Q. How did Rattlesnake Gap get its name?
A. Rattlesnake Gap was so named after railroad workers had to kill thousands of rattlesnakes in that area to continue the railbed in 1881. Rattlesnake Gap is off Interstate 20 east of Coahoma. Members of the sheriff's office here said in later years the name stuck because of winding roads in the area.

Doggett keys energy program

Doggett blasts Gramm on farm, energy programs

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

STANTON — State Sen. Lloyd Doggett (D-Austin), in Stanton on a campaign swing for his U.S. Senate race, said he favored a strong energy program, including the repeal of the windfall profits tax and deregulation of natural gas. But Doggett, speaking to about 30 people at the Caprock Electric Co. in Stanton drew distinctions between his energy policies and that of his Republican opponent, Rep. Phil Gramm (R-College Station). "It's a very critical issue as to who will put Texas first and protecting it from being a garbage dump for high-level nuclear waste," Doggett said. Doggett accused Gramm of voting for an amendment that excluded Mississippi, Boston and other parts of the United States from being considered as a dump site. He also said Gramm voted against giving Texas a strong veto power on a dump being located in the state, which he said then Gov. Bill Clements ordered. Gramm, Doggett said, is the number one recipient of contributions from the nuclear power industry, and would be working for that industry and not Texas. In contrast, Doggett said that a high-level nuclear waste dump, "Would be located in West Texas over my dead body." Instead such a dump should be placed in Nevada, where nuclear contamination already exists, Doggett said. "Which ever state complains least will end up with all the nuclear garbage. It shouldn't be buried under prime farmland such as near Tulia or where it could threaten the water supply of the Ogallala Aquifer," Doggett said. Tulia is one of two sites in Texas being considered as a high-level nuclear waste dump for the United States; there are only nine such sites under consideration. Doggett said he supported legislation continuing the small business association and the Rural Electrification Administration, in contrast to Gramm who he said voted against both pieces of legislation. "We wouldn't have the REA if the same Northeastern utilities that support Gramm have their way," Doggett said, "they thought Franklin Roosevelt and Lyndon Johnson, and now they've got it bottled up in the Republican senate." When we needed his (Gramm's) help on the REA, he wasn't there to help our rural communities," Gramm said. Doggett also accused Gramm of not supporting rural farmers

Motown violence

One man killed, others injured as Tiger fans stage celebration

DETROIT (AP) — One man was shot to death, dozens were injured and at least 34 were arrested when World Series victory celebrators turned violent, torching cars, battling with riot-ready police and leaving streets littered with burnt-out vehicles and broken glass today. Hundreds of people still roamed downtown early today, remnants of the thousands of Detroit fans who poured into the streets when the Tigers beat the San Diego Padres 4-4 Sunday to win their first series appearance since 1968. A police car and a taxicab were torched in hours of violence that forced authorities to close a park, an office complex and freeways leading downtown. Police Lt. Fred Williams said one man among the throng was shot to death, and the Detroit News today quoted unnamed police sources as saying the 27-year-old was the victim of an apparent robbery attempt shortly before midnight. The man's wallet, which contained $62, had not been taken, the News said. No arrests or suspects were reported. The air along Michigan Avenue outside Tiger Stadium smelled of burning tires, marijuana, beer and horse manure soon after the victory. Broken glass crunched underfoot. A man walked to an overturned taxicab outside the stadium, removed the gasoline tank cap, and tossed in a match. The cab burst into flames with a roar. Later, the crowd tossed a motorcycle into the fire. "I know there were some rowdy fans tonight," said Pam Collins, 23, of suburban Royal Oak. "But this is the World Series, and you've got to expect some kind of rowdiness." Scores of police, some clad in riot gear, some brandishing broken boards, struggled until 10 p.m., more than two hours after the game ended, to control the crowds. One police car was burned and two sustained major damage, and four officers were treated for minor injuries that did not require hospitalization, Williams said. He said 32 adults and two juveniles were arrested on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to robbery. Police could not immediately provide an estimate of property damage. A man lay in the middle of Michigan Avenue, a piece of sod from the field was tucked under his head for support. Maureen Nystrom, 20, of Dearborn Heights, said she saw police officers hit the man. Rescue vehicles could not respond quickly because the crowds made streets surrounding the stadium nearly impassable.

Early today, several hundred people continued honking car horns, waving pennants and shouting, and private parties rocked on. Police used city buses to form blockades on several major streets leading downtown in an effort to keep the crowd from spreading. About three hours after the game, police closed the downtown Renaissance Center, an office, hotel and retail complex. Freeways leading into the downtown area were closed to all but emergency vehicles. Police also closed Hart Plaza, a downtown riverfront park, and dispersed another rowdy crowd there.

Three researchers receive Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 1984 Nobel Prize in medicine was awarded today to three researchers for pioneering work in immunology, including promising research into ways to manipulate the body's natural defenses to treat cancer. London-born Niels K. Jerne, who works in Switzerland, was cited along with West German Georges J.F. Koehler and Argentine Cesar Milstein for their theories on the development and control of the immune system, and the discovery of the principle for producing monoclonal antibodies. Monoclonal antibodies, in addition to showing promise in halting some forms of cancer, have been used to treat severe combined immune deficiency syndrome, a rare condition in which a child cannot fight off disease. An attempt to treat David, a Texas boy who spent his 12 years of life in a sterile plastic bubble, with monoclonal antibodies failed, but other children like David have been saved using monoclonal antibodies. The Karolinska Institute medical faculty, which selects the winners for the Nobel Prize in medicine, described Jerne, 73, as "the leading theoretician in immunology during the last 30 years." Jerne's theories have shed light on how the immune system develops and outlined the development of modern immunology, they said. Jerne, who holds British and Danish passports, is professor emeritus of the Basel Institute of Immunology in Switzerland. He lives in France. The Karolinska Institute said Milstein and Koehler were leaders in research on the body's production of antibodies, vital to the natural ability to ward off disease. Koehler and Milstein in 1975 produced monoclonal antibodies which could be used to fight specific cells, Karolinska experts said in a prepared statement. "They immortalized antibody-producing cells by fusing them with tumor cells," the institute said. The researchers' so-called hybridoma technique for the production of the antibodies "represents one of the most important methodological advances in biomedicine during the 1970s, (the

Hurricane Josephine causes man's death

NEW YORK (AP) — Hurricane Josephine was hundreds of miles offshore and moving slowly away from land today after it stalled off the coast, causing minor flooding and causing one death. A man who fell off a boat in rough waters of the North River in Scituate, Mass., died Sunday, officials said. No other injuries were reported. The storm, packing winds of 85 mph and pushing gales outward in a 300-mile ring, pushed tides 2 to 4 feet above normal and flooded roads in eastern Long Island and New Jersey before turning to the southeast Sunday night. It had stalled about 225 miles southeast of Atlantic City, N.J., around noon. At 6 a.m. today, the Atlantic season's third hurricane was centered near latitude 36.5 north, longitude 66.5 west, or about 525 miles east of Norfolk, Va., the National Weather Service said. The storm was moving to the east-northeast at about 15 mph and was expected to accelerate that movement during the day, the weather service said. Gale warnings remained in effect today from Manasquan, N.J., to Cape Cod, Mass.

