

County earmarks $2 million for jail

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer
Howard County Commissioners Monday afternoon unanimously approved a streamlined $8 million county budget for 1985 that would earmark $2 million for construction of a county jail.

Commissioners approved the budget in the afternoon after county department heads were served notice at noon that the item was up for consideration.

According to County Judge Milton Kirby, state law requires that department heads be notified before commissioners can consider accepting a budget. The new budget is effective Oct. 1.

"I think we trimmed it. It's a good budget," said Commissioner David Barr. "I am more satisfied with this budget than in any of the six years I've been on the commissioners' court."

However, Commissioner Louis Brown said he was dissatisfied with the budget although he voted for it. "We've done for the county, but not enough," Brown said.

Commissioner Bill Crooker said he was "satisfied" with the budget. "What I am more interested in is our living within the budget we approved," he said.

After adopting the budget, Brown and Barr debated their philosophies about county government.

"I agree we're supposed to make the county attractive," Barr said. "But we can make it more attractive by lowering taxes and getting by."

Brown disagreed, saying that people were not moving from Howard County because of taxes but because of the county's failure to attract industry and the oil bust. "We need to make the county attractive for industry and progressive people," he said.

One of the most controversial features of the new budget is the minimal raise given to county employees. County Engineer Bill Mims told commissioners the budget was not as good as it could have been because employees did not receive a raise to cover cost-of-living increases.

On several occasions, Mims had requested a higher raise than the across-the-board $100-a-month raise employees received. The raise was about 3 percent for most employees, but only 1 percent for lected officials who have been in office several years, he said.

The raise commissioners granted will cost the county an additional $50,000, according to the budget.

The final budget projects $322,818 in total receipts in 1985 from the earlier estimate because of the lowered tax rate. According to the budget, the county will take in $5.725 million in receipts, compared to an earlier estimate of $6.047 million based on the 1984 tax rate of 23 cents.

Commissioners lowered the tax rate one penny this year to 22 cents.

Total county property taxes are expected to bring in $2.044 million, up from the 1984 total of $1.868 million, but down from the $2.121 million originally budgeted.

Justice of the Peace Willie Grant received the highest budget for the three peace justices because of $1,800 rent for her office in Coahoma. The other two justices have offices located in the courthouse.

• The final budget also added $7,000 for electrical and roof repairs at the county fairbarn.

Coahoma OK's school tax hike

By LUIS RIOS
Staff Writer
COAHOMA — Coahoma school trustees Monday night approved a 7.99 percent tax hike to fund a $5 million budget for the 1984-85 fiscal year.

The motion to accept the tax rate was made by board member Kirby Brown and seconded by Donnie Reid. The rate will mean a hike from 76 cents per $100 valuation to $1.0865 per $100 valuation.

The motion for the tax increase passed without any discussion from residents gathered for the public meeting. The motion carried unanimously.

The board also voted to maintain a 40 percent homestead exemption for the coming year.

Superintendent Jerry Doyle said the district may hire an independent appraisal company to evaluate the mineral rights for the district.

The school district lost $54 million from its tax roll from the past fiscal year, Doyle said. Attorney Paul Lyle of Plainview, who represents the school district, requested the area's annual production reports for 1982-84 from the Texas Railroad Commission, Doyle said.

"We are still looking into it," Doyle said concerning a second appraisal. "Eventually, we will have a spot appraisal."

Doyle said the pinch being felt by Coahoma schools is a statewide problem. He said only the bigger and wealthier schools were not facing problems. Coahoma residents understood the need for a tax hike, he said.

"This has not been an anti-tax situation," Doyle said. "This has not been a fight out here."

Doyle said the passage of state House Bill 72 will mean more funds will be cut from the school districts. He said projected figures for the 1985-86 year indicated the state will pay 66 percent and the local districts will have to pay 33 percent of the total budget.

"House Bill 72 has some good things, but it also has some bad things," Doyle said.

Currently, the CISD is receiving approximately $1 million in state funds.

Moscow rejects UN proposals by Reagan

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today rejected proposals made by President Reagan in an address to the United Nations, saying his initiatives "boiled down to absolutely groundless assertions" that the United States seeks an end to the arms race.

The official news agency Tass said Reagan's statements that he seeks an improvement in U.S.-Soviet relations were an attempt "to present in a somewhat modified form the self-same policy aimed at further aggravating international tension, achieving military superiority and interfering in the internal affairs of other states."

The president offered "a vessel with nothing inside it," Tass said.

"His speech contained no indication of any change in the essence of the present U.S. policy and boiled down to absolutely groundless assertions that the U.S.A. allegedly wants the arms race to be curbed and supports the basic aims and principles of the U.N. charter," the news agency said.

"The president's words concerning peace were only meant to camouflage Washington's basic foreign policy guidelines and its interventionist policy in all regions of the world — in the Middle East, in Central America, in the south of Africa, in Europe, in the Far East," Tass said.

The agency said "The U.N. rostrum was actually used by Reagan for his political, electioneering aims."

"What kind of president will Reagan be if re-elected?" Tass asked.

The Tass dispatch quoted several U.S. media reports describing Reagan's change of tone as designed to alleviate American voters' uneasiness about U.S.-Soviet relations.

In his address to the General Assembly on Monday, Reagan called for talks between the superpowers and an easing in tense

Land controversy causes change in CCC work on Scenic Mountain

Blasting. Digging and shoveling. Carving and chiseling. Lifting and loading.

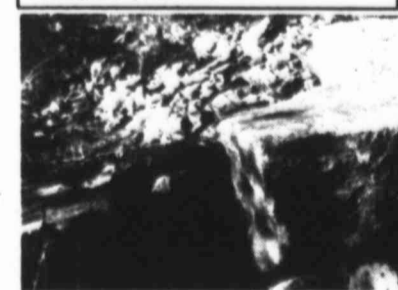

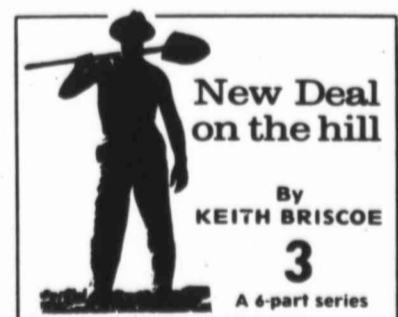

President Franklin Roosevelt's Civilian Conservation Corps in November 1934 was sweating a tight schedule to build an enormous state park on Big Spring's Scenic Mountain.

The boys of the Army's CCC Co. 1857, camped at the foot of the historic mountain since August 1934, had until the next August to construct what their National Park Service supervisor called "an immense thing" — a scenic drive, swimming pool, amphitheater, watch tower, pavilion, cottages and terracing and forestation.

Battling cold weather and rugged terrain, these civilian soil soldiers, enlisted from the Depression's welfare rolls, were making surprising progress as the shadow of the mountain grew longer in the shortened days of 1934.

But on Nov. 28, a dark cloud enveloped the mountain. The company was ordered to stop all work and make ready to move out of Big Spring. A 10-year secret had come to light.

The National Park Service learned the CCC was building a state park on private land.

for Scenic Mountain. Work on the amphitheater, located in the mountain's southwest canyon, was halted in November 1934.

The governor likes it. In 1924 Gov. Pat Neff visited Big Spring and was enchanted by Scenic Mountain. He said he would like to have the heights for a state park. The city obliged.

The City Federation of Women raised $1,800, bought the land from rancher W.P. Edwards and donated the mountain to the State Parks Board. The state said thank you very much and ignored the site.

When the CCC arrived a decade later, the troops found a state park indistinguishable from the surrounding area, also wild and rank. The park had no fences, no defined boundaries, not even a sign. But the sprawling mountain belonged to the state. No doubt about that.

When George Nason, district inspector for the Department of Interior, inspected the mountain in August 1934 to approve the park plans, he had no doubt. One month later, the future of the park and the CCC camp was very much in doubt.

While reviewing specifications for the park on Sept. 26, 1934, D.E. Colp, chairman of the State Parks Board, found that the state held title to only 200 acres on and around the mountain, not the 400 acres required for a state park. Worse, Edwards still owned 22 acres atop the peak where the CCC planned to build the pavilion, swimming pool and scenic drive.

Colp told the National Park Service the state had come up short. The park service told its superintendent on the mountain, Thompson Richardson, that unless Big Spring quickly acquired 200 more acres, the park was off and the CCC company would be transferred.

Richardson went to Edwards. The rancher wanted $20,000 for the acreage. Richardson took the offer to the City Council. The council said no. Ask the voters to approve a bond sale, Richardson said. The council said no.

Colp then went into action, firing off letters to the Chamber of Commerce, the city's parks committee and civic clubs: 200 acres or no park. It worked. On Oct. 5, a petition with 1,000 names asking for a bond sale was handed to City Hall.

The council agreed to a referendum.

Front hits state

By The Associated Press

The season's first major cold front moved into Texas early today, dropping temperatures in the Panhandle 16 degrees in an hour. At Amarillo, the temperature at 6 a.m., after the front moved through, was 43 degrees — 30 degrees below the midnight reading of 73.

