Spring Board

How's that? The Series

Q. When was the first World Series played?

A. In 1903, the Boston Braves defeated the heavily favored Pittsburgh Pirates for the title. The games went down to the wire, as the Braves took all nine games to win five.

That series was the first time the champions of both leagues met on the field. The Series wasn't played in 1904, but resumed in 1905 and hasn't missed a year since.

Judge declares a mistrial

New evidence discovered in manslaughter case

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

118th District Court Judge Jim Gregg this morning declared a mistrial after hearing two days of testimony in the involuntary manslaughter trial of Joseph William Diliberto, 23, of Route 1. Diliberto is accused of causing the death of Helen Ziegler, 60, of 4100 Connally, who died as the result of injuries she received in a March 19 two-vehicle accident.

"We have wasted three days of your time, but that's the way things happen," Gregg told the jury as he dismissed them from the case. Reacting to the declared mistrial, Diliberto said, "I'm thankful." He then met with his wife and two-week-old infant.

Gregg granted District Attorney Rick Hamby's motion for a mistrial after Diliberto's defense attorney, Wayne Basden, also agreed to the motion. "The state has uncovered some evidence of such a compelling nature that I feel — I made the court aware of the evidence and I made the defense counsel aware of the evidence," Hamby told the court when asking for the mistrial. Saying that the jury would be unable to return a fair verdict for or against the defendant if the evidence were introduced, Hamby said he could not reveal the reasons why he was calling for a mistrial or the nature of the evidence that was uncovered.

"With great reluctance but in the interest of justice, I ask the court to grant a motion for mistrial," Hamby said. See Trial page 2-A

Montford, Shaw defend reforms

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

More than 120 parents and educators gathered at the First United Methodist Church today for a fall workshop sponsored by the District 17 PTA association.

The event was hosted by the Big Spring City Council PTA. Nelda Reagan, president of the Big Spring City Council PTA, said she was pleased with the turnout. Areas represented included Howard, Martin, Glasscock, Borden, Pecos, Ward, Midland and Ector counties. "We've had a good response," she said.

Speakers at the event include Sen. John Montford and Rep. Larry Don Shaw, who talked about changes in education triggered by House Bill 72; Leslie Earnest and Dan Clere, who discussed how parents can help students score higher on I.Q. tests and other testing; and Joann Carroll, state parent education chairman, who talked about new dimensions in parenting.

Other speakers were Lynn Hise, superintendent of the Big Spring school district, and Joe Baressi, Midland superintendent, who discussed House Bill 72; Jean Wilder and Helen Gladden, Big Spring administrators who discussed parent involvement and how to make it work; and Johnnie Lou Avery, who discussed positive thinking.

In their sessions on House Bill 72, Montford and Shaw fielded questions about the educational reforms and asked for input and tips for amendments to the bill. Shaw said, "I'm looking for some input from you... We're attempting to find what's working and what's not working."

Shaw pinpointed some problems in the Texas Education Agency, located in Austin, and said he expects a change of leadership within the organization.

"There are problems within TEA of conflicting information" being distributed, perhaps because of "a lack of direction or a lack of commitment," Shaw said.

Shaw was questioned about low teacher morale which some educators blame on competency testing planned in the future.

"Obviously we have to deal with that," Shaw said. Other problems are low salaries and stress on the job, he said.

But House Bill 72 is not totally to blame for low morale, Shaw said. He added, however, "If I'd had my druthers, competency testing would not have been in there."

He said, "You can find people who can pass a test who are not teachers."

Shaw urged parents to be aware that "there are areas for improvement" in education. "The world of

Czech wins Nobel Prize in literature

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Jaroslav Seifert, a Czechoslovak poet and longtime opponent of censorship in his Communist homeland, became at age 83 his country's first winner of the Nobel Prize in literature today.

The 18-member Swedish Academy of Letters cited Seifert, who is not widely known outside his country and Central Europe, "for his poetry which, endowed with freshness, sensuality and rich inventiveness, provides a liberating image of the indomitable spirit and versatility of man."

Academy Secretary Dr. Lars Gyllensten said Seifert was honored for the poetry he wrote over the past six decades rather than for any single work.

"He can look back upon a career of more than 60 years which shows many signs of being likely to continue," an academy statement said of Seifert.

"With almost 30 volumes of collected poems behind him and a few excursions into the realm of prose — above all his recently published memoirs — he stands out today as the leading poet of his country," the statement said. "He is read and loved by his countrymen, a national poet."

Jana Seifertova, Seifert's daughter, told The Associated Press today that her father was hospitalized with "a heart ailment," and that the Swedish ambassador in Prague informed him of the award at his bedside.

She said she had not yet spoken to Seifert today and could not say how he reacted.

Gyllensten, who chaired the five-member selection committee that considered what he called a "short list" of a half-dozen candidates since late summer, disclaimed any political significance in the choice.

"Of course there might be a political aspect found whoever gets the prize. We cannot avoid that," he said. "Every human activity may be regarded from a political point of view, but our chief concern is literary."

OCCUPANT SEARCH — Two bystanders spot lights into the back window of a car as Officer Steve Ried of the Rollingwood Police Department, a suburb of Austin, looks for drowning victims in the submerged vehicle. No one was in the car and the owners had not been located. Heavy rains brought flash floods to the Austin area Wednesday night.

Coordinator urges safety seats

Rep. Shaw, pastor discuss state legislation

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

Janna King, volunteer service coordinator for the Child Passenger Safety Program, has an unsettling statistic for people expecting a baby.

"200 babies are killed each year on their first ride home from the hospital," she said.

She gives the statistic not to depress people but to force them into action. Parents can protect their children with car safety seats, and the state is passing a law requiring safety seats for children under two.

Children under four will be required to use either a car seat or a safety belt.

State Rep. Larry Don Shaw and Dr. Carl Powers, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, met with Mrs. King this morning to talk about the law.

Dr. Powers said the Lancaster Learning Center, a day care center located at the First Church of the Nazarene, will begin loaning car seats to patrons of the day care center. Car seats are also being installed in the day care center vans.

Mrs. King commended the Lancaster Learning Center for installing the seats in their day care vans. "They are doing this on their own," she said, explaining that car safety seats are not at this time required in school vans.

The state law goes into effect Oct. 31 and provides a fine of up to $50 for violators. It will be waived if the driver purchases or borrows a safety seat within 10 days of the offense. No fines will be imposed until Jan. 1, giving parents time to purchase seats or to secure them on a loaner program.

For those who find the new law an irritant, Shaw said, "To protect our children, this is a small price to pay... Once those children are gone, they don't come back."

Without the law, Mrs. King said only 17 percent of children in Texas ride in car seats. "We need someone to tell us how to protect our children," she said.

Tennessee, the first state to implement the car safety seat law, saw a decrease in the child death rate in vehicles drop by 55 to 60 percent after requiring the seats, Mrs. King said.

Del Rio cowboy indicted on theft cattle charge

By RICK BROWN Staff Writer

A Del Rio cowboy who provided stock for last year's Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo was indicted Wednesday by a Brewster County grand jury investigating cattle theft, according to the Dallas Morning News.

Mack Altizer, 26, of Del Rio was charged with stealing at least $10,000 in cash from Sul Ross State University, according to the Thursday Morning News article.

Altizer, whose company, Bad Company Rodeo Co., provided about 150 head of bulls, bucking horses, calves and steers for last year's rodeo, denied any wrongdoing this morning.

Altizer told the Dallas newspaper the indictment stems from his reimbursement by check for funds he provided for cattle feed and for rebuilding the Sul Ross rodeo arena.

"That's the way it was put to me by Dr. Earnest Harman, my rodeo coach and teacher. It turns out it wasn't for what it was supposed to be and they're accusing me of stealing money," said Altizer in the Morning News article.

Harmon, currently free on bond, was charged last month by the grand jury with stealing 30 cattle valued at $20,000 and cash totaling $30,000 intended for the purchase of cattle, according to the newspaper article.

"(Altizer) does have a good string of rodeo stock," said Toots Mansfield, President of the Big Spring Rodeo Association and seven-time world champion calf-roping. "We were thinking about using him this year, along with some other companies."

Officials of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association said last week they began investigating cattle thefts at the university in February when university cattle turned up at auctions in El Paso, Midland and San Angelo, the Morning News said.

The investigation concentrated on financial irregularities in the university's range animal science department.

Floods torment Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — Heavy rains and thunderstorms forced the evacuation of up to 400 residents from their homes in the southern section of this city, while police are searching for two people whose vehicle may have gone into a creek southwest of the city.

Residents in a three-block area of Williamson Creek were asked to leave their homes around 11 p.m. after the creek overflowed its banks, said Sgt. A. Lammie of the Austin Police Department.

Heavy rains, which started around 5:30 p.m. dumped more than four inches of water in the west central, northwest and southwest sectors of the city within a two-hour period, said Jim Dugan, a forecaster with the National Weather Service in Austin. Unofficial reports estimated seven inches of rain had fallen by 11 p.m., Dugan said.

The weather service issued several flood warnings. Two people were reported missing in the Beeceaves area in Southwest Austin when their car reportedly washed over a low-water crossing, Lammie said. The vehicle's occupants reportedly ignored barricades that had been put up around a creek in the area.

"They never learn," Lammie said. The identities of the missing pair were not known, he said. Several streets in flood-prone areas of the city were barricaded, Lammie said.

Just before midnight Wednesday, rain continued to fall and more of the same was forecast for Thursday.

Dugan said heavy rains expected Thursday afternoon and evening could produce more flooding. Lammie said he expected Williamson Creek to subside and residents who left their homes to be able to return in a few hours.

In other areas of the state Wednesday, cloudy skies and mild temperatures prevailed as a ridge of high pressure continued to pump moist air across Texas.