Josephine brought rain to Cape Cod and gusts of 40 mph to 45 mph on Sunday, said Tom Degregorio of the weather service in Boston. George Boone, 38, of Wrentham, Mass., died Sunday morning after falling into the North River, officials said. "He fell over because it was so rough," said Coast Guard Petty Officer Chris Van der Wolk. He said the winds were caused by the difference between a high pressure system northwest of the area and the low pressure of Josephine to the south. In New York, the Coast Guard kept extra people on duty along the northeast coast, Lt. j.g. Lance Benton said. Police in the eastern Long Island towns of Easthampton and Southampton reported winds of about 20 mph and minor flooding. In Southampton, police closed a 1½-mile stretch of Dune Road, covered in places by 3½ feet of water. "There are numerous houses that are surrounded by water," though all area residents save one had cleared out Saturday, said police Officer Andrew Balistreri. See Josephine page 2-A

Weather Cold front enters area

By The Associated Press

A strong cold front blew into West Texas early today, dropping temperatures to the low 50s across the Panhandle and forecasters predicted the trough would embrace the rest of the state by Tuesday.

The chilly spell extended from just east of Wichita Falls, to Abilene and south of Midland.

By contrast, South Texas and the lower Rio Grande Valley enjoyed readings in the mid 70s, with temperatures reaching the low to mid 60s elsewhere in the Lone Star state.

At 4 a.m., Amarillo was the coolest spot in the state with a chilly 41 degrees. Brownsville, meanwhile, greeted the day with a warm 77 degrees.

Dense fog blanketed sections of South and southeast Texas, reducing visibility in some locations to less than 1/2 mile.

Skies were generally clear across North and Central Texas, while a veil of low clouds hugged South Texas and the Coastal Plains.

Behind the cold front, northwesterly winds at 15 to 20 mph raced over the High Plains of West Texas, while westerly winds near 10 mph breezed across the Edwards Plateau. Meanwhile, southerly breezes at 5 to 15 mph were reported over the rest of Texas.

The forecast called for early morning fog over southeast Texas. Otherwise, partly cloudy to cloudy skies were expected statewide today with scattered showers in the northern sections of West Texas.

High temperatures will range from the mid 50s in the Panhandle to near 90 in South Texas.

Hurricane Josephine eased away from the East Coast today and a blast of cold Canadian air brought up to 10 inches of snow to the Western mountains, allowing early-season skiing after snarling traffic.

Fog persisted for the eighth straight day in Milwaukee, where it was blamed for a pile-up involving 60 cars and injuring 43, none seriously.

"It looks like winter up here, it really does," said Nancy Branham, a desk supervisor at Timberline Lodge on Oregon's Mount Hood. She said cross-country skiers were out Sunday.

Josephine, which had stalled off the New Jersey coast Sunday, was about 525 miles east of Norfolk, Va., at 6 a.m. today and moving east-northeast at 15 mph. Its maximum sustained winds were near 85 mph and gale-force winds extended out from the center about 300 miles.

More than 10 inches of snow accumulated at Timberline, an unusual amount for this time of year.

Snow was scattered from southeast Idaho across Wyoming and Colorado, with rain and snow mixed in western Kansas.

WEST TEXAS — Cloudy and much colder with scattered showers in the north today. Partly cloudy and relatively warmer elsewhere. Tonight, cloudy and cold in the Panhandle with scattered rain mixed with snow elsewhere. Highs in the mid 50s in the Panhandle to the mid 60s in the South Plains, with near 80 elsewhere. Lows in the 30s in the Panhandle to the mid 40s in South Plains, climbing to the 60s elsewhere.

Sheriff's Log

Man reports assault incident

A 37-year-old Big Spring man told Howard County sheriff's deputies Sunday that he was assaulted by three men in the county.

Abel Ramirez of 1504 W. Cherokee told deputies he asked three men for a ride home from Sam's Roundup Club on Highway 350 at closing time. The men, who were driving a light blue older van, agreed, but instead drove him into the country and beat him up, according to the deputies' reports.

Ramirez had a swollen left eye, a bloody nose, a busted lip, bruises on his upper lip and scratches from the assault. Ramirez was found in a Cadillac in front of Dennis Holmes' house in the Oasis Addition by deputies answering a prowl call.

According to the report, Ramirez entered Holmes' car to escape his attackers. The incident occurred about 12:30 a.m. Sunday.

• Janet Arista of Banks Road told Howard County sheriff's deputies that her son, Alexander James, was assaulted by a 15- or 16-year-old boy about 9:30 or 10 p.m. Saturday.

James was hit and pushed into a barbed wire fence by the brother of someone he knew.

• Marcia Lou Loden, also known as Marcia Lou Wilson, 22, of Rockdale was transferred to the Texas Department of Corrections in Gatesville on a two-year sentence.

• Four persons were released Sunday from county jail after serving weekend sentences for county court judgments for driving while intoxicated. Released were Miguel Thomas Castillo, 47, of Route 1; Gareth Kistler, 44, of Sterling City Route; Raymond Puga Nunez, 35, of 703 Aylford; and Palemon Garcia Diaz, 24, of 1600 Robin.

• Deputies also collected $172.25 in restitution for Caprock Electric and $248 in restitution for Mountain View Trailer Park in connection with a forgery case.

Jackson concert well worth time says mayor

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Although proceeds reportedly fell $50 million below early estimates, the time and effort were well spent for Jacksonville to host three concerts by rock superstar Michael Jackson and his brothers, the mayor said.

"In my heart, I believe we did the right thing," Jacksonville Mayor Jake Godbold told The Florida Times-Union in a story published Sunday.

Officials in other cities visited by the Jacksons' Victory Tour said promoters cited the northeast Florida community as an example of local government's willingness to hold the concerts at any cost.

Gator Bowl appearances by the Jacksons in July generated up to $3.7 million in retail sales and between $6.4 million and $10 million in personal earnings, according to a preliminary study by University of North Florida economics professor Joseph Perry.

Godbold originally estimated the concerts would swell local coffers by $70 million, but he lowered the figure to $15 million after the shows. Jacksonville was the tour's third stop.

Perry, a member of Godbold's Economic Development Council, said the mayor based his estimates on incorrect information from the Chamber of Commerce and the Convention and Tourism Bureau.

"We didn't lose, but the impact simply wasn't as large as suggested earlier," Perry said.

The city earned a profit of $88,234 from the concerts. The Jacksonville Transportation Authority also made $4,600 by running special concert buses, records show.

But in comparison, Irving, Texas, made $365,000 from the Victory Tour. Denver gained more than $400,000 and Pontiac, Mich., took in profits of about $350,000, the newspaper reported.

Philadelphia earned about $300,000 from its first two concerts alone, while the University of Tennessee, which hosted the Jacksons' Knoxville concert, made at least $600,000, the Times-Union said.

