How's that? Steer Scores

Q. The Steers have been scoring a lot in the last few minutes of the game in their victories. How many times have they scored in the fourth quarter?

A. Big Spring had to score five times in the last quarter in its victories over Snyder Tigers and Lubbock Monterey. And they scored once in the last three minutes of both games. The Steers are now 2-1.

Calendar: Blood Drive

TODAY

● Malone-Hogan Hospital will host a blood drive from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the first floor classroom.

WEDNESDAY

● LULAC will meet at 7 p.m. at the Spanish Inn. Those who had booths at the fiesta need to attend to claim their refunds.

FRIDAY

● The Western Sportsman Gun Club will sponsor a rimfire 22LR pistol and rifle match at 1:30 p.m. nine miles west on the Andrews Highway.

SATURDAY

● The Humane Society will host a rummage sale from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the old Prager building.

Tops on TV: Football

The still undefeated L.A. Raiders will face the San Diego Chargers at 8 p.m. on Channel 2. The first part of CBS' miniseries, "Mistral's Daughter," start at 7 p.m. on Channel 7. The series begins in the 1920s in Paris and revolves around a painter, Mistral, and his love life.

Outside: Warm

Today's forecast calls for highs near 90 and partly cloudy skies. No significant rainfall is expected. Winds will be southerly, 10 to 20 miles per hour. Lows tonight will fall into the upper 60s. During the early part of the week, look for clearing skies and cooler temperatures.

Off the wall: Tight lips

CHICAGO (AP) — A kiss may be just a kiss, but the smooch Eddie Levin and Delphine Crha planted on each other was no perfunctory peck.

Their lips didn't part for 17 days and 9 hours — an achievement that won them a new car and a trip to Paris.

"This has brought us closer together, maybe too close," Ms. Crha, 26, said after the embrace, part of a promotion by an automobile dealer, ended Sunday.

Levin, 30, who cut his teeth in competitive kissing by winning a fraternity smooching contest in 1971, said his thoughts turned from romance in the final days of the performance.

"All I could think about was sleep, sleep, sleep," said Levin, a free-lance photographer. Ms. Crha is a file clerk who fears she may have kissed off her job because of unexcused absences in her bid to win a spot in the record book.

Levin said the couple saved up the five-minute breaks they were allotted each hour to take naps or showers.

For their efforts, Levin and Ms. Crha drove off with a $15,000 sports car.

Farmers PIK'ed for $1 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-seven farmers each received commodities and crop support payments worth more than $1 million in exchange for idling their fields last year, the Agriculture Department says.

They were among about 12,000 farmers who each got government-owned commodities and supports worth more than $100,000 for not growing crops under the Reagan administration's payment-in-kind program, the department said.

Under PIK, farmers were given free surplus commodities for taking land out of production. Slightly more than 73 million acres were idled in 1983 as a result, the department said as part of its first national accounting of the program.

Although exact figures have not been disclosed, the total value of PIK benefits to farmers may reach nearly $10 billion at recent market prices for the commodities — wheat, corn, cotton, sorghum and rice.

The Agriculture Department is preparing a detailed accounting of the PIK program, and preliminary figures show 47 of the program's 827,511 participants received commodities and crop support payments totaling more than $1 million. Those producers idled slightly more than 241,000 acres.

The information does not specify the amount of individual payments, but indicates the number of recipients nationwide by various ranges of payments.

A total of 185 producers received payments between $500,000 and $1 million. And 2,153 others reaped benefits ranging from $200,000 to $500,000. A total of 9,911 producers received from $100,000 to $200,000.

Payments from $55,000 to $100,000 were made to 25,256 farmers. Another 6,216 producers received payments between $50,000 and $55,000.

In all, about 5.3 percent, or 43,700, of the farmers who participated in the PIK program received payments exceeding $50,000.

The figures include PIK commodities as well as cash diversion and deficiency payments.

However, the bulk of the large payments can be traced to PIK commodities. By law, federal cash crop subsidies are limited to $50,000 a year per farmer. The 1983 payment-in-kind program was excluded from that limitation.

Still, the largest recipients under the PIK program were a distinct minority.

Nearly half of the producers in the program received payments of $4,000 or less. Payments up to $7,000 accounted for two-thirds of the producers, and payments of $25,000 or less covered almost 90 percent of the participating farmers.

In fact, slightly more than one-fourth of PIK producers received payments of no more than $2,000 in 1983.

Despite that, the PIK program came under sharp criticism from some members of Congress for funneling millions of dollars to a handful of large farms.

That criticism largely prompted the Agriculture Department to subject the 1984 payment-in-kind program for wheat farmers to a $50,000 lid on benefits.

There is no PIK for crops other than wheat in 1984, and the USDA says no farmer in the program this year will receive a combination of surplus commodities and cash payments exceeding $50,000.

The General Accounting Office, an investigative arm of Congress, surveyed 708 farms in nine states last year and found that the average operation in that group would receive $175,000.

The congressional investigators acknowledged they did not take a representative sample but examined areas where they expected to find the largest payments.

The largest single payment found in the GAO survey — $3.7 million — was to a corporate cotton farm in California. Another corporate farm which operated in Nebraska, Texas and Arkansas was to receive $3.5 million in wheat and corn.

USDA officials said they used the same crop rates as did the GAO in determining the value of PIK commodities to farmers. However, the true value will vary greatly depending upon what individual producers did with the commodities.

Found alive Texas boy found beaten

LAKE CTY, Colo. (AP) — More than three months after he disappeared near Pagosa Springs, a 15-year-old Texas youth has been found, badly beaten, and two men are being sought in the case, a Hinsdale County undersheriff said late Sunday.

Undersheriff Steve Greene said the youth found is believed to be Chris Harvey, of Andrews, Texas.

"Based on what the parents have told us, we think it's the same kid," he said Sunday night.

Greene declined to speculate on the circumstances of the youth's disappearance.

Harvey disappeared in the San Juan National Forest July 11 after leaving his family's summer home, in Hinsdale County, for a short hike.

Harvey was found Thursday near Gypsum, suffering from severe head injuries that he apparently had suffered during a beating, Greene said.

The Eagle County Sheriff's office said that Harvey was found about 3:20 p.m. Thursday about four miles up Trail Gulch Road, near Gypsum, in western Colorado.

Harvey was taken to a hospital in Glenwood Springs, then transferred by helicopter to St. Mary's Hospital in Grand Junction.

Harvey was listed in critical condition Sunday night.

In a prepared release, the Eagle County Sheriff's office said that two men, in their 20s, were being sought in connection with the case. The sheriff's office said the two men were believed to be driving a late-model pickup truck.

After Harvey disappeared on July 11, officials from Hinsdale, Archuleta, and Mineral counties mounted an intensive ground and air search for several days in south-central Colorado, but found no trace of the missing youth.

Symphony begins fund drive

FUND DRIVE — The Big Spring Symphony Association kicked off its annual fund drive with a campaign breakfast meeting at the Holiday Inn this morning.

An immense thing

Innovative park planned for Scenic Mountain

Thompson Richardson had a dream for Scenic Mountain.

A veteran supervisor in the National Park System, Richardson came to Big Spring on July 27, 1934, with instructions to build a park in a neglected state reserve on a large promontory south of the city.

Preceding him was his reputation for eccentric behavior and innovative ideas.

Accompanying him from Meridian, where he had used ancient construction techniques to build a modern state park, was a staff of five architects and engineers hired from the relief rolls.

Awaiting him on Scenic Mountain was Co. 1857 of the Civilian Conservation Corps, a New Deal detachment of Depression kids enlisted by the Army in a campaign of land conservation.

Facing him was a mountain of clay ready to be molded. Big Spring's state park in 1934 was marked by only a crude road chipped around the mountain's rim in 1930, six years after the city donated the land to the State Parks Board.

Thompson Richardson went to the mountaintop and had a dream. His eyes had seen the promised park.

Do as the Romans do

By Aug. 13, Richardson had translated his dream into blueprint. The park would need a lot big enough to hold 1,200 cars, he said, because the Southwest would want to see what the New Deal had done to the old hill in Big Spring.

The National Park Service and the Army's CCC boys were going to build "an immense thing," he told the Big Spring Daily Herald.

An observation deck framed by a natural garden would top the mountain. Also atop the peak would be an open-air pavilion and cottages and self-enclosed picnic units, tennis courts and croquet fields.

On the southeastern rim, spring water pumped from a well drilled at the bottom of the mountain would fill a giant swimming pool ringed with artificial beaches. An amphitheater would grace the southwest canyon, and a forest of 1,000 trees would cloak the southern canyon.

Over the old road a new one would be built, wider, the way made smooth, roadbeds buttressed by mortarless retaining walls copied from the Romans.

Two roads, with separate entrances, would connect the park with Highway 9 (Wasson Road) and Highway 1 (U.S. 80).

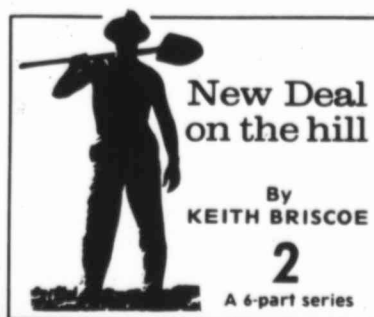

All bluffs, ridges and slopes would be terraced and decorated with greenery. All construction, designed to blend with the landscape, would use limestone quarried from the mountain itself.

The 12-month mountain

Richardson had the CCC troops working the day he arrived, repairing flood damage to the road, laying culverts and erecting erosion barriers. He had worked with the CCC before, and he knew what wonders the soil soldiers could achieve in a short time. And Richardson had very little time.

George Nason, district inspector for the Interior Department,

5 inmates flee from state prison

LANSING, Kan. (AP) — Five prisoners, three serving life terms for murder, escaped from a dormitory-like cell house at the Kansas State Penitentiary early today, apparently by climbing down an air shaft and out a "very small air intake," authorities said.

The inmates were discovered missing moments after the 1 a.m. escape, and prison officials and area law enforcement agencies immediately began searching for them, said prison spokesman Troy Baker.

"They are fleeing felons, and under the circumstances, we consider them to be dangerous," Baker said. "These are running prisoners, and it would be naive for anyone to think otherwise."

The prisoners apparently escaped by climbing down a third-floor air shaft "and exiting a very small air intake on the side of the cell house, like a small window" between the second and third floors, Baker said. The inmates apparently jumped to the ground from there, he said.

Prison officials at first believed the men had escaped by climbing through the air shaft to the roof, but scuff marks and other evidence, including signs that "something had been cut near the window" were found later, Baker said.

After reaching the ground, the prisoners apparently "went through a low corner" of the fence surrounding the prison, he said.

Officers on foot and with dogs were searching for the escapees in

Weather

Rains hit South Texas

By The Associated Press

Widely scattered showers were reported across a vast area of South Texas and in portions of Southeast Texas today.

The National Weather Service said the showers would remain in the areas during the day and today and other showers would likely develop tonight.

The showers were reported in an area extending from San Angelo to Sanderson to Del Rio. Other showers were reported in the Beaumont-Port Arthur area of Southeast Texas and offshore in the Gulf of Mexico south and southeast of Galveston.

A high pressure system kept skies mostly clear over the Panhandle and South Plains and partly cloudy to cloudy around the rest of the state. Winds were light, mostly 5-15 mph, from the south to southeast over most of Texas.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s and 80s over the eastern two-thirds of the state and slightly cooler over much of West Texas. Readings dipped into the 50s in the mountains of Southwest Texas. Extremes ranged from a chilly 54 at Marfa in the Davis Mountains to 81 at both Galveston and Corpus Christi.

Other temperatures around the state included 65 at Amarillo, 79 at Wichita Falls, 78 at Dallas-Fort Worth, 77 at Waco and San Antonio, 78 at Houston, 77 at Brownsville and San Angelo, 67 at Lubbock and Midland and 70 at El Paso.