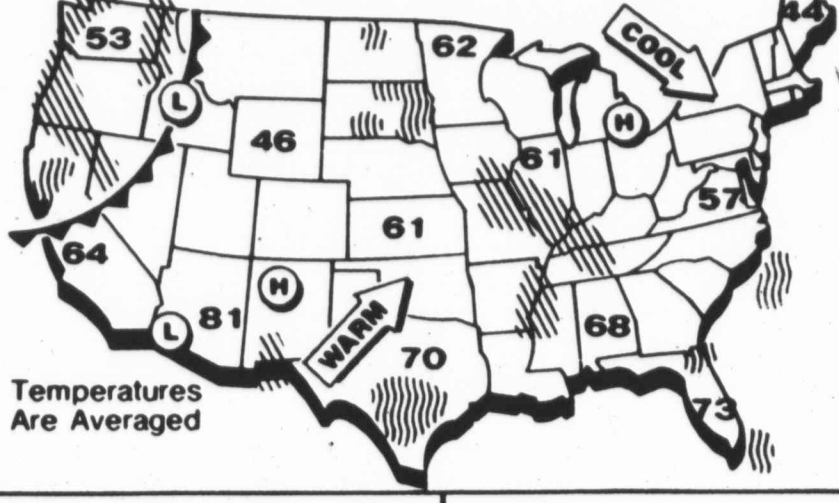

Scattered showers and thundershowers erupted over the southern half of the state and far West Texas. The heaviest thundershowers were from the coastal bend area into South Central Texas and in the area west of the Pecos River. Partly to mostly cloudy skies covered the entire state.

Winds around the high pressure ridge were mainly from the southeast and south across at speeds of 10 to 15 mph over much of the state.

Warm to mild temperatures prevailed with mostly 80s across South Texas and 70s over North and West Texas. Late afternoon extremes ranged from 90 degrees at Alice to 71 degrees at Delhart.

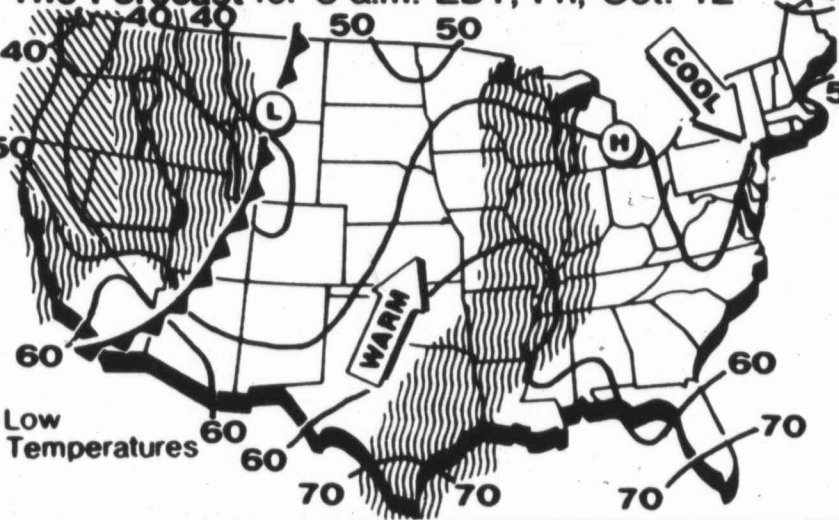

The forecast calls for mostly cloudy skies with widely scattered showers or thundershowers Thursday and Friday. Patches of fog will cover north and southeast sections of the state. Lows will range from the 50s in the Panhandle to the 60s over most of the rest of the state. It will be in the 70s along the coast and far south.

Police Beat

Woman okay after collision

A Louisiana woman refused medical treatment Wednesday morning after a two-vehicle accident in the 500 block of Gregg Street.

Dorothy Polaski, 58, of Morgan City, La. was listed as having "possible injuries" in Big Spring police reports after the accident that happened at about 11:30 a.m. Wednesday.

According to police reports the accident happened when Ms. Polaski, driving a 1981 Lincoln Continental, collided with a 1982 Ford pickup driven by Willie Lovelace of 2200 Carl. Reports said the accident happened after Lovelace pulled out into oncoming traffic from a 508 Gregg address.

Lovelace was ticketed for making an improper start from a parked position after the accident, reports said.

In other police reports: Power tools valued at about $404 were reported stolen at 4:34 p.m. Wednesday by John Hamilton fo 2211 Cecilia. Hamilton told police the tools, including a saber saw, a drill and a router, were stolen sometime between Aug. 30 and Sept. 29 from a pickup parked at his residence.

6,000 children were injured and 78 died in traffic wrecks. Studies show that 90 percent of those injuries and deaths could have been prevented by the use of a safety seat, Shaw said.

Before acquiring the law, Texas was only one of two states not requiring safety seats. Wyoming is now the only state not requiring the seats.

Mrs. King said people who buy a safety seat should be aware that the come in different styles and sizes. Some seats are only for infants up to six months of age. Others are for children from 0 to 5 years of age. "When selecting a car seat, make sure you choose an appropriate one" for your situation, she said.

Children become accustomed to the seats. Mrs. King said supporters of the program hope children will learn to be safe riders as they grow, thanks to early training with seat belts and the safety seats.

Safety seats retail at approximately $45 to $60. For more information on loaner programs, write the Texas Safety Association, 501 Bull Creek Road, Austin, Texas, 78731, or call 512-451-7421.

the future is upon us...We have to deal with that."

Several parents told the legislators they resented being hit with the same reforms as school districts in Houston and Dallas.

"How can something that applies to Borden County apply to a school in Houston?" one parent asked.

The legislators agreed. Montford said to teach in Houston, "You have to be a retired Marine gunnery sergeant" to control a classroom. He said most schools in West Texas had parents who cared about their children's education and teachers concerned with the quality of education in their classes.

"We didn't need a lot of these things in West Texas," Montford said. He said amendments to the reforms would be a top priority in the coming months.

Several parents voiced a concern about the state taking more and more control over local districts. Shaw reminded parents that the state was faced with several choices about education when compiling the education reform bill.

"One was to do nothing. Another was to deal with it. And another choice was to let the federal courts decide" the course of education. "That's fine, if you want the federal government running your school district."

Parents and educators were also concerned about the costs of the new reforms. Montford said, "We can do a lot better by cutting out the excess" in state government. But he admitted, "I'm gravely concerned about the funding of this bill. Next year...will be the biggest challenge," he said.

When asked point blank what he thought about the education reform bill, Montford said, "I think it was a quick fix. We had to do something...But I feel it was thrown together too quickly."

He said senators spent 11 days debating and overhaul for a system which had stood in the state for 100 years.

by said. Neither Judge Gregg, Basden nor Hamby would specify the exact nature of the new evidence.

"The evidence was very compelling as far as guilt or innocence in this case," Hamby said after court was dismissed. "For procedural reasons, this jury couldn't be privy to this evidence. And no jury could return a fair verdict for or against the defendant without the inclusion of this evidence."

Diliberto, who remains free on bond, can be retried on the involuntary manslaughter charge because a mistrial was declared. Hamby said he was unsure whether he would retry the case at this point.

"My mind's been going 10 miles a minute. I'm tired. I spent a lot of time on this case," Hamby said. "I'm devastated. My time's been wasted, the jury's time has been wasted and the court's time has been wasted. But what's important is that justice has been served."

In testimony Wednesday afternoon, Diliberto said he was not driving the 1984 Lincoln Continental that collided with the car in which Mrs. Ziegler was a passenger. The accident occurred about midnight March 19 on Wasson Road near Belvedere.

He had been sitting in the passenger side of the car, with his head lying on the console, he testified. His wife, Mandy Diliberto, had backed up the car onto Belvedere, near what was then the Elbow Room, but had gone back inside the bar to get him a coke, they both testified.

Mrs. Diliberto testified that she did not remember if she left the car in gear when she went inside. The Dilibertos had been attending a private barbecue at the club and were returning home, they testified.

"I saw headlights coming toward me," Diliberto testified. "As soon as I saw them, I went back down. I put my hands over my face."

"It all happened so fast," Diliberto testified. "I couldn't figure out how I had dozed off somehow. I didn't have no idea how the accident happened."

Borden Co. student honored

A Borden High School student, Samantha Porter of Vealmoor, was named a Commended Student in the 1985 National Merit program.

According to the National Merit Services Corp., which administers the program, Miss Porter placed in the top five percent of the more than 1 million participants in the 30th annual competition.

She received a "Letter of Commendation" in honor of outstanding promise for future academic success.

Miss Porter was the only Borden High School student to place in the 1985 National Merit program. Principal of Borden High School is Mickey McMeans.

TUEC rate cut will mean higher bills official says

An order to cut Texas Utilities Electric Company rates will ultimately mean higher electric bills, a local company official claimed today.

Hooper Sanders, Big Spring division manager with Texas Electric Service Company, a division of TUEC, said the rate increase request before the Texas Public Utilities Commission was "fully justified. The final order is totally unrealistic."

He said downrating of the electric supplier's credit rating could result from the PUC action.

PUC's commissioners ordered a $9.8 million rate reduction in response to TUEC's $304 million rate increase request. Gov. Mark White praised the PUC action as promoting economic development, saying, "The state that can do the best job of regulating utilities will also open the door to an improved business climate."

Sanders said his company will file a motion with the PUC for a rehearing of the case as the first step in an appeals process.

"Our credit rating by major bond agencies" was lowered earlier this year, Sanders said, and the PUC action may result in the company being "downrated again."

"We do not believe we owe anyone an apology," he said. "We sought and will seek rate relief based on substantial support." The rate increase was supported by four factors, he said: The time (two years) since the last rate relief, investment of $36 million by the company, need for adequate financial performance and rate consolidation for the company's three operating divisions as proposed earlier by the PUC.

Texas projects swamped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four proposed new Texas water projects were swamped by a deal to limit an emergency government spending bill so President Reagan would sign it and Congress could get out of town today.

Three of the four projects were for flood control, the fourth a harbor renovation. All would have been new starts, but have been on the drawing board for years.

The Freeport Harbor project in Brazoria County would have cost $26 million to relocate a crumbling jetty so bigger ships could dock in Freeport. Currently, the channel into the harbor makes a sharp turn, and the maneuvering area in the turning basin is limited, so larger vessels often bypass Freeport.

Boggy Creek is a $20.9 million flood control project in a low-income area in east Austin. About 7,300 people live in the 1,570-acre flood plain, a third of the residents with incomes below the poverty level.

The Lake Wichita Holiday Creek flood control project would cost $26.8 million to build a 16,000-foot earthen dam, a spillway and a 9.3-mile channel from Lake Wichita into Holiday Creek.

The most expensive of the projects, at a projected $92.1 million, is Clear Creek, a flood control project that would involve enlargement of a 22-mile channel from Clear Lake to Clear Creek. The project was authorized under the Flood Control Act of 1968.

The figures for the projects are the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' estimates as of October 1983, and cover the full costs of the projects. The proposed spending measure approved by the conferees late Wednesday would have funded only a portion of the work and allocated a lump-sum for all of them.

A total of 300 water projects expected to eventually cost $18 billion were cut from the spending bill.