Don McClure, Godbold's chief aide, said Jacksonville made a profit of $245,000 — but his figures included $32,159 that the Jacksons gave to local charities, Michael Jackson's $100,000 donation to establish a local music scholarship and $24,975 that the tour's promoters paid in administrative charges.

Jacksonville was the only concert city among those checked by the newspaper that failed to make a direct profit from the use of its stadium and parking and concession sales.

In fact, it took a $120,000 donation from the tour's promoter, another $40,000 from local corporate sponsors and $17,000 in tax revenues from ticket sales for City Hall to break even, the newspaper said.

Jacksonville also was the only community that agreed to surrender part of its revenues from parking and concessions to the promoter.

"I said, 'You've got to be kidding. You'd better play all your concerts this summer in Jacksonville,'" said Philadelphia's deputy city solicitor Marilyn Kutler.

Like other cities on the tour, Philadelphia made some concessions to the promoter, including a break on the stadium rental fee. An added service fee helped offset the reduction.

Texas Stadium and the University of Tennessee waived their normal percentage of ticket-sales revenue.

"Maybe our size and maybe the fact that we never had a big show like this — we never had a Super Bowl — maybe that accounted for some of it," Godbold said, explaining why other cities apparently negotiated better deals.

While there was no water damage to homes, "if it rises any measurable amount there probably will be," he said.

In Sea Bright, N.J., with winds gusting to 40 mph, a disabled cabin cruiser smashed into a rock jetty shortly after its passengers were rescued.

The 26-foot vessel became disabled in high seas Saturday when its battery died and the four crew members spent the night bailing water.

A Coast Guard helicopter rescued them Sunday morning after the vessel had drifted to within 400 yards of the shore, said Coast Guard Chief Petty Officer Kevin Cassidy.

Three crew members were taken to a hospital for observation and released, while the fourth refused treatment, Cassidy said.

Plans for an emergency were in place, but concern about Josephine was "low key," said Harold Spedding of the New Jersey office of emergency management.

High water forced the closing of a section of Route 36 in Sea Bright for two hours Sunday, but authorities all along the coastline reported no serious damage.

price support payments and loans to farmers by 60 percent, would have eliminated the wool and Mohair payment program and increased federal crop insurance premiums by an estimated 10 percent.

Doggett said the small business administration renewal bill included an amendment that would have provided drought assistance to West Texas farmers and ranchers. Gramm he said was one of 11 representatives to oppose the small business loan program which included the drought assistance.

Earlier this year, Gramm said, "No, our farmers don't need any more loan. They're too much in debt now." That is some kind of callous statement," Doggett said quoting Gramm statement from an Emerald paper.

"You don't have to be a farmer or 80 years old to know that kind of statement is un-Texas," Doggett said referring to Gramm's statement about social security that Doggett has been making in his campaign.

"While Texans are frugal, they are not hard-hearted or mean," Doggett said.

discovery that) an antibody-producing cell and all its daughter cells produce identical antibody molecules," the Karolinska summary said.

"The method allows unlimited production of monoclonal antibodies with predetermined specificities. This has opened up completely new fields for theoretical and applied biomedical research and allows precise diagnosis as well as treatment of disease," the summary said.

Monoclonal antibodies have been used to treat bone marrow for transplant to children with severe combined immune deficiency disease and patients with cancer such as leukemia.

In a bone marrow transplant, marrow is taken from a healthy donor and injected into the victim.

In many patients, marrow-produced cells called T lymphocytes attack their new surroundings and cause a reaction called graft-versus-host disease. Despite drug treatment, this condition kills many patients. The new treatment uses monoclonal antibodies to wipe out the T lymphocytes.

Koehler, 38, is a colleague of Jerne at the institute in Basel. Milstein, 57, born in Bahia Blanca, Argentina, has worked in chemistry in Argentina. He received his doctorate at Cambridge in 1960, and now heads the university's division of protein and nucleic acid chemistry. Milstein previously headed the molecular immunobiology division of Cambridge's biochemistry department.

Jerne presented the first of his three main pioneering theories into immunological research in 1955.

Election session set tonight

All election judges and clerks are required to attend a school of instruction at 7:30 p.m. tonight to prepare them for the November general elections, according to Howard County Clerk Margaret Ray.

The school will be taught in the District Court Room on the third floor of the Howard County Courthouse. A filmstrip from the Texas Secretary of State's office will be shown.

6,000 county residents eligible for Sr. Citizens

Although more than 6,000 people in Howard County are eligible to be members of the Senior Citizens Center, only about 500 to 600 people are served by the organization annually, according to Carolyn McCarty, director.

The Senior Citizens Center is located in building 487, Air Park. Anyone in need of the services and anyone who knows of someone who might benefit from the program may call 267-1628 for more information.

Mrs. McCarty said the only qualification to joining the Center is that one must be 60 years old or older or married to someone 60 or older.

A wide range of services are offered through the center. There is no fee. Contributions are accepted to help defray costs.

Services provided include: Congregate meals, served Monday through Friday at noon.

Recreation, such as pool, dominoes, exercise classes and equipment, bingo, television, ceramics, art, macrame, and dances every Friday night.

Outreach includes home visits to assess needs and information services about programs available in the county.

Telephone reassurance calls are made on a daily basis to older persons to check on their well being and provide conversation.

An information and referral service to provide information about service programs, provide brief assessments to facilitate appropriate referral to and follow-up with community resources, is offered.

Transportation is available to transport persons to and from community resources, such as doctors, hospitals, social security office, post office, banks, grocery shopping, and the Senior Citizens Center.

BSHS band gets top rating

Judges from Texas Tech's marching festival awarded the Big Spring High School Steer Marching Band excellent ratings Saturday at Jones Stadium in Lubbock.

The 125-member Steer Band was among 35 bands participating in the Texas Marching Festival, which serves as a warm-up contest for the University Interscholastic League contest to be held at Ratliff Stadium in Odessa on Oct. 27.

Charles Nail, Director of Bands at Odessa Permian High and Ron Wells, Director of Bands at Amarillo High awarded the Steer Band a Division II (Excellent) rating.

Ray Meza, Director of Bands at Georgetown High awarded the band a slightly higher excellent rating with a II+.

Other judges who participated in the festival were Alan Shinn and Victor Mellinger, both from Texas

The Steer Band's UIL Contest show features trumpet soloists Henry Sanchez and Sam Gladden in the classical "Pictures at an Exhibition;" percussion section leader and Steer Band President Jimmy Olague as soloist in "Flight of the Bumblebee," and horn soloist Sam Gladden in the ballad, "Softly As I Leave You."

Commodity recertification set

Recipients of commodities from West Texas Opportunities Inc. who are not certified for the October-December quarter or who are new to the program must become certified prior to Oct. 19, according to Patricia Lawlis, head of the Big Spring office.

Changes in the deadline were made to eliminate excess storage costs, Janet Everheart, executive director, said. All commodities remaining in the Lubbock warehouse after the first pickup for each month will be transported into private storage at the expense of West Texas Opportunities, Inc.

Orders for November distribution must be placed no later than 4 p.m. Oct. 22. Certification must be established by Oct. 19.

