How's that? Captioning

Q. Since last week was "Deaf Awareness Week," I was wondering when the CBS network plans to start captioning some programs for the hearing impaired.

A. CBS began captioning about three hours of prime time programming a week with the start of the fall season. CBS had captioned some programs in the past but the type of captions aired were not compatible with the Line 21 system used by ABC, NBC and PBS, and most decoders could not unscramble the caption.

The network relented in the wake of protests across the country and agreed to caption in a method compatible with the other networks.

The baseball team, in its first playoff series since 1945, also has a tried and true fan in Billy Goat.

Blacks riot, 4 die

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Four blacks were killed in black townships near Johannesburg today after two weeks of relative calm, police reported.

About 300 blacks attacked a delivery van in Kwathema, east of Johannesburg, and three blacks were killed and another six were injured when the van went out of control, said Lt. Johan Barnard from Pretoria police headquarters.

In Soweto, the huge black township southwest of Johannesburg, a crowd of about 100 youths stoned a private home with stones and battered its black owner to death, Barnard said. No further details were available, he said.

Labor secretary indicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan, his term in the Reagan Cabinet plagued by allegations of past wrongdoing, is fighting to hold onto his job in the face of a grand jury indictment he says "is not worth the paper it's written on."

Donovan, a onetime New Jersey construction executive who survived investigations by a Senate committee and an independent special prosecutor in 1982, announced late Monday that he is taking an unpaid leave of absence.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said President Reagan approved the leave. "The president is comfortable with the precedent of innocent until proven guilty," Speakes said as he accompanied Reagan on a campaign trip in Mississippi.

Donovan said he was "outraged and disgusted by the obviously partisan timing" of the indictment, which came from a Bronx, N.Y., grand jury investigating allegations that he once took part in a scheme to misrepresent the work of a minority subcontractor on a New York subway project.

Explaining why he volunteered to step aside, the blunt-spoken Donovan said: "My concerns are that my family has to endure this mindless inquisition and that this not reflect negatively upon the president."

Hoax bomb found

Man arrested at truck stop

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

A 32-year-old Big Spring man remains in the Howard County jail today after being arrested late last night on suspicion of possessing a hoax bomb made with a fragmentation grenade, according to the county sheriff's office.

Howard County sheriff's deputy Barney Edens arrested Benny Joe Sowell of 2912 Cherokee on the Class A misdemeanor at the Fina Truck Stop after Edens discovered the homemade device in Sowell's car, according to Edens' report.

According to the sheriff's office, the device found in Sowell's briefcase is similar to a fragmentation

GOP opens headquarters

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

The Republican Party of Howard County opened its campaign office, complete with streamers, balloons and elephants, Tuesday morning in the Highland Center.

Two Republican candidates — 28th state senatorial nominee Sol Thomas and County Commissioner Precinct 3 incumbent Bill Crocker — attended the opening of the office, which has a child's elephant ride at its door.

Both Thomas and Crocker said the "coattails effect" of President Reagan's popularity will affect their races. But Thomas said he thought the Republicans' "shared philosophy" also would help him and other party members gain office in what he called a fight for American values.

"We need to make no mistake what the entire election is about. It's a fight for the very values that made America what it is. If we lose, those values will die," Thomas said of the presidential election.

"The major difference between me and (Sen. John) Montford (Thomas' incumbent opponent) is that I'm the only candidate in this race who supports Phil Gramm and President Reagan," Thomas said. "Doggott and Walter Mondale support a philosophy of government that is contrary to West Texas."

As his first act as a state senator, Thomas said he would introduce a bill to repeal the state education reform law. His second, he said, would be the introduction of a replacement.

St. Laurence

German families make the desert bloom in Glasscock County

ST. LAURENCE — It took a wave of immigrants and their belief in traditional values to bring life to a desolate land 38 years ago.

The area where this predominantly German-Catholic farming community stands was once a barren, open pasture and rangeland populated mostly by brush and rattlesnakes.

The transformation of the mesquite trees and brush to lush cotton country came as a result of hard work and dedication from the early settlers who came to Glasscock County following World War II in 1946.

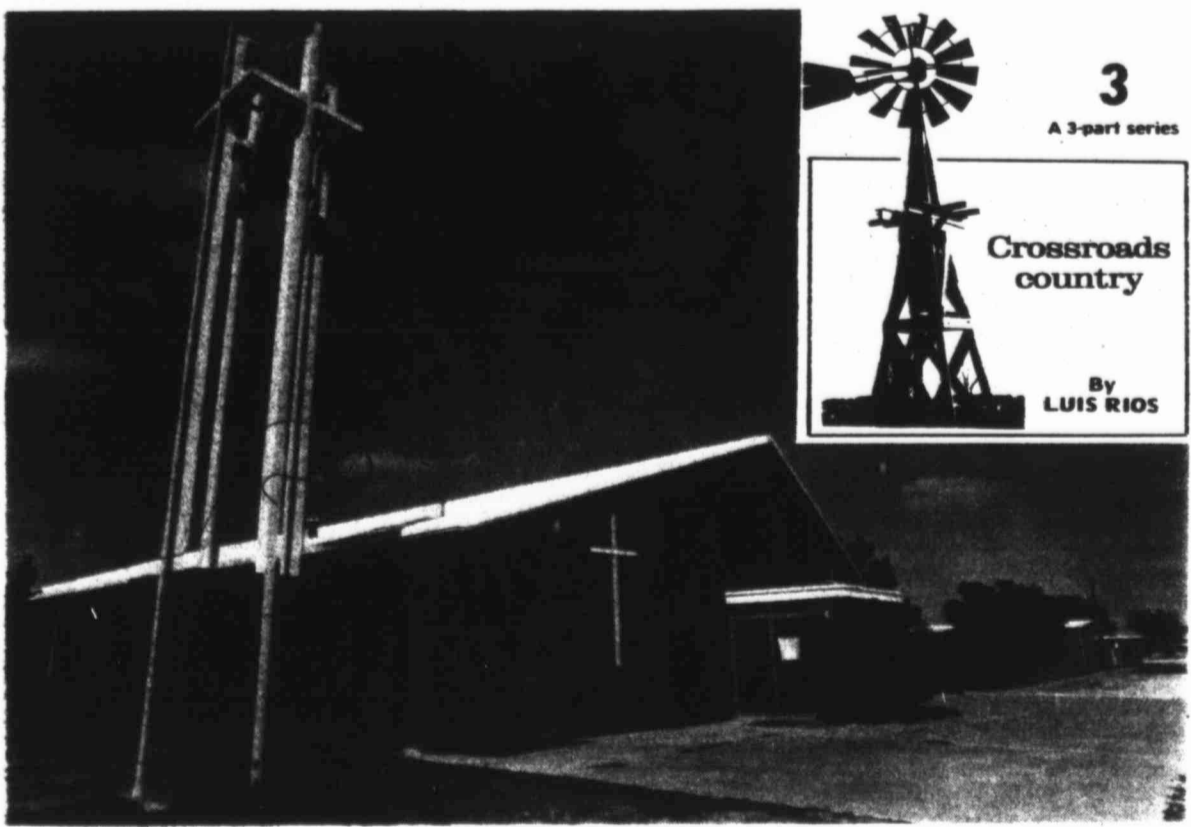

The 230 families that now live in St. Laurence make their living from farming cotton. While other farmers bemoan the drought conditions, these independent farmers are busy irrigating their crops. St. Laurence farmer Alfred Schwartz said more than 95 percent of the acreage in the community is irrigated.

About 90 percent of the population is German-Catholic and the remainder is Czech, Mexican, Bohemian and Polish. The Rev. Frank Beazley is the parish priest.

Life in St. Laurence revolves around agriculture and a very dominant Catholic church. The church in a traditional society is the center of the community, Schwartz said.

The story behind the settling of the community is one of color and chaos. The earlier "pioneers" came to a land that featured gates as the main attraction.

"At one time people had to open 21 gates to get here," Schwartz said. The gates blocked off different sections of land and the early settlers had to open them to get anywhere. The roads were better described as "cow trails," said Wilma Halfmann, who came to St. Laurence in 1954.

The community was named after St. Laurence Martyr, the patron St. of farmers, and also Bishop Laurence FitzSimon, who was the Bishop of the Amarillo Diocese at that time.

Most of the settlers were from Wall, Rowena and Offen, all German communities in West Central Texas. St. Laurence is part of the old Oliver Daniels Ranch, which was sold in 1946. The ranch was a 45-section spread 15 miles southwest of Garden City.

"The first settlers brought land July 1946 and later in December,"

Schwartz said. "They were veterans taking advantage of the G.I. Bill. The land was bought at $16 and $17 an acre and later it jumped to $22 an acre."

Starting in such primitive circumstances and conditions and with very little money behind them, these first farmers were laughed at by some for their "foolish" venture, wrote Mrs. A.O. Lange in a short historical account of St. Laurence.

Small Army barracks brought in from San Angelo served as the first church in the community in 1948, Schwartz said. Father Fidelis Albrecht, a Franciscan priest, served as the first pastor for the church.

