Outside: Hot

A sizzling Sunday saw temperatures soar to 101 degrees, tying the record high for that date set in 1930, Charles Yates, engineering technician at the Big Spring Field Station, said today.

Today's expected high of 102 degrees will come close to the 103-degree record for Sept. 10 set in 1921.

This week may be summer's last stand with temperatures expected to hover around the 100-degree mark through Thursday, the National Weather Service said today. Friday temperatures are expected to cool into the mid 80s.

Average high temperature for this time of year is 88 degrees, Yates said, with average lows in the low 60s, well below current nighttime temperatures.

Commissioners split on county's tax rate

By JOHN RICE
Managing Editor

Howard County commissioners, split over how much to lower the 1984-85 tax rate, failed to agree by 11:30 a.m. today on a proposed $9.1 million budget.

They were scheduled to reconvene at 1 p.m. to discuss a motion by Commissioner David Barr to adopt a 22-cent per $100 valuation tax rate.

Debate this morning centered on more than $3 million in accumulated surplus funds. The proposed budget, which calls for a 23-cent per $100 tax rate, would produce an additional $976,000 in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

A motion by Commissioner Louis Brown to adopt the 23-cent rate failed on a vote of 3-2, with only County Judge Milton Kirby agreeing with Brown.

When Brown's motion failed, Barr offered a motion to adopt a 22-cent tax rate, 1 cent below the current year's level. But commissioners could not vote on the motion because Commissioner Brown left, reportedly to attend another meeting.

Figures produced by County Treasurer Bonnie Franklin show that the county's tax base — total valuations — is off slightly for next year. She said a 23-cent tax rate would be needed to produce the same income in 1984-85 as was generated in 1983-84, the current tax year which ends Sept. 30.

However, the county's tax rates have produced consistent surpluses in recent years leading to the $3 million now accumulated.

Commissioner Bill Crooker indicated a rate lower than 23 cents should be adopted. "We've set aside $2 million for construction of a new jail. That makes our true operating budget $6.1 million," he said.

The 23-cent tax rate would produce revenues of $3.5 million out of $9.1 million in total income. Other revenue sources are federal revenue sharing funds, licenses and permits, and "other receipts" including $200,000 in interest income from the surplus funds. Interest receipts this year have totaled $310,000 in 11 months. County Auditor Jackie Olson said interest income is "budgeted conservatively."

Mrs. Franklin said each one-half cent of tax rate generates $76,000 to $77,000 in income.

Crooker said, "We're likely to leave $4 million in surplus by Oct. 1." He based his comment on Mrs. Franklin's report that the surplus as of Aug. 31 is $3.9 million.

"We're in excellent financial condition. I see no reason to keep accumulating surplus," he said.

Brown defended his motion, saying "I think we ought to keep a little money in reserve. We have this indigent care" program, expected to become effective Jan. 1, which will increase county expenses, he said.

"What are we going to do then?" he said. "We can't raise taxes then, or people are going to be down here with ropes."

After Brown's motion on the 23-cent tax rate was defeated, Kirby told Commissioner David Barr, "You guys are only down here a couple of days a week. You don't know what you're talking about."

County Tax Assessor-Collector Dorothy Moore told commissioners a one-half cent reduction in the tax rate "won't be that much for the average taxpayer — just for the one with a large valuation."

No tax rate increase forseen

Council sets budget hearings

Two Big Spring City Council budget hearings scheduled for tomorrow night will decide how the city will use its funds during the coming fiscal year.

According to City Finance Director Tom Ferguson, The fiscal 1983-84 budget will bring no increase in the city's current tax rate, which was set last year at 68 cents per $100 of valuation. Ferguson added that administrators are recommending no new programs for the budget that totals "about $13 million."

"Our services will generally be at the same level as for the 1983-84 budget," he said.

Councilmen will conduct a public hearing on the $13 million budget as part of its regular 6:30 p.m. meeting at City Hall. The budget covers money to be administered through the city's General Fund, which receives money from property taxes, sales taxes and fines; its Enterprise Fund, which includes money from city services like garbage collection; and the Airpark fund, which under federal law must be kept separate from other city departments.

The budget includes about $400,000 in city taxes to be used for retirement of a portion of the city's capital improvements debt, Ferguson said. The debt was incurred by such improvement projects as reconstruction of Wasson, Birdwell and Goliad streets, he said.

The proposed budget also estimates operating costs for the Big Spring Police Department next fiscal year at about $1.7 million. Big Spring Fire Department operating costs were estimated at about $1.3 million.

In addition councilmen have scheduled a 6 p.m. meeting at the Big Spring Police Department on the city's $340,000 1984-85 federal revenue sharing budget.

Funds received from the Federal Government's revenue sharing plan are expected to total about $340,000, said Ferguson.

About $195,000 of the money is scheduled for purchase of more Big Spring Police vehicles, said the Finance Director. The purchase is part of the department's "vehicle take home" program that allows police officers to use their vehicles during off hours. The program is thought to increase police visibility in the city.

About $16,000 of the revenue sharing money is scheduled for purchase of ladders, hose and air-packs for the Big Spring Fire Department, he said.

According to Councilman Jack Y. Smith, the separate hearing for revenue sharing funds is necessary because of federal government regulations. The regulations specify that such public hearings must be accessible "to people in wheelchairs," Smith said.

The 6 p.m. hearing at the Big Spring Police Department hearing is open "to anyone who wants to make suggestions or has an idea of what the council should do with the money," said Ferguson.

He added that in the ten years he has worked for the City of Big Spring, no member of the public has attended a revenue sharing hearing.

QUIET BEFORE THE STORM — Blackie Reasor, a 58-year-old retired fisherman, looks for coins and other treasure near a fishing pier in Jacksonville, Fla., Monday morning. Tropical storm Diana has been upgraded to hurricane status after winds increased to 80-90 mph this morning. See related story.

Stalking Hurricane Diana lashes at Georgia, S. Carolina

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (AP) — Diana blew into a hurricane with 80 mph winds today, lashing Georgia's coast with heavy seas and forcing vacationers to flee resort islands.

School officials canceled classes in some parts of South Carolina and Georgia, and beaches were closed from Florida to North Carolina.

"Only a slight change in course could bring the storm on shore in a few hours," the National Weather Service said.

"Coastal residents in Georgia and South Carolina should be ready for quick action in case the hurricane moves toward the coast unexpectedly," the National Hurricane Center in Miami said in its 9 a.m. report.

Authorities moved to evacuate 1,500 to 1,700 people from Tybee Island, just south of Savannah, said Chatham County Civil Defense director Lou Dotson.

"We're discussing mandatory evacuation of one of our barrier islands and we did evacuate, voluntarily last evening, two nursing homes down there," he said.

"We're asking them (residents) to be prepared, pick up any loose articles in the yard and tape up their windows, put gas in their car, that sort of thing."

A hurricane warning was posted from north of Brunswick to Oregon Inlet, N.C., including Pamlico Sound, the center said. Gale winds extended outward 150 miles to the northeast of the center and 75 miles to the southeast.

At 9 a.m., the storm's eye was near latitude 30.8 north and longitude 80.2 west. It was about 70 miles southeast of St. Simons Island, near Brunswick, or about 80 miles east-northeast of Jacksonville, Fla., and 105 miles south-southeast of Savannah.

The hurricane was moving northward at 5 mph, slightly offshore but parallel to the coast, pushing high tides and towering waves into ocean-front areas. The National Hurricane Center said a research plane flying over the storm had recorded highest sustained winds of 80 mph. A tropical storm becomes a hurricane when winds reach 75 mph.

"We're trying to help get the folks off St. Simons and Jekyll Island as easily and quietly as possible," said Georgia State Patrol Trooper Robert Phillips. "Troopers are out in the area helping and everything See Diana page 2-A

Mondale unveils deficit plan, makes challenge to Reagan

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Walter F. Mondale today spelled out a $177 billion deficit-reduction plan and, challenging President Reagan to do the same, said, "You can't hide your red ink with any more blue smoke and mirrors."

Mondale's plan to bring the deficit down to $86 billion by 1989 called for $85 billion in tax increases with all the revenue earmarked for cutting the deficit.

The Mondale plan also included net spending reductions of $75 billion and an estimated additional $17 billion in revenue forecast to result from economic growth.

On the spending side, the largest item of savings was $51 billion in reduced interest on the deficit. Mondale also proposed a $25 billion savings in defense, $12 billion in health, $4 billion in agriculture and an additional $8 billion in "selected discretionary domestic programs." He also called for a $5 billion savings through improved management.

Mondale proposed an increase of about $30 billion for programs he described as "enhancing competitiveness and fairness in American life," particularly in the areas of education and aid to the very needy.

"Mr. Reagan's deficit has brought him a temporary, unbalanced election-year recovery — and a happy talk campaign. The price will be a post-election catastrophe for us and our children," Mondale said in a statement.

Mondale described his own budget as "a hard, realistic plan — not a wish list."

He said that under his plan a deficit-reduction trust fund would be established and "by law, every penny of new revenues will go into that fund, to be used only for reducing the deficit — not for new spending or new programs."

Mondale also said his plan would follow the principle of pay-as-you-go. "There will be no new spending without an earmarked new source of revenue," he said.

President Reagan, asked for his reaction during a photo session at the White House, said the Mondale plan is "nothing new."

"He told us several weeks ago he was going to raise the people's taxes, and now he's repeated it," Reagan said.

Asked whether he would present his own deficit-control plan, Reagan said, "I think I've said it more specifically than most other administrations in all the things we've been trying to do since 1981."

The Republican nominee declined to discuss the matter any further, noting he was in a photo session.

The Democratic nominee said that, by reducing the deficit, interest rates will decline, the nation's trade position will improve and the steady growth will take place that is needed to provide jobs.

"I challenge Mr. Reagan to stop avoiding the deficit issue and start telling you what he intends to do about it. Mr. Reagan, all my cards are on the table — face up. Americans are calling your hand."

At the White House, deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said there were no plans for Reagan to spell out his plan to reduce the deficit, other than what he already has done.

Lyn Nofziger, a political consultant to Reagan, denounced the Mondale plan as "a recovery-killing concoction which is ready-made to produce a recession that will throw millions of Americans out of work again, pile new and higher taxes on the backs of the average citizen and make deficits higher, not lower."