Firm workers seek damages

TYLER (AP) — Asbestos workers in East Texas are struggling to collect $15 million in damages from South African and British mining firms that supplied raw asbestos to a Tyler factory between 1954 and 1972.

Asbestos is mineral used for making fireproof materials such as electrical insulation, roofing and filters.

The $15 million judgment was awarded last year by U.S. District Judge William Steger. It provides payments of as much as $120,000 apiece to 160 ailing asbestos workers and others affected by it.

But the money may be impossible or difficult to collect.

Both the British and South African firms named in the $15 million default judgment claim the U.S. courts have no jurisdiction through "dummy corporations" chartered in Portugal and Lichtenstein, according to Tyler attorney Blake Bailey, who represents many of the 160 plaintiffs.

The U.S. Justice Department and the FBI have tried to track down the asbestos suppliers and attach their assets in the United States. They have also hired British attorneys to pursue the case in foreign courts.

Many of the workers, however, believe they will die before the case is resolved.

"The money won't do no good when I'm dead and gone," Mary Johnson, 66, told the Times Herald. She has been diagnosed as suffering asbestos.

"I seriously doubt we'll ever collect it," added John Hall, another asbestos worker involved in the 10-year-old suit.

Thirteen of the 160 workers have died since the lawsuit was filed in 1974. Dozens more are disabled by lung diseases they claim were caused by exposure to asbestos.

The lawsuit has been dragged through a maze of corporate subterfuge. In some cases, the Times Herald reported, the South African asbestos was routed through "dummy corporations" chartered in Portugal and Lichtenstein, according to Tyler attorney Blake Bailey, who represents many of the 160 plaintiffs.

"It was a well organized cloak-and-dagger scheme," Bailey said. "It's like a James Bond movie, but there's been more people killed in this case than any James Bond movie."

PCP bust termed largest ever

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Four people arrested at a drug manufacturing lab were scheduled to be arraigned today in what officials said was one of the largest drug busts in Texas history.

Authorities confiscated enough chemicals to manufacture 350 kilograms of PCP, or "angel dust," with an estimated street value of $900 million, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Jack Wolfe in Brownsville.

The four include a medical doctor who lives in Brownsville but practices across the border in Mexico.

Wolfe said authorities would ask this afternoon for a $5 million bond to be set on each man.

"They had a lab going and they were cooking the chemicals when we got there," he said.

The arrests were made in part of an ongoing investigation by the Drug Enforcement Agency.

GB detains Libyan pupil

TRIPOLI, Libya — Libya's foreign ministry has protested the detention of a Libyan student in Britain for questioning in connection with bombings and the death of a policewoman, the official new agency JANA reports.

The protest was lodged with the Italian ambassador, JANA said Sunday. Italy has handled British interests since Britain broke relations with Libya in April over the policewoman's murder and the wounding of 11 protesters by gunfire from the Libyan Embassy in London.

JANA identified the student as Omran Aswed, and quoted the Foreign Ministry as calling the arrest an "unjustified repressive measure."

In London, a Scotland Yard spokesman said a Libyan arrested in Birmingham on Thursday was released Sunday after being questioned about bombings in London last March. Scotland Yard did not identify the man, but said he was not charged and not deported.

British police sources said the Libyan also was questioned about the murder of policewoman Yvonne Fletcher outside the Libyan embassy.

1-party state condemned

HARARE, Zimbabwe — Zimbabwe's main opposition party has condemned Prime Minister Robert Mugabe's proposed one-party state and called for national unity in elections early next year.

The more than 6,000 delegates attending the two-day Zimbabwe African People's Union congress also passed resolutions Sunday urging free and fair polling.

Party leader Joshua Nkomo said most parties, including Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union, would heed the call for unity. But Nkomo, whose party holds 20 of 100 National Assembly seats, did not rule out a united front of minority parties if Mugabe's followers spurned the invitation.

Mugabe's party, which took power after a negotiated settlement that ended the white-led Rhodesian government in 1980, holds 57 assembly seats and has vowed to create a one-party state out of one of Africa's few multi-party democracies. All minority party leaders have opposed the plan, including the last white prime minister, Ian Smith, whose conservative alliance holds seven of 20 white-reserved seats.

Drought drying up India

NEW DELHI, India — Crops are dying, wells have dried up and lakes are turning into mud flats in southern India in a severe drought that reportedly has affected 50 million people.

After touring the drought area, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said the federal government would give $20 million in aid to Andhra Pradesh and Maharashtra states, the United News of India reported Sunday.

UNI said Mrs. Gandhi walked through parched fields and inspected dried crops and empty wells in four districts.

The drought reportedly forced many Hindu villagers to kill sacred cows for food, and prompted many others to leave the state in search of a living.

Athena temple found

ATHENS, Greece — A 2,600-year-old temple to Athena has been unearthed by an archaeological team on a rocky hill on the Aegean island of Paros.

The temple to the Greek goddess of wisdom apparently was built in the 7th century B.C., known as the Archaic Period. Only a dozen such early temples have been unearthed to date.

"Finding an Archaic temple is something unusual and very exciting. Such buildings date right back to the beginnings of the Greek city state," Dr. Demetrius U. Schliardi, the excavation director, said Sunday.

He said the discovery was made this summer.

The Paros temple was a single room, measuring about 32 by 16 feet, with walls constructed of gray stone from the island, Schliardi said.

Statements destroyed

HONG KONG — The government says it will destroy statements submitted by residents on the draft accord returning Hong Kong to China in 1997 because of fears of Chinese retaliation if the names are made public.

The government said Sunday that statements submitted to the Special Assessment Office by Nov. 15 will be kept sealed in Hong Kong until the final British-Chinese agreement is signed next year. Officials had planned to send the statements to London for a Parliament debate on the accord later this year.

The agreement initiated by China and Britain last month will return the whole colony to Chinese control in 1997 when Britain's 99-year lease on most of the territory expires. China has promised to retain Hong Kong's social, economic and legal systems for 50 years after 1997.

Air Florida takes to skies

MIAMI (AP) — Air Florida, which shut down under a heavy burden of debt in July, resumed flying today under the burgundy and taupe colors of the new low-fare airline Midway Express.

The sold-out inaugural flight, carrying 131 passengers, left Miami at 8 a.m. EDT on a two-hour, 50-minute flight to Chicago, one of 28 flights that will be launched throughout the day aboard three of Air Florida's Boeing 737s.

"Today we celebrate a victory of the human spirit," said Arthur C. Bass, chairman of Chicago-based Midway Airlines, the parent company of the new carrier. "It is the combination of several months of hard work on the part of hundreds of members of the Florida community who kept the dream of resurrecting this airline..."

Neal Meehan, president of Midway Airlines, said that as of today, the new carrier had taken about 80,000 reservations on flights between four Florida cities — Orlando, Tampa, West Palm Beach and Miami — and Detroit, Chicago and Washington, D.C.

"Through the holiday period just about everything is sold out," Meehan said.

Midway Express is offering introductory $99 round-trip fares, and officials said the low price was largely responsible for the vast public response. More flights will be added Friday — from Miami to St. Thomas and St. Croix in the U.S. Virgin Islands.