"The earlier settlers lived in tents before they had their homes built," Schwartz said. "And when the houses were built some still had dirt floors."

Times soon changed, said Mrs. Halfmann. The farms that were small acreage farms became bigger, and modernization brought about many improvements, she said.

"We used to go into town once a month," Mrs. Halfmann said. "We had only one car — the truck — and if our husband was in the field we had to wait. Now it's more convenient."

Despite the progress made in the past decades, there is something different about St. Laurence and its residents.

"We are unique because we are in a kind of remote area," Schwartz said. "Our love of the land and our wanting to till the soil is another example. We are working to raise our families in a close community."

The pride of the people is the annual St. Laurence Catholic Church Fall Festival, which draws people from all over West Texas, Schwartz said.

Over 2,000 people migrate to this conservative community to drink beer, eat some 8,000 to 9,000 pounds of German sausage and listen to lively music. The festival comes

Weather

State remains cloudy

By The Associated Press
Cloudy skies blanketed most of the state today as moist Pacific air spilled into the northern third of Texas and a large area of high pressure eased its way from Mississippi.

However, the weather picture brightened across Central and East Texas, where clear skies greeted the day. Low clouds, meanwhile, enveloped parts of the deep south.

Early morning temperatures were once again unseasonably cool for this time of year. Readings were generally in the 50s and 60s, while the 40s prevailed East Texas.

At 4 a.m., Lufkin registered a cool 45 degrees and Brownsville a warm 70 degree mark.

Winds were southerly across much of the state with speeds ranging from 5 to 15 mph. However, a more light easterly wind was noted along the coastal water and eastern portions of the state.

The forecast called for increasing cloudiness in North and South Texas, where high temperatures were expected to climb to the upper 70s and low 80s. Some widely scattered thunderstorms were predicted in far West Texas, where highs were to rise to the 80s.

Light rain lingered early today over most of New England and eastern sections of the mid-Atlantic states, while showers and thunderstorms were scattered across the central and southern Rockies and the central and southern intermountain region.

Snow was reported over mountainous sections of Nevada and Utah. Clear skies prevailed over the Ohio and Tennessee Valleys. Fair skies domed the Pacific Coast states.

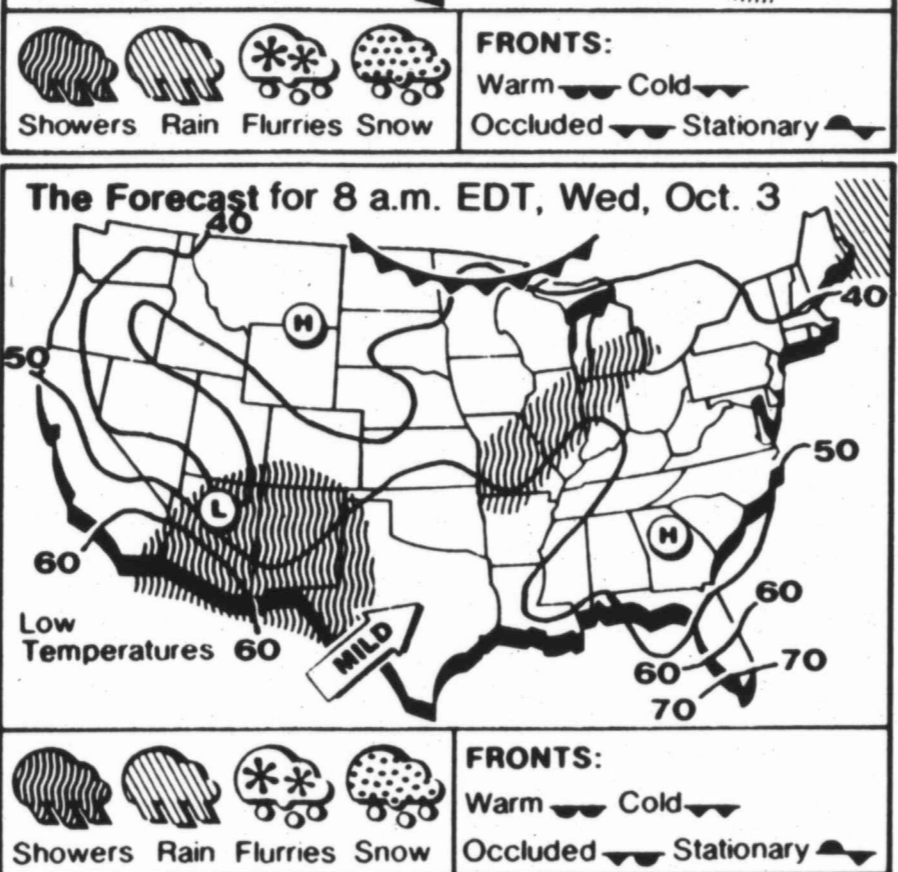

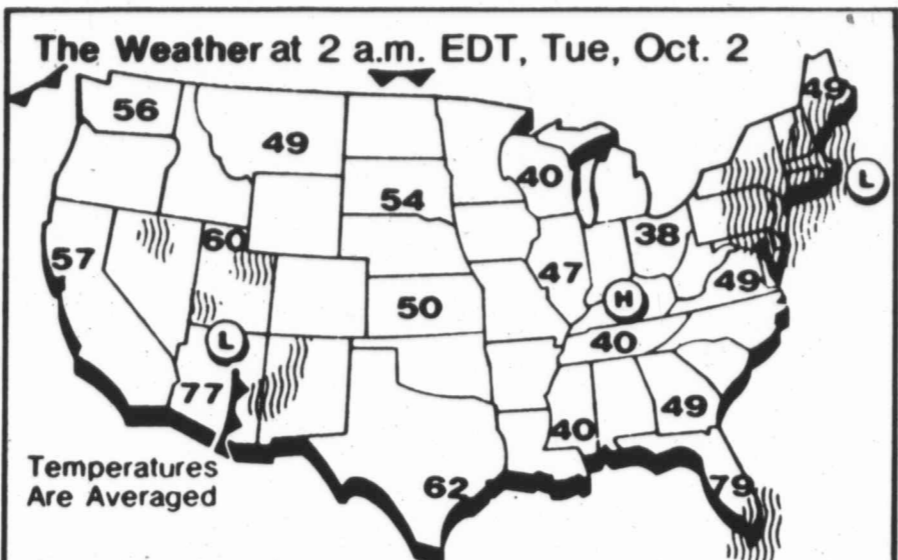

In the Pacific, Hurricane Polo, with sustained winds at its center of 100 mph, moved on shore of mainland Mexico early today.

Today's forecast called for showers and a few thunderstorms over the southern intermountain region and southern Rockies. Rain was to continue across New England. Cloudy to partly cloudy skies were expected over the southern Plains, central Rockies, lower Missouri Valley and the upper Ohio Valley.

High temperatures were expected to reach the upper 40s and 50s over the Northeast; the 80s over southern and central Texas and the Desert Southwest; and the 60s and 70s elsewhere.

Temperatures at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 32 at Alpena, Mich., to 78 at Key West, Fla.

WEST TEXAS: cloudy with thunderstorms Thursday becoming partly cloudy Friday and Saturday. No important temperature changes. Highs in the 70s and 80s. Lows from the upper 40s to the upper 50s.

TDH recertifies Root Hospital

Harte-Hanks News Service

COLORADO CITY — Root Memorial Hospital, which was cut off from Medicare payments for over two months when it was decertified, began preparations Monday to admit patients qualified to receive financial aid from Medicare.

"We're back in business," said hospital administrator Ray Mason.

Delma Armentrout of the Texas Department of Health had reviewed deficiencies Sept. 28, which were noted in a Sept. 4 report. She then relayed her recommendation to Dr. Juanita Carrell of Texas Department of Health in Austin.

DCarrell told Mason that the hospital could start receiving patients under Medicare provisions.

Presently there are only two doctors on the hospital staff, Dr. Joe Thomas Aguilon and Dr. Joe Terry. Two other doctors Dr. Kenneth Cowan and Dr. S.R. Jackson of Sterling City have courtesy privileges at the hospital.

Four other doctors resigned from the staff in late August and have been using the Rolling Plains Hospital in Sweetwater since then.

Authorities to rule on death

County authorities said today they will decide "within the next two or three weeks" if a man found dead Saturday morning in a Northside backyard was the victim of foul play.

Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin said he will wait for information from an autopsy report on the man before ruling on his death.

The man, Cesario Ontiveros, 56, of 116 N.E. 11th, was found dead at about 11 a.m. Saturday in an 817 N.W. Sixth backyard.

Heflin said he and Dr. Robert Rember, the physician in charge of the autopsy, are waiting for test results that were sent to the Department of Public Safety in Austin.

Bailbonds company owner Bob Smith, who found Ontiveros, said he was at the northside location Saturday to contact one of his bondsmen. Smith said he found Ontiveros lying on the ground covered by a green bedspread "up to the bridge of his nose."

grenade taped to a black plastic box and black wires running to a grenade primer.

Sheriff A.N. Standard said he was uncertain whether the pin was still in the grenade device, which remains in the sheriff's office.