Regarding Mondale's trust fund proposal, Nofziger said, "This is not a trust fund; it's a 'trust-me fund.' It introduced the concept of double taxation: one tax to reduce the deficit that Mondale helped to create and another tax which he will impose to pay for his promises. This is nothing more than the old time religion for Walter Mondale — more promises, bigger spending and higher taxes." Asked whether he might have to raise taxes further as a result of his "pay-as-you- See Mondale page 2-A

AFTER THE SHOW — Former Vice President Walter Mondale and his wife, Joan, face reporters following the presidential candidate's appearance Sunday in Washington on the NBC-TV program "Meet the Press." Mondale revealed his deficit-reduction plan today in Philadelphia. See related story.

Winds sweep Texas

By The Associated Press
Southerly winds of 10 to 20 mph were reported across Texas again today, and the National Weather Service said a low-pressure trough over West Texas and eastern New Mexico was responsible.

Moisture being pulled up from the Gulf of Mexico formed into low-level clouds, but clear skies dominated most of the state.

Temperatures were generally in the 70s before dawn, although a pocket of warm air in the 80s lingered over sections of North Texas. The temperatures ranged from 57 at Marfa to 81 at Wichita Falls.

But later in the day, the mercury was expected to reach near-record hot temperatures for the date.

Tropical storm Diana trudged north in the Atlantic off Florida's coast today, carrying 70 mph winds, towering waves and heavy rain, while tropical storm Marie brought moist, cooler air to heat-stricken Southern California.

Diana was east of Jacksonville, Fla., early today and moving slowly north parallel to the coast, the National Weather Service said. Coastal residents of northeast Florida, Georgia and South Carolina were advised to be ready to evacuate on short notice.

Winds were gusting up to 30 mph along the coast at Jacksonville, and the storm also brought heavy rain — more than 3 inches in 24 hours at Jacksonville and more than 4 inches at Charleston, S.C.

Meanwhile, tropical storm Marie remained well off the West Coast and was weakening early today, although the moist air it ushered inland was expected to carry showers to Southern California later today.

The cool air was welcome relief from triple-digit temperatures that baked Southern California in record heat over the weekend. But much of the East Coast continued to shiver under unseasonably chilly temperatures, with record lows set Sunday with 46 degrees at Knoxville, Tenn., and 47 at Washington, D.C.

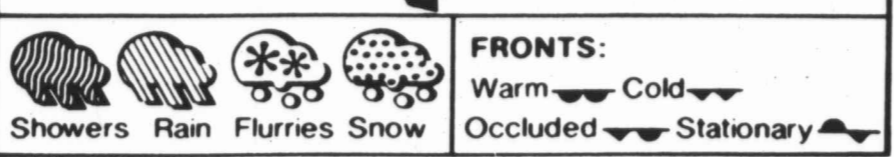

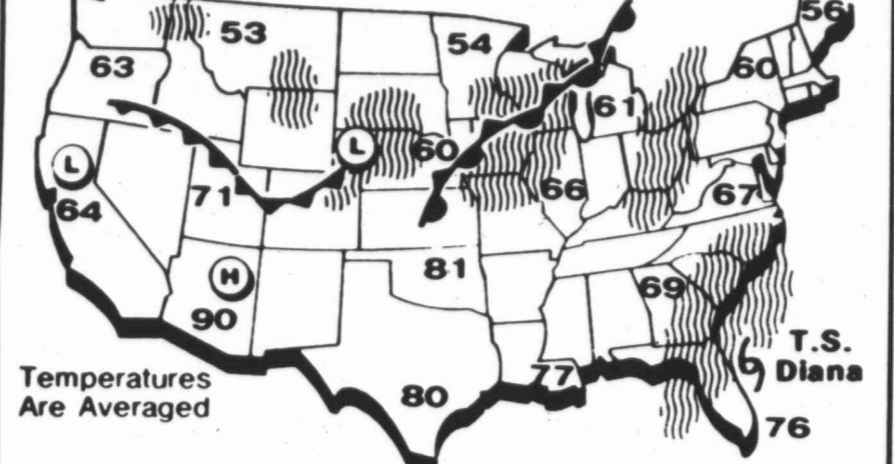

Heavy thunderstorms developed today over south-central Iowa, with winds of 65 mph reported near Pella, the weather service said. Showers and thunderstorms were scattered over the upper Ohio Valley, the Great Lakes, the Mississippi Valley and the northern and central Plains.

Fair skies prevailed over the Northeast and Pacific Northwest.

Racial violence at TDC to continue say inmates

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Increased patterns of racial violence and tensions in units of the Texas Department of Corrections will continue, inmates say, despite efforts being made to reform the state's prison system.

George Solomon, a 30-year-old inmate serving his second term in the TDC, said the prisons have become places where doing time is hell.

"There's no control here any more," Solomon told the Austin American-Statesman.

"People are walking a thin line and can snap at any time at anything," he said. "It's not random violence. There's a reason. But it doesn't take much to get hurt in here. Any time you get in somebody's business — you get in debt over dope or gambling — there's going to be repercussions."

Gangs, which were not a problem when Solomon served his first sentence, are creating tension among the inmates.

"There's racial problems right now and it's not getting any better," Solomon said. "You got gangs roaming the prison. You stay out of their way. You stay out of everybody's way. That's still no guarantee you can sleep well at night."

Another prisoner, Victor Viera, 44, spent 11 days in a hospital last month after he was stabbed six times by another inmate.

Viera said prison officials are wasting their time if they want to deter violence at the state's prisons.

"There's no way they're going to stop this. ... Everyone's acting crazy. It's not like it used to be," said Viera, who said his left hand is still numb from the Aug. 8 attack.

"If they had control, this wouldn't have happened to me. Maybe one-third of the population has weapons, and the others can get them if they want," Viera said. "There are so many youngsters in here now who don't want to do their time. They don't care. It's too crowded. There's too many mixtures of inmates."

State officials said the most troublesome prisoners would be reassigned to six TDC units after officials reported an increase in prison murders and other violence. The six units include Eastham, Coffield, Ramsey 2, Ferguson, Darrington, and Retrieve.

Most of the 35,000 inmates have been reclassified and transfers have begun. Maximum security units will hold stronger, more violent inmates under the new system. Those inmates who are weaker and more passive will be placed in less restrictive units.

"I'm supposed to go home the 27th of this month, and I can't tell you for sure whether I'll be going out feet first or walking out on my own," he added.

City considers bids on shelter

The Big Spring City Council tomorrow night will once again consider bids for the proposed new city animal shelter.

Tomorrow night's action will be the second time the council has considered the bids in three months. Previously, the council rejected all bids for the shelter's construction because they were about $90,000 over the almost $69,000 budgeted for the project.

While almost $64,000 remains available for construction of the shelter, low bid on the shelter this time came in at $71,000, according to the council agenda. About $5,000 has been spent so far on the project for engineering costs, the agenda shows.

In other action tomorrow night, the council will consider:

- Specifications and bidding authorization for microcassette recorders requested by the Big Spring Police Department. According to a memo to council members from Police Chief Rick Turner, a policy whereby policemen will record all contact with the public will probably result from purchase of the microcassette recorders.

- Bids for four hand-held meter reading devices requested by the Public Works Department. Low bid for the computerized devices is $25,000 from the Radix Corp. of Salt Lake City, Utah.

- First reading of an ordinance approving the city's 1984 tax roll.

Two killed in airplane crash

QUINLAN (AP) — Two men were killed in the crash of a single-engine plane after it hit a power line and crashed 200 yards from a private landing strip owned by one of the victims.

The plane was traveling south about 10 a.m. Sunday when it clipped the power line, flipped over and landed upside down, said Linda Walker, a dispatcher for the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The victims were identified as Charles Edward Holloway, 51, the pilot, and Terry Lee Bishop, 25, both of Dallas.

The landing strip, owned by Holloway, is about 1½ miles off Texas Highway 276, just inside Hunt County about seven miles west of here. Quinlan is about 50 miles northeast of Dallas.

Holloway and Bishop were pronounced dead at the scene and their bodies taken to the Dallas County medical examiner's office, Ms. Walker said.

Officials with the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board are investigating the accident, she said.

Man stable after collision

A Big Spring man remains in stable condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital today with injuries he received from a major one-vehicle accident that happened late Saturday night on E. Second street.

Robert Muzio, 21, of 700 Lancaster was admitted to the hospital with a fractured right leg after the accident that occurred at about 11:15 p.m. Saturday.

A second Big Spring man, Jessie Silva, 21, of 1307 Lindbergh, was treated and released at the hospital following the accident.

Silva was a passenger in the 1966 Chevrolet Impala that Muzio was driving when he collided with a Texas Electric service pole in the 200 block of E. Second. Police reports said Muzio was driving west on E. Second at an excessive rate of speed when he lost control of his vehicle and collided with the pole.

Shaffer Ambulance took the pair to the hospital, reports said.

In other police reports:

- Rudy Alvera, 23, of Lomax was arrested Saturday night in connection with an aggravated assault warrant after being stopped by police in the 1600 block of Scurry, police reports said.

The arrest came after police received at 8:50 p.m. Saturday a report of an assault from Brian Treece of 901 S. Abrams. Treece told police that someone he knows pulled a knife on him in the 1700 block of S. Gregg and threatened to hurt him.

Alvera was also arrested on suspicion of making alcohol available to a minor and public intoxication; reports said.

- Jerry Marquez, 26, of Garland was arrested at 11:16 p.m. at the intersection of Eighth and Lancaster on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and having no insurance.

EPA notifies school of asbestos

HOUSTON (AP) — Classes this week were canceled for about 450 students at a private Houston school after the Environmental Protection Agency notified school officials that asbestos was used on one of the building's wings.

Ceilings will be tested for asbestos this week at the William S. Malev School for Religious Studies, which is run by a Congregation Beth Yeshurum synagogue, officials said Sunday.

The EPA informed school officials in March that ceiling tiles in one wing of the school contained asbestos, Congregation President Irwin Caplan told parents in a meeting at the synagogue Sunday.

Caplan said the wing, which was built in 1968, includes the school's administrative offices, the library and eight classrooms.

The school took bids on roof repair contracts in June, but heavy rains delayed the work, Caplan said.

Caplan said the school may be closed for 30 to 90 days if parents do not want the students exposed to asbestos while it is being removed.

Dr. Paul Stevens, a professor at Baylor College of Medicine, told the parents Sunday that most asbestos-related illnesses occur after long periods of intense exposure.

Houston's public schools have had a policy of removing asbestos since February 1983. At that time, "friable" asbestos — which released carcinogenic fibers into the air — was found in about half the district's schools.

Asbestos was commonly used in schools, hospitals and other public facilities built between World War II and 1973, when the EPA banned use of the material.

The wing being tested at the Malev school was built in 1968.

is going OK so far."

A small craft advisory was issued from St. Augustine to Brunswick, and from Virginia Beach, Va., north to Chincoteague, Va.