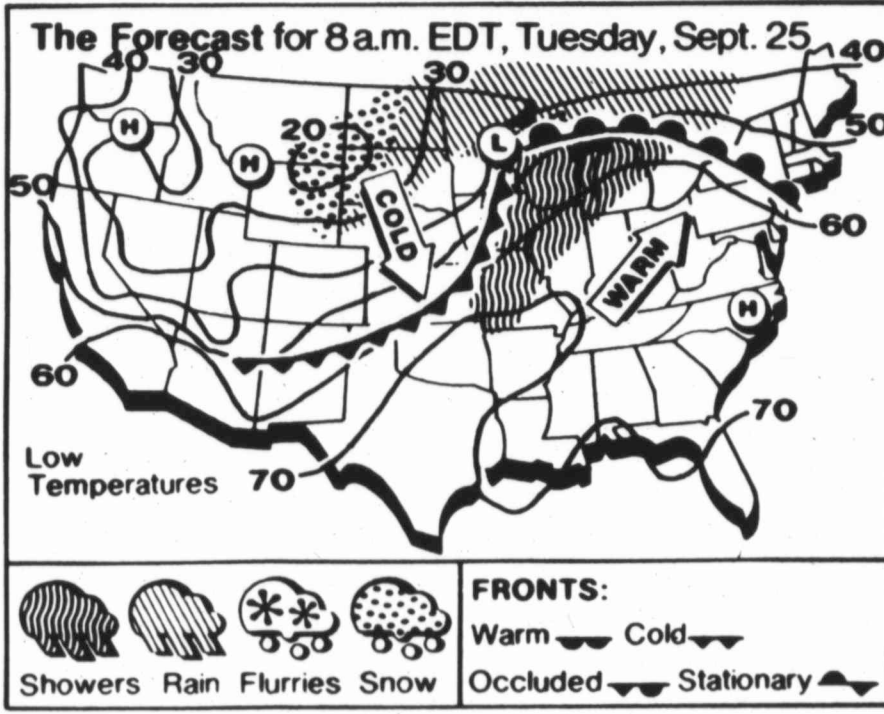

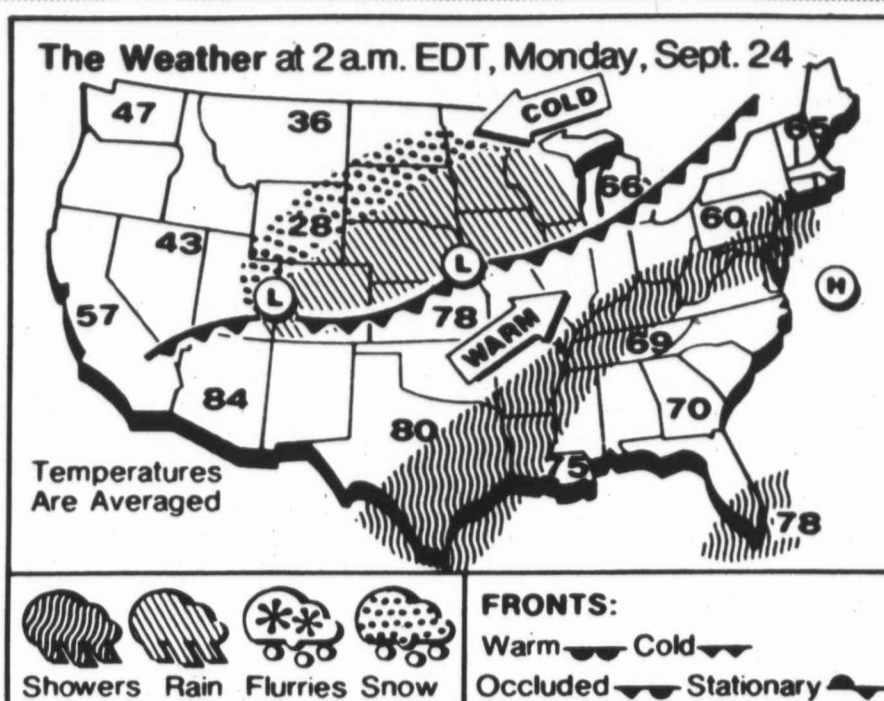

Forecasters called for widely scattered showers and thunderstorms over Southeast Texas and Southwest Texas through tonight. Elsewhere it was to be clear to partly cloudy, warm and humid over the state through Tuesday. Highs today were to be mostly in the 90s except for the 80s over the mountains of Southwest Texas and along the entire gulf coast.

An autumn storm dumped from four to 10 inches of snow on parts of Montana and North Dakota early today as gusting winds built drifts along fences and robbed autumn of its first two days.

Winter doesn't arrive until Dec. 21, but tell that to the people of the northern Plains and Rockies where storm warnings were posted, travelers advisories issued, and stockmen in Utah and northwest Colorado were advised to shelter their herds from cold rain mixed with snow, driven by gusty winds.

Four inches of snow fell at Paradise and Logan Canyon in Utah.

West Texas - Fair and warm tonight. Partly cloudy Tuesday, turning cooler with widely scattered showers Panhandle by late Tuesday. Lows tonight 60s except lower 50s mountains and lower 70s Concho Valley. Highs Tuesday near 80 Panhandle to near 90 Permian Basin to upper 90s Big Bend.

Police Beat

Local threatened with gun

Big Spring woman told police early Sunday afternoon that someone she knows threatened her with a gun. Bonnie Anderson of 1314 Mt. Vernon turned in the aggravated assault report at 12:19 p.m. Sunday after police answered a call of a man with a gun at the address.

In other police reports:

- Criminal mischief damages estimated at $400 to a 1979 Cadillac were reported Sunday night. Jesse Martinez of 806 Douglas told police that someone kicked in the front windshield of the vehicle at about 10:50 p.m. Sunday.

Weekend arrests included:

- Virginia Diaz, 25, of 1600 Oriole, who was arrested at 7:15 p.m. Saturday on suspicion of assault.

- Adela Juarez, 21, of 1614 Lark was arrested at 7:15 p.m. Saturday on suspicion of criminal mischief.
- Delbert Chesney, 50, of 1102 Rannels was arrested at 9:53 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of 11th and Settles on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and traffic warrants.
- Jose Gomez, 36, of 203 W. 19th was arrested at 11:58 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Third and Nolan on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, driving with license suspended, public intoxication and having no insurance.
- Bernardo Contreras Star, 36, of Lamesa was arrested at 1:13 a.m. Sunday at the intersection of Highway 350 and Interstate 20 on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, police reports said.

Man injured in car shooting

A Glasscock County man was injured Sunday night as the result of a car shooting at the Latin Quarter, a club on the Snyder Highway, according to a Howard County sheriff's deputy report.

Pablo Saldano Gonzales of the McDowell Ranch received cuts on his left hand and arm from glass that shattered when the windshield of his car was shot. He also was cut on the left side of his face and bruised during a fight that took place in the club parking lot prior to the shooting.

The three persons with Gonzales — Francisco Angeline Escomeche of the Connie Edwards Ranch and Genice Torres and Janie Mora of the McDowell Ranch — were not injured, according to a sheriff's report.

According to witnesses, a man began shooting at Gonzales' 1972 Ford during the fight. Deputies, who examined the car at Rip Griffin's Truck Stop, found bullet holes in the front windshield, and through the driver's door and the passenger window on the left side of the car.

A suspect is in custody at the Big Spring Police Department on another charge. According to Sheriff A.N. Standard, the man will be transferred to his office on suspicion of aggravated assault after any city charges have been disposed of.

an area between Lansing and near-by Leavenworth, Baker said, adding "There's plenty of open ground and brush in that area."

The cell house, a dormitory-like structure with no bars on the cells, houses between 275 and 280 prisoners, Baker said. The prison, located about 30 miles northwest of Kansas City, Mo., in northeast Kansas, had a population of 1,864 prisoners as of Sunday, Baker said. Baker identified the escapees as Thanh Van Phan, 20, serving a life sentence from Sedgwick County for his November 1982 conviction for first-degree murder; John Allen

Purdy, sentenced in May 1979 to life imprisonment from Sedgwick County for first-degree murder, aggravated robbery and burglary; Lawrence Eugene Lane, 33, sentenced in June 1983 from Douglas County to a 10- to 20-year term for aggravated robbery; Thaddeus Jones, 28, serving a life sentence from Sedgwick County for his May 1983 conviction for first-degree murder and aggravated robbery; and Arzo Tucker Jr., 28, sentenced to 15 years to life from Sedgwick County in April 1979 for aggravated kidnapping, aggravated sodomy, rape and aggravated robbery.

Harvey's parents, Jim and Judy Harvey, and other family members made repeated trips to Colorado to conduct individual searches in the area, but had no luck either.

Family members described the youth as a "normal teen-ager," who was doing well in school and was looking forward to going back to Texas to attend a band school when he disappeared.

Bats bite 4 people in Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — Four people have been bitten by bats in Austin in the past three weeks, as city officials say thousands of migrating bats have formed colonies in the area.

Many of the flying mammals, Mexican free-tailed bats, have gathered under bridges across Town Lake near downtown and in the overhangs of some buildings, officials said.

"We have contemplated putting screens under the bridges to keep them out, but that would be expensive and we don't know the effect it would have," said Dr. Phil Zbylot, chief of community and preventative medicine for the Austin-Travis County Health Department.

"If we drove them off, it may cause a worse problem in residential neighborhoods," Zbylot said.

Zbylot estimated that 2 percent to 3 percent of the bats are rabid.

Dr. Juan Nieto, chief of the emergency room at Brackenridge Hospital, said three men and a woman have been told to take rabies shots for bat bites since the first of the month.

"We've had more than the normal number of people treated for bat bites," Nieto said. "A lot of the bites seem minor, because there is little pain and not much of a wound. But any breaking of the skin by a rabid animal can be dangerous."

"One man was bitten when a bat flew into his hotel room, and another man got a cut forehead when he was hit by a bat as he walked down Sixth Street," Dr. Nieto said.

Off-duty deputy wounds man

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An off-duty sheriff's deputy shot and critically wounded a man at a hamburger restaurant early today, police said.

The victim, whose name had not been released early today, was in critical condition after surgery at Wilford Hall U.S. Air Force Medical Center, Capt. Cliff Enloe of the hospital's public affairs office said.

Authorities identified the deputy as Salvador Rodriguez, 23, a rookie patrolman with the Bexar County Sheriff's Department.

City water treatment heads council agenda

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

Treatment chemicals to bring city water in line with state specifications are on the agenda for consideration by the Big Spring City Council at their 6:30 p.m. Tuesday meeting at City Hall.

The city water department Tuesday night will submit its yearly request for the treatment chemicals. The request includes an ammonia compound that will rid city water of trihalomethane, a chemical that has been linked to cancer.

"I would hope to have (the trihalomethane system) on line in December," Public Works Director Tom Decell said this morning. However, Decell said the December target "might be a cockeyed optimist viewpoint."

The compound appears in city water as a result of the chlorination process used to disinfect the water. Chlorine combines with chemicals that appear naturally in the water to create trihalomethane.

City water has been found to contain a yearly average of 261 parts per billion (ppb) of the compound, a figure that is above the 100 ppb State Health Department limit.

Studies conducted with rats by the federal Environmental Protection Agency have found a "slight probability" of cancer exists if approximately two liters of water containing trihalomethane are ingested over a human lifespan.

Also on tap for council consideration Tuesday are:

- A resolution approving city pay plans for all employees except City Manager Don Davis. The council previously provided for a 3 percent across the board pay increase for city employees in its 1984-85 budget. This resolution would put the pay increase into effect.
- Bids for a 6-inch trash pump for the Utility Department. Low bid for the pump is $12,259 from Alamo Iron Works of San Antonio.
- An ordinance that prohibits swimming at Moss Creek Lake except in designated swimming areas.
- Bids for oil and gas leases at the Big Spring Airpark.
- Yearly appointments to the various citizen boards and committees run by the city.

The council will also retire into executive session to discuss personnel matters, according to its agenda.

In addition, the council is scheduled to begin today a series of bi-weekly work sessions at city offices at the Big Spring Airpark. The council takes no formal action at the work sessions, but hears reports and recommendations from the various city department heads. The sessions are scheduled for 2 p.m. on Mondays before Tuesday council meetings.

Commissioners discuss deputy clerk's salary

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Howard County Commissioners today failed to take action on a request to upgrade a deputy clerk's job description and salary level.

Commissioners met for more than an hour in closed session at the request of 118th District Clerk Peggy Crittenden to discuss the request for an increase.

Although the agenda did not specify the exact nature of the personnel matter under discussion, Mrs. Crittenden has requested similar sessions in the last few months to ask the court to upgrade the job description and pay level of her junior deputy, Colleen Barton.

Commissioners have denied the request in the past.

In other action, commissioners agreed to renew a contract between the county and Midland College for analysis of breathalyzer tests taken by law enforcement officers.

budget today, but will be unable to do so, Kirby said.

According to the county judge, commissioners failed to notify department heads that final budget approval would take place. Such notice is a legal requirement, according to Kirby.

