How's that? Hummingbirds

Q. How long can I leave my hummingbird feeder out?
A. According to Bebe McCasland, a local ornithologist, now is the time to take in hummingbird feeders.
"We've had our first blue norther," Mrs. McCasland said. "That's nature's way of telling (birds) to head south." Leaving hummingbird feeders out will confuse birds and might make them stay here longer than they should. That would endanger their lives, Mrs. McCasland said.

Skies will be partly cloudy and temperatures a little warmer today. Look for highs in the mid 60s and south to southeasterly winds, 5 to 15 miles per hour. Tonight, look for fair skies and lows near 50. On Monday, highs will rise to near 80 degrees.

Off the wall: Coverup

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP) — David Rexroat is not exactly charging coverup, still he's not happy about a City Council decision ordering him to put clothes on lifesize paintings of female nudes that dress up the outside of his van.

The council in this central Illinois town has told Rexroat he can't display his van in town unless he keeps the figures "clothed."

Rexroat has agreed to do so, but he doesn't agree with the council's decision Tuesday night to outlaw public display of the van and use of an obscenity ordinance to enforce the decision.

Study cites police image, morale

One year ago, the Big Spring Police Department was beset with morale problems even though it enjoyed a good relationship with the Big Spring community, according to an independent police management study.

Today, Chief Rick Turner says the community relationship has been maintained and many of the internal problems have been alleviated by personnel changes in the department's upper echelons.
"The negative people have left," said Turner, who became chief in August 1982. "We have had virtually a new supervisory staff over a period of two years," he said.

Police report '84 crime rate down

Crime is down in Big Spring this year, except in cases of rape and motor vehicle theft, police records show.
While records show a total of seven murders were committed in the city during 1983, the police department in 1984 has investigated only one suspicious death, which was not officially ruled homicide.

A police spokesman said there is a good chance the city will finish the year with a clean slate if no murders are committed in October, a traditionally deadly month.
Eight rapes were reported in the city limits since Jan. 1. The number equals the figure reported for all of 1983, statistics show. In addition, the 72 reported motor vehicle thefts so far this year is comparable to 71 such offenses reported at the same time last year.

Other offenses, including robbery, burglary and theft, were down, according to the department.

department systems and policies. The study was completed in March and released by the city administration this month.

Part of the study, a confidential opinion survey of 48 Big Spring citizens, found the department and its officers were well regarded in the community.

Thirty-five of the 48 citizens questioned agreed that "the officers of the department are competent and professional." In addition, 31 of the respondents agreed that the department "provides a high quality of service," and 40 said they "feel safe in their homes"

Conducted between July and November 1983 by the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officers Standards and Education (TCLEOSE), the study was requested by Turner soon after he became chief. The commission investigated and made in-depth recommendations on a variety of

New taxes begin

AUSTIN (AP) — The state sales tax increases Tuesday, as does the list of goods and services on which the tax is collected.

Texas also will pay more for cigarettes, alcoholic beverages and hotel rooms as they begin to fund school reforms mandated by a special session of the Legislature last July.

The $4.6 billion package, including a 5-cent gasoline tax increase that went into effect in August to pay for highway repairs, was the first state tax hike since 1971.

The sales tax hike is a fractional one. Lawmakers raised the 4 percent state levy to 4.125 percent. Most cities add a 1 percent local sales tax.

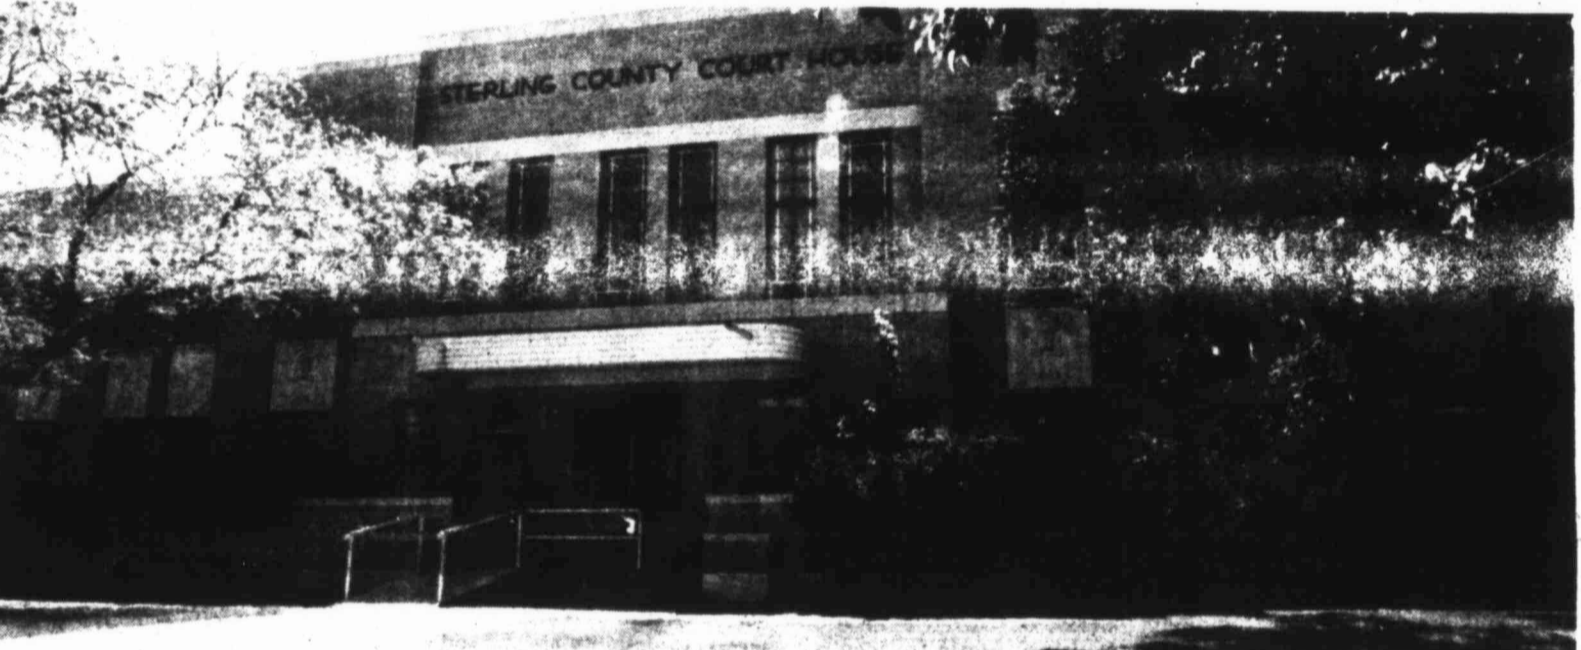

State Comptroller Bob Bullock's staff has sent out a half million cards showing how to calculate the new sales tax.

In addition to raising the sales tax, the Legislature expanded it to cover previously exempt items, such as cigarettes, vending machine sales, newspaper and magazine sales, cable television, parking, repair work (excluding automobile repairs), computer software, tobacco products and laundry and dry cleaning services.

The sales tax also will cover tickets to concerts and sports events, unless the events are run by not-for-profit organizations. There will be no sales tax on tickets to high school and college games, but pro sports tickets will carry the tax.

Cigarettes will be hit with another tax hike. Lawmakers raised the per pack levy from 18.5 cents to 19.5 cents.

Sterling piece of architecture

CENTER OF ATTENTION — Located on Highway 87 in the middle of Sterling City is Sterling County's Art Deco style courthouse, built during the Depression by the Works Progress Administration.

Sterling City

Town 'for a few people' keeps pioneer spirit

STERLING CITY — This ranching town of 1,100 residents fought its way onto the map and became part of Texas history during the era of cowboys and rustlers almost 100 years ago.

Few of the oldtimers who live here still remember the feuds with residents of nearby Cummins for the right to serve as the Sterling County seat in 1891.

Approximately 1.9 miles separated the two towns, but the differences stretched on forever, the older residents say. Sterling City won the battle and Cummins slowly vanished. Only a historical marker off Highway 87 indicates the spot where the pioneer town once stood.

People have moved and the times have changed; but the atmosphere in this close-knit community has remained the same, said Sterling City News editor Jack Douthit.

Gone are the car dealerships, the movie theater, the many grocery stores and the railroad.

The Santa Fe depot remains, but the track itself is gone — sold for scrap iron and fence posts at two bits a piece.

Douthit, owner and publisher for the Sterling County News, prints a paper on one of only four hot lead type presses still in use in the state.

Douthit has run the News for some 40 years. Douthit said he may be the only publisher around "who has taken watermelons, milk, eggs and everything else for subscription fees."

Cummins, named after R.B. Cummins, was actually the second town in the county, according to

Reagan promises Gromyko 'a fair deal'

ANDREI GROMYKO

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said Saturday he assured Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko that the Soviet Union could get "a fair deal" in negotiations with Washington, but Gromyko left a meeting with Secretary of State George Shultz giving no public hint whether Moscow was interested.

"Nothing more," were Gromyko's only words when asked if anything had been achieved during the session at the State Department. It wasn't clear whether he was referring to a lack of results or to a desire not to answer any questions.

But a senior State Department official said there had been an extensive discussion of arms control issues with Gromyko — suggesting it was a turning point because Moscow had been unwilling to discuss the subject following the Soviet walkout from the Geneva negotiations last year.

"I think it was very healthy, after a period in which the Soviet Union appeared unwilling to address nuclear weapons issues, that there was a good give and take on this subject with the president and the secretary of state," said the official, who briefed reporters on the meetings under conditions requiring anonymity.

Another administration official, arms control chief Kenneth Adelman, also said in a television interview that the meetings had moved both sides closer to a resumption of weapons talks. But he cautioned, "This is not something that happens quickly."

Shultz would only say after the two-hour, 15-minute meeting that they held "substantive discussions" and had agreed only to "keep in touch ... through diplomatic channels." He also had met with Gromyko for three hours in New York on Wednesday.

Reagan, in his first public report on his 3½ hours of talks with Gromyko on Friday, said in his weekly radio address that those discussions were "useful" and there was no effort to "paper over" differences. He said he was frank in the possibilities for improved superpower relations.

"Now the Soviets will return home to ponder our exchanges," Reagan said. "And while they know they will not secure any advantages from inflexibility, they will get a fair deal if they seek the path of negotiations and peace."

The senior State Department briefer said Reagan's proposals — spelled out in his U.N. address last week — for regular high-level contacts were discussed with Gromyko, but not yet accepted. "We hope the Soviet Union will respond," he said.

Following his meeting with Reagan on Friday, Gromyko issued a statement that indicated he was not impressed with what he heard. He said it was apparent that Washington was not willing "to take a realistic stand on the substance of the acute problems of war and peace."

Cloudy skies remain

By The Associated Press
A dome of high pressure moved into the state Saturday in the wake of a cold front that swept through Texas the day before, bringing unseasonably cool temperatures statewide.

Cloudy skies and cool temperatures were the rule across Texas again on Saturday and heavy thunderstorms pounded parts of the Lower Rio Grande Valley. However, the rain activity subsided to light rain Saturday afternoon.

Brownsville reported over 3 1/2 inches of rain and some local street flooding occurred in Cameron County.

Temperatures were chilly, ranging from near 40 degrees in the Panhandle and rising to the 50s and 60s elsewhere.

Winds over the state were generally from the north to northwest at 10 to 20 mph and were expected to decrease somewhat Sunday, the National Weather Service said.

The forecast for Sunday called for more cool and cloudy weather, with some rain possible in West and South Texas. Lows in most regions were expected to sink to the lower 40s, rising to the 60s in southern and coastal areas.

Highs were expected to climb into the 70s, with some readings topping out in the middle 80s in the Big Bend.

Tropical storm Isidore continued moving toward the Atlantic Ocean on Saturday, while heavy rains forced flash flood warnings in South Texas and some northern states got an early taste of winter.

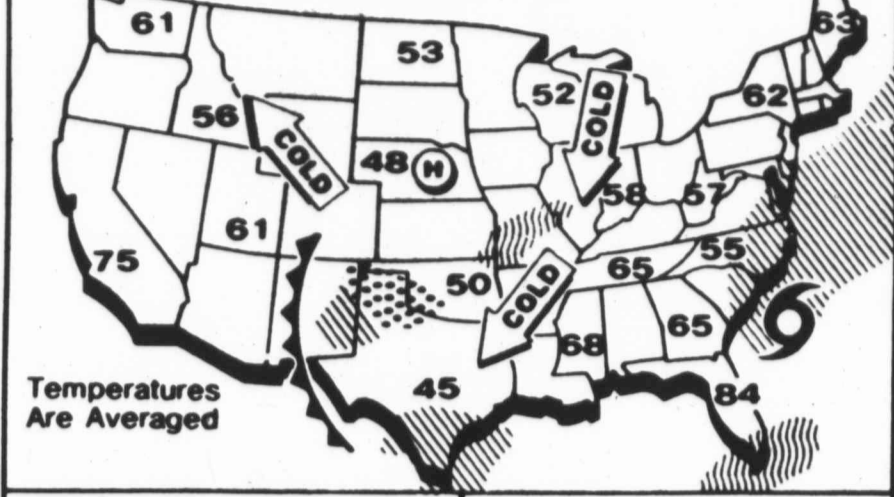

Isidore, which never packed the punch forecasters thought it would, continued moving northeasterly away from land, and the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables, Fla., said the Atlantic could sap the storm further.

