard in its opener, 21-0 to Seminole.

She made the point that although the 'Dogs were shutout, there were several young men who gave good effort and had their moments.

She's right. Earnest efforts don't always show up in a story, particularly if the team of one's heart fails to post points.

The point system, however is a necessary evil for such things as standings and the like. In the long run though there are no real losers. Everyone's a winner by virtue of participation.

Nation's top team falls

Wolverines calm Hurricanes

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Fullback Bob Perryman scored three touchdowns and Michigan stopped Miami quarterback Bernie Kosar with six interceptions and two fumble recoveries Saturday as the 14th ranked Wolverines defeated the top-ranked Hurricanes 22-14.

Miami, 2-1, trailed 12-7 midway through the fourth quarter and was driving when defensive tackle Mike Hammerstein leaped at the line to intercept a Kosar pass and set Michigan up at the Hurricanes' 24. The Wolverines then took seven plays to score, with Perryman plunging off right tackle from a yard out for his third touchdown.

Perryman had scored on a six-yard run in the first quarter following a Michigan fumble recovery and added a three-yard TD run late in the third quarter to pull the Wolverines out of a 7-6 deficit.

Miami's first TD came on a 32-yard pass from Kosar to Eddie Brown early in the third quarter.

Perryman's decisive score came with 7:01 remaining and two plays after Michigan passed up a 24-yard Bob Bergeron field goal. Miami was ruled guilty of roughing the kicker, giving Michigan a first down at the 3.

But the Hurricanes, trailing 19-7, took just 36 seconds with 6:25 remaining to drive 80 yards and score again with sophomore sensation Kosar hitting flanker Stan Shakespeare with a 44-yard touchdown pass.

Michigan ate up three minutes on its next possession, but was forced to punt.

Miami's last hopes were dashed when linebacker Rodney Lyles snared his second of three interceptions, returning the ball several yards to the Hurricane 11. Bergeron then wrapped things up with a 27-yard field goal with 1:12 remaining.

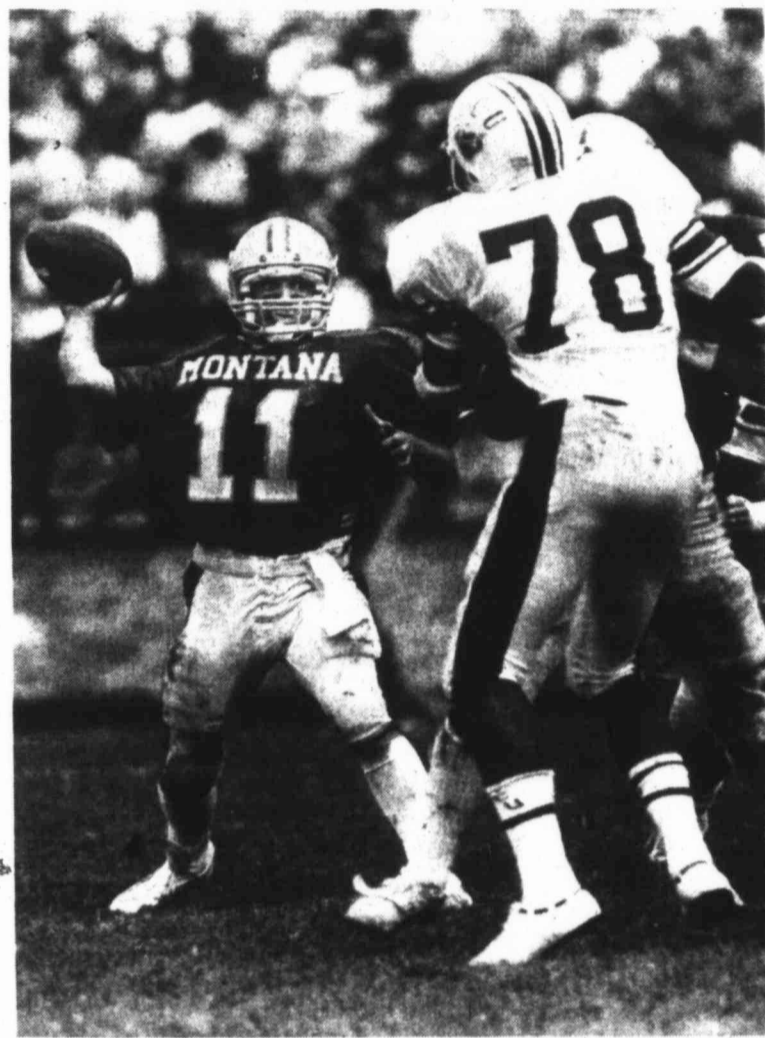

Michigan won its season opener before a crowd of 105,403.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Jeff Smith rushed for 170 yards and one touchdown to lead second-ranked Nebraska past Wyoming 42-7 in non-conference college football here Saturday.

The Cornhuskers overcame four first-half turnovers by scoring 21 third-quarter points on a 15-yard run by fullback Tom Rathman, a 2-yard run by Smith and a 1-yard quarterback sneak by reserve Travis Turner.

Turner also scored on a 1-yard sneak in the second period.

LOOKING FOR A RECORD — University of Montana quarterback Marty Mornhinweg looks dwarfed by Abilene Christian University defensive end Steve Ates as he gets set to complete another pass in Montana's 42-28 win. Mornhinweg completed 25 passes and rolled up a school record 365 passing yards against the Wildcats from the Lone Star Conference.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Mike Eppley passed for two touchdowns and Terrence Flagler and Ray Williams ran for two scores apiece as the third-ranked Clemson Tigers rolled to a 55-0 win over Virginia in college football Saturday night.

It was Clemson's 20th straight win over Atlantic Coast Conference opponents, but the game did not count in conference standings because the Tigers are on probation.

No. 7-ranked Irish 23-21 in their college football season opener at the Hoosier Dome.

Notre Dame scored twice in the first quarter for a 14-3 lead, but the Irish lost the ball five times on turnovers and were hurt late in the third quarter on an ineligible receiver penalty that forced them to punt to Purdue.

(No. 10) Iowa 59

Iowa State 21

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Iowa capitalized on eight Iowa State turnovers and rode Chuck Long's four touchdown passes to a 59-21 rout in a nonconference opener, which also featured an 86-yard scoring run by Iowa's Ronnie Harmon.

Iowa's veteran defense intercepted five passes and recovered three fumbles and the Hawkeyes turned six of those turnovers into scores — five touchdowns and a field goal. So critical were the turnovers that Iowa, which led 42-7 at halftime,

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Quarterback Rusty Hochberg fumbled out of the end zone in the third period for a safety and Nick Gancitano kicked a final period 36-yard field goal that enabled 11th-ranked Penn State to slip by Rutgers, 15-12, Saturday in the college football opener for both teams.

Unheralded Rutgers rallied in the second quarter with a 40-yard field goal by Tom Angstadt and Hochberg's 3-yard touchdown pass to Dwayne Hooper to overcome a 10-0 deficit.

Penn State took an intentional safety to kill the clock with seven seconds left in the game. Punter John Bruno ran out of the end zone for the safety that made the final score 15-12.

Sutcliffe hurts Mets on mound, at plate

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Sutcliffe pitched a four-hitter for his 12th straight victory and stroked a two-run double to contribute to a 15-hit attack as the Chicago Cubs defeated the New York Mets 6-0 Saturday night.

By pitching his third shutout of the season, Sutcliffe helped the Cubs regain a seven-game advantage over the Mets in the National League East.

The 28-year-old right-hander, 14-1, struck out 12 and didn't allow a walk in his fifth complete game this year. He retired the first 13 batters he faced before George Foster singled to center.

It was the fifth time this year Sutcliffe has struck out 10 or more batters.