Still on the agenda for today are:

- A meeting with the county librarian to discuss personnel.
- A discussion county employee insurance. According to County Treasurer Bonnie Franklin, commissioners must prepare specifications for the coming year's health insurance. Cost of the insurance is expected to go up.
- County Auditor Jackie Olson also will present an affirmative action plan for the county.
- And, according to County Engineer Bill Mims, restrooms, ramps and the pay telephone at the Courthouse must be made accessible to the handicapped. Mims estimated the cost of the project at about $7,000. County buildings must comply with federal guidelines for the handicapped if the county is to receive federal revenue sharing funds.
- Commissioners are also scheduled to formally approve the closing of County Road No. 55.

The county's portion of the yearly bill decreased this year, dropping to about $6,100 from more than $7,000, according to County Judge Milton Kirby.

Commissioners also were scheduled to approve their 1984-85

Wheeler wins bank contest

A $150 savings account was won by Donnie Wheeler, 1800 Grafa Drive, in a contest at the Howard County Fair Friday. The contest was sponsored by Big Spring Savings.

Drive set for symphony

A fund drive for the Big Spring Symphony Association began today with a campaign breakfast meeting at the Holiday Inn.

Corky Harris, the drive's chairman, set this year's goal at $10,000 for funds to be solicited from within the Big Spring area.

"The goal is modest and is the same amount targeted last year," Harris said. The Symphony's total budget for this year is about $34,000, up 44 percent from last year.

The organization will offer three subscribed concerts this season and will also perform as part of the First United Methodist Church's "Living Christmas Tree" in December.

"Ticket sales account for only 9 percent of the symphony's budgeted income," Harris said.

Deaths

Arthur Leonard

Arthur L. Leonard, 79, died Sunday evening in a local hospital. Services will be at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday at East 4th St. Baptist Church with the Reverend Guy White and Reverend Eldon Cook, First Baptist of Sands Springs officiating.

Interment will be at Trinity Memorial Park. He was born June 27, 1905, in Madison County. He married Maurine Watterson Dec. 4, 1926, in Coleman. He came to Big Spring in 1940 from Brownwood. He had worked as a mechanic at Shroyer Motor Co. and Jack Lewis Buick-Cadillac. He later represented Western and Southern Life Insurance Co. until he retired in 1961.

He was active in the Boy Scouts program and had the longest service as a scoutmaster of anyone in Big Spring. He was a member of the East 4th St. Baptist Church and served as deacon for over 40 years. He was a member of the state Claims Lodge #598 A.F. and A.M.

Survivors are his wife, two daughters Olene Benham of Odessa, Marianne Jones of Snyder, and two sons Dulane Leonard of Big Spring and Bobby Leonard of Odessa. He is also survived by nine grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Stan Benham, Bruce Benham, Jerry and Greg Leonard, Freddie Ray Leonard, Mike Keller and Toby Corbell. Honorary pallbearers will be the deacons of the East 4th St. Baptist Church.

Six officials sentenced

MOSCOW — At least six sports officials, including the director of a Moscow stadium, reportedly have been sentenced to up to 15 years in prison for holding private parties in the stadium sauna and defrauding the state.

Survey results published

TOKYO — More than three-quarters of Japanese women say they face discrimination, according to a Prime Minister's Office survey published today.

The number of women who said they were not being treated equally rose by 18 percentage points to 77.5 percent from the previous survey taken five years ago, while those who believe sexual equality exists fell 6 points to 13 percent.

Asked where they faced discrimination, 65 percent of the women said they encountered it in society in general. The work place was specifically cited by 60 percent and the home by 23 percent.

The Prime Minister's Office polled 10,000 men and women over the age of 20, with an 80 percent response rate. The survey was conducted in May in connection with the United Nations Decade for Women.

Defectors reach Austria

VIENNA, Austria — Police say three Poles in a shipping crate aboard a truck and a Czechoslovak man and his son who swam across a river reached Austria in defections over the weekend.

Police in Graz said Ivan Navara, 30, and his 6-year-old son Viktor waded and swam across the Mur River on Saturday from Yugoslavia to Weikersfeld, Austria. But they said Navara's wife apparently was too weak to swim through the rapid currents, turned back and was pulled from the river by Yugoslav militiamen.

Vienna police said the three Poles, whose ages ranged from 20-24, asked for political asylum and were taken to the Traiskirchen refugee camp south of Vienna.

They survived a two-day, 500-mile truck trip from Bydgoszcz in northeastern Poland to Stockerau, near Vienna, in a textiles shipping container, police reported. They were freed when employees of the company that received the crate heard voices inside and opened it.

Militias began pullout

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Rival pro- and anti-Syrian militias agreed to begin pulling out their fighters and heavy weapons from the northern port of Tripoli on Tuesday to make way for the deployment of Lebanese army troops.

Prime Minister Rashid Karami said in a statement Sunday night in Tripoli, Lebanon's second largest city, that the Syrian-sponsored agreement would go into effect at 6 a.m. Tuesday.

Police said two people were wounded in renewed sniper fire Sunday night. There was no word what triggered the sniping attacks.

Karami said implementation of the agreement would involve the withdrawal of rival militiamen from Tripoli streets, clearing of militia barricades, the collection of heavy weapons and their storage in depots.

Chernenko turns 73

MOSCOW — Konstantin U. Chernenko the oldest man ever to become leader of the Soviet Union, turned 73 today after being awarded another prestigious medal for service to the Communist Party.

An Order of Lenin medal was bestowed upon Chernenko through a decree from the presidium of the Supreme Soviet, the state-controlled media reported.

Despite the front-page and top-of-broadcast treatment afforded the medal announcements, the media reports did not mention that today was Chernenko's birthday.

Japan sends up fighters

TOKYO — Japan sent fighter planes aloft after 20 Soviet Tupolev bombers were detected by radar over the Sea of Japan, an Air Self Defense Force spokesman said.

The radar picked up the TU-22M "Backfire" bombers Sunday west of Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost main island. The Soviet aircraft flew south to a point off Noto Peninsula, 200 miles northwest of Tokyo, and then turned back, agency spokesman Fumio Kawakatsu said.

Kawakatsu said the Air Self Defense Force ordered Japanese-made F-1 and U.S.-built F-4 Phantom fighter planes into the air from four bases.

"The Soviet bombers did not violate Japanese air space, but it was the first time that such a large number of the Backfires were confirmed flying together near Japan."

THE CHIEF — Gilbert Ankrah, a 36-year-old disc jockey in Akwatia, Ghana, is enstooled as chief of the town of some 25,000. Ghana's chiefs traditionally preside from the stool.

Chief ruler

Former disc jockey named as new town chief

AKWATIA, Ghana (AP) — A few days before, Gilbert Ankrah was cueing up records in a studio at Ghana Radio 2. But this day the disc jockey was "enstooled," amid pomp and tribal ritual, as chief of this town of 25,000.

Trumpets blared, bands played and women danced for hours in the broiling sun during ceremonies marking the installation of the 36-year-old Ankrah as the new chief. As chief, he took the name Barima Kofi Ohemeng Kwatia II. Ankrah's enstoolment, so called because Ghana's chiefs traditionally preside from stools, was by no means unique in this former British colony of about 12 million people once known as the Gold Coast.

Dozens of villages in recent years have elected doctors, lawyers, businessmen and government officials. Some of the chiefs, elected by village elders who generally look for a local man made good, have gone on to important jobs in the military government of Flight Lt. Jerry Rawlings.

Not unkind of the respect Ghana's chiefs have commanded for generations, Rawlings has tended to encourage the grassroots government and tried to harness the chiefs to help implement the policies of what he calls his "populist" revolution.

"The government is talking of decentralization as a way of achieving justice. They would be fools to ignore the possibilities that exist in the traditional system," Ben Abdallah, secretary of culture in Rawlings' Provisional National Defense Council, said in an interview.

"Every African has really deep down what people in the United States like to call 'roots,' and for the African this is his customs and rituals. It is the very foundation of their lives," Abdallah told The Associated Press.

The fervor of the several thousand Akwatia residents who took part in Ankrah's enstoolment, testified to the truth of Abdallah's statement.

As the disc jockey sat on his stool under a cloth canopy woven in shades of yellow, brown and black, villagers and guests handed him gifts ranging from bananas and yams to money, beer and imported schnapps.

Ankrah arrived for the ceremonies under a giant parasol thrust up and down by its bearers with such vigor that it resembled a primitive flying machine.

Though Akwatia, 90 miles northwest of the Ghanaian capital of Accra, is adjacent to a diamond mine, Ankrah's crown, bulbous ring and nugget-studded sandals were made of cardboard and painted gold. Some tribal elders had gilded flakes on their bare chests.

Interviewed as he sat on his stool, Ankrah said: "I have already talked with my elders and they agree I can go back to my job at the radio. I can handle this job. It's just a matter of traveling."

The chief is the final arbiter in village affairs, ranging from land disputes to marriage and divorce, and is required to perform prescribed rituals at fixed times during the year. He gets free housing, and gifts from villagers provide a steady income.

Ankrah, assisted by six sub-chiefs, is not the only local leader who will have to shuttle back and forth between the village and a regular job in the capital.

The same day that Ankrah was displayed to his people in what is called an "outdooing," a similar ceremony was performed in Agogo, 310 miles northwest of Accra. There, David Anankwa, chairman of the Ghana National Trading Corp., was enstooled and outdooed.

Though born in Akwatia, Ankrah hasn't lived here full-time since 1956. But he has often made the 2½-hour drive up the rough road from Accra to visit his parents.

Abdallah said Akwatia had been without a chief for more than a year because of a dispute over picking a successor to the previous chief, who died.

The culture secretary said Ankrah finally emerged as the elders' choice because of his college education, some prominence as a disc jockey and because his longtime residence outside the town would probably make him more even-handed in his decisions.

Not only does he plan to keep his job as a disc jockey, Ankrah is scheduled to do postgraduate work in radio and television science next year at Grambling College in Grambling, La. "The elders have agreed I should go because I will be better equipped to serve the people," Ankrah explained.

Abdallah cited the career of the late Naa Polkuu Konkoo Chiri, chief of the Degarte people in Ghana's far north, as an example of the government's drawing on the talents and prestige of traditional rulers.

Chiri began his career as a teacher, eventually became chairman of the state gold mining corporation and in November 1982 was appointed to Rawlings' ruling council.

Hurricane heads for California

MEXICO CITY (AP) — After meandering off Mexico's Pacific coast for a week, Hurricane Norbert was reported heading today toward the Baja California peninsula.

Meteorologists described the storm as "big and ugly" and warned ships and planes to use caution while navigating in the area.

"If it keeps on its present course it may brush the tip of Baja California and then run parallel to the peninsula," National Weather Bureau meteorologist Martin Leon said Sunday night.

Norbert, which began as a tropical depression Sept. 14, became a full-fledged hurricane on Sept. 17, moving along an erratic course between Baja California peninsula and the Mexican mainland.

"It is definitely big and ugly and has a very high intensity," said Leon. He said that after keeping on a northeasterly course all morning Sunday, Norbert suddenly veered in the afternoon, moving steadily northwest at 6 mph.

Leon said Norbert, at 8 p.m. EDT Sunday, was about 263 miles southeast of San Jose de los Cabos in the state of Baja California Sur, packing sustained winds of 125 mph, with gusts of up to 144 mph.

In Manzanatlan, Ignacio India, duty operator at the government's Maritime Radio Station, said repeated bulletins "warned shipping to exercise extreme caution" in the area along the coasts of Baja California and a stretch between Jalisco state and Sinaloa state farther north.

Norbert started moving towards the mainland one day after tropical storm Odille pummeled the reports of Acapulco and Ixtapa-Zihuatanejo before it disintegrated at dawn Sunday.

Hotel operators in the area said few foreign tourists have since a series of tropical storms started hitting the area more than a month ago.

An army spokesman said there were no reports of deaths or injuries in Ixtapa-Zihuatanejo, 286 miles southwest of Mexican City, and damage there was "slight."

But the newspaper Excelsior and other press reports said Odill left six dead, two missing and "dozens" homeless in Acapulco. One report said 7,000 people had to evacuate their homes, and another quoted Mayor Alfonso Argudin Alcaraz as saying the storm damaged 900 homes, flooded 30 miles of highways and left 20,000 families without water service.

Troops begin rebel attack

NUEVA CONCEPCION, El Salvador (AP) — Army commanders say about 3,500 government troops are engaged in a new drive to clear leftist rebels out of two northern provinces and persuade peasants who fled to return to their land.

The operation began Friday in Chalatenango and Cabanas provinces and is part of the so-called "National Plan," a pacification program financed by the United States. The program was applied in two eastern provinces last year with mixed results.

