JIM RYALS

By RICK BROWN Staff Writer

In a major reshuffling of the Big Spring Fire Department announc-ed today, Fire Chief Jim Ryals has stepped down and will be replaced by Fire Marshal Carl Dorton. Ryals will remain with the department and take over Dorton's former position of fire marshal, said City Manager Don Davis this morning.

'In order to best utilize the numerous talents of both Jim and Carl, we have effected this new arrangement," said Davis, reading from a prepared statement. "This reorganization is in keeping with

Because of the reorganization, which becomes effective today, "We'll be able to expand some services in the fire department," said Davis. The city manager referred to increased attention to weedabatement programs, programs for burned-out buildings and other technical services that Ryals will oversee. Ryals, 47, was not available for comment this morning. A prepared statement from the Big Spring Professional Firefighters Association, a union credit for changes that were made department and it's service to the firefighters, said union members were "stunned" by Ryals' reassignment.

"In our opinion, Chief Ryals was one of the biggest assets we had," said union president John Branham, reading from the statement. "It is a personal loss to all firefighters in this department," Branham said.

Branham said he could not comment on whether the union would fight Ryals' reassignment.

The union's statement mentioned Ryals' 23 years of experience as a Big Spring firefighter, giving him

Among changes mentioned in the statement were the enactment of formal state certification training for rookies, remodeling of fire stations "using on-duty personnel to save the city labor costs," addition of new equipment, and reorganization of station personnel to provide the best coverage to every citizen in Big Spring.'

"All this was done with a minimum budget," said the statement

The new fire chief said he planned "no drastic changes immediately," but said some changes will be made within the next year.

Local Demo Party kicks off campaign

The Howard County Democratic much." Party Sunday night opened its campaign office doors to a red, white and blue room and Doggett and Mondale posters. About 50 persons, including state Rep. Larry Don Shaw and Democratic nominee for County Commissioner Precinct 3 Joneil Smallwood, attended the opening, which included a debate-watching party at 8 p.m.

Smallwood, the only local candidate with a Republican opponent in the general election, said he was optimistic about the election.

"I'm getting real good feedback. Several people are working real hard for me," Smallwood said. He has begun door-to-door canvassing this month, he said.

He also repeated earlier statements that he would try to improve the condition of equipment in the county's rural volunteer fire departments, and to organize the departments better.

He also called for a meeting between county commissioners and ci-ty councilmen "at least quarter-" to increase the cooperation between the two governmental bodies. "They need to work together and save everybody more money.

Commissioners and councilmen began such a meeting about a month ago, but the second meeting elled and the mo was can

Panhandle ranchers prospering

ABILENE (AP) - While some ranchers are "barely hanging on' to their herds, cattlemen in the lush Panhandle are prospering from the misfortune of their southern neighbors.

Ranchers in as many as 40 Texas counties are selling livestock in record numbers as they face another winter with nothing but parched grass to graze their herds and little money to buy feed.

Much of the cattle is ending up on feedlots or winter ranges in the Texas Panhandle. Lush grazing lands have swelled the herds. "Most of the lots are pretty well

Outside: Fair

Look for fair days and cool nights during the next few days. Look for highs near 80 degrees and southeasterly winds, 5 to 10 miles per hour. Tonight, look for fair skies and lows in the low 50s and northeasterly winds, less than 10 miles per hour. On Tuesday, the forecast calls for highs near 80.

Smallwood focused on filling the empty houses and businesses in Big Spring as one of his main goals if elected commissioner.

"There are so many empty houses and buildings in Big Spring because over the last few years we have lost about one-half of the population," he said. "What's our population? Twenty thousand, 19.000, 18.000 - if we could overnight move that many people in, we wouldn't need any new housing."

Smallwood said he thought the city and county should cooperate more to concentrate on offering small and large manufacturers taxbreaks and lower rent to attract them to move to Big Spring. The increased tax base would enable the county to avoid increasing the tax rate, he said.

On the subject of taxes. Smallwood called the recent decrease in the county tax rate by commissioners a political move.

"I think the tax cut should have been made at an earlier time than election year. If they couldn't cut more than they did, they shouldn't have made a cut," Smallwood said. "It didn't help any one person very Smallwood also said he approved plans to build a new county jail, saying the commissioners should have set aside the funds years earlier.

"The first thing they should do is get the jail out (of the courthouse) and then get an architect (to renovate the courthouse), Smallwood said. "There's plenty of room to expand the other offices.'

He also called expanding or renovating the courthouse building without moving the jail "the most stupid thing" he had heard. "(Commissioner) Louis Brown's been telling them to move the jail for years," Smallwood said.

Shaw is unopposed in his bid for re-election. Other county officials present at the reception were County Judge Milton Kirby, Treasurer Bonnie Franklin and the Democratic nominee for Justice of the Peace Precinct 1, Place 1 China Long. Long also is unopposed in the general election.

Persons who stayed to watch the debate were asked to rate the two candidates on their performance, including their poise, humor, knowledge of the issues and direct responses to the questions.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) -Ronald Reagan and Walter F. Mondale collided in campaign debate Sunday night, the president describing Mondale's deficit reduction blueprint as just another Democratic "tax hike" plan, and the aggressive challenger saying Reagan takes the position the red ink "will disappear by magic."

In a 100-minute showdown that dramatized disputes over Social Security, religion in politics, abortion and presidential leadership, Reagan and Mondale made their case standing behind podiums eight feet apart before a television audience estimated at 100 million people.

There were no obvious gaffes from either man - Reagan hoping to hold on to his sizable pre-debate lead in the polls and Mondale look-

eback in the campaign's final month

"I think we have given America back her spirit," Reagan said as the debate drew to a close.

Mondale had already praised Reagan for raising American morale and spirit. But he said selfcongratulation is not enough for a nation with problems to be solved, and he argued that the Republican way is unfair, sometimes "meanspirited."

Mondale said afterwards he felt "very good," and told supporters, "You know what? We're going to win this election.'