Gale warnings were in effect from Little River Inlet, S.C., to Oregon Inlet, N.C., and a flood watch was issued for southeastern North Carolina, the National Weather Service said.

County auditor cited

Howard County Auditor Jackie Olson was awarded an Award of Financial Reporting Achievement by the Government Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada for her annual financial report for the county for Fiscal Year 1983.

Mrs. Olson received the award when the county was awarded a Certificate of Conformance in Financial Reporting by the organization. The certificate is the highest form of recognition in the area of governmental accounting and financial reporting, according to the sponsoring organization, GFOA. According to the awarding organization, a government must demonstrate a "constructive spirit of full disclosure effort" and "enhance understanding of the logic underlying the traditional governmental financial reporting model."

The certificates and financial awards are granted by an impartial special review committee composed of government finance officers, independent certified public accountants, educators and others with expertise in governmental accounting and financial reporting.

Northside plans walk-a-thon

The Northside Community Center is sponsoring a walk-a-thon Oct. 14, director Marianne Brown said.

The center or sponsor one of the walkers should contact Mrs. Brown at 263-2673 or 263-7888.

Funds from the event will be used to keep the center open. "We're short on money and if we don't get any, it looks like we'll have to close," Mrs. Brown said. People who would like to walk for the center or sponsor one of the walkers should contact Mrs. Brown at 263-2673 or 263-7888.

Suit filed over oil spill

GALVESTON — Galveston County has filed suit seeking up to $100 million in damages from the owners of the tanker Alvenus for an oil spill that soiled the area's resort beaches in August.

The suit, filed Friday in Houston federal court, seeks damages for oil that washed ashore county beaches Aug. 3 after the vessel foundered offshore near Cameron, La., on July 30.

The county contends the spill "was the result of negligence as well as a result of a defect in the design" of the 690-foot British tanker, according to the petition.

Inmate stabbings continue

HUNTSVILLE — A prisoner serving five years on a robbery conviction was stabbed repeatedly Saturday by another inmate at the Ellis I Unit of the Texas Department of Corrections, prison officials said.

Frederick Albright, 26, was found bleeding about 1 p.m. Saturday by a TDC officer who was patrolling a cellblock area, said TDC spokesman Charles Brown. Albright was listed in stable condition at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston. He suffered three stab wounds to the left back, one to the right chest and another to the right shoulder, Brown said.

Klan rally draws protest

GREENVILLE — The Ku Klux Klan held a recruitment rally Saturday in a Northeast Texas city that one carried the motto "the whitest people, the blackest land," but not without protests from about 10 demonstrators from Dallas.

The Klan won rights to hold the meeting on Friday when U.S. District Judge Joe Fish of Dallas overturned a Greenville City Council resolution barring the Klan from a local community center.

Fish agreed with the Klan's contention that the July resolution was a violation of the group's First Amendment rights to peaceful assembly.

Feds probe vote fraud

SAN DIEGO, Texas — Allegations of voting irregularities in Duval County's May primary have sparked a state and federal investigation into possible vote fraud, officials say.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jack Wolfe of Brownsville said the investigation involves the U.S. Senate race and that some ballot boxes used in that election have been subpoenaed.

He declined to disclose additional details, such as who had called in investigators. Wolfe's comments came during a news conference Friday at the Duval County Courthouse called by the State-Federal Voter Fraud Task Force.

Authorities wanted to assure Duval County voters of integrity at the polls during the November general election, said U.S. Attorney Daniel Hedges of Houston. "We are here to assure these people their vote will count," Hedges said. "We hope to do that by keeping out illegal votes." An investigation of voting irregularities during the 1982 election resulted in the indictments of 31 people. Of those, 25 pleaded guilty or were found guilty by juries.

Study

at night." However, the commission — through confidential interviews with department staff — concluded that "low morale, fear, poor internal communication, preferential treatment, and mistrust of the administration" were "salient areas of personnel concern."

The negative impression is substantiated in direct quotes from the interviewees, who spoke of "stress that doesn't have to be there," an inability to "depend on and trust some of the supervisors," a feeling of "too many changes too soon."

Many employees also mentioned low pay as a factor in their dissatisfaction with the department.

In addition, the report recorded several contradictions among staff perceptions of department management.

A total of 24 of 52 staff members agreed that the department is better managed than other places they had worked and 29 agreed that supervisors knew their jobs. Yet, only 17 staff members agreed that the most qualified people had been promoted.

"What it boils down to is that when I got here, I had a bunch of supervisors who were not doing their jobs," explained Turner of the report's negative tenor. "My problem was not so much temper as impatience."

Turner said that management problems at that time had "gotten out of control" and that he "had to be strict."

As one example, Turner said his captains had "closed the door" on two-way communication between him and his lower staff levels by directing lieutenants not to speak to him. "Sure the door was closed, but it was not closed by me," he said.

Turner also said the department's morale problems have been "reduced" since the study was conducted. "And the way we've reduced them is we've addressed them," he said. "Anytime you address problems, you're going to make people angry."

Capt. Roy Lee Osborne, a lieutenant at the time of the study, said the report "accurately reflected the department at that time."

However, "if the same survey was taken again with the situation that we have now, you would have a more favorable report," he said. Turner called the TCLEOSE study "a management tool" and termed it "helpful." He said several of its recommendations are either already in effect or are in the process of implementation. Included among these are a revision of the department's directives manual, a more systematic and documented way of yearly planning, and a structural reorganization of the department.

The commission also noted a department turnover rate of 27 percent among officers for the three-year period prior to the study. The rate accounted for 134 years of police experience and did not include retirees, the study said.

The "excessive" turnover rate "could be partially related to low salaries," said the report, which went on to recommend an almost $3,000 increase in patrolmen's yearly pay.

Because of budgetary constraints, the pay raise recommendation cannot be implemented, according to City Manager Don Davis. However, the department is considering implementation of a merit pay plan in conjunction with a citywide "management by objective" program currently under study, he said.

Also, a recommendation to expand the number of patrol officers from 27 to 28 fell to the same budgetary constraints, said Davis.

Other changes that have been made at the department since the report's completion are an alteration in shift beginning and ending times; continuous monitoring of shift workloads to facilitate personnel deployment; the inclusion, when possible, of a minority representative on the officer review board; and development of a centralized records system.

Although admitting "it's been a rough two years," Turner said the success of his department is evidenced by this year's decrease in the crime rate (see related story). "All the stuff we do doesn't count unless the crime rate goes down," he said.

In addition, Turner cited Big Spring voters' recent rejection of a referendum to elect their police chief and responses on "comment cards" returned by the public as evidence of the department's continuing good community relations.

Of 45 comment cards returned to the department in the first two weeks of the program, Turner said he has received only one negative response.

Gromyko Crime

Despite his conversations with Reagan, Gromyko said he could not "draw a conclusion about practical positive changes in the foreign-policy course of the U.S. administration." He called again for actions, not words.

Without a change in U.S. policy, Gromyko asserted, "a turn for the better is impossible either in Soviet-U.S. relations or in the international situation."

N. Korea aids south

PANMUNJOM, Korea — A North Korean truck convoy stretching for miles delivered rice and other flood relief supplies to South Korea across the military demarcation line Saturday — the first time aid had crossed the line since the peninsula was partitioned in 1945.

In all, 725 truckloads of relief goods were delivered, with most of the 370 trucks in the convoy making two runs each during the first day of deliveries.

The Red Cross of Communist North Korea used trucks and ships to deliver part of a promised delivery of 7,200 tons of rice, 500,000 meters of fabric, 100,000 tons of cement and some medicine.

Sudan lifts martial rule

KHARTOUM, Sudan — President Gaafar Nimeiri on Saturday lifted the national state of emergency that he imposed in the face of growing social unrest over economic problems and government corruption five months ago.

Suna, the official Sudan news agency, said Nimeiri also suspended operation of the special martial law courts established under his April 29 emergency decree. The news agency said "radical changes in the entire judiciary" were expected within a few days.

Saturday's action was the latest in a series of conciliatory steps to defuse tensions in this impoverished East African country.

Quake shakes Greece

AGRINION, Greece — A moderate earthquake shook western Greece late Friday, but there were no reports of damages or injuries, the Athens Seismological service said today.

The service said the earthquake measured 4.2 on the Richter scale. The epicenter was 118 miles northwest of Athens, shaking this city and neighboring villages.

DUBLIN, Ireland — Two Irish navy cutters intercepted a huge consignment of Irish Republican Army weapons believed smuggled from the United States in a pre-dawn operation off Ireland's west coast early Saturday.

Ireland said the abortive gun-running operation by the outlawed IRA had "strong links" with American IRA sympathizers. He did not elaborate.

The shipment of automatic weapons, explosives and ammunition were aboard an Irish trawler seized off the rocky County Kerry coast. Five men aboard the trawler from nearby Fenit were arrested, the official said.

Tax & financial planning

TAX REFORM ACT OF 1984

On July 18, 1984, President Reagan signed into law the foot-high document called "The Tax Reform Act of 1984." The purpose of the tax act is to raise an estimated 50 billion dollars of revenue in an attempt to reduce the federal deficit. The law involves hundreds of provisions, and is so detailed and complex that it has been referred to as the "Tax Complexification Act of 1984." Here are the provisions that will affect the most individual taxpayers:

- Income averaging will benefit fewer people because the computation basis has changed.
- Below market and interest-free loans will now have income tax as well as gift tax implications.
- Property settlements in divorces will no longer have income tax consequences. Alimony rules and dependency exemption rules in divorce situations are simplified.
- Earned income credit for low income families is increased to a maximum of $525 (up from $500).
- Maximum gift and estate tax rates were scheduled to drop from 55% to 50% in 1985. The new law delays the drop. The maximum rate will remain at 55% through 1987 and will drop to 50% for 1988 and thereafter.
- The recent court decision that public housing agency bonds were exempt from federal estate tax has been reversed by statute. Such notes will now be subject to estate tax.
- The long-term capital gain and loss holding period is reduced from one year to six months for assets acquired after June 22, 1984.

Your tax planning must now be done under a new set of rules. Contact your tax advisor to learn how the new tax act applies to your individual situation.

LOOKOUT — U.S. soldiers stand beside their jeep watching West German protestors march by the Sickles Helicopter Base near Fulda Saturday. The demonstrators formed human chains in opposition to NATO military maneuvers.

Human chain

West Germans protest NATO maneuvers

FULDA, West Germany (AP) — Thousands of West Germans linked hands Saturday in a 12-mile "human chain" to protest NATO maneuvers in the strategic "Fulda Gap" region near the border of Communist East Germany.

The protest organizers said that 30,000 people took part in a noon chain fanning out in three directions around the city of Fulda to cap more than a week of anti-war rallies in eastern Hesse state.

But Fulda police spokesman Ernst-Ludwig Jung said there were 18,000 demonstrators in the chain "at most." He described the action as peaceful, but said many drivers angrily honked their horns in city traffic jams.

Antiwar activists camped around Fulda have been staging sometimes violent protests in the region in connection with NATO training exercises here and NATO autumn maneuvers elsewhere in West Germany.

The Fulda Gap, a funnel-like valley between low mountains running along the border, historically has been an invasion route into eastern or southwestern Germany. Large concentrations of NATO and Soviet bloc troops are stationed in the area of the gap.

One group of demonstrators set up a picket line at the U.S. Army's Downs Barracks in Fulda and formed a chain with another group at a nearby army helicopter base.

Jung said 150 protesters picketed an army air defense installation at Finkenbergl, west of Fulda, where vandals broke in last Tuesday and sprayed paint on three Hawk missiles.

He said 350 demonstrators gathered at an army supply depot at Grebenhain to protest what they say are U.S. chemical weapons stored at the site.

About 600 people marched to the U.S. Army's "Alpha" observation post on the East German border, 18 miles northeast of Fulda. They formed a human chain along the wire fence surround the post, which is 50 yards from the frontier.

East German soldiers watched from an observation tower, 100 yards away as the protesters hung peace signs on the American base fence, released dozens of blue balloons with peace symbols and sang songs during the 15-minute action.

American soldiers in battle gear, some carrying clubs, watched impassively from inside their base. West German police and border guards stood guard outside the fence to keep the demonstrators from approaching closer than 50 yards to the border. An army helicopter hovered overhead.

The demonstrators, who came to the Fulda area from across West Germany in buses and cars, were mostly young adults, but elderly people and children brought by their parents were also in the group.

The protesters converged on Fulda in the afternoon in sunny, mild weather for a rally outside the city's baroque cathedral, where a band and food and drink stalls added to the festival atmosphere.

On Friday, West German police arrested 188 demonstrators who infiltrated the U.S. Army's sprawling training area at Wildflecken, some 20 miles southeast of Fulda, in an effort to disrupt tank gunnery training.

On Thursday, Lt. Gen. Robert L. Wetzel, commander of the 5th Corps units that have been targeted for the protests, demanded that West Germany crack down on "anarchists and criminals" who damaged military vehicles, cut fences, spray-painted signs and threw rocks at soldiers.

Guerrillas seize AP's Peru office

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Armed commandos of a new guerrilla organization occupied the offices of The Associated Press and United Press International in Lima on Saturday, and at gunpoint forced both news agencies to send a revolutionary communique.

No violence was reported in either of the incidents.