Suspect hangs himself

PRINCETON, N.J. — The alleged killer of a New York state police detective apparently committed suicide by hanging himself from a tree, police said.

The body of Edward Michael Esposito, 39, was found Sunday afternoon hanging by a rope from a tree in a wooded area near the Township of Hopewell near Princeton, said Sgt. Alfred Dorer.

Esposito, of Bloomingburg, N.Y., was wanted in the slaying of Detective Richard Snyder, who was last seen Thursday night. He is missing and presumed dead, police said.

Esposito was indicted Thursday on insurance fraud charges, but police would not say whether Snyder was involved in the case.

Three killed in shooting

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — A man apparently shot two women and another man in an exclusive area that is home to many celebrities then turned the gun on himself, police said.

It appeared that Alex Egedy shot Virginia Egedy, 45, Betty Difiore, 52, and Jack Levy, 66, whose bodies were found at a home in the Rancho Circle area, said a Metropolitan Police officer who refused to be identified.

Police did not know the relationship of the three dead people to Egedy, and would release no further details, the officer said.

Police termed the incident a murder-suicide.

More elude prosecution

BOSTON — More people charged with crimes, including murder, escape prosecution by failing to appear in court in the Boston area than in eight other metropolitan areas surveyed by the National Institutes for Justice, a newspaper reported.

About 9 percent of the 13,000 people indicted for felonies in Suffolk County in the past 4½ years defaulted and remain at large, The Boston Sunday Globe reported.

The fugitive rate was an average 2 percent in Miami and Dade County, Fla.; Washington, D.C.; Baltimore city; Baltimore County; Santa Cruz County, Calif.; Santa Clara County, Calif.; Louisville and Jefferson County, Ky.; and Tucson and Pima County, Ariz.

Suit tumbles enrollment

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — A 16-year-old lawsuit seeking to desegregate the state's system of higher education probably helped cause a 6 percent enrollment decline this year at predominantly black Tennessee State University, school officials said.

Roy Nicks, chancellor of the state Board of Regents, announced at a board meeting Friday that Tennessee State's enrollment has tumbled from 8,132 last year to 7,700 this fall.

Tennessee State has been the focus of the desegregation lawsuit. Its student body is more than 60 percent black, and its entering freshman class is more than 90 percent black.

Yale workers to strike

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — Unionized clerical and technical workers at Yale University say they will strike at 5 a.m. Wednesday unless they have a new contract with the university administration.

Maintenance workers, dormitory dining hall staff and other blue-collar employees have voted to honor the picket lines.

The average clerical and technical salary is $13,424. Yale's latest proposal would raise that by $3,000 over the three years of the contract — a 21.7 percent increase.

A union representative called that offer "inadequate."

TDC gangs kill 13 in '84

SAN ANTONIO — Prison gangs formed along racial lines are responsible for the 281 stabbings and 13 killings in the Texas prison system this year, the most violent year ever, some prison officials believe.

Ten of the 13 prison deaths this year were interracial, according to corrections officials. The latest stabbing occurred Sunday.

The gang for white inmates is called the Aryan Brotherhood, officials said. The gang for black inmates is called the Mandingo Warriors. The third and oldest gang is said to be the Texas Syndicate, made up of Hispanic inmates, officials said.

Opinion

U.S. should nix seal-killing pact

During July, 22,000 fur seals were slaughtered on the Pribilof Islands off Alaska. The kill was made under contract with the U.S. Department of Commerce. Was it necessary?

The demand for seal skins has declined greatly during the last decade, and a recent opinion poll showed that 85 percent of the respondents want the annual seal slaughter ended.

The number of seals has been declining throughout the world for many years. They have been hunted with high-powered rifles, killed on the calving grounds and trapped by accident in fishing nets.

Despite seal population decline, the Department of Commerce continues to subsidize the killing on the Pribilofs, which are among the last major calving areas in the world.

According to Friends of Animals Inc., the annual subsidy comes to about $10 million. This provides about five weeks work for about 80 people.

It is not a dramatic cause, as causes go. But these beautiful and gentle animals have a right to survive. And the Senate can save them by ending an obsolete treaty of 1911 under which the government sanctions the slaughter.

Handle with care

WASHINGTON — The prolonged labor negotiations in Detroit provide another insight into the political economy of America in the 1980s. The basic fact — evident in autos as in many other industries — is that the country has entered unknown territory.

In the new conditions neither management nor labor is entirely sure of its best interests. So extraordinary hesitation precedes firm commitments.

Uncertainty about the American role in the world economy furnishes the central element of doubt. The unquestioned primacy this country once enjoyed in heavy manufactures now comes under heavy challenge. Imported cars — mainly from Japan — now account for 25 percent of all auto sales. Even when the foreigners don't produce the whole cars more cheaply, they are often the best suppliers of parts. Already, production jobs in the U.S. auto industry are down 20 percent since 1980. Much bigger losses loom ahead.

No consensus on how to meet the challenge of foreign competition has evolved in the country or even the auto industry. The United Auto Workers — like unions in other industries — favors protection against foreign competition. The UAW supports the present "voluntary" limit on Japanese exports. It favors "domestic content" legislation that would require fixed percentages of American-made components in every car sold in this country.

Ford and Chrysler joined the union in backing the quotas. General Motors — confident it could smash the smaller competitors in a free market, opposes both the quotas and domestic content. The Reagan administration, as the refusal to impose quotas on steel shows, abhors protection in principle and feels uncomfortable with the quotas on autos. Fritz Mondale and the Democrats have embraced a large measure of protection including "domestic content."

The absence of consensus dims the appeal of the up or out choice — a wage hike or a strike. To be sure, workers with so much seniority they are fireproof hunger for wage increases. Especially since they made concessions to the companies in 1982, and the corporate brass in their greed voted themselves huge bonuses at the beginning of this year. Thus many local unions have been talking tough about going for big wage hikes, and forcing the issue — if necessary — with a strike.

But auto workers are already paid 40 percent more than most other workers in this country. Further increases would price American cars out of international markets even more rapidly and thus accelerate the drive of the companies to produce abroad. So GM and Ford (Chrysler was never party to this year's negotiations) opened the talks with proposals for only modest wage hikes — GM — when it became the center of the negotiations — sweetened the pot. But the offer was for a high lump sum payment, not a raising of pay scales on an ongoing basis. The UAW leader, Owen Bieber, indicated from the first that big wage increases were not at the top of his agenda.

A strike was also unappetizing. Labor unrest during the presidential campaign would hurt Mondale and the chance for getting serious protection. The Reagan administration would be tempted to let the quotas lapse. Exports from Japan would swell. Far from hurting GM on a temporary basis, until it coughed up, a strike could damage the whole American industry long term. So even after the contract ran out, the UAW took the unusual step of continuing negotiations and limiting pressure on GM to scattered local walkouts.

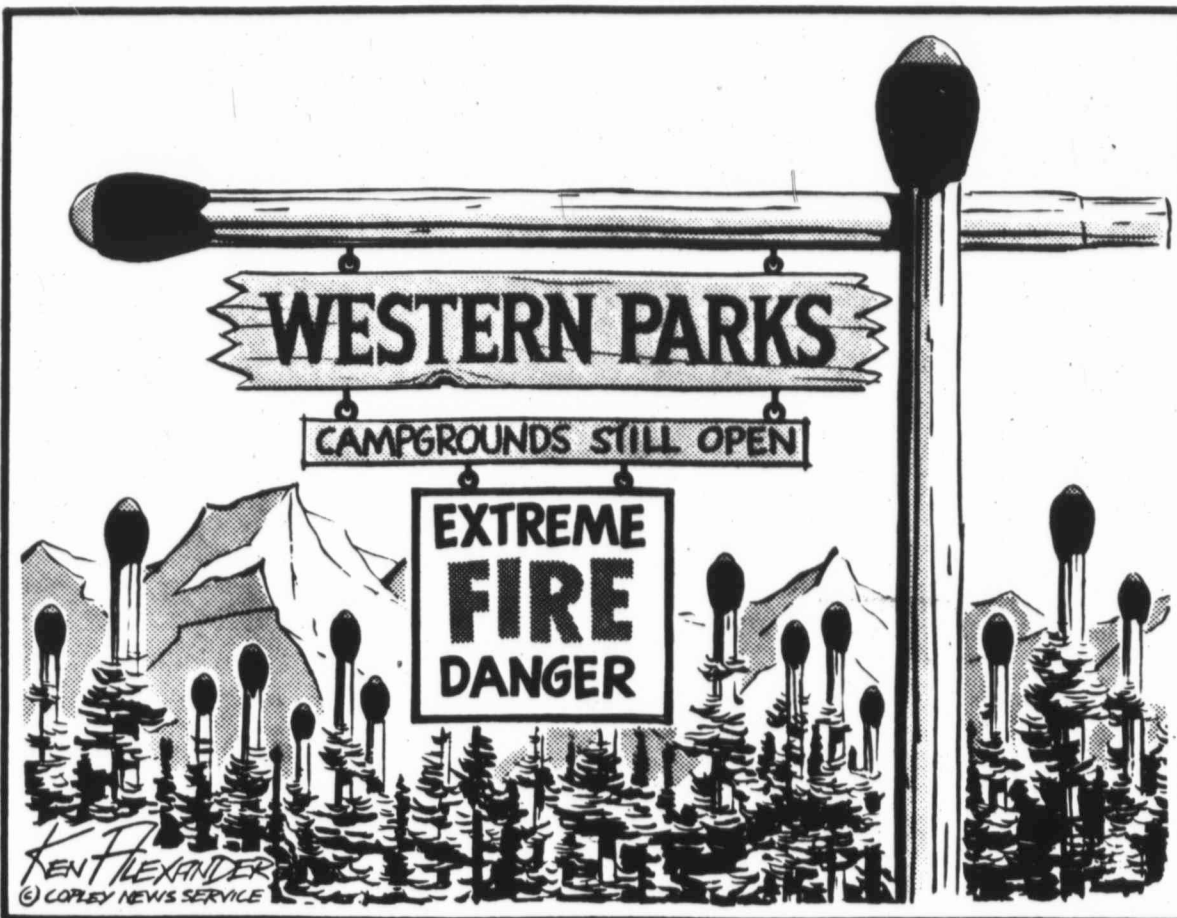

"Job security" was the area designated by Bieber as prime for the union. That involves a complex trade-off. The companies win the right to change work rules in ways that improve output per-man hour — or productivity. They thus stay competitive with foreign manufacturers. In return, the workers are given certain guarantees against loss of employment. But making such guarantees concrete turns out to be very tricky.

Retraining workers forced from their jobs looks appealing at first, and GM did offer a large fund for the teaching of new skills. But most auto workers have long since developed the discipline and motivation it takes to get and hold a job. Their problem is the psychological one of willingness to move and accept work at lower wages.

Guaranteeing a fixed number of jobs over the contract period is also a possibility, but is expensive. It requires discrimination between those included in the program and those excluded. Guarantees, moreover, instead of encouraging workers to move to jobs with a future merely prolong the agony of hanging on in a dwindling industry. Only fools rush to hard conclusions in such dicey circumstances. A genuine national blessing is that this country makes its labor bargains industry by industry. For some companies and some unions have shown good sense. Many American workers, especially compared to those in Europe, have been flexible when it comes to new and less cushy jobs.

Still, the country will probably have to feel its way forward for several years of tricky labor-management bargains. For some kind of retrenchment is inevitably involved. We lack the kind of national leadership ready to organize general sacrifice on a fair basis. So we will have to move forward case by case, hesitating at every step.

Report error ruins cop's career

WASHINGTON — For eight long years, thanks to a still unexplained bureaucratic goof, Robert F. Cooper was led to believe that he suffered from a mysterious, disabling disease. And even when he was able to establish the truth, his tormentors refused to correct the error that all but ruined his life.

Cooper's story is a nightmare out of Kafka — with a touch of "Catch-22" thrown in for good measure. It began in 1971, when Cooper, 23 and fresh from a two-year stint in the Army, joined the Washington, D.C., Metropolitan Police Department.

During his probationary year, Cooper was summarily fired. Under the rules, no reason for dismissal had to be given. But Cooper's superiors volunteered just enough information to scare the daylight out of him. They told him he was let go because he had a disabling medical condition.

Cooper was understandably terrified at the thought that his body was under attack by some dreadful malady. He also found he couldn't get other work because of the medical mystery. He decided he had to know what was wrong with him.

After eight years of dogged petitioning, Cooper was finally allowed to look at the police records on his dismissal. The documents identified the mysterious affliction that had caused Cooper's firing: enuresis, the medical term for bed-wetting.