Tides of 3 to 5 feet above normal were forecast along the coast ahead of the storm and 7 feet above normal if the center moved inland, forecasters said.

"On the projected track, the center will move near and parallel to the coast," the weather service said. "However, any variation to left will bring the center on the coast."

Weather service offices in the Carolinas recommended that boat owners remain in port and suggested that coastal residents check medical supplies and batteries in flashlights and radios. Mobile home owners were warned to tie down their structures.

Street flooding in areas of poor drainage were expected in South Carolina and Florida.

Beaches in Dare County, N.C., were closed to swimmers because of rough waters. And beach erosion was reported along northeast Florida.

Diana kept space shuttle Discovery from returning home to Cape Canaveral on schedule, forcing an overnight stay in Oklahoma. The shuttle continued its piggyback ride home to Florida atop a Boeing 747 today.

go" proposal, Mondale said, "I have no plans." He gave as an example the effort to clean up toxic-waste dumps which he said would be financed entirely by a tax on the producers of the chemicals.

Repeating his contention that regardless of what the president says now he will raise taxes after the election, Mondale asked, "If he doesn't intend to raise taxes, what's he going to cut?"

"Is he going to eliminate Social Security and Medicare? Is he going to eliminate urban programs? Is he going to drop all environmental programs? Is he going to drop student loans and educational assistance?"

Asked about the prospects for congressional approval of his plan, Mondale replied, "I believe I have an excellent chance of gaining the support of Congress," adding that he believed his effort is "supported by a vast majority of the American people."

Mondale's newest budget plan, released after weeks of preparation, suggested no increases in existing federal income tax rates. Instead, he called for further delays in the effect of a new law protecting taxpayers from inflation.

Families earning less than $25,000 in 1989 still would receive the full benefits of indexing; those earning between $25,000 and $35,000 would pay an additional $95 under Mondale's plan, and those up to $40,000 about $200 more.

Bowman Cutter, a top budget official in the Carter administration, said families earning about $100,000 would pay $2,600 in higher taxes.

The new plan incorporates an earlier Mondale proposal announced last January under which he would raise $60 billion in new revenues by 1989 by imposing a 10 percent surcharge on those earning more than $100,000, and a cap on the final year of President Reagan's tax cuts for those earning above $60,000, and a 15 percent minimum tax on corporations.

To reduce spending, Mondale would eliminate most of the big weapons urged by Reagan, including the MX multi-warhead missile, the B-1 long-range bomber and "Star Wars" proposals for development of satellites as launching platforms for nuclear weapons.

He has also pledged to streamline the Defense Department's weapons procurement program for additional savings.

Health care cuts would come mainly from a broad cost control plan to lower doctors' fees for both federal and state medical assistance programs.

Federal farm spending would be reduced through better management of commodity price support programs, Mondale has said.

On Sunday, Mondale repeated his charge that despite claims to the contrary, Reagan would recommend a tax increase after the 1984 presidential election.

Marcos inspects damage

MANILA — President Ferdinand E. Marcos made a rare trip to Mindanao island, the site of rebel insurgencies, to inspect damage caused by typhoon Ike.

Marcos, whose plane brought packages of food, medicines and clothings for typhoon victims, on Sunday viewed the storm's effects in Surigao city, capital of Surigao del Norte province 450 miles southeast of Manila.

On Saturday, communist guerrillas gunned down 12 soldiers in an ambush 120 miles southwest of Surigao. The soldiers were en route to do typhoon reconstruction work.

Minister attends meeting

MOSCOW — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko will attend the opening of the United Nations 39th General Assembly on Sept. 18, the official news agency Tass says.

U.S. officials said earlier that Gromyko would be attending and would meet with U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz on Sept. 26. White House officials have also said they were considering inviting Gromyko to meet President Reagan.

300,000 gather at shrine

MARIJA BISTRICA — More than 300,000 people gathered at the Roman Catholic shrine here to celebrate 1,300 years of Catholic faith in Croatia — the largest church gathering ever in the Yugoslav republic.

Officials of the Communist federal government were among those attending the ceremonies Sunday in a field near this pilgrimage center. Archbishop Josip Pavlicic of Rijeka read a message from Pope John Paul II.

The Vatican released a papal message Sunday in which the pope announced his intention to visit Yugoslavia soon, but spokesmen for the congress organizers, contacted by The Associated Press from Belgrade, said the visit was not mentioned in the version read here. They had no explanation for the omission.

Cycle gang attacks crowd

WOLFRATSHAUSEN — A motorcycle enthusiasts' gathering near Munich turned into a bloody brawl when a motorcycle gang attacked other participants with steel pipes, iron bars and a homemade pistol, police reported.

They said seven people were hurt and 18 members of the Munich Dirty Angels, a gang known for violence, were arrested after the Saturday night brawl in Wolfratshausen, 12 miles south of Munich.

One gang member shot a makeshift pistol at least six times, injuring one person in the face, a police spokesman said. The other six were injured by blows to the head, he said.

Bulgarian head nixes trip

BONN — Bulgarian President Todor Zhivkov, apparently bowing to pressure from Moscow, has become the second Soviet bloc leader to abruptly call off plans to visit West Germany this month.

The announcement that Zhivkov had postponed his trip came Sunday from the West German government. East German President Erich Honecker last week dropped plans to make an unprecedented visit to West Germany.

No formal reasons were given for calling off the visits, both tentatively scheduled for later in September. In each case, official statements said the trips were postponed rather than canceled, but no future visits were mentioned.

Begin hospitalized today

JERUSALEM — Retired Prime Minister Menachem Begin was hospitalized today for tests that may lead to surgery for a suspected urinary tract problem, officials said.

Begin's former personal secretary, Yechiel Kadishai, said the 71-year-old Begin was taken to Shaare Zedek Hospital near his home this morning after he reported feeling pains.

A hospital official who refused to be identified by name said Begin's condition was good, but that he may need an operation. The official did not say what type of surgery might be necessary.

Begin was examined by his personal physician, cardiologist Mervyn Gottesman, who reported finding no signs of the heart trouble that has plagued Begin in the past.

Military head views army

MOSCOW — Soviet Defense Minister Dmitri Ustinov left for Czechoslovakia today to observe exercises by Warsaw Pact troops, the official news agency Tass reported.

Tass gave no details, but the Hungarian Communist Party newspaper Nepszabadsag said Saturday that 60,000 troops from the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Poland, Bulgaria and Hungary were preparing for the maneuvers.

Romania reportedly was sending only a general staff to follow the exercises on maps, in keeping with previous policy.

The Hungarian report said the maneuvers would be conducted as if an attack by NATO forces was launched on Czechoslovakia.

CROWD PLEASER — Pope John Paul II waves as he arrives on the altar platform in Quebec City, Canada, Sunday, to say a mass before hundreds of thousands.

Holy greetings

Pope John Paul begins 12-day Canadian tour

QUEBEC (AP) — Pope John Paul II, beginning his 12-day pilgrimage to Canada with a strong defense of traditional values, told Roman Catholics they must make faith the bedrock of modern culture.

"Do not accept a divorce between faith and culture," the pope told 250,000 worshippers — including Prime Minister John Turner — at an open-air Mass Sunday in the capital of Quebec province.

In remarks to a mainly French-speaking audience, he also paid tribute to Canada's ethnic diversity, then retired to prepare for his first meeting today with Indian and Eskimo groups at a shrine on the banks of the St. Lawrence River.

Several thousand native Canadians, representing Eskimos and nine Indian tribes, were scheduled to meet the pope at the sanctuary of St. Anne de Beaufre, dedicated to the patroness of Canada. It has been a pilgrimage site for centuries for Indians converted to Catholicism by French missionaries.

The session is one of three planned meetings with native groups during the pontiff's tour — the first visit by a pope to Canada.

Church officials said the pope specifically asked to meet with native groups, who are struggling to retain their cultural identity and — in some cases — demanding political self-determination.

Information released by the Conference of Canadian Bishops for the papal trip said Canada's native people have the highest rate of infant mortality in the country as well as the highest rates of suicide and unemployment.

Two years ago, John Paul met at the Vatican with four Canadian Indians who asked his help to protect their land rights.

As he opened his Canadian trip Sunday, the pontiff drew enthusiastic crowds to his processions around this historic walled city, many shouting, "Vive le pape!" — Long live the pope.

"I thank God that I had the chance to see him before I die," said Jean-Guy Grancher of Val Belair, Quebec. "But I'd say he's come 25 years too late. Nobody goes to church anymore."

Church officials say about 30 percent of Quebec's

Roman Catholics attend church regularly. At the outdoor Mass, John Paul cited contributions of various ethnic groups to the building of Canadian culture.

French Canada "has taken to itself a distinctive contribution of Amerindians and benefited from the English presence on this continent. It has been enriched by the successive waves of immigrants from all over," he said.

While the pope conducted Mass on a Laval University athletic field, late-afternoon sunshine turned to dusk, punctuated with lighted candles in the throng.

The church in heavily Roman Catholic Quebec has often been credited with enabling a distinct French-speaking culture to survive, despite the English conquest of North America in the 18th century.

But the church's unquestioned dominance over Quebec society, intact through the 1950s, has "shattered," in the past 25 years, the pope acknowledged.

"It is henceforth open to a variety of currents of thought: it must answer innumerable new questions," John Paul said in his homily, telling his audience to hold fast to their faith.

"In this changing society, dear brothers and sisters, you must learn to articulate your faith, and to live it," he said in fluent French.

"Faith will illuminate culture, it will give it savour, it will enhance it," he said. "If it is this way, the church will continue her mission through you."

"Faith will ask culture what values it promotes, what destiny it offers to life, what place it makes for the poor and the disinherited," John Paul said.

"Such a witness respects freedom of consciences, without thus abandoning them to certain imperatives of modern civilization which claim to serve human advancement but which in fact detract from respect for life."

The choir sang a beloved Quebecois folk song, "Gens du Pays," to John Paul as the ceremony ended, and the pope responded by returning to the microphone and calling out, "Vive l'église du Québec" — Long live the Quebec church.

Navy studying new submarine

EW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — The Navy is studying proposals for a radically redesigned nuclear-powered attack submarine that will run faster, deeper and quieter than any ever built by a Western power, according to a published report.

The SSN-21 would carry twice as many weapons as today's attack submarines with an unspecified arsenal of torpedoes, mines and nuclear missiles, senior Navy officials told The Day newspaper of New London.

Navy sketches depict the SSN-21 with a wide bow to accommodate increased numbers of torpedoes and with diving planes amidships instead of in the classic position on the sail, the newspaper reported Sunday.