Reagan's campaign manager, Nevada Sen. Paul Laxalt, said the Democratic challenger did well. "but I think the president did better." He said Mondale "never

Vice President George Bush and Mondale's running mate, Geraldine Ferraro, — who will meet in their own debate Thursday night in Philadelphia - reacted just as predictably.

"It might not come as a surprise to you when I tell (you) that President Reagan came out way ahead," Bush told reporters at the vice presidential residence in Washington.

He said Mondale "seemed a little desperate" with his attacks, but even so, "couldn't seem to lay a glove" on the president.

In New York, Ms. Ferraro said Mondale showed the public "exactly what our vision of the future is. "Tonight's debate is going to

Ferraro praises Mondale, readies for debate

Workers threatened with jobs

NEW YORK (AP) - Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro said Sunday night that Walter F. Mondale showed "the American people exactly what our vision of the future is" in his debate with President Reagan.

She said Mondale projected a vision of "the future for all people," and that Reagan "left out a good number of people."

Ms. Ferraro, questioned after the debate by NBC-TV's Tom Brokaw, said the debate was important because it was the first time the American people saw the two candidates "side-by-side and you had a full discussion of domestic issues.

She said Mondale showed "the American people exactly what our vision of the future is, and you saw the president debating the past and his record, which you notice he had a bit of a problem defending.

Ms. Ferraro said Reagan, in his summary remarks, "left out the poor, the disabled, he left out farmers, he left out people who depend upon exports, he left out entire segments in our society.

She watched the debate at a supporter's home in Queens with about 100 people who paid $50 each to attend

At a news conference afterwards, she rebutted Reagan on several points and said she believed Mondale had won it.

She said the debate provided "90 minutes of substance ... without scripts, without TelePromp-Ters, without the 3-by-5 cards, without the balloons, without the yelling and screaming and the oneliners.'

When questioned about Mondale's lagging posi-tion in the polls, she responded: "Tonight's debate is going to make a difference in those polls.

Earlier in the day, Ms. Ferraro told fellow Italian-Americans that her candidacy may make it easier for them to seek office "without somebody saying something" about their heritage.

"As the first women (to run on a major party ticket), a lot of attention is focused on me," she said at a pre-Columbus Day rally in Newark, N.J. "Let me tell you that as the first Italian-

American as well, I am very, very proud.'

Ms. Ferraro was introduced by Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., who condemned "unconscionable slurs" about her background, an apparent reference to news articles suggesting an organized crime link to buildings owned or managed by her husband, New York real estate dealer John Zaccaro.

As Christopher Columbus survived his Atlantic crossing to discover America so "you will be able to weather the storm and overcome all these terrible, ugly allusions and rumors," Rodino told Ms. Ferraro.

Referring to a young state assemblyman on the dais, she said, "I hope the things that are being done in this campaign will make it easier and make it possible for a Steve Adudato in 12 years or 16 years or whatever time it is, to run and not ever have to worry about somebody saying something about him because he is an Italian-American.

100 hospitalized in spill

INDEN, N.J. — A pesticide spill that sent at least 100 people to hospitals for emergency treatment should have no lasting or delayed effects on their health, a poisons expert says. The fumes from an outdoor tank containing malathion drifted as far as 18 miles on Saturday over communities in northern New Jersey and Staten Island, N.Y. Hospitals treated people for headaches, dizziness, nausea, vomiting, abdominal cramps and burning eyes. Dr. Steven Marcus of the New Jersey Poison Information and Education System said even people with respiratory problems would suffer no delayed effects, and he said no one who was hospitalized was seriously ill.

Navy examines shooting

NORFOLK, Va. — The Navy says it has been investigating since August a captain accused of shooting at whales, failing to report a collision between his ship and a trawler and having computer tapes thrown overboard.

Allegations surrounding the USS San Jose, commanded by Capt. Melvin D. Munsinger, involve "potential misconduct by the commanding officer and others," Lt. Cmdr. Ron Morse, a spokesman for the Pacific Fleet Surface Force in San Diego, said in a telephone interview Sunday.

The accusations against the 26-year Navy veteran were reported Sunday by the Norfolk Virginia-Pilot and Ledger-Star. Munsinger declined comment on the probe.

HOUSTON - Yellow Cab Co. is offering a $10,000 reward for an arrest and indictment in the third slaying of one its drivers since the beginning of September.

Nulcear plant repaired

HADDAM, Conn. - A rubber gasket at Northeast Utilities' Connecticut Yankee nuclear power plant has been reinforced since it failed Aug. 21, spilling 200,000 gallons of mildly radioactive water, utility officials say.

The water loss could have uncovered fuel in a storage pool if fuel were being transferred at the time, resulting in "radioactive steam and meltdown" if other safety devices also failed, said NRC spokesman Karl Abraham.

Northeast Utilities has modified the rubber seal and has added a backup seal of metal, said spokesman Jack Keenan.

Navy reprimands officer

SAN DIEGO - A Navy commander convicted of an improper right turn that grounded the USS Thomaston off Hawaii has been reprimanded and permanently relieved of ship command.

However, Cmdr. Willard Chrisman, 42, was acquitted Saturday of 12 of 13 court-martial counts against him, including drunkenness and dereliction of duty the night the disabled Thomaston went aground last January. He was sentenced immediately to the reprimand and loss of command.

Pope John Paul denounces Mafia

- Pope John Paul II, finishing a tative-Springthree-day tour of crime-prone Center southern Italy, denounced the year. Mafia by name and promised that off the he and the Roman Catholic Church ll forwould support efforts to wipe it out. The pope, who used such expresith the sions as "organized crime" during the first two days of his visit, issued his most direct criticism of the organized crime syndicate Sunday when he addressed several thousand people in Reggio Calabria. John Paul made note of the high unemployment and other economic difficulties that have dogged the region. Then he added: "And how could you forget the phenomenon of criminal and Mafia activities and the worrying form of omerta and corruption that they generate?"