Temperatures ahead of the front were hovering in the 70s, while over the Panhandle, readings had dipped into the 40s and 50s before dawn.

Elsewhere, warm humid tropical air continued to spill in from the Gulf. This was producing muggy and mostly cloudy conditions over southern, central and northern sections of Texas.

Isolated showers were developing over South Texas and the mountains of far West Texas.

Afternoon highs in the 80s and 90s were expected for much of Texas this afternoon, but temperatures were to begin plummeting tonight with the arrival of the cold front. Wednesday's highs will be much cooler, the National Weather Service said.

Winds were predominantly from the south at 5 to 15 miles an hour statewide. However, behind the front, winds were howling from the north around 20 mph.

Severe thunderstorms developed today ahead of a strong cold front stretching from central Wisconsin to south central Kansas.

A tornado touched down in Rothschild, Wis., and damaged a home and strong winds blew down two barns near Wausau. No serious injuries were reported.

High temperatures were in the 80s and 90s ahead of the front, but in the 50s behind it.

Light snow was falling over western North Dakota and western Wyoming. High temperatures were only in the 30s and 40s over the northern Rockies and the northern Plains.

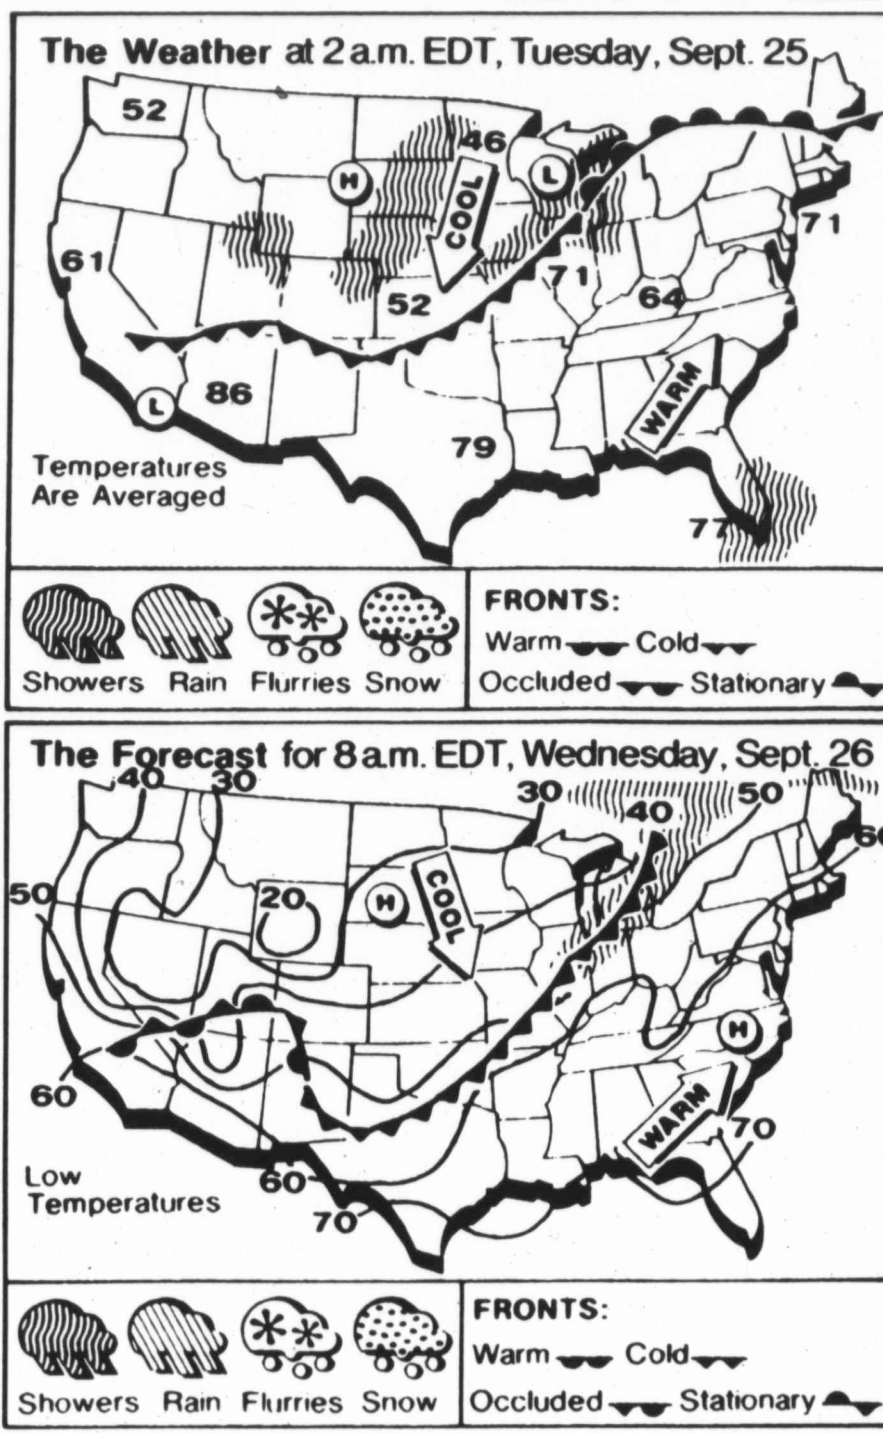

Locally heavy rain fell over parts of east central Illinois. Showers and thunderstorms were scattered over the Ohio Valley, the upper and middle Mississippi Valley, the Plains and the central Rockies.

Sunny skies and pleasant temperatures prevailed over the Pacific Coast states. Highs were generally in the 70s and 80s.

Meanwhile in the Atlantic, Tropical Storm Hortense picked up winds at the center at 55 mph about 400 miles southeast of Bermuda. Hortense was expected to move westward at a slow pace.

High temperature records were tied in Des Moines, Ottumwa and Lamoni, Iowa, and in Moline, Ill., where it was 90 degrees.

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy through Saturday with slightly below seasonal normal temperatures. Widely scattered afternoon showers west of mountains Friday and Saturday.

Commissioners table severance pay issue

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Howard County commissioners after a lengthy debate both in and out of closed session Monday tabled discussion on whether to provide severance pay to a recently fired county employee.

Commissioners voted unanimously to postpone action on a request for two weeks' severance pay by Lee Winchester, the former secretary for Justice of the Peace Lewis Hefflin.

Hefflin fired Ms. Winchester on Sept. 14 and did not give her notice, he said. He would not discuss the reasons for his action at that time, he said.

Commissioners approved Hefflin's replacement of Ms. Winchester Sept. 19 with Thessia Henry, a former secretary with the Big Spring Police Department. However, the peace justice did not appear before the commissioners' court.

Ms. Winchester's request for severance pay sparked a debate among commissioners on county policy toward severance pay. Current policy does not make any statements on whether employees are entitled to severance pay.

"If you expect them (employees) to give two weeks' notice before they leave, you should give two weeks' notice, too," Commissioner Paul Allen said.

Commissioners debated whether employees who had been given written notice of unsatisfactory job performance should be given two weeks' severance pay if they were terminated without notice.

Commissioners Louis Brown, Bill Crooker and Paul Allen at one point said they favored severance pay for employees terminated without notice.

However, commissioners re-examined their positions when Auditor Jackie Olson told the court that a Tom Green County administrative official in charge of personnel said that county does not provide severance pay to employees.

"He said that counties are not obligated to pay severance pay," Mrs. Olson said.

Commissioner David Barr made a motion to include in county policy a statement that the county would not pay severance pay, but withdrew his motion when commissioners decided they wanted to research the issue more before making a policy decision.

Commissioners also re-appointed county librarian Judith Gray to her post for two years, agreed to bid for employee health insurance and approved $500 in late refund requests.

They also approved an affirmative plan that states the county does not discriminate against the handicapped to comply with federal revenue-sharing regulations.

Commissioners closed County Road No. 55, located in the northeast section of the county near Vincent, with the exception of the first 1½ miles leading to the cemetery.

And they agreed to enter a monthly contract with Texas Independent Services for nine mats — seven for the courthouse and two for the library — at a cost of about $6.

U.S.-Soviet relations. As Reagan spoke, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko sat impassively.

Gromyko and Reagan are scheduled to meet in Washington on Friday in the American president's first high-level talks with a Soviet official.

In an initial Soviet response today, Radio Moscow criticized Reagan's speech, saying he insisted on U.S. military superiority and rejected Soviet invitations for a moratorium on space weapons development.

The English-language radio report said Reagan "claimed that the increased military might of the United States (would provide) the basis for talks with the Soviet Union."

The broadcast said Reagan called for negotiations to stop the military use of outer space, but added: "he again rejected the Soviet proposal to ban the testing and deployment of anti-satellite weapons when talks (on space arsenals) open."

The Soviets have proposed talks aimed at banning military use of space, but the Reagan administration has insisted the discussions be open to all issues including Earth-based nuclear weapons. The Soviet also want as a precondition to talks a moratorium on the testing and deployment of space weapons. U.S. officials said such moratorium would be Soviet, not U.S., advantage.