The guerrilla group, armed with pistols, ordered two AP employees into a bathroom and at gunpoint forced a newsmen to transmit the communique in Spanish to New York.

Somoza tomb opened

MIAMI — The tomb of former Nicaraguan dictator Anastasio Somoza was broken into and his coffin removed from its resting place at a cemetery here, but his remains were not disturbed, police said Saturday.

Miami police spokesman Kenneth Underwood said Somoza's coffin was removed from its resting place at Woodlawn North cemetery and put on the floor in an apparent attempt to open it.

Controllers sue Reagan

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — A group of air traffic controllers fired after an unsuccessful strike three years ago has sued President Reagan, claiming he is illegally keeping them from being rehired.

The lawsuit filed in federal court Friday asks the Federal Aviation Administration to accept former controllers' applications and make them eligible for re-employment, said attorney Dan M. Norwood.

Reagan has said the 11,000 fired controllers can reapply for federal jobs three years after their dismissals, but not with the FAA.

Liver patient denied aid

DETROIT — A woman who doctors say will die without a liver transplant will ask a judge next week to order state officials to authorize Medicaid funds for the operation, her lawyer said Saturday.

Connie Bussler, 44, of Lincoln Park, filed suit Monday against the state Department of Social Services, Director Agnes Mary Mansour and state Medicaid Administrator Paul Allen.

The officials had refused to authorize payment for the transplant for the indigent mother of four, said attorney Jeanne McGuire.

Judge nixes AMA delay

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A federal judge has refused the American Medical Association's request that she postpone the implementation Monday of new Medicare regulations that will freeze fees for 15 months.

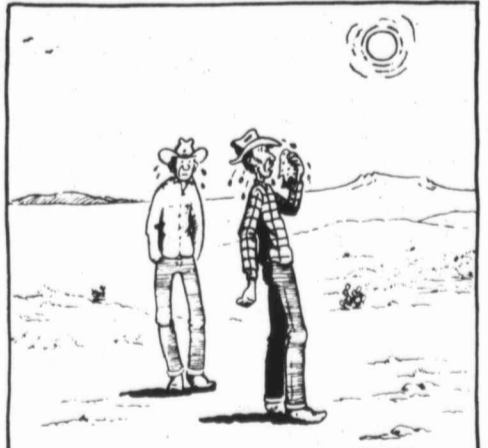

U.S. District Judge Sarah Evans Barker's action Friday came in an AMA challenge to the 1984 Deficit Reduction Act, which is an effort to curb health-care costs. She did allow some doctors more time to decide whether to participate in the federal Medicare program.

Isidore turns north

TYBEE ISLAND, Ga. — Tropical Storm Isidore, packing winds up to 50 mph, trudged slowly toward the northeast in the Atlantic Ocean today, and though it still could quickly move to land, authorities say chances it will become a hurricane have decreased.

The storm caused one death in Florida as it moved from the southern Atlantic Coast, northwest toward the Gulf Coast, then northeast back across Florida. But it had caused no reported injuries since reaching Georgia on Friday, police said.

Space detente shot from orbit

David Stockman, President Reagan's budget director, may be paying a little too much attention to counting pennies and not enough to the value of human life in his desire to cut back on SARSAT, a joint U.S.-Soviet space project.

The director of the Office of Management and Budget says that the program is too expensive. He wants to save $300 million by reducing participation by the United States until 1989.

Stockman's proposal has drawn criticism from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Commerce and State departments, the Air Force and the Coast Guard.

They point out that SARSAT (for Soviet-American Rescue Satellite), which has been in limited operation for two years using a Soviet satellite, already is credited with helping to save 247 people, of which 177 were in North America.

SARSAT receives distress signals from planes and ships that are equipped with special radio transmitters. The signals are relays to Earth stations where computers can determine the precise location of the aircraft or vessel in trouble.

In the United States, more than 200,000 civilians planes and 6,000 ships have the emergency location transmitters. The worldwide total is believed to be substantially larger, and numbers are increasing here and abroad.

Using locations pinpointed by SARSAT, resources have been able to reach people involved in plane crashes in remote areas and accidents at sea in time to save them.

A Soviet satellite has been involved in most of the rescues. The one American satellite that was launched for the system failed prematurely last June.

A replacement is to be placed in orbit in about two months and another next year. The two U.S. satellites and a second Soviet satellite would assure reliable global coverage, according to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. But Stockman wants to postpone the 1985 launch until 1989.

In addition to its humanitarian aspect, the satellite communications system is the only joint U.S.-Soviet space activity currently planned.

Stockman is trying to do his job. Economy is certainly needed. But is a humanitarian venture such as SARSAT the place to cut? Would dropping a cooperative venture with the Soviet Union, which has been fulfilling its part of the agreement, be wise?

Those questions are being considered in the White House. It could be a mistake to pull out of SARSAT.

Seeing Red

There is good news and bad news about the presidential election. The bad news is that Ronald Reagan is going to win. The good news is that Walter Mondale isn't.

With six weeks left in the campaign, political aficionados have already started heading for the exits. They cite all manner of portentous numbers — the electoral vote of the 12 largest states, Geraldine Ferraro's negative rating, the mean temperature in New Jersey in November. The most ominous is the gap between the two nominees in the polls, which by charitable estimates is 13 points and by less generous ones, 30 points.

But one number tells everything you need to know: 24.8. That, according to A.C. Nielsen, is the percentage of homes with TV sets that were turned to the premiere of the ABC series "Call to Glory" — which made it the most popular show of that week.

Now, it's hard to imagine anyone getting fired up to bomb the Russkies back to the Pleistocene era, then voting for someone who wants to negotiate with them. ABC knows its audience: The newspaper ads for the show even quote Reagan, for heaven's sake.

Or take another number: 34,286,783. That's how many dollars have been spent by moviegoers to see "Red Dawn," a right-wing fantasy about a Soviet invasion of the United States. People who are thrilled by the sight of American teen-agers stoutly guzzling animal blood are what you might call Ronald Reagan's natural constituents.

So is the director of "Red Dawn." In case you missed his point, John Milius doesn't hesitate to praise Reagan's policies, and he's sure his nightmare won't come true as long as the Big Cowboy is around: "The film sort of assumes that the administration that has been in power is more like the Carter administration." The only movie that might help Mondale is "Revenge of the Nerds."

Unfortunately, we are told, the wimp factor has influence even beyond subscribers to Soldier of Fortune magazine. Democrats fear their candidate will lose because voters regard him as — I'm serious, now — insufficiently masculine.

You know the campaign is over when Democratic bigwig Robert Strauss has to announce to the New York Times, "Mondale is sort of a man's man. He's a fisherman. He likes to sit around and have a drink in the evening with his shoes off and a cigar in his mouth with his friends. He's a hunter. He's interested in sports." (Hear that? All you guys who keep your shoes on while smoking cigars — you're pansies.) Next, Mondale will be vowing to whip Reagan's you-know-what.

One deep thinker told the Times that Mondale has to offset his "feminine" ideology with a virile style: "He must look, feel and smell as if he would not be taken to the cleaners in a poker game." So that's why the voters don't like Fritz: He doesn't smell like a president.

This is the sort of silliness you get when one candidate is getting lapped by his opponent. It's not bad enough that Mondale is so far behind Reagan in the polls; he even trails his running mate. So maybe people will vote for him because they like her? Not likely. Matched against George Bush in an ABC News-Washington Post poll, Ferraro lost 61 to 33.

South Africa's at an impasse

South Africa is a land of contrasts. Modern plants power its economy while wild animals roam its Kruger Park. A sophisticated country, its continental setting is one of chaos and provincialism. A nation desperately wanting to be a part of the world's mainstream, it is isolated, looked down upon by the free world. A republic rich in natural resources — gold, diamonds, platinum, manganese and chromium — it is not granted the prestige which normally comes from such wealth.

It's no wonder that South Africa — which prides itself in organized sports but is struck from most invitation lists; which is anxious for partners in trade but is hip deep in sanctions; which finds itself a constant target of world criticism — wants relief from world exile.

What sets South Africa apart is a formal policy of segregation of the races — apartheid.

White South Africa, the ruling race, is scared to grant equality. It is scared, literally, of numbers. A minority race sets the rules for majority non-white races. If its power were relinquished, white South Africa believes, the dislocation that is so evident in emerging African nations would destroy the neat, orderly society. It would also throw those in power out of power.

So instead of dealing with apartheid, South Africa wages a relentless public relations crusade to bring the world around to its way of thinking.

A glossy, eight-page treatise by the South African Embassy found its way to my desk last week. It heralds the emergence of the black middle-class, South African style. It is called Collo, the in-between economic zone, "the emerging class of urban black resident."

It cites a University of South Africa study comparing the percentage of income non-white South Africans spend on food with the food budgets of people in other countries. It concludes that "South African Blacks fared ... better than similar social groups in Morocco, Tanzania, Tunisia, Mauritius or Uganda. ... They fared better than families in India, Pakistan, Sri Lanka and the Philippines. They also came out looking better off than families in Spain and Poland."

The embassy also notes progress by blacks in economic standing. In three years, from 1980 to 1983, pay for blacks in mining jobs increased from Rand 117 per month to Rand 277 per month (the Rand is roughly equivalent to the U.S. dollar). But the government does not detail white salaries for comparable work.

This "evidence" of black affluence is really beside the point, anyway. Studies like these fall on deaf ears in a free society. The world — and the United States in particular — tends to look no further than to apartheid, the fact that South Africa categorizes its people by race and color, and divides rights, privileges, power and profits on that basis.

In fairness, we should look homeward before we offer patent condemnation of the South African white government. Aren't we just a tad pious? It's been less than three decades since we grappled with a system similar to South Africa's, and all the wrinkles aren't yet out of that racist mentality. Maybe it's because we're sensitive about our progress in integration that we so quickly flail South Africa for its segregation.

Because white South Africans are the minority, a turn of governmental philosophy would mean an immediate end to white power. The United States did not have to confront that situation.

South Africans point to the Rhodesian example to help make their case. When Rhodesia became Zimbabwe, the rifle barrel turned. Whites became targets because of their lack of color. Smart Rhodesian whites quickly fled, some to South Africa, where they circulate their horror stories of reverse racism.

South Africa's lifeblood does not depend on world acceptance, but its psyche, its fullness as a country, does. South Africans desperately want to be liked by the rest of the world. They don't understand why they must undo what they consider a workable, if troubled, system to accomplish that goal. Impasse.

SI HABLA ESPANOL — Luis Rios, a bilingual staff writer, has begun writing his weekly opinion column for "Around the Rim" in Spanish. His intent is to embrace the Spanish-speaking readers for whom Spanish is the second and in some cases, the primary language of the home. Of the 23,000 to 24,000 residents of Big Spring, 25 to 30 percent are Spanish-surnamed.

The material in that column will deal with the Mexican culture, the Spanish language, the Mexican community in Big Spring. ("Mexican" is still hard for me to say since I was taught "Mexican-American" was proper. But, as Luis points out, we don't call black people African-Americans or Chinese people Asian-Americans.)

Reader reaction to Luis' initial Spanish-language piece was positive. I think it will add a new dimension to the opinion columns of the Herald. And it will help us communicate, which is, after all, our business.

RAINMAKER — I may hire out as a diviner. Three times my column has been the water witch that brought nice rains to Big Spring. Most recently, it was 3 inches.

In the 10 months I've been here, I've written about the drought on three Fridays, for publication on Sundays. The first two times, it rained before my column ever made it into print; this time, the heavens waited a day to open up.

It's a strange feeling to have egg on your face while you're smiling broadly.

State fair

My father's mother had taken her five kids' best clothes and washed them in lye soap and hung them out under a brilliant sun.

My father's father had unpacked his World War I doughboy uniform and draped it over a hanger and sprinkled the wool with water to soften 20-year-old wrinkles.

He had five kids, and he had a WPA job. He got a little money each month from the UAW, the union's way of saying thanks for trying to organize a local and getting fired for it.

He couldn't buy new clothes for his kids, but on that morning my father remembers more clearly than any other, my grandfather took a few pennies and bought some brown sugar for his kids' buckwheat.

It was a special day. My father's sisters were fighting over a brush, hurrying to untangle their long, black hair. My father's brother tied up the dog so he wouldn't follow.

Early they left their worn apartment house that morning, the seven of them, my grandparents leading, my aunts straightening their dresses and trying to look pretty, my father and my uncle lagging, kicking rocks and trying to look tough.

They started out alone, the seven of them, walking south from Ross and Crutcher streets. After one mile, they joined a crowd of others. In two miles, they had become a throng, walking through the gates past empty ticket windows.

They stayed together, the seven of them, working their way down the Esplanade to the stage in front of the Hall of State. They didn't stop to look at the new buildings. There were too many people, and it was a hot day.

It was a special day. It was the first day of the Texas Centennial Exposition, and it was the day President Franklin Delano Roosevelt had come to Depression Dallas to dedicate the state fair's Art Deco park built by the WPA.

FDR stood up from his wheelchair and smiled and waved his arms at the crowd. My grandfather in his doughboy uniform saluted.

"Roosevelt said not to worry, that things were going to get better," my father remembers. "He said he was going to take care of us and that we'd never go hungry or jobless again. I was 15, but I'll never forget that day."

My father often takes me to Fair Park and explains the Art Deco architecture his father helped build and tells me about the day he saw President Roosevelt. "We were real poor. It was the Depression. We didn't have anything. But that day I felt very special."