Omerta is the age-old Mafia code of silence that has protected Mafia chieftains from arres.

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (AP) criticism of organized crime during his tour, all but one of his dozen references to the underworld passed by without any applause. Only in Reggio Calabria did several thousand young people break into applause when the pontiff told them not to yield "to criminal and Mafia violence.'

John Paul offered his support and the support of the church to fight organized crime. "Faced with these problems, the church cannot be silent, cannot be absent or indifferent," he said.

"The church and Christians have the duty to place themselves in the front row in denouncing injustices and above all in creating a strong moral, social and political conscience, which will lead to concrete initiatives," he said Saturday.

John Paul's tour coincided with the Italian government's continuing nationwide roundup of Mafia Despite the pope's consistent suspects based on the recent, unprecedented confessions of jailed three more apparent victims of Sicilian crime boss Tommaso Buscetta

Corriere della Sera, Italy's leading newspaper, commented that the pontiff was aiming at getting local church officials to step up their activities.

"Several years ago, the Calabrian bishops engaged in selfcriticism and issued pronouncements about the Mafia. But it is evident that the pope still finds inadequate their words and above all the concrete actions they are supposed to follow," the newspaper said

Italian governments have tried for decades to wipe out the Mafia in Sicily and Calabria, the Mafia-like 'Ndrangheta in Calabria, and the affiliated Camorra in Naples.

But while lawmakers have made advances, thousands of gang members remain active and on Sunday police found the bodies of organized crime violence.

In Caserta, 15 miles north of Naples, police said they found the burned bodies of three men Sunday, all apparent victims of gangland murders. The bodies were in a sports car that had been set afire in the countryside.

Police said it would take several days to identify the victims, who also were shot in the head However, they speculated that one body may be that of a missing leader of a faction of the Nuova Cammora, a Mafia-style crime gang based in Naples.

The trip to Calabria was the longest of John Paul's 44 voyages inside Italy during the past six years. In November 1982 he went to the heart of Mafia country, Palermo, Sicily, to attack the underworld.

Senate should be open to TV

Howard Baker has given up. He will retire from the U.S. Senate at the end of this year, not having succeeded in opening the chamber to live television.

That is a disappointment, not only for the senior Republican 617 senator from Tennessee, who is the Senate's majority leader, but for Americans who had hoped to see and hear the debates of that great deliberative body on television.

The proceedings of the House of Representatives have been telecast for several years without serious consequences for the dignity of the House. There has been partisan bickering about members campaigning on the floor in front of the television cameras. But that is of minor importance, compared to the public benefits of televising debates such as the one earlier this year on the Simpson-Mazzoli immigration law reform bill. It is harmless when the Senate insists on preserving tradition by keeping quill pens at each desk and sand to dry the ink of their signatures. But when a few senators object to unobtrusive television cameras, they are doing a serious disservice to the nation and to the Senate.

4-A

The electronic doors of the chamber that echoed to the speeches of Daniel Webster, John C. Calhoun and Henry Clay should long ago have been thrown wide open, so the people can hear the great debates and see the filibusters.

Among his fellows, Howard Baker is one of the most popular senators in history. Perhaps they will reconsider, when they return from adjournment and offer this fitting tribute.

Gromyko's visit

WASHINGTON - Who won, not what happened, is the question that has to be asked after the visit of Andrei Gromyko. For while little happened, there were winners and osers in Washington and Moscow. In general, those favoring an easing of Big Two tensions came out on top. They will be stronger than before in their respective capitals, and they have available the elements of a major arms control accord.

On the American side, President Reagan, Secretary of State Shultz and Secretary of Defense Weinberger have stayed out of the tangled technical spaghetti of arms control. The battles have devolved upon two officials at the assistant secretary level - Richard Perle at and Richard Burt at State The national security adviser, now 11 Robert MacFarlane, had his hands full umpiring what became known as the War of the Two Richards. Until last summer, as Strobe Talbot shows in his fine book Deadly Gambits, Perle scotched every serious arms control opening. But he was fenced out of the act that led to the Gromyko meeting by Shultz and MacFarlane. The act began on June 29, when Moscow proposed that the Big Two meet in Vienna on Sept. 18 to discuss demilitarization of space including this country's projected "Star Wars" defense against incoming missiles. In conjunction with the meeting Russia wanted a moratorium on testing in space. Perle and many others in the Pentagon were in position to devastate that proposal. The Russians now lead in space defense. The U.S. is about to test a possible breakthrough. Thus accepting the Russian proposal could assure permanent American inferiority. Thanks to Shultz and Mac-Farlane, however, the Pentagon never got to argue the technical merits of the case in a big way. The secretary of state and the national security adviser expressed interest in the Soviet proposal, but with a loose understanding that talks about limiting defense in space should also be linked with a resumption of the talks - abandoned by Russia last year - on limiting offensive weapons. The Russians never responded concretely to that counterproposal. But while Moscow dithered, Shultz and MacFarlane came up with the idea for the Gromyko visit. If only because they would have looked like saboteurs of their own gambit, the Russians agreed.

meetings constitutes an undoubted political plus for the president. The dialogue shows that four more years of Reagan is consistent with peace, not an inevitable drift to nuclear war. Shultz and Mac-Farlane are major beneficiaries, and the talk that they are about to be replaced by Weinberger and U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick now evokes only derision.

The infighting on the Russian side is much harder to track. What follows is the view of the American Embassy in Moscow, which played a crucial role in organizing the Gromyko visit.

Three acute problems, the embassy believes, weigh on the Kremlin. Economic growth has dramatically now strains to meet the combined demands of its military, its consumers, and its allied countries. Marxist ideology has lost its relevance, and Communist leaders, and would-be leaders, are increasingly obliged to rely on brute force. On top of all that there is an unresolved leadership problem. Konstantin Chernenko, 73 and ailing, is not strong enough to run the country. His colleagues, equally aged, resist change. The 53-year-old heir apparent, Mikhail Gorbachev, has not nailed down

Buying the farm vote

WASHINGTON - The Reagan administration, hoping for a rich harvest of votes in the Farm Belt, is planning a big increase in government grain exports to Third World countries.