Whether the device is real, it could be used to threaten someone, Standard said. "I believe you could get an airplane ride with it," he said.

"We're a little cautious, but we're not overly concerned," Deputy George Quintero said. "If we start unwrapping it, I'm going to get worried."

However, "we have not altered its state," Quintero said of the device.

Quintero said he and others in the sheriff's office believe the device is not a bomb, but a device that could be used as a threat to frighten someone. "Even the deputy who arrested him thinks it's just a hoax," Quintero said.

The sheriff's office will send the device to bomb experts to determine whether it is a real bomb, he said.

"We have to determine what we have got. After that, we'll decipher what the possible charges are," he said. The sheriff's office was called to talk to Sowell at the truck stop by Coahoma Police Chief O.D. Majors, who remained present throughout the arrest, according to the deputy's report.

Sowell had "caused concern" among cafe employees because he would sit for hours watching employees and talking about weapons and bombs on several occasions. Employees also told the sheriff's office that Sowell would keep going out to his car and return to the cafe, sometimes with a briefcase, according to the report.

Edens at first told Sowell he was making the employees nervous. Sowell then offered to let Edens search his car and gave him the keys. When Edens went to open a briefcase lying in the front left passenger seat, Sowell told him "to be careful because the suitcase was locked and there was a grenade inside."

The report also stated that Edens found a passport in the car for extensive foreign travel in the United Kingdom and to Venezuela.

A check of Sowell's criminal record shows prior arrests for drug violations, burglary and larceny, according to the report.

Donovan

former executive vice president of Schiavone Construction Co. of Secaucus, N.J., was being arraigned in New York today along with company president Ronald Schiavone and six other officers.

Although Donovan volunteered to step down temporarily "to assure that this matter does not become a part of the current election campaign," he also declared: "I fully expect to resume my duties just as soon as this injustice has been dealt with."

Donovan, who testified before the county grand jury on Sept. 24, accused Bronx County District Attorney Mario Merola, a Democrat, of having political motivations. The 54-year-old secretary said he had passed a polygraph test taken at his request "with flying colors" and voiced confidence of "ending once and for all this witch hunt."

Ford B. Ford, undersecretary of Labor, the No. 2 department officer and former head of the Mine Safety and Health Administration, becomes acting secretary while Donovan fights the indictment.

Donovan, a 1952 graduate of Notre Dame Seminary in New Orleans, has been dogged by a wide variety of allegations of past misconduct as a construction executive.

He had scoffed at the Bronx grand jury proceedings as "a rehash" of allegations that were investigated by Leon A. Silverman, an independent special prosecutor named to probe Donovan in 1982 — at Donovan's request — under provisions of the Ethics in Government Act.

listen to the people who know about the educational system. We won't destroy our educational system for some off-the-wall idea by whomever," Thomas said.

One portion of the bill he finds particularly objectionable is the decreased emphasis on vocational agriculture, Thomas said.

Local county commissioner candidate Bill Crooker, also present at the office opening, was more pragmatic about the effects of the presidential election on local races. Voters choose candidates in local elections because of personality, said Crooker, the only Republican nominee for a local post.

"Howard County voters split tickets. If they didn't, I wouldn't have been elected," Crooker said.

Crooker, a four-term incumbent who was elected in 1976 when Carter won the presidency, said Reagan's popularity "will have some effect. I don't think the effect will be that strong on the local level."

"I will be running on my record of reduced taxes, getting services to the people in the county and increased efficiency," Crooker said. Republican numbers have gradually increased in the county, Crooker said. "It's (the party) still small but it has gradually grown."

The office, which took 10 days to decorate, will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays until the election, according to Republican Women's Club President Katie Grimes.

50 climb Tower of Pisa

PISA, Italy — Fifty people climbed to the top of the Leaning Tower of Pisa and unfurled a giant banner covered with slogans protesting evictions from their apartments. The protesters, pushing past startled tourists Monday, unfurled a banner that draped down nearly three stories on this city's most famous landmark. Another group from a tenants' organization hung smaller banners from the first floor of the seven-story tower, police said. Officers removed the banners and scattered the protesters without incident. The banners bore slogans against evictions and in favor of putting evicted families into empty apartments temporarily taken over by the city government, as a means of easing the acute housing shortage in Pisa.

Medical care threatened

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — More than 2,000 general practitioners across Denmark have begun billing patients as part of a labor dispute that poses a threat to the country's system of free medical care. The physicians suspended relations with the public health-care service after rejecting an offer to raise their guaranteed average yearly net income to $38,000. The Organization of General Practitioners wanted $2,700 more to keep up with rising costs. Doctors in the Copenhagen area were not involved in the job action because they are covered by a separate agreement. Other parts of the public health system such as hospital services also were not affected. The conflict meant the 3.5 million Danes outside the capital could no longer telephone a doctor, go to his or her office or summon one on a house call without being billed.

Leader bars nuclear arms

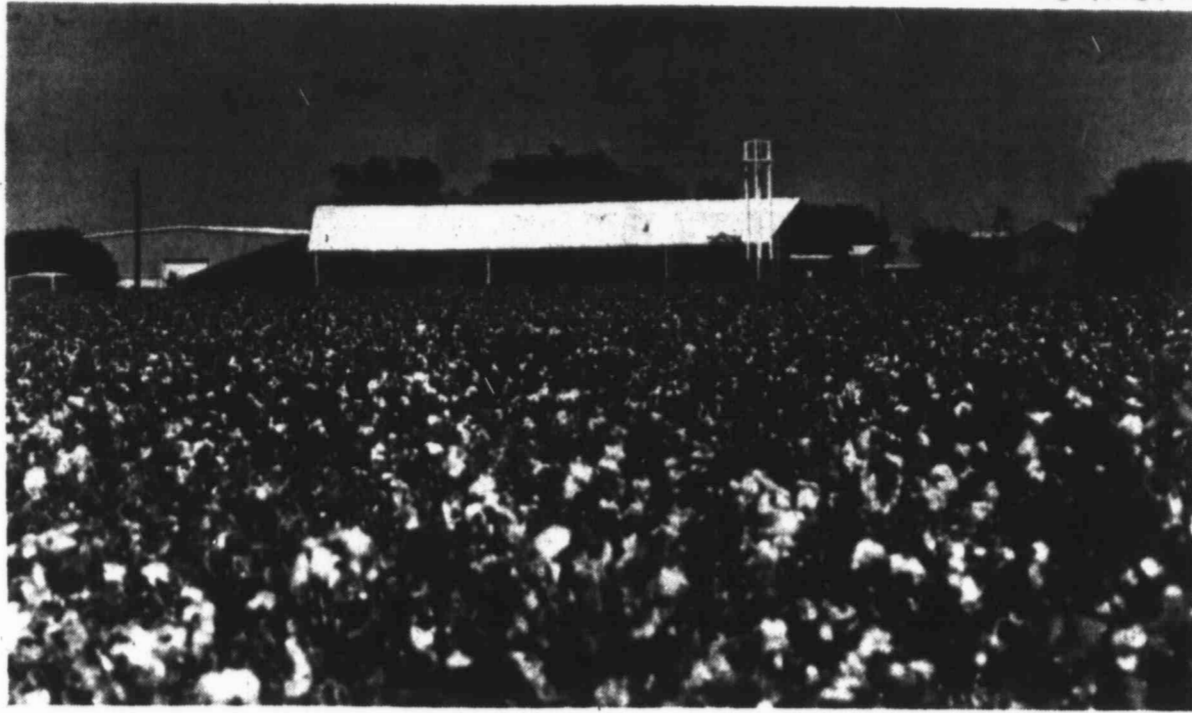

LONDON — Prime Minister David Lange of New Zealand says his country will stay in ANZUS, the U.S.-Australia-New Zealand defensive alliance, but also will keep its pledge to bar nuclear-powered and nuclear-armed ships from New Zealand's waters. Lange, on his first visit to Britain since his election in July, said Monday he was confident the nuclear issue would be resolved at the ANZUS meeting next July but did not indicate the likely formula for a settlement.

7 teens killed in collision

VARAGO, Italy — A truck rammed a bus carrying students near this northeastern Italian town, killing seven teen-agers, police said. Twenty-three people were injured in the crash Monday, three of them critically, officials said. The truck driver was taken into custody for questioning, police said. The bus had been carrying the students home from school in the provincial capital.

Officer resigns under fire

DHAKA, Bangladesh — The government has announced the resignation of a Cabinet minister who was blamed by the opposition for violence during a one-day general strike last week. The announcement Monday said Mahbub Rahman — minister for local government, rural development and cooperatives — resigned for health grounds. It said the resignation was accepted by President Husain Mohammed Ershad. Two opposition alliances blamed Mahbub Rahman for violence during a nationwide general strike Thursday which they organized and which nearly paralyzed this south Asian country of 96 million people.

St. Laurence

Tradition dominates Old World community

Continued from page 1-A once a year, the first Sunday in November. "The festival originated from the old country," Schwartz said. "This year we will have a special attraction. The Bavarian Two will perform during the dinner from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m."