President Reagan had threatened to veto the bill, arguing local governments should bear a larger portion of the cost of the water projects.

Suicides may have led to 3 deaths parents say

HOUSTON (AP) — Three teenagers in a Houston suburb may have been inspired to kill themselves by the suicides of two other teen-agers, parents of the victims say.

But parents and local officials in the Clear Lake area said Wednesday they could not confirm reports that the deaths during the last two months stemmed from a suicide pact.

Harris County Medical Examiner's Office records indicated Wednesday that five suicides have occurred in the Clear Creek School District area, an upper middle class area which includes the Johnson Space Center southeast of Houston, since Aug. 9.

All of the victims were between the ages of 15 and 19. The two most recent victims were students at Clear Lake High School. At least two others had attended schools in the Clear Creek Independent School District and the other lived in Clear Lake.

Deputy Superintendent Jimmy Larrabee said rumors persist that there is a pact in which 20 to 30 people swear to take their lives within six weeks.

"We're trying to run down the pact rumor but we can't substantiate it at this time," Larrabee told The Houston Post.

The Rev. Buddy Miller, pastor of Clear Lake Methodist Church and the minister who presided at three of the funerals, said "I do not see any connection between the deaths. However, you can have the domino effect."

The first victim, 19-year-old Warren Kuns of Houston, was found dead Aug. 9, sitting in a parked car in a vacant lot. Seabrook Police said he was shot in the head.

The second, 19-year-old Sean Woods of El Lago, was found Sept. 17, seated in his pickup truck with a gunshot wound to the head.

Woods' father, Ronald, said his son may have taken the initiative from Kuns' death.

"Sean and Paul were very close," the elder Woods told The Houston Chronicle. "He was very depressed about what Paul had done. I think certainly Paul's death was an influencing factor."

The two were also friends with Wesley Tiedt, 19, who was found hanged at his Seabrook home Oct. 4. El Lago Police Sgt. Swan Person said each had a history of drug abuse.

Labor force walks out

VALETTA, Malta — More than one-fourth of Malta's labor force staged a one-day national walkout in support of a strike by public school teachers, union officials said. The United Workers Union, which organized the protest Wednesday, called the walkout "the biggest strike in Malta over the past 20 years." The union said up to 27,000 of the island's work force of 112,000 participated. The 28,000-member General Workers Union, which is connected with the ruling Labor Party, boycotted the strike and called it "a great fiasco." The state-run radio said government services operated normally.

Poland names general

WARSAW, Poland — Defense Minister Florian Siwicki has become Poland's second four-star general, joining Communist Party chief Wojciech Jaruzelski, the official Polish news agency PAP reports. Siwicki, 59, received his new rank Wednesday, two days before scheduled Army Day celebrations to mark the 41st anniversary of the founding of the Polish People's Army, which was formed under Communist auspices in the Soviet Union during World War II. Siwicki served in the Soviet army during the war. He commanded Poland's troops in 1968 when they joined the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia to suppress the "Prague Spring" liberalization of Communist Party chief Alexander Dubcek.

Officer hurt in rioting

HAMBURG, West Germany — About 200 protesters broke windows and stoned police after a demonstration against transport of radioactive waste, police said. One officer was reported hurt and 17 protesters were arrested. The rioters broke off from a group of about 1,500 people who marched through the city Wednesday to protest the waste dump, a police spokesman said. Earlier in the day, police arrested 16 people who blocked a Bonn street and two others who were suspected of blocking train tracks with a tree trunk near Lueneburg. The actions were apparently part of a series of protests against the opening of a radioactive waste dump in Lower Saxony state.

Link may damage Jordan

UNITED NATIONS — A new U.N. report says Israel's construction of a canal linking the Mediterranean and Dead seas would damage Jordan's agriculture and mineral production, and might displace as many as 3,000 people. The report, issued Wednesday by Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar, was prepared by a team of experts who visited Jordan in May and June of this year. Israel allowed a similar visit to areas under its control in 1982, but refused a repeat trip this year on grounds it would "serve the political purposes of elements hostile to Israel."

Former official sentenced

LONDON — A military tribunal set up by the Nigerian junta that seized power last year has convicted a former Cabinet minister of taking a $1.3 million bribe and sentenced him to 23 years in prison, according to Lagos Radio. Victor Igwe Masi was the first Cabinet minister in the deposed civilian government to be tried on corruption charges, said the radio report, monitored Wednesday in London.

Employees' strike ends

REYKJAVIK, Iceland — The University of Iceland reopened and striking airport employees lifted their blockade at the end of the first week of a government employees' strike. Students returned to classes Wednesday in Reykjavik after the strike committee of the 17,000-member Federation of State and Municipal Employees voted to let janitors unlock the university's doors. The civil service strike and a separate printers' strike have left most of Iceland's 230,000 people without mail service, public transport and newspapers.

LIBEL SUIT — Retired General William Westmoreland leaves the federal courthouse in New York Tuesday. Jury selection for the landmark $120 million libel suit brought by Westmoreland against CBS has been completed. At right is George Leisure, an aide to the retired general.

$120 million libel suit against CBS begins today

NEW YORK (AP) — A judge warned jurors selected to hear retired Gen. William C. Westmoreland's $120 million libel suit against CBS not to read news accounts of the trial, as lawyers for each side prepared to present their cases.

Opening arguments were due to begin today in the lawsuit over the 1982 broadcast of "The Uncounted Enemy: A Vietnam Deception." The general, who commanded U.S. forces in Vietnam from 1964 to 1968, contends the show falsely and maliciously accused him of misleading President Lyndon Johnson and the Joint Chiefs of Staff in 1967 on the strength of the communist forces.

Those estimates of enemy strength, CBS reported, were passed on to Congress and the American public and helped the communists surprise the allied forces with the size of their Tet Offensive in 1968.

The other defendants in the suit are CBS News correspondent Mike Wallace, who narrated the documentary; George Crile, who produced it; and Sam Adams, a former CIA analyst who became a paid consultant to CBS.

Westmoreland is expected to call several high-ranking veterans of the Johnson Administration, including former Secretary of State Dean Rusk, ex-Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara and former national security adviser Walt Rostow, to testify. They will support Westmoreland's claim that Johnson was well aware of the dispute between military analysts, who placed enemy strength at about 300,000, and some CIA experts who believed it was twice as large, his attorney said. CBS, too, will call many former military and civilian officials in an effort to prove the truth of the program's charges, the networks lawyers have said.

It took nearly two days for U.S. District Judge Pierre N. Leval to select the 12 regular and six alternate jurors who will hear the case. They will not be sequestered, but Leval warned them Wednesday not to read, watch or listen to anything about the case.

The suit has attracted intense coverage. Some 80 seats in the courtroom have been reserved for reporters, another 10 for sketch artists. A temporary press room has been opened at the U.S. Court House on Manhattan's Foley Square.

The network maintains no high U.S. official has ever been allowed to collect libel damages for reporting that dealt with his official conduct, and that if Westmoreland wins it could have "chilling effects" on future journalistic efforts. Westmoreland's lawyers contend the CBS program was a premeditated, personal attack on the general's reputation, not a valid critique of his professional work. Though he has declined to comment on the suit this week, Westmoreland has said he will donate any money he collects to charity.

Wallace sat at the defense table a few feet behind Westmoreland on Wednesday, but the general walked past without greeting the well-known reporter.

Westmoreland, as a public figure, must not only prove the CBS statements were false but that they were made with "malice." The Supreme Court has ruled that to prove malice, the plaintiff's lawyers must show the news organization either knew the charges were false or reported them with "reckless disregard" of whether they were false.

Hurricane Josephine waltzing along

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricane Josephine, packing 85 mph winds, continued its northward drift over the Atlantic Ocean today but posed no immediate threat to land, forecasters said.

"There are some small-craft warnings along the southeast U.S. coast, but it's no big deal," Miles Lawrence of the National Hurricane Center said early today. "The only marine interests that are presently being affected by the storm are the ships at sea that would get near the storm."

Josephine, the 1984 Atlantic season's third hurricane, was near latitude 29.4 north and longitude 72.5 west, or some 450 miles south-southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C., said a 6 a.m. EDT statement from the weather service.

"The hurricane is drifting toward the north at 5 mph and this motion is expected to continue today," the statement said.

Gales extended 250 miles from the hurricane's center.

California records quake

BORREGO SPRINGS, Calif. — No damage or injuries were reported from a moderate earthquake that was centered on this desert resort 48 miles northeast of San Diego.

The quake occurred at 2:22 p.m. Wednesday, said Dennis Meredith, spokesman for the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena. It measured 4.8 on the Richter scale.

In Banning, 75 miles to the northwest, police dispatcher Patricia Rowden said she felt the quake, "but I thought it was just me. I saw my chair shaking, and it wouldn't stop."

$224,000 loot still missing

ALTOONA, Pa. — Up to $224,000 embezzled by a city clerk who shot herself to death after being questioned about missing tax revenue has not been recovered, authorities say.

Nancy J. McCall, 44, who committed suicide July 18 after police questioned her, acted alone in embezzling the real estate tax money, Mayor David L. Jannetta said Wednesday.

An audit found a $224,249 discrepancy between property taxes assessed and money deposited from 1977 until mid-July of this year. While police have not tied Mrs. McCall to all of the money, no evidence was found implicating other employees in the theft, Jannetta said.

Lawyers appeal sentence

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Attorneys for C. Arnold Smith, sentenced to one year in jail for convictions on grand theft and tax evasion charges, say they will appeal the sentence.

Smith, 85, a former owner of the San Diego Padres baseball club owner and confidant of former president Richard Nixon, was sentenced Wednesday despite his lawyer's contention that his fragile health would make imprisonment "close to a death sentence."

Smith was allowed to remain free until a bail hearing set for Oct. 17.

Parents remain in jail

HOUSTON — A couple jailed for refusing to testify in their son's murder case could remain in custody until Nov. 2, when the grand jury before which they refused to testify disbands, their lawyer says.

A state appeals court Wednesday refused to free Bernard and Odette Port, whose son is accused of killing a female mail carrier. The court's decision probably will be appealed by Monday, said Randy Schaffer, the Port's attorney.

He said the couple might remain jailed until the grand jury's term expires. "They're expecting to be there for the long haul," Schaffer said.

Baby J-Doe has birthday

MOUNT SINAI, N.Y. — Baby Jane Doe, the profoundly handicapped infant whose parents battled the federal government over her medical treatment, celebrated her first birthday today, surrounded by loved ones to whom she has "become so special."