It's the latest in a series of actions designed to shore up the president's support among the nation's hard-pressed farmers.

The President's Task Force on International Private Enterprise is just concluding a two-day meeting in Washington. It's expected to recommend a major expansion of the PL 480 program, under which the government buys agricultural commodities from farmers and ships them to famineplagued countries at little or no cost

The task force was created early last year to "recommend ways to strengthen private enterprise in the developing world primarily through U.S. foreign assistance programs." It is headed by Dwayne Andreas, board chairman of Archer-Daniels-Midland, one of the world's largest grain ealers

Andreas is no political babe-in-the-woods. He has supported candidates as diverse as Richard Nixon and Hubert Humphrey. Now he's stressing the political benefits of an administration decision to increase the foreign grain giveaway.

Regan suspected early on that the task force might try to strip Treasury of its paramount role in shaping U.S. international economic policy. He ordered an investigation, and sure enough - his worst fears were confirmed.

Regan's aides reported that the task force favors creation of an all-powerful Economic Policy Council - a sort of counterpart to the National Security Council — and possibly a high-level economic coor-dinator (like the national security adviser), who would cut Regan off at the knees

Treasury officials concede that their department's incompetent handling of the international debt crisis demonstrated that it lacks the expertise to formulate international economic policy.

Interestingly, the argument for a new agency was endorsed by former President Nixon in his testimony before the task force last spring. According to a stillunreleased summary of his remarks, Nixon also urged tripling U.S. economic aid and cutting military aid. "Communists at least talk about Third World problems." Nixon said. "Too often we only talk about the communists."

Don't be love's fool

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My boyfriend is confusing me. I think we love each other very much, but he says if I really love him, I will let him have sex with me. I'm afraid I'll lose him if I don't, but I have always wanted to save myself for my husband someday. — L.K. DEAR L.K.: Frankly, if he really loved you, he would respect your integrity and admire you for your moral stand. Don't fall for this temptation. His argument is probably the oldest in the book, and his only interest is in trying to persuade you into becoming another conquest.

A relationship based only on physical attraction soon fades. True love is not selfish; instead, it has a deep commitment to do something that will help the other person. Tragically, many people today build their marriages on a false or unstable foundation, and when faced with the problems of life, there is nothing to hold the marriage together. Don't let your fear of losing this young man force you to do something you know is rong

You face many decisions in the ears ahead - decisions that will affect the whole course of your life. Marriage is one of the most important of those. But all of that should underline a very important fact to you: You need God's wisdom and direction as you go through life. You see, God has a plan for our lives. He knows who will be the best husband for you, and God's way is always best for us. Will you seek His will, and trust him to lead you?

At this vital time, therefore, give your life to Christ. Open your heart to Him, and then let Him be Lord of every detail of your life. The Bible says, "Trust in the Lord and do .. commit your way to the Lord" (Psalm 37:3.5).

the succession. In these unersy conditions the natural Kremlin technique is to sound the tocsin of external danger and gather the country round Mother Russia. That defensive instinct has played its part in vitriolic comparisons of Reagan with Hitler; in maniacal denunciations of West European leaders as imperialists; in the cancellation of arms control negotiations with the U.S. last year; and, above all, in the boycott of the Olympics.

Even in making these decisions, the Soviet leaders show their age. They creak along, postponing answers to the last moment, and sometimes not answering at all. This year Moscow allowed the East German leader, Erich Honecker, to plan for months on a visit to West Germany before finally cutting it off - with maximum adverse publicity - a week before it was due to begin.

The June 29 offer to meet on demilitarization of space looked like a crude effort to divide the U.S. in an election period. When the U.S. returned soft answers, Moscow failed to formulate clear replies. Then Washington invited Gromyko to visit in terms he could not decently decline.

Joseph Kraft's reports on Washington, national affairs and trends are distributed nationally by the Los Angeles Times Syndicate.

My associate Michael Binstein has seen a memo at Treasury Secretary Donald Regan from his advisers that summarizes a closed-door task-force meeting last spring. It reads: "Eyeing the farm vote, Andreas urged a recommendation to expand the program be made during the summer, prior to the task force's expiration. ..

There have been rumblings in some quarters that Andreas may be looking after his own interests when he promotes additional grain purchases by the government. The memo to Regan acknowledges this, saying:

'Andreas, who went to some lengths to defend himself against possible conflict of interest because of his grain business, was very critical of State and Treasury's 'stalling' in the PL 480 bureaucratic process. He, with some support, urged a greater and more dominant role for USDA (Agriculture Department) in the future. He accused State of being antitrade.

A task-force official said the conflict-of-interest charge "really irritates" Andreas, who says his religious convictions compel him to try to match this country's agricultural abundance with people who need food.

Andreas's complaint against Treasury officials is that they often hold up grain sales that offer generous terms or are destined for countries with poor credit ratings.

For their part, Treasury officials charge that Agriculture is too willing to give away the store, particularly in election years. In fact, an old-fashioned bureaucratic turf battle seems to be shaping up over the task force's final report, expected to be released shortly.

intelligence concern. In addition to its possession and use - of chemical weapons, Iraq is now believed to have acquired deadly cluster bombs, probably from Chile.

More conventional weapons are still pouring in from the Soviet Union, and the French have been delivering sophisticated Mirage jet fighters. The huge and versatile Iraqi arsenal means little likelihood of an end to the war with Iran soon.

• Editors of the Washington Times insist they are completely independent of editorial control by the owner, the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church. But a 1983 memo to Moon's followers, titled "Instructions from Father," makes clear what Moon expects of The Times.

"Each state should promote and expand the distribution of the Washington Times," it says. "This is the best vehicle to correct Father's image ... Because the media impeded God's work, we must gain influence here.