TOWING WRECKAGE — U.S. Coast Guard personnel tow a Confederate Air Force PBV-6A Catalina that crashed into the Laguna Madre early Saturday. Six members of the Lone Star Wing in Tyler were killed, while four others remain critically injured.

Tragedy at sea

Six killed, four injured in seaplane crash

ARROYO CITY (AP) — A World War II vintage seaplane flipped over while skimming the water about two miles off the southern Texas coast Saturday, killing six people aboard and injuring four others.

The four who survived were rescued from the water of Laguna Madre by nearby fishing vessels, according to spokesmen for the Coast Guard and the National Transportation Safety Board.

Officials said the twin-engine plane was part of the Confederate Air Force, a group of vintage plane buffs conducting an annual air show at nearby Harlingen this weekend. It was a PBV-6A, a large seaplane commonly used for naval reconnaissance and rescues during World War II.

"There were 10 people on board," said Coast Guard Lt. Phillip Coletti. "Right now it appears there are four survivors. All the survivors have been evacuated by fishing vessels in the area."

The other six were killed, said a dispatcher for the state Department of Public Safety who would not give her name.

Mike Rodriguez, a spokesman for the flying group, said the seaplane was on a photo mission when it crashed at 8:03 a.m. about two miles off the coast from the small town of Arroyo City.

"They were getting as close as they could to the water to create a wake, to simulate a landing," Rodriguez said. "It came to an abrupt halt and then it flipped over."

"The plane was accompanied by a photo aircraft, an AT-6 from California," he said. "I don't even know if any photographs were actually shot."

He said the seaplane, one of two Catalinas or PBV-6As in the 142-craft Confederate Air Force, had been scheduled to perform in the air show Saturday afternoon.

The crash site is about 17 miles north of Brownsville and the Mexican border. Laguna Madre is a body of water that lies between the mainland and Padre Island.

Coletti said the crash was reported to the Coast Guard by workers in the radio tower at the Brownsville airport at 8:23 a.m.

The four survivors were taken to a hospital in Harlingen after they reached shore, Coletti said.

The NTSB was investigating the crash, said spokesman Ira Furman in Washington, D.C.

The dead were identified as Kenneth Allman, Bob Ennis and Joe Cromer, all of Tyler, Bobbie Schutz of Kilgore, Joe Dacus of Jacksonville, and Dr. Oliver Patterson of Oklahoma, said Tony Gomez of the Texas Department of Public Safety in Harlingen.

Testimony begins in CBS libel trial

NEW YORK (AP) — Former national security adviser Walt Rostow leads the lineup of aides to President Lyndon B. Johnson who are expected to testify for Gen. William E. Westmoreland in his $120 million lawsuit against CBS. Rostow was to be the first witness when testimony in the libel trial begins in U.S. District Court today.

Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam from 1964 to 1968, charges that CBS knowingly and maliciously erred in 1982 when it broadcast a documentary, "The Uncounted Enemy: A Vietnam Deception," that accused him of conspiring to underestimate enemy strength during the Vietnam War.

Westmoreland's suit names CBS, correspondent Mike Wallace, producer George Crile and former CIA analyst Sam Adams, who was hired as a consultant to CBS for the Westmoreland project. Rostow, now a professor of political economy at the University of Texas at Austin, was interviewed in 1981 during research for the program. His remarks were not used in the documentary.

Westmoreland's attorney, Dan. M. Burt, has agreed there was a dispute over the number of enemy soldiers, but insists it was a technical disagreement among experts and did not involve a plot to cover up the truth.

Judge Pierre N. Leval has told Burt and defense attorney David Boies the issue in the case is whether Westmoreland deliberately attempted to mislead Johnson over the progress of the war.

But he said, "On the issue of whether President Johnson was deceived, we ain't gonna get into that."

Queen makes Wyoming stop

SHERIDAN, Wyo. (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II wound up her Wyoming vacation with a quiet dinner among friends as snowflakes swirled around the old ranch house where she spent the weekend in the scenic Big Horn Mountains.

The queen was scheduled to leave north-central Wyoming about noon today aboard her Royal Air Force VC-10 jetliner.

She spent the last eight days on a private vacation in Kentucky and Wyoming following a state visit to Canada.

After a refueling stop in Omaha, Neb., the queen will fly directly to London's Heathrow Airport, where she is scheduled to arrive Tuesday morning.

On Sunday, the queen toured the Bradford Brinton Memorial at the Quarter Circle A Ranch, which is next to the spread of her host and hostess, Lord and Lady Porchester.

It was a crisp and sunny morning and she strolled the grounds, visiting with the caretaker and housekeeper before entering the museum.

Inside, she admired paintings of the Old West by Frederic Remington and Charles Russell, as well as furnishings preserved by a private trust to show the life of a country gentleman a half-century ago.

The queen was scheduled to go on a picnic in the hills above the Porchesters' Canyon Ranch, but a fast-moving storm blew in and the Porchesters and the queen opted for lunch at the Canyon Ranch house.

The queen also took a call Sunday afternoon from President and Mrs. Reagan, and they chatted for about 15 minutes.

During the conversation, the queen expressed her pleasure at the welcome she had received in Kentucky and Wyoming and also expressed her gratitude to Reagan that she had been able to make a private visit to the United States, according to her press secretary, Michael Shea.

The queen took her last private vacation outside the British Isles in 1969 when she visited Normandy in France.

Shea said the queen also spoke with Reagan about last week's bombing of the Grand Hotel in Brighton, England, which killed a member of Parliament and threatened the life of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and members of her cabinet.

Shea declined to give specifics of that conversation. However, he said the queen "then rang the British Prime Minister to relate what had happened (with the call from Reagan) and also to talk to Mrs. Thatcher after literally the dust had settled."

It was the first time the head of state and the prime minister had spoken since the bombing, although their private secretaries had been in close communication, Shea said.

Later Sunday, before dinner, the queen took a walk in the foothills of the Big Horn Mountains behind the Canyon Ranch.

Uncle Sam cure: take two aspirin

Do you have fears about the safety of nuclear power plants? Are you opposed to building new nuclear power plants, thinking perhaps that there are cheaper ways to meet the nation's future electricity needs? Uncle Sam cares. The U.S. Department of Energy, in fact, has just spent $85,000 to study your problem. Not to do something about nuclear safety or nuclear costs, mind you, but to find out why you're bothered.

Is it ignorance on your part or a deep-seated phobia? (The study doesn't allow for any other explanation.) Can you be brought around by merely studying an informational pamphlet, or do you require lengthy treatment? (Don't panic. Most cases are easily cured. The pamphlet used in the study seems to have been quite effective with its warning that "some people fear nuclear power unreasonably and... this fear is harmful, both to the fearful individual and to our community as a whole....")

But the Energy Department is doing everything it can to help; it even commissioned a study of what words and expressions it should avoid because they may frighten you.

New York Congressman Richard Ottinger may have sounded furious when he found out about these studies and released the information to the public, but we know better than that, don't we? Misplaced hostility only covers for one's own self-perceived inadequacies, when in reality mental illness is nothing to be ashamed of. Political opinions are treatable. Uncle Sam wants to help.