"We are unique because we are in a kind of remote area. Our love of the land and our wanting to till the soil is another example. We are working to raise our families in a close community."

Everything St. Laurence does has a sense of pride, Schwartz said. That pride goes back to the very first settlers, he said. "The original settlers are very proud of their accomplishments," he said. "They are proud of what has happened and of making St. Laurence what it is today."

Things have changed some in St. Laurence, but the changes have not been dramatic. The way of life will probably not change any time soon, Schwartz said. What has changed is the town's name, which outsiders prefer to spell St. Lawrence. But other changes are more subtle. The old St. Laurence Co-op, which occupied a building with the now-defunct post office, is now the home of the St. Laurence Trading Co., now the only store in the community.

The children attend school in Garden City. There was never a community school in St. Laurence, Schwartz said. Most of the children have graduated from high school and remained in the community, he added. And at one time St. Laurence was a community of the east and the west. "The earlier settlers lived in tents before they had their homes built. And when the houses were built some still had dirt floors."

"The young married couples lived east of St. Laurence and everybody else lived in the west," said Mrs. Halfmann. "We (eastiders) did not mix with the west side for a long time."

The immigrants to this bubbling community have come a long way since first arriving in South Texas and West Central Texas around 1915. And because of their work ethic and dedication, they have made St. Laurence a place to call home.

Reagan campaigns in Valley

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — President Reagan arrived in the Lower Rio Grande Valley today to begin a campaign swing through a largely Hispanic area plagued by high unemployment. Thousands of people stood under fluttering palms and blue South Texas skies today at Texas Southmost College, awaiting President Reagan's arrival. As Reagan, who landed at 11:30 p.m. CDT, turned his campaign toward the region, an area congressman warned Democrats not to take Hispanic voters for granted. Reagan was scheduled to attend campaign rallies in Brownsville and Corpus Christi on his way to a fundraising dinner in Houston tonight where Republicans hope to raise $2 million. Vice President Bush also was scheduled to tour the state today, with stops in Lubbock and Houston.

The president's itinerary called for a tour of a Project Hope training program at Texas Southmost College in Brownsville before speaking at a Reagan-Bush campaign rally on campus. The Project Hope program, funded with a recently awarded government grant of $1.5 million, trains medical personnel along the Texas-Mexico border. U.S. Rep. Solomon Ortiz, whose district includes both Brownsville and Corpus Christi, said his constituents are complaining that the Democratic Party is taking the Hispanic vote for granted. "It's only six weeks before the election and we have yet to see either Mondale or (Geraldine) Ferraro," Ortiz said.

Mayor averts big layoffs

CHICAGO — Layoffs of hundreds of workers at a $1.4 billion expansion project at O'Hare International Airport were averted when Mayor Harold Washington yielded to pressure from the City Council and agreed to the creation of a board to review no-bid contracts. City officials had contended that funds for the project would have run out today without Monday's settlement. Washington had vetoed a measure for a $300 million bond issue to finance the expansion after his council opponents attached amendments giving them control of large no-bid contracts.

Harvard not selling stock

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Harvard University President Derek Bok says that although he opposes apartheid, he believes universities should not try to use their power to force economic and political views on outside organizations. Bok's statement accompanied Harvard's announcement Monday that it would not sell its stock in companies doing business in South Africa. Harvard's Corporation Committee on Shareholder Responsibility said the school would instead urge firms to oppose restrictions on where non-whites may live and work in South Africa. Under its established policy, Harvard does not hold stock in companies that do a majority of their business in South Africa.

Sitter under parent care

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — A 13-year-old baby sitter who pleaded innocent to murdering an infant under her care must remain with her parents at all times, except at church or school, a judge has ordered. Suzanne Scavone pleaded innocent Monday before Circuit Judge Harry Hincley and was released into her parents' custody under $10,000 bond. Six-month-old Ashleigh Karas, who was allegedly shaken and beaten while in the girl's care, died Sept. 1. Miss Scavone could be sentenced to death if convicted under a new law that makes any death resulting from child abuse a capital crime.

Park heads enter plea

TOMS RIVER, N.J. — The former and current general managers of an amusement park have pleaded innocent to manslaughter charges in the deaths of eight teen-agers in a "haunted house" fire that a state committee says could have been prevented had fire safety requirements been enforced. An attorney on Monday also entered an innocent plea on behalf of Great Adventure Inc. and the parent Six Flags Corp., charged by an Ocean County grand jury with aggravated manslaughter in the May 11 fire at Six Flags Great Adventure park. An attorney for the corporations has filed a motion claiming the grand jury did not hear testimony showing Jackson Township was responsible for ensuring the attraction met building and fire codes.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with an order from the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice it has filed a tariff to reduce the monthly rates for the Switched Access portion of the company's intraLATA Foreign Exchange (FX) Service offering that was implemented starting June 1, 1984. Simultaneously, the LATA-wide toll-free calling scope, also started June 1, would be discontinued and the calling scope would return to that in effect prior to June 1. The Commission has assigned this matter Docket Number 5891. The net effect of the tariff will be a monthly decrease in total billing of approximately $700,000 until November 1, 1984. After that time the net effect on the company's revenue is estimated to be negligible. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. En conformidad con una orden de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas, se anuncia mediante el presente aviso público que Southwestern Bell Telephone ha presentado una tarifa con el objeto de reducir las cuotas mensuales que se han cobrado desde el 1 de junio de 1984, por la porción de la tarifa para acceso a la red central necesaria con el uso del Servicio de Zona Exterior (Foreign Exchange (FX) Service). Simultáneamente, el servicio de llamadas de larga distancia sin cobro dentro del área de servicio que también se efectuó el 1 de junio de 1984, se descontinuará; y el campo de llamadas será al igual que antes del 1 de junio de 1984. Se ha registrado la nueva tarifa bajo el Docket 5891. El efecto real de la nueva tarifa se verá en la reducción del costo total de facturas de aproximadamente $700,000 hasta el 1 de noviembre de 1984. Se calcula que después de esta fecha el efecto real para nuestra empresa será despreciable. Law will ground pilot smugglers

The law U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen wants Congress to pass is the kind of legislation that prompts the question: Why wasn't this passed long ago? The Texas Democrat has secured House-Senate agreement on a law to revoke the licenses of pilots who smuggle drugs. The bill now must go back to both Houses of Congress for final action.

The strongest punishment the Federal Aviation Administration may exact against a pilot convicted of illegal drug trafficking is a civil penalty of no more than $1,000 and a one-year suspension of the pilot's certificate.

The very nature of illegal trafficking gives legitimate grounds for yanking a pilot's license permanently. The clandestine operations often put overloaded planes on shielded traffic routes flying outside acceptable height ranges. They involve dangerous nighttime landings in inadequate lighting conditions on unsafe fields. In short, these are not the kind of pilots we want sharing the skies.

Drug Enforcement Administration estimates project that through 1985, some 50 percent of cocaine, 55 percent of Southeast Asian heroin, 75 percent of Southwest Asian heroin, 35 percent of marijuana and 80 percent of other dangerous drugs will be smuggled by air. Although some will be transported on commercial flights, most are transported by private aircraft, Bentsen says.

Coupled with criminal provisions that allow for confiscation of aircraft used in illicit activity, Bentsen's bill to permanently ground criminal pilots will help put a dent in the means and ways of drug smuggling.

Art Buchwald Soviet small talk

The only danger I saw from Fritz Mondale's meeting with Soviet Minister Andrei Gromyko was that the Democratic candidate might want to show the American voters how tough he can be with the Soviets.

The conversation could have gone something like this.

Mondale: Welcome to America, Mr. Foreign Minister. How is everything in the evil empire?

Gromyko: "I thought this was a friendly visit."

Mondale: "How can it be friendly after what you people did in Afghanistan and the Los Angeles Olympics? Let me give it to you straight. If I am elected president, I'm going to take a harder line toward the Kremlin than President Reagan. He's been pussyfooting with you people too long."

Gromyko: "I can't believe I'm hearing this. You have said in your speeches that you were willing to sit down and talk to us."

Mondale: "I'm still willing to sit down, but we have to talk about substance. I will never fear to negotiate, but I will not negotiate out of fear."

Gromyko: "So how can we reduce tensions if the Democrats get into power?"

Mondale: "That's up to you people, not to us."

Gromyko: "Do we have to have all these television cameras while we're talking? The light hurts my eyes."

Mondale: "I want the American people to know where I stand when it comes to Soviet-U.S. relations. If you came to win me over you are sadly mistaken. I'm much tougher than I look on the evening news."

Gromyko: "Mr. Mondale, if you feel this way, why did you ask to see me?"

Mondale: "Because I wanted you to take a message back to Moscow. Tell them this country has only one president at a time. When I get to the Oval Office my finger will be just inches from the button and if you people think I won't push it just try me."

Gromyko: "Is that all you have to say to me?"

Mondale: "There's one more thing. Your fly is open."

While my biggest fear was that Mondale would take a hard line with Gromyko, my worry was that President Reagan would lean over the other way to show the voters he is a man of peace.