Gary Matthews had three hits in the game, including his 11th homer of the season. He also drove in a pair of runs.

Keith Moreland doubled to right off Walt Terrell, 10-11, and he scored on Ron Cey's double to give the Cubs a 1-0 lead in the second inning.

Matthews homered on the first pitch of the sixth to give the Cubs a 2-0 lead. He drove another run with a single to right in the seventh inning, when the Cubs scored twice off reliever Doug Sisk.

Patriots out to break Orange Bowl jinx

By The Associated Press
It was Nov. 27, 1966 when the New England Patriots last won a game in Miami. Babe Parilli was their quarterback, Jim Nance their leading rusher and Gino Cappelletti was catching passes and kicking field goals when the Pats beat the Dolphins 20-14.

The Pats, 0-16 in Miami since then, will try again Sunday to beat the Orange Bowl jinx in a game they hope will give them credibility as a challenger to the Dolphins in the American Football Conference's Eastern Division.

Both the Patriots and the Dolphins are 1-0, but the Dolphins were far more impressive in their opener, romping over the Washington Redskins 35-17 behind Dan Marino's five touchdown passes. New England opened a 21-0 lead over the Buffalo Bills, then hung on for a 21-17 victory.

There are 11 other National Football League games Sunday.

Buffalo is at St. Louis, Dallas at the New York Giants, Denver at Chicago, Detroit at Atlanta, Kansas City at Cincinnati, Minnesota at Philadelphia, Tampa Bay at New Orleans, Cleveland at the Los Angeles Rams, Indianapolis at Houston, Green Bay at the Los Angeles Raiders, and San Diego at Seattle.

Washington is at San Francisco on the Monday night game.

Dallas and the Giants, both 1-0, were the only two NFC East teams to win last weekend and both did it in uncharacteristic fashion.

The Cowboys beat the Rams 20-13 Monday night despite five turnovers, as Gary Hogeboom threw for 343 yards in his first start and a suspect secondary limited Los Angeles' Vince Ferragamo to 11 completions in 33 attempts for 84 yards.

The Cowboy secondary will have to contend this week with Phil Simms, who threw for 409 yards and four touchdowns in a 28-27 victory over the Eagles.

The Cowboys may try to offset the loss of injured wide receiver Tony Hill by throwing more to Tony Dorsett, who caught 10 passes for 66 yards against the Rams.

It's the old immovable force-irresistable object collision at the Los Angeles Coliseum between the Packers and the Raiders.

The Raiders limited Houston's Warren Moon to 156 yards in their 24-14 victory last week.

Big Spring outdone in tennis play

The Big Spring High School tennis team could not add to its opening day success as Midland High netters outpointed the Steers 17-1 in District 4-5A dual match fall competition Saturday at the Figure 7 Tennis Center courts.

The only Big Spring victory was recorded by Aaron Allan, 7-6, 6-2 in boys singles. Allan teamed with fellow freshman Quade Weaver and gave the Steers their best doubles showing although they lost 7-6, 6-3, 6-7. In the three set match that lasted almost three and one half hours, the twosome led 5-4 before a series double faults allowed Midland's duo to capture the momentum.

Charlie Bott and Jeff Needles took their Midland foes to three sets also before losing 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

OPENING WAS GOOD
Big Spring had better luck disposing of Snyder in its fall season opener on Thursday, 12-6. Coach John Strahl said he was extremely pleased with the strength shown by his squad.

Heading the Steer netters this year will be captains Kristi Grimes and Linda Arroyo, both seniors. Daney Haney is a junior while boys returning from last year are juniors Mark Slate, Victor Coots and Bott. Needles, a sophomore, is also being touted after playing some varsity matches as a freshmen.

In Thursday's singles matches, Needles, Allen, Coots, Bot, Taff Wennich and Weaver all claimed wins. Only Slate lost and he was taken to three sets, 4-6, 6-0, 6-3.

In girls singles, Grimes, Laura Cunningham, Angie Wilson,

Haney, and Amber Logback were winners. Arroyo and Stacy Parks dropped their matches.

Needles and Bott and Allen and Weaver posted doubles wins while girls doubles winners included Grimes and Arroyo.

Lady Steers go 1-1 in tourney

SEMINOLE — The Big Spring Lady Steers team played some of their best volleyball here Friday and Saturday in two games of the Seminole Volleyball Tourname.

Big Spring closed out a 1-1 tourney by dropping its match with the hosting Indians, 12-15, 15-10, 9-15 in a match that lasted almost two hours.

"We lost, but played well if that makes any sense," said coach Susan Sharp. Seminole was the Class 3A runnerup last year. "Our conditioning was good. The thing that hurt were small mental mistakes. Our mistakes allowed Seminole six of its points in the deciding game," said Sharp.

Debbie Holguin and Tanya Ferguson led in service points with 12 and 11 apiece. Ferguson counted four aces among her total. Tab Green, Trel Clemons and Tami Green accounted for an additional 15 points.

Sharp also was complimentary of her backline comprised of Lisa Phillips and Tanya Stevenson. Sheila Chatman, a sophomore backup for Holguin, played well along the front line.

Big Spring opened the tournament by Friday by dusting off Brownfield 15-9, 15-2.

"The first game we were sluggish," Sharp said. "And in the second game we got our minds straight and we put it where the defense wasn't. We played much better as a team."

Leading the scorers for the Lady Steers was junior Tammi Green with 11. She was followed by senior Debbie Holguin 6, sophomore Sheila Catman, 5, senior Tanya Stevenson 4, senior Tanya Ferguson 3, and sophomore Tabitha Green 1.

The Lady Steers had a tremendous serving game, Sharp said. Big Spring missed only one serve in both games. The team had five aces serves and also 10 kills in both games, she said. Sharp said the Lady Steers got good play from Trel Clemons.

Ex Tigers, Cards to play today

Nostalgia baseball will be the order of the day today when former area standout sandlot players get together at Steer Park in an oldtimers' doubleheader.

Beginning at 2 p.m. a team comprised of Big Spring Tigers from the 1930's, '40's and '50's will play a team of former Midland Colts from the same era. Following that contest a team of Big Spring Cardinals from the 1960's and 1970's will face off against the Cardinals of 1984.

Both games will go about four or five innings according to Billy Pineda, a former Cardinal.

Among some of the Tigers participating will be Juan Garcia — in his 80's and the oldest player on either team — Pat Martinez, Sr., Tom Arista, Sr., George Martinez, Sunny Dutchover — one time professional umpire — Elias Gamboa, Gus Fierro, Charlie Fierro, Nico Pardeaze and Joe Cadenhead.

According to Dutchover former players are coming to Big Spring from all parts of the country.

THREE GIANTS

When Bill Russell, Wilt Chamberlain and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the three giants of basketball, began their college playing careers, they had such an enormous advantage over smaller players that the National Collegiate Athletic Association was forced to modify some of its rules. Bill Russell provoked the widening of the free-throw lane from six to twelve feet to make rebounding in the NCAA a little more of a challenge. Wilt Chamberlain nurtured the prohibition of guiding a teammate's shot into the basket. And, Jabbar was responsible for outlawing the "dunk" shot, the spectacular stuff-the-ball-through-the-basket slam. It was the only one to be rescinded.

Women's U.S. Open

Navratilova spoils another Evert-Lloyd bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Martina Navratilova battled behind to defeat Chris Evert Lloyd 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 Saturday and successfully defend her women's singles crown at the $2.55 million U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

It was Navratilova's sixth consecutive Grand Slam singles title, tying a record set by Margaret Smith Court from the 1969 U.S. Open to the 1970 Australian Open, and her 55th consecutive match victory — one behind the record set by Lloyd in 1974.