The red-haired, blue-eyed youngster, whose real name is Keri-Lynn, leads as normal a life as possible, but she is partly paralyzed and lacks most of the cerebral cortex, the part of the brain responsible for intelligence.

Still, she is a beloved first child to her parents, Linda, 24, and Dan, 34, a self-employed construction worker.

Downtown effort gains momentum

Rumblings of a downtown renaissance with word of restoration of the Palmer and Howard Houses rose to a roar Wednesday with news of new life for the Hotel Settles. It's a very nice noise.

Palmer House is owned by United Coffee Company and board chairman Arlo Roberts says work to reopen the old hotel will bear fruit within two months. United Coffee's intention is to offer the facility as a place for older bachelors to call home. Small rooms, Roberts says, will serve "by the month" singles — those of the domino set.

Local businessman Danny Heckler has plans for another disused downtown structure, the Howard House. He is in the process of cleaning it (with a little help from an Explorer Scout troop) for possible use as an apartment house.

Grand plans have been laid for "the first skyscraper in West Texas," a Big Spring landmark. Settles' new owner Gilbert Cuadra proposes a combination hotel, apartment facility and public gathering place, complete with penthouse supper club and lounge.

He envisions the Settles as a drawing card for east-west travelers and the downtown as a cultural and business center attracting people from Midland, Odessa, Abilene and San Angelo.

The Settles revitalization would literally serve as a beacon of progress for Big Spring. But recent memory brings to mind other large-scale proposals for restoration of the landmark, and we hope the new owner's wherewithal and business acumen matches his enthusiasm. A short time should tell whether the Settles will rise like the Phoenix, and when that time comes we harbor no doubt that the city will unify behind the effort.

The Palmer, the Howard, and especially the Settles — they may spark downtown to once again become a place of bustling activity and leisurely evening strolls. A core of downtown businesses no doubt welcomes the help in its ongoing attempts the revitalize the central city.

Quick drugs

The Food and Drug Administration decides what drugs Americans may get for their medical problems. But Washington's reach doesn't stop at the water's edge. Not only can the FDA prohibit companies from selling drugs here, it can forbid U.S. firms from selling them abroad. A bill now before a Senate committee raises the question: Should the American government decide what's good for people in other countries, even if their governments disagree?

As things now stand, no drug can be exported from the U.S. until it has been deemed safe and effective by the FDA. The new bill, sponsored by Republican Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah, makes some exceptions to that rule.

Under Hatch's bill, a pharmaceutical company could ship a drug to any of eight Western nations if the receiving nation has approved it. It could also sell the drug in other countries if they consent, but only if it has been approved by one of these eight countries.

This measure attacks one part of an intractable problem: The FDA's slowness in approving new drugs. Important medical advances are usually available abroad long before they're allowed here. A 1980 study by the General Accounting Office found that of 14 important new drugs, 13 were approved elsewhere first. On the average, it took 23 months for a new drug to pass muster in the U.S., compared with a year in Switzerland and only five months in Great Britain.

Americans may say that's fine — better to err on the side of safety. But the choice isn't so neat. By approving a drug too soon, the FDA may allow another Thalidomide calamity. By approving one too late, it may sacrifice patients whose lives the medicine would have saved. Delay can be just as dangerous as haste.

Given the risks on either side, Americans may still prefer the FDA's dilatory approach. But that's no reason to enforce their preference on foreigners. Under the status quo, a drug produced by an American firm can't be marketed in West Germany even though the West German government has tested it and found it safe. Hatch's bill would largely remove Washington from a decision that can be made perfectly well in Bonn or London or Tokyo — or Mexico City.

It's the latter case that inflames much of the rhetoric against the bill. The specter is raised of greedy American drug manufacturers exploiting a helpless Third World. The International Chemical Workers Union, for instance, says that if Hatch gets his way, "the poor people of the world will be treated as guinea pigs."

This is silly. No poor person will be exposed to the risks of new drugs — or, unfortunately, to their benefits — unless his government permits it. Third World countries may lack the means to test every new drug on their own, but if they have doubts, they can simply tie their approval to that of an advanced nation.

Besides, the world's poor will be able to get only those drugs that have been approved for sale to some of the world's rich. All classes get equal treatment.

But the question of whether the U.S. government should be worrying about the safety of foreigners is mostly academic, because the law can be easily circumvented. The FDA can prevent U.S. firms from exporting drugs, but it can't prevent them from building plants abroad and selling the output to whomever they please.

That's exactly what American drug companies do. Some 38 percent of their sales come from their plants abroad, many of which were built just to meet the demand from other countries.

Thus, those firms able to build overseas can nullify the U.S. ban — while the jobs in those plants, and the earnings from their sales, go to other countries. And when the FDA's approval finally comes, the supplier may find it cheaper to ship the product from his foreign factory than to build a new one here.

So the existing law achieves very little for foreigners, while exacting a cost on the American economy. The U.S. government has more than it can handle trying to protect the lives, liberty and property of its own citizens.

Making Israel pay a price

WASHINGTON — Israel's economy is in such desperate shape it threatens to undermine U.S. relations with its closet ally in the Middle East.

The new Israeli prime minister, Shimon Peres, has come to town next week with his hand out. He needs help from the Reagan administration if his country's economy is to survive its 400 percent annual inflation rate and burdensome foreign debts. The question is how far the White House will go to accommodate Israel this time.

Peres' visit is shrewdly timed. Probably the best thing he has going for him is President Reagan's high hopes of winning traditionally Democratic Jewish votes next month. Giving Peres a sympathetic hearing won't hurt this effort.

But with Reagan cruising comfortably down the road to re-election, the Jewish vote won't be as important as it might otherwise have been. Peres' bargaining position is further weakened by the desperate plight of the Israeli economy itself.

Finally, he's at a disadvantage because of the indecisive outcome of the recent Israeli election and the musical-chairs arrangement in which he must rotate government leadership with his bitter rival, Yitzhak Shamir.

If Peres accepts submissively every demand of the Reagan administration, it could cost him politically at home.

But administration sources told my associate Lucette Lagnado that the White House is going to make some stiff demands on Peres before it agrees to come to Israel's rescue.

An internal State Department group and a team of outside experts have been examining the Israeli economy for long-range solutions to its problems. Here's what they've recommended the administration insist on in its talks with Peres:

- Israel's economic reforms must be "comprehensive" — meaning that budget cuts must be across-the-board, hitting every agency: defense as well as education and social services.

- The reforms must be put into effect promptly, to build public confidence that the government is determined to address the problems decisively. The administration was pleased at recent Israeli economic moves — cutting some subsidies and devaluing the currency — but feels much more needs to be done.

- The administration will also require assurance that Shamir agrees with the reform steps, and will support them when it's his turn to be prime minister. This would remove the reform measures as a political football between the Labor and Likud blocs.

- The administration will try to persuade Peres that the Bank of Israel should be more independent from the government — like the Federal Reserve Board. Though the Reagan administration has complained bitterly about the Fed's independence, it evidently believes Israel's central bank is too political, and should fight government decisions that are good for votes but bad for the economy.

- Israel will have to drop its longtime practice of matching wage increases to the inflation rate.

- Finally, the administration wants Israel to put the brakes on its socialist policies, giving greater opportunity to the private sector.

Will Peres buy these demands? My Israeli sources have their doubts. They point to the weakness of Peres' government and to the potential political disaster of unemployment, which could result from the austerity measures the White House wants.

BLUNDER OF THE WEEK: As fat-watchers are well aware, eggs are among the foods with the highest concentration of cholesterol, and have been linked to artery disease, a major cause of heart attacks.

Imagine, then, the astonishment of physicians across the country who received a free egg cookbook recently — from a company that specializes in the manufacture of drugs that combat heart disease. The little book, containing 250 artery-clogging egg recipes, was sent by CIBA Pharmaceutical Co.

"I thought it was a sick joke," said one physician. Audrey Kriegman, CIBA's director of medical services, acknowledged that the cookbook mailing was in bad taste. Some doctors even harbored the suspicion that it was intended to boost the company's drug sales by promoting egg consumption. But nobody at CIBA "ever thought of it until afterward," Ms. Kriegman said.

She explained that the book's egg theme was merely supposed to remind the doctors of an earlier CIBA advertisement that depicted a new product emerging from an egg.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?: Right-wing military men in Central America know which side their guns are buttered on. They repay their debt to the Reagan administration with honorifics. For example, in El Salvador a few months ago the outgoing commander of government troops in embattled Morazan province created a new unit to fight the left-wing guerrillas there. He called it the "Ronald Reagan Battalion."

Topping that, perhaps, is a combat outfit of the anti-Sandinista Nicaraguan Democratic Force "contras." Its official title is the "Jeanne Kirkpatrick Task Force," in honor of the solidly anti-Sandinista U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Around The Rim La hormiga y la cigarra

Por LUIS RIOS
Escritor

Me acuerdo de chico mi padre siempre nos contaba a mi, a mis tres hermanas y mi único hermano chistes, cuentos y nos daba ejemplos. Mi madre era de los dichos. No pasaba un día que no decia, "Mira Luis, así va el dicho." Uno que me decia y que todavía me lo dice es, "A la mujer, ni todo el amor ni todo el dinero." Bueno, por ese dicho todavía me encuentro soltero.

Mi padre, que se llama Rafael, es un hombre de mucha paciencia y por eso lo respeto bastante. Nacido en Autlan, Jalisco, el mejor quizo vivir en los Estados Unidos. La educación que tienen fue de lo que aprendió en su país.

Me acuerdo de la risa que nos daba cuando el se sentaba en la mesa de comer y nos contaba sus cuentos. Ya que estoy mas viejo, comprendo los cuentos y ejemplos un poco mas mejor.

Yo tome 12 años de escuela aquí en Texas y luego fui a una universidad por cuatro años mas. Por mi trabajo, yo a conocido abogados, medicos, jueces, ingenieros y otras personas de educación.

Pero lo que estas personas y mis instructores me han enseñado no comparan con lo que mi padre me ha enseñado entre los años.

Quiero contarles un cuento que todavía me acuerdo y se me hace llama 'La Cigarra y la Hormiga.'

La hormiga trabajaba como un elefante esperando el invierno, y como los elefantes no tienen por que esperar el invierno, su trabajo (ese de la hormiga) era perfectamente inútil.