Radio Moscow also said "it follows" from Reagan's speech that "the U.S.A. intends to continue

Car-train accident claims life of Colorado City man

LORAIN — A retired 84-year-old Colorado City man died here Monday morning when his car was struck roadside by a two-engine train at the Missouri Pacific Railroad crossing at F.M. 644.

Claud C. Heath, a retired car body repairman, was pronounced dead at the scene at 9:53 a.m. by Justice of the Peace Joan Merket. The accident occurred at 9:40 a.m.

Heath was traveling southbound on F.M. 644 in a 1973 Ford Galaxy when he crossed the train tracks, according to Department of Public Safety Trooper Thomas Johnson.

The train, which left Big Spring for Fort Worth, had two engines and a caboose, according to Johnson. Train engineer Simon Terrazas, 36, of Big Spring was uninjured.

The crossing is protected by flashing red lights with bells and standard warning signs but did not have a gate. According to Johnson's DPS report, witnesses said the warning signals were working and the train whistled before the crossing.

Graveside services for Heath will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Colorado City Cemetery under the direction of Kiker-Seale Funeral Home.

Heath was born June 9, 1900, in Wichita County. He moved to Mitchell County in 1956.

Survivors include a sister, Mary Lois Brooks of Weatherford; a brother, Hugh Heath of Houston; and several nieces and nephews.

Search on for prison escapees

GUYMON, Okla. (AP) — Law enforcement agencies were combing the Oklahoma Panhandle today after police reported sighting four men believed to be prisoners who fled from a county jail in New Mexico over the weekend after hitting a jailer with a cinderblock.

The men were sighted in a pickup truck early today by Texas County sheriff's deputies and, following a chase, the truck was involved in an accident on a county road and the men fled the scene, said Oklahoma Highway Patrol dispatcher Bryan Wilkerson.

A check with New Mexico authorities found that the truck had been reported missing Saturday from Tucumcari, N.M., just after the escape at the Quay County Jail. Wilkerson said authorities were still in the process of confirming whether the subjects of the Oklahoma manhunt were the New Mexico escapees.

Almost two dozen units from the highway patrol, Texas County and Guymon law enforcement agencies, agents from the Oklahoma Bureau of Investigation and a highway patrol aircraft were involved in the search, Wilkerson said. A dispatch from the highway patrol said the men were considered armed and dangerous.

The dispatcher said there had been no other sightings of the men since they fled the truck following the 2:35 a.m. accident, on a county

Hospital complaints to be aired

AUSTIN (AP) — A federal court panel says it will investigate 33 reports by state employee union members of inadequate staffing and improper patient care at state mental hospitals.

The workers say the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation is not complying with a federal court order to improve staffing levels. Most of the complaints are from Terrell, Austin and Rusk state hospitals.

The complaints say staff shortages have resulted in clerical workers caring for mental patients, a single worker caring for up to 45 patients, double shifts for some workers and canceled medical appointments for patients.

David Pharis, a member of the panel appointed by U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders to monitor Texas mental hospitals, said Monday it was the first time such complaints had been made to the panel.

"This is the kind of thing we have to investigate," he told the Austin American-Statesman. "I want to look into all of them."

Pharis met Monday afternoon with one Austin State Hospital worker and two organizers for the Texas State Employees Union, which represents about 250 hospital workers.

He said the complaints raise questions about whether the state's compliance with Sanders' order to have two mental health workers in each ward at all times.

dum, but set it for Nov. 20, six weeks away and two weeks after a general election. Richardson tried to win City Hall's support. The National Park Service, he said, would tack on $100,000 to the park's $250,000 budget if the additional land were secured. The city refused to endorse the issue.

Nason got nasty. In a caustic letter to the city attorney on Oct. 10, the inspector warned: "To fail to pass the bond issue of $20,000 and thus stop the completion of the project would be utter folly."

Six weeks after the petition with 1,000 names was given to City Hall, one half that number showed up at the polls to decide the fate of Scenic Mountain: 249 for, 262 against.

Lay down your shovels
Nason got real nasty. He transferred the company's commander, Capt. H.J. Hubbard, to Sweetwater and sent the second in command, Lt. Tom Horn, to Lamesa with a group of veteran CCC troops.

If Big Spring didn't want the park, Nason said, "there are plenty of other cities which would welcome a CCC company."

Colp offered a compromise. If the city could get the 22 acres on the mountain's northeast point, the CCC could stay and build the park. But a smaller one. No frills. Colp, too, was growing impatient. The city had 60 days, he said.

In a Nov. 25 letter to Richardson, Colp said: "Hope you will not lose any time in getting a definite answer on the 22 acres because we are certainly going to revamp this program and we want to end it quickly."

The council offered Edwards $8,000 for the land. Edwards, in the hospital with a severe bout of rheumatism, said no.

That was too much for Nason. On Nov. 28, he ordered all work halted, except on the road. He told the CCC camp's new commander, Lt. D.S. Satterwhite, to prepare the company to move out on 24 hours notice.

The council went back to Edwards, now on the rebound from his rheumatism. No land, no park, the city told him. Edwards had a change of heart. For $8,000, he sold not 22 acres, but 159.

Nason was flabbergasted. The CCC company could stay for four more months, he said. But no frills. Build the road, the pavilion, the watchtower and the latrine and get ready to move out, he told Satterwhite.

Steelworkers union blasts Reagan

CLEVELAND (AP) — The head of the United Steelworkers union blasted the Reagan administration's "radical extremist philosophy" and exhorted 3,000 United Steelworkers union members to vote for Walter Mondale as the hope for a better future.

Opening the union's national convention Monday, USW President Lynn Williams praised the Democratic ticket, saying "The election of Fritz Mondale and Gerry Ferraro will do more for our future... than any other single action we can take."

Asked how many votes the USW will produce for Mondale, Williams said "Let's just say a lot... more than ever."

Williams said that with Reagan as president, a "radical extremist philosophy has taken over one of the major political parties in the United States."

He told the 3,000 delegates an anti-labor mood in the White House has benefited "reactionary employers who sense in our economic adversity an opportunity to pursue traditional hostilities even more destructively."

His criticism of Reagan was echoed by AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland, who said the Republican re-election campaign was "another test of the limits of the public's gullibility."

"Tens of millions still bear the scars of the unemployment (Reagan's) policies inflicted on them," he added. "Eight and a half million remain jobless."

The 740,000-member union, its ranks thinned by about 400,000 workers since Reagan took office in 1981, early on endorsed Mondale, who is to address the convention

Wednesday.
Joining in the lambasting of Reagan was Democratic Ohio Gov. Richard J. Celeste, who called Reagan's first 3 1/2 years in office a "failure" and accused the Republican president of introducing last-minute initiatives to win support in the Nov. 6 election.

"Just last week he said he would support farm loans for American farmers who were badly damaged by high interest rates," Celeste said. "For three years he has refused to support the very same programs offered by a Democratic Congress."

Celeste, mentioning presidents Warren G. Harding, Herbert Hoover, Calvin Coolidge and Richard Nixon, said, "Those Republican presidents never did anything for working men and women."

"It was only the Democrats that stood up for us," he said, evoking one of the day's heartiest rounds of applause.

Celeste and Williams criticized Reagan's decision last week to seek negotiated trade restraints with foreign steel producers. Alarmed at imports that have claimed a quarter of the U.S. market in the first seven months of the year, the steel industry and union filed a sweeping trade complaint and asked Reagan to impose quotas on all types of steel imports.

The U.S. International Trade Commission, acting on the complaint, recommended quotas and tariffs on most, but not all, products.

"Ronald Reagan last Tuesday waived the white flag... when he refused to issue necessary import quotas," Celeste said.

Embassy employee dies

BEIRUT — Another U.S. Embassy employee died today of wounds suffered in the embassy annex bombing, and a Lebanese military investigator released a partial description of the suicide bomber.

The investigator, Elias Mousa, said the bomber was about 20 and was wearing a white short-sleeved shirt when he crashed his explosives-filled van next to the U.S. Embassy annex. Mousa said the description was based on the testimony of five Lebanese witnesses he has interrogated about the attack Thursday that killed at least 14 people.

U.S. Embassy spokeswoman Carol Madison said a seventh Lebanese employee of the embassy died today. Also killed, according to the State Department, were two Americans and at least five other Lebanese.

Italy extradites banker

MILAN, Italy — Convicted Italian financier Michele Sindona, once a top financial adviser to the Vatican and a prominent banker, was extradited from the United States today to stand trial in Italy, court officials said.

He is wanted in Italy on numerous charges, including the 1979 murder of a Milan attorney. Guido Viola, a Milan judge who has been investigating Sindona, said Sindona arrived this morning at Milan's Malpensa airport aboard a commercial flight from New York and was taken away in a police car.

France, Libya withdraw

PARIS — The withdrawal of French and Libyan troops from Chad got under way without problems today, a French Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

French military sources said the withdrawal would proceed as planned even though there was doubt about Chad's willingness to accept observers from other African countries that France and Libya agreed should oversee the operation.

A group of 35 Senegalese troops arrived Monday night in N'Djamena, Chad's capital, as part of the observer force.