Reagan: "Comrade Gromyko, what a pleasure to meet you at last. I hope the wheat we're sending you is satisfactory?"

Gromyko: "Yes, it's good. Thank you for filling our order so speedily."

Reagan: "What are friends for? As long as I'm president I will never allow a Soviet citizen to go hungry."

Gromyko: "Shall we talk about how we can stop the arms race?"

Reagan: "Of course we can. But first a toast to peace."

Gromyko: "We have to get back to the tables in Geneva."

Reagan: "That's exactly what I was telling George Shultz. The Americans have been intractable on arms negotiations, and it's gotten us nowhere. We have some great new ideas we'd like to put forward and I don't mind telling you that when your people hear them, you'll know we're giving up a lot more than we're getting in return."

Gromyko: "You can't be serious."

Reagan: "Andrei, we're superpowers. You cheat, we cheat, but what differences does it make as long as we can live together side by side in harmony?"

Gromyko: "You really mean you don't want war?"

Reagan: "With Grenada, yes, the Soviet Union, never."

Gromyko: "Is that all you have to say?"

Reagan: "That's a nice suit you're wearing."

Jack Anderson Terror in Paris sours a plum

WASHINGTON — Terrorist attacks have left a miasma of fearing hanging over our Paris embassy, which used to be American diplomats' favorite post.

The danger for U.S. personnel in Paris is much higher than the public has been told. I sent my associate Lucette Lagnado to check out reports that had filtered back to Washington. Here's what she found:

After a three-year pattern of random attacks, embassy personnel are edgy. The elegant embassy building on the Place de la Concorde has become a fortress reminiscent of U.S. embassies in Saigon or Beirut. Concrete barriers are strategically positioned around the building; parking is strictly forbidden near the embassy and passing vehicles are closely scrutinized.

A heavy presence of French gendarmes and uniformed guards are in evidence around the embassy building, in addition to the Marines stationed at the entrances. Visitors are carefully screened and their belongings examined.

What has turned this Foreign Service plum sour? A mysterious group that styles itself as the "Lebanese Armed Revolutionary Faction."

Since 1981, its members have struck repeatedly at U.S. diplomats in Paris. Then, in a change of pace and place, they began gunning for Americans in neighboring countries.

Other incidents that have cast a chill over the Paris embassy include:

- November 1981: Chris Chapman, the embassy charge d'affaires, was shot at and missed by an unknown assailant as he left his home on the way to work. The gunman was never caught.

- Jan. 18, 1982: Lt. Col. Charles Ray, the military attache, was shot and killed as he left his house to go to the embassy. The Lebanese faction claimed credit; French investigators turned up no suspect.
- April 3, 1982: Yacov Barsimontov, an Israeli diplomat, was killed by what police ballistic tests proved to be the same gun that killed Ray.
- August 1982: A bomb placed under commercial attache Roderick Grant's car fell off as he drove toward the embassy. A French policeman was killed and another badly wounded as they tried to defuse the bomb, which evidently was meant to go off within the embassy grounds.
- March 1983: The same terrorists tried to assassinate Robert Onan Homme, the American consul-general in Strasbourg. He survived and remains at his post.
- February 1984: Leamon Hunt, a retired Foreign Service officer assigned to head the Sinai Peace Keeping Forces, was gunned down in Rome. Again, the Lebanese Armed Revolutionary Faction claimed responsibility for his brutal murder, and authorities established a link with the incidents in France.

As for the Lebanese Armed Revolutionary Faction, U.S. intelligence sources are pretty well convinced that it is no ragtag group of fanatics, but an organization orchestrated and controlled by a national government: Syria.

Their reasoning is that only a government would have the resources for the planning and manpower that clearly went into the attacks on American personnel. In each case, it was obvious that the targeted diplomat had been under surveillance for an extended period — long enough to know the smallest details of his working and commuting routines.

Diplomats interviewed confessed that a feeling of anxiety has seriously diluted the heady pleasure they once felt over their assignment in the French capital. Instead of enjoying the lovely city along the lines of the lyrics to "April in Paris," they must be always on guard. When they stroll the famous parks and picturesque boulevards, they keep a sharp eye out for suspicious figures. Assassins may lurk under the chestnut trees.

BOONDOGGLE OF THE WEEK: You've read recently about microchips that don't work, but would you believe a darkroom that isn't dark?

Believe it or not, the Department of Energy has spent more than $500,000 on a photography-graphics complex that includes darkrooms that aren't light-tight. As any camera buff can attest, this is a serious flaw.

It's not that the architects weren't told the right way to build a darkroom. As a staff member's complaint to the inspector general noted: "Photography had asked for pocket doors, which are automatically light-tight."

But the drawing-board geniuses knew better. "Sliding doors were installed to our complete surprise," the staffer wrote.

Around The Rim By CAROL BALDWIN A new vision

After you've lived in a town long enough, you begin to overlook things or take things for granted. That was the case with Scenic Mountain.

A recent series in the Herald pointed out things about Scenic Mountain that I'd never heard about. I've been to the park a thousand times and never seen the Eagle or Medicine Man carved into the rock. I'd long since forgotten that the CCC built the road that winds through the park.

I've walked along the nature trail inside the park only once and have never seen the sunrise from the top of the mountain. People who come here from other places are always telling me how beautiful Scenic Mountain is when the sun comes up and I've always agreed. I was just guessing.

I'm going to clip out the map of Scenic Mountain and look for some of the marks left by the CCC and those before them who explored Scenic Mountain.

It's the same with people all over. You overlook things in your hometown that you'd rush to see when vacationing in another area. Many people who live in New York have never visited the Statue of Liberty. I drove thousands of miles just to look at it. I couldn't imagine people not traveling a few miles for a tour, but after overlooking so many things in my own state I see how that could happen.

I remember standing in a subway in New York once with a friend. We were lost and needed directions. We asked a couple of people who told us they had no idea how to get where we were going. They had their daily route mapped out and knew where their day would take them but they blocked out the rest of the city.

A friend here at the newspaper asked me if I had ever hiked around Signal Mountain, another Howard County landmark. I'm not sure how to get to Signal Peak. It is on private property, but occasionally people with true pioneer spirit are allowed to hike in the area.

Then there's the area around Moss Creek Lake. The county has some pretty countryside around that area, but I've ventured into the area to the south of Moss Creek only once or twice. Out in the country on the winding roads which criss-cross the county, I need a map just to find my way home.

Maybe you never really know your hometown until you look at it through the eyes of people seeing it for the first time.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Study contradicts the exec's wife stereotype

By SCIENCE DIGEST
A Hearst Magazine

The wife of a corporate executive has long been portrayed in movies and books as a distressed, emotionally unstable person who is prone to popping pills and drinking martinis. But now, according to Science Digest, a study conducted at the University of Buffalo flatly contradicts that stereotype.

Interestingly, the wives of the top-level execs felt even more content than those of middle managers. Winstanley theorizes that this is because a top exec is more secure in his job than a middle manager and is thus able to be more responsive to his wife's needs. For example, if she does not want to relocate, he can negotiate with his company about not having to move.

In the past, it was assumed that a corporate wife was unhappy because of the demands put on her: having to entertain her husband's colleagues, having to relocate for business purposes or having to be alone while her husband was traveling.

Psychologist Rosemarie Winstanley sent a series of questionnaires designed to evaluate a person's feelings of life satisfaction to 240 wives of both top-level executives and middle managers. The responses revealed that despite the pressures on them, the majority of women felt good about themselves and their marriages.

What was important to the mental health of the women who responded to the questionnaires was the amount of autonomy and control they had. That is, as long as a wife had some input into her life with her husband, she was likely to feel content.

If Winstanley is right, asks Science Digest, why did the stereotype ever develop? The image arose, she answers, in part because corporate wives who were unhappy were very vocal about their feelings. The media and the business community picked up on this, and hence the stereotype was born.

Dr. Donohue

Brain aneurysm often symptomless

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My girlfriend died suddenly at age 44 of what her daughter said was an aneurysm of the brain. I always thought someone with this affliction would have severe headaches prior to death. I don't remember her complaining about headaches. Please enlighten me about such aneurysms. How can they be detected early? — Mrs. M.M.

Your friend's death is a great sadness. I have to say it is one of those problems over which we have no control. Most of the time the aneurysm is not detected until it has burst.

A cerebral aneurysm is a bulge on one of the brain's arteries. It's like a blister. When it bursts blood seeps into brain tissue. That usually occurs suddenly and without warning. Then there is severe headache and the person often lapses into a coma. The outcome depends on how much blood has seeped into the brain. If it's a large amount, death usually follows; if the person survives there is a great deal of damage.

You cannot avoid aneurysms if they are to happen. They are the result of a developmental quirk in the artery wall and, as I said, usually undetectable. Only in rare instances will there be telltale signs — a transitory weakness in an arm or leg, for example. So people who have unexplained loss of movement, even briefly, should report that to the doctor.

Yes, sometimes even headaches can be related to such a problem. But most often such symptoms are not indicative of the problem your girlfriend had. In fact, it would be quite rare for such symptoms to mean cerebral aneurysm.