 Outgoing Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., has become disenchanted with one of the perks of power: his direct "drop-line" telephone, which plugs into the White House switchboard.

It was supposed to give him easy access to key White House officials. But Baker confided to friends recently that, in practice, the special line has become a nuisance. White House aides use it to call him on trivial matters, he said.

Today

By The Associated Press Today is Monday, Oct. 8, the 282nd day of 1984. There are 84 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Oct. 8, 1871, the Great Chicago Fire started in Mrs. O'Leary's barn. One popular story is that a cow kicked over a lantern, though that's never been proved. By the time it went out, the fire had claimed more than 200 lives and had burned more than 2,100 acres. On this date:

In 1869, Franklin Pierce, the 14th president of the United States, died at the age of 64, 12 years after leaving the White House

In 1918, Sgt. Alvin C. York almost single-handedly killed 25 German soldiers and captured 132 in the Argonne Forest in France.

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) - With more than 300 mouths to feed every day, Henriette van Weelde is always asking strangers for money to keep her household afloat.

Her weekly shopping list of about 770 pounds of fish and meat, as well as medical care for her charges, leaves Henriette with a housekeeping bill of up to three thousand guilders ($1,000) a week.

But thanks to the kindness of passers-by and her own insistent fund-raising skills, she manages to make ends meet for the several hundred stray cats she shelters in two houseboats on the Singel, one of the Dutch capital's canals, dating from the 15th century.

"I stand alone in the world because of the misery of my cats," she said recently, noting that the plight of Amsterdam's homeless cats has taken up most of her life.

Henriette never had time for a family. Her husband left her long ago, because he couldn't compete with them for her affection.

Her "cat boats" sit on the main route of the sightseeing boats that wind through the city's canals, carrying up to 2 million tourists a year - all regarded by Henriette as potential donors.

Many of them come to visit me and my cats after the tour is over and I always ask them for money to help me with my work," said Henriette, who spices up her graying grandmotherly appearance with bright green eye makeup.

She routinely spends 16-hour days tending her freeloading felines, and has requested municipal assistance to lighten the load, but to no avail. The city already maintains pound space for about 7,000 stray cats.

But Henriette claims she and her volunteers perform a social service not only for the cats themselves, but also for their previous owners.

"Most of my cats come from broken homes," she said, citing divorce, death or drunkenness as the prime reasons the cats end up under her care.

Once she got 40 cats from an 80-year-old woman who "had to be taken away." On another occasion, she picked up 14 cats from the home of a heroin addict who had died from an overdose.

On one boat are Henriette's permanent guests, and on the other, the transients, who spend short periods with her before being given away to new owners. Mice infestation is a major problem here because of Amsterdam's large number of 17th-century dwellings, and Henriette has a ready supply of cats to ease the problem. Her 150 or so long-term residents range from 10 to 15 years old, and Henriette remembers all their names as well as how they came to find shelter under her roof.

That shelter is pretty plush for a cat, and was custom-built with the proceeds of a 10-year fundraising drive that netted 90,000 guilders ($27,000). The creature comforts on board include rugs, lounge chairs and a fenced-in veranda, all intended to duplicate a human home, with no human residents to clutter it up.

There is a dormitory with rows of wicker baskets for sleepy cats, an infirmary for sick cats and a cat kitchen.

The temporary residents sleep in the smaller boat, which is more of a cat barracks, without all the frills. Henriette treats all arrivals for any medical problems and sterilizes them, for which she has a government veterinary license.

She rarely has trouble with cat-haters and cranks, although a few years ago someone broke into her boat and threw some cats into the canal, with several casualties.

Henriette began collecting cats 25 years ago, "taking strays into my house, and before I knew it there were 70 cats living on my roof.'

She began boarding them on empty canal barges to ease the crush, but still keeps a few around her house -20 to be exact, with three dogs thrown in for variety

Those cats are ultimately even more dependent on her than her cat boat residents, for Henriette's will specifies that her personal pets be put to death when she dies.

My off-the-top-of-the-head impression is that this doesn't sound like arthritis at all. Arthritis is a joint problem, and since you have that you are familiar with the symptoms - swelling and a hot feeling in the affected joints, stiffness and great pain. And if it isn't arthritis it very likely is either a nerve or possibly a circulatory problem.

Carpal tunnei syndrome comes to mind. In that, the large nerve at the wrist is trapped in scar tissue to cause symptoms much like the ones you report. It's possible for arthritis to contribute to that problem. It can be rather easily treated, so it need not interrupt your daily activities.

Isn't it true that it's harder to get rid of calories eaten at night than those eaten during the day? - R.R.

There's some truth to that idea, that bedtime calories tend to stay with the person longer than those eaten earlier in the day. That does make some sense. Your body's metabolic rate (how it uses calories) drops during sleep. You are not burning off those calories well, and if you don't get rid of them soon enough, they turn into fat cells.

This is a good reason why dieters should not skip breakfast and why they should not get into the bedtime snack habit.

Culwell speaks to Hyperians

Joy Culwell of Colorado City spoke to the Hyperion Council of Clubs on "It is better to be rich and healthy than to be poor and sick" at the Sept. 20 meeting.

Delightful anecdotes related to Ms. Culwells childhood, family life and years of contact with the public were used as example of a good life and service to others. She closed her program by singing her "Hymn" for life today - "Accenuate the Positive."

Pyracantha and tiger lilies, in fall colors, were centerpiece arrangements on each table.

Each club president gave a preview of programs and goals for their club for the coming year. The 1955 Hyperion Club was best Eggs, liver, soybeans (and fish) represented with 84 percent of

When it comes to daffodils, remember that all are not yellow. Dutch hybridizers have coaxed Mother Nature into producing daffodils that are snowy white, pale yellow, cream, orange and pink. Several are multicolored.