Miners stone trucks

LONDON — Striking miners fired air rifles and hurled stones at trucks loaded with iron ore on a main highway in southern Wales today as violence continued in Britain's six-month coal strike.

Pickets lining about 20 bridges over the M4 expressway between the Port Talbot and the Llanwern steel plants smashed one truck's windshield with a lump of concrete. A police spokesman said the driver was not hurt.

Most of the pickets' missiles bounced off metal grills protecting the windshields, the spokesman said.

Rebels damage jetliner

NEW DELHI, India — A DC-10 jetliner carrying 308 Moslem pilgrims made a safe emergency landing at Afghanistan's Kabul airport after rebel gunfire damaged its left engines, hydraulic system and one wing, Western and Afghan sources said today.

The airplane, the only DC-10 operated by the state-run Ariana Afghan international airline, was badly damaged Monday, 25 minutes after taking off from Kandahar on a 310-mile flight to Kabul, the capital, said an official Radio Afghanistan broadcast monitored in Pakistan.

Filipinos flee volcano

LEGASPI, Philippines — Volcanic ash filled the air for 50 miles around flaming Mount Mayon and several towns were cut off by flowing mud today as authorities struggled to handle nearly 60,000 evacuees who have fled their homes.

Public Notice
Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with an order from the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice it has filed a tariff to reduce the monthly rates for the Switched Access portion of the company's intraLATA Foreign Exchange (FX) Service offering that was implemented starting June 1, 1984.
Simultaneously, the LATA-wide toll-free calling scope, also started June 1, would be discontinued and the calling scope would return to that in effect prior to June 1. The Commission has assigned this matter Docket Number 5891.
The net effect of the tariff will be a monthly decrease in total billing of approximately $700,000 until November 1, 1984. After that time the net effect on the company's revenue is estimated to be negligible.
Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. City airpark holds key to tomorrow

The promise Big Spring Airpark holds for the future is one of restrained and moderate growth, not the wildly euphoric boost a meteoric company like O.I.L. provided. And that may be all to the good.

Steady, sustained growth keeps pace with population and planning, and keeps expectations from being pushed too high too quickly. Too much, too quick can easily knock community balance askew.

A five-part story by reporter Rick Brown looked at the history of what is now officially the Big Spring McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark, and one conclusion is from the report: That tract of land has given this community some shocks, but Big Spring has always managed to land on its feet.

From bombardier school to air force base to industrial complex and home for prison and college facilities, the airbase turned airpark and airport has been a symbol of prestige and economic well-being. Big Spring weathered well the changes time has brought. Better yet, it turned disappointment into triumph with innovative ideas, stamina and creativity.

At the latest juncture, the closing of Webb Air Force Base, the facilities might well have been left to decay under the West Texas wind and sun. Instead they are home to government, education and stable and productive enterprises — 39 in all — like Western Container Corp., Fiberflex (its current management litigation aside) and Co-Exx Pipe. All together, these concerns send $69,000 a month to city coffers and provide an important job base for this city.

Under the leadership of Hal Boyd, the Airpark isn't content to tread water either. Although this is not an easy climate in which to attract industry and manufacturing, quiet and consistent efforts are made toward that end. And modifications to maintain the facility's modernity are being made which will pay dividends down the road.

The transportation and enterprise facility on the west side of town has a long history with this city. It has complemented the community's base and prestige. It has been like a longtime friend. It will play a big part, no doubt, in Big Spring's future.

A party pooper

A recent state supreme court ruling in New Jersey has been making life very difficult for people who are giving parties. The court ruled that the party givers could be held responsible if one of their guests left the premises in an inebriated state and hurt someone in an accident.

The burden on the host and hostess is more than most Jersey residents can stand. I attended the 25th wedding anniversary of the Richard Fahey's in their home in East Orange, N.J., last weekend.

There were mountains of delicious food, an anniversary cake, and a bar off in the corner. "Well, Fahey," I said, "this is really a great occasion. I think I'll have a drink."

He looked at me sharply. "How many have you had already?" "Just one," I said.

He took out his notebook and wrote something in it. "What are you doing?" "I'm keeping track of all the guests. Your limit is three," he replied.

"Why three?" "We checked out all our guests before the party. Reports from Washington indicate three drinks are all you can handle."

"But I'm not drinking. I came with Mike Clark."

Fahey looked in his book. "I'm glad you told me. Clark is only good for four glasses of wine before he goes blotto. Excuse me. I just saw Dale Denton over there take his second glass of champagne. What kind of party does he think we're throwing?"

I walked over to Jonah Shacknai. "How's it going?" I asked him.

"Okay, I'm leaving."

"So early? We haven't had dinner yet."

"I had two Scotch and waters and Fahey told the bartender to cut me off. I don't intend to suck ice cubes for the rest of the night."

"It must be tough going to a party in New Jersey," I replied. "We had better ones before the state supreme court ruling. You see that beautiful girl over there. I'm told she goes crazy when she has five vodka tonics."

"Well, you're a bachelor. Why don't you get to know her?" "Fahey won't let her have more than three, so I'd just be wasting my time."

"Mrs. Fahey came by. 'Is everyone having a good time?'" "Sort of," I said. She looked in her notebook and then said, "Can I freshen your drink?"

"I'd rather wait for my last one after dinner," I said. "That's a good idea. There is no reason to peak too early."

I happened to pass the bar and found Fahey in an agitated state. He was checking all the bottles. "What's going on?" I asked him.

"My bar inventory doesn't jibe with my records. People have been lying to me on how many drinks they've consumed."

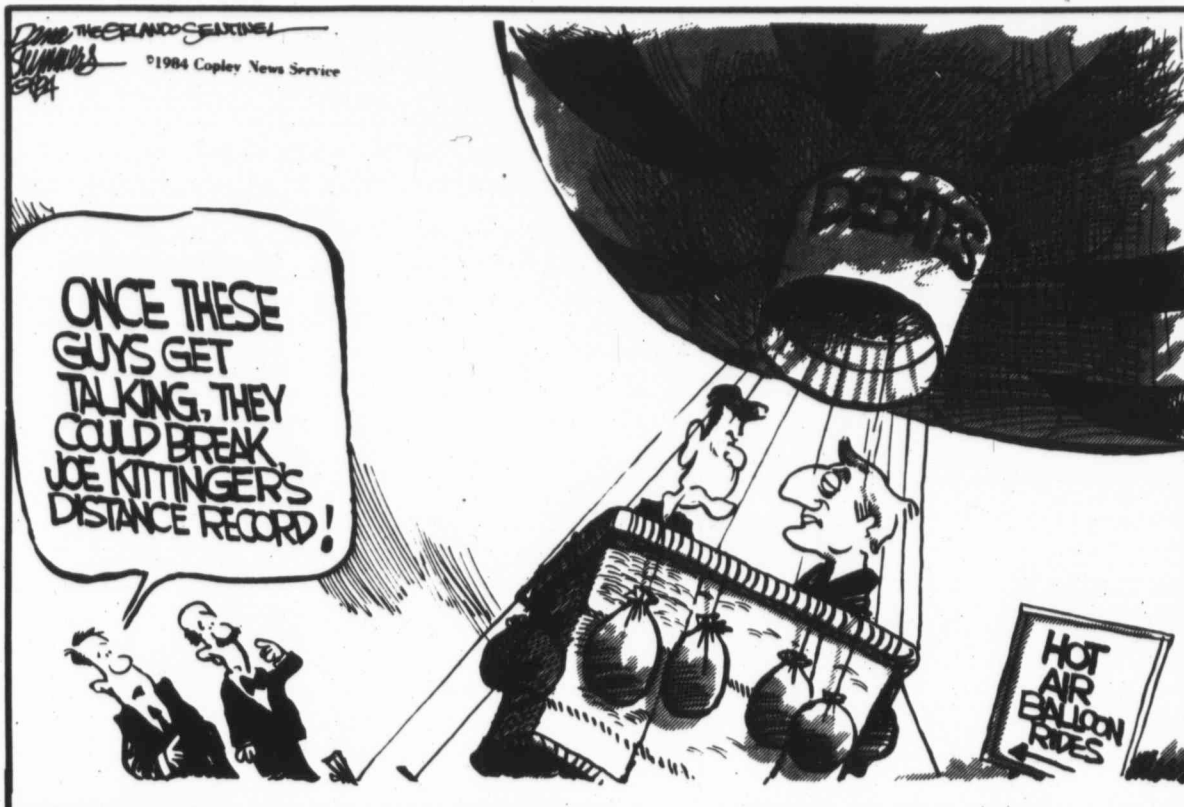

"Relax, Fahey. It's your 25th anniversary."

"That's easy for you to say. You don't have to worry about being sued."

Finally dinner was served. Instead of wine we toasted the happy couple with Perrier. I took my final drink for the road and got my coat to leave. In the hallway I noted several guests sitting in a row of chairs.

"What are they waiting for?" I asked Fahey. He said in disgust, "They couldn't pass the breathalyzer tests so they're going to have to sit there all night."