Each of the first four of the new subs are projected to cost $1.6 billion and the rest, $1 billion each. They would replace the Navy's $800 million attack submarine, the nuclear-powered 688 — or Los Angeles — class.

By contrast, each of the Navy's Trident nuclear missile-firing submarines costs $1.2 billion.

The Navy received design proposals for the SSN-21 in July from the Electric Boat shipyard in Groton, a division of General Dynamics Corp., and the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. in Virginia.

The shipyards — the Navy's sole sources of submarines — are competing for the $174.3 million design contract, which the Navy says it expects to award by early 1985.

The Navy plans to start building the first of 30 SSN-21s soon after awarding the lead-vessel construction contract in 1988.

Both shipyards could share the design contract, Navy officials, speaking on the condition that they not be identified, told The Day.

"It has been a very long time since we've designed our last sub. What we're trying to do ... is try to get the best possible design," one official said.

The Navy says the new sub will "be able to detect, track and attack at very high speed" to sink submarines and surface ships, mine enemy harbors, attack land targets, conduct covert reconnaissance, deliver special forces secretly and support battleship groups.

Octopus kills fishermen

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — Two fishermen from the Pacific island nation of Kiribati were recently killed by giant octopuses that held them underwater until they drowned, according to a newspaper report today.

The New Zealand Herald newspaper said the two men, armed with spears, were hunting for octopuses when some of the sea creatures caught hold of them and forced them under the water.

The report did not say when the two men were killed.

Kiribati Natural Resources Minister Babera Kirata was quoted as saying the octopuses were three or four yards long.

Triplets show AIDS signs

MIAMI — A set of triplets who show early symptoms of AIDS will be barred from a public kindergarten and tutored at home because Dade County school officials fear the 4-year-olds could infect classmates, according to a published report.

Eight children in Florida have been found to have the often-fatal acquired immune deficiency syndrome. Many more, including the Haitian triplets who were apparently infected in the womb, have its forerunner, AIDS-related complex, which results in a depressed immune system but doesn't always progress to AIDS, The Orlando Sentinel reported Sunday.

Plague claims fifth victim

COLORADO SPRINGS — A 14-month-old girl, who may have contracted plague from rock squirrels, has become the fifth person to die of the disease in Colorado history, officials said.

Meanwhile, more than 500 people in Albuquerque, N.M., were treated with antibiotics for possible exposure to a 12-year-old girl who was recovering from a contagious form of plague, but none showed symptoms of the disease, Bob Hlady, spokesman for the University of New Mexico Hospital, said Sunday.

Laboratory tests confirmed the cause of the Colorado toddler's death Saturday, said Ann Lockhart, a spokeswoman for the Health Department.

255 illegal aliens arrested

SANGER — In the second raid on taverns in five months, officers arrested 40 bar owners and employees and herded 255 illegal aliens onto U.S. Border Patrol buses headed "directly back to Mexico," authorities said.

After the raid late Saturday and early Sunday, the bar owners and employees were booked into Fresno County Jail on charges that included prostitution and bookmaking, said sheriff's Lt. Don Burk.

The raid capped a five-month investigation requested by police Chief Charles Chrestman of Sanger, 200 miles southeast of San Francisco.

On April 6, officers rounded up 170 illegal aliens in four bars in nearby Parlier.

Boy confesses to slayings

MARION, N.Y. — A 14-year-old adopted boy has told police he used lantern fuel to set a blaze that killed his mother and seriously burned his father because he was "mad" at the woman, authorities said.

Patrick DeGelleke, one of the family's six adopted children, pleaded innocent Saturday to charges of second-degree murder and second-degree arson.

DeGelleke was charged as an adult because of the seriousness of the crime, said Wayne County Sheriff Richard Piscioti. DeGelleke was being held without bail in a juvenile detention center.

Piscioti would not disclose the nature of the family problem that preceded Saturday's fire.

Ship docks following fire

NORFOLK — The Ticonderoga returned to port for repairs following a fire in an exhaust vent that injured 12 crewmen, and officials went aboard the guided missile cruiser to investigate.

The 563-foot ship, traveling under its own power, arrived Sunday. The lead vessel in the Navy's new fleet of Aegis cruisers sustained damage to an engine room vent, helicopter hangar and equipment rooms, said Cmdr. Robert Prucha.

Saturday's fire broke out when the cruiser was conducting "routine operations" about 450 miles south of here and 180 miles east of Mayport, Fla., said Prucha.

The injured crewmen were treated and returned to duty, Prucha said.

Dad, children found dead

OAKLEY — Police found the bodies of a man and his two infant children, victims of an apparent murder-suicide, hours after they began searching for him in connection with the shooting of a woman and two men in a house here, authorities said.

The woman died in the shooting Sunday, and the men were in critical condition at Cassia Memorial Hospital in Burley.

Authorities began searching for Juan Guerra, 35, of the Oakley area, for questioning, said Cassia County sheriff's Deputy Don Taylor. About noon, the bodies of Guerra and his children, dead of gunshot wounds, were found in a car east of Oakley.

Leaded gasoline must be banned

Lead is a health hazard, especially to small children and pregnant women. But many drivers, even of cars that specify "unleaded fuel only," use leaded gasoline.

In the Environmental Protection Agency's drive to reduce and eventually eliminate lead in gasoline, owners of some — but not all — older cars will suffer an economic loss because they will have to modify their cars or buy new vehicles.

But the human costs of leaded fuel far outweigh the economic benefits to these car owners. Besides, the EPA has proposed lenient standards on leaded fuel, which it will review after a period of public comment. Lead in gas would be reduced to one-tenth of a gram per gallon effective Jan. 1, 1986. Total elimination would be called for by 1995, when, according to an EPA estimate, only one-tenth of 1 percent of the cars on the road would be affected.

As the EPA opens hearings on leaded fuel, old-car owners who wish to delay the rules should remember that our most precious resource is young people, not old autos.

Elmer Gantry time

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's politics of piety offers the opposition a triple shot. First, as a cloud over cultural diversity; next as a barrier to dealing with Moscow; and finally as a piece of hypocrisy designed to mask policies that exalt greed.

But the Democrats experience great difficulty in making these points. For the fact is that the country has caught a dose of Reaganism that only time can cure.

The explicit linkage of religion and politics has recently been a popular theme. Jimmy Carter played it heavily. Reagan one-upped him in the 1980 campaign when he described himself as a "creationist," with a literal belief in the Bible. He went a little further in seeking tax-exempt status for Bob Jones University despite openly racist policies. He went further again when, as one of the reasons for his decision to seek re-election, he advanced "the need to bring God back into the schools."

Still, there was nothing particularly new in the comment, made in Dallas during the Republican convention last month, that "religion and politics are necessarily related." Neither is there anything mysterious about the right arguments to make against that approach.

The Founding Fathers were powerfully influenced by the rationalism of the 18th century. They wrote the separation of church and state into the Constitution. Immigrant masses, by their overwhelming contribution to this country, then legitimized the spirit of cultural diversity. That spirit has been further enhanced by the different life styles now asserted so boldly by younger people.

But even as Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro make that case, the issue turns hollow. The president and those around him may prate of their religious feeling, but the claims cannot be taken seriously. Reagan is no Torquemada, and he is not about to institute an Inquisition. No real threat to civil liberties or cultural diversity exists in this country. A mild reaction against liberal excesses of the past is underway, to be sure. But few Americans can get excited on that score.

A more plausible danger arises in foreign policy. The Reagan administration has fostered such elaborate suspicions in its own mind and in Moscow that Big Two dialogue has been virtually ended. The two sides cannot even get together to talk about arms control, and the absence of good communication makes every conflict more dangerous.

The bond between Reagan's religiosity and the new Cold War is direct and tight. For to the fundamentalists Russia is not a Great Power rival with whom it makes sense to seek accommodation. On the contrary, religious zealots in this country see in Russia the shrine of atheism — the enemy incarnate. It was logical, not far-out, for the president to stigmatize the Soviet Union as "the evil empire" in a speech to a religious group. Insofar as he continues to play to the fundamentalists, it will be impossible to reach accommodation with Moscow.

But such complicated reasoning is not the stuff of presidential politics. A candidate who knocked getting cozy with Jerry Falwell because it compromised relations with Konstantin Chernenko would come off as hard on religion and soft on communism. Especially since the Russians now show so little interest in reaching any accord with this country.

Finally, there is the hypocrisy factor. Ronald Reagan does not score high when it comes to making manifest the spirit of holiness. He and his family are not regular churchgoers. He was divorced, and he seems not terribly interested in his children. Nobody has been staggered by the generosity of his bequests to charity.

On the contrary, selfishness is the Reagan hallmark, both personally and politically. He lives in luxury and loves the perks. He does not work hard himself. Neither does he challenge those around him, nor ask sacrifice of the country at large. Instead he exalts the fat cats and the soft life.

"Get rich" is the basic message of the administration to the American people. Huge reductions in inheritance taxes, gift taxes and the maximum tax rate are a prime feature of the domestic program. So are huge debts — that put off what should be paid today until tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow. High-sounding rhetoric, the use of mercenaries and weapons programs that fatten the defense contractors stand out in the area of national security policy. Frank Sinatra is a dear friend, and California millionaires comprise the Kitchen Cabinet.

The mixture of self-indulgence and sanctimony yields that well-known condition hypocrisy. Its characterizations run through world literature. There is Tartuffe by Moliere; Pecksniff by Dickens; and Elmer Gantry by Sinclair Lewis. The characters recur because the condition keeps coming back.

This country is now set up for an Elmer Gantry. Millions of Americans want to get rich and be praised. In that climate, the politics of piety thrives. It can be exercised, but not by argument and opposition. The play of events is required, and that takes time.

Soft-pedaling Vesco illegalities

WASHINGTON — Federal investigators have gathered copious information linking fugitive financier Robert Vesco to multi-billion-dollar drug-smuggling operations involving Cuban President Fidel Castro and Nicaraguan government officials. But the Justice Department quietly killed an elaborate plan to kidnap Vesco and bring him back to face criminal charges for which he was indicted more than 10 years ago.

Evidence I've uncovered indicates that the Reagan administration — like others before it — is afraid of what Vesco could disclose if he were actually to stand trial for his swindles. The elusive millionaire apparently knows too much about some well-known people in this country, both Republicans and Democrats.

My associates Corky Johnson and Jon Lee Anderson uncovered the intricate kidnap scheme that was secretly developed last summer — and just as secretly squelched by Justice Department brass. The FBI's lips are sealed, but reliable sources say here's what happened and why:

FBI agents conducted several meetings last year with officials of the government of Costa Rica, where Vesco hid out for several years before taking refuge in Cuba. The first of the meetings was on July 29 in a hotel near the Miami airport. G-men from the Miami office discussed the proposed kidnapping with representatives of the Costa Rican vice president and officials of that country's national security agency.