Earlier, Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia advanced to Sunday's men's championship match by outlasting Australia's Pat Cash in an epic 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-7, 7-6 struggle: Lendl, the men's No. 2 seed, is due to play the winner of the late night match between top-seeded John McEnroe and defending champion Jimmy Connors.

Both the women's and men's champions earn $160,000.

Lloyd, with the Louis Armstrong Stadium crowd of 20,811 solidly behind her, fell behind when she lost her service in the seventh game of the opening set. But she immediately broke back at love, then took the first set when she broke Navratilova again in the 10th game.

But Navratilova, who has lost only one match this year and two in the last two years, wasn't to be denied as the sun set over the Manhattan skyline on a chilly, windy day.

The victory was her 31st over Lloyd in 61 career meetings — a rivalry that goes back to 1973. And the first-place money raised Navratilova's career earnings to more than $8.3 million.

But it was also a moral victory for Lloyd, who battled Navratilova for one hour, 47 minutes. Until the final, Navratilova hadn't lost a set, and most of her matches were over in less than 60 minutes.

Lendl, basically known for his power game, utilized a perfect touch on several dramatically timed topspin lobs as he needed a grueling three hours, 39 minutes, staving off one match point before stopping his Australian opponent.

Following his loss, Cash tossed his racket into the stands and was later fined $2,000 for "unsportsmanlike conduct."

In the battle of serves, Cash had 11 aces to eight for Lendl. And Lendl had six double faults to five for the Australian.

Big Spring by LISA SWINNEY

Plague of the back-to-school blues

Have your sun-filled, fun-filled dreams been plagued with screaming school teachers and their rapping rulers lately? If so, then you happen to be suffering from the ever-common back-to-school blues!

Plenty of frolicking good times are ahead with the coming of fall and all it brings, so put away that sputan oil and dig out that ol' BSHS spirit!

Starting school always brings such hardships as alarms not going off, skipping breakfast, flat tires, being late, mixed up schedules, stubborn lockers and going to the wrong class; but, with a little positive attitude, school can bring you many memorable experiences. It can bring you fun times, good friends, dates, and football games — it just takes a little time and the right frame of mind to get geared for the new school year after a long, lazy summer.

There's nothing like ending "one of those days" as the spirited BSHS students did at the pep rally Aug. 27. Cheering about something in common, amongst old and new friends, can make you proud to be a part of the optimism of the morale-raising event.

It seems the enthusiasm of this year has raised morale in more than the students and teachers, as Big Spring showed they could score more in one quarter of the football game Friday night, than Snyder could in three quarters.

Big Spring woke the fans up at the end of the third quarter and had them sitting on the edge of their seats as they scored two touchdowns. Our zip standing vanished into thin air when, with one second to go, we were ahead with a score of 13-16.

After two weeks at school, surely you've noticed some changes, due to the legislature's rampage with the school system, which lessened the amount of assemblies to be held at BSHS. Big Spring has found a way around this; groups will be entertaining during both lunch periods in the cafeteria.

Don't be surprised if your "good" food is accompanied with "good" entertainment. It's enough to warrant a food fight!

If, because you're quite apprehensive, you've neglected getting your immunizations on Tuesday, you were faced with a decision to make. Either, you could quit school or take what was coming.

Hopefully, you got the shots and are still a part of our frenzied group! Since life isn't fair and we are certain to be faced with worse scares than this, just "go with the flow".

Anyway, who wants school to be shut down because of an epidemic? Did I hear a cheer and bells ringing?

Larger than life

Illinois town to honor giant of a man

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — The bronze memorial to Robert Wadlow would be larger than life, had he been a common man.

But Wadlow was uncommon, in many ways, and the statue that people in his hometown want to build will be as big as the "Gentleman Giant" they honor — 8 feet, 11 inches tall.

"All of us in Alton are aware of Robert Wadlow," said Stephen Hager, treasurer of the committee organized to build the statue.

"Wadlow was a very, very unique person — an extraordinary person," Hager said Thursday. "He was not a circus freak as a lot of people might think. He was an intelligent, caring man and very much a goodwill ambassador for Alton and the state."

Wadlow was the world's tallest man when he died in 1940 at age 22. And according to the 1983 Guinness Book of World Records he is still "the tallest recorded man of whom there is irrefutable evidence ..."

The Robert P. Wadlow Project Committee already has a $20,000 pledge from two service clubs, but needs $33,450 more to complete the statue project, hopefully by the fall of 1985.

"This project should be a source of community pride," Hager said. "We want to be able to have a place where children can come and stand beside this very big man and get an understanding of how big he really was — not just in size."

Wadlow was shy and never sought publicity, although he did work briefly in a circus and toured in the 1930s as a representative of a shoe company.

Wadlow was born with a glandular disorder and by the age of 8 he stood 6 feet 2½ inches tall and weighed 195 pounds.

Still, he led a normal youth, swimming and fishing with his brother, joining the Boy Scouts. He was described in a 1941 book by his late father, former Alton Mayor Harold Wadlow Sr., as the "Gentleman Giant."

He never complained publicly about his size or physical discomfort he endured, but did let his feelings show once as a teenager.

THREE BROTHERS — Robert Wadlow, shown in this 1936 photograph with brothers Eugene, 14, and Harold Jr., 4, was the world's tallest man at 8 feet 11 inches tall when he died in 1940 at age 22. Now, civic groups in his hometown of Alton are raising money to build a statue in his honor.

fit in that made Wadlow special. "If he was average size, he would be a normal person," he said. "But he was so large and still lived with this handicap — size."

Garden City by GINA WILDE and LEANN SEIDENBERGER

School life brings full schedule of activities

Life at Garden City High School is already in full swing as students are greeted by new teachers and a full schedule of activities.

Garden City's football team has played in two scrimmages, one against Rankin and one against Sterling City, doing well in both.

Friday night, the Bearcats hosted the Miles Bulldogs in the first non-district game.

Keeping the spirit alive, are the High School cheerleaders: Gena Schaefer, head, Stephanie Frerich, Carol Hoelscher, Michele Pechacek, Dana Hoelscher, Jacque Jost and Gina Wilde.

Goliad by MARC SCHWARZ

Big day of confusion for 6th, 7th graders

Monday, August 27, was a big day for the 6th and 7th graders attending Goliad Middle School. It was the first day of classes, and for many, a day of confusion.

With Labor Day past, most of the students are getting down to work in earnest. Report cards will be handed out every six weeks.

The girl's volleyball team split games with Brownfield Tuesday. The A team won with a score of 14-16, 15-3 and 15, and the B team lost by a score of 2-15, 15-10 and 1-15.

The football team is working very hard, getting ready for their upcoming games. The A and B teams will play against Sweetwater Thursday, while the C team will play Greenwood.

Good luck to Goliad girls and fellas next week!

State education board holds last meeting

AUSTIN (AP) — At what could be the last meeting of the current State Board of Education, members on Saturday joked about going out of business, prayed for their successors, had a spat over a few words in a textbook proclamation and heard a glowing financial report.

The board also voted to cancel its October meeting at the suggestion of State Education Commissioner Raymon Bynum. Bynum said unless the U.S. Department of Justice raises a question about the new appointed Board of Education by Sept. 25, the current board will go out of existence.

Gov. Mark White is in the process of selecting 15 members from a list of 45 nominees for the new board.

Coal miners' union hits gold strike with fund

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — The United Mine Workers' first nationwide strike fund has reached more than $40 million, a war chest that may back selective walkouts if no new contract with the coal industry is reached by Sept. 30, union officials said.

Talks between the UMW and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association broke down Aug. 22, and no new sessions have been scheduled.