La cigarra, que se llamaba Josefina, era cantora y, perfeccionada sus cuerdas vocales, no daba golpe en todo el santo día. Cantaba siempre, hasta los domingos, que cantaba en el coro y, como era limpia, todo los días se daba una ducha. De noche no cantaba, pero roncaba melodiosa y me lo odiosa (según su vecina, la hormiga).

Un día cantó cualquiera paso un agente del imperialismo por frente a la casa y, al oír la cigarra, decidió convertirse en agente artístico. Le ofreció un largo contrato a la cigarra, quien (para su mal) acepto encantada. Del resto se encargó la cigarra, mientras el agente cobraba el diez por ciento.

Cuando llegó el invierno, llegó para la cigarra la temporada de invierno, pero para la hormiga llegaron las lluvias. Se le inundó a la pobre la despena. Desesperada, fue a pedirle ayuda a la cigarra, que ya no vivía al lado sino en la mejor zona residencial de la ciudad. La cigarra, compadecida y vanidosa, nombro a la hormiga su agente de prensa exclusivo.

Hoy la hormiga todavía trabaja como un elefante, pero no tiene que esperar al invierno y, como no espera, no desespera. La cigarra sigue cantando, triunfadora en su arte, pero degradada en amores, y se ha casado tres veces y divorciado seis. En cuanto al agente, sigue cobrando su diez por ciento, todavía por no hacer nada.

Moraleja: El crimen no paga, pero el ocio da derecho a un diez por ciento.

Voting rule triggers threats

HAVING A DOG GONE GOOD TIME — Dan Miller of Mesquite works on his corny dog at the Texas State Fair in Dallas. The fair, which opens Oct. 5, is scheduled to run through Oct. 28.

THE DALLES, Ore. (AP) — The rejection of new voter registrations in rural Wasco County, where longtime residents fear followers of an Indian guru will try to take over the local government, could lead to violence, a member of the sect says.

The blanket rejection was announced Wednesday, as a clerk turned away about 30 people who came to register from Rajneeshpuram, a commune-city whose 4,100 residents are followers of guru Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh.

"This is exactly the kind of thing that is going to start a riot," said Rajneesh spokeswoman Ma Prem Isabel. She attributed the action to bigotry.

Rajneeshpuram's population has mushroomed in recent months as the commune bused in about 2,300 homeless people from around the country.

In language riddled with profanities, the guru's personal secretary and chief spokeswoman, Ma Anand Sheela, denounced Wasco County's decision to reject the applications of anyone registering to vote after Wednesday.

"Even though we are non-violent people, we will show them that we won't take this kind of harassment," a defiant Ma Anand Sheela told about 5,000 cheering supporters Wednesday night at Rajneesh Mandir, the city-commune's main temple.

"Nobody's going to break us," she said. "We bought this land with our own money. We work on this land.... They're not going to touch us."

After the gathering broke up, she said she would give state officials two days to restore the voter registrations or she would attempt to close Rajneeshpuram to state officials.

Foes of the Rajneeshes say they fear the new arrivals could upset the electoral balance among the county's approximately 12,000 registered voters, and one group has announced plans to counter the Rajneeshes' numbers by moving temporarily to Wasco County and registering. State officials have told them their plan may be illegal.

"Because I have reason to believe there are organized efforts to fraudulently register people to vote in the November general election, I have decided to impose a blanket rejection," County Clerk Sue Proffitt told the Rajneeshes who came to the courthouse Wednesday to register.

The rejections, effective from Wednesday until Nov. 6, automatically will trigger appeals, and each applicant will be notified of the time and location of his hearing, Ms. Proffitt said.

Joann Boies, a spokeswoman for the anti-Rajneesh group that vowed to move people to Wasco County, said Ms. Proffitt's plan might help ensure that the Rajneeshes don't unfairly sway the election.

"I think that's one fair way of seeing that the vote is doing what it should do," she said. "We're hoping we don't have to go to all" to vote in Wasco County.

"It's very un-American and very unpatriotic. It's a putdown for all these people. I'd like to say that I think this is an insult to every American," said Ma Deva Jayamala, a sect member who accompanied the street people to The Dalles.

The street people met with reporters and sang "God Bless America" before leaving.

"They said the next time they came back they would have 3,000" people, said Karen LeBreton, chief deputy county clerk.

Nurse denies shutting off respirator

NEWBURYPORT, Mass. (AP) — A home care nurse charged with trying to murder a disabled patient by shutting off his respirator denied she shut the machine off, and said she didn't even know where its on-off switch was.

Victoria Knowlton, testifying Wednesday in her behalf, offered no explanation how the respirator supporting William Cronin, 59, was turned off early Feb. 17, when Cronin's family found him unconscious.

Mrs. Knowlton, 36, who is charged with assault with intent to murder, also said she had undergone treatment for alcoholism before working at Cronin's home, but had not been drinking.

Earlier in the trial, police testified they smelled alcohol on her when they answered an emergency call at Cronin's home.

Prosecutors claim Mrs. Knowlton switched off Cronin's life-sustaining respirator, told him he was going to die, then walked into the kitchen and lit a cigarette.

Cronin, who is mostly paralyzed from an incurable nerve disease and cannot speak, lost consciousness. He was revived at a hospital where he was taken after family members used a manual respirator to force air into his lungs.

Mrs. Knowlton was scheduled to take the witness stand again today.

In a clear voice that broke once during her testimony Wednesday, she said she left Cronin's side briefly, and when she returned, "he was slumped over and he was gray."

She said she moved his respirator to get closer to him, then gave him a thump on the chest to revive him.

"I said, 'my God, you're dead,' or something like that," she said. "I remember calling, 'Please, Ron, come help me. Your father, I think he's dead.'"

When Cronin's wife and his son, Ronald, arrived, Mrs. Knowlton suggested they put Cronin on the floor and administer cardiopulmonary resuscitation, Mrs. Knowlton said. "Then everybody started yelling," she testified.

In an opening statement Wednesday, defense attorney Thomas Sullivan said Mrs. Knowlton would testify that she believes Cronin was able to turn the respirator switch off and on himself. Several prosecution witnesses have testified that Cronin was unable to reach the switch and would have been too weak to use it.

"It felt it was chaos. People were yelling at me. I didn't know what to do," she said.

Val-Kil national historical site

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — On the 100th anniversary of her birth, Eleanor Roosevelt today became the only first lady to have her former home designated a national historical site, acknowledgement of her preeminence among presidents' wives.

Val-Kill, where Mrs. Roosevelt lived off and on for more than 35 years, will eventually be used for meetings and programs on causes Mrs. Roosevelt held dear, including human rights, labor relations, international cooperation and problem youths, said Peg Zamierowski, spokeswoman for the nonprofit group that oversees the site.

It was at Val-Kill, about 1 1/2 miles inland of the main Roosevelt family estate overlooking the Hudson River here, that President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his wife met informally with world leaders including Winston Churchill, Nikita Krushchev, Haile Salassie, Jawaharlal Nehru and Joseph Broz Tito.

To mark the dedication of Val-Kill as a historic site, the U.S. Postal Service issued a commemorative stamp and a wreath was to be laid today at Mrs. Roosevelt's grave at the family estate.

In a recent survey conducted by two professors at Siena College in Albany, 100 historians ranked Mrs. Roosevelt as the country's leading first lady. Out of 10 categories — including integrity, leadership, intelligence and accomplishments — she ranked first in nine.

"When you think about it, she could have chosen to live anywhere and do almost anything, so you can see where her values were," said

Joan Spence, one of four women who led the fight to have Val-Kill recognized as a national historical site.

Val-Kill, Dutch for "valley stream," encompasses 173 acres of woodlands, riding trails and wetlands. Two main buildings, a stone cottage built in 1925 and a converted crafts factory which later became Mrs. Roosevelt's main residence, have been refurbished but not yet furnished, Ms. Zamierowski said.

Following her husband's death in 1945 and the subsequent gift of the main Roosevelt estate to the federal government, Mrs. Roosevelt used Val-Kill as her home, along with the New York City apartment where she died in 1962. Purchased by the government for $385,000 in 1978, Val-Kill will be supervised by the National Parks Service.

"Going Bald?" Try This At No Risk

HOUSTON, Texas — If you have symptoms of "Sebum" hair loss; oily or greasy forehead; dandruff; dry or oily; itchy scalp, and if your hair pulls out easily on top of your head, chances are excellent that you can now stop your hair loss...and grow more hair...in the privacy of your own home.

A firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for "Sebum" hair loss that has been so successful, they don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in the family," it is certainly not proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss. Many conditions can cause hair loss. Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and, if you wait until you are sick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help.

So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair...now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days...at their risk...if you have the sebum symptoms and are not already bald. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially by mail.

Dear Abby

Will second marriage bring a child too many?

DEAR ABBY: I have a sticky situation I could use some help with. I'm divorced with three kids — 18, 17 and 11. I've raised them with no child support for the last eight years.

I want to marry a nice guy I'll call Sam. He also married before and has two kids, now 11 and 12, by Doris, his ex-wife. Doris is married again and has a 3-year-old daughter (Suzy) by her present husband. She's expecting another baby any minute.

In the past, Sam has been taking his kids every other weekend. Ever since Suzy has been old enough to walk, Doris has been sending her along to Sam's with his two kids. He has had to stop and pick up Pampers and milk for Suzy, who can't even his! Sam feels that he should continue to pick up Suzy after we're married. I feel Doris would just be using me, and if she could get away with sending Suzy up me, she would probably send the next kid, too.

I'm 36, have a good job and I like my peace and quiet. I love Sam, and don't have any trouble welcoming his 11- and 12-year-old kids, but I'll be darned if I'm going to baby-sit his ex-wife's kids by her second husband so she can have a free weekend. By the way, Doris doesn't work. Do you think I'm being selfish and unreasonable?

HATES TO BE USED

DEAR HATES: Absolutely not. You have no obligation to Doris' children by her second husband, and neither has Sam. I urge you to settle this with Sam before you marry him. It's just this type of "misunderstanding" that can sour a second marriage.

Dr. Donohue

Air sacs

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I wrote to you some time ago, asking for information about diseased air sacs. Please, what causes this? — Mrs. E.L.

Dear Doctor: If emphysema is damaged air sacs of the lungs, how would exercise help? My doctor wants me to exercise. — R.O.K.