Cooper was dumbfounded. He had never been a bed-wetter. Where had the police department gotten such a crazy idea?

Mailbag

'Exhilarating' is best description

To the editor: Last night (Friday) I had a most exhilarating experience. In fact, last week was a most exhilarating week. There is so much available to us in Big Spring that we never lack for opportunities to be a part of something connected to the Good Energy Source.

Thursday night my son, his friend, my daughter and I took in the Howard County Fair. One of the things we liked best was being lifted up high above everything on our fire department's emergency lift. How terrific it felt to be lifted high above everything and be able to see our town from a different elevation! But that's another story.

What I want to tell you about is the visit of the New Seekers who were brought here by the Business and Professional Women of Big Spring. The New Seekers is a group of young people from all over America. They represent the highest in professional contemporary music. What I liked so much was the fact that they represent the finest in what we can expect from enthusiastic young people who believe in what they are doing.

Our municipal auditorium was filled with the sounds of our new wave of patriotism. They sang of such themes as love, hope, trying, believing, trusting, daring, belonging. Somehow they conveyed to each one of us a "oneness" that is America.

They came to sing for us in Big Spring not only from different states but also from different cultural backgrounds, different

It turned out that the erroneous diagnosis was contained in Cooper's Army medical record, which had been sent to the district government.

Without ever examining Cooper, or even interviewing him, the police department's supervising physician accepted the Army's false diagnosis and jumped to the conclusion that Cooper wasn't macho enough to be a cop.

In a memo reviewed by my associate Indy Badhwar the doctor wrote: "Bed-wetting represents deep-seated personality conflicts and a degree of unassertiveness which is a serious handicap in functioning in the expected role that a male plays in our society."

Cooper demanded reinstatement because he said he had been fired on false grounds. The district's personnel department sent him this incredible response: "There exists no medical examination which would determine in fact that the disqualifying condition (i.e., enuresis) exists, nor is there any sound reason to believe it does not."

In other words, the bureaucrats admitted there was no way to be sure Cooper was a bed-wetter, but they refused to give him his job back because there was no way to be sure he wasn't.

Cooper then appealed to the Army. In November 1980, Col. George R. Helsel, chief of the medical corps' inquiries branch, wrote that in his opinion Cooper had never been a bed-wetter, and that his medical record was simply wrong. The Army corrected the record by deleting all reference to enuresis.

The Army never explained how it had made its long-ago error, but in a deposition Helsel speculated that someone had confused "enuresis" with "Urinary frequency" caused by drinking water.

"If you drink lots of water, then you have to go to the bathroom many more times," the doctor testified, adding: "It's a normal response."

Still rebuffed by the police department despite his vindication by the Army, Cooper went to court in 1982.

At the trial, police officials explained that they hadn't told Cooper the exact reason for his dismissal "in order to protect Mr. Cooper's feelings." U.S. District Judge William Bryant ordered Cooper reinstated with full back pay.

That was seven months ago. But Cooper's bureaucratic torturers aren't through with him. They have appealed the verdict.

JUST ASK DIRECTIONS: As its name suggests, the Defense Mapping Agency supplies the maps and charts the armed services need for their sometimes far-flung missions. But the agency has a problem with its classifications: It makes it tough for the right people to get maps, while letting secret maps get into the wrong hands. For example:

• According to one source, some of the ground troops in the Grenada invasion had to use air-reconnaissance charts instead of easier-to-follow ground maps of the island because of poor distribution. The ground maps didn't arrive until three days after the first troops landed.

Another source said the Marines had to rely on 19th century maps because it was considered too great a security risk to give them up-to-date maps.

• Auditors found "major inventory errors" and "the possible loss of classified products" by the map agency. In one case, DMA almost sold a classified map to an Oregon businessman for $10.71. In another incident last December, a series of classified charts were sent to an office in Canada; they were later returned.

Billy Graham

Only one sin

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am in prison for doing the worst thing you can do — taking another person's life. I am deeply sorry for what I did — I was on drugs at the time and hardly knew what I was doing — but is there any hope God will forgive me? — S.P.T.

DEAR S.P.T.: There is only one sin God cannot forgive, and that is the sin of turning your back on Him and refusing His offer of forgiveness through Jesus Christ. You see, when you turn your back on God, you are, in effect, calling Him a liar. God has promised to forgive you — completely and fully — if you will turn to Him and accept His gift of forgiveness and salvation. The Bible says, "Seek the Lord while he may be found; call on him while he is near. Let the wicked man forsake his ways and the evil man his thoughts. Let him turn to the Lord, and he will have mercy on him, and to our God, for he will freely pardon" (Isaiah 55:6-7). You can trust God's promise to you.

Your letter (which I have not quoted in full) indicates you are under a sentence of death because of what you did. But in a fuller sense, we are all under a sentence of death and judgment because of what we have done in sinning against God. There is only one way our sentence can be removed, and that is for God (the judge) to forgive us. This is what He has done in Christ. We deserve God's judgment — but Jesus Christ, because He loves us, died on the cross in our place.

Open your heart to Christ, and accept by faith His gift of salvation. When Jesus died on the cross, two criminals were crucified with him. One of them turned to Christ in faith, and Jesus promised him, "I tell you the truth, today you will be with me in paradise" (Luke 23:43). No matter what the future holds for you, you can face it with hope and peace if you accept Christ and seek to follow Him in faith.

Young boys prone to hip problem

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I would like to know about Legg-Perthes disease, since my cousin's little boy has it. What causes it? And what kind of activities should be avoided? What kind of treatment is there for it? What will happen in the future because of this? — M.B.

The full name of the disorder is Legg-Perthes disease, the last names of the three doctors who were involved in early work on it. I can't tell you why this hip problem occurs; we don't know.

But we do know what it causes, a marked reduction in blood supply to the top part of the hip bone. That lack of blood causes a crumbling of bone there. As terrible as that sounds, most children endure Legg-Perthes disease without suffering permanent damage to the hip.

The problem generally affects children, most of them boys between ages 5 and 9 years. Treatment is aimed at maintaining the shape of the bone end, where it fits into its socket. Doing this minimizes the chance for permanent impairment in walking.

I can't be very specific in answering your other questions. Treatment in any individual case depends on the extent of bone damage that has occurred. Sometimes a walking cast is applied and sometimes braces are used. There may have to be period of bedrest. However, healing does eventually occur as new blood vessels sprout into the bone to stimulate formation of new bone. That can take a long time, from a year to three years.

Activity, as does treatment, depends on extent of damage, and the doctor gives individualized guidelines. I certainly hope and trust that your cousin's little boy will survive this setback with no complications.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am supposed to get an endoscopic examination soon, and I hate the idea of what I'm going to have to go through. I understand they will stick a tube in my throat down to my stomach and beyond. My doctor tells me that methods have improved and that a narrow tube is used. How narrow? I'm a wreck! — R.P.

Please don't be up-tight about this. No one enjoys having tubes stuck into their throat, but I can assure you that your doctor is right, that newer methods of performing endoscopy make it much less unpleasant. I assume your doctor will be using what is called the fiber optic endoscope.

A narrow (about a centimeter wide) flexible tube is used. It permits viewing with a tiny photo device at the tube end. Usually the area to be viewed includes the esophagus, the stomach, and part of the small intestine (just beyond the stomach). The whole procedure should not take longer than 15 minutes, probably closer to 10, or even 5 minutes. You will be given a sedative injection, and if the doctor wishes he can deaden the area at the back of the throat prior to the procedure.

When it's all over, I don't think you will be anxiously awaiting your next endoscopy, but it is not going to be nearly as unpleasant as you anticipate. I've had it done. I know how you feel right now.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 65-year-old man. I have enjoyed good health and remain active. Now I am told I have diabetes. I did have a slight high blood pressure for which I am taking water pills. That's all I'm taking. I don't like the idea of having to use insulin injections, which I understand diabetics must take. My doctor hasn't said anything about that yet. Fill me in on this please. — D.M.

I don't think you will need insulin injections. When people your age develop diabetes, it usually doesn't reflect a lack of insulin in the body. In fact, many times insulin levels are right around normal.

As many as 4 million elderly Americans may have the kind of diabetes you have (Type II). It means you are somewhat sensitive to sugar, which your insulin cannot handle very well. Weight loss can help remedy this. Sometimes diuretics (water pills) can induce a high blood sugar reading in older people.

That's just a thought. I'm not saying that happened to you. I am sure that your doctor will outline a workable control program for you if needed, but I don't think that will involve use of insulin injections.

Dear Abby

Teen-age 'Tootsie' gets neighbor's dressing-down

DEAR ABBY: Recently I went away for a week. Before leaving, I hired a neighbor's 17-year-old son to look after my dog, plants and mail. I've known this boy and his family for about 10 years and felt that he could be trusted with my home and possessions.

When I returned home a day ahead of schedule, I got the surprise of my life when I walked in and found my house sifter all decked out in my best clothes — high heels, makeup, wig, the works! He explained that he liked to dress up in women's clothes, and he didn't think I'd mind.

I not only "minded," I was furious! He was even wearing my underwear, including a brand-new slip I had never worn.

I ordered him to get out of my clothing immediately, then I phoned his mother. When I told her about her son, she made a joke of it. I demanded that she pay to have my clothes cleaned, but she refused and said I was making too big a deal over a small thing.

Abby, this is no small thing to me. I feel that my privacy has been invaded, and I can't bear the thought of putting those clothes on until everything has been dry-cleaned or laundered.

As for my neighbor's 17-year-old "Tootsie," I think he needs counseling. Am I wrong?

trouble accepting himself for what he is (a transvestite), he needs counseling.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure this letter won't be printed, but so what? At least I will have let off some steam. It concerns the letter about the truck driver who wants to get married. The stupid, selfish idiot! There isn't a man worth his salt who would marry a woman and then go trucking.

My husband and I are a truck-driving team, and we did not become that until we were in our 50s. We've been married for many years, and this is a present to ourselves. We've always wanted to drive an 18-wheeler. Truck driving is no job for a man who can't take his wife along.

As for "Lady Trucker from Michigan," who suggests a man trucker should team up with a woman trucker to keep from getting too lonesome — she doesn't give a tinker's damn if she walks on the heart of a trucker's wife. Tramps like her are a dime a dozen. I hope she gets kicked in the head by some of her joy-boy drivers. Maybe that will knock some sense into her. Sign this...

SESAME CHICKEN

2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons oil
1 frying chicken (2½ to 3 pounds), cut into serving pieces

½ cup flour seasoned with pepper
¼ cup sesame seeds
3 tablespoons minced green onion
½ cup dry white wine
juice of ½ lemon

Melt margarine with oil in baking pan. Allow to cool slightly but not harden. In a paper bag, shake chicken in seasoned flour until coated. Then roll pieces in oil in baking pan, and arrange so that pieces do not touch. Sprinkle with lemon juice and sesame seeds. Bake at 375°F for 30 minutes, or until lightly browned. Turn chicken; sprinkle with sesame seeds and minced onion. Pour wine into bottom of pan and cook for 30-45 minutes, basting occasionally, until done.

toured Scenic Mountain on Aug. 28. He approved Richardson's grand plan, even instructing that the pool be enlarged from 160 feet to 200 feet. But Richardson could have the CCC company for just one year, Nason said.

By Oct. 16, an improved road had been pushed to the top of the mountain, and work had begun on the "Roman Road," a new descending drive. Ground was cleared for the amphitheater on Nov. 8.

Using the cross-cut saw and the wedge-and-feather, the Cs were busily shaping building blocks from the mountain's limestone.

The huge boulders were hauled by four 1½-ton dump trucks and two 3-ton dump trucks. A 10-ton tractor and 10-foot road grader moved the mountain. Crews were ferried to their jobs in two lorries and a pickup. And a specially designed rock crusher provided caliche cover for the road.

By the end of November, these "poor but fine boys," as Richardson called the Cs — these boys unlearned in any trade or profession — were making immeasurable progress on the "immense thing."

But few of them knew when they assembled in the mess hall for their Thanksgiving banquet of roast turkey and pork that the future held little promise for the park they were building on Scenic Mountain.

Polls show some Democrats favor Reagan over Mondale

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter F. Mondale is seeking to limit defections of Democratic voters to President Reagan by forecasting a "scary, intolerant and dangerous future" under a second Reagan administration.

Facing polls showing substantial numbers of Democrats are ready to vote for Reagan, Mondale said Sunday the president has been doing a "cynical rewrite of history" by praising past Democratic heroes like John F. Kennedy, Harry S. Truman and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Mr. Reagan wants Democrats to cross the line and become Republicans," Mondale said in his weekly paid radio address. "Today I am asking Americans, especially young Americans, to take a look at the Republican home they are being sold, and the platform it's built on."