The plan called for luring Vesco back into Costa Rica, where he owns a ranch, abducting him and turning him over to the FBI.

Coded telex messages from Miami to FBI headquarters in Washington outlined the details of the plan. They indicated that the Costa Rican government was unofficially but enthusiastically behind the plan.

What would the Costa Rican government get for its cooperation? Reportedly several million dollars to be passed on to anti-Sandinista rebels whose presence in Costa Rica had become an embarrassment. The money presumably would have enabled the Nicaraguan guerrillas to carry their operations deeper inland into Nicaragua, away from the Costa Rican border.

When asked by my associate about the Vesco kidnap money, Eden Pastora, the designated rebel recipient, only chuckled and said he welcomed any donation to his cause.

The kidnapers — who would not have been FBI agents — had lined up a helicopter and boats equipped with radios on which they were to communicate over special frequencies with the FBI.

But the Justice Department killed the plan. The conspirators were told by an FBI agent that the plot was aborted because any money funneled to Nicaraguan rebels had to be approved by the CIA, and the spy agency was not interested in bringing Vesco to book.

Further evidence of official U.S. reluctance is the report that the chief of Costa Rica's internal security refused to attend one meeting with the FBI, saying he knew the United States wasn't really interested in capturing Vesco. This squares with earlier information from Costa Rican police officials, who told me that U.S. authorities in the past have expressed little interest in Vesco beyond occasionally denouncing him.

Why wasn't the CIA interested? Costa Rican officials and friends of Vesco said he has told them he has had ongoing contact with the CIA and its director, William Casey. Vesco reportedly brags that he even met Casey recently, and that Casey has helped him invest in the stock market.

1. "If a man can make a better mousetrap," said Ralph Waldo Emerson, "the world will make a beaten path to his door." But what happens when the government builds a mousetrap?

2. How do federal agencies get out from under the personnel ceilings that are imposed on them?

3. How many pages of regulations must officials study to determine the eligibility of Social Security applicants?

4. What's wrong with the government's 17,000 computers?

5. What can you do to reduce the massive government waste?

Hard choices

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My mother is getting quite old and is no longer able to take care of herself in her own apartment. Do you think it would be wrong to put her in a nursing home? She doesn't want to go, but I don't know what else to do because we cannot keep her in our small apartment. — D.V.

DEAR D.V.: No matter what you do, it will probably involve a difficult adjustment — both for you and your mother. At the same time, when you love someone, you want to do what is best for them in the long run, even if it seems difficult at first. If your mother can no longer take care of herself, your choices (and hers) are limited: Either you find someone to move in with her, or you put her in your own home, or else you find a retirement or nursing home where she will get proper care. Your own home would be best under normal circumstances, but if this is impossible you need not feel guilty about finding a comfortable nursing home for her if that is best.

Do all you can to find a facility that has a cheerful, active atmosphere and gives as much personal attention as possible to its residents. Your family doctor or your pastor may have had experience with different facilities in your area, and you should seek their advice.

Visit several places, noting all you can about them. Most of all, carefully and lovingly explain to your mother why you are encouraging her to move — because you love her and want to get the best care possible.

Then if she does move to a nursing home, make a special effort to call her and visit her frequently. Loneliness is often the greatest problem older people face. Let her pastor know also that she would appreciate visits by him. The Bible says, "Honor your father and your mother" (Exodus 20:12). Whatever your prayerful decision is, seek to honor your mother by seeing she gets the best care possible.

'Gross mistakes' need correction

To the editor:

Your article in the paper yesterday (Sept. 6) about John Wolf, had several gross mistakes.

First, John Wolf was admitted to Hall-Bennett Hospital, not Malone-Hogan Hospital, at approximately 9:00 p.m., and was quickly diagnosed as having a clot or thrombosis at the bifurcation of the aorta, where it splits in the abdomen and goes into both legs.

We immediately called the Emergency Ambulance Service, and I also called Dr. Wey, a Cardiologist in Lubbock, and had him put the cardiovascular team headed by Dr. Bricker, on call and notice that the patient would be at Methodist Hospital by midnight.

I then called the ambulance service twice trying to get them to hurry up since this was a very serious emergency that needed immediate attention.

When they got to the hospital they quickly loaded the patient, and got him to the hospital in Lubbock before midnight, and the cardiovascular team headed by Dr. Bricker operated and found a thrombosis in the distal aorta, and removed it, and the clots in the various vessels.

John Wolf had become paralyzed from the waist down, and was in very severe pain, and would probably have died, and certainly been paralyzed from the waist down if he had not had immediate surgery.

He did not have an aneurysm as stated in the paper.

When Dr. Bricker called the following day, he was very complimentary of the fact we could get this patient diagnosed as quickly as we did, and get him to Lubbock in time for him to have satisfactory surgery. At that time Mr. Wolf had regained the use of his legs, and they thought he would not have any permanent damage from the clot.

Date rape growing teenage problem

Despite the fact that most young women today believe in the image of the rapist as presented in movies and books — a psychopathic stranger who preys on vulnerable women at random — a noted writer on sexuality today warns teens that many rapists don't fit that profile at all.

Elizabeth Rodgers, Seventeen magazine's sex columnist, said that perhaps as many as one-third of the rapes committed in the United States each year are committed not by a stranger but, rather, by a woman's own date, boyfriend or fiancé.

"The old-fashioned image of the rapist...has to be revised to include a lot of nice 'boys-next-door,'" Rodgers says. "Unfortunately, this is as serious as it sounds. The fact that a boy who rapes his date seldom goes looking for other victims...makes little difference to a girl who has been attacked by her date. Rape is rape," she says, "and no one should have to endure a forced violent invasion of the personal and private self."

What causes a seemingly normal boy to become angry enough to overpower and humiliate a particular girl at a certain moment? Rodgers points out that a boy may try to force sex on a girl for several reasons. First, if the date is between two people who don't know each other well, and the boy "has the impression, which may be based on little more than malicious rumor, that she 'puts out' for everyone, he may be angry at her refusal to submit to him," Rodgers said. "If he interprets that as a personal rejection and he has a generally low opinion of himself to begin with, he may become angry enough to rape her."

Rodgers says that girls with steady dates with whom they have participated in every physical act short of intercourse may also be heightening a boy's expectations and frustrations. "Each time they are together," Rodgers says, "the boy hopes for something else, and each time he fails to achieve that goal, he becomes more resentful," she explains. "If he's a selfish, immature person, he may become extremely resentful, and at a certain moment, the dam breaks. In the boy's mind, he's waited 'long enough.'"

Another crucial point to be considered, says Rodgers, is that in the minds of many boys, the double standard — that it is okay for males to be sexually active before marriage but not for females — still exists. Despite the so-called "sexual revolution", some boys "still feel deep down, as males have felt for centuries, that what the girls are doing is some how wrong," and that a girl who is ready for heavy petting deserves, or even wants, to be raped.

Rodgers says that a girl and boy arriving at the same point and at the same time for a date "may be coming from different 'places'" regarding their feelings on sexual activity. Rodgers said that this difference "set(s) the two up for a real conflict before they've even said a word to each other. If a girl is not sure of the 'place' from which someone she doesn't know very well, she should be extremely careful about the location of the date. "Don't agree to a picnic for two in a lonely area, to watch television in an empty house, to look at the moon from a private parking place," she said. "That's very friendly behavior, and some males read sexual implications into any friendly behavior."

Also, a girl should never allow a boy certain sexual liberties in the hopes of forestalling intercourse, Rodgers says. "That's exactly the wrong to keep control of a situation," she points out. "It makes a boy more physically excited and raises, rather than lowers, his expectations."

However, rejecting a boy's advances too harshly is not the right tactic either, Rodgers says, because if he is not secure emotionally, he might respond with force. Instead, "try to make it clear (even if you feel you might choke with the effort), that it's the activity and not him that you can't handle, and that you're sorry if you've given him a different impression, because you did not mean to," she says. "Don't make him feel unattractive, uncouth, foolish or generally unworthy of you. In difficult situations, that can be dangerous indeed," she said.

What should a girl do in a situation where a boy does become too persistent? Rodgers recommends that a girl should start talking and try to find out why the boy feels the way he does. And, she emphasizes, "concentrate — on what he's saying it, and whether he listens to, and understands, what you're saying. If things change, fine. If not," she cautions, "you had best face up to reality: that in fact you may be in danger."

If talking doesn't seem to be solving the problem, Rodgers advises teens to try a tactic that she claims "more often than not has turned the anger of a particular boy to sympathy." Rodgers advises the girl to turn her head, stick her finger very far down her throat, and turn back and throw up on the boy. "Even if the boy realizes what she's done, it's extremely difficult for a boy covered in vomit — and perhaps worried that the girl is truly ill — to maintain an erection," Rodgers notes. One word of caution: Using this tactic against a stranger is not advised, Rodgers adds, because it might only enrage him further.

In the end, if a girl is raped, whatever the situation, Rodgers urges teens to remember one crucial fact: "However careful or careless the victim of a crime may have been, the victim is not the guilty party." A girl who is raped should not try to deal with the crisis herself, but should seek the help and support of professionals and people she trusts.

Dear Abby

Education protects kids from sexual abuse

DEAR READERS: In recent months, a national disgrace of epidemic proportions has come out of the closet — the sexual abuse of children. It began when the owners and operators of a prestigious day care center were charged with having sexually abused more than 40 children who ranged in age from 2 to 5.

The suspects were charged with, among other things, having posed and photographed the children in sex acts with other children and adults, then selling the pictures and movies to a large porno ring.

It seems incredible that these children had been repeatedly sexually abused over a period of so many years, yet no child told anyone. It was later learned that the children had been threatened that if they told anyone, their parents would be tortured and killed!

As is usually the case, when one can of worms is opened, others follow, and now we discover that children in day care centers in other areas of the country may have also been victimized by sexual abuse.

As a result of the publicity, my office has been deluged with books dealing with the sexual abuse of children. Most were good, many were very good, but in my estimation the one book that topped them all was "No More Secrets for Me" by Oralee Wachter. This plain-speaking little gem is written for children of all ages. Children who are just learning to read will understand it. Children who are too young to read, but are read to by their parents, grandparents, teachers and sitters will understand it.

It handles a very delicate subject with great sensitivity and taste. But more important, it tells children how to protect themselves against being sexually abused.

I telephoned the publishers at Little, Brown and Co. and told them that I thought "No More Secrets for Me" was the best book I had seen on the subject, but $12.95 was too much for the millions of people who should buy it.