The air sacs of the lungs are the alveoli. The setting of emphysema is this: The delicate tissue surrounding the alveoli is rich in blood vessels, which pick up oxygen from the air. When this tissue is damaged, those blood vessels are damaged and as a result less oxygen can get through to the body's circulatory network. Shortness of breath results — the hallmark of emphysema.

Why exercise? We're learning a great deal about the benefits of exercise, both to stay aerobically fit and to actually help in various diseases — asthma and diabetes (for some) and, yes, even for emphysema. While the person can't do much about the damaged air sacs mentioned, much can be done to permit the body to utilize what oxygen is getting through.

Exercise helps the heart beat more efficiently and to circulate more blood with every beat. It also trains the muscles to use oxygen more effectively so they can do more with less of it. That's a very cursory treatment of a complex subject. The booklet "Emphysema-Bronchitis: The Twin Problems" deals with those ailments in greater detail. Other readers may order by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.00 for printing and handling.

If afflicted with problem fingernails or toenails, learn about the practical, medically correct form of treatment. Write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "Solving Your Nail Problems," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Researchers track new key to disease

BOSTON (AP) — Scientists are trying to isolate the gene that controls production of a newly discovered growth hormone in hopes the gene might someday provide a new way to treat Lou Gehrig's disease.

Researchers also have found that some people with the crippling, usually fatal nerve disorder produce harmful antibodies that neutralize the hormone, which normally keeps nerves growing and healthy.

A report on their research was published in today's New England Journal of Medicine, and an accompanying editorial said, "If this work can be confirmed, it will have major consequences."

The research, directed by Dr. Mark E. Gurney at the University of Chicago, is still in its early stages, and its significance for people with Lou Gehrig's disease is not clear.

However, researchers theorize that the newly discovered hormone, called nerve growth factor, is necessary to keep motor neurons healthy. These spinal nerves control motion.

When people are stricken with the disease, the nerves die. The researchers speculate that these people produce antibodies that block the growth factor, causing or contributing to their disease.

Lou Gehrig's disease — known formally as amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, or ALS — afflicts about 30,000 people in the United States. Besides Gehrig, a New York Yankees player who died in 1941, its victims have included Sen. Jacob Javits, actor David Niven and Vice President Henry A. Wallace.

Although victims may survive for a long time, the disease usually kills within three years. It destroys motor neurons, and patients eventually lose control of their movements.

The latest research "brings us closer to understanding ALS in that it's now possible to test the theory that there's an abnormality of a growth factor or that there's something in the (blood) serum of patients, such as antibodies, that inactivates the growth factor," said Dr. Jack P. Antel, one of the researchers.

Gurney is working at the Genetics Institute, a private biotechnology firm in Boston, to try to isolate the human gene that controls production of the nerve growth factor. If this succeeds, the gene could be inserted into microbes, which would then produce the hormone in large quantities.

Bishops accused of sexism

CHICAGO (AP) — A group of nuns has criticized the Roman Catholic Church's stand on abortion and accused U.S. bishops of "sexism" in seeking to outlaw it.

"We reject the sexism which leads the bishops to believe that they alone have the right and wisdom to make decisions about the morality of a woman's existential choice about pregnancy when that choice differs from the bishops' theoretical one," the 2,000-member National Coalition of American Nuns said in a statement this week.

"We reject any solution which would reimpose the criminalization of abortion," which would "result in making safe abortion available only to the rich, leaving poor women at the mercy of amateurs," the Chicago-based group stated.

The coalition said it opposes "any legislation which would remove the choice about pregnancy from the one most concerned."

"We may be able to make the growth factor," he said. "Maybe if we give these patients the growth factor, we can stop the course of their disease."

Even if patients make antibodies to the growth factor, he said, it may be possible to halt their disease with large doses of the hormone. This approach has not yet been tested.

However, Gurney noted that researchers so far have been able to find the antibodies in only about a third to half of ALS victims. Test methods may not be sensitive enough to locate the antibodies in the rest of them, he said, or perhaps there is more than one form of the disease.

The researchers believe the growth factor is secreted by muscle in low quantities to keep motor neurons healthy. When nerves are destroyed, higher amounts of the hormone are produced, and this prompts the remaining nerves to grow new branches and take up the slack.

Using animal tissue, the scientists found that antibodies from ALS patients can keep nerves from sprouting these branches. When injected into animals, the antibodies will kill all the neurons that respond to the growth factor. They also found that nerves in cultures will die if they are deprived of the growth factor.

The senior class of Grady High School will have a barbecue supper in the Grady cafeteria before and after the Wildcats play Sierra Blanca.

Supper will be served from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Saturday and after the football game, which begins at 7 p.m. Tickets will be sold at the door for $4.50 for adults and $2.50 for children.

Anyone who has not seen a six-man football game should drive out to Grady Saturday evening and have supper with the seniors and watch the Wildcats in action. Grady is located 29 miles west of Big Spring on highway 137.

Crossroads Country gridders are flexing their muscles among West Texas leaders in recent statistics compiled by the San Angelo Standard-Times.

Colorado City Wolves quarterback Doug Chitsey is the area's top quarterback with 57 completions in 104 attempts for 1,050 yards. He has also scored eight TD's, kicked 13 extra points and two field goals.

C-City tight ends Don Randle (23-329) and Perry Conner (12-277) rank fifth and sixth respectively in the receiving ranks. The Wolves also have two of the top rushers in Bill Jackson (79-434) and Sammy Rivera (78-463). Randle is also among the top scorers with six TD receptions.

Chitsey is not by himself in the passing department, being joined by Coahoma's John Swinney (51-105-536) and Stanton's Kevin Glaspie (34-78-487).

Forsan's Mitch Hays is the fourth leading rusher with 620 yards in 60 carries, despite playing sparingly the first three games and missing most of the last game with a pulled muscle.

He is the area's leading scorer with 10 TD's.

Stanton tight end Derek Sorley is also one of West Texas' top receivers with 15 catches for 244 yards.

Borden County running back Chris Cooley has produced several 200-yard rushing efforts seemingly with ease this season.

Last week in Borden County's 42-42 tie with Rule, he topped even his best single-game total in six-man high school football, dashing for 341 yards on 34 carries.

For his efforts, Cooley was named the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal's High School Player of the Week.

Cooley averaged 9.2 yards per carry in his five touchdown performance. He also has three 200 yard games to his credit.

Wilson nipped Sands Junior High, 8-6 in football action last week.

Sands tally came on a TD run by Damon Zarate. Wilson's score came on a fake punt. The two point conversion was scored on a pass play.

Speaking of junior high football, Goliad coaches E.C. Roberson and David Drake have a good group of ball players under their guidance this season.

The Goliad B team is 4-0, allowing a mere touchdown this season. The Goliad A team is 3-1 and has allowed a single TD, that coming in a 6-0 loss to Monahans.

Peter Buske, Juan Samora, Sammy Carrillo, Chris Cole, Tooter Trevino and Terry Sanders are just a few of the names that should be making headlines for the Steers in years to come.

And while boosting football spirit is considered a cheerleader's ultimate duty, there are other areas that sometimes call for a little extra as well.

For that reason it's with much hesitation that this week's "Falling-Down-On-The-Job" award goes to one certain cheerleading group.

With their volleyball team still battling for a possible playoff spot, the Big Spring High School cheerleaders have made less than half of the Lady Steer's eight home games. It was very disappointing Tuesday when Big Spring hosted Permian and the group failed to lead any type of yell or yells — particularly when they had been practicing just outside Steer Gym during the preceding JV game.

Come on ladies and gentleman, we need the boost you provide. It's disheartening to get outyelled in your own house as was the case Tuesday when the Permian JV players showed more spunk than the entire Big Spring crowd — and we won!

From the Associated Press comes a story from the San Antonio area.

Sheriff's investigators have lodged a formal complaint with the district attorney's office against a junior high school football coach for allegedly beating a 12-year-old student who had failed two classes.

The complaint was filed Tuesday against Raymond Sandacz.

It alleges he beat a 4-foot-11, 100-pound seventh-grader. The youth was one of 15 students paddled, the complaint charges.

The reported beating occurred Sept. 25 on the football field at Somerset Junior High School with 21 other students watching.

Sheriff's deputies say the youth's thighs were badly bruised.

Somerset Superintendent Henry Boenig said the district will wait until the sheriff's investigation is complete before deciding on any action against the coach.

"We don't want to do anything irrational," he said.

In the complaint, the boy charges the coach used an 18-inch 2-by-4 paddle to hit him. The boy said he had failed history and math courses.

Steers hoping to repeat history

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

ABILENE — Abilene Cooper may be just the tonic the Big Spring Steers need when the Black and Gold travels here Friday for their third District 4-5A football game of the year.

It was only last season that the Steers, 2-3, entered their game with Cooper under similar circumstances and records (2-4, 0-3). The Steers came away with a 14-11 win — the only win for Big Spring over a Cooper grid squad in the last 10 years. Head coach Quinn Eudy is no doubt hoping history repeats itself again.

Cooper brings a 3-2 and 1-1 slate into the contest set for 8 p.m. at Shotwell Stadium. The Cougars beat Odessa by a field goal in the league opener before stumbling against ranked Midland Lee, 28-7 last week.

Eudy said the Cougars are more of an offensive team than anything else. District stats also reflect that the Cougars are a balanced outfit — 861 yards rushing and 844 passing.

Eudy said Cooper quarterback Doug Hadley (56 of 126, but eight interceptions), "is as good or better than any quarterback we have faced, he has some wheels too and is a good runner as well as passer."

One of Hadley's backfield mates is tailback Jay Tolison who is the district's leading rusher with 601 yards. "Tolison has some speed. He's a hard runner and hard to bring down," Eudy said of the 160 pounder.

The running game will not only concern the Steers' defense, but Eudy said he will not hesitate to use his ground troops more this week, particularly against a Cooper defense that is last in the district in rushing defense. Last week the Steers had minus five yards rushing.

"I'm afraid we gave up on the run too soon last week," said Eudy. "We didn't run as much as I would like."

That was due to a strong Permian defense and while Cooper is not the defensive deathtrap Permian is, the Cougars boast of a very talented tackle in David Newman (216). "Newman will be one of the best linemen we face this year," said Eudy. Guard Luis Puga will have the task of facing off against Newman.

DEFENSE — Big Spring Steer Todd Coker attempts to bring down Odessa Permian's Brian Lauterbach in action from last week's 4-5A encounter. Coker and the rest of his teammates will travel to Abilene this Friday in search of that elusive first league win when they take on the Abilene Cooper Cougars. Cooper is 1-1 and Big Spring 0-2 in district action.