An end-run on health cost rules

WASHINGTON — No one needs to be reminded that the costs of federally funded health care are soaring into the stratosphere. Many companies that provide the equipment and services needed to treat Medicare and Medicaid patients charge top dollar whenever they can get away with it.

To prevent this unconscionable profiteering on the misery of the nation's sick and needy, the Department of Health and Human Services has laid down certain regulations intended to keep some kind of control over runaway costs. One of these prohibits "sweetheart" deals between health providers and subcontractors that inflate the cost of goods and services.

This is the story of a major health provider's request for an exemption from the sweetheart-deal rules — and its rejection by HHS after an investigation by the agency's inspector general.

The exemption was sought last year by National Medical Care Inc. of Waltham, Mass., the nation's largest provider of life-sustaining kidney dialysis treatment. HHS auditors discovered that one of the corporation's subsidiaries, Erika Inc., sold dialysis supplies to another subsidiary, the Artificial Kidney Center of Queens, N.Y., at prices from 22 percent to 56 percent above the going rate.

As a result, the auditors found, Erika made $181,671 in excess profits in 1977 on that deal alone. Erika also netted $4.3 million in excess profits during 1981 from sales to its corporate siblings, according to the still-unreleased IG report.

Under federal regulations, such corporate incest is permissible only if the company can prove that the charges were "comparable" to the going rate, and that a "substantial" part of the company's business is with unrelated firms.

Erika flunked both tests, according to the auditors. Data it submitted on 1981 sales showed that the company did more than half its business outside the corporate family. The HHS investigators concluded that the correct figure was only 46 percent.

As for comparable prices, the auditors looked at Erika's charges to its parent corporation's 170 clinics and to other, unrelated clinics and concluded: "Contrary to NMC's assertions, sales to related organizations were at generally higher prices than sales to unrelated organizations."

The company claimed that Erika actually charged NMC clinics an average of $21.93 less for dialysis machine filters than it did to unrelated clinics. The IG reviewed four filter models and found that Erika had in fact charged clinics in the corporate family anywhere from $38.08 to $83 more per filter, for an excess profit of $1.3 million.

The company claimed its clinics paid only 84 cents more for blood-line sets from its Erika subsidiary; the auditors found the markup averaged $8.46, for an excess profit of $271,693 on that item.

A spokesman told my associate Tony Capaccio that the company could not appeal the rejection of its exemption request. Though he conceded the audit was done legally, he said, "The problem is with the regulations themselves."

In his letter to the IG, McFeeley called the audit "a colossal waste of tax money." But if HHS had allowed the higher prices resulting from NMC's sweetheart deal with its subsidiary, they would have affected the federally established reimbursement rate for kidney dialysis treatments nationwide.

FERRARO REVISITED: Her financial furor behind her, Geraldine Ferraro has actually begun to enjoy the rigors of the vice presidential campaign.

Friends say the congresswoman from Queens, N.Y., is thrilled by the size of the crowds she is drawing across the country and by the warmth of their response.

Ferraro's earlier troubles may have been largely self-inflicted, but her friends put some of the blame on Walter Mondale for giving his running-mate an inexperienced campaign staff that was not equipped to deal with the press' blitzkrieg on their candidate.

"Mondale gave her his rejects, his second string," complained one Ferraro insider.

Another source noted with some satisfaction that "once she got in hot water, she got herself out — she learned her lesson."

Ferraro herself is now setting her own agenda — instead of defending herself against the press. So, you can expect more discussion of the issue she feels is the most important of all: war and peace.

As the mother of a draft-age son, she feels she qualifies as an expert on the subject, and she believes millions of Americans share her concern.

"I'm the kind of person who wants to do a job well," she said, "and I accept a job not just for the press you get out of it or the glory, but because I want to do the job right."

Remember the old and lonely

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: One of the best things you could do would be to urge people not to forget those who are old and lonely. I have had to move into a rest home now that I am almost 90, and it hurts me to see how lonely many of these people are. — Mrs. B.H.Y.

DEAR MRS. B.H.Y.: Thank you for this reminder. The Bible says we should honor and express our love toward those who are older, for "Is not wisdom found among the aged? Does not long life bring understanding?" (Job 12:12). It also commands us, "Honor your father and your mother" (Exodus 20:12). One way we can do that as we grow older is to keep contact with our parents, especially when they have needs as they become elderly.

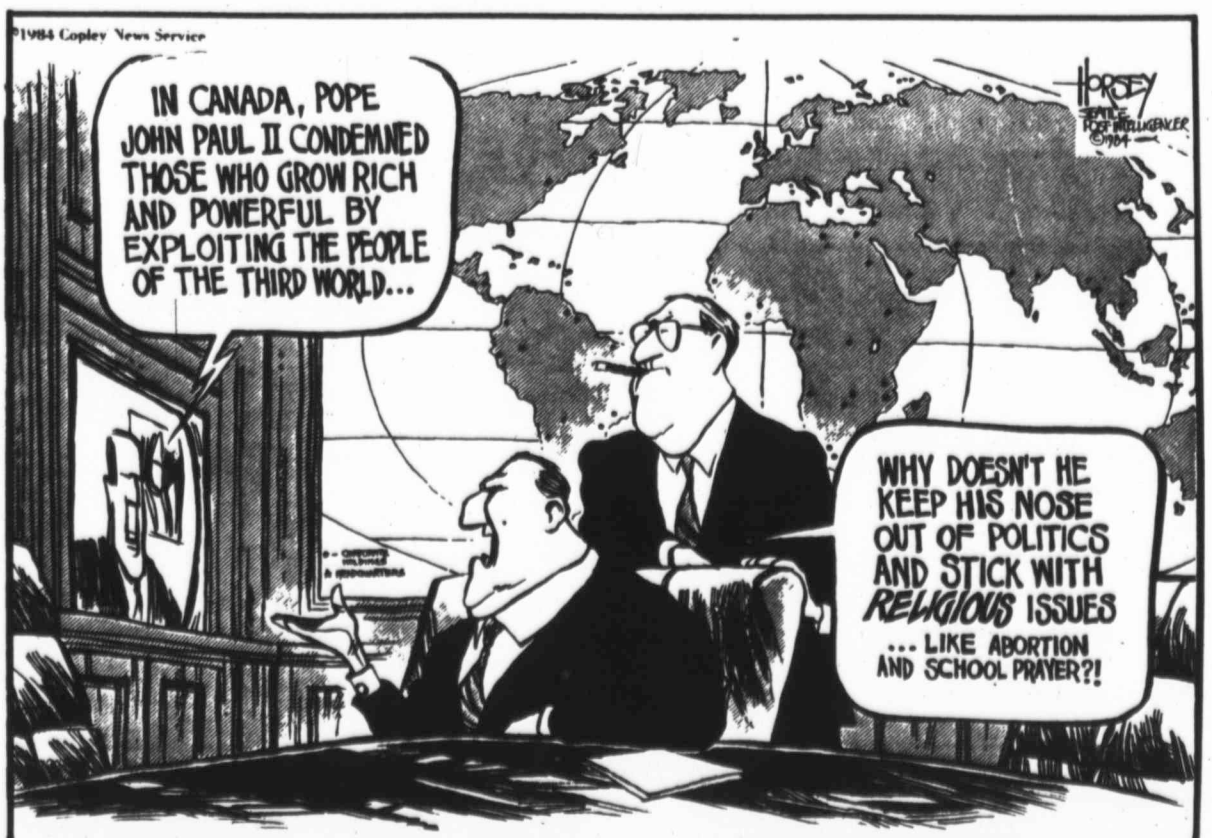

But have you ever thought about the fact that God has a ministry for you, right where you are? Yes, it would be good if the families of some of these people would visit them more. But ask God to help you become a friend to those around you, and ask Him to use you to help them overcome their loneliness. More than that, pray for those around you, and ask God to help you point them to Jesus Christ. We are never alone when we know Christ, for He has promised, "The Lord your God goes with you; he will never leave you nor forsake you" (Deuteronomy 31:6). Those around you will soon be at the end of this life. The most important thing you can do is to tell them that God loves them, and they can have hope of eternal life in Heaven with Him if they will turn to Christ for forgiveness and salvation.

Are you trusting Christ yourself, and are you seeking to share the good news of His salvation with others? By your life and your words, God can use you not just to be a friend to others, but to direct them to Jesus Christ.

CLOTHES WORN BY DYNASTY'S STARS — One of the outfits from the 45-piece collection of clothes patterned after styles worn by the stars of the television series "Dynasty" is modeled in New York early this month. The collection will be available in November in selected department stores and specialty stores in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles. They are designed by Beverly Hills couturier Nolan Miller who fashions the clothes worn by the actresses Joan Collins, as Alexis, and Linda Evans, as Krystle.

Dear Abby

Woman's phone manners ring rudely

DEAR ABBY: A friend of ours (we'll call her Joan) telephoned her mother, Mrs. A, long distance. A gentleman answered Mrs. A's telephone. Joan did not identify herself as Mrs. A's daughter, so the gentleman asked Joan, "Who is calling, please?"

Joan responded, "Who are you?" The gentleman replied, "My name is Paul." Then Joan said, "Well, Paul, please put Mrs. A on the phone." Joan believes that Paul was rude to have asked who was calling, as it was none of his business. We believe it was an appropriate question. We would like your opinion.