The new "selective strike fund" is so large that it collects more than $11,000 a day in interest, said the UMW's chief spokesman, Joe Corcoran.

UMW President Rich Trumka wanted the fund as part of his plan to drop the union's traditional "no contract, no work" stance, in which strikes were industry-wide.

As approved by delegates to the union's constitutional convention in December, 2½ percent of each working miner's gross wages goes into the fund. Previously, miners donated voluntarily, Corcoran said Saturday.

The fund would be tapped to pay miners who strike companies targeted by Trumka after the UMW's current pact expires at the end of the month.

Trumka believes those companies, worried about losing their share of the market to others still working, will "have a lot of incentive to negotiate a fair contract and get back to work."

But industry leaders say the strategy won't work because they will shut down operations nationwide in the event of a selective strike.

The fund will reach the $70 million mark, the point at which no further payments by miners will be made, by January or February as long as there is no major strike, Corcoran said from his Washington, D.C., office. Once that level is reached, the fund will sit untouched, gaining more interest, until a strike occurs, he said.

"That fund stays," he said. "It would be left to grow for the next set of negotiations."

While most attention has been focused on the possibility of a nationwide strike by the UMW this fall, Corcoran said the fund has already been drawn upon in three strikes.

Miners at Peabody Coal Co.'s Black Mesa and Kayenta mines in Arizona conducted a monthlong strike this spring while three other Peabody operations continued to work, he said.

"We used them (strike benefits) there, we used them in North Dakota, and we're currently using them in District 25," home of the eastern Pennsylvania anthracite beds, he said.

Six union locals in District 25 have been striking two companies since June 1, when they dropped out of the Anthracite Operators Association, said district president Mike Semko.

Oklahoma fires torch rangeland

By The Associated Press

Grass fires that blackened more than 400 square miles of Oklahoma rangeland were reduced to "a few hot spots" Saturday, but a 15-day ban on open burning was in effect in Kansas, where blazes scorched 11 counties, destroyed a home and temporarily routed nursing home residents.

Authorities in both states said the wind-swept fires were aggravated by the parched condition of grasslands, but rain Saturday eased some of their fears that new blazes could spring up.

"We're in pretty good shape now," said Vern Robinson, assistant fire chief at Shidler in northeast Oklahoma. "It's sprinkling a little right now, and that's a real help. There's only a few hot spots left."

Firefighters and ranch hands with cattle sprayers and wet gunny sacks "worked their tails off" Friday to contain fires that destroyed everything in their paths, Robinson said. "A conservative estimate is that 300,000 acres burned."

There were no serious injuries from the fires that raced across northeast Oklahoma for two days, although an unknown number of cattle died despite the efforts of cowboys who rode through the flames to cut fences.

Another range fire about 50 miles south of Oklahoma City, near Pauls Valley, covered Interstate 35 with smoke Friday, resulting in a 10-car pileup that killed three people and injured nine others.

Meanwhile, authorities kept an eye on the weather in western and north-central Kansas, where a high danger of fire remained.

Firefighters in 11 counties Friday battled grass fires that scorched tens of thousands of acres.

A fire in the Butler County town of El Dorado destroyed a home and outbuildings as it traveled 17 miles before being extinguished, and a second fire near Towanda stretched 12 miles.

About 30 residents of the Wichita Care Center in Sedgwick County were evacuated Friday afternoon when a grass fire approached, but the flames were put out within 30 feet of the building, authorities said.

Gov. John Carlin on Friday ordered a halt to open burning for 15 days and sent the National Guard to help local efforts.

Winds gusting to 55 mph fanned the flames, blew away parched cropland and damaged several homes, barns and sheds.

In Southern California, the largest of several fires that have struck since a heat wave began parching the area last week was 95 percent contained, a state fire official said.

The 3,200-acre blaze in central San Diego County should be contained by midnight Saturday, said Cele Cuidari, fire information officer with the state Forestry Department.

Firefighters also doused three smaller fires in the county Saturday. A 100-acre blaze near Claremont, east of Los Angeles, was extinguished Friday night, a day after a fire threatened a mobile home park in Topanga Canyon, just west of Los Angeles, on Thursday.

Ferraro blasts administration; says it's built on pile of excuses

PORTLAND, Me. (AP) — Campaigning through New England, Geraldine Ferraro said Saturday the pundits are "wrong, wrong, wrong" when they predict the nation will re-elect a Reagan administration that she said is built on "a pile of excuses."

The Democratic vice presidential nominee also likened the budget deficits built up during President's Reagan's tenure to a poisonous cloud hanging over the economy.

CALLING THE SHOTS — Democratic Vice Presidential nominee Geraldine Ferraro speaks Thursday at a fund raiser in Kansas City. She later made a campaign swing of the New England states.

"A deficit isn't easy to understand; you can't see it, you can't smell it, you can't touch it. But you can feel a deficit," she told a crowd of several thousand gathered outside Portland City Hall.

"You're feeling it right now. Ask the businessmen and farmers of Maine who are trying to buy new equipment or the young family trying to buy a new home or the parents trying to finance their children's college," she said.

Ms. Ferraro also was making appearances in Connecticut at New Haven and Hartford.

She said the current economic upturn was only "a credit card recovery."

"You can't build a strong foundation on a pile of sand and you can't build a strong economy on a mountain of debt."

"And let me say one thing to Mr. Reagan. You can't build a relationship of trust with the American people on a pile of excuses."

She was given an enthusiastic welcome in Maine, a state which has a history of women in politics, from Margaret Chase Smith, who served in the U.S. Senate, to Olympia Snowe, who is one of Maine's two members of the House of Representatives. Both women are Democrats.

Rep. Libby Mitchell, who is running for the U.S. Senate, told the crowd that Ms. Ferraro "is going to be the woman who can answer Freud's question, 'What is it that women want?'"

Authority suspends motorman

CHICAGO (AP) — The motorman who was operating a Chicago Transit Authority train when it crashed into another train, killing one person and injuring 47 others, has been suspended for not cooperating with crash investigators, a transit authority spokesman says.

Joseph Van Buren, who told authorities that all braking systems on his train had failed just before the Aug. 17 crash, will be idled for 30 days because of "failure to comply with an ongoing investigation," authority chairman Michael Cardilli said Friday.