Some more sleaze

WASHINGTON — Perhaps Ray Donovan is right in dismissing his indictment in the Bronx as a cheap political trick. If so, the secretary of labor will survive yet another investigation, and the Reagan administration will demonstrate anew its well nigh magic resistance to charges of scandal.

But if the Bronx indictment sticks, the whole administration is in trouble. For the case rests on evidence that has been strangely neglected rather than covered up — by the FBI, the Justice Department and the White House, including Attorney General Designate Edwin Meese and the president himself.

The basic piece of evidence is an FBI wiretap of a New York hoodlum, Willie Masselli, which began in 1979. In part because of Democratic political sensitivities in New York, and in part to protect informers, the take from the Masselli tap was very tightly held, even within the FBI. Director William Webster, when asked by the president's political adviser, Ed Meese, about Donovan on December 5, 1980, apparently did not know the Masselli tap was relevant. A week later he notified Meese that, except for some vague references to the case of Jimmy Hoffa, the FBI found no reason not to appoint Donovan as secretary of labor.

After the appointment was announced, things changed. By early January, the rumor was around that the Masselli tapes were loaded with material incriminating Donovan and the Schiavone Construction Co., which he served as executive vice president. A question is why Webster and Meese and other White House officials let the matter lie. In any case, it came up again in the Senate Labor Committee confirmation hearings on Donovan. Francis Mullen, an assistant FBI director, was asked whether there was adverse material on Donovan and Schiavone in any New Jersey wiretaps. Mullen — perhaps to cover for his boss, or perhaps out of an excess of literal-mindedness — replied in the negative. It later developed that the committee had put the question incorrectly. The incriminating material was on a Masselli wiretap in New York, not New Jersey.

The senators were furious, and they insisted on the appointment of a special prosecutor, Leon Silverman, who took over the case in December, 1981. Officers working for Silverman were given summaries of the relevant Masselli wiretaps. On the basis of the summaries, plus voluminous investigation, the special prosecutor concluded there was "insufficient credible evidence to prosecute" Donovan for a federal crime. The president declared that he was exonerated.

But the prosecutor's report was itself called into question by a further revelation regarding the Schiavone Co. Thanks to, of all things, an Oklahoma graduate student, it became known that the company had organized a far-reaching network of public relations people, lawyers and private eyes to lobby for Donovan and exert pressure against duly constituted officials investigating his case.

The head of Schiavone's Washington office knew Meese, Ed Rollins of the White House political staff, and Edward Hickey, a security man for the president who had received a $10,000 interest-free loan from Donovan. Other Washington operatives of Schiavone had tried to gather dirt on Senate officials working the Donovan case, and on interested journalists. A Schiavone lawyer, Theodore Geiser, even wrote a "suggested answer" for President Reagan to give in response to a possible press conference question about Donovan.

Most important of all, detectives hired by Schiavone had penetrated the special prosecutor's investigation. Some critics claimed the Masselli wiretaps had not been thoroughly examined, or honestly summarized. So once again the Donovan case was up for grabs.

The indictment obtained by the Bronx district attorney, Mario Merola, is based on the wiretap material others somehow have not managed to examine closely. Whether there is a criminal case or not remains to be seen.

But plainly Merola did not time his move only for political purposes. Nor is he just rehearsing old stuff. He has new material, and it took him years to acquire. His persistence in the face of manifold discouragements merits approval. So does the extraordinary diligence of two fine investigative reporters, who have followed the case closely from the beginning — Sandy Smith of Time magazine, and George Lardner Jr. of the Washington Post.

If their theory proves out, a new chapter in the sleaziness of the Reagan administration will be exposed — perhaps with consequences to the election.

Bomb's fuse leads to Iranians

WASHINGTON — In the backrooms of the Pentagon and the National Security Council, some strategists convinced that Iranians were behind the bombing of the U.S. Embassy in Beirut last month discussed retaliatory military action against Iran.

One source told my associate Lucette Lagnado that the options ranged from bombing Tehran to striking the Iranian revolutionary guard units deployed in Lebanon.

Two weeks before the suicide bombing, Iran's President Hajatollah Khamenei made a mysterious appearance in Lebanon's Bekaa Valley where the revolutionary guards are stationed.

The timing suggests that he may have had something to do with the bombing. But some intelligence analysts have raised the possibility that Khamenei tried to prevent the terrorist attack.

The evidence is persuasive that Shiite Moslem fanatics, inspired by the ravings of Ayatollah Khomeini, drove suicide vehicles that blew up U.S. Marine headquarters in 1983 and twice shattered the U.S. Embassy. What is less certain is whether the attacks were approved at the highest level of the Iranian government.

Some of President Reagan's political advisers saw the latest embassy bombing as an opportunity for him to demonstrate his "macho" leadership on the eve of the election. They wanted him to retaliate. Other advisers urged Reagan to forget the macho issue and focus on the peace issue. They seem to have the president's ear.

Here are the details, meanwhile, of Khamenei's sudden surprise visit to Lebanon. He showed up in Syria on Sept. 6, a Moslem holiday. For a religious fundamentalist to travel on a holy day astonished his Syrian hosts and indicated that the trip was urgent.

Khamenei was accompanied by the cabinet minister in charge of the revolutionary guards. After meeting with Syrian President Hafez Assad, the Iranian dignitaries hurried to Baalbek in northeastern Lebanon, where the Iranian volunteers are based.

Baalbek is also the headquarters for the shadowy Islamic Jihad group, which has claimed responsibility for the attacks on U.S. installations. Did Khamenei bring the ayatollah's blessing for the embassy bombing? Or did he try to dissuade the terrorist group from its intended attack? Our intelligence agencies don't know.

Before the bombing, intelligence analysts suggested an entirely different reason for Khamenei's surprise side trip to Baalbek. They were told that Assad had complained to Khamenei about the unruly behavior of the Iranian troops in Lebanon and that the visiting president went to Baalbek to reemphasize with the revolutionary guards.

But now intelligence sources believe it is unlikely that Khamenei could have visited Baalbek without learning that a major anti-American strike was in the works. This would mean that Khamenei either OK'd the bombing or was overruled by the terrorists after he left.

My sources lean to the view that radical elements in the Iranian government engineered the embassy bombing from start to finish. But they aren't certain enough yet to urge sending bombers over Tehran.

STRICTLY PERSONAL: Day after day, vox populi wells up on my desk in letters from across America. Some are returning boomerangs from columns I have written. Other letters comment on the sorry performance of this politician or that official. Much mail comes from anguished souls who want to unburden themselves of some grievance.

Try as I do, I have never been able to catch up with my mail. Each day's haul adds to a backlog that has become insurmountable. My current count of read-but-unanswered letters is 8,351 — which is simply more than I can handle.

Selfishness mars cooperation

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why do you think people have such a hard time getting along with each other? Everyone agrees people ought to love each other, but it never seems to work that way in practice. — C.K.