FRIENDS OF JOAN
DEAR FRIENDS: It was not rude of Paul to have asked who was calling. (Perhaps Mrs. A had instructed him to inquire.) Joan should have immediately identified herself as Mrs. A's daughter.

And speaking of rudeness, I think Joan was rude to demand that Paul identify himself, as it was none of her business.

DEAR ABBY: I wrote to you a few weeks ago telling you that Michael Jackson was my idol, that I worshiped him and would give anything in the world if I could meet him personally. I asked you for a few suggestions on how I could meet him, and you wrote me back a crummy letter full of put-downs.

You gave me no hope at all. Instead you told me that thousands of girls felt the same way about Michael, and I didn't have a chance of meeting him in person.

Abby, I turned to you hoping you would give me some advice, and I can't believe how bad you made me feel.

EX-READER
DEAR EX: Sorry I let you down, but I gave you the best advice I had to offer. Celebrities like Michael Jackson hire a retinue of bodyguards to protect them from all the admirers who want to meet him personally. I would have been even more unkind to have given you false hope.

DEAR ABBY: Please relay this to "Pennsylvania Dutchman," who had never heard of a man fathering a child in his 80s.

My great-grandfather lived in Ireland. His first wife died and he subsequently married a much younger woman who bore him several children, the youngest of whom was my grandfather.

When my grandfather was born, his father was 84 years old. (He lived to celebrate his 107th birthday.) At the time of his death his wife became ill and died two days later. They had a double funeral.

The 'New Seekers' present musical family entertainment

The "New Seekers," a musical group with a unique brand of family-oriented entertainment, was enthusiastically received by those who attended their performance Friday at the City Auditorium.

The group originally was called "The Seekers" and originated in Australia in the 1960s. One of its most popular songs at that time was "Georgy Girl." It continues to be one of its popular numbers.

In the late 1960s the group split up, but public demand brought them together again to form the

"New Seekers". They were back on the charts with "Look What They've Done to My Song, Ma," "Beautiful People," and "The Nickle Song." At the end of 1971, the "New Seekers" performed the theme song to Coca Cola's award winning advertising campaign with "I'd Like to Teach the World to Sing."

The "New Seekers" were sponsored by the Big Spring Business and Professional Women's Club. Proceeds went to the Rainbow Project, a shelter for abused children, and the Club's local scholarship fund.

Dr. Donohue

Flu shots

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A few of us senior citizens have had the flu in past years. With me, each year it seems worse. I have talked to some who say they took special medicine for their flu. What do you advise for the flu? — Seniors.

For older people, I'd advise immunization to prevent flu. And from now until late fall flu shots should be under consideration. The vaccine is more effective than most people realize. And if flu does occur, then rest, fluids, and fever-controlling drugs are all most will need.

If a person does come down with flu and becomes quite sick, or if the person has another health problem, or is in the very elderly age group, then I'd prescribe amantadine. That may be the medicine you refer to. It does seem to work in making the flu episode shorter. And in fact, it also works as a preventive when the flu is around. It is an expensive drug and it is not without its unpleasant side effects for some. Consider this my annual plug for flu shots for those who are in greatest danger from an attack of the virus infection.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a senior citizen having trouble getting to sleep at night. I asked the doctor to prescribe a pill to help me sleep. He agreed to try Restoril. I have been using it for a couple of weeks, but still am having difficulty getting to sleep once I lay down. Sometimes it is hours before I drift off. Do you think I need a stronger sleeping pill? — S.V.

You can ask your doctor about this, but sometimes the timing of such medicine can be quite important. If you are taking a couple of hours to get to sleep, then you might try taking your pill a couple of hours before retiring. That would give it time to take effect.

But I don't think you should start looking to your pills as the permanent answer to your sleep problem. Daytime napping, sheer boredom, lack of exercise, anxiety — all these can add their bits to the insomnia picture. The booklet "Why Can't You Sleep?" answers many questions often asked about sleep. DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband is taking levodopa for Parkinson's disease. Is there a proper and improper time of the day to take the medicine? Should it be taken with meals, for instance? — C.P.

Some doctors believe that food interferes with absorption of levodopa and suggest it be taken a few hours before eating a meal. One study indicated absorption may be 25 percent less when taken with a meal.

'Buffs leave good impression

I got my first chance to see the Forsan Buffalos in action this season last Friday when coach Jan East's crew battled the always tough Robert Lee Steers.

I was anxious to see if the Buffaloes were for real or if wins over Bronte and Klondike were flukes. Robert Lee, a team coach East had not defeated in the six seasons he has been at Forsan High, would be a worthy opponent to test the Buffaloes' skills.

Not only did Forsan have to face a very talented Robert Lee team, that lost its opener 20-7 to Class 2A toughie Big Lake and half-heartedly defeated Loraine 19-6, but the Buffs would have to battle the stigma of a six year losing streak.

The Forsan defense would be put to the test. The Steers boasted a high powered rushing attack keyed by senior tailback Greg Grim. A week earlier Forsan contained another premier running back, Klondike's Tim Cope to 119 yards, but they kept him from the big play.

Grim, being just as dynamic as Cope, had a larger and more experienced line to run behind. The Forsan defense was about to meet its most stern test.

The Forsan offense was also about to encounter its toughest challenge. Could the offensive wall spring elusive Mitch Hays against a Robert Lee defense that limited Loraine to barely over 150 yards total offense the week before?

What I saw in Forsan's 15-11 victory makes me think that Forsan will definitely be a contender in the District 7-A South Zone race.

There is an old saying that, "the mark of a good team is winning the games it doesn't play well in." According to East, his team did not play well versus Robert Lee. "They just outplayed us," were his exact words.

The thing that impressed me most about Forsan, however was the ability to come up with clutch plays when needed. Even though Grim gained 201 yards, 161 in the second half alone, and the 'Buffs were outgained by almost 100 yards in total offense, they still came away with the win.

The key was a defense keyed by Tom Thompson, Tony Miranda, Marvin Kendrick and Brandon Wooten. It bent, but never broke. Forsan's defense stayed on the field 30 of the game's 48 minutes. Eleven points is not a shabby total in anybody's league with odds like that.

Robert Lee's defense held down Hays, holding him to 96 yards, 35 of them coming on a carry when Forsan was running out the clock. Hays is a big play man that can hurt a defense in many ways. He did it against Robert Lee with a 64-yard punt return that gave Forsan a 7-0 lead in the first quarter.

Forsan also proved it could be a dominating offensive team just after Robert Lee had taken an 11-7 lead with 8:05 remaining in the contest.

The Buffaloes offensive attack, which had mustered just one previous first down in the second half, reeled off a seven play, 68-yard scoring drive to take the win.

It was nothing fancy — just the Forsan line whipping its men and backs Hays, Todd East, Wayne Wright and Rodney McMillian picking up seven yards a crack. It was a very methodical drive in which coach East's boys flexed their muscles.

I must say I was skeptical about how good the 'Buffs really were. After viewing last Friday's encounter I must say they made a good impression on me.

Long drought ends for Cubs, 4-1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Their critics jokingly called them the Flubs, not the Cubs, and claimed a team that insisted on living in the past had no future playing strictly daytime baseball.

But they were wrong, these would be Cub-Busters. The Chicago Cubs, the only team in the major leagues that continues to play all-day baseball at home, suddenly has learned how to beat the daylight out of the rest of the National League East.

"The Cub-Busters, where are the Cub-Busters?" shortstop Larry Bowa joked Monday night as the Cubs poured champagne and heaped praise on one another following a 4-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates that clinched the NL East championship — their first title of any kind in nearly four decades.

Since 1945, when the Cubs last won the NL pennant, rooting for Chicago has been downright unbearable. Until now.

"We've come a long way, I'll tell you," said first baseman Leon Durham.

"We haven't won in a lot of years, 39 to be exact," said outfielder Gary Matthews. "So this is what it's all about. Any time you taste the champagne in September or October, you know you've done the job."

What the Cubs did was a job on the rest of the National League.

The only team that previously had not won an NL East title since divisional play began in 1969, the Cubs — in one magical summer week that their fans will remember for years — turned a 4½-game deficit behind the New York Mets into a 4½-game lead they never lost.

"The magic number is zero, zero, zero!" yelled winning pitcher Rick Sutcliffe, whose 1984 season has been one for the record books.

Sutcliffe, overpowering the Pirates with a 90 mph-plus fastball, allowed just two hits in raising his NL record to a dazzling 16-1. Coupled with the four victories he recorded with the Cleveland Indians before being dealt to the Cubs in June, he established himself a strong Cy Young Award candidate — and just the fourth pitcher to win 20 games while pitching for two clubs in two leagues in the same season.

"I have no idea how to describe this," Sutcliffe said.

The Cubs won their championship with a combination of pitching, power and persistence. Sutcliffe was a streak-stopping starter, fireballing Lee Smith a rally-stopping reliever and six Cubs, including Most Valuable Player candidate Ryne Sandberg, had 80 or more runs batted in.