Narrowing of the arteries from fat deposits might be a factor. That's a common cause of stroke, in fact. And really, that is what your girlfriend had, a stroke, albeit from an unusual cause.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am taking quinine medicine for leg cramps, which come on at night. Sometimes it helps, but not often. It happened five or six times last night. The pain was almost more than I could bear. Massage helps and eventually the pain ceases. Is there anything new you know about to help me get relief? — Mrs. C.M.

When you rule out easily-treatable causes like low thyroid production, dehydration, or kidney disturbance, then treating leg cramps becomes a trial-and-error proposition. Those treatable causes, while rare, should be ruled out through examination, however.

Usually the cramping is only a harmless body alarm, occurring in 15 percent of young adults and a higher percentage of the elderly. I've known of cases where the simplest suggestions pay off in relief.

If you sleep on your back, keep the covers loose or use a foot cradle to raise them from your feet. When you're on your back your feet tend to push downward. That can initiate a cramp. Some sufferers prop a pillow against their soles to avoid the downward flopping. Or learn to sleep on your side.

Before you go to bed stretch your calf muscles. Facing a wall (about three feet away) and with your heels on the floor, lean forward as you prop your hands against the wall. Hold there. Count to 10. Rest for a count of five, then repeat.

Other medicine besides quinine that helps include chloroquine, phenytoin and carbamazepine. Be sure you stay well-hydrated. You may find other tips in the booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Other readers may order by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printing and handling.

Dear Abby

Entertaining

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the 16-year-old girl signed "Nosy Mother Trouble" prompts my first letter to you. Mother insisted her daughter keep her bedroom door open when she entertained her boyfriend in her bedroom, even though all the kids did was sit on the bed and listen to the stereo.

I'm a mother of two teen-age boys, ages 15 and 17. When my sons first brought girls to the house, I was appalled when they started to walk into their respective bedrooms. That's when I explained to both of them that we have a family room and a living room for entertaining our friends.

Can you picture Mom and Dad inviting our friends over, bypassing the rest of the house to go sit on our bed and listen to the stereo? So, here's another "Nosy Mother."

BEEN THERE
IN SACRAMENTO

DEAR ABBY: Stay tuned for a few words from a teen-ager who is there:

DEAR ABBY: Boy, did I ever relate to the teen-age girl whose mother made her keep her bedroom door open when she had her boyfriend over.

If I can't close my bedroom door when my boyfriend is over, I feel uncomfortable — like my mother is eavesdropping on me. And my boyfriend is uncomfortable, too.

Abby, if we kids were going to do something, we wouldn't do it when our parents were home. We have plenty of opportunity to do stuff like that somewhere else. Mothers who always suspect their kids of the worst can actually push their kids into doing something for spite.

SAN MATEO TEEN-AGER

DEAR ABBY: My mail has been evenly divided. Almost without exception, teen-agers want to entertain in their bedrooms with the door closed. ("Trust us!")

And parents who allow their teen-agers to entertain in their bedrooms do so reluctantly, saying they'd rather have them at home than somewhere else. But most parents insist on the open-door policy.

A Big Spring WINNER!

Corky Harris

Chairman, Big Spring Symphony Maintenance Fund Campaign

Corky Harris is one of that new breed of Big Spring residents: young, educated, community-minded native sons who left lucrative environs to return home. Corky was traveling a lot, as a petroleum engineer for Amoco, when he and his wife, Cheryl, decided to move back to Big Spring "so we could settle down and get involved in the community." He hopes to help create opportunities that will make others want to return and use their talents here. "Big Spring is marked by a certain 'openness' that other small towns don't have," Corky believes, enabling people to move here and make a place for themselves. Corky is chairman of the 1984 Maintenance Fund Campaign of the Big Spring Symphony Assn., an organization that in only a few years' time has forged its own symphony orchestra. "I know of no other city this size that has such an attraction," Corky says. He's charter member of Greater Big Spring Rotary Club and member of the board. He is a graduate of the first Leadership Big Spring class and now serves on the faculty. A graduate of Big Spring High School and Texas Tech, Corky is president of Harris Lumber & Hardware, Inc., his family's business since 1966. His hobbies are woodworking, snow-skiing and computer science. The Harrises have one son, Chad, 5.

Brown's gripes ruining record run

They call him "Sweetness" and it is a treat to watch the man carry the football.

This Sunday versus the New Orleans Saints he will more than likely become the NFL's career rusher leader. By now, anyone with any football knowledge knows the man in question is Walter Payton.

Now that Payton is about to break Jim Brown's record I've heard all this talk about how great a running back he is. Well I've got news for those so-called critics. Walter Payton has been the best running back in the NFL for the past six years, bar-none — Earl Campbell, Franco Harris and John Riggins included.

The man is so spectacularly consistent that it is a taken-for-granted fact that he enters each season as a first-class threat to rush for 1,500 yards, catch 50 passes and throw a touchdown pass or two.

They forgot in 1977 that if not for a sprained ankle in the last game off the season he might have broken O.J. Simpson's single season rushing mark of 2,003 yards.

People sometimes forget that Payton plays for the Chicago Bears, who have not been known for their offensive line over the past seven seasons. Walter has taken a lot of punishment behind sometimes-scarce blocking. But he still has rushed for over 100 yards 60 times and has had seven 1,000 yard seasons.

Ask Earl Campbell how hard it is to run behind a line that doesn't block.

That's what so good about Payton. You don't have to be a spectacular blocker for Sweetness to find a place to run. He's quick, strong, fast and has unbelievable balance. In fact, Walter is so bullish that he sometimes dishes out as much punishment as he receives.

But now a guy with the present record by the name of Jim Brown is really gunning for the "Sour Grapes" award. It's easy to see that Brown is a self-centered old man who thinks he can still run a decent 40 and play in the NFL.

Brown gives Payton more respect that he does Harris, but he won't give Payton his due. Mr. Brown seems to think he's the best runner to ever play the game.

Sure Brown was big, shifty and fast, but he played in an era where linemen and linebackers were not as strong nor as fast. The cornerbacks and safeties were little guys compared to the 210 pounders that play in the secondary now days.

Brown was the cream of the crop back then. Those he couldn't run, over he would outrun. He didn't have any Lawrence Taylors around that were larger and just as quick as Brown. He didn't try to turn the corner on a safety like Lester Hays who weighs 215 pounds and runs a 9.3 100-yard dash.

In short, Jim Brown played in a period where the players didn't have the abilities that players do now. It would be something to see Brown in the NFL today. Fat chance he could average 104 yards per game.

On the other hand could you see Payton playing in the 50's with all those fat, slow people trying to chase him? Payton could have rushed for 15,000 yards in 10, 14-game seasons.

When he retires Payton will first be remembered as a runner, though, his style is not easy to describe. He is not as pretty to watch as a Gale Sayers or Tony Dorsett, or as powerful as Brown or Campbell. But he is a mixture of all the great runners and, contrary to what Brown says, Payton does have the final gear to go all the way.

And the final accolade is that Payton is the greatest runner to ever play the game so far.

Are you listening out there Jim Brown?

TOUGH NIGHT FOR QUARTERBACKS — Cincinnati Bengals' quarterback Ken Anderson is sacked by Steelers' Mike Merriweather (57) during the first quarter of Monday night's NFL game played in Pittsburgh. On the next play Anderson was sacked again and left the game with back spasms. His replacement Turk Schonert, right, holds his arm on the bench during the fourth quarter. Schonert in turn was replaced by rookie Boomer Esiason in a game the Steelers won, 38-17.

Akers: "We deserve it"

Longhorns assume poll's top spot

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas, no stranger to the No. 1 spot in college football, is at the top again — for the first time since 1981 — and Coach Fred Akers says the Longhorns deserve their high ranking.

"I think we deserve it as much as anybody I've seen," Akers said Monday after the Longhorns became the fourth team this season to claim the No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press poll. "We are young and we are building, but we are making just a terrific effort and the top players are making the top plays."

Texas, which was No. 6 in the preseason ranking and has moved up one spot in each of the five regular-season polls, climbed from second to first by whipping Penn State 28-3 Saturday while top-rated Nebraska was falling to Syracuse 17-9.

While Nebraska tumbled from first place to eighth and Penn State skidded from fourth to 11th, Texas received 51 of 60 first-place votes and 1,183 of a possible 1,200 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters. The Longhorns were followed by Ohio State, Washington, Boston College and Oklahoma, while Vanderbilt made the Top Twenty for the first time in 26 years.

Texas, winner of national championships in 1963 and 1969, has been ranked No. 1 at some time during the season 10 times since 1961. The last time was midway in 1981 after Texas defeated Oklahoma. But the lofty ranking lasted only one week as Arkansas drubbed the Longhorns 42-11.

Akers said he would mention that to the team this week. "If you let it inflate your ego, it's just as dangerous as not being No. 1," he said.

Texas, getting a late start and with an open date, is 2-0 after victories over Auburn and Penn State, but Akers said of the long season ahead, "It's in our hands now." He told a Monday news conference that Texas' effort against Penn State was "as aggressive as I've seen a football team be for 60 minutes in every phase."