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Rancher is living history

By LUIS RIOS
Staff Writer

STERLING CITY — W.W. Durham is what old-timers and pioneers would have called living history.

The 92-year-old rancher has seen styles change like the seasons and modern technology move America into the space age.

Durham and his wife Salye, 87, have witnessed life in Sterling County from the front steps of their home for the past 90 years.

Sterling County was a rugged frontier where the cowboy and his six-shooter ruled when Durham and his family arrived in 1895.

Almost a century later, Durham still recalls the fence wars that tore families apart and began decade-long family feuds.

"Most of the people that came out here to Sterling County were running from the law," said Mrs. Durham. "You had to be tough, rugged and self-reliant to make it here."

R.B. (Robert Benjamin) Cummins was quite a character, said Durham. Cummins was shot four times while in Sterling County, he said. Cummings, a saddler who moved to Sterling County in 1889, was the founder of the first town in the county. The town, which was 1.9 miles north of present-day Sterling City, was named after him.

"Men had notches on their gun handles for the number of people they had shot," Durham said. "There were a lot of cattle rustlers when we first came here. Back then they would hang you for horse stealing, too."

After 90 years of progress and the birth of modern technology, Durham said he has been fascinated by the invention of the car, the telephone, the computer and man landing on the moon. But all of the world's advances haven't amazed Durham as much as one particular event.

"The atmosphere has changed since those days. You get into that habit of carrying a gun. One of the most dramatic changes I have seen was when the men quit wearing their guns."

"If you did not have a gun, you were a nobody or you were a newcomer."

Durham said it has been a gradual change since his arrival in the county. Getting enough beans to eat was one of the biggest problems back then, he said.

"It (time) gets away from you," Durham said. "You don't miss a luxury until you've had one. And we did not have any. "It was an interesting life back in those days. But, by living then, it makes you appreciate things more now."

James Knight Cash Store and J.R. Chambers and Sons Dry Goods and Groceries, which were thriving businesses in the 1890s.

The town changed but at the same time remained the same. Douthit's newspaper has outlasted everyone with the possible exception of longtime rancher W.W. Durham, who has lived in Sterling County 90 years.

Durham, whose house stands a few yards from the Cummins historical marker, has a barn that once served as the old Cummins' mercantile, dry goods store, post office and saloon.

Durham said he remembers the 1910 census when Reagan, Sterling and Glasscock had a combined population of 1,056. The large landowners controlled the county back in those days, he said.

One of the more prominent landowners was R.W. Foster, Durham said.

"W.L. Foster owned a lot of land and controlled the people (during the Cummins-Sterling City feud over the county seat)," he said. "The people finally won and Sterling City became the county seat."

The Sante Fe railroad came through in 1910, Durham said. The railroad tracks were later scrapped, but the depot itself remains intact. The land for the depot was acquired only months after the completion of the railroad. A boxcar served as a depot until one could be built.

The county at one time sported 15 schools from the Hackberry School in the northern part to the Mulberry School in the south. In 1902, a $5,000 bond election was passed and a two-story schoolhouse was built. The era of the dirt floor, one-room schoolhouse became history shortly after that.

The first post office in Sterling County was at St. Elmo eight miles east of present-day Sterling City. It later gave away to Montvale in 1887, Sterling in June 1891 and finally Sterling City Dec. 1, 1891, with G.D. Hines serving as postmaster. This post office continues to serve Sterling City.

The county won national fame at one point in its history. The newspaper cartoon "Believe it or Not" printed in one of its editions that Sterling County had more windmills per acre than any other place in the world. The county had 300 windmills at the time.

"We used to have quite a few stores," Douthit said. "We had car dealerships for every major brand car. Now Sterling City is a town for a few people."

Even now Sterling County is still considered open-range country. But at one time, ranchers had to herd their cattle and sheep from dawn until after dark because fence lines were not used, said Durham.

The county is still one of the few in the state where the sheriff serves as the tax-assessor collector.

Despite being an isolated county during the pioneer days, Sterling had a saloon with dance hall girls, liquor and music, Durham said. The cowboys and ranch hands would ride into town and shoot out the lights, he added. But that was all they would do, he said. Crime was almost non-existent in the early 1900s, Durham said.

Inviting everyone over for a Sunday picnic or dinner after church was a big event, said Mrs. Durham, 87. People were more neighborly and showed it, she said.

"If someone killed a steer, they kept one half and the neighbors got the other half it," Mrs. Durham said.

"And if a boy and a girl got married, they probably wouldn't have a thing in the world except themselves."

That's how Sterling County and its people haven't changed much from their ancestors — the pioneer spirit and values still remain.

Justices to rule on school prayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court justices returning Monday for their 1984-85 term will find the school prayer issue dumped back in their laps.

Two decades after the high court banned organized prayer sessions from American public schools, a more conservative cast of justices will decide whether schools may provide a daily "moment of silence" for meditation or silent prayer.

With the wall of separation between church and state lowered by the court in recent years, the justices face two other questions on the politics of religion, a major theme in this election year. They are:

- May public school districts lease space in parochial schools and send in publicly paid teachers to conduct classes in which all or most of the pupils come from religiously affiliated schools? Lower courts invalidated such a "shared time instruction" program in Grand Rapids, Mich.

- May states protect employees from being forced to work on their religious Sabbath? A Connecticut law providing that protection was struck down as unconstitutional by the state's highest court.

Students, as always, are free to pray silently anywhere or anytime they desire, but some lower courts have ruled that schools may not establish a special time for such prayers.

The Supreme Court is reviewing an invalidated Alabama law providing a moment of silence at the start of each school day — one of three cases testing how far government may go in accommodating religion.

The Constitution's First Amendment assures religious freedom for individuals, but it also has been interpreted to require a separation of government and religion.

President Reagan favors a constitutional amendment that would allow officially sponsored sessions of spoken prayers in public schools, the type of activity the Supreme Court outlawed in 1962. Democratic presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale opposes such a measure, believing such prayer sessions are coercive rather than "voluntary" in nature.

There are 67 cases already on this term's decision docket, and by April about 90 more will be selected from the 5,000 cases to reach the court each year.

Among those on the current docket are controversies pitting the powers of police against rights of criminal suspects.

The court's 1983-84 term was marked by a dramatic swing to political and constitutional conservatism, especially in criminal justice cases. Several veteran observers contend that the justices, who for the most part exercised judicial restraint through the 1970s, have entered a period of conservative activism.

Who is elected president in November may determine whether that trend continues. Five of the court's nine justices are over 75.

Q: We are buying a home from a gentleman who is acting for his mother, in whose name the title is filed. He says the signed power of attorney is at his attorney's office in another city. How can we protect ourselves?
A: Your best protection is the advice and guidance from a real estate broker. Your broker will insist on receiving an owner's title insurance policy. With the policy in hand, it is then the insurance company's problem to determine the validity of the title, and, in your case, the seller's power of attorney. This is just one of the risks covered by a title insurance policy, at very reasonable cost. Also, this is another example a real estate broker can give peace of mind by handling the necessary legal requirements.

Senate crushes filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, in a victory for civil rights forces, voted 92-4 Saturday to crush a filibuster by conservatives against the major anti-bias bill before Congress this year.

The action limits debate on the "Civil Rights Act of 1984" and will permit a vote this week on attaching the legislation to a vital money bill needed to keep the government solvent after the new fiscal year begins Monday.

The civil rights measure has 63 co-sponsors in the 100-member Senate and already has passed the House in a slightly different form. It has the backing of virtually every major civil rights organization in the nation.

Sixty votes were needed to pass the debate-limiting motion, called "cloture," but once that threshold was passed, a score of senators who opposed the move switched their votes in favor.

Opponents of the legislation still will have one hour each to speak, and also can insist that the Senate take time-consuming roll call votes on amendments.

The vote was a significant accomplishment for chief sponsors Bob Packwood, R-Ore. and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who were able to persuade senators to attend a weekend session and to express their willingness to attach the civil rights measure to the catch-all money bill.

As a precaution against disruptions in federal operations while the debate continues, preparations were made for the Senate to pass a stopgap measure to keep most of the government solvent through Tuesday midnight. The House would be able to act quickly on the measure Monday.

The civil rights proposal aims at overturning a Supreme Court ruling in Feb. 1983 that a law banning sex discrimination at colleges receiving federal aid applied only to the specific program receiving assistance, and not the entire institution.

The measure would require recipients of federal money to comply with anti-discrimination laws even if the funds reached only one portion of the recipient organization or institution. Supporters of the proposal say it would restore the broad coverage of civil rights laws that existed before the court decision.

Crowd Behavior II

Okay sports fans, here it is — the one column that has been kept under wraps until now!

It's titled, "Crowd Behaviour II," and it's an old standard to be dusted off and used when, in the course of human events it becomes necessary to chew a little on fans.

Don't take this wrong, but fans should be seen and heard. And they weren't heard often enough when the Steers mixed things up with Midland.

It seems folks that did make the trip to Midland had been reading, "The Semi-Official Dallas Cowboys Fans Handbook." Sure it was cold and slightly damp, but that's no reason to sit like a bump on a log, yelling only when it's convenient to get the blood pumping again. And it's certainly no reason to leave in the third quarter on account of a little mist and cold, especially when your team is down by only 14-7.

Cheerleaders usually are charged with charging up a crowd, but you don't have to wait and be given instructions — most of us are grown up and old enough to know more than our share of yells, chants and the like.

Some will argue that it's no fun to yell when your team is behind, but the young men on the field deserve even more encouragement when they are behind.

Tha previous several paragraphs have been short, sweet and relatively gentle (this column is a standard which is subject to changes on tone). The real stickler to this fan "enthusiasm" lies in the numbers game — or rather the lack of them.

The stands will probably be full Friday when Permian comes calling because the Panthers are the team everyone in 4-5A loves to get up for. It remains to be seen, however where the fans will be in the home games remaining after that (Midland Lee and Abilene).

It was impressive to see a fair-sized crowd on hand at Big Spring's first home game of the year against Estacado (maybe a color television should be given away at every home contest). The crowd slacked off somewhat for Monterey and Friday's attendance was terrible. Parents, brothers, sisters and assorted relatives will always be there, but the stands were hardly filled to overflowing. Yea, Midland's side was not filled to the brim, but since when does Big Spring have two high schools to split its loyalty?

The young men on this year's team deserve better than half-empty stands before which to perform. Friday's game with Permian is supposed to be a night when the Quarterback Club tries once again to "fill the stadium" and the home side with a goldfish tint. It's hoped that those devoted enough will wear something gold to over-ride Permian's black.

It's hoped that more than a few hundred will show up as well.

Texas routs Penn St. 28-3

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Terry Orr bolted 51 yards for a first-quarter touchdown and Todd Dodge hit William Harris with an 84-yard scoring pass, third longest aerial in Texas history, one period later as the second-ranked Longhorns overcame four first-half turnovers and whipped fourth-ranked Penn State 28-3 Saturday.

The long-distance strikes, plus a swift, hard-hitting defense that kept Penn State under wraps most of the way, enabled Texas to withstand two interceptions and two lost fumbles in the first half and boost its record to 2-0. Penn State lost for the first time after winning its first three games.

The Nittany Lions were the ones who played giveaway in the third period, losing three fumbles. Texas recovered two of them deep in Penn State territory and fullback Jerome Johnson, who rushed 15 times for 72 yards while playing with a fiberglass cast protecting a broken bone in his left wrist, scored on runs of two yards at 9:23 of the third period and a three-yarder on the first play of the final quarter.

Strange takes large lead in LaJet Classic

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Curtis Strange, heavily bundled in layers of sweaters and foul weather gear, coaxed a 5-under-par 67 from blustery winds and biting cold and moved into a six-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $350,000 LaJet Golf Classic.

Strange, who has collected more than $1 million but only one title in the years since 1960, finished three trips over the wind-raked Fairway Oaks Golf Club course in 202, 14 shots under par.

Strange entered the day's play in a tie for the lead with Canadian Dan Halldorson, but was two shots back when they reached the turn in winds that gusted well over 20 mph and reduced the wind-chill factor to the mid-20s.

Strange, however, made up five shots on the next five holes — including two-shot swings on both the 10th and 14th — and was in command the rest of the way.

He capped the effort, his second consecutive 67 in brutal weather, with a 2-iron second shot to the green on the par-5 18th, and dropped the 18-20 foot putt for an eagle-3.

That finished off a back nine of 31 and placed him in a commanding position going into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $63,000 first prize.

Halldorson, needing a big check from this event to secure his exemption for next season, had a 73 and dropped back into a tie for second at 208 with Vance Heafner. Heafner had a third-round 69, including a string of three consecutive birdies beginning on the ninth.

Another shot back at 209 were John Cook, Hubert Green, Mark O'Meara and Brett Upper. Cook and Green each had a 69, O'Meara and the rookie upper 71s.

The group at 210, 6-under par and a distant eight shots back with 18 holes to go, included Ronnie Black, Andy Bean, Rick Dalpos and the Simpsons, Tim and Scott (no relation). Black, Bean and Scott Simpson had 70s. Dalpos closed up with a 68. Tim Simpson shot 69.

Tom Watson, seeking to nail down a record sixth Player of the Year title, made up some ground with a 69 but was 10 shots back at 212.