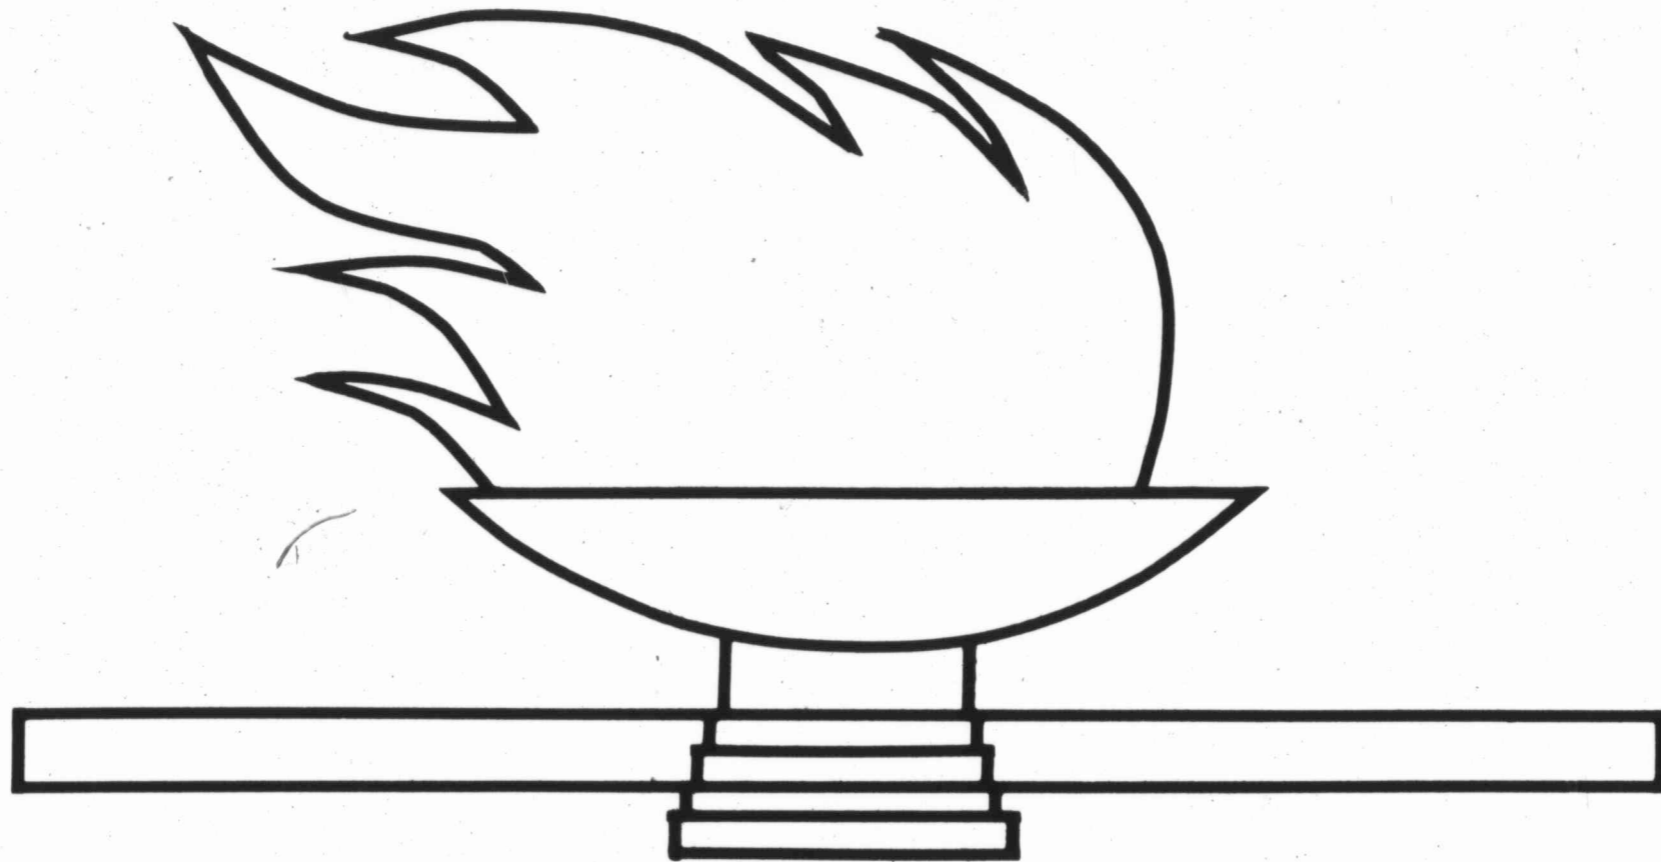

Cardilli would not elaborate on Van Buren's behavior. However, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board, which has been investigating the accident, said Van Buren, 55, has been "very up-front" with the board.

Meanwhile, a transit union attorney said the authority as using Van Buren as a scapegoat because the cause of the accident has not yet been determined.

Van Buren was operating a train heading south for the city's Loop at rush hour when the train rolled back into another southbound train at the Montrose station.

People remember grandparents' love

By TINA STEFFEN

What do you remember about your grandparents? "They were always there when you needed them."

That was a consistent answer as the Herald took a man-on-the-street survey during the week to capture people's thoughts about grandparenting and grandparents in recognition of "Grandparents' Day" today.

Donna Dickinson had many things to say about her grandmother Estelle Daugherty of Baltimore, Md. "Whenever we needed someone to talk to she was always there. She always tried to help us out with our mom when we went through teenage differences." Mrs. Daugherty encouraged her granddaughter to experience the trends during her teenage years so long as she didn't go overboard.

"She's sweet," Shelly Clement of Lamesa said about her grandmother. Shelly was in town for a doctor's appointment. She is expecting a baby any day, which means a new object for the attentions of her grandparents. "She helps me when I ask a question. She gives me a good answer," she said. "(Grandfathers) are funny. Mine is." Mrs. Clement is the granddaughter of Edna and Howard Chapman of Lamesa.

"I've been a great-granddaddy and a granddaddy," said Willie Johnson of 906 NW 1st St. He has nine great-grandchildren and anywhere from 25 to 30 grandchildren. "I thank the good Lord for sparing me to live long enough to have grandkids and great-grandkids. I couldn't have had them without Him."

Four-year-old Jon Pairett is the son of Clayton and Janie Pairett, Gail Route. He was a little shy about speaking about his grandfather, but said, "He takes us to places." Jon is the grandson of Clifton and Martha Pairett of Lake Coleman and Ruby Watson of San Angelo.

"We used to always go fishing every weekend when school was out when we were in Oklahoma," Howard Shivers said as he remembered his grandfather, Riley Shivers. "He was a mechanic with a bunch of old cars. We used to play on them and mess around with them."

"He had a big garden behind the house," Shivers said. "I used to try to pick the carrots and the tops would come off."

"My grandmother was always cooking all the time," he said. He remembers her good cooking and the family get-togethers on July 4. That was Mrs. Shivers' birthday and she helped the family pop firecrackers.

"They were always available when you needed them," said Frances Ferguson, 1419 Stadium, about her grandparents. "They lived in Tennessee and things were a lot simpler then. They had the time to spend with you," she said.

Mrs. Ferguson also is a grandmother with thoughts about grandparenting. "It makes you realize you're getting old. It's a lot of fun. I really enjoy it."

"I want to help them out when they go to school. I'll probably spoil them...rotten!"

Mary Odell also is a grandparent. "(Grandparenting) is the greatest joy in life. It's a fulfillment in life," she said. She has been a grandparent to two girls in Dalhart for 19 years. "We've gone shopping, we've vacationed together and we just have good fellowship together. We just like to sit and talk."

"My grandmother was like a second mother," she said. "She lived near. We spent a lot of our summers with her. The last year of her life we lived with her; W.C. and I did after we were married."

"To sum it up," she said, "a grandmother is like a friend that is always there to talk when you need them."

Tami Jenkins agreed. "(Grandparents) are always there when you want them. They don't put you down for anything. Mine wouldn't. I love mine to death."

"(Grandparents) built our families," said Gov. White in his memorandum designating this as Grandparents' Day. "They built America, and their persistence and belief in themselves and our nation has enabled it and us to weather the bad times and rejoice in the good times. Let us rededicate ourselves to preserving their legacy."

'Grandparents' bring outside in to convicts

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

IONIA, Mich. (AP) — "They call me grandmother," beamed Bernadette Gallagher. "Some of them tease me. They wish me a happy Mother's Day."

"I'm not afraid of them — that's the biggest part," she said.

Most grandmothers aren't afraid of their families. But Mrs. Gallagher's "grandchildren" are convicted felons — thieves, assaultants, rapists, even killers.

Mrs. Gallagher is one of 11 foster grandparents, age 65-74, who work four hours a day, five days a week, at the Michigan Training Unit in Ionia, a medium-security prison for men, most under 21 years old.

"I'm a substitute for their real grandmother," said the friendly, white-haired Greenville woman, eyeing a prison classroom full of wary young men. "Most of them come from broken homes."

Her gentle voice, the orderly classroom and graceful landscaped grounds suggest a college campus. But only yards away are barred doors, double fences, guardposts and rolls of razor-sharp wire that imprison 780 men.