"We accomplished everything we set out to do this past week as far as that game was concerned. No. 1, we wanted to play well; we did. We wanted to improve; we did."

We wanted to win; we did.

"We don't make a big thing out of it — 15th or No. 2 or No. 1 — as far as how we work. We try to always work like we're No. 1."

But Akers added: "I think it's an honor to be named No. 1. I think to say anything less than that would be dishonest . . . but . . . we don't place a whole lot of importance on it."

"There's no question that the last one (poll) is the only one that's really important. However, any time that you can get it I think you should be grateful for it because it doesn't happen that many times to too many people." Texas opens Southwest Conference play at Rice, 1-2, Saturday night and Akers was asked if the No. 1 ranking would give the Owls more incentive. "We seem to offer them enough incentive anyway," he said. "Most teams kind of consider us their big game."

Ohio State, a 35-22 winner over Minnesota received five first-place votes and 1,113 points. Washington received one first-place ballot and 1,008 points and jumped from sixth to third with a 52-7 rout of Miami of Ohio. Boston College, which was idle, inched from fifth to fourth with two firsts and 1,005 points while Oklahoma defeated Kansas State 24-6 and rose from seventh to fifth. The Sooners received the other first-place vote and 959 points.

Florida State, which trimmed Temple 44-27, jumped from ninth place to sixth with 846 points. Brigham Young did not play but rose from eighth to seventh with 836 points, followed by Nebraska with 794. Oklahoma State climbed from 10th to ninth with 751 points following a 31-7 triumph over Tulsa and Southern Methodist went from 11 to 10th with 691 points thanks to a 26-17 victory over Texas Christian.

The second Ten consists of Penn State, Georgia Tech, Michigan, Miami, LSU, Notre Dame, UCLA, Auburn, Vanderbilt and Georgia. Syracuse, which lost to Rutgers 28-21 two weeks ago, did not make the Top Twenty despite its upset of Nebraska.

Last week's Second Ten was SMU, Georgia, Clemson, Michigan, Southern California, Miami, UCLA, Georgia Tech, Notre Dame and Auburn.

Clemson, which was No. 2 two weeks ago, dropped out of the Top Twenty by losing to Georgia Tech 28-21, its second straight setback. Southern Cal fell out after losing to LSU 23-3.

Meanwhile, LSU, 3-0-1, appeared for the first time this season and Vanderbilt, 4-0 for the first time since 1950, made it with a 30-21 victory over Alabama.

Tigers looking for fast start repeat in series with Royals

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Detroit Tigers are hoping for the same kind of start they had in April when the American League's second season begins tonight.

The Tigers, who meet the Kansas City Royals in the best-of-five American League Championship Series (ALCS), won their first nine games in April.

That would be two more than they need to capture both the ALCS and the World Series in October.

Hanging over the playoffs was the threat of a strike by major league umpires. Marty Springstead, John Shulock, Greg Kosc, Steve Palermo, Ken Kaiser and Don Denkinger had been selected to work the ALCS.

If they fail to report, amateur umpires will be used, according to Dr. Bobby Brown, president of the American League.

"As long as they don't have Tiger caps, I don't care," Royals' Manager Dick Howser said.

However, most of the players did care.

"We've worked long and hard to get to the playoffs and it would be unfair for the best umpires not to be here," Detroit Catcher Lance Parrish said.

Detroit set a major league record by winning 35 of its first 40 games and went on to win the AL East with a 104-58 record, best in the club's history.

The Royals came from 11 games under .500 on July 18, when they were 40-51, to win the AL West with an 84-78 mark.

On the surface, that would appear to make the Tigers prohibitive favorites, but nobody on either team believes it.

"Yes, we've got better personnel than Kansas City, but that doesn't mean we'll win," Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson said Monday. "Anything can happen in a short series."

Steve Balboni, the Royals' slugging first baseman who led the club with 28 home runs, feels that Kansas City matches up well with Detroit. "We're going to battle," Balboni said as the teams took batting practice in sun-drenched Royals' Stadium. "I believe it's going to be a lot better series than people think. It's just going to be who's wing the bat well at the time." The Tigers will send ace right-hander Jack Morris, 19-11, to the mound against Kansas City left-hander Bud Black, 17-12, in tonight's game.

During the season, Morris started three games against the Royals and came away with a 2-0 record, allowing 3.38 runs for every inning pitched. The Tigers were a bit rougher on Black. He was 0-1 in three starts against Detroit, compiling a 5.89 earned run average.

"I didn't have a lot of success," Black acknowledged. "They are a well-balanced team. They have power and speed. They don't appear to have weaknesses in the lineup."

The Tigers hit 13 home runs during the 12 regular-season games while the Royals hit eight. Each team stole six bases on the other.

Oddly enough, the home field advantage didn't mean much when these two teams met. Detroit was 6-0 in Royals' Stadium and Kansas City was 5-1 in Tiger Stadium.

"In a short series, you can throw statistics out the window," Detroit centerfielder Chet Lemon said. "Anything can happen in a short series."

Still, the feeling persists that the Tigers would feel their fine regular season has been wasted if they fail in the playoffs.

"The fear of not winning is always there," Lemon said. "But, we fared well against them here. We're like any cat when you've got us in a corner. We're going to come out fighting."

"Black's one of the hottest pitchers in the American League right now. We're going to have our work cut out for us."

Kansas City second baseman Frank White said he didn't feel there would be any more pressure on the Tigers than on his club. "I'll tell you, when this thing starts, the adrenalin will be flowing," said White, one of 12 Royals with previous playoff experience.

"We'll have a lot of guys ready to play and so will they."

"For a short series, I think it's all on the mound. Position for position, I think we match up with them very well."

BSHS swim team starts season

By BILLY NABOURS Sports Editor

The weather may have been fit for only ducks during the past few days, but here in Big Spring there is a different kind of water species ready to make the splash.

The Big Spring Steers and Lady Steers swim teams begin their seasons today in dual meet competition against Odessa Permian. The first dive begins at 5:30 p.m. at the Big Spring YMCA pool and, while it will be a slightly wounded Big Spring bunch that swims against 4-5A mate Permian, BSHS swim coach Harlan Smith is very optimistic as he begins the 1984-85 season.

"We've got more experience than in recent years," said Smith. He notes a total of 18 boys and 14 girls out for the team this year and said, "I'm very pleased with the number of boys. We should have our best depth in years on the boy's team."

Heading the list of returners for the Steers are seniors Don DeFlech and Charles Morris, juniors Robert Chase, Brigham Martin and David Booth (a diver), and sophomores Cade Lofton, Scott Ferguson and Dean Payne. Lofton, probably the best overall swimmer among the group, will miss the Permian meet with a stiched up knee he injured while on the diving board during a recent practice.

For the Lady Steers, Yvette Garcia will miss at least two more weeks after being slowed by illness the past few workouts.

Among the girls giving Big Spring a good mix of talent and experience are seniors Hartley Newell, Lisa Salazar and Rose Meyer. Sophomores Tiffany Milch and Victoria Logan, "show real promise," Smith said.

From among the swimmers who have no varsity experience, Smith said Mitch Houghton and Shamir Caplan are two freshmen with "varsity potential," as far as the boy's side is concerned. Louis Morrell is a second diver for the Steers and, "very strong," according to his coach. Other swimmers should come from sophomores Juan Baldwin and Thomas Figroa. "They're all in fair swimming shape," said Smith.

A bevy of freshmen make up the Lady Steers with Denise Salazar, Margaret West, Theresa Shepherd, Bobbie Zipperer, Pam Pearson, Tammy Herring and Annie Gutierrez providing the depth. "Bobbie could develop into a longfree stylist," Smith said.

Overall, Smith stated the attitude of this year's swimmers is, "excellent, they seem to want to swim and work to be successful."

Late Dodgers' manager was admired, respected by many

By The Associated Press

Words like "gentleman," "friend," and "leader" dominated the descriptions of Walter Alston offered following his death by those who knew him.

The former manager of the Dodgers and member of baseball's Hall of Fame died Monday at 72. Alston never fully recovered from a heart attack suffered in the spring of 1983.

"Baseball has lost a first-class gentleman and all of us in the Dodger organization have lost a true friend," said Dodger owner Peter O'Malley. "It is men of Walt's character from which baseball legends are made."

"From the day he was named manager of the Dodgers and the newspapers read, 'Walt who?', the name Alston has become synonymous with the Dodgers, baseball and the greatest managers of all time."

Former Dodger players — and Hall of Fame members — Duke Snider, Sandy Koufax and Roy Campanella were equally effusive in their praise.

Snider said he and Alston "had our run-ins occasionally," but that there was great mutual respect.

"He did a great job in adjusting to the teams and talent he had to work with, whether it be power, pitching or base-stealing," said Snider. "He handled transition as great as anyone."

Koufax, who pitched his entire career under Alston, said, "He was a firm man and an honest man."

Campanella added, "He was my first manager in organized baseball in 1946 at Nashua, N.H. He was our first baseman and manager. He was a wonderful gentleman on and off the field."