There are miniature daffodils that grow about six inches tall, and there are tall Trumpets. You can buy mixed collections for variety. The hyacinth, its flowering head bearing scores of individual florets, scents the spring air. Colors range from white to pastel shades of yellow, pink, lilac and pale to deep blue. They make a fine display planted in clusters of five to seven rather than in stiff rows.

Lesser known but equally delightful Holland bulbs include anemone blanda, crocus, galanthus and muscari. These are called pastel-colored tulips. Two large varieties are allium giganteum and fritillaria imperialis, varieties of both reaching two to four feet. The allium flower ball bears hundreds of tiny florets in lilac and purple. The exotic fritillaria imperialis has drooping, orange, red or yellow cup-shaped blossoms circling a tall, slender stem and crown of rich green leaves

Some planting tips from the Netherlands Flower-bulb Institute: Plant spring-flowering bulbs when soil temperatures fall below 60 degrees (F) — late September to early November in the north; through December in the south. Most bulb flowers prefer partial shade. Avoid areas with direct midday sun.

Good drainage is essential. Loosen soil to a depth of 10 inches. If the soil has much clay mix in organic material such as peat moss or compost.

The Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 will have a Draping of the Charter at 7:30 p.m. for Gracie Lee Griden. Birthday night of the month will be held at that time.

The club met Oct. 2 with Mary Stewart, vice grand presiding. Members of the refreshment committee for October are Mary Stewart, Juanita Hamlin, Irene Maxwell and Ruth McNew.

Program brings tots, senior citizens together

LAKE JACKSON (AP) - The preschoolers toddle on unsteady legs in the living room at the Lake Jackson Nursing Home, manuevering around wheelchairs, sofas, chairs and toys. About a dozen residents watch them with gentle smiles on their faces, reaching out an arm to one or talking to another. "These are pretty children," says one white-haired woman to another. "Oh, they're beautiful," the other agrees

Two-year-old Ysela Cruz of Clute walks sturdily over to them and stands there, looking. "How old are you, sugar? 5? 4?" asks the woman. Ysela just looks and smiles at her.

Ysela's mother, Luz Maria Cruz, comes to the rescue. "She's 2," she tells the women. They all smile.

Ysela and the other children at the home are part of a Tots Play Group organized in March by Mary Meadows of Lake Jackson. The children and their mothers visit the nursing home every other Wednesday morning to play with each other and the senior citizens there.

It is an opportunity for the children to be around older people and also an opportunity for the senior citizens to see young faces, says Mrs. Meadows.

chance to see very many children away and I wanted to expose her to since a lot of them don't have family here," she says.

Mrs. Meadows says she got the idea for the visits from a magazine article she read several years ago. "I thought that when I had a kid,

I would try to do something like that, too," she says.

So she organized a few other mothers with small children, put notes in her church bulletin to advertise the visits, and decided to make the biweekly trips. Usually, she says, about eight or 10 children show up but she'd like to see the number increase and for additional groups to do the same for other area nursing homes.

Mrs. Meadows says that generally, the hour or so at the home is spent in unstructured activities with toddlers and residents talking, visiting and playing together as they wish.

"What we want to do is to encourage the children's interaction with the elderly. Sometimes, the residents just want to watch the children or hold them on their laps sometimes, it's pretty chaotic but the residents don't seem to mind at all," Mrs. Meadows says with a laugh.

Mrs. Cruz says that she brings Ysela to the nursing home so that she can become accustomed to besenior citizens. And also to see the expressions on the residents' faces it gives you a good feeling," she says, watching her pigtailed daughter fondly.

Mrs. Cruz, who is pregnant and expecting twins in February or March, says she will bring her two new ones to the nursing home when they are old enough, too.

"I don't want them to be afraid of the elderly. I think they can learn a lot by being around them, talking to them," she adds.

Although the children all seemed relaxed with the nursing home residents on a recent visit, Mrs. Meadows says initially they were fearful of the situation.

"At first, they were a little bit afraid but now they're not," she savs.

Teaching her little girl to be at ease around older people was one reason that Kara Dick of Lake Jackson began bringing 18-monthold Jessica to the home.

"She has lots of great-great aunts and a great-grandmother. And since we started bringing her here, she warms up to those relatives a lot faster. She's not as afraid of older people," Mrs. Dick

She also appreciates the fact that Jessica has a chance to be around other kids her own age.

President Reagan and Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale are joining thousands of other Americans to honor Christopher Columbus with parades and ceremonies on the day for Italian-Americans to shine.

Reagan was to help dedicate a statue of Christopher Columbus in Baltimore's Little Italy section today. Mondale was to march up Fifth Avenue in New York's 40th annual Columbus Day parade, a star-studded event which also was to include Vice President George Bush, actress Sophia Loren and Geraldine Ferraro, the Democratic vice presidential candidate.

Ms. Ferraro got a jump on the other national candidates Sunday, reveling in her Italian-American heritage as she joined about 1,500 marchers at a Columbus Day parade in Newark, N.J.

Payton reaches peak

CHICAGO (AP) - Relief. Walter Payton felt it. Quarterback Jim McMahon and the rest of Payton's Chicago Bear teammates felt it. Even Coach Mike Ditka felt it.

It was as if a giant sigh was released from Soldier Field in Chicago when Payton took a pit-chout from McMahon with 57 seconds gone in the second half of the Bears' game with New Orleans Sunday and slashed upfield, the ball held in characteristic fashion in the crook between his right hand and wrist. When he was tackled at his own 27 after a 6-yard gain, Payton had finally become the National Football League's alltime leading rusher, ahead of Jim Brown, who retired in 1965 after rolling up 12,312 yards in a nine-year career.

"How did I feel? Relieved," said Payton, who needed 67 yards entering the day. He finished the game, a 20-7 victory for the Bears, with 154 yards in 32 carries, giving him an even 12,400 for his nine-year, sixgame career, 88 ahead of Brown and 2,600 short of the goal of 15,000 he has set for himself.

The game was stopped and Payton, holding the ball aloft, handed it to Pete Elliott, executive director of the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. Even the opposing Saints applauded and his teammates rushed onto the field to mob him.