Mondale was traveling today to Reagan territory in Texas, where 29 of the 270 electoral college votes needed to win the presidency will be contested Nov. 6, the third largest total in the nation.

A recent ABC News-Washington Post poll showed the president holds a 30 percentage point lead in Texas, the state where the Republican National Convention was held last month. Stops were planned for Mondale in Texarkana and Houston.

Reagan was in New York today to address the United Nations General Assembly, after attending a reception late Sunday. Also there was Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who is scheduled to meet Thursday with Mondale and Friday with Reagan.

Vice President George Bush was heading to Illinois today on the first leg of a four-day trip through the Midwest. Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro was campaigning in New York and Baltimore.

In Washington on Sunday, Mondale said that under a second Reagan administration, women would be paid less than men for the same work, the "illegal war in Nicaragua" would be heated up, politicians would write prayers for children, and Moral Majority leader the Rev. Jerry Falwell would pick Supreme Court nominees.

"That's a scary, intolerant and dangerous future," he said in a direct appeal to Democrats broadcast on network radio. "If you cross over to Dallas Republicans, that's what you get. You don't just get the balloons, the pep rallies and the happy talk. You get Falwell, Nicaragua and Star Wars too."

Mondale recalled that at the Republican convention last month in Dallas, "You didn't hear much praise of (Richard M.) Nixon, (Herbert) Hoover, or even (Dwight D.) Eisenhower. Instead, they quoted FDR, Eleanor Roosevelt, Truman, (Sen. Henry) Scoop Jackson and even my friend Hubert Humphrey."

"What a cynical rewrite of history that is," he said. "Can you imagine Roosevelt giving tax breaks to millionaires and socking it to working people... Can you imagine Truman letting 300 Marines die in Lebanon, and then passing the buck? Can you imagine Jack Kennedy trying to cut Social Security? Can you imagine Lyndon Johnson trashing the civil rights laws and denying the existence of hunger?"

At a news conference, Mondale said the president has isolated himself in a "question-free zone" that allows his campaign managers to prevent any real dialogue between the candidates.

But Mondale predicted that Reagan's lead would fall as the election approached and the president was forced to respond to voters' questions about the path of his second four years in office.

Also on Sunday, Mondale won the endorsement of the National Women's Political Caucus, which had never before backed a presidential candidate in its 13-year history.

Kathy Wilson, a Republican who chairs the conference, said: "Under Ronald Reagan's leadership, we've been deserted and double crossed. Our Republicans who have been active in the party for years have been forced to choose between their commitment to women's rights and their commitment to party. That is simply no choice."

'Hill Street Blues' dominates 36th Annual Emmy Awards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC's top-nominated "Hill Street Blues" won awards for director and supporting performers at the 36th annual Emmys on Sunday night, as the network captured nine of the first 16 prizes in a bid to dominate the awards for a fourth year.

Alfre Woodard won her Emmy for playing a mother whose young son is mistakenly killed by a policeman, and Bruce Weitz was honored for his continuing role as snarling but sensitive street detective Mick Belker in the gritty, bittersweet police series.

"Hill Street" has captured the most awards for the past three years, and its 18 nominations were the most for the 1983-84 season.

Rhea Perlman, the tough-talking barmaid on NBC's "Cheers," and Pat Harrington Jr., the nosy superintendent Schneider on CBS' "One Day At A Time," were named best supporting performers in comedy series.

"You're looking at a man who has been wanting one of these things for 30 years — since I was a child actor," said Harrington, whose show has gone off the air after nine seasons.

Asked about getting an Emmy for a show that's ended, Harrington said backstage: "This is poignant. It's like visiting the grave."

Art Carney, who played the housekeeper to Jimmy Cagney's retired boxer in CBS' "Terrible Joe Moran," won the award as best supporting actor in a special.

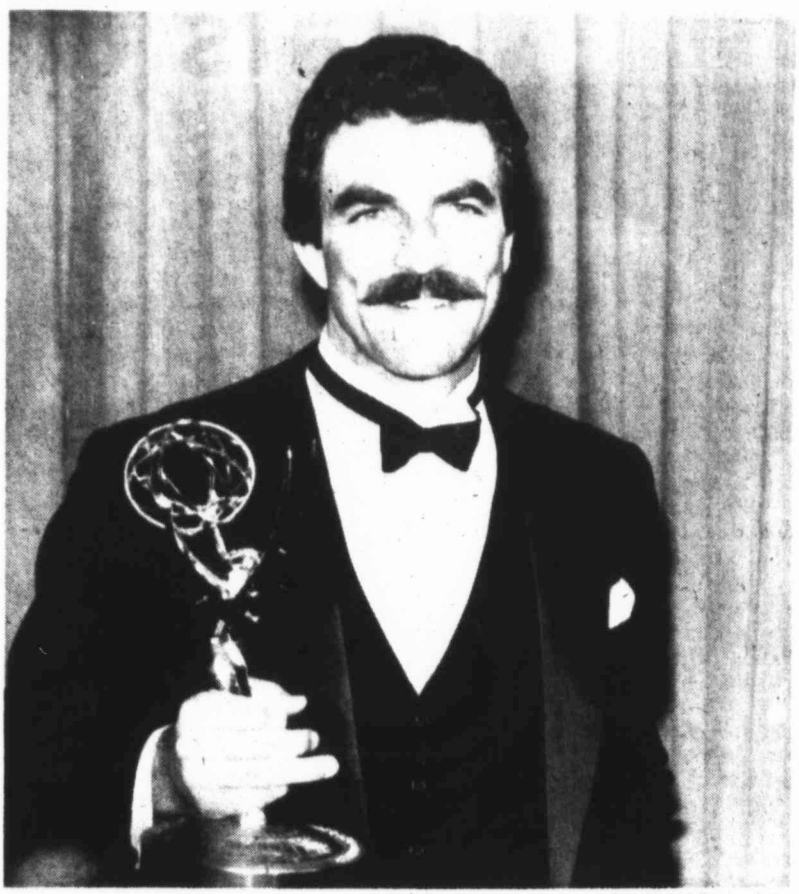

Fourteen-year-old Roxana Zal, the young incest victim in ABC's "Something About Amelia," won the award as best supporting actress in a special.

"All I can say is this is a surprise and an honor, and I thank everyone out there," Miss Zal said in accepting the award.

Writing awards went to "Cheers," for comedy, NBC's still struggling hospital series "St. Elsewhere" for drama, and to NBC's "David Letterman Show" for variety. William Hanley won best writing in a special for "Something About Amelia."

Other directing awards went to PBS' "Concealed Enemies" for a special, CBS' "Kate and Allie," and NBC's "Here's Television Entertainment," for a variety show.

NBC's "He Makes Me Feel Like Dancin'" won the first award of the night — for best children's program.

Outstanding individual performance in a variety or musical program went to Cloris Leachman for "Screen Actors Guild 50th Anniversary Celebration" on CBS. Earlier, she had lost the award as best supporting actress in a special for her portrayal of late comic Ernie Kovacs' mother.

The award program, televised by CBS, was delayed by more than 30 minutes when the network opted to show the conclusion of the Dallas Cowboys-Green Bay Packers National Football League game.

"Cheers," a barroom comedy, was the runner-up in nominations with 12, the same number as "The Day After," ABC's nuclear doomsday drama.

Tied with 11 nominations each were "St. Elsewhere," NBC's still-struggling hospital series; "Fame," which still gleams in syn-dication after being dropped by NBC; and two critically acclaimed ABC productions, "A Streetcar Named Desire," starring Ann-Margret, and "Something About Amelia."

Tom Selleck, star of CBS' "Magnum, P.I.," was host of the gala ceremony at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium, pinch-hitting for Carol Burnett, who is recovering from a serious bout with the flu.

Selleck got off to a smooth start, in contrast to co-host Joan Rivers at last year's show. Her caustic cracks about Jane Fonda, Joan Crawford and James Watt lit up switchboards at TV stations from coast to coast.

The broadcast was scheduled for three hours, but the actual length hinged on the winners' verbosity. Last year's ceremony lasted three hours and 22 minutes, and the record was three hours and 35 minutes in 1978.

Dallas sacks Pack, 20-6

By The Associated Press
IRVING, Texas (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys punted a club-record 11 times, but still prevailed 20-6 over the Green Bay Packers in a National Football League game strictly for defensive purists.

The Cowboys intercepted four passes Sunday and sacked Green Bay quarterbacks Lynn Dickey and Randy Wright six times for 39 yards in losses.

The Packer offense was so impotent it didn't get across midfield until the last play of the third period. Eddie Garcia missed a 37-yard field goal to spoil the drive.

Green Bay's only points came on defensive end Robert Brown's 5-yard interception return of an ill-advised Gary Hogeboom screen pass.

Besides Hogeboom's humiliating third-quarter strike to Brown, he was sacked four times as the Dallas offense sputtered and stalled.

"We just controlled their offensive team and Green Bay can be very explosive," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "It was a good day for the defense. One of the best we've had in years."

It was the fourth straight game the Cowboys had held the opposition under 300 yards total offense. They hadn't done that since 1973.

Green Bay Coach Forrest Gregg agreed it was a good day for defenders on both sides.

"It's the same story as the last three weeks," he said. "Our defense played a whale of a football game but we couldn't move the ball offensively. We just couldn't throw it."

Dallas, now 3-1 and tied with the New York Giants for first place in the National Conference East, built a 13-0 halftime lead as Green Bay, 1-3, was held to just five first downs.

Timmy Newsome scored on a 1-yard run and Rafael Septien kicked field goals of 32 and 42 yards.

Starting quarterback Dickey was sacked four times and gave way to Wright in the second half.

Dallas had the game under control before Hogeboom hit Brown. The contest then became a struggle.

"It was a bad play," said Hogeboom. "I should have thrown the ball away."

Brown was delighted with his first NFL score.

"A lot of linemen would have tried to bat that pass down but I used to be a linebacker so I grabbed it," he said. "It was a lineman's dream. A touch."

Tony Dorsett scored on a 7-yard run in the final minute to secure the Dallas victory.

He finished with 44 yards on 20 carries to pass former Packer fullback Jim Taylor and claim sixth place on the NFL's all-time rushing list with 8,622 yards.

"We just had a great team effort defensively," said Dorsett. "We're not executing on offense."

About moving to No. 6, Dorsett said "I'm moving up slowly but surely. It's a good feeling. When I came in a long time ago, I was predicted not to even be able to last this long and here I am in sixth place."

Safety Michael Downs got two sacks and blocked an extra point and Everson Walls intercepted two passes as Dallas paralyzed the Packer offense.

"We just decided to blitz them and see if they could handle it," said Downs. "It worked all day long."