And General Manager Dallas Green, who engineered the Philadelphia Phillies' 1980 NL championship, might have stolen this title away from his old team by trading for former Phillies such as Sandberg, Bowa, and outfielders Keith Moreland, Bob Dernier and Matthews.

"We've still got a three-out-of-five series to play against the San CHAMPIONSHIP CELEBRATION — Chicago Cubs players, left to right, Ron Cey, Rick Sutcliffe, Jody Davis, Ryne Sandberg and Leon Durham celebrate after the Cubs clinched the National League's Eastern Division championship Monday night in Pittsburgh. The Cubs beat the Pirates 4-1 behind a two-hitter from Sutcliffe to win their first championship in 39 years.

Diego Padres." Green said of the NL Championship Series, which begins Oct. 2 in Wrigley Field. "We know that. But I want our guys to enjoy this and our fans to enjoy this."

"If it wasn't for Dallas Green, I don't think we'd have this kind of ability and we wouldn't be popping champagne corks around here," Durham said. "He waited around, shopped around and got us this ability."

And he brought in Manager Jim Frey, who in just one season was able to do what even a rotating staff of coaches couldn't do in the mid-1960s, bring a winner to the Windy City.

"I'm buying a beer for the whole city of Pittsburgh," Frey joked, as smile lighting up his face as he wiped champagne from his eyes. "I had a great day, a wonderful afternoon and an excellent evening. Somebody told me the Cubs won the National League East championship tonight. Is that true? I'm not going to come back down to earth for three days?"

Some of the NL East's traditional powers, like the Pirates and Phillies, might have had off-seasons, but the Cubs are no fluke, claimed third baseman Ron Cey.

"This team deserves this," he said. "This team has the second-best record in baseball and the best record in the National League. The numbers are there and so are we."

Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner agrees. "They have as good a team as I've seen in the National League in my seven years here," he said. "They can do it all. If they win the playoffs, they will win the World Series."

The Cubs endured a five-game losing streak, including three losses last week to the Pirates, before sweeping a Sunday doubleheader in St. Louis to set up the clincher. They quickly jumped on Pirates' starter Larry McWilliams, 11-11, for solo runs in each of the first three innings, then breezed behind Sutcliffe, who won his 14th straight decision.

Sandberg lined the first of his two doubles with one out in the first inning before coming home on Matthews' run-scoring single, his league-best 19th game winning RBI of the season.

Sutcliffe himself drove in the Cubs' second run of the game with a second-inning single after Bowa singled and advanced on third baseman Jim Morrison's throwing error.

Another Morrison throwing error, in the third, scored the Cubs' third run after Sandberg's double, Matthews' walk and Keith Moreland's infield single.

Both of the Pirates' hits were by rookie outfielder Joe Orsulak, who lined a triple just under the glove of first baseman Durham in the fourth and reached on a bunt single in the sixth.

"Was I thinking about a no-hitter?" Sutcliffe said. "I wasn't worried about that. I just wanted this victory."

He got it.

Goliad 'B' notches first win

The Runnels Red team was the only junior high volleyball in Big Spring team to go down in defeat Monday night in action versus Levelland.

The Red team suffered its first loss of the season, losing two matches after winning the first 15-7. Levelland rallied back to take 8-15, 12-15 decisions.

Sharon Chatman was top server with nine points. Coach Peggy Calhoun praised the play of Chatman and Melissa Martinez for their fine play.

The loss dropped the Red team's record to 5-1. Meanwhile the Runnels White team evened its record to 3-3 by taking 15-13, 15-4 wins over Levelland. Melanie Payne and Anna Martinez were top servers with nine and seven points respectively.

Calhoun credited Martinez and Tracy Schffner with having good games.

GOLIAD TAKES TWO
The Goliad B team wasted little time in disposing of Levelland to the tune of 15-6, 15-1, earning the B team its first win of the season in four tries.

Jennifer Turner was top server with nine points. Laura Pena and Karen Fritsgibbons added six points each.

The Goliad A team raised its slate to 3-2 with 15-7, 15-9 decisions over Levelland. Jennifer Lee and Gina McWhirter were top servers with six tallies each. Michelle Hall served five points while Brenda Arellano added four points.

Both Runnels and Goliad will be in action Saturday, Sept. 29 at the Denver City tournament with both teams taking on Lamesa at 11 a.m.

Raiders rally for Monday win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim Plunkett has been the instigator of many last-gasp victories by the Raiders, both in Oakland and Los Angeles, since he joined the club in 1978. His explanation for such heroics is almost mystical.

"It's Raider tradition," Plunkett said with a smile Monday night after guiding Los Angeles 76 yards to a touchdown in the closing moments of a 33-30 triumph over the San Diego Chargers. "It doesn't matter who's wearing the uniforms."

The Raiders needed 10 plays to negotiate those 76 yards, with the first 74 coming on passes by Plunkett. As the Los Angeles Coliseum crowd of 76,131 went wild, Marcus Allen dove into the end zone from a yard out with 45 seconds remaining.

Not only did the victory give the Raiders a 4-0 record, enabling them to join Miami and San Francisco as the only unbeaten teams in the National Football League, it extended their mark on Monday nights to 21-2-1 since the prime time series began in 1970.

It didn't appear the Raiders were going to do so when San Diego linebacker Woodrow Lowe returned a tipped Plunkett pass 32 yards for a touchdown with 10:21 remaining. That gave the Chargers 17 points in a span of 3:21 and a 30-20 lead.

After a 44-yard kickoff return by Dokie Williams, the Raiders moved 53 yards in eight plays. Allen scored the third of his four touchdowns with 8:20 left to make it 30-26. It stayed that way when holder Marc Wilson fumbled the snap from center on the conversion attempt.

The Chargers, who dropped to 2-2, held the ball for nearly five minutes, but eventually were forced to punt, giving the Raiders possession at their own 24-yard line with 3:33 left.

The big plays of the final drive were Plunkett passes of 16 and 11 yards to tight end Todd Christensen and 15 yards each to Frank Hawkins and Malcolm Barnwell.

Plunkett finished the game with 24 completions in 33 attempts for 363 yards, clearly his finest performance so far this year.

A 42-yard field goal by Chris Bahr gave the Raiders a 3-0 lead over the Chargers early in the opening period, but San Diego then drove 75 yards on 10 plays to go ahead 7-3. Fouts, who hit on 19 of 37 passes for 227 yards, fired an 11-yard strike to Kellen Winslow for the touchdown.

Bahr booted a 39-yarder later in the first period to make it 7-6, but Rolf Benirschke's 51-yarder midway through the second quarter restored San Diego's four-point lead.

A 1-yard run by Allen with six seconds remaining before halftime capped a 78-yard, 15-play Los Angeles drive that put the Raiders ahead 13-10.

Honeymoon over for Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — Break out the grocery sack masks and turn on the boo-machine. The honeymoon is over between the fans of the long-suffering Houston Oilers and the start of the Hugh Campbell-Warren Moon era.

The Oilers are 0-4 going into Sunday's game in the Astrodome against the New Orleans Saints and the Oilers already are anticipating a chilly reception if they continue playing poorly against their former coach Bum Phillips.

"The next time we screw up in the Dome the fans are going to boo us out of town," lamented Oiler linebacker Gregg Bingham.

Oiler fans donned sack masks last season to hide their embarrassment.

The Oilers have been spared the indignant boos of the home crowd for the past two weeks, losing on the road to San Diego 31-14 and Atlanta 42-10.

But fans already were testy near the end of their last home game, a 35-21 loss to the Indianapolis Colts, with boos filtering down to the field in the closing minutes.

Campbell doesn't expect the fans to be in any better mood Sunday if the Oilers fall behind early as they have done in their two road appearances.

"I'd think the fans would be anxious to have something happen soon," Campbell said in the wake of Houston's latest and largest loss

— a 42-10 shiner at the hands of the Atlanta Falcons. "When you are a paying customer, you want to see good entertainment."

The Oilers have been entertaining only to the opposition since the regular season started with a 24-14 loss to the defending Super Bowl champion Los Angeles Raiders.

Each succeeding loss has been by a wider margin and the hopelessness of the Oilers' plight seems greater each week.

But Campbell isn't ready to push the panic button.

"We'll just try to accumulate more repetitions instead of making any drastic changes," Campbell said. "A team that plays with confidence is going to play better."

Bucks' Lanier retires after 14 years in NBA

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bob Lanier didn't want to be told it was time to go.
 "Nellie and I had a big talk last season," Lanier said of a meeting with Milwaukee Bucks Coach Don Nelson. "I told him I never wanted him to have to come to me and tell me, 'Dobber, you just can't do it anymore.' I think a player loses that perspective."
 "You're always thinking your level of production and contribution is higher than people around you."
 So after 14 seasons as one of the dominant centers in the National Basketball Association, Lanier decided on his own to retire. He made the announcement Monday at a news conference.
 Lanier spent the past 4 1/2 seasons with the Bucks. The first 9 1/2 years, after being a No. 1 draft choice from St. Bonaventure, were with the Detroit Pistons.
 He also played in eight NBA all-star teams, earning the most valuable player award in 1974.
 Lanier, 36, underwent eight operations on his knees over his career, which hampered his mobility. But the left-hander with size 19 shoes made up for that with floating hook shots and soft jumpers.
 Lanier said the realization that his career had reached its end came in the series against the Boston Celtics for the Eastern Conference championship.
 "I didn't feel in my heart that I made a difference in this squad," he said. "It took me a long time, over the course of summer, to genuinely make up my mind."
 There was speculation that Lanier would leave the game after last season. However, it wasn't until he gave up the post of president of the NBA Players Association last week in Chicago that it strongly appeared he would quit.
 And it was no secret that the driving force behind Lanier over the past few seasons was to play on a championship team.
 "In looking back at my career, I think I achieved a lot of individual goals most people aspire to do," he said. "The only thing that was elusive was winning that championship."