But Payton shooed them away

"I felt we were moving the ball and I didn't want us to cool off," he said after receiving the telephoned kudos from President Reagan that have become part of the routine for recordbreaking athletes. "I was just glad it was over. For the past three weeks I've tried to conceal it, but there's been a lot of pressure.' Brown was not at the game to see Payton break another of his records. By rushing for more than 100 yards for the 59th time in his career, Payton broke out of their tie at 58 100-yard games.

McMahon said that Ditka had told the Bears before the game to get the record for Payton. But he said the coach also emphasized that winning was more important - the Bears had lost the two games in which national attention had been focused on Payton after winning their first two.

"We wanted to get him the record," Mcmahon said. "I'm very glad it's over and I think Walter is too. The first thing Walter said was 'it's over with, let's go for the win.' That's the way Walter is, he's always working for the win."

"I knew he was going to break the record eventually," said Ditka, whose temper had been getting shorter and shorter during the past few weeks. "But the primary thing is always to win the game first. Walter knows that. He wants it. That's why he's such a great player."

Characteristically, Payton's longest run was also one of the most important - a 25-yard burst deep into Saints territory with five minutes left that just about iced the game. He also had a 19-yard run on his second carry of the game, but otherwise ground out three, four and five-yard gains against a New Orleans defense geared to stop him.

Also typical, he made one key play that didn't go down on the scoresheet, a screening block that freed fullback Matt Suhey on a 23-yard pass play in the final minute of the first half. That set up the Bears' go-ahead touchdown, which Payton scored himself, somersaulting over the line from the 1-yard line with just three seconds to go in the half.

After the game, Payton tried to play down his accomplishments, suggesting he was simply a luckier representative of NFL running backs in general. He specifically pointed out three men who died before they could reach their peaks -Joe Delaney of the Kansas City Chiefs, who drowned two summers ago; David Overstreet of the Miami Dolphins, killed last summer in an auto accident, and Brian Piccolo of the Bears, who died of cancer in 1966.

But Payton's coach, who played with Gale Sayers and against Brown and O.J. Simpson, set the record straight on who he considers the best.

"Walter can do so many things that when we had all those injuries at quarterback, I honestly considered switching See Payton, pg. 2B

Historical NL series belongs to Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP) — It was a game full of history - record-making history for the National League, the extension of history for the Chicago Cubs and, perhaps, the beginning of history for the San Diego Padres.

On a Sunday when presidential candidates agreed to debate, major league umpires agreed to arbitration and San Diegans agreed to play the role of the "10th man," the Padres shook their season-long ineptitude against Rick Sutcliffe, place since World War II. "This is the sweetest. This is the best," said San Diego's Dick

Williams, whose Padres were 81-81 and in fourth place in each of his first two years as manager, cut and pasted together a victory in

The victory, played before 58,359 fans in San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium, also marked the first time in NL history a team has captured a pennant after losing the first two games of the best-of-five playoff.

The Padres erased a humiliating 13-0 defeat at the hands of Sutcliffe in Game 1 and a 4-2 loss in Game 2 to win the next two contests at home, 7-1 and 7-5, forcing Sunday's finale

And then they won it, leaving the talent-laden Cubs to uphold a 39-year-old team tradition by breaking the hearts of their feverishly loyal fans. They were denied what many presumed to be their predestined pennant, which would have ended a drought in Game 5 with five pitchers and four pinch-hitters, and he did it without his best power hitter, Kevin McReynolds, lost for the year with a fractured wrist in Game 4.

History was made on the strong arms of relievers Dave Dravecky and Craig Lefferts, who turned in two perfect innings apiece while the Padres rallied from a 3-0 deficit, and on the strong bats of Tony Gwynn and Steve Garvey, who placed key hits in the decisive four-run seventh.

And history came to bear on Chicago's Leon Durham, whose clean miss of a Tim Flannery pinch-hit ground ball in the seventh the only error of the game precipitated the rally that made Sutcliffe a loser for the first time in his last 16 decisions.

"It was a routine ground ball and it stayed real low. I was an-ticipating a hop," said Durham, who watched in horror as the ball skipped between his legs. "I have nothing to be ashamed of. If it was meant to be, it was meant to be." Flannery's grounder came with

Broncos bust Lions; Oilers lose again

CINCINNATI (AP) - Rookie quarterback Boomer Esiason doesn't want his solid National Football League debut to create a controversy over the Cincinnati Bengals' starting quarterback job. Bengals Head Coach Sam Wyche isn't helping matters, however.

Esiason completed 13 of 24 passes for 159 yards and ran three yards for the game's only touchdown Sunday in his NFL starting debut, a 13-3 victory over the winless Houston Oilers. The second-round draft choice from Maryland got to start Sunday because of injuries to veterans Ken Anderson and Turk Schonert in a loss to Pittsburgh last Monday.

With Esiason leading the Bengals to their first victory in six games this season, there was some question Sunday whether Anderson would start next week at New England if he's healthy.

The only reason I started was because Ken was hurt," Esiason said. "I realize that. Ken is the man, as far as I'm concerned, and he always will be. We just gave him a rest this week."

When the question was put to Wyche, he nimbly sidestepped it. 'We're going to go away from this game and enjoy the victory without making proclamations about that," Wyche said, savoring his first NFL head coaching victory. "We're not really worried about who plays as much as with winning football games.' When wide receiver Cris Collinsworth was asked about the Anderson-Esiason matter, he punted

"Both those guys are great," Collinsworth said. "Now do you sit down Ken Anderson, who's been everything in the world to the Cincinnati Bengals, and go with Boomer, who took us to the win? I'll leave that choice to Sam Wyche.

A steady rain Sunday hampered both Esiason and Houston guarterback Warren Moon, who finished with 15-of-33 passing for 181 yards. The first half ended with Cincinnati ahead 3-0 on Jim Breech's 33-yard field goal just before halftime.