I urged them to bring it out in softcover for under $5. It is now available in paperback, and I do not overstate my enthusiasm when I say that no home with a child between the ages of 2 and 14 should be without it.

The introduction to the book begins: "It's not fair, but it happens. Someone you know, or someone you like, or someone in your family touches you, and you don't like it. It doesn't feel good the way hugging and holding hands does. It isn't fun like wrestling. It doesn't feel close and comfortable the way it does when someone you love puts an arm around you."

"If someone touches your body in a way you don't like, you may feel mixed up. You may feel as if you were tricked or forced into it. Or maybe the person makes you promise not to tell anyone and to keep the touching a secret. This book is about taking care of yourself, just in case this ever happens to you or a friend."

"No More Secrets for Me" is now available at your local bookseller for $4.95. If it's not in stock, order it directly from Little, Brown and Co., Distribution Center, 200 West St., Waltham, Mass. 02154. Add 50 cents for postage and handling.

To order by phone: The toll-free number is (800) 343-9204. In Massachusetts call collect: (617) 890-0250.

Every teen-ager should know the truth about drugs, sex and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 (this includes postage) to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Dr. Donohue

Child fat cell theory is passe

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My daughter-in-law is anorexic. That's her problem, so far as I'm concerned. What does concern me tremendously is that she is curbing her child's eating severely. She says she doesn't want the child to have a weight problem. The child is a good eater and wants food, but she practically has to beg for it. Since food means very little to my daughter-in-law she feeds the child in dribs and drabs — yogurt, etc. She says she doesn't want the child to develop "fat cells." Please advise. — S.P.

Your daughter-in-law is developing a twin nutritional problem — the child's and her own. Both should be seen by a doctor. I must say this is the first reference I have seen of an anorexic passing on the problem to a child. I know I don't have to go into details about what is and what isn't a proper diet for a child. I am sure she knows that.

And it is unfortunate that she is basing her nutritional ideas on what is, really, a passe theory of obesity — the matter of the fat cells. It was once thought, and widely publicized, that if a person became fat as an adult the cause was an enlargement of fat cells produced during childhood; that the actual numbers of fat cells remained constant; that you didn't develop them later. An extension of this theory was that it was harder for a person to lose weight if he had been fat most of his life. He had all those voracious fat cells developed in childhood.

We know now that this isn't true, that the numbers of new fat cells can increase at any age. The real danger in allowing a child to become fat lies in the poor eating habits that produce obesity in anyone, and your daughter is correct, at least to that extent. But she is overreacting, quite obviously. And worse, she seems to be led astray by a false idea.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What's the difference between a viral infection of the throat, a strep throat and a plain sore throat? — M.K.

Well, a sore throat is a sore throat no matter what the cause, and that simplifies things right off. The most common cause of sore throat is inflammation from invasion of throat tissue by organisms, either viruses or bacteria. Of those two causes, viruses are perhaps the more common. In fact, one virus, the adenovirus, was so named because it grows so well in adenoid tissue — tonsils and adenoids, located at the back of the throat. Of bacterial causes, strep is the most prominent.

The real difference for practical purposes lies in treatment. Bacterial infections are effectively treated with antibiotics. Viral infections are not. But the saving grace of virus infection is that the virus eventually wears itself out and along with its demise comes the end of the sore throat. All you can do for the active viral infection is to lessen symptoms with appropriate gargles and pain relievers.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is it true that blacks have a greater chance of having a milk absorption problem than whites? — D.A.

Non-caucasians are more likely to have the problem than others. The problem lies in a deficiency of the enzyme needed for digestion of milk sugar. The medical danger is that because of this there may be a greater tendency to develop calcium deficiency since milk remains a principal source of that mineral. Other groups more prone to the problem include American Indians, Mexicans, Jewish and Asian populations. Your next question is probably going to be, why? I don't know.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have heard there is a surgical procedure called a "tummy tuck" to remove fat from the stomach. Is this true? If so, explain. — P.N.

Sure, there's a tummy tuck. It's usually done for a person who had lost a great deal of weight in the abdominal area and whose abdominal skin has not retained the elasticity to conform to the decreased fat. It hangs down like an apron. The tummy tuck is made in the skin. Loose skin is removed and the edges rejoined, just the way you'd make a tuck in a skirt that's too large.

The tuck is a good operation for those who need it.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Building a budget doesn't mean starving

Many people think living on a budget is like going on a starvation diet.

But a budget is simply a financial plan that enables families to achieve financial security and reach their goals, says home economist Nancy Granovsky. "Actually, a budget is more like a road map for charting where you want to go than a spending diet," she said.

Granovsky is a specialist in family resource management for the Texas A & M University Agricultural Extension Service. According to Granovsky, families can develop a livable, non-constricting budget by following these steps:

First, examine past spending patterns for at least two to six months. Use old receipts, check-stubs or other records to show where the money has gone and how much has come in during the same period. Or, keep close records for two to three months.

Then determine what percentage of spendable income has gone for major categories such as housing, utilities, transportation, non-mortgage credit payments, health care, food and clothing. If more than 25 percent goes for miscellaneous, you will need to keep better records for a while in order to track your spending, she says.

Now you are ready to project ahead, using your past financial records as a guide.

Estimate total spending during the budget period, being sure to include expenses like insurance payments that come due only occasionally. On a monthly budget, estimate these occasional costs, at 1/12 of the annual cost so you will not be caught short when payments are due, she says.

Also project income from all sources during the budgeting period.

Next, bring projected spending and projected income into balance. Some expenses might have to be reduced to make the financial plan balance or you will need to find additional sources of income.

Making decisions about where to reduce spending and how to do it should be easier because you now have a clear picture of where your money is going, she says.

Once you have a budget plan, develop a simple record keeping system to keep track of expenditures and income during a trial period for the budget.

"Give the budget and record-keeping system a fair chance to work," she said. "But if it isn't working, don't be reluctant to make an adjustment." A livable budget must be realistic and flexible.

One of the best things about the budget process is that it gives families the chance to discuss and establish long-term and short-term financial goals, she said.

Goals like obtaining financial security or saving for Christmas gifts, a downpayment, a new car or college tuition can be achieved by small actions over a long period of time. But families must plan their financial actions to achieve those goals.

Square dancing is popular

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite the current craze for break dancing, old-fashioned, down-home square dancing is still way ahead in the popularity polls, with more than 5 million Americans practicing the art — or sport.

The International Association of Square Dance Callers says there are more than 8,500 square dance clubs in the country whose members get together regularly.

AWAITING DEATH — Frank Blackburn, warden at the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola, pauses before reading a statement announcing the execution of Timothy Baldwin early Monday morning.

Execution

Baldwin gets electric chair for killing 85-year-old woman

ANGOLA, La. (AP) — Timothy Baldwin, convicted of using a television set to bludgeon an 85-year-old blind woman to death, bitterly proclaimed that the state of Louisiana was murdering an innocent man before being executed today in the electric chair.

In a defiant, sarcastic statement made public after he was pronounced dead at 12:13 a.m., Baldwin congratulated "all those who have tried so hard to murder me. I definitely have to give them credit as it takes a very special kind of person to murder an innocent man and still be able to live with themselves."

A former altar boy whose arms were covered with tattoos of a snake, a skull and a naked woman, he was condemned for the murder of Mary James Peters, the godmother of his youngest son, in an April 1978 robbery in West Monroe, La.

Prosecutors said he went into a rage and attacked her with an iron skillet, a telephone, a stool and a television set when she refused to tell him where her money was hidden.

Baldwin went through a succession of lawyers as he took his case through eight appeals and eight execution dates in six years, but the U.S. Supreme Court rejected his last attempt 7-2 on Sunday.

He was the fourth person executed in Louisiana and the 24th executed in the United States since the U.S. Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty in 1976.

Baldwin, who ate a last meal of two bacon and tomato sandwiches and french fries, was led out of his cell precisely at midnight, escorted down a 50-foot hall to the execution chamber, and strapped into the chair.

A nod from Louisiana State Prison Warden Frank Blackburn and the first charge of 2,000 volts surged through Baldwin's body, followed by charges of 500, 2,000, and 500 volts.

Baldwin stiffened after the first charge and showed no signs of breathing. The third charge brought smoke rising from his left hip, and there was little reaction to the fourth charge. A coroner declared him dead at 12:13 a.m. Baldwin's mother, Barbara Baldwin, said he was an altar boy in Willowick, Ohio, where he was born. He said he was 46. His mother, however, said he was 42.

Members of the victim's family said in interviews that they had waited for the execution.

"I'm not pleased with anything. I just feel justice has finally been done, or is going to be done, but it took an awful lot of doing all around on a lot of people's part," said Frank Turk, one of Mrs. Peters' sons.

As the execution was carried out, a group of protesters held a "vigil for life" outside the prison gates after an earlier demonstration outside the governor's mansion in Baton Rouge.

Two demonstrators in favor of the death penalty were at the prison — the step-parents of a teen-aged girl whose killer, Robert Lee Willie, also is on Death Row.

"We're waiting to see Willie burn," said Vernon Harvey, stepfather of slain teen-ager Faith Hathaway of Mandeville.

Baldwin freely admitted to a life of crime during which he stole cars, committed burglary, escaped from prison, and wrote up to $120,000 in bad checks a year.

But he said he was never violent. Baldwin and Marilyn Hampton, who is serving a life sentence for first-degree murder in the slaying of Mrs. Peters, visited the woman on April 4, police said. Mrs. Peters was found the next day by a Meals on Wheels volunteer and died a day later.

Two bank bags belonging to the victim were found in Baldwin's van when police arrested him in El Dorado, Ark., and police said his fingerprints were in her ransacked home.

Appeals courts rejected arguments that Baldwin's rights were violated because a prosecutor offered to let him plead guilty to second-degree murder, which does not carry a death penalty. Baldwin rejected the offer, and his lawyers had argued that the prosecutor's offer was a form of coercion.

Baldwin claimed police planted the bank bags in his van.

buy a home. She cried most of Thursday at work."

Jim Rhoden's pink slip should come just about the time his first child is born. His wife is expecting Dec. 1.

Rhoden, a draftsman, is among more than 300 non-union employees who were told Friday they would lose their jobs.

"It was sad at my home, too," said Lee Townsend, area manager for Texaco. Townsend was responsible for announcing the layoffs.

Many residents in Port Arthur are wondering how they'll make it through the new layoffs announced by the city's largest employer. Their problem is not temporary. A spokesman for the company said the cut in the work force is permanent.

"We're not promising there won't be future layoffs," said Paul Weeditz, public affairs coordinator for Texaco.