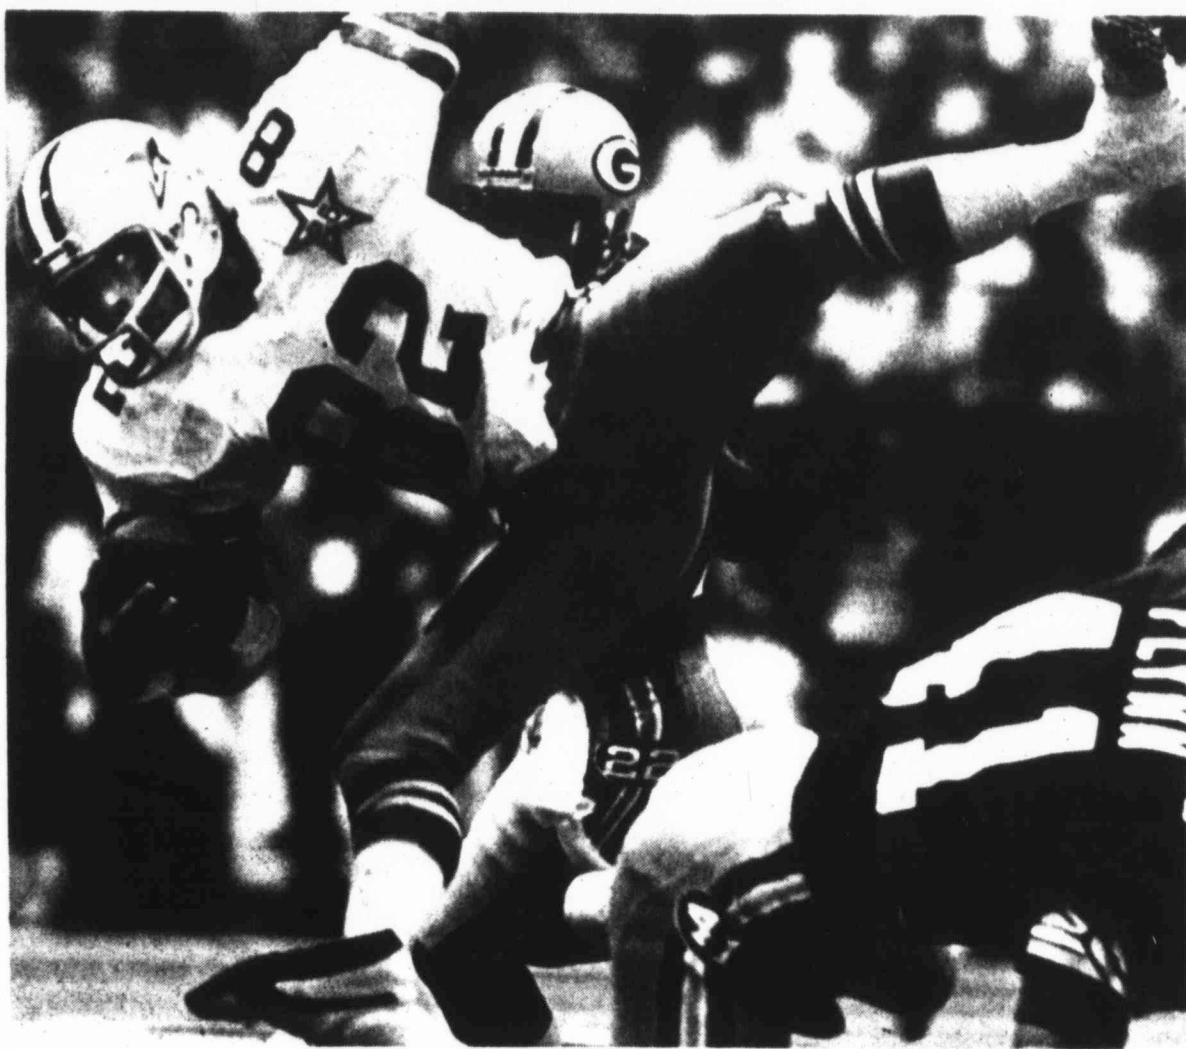

Downs said his blocked extra point took a lot out of the Packers.

"That's something we work on every week," Downs said. "I felt like we would get one. That hurt them."

Landry said he was sticking with Hogeboom despite his problems.

"He's got to learn to read defenses like you would a baseball pitcher's different pitches," Landry said. "It will come. If we can hang on for the offense to jell then we'll be all right."

"Right now the defense is playing great."

FREE FLIGHT — Dallas Cowboys wide receiver Mike Renfro (82) is tripped by Green Bay safety Tom Flynn (41) at the end of a 13-yard pass play in the fourth quarter of Sunday's game won by the Cowboys 20-6.

Second string QB's give first rate showings

By The Associated Press
Quarterback Jeff Kemp, who had never started a game in the National Football League, was getting a bit anxious. So was quarterback Matt Cavanaugh, who was making his first start in two years.

The Los Angeles Rams, with Kemp at the controls, kept the ball on the ground their first two possessions Sunday.

"I was ready to throw, but I wasn't going to complain," Kemp said after he filled in for injured Vince Ferragamo and came up with a steady performance that included a touchdown pass in a 24-14 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals.

Cavanaugh, replacing the injured Joe Montana, threw three touchdown passes as the San Francisco 49ers beat the Philadelphia Eagles 21-9.

"I was nervous at the start of the game," Cavanaugh said. "I put pressure on myself because I'm following a guy like Joe Montana, who doesn't make mistakes."

Kemp, a fourth-year pro, helped guide the error-prone Rams over the 0-4 Bengals. Eric Dickerson, who scored the Rams' first touchdown and gained 89 yards before leaving the game with a wrist injury in the fourth quarter, lost three fumbles inside the Cincinnati 20 in the second half.

Kemp connected with Olympic gold medal sprinter Ron Brown on a 52-yard TD pass to give the visiting Rams a 14-7 lead in the third quarter.

"I thought I played a pretty good game," said Kemp, who completed 13 of 23 passes for 205 yards without an interception. "A few times, I was a little impatient and threw the ball when I wasn't quite set up."

Raved Rams Coach John Robinson: "Jeff Kemp played an absolutely great game. He did what we asked him to. He really didn't make any mistakes that I know of."

"Jeff hasn't had that many opportunities, and I doubt if there was anybody in the world that thought he was going to come in and do what he did, at least outside of our group."

Ken Anderson threw a 10-yard scoring pass to Cris Collinsworth to pull the Bengals within 17-14 with 1:49 left in the game, but Mike Guman scooped up an ensuing on-side kick and returned it 43 yards for a clinching touchdown.

Cavanaugh, in his seventh pro season, made up for the time he has spent as a reserve.

He hit Roger Craig on a 35-yard scoring pass in the first quarter, teamed with Freddie Solomon for a 2-yard TD with 12 seconds left in the second quarter and threw a 51-yard touchdown pass to Dwight Clark in the fourth period.

"I'm happy, elated and relaxed," said Cavanaugh, 17 of 34 for 252 yards and no interceptions during the victory in Philadelphia. "I feel real good and comfortable about the way I played."

The 49ers and Miami are the only 4-0 teams in the NFL. The Raiders are 3-0.

DOLPHINS 44,

COLTS 7

Miami's Dan Marino, the NFL's top-rated quarterback, upped his season TD pass total to 12 with the Seahawks in the third quarter, running 3 yards for one score and passing 55 yards to Eric Lane for another, in handing the Bears their first loss.

STEELERS 10

Paul McDonald passed for two scoring strikes of 80 and 5 yards to Mark Duper.

Pete Johnson, acquired this week by the Dolphins because of a fullback shortage, ran 1 yard for a score and Woody Bennett, another fullback, ran for two short touchdowns to help roll the visiting Colts.

SEAHAWKS 38

BEARS 9

Chicago's Walter Payton passed Franco Harris to become No. 2 on the all-time rushing list, but it was Seattle's Harris who played on the winning team. Payton went into the game trailing Harris by 34 yards and gained 116 on 24 carries. Harris was held to 23 yards on 13 carries. Payton now has gained 12,091 career yards and he trails only Jim Brown's 12,312.

Quarterback Dave Krieg roused touchdowns and 222 yards in the second half to help Cleveland win its first game of the season. The Browns trailed 7-0 at halftime after Steeler defensive back Sam Washington returned an interception for a touchdown.

JETS 28

BILLS 26

Pat Ryan teamed with Wesley Walker on TD passes of 12, 44 and 35 yards as the Jets held off the Bills.

GIANTS 17

BUCS 14

Phil Simms threw touchdown passes and linebacker Lawrence Taylor recorded four sacks in the Giants' triumph over Tampa Bay.

REDSKINS 26

PATRIOTS 10

John Riggins ran for 140 yards and his 100th career touchdown in Washington's victory. The Redskins ground out 235 yards rushing against the Patriots, who had allowed just 205 rushing yards in their first three games.

Mark Moseley added field goals of 19, 42, 22 and 27 yards for Washington.

MINNESOTA 29

DETROIT 28

Jan Stenerud booted field goals from 35, 32, 37, 34 and 19 yards and Minnesota recovered three second-half fumbles as the Vikings stopped the Lions. Detroit quarterback Gary Danielson threw four touchdown passes, three to Leonard Thompson, in a losing effort.

BRONCOS 21

CHIEFS 0

Sammy Winder rushed for 139 yards a second-quarter touchdown to key the offense while cornerback Mike Harden returned an interception 45 yards for another score to highlight the Broncos' strong defense as Denver beat the Chiefs.

SAINTS 34

Reserve running back Wayne Wilson caught two touchdown passes, one from fullback Hokie Gajan, to help New Orleans beat St. Louis. Wilson's second TD catch came with just more than six minutes left in the game to clinch the victory for the Saints.

Raiders rate favorite for tonight's tilt

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Raiders will attempt to join two other National Football League teams with unbeaten records through four weeks of the 1984 season tonight when they take on the San Diego Chargers.

Kickoff time at the Los Angeles Coliseum for the nationally televised game is 8 p.m., CST. A crowd of at least 65,000 is expected.

The game will be blacked out in Los Angeles because it wasn't sold out 72 hours before kickoff time. The defending Super Bowl champion Raiders are favored by 5½ points.

Entering the weekend, there were four NFL teams with perfect records — the Raiders, the Miami Dolphins, the San Francisco 49ers and the Chicago Bears.

Miami and San Francisco won Sunday, but the Bears were thumped by Seattle 38-9 in their first loss of the year.

If the past means anything, the Raiders will probably raise their record to 4-0 this season. That's because they have compiled a 20-2-1 record in Monday Night games since the prime-time series began in 1970.

"Monday nights have been very good to the Raiders, the Raiders have been very good to Monday nights," Los Angeles Coach Tom Flores said. "I have no idea why we play so well on Monday nights. I'd play all season on Monday nights, if they'd let us."

San Diego Coach Don Coryell, whose team brings a 2-1 record into the game, also appears to like the Raiders' chances, at least it sounds like he does.

"They might have the best team in the history of football," Coryell said. "Well, they're the best team I've ever played against, if you want to put it that way, and they've done nothing to indicate they're not the best this year."

The Raiders hold a 29-17-2 advantage in their series with the Chargers, and have won all four games played between the teams since the Raiders moved from Oakland to Los Angeles in 1982.

Last year, the Raiders were big winners in both games between the teams, prevailing 42-10 at San Diego and 30-14 at the Coliseum.

San Diego Quarterback Dan Fouts completed 26 of 37 passes for 336 yards against the Houston Oilers in last week's win.

Falcons fly high in victory over Oilers

ATLANTA (AP) — It was an apparently easy victory for the Atlanta Falcons, but Coach Dan Henning remained cautious, reminding his players that one game does not make a season.

The Falcons scored three touchdowns in the opening quarter Sunday and went on to pound the winless Houston Oilers 42-10 in a National Football League game.

Steve Bartkowski threw for three touchdowns for the Falcons and Gerald Riggs, the league's leading rusher, pounded out 120 yards and scored twice.

Rookie Jeff Jackson closed out the Falcons' scoring with a 35-yard interception run in the closing minutes to snap a two-game losing streak and put Atlanta's record at 2-2.

Houston's only score came in the second quarter when Florian Kempf booted a 22-yard field goal and Warren Moon hit Larry Moriarty on a 2-yard touchdown pass.

The loss was a league record 20th straight for the Oilers, who haven't won away from home since beating Cleveland 9-3 in September 1981.

"I felt very comfortable today, and I had a tremendous amount of time," said Bartkowski, who connected on 11 of 13 passes for 195 yards, including touchdown throws of 45 yards to Billy Johnson and 16 and 23 yards to Arthur Cox.

"That's the key. When you get time to operate, you can find people open. When it all gels, things happen like what you saw today," he said.

"It's always good to see Bart have a lot of time to throw," Henning said. "The fans also got crank-ed up again and that helps."

But he said, "It's one game. We can't allow any losses to become disaster or any wins to become euphoria. It's a long season."

And that may be true for Houston, which is 0-4 this season under new Coach Hugh Campbell after a 2-14 record in 1983.

"It's very frustrating to be in a game so one-sided," Campbell said. "I realize it takes players a little while to bounce back from something like this, so there isn't really any combination of words you can say to make them feel better."

Atlanta led 21-10 at halftime, but the Falcons scored on their first possession after intermission on Bartkowski's strike to Johnson to almost put the game away.

"That was a crucial drive," said Bartkowski, the National Conference leading passer. "It's never easy. I always prepare for the worst. It's rarely as easy as it was today, and Houston was still in it in the first half."

He also had praise for Riggs, who was given the starting job in preseason when All-Pro William Andrews suffered a knee injury and was declared out for the season. Riggs responded with 483 yards on the ground in four games.

THE TURF FLEW — Atlanta Falcons' runningback Gerald Riggs (42) goes into the Houston Oiler line behind the block of John Scully (61) on Al Richardson (56) during the first quarter in a game won by the Falcons 42-10. Riggs gained 120 yards in the game.

"Gerald has done a tremendous job. He played vintage Gerald Riggs today. He was ramming and jamming it in there," said Bartkowski of the third-year back from Arizona State.