If the runninggame resembles that of the Cowboys, however the Steers can always counter with quarterback Carl Speck who enjoyed his best night of the year against Permian when he threw for over 130 yards in 32 attempts.

"Throwing 15 to 16 passes a game is enough," said Eudy. "We want to throw enough to open up our running game, when you start throwing 30 or more times that's too much."

Jay Pirkle, normally a fullback in Big Spring's veer formation, saw extensive action at wide receiver in the second half of last week's loss and responded by catching six passes for 61 yards. The versatile senior leads the team with 11 for over 140 yards. Eudy does not plan a permanent shift for Pirkle.

Padres turn Tigers into pussycats 5-3

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Enter Andy Hawkins. Exit the Detroit Tigers' offense.

The 24-year-old San Diego relief pitcher allowed only one hit through 5 1-3 innings, struck out three and fell behind only one batter, as the Padres rallied for a 6-3 victory in Game Two of the World Series Wednesday night.

Detroit took a quick 3-0 lead off starter Ed Whitson in the first inning, but Padres Manager Dick Williams never lost faith.

"I told Hawk, 'You just hold them and we'll see what we can do. We haven't even got to bat yet,'" Williams said. "And that's exactly what he did."

Hawkins needed only 55 pitches and did not walk a batter.

"Sometimes you just have a feeling things are going to go well," said Hawkins, who also threw 2 2-3 scoreless innings in relief on Tuesday, as well as 3 2-3 shutout innings in the playoffs. "I've had that feeling for about three or four weeks now."

Maybe Williams should skip his starting pitchers and go straight to the middle relievers.

The superlative performances by right-hander Hawkins and southpaw Craig Lefferts, who finished with three innings of one-hit relief, overshadowed the fact that San Diego's starting pitchers have been horrendous thus far in the series, which is tied at one game apiece.

In Game One, Williams and pitching coach Norm Sherry sent Mark Thurmond out for a fifth inning, even though Thurmond had thrown nearly twice as many pitches as usual through the first four. Thurmond surrendered a two-run, fifth-inning homer to Larry Herndon, and the Padres lost, 3-2.

Wednesday, Whitson, who had given up only one run in eight innings of playoff work, was tagged for five Tiger hits and three runs in the first two-thirds of an inning. He lasted only 17 pitches — 100 fewer than Thurmond the evening before.

Hawkins' arrival is a welcome one for the Padres. He struggled to an 8-9 record and 4.68 earned run

Wolves, Bulldogs set to open 7-3A play

By STEVE BELVIN

COAHOMA — This Friday's Coahoma-Colorado City clash will be a hard fought battle just like most of the past contests in the IH-20 rivalry.

One thing that will be different, however when the football is teed up here at 7:30 p.m. for the District 7-3A opener is that both squads will be sporting spiffy passing attacks — unlike past years when both teams played ball control with their running games.

Yes, the names are the same, but their styles are different, but one thing is for sure — neither Coahoma mentor Bruce Mitchell or C-City coach Tom Ramsey will have any problems getting their teams pumped up for the contest. The rivalry goes back a long way, but the C-City Wolves have held the upper hand during the past few years. The Bulldogs have not defeated the Wolves since 1975, a 13-13 tie in 1980 prevented Colorado City from having complete dominance over the past eight years.

The contest will feature two of 7-3A's best throwing quarterbacks in Coahoma's John Swinney and C-City's Doug Chitsey.

Swinney has been coming along of late and is the 10th leading passer in West Texas, completing 51 of 105 passes for 536 yards. Chitsey is the leading passer in West Texas with 57 completions in 104 attempts for 1,050 yards and 11 touchdowns. Chitsey has also scored nine TD's, prompting Mitchell to say "He'll be the best quarterback we've faced this year."

The C-City secondary, led by cor-

"Chitsey is a fine passer, against him you can't prepare for one thing because he is a good runner also."

Ramsey is not without superlatives for Swinney. "He (Swinney) has developed into a top notch quarterback. He is a very good passer," said Ramsey.

With two top passing teams, a lot of pressure will be on the opposing secondaries. The Coahoma secondary, led by cornerback Brian Calaway (six interceptions) and free safety Swinney (three interceptions), will have their hands full against a corp of Wolves receivers that have had the passes spread out evenly.

Tight Don Randle has 23 catches to his credit while tight end Perry Conner and Armando Rivera have 12 catches each. Split end Ronnie Hernandez has nine catches.

The C-City secondary, led by cornerback Gary Marsh's four interceptions, has picked off nine passes in the last three games.

"Facing Chitsey in practice every day has really helped our secondary," explained Ramsey. Swinney's main receiver has been Brian Calaway. Since switching to the position three weeks ago Calaway has snagged 17 passes for 234 yards. He led Bulldog receivers last week with six receptions.

Colorado City has the edge in the rushing attack with junior running back Sammy Rivera, fully healed from a foot injury, gaining 463 yards. Senior Bill Jackson has 434 yards to his credit.

Meanwhile the Coahoma defense will be suffering with the loss of linebacker Robby Henry to a knee injury for the remainder of the season.

District openers on tap for most teams

By BILLY NABOURS and STEVE BELVIN

Dress rehearsal is over. This week all the teams in Crossroads Country get down to family feuding with district or zone openers.

FORSAN (5-0) is at GARDEN CITY (1-3-1) and Forsan star running back Mitch Hays is still questionable for the 7-A South Zone opener after suffering a pulled hamstring muscle in last week's 20-6 win over O'Donnell. Garden City won last year's game, 16-13.

A new star emerged as freshman Bryan McElreath gained 106 yards in 12 carries. If Hays, who has 620 yards in 60 carries, can't go, then McElreath will get the call.

"It was a big plus for the team because we saw we can win without Hays. The kids all pulled together and moved the ball up and down the field," said Forsan coach Jan East. "Garden City is a good defensive team, that's the strongest part of their team, but if we don't make mistakes we can move the football."

G-City coach Tony Stricklin is aware of Forsan's offensive prowess and is bracing up his already strong defense by making a few position changes.

Noseguard Doug Schaefer will move to defensive right end, Charles Pessnell moves in at the nose spot and former end Doug Hoelscher is back at linebacker. Hoelscher was the leader of G-City's "Rat(t) Attack" last week in the team's first win. Hoelscher had 13 tackles, three fumble recoveries and rushed for over 100 yards and two scores. The Barkats, although saddled with their current record, are allowing only 10 points per game.

Forsan's defense led by middle linebacker Todd East, tackle Tony Miranda and cornerback Lee Morris is allowing a touchdown per game.

SANDS (2-3) is at ROSCOE (4-1) and coach Jim White's Mustangs will be facing their toughest test this season in their 7-A South Zone opener versus the number nine ranked team in the state.

The Mustangs are coming off a 20-15 come-from-behind victory over Wilson last week. The Plowboys drummed Class AA Tahoka 36-7 last week.

Sands needed a 52-yard scoring pass from Johnny Willis to running back Arnold Valasco to gain the win. Valasco also added 52 yards rushing while wingback David Ybarra added 64 yards.

White is hoping for more dominating defense like his team played last week. Led by John Covarrubia, Joe Hernandez and Mickey Franco, the front line sacked the quarterback five times while Willis and Mark McMullen intercepted passes. The Mustangs gave up only 66 yards on the ground.

Roscoe, which advanced to regional play last year, will be led by quarterback Matt Denman and halfback Kevin Reed. Darren McKnight (6-1, 220) and Nathan Richburg (6-3, 270) anchor the defensive line.

IRAAN (1-2-1) is at KLONDIKE (3-1) for a non-district game which was cancelled last week due to the death of Billy Dean Clay, father of three Iraan football players.

The postponement gave Klondike quarterback Scott Runge's bruised knee time to heal. The senior suffered the injury in a 10-6 win over Garden City.

With Runge healthy, Klondike coach Jimmy Thomas can move Tim Cope back to tailback, where he has gained 482 yards in 71 carries. Garden City is the only team thus far to shut down the elusive running back, holding him to 32 yards in 16 carries.

Top defensive players for the Cougars this season have been Robert Guerra, Mitch Mitchell, Cope and Runge.

ELDORADO (3-2) is at STANTON (2-2-1) and Stanton coach Dale Ruth is expecting a defensive battle in his team's 8-2A opener.

however.

"Jay is still probably our best back. Our theory in getting him out at wide receiver was that he is a big target and has good hands. That way he's isolated on only one or two people. Coming out of the backfield he has to contend with seven or nine," said Eudy.

Referring back to Cooper's offense, Eudy said the Cougars favor a lot of motion, moreso than any team faced by Big Spring thus far. "Our secondary will really need to be aware, motion probably puts a bigger burden on the secondary than any area of the defense," he said. Big Spring's secondary is comprised of Brian Reid, Pirkle, Matt Garrett and Jimmy Rodgers with ample relief in the form of Tommy Gartman.

Overall, Eudy said his bunch has gone at "high intensity," all week long in practice. "We've had so many kids do more this week than ever before. They're too good to be bad and they know it. They have hung tough these last two weeks and I think the hard work and dedication will pay off against Cooper."

Big Spring has beaten the Abilene Cooper Cougars only once in the past decade. Cooper won nine straight until Big Spring recorded a 14-11 victory in 1983 for the Steers' only district win. Listed are scores from that time:

1974: Cooper 28, Big Spring 10
1975: Cooper 26, Big Spring 5
1976: Cooper 20, Big Spring 0
1977: Cooper 41, Big Spring 6

Sophomore runningback heads AP list

By The Associated Press

Wichita Falls Hirschi Coach Dub Largin wanted to pick just the right moment to introduce sophomore running back Elbert Cooper to the starting lineup.

"It would have been kind of like throwing him to the dogs," Largin said. "People kept asking 'why didn't you start him earlier.' I just wanted him to build up a little confidence first."

Give Largin credit for good timing. In his first start two weeks ago, Cooper cracked the starting lineup for the first time with 123 yards rushing.

Then last week, Cooper really got his confidence up with 334 yards rushing, the highest total in the state this year, on 15 carries and five touchdowns in a 33-10 victory over Saginaw Boswell.

In 28 years of coaching in the city, Largin said he'd never seen a better performance.

"We do a good job of blocking but he ran over, around and through people," Largin said. "I've seen some good ones go through Wichita Falls over the past 28 years but I've never seen a performance like that."

Cooper, 5-9, 170, had touchdown runs of 7, 80, 65, 42 and 73 yards.