"They really miss her when she's gone," said teacher Margaret Beach. "Some say she reminds them of their grandmother. "She is in no danger in here." The unusual program — believed to be the first of

'While they're there (the grandparents) make a difference immediately, they make the environment more human. They bring the outside in.'

its kind in the nation — is a joint effort of Eight Cap Inc., a four-county community action agency, and the state Department of Corrections.

The program began in October 1983 and offers prisoners a chance to develop reading abilities and learn trades and other skills under a veteran eye. It also lets them talk to someone from the outside who isn't responsible for keeping them behind bars.

It lets the foster grandparents get out of the house, do something meaningful and earn a little money — $2 an hour. They must be over 60 and low-income — under $6,000 a year for a single person — and each is assigned to four inmates.

"She teaches them some new things — they teach her some new things," Douglas Moore, an office education teacher, said of Mrs. Gallagher. Inmates pecked away at typewriters while an elderly woman watched.

"She has a good listening ear. It gives them someone else to talk about society to, what to expect when they get out," he said.

"And she can bring in practical skills — she owned her own business once."

The inmates like the program.

But Chris Parsons, Eight Cap coordinator for the 48-member foster grandparent program — which is financed by $165,125 in state money and also involves schools — cautions against expecting too much from the prison project.

Inmates all say they're going straight, she said, but many will commit further crimes and land back in prison.

"It's idealistic to say a relationship with a foster grandparent will change his life," she said.

"But while they're there (the grandparents) make a difference immediately, they make the environment more human. They bring the outside in.

"When the grandparents aren't there, they are missed," Mrs. Parsons said. "Having foster grandparents there keeps the institution a little more settled." She said vulgar language is reduced and inmates are more orderly.

Prison administrators agree, despite the fact the program initially was opposed by prison employees.

"It's been a tremendous advantage to the institution," said Andrew Jackson, administrative assistant to superintendent Richard Handlon.

"Prisoners see the staff as authority figures. With the grandparents, they can talk to them informally... Some guys have not had one-to-one contact with an older person."

"There have been no problems," Jackson said. The grandparents are more than willing to work. "They are so dedicated. And they're never sick," said Mrs. Parsons.

"We're really pleased with the grandparents and can't wait to get more of them on board," said Handlon.

"They're not seen as part of the staff," added Gene Korolewicz, who teaches a vocational class at the prison. "It's a non-threatening role. Andy (Jackson) and I represent 'the man.' There's always that barrier between us."

Chuck Searfoss of Gail Route keeps a kitten named Lynx. She's not an ordinary kitty cat, though. Lynx is a pet bobcat.

Searfoss' son, Phillip, came across two orphaned baby bobcats when he was working in the oilfield in April 1983. He gave one to a friend, who later gave the kitten away, and one to his father.

Searfoss, a local vegetable grower, doesn't believe the kitten was more than a week old when she came to her new home on Searfoss' farm north of Big Spring.

"When we got her, her eyes were open, but she couldn't see," he said. He and his wife, Lorena, spent several weeks bottle feeding the baby bobcat.

"She used to be hostile because she still had that instinct from being wild," he said. "She used to attack for bloody meat but not since I got new food," called Meat-Eater. "Since I've been feeding her this, she's been real good," said Searfoss, who also feeds the finicky feline chicken necks. "She gets the best," he said.

Lynx, who refuses to eat scraps or hard food, lets the family know when she's hungry by going to the refrigerator, Searfoss said.

Weighing about 35 pounds, Lynx is about 5 feet long and 5 hands tall. She is sandy-blond colored accented with dark brown spots all over her body. Her front paws have been declawed, and she has had her rabies shot.

Lynx is a pampered kitten in more ways than one. She not only has a bedroom and a cage connected to the house by a trap door, she has been paper-trained on Pampers, the disposable diapers for babies. She also has a litter box. A big litter box.

"She's smart, I tell you. She can open that bedroom door," said Searfoss.

"If she's bad, I put her in her room. Then when she's really, really bad, I threaten her with a belt." But he doesn't hit her.

"(A bobcat is) a delicate animal," he said. "You've got to be real careful with them." When Lynx was younger, she used to get spanked with the flyswatter. But now that she has outgrown it, she chews up the flyswatter.

'(A bobcat is) a delicate animal. You've got to be real careful with them.'

Lynx also enjoys decorating her outside cage. "She's a pack rat. She's got combs out there, brushes out there. Now we're missing a toothbrush," Searfoss said. "She'll go in there and pull that dang stopper (in bathroom sink) out and carry it off."

She also has her bad days, says Searfoss. "If she gets a little upset, she'll go tear the bed up. She gets her bad moments, if something goes wrong."

Lynx, who has a collar and leash and goes for walks every night, enjoys playing with Searfoss' two dogs, Mike and Terry. She also has a stuffed animal that is hers only, and if anyone bothers it, she gets very upset, said Searfoss.

He says Lynx is a good alarm clock. "She'll wake me up every morning at 5:30, 6 o'clock, and she won't miss."

"She's a good watchdog, er, watchcat," he said. But "as far as strangers coming in, she's never hurt anybody. She just loves people."

WILD ANIMAL — Chuck Searfoss has a pet bobcat named Lynx. Searfoss received the bobcat from his son, who found the kitten in the oilfield. Lynx was less than a week old when the Searfosses adopted him. They spent several weeks bottle feeding the kitten. Lynx is quite a character, taking combs, brushes and even the stopper out of the bathroom sink and hiding them from the Searfoss family.

Dear Abby

Tragedy isn't what woman conceives

DEAR ABBY: I grew up as a normal child, but as I reached puberty, I knew something was wrong. Although physically I was a male, I felt as though I was really a female, trapped in a male body. I started to read up on sex-change operations, and when I reached 21, I had sex-change surgery, hoping to lead a normal life as a female. I was extremely happy as a woman — until two months ago. Then a tragic event happened, one that will scar my life forever.

I was in a singles bar and noticed a man staring at me, but paid no attention to him. As I was leaving he followed me out. My car was parked a few blocks away, but before I could get to it, this man caught up with me, pushed me into an alley and raped me!

After that night I became a social recluse. I stayed in my apartment for two months. My friends finally persuaded me to go for medical help. When I was examined by a doctor, he informed me that I was pregnant!

Can I take legal action against the doctor who performed my sex change? Also, will I be my child's father or mother?

DESPERATE IN SEATTLE
DEAR DESPERATE: If you want to sue a doctor, sue the one who told you you were pregnant. He misdiagnosed your case, causing you great mental anguish.

It is not possible for a male who has had sex-change surgery to conceive.

And if you plan to do any more creative writing, I suggest that you hone up on your facts first.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14. My 16-year-old sister was committed to a mental hospital during summer vacation, and she was not out by the time school started. When people asked me where she was all summer, I said she was visiting relatives back in Wisconsin.

Now that school has started, people are wondering why my sister isn't back from Wisconsin. So far we have kept this a family secret, and now I am running out of answers. Have you any suggestions for a polite reply?

UPSET IN INDIANA
DEAR UPSET: The truth is always best. Say your sister is in a hospital being treated for emotional problems. It's no disgrace. No family is without them.

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a handsome guy I'll call Joe. We had plans to get married next month.

Well, Joe rented a motel room for the two of us to be alone on the weekend. He called me on the phone and told me to go to the desk and ask for the key to Room 103 and he would be there. I was supposed to meet him at 12 o'clock noon on Saturday.

I got there 20 minutes early and found Joe in bed with another girl! I told him the wedding was off and I gave him back his ring. He says he still loves me and the girl I caught him with means nothing to him.