Downs says Cowboys are good, not lucky

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Dallas safety Michael Downs says the Cowboys are good, not lucky.
 "The Cowboys have been living by defense during the first quarter of the National Football League schedule for a 3-1 record.
 And Downs says the Cowboys don't feel lucky to have that good of a record despite hard-earned victories over Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Green Bay.
 "We don't feel lucky at all because we've had a great team effort," Downs said. "A lot of times last year that team effort wasn't as good as it should have been. This year it has been there and we've been playing as expected."
 "Our record is no surprise."
 The defense has dominated while young quarterback Gary Hogeboom is being taught some elementary NFL lessons.
 "The defense is tough," said Hogeboom, who had a bad day in Dallas' 20-6 victory over the Green Bay Packers on Sunday. "It's a team game and hopefully we (the offense) can help them a little more as time goes on."
 Hogeboom made an ill-advised pass on a screen play that cost the Cowboys a touchdown and the offense was so bad under his direction that Danny White, who lost his job to Hogeboom, had to punt a club-record 11 times.

 However, the Cowboys intercepted four passes and sacked Green Bay quarterbacks Lynn Dickey and Randy Wright six times for 39 yards in losses.
 It was the fourth straight game the Cowboys had held the opposition under 300 yards total offense. They hadn't done that since 1973.
 It also was the first shutout by Dallas' defense since 1978.
 "The defense is carrying the team right now," says Downs.
 "But this is a 49-man team. I feel excited about it."
 He says the Chicago Bears provided yet another stern test.
 The Cowboys meet the Bears on the road Sunday and Downs says "It will be our toughest game of the year. They have a world class sprinter in Willie Gault at wide receiver and Walter Payton is probably the best runner in the game."
 He says Chicago may be catching the Cowboys at a bad time.
 "Our confidence level is the best it has been in a long, long time," says Downs.

Florida will get tough probation

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The NCAA is prepared to slap the University of Florida football program with a stiff, three-year probation that includes the loss of scholarships as well as television and post-season bowl restrictions, The Fort Lauderdale Sun Sentinel and News reported.
 The newspaper, quoting an unnamed source, said the Southeastern Conference school will be notified of the sanctions, resulting from a 21-month probe, within two weeks.

Females in contention for franchise

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Florida State League approved expansion by two teams for the 1985 season and FSL President George McDonald said investors wanting to field a predominantly female minor league baseball team are among four ownership groups in the running for the new franchises.

Gunslingers' request put on hold

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The San Antonio School District has put on hold a request by the owners of the San Antonio Gunslingers to build an office at Alamo Stadium.
 The board voted 4-1 Monday to delay a decision on plans by South Texas Sports Inc. to build office space at the stadium.
 South Texas Sports, which owns the Gunslingers of the United States Football League, has occupied existing offices at the stadium. Gunslingers home games are played at the stadium, as well.
 Richard Gilberson, a South Texas Sports representative, told the board his organization wanted to build a sheet rock structure with metal studs under the seats at the northeast end of the stadium.
 The facility would contain administrative offices, a film room, conference room and ticket office, Gilberson said.
 The board made their decision against the construction after meeting in a closed session.
 SASD spokeswoman Mary Martha Arana said today the decision was based on the fact that the school district is party to a lawsuit involving the Gunslingers use of the stadium.

Florida farmers stop citrus shipments

Produce banned from sale until canker cause identified

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Florida growers rallied around a call for "absolute cooperation" with an indefinite ban on all citrus shipments and a halt on harvesting until all orange and grapefruit groves are rechecked for incurable citrus canker.

New measures to stop the spread of the disease were ordered Monday by state officials after it was discovered that some groves certified canker free had been found to have recent plantings that came from infected outlets.

The ban on intrastate shipment also makes it illegal to move fruit from homeowners' backyards.

"This will certainly curtail our retail sales," said Frank Sullivan of Sullivan's Victory Groves in Rockledge. "The most damage will be done in our local market. But I can't really complain because I agree with what they are doing."

State Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner, who ordered the ban on shipping and harvesting, also announced that training sessions would be held today and Wednesday to teach growers how to spot canker, which could seriously damage the state's $2.5 billion-a-year industry.

"There is a real need to be thorough in this survey," Conner said. "We must have absolute cooperation with the fresh-fruit ban. ... There will be law enforcement people looking at this."

Almost 250 state and federal inspectors were surveying groves and packing houses throughout the 760,000-acre citrus belt as part of the re-certification process.

Industry officials hoped the training sessions would lift some of the burden from the inspectors and speed up the process of checking all groves and packing houses. The sessions will teach grove personnel how to destroy nursery stock planted within the last two years.

None of the bacterial canker has been found in commercial groves, but all recently planted trees from diseased nurseries have to be uprooted and burned — the only known method of eradication. Six nurseries have been confirmed as hit by the canker.

The commissioner said he realized his order could have "a severe impact" on roadside fruit stands and some supermarkets. But, he said, "If we destroy an industry, they won't have any fruit for future years. I hope they understand that."

J.J. Parrish Jr., owner of Nevins Fruit Company in Mims, said his packing houses already had been cleared for exporting. "It means we're going to have to retrace our steps."

"But this is one of those things you've got to go through. It's for the benefit of everybody. If we pull through this and contain it, it will be a great achievement for the state of Florida."

"I would just hate for this thing to go into our shipping season," said Larry Harvey of Harvey's Groves in south Rockledge. Harvey's Groves, primarily a gift shipper, draws much of its business from the middle of November until late December.

"I think (the embargo) is probably a good idea," Harvey said. "Let's be overreactive and support what these people are doing 100 percent. It's better to overreact than it is to underreact."

The new harvesting ban will affect groves which produce early-season varieties for the fresh-fruit markets. The start of the state's main orange harvest is still weeks away. Conner told reporters in Winter Haven, that the need for re-certification "will have a temporary inconvenience as far as supply and price is concerned."

Harvesting clearance "could be a matter of days for groves with no resets (nursery stock) within the past couple of years," said Wayne Baggett, spokesman for the federal-state pest eradication team.

"For them, it's just a question of checking records and making sure everything is okay. ... For the others, it will be longer."

Conner emphasized that canker was not a human health hazard and that consumers can rest easy about drinking juice or eating Florida citrus products.

He urged growers to post their land against hunters, tourists and the curious to prevent the spread of the canker, which destroys the fruit and eventually kills the tree.

The state also extended its original quarantine on citrus nurseries to all nurseries, garden shops or department stores that sell citrus plants of any kind.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Billie DeWees shows Sasson's featherweight royal blue wool/nylon suit with off-center jacket closing, from a collection of transitional fashions.

Try DeWees' Fashions For Transitional Chic

There's no need to forego a chic wardrobe at this time of the year, when the weather is making its "transition" into fall: DeWees Fashions has what it probably the largest collection of transitional fashions in Big Spring.

You can cater to your yearning for designer looks and fall coloring, and still enjoy the comfort of lightweight fabrics.

And best of all Billie DeWees offers 1/3 off this week on two specially selected groups — one rack of early fall dresses and another rack of fall coordinates.

Dresses are better than ever for fall — with colors like royal blue, teal and plum. Fashionable detailing includes cowl collars, full "pirate" sleeves with deep cuffs, and the new "fanny wrap" (a belt that's worn low and wraps the hips.) Silk-look fabrics are actually machine-washable polyester. Billie carries a full size range — through 20, as well as half sizes.

The Personal Collection by Haberdashery in lightweight wool blends will become your wardrobe builders. There are several styles in skirts (side button, wrap-front and concealed fly-front), plus jackets, pants, blouses and sweaters — camel, navy, grey and red, including solids, stripes and plaids. Size range is 6 thru 18.

Devon Travables by Mendel in polyester/wool — washable and packable — includes jackets, skirts, pants, sweaters and vests for the large figure. Jackets and blouses are in sizes 36-46, pants and skirts come in waist sizes 30-40. Choose from Cypress (teal), berry and Glen plaid.

For that special occasion, Billie has new sweaters by Sweaterworks in bone, royal and fuchsia with contrasting beading, appliques or sequins.

DeWees Fashions, in the same location for 20 years, is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday thru Saturday. She also has a shop in Lubbock's Village Shopping Center.

Many of DeWees Fashions' customers are "regulars" who have come to depend on Billie's fashion sense and affordable prices.