DEAR C.K.: The basic problem is that, by nature, we seek only those things that we think will help us. In other words, we are selfish.

And when selfish people try to get along, they usually can only as long as they are getting something out of the relationship.

Why are we this way? The problem is within us. From our selfishness comes all sorts of problems: greed, lust, hatred, wars, anger — that list is almost endless. The Bible says, "What causes fights and quarrels among you?"

Don't they come from your desires that battle within you? You kill and covet, but cannot have what you want. You quarrel and fight" (James 4:1-2).

Only Christ can really change our basic nature. Only he can give us a true love for others, and a passion to help others — even when we get nothing out of it. This, after all, was the kind of love Christ had for

Governor exerts complete control

To the editor: How about our new policies that our new Democratic governor of Texas is giving to the people. Did you read where our new governor said he would not stand for "anyone" to disapprove of "his" plan to form the minds of your children from age three until high school.

Your governor believes that your child's mind belongs to the state of Texas; that the child should be the scapegoat for the statist movement. The governor has now laid this on we people here in Big Spring.

The governor of Texas is nothing but a statist. He is telling you he will not stand by and see "anyone" disagree with his statist, socialistic, fascist policies. Now if you can understand what he is telling you, you can understand what the liberal Democratic party is asking you to vote for; for a president of the United States of America who is another statist.

You people who are Democrats cannot be as stupid as your party tries to make you sound. The first plank on the Democratic platform is to outlaw guns. If this happens, only the outlaws will have guns. What should be said is, "if you kill a man or woman with a gun, then 30 days after you have been convicted by a jury, you will be executed without delay." Then this will stop murders with guns.

The liberals in the Republican Party are just as bad as the Democrats. They are statist also.

Under the Texas Constitution it says in Article 3, section 56, local and special laws, the legislature "shall not," except as otherwise provided in this constitution, pass any local or special law authorizing the regulating of the affairs of counties, cities, towns or school districts.

What is the new education bill just passed by your Democratic controlled legislature in Austin? Look at what Mr. Mark White told you great Democrats, "I will never raise your taxes," with his eyes glazed in the same old statist, altruistic, collectivist, Democratic stance. Your body, mind, and property belongs to the state and you are to obey me. Do not think for yourself, we, the state, will do your thinking for you. We won't need any thinkers or individuals; when we all think as one, we will have achieved our goal.

Just keep voting Democrat, the end is sooner than you think.

County AHA chapter takes highest honors

Carmen Salazar, president of Howard County Heart Association, and local state board representative Dr. David Rickey participated in the annual regional meeting of the American Heart Association in Odessa Sept. 13.

During the meeting, awards were presented for outstanding volunteer efforts by local divisions during 1983-84. The Howard County Division walked off with the highest honors: the Outstanding Program Award and the Heart and Torch Fundraising Award for the region.

The Outstanding Program award is presented to the local division having the greatest impact on its community through educational, informative and training programs. All programs conducted in the county are awarded points. Also, an impact factor based on population is used to formulate a measure that can compare large cities with small communities.

The Heart and Torch award is the highest award given by the Texas Affiliate of the Heart Association to a local division for outstanding fundraising efforts. To receive a Heart and Torch, the local division must exceed all previous fundraising totals and must exceed sixty cents per capita raised.

In addition to these awards, Rickey was named recipient of a Volunteer Recognition Award — Research for his eight years of service to the American Heart Association. A research grant for 1984-85 was presented to Dr. Kathryn H. Muntz of the University of Texas Health Center in Dallas from the Texas Affiliate was made in Rickey's name. A plaque naming the award and recipient was presented to Rickey by Dr. Rick Black, El Paso, vice president of the Texas Affiliate.

Rickey has served as Howard County president, vice president, campaign chairman, West Texas Council campaign chairman, and regional representative to the Texas Affiliate of AHA board of directors.

The Association's 1985 Convention will be Sept. 19-21 in San Francisco, Calif.

Mrs. Miller pointed out that the group has assisted in the publication of several textbooks in conjunction with the Petroleum Extension Service of the University of Texas at Austin. The first book, Fundamentals of Petroleum, is in its second edition and is distributed worldwide. The publication of the second textbook, Land and Leasing was announced at the convention. A third book on geology is planned.

The women are involved in several educational trips to oil and petroleum industry sites. Dr. Margaret Maxey, director of the Chair of Free Enterprise at UT spoke about "Energy and Enterprise — The Challenge for the Eighties." Mack Wallas, chairman of the Railroad Commission of Texas, spoke on "Energy, Economics and National Security."

Seminars were offered on oil and gas contracts, intermediate accounting for a producing company, lease record administration, bankruptcy, parliamentary procedure as well as supervisory and professional development training.

Dr. Donohue

Fever convulsion not usually serious

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have a grandson who is now 9. He suffers convulsions whenever he has fever. He has been this way since he was a baby. He first trembles, then his body stiffens. I pity him and get scared for him. We give him a sponge bath, using tepid water. Sometimes we use alcohol, especially on the armpits and thighs. I don't know if what we are doing is right. Please help me solve this great problem. I fear that he might develop epilepsy from this. The cause of his fever is often times a cold. Please tell us what to do. — V.G.S.

This is not the usual story for fever-related convulsions. Because of your grandson's age and this long history of convulsions a visit to the doctor is overdue. Such seizures occur in about 3 percent of all children under age 5. Of these 70 percent will never have another one, although the younger the child at the time of the first seizure the greater the likelihood of another occurring.

Generally speaking, if seizure happens to children under 13 months, if it lasts for more than 15 minutes, if there are other abnormal nervous system signs, or if there is a family history of seizure, then the problem is more worrisome. I mentioned age because such seizures become rare after 5 weeks.

Your grandson may need to be put on medication to prevent seizures, since they do seem to occur so frequently. And he does need a complete examination so that any basic problem with his nervous system can be found if present.

Your temperature-lowering steps are fine. However, these are most often futile because such seizures usually happen so quickly and disappear so soon. It may be that the rapidity of the temperature rise rather than the degree of elevation is what starts the seizures.

Very, very few serious complications ever come from this kind of seizure, and most often they are not related to later development of epilepsy. Usually, the most serious consequences is the fear it strikes in the hearts of parents.

But to repeat, your grandson's case is out of the ordinary, and he must be seen promptly. The doctor will have many questions to ask.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have heard that it is dangerous to use aspirin at the same time one is using acetaminophen. Is this so? — T.C.

There is some evidence that use of aspirin along with acetaminophen over long periods may cause kidney trouble. So unless used for very brief periods (a few days) the person should stick with one or the other of the analgesics. The matter is being studied.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A year ago I had a tracheostomy to help me with my sleep apnea. I have two trach tubes which I use at night. I alternate the tubes to keep the opening clean.

The respiratory technician told me that they do not make caps for the tubes. He fitted me with hard rubber stoppers or corks to plug the opening so I can talk and breathe normally during waking hours. I just remove them at night.

The stoppers keep slipping out at embarrassing times. The doctor told me he doesn't know of any firm that supplies caps for these tubes. It seems that with all the tracheostomies being done, surely there is some firm that makes caps or covers that would stay on. Do you know of any? What makes it worse, I am in radio. — F.P.