My friends say I should give Joe another chance. My family says I should forget him. Please help me make the right decision.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: I vote with your family. "Joe must go!"

Deep soakings are beneficial

DENVER (AP) — Infrequent, deep soakings in the morning create a healthy lawn and conserve water, says the American Water Works Association.

It says deep soakings encourage strong root growth. Morning watering prevents the leaf burn of afternoon sun shining on water drops, and the lawn diseases that can develop on a cool, moist lawn watered at night.

Step on the lawn to determine if it needs watering. If the grass blades spring back, no water is necessary. But if the blade tend to stay flat, sprinkle deeply again.

Wedding

Johnson-Cofer

Rita Janette Johnson of Fort Worth and Stephen Michael Cofer of La Margue, were wed before a floral archway in a poolside ceremony at the Ridge Mar Apartments in Fort Worth, Aug. 3. Ron Cullers, Church of Christ minister, officiated at the rite.

The bride is the daughter of Ruth Vinson of Whitney and the late J.H. Vinson. The bridegroom is the son of Oliver and Bonnie Cofer, 1707 Settles.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Jimmy Epps. She wore a cream silk gown trimmed with Shibley lace and tiny pearls. She carried a bouquet of various-colored flowers.

Carole Hogan of Fort Worth was maid of honor. Jay Berry of Midland was best man. Pamela Jane Courtney and Paula Yarbrough were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted at a reception in the same location. The bride's table was draped with a cream lace cloth and centered with assorted flowers. It held a three-tiered white and pastel cake topped with a bride and bridegroom figurine. The bridegroom's table featured a chocolate hat-shaped cake.

The bride is a graduate of Whitney High School and Tarrant County Junior College. She attended Hill Junior College. She is employed by Dr. Joseph M. Berman in Arlington as a patient accounts manager. The bridegroom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and Howard College. He attended University of Texas in Arlington. He is employed as public relations manager for Lone Star Liquor and Penland Distributing Company in Fort Worth.

Following a wedding trip to Puerto Vallarta, the couple will live in Fort Worth.

Members answered the Planters Garden Club roll call with the name of a plant they plan to enter in the mini flower show. The meeting was held at the home of Adele Tibbs, Wednesday.

Club yearbooks were handed out. Members decided to have a flower arranging workshop at Canterbury Apartments, Sept. 10, for the mini flower show at the Howard County Fair. The fair will be held Sept. 17-22.

Doris Guy reported on the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs. The Council's ticket sales for the luncheon and book review at Garrett Hall of First United Methodist Church, Oct. 13, are going well.

Several donations for the Johnny Johansen Scholarship Fund have been made.

The Council will join the downtown project and will beautify several spots around town. All clubs were asked to give assistance when called upon to "Beautify Big Spring."

The 1985 Vision of Beauty, a flower arrangement and management calendar, can be obtained by any council member or Garden Club member.

Planters Garden Club's next meeting will be at 3:30 p.m. Oct. 3 at the home of Doris Guy, 1305 Tucson.

Foot shock major injury

CHICAGO (AP) — Excessive foot shock, when sustained over long time by runners, joggers or other athletes, can contribute to a number of injuries to the feet, legs and lower back, according to a foot specialist.

Jumping and running on hard surfaces puts enormous pressure on the feet and knees — as much as two to five times total body weight, notes Dr. Charles J. Gudas, clinical professor of surgery in the orthopedic section of surgery, University of Chicago.

"Although the human foot is a very effective natural shock absorber," he says, "excessive shock, especially when it causes the foot to strike the surface at an unnatural angle, can cause a number of injuries."

CUTICLE CARE

Have you been good enough to yourself to have regular manicures by a professional manicurist? Notice that she never cuts the cuticles. They are there to protect the only living part of the nail, the matrix, where nail growth begins. If the cuticles were to be cut, the body would defend itself naturally by growing them back even thicker. The correct way to care for cuticles is to first apply a softening cream to keep them supple. They are then pushed back using a hindo stone, which is a fine pumice in the shape of a pencil, or an orange wood stick wrapped in cotton. Entrust your nails to a professional manicurist. She will do an excellent job and provide you with some moments of luxuriant relaxation.

You're in good hands with the staff of LA CONTESSA. We are here to offer you the total look for hair design and fashion. We have seven operators to offer you individualized attention. Our specialization extends into all phases of the beauty profession. You will find us conveniently located at 1508 Marcy. We are available Tues.-Sat. Tel. 267-2187.

Play... Dallas Cowboy Football! WIN UP TO $1,000

HERE'S HOW TO PLAY!

Obtain a free Dallas Cowboy Pro-Football weekly game card each time you visit a Winn-Dixie store. No purchase necessary. Then watch Dallas Cowboy Pro-Football each week on network television or check your local newspaper or result poster at any Winn-Dixie store for the score of both teams at the completion of the game.

If the last number of the final score of each team matches the score on your Dallas Cowboy Pro-Football game card, you win the dollar amount indicated on your card, either $1, $2, $5, $10, $100 or $1,000. EXAMPLE: If the score on your card reads DALLAS 9, NEW ENGLAND 7, it means the DALLAS score could be 9, 19, 29, 39, 49, 59, etc., and the NEW ENGLAND score could be 7, 17, 27, 37, 47, 57, etc. Any combination of scores ending in 9 for DALLAS and 7 for NEW ENGLAND would give you a winning card.

If you have a winning card, take it to any Winn-Dixie store by close of business Saturday night following that week's game for verification. Store Manager will redeem authentic $10, $5, $2 or $1 winners on the spot and arrange for payment of $1,000 and $100 winners.

Financial burden from child care costs can be reduced

By CHANGING TIMES
The Kiplinger Magazine

If you're a parent paying for day care for your child, you should know that there are ways of reducing the financial burden to you and your family.

For middle-income families, the most likely source of help is the credit on your federal income tax return for child- and dependent-care expenses you incur while working or looking for work. See IRS Publication No. 503, "Child and Disabled Dependent Care," and Form 2441, "Credit for Child and Dependent Care Expenses," for more information. Many states have a similar child-care tax credit.

Parents who take the federal child care tax credit can anticipate it on their W-4 withholding forms so that the money will be channeled into paychecks throughout the year. Depending on your income, the credit absorbs between 20 percent and 30 percent of your child-care expenses, which are capped at $2,400 for one child and $4,800 for two or more.

If your adjusted gross income is $28,000 or more, you can claim no more than $480 for one child or $960 for two or more.

A few employers have picked up on a 2-year-old federal tax provision that allows them to create a Dependent Care Assistance Program to make child care a business expense to them and a tax-free benefit to employees.

The DCAAP plan, which must be put in writing and circulated to employees, could call for the employer to provide care, to contract with a third party to provide it or to reimburse employees for child-care expenses up to a certain limit.

However, if you choose dependent-care assistance as one option in a cafeteria benefit plan, the IRS proposes to treat the benefit as taxable income to you unless the plan is set up on a "use it or lose it" basis. That means you'll be taxed if you're entitled to reimbursement for any unused portion of the child-care benefit or if you have the right to change your mind and take the benefit in cash after you've elected child-care coverage and the coverage period has started.

IF YOU DON'T READ THIS, YOU'D BETTER HOPE SOMEONE ELSE DOES.

Suppose someone sitting across from you at lunch was having a heart attack. Would you know what to do?

If you, or someone else, didn't act quickly, that person might die. And how can you act quickly, if you don't know what to do?

That's why the Red Cross offers CPR and First Aid courses that teach you what to do in an emergency.

Because one day someone's life may depend on the techniques the Red Cross can teach you now.

So call them. Because you never know when you'll be glad you did.