Number one team falls

Syracuse turn Huskers orange

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Syracuse, still smarting from last week's 19-0 loss to Rutgers, punished Nebraska defensively Saturday and rode Todd Norley's passing to a 17-9 upset of the No. 1 ranked team in the nation.

Both teams, playing before 47,280 in the Carrier Dome, emerged from the game with 3-1 records.

Norley's 40-yard touchdown pass to Mike Siano midway through the third quarter gave the Orangemen their first lead at 10-7.

Siano, one of four receivers Norley used in a 9 of 18 passing day for 106 yards, said he was still thinking about the pain of the Rutgers loss which resulted from seven Syracuse turnovers.

The Syracuse win snapped Nebraska's 23-game regular season win streak and the Orangemen held the Cornhuskers to their lowest point total since their 1981 season opener.

Norley directed the team to a 224-214 edge in total offense, despite a 13-yard loss when punter Jim Fox ran out of the end zone on the final play of the game.

Syracuse coach Dick MacPherson, who saw his Orangemen struggle through two losing seasons before a 6-5 campaign in 1983, which was marred by a 63-7 drubbing by Nebraska, relaxed for the first time in a week.

The Cornhuskers had led from halfway through the first period on the strength of a 25-yard toss from quarterback Craig Sundberg to tight Todd Frain, but Syracuse closed the gap to 7-3 before halftime when Don McAulay booted a 24-yard field goal.

The Orangemen put the lid on one of their most stirring upsets with 1:29 remaining in the game as fullback Harold Gayden knifed into the end zone from 1 yard out. The last time Syracuse defeated a highly-ranked team was 1967 when it upset fourth-ranked UCLA 32-14.

Safety Ron Hobby, who intercepted a pass which killed one Nebraska drive in the second quarter, recovered a fumble in the fourth quarter to end another Nebraska drive. Tackle Tim Green crushed Sundberg twice for sacks which terminated Nebraska possessions in the second half.

The Cornhuskers, who had outscored three opponents 122-17 and were averaging 532 yards total offense per game, played the game without starting tailback Jeff Smith, who sprained his ankle last week in a 42-3 rout of UCLA.

Nebraska also lost starting fullback Tom Rathman for the first half when he was knocked unconscious on the opening kickoff.

The much-maligned Syracuse offense, averaging just over 12 points per game, showed the first signs of the stunning triumph in the making

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — South Carolina played inspired defense and got a fourth quarter boost from backup quarterback Mike Hold to score a shocking 17-10 upset win over 12th-ranked Georgia here Saturday night.

Hold, a junior college transfer from Tempe, Ariz., rocketed a 62-yard pass to Ira Hillary with just over eight minutes remaining to break up a second-half defensive duel. Hold carried in from two yards out to notch the winning points, as the majority of the crowd of 74,325 went wild.

The Gamecocks, now 3-0, last beat the Bulldogs in 1979. The Gamecocks had to thank starting quarterback Allen Mitchell for a 10-3 halftime lead. But Georgia's monstrous defensive line seemed to shake Mitchell in the second half.

Mitchell ended up with eight completions in 14 attempts with one interception for 107 yards, while Hold hit all three of his passes for 88 yards.

After two errant Mitchell pitch-outs — including one recovered by Georgia, Gamecock coach Joe Morrison brought in Hold.

The momentum had switched to Georgia, now 2-1, in the third quarter as the patented Bulldog running attack, led by Tron Jackson and Andre Smith, picked apart the South Carolina defense.

Georgia quarterback Todd Williams passed for a spectacular touchdown in the corner of the end zone to receiver Jimmy Hockaday with 5:16 left in the quarter to tie the score at 10-all. Williams finished with 10 completions of 20 attempts for 125 yards.

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Steve Sewell combined for 295 yards in rushing and receiving, including a 79-yard touchdown pass, to lead the seventh-ranked Oklahoma Sooners to a 24-6 victory Saturday over Kansas State.

The error-plagued Sooners, now 4-0 and 1-0 in the Big Eight Conference, accumulated 464 yards in total offense, including 268 yards rushing, but lost three fumbles and had two passes intercepted.

Sewell is a senior who, because of injuries in the Sooner backfield, was the only player starting Saturday who was listed in Oklahoma's pre-season two-deep depth chart. He had 141 yards rushing at halftime on 16 carries — already more than his previous high of 107 yards gained against Kansas in 1981. He finished with 153 yards on 24 carries, and six receptions for 142 yards. Oklahoma quarterback Danny Bradley hit on nine of 15 passes for 189 yards. He also scored on a 22-yard run late in the fourth quarter.

Oklahoma kicker Tim Lashar scored on a 23-yard field goal.

Kansas State's Steve Willis hit on field goals of 48 and 37 yards. Each of the scores by the Wildcats, 1-3 and 0-1, followed fumbles by Oklahoma freshman running back Lydell Carr.

But Oklahoma's defense shut down Kansas State, holding the Wildcats to 2 yards rushing and 101 yards passing.

Kansas State quarterbacks Donnie Campbell and Randy Williams finished 11 for 31 in passing.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dalton Hilliard scored on a pair of 2-yard runs and the Louisiana State defense shut down Southern Cal as the Tigers downed the 15th-ranked Trojans 23-3 Saturday in a non-conference football game.

Hilliard, a bullish 5-foot-8, 187-pound junior, put the Tigers on top to stay with his first touchdown run with 4:45 remaining in the first quarter.

He tallied again midway through the second period to give LSU a 14-3 advantage. Both his touchdowns capped LSU drives that began with the recovery of Trojan fumbles.

The victory gave LSU a 3-0-1 record, and the Trojans are now 2-1.

The Tigers' defense, spearheaded by nose guard Henry Thomas and linebacker Shawn Burks, victimized Southern Cal freshman quarterback Kevin McLean for two interceptions and a fumble recovery.

McLean, making his first college start, completed just nine of 20 throws for 64 yards. He became the Trojans' No. 1 quarterback last week when Sean Salisbury went down with a knee injury in Southern Cal's 6-3 victory over Arizona State.

LSU quarterback Jeff Wickersham, a junior who now ranks as the school's second-leading career passer, completed 14 of 27 throws for 171 yards against Southern Cal, including a 35-yard touchdown toss to Glenn Holt late in the third period.

The Tigers' other points came on Juan Betanzos' 46-yard field goal in the third quarter.

Southern Cal's only score was a 22-yard field goal by Frank Jordan that gave the Trojans a short-lived lead 3:23 into the contest.

Landry faces ex-student in Ditka

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's teacher against pupil in Chicago Sunday but teacher Tom Landry wants it known that pupil Mike Ditka has his own tricks these days.

"Mike is a good football coach and has matured as a person. He hasn't broken many tennis racquets lately like he used to," said Landry, who coached Ditka for four years as a player, then hired him as an assistant.

"Chicago reflects Mike's personality. It's a tough, hard-nosed team. When you go against the Bears, you'd better tighten your helmet."

The meeting of Ditka's Bears and Landry's Dallas Cowboys brings together two 3-1 teams. Chicago leads the National Football Conference's Central Division and Dallas is tied for the top in the NFC East with the New York Giants.

TCU, the nation's leading offensive team and hoping to defeat the Mustangs for the first time in 13 years, came back on Anthony Gully's 22-yard touchdown pass to tight end Dan Sharp.

HOUSTON (AP) - Louisville quarterback Ed Rubbert rallied the Cardinals to two fourth-quarter touchdowns, and Phil Ellis kicked a 22-yard field goal with 20 seconds to play for a 30-28 upset over the Houston Cougars Saturday night.

After TCU's score with 4:49 to play, the stung Mustangs charged from their own 23 to put the game away on Reggie Dupard's 25-yard scoring dash with 1:31 to play.

Trailing 28-27 after a two-point conversion attempt failed with 3:49 to play, Louisville got in position for the winning kick after Rubbert completed a 48-yard pass to Ernest Givins to the Houston 20 with less than a half minute left in the game.

SMU jumped ahead 3-0 on a 32-yard field goal by Esteve but TCU's Clinton Brown returned the ensuing kickoff 79 yards to the Mustang 21. From there, TCU worked the ball to the Mustang 4 but had to settle for Ken Ozee's 26-yard field goal.

Ron Davenport, who scored two touchdowns, ran nine yards to the Houston 6 prior to Ellis' game-winner.

The Mustangs confused the Horned Frog offense by using flanker Morris as a wingback. He caught 5 passes for 120 yards and rushed 7 times for 53 yards.

The victory snapped a 10-game losing streak for Louisville, now 1-3, which trailed the Cougars 28-7 early in the third quarter. Houston fell to 1-2.

CINCINNATI (AP) - A first-inning fielding error by Houston center fielder Kevin Bass sparked a three-run Cincinnati rally that helped rookie pitcher Jay Tibbs earn his fourth straight victory Saturday as the Reds defeated the Astros 4-1.

inning as the Toronto Blue Jays edged the Milwaukee Brewers 5-4 Saturday.

Tibbs, 6-2, scattered six hits for his third complete game in 14 starts. He walked four and struck out three, losing his shutout when Terry Puhl slammed his ninth homer in the sixth inning.

With one out in the first Pete Rose singled off Houston's starter Joe Niekro, 16-12. Dave Parker walked and Cesar Cedeno lined an RBI single to center. Bass let the ball get by him for an error, sending Parker home and Cedeno to third. Cedeno scored on Wayne Krenchicki's sacrifice fly.

Consecutive singles by Duane Walker, Krenchicki and Ron Oester gave the Reds a run in the fourth.

Cocanower walked pinch-hitter Rick Leach and Manrique followed with a single off the glove of third baseman Willie Lozado to score Upshaw with the go-ahead run.

A's 6, ROYALS 2

Dave Stieb, 16-8, picked up his 11th complete game of the season. Robin Yount's 16th homer of the season and fourth hit of the day gave the Brewers a 4-3 lead.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Chris Codiroli pitched a seven-hitter and Carney Lansford hit two doubles to lead the Oakland A's past the Kansas City Royals 6-2 Saturday.

The Blue Jays had taken a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning off Bob McClure. Johnson opened with his 16th homer of the season, a towering drive to left off McClure.

Steve Balboni hit his 28th homer of the year to lead off the fifth, the second highest total in Royals' history. Codiroli, 6-4, walked none and struck out three.

Jesse Barfield then walked and went to second on Upshaw's sacrifice bunt. After Buck Martinez flied out, Garth Iorg doubled to score Barfield and Alfredo Griffin followed with a run-scoring single to center.

Lansford drove in the A's first run off Brett Saberhagen, 10-11, with a first-inning sacrifice fly after Rickey Henderson led off with a walk and stole second and third. Mickey Tettleton tripled and scored on Donnie Hill's single to give Oakland a 2-0 lead in the second.

The Brewers scored one run their half of the fourth when Yount scored from third on Bobby Clark's ground out down the first-base line.

Henderson drew a one-out walk, advanced to third on Lansford's second double of the game, and scored on Dwayne Murphy's sacrifice fly for a 3-1 A's lead in the bottom of the fifth.

Milwaukee tied the game 3-3 in the sixth on Roy Howell's two-run triple to the right field corner.

Tony Phillips' two-run double with two out in the sixth capped the A's scoring.

CHICAGO (AP) - Jody Davis drove in three runs with a pair of singles and Ryne Sandberg collected four hits to give him 200 on the season Saturday, leading the National League East champion Chicago Cubs to a 9-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Dennis Eckersley, 10-8, allowed five hits and one run in the five innings. Davis drove in two runs to cap a four-run first inning off Danny Cox, 9-11, and he also singled in a run in the sixth.

Sandberg had three singles and a double for the Cubs.

Bucks trade Johnson and two others to LA

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Marques Johnson of the Milwaukee Bucks and two other veteran players were traded Saturday to the Los Angeles Clippers for forward Terry Cummings and two guards, the National Basketball Association team announced.

the Year for 1982-83, was the Clippers' first round draft pick in 1982.

The Bucks also sent Junior Bridgeman and Harvey Catchings to the Clippers for Craig Hodges and Rickey Pierce.

He led the team in scoring and rebounding last season, averaging 22.9 points per game and 9.6 rebounds.

The deal was announced by John Steinmiller, the Bucks' vice president of business operations. Coach Don Nelson was not available for comment.

Cummings missed four games at the beginning of the season in a contract dispute and eight more games for what was later diagnosed as arrhythmia (irregular heart-beat). His condition is now under control with medication.

"You kid around about being traded, and you say it really doesn't matter as long as you play," Catchings said. "But I've had many good years in Milwaukee, and it's kind of tough to deal with the reality."

Catchings and Bridgeman had mixed feelings about the trade.

"I've put in a lot of long, hard years here," said the 6-foot-7 Johnson, an all-star forward who played college ball at the UCLA.

"You kid around about being traded, and you say it really doesn't matter as long as you play," Catchings said. "But I've had many good years in Milwaukee, and it's kind of tough to deal with the reality."

Johnson, 28, entering his eighth NBA season, averaged 21 points per game with the Bucks. He ranks third in scoring and rebounding on the team's all-time career list.

Said Bridgeman: "I realize this is part of the game. I understand that. But when you spend half your life in one place. It's a funny feeling to go through."

Cummings, a 6-9 standout at DePaul and the NBA's Rookie of Pierce, 6-5, a two-year pro from Rice, was acquired by the Clippers in a trade with Detroit for future considerations on Oct. 17, 1983.

Last season, he averaged 9.9 points per game.

coaching a long time and you're only as good as your next game."