Unemployment hit 17.3 percent in July in Port Arthur, a city of 61,000. In the Port Arthur area, which includes neighboring towns of Nederland, Port Neches, and Groves, the unemployment rate was 12.8 percent. The outlook got much worse Thursday.

No one will be left untouched, said Jim Flowers, executive vice president of the Greater Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce.

"The great Port Arthur economy is going to be on the bottom," Flowers told the Dallas Morning

News. "I guess everybody's emotions are running the gamut. This was extremely bad news."

Townsend defended the decision. The refinery has been operating at 60 percent capacity for several years while carrying a work force based on full operating capacity, Townsend said.

With the layoffs, the refining capacity at the Texaco plant will be reduced from 400,000 barrels a day to 200,000 barrels. Seven operating units will be shut down. "I try to look at the positive side," said Townsend, who took over the Port Arthur refinery in May. "The positive side is that the refinery did not shut down, as have 90 since 1981."

Among the 90 domestic refineries closed in the last three years were Texaco plants at Lockport, Ill., West Tulsa, Okla., and Casper, Wyo.

Big Spring girls set for 4-5A tilt

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

At the start of the season Big Spring volleyball coach Susan Sharp said that her first goal was to instill in her young team that it could be successful and win games. Going into district play the Lady Steers are 8-9, one win away from equalling all of last season's wins — goal one complete.

Now that Sharp has proved to the team that it can win, her second goal has been set — getting into the state playoffs. The second year Big Spring coach is the first to admit that it won't be easy, but it's definitely within reach. The Lady Steers will get their first taste of District 4-5A action Tuesday night when they battle Midland at 7 p.m. in Steer Gym.

"With the exception of San Angelo Central the district should be pretty even," said Sharp. "Central is awesome. They have two fine players in Shawn Sweetan and Anita Allgood. Midland Lee and Abilene Cooper should also have good teams, but anything can happen on a given night." Sharp's turnaround of the Lady Steers volleyball program is really remarkable when you consider she had welcomed back one full-time starter returning from a team that lost six seniors. It seemed as if this season would be a rebuilding year for her team which consists of five seniors, five juniors and two sophomores — but not so.

The Lady Steers are competitors now and Sharp credits mental discipline and having a roster full of players with equal abilities. "We've been coming on. We have some confidence and we just have some players with a lot of ability."

So balanced is the Lady Steers attack that Sharp very rarely starts the same lineup twice. "We have used about seven different starting lineups because I know anyone can step in and do a good job. In fact our bench is one main reason why we are so much stronger this season."

As for Midland in the season opener, Sharp says her scouting

DISTRICT OPENER TUESDAY — Trel Clemons (10) and Tammi Green are two players responsible for an improved Big Spring High School volleyball team. McEnroe sets Lendl down in Open final

NEW YORK (AP) — If there were any questions about the pre-eminence of John McEnroe, they were answered most emphatically at the U.S. Open tennis championships.

"I would say he's No. 1," said Ivan Lendl.

He spoke from experience. On Sunday, McEnroe defeated Lendl in the minimum three sets, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

After an extraordinary Saturday in which both men's semifinals as well as the women's final were taken to the limit of player and audience endurance (three matches amounting to 9 hours, 11 minutes of play), Sunday's 100-minute men's final was almost anticlimactic.

The New York crowd, which has rarely rooted for McEnroe, a neighborhood kid if ever there was one (he grew up about 15 minutes from the National Tennis Center), cheered him for two sets Sunday. Then the fans swung their affections to the gaunt, stoic Czech.

"I think they just wanted to see some more tennis," Lendl said.

Lendl, for his part, had seen enough. "In order to play even or beat him, you have to return his serve and break him, too," he shrugged. "Since I didn't break him ..."

Not even once. Only once did he even come close, at 15-40 in the second game of the second set. But McEnroe was more than equal to the situation.

Lendl tried a passing shot. McEnroe, anticipating it, was already moving to his right when the ball clipped the net and headed skyward. McEnroe changed directions as quickly as the ball. He lost sight of the ball for an instant, whirled in place, located it again and rammed a forehand down the line.

It wasn't game, set, match — but it might as well have been.

McEnroe held service, broke Lendl's at deuce five games later with a forehand cross-court passing shot and then a service return that Lendl netted.

Then he put him away at love in the 10th game and demolished him in just 28 minutes for the third set that gave McEnroe his fourth U.S. Open title.

Lendl was a loser as a U.S. Open finalist for the third year in a row and a loser to McEnroe in nine of their past 11 meetings.

"I feel tired," said McEnroe, who looked quite fresh despite what he and Jimmy Connors had been through in their semifinal match the night before. "I really feel exhausted. I mean, I feel unbelievable and I feel terrible at the same time. My body's just said, 'That's enough.'"

"But he looked pretty bad himself," he said of Lendl. "I felt pretty bad the whole day and then, when I got out there, I felt pretty good for a couple of sets and I was able to get on top of him."

Lendl rushed the net far more — and far more quickly — than he had in his five-set semifinal marathon against Australian Pat Cash. "Maybe he wanted to end the points early or something," McEnroe surmised. "But he started out in the beginning trying

Payton nears record; Cowboys flop

By The Associated Press
For Walter Payton, chasing a record is more fun than actually getting one.

"Going into the game I really didn't think about the record," Payton said. "It means more to chase the record than to have it."

The Chicago Bears runner, who puts together power and speed in a rare combination, did some record-chasing and some record-setting Sunday in a 27-0 National Football League romp over the Denver Broncos.

Payton, in only 20 carries, got 179 yards closer to Jim Brown's all-time NFL rushing record of 12,312 yards and surpassed Brown's mark in a lesser-known category, combined rushing and receiving.

Payton now has 15,517 total yards, bettering Brown's 15,459. Payton is 447 yards behind the career rushing record.

Also ahead of Payton in the rushing yardage derby is Franco Harris, 34, who made his Seattle debut with 46 yards on 14 carries, giving him 11,996 in his 13-year career, 131 ahead of Payton.

The Bears, 2-0, dominated Denver, 1-1, in all aspects of the game, outgaining the Broncos 406-130. Denver turned the ball over four times en route to its first shutout loss in 85 regular-season games, dating back to 1978.

"It was a tremendous win and the victory means more than anything," Payton said. "It's our best start in a long time. When things go right, they go right."

Payton was referring to his 72-yard run, the longest touchdown dash of his 10-year career, which came off the wrong formation.

"Jimbo (Covert) was supposed to pull and didn't," Payton said. "I sliced through and after I hit the outside I kept my balance and took off."

"He continues to amaze me out there," said Chicago Coach Mike Ditka.

Payton, who said his ultimate goal is to gain 15,000 yards rushing, invited Brown to be in attendance should Payton break his record.

"I'll do anything he wants, I'll even foot the bill for him," the Bears' runner added.

Another record was set when Chicago placekicker Bob Thomas kicked a field goal and his first extra point. The four points gave him 542 in his Chicago career, surpassing George Blanda's team record of 541.

Pro Football Roundup

The Bears knocked out two Denver starters early, sending quarterback Gary Kubiak and running back Sammy Winder to the hospital with concussions.

John Elway, injured last week, quarterbacked four series, but was yanked early in the third quarter in favor of rookie Scott Stankavage, who completed just four of 18 passes for 58 yards.

Chicago quarterback Jim McMahon also was injured. He left after a 61-yard touchdown bomb to Willie Gault in the first quarter.

McMahon returned in the second quarter, but Bob Avellini quarterbacked the entire second half.

Giants 28, Cowboys 7

Phil Simms had his second straight strong performance at quarterback and got plenty of help from the Giants defense.

Simms fired three touchdown passes, giving him seven in New York's two victories, while his teammates sacked the Cowboys' Gary Hogeboom five times and forced four turnovers. Linebacker Lawrence Taylor had three of the sacks.

With the score 14-0 and Dallas on the Giants' 6 in the second quarter, Taylor sacked Hogeboom and made him fumble. The ball was picked up by linebacker Andy Headen, who raced 81 yards for a touchdown.

Simms tossed a 62-yard scoring pass to Byron Williams late in the first period to give the Giants a 7-0 lead and added two other TD passes, one 16 yards to rookie Lionel Manuel and the other 18 yards to Zeke Mowatt, after Dallas turnovers.

Raiders 28, Packers 7

Los Angeles knocked Green Bay quarterback Lynn Dickey out of the game with a bruised back in the first two minutes, then shut down the Packers' passing attack the rest of the game.

Rookie Randy Wright took over for Dickey and the Raiders' secondary, led by cornerbacks Mike Haynes and Lester Hayes, held him to 10 completions on 23 passes for 67 yards and two interceptions. James Lofton and John Jefferson, Green Bay's star receivers, caught zero and three passes, respectively.

Jim Plunkett had a touchdown pass and Marcus Allen a 7-yard scoring run to lead the Raiders' offense.

NO STOPPING WALTER — Chicago Bears' runningback Walter Payton steps onto action Sunday in Chicago during the Bears 27-0 victory over Denver. Payton rushed for 179 yards and scored one touchdown on a 72-yard run. During the game Payton broke Jim Brown's NFL record for combined yardage. He is now 447 yards short of Browns' rushing record of 12,312.

What goes round comes round for KC

By The Associated Press
At various times this season, the Kansas City Royals have occupied every position in the American League West standings. Now, they're where they want to be — on top.

For the first time all year, the Royals secured sole possession of first place in the West with a comeback 6-5 victory Sunday over Seattle. They'll have to protect that slim margin beginning tonight in Minnesota, where they play the first of three games with the Twins. Minnesota, which had been in first since Aug. 4, fell a game by losing 9-3 to Texas.

The California Angels blew an opportunity to jump past the Twins and fell 1½ games off the pace when Tom Seaver four-hit them in an 8-2 Chicago victory.

Royals Manager Dick Howser knows how precarious his team's standing is.

"We've got to keep grinding them out," said Howser. "A one-game lead can disappear in one game. It gives you a little more leeway but it is still grinding-out time."

The Royals ground out Sunday's victory. After trailing 2-0 on Dave Henderson's two-run homer, KC sent nine men to the plate while scoring four runs in the fourth. Frank White belted a two-run

AN OUT-LAW — Chicago White Sox's Vance Law breaks up a double play, by up-ending California Angels' second baseman Rob Wilfong after being forced out during sixth inning action in Chicago Sunday night. Daryl Boston was safe at first in a game Chicago won, 8-2 to keep the Angels from vaulting past Minnesota and into second in the American League West.