Hale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armond Hale of Lamesa. The couple will wed Oct. 13 at Midway Baptist Church. The Rev. PLANS ANNOUNCED — Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hernandez, Robstown, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Dalia, to Alejandro Ruiz Jr., son of the Rev. and Mrs. Alejandro Ruiz, Rt. 1. The couple will wed Oct. 6 at Templo Jerusalem Assembly of God Church in Robstown. The Rev. Salvador De La Rosa, pastor, will officiate.

Lifestyle policies

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcements. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

Weaver speaks to ABWA about interest rates

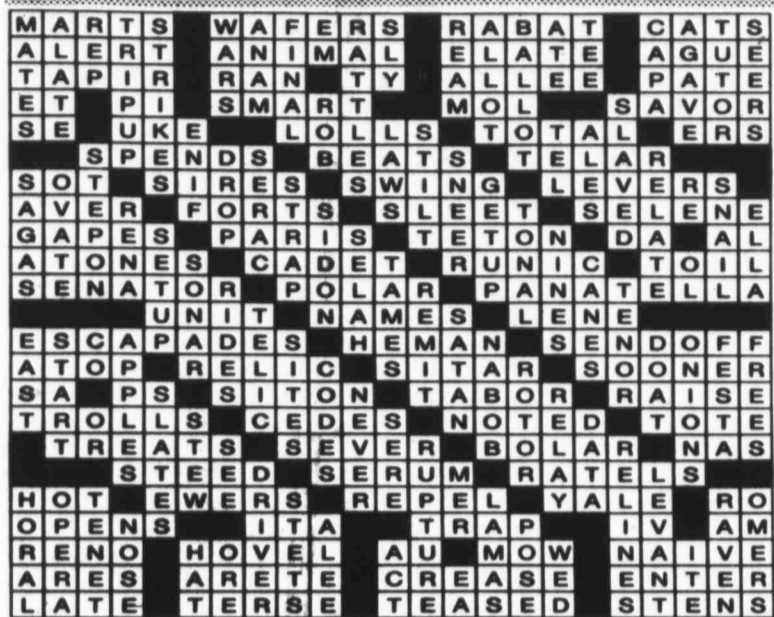

Jim Weaver spoke to members of the Scenic Chapter of American Business Women's Association at their meeting Tuesday. Weaver, manager of Citizen's Credit Union, spoke on "Interest Rates on Savings." Interest is the return on your principal, Weaver said. Compound interest is the return on interest. Yield is income earned. Some places fail to give all the information a depositor needs to know about the interest rates they are receiving, Weaver said. Weaver listed a few questions a depositor should ask when investing money. How many times is the interest compounded? Daily? Weekly? On a loan can you use your certificate of deposit for collateral? What is your net income for this year? What is your reserve ratio? Bernie Mott of Stanton spoke about her job as a bookkeeper for John Deere in Stanton. The Enrollment Tea will be from 2 to 4 p.m. Sept. 23 at Southwestern Bell's Central Office on 8th and Runnels.

Massage therapy looks to feet in curing ills

By MARK FRITZ

Bloomsburg Press-Enterprise

UNITYVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Clara Biggar Manz is not a faith healer, but she does lay on hands. She lays hands on people's feet.

She's a foot masseuse, practicing a quasi-medical massage therapy known as reflexology. Reflexologists claim they can cure every ailment from cataracts to hemorrhoids.

Reflexology is based on the theory that there are nerve endings, or "reflexes," in the foot connected to every other part of the body. By manipulating the appropriate part of the foot, a reflexologist can send relief to whatever body part is ailing.

The theory behind reflexology resembles acupuncture, but unlike acupuncture it is not supported by hundreds of years of practice. Reflexology was first practiced in 1913.

A typical reflexology session with Clara Manz, 83, usually lasts from 20 to 30 minutes. You can get an old-fashioned, muscle-powered massage, or she'll do it with the aid of her electric vibrator.

If you know what part of your body hurts, Mrs. Manz concentrates her efforts on the corresponding part of your foot.

But if you're unsure where it hurts, she can often make a diagnosis by doing some exploratory probing while giving an overall massage.

When the patient screams, the Unityville woman knows she's found the spot.

She has been practicing reflexology since 1959. On the wall in the tiny room in her home she calls her office is an official-looking document which says she completed a "Post Graduate Course in the Ingham Method of Compression Massage."

But she sets little store by documents. She says she learned her craft by doing it, apprenticing with her late husband, Gratz Biggar.

Biggar, in turn, learned the technique from Clara's sister Esther, a registered nurse in Rochester, N.Y., home of the Ingham School of Reflexology. Esther started experimenting on a female patient, whom doctors had said would never walk again.

In desperation, the woman's husband offered Esther $500 if she could get his wife to walk. After three months of reflexology, the woman walked and Esther collected.

In the 25 years she has been practicing, Mrs. Manz has treated a lot of people in this region and it doesn't take long to find someone who will give a glowing testimonial about her work.

But the medical establishment does more than just question reflexology — it claims it doesn't exist.

The official medical response in the region was summed up by the director of the neurology department at Geisinger Medical Center. Reflexology is "based on no proven scientific theory," said Dr. William Jeffreys.

The director of physical therapy at Bloomsburg Hospital, Fran Welk, lumps reflexology with acupuncture, acupressure, touch therapy, hug therapy and some of the other faddish treatments, most of which started in California.

Welk calls the therapies "the non-medical healing arts" and while there have been some successes, he says they have been limited.

In general, doctors say reflexology may help some people because "it feels good" and "massage reduces stress."

As one physical therapist says, "They could get the same results by installing a whirlpool."

Typewriter called aid to children's computer skills

ATLANTA (AP) — That typewriter stored away in the attic or basement can give children a head start in learning about computers, says Larry Blasch, who consults with schools in planning computer programs for the classroom.

"Use the typewriter to teach elementary school children keyboarding skills," advises Blasch, IBM education consultant, with headquarters in Atlanta. "The typewriter keyboard is similar to that of a computer but it's cheaper and it's also a good way to boost reading skills."

Blasch says when parents feel it's appropriate to buy a home computer, they shouldn't expect it to automatically make a child a computer wizard — he or she will need support.

"The child's learning will be more effective if parents get in-

Julie Bailey honored at baby shower

Julie Bailey was honored at a brunch baby shower at the home of Delores Currie, Aug. 18.

Also hosting the event were Beth Boeker, Ann Duncan, Carie Dunnam, Patti Hutte, Melba Robinson, Brenda Rucker, Cheri Sparks, Kenda Teply and Linda Woodley. Mrs. Bailey was given a baby comforter to match her nursery and a corsage of pink roses.

Guests were served from a table centered with a horse surrounded by yellow daisies. Special guests were: Marge Underwood, the honoree's mother; Margaret Bailey, her mother-in-law; and Sarah Simmons and Justine Bailey, the honoree's grandmothers.

Baby Bailey is due Oct. 9.

involved. Plan to work with the children at the computer — even if it's only 15 minutes a day.

The software can be used for instruction or drill in basic skills or for enrichment in a broad range of subjects. Children can work as fast — or as slow — as they wish.

"But if parents don't show they're committed, the child is likely to play zap-em games or the computer will be stashed away someplace and die," Blasch said.

Hearts improve in recent years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The outlook for people with heart and blood vessel ailments has improved sharply in the last decade, says the American Council of Life Insurance.

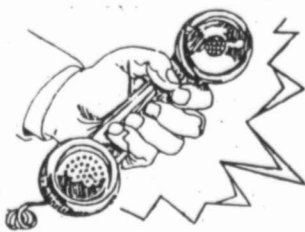

From 1970 to 1982, data from the National Center for Health Statistics show a 46 percent decline in the age-adjusted death rate from cerebrovascular disease and a 25 percent decline in heart disease deaths.