Tom Lasorda, who succeeded Alston as manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, said he was glad his former boss was elected to the Hall of Fame before he died.

"I know he really appreciated that, and he deserved it," Lasorda said by telephone from his Fullerton, Calif., home when informed Alston had died at a hospital in Oxford, Ohio. "I've said this before: anybody who could manage the same team for 23 years... that's as difficult if not more difficult than winning 300 games as a pitcher or getting 3,000 hits as a batter."

Alston managed the Dodgers both in Brooklyn and Los Angeles from 1954 to 1976, always under one-year contracts. Lasorda took over when Alston announced his retirement at the end of the 1976 season.

Alston was elected to the Hall of Fame in March 1983, while he was at the Dodgers' spring training camp in Vero Beach, Fla. Less than a month later, he suffered the heart attack.

"I played for the man for six years and I coached for him for four years," Lasorda said. "If you couldn't play for Walter Alston, you couldn't play for anyone."

"He was just a tremendous person. He was the kind of a guy who was a great leader and yet he was a quiet leader. I learned a lot from him. I learned that in order to be a manager, one of the prerequisites is that you've got to be patient."

"It's a sad day in all our lives," Lasorda said. "This was a guy who represented the Dodgers on and off the field with tremendous class and character. We're certainly going to miss him and we're proud to have known him."

'Stealers' whip Bengals, 38-17

PITTSBURGH (AP) — In the days when the Pittsburgh Steelers won the Super Bowl with almost routine regularity, their nearly penetration-proof defense was nicknamed the Steel Curtain.

Now, maybe they ought to call this latest Steelers' defense the Steal Curtain.

In an almost mirror-image performance of their 24-14 Monday night victory over Cincinnati a year ago, the Steelers used five interceptions — two of them for touchdowns by Dwayne Woodruff and Donnie Shell — to beat the winless Bengals 38-17 Monday night.

Last season, the Steelers' defense knocked Bengals' quarterback Ken Anderson from the game with a neck injury, then scored three touchdowns itself while frequently pressuring reserve quarterback Turk Schonert.

This time, the Steelers sent Anderson to the sidelines with muscle spasms in his back, recorded six quarterback sacks and harassed Schonert into throwing four interceptions while twice scoring a pair of touchdowns themselves in a minute's span.

"Defense was the real story of this game," said Steeler Coach Chuck Noll.

"This was one of the most physical games I've ever been in," said linebacker Bryan Hinkle. "We knew it was going to be physical. Their backs were to the wall, they were 0-4 and they couldn't afford to lose another one. This is the kind of defense we need to play every week."

Woodruff and Shell each had a pair of interceptions — Shell's were the 37th and 38 of his career, the most of any active National Football League player — while cornerback Sam Washington had the other interception, giving him a league-high six this season.

"This was important not only for our defense but for everybody," Washington said. "We were coming off a loss (20-10 to the Cleveland Browns) where we just kicked ourselves in the butt. Losing is contagious and bad habits are contagious."

Just ask the Bengals.

"Maybe we need an exorcist," said wide receiver Cris Collinsworth.

A victory would do just fine, said first-year Coach Sam Wyche — who has yet to enjoy his first NFL coaching victory five games into the season.

"When you're not winning, you start to ask a lot of questions," Wyche said. "You ask if you are ever going to win and if, in fact, you are good enough to win. It's going to take a lot of courage."

The Steelers led by 14-0 and 24-10, but a 1-yard scoring run by Schonert made it 24-17 early in the fourth quarter. Then Ray Griffin gave Cincinnati a chance to tie by intercepting a David Woodley pass in the end zone after Pittsburgh had marched to the Bengals' 13.

But Schonert, seeing his first extensive action of the season, was intercepted again by Woodruff to set up Walter Abercrombie's 5-yard touchdown run with 4:48 remaining. Then, just 25 seconds later, Shell got in front of a Schonert pass and returned it 52 yards for a score.

"When it was 24-17, Turk just made a poor judgment by throwing over the middle," Wyche said.

The Bengals were as close as 14-10 before a 31-yard Gary Anderson field goal and what proved the game's deciding play, a 23-yard Woodley to Weegie Thompson scoring pass late in the third quarter.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDS., OCTOBER 3, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning hours are not good for getting involved in any contentious arguments or discussions and for refraining from making commitments of a material nature.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do nothing in the morning that could spoil your reputation in any way, but after lunch make real progress in gaining personal wishes.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you refrain from running off on some tangent in the morning, you can later be with bigwigs and get fine results.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get that responsibility handled early, and then you can run off to something more exciting. Don't do anything to irk your mate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Keep your word with an associate though it may be boring and later you can be with a good friend at some hobby you like.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Any work in the morning should meet with the approval of higher-ups. A fellow worker could prove annoying.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Stick to work ahead of you instead of going off on some tangent, and later you get fine benefits.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't argue with a family tie and then you can meet with those with whom you want to enjoy a good time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Some misive could cause confusion in the morning, but later you find that the situation at home is apt to be very fine.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't invest too heavily in anything or you can surely regret it later on. Study reports and statements very carefully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may be disappointed, but don't broadcast it around or you can lose out where it counts the most.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You may have to handle a task you dislike in the morning, but get it done just the same and it is soon behind you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A demanding friend could make you look silly in the morning, if you permit, but later you make big headway toward gaining a desire.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she can easily get in trouble with others if not taught early to have more regard for their feelings, especially if spoiled at home. However, upon reaching maturity a fine, upstanding citizen will be in this chart and one who can achieve a good deal during the lifetime.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Trial begins in wrongful deaths in airplane crash

WACO (AP) — In a case involving too many people to fit into a courtroom, some of Texas' most distinguished lawyers are gathering in a library building for the wrongful death lawsuit stemming from the deaths of seven men killed when their plane fell apart in 1982.

Jury selection in the suit filed by families of the Central Texas men killed in the May 1982 airplane crash was scheduled to begin today at the Lee Lockwood Texas Scottish Rite Library and Museum.

The trial was moved to the building by 74th State District Judge Derwood Johnson because Waco's courtrooms could not accommodate the number of parties involved.

During pre-trial proceedings Monday, at least 20 attorneys representing the seven plaintiff families and 13 defendants crowded into 74th State District court in an attempt to lay ground rules for the trial, which court officials have estimated might last six weeks.

The suit was filed last year after Dr. M. Brian Aynesworth, Dick Hambleton, Dan McDonald, Lewis M. Weaver and Charles Richards of Waco were killed south of San Antonio as the men were returning from a fishing trip to Mexico. Also killed were Mike Wood of San Antonio and Dan Panter of Austin.

Johnson has ordered attorneys in the suit, which include notable Texas trial attorneys John Hill, a Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice candidate, prominent Houston lawyer Joe Jamail and Wayne Fisher, not to discuss the "merits" of the case with the news media.

The victims' families initially filed suit last year against Beechcraft Corp., Texas Aero Inc., Pratt and Whitney Aircraft, Hartzell Propeller Inc. and Woodward Governor Co.

In May, Johnson allowed the five original defendants to seek damages against eight third-party companies said to have supplied parts for, or worked on, the twin-engine plane before the accident.

Johnson also granted a motion enabling attorneys for the families to seek damages from the third-party companies.

The amount of damages being sought has not been disclosed.

Added to the suit in May were Century Flight Systems Inc., Riteway Radio Inc., Mitchell Industries Inc., Edo-Aire Mitchell, Edo Corp., Aneuco Inc, Rockwell-Collins International Inc. and Rockwell International.

Court officials have predicted that it will take two days to select the 12-member panel and two alternate jurors.

CAMPAIGN PLANNERS — Local federal agency office heads gather at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp to discuss details of the United Way campaign for Howard County federal employees. Shown are Sherry Bordschke, chairman of the Howard County United Way campaign; Jan Schmidt, assistant superintendent of the prison; Tim Hall, local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service director; John Steward, Veterans Administration Hospital administrator; and Campaign chairman John Gluch, prison superintendent (shown seated).

Illegal alien wins suit, judge awards $8 million

HOUSTON (AP) — An illegal alien who lost both hands while helping to move a house has been awarded $8 million in damages from a utility and a moving company, attorneys say.

Remedio Ybarra, 54, sued Houston Lighting & Power Co. and Williamson House Moving and Leveling in 1982, accusing both of negligence in the accident.

Attorney Michael Wash described Ybarra and his wife, Isabel, as "citizens of Mexico" who have been living in the East Texas community of Orange periodically for about six years.

"They're entitled to the civil process as much as a citizen is," Wash said. "American justice does extend to all people who are on our premises." Ybarra, a former employee of Williamson, had both arms amputated at the elbow after he was hurt in December 1981 when a house that he was moving touched a power line.

Ybarra's lawsuit accused HL&P of negligence for installing uninsulated electrical wires and failing to guard against accidental contact. He reached an out-of-court settlement with HL&P, which agreed to pay the couple $1.15 million over the next 20 years.

A $6.5 million judgment against Dickie Ben Williamson Jr. and his company was entered last week by State District Judge Michael O'Brian after Williamson failed to appear for trial.