Giants can create tie for first with win over 49ers

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - New York Giants Coach Bill Parcells says if you want to know how well his team is playing just watch one thing - how hard they are hitting their opponents.

The Giants, 3-2, will play host to the undefeated San Francisco 49ers on Monday night in a nationallytelevised National Football League game.

"I know why we lost both games and I told the players why we lost,' said Parcells in his second season as the Giants' skipper. "I think we lost because we got outhit in both games, and the reason we won the other games is we outhit the other people. It's as simple as that."

The Giants dropped a 33-12 decision to the Los Angeles Rams last Sunday, allowing a league-record three safeties and dropping numerous passes while being held to eight yards rushing.

The poor performance is being brushed aside by 49ers' Coach Bill Walsh and linebacker Jack Reynolds.

"They are a team in the process of getting it together," said Walsh, who guided the 49ers to a Super Bowl title in 1981. "Some weeks they are superb and other weeks

"By the halfway point of the season, they should have it together," he added. "Then we should know if they have a playoff team or contender.

Reynolds said one of the Giants problems against the Rams was that they never had good field position.

"You can just throw out the Rams game," Reynolds said. 'They were playing catchup the whole game.

Walsh said that the Giants defense will present some problems for the 49ers.

"They certainly have a rocksolid defense, with two great linebackers and defensive backs that are very active.'

The defense will have to be at its best against quarterback Joe Montana and company, who have posted five straight victories this season and are unbeaten in nine straight regular season games, dating back to last year.

"They are explosive offensively," said Parcells. "They are running and throwing real well. They have a pretty good percent of completion, and not many turnovers.' Montana will be wearing a

"I think Joe will be more effective," said Walsh. "He wore a very heavy vest in the Atlanta game and I think that affected him.

Montana threw two touchdowns against the Falcons. He and backup Matt Cavanaugh have thrown just one interception in 149 attempts.

"You don't go 5-0 by accident in this league," said Giants quarterback Phil Simms, who is concerned about the 49er defense which has not given up a touchdown in nine quarters.

"I was looking forward to what Atlanta would do to them," said Simms. "They scored three points, so that's not encouraging. We just have to buckle up and get some things done that we haven't done the last couple of weeks.'

The Giants and 49ers have met 14 times, with New York holding a 9-5 edge. The 49ers have won the last three meetings between the clubs, the last a 38-24 playoff triumph on Jan. 3, 1982.

The game will be televised by ABC-TV, starting at 8 p.m., CST.

"It looked like we had control of the series, but things seemed to start going their way," said Sutcliffe. "We both had great years and we played even until the last game. And they simply beat us." Said left fielder Gary Matthews, in the cards for us. But nobody got hurt and nobody died. We'll come back.'

Matthews made a bobbling, bare-handed grab of a Kennedy foul in the fourth inning, and saved at least one run in the sixth when he speared Kennedy's sinking line drive, which plated Gwynn but held Garvey at first.

a veteran of playoff games while with Philadelphia: "It just wasn't runners but no runs, and when runners but no runs, and when Davis grounded into a gameending fielder's choice, delirious San Diego fans had their first winner.

Tigers begin Wolrd Series play Tuesday against the San Diego Padres.

"I'm a firm believer in emotion being a big factor in this game,' said Garvey, who coined the "10th man" phrase while playing on four NL championship teams in Los Angeles. "Believe me, they were worth three runs today (Sunday.)"

"That 10th man means an awful lot," said Williams, noting that the Cubs also were winners while playing in front of the home crowd. 'They stayed with us; they raised our spirits.'

Thee umpires - John Kibler, Paul Runge, John McSherry and Doug Harvey - appeared after baseball Commissioner Peter Uberroth agreed to arbitrate a settlement between the striking umps and the two leagues. A decision was expected before "uesday's

San Diego's shining moment was tarnished slightly by the worrisome performance of Show, shellacked for the second straight time after a 15-9 regular season campaign, and by the injury to McReynolds, who was tied for the

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) is uncertain)

Cal Peete, with a victory, and Mark O'Meara, with still another high finish, put the pressure on a pair of golf's biggest guns going in-to the closing weeks of the PGA Tour season.

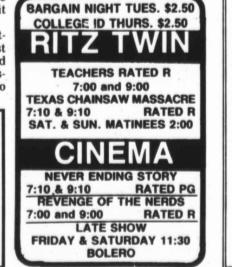

"Fortunately, I played well enough to win — and I put some distance between me and Craig Stadler," Peete said after he had compiled a front-running, no-bogey final round of 66 that produced a 3-shot victory Sunday in the Texas Open golf tournament.

Peete's reference to Stadler involved the race for the coveted Vardon Trophy, which goes to the man with the low stroke average on the Tour. Peete lost that title last year by .01 of a stroke - a difference of two shots for the year to Ray Floyd.

The 41-year-old Peete, the most successful black player the game has known, came into this tournament trailing Stadler (who did not play here) 70.77 to 70.73.

But Peete's winning total of 266, 14 shots under par on the rainsoaked Oak Hill Country Club course, reduced his average to 70.56 and put him in command. Peete said he will play only once more this season, in this week's Southern Open.

"The question is, what does Stadler have to do to beat me?" Peete said. "I just hope he's through for the year, isn't going to play anymore. (Stadler's schedule

"I've been concentrating on the Vardon Trophy. I hadn't won a tournament for more than a year (since July of 1983), so it's a good feeling to break that streak.

"If I could win the Vardon Trophy, that would be like winning another tournament. That would make it a really good year," Peete said

The rampaging O'Meara ran off a string of four consecutive birdies at one stretch of the final round here, finished with a 65 and tied for third with Mike Reid at 270. O'Meara, who has won once and been second five times, now has three third-place finishes for the season.

He won $20,300 and closed in on the absent Tom Watson in the year's money-winning race. Watson, whose playing schedule for the remainder of the year also is uncertain, has $476,260. O'Meara is second at $457,473.