The Monday night game pits Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

The Super Bowl champion Raiders are also 4-0 and are going to Denver trying for the first 5-0 start in their 25-year history against the 3-1 Broncos.

Chicago's biggest problem against Dallas may be finding a quarterback. Ditka hopes to have his regular, Jim McMahon, who has missed the last two games with a broken throwing hand and a bruised back. But if McMahon's not ready, Ditka says he probably won't go with Bob Avellini, who had an interception returned for a touchdown in Seattle last week.

But they've been living on the brink, pulling out a win in the final minute the past two weeks against Kansas City and San Diego.

That leaves him with either third-stringer Rusty Lisch, who also threw an interception for a touchdown in Seattle or Steve Fuller, who would have to be brought off injured reserve.

Denver Coach Dan Reeves worries most about the Raiders' defense and the ability of cornerbacks Lester Hayes and Mike Haynes to cover one on one, while the Raiders' Tom Flores worries as much about the scrambling abilities of Broncos' quarterback John Elway as his passing.

"I hope McMahon plays, but I don't know," said Ditka. "If not, it will be somebody else. Who? I don't know."

"He's one of their top runners," says Flores.

St. Louis, 2-2, goes into its game with Miami worried about the condition of running back O.J. Anderson, still questionable with a nagging hamstring injury. But the Cards can replace Anderson with Stump Mitchell, who has gained 221 yards in 25 carries for a 9.1 yard average in relief.

Coach Bill Walsh of San Francisco, another 4-0 team, thinks the same way as the 2-2 Falcons come to town with the NFL's leading rusher in Gerald Riggs, who has picked up 483 yards in four games since taking over for the injured William Andrews.

Miami Coach Don Shula, meanwhile, is worried about the law of averages - his team's unbeaten record.

"We're not surprised we're 4-0 but we know that 4-0 can be 4-4 with a run of misfortune and injuries," says Walsh. But so far, San Francisco has overcome its injuries - Matt Cavanaugh threw three touchdown passes against Philadelphia last week in relief of Joe Montana and Walsh is confident he can repeat if Montana, listed as probable for Sunday, can't make it.

"We're happy about being 4-0, but there's only a quarter of the season gone," he says. "I've been

Wolves, Coyotes, 'Buffs remain undefeated

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

Colorado City, Forsan and Borden County remained the only undefeated teams in the Big Spring area after four weeks of gridiron wars.

COLORADO CITY proved once again that it's tough to defend versus a balanced offense as the Wolves rolled to an impressive 34-13 win over Abilene Wylie.

Coach Tom Ramsey's Wolves garnered 143 yards rushing and 220 passing as C-City blew open a tight ballgame at halftime. Again Wolves senior quarterback Doug Chitsey had a banner night connecting on 13 of 22 passes for four touchdowns.

Tight end Perry Conner also had a big night with three catches for 120 yards, including a 72 yard touchdown. Junior Sammy Rivera added 118 yards in 20 carries.

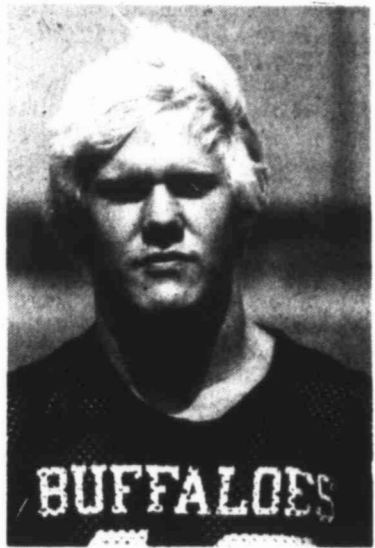

"It was a good win," said Ramsey. "Wylie has a good team, but we took control in the second half. We adjusted our pass rush and they made one first down."

"The only bad thing is that we put the ball on the ground on a pitch, and our quarterback got sacked. It was the first time this season."

BORDEN COUNTY needed a late quarter touchdown by Chris Cooley to defeat Weimert 26-20, raising their record to 4-0.

Cooley was the workhorse for the

ROBERT GUERRA

Coyotes rushing for 248 yards in 38 tries. He also scored four TD's and intercepted a pass.

Defensive stalwarts for Borden County were Robin Hood, Tommy Soto and Kirby Williams.

FORSAN used a dominating rushing attack to drum Rankin 40-8, raising the Buffaloes record to 4-0.

Unlike the contest last week versus Robert Lee, Forsan coach Jan East was pleased with his team's performance. "We played three real good quarters of football," said East. "The third quarter was bad because we two times and allowed them to score."

The Forsan rushing game had a good night led by Mitch Hays' 188 yards in 20 carries and three touchdowns. Quarterback Todd East completed three of four passes for 35 yards and one touchdown. He also scored a TD himself.

East also had a field day from his linebacking position, making 15 tackles while intercepting two passes. Coach East also had praise for linebacker Gary Little and safety Rodney McMillian.

"I knew we had a good team," said East when asked about his team's success. "I just didn't know how well we would come along. Our defense has played well this season. It has given up three touchdowns and two of them came on turnovers."

COAHOMA won its second consecutive game with a 28-6 victory over previously unbeaten Big Lake.

The Bulldogs defense excelled as Big Lake's only score came on a pass play late in the contest.

"We played pretty good football Friday night," said Coahoma mentor Bruce Mitchell. "It's the first time in three years since I've been here that I've really seen the kids sell out."

The Bulldog passing game played an important role in the win as John Swinney found receivers Gary Vaughn and Brian Calaway for six completions for over 130 yards.

"Our passing game is getting better but we still need work. We dropped at least three passes."

Mitchell credited defensive tackles Shawn Justiss and Scott Waranke with having excellent games.

STANTON got a convincing 22-8 win over Ozona, upping the Buffaloes record to 2-1-1.

Coach Dale Ruth's squad once again got their running game in gear as it racked up 185 on the ground.

Quarterback Kevin Glaspie turned a fine performance completing 8 of 18 passes for 113 yards. Derrick Sorley and Wayne DeLao combined for five catches for 90 yards.

All-European final on tab for World Match Play golf

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — Severiano Ballesteros of Spain and West Germany's Bernhard Langer qualified Saturday for an all-European final in the $183,000 World Match Play Golf Championship.

Ballesteros reached Sunday's final, his third in five years, with a crushing 9 and 8 victory over American Ben Crenshaw, who never got his game together and lost one of the most one-sided matches in the 21-year history of the tournament.

Langer, by contrast, advanced to the final for the first time, edging defending champion Greg Norman of Australia 2 and 1 in a close match.

First place is worth $54,000. Norman will play Crenshaw for third place.

Ballesteros, the match play champion in 1981 and 1982, never needed to play anywhere near his best to beat an off-form Crenshaw.

"I did not win the holes today, Ben lost them," Ballesteros said after hammering the U.S. Masters champion.

In the 1981 final, Ballesteros beat Crenshaw on the 36th hole. This time, he destroyed the Texan, who fired a miserable 78 (6-over par) in the morning and had a nightmare day with his approach shots, invariably missing the green.

Ballesteros was 6-up after 18 holes, quickly stretched that lead to seven on the 21st and needed only six more holes to complete the round. "This was definitely not the Masters champion I know," said Ballesteros. "If he had played the way he usually does, it would have been far closer."

Crenshaw improved in the afternoon, despite hitting one shot into a pond, but by that time was well beaten.

His one moment of inspiration came at the 27th hole which he needed to win to stay alive.

After hitting his second shot into the bunker, he took a sand wedge and chipped out straight into the hole 90 feet away.

But defeat was not far off. The likeable Texan had to win all the remaining holes to stay in contention. When the next was halved, a dejected Crenshaw was out.

"I did not putt well, I did not hit the ball well and I had no luck. I struggled to find something all day and it never came," Crenshaw said.

"My timing was off and a lot of the time I did not feel I had the right club in my hand."

Crenshaw has had minimal success since winning the Masters in Augusta, Ga., in April.

"I've become accustomed to playing poorly," he said. "I handed Sevy too many holes."

The big-hitting Norman, who won in 1980, had hoped that the overnight rain which softened up the course would be to his advantage.

But Langer matched the Australian drive for drive and outplayed his opponent on the greens.

The blond West German never was behind and won crucial holes at the 17th and 18th in the morning to go into lunch 3-up.

The defending titlist cut the deficit when he missed a hole in one by just 18 inches at the 20th but fell back again three holes later when he took two shots to get out of a bunker and then two-putted.

With the title slipping away from him, Norman saved par with a 13-foot putt at the 30th.

Two down with two to play, the Australian missed a marvelous chance to take the match to a last hole when he chose to pitch and run from off the front of the green, but hesitated in the stroke and landed some 25 feet from the pin.

His putt squirmed round the lip of the hole, but stayed out and his chance of a third world match play title was over.

Norman blamed his defeat on "pathetic putting" in the middle of the afternoon round.

"I still felt I could win the tournament at the halfway mark but obviously did not putt well and when that happens, you don't deserve to win," said Norman.

Langer said, "Those last two holes in the morning were very important. I was only 1-up after 16 and that is hardly any advantage with 20 holes to go."

Foreign student adapts to Texas

By LISA SWINNEY
Our lifestyle is taken for granted here in America, in Texas, and BSHS. Shock was one of the first things we felt at some of the outlandish ideas being introduced into our education system at the beginning of the school year.

MARIANNE JORGENSEN

But, these changes are of no consequence compared to what a student from a foreign country might feel. Such is the case with Marianne Jorgensen, foreign exchange student from Denmark.

Living in another country brings many new experiences, along with a little homesickness.

I attended a football game with Marianne one Friday. It was her first football game. The noise and excitement fascinated her. By the middle of the game, she'd caught on enough to join the crowd in their cheering.

Another new experience for Marianne was the Howard County Fair, which enforced the opinion she had gotten of Texas from westerns she had viewed.

"You all talk like cowboys and it is difficult for me to understand, especially this word 'ya'll,'" Marianne said.

Though changes in our school seem strict, to her they seem liberal.

"In Denmark, there are no electives, but we get more absences, more than 10 days. We are permitted to be absent 25 percent of the year. If you are absent more, you may not take final exams."

Without final exams, you are sure to fail in Big Spring and in Denmark.

Marianne has gotten involved while in BSHS, being French club vice president. French is one of the five languages she knows.

Also new to BSHS is speech and debate teacher Chuck Steadmond.

Steadmond says, "Since I have been here, I have enjoyed the people."

The last weekend of October is the first theatre, speech and debate tournament.

Steadmond says, "We will win. I am looking for a good year."

A good year this will be for all enrolled at BSHS. Students are adapting well to the changes they are faced with; but then, we always have been able to cope in whatever we are challenged with. We are doers, strivers and most of all tryers.

Homecoming Queen nominees and their escorts were seniors, LeeAnn Smith and Tom Thomson, juniors Kristi Evans and Jason Donaghe, sophomores, Kerry Rawls and Lance Soles and freshman Kim Evans and Byron McElreath.

Last week the student body participated in various homecoming activities. These consisted of "Sock it to 'em day," "Be cool day," "Tie 'em up day," and "Black and white day."

Student Council representatives from each class were chosen last week. They are seniors Danielle Clere, Tony Miranda, Lane Salvato, and Brandon Wooten.

Juniors are Cheryl Boydston, Jason Donaghe, Lisa Evans, Rodney McMillan, Tracy Painter, Bert Patterson, and Tina Sterner.

The sophomore are Letty Martin, Lance Soles,

School pictures will be taken Oct. 2 and 3 at Elbow, at the high school and junior high school. Senior portraits will be taken the morning of Oct. 2. Seniors will be getting their group picture taken also, dress suits and dresses are requested.

There will be no school Monday. Teachers will be having in-service.

There will be a meeting for all students interested in yearbook staff as an after-school activity on Wednesday morning, Oct. 3, in room 18.

Those students who have ordered a yearbook but have not picked it up need to do so in the following week before school in room 18.

The junior high will be playing on Thursday, Oct. 4, in O'Donnell at 6 p.m. The junior varsity will be playing directly after the junior high game. The varsity plays Oct. 5 against O'Donnell at 8 p.m. in Forsan.

Football teams score wins

Congratulations Goliad football teams! Both A and B teams played against Snyder Sept. 20. The A team won 30-0 and the B team won 6-0.

Mrs. Bettie Cox's business math classes had a poster contest demonstrating the difference between needs and wants. The fifth period group received the grand prize. Other students who placed second and third were Liron Caplan, Dustin Whiteside, Tom James, Lance

Fund raising projects begin

As the school year progresses, many clubs and organizations have started fund raising projects.

One such group, F.H.A., is selling Austrian crystal. For each item the girls sell, they get a point. The girls with the most points will go to the F.H.A./HERO state convention.

Another organization, the F.F.A., also has various fund raising projects. One of which is selling sausage, bacon and ham. This is a fun project that everyone seems to enjoy.

The Sands student council is selling birthday and anniversary calendars in order to finance homecoming activities. Ex-students and their dates are cordially invited to attend the dance following the football game against the Wilson Mustangs.

Coahoma

by JOEY NIXON

Homecoming is big occasion

Homecoming week in Coahoma is always a big occasion. The high school started out the week with "sock day" on Tuesday, "Tie day" on Wednesday, "Bag Day" on Thursday and "Red and White Shade 'em out" day on Friday.