Cubs get at least a tie with sweep

By The Associated Press
 Manager Jim Frey stared at a blank lineup card, trying to figure out the combination of players who could end a five-game tailspin and put the Chicago Cubs over the top in the National League East Division title chase.

"I guess I spent 12 hours in the room last night. I thought about everything," Frey said. "I put down lineups. I decided that if we won the first game, I was going to keep the same lineup."

One of the best moves Frey made was to chat Sunday morning with Gary Matthews and then pencil in the veteran outfielder's name on the lineup card. Matthews, nicknamed Sarge, slugged a three-run double in an 8-1 first-game victory Sunday over the St. Louis Cardinals, then whacked a two-run home run in the 4-2 nightcap victory that earned the Cubs at least a tie for the division crown. With six games remaining, the Cubs need only one victory — or one loss by the second-place New York Mets — to advance to postseason play for the first time in 39 years.

The Mets prevented Chicago from clinching the title outright on Sunday by stopping Montreal 6-1 behind the pitching of Dwight Gooden.

"Gary Matthews, for the last four or five weeks, has gotten some big hits for us," Frey said. "He's a tremendous influence on this ballclub."

"We talked this morning when he came in," Frey noted. "The thrust of it was we've got to start doing things right. He said the right things. He did the right things."

"We now have to win one," Matthews said. "Everything is downhill for us now. We can play fancy free. Even if we do lose three in Pittsburgh, which I don't really think we'll do, it's going to be tough for New York."

The Cubs took control of the opener with a six-run fourth inning keyed by Matthews' bases-clearing double. St. Louis starter Rick Ownbey, 0-3, walked Bob Dernier and Ryne Sandberg to load the bases before giving way to Jeff Lahti. Matthews drilled Lahti's first pitch into the gap in right-center to break a 1-1 tie. Keith Moreland's single and a two-run double by Ron Cey capped the outburst.

Left-hander Steve Trout, 13-7, scattered seven hits in going the distance for the visiting Cubs.

Matthews tagged a two-run homer in the first inning of the nightcap to get the Cubs off to a quick start against Cardinal ace Joaquin Andujar, 19-14, who failed for the third time to win his 20th game.

The Cards pulled within 3-2 on Andy Van Slyke's sixth-inning single, but Sandberg singled in Dernier in the eighth to provide a cushion for Lee Smith, who pitched the last two innings for his 33rd save. Dennis Eckersley, 9-8, gave up six hits in seven innings.

METS 6, EXPOS 1

Dwight Gooden, 17-9, allowed only five hits in eight innings and struck out eight to extend his major-league rookie record total to 276. He failed to go the distance for the first time in four starts and failed for the first time in six outings to strike out at least 10 batters.

Mookie Wilson scored two runs for the Mets, who fell 6½ games behind the Cubs. Joe Hesketh, 1-2, was the loser for the visitors.

Alcott claims San Jose title

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Amy Alcott thinks her game "is just coming around" after 10 years on the LPGA Tour.

"I'm playing better and putting better than I ever had before," said Alcott, who captured the $175,000 San Jose Classic by two shots Sunday over the par-73, 6,290-yard Almaden County Club course.

Alcott's closing round in the 54-hole tournament consisted of two birdies and a bogey for a 72 to hold off Pat Meyers, Kathy Whitworth, Betsy King and Beverly Klass, who were at 213.

"I used to be a good putter, but now I'm a great putter," said the 28-year-old Alcott, who won her fourth tournament of the year and the 21st of her tour career. "My game is more consistent and I'm more patient in hitting my shots."

The first-place money of $26,250 increased Alcott's yearly earnings to $212,473 and her career total to $1,271,188.

Patty Sheehan, the tour's leading money winner, finished with 73-218 to tie for 18th place, worth $1,698. She has a yearly total of $251,855 to stay ahead of King, who has $245,125 after winning $11,156 for her second-place tie Sunday.

The tournament was the final domestic event on the LPGA schedule. Official tournaments that remain are the British Open and Irish Open next month and Japan's Mazda Classic in November.

HIGH FIVE — Chicago Cubs' Gary Matthews gets a high five from Bob Dernier at the plate following a two-run homer during the first inning of the second game in a doubleheader sweep over St. Louis Sunday. The Cubs are one game away from clinching their division outright and making the playoffs for the first time in 39 years.

Martina runs streak to 60

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Martina Navratilova easily defeated fledgling professional Michelle Torres 6-1, 6-0 Sunday in the final of the $150,000 Lynda Carter-Maybelline Tennis Classic, requiring only 38 minutes to claim her 60th straight singles victory.

Navratilova, who played five singles matches and three doubles matches in the final three days of the tournament, was at her best against Torres. The 17-year-old high school junior from Northfield, Ohio, who turned pro earlier this month at the U.S. Open.

Navratilova admitted she was nervous while waiting three days in the rain earlier in the tourney before breaking Chris Evert Lloyd's 55-match winning streak. But Sunday she just had a good time playing at the Bonaventure Racquet Club.

"I was very relaxed and I enjoyed it," said the world's top-ranked player. "Michelle had nothing that could hurt me."

MARTINA WINS AGAIN — Martina Navratilova returns the ball during her match with Michelle Torres in the finals of the Lynda Carter-Maybelline Tennis Classic Sunday. Martina took the match from Torres in just 38 minutes with scores of 6-1, 6-0 to advance her winning streak to 60 matches.

Navratilova's only loss this year was to Hana Mandlikova in January. She said her new goal is going an entire year without losing.

Watson manages to win in world's richest tournament

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — It was six weeks ago, in Flint, Mich., that Payne Stewart turned prophet. He had just lost, by one shot, to Denis Watson in the Buick Open. It was the first triumph in four years on the American PGA Tour for Watson, a South African.

"By letting him win, I think I've created a monster," Stewart quipped at the time.

And now, less than two months later, Watson suddenly, dramatically is challenging the more famous (and no relation) Tom Watson for Player of the Year honors.

Denis Watson credited a coach and a sports psychologist with his brilliant burst that was temporarily capped by his one-shot triumph Sunday in the richest event on the American tour, the $1,122,500 Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational.

The latest triumph, secured by a last-hole birdie in howling, 40-mile per hour winds that swirled and twisted off the towers of a nearby resort hotel, enabled Denis Watson to join Tom Watson, who did not play here, as the only three-time winners on the tour this season. It also lifted Denis Watson into second place (behind Tom) on the year's money-winning list, and boosted him into second place (60-58 behind Tom) on the complicated points list that determines Player of the Year.

It also prompted Tom Watson to make a last-minute decision Sunday to compete in the LaJeta Classic in Abilene, Texas next week.

Denis Watson, 28, said Dave Leadbetter, a teaching pro in Florida, and Bob Rotella, a sports psychologist at the University of Virginia, are the principal architects of his success.

"Dave fixed my swing and Bob fixed my mind," Watson said after he had finished the five-day, 90-hole tournament with a closing 68 and a 341 total, 15 shots under par.

The victory was worth $162,000 and boosted Watson's earnings for the year to $405,924, second behind Tom Watson's $471,185.

Andy Bean, tied with Denis Watson through 89 holes, could not match his last-hole birdie-4 — failing to get up and down from the back bunker — was second alone and also passed $400,000 in season's earnings. Bean had a closing 68, with no bogeys in the wicked winds, and a 342 total.

He collected $97,200 and is at $404,760 for the year.

Craig Stadler, with a closing 73, and Stewart, with a 72, were next at 343. Johnny Miller, who had shared the 72-hole lead with Stadler, took two shots to get out of a bunker on the seventh hole, struggled to a 75 and was at 345.

Watson said he has been interested, for some time, in the mental aspects of golf and had worked on his own in attempting to improve in that area.

Quarterback Club to meet

The Big Spring Quarterback Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 25 in the Big Spring High School cafeteria. Junior varsity and sophomore football and volleyball team members will be treated with an ice cream supper.

Cowboys owner is 'no show'

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboys general partner Bum Bright was a "no show" when his National Football League club took on the Green Bay Packers this weekend, but he says he has a good excuse.

Bright was in College Station on Sunday, presiding over an executive committee meeting of the Texas A&M University System Board of Regents, which he chairs.

"I had a commitment to Texas A&M long before I had one to the Cowboys," said Bright, a 1943 A&M graduate. "I owe a lot to Texas A&M. In the case of the Cowboys, I just owe a lot for them."

Bright told the Dallas Times Herald he thought he had a sufficient reason for being absent.

By the way, the Cowboys won the game 20-6.

Walker sprints to mile win

NEW YORK (AP) — New Zealand's John Walker sprinted over the final quarter-mile and won the 5th Avenue Mile Saturday with a time of 3:53.62.

Switzerland's Pierre Deleze finished second in 3:54.86 and Jose Abascal of Spain, the Olympic bronze medalist this year, finished third in 3:55.14.

McEnroe gets by Gilbert

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — John McEnroe complained about his serve but still scored a 6-4, 6-4 victory Sunday night against a stubborn Brad Gilbert in the $265,000 Transamerica Open Tennis Championship.

Texan wins funny car title

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) Billy Meyer of Waco, Texas, outpaced Tom McEwen for the International Hot Rod Association Pro Funny Car title Sunday at the U.S. Open Nationals at Rockingham International Dragway.

Meyers' time of 5.72 seconds, or 252.80 mph, on the quarter-mile run was good enough to win the $15,000 top prize.

Rickie Smith won the Pro Stock title over Roy Hill. Both turned in 7.57-second runs, but Smith had a quicker starting line reaction and was declared the winner.

Lee Shepherd of Arlington, Texas, established an IHRA national record of 7.443 seconds in qualifying Saturday, but lost in the second round to Hill.

January wins Digital Seniors

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — Don January hit challenger Orville Moody with three quick birdies and pulled away for his 16th Senior PGA victory Sunday in the $175,000 Digital Middlesex Golf Classic.

January, who will be 55 in November, fired a 3-under par 69 for a 54-hole total of 209, 7-under regulation, at the Nashawtuc Country Club.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUES., SEPTEMBER 25, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's new moon indicates a chance to get your most talented abilities to the attention of those able to give them a boost in the right direction.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Some special thought for allies in the outside world can bring you greater happiness and benefits.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Impress your family with the fact that you want everything harmonious and charming at home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Know what an ally would most appreciate from you. Show more thought to a love one today. Be precise in handling enterprise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You have every opportunity to add to present income if you listen to an idea given to you by an intelligent person.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You have to state your aims very clearly to those who are loyal to you, and they will extend themselves to be of assistance.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Go after that information you need so that you can improve business affairs, and you will get it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Early handle business affairs well so that later you can be with a charming friend who will be cooperative.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get together with one who is very successful and find out how you can become more prosperous. Drive with care.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A fine new mode of life is beginning for you that can bring you greater happiness and prosperity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Confer with one in business who can show you how to get ahead faster and gain the respect of bigwigs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Collaborate more with a dynamic partner and there can be greater success in the days ahead.

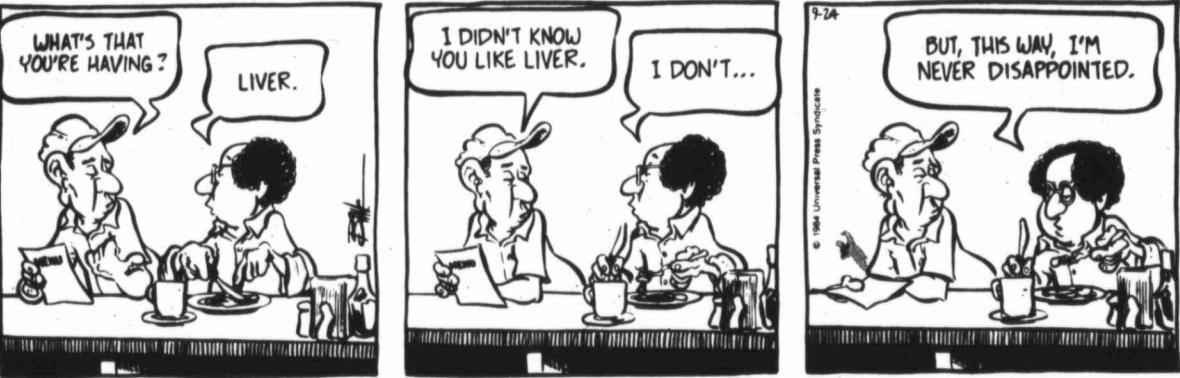

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Spend some money and make your surroundings more as you would like them to be and more functional.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will early know just what kind of profession to follow and work and study along such lines, so force free reign to follow inclinations and don't try to give your will on your progeny. Be very cooperative and the results will be excellent, both for him or her.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