"Of course, it takes everything working just right to have a game like that but it was something to see," Largin said.

Wink, the No. 2 ranked Class A team in the state, got a seven-touchdown performance from quarterback Travis Price, who rushed 148 yards on 10 carries and completed eight of 14 passes for 93 yards.

Yankees give new contract to Niekro

ATLANTA (AP) — Pitcher Phil Niekro, who was released by the Atlanta Braves after the 1983 season then won 16 games with the 1984 New York Yankees, will start his 21st year in the major leagues with the Yankees next spring.

"I feel fine, physically I feel fine. My arm feels great. I was in good condition last year. I threw well, probably as well or better than I have in a long time," Niekro, 36, said Wednesday night.

The knuckleballer, whose fluttering deliveries have baffled both batters and catchers for 20 years, said Yankees General Manager Clyde King called him Tuesday.

"They renewed my contract, picked up my option year," Niekro said in a telephone interview from his suburban home.

He said he feels good and ready to pitch. There had been widespread reports he was considering retiring, "but I didn't think about it more than any other year."

"I can't find anything else I like better to do or enjoy better than pitching baseball," he said. "I'm still winning. I'm still getting them out."

"I signed a two-year contract, this being my option year," he said. "It wasn't written in stone that I was coming back. They had an option."

Hawks chosen for All-Stars

COLLEGE STATION — Three players who started for the Howard College Hawks, and another who will play for the Hawks after transferring from Ranger Junior College, will represent Howard in the Texas Junior College All-Star Baseball Game here Sunday at 1 p.m.

neil played last year at Ranger as a catcher and will probably see action at that position Sunday, but according to HC head coach Bill Griffin, the New York native has the tools to be a good first baseman. All four Hawks will help comprise the North squad roster in the doubleheader slated against a South All-Star squad.

Ashcraft rolled up a 9-3 record last year and a 3.54 ERA with 84 strikeouts. He was an All-Region-V selection as was Citronelli at Ranger.

Ortiz batted .362 with 28 RBIs after taking over the catching duties halfway through the season. He made honorable mention All-Region. Garcia, from San Antonio, held down second base and batted .373 with 49 RBIs. Garcia could see action at shortstop in Sunday's game set for Pat Olsen Field on the campus of Texas A&M University.

Game brings out boys in the band

AUSTIN (AP) — The governors of Texas and Oklahoma have agreed that the governor of the state whose team loses Saturday's football game will cross the field and direct the victorious university's band in the playing of the school song.

Gov. Mark White of Texas said Wednesday he understands that the Oklahoma Gov. George Nigh "is a promising conductor, and I'm looking forward to a serenade of 'The Eyes of Texas' played under his direction after the game."

White said Nigh "ought to know the song by heart, given the Longhorns' outstanding record against the Sooners in the last few years." Texas is 5-2 against Oklahoma since Fred Akers became coach at Texas in 1977.

Openers

much like last year's 12-7 Stanton victory.

In that contest the Buffs made a goalline stand from the three in the final seconds to preserve the win. "I'm expecting another defensive battle. I'm sure they haven't forgot when we upset them last year. The key is containing their quarterback, speed in the backfield and one wide receiver," said Ruth.

Jeff McAngus handles quarterback duties for the Eagles, and is a threat passing or running the quarterback sweep, according to Ruth. His favorite receiver is Victor Gutierrez.

Hopefully Staton starting fullback and leading rusher (56-233) Danny Koonce will be back in action after suffering a concussion. If not, sophomore James Vidal will fill in.

The Buffs offense sputtered in last week's 36-8 loss to Seagraves, mustering only 82 total yards. "Penalties hurt us last week, then we lost our concentration. This week we need to get our running game going to open up our passing game."

15 catches for 244 yards. Wide receiver Wayne DeLao has six catches for 89 yards. Kevin Glaspie has completed 34 of 78 attempts for 487 yards.

SIERRA BLANCA (1-2) is at GRADY (1-4) for a Saturday non-district six man contest and Grady coach Currie McWilliams is looking to halt a four game losing skid. The Wildcats have had hard luck so far this season, dropping two games by a combined total of seven points. "You'd think if a team averages 36 points, they would win," said McWilliams.

Last week Grady dropped a 38-36 decision to Paint Creek, a game in which the Wildcats dominated every phase of the game — except the score. The big play was the Wildcats' downfall as Paint Creek reeled off three scoring plays totaling 172 yards. McWilliams expects the Vaqueros to be tough. "They'll run at us, they have one real good running back and they like to get into the I and spread formations. They are run oriented. If we eliminate the big plays we can play against anybody," added Grady's first year coach.

last week gaining 109 and 178 yards rushing respectively. Quarterback Michael Mitchell completed 10 of 13 passes for 96 yards.

BORDEN COUNTY (4-0-1) is at McCauley (2-3) for a 4-6-man contest where Borden County coach Duke Frisbee and his troops will try and comeback from a not-so-great performance in a 42-42 tie with Rule.

The Coyotes had to come-from-behind to knot the score after leading 36-15 at the half. Running back Chris Cooley paced the Coyotes with 341 yards in 34 carries, his fourth 200 plus yard game.

The tie was a costly one for the Coyotes since linebacker-fullback Eric Turner suffered a broken thumb and will be lost for the season. Frisbee rates McCauley as a top team because, "They have played some very tough teams. McCauley has a very good team, we'll have a hard time with them."

AT&T ANNOUNCES PLANS TO CHANGE RATES ON YOUR INTERNATIONAL LONG DISTANCE CALLS.

AT&T has filed a plan with the Federal Communications Commission to restructure rates for international Long Distance Service, excluding Canada, Mexico, and Cuba. The restructure will be effective in 45 days and will result in rate decreases and increases that bring more closely in line the price of international calls and the cost incurred for completing those calls. The purpose of the filing is to provide price incentives that will increase customer calling during off-peak usage periods, thereby encouraging better utilization of international telephone network capacity.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You will need to step up your pace today if you want to get much of value put in motion, for you will feel you are deprived of certain luxuries.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) It's fine to plan to gain more holdings, but be sure you do not neglect those you have at present.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Morning is fine for going to your favorite barber or beauty shop and improving your appearance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Important you get that civic program started which you have been planning for some time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Rely on a couple of prominent persons to assist you either in business or personal matters now.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A good day to plan either a change of address or an improvement or addition to present residence, but act quickly.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You get many fine ideas for future activities, so make notations of them or you could forget them later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Know what it is that your mate wants out of life and try to be of assistance. This brings greater happiness between you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) String along with associates today since the planets are most favorable to them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be very cooperative with those who work with you and step up production considerably.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make arrangements early for having the good time you desire and later in the day it can be yours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) The ideas of kin are better than yours for the next few days, so listen carefully to what they have to suggest.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A fine day to plan with allies how to be more productive. Any problematical affairs can be straightened out.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will, early in life, want to be prosperous and can do so since there is an early understanding of what path to take in order to be successful. Therefore, it is necessary that a good education be provided in order to make the most of the potential here.

COMING OF AGE - Sylvia Serna sits near her escort, Tony Juarez, during her quinceañera celebration at the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in Denton. A quinceañera is the recognition of a Hispanic girl coming of age in the Catholic Church, of the passage from girlhood to womanhood.

Celebrating a 'quinceañera'

DENTON (AP) - A young woman passed down the aisle of the church, stepping solemnly to the music in her lacy white dress, complete with hooped skirt. She bent her head to go through an archway, formed by 13 dames holding batons, and their escorts, holding ribbons that streamed from the batons. As she arrived at the altar, she gave the sign of the cross.

It wasn't a wedding, but an event almost as important to a Hispanic girl in the Catholic Church, a quinceañera. The word translates loosely to "sweet 15 anniversary," but it is more than a birthday celebration. It is a recognition of a girl coming of age in the Catholic Church, of the passage from girlhood to womanhood. Sylvia Ann Serna of Denton took that step recently at Immaculate Conception Catholic Church.

Sylvia's mother, Connie Sosa, explained the quinceañera is part of a process that begins with the baby's baptism and continues with first Holy Communion at age 7.

"At a quinceañera, you take the sacrament, and when you get to the age to be married by the church, that's another vow you take," she said.

Sylvia took classes to learn the meaning of the quinceañera and the sacraments and doctrines of the Catholic church. A few weeks before the event, though, she was still lukewarm about its importance, telling her mother she planned to wear blue jeans under her dress.

"I told her to wear the dress instead of me," Sylvia said. But her mother said the ceremony should have special importance to her only daughter pointing out a streak of grey in the girl's dark hair. The grey marks the place where Sylvia had a brain tumor removed when she was a child and now has a plastic plate in place of the bone. Although Sylvia has been healthy for years, Mrs. Sosa said no one knows when problems might occur again.

"If God takes you away, at least you'll have this, and I have it to remember for the rest of my life," she said. "I'm trying to make these kids understand the meaning of the quinceañera - it's something you will treasure the rest of your life and wish everybody will have the way you did."

During the ceremony, the significance seemed clear to Sylvia. Although some of her dames and escorts stifled giggles as they came down the aisle, she looked thoughtful throughout.

The ceremony began with music in both English and Spanish, and the Mass was bilingual as well. Sylvia, her white dress trimmed in deep purple to distinguish it from a wedding dress, took her seat alone on a front pew near the altar. Her mother; her escort, Tony Juarez; and the dames and other escorts sat behind her, dressed in lavender lace dresses and grey tuxedos accented with lavender. The quinceañera was performed during a regular Mass at Immaculate Conception, and the Rev. John Mitchell explained the ceremony for those unfamiliar with it.

"In Mexico, and many other countries, when a girl becomes 15 it's a sort of coming of age, something like a bar mitzvah in the Jewish religion," he explained. "Sometimes, it's done for both a boy and a girl if they are twins. We consider it a change from a little girl, or a nina, to mujere, a woman.

"In the Mass, she says she wants the Lord to guide the development of her personality and her emotional development and spiritual development." Popo Gonzalez came before the congregation to explain the four symbols of the quinceañera: the medal, the ring, the flowers and the crown.

"The medal is the religious expression of faith," he said. "The ring symbolizes her responsibility to her community and to God. Flowers represent newness in any ceremony, and here they represent the newness of her commitment and responsibility to the community. The crown represents the victory the young lady has won in trying to lead a Christian life in the midst of all the problems and challenges of her environment."

Mrs. Sosa said she began planning for the ceremony for more than a year.