Dolphins 28, Patriots 7

Dan Marino increased his two-game total to seven TD passes as he tossed a pair of scoring strikes to Mark Clayton within a 1:36 span of the third quarter to lead Miami.

The Dolphins, who have won 17 straight games over the Patriots in the Orange Bowl, broke away from a 7-7 halftime tie as Marino hit Clayton on a 38-yard play and connected with him again on a 15-yarder after a Patriots' fumble.

Miami intercepted four passes by Steve Grogan, including two by Glenn Blackwood. Mike Kozlowski returned another interception 26 yards, then lateraled to William Judson, who rambled another 60 yards for a touchdown.

Eagles 19, Vikings 17

Ron Jaworski threw a 1-yard touchdown pass to tight end John Spagnola with two seconds left to give Philadelphia its narrow victory.

The Eagles drove 59 yards on 11 plays for the winning score, which came after the Vikings appeared to stop Philadelphia's Wilbert Montgomery short of the goal line. But a face-mask penalty gave Jaworski another chance.

Jaworski said after Montgomery was stopped, "I was already walking off the field dejected. I was headed for the bench thinking we were 0-2. Then I heard about the

Cardinals 37, Bills 7

Neil Lomax passed for two touchdowns and Ottis Anderson scored twice as St. Louis built a 31-0 lead.

Lomax delivered 4-yard scoring passes to Roy Green and Anderson in the opening 14 minutes and Anderson also scored from the 2 to help the Cardinals build a 24-0 halftime lead.

Stump Mitchell set up two scores with a 39-yard kickoff return and a 39-yard punt return.

Lions 27, Falcons 24

Gary Danielson completed 22 of 31 passes for Detroit and engineered a 51-yard drive in overtime that concluded with Ed Murray's winning 48-yard field goal.

The big play in the drive was Danielson's 30-yard pass to David Lewis down the middle for a first down at the Atlanta 34. A moment later, Murray booted the game-winner 5:06 into the extra period.

Chiefs 27, Bengals 22

Todd Blackledge improved Kansas City's record to 2-0 in his second career start with two touchdown passes, including a 19-yarder to Carlos Carson that gave the Chiefs the lead for good.

With the Bengals ahead 17-14, flag. I just prayed it would be against them."

Blackledge completed six passes on a 75-yard drive, including the toss to Carson.

Blackledge also had a 46-yard scoring pass to Anthony Hancock.

Rams 20, Browns 17

Eric Dickerson carried the load on Los Angeles' final drive that ended with Mike Lansford's 27-yard field goal with 1:25 to play.

Dickerson, who gained 102 yards on 27 carries in the game, got 48 of his yards on six carries in the drive that saw the Rams march 61 yards to the Cleveland 9.

Leroy Irvin had an 81-yard interception run for a touchdown for the Rams.

Colts 35, Oilers 21

Mike Pagel threw three touchdown passes and scored once himself to rally Indianapolis.

Pagel scored from the 1 and passed 31 yards to Ray Butler to highlight a 21-point second quarter that gave the Colts a 21-14 halftime lead, then added a 14-yard TD pass to Butler and a 33-yard bomb to Terry Porter in the second half.

Earl Campbell scored all three of the Oilers' touchdowns, but finished with only 44 yards rushing.

Saints 17, Buccaneers 13

Hokie Gajan ran 8 yards for a touchdown with 1:53 left after dashing 51 yards with a swing pass from Richard Todd, giving New Orleans its triumph.

Todd first connected with Tyrone Young for 24 yards before hitting Gajan, who broke out of a pack of defenders and ran to the Tampa Bay 13. He scored two plays later.

Seahawks 31, Chargers 17

Dave Krieg scored touchdowns on 37- and 3-yard runs and added a touchdown pass to Daryl Turner to lead Seattle.

The Seahawks, who trailed 10-0 early in the game, forced eight Chargers' turnovers, including four interceptions passes by Dan Fouts.

Seattle tied it in the seventh on Jim Presley's two-run homer and went ahead 5-4 in the top of the ninth when John Moses scored from third base on Mark Huismann's throwing error on a routine bouncer.

That set the stage for the Royals' rally to first place.

Jorge Orta opened the KC ninth with a pinch single. Wilson singled to attack my serve. When he didn't break me after a couple of games, he kind of gave up on that and just looked kind of discouraged the rest of the match."

Don Slaught then lined a pitch off reliever Ed Vande Berg to left field to score Wilson with the winning run.

McEnroe said he thinks he's gotten better this year — and that he can get even better next year.

"Hopefully the motivation will come in some way or form. I think that's the sign of a champion."

It was a champion whom the 25-year-old McEnroe defeated Saturday night to get this far, beating Connors, the champ the past two years, in five brutal semifinal sets.

"That he can go out there at 32 years old and play a match like he did last night — it's just unbelievable. I mean, the guy's just got that inside of him, and that's what I want to try to keep as long as I can."

Missing from this year's men's final were the antics that McEnroe has displayed in the past — temper tantrums and running feuds with umpires and linesmen.

He waxed philosophical about the calmer image.

"You have to learn what's best for yourself. Life is not fun, banging your head against a brick wall," he said.

HOW SWEET IT IS — John McEnroe kisses his trophy after winning the U.S. Open Tennis men's championship Sunday in New York. McEnroe defeated Ivan Lendl 6-3, 6-4, 6-1 for his fourth U.S. Open title.

healthier than the 49ers this time around. Washington quarterback Joe Theismann will try to exploit the weaknesses caused by injuries last week to the 49ers' starting cornerbacks, Wright and Lott, and defensive end Jeff Stover.

Wright is out for three weeks or more. Lott will play but may still be hindered by a sprained ankle and a shift to Wright's right cornerback slot from the more familiar left side. Stover, who started in place of holdout Fred Dean, is out for the season after surgery to repair his knee.

'Skins, 49ers pitted in title game rerun

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If tonight's game between the Washington Redskins and San Francisco 49ers is as ferocious as last January's clash in the conference championship game, both teams might be in trouble.

This is only their second game of the National Football League's regular season, with 14 to go before the playoffs. After crunching bodies through a long afternoon eight months ago, the Redskins were aching and wheezing. And they won.

The 49ers, supposedly a "finesse" team, delivered and took their hardest hits of the season in that game. They lost by the difference of two penalties and a last-minute field goal, 24-21, but they wore their wounds proudly.

Bill Walsh, the San Francisco coach, expects a similar game this time when the teams tee it up for an 8 p.m. C.S.T. kickoff time on ABC, and hopes the officials won't call every little bump. He hasn't forgotten the pass interference penalty on Eric Wright and the holding penalty on Ronnie Lott prior to Mark Moseley's winning field goal in the title game.

While complaining again about those "phantom" calls, Walsh indicated that he'd like to see more good, clean, rock 'em-sock 'em football, and fewer flags.

"You can't play defensive football with any reckless abandon because on virtually every close play people are looking for a flag, hoping for one, depending on what side you're on, and officials appear obligated to throw one," Walsh said.

Both teams should be charged up. The 49ers have a bit of revenge on their minds. The Redskins have something to prove to themselves. Ever since that 21-point fourth-quarter blitz by the 49ers last January, the Redskins have been less than intimidating. The Los Angeles Raiders took them apart in the Super Bowl, and the Miami Dolphins did the same last week.

"We are very much concerned right now," says Washington Coach Joe Gibbs, "because we have a long ways to go before we become a good football team. It's hard to evaluate this team in relation to last year's team. We're not good enough to make the plays, either offensively or defensively, and not work hard. This is especially true when we're preparing to play a good team like the 49ers."

The Redskins, at least, will be set by John Mahaffey in 1978, and to win by the biggest margin on the tour this year.

BULL'S EYE BIRDIE — Frank Conner of San Antonio reacts after watching his putt drop for a birdie and a tie for second place on the 18th green at the Bank of Boston Golf Tournament in Sutton, Mass. Conner, along with Joey Sindelar, finished six strokes behind winner George Archer.

"The ball just kept going in the hole," Archer said. "It was a nice way to win, not much heat."

Archer called his eagle "probably the best iron shot of my career because of the circumstances."

Archer breaks the Bank with six stroke win

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — As a kid, he used to pretend he was Ben Hogan and Sam Snead.

Now, just three weeks shy of his 45th birthday, big George Archer is a winner once again on the Professional Golfers Association tour.

Archer fired a 6-under-par 65 and ran away from the pack Sunday in winning the $350,000 Bank of Boston Classic by six strokes.

"This was a lot better than shooting pheasants," said Archer, whose hobbies are hunting birds and fishing. "I had goose bumps on the back nine."

Archer took the lead on the 63rd hole, sinking a 25-foot birdie putt while tour rookie Joey Sindelar hit into a bunker and had to settle for a double bogey 6.

Sindelar, a three-time Ohio State All-American from Horseheads, N.Y., tried to come back. Two holes later, he put a 6-iron to within one foot of the cup. Archer left himself 28 feet away.

Archer then coolly sank the clutch putt for a birdie before Sindelar collected his easy birdie.

Then, on the 394-yard 13th hole, Archer buried any hopes Sindelar and other players in the field may have had. Using an 8-iron, the 6-foot-5 veteran holed a 137-yard shot for an eagle 2.

"As we went to the 13th tee, I talked to my caddy about the chances of catching George," Sindelar said. "When he sank that shot, though, I knew I was playing for second place."

Archer went on to add two more birdies for a 5-under-par 30 on the back nine. That enabled him to equal the tournament record of 280,

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, SEPT., 11, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is not good for making loans or taking risks of any kind, but you soon find a whole new influence which gives you an opportunity to branch out in new expression.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't try to push your ideas in the morning, and try to complete jobs you have started; then you can later pioneer into new directions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be sure you do not disturb the status quo in the morning, and then after lunch you can forge ahead into new channels.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Separate friends from figures in the morning, and later you can be with them for exchange of ideas and pleasure as well.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Study your civic duties and handle them well without involving a jealous partner and all will go well with you.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You have some plan in mind in the morning that is fine, so carry through with it and forget boring tasks.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Good day to incorporate new methods into your work and other activities and get better results with them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Know what it is that partners want from you and don't let family affairs take up your valuable time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy at the work you have promised to do and get it done before you meet with your friends for fun.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Arrange to get into entertainments that are different and not so costly as the usual ones.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you want to get your abode more as you want it to be, you may have to compromise some with kin.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You could lose out in profitable duties if you stay home and fuss over something you can do nothing about.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Put ideas across to others that can add considerably to present assets, but don't be extravagant in finding amusement.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a born pioneer and quite different from most other children, and will want to delve into all sorts of things early in life, so give a good deal of attention so that the energies are directed in right directions. Teach to complete whatever has been started.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