Because the Bonfire was rained out, Tuesday, Sept. 25, the date was moved to Oct. 9, the last Tuesday before the first district game.

The Homecoming Queen and Football "Beau" were nominated Thursday the 27th by the student body. The Homecoming Court consisted of Valerie Calaway, Stephanie Dobbs, Gina Hudson, Natalie Grant and Rita Uranga. On Thursday, Sept. 27, Rita Uranga was elected Homecoming Queen from among the nominated Homecoming Court.

Other honors selected Sept. 27 were Football Hero, John Swinney; Football sweetheart, Gina Hudson; Pep Squad Beau, Tommy White.

The week ending Friday the 28th is the end of the first six weeks, report cards should be handed out Thursday or Friday, Oct. 4th or 5th.

It is suggested that all college bound seniors take the ACT/SAT college entrance examinations. Please start making arrangements to take the test. For more information please contact Larry Hudson, Coahoma High School Guidance Counselor.

Symphony to p

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The artistic director of the Toledo Symphony's ensemble plans to feed factory workers some Bach and Beethoven with their lunch in an effort to win converts to classical music.

Michael Dicker organized the series of cafeteria concerts to begin next week.

Dicker said he came up with the idea while playing with a West German orchestra. Classical music concerts there are often held alongside production lines to accompany workers, he said.

"I became well aware that many people who listen to all different kinds of music are for some reason prejudiced against classical music," Dicker said. "All it takes is breaking down this preconceived idea that it's just for long-hairs or belongs in a museum."

Dicker's group will play tunes from ragtime to theater classics in the first concert at the Teledyne CAE manufacturing plant.

The brown bag concert series is funded by a grant from the Ohio Arts Council and the Arts Commission of the Greater Toledo Area.

THE CHEMICAL PEOPLE

Update

The Chemical Awareness Committee of the Chemical People Project has the task of educating the public about what they and the other committees of the CPP are doing to relieve our own alcohol and drug abuse problems.

This week the Chemical Awareness Committee has begun distribution of Big Spring High School Steers Collectors Cards. Thirty of the Varsity football players have made a public statement against drug and alcohol abuse: on the collectors cards, on radio public service announcements, and soon to be seen on local TV public service announcements. The wallet size collectors cards have the individual steer pictures with a statement from the player on one side and a full team picture on the other side of the card.

There are eighteen cards, one a collectors list card so the collector can be sure to get one of each card or trade cards with classmates (or other collectors). These cards are available free at the following merchants (who are thanked for their support of this project):

Newsom's, Kelly's, Baskin Robbins, Mity Mart, Professional Pharmacy, Penney's, Faye's Flowers, Kid's Shoppe, Gibbs and Weeks, Big Spring Athletics, Malone-Hogan Hospital, Security State Bank, and Taco Villa.

CPP applauds the Steers for taking a strong public stand against drug and alcohol abuse. Members of this committee will be distributing some of the cards at the next home game. BEGIN YOUR COLLECTION TODAY!

Doonesbury devotees celebrate

MIAMI (AP) — About 500 "Doonesbury" devotees — some wearing Hawaiian shirts, love beads and football helmets in imitation of their favorite characters — ignored rain Saturday to celebrate the resumption of the Pulitzer Prize-winning comic strip after a 20-month recess.

The "National Welcome Back Doonesbury Party" honored the return of the comic strip and its creator Garry B. Trudeau, who put down his pen in January 1983 to take a breather and let his college-age characters move from the attitudes of the 1960s to the 1980s. "Doonesbury translates a lot of formal rigid rhetoric into language people can understand," said Seth Gordon, co-chairman of the "National Welcome Back Doonesbury Party." The return is the "most important event in the last 24 months in the country," Gordon said. "Politically, it's one of the few things that will make the presidential campaign real to a lot of people." "I've always been a campus radical," joked Bill Dobson, 29, whose attire of jeans, a purple turtleneck sweater, beads and a black arm band won him the Mark Slackmeyer lookalike contest.

A fine time for rhyme

Famous five-liner writes book of limericks

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — There once was a man named McKnight, Who wrote limericks for his delight. The verses he'd scroll Were both risque and droll. He should've been famous, all right. John P. McKnight may not achieve fame, but he has amassed enough memories and rhymes in almost 50 years of writing and collecting to fill a book — precisely what he's doing. "I've had a love affair with language since I was 3," said McKnight, who has been inspired by everything from a U.S. ambassador to a leaky toilet. "Sometimes they come to me full-blown. Five lines, just 'bang, bang, bang,' like that. And if I don't get to a typewriter immediately, or to a pencil, they're gone," he said. "Sometimes I get the idea and it doesn't work out, so I write down what I've got and then it may be days, weeks, months or even years later that I finally get it polished up."

McKnight, 76, a former foreign correspondent who speaks Spanish, Italian, Portuguese and French, was working for the United States Information Agency in Rome in 1953 when Clare Boothe Luce was appointed ambassador to Italy. "Four days before she arrived, why I was told to take over the job of doing public relations for her, too," he said. "I had the language and I knew the correspondents." Ms. Luce and actress Gina Lollobrigida were guests of honor at a "very dress-up affair" thrown by the foreign press association on the ambassador's first New Year's in Italy, McKnight said. "And the two ladies appeared in extreme décolletage and they both were quite shapely up here and they appeared to be trying to outdo each other exposing their beauties." The event inspired a rhyme: There was a young woman named Clare Who went to a party quite bare. Said she, looking harassed, "I'm frightfully embarrassed; I was told only men would be there." When the McKnight family lived in Wisconsin, the toilet was such a source of aggravation that McKnight put in limerick form directions for solving the problem: Most houses count their quarrels by the ton. The cause of our dissension is just one: We haggle and we jiggle Over who forgot the jiggle And the joggle of that jigger on the john. McKnight has written several hundred of his own limericks — five-line verses which follow a set rhyme and meter — and has collected another 5,000 to 6,000, all of which he hopes to amass into a definitive volume.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The slogan "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow you may be in Utah" isn't exactly the Salt Lake Area Chamber of Commerce's cup of tea. Members of the chamber's tourism committee say the slogan, which is being emblazoned on T-shirts here, perpetuates the myth that the Beehive State is dry. "You can get a drink in Utah. You just have to know the laws," said Alan Rindlisbacher, director of the chamber's community development. He said the alcohol issue is the chamber's main worry, although other slogans reinforce the strait-laced image of Utah, where the alcohol-eschewing Mormon faith is embraced by 70 percent of its 1.5 million residents. "Welcome to Utah. Set Your Clock Back 25 Years" is another infamous slogan that Rindlisbacher isn't tickled about. "I don't think there are a whole lot of different slogans out there, but they sure sell well (on T-shirts)," he said. Larry Jackstien, marketing director at the Westin Hotel Utah and chairman of the tourism committee, said: "We all think they're funny because we live here and understand the situation."

TENDING BAR — Charles LaRue, 18, and Jay Brooks, 20, are employees of Teen Town, a privately owned youth center. A dance floor, featuring a live disc jockey, is located in the back of the building. Admission is free, but it costs $2 to attend dances.

'It's a great place for kids to come to keep out of trouble...I just wish more people would come here, and then this place would be better.'

Teen Town offers youth alternative

By KIM KIRKHAM
Lifestyle Writer

Big Spring's Teen Town has a philosophy different from "The Music Man".

In that musical, Robert Preston warned of the dangers of pool. "We've got trouble...with a capital T and that rhymes with P and that stands for pool," he sang.

However, Teen Town's owner believes billiards, along with dancing, will keep kids out of trouble. "The kids didn't have anywhere to go but in a parking lot to drink beer," says Ginger LaRue, owner. "Maybe they'll come here instead. Because the drinking age is fixing to turn to 21, I feel they need a place to go."

The center, which opened Aug. 29, has dancing, pool tables, video games, food and drinks, as well as a stereo and jukebox. "Whatever the kids want is what we want to do," she said. Table tennis, shuffle board, pinball and foosball are some things the center hopes to offer in the future.

An average of 50 to 60 youth go to the center on the weekends, Ms. LaRue said. Admission is free, but it costs $2 to attend the dance. Youths of all ages use the center, she said, mostly from sixth graders to seniors. In the future, Ms. LaRue plans to have a youth committee "give me input on what they would like to have."

Teen Town, 903 Johnson, is open from 3:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday through Thursday, 3:30 p.m. to 12 p.m. Friday, and 1 p.m. to 12 p.m. Saturday. Teen Town receives no outside financial support. Mrs. LaRue funds it herself.

"As far as Chemical People is concerned, we're taking a wait and see attitude," says Tom Watson, chairman of Chemical People. "There's a certain way she (Ms. LaRue) could make a go of it, if it's run properly. If it's a healthy place for kids to go, it could be a good place." He also said that the student activity group of Chemical People has provided Ms. LaRue with ideas and suggestions for the center.

Jay Brooks, 20, an employee at the center, believes business will pick up as soon as more people find out about it. "I want the kids to have a nice atmosphere, a nice place to come to be with their friends," he said. "This is what the kids in Big Spring needed."

"I think it's great," says Kevin Kennemur, 17. "It's a great place for kids to come to keep out of trouble. And I like to play pool. I just wish more people would come here and then this place would be better," he said.

"I like it because I can play pool and other things," said Todd Cline, 13. "I just come up here after school and wait for my mom and have something to do."

"It's a good place for kids to go," said Michelle Wilson, 16, "someplace to stay out of trouble. They (teenagers) need more places like this. It keeps kids from getting in drugs and all that stuff."

Vid Kid makes his fortune reviewing games

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Few 12-year-olds are known throughout the nation for their work. But Rawson Stovall of Abilene is. He's a video and computer games expert, a syndicated columnist, and author of The Vid Kid's Book of Home Video Games.

Rawson achieved this in about two years. Even though he's well-known, he thinks of himself as a kid who enjoys bicycling and his friends and who happens to have an interest in computers and video games.

Rawson's thirst for any kind of game started early. Why? "I think it's a human attitude of competition," he says. "You want to find out what the next level is, and you want to beat your last score."

"I'll play any game I can get anyone to play with me. Games are in my blood," he says. Rawson is the son of Ron and Kay Stovall of Abilene.

Rawson got his start on the road to a nationally syndicated column and the attention it has generated by convincing the Abilene Reporter-News to let him write about computer games.

That was two years ago. Today he has been a guest on national television programs including: "That's Incredible," "PM Magazine," "CBS Morning News," "ABC Good Morning America," "NBC Nightly News" and "Hour Magazine". He also has written a book, released this month by Doubleday.

WHEN HE APPROACHED the Reporter-News, he had four sample columns in hand. "I wrote four simple articles, and I devised up a survey and took it around to different places that sell games at arcades," he said. "I got three letters of recommendation from my English teacher, reading teacher and an electronics technician in Abilene. I got my report cards and made an appointment with Mr. Dick Tarpley of the Abilene Reporter-News. He called me back a couple of days later and said, 'Come on down here to the newspaper.'"

"I was in a meeting with three different editors: Mr. Tarpley, Mr. Richard Seaman and Mr. John Rice," Rawson said. "They said they'd take my column on a six-month trial basis. I've been doing my column two years now."

"After I got in the Abilene Reporter-News, (I figured) the way to get money" was to get published in more newspapers. "I went to Odessa. (The Odessa American) took my column. I knew getting in more newspapers would be proof that I can make it." Rawson approached other newspapers. His column was being published weekly in about 10 newspapers in Texas and California when Universal Press Syndicate — the firm that distributes the "Dear Abby" column — contacted him about handling his column.

With syndication, his columns continue to be published on a weekly basis; however, he is making more money than he did in the past. Today, about 20 newspapers carry his column, although that number changes often.

"RIGHT NOW MY COLUMN is not reviewing video games as much as it was when I started. I'm reviewing computer software," he said. "Companies send me prototypes about a month or so in advance. I can anticipate about when it will hit the stores, when it will get some attention and when it will need the review." He publishes his review a little while after the product's initial attention.

"I don't review everything. That's about impossible. I review select games that I like and enjoy playing," he said. "I think the initial excitement has worn down a lot, but I haven't gotten tired of writing my columns."

Following syndication, success has come easier to Rawson. He has been contributing editor to Woman's Day, Omni, Micro Kids and Video Games magazines. His review of educational computer software appears in the Oct. 2 issue of Family Circle magazine. Featured articles have appeared on Rawson in the New York Times, Washington Post, Houston Post, USA Today, Associated Press and Success magazine.

Rawson recently was appointed to the national advisory board of "Bits and Bytes," sponsor of the first national computer show for kids, parents and educators to be held Nov. 30 to Dec. 2 at the Disneyland Convention in Anaheim, Calif.

Rawson appeared at the Consumer Electronics Show in Chicago in June. In August, he spoke at the Stovall Tri-Centennial Reunion in Richmond, Va. to more than 3,000 descendants of Bartholomew Stovall, the first Stovall to arrive in America from England in 1684. He will be the keynote speaker for the annual meeting of the Texas Association for the Gifted and Talented in McAllen in November, and will assist with the Workshop for the Texas Joint Council of English Teachers in January. Rawson also authored a handbook "Kids, Dollars and Computers" for a national contest sponsored by Verbatim and Junior Achievement, October to December, 1984.

WHEN RAWSON returned home from a computer electronics convention in Chicago, a publisher contacted him about writing a book from his columns. Universal Press Syndicate handled the arrangements and Doubleday published the book.

"(The book) is a collection of all my columns," he said. "It was easy since I already had the columns written. Updating it took some time. It took about two weeks to type it up. The hard part was when I got it back and had to edit it all over." He began working on the book last October. It took a little less than a year to get it together and published.

Following its release, Rawson spent a week promoting the book, Sept. 10-14. He went on a book tour to San Antonio, Houston and Dallas. In Abilene he was the guest on a television show and a book store autograph party. The book has been out about four weeks.

Today, the 7th grader is in a gifted and talented program at his school. His kid celebrity status hasn't affected his childhood totally, although his friends are impressed by his accomplishments.

Rawson knows his accomplishments will be an asset in the future. "Getting an understanding how a computer works...will help me in the future," he says. "Computers are in so many different places now days. Once you've got a basic idea of how a computer works, then you can make adaptations easier than if you don't know how a computer works."

BURNT OUT

In May 1984, the legendary John McGraw, then a player with the Baltimore Orioles, became entangled in a fight with Boston's third baseman, Tucker. In no time, both teams were engaged in collective warfare that spread to the audience who set fire to the bleachers. Soon, the entire ballpark had completely burned to ashes along with 170 buildings closest to the scene. Memory of that incident was so bitter that, when the New York Giants, with McGraw, won the National League title in 1904, McGraw refused to play in the World Series against the American League champion, Boston. You might say that McGraw was still inflamed over the whole affair.

Good study habits urged for children

CHICAGO (AP) — Although some children insist they can study with the TV blaring or while eating a snack, this is rarely true, says a new booklet that offers some guidelines on how parents can help their kids build better study habits. "Most children need an environment free of distractions and interruptions in order to concentrate on and fully comprehend their studies," advises the Encyclopaedia Britannica booklet, "How To Make Your Child a Winner!"

And so Rule No. 1 is to provide children with a comfortable, quiet place to study, preferably a separate room where they can close the door and be alone, although any other area in the home that offers some privacy with good lighting will also do.

The leaflet offers practical advice on improving reading skills, taking tests, family games and other at-home activities, getting along with others, sportsmanship and developing self-confidence and a winning attitude. It includes these suggestions for making study time productive:

- Try to arrange that your children's study area has a desk, a comfortable chair and the necessary accessories such as pencils, paper and erasers, enabling them to concentrate on the job at hand without having to stop to search for the things they need.

- Provide children with reference and other source books so that they can quickly and easily find answers to questions without wasting time and interrupting their concentration.

- Parents should be sure that their children are in a healthy, relaxed state of mind before they sit down to study. When they are tired, hungry, anxious or distracted by something, they will accomplish little no matter how they try.

- If your youngsters feel the need to talk to you about a problem, help them resolve the problem before they get down to studying; otherwise they'll spend their time worrying about the problem instead of concentrating on their homework.

- If there's a need for you to talk to your children or to discipline them for some reason, it's best to delay this until their homework is completed.

- It's important for parents to help their children budget their time; for example, by having them divide up an extensive reading assignment into several smaller, less imposing units that can be handled over a period of time.

- If your children are having difficulty in getting their homework finished, try to determine exactly how much time is needed for study and work out a schedule that provides enough time for study and still leaves time for other activities before or after study.

- Be sure to permit some relaxation time, for children should not feel pressured to tackle studies the moment they arrive home. There should be an interval for refreshments, playing with friends, or talking with you.

- Don't constantly nag about homework. It's important to be firm and consistent in setting guidelines for study. But it is better to let your children take the consequences for not completing homework than to nag them day after day.

- There should be a regular study period every day, during which you should be available, if possible, to answer questions or to help with problems.

For a free copy of "How to Make Your Child a Winner!" write to the Public Affairs Department, Encyclopaedia Britannica, 310 South Michigan Ave, Chicago, IL 60604.

'Fourth Protocol' an espionage tale

THE FOURTH PROTOCOL. By Frederick Forsyth. Viking Penguin Inc. 389 Pages. $17.95.

Frederick Forsyth, the English author of "The Day of the Jackal" and "The Odessa File," jumps from stage to stage so fast in "The Fourth Protocol" that it makes your head spin. Outside an apartment in London. Inside an apartment in Moscow. Another apartment in London. Another apartment in Moscow. London. Moscow. London.

And that's just the first chapter. You hope this hop, skip and jump will end once the plot is laid, but it doesn't. And soon enough you don't mind.

The time is 1987, and the General Secretary of the Communist Party in the Soviet Union has decided to launch a covert action in Great Britain aimed at detonating a small nuclear bomb to mobilize opinion against the Conservative government and trigger a peaceful revolution. He hasn't told the KGB.

The plot requires the violation of the Fourth Protocol, a secret addendum to the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty which prohibits nations from smuggling a small nuclear device into another country and detonating it.

British agent John Preston doesn't know of the plan but he knows enough about the political climate in his country to pursue his hunches, despite the misgivings of his superiors.

"The Fourth Protocol" attempts to look into the future, using as characters such real figures as British traitor Kim Philby, a high-level personal consultant to the General Secretary in the book's vision of Moscow.

It works best, though, as an exciting tale of espionage, filled with the sorts of twists spy-story aficionados love.

TEXTURIZING FINE HAIR

Permanent tints, or coloring products that contain a peroxide, such as those used in highlighting, will expand hair strands and actually make fine hair thicker. Perming yields the same results in two ways. First, it chemically "fattens" each hair strand. Secondly, if hair is straight, it will give it some curve, creating the illusion of thicker hair. A "hot" solution perm might be too gentle to accomplish this "fattening" job. A "cold" perm may be a better choice. Because there are so many types of perms available, it is best to ask us, your professional hair stylists which one we recommend. Fine hair can also be "fattened" with hair sprays and setting lotion.

A hairstyle should be designed to enhance your natural appearance. It should reflect your personality and your life style. When you rely upon the expertise of LA CONTESSA, you are assured of the utmost in professional hair care. We are conveniently located at 1508 Marcy. We are open Tues.-Sat. Tel. 267-2187.

HINT

Conditioners add shine and control to coarse hair, making it appear finer.

Risk is slim for losing home in title challenge

Of all the risks people insure themselves against, the risk of losing one's home in a title challenge is one of the slimmest.

So why do most home buyers spend a few hundred dollars for optional title insurance, above what the mortgage lender requires? Probably because the cost — a onetime fee with coverage lasting forever — is relatively little for the peace of mind it offers.

A number of problems can adversely affect the title to your property. A lien may be riding against the property because of an unpaid debt. Easements may give others access to your land. Somebody else may own part of the property rights (in rural areas of Texas, for instance, mineral rights are commonly not sold with the land).

Those are the kinds of things a title search, required by the lender, should discover. Depending on the part of the country, an escrow agent, the closing attorney, or a title company will examine the public records to determine whether the title you receive has any ownership or financial claims and restrictions on the use of the property.

Ownership may go back a hundred years or more, but companies commonly limit their search to 60 years. Occasionally, a company will feel the need to delve further. "We always search at least as far back as the beginning of a subdivision," says Gary Cortellessa with Chicago Title Insurance. "That's when most of the restrictions and covenants go on. In the northeast, that means the early 1900s."

When problems do turn up, you have several choices: insist the seller rectify the problems before closing, renegotiate the deal, nix the transaction if other efforts fail or accept the risk.

"Problems in title are found fairly often, but most are cleaned up before closing," explains Gary Garry of the American Land Title Association, the industry's trade organization.

However, even the most thorough title search cannot bring to light everything that affects the title. It can rarely detect clerical errors in recording legal papers, forged and falsified documents, deeds made by minors or persons of unsound mind, and claims by a missing heir.

What are the chances you'll ever face a serious title challenge? There seems to be no satisfactory statistical answer to that question, but the odds are pretty slim. Still, title insurance pays off in peace of mind, especially if your luck runs against you or if someone files a nuisance suit.

Tidbits

Baby boy joins former agent's family

Former Howard County Extension agent, JANET ROGERS, and her husband DON ROGERS have a new addition to their family. Janet gave birth to a bouncing baby boy, Sept. 18. His name is TRAVIS CARL and he arrived weighing five pounds 13 1/2 ounces. Mother and baby are doing fine. Janet's grandmother came to visit them in Midland and is helping out.

MR. AND MRS. FLOYD EARLS, MR. AND MRS. KENNETH BEARDEN and the Beardens' children, KENDRA and KRYSHA, went on vacation during the week of Sept. 16-22. They went to Bracketville at Fort Clark Springs where they fished and played golf. GAIL EARLS and her granddaughter Krysha caught a bass. "It was not our expertise," Gail said, "it was our accident." The family also visited San Antonio and the San Antonio Zoo.

Some 79 volunteers were treated to a luncheon at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, Sept. 19. The event was held as a thank you for their continued support. All volunteers were invited to the luncheon. There were representatives from Lubbock, Odessa, Midland and Snyder as well as the Big Spring area. LILA HOLLAND won the door prize.

JOHNNIE LOU AVERY is in Washington, D.C. this week. She was asked to be the Texas lobbyist for any Congressional bills and legislation having to do with all types of drugs. She is participating in an orientation in D.C. Once she finishes it, she will decide whether or not she wants to become a lobbyist.

There's a rash of class reunions planned to coincide with Big Spring High School's Homecoming, Nov. 2-3. One of the biggest is the joint reunion of the classes of 1943, 1944, 1945 and 1946.

Highlights include a coffee at the home of GLORIA STROM EZELL for all four classes, and a luncheon tour of the O' Rannels High School with a group photo. Host and hostesses for the coffee will be

LOUISE ANN (BENNETT) WORTH, PAT (HOLCOMBE) SIMMONS, MERLINE (MERWIN) PIERCE, LEATRICE (ROSS) WHITEHEAD and D-EON PRIEST.

Board members of the Big Spring Symphony Association must really be dedicated. They were up early Monday for a 7 a.m. kick-off breakfast of the annual Maintenance Fund Campaign. It was for a worthy cause, because the Maintenance Fund is the main support for our symphony. CORKY HARRIS, chairman of the campaign, and SAM WOODWARD, president of the association, were reported to have been wide awake and ready to give pep talks to the early risers, including RICKY HAMBLY, KAREN JACKSON, PHYLLIS GRAUMANN, MARY KENNY, LEROY TILLERY, DONNA FIELDS, JOHNNIE LOU AVERY, SUZANNE HANEY, LINDA FRASER and DICK HOOLAHAN.

MARY KENNY spoke to the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club this week about the Rape Crisis Services. The organization is now operational and has the ability to service more than 66 agencies in Big Spring and Howard County. Anyone needing to speak to a Rape Crisis counselor may contact any church, school, governmental agency or medical facility.

TERRY DOBSON and his cat moved Friday to South Carolina. He will be sorely missed by Spring City Theatre, Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, Howard College basketball team and all his friends.

Beginning runners advised to take it easy, says athlete

NEW YORK (AP) — Neophyte runners could be courting sore muscles, fatigue and failure if they do not start a running program slowly and build gradually, warns Sharon Barbano, a national class runner who competed in the first women's Olympic marathon trials.

Ms. Barbano, who conducts running clinics around the country for L'eggs, advises new runners to start the first week's workout with no more than four minutes of running and 20 minutes of stretching, walking and more stretching to cool down. New runners, she adds, should run only three or four times a week, and add three to five minutes to each consecutive week's schedule.

"Your pace should depend on your heart rate and how you feel," says Ms. Barbano.

Dear Abby

Miserly husband may make woman miserable

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when the man you're in love with is "tight?" I've been going with this retired gentleman for two years. Money is not a problem in his life. He's charming and personable and we get along beautifully, but our routine goes like this:

He eats lunch at my home five days a week, and dinner twice. When we go out for the day, he asks me to pack one of my "real good meals," and like a jerk, I do it! He has bought me coffee and lunch once in a great while. He gave me one small gift last Christmas and that was that.

He's asked me to marry him, but I can't imagine how he'd treat me as a wife. Meanwhile, as a widow I had built up a life with other women until he came along. Now I'm seeing less and less of them as he is monopolizing my time. Am I weak in the head? I really care for him. At least he hasn't asked me to do his laundry yet.

Is there a solution? Hinting hasn't helped.

LITTLE ME

DEAR LITTLE: Quit hinting and tell him what's on your mind. And don't marry him until everything having to do with money is spelled out clearly beforehand, because cheapskates usually get cheaper after they're married.

***

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-five years ago, my husband left me with three small children. Two years later I married a fine man who raised my children as his own. They saw practically nothing of their natural father. My husband was the only father they ever really knew. They always called him "Dad."

Recently the children's natural father died and all three children sent flowers to his funeral as a show of respect.

When my husband heard about the flowers, he ranted like a madman! Now he refuses to speak to any of the children, and if they come to the house, he leaves. I think he's being unreasonable and cruel. Abby, I've been crying myself to sleep every night about it.

I dearly love my husband, but I love my children, too, and I would rather leave my husband than see my children treated this way. What should I do?

TORN IN TWO

DEAR TORN: Your husband's behavior is irrational. Even though your children saw practically nothing of their natural father, to have acknowledged his death with flowers was a kind and generous gesture that in no way diminishes the love and respect they feel for the stepfather who raised them.

Please don't make a decision as important as this without seeking professional counseling. And urge your husband to get counseling, too. He desperately needs it.