I checked and could not find a firm that makes what you want. But if there is one, I'll bet readers will know of it and pass along the information. The tracheostomy, for the benefit of other readers, is the creation of an opening in the windpipe to permit easier breathing for people who have trouble breathing properly when asleep.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I do regular breast self-examination. I know there is a correct way to stand when in front of the mirror. Can you explain, please? — Mrs. O.O.

The purpose of the examination is to detect any breast asymmetry from what is normal. First, you stand with arms by the sides. Observe. Then raise the arms straight over the head. Observe. Next, bend forward, holding arms by the sides. Observe again. And finally, stand with hands on hips. Feeling the breasts for lumps should be done in each position, and also while lying on the back.

Having trouble getting to sleep at night? In his new booklet Dr. Donohue examines the insomnia problem and offers some ways to help you get your needed rest. For a copy of "Why Can't You Sleep?" send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Attitude gives woman more support than ex

DEAR ABBY: "Mad in Dallas" complained because the court increased her husband's child support payments from $270 a month to $330. She says her husband's ex-wife lives in a $100,000 condo, drives a Mercedes and shops at Neiman's, while she, her husband and small baby are pinching pennies in a cramped trailer.

"Mad" must have known her husband was obligated to pay child support before she married him, and she certainly knew about it before she decided to have a child.

Many of my friends either pay child support or receive it, and not one thinks the amount decided by the court is fair! (Myself included.)

Let's look at the other side: I am a single working mother who receives $150 per month in child support. I pay for child care in order to go to work at a job where the government takes one-third of my salary. Sometimes I don't get child support — my "ex," who lives out of state, owes me $1,000 in back payments.

Abby, I thank God every day that I am alive, have a healthy daughter, a roof over my head, a car to drive, a job to go to, and food to eat (even if it's only beans and wieners). On my bathroom mirror I have written "COMPARED TO WHAT?"

I am grateful for what I have, instead of angry about what I don't have.

I would suggest that "Mad in Dallas" change her attitude because that's the only thing in her life she can control.

This may not help anyone else, but it makes it easier for me to sleep, and I'm the one I have to live with.

letter may help child support victims who have been dealt a raw deal. Sometimes we have to be reminded of what we already know. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: If Jesus Christ was really the Immaculate Conception — born to the Virgin Mary — can you explain why this never happened to another human being anywhere in the world since Biblical times?

BIBLE STUDENT IN SAN JOSE

DEAR BIBLE STUDENT: The genetic rules that apply to mortals did not apply to the Christ child, who, according to the New Testament, was the son of God.

However, may I point out a common misconception (no pun intended): Jesus was not the Immaculate Conception — Mary was born without the original sin on her soul because she was destined to be the mother of Christ.

You, like many others, are confusing the Immaculate Conception with the Virgin Birth. They are not one and the same.

Burro adoption program a meaningful 'pet' project

● COLLINSVILLE (AP) — Glen Wilson balanced on the third rung of the red wood fence, mopped his dripping face and pointed into the herd of milling wild burros in the dusty pen below.

"That's it right there — no, that one. Wait. I think it's that one over there."

Finally, he clambered over the fence and joined Albert Hite in the pen, searching for just the right burro to take home. His choice — a dark, doe-eyed jenny with a white muzzle and belly — protested at being cut from the other burros and loaded into Wilson's cattle trailer. After all, only weeks before she'd been running wild in the deserts of Arizona.

Now, thanks to a federal adoption program for wild mustangs and burros, Wilson has a new "pet" to join the stallion and two mares he's already acquired through the program. In addition to its pet status, the burro will have the duty of helping tame the wild horses.

"I'll take it down and tie a wild horse to it to tame the horse," Wilson said. "The horse will drag that jenny till she gets tired. Then she'll sit down and that horse is through."

"My wife told me not to bring this one home," he joked. "She said we didn't need another jackass on the place."

The adoption program began in 1973 as a humane method for disposing of excess animals removed from public lands. Because the animals are protected by the Wild Free-Roaming Horse and Burro Act of 1971 and have no natural predators to limit population growth, their numbers are increasing rapidly.

The program, administered by the Bureau of Land Management, allows the animals to be rounded up in their natural habitat, moved to distribution points around the United States and adopted by qualified people. According to BLM literature, more than 45,000 animals have been placed by the program to date.

Texas' only permanent adoption center is two miles west of Collinsville on FM 902, about 35 miles northeast of Denton. The center is operated by Albert Hite. During the "adoption season," it moves a fresh load of mustangs and burros about every three weeks from early summer to Thanksgiving, Hite said.

He recently celebrated the first anniversary of the center with a special adoption day that included free barbecue for all adopters. A new supply of more than 50 mares, colts and stallions had arrived from Nevada, and by mid-morning, nearly half had been adopted.

"We have appointments up until 7 tonight. I'm afraid we're going to run out of animals," said Sharon Paden of the BLM office in Santa Fe, N.M.

Ms. Paden had traveled to Collinsville for the anniversary celebration and spent the day taking pictures of happy new adoptive "parents" and explaining to them their duties and obligations.

The cost of adopting a mare with colt, a single mare or stallion is $185, she said. The fee for adopting a burro is $110. That in no way compensates the government for rounding up the animals and transporting them, she explained, but about covers veterinary fees for shots, worming and Coggins tests for swamp fever that each animal must have before crossing state lines.

Each animal is also freeze-branded on the neck with numbers that show the animal's age and place of origin.

Adopters must be legal residents

ADOPTION AGENCY — Albert Hite, of the Collinsville adoption center for wild animals, walks a pack of wild burros. The center, which is Texas' only of the United States, be of legal age, have no prior convictions for inhumane treatment of animals and have adequate facilities and means of transportation to provide humane care and proper treatment for a wild horse or burro.

Each person is limited to adopting four animals per year.

Donnie and Carol Smith came from Vivian, La., to browse among the mustangs at the center. They adopted a mare and colt recently at a temporary center in Longview, and while both agreed they wouldn't adopt more until their 10 acres were fenced, Mrs. Smith looked at the sturdy little mustangs with longing.

"I could have got into quarter horse raising, but I chose mustangs," she said. "They're good, intelligent horses, and not everybody has $1,000 to buy a kid a registered horse. I plan to adopt as many as I can handle on our place." Paul McClendon, who helps out at the center, proudly showed off his newly adopted little mustang. The horse, which had been running wild the previous week, nuzzled visitors and allowed McClendon to pick up all four feet without protest.

Hite moved among the adopters all day, helping with selections, loading and offering a little down-home advice.

Parents puzzled by death

Couple believes shooting was not accidental

BENBROOK (AP) — When Weldon Thomas turned his gray car into the driveway of his brick home, he knew two little girls would rush out to greet him.

One was his 11-year-old daughter, Kerry, and the other, her best friend, 12-year-old Patricia Dempsey.

"I would hug them both, just like they were both my daughters," Thomas said.

These days, neither girl greets him.

Kerry Thomas died Sept. 8 from a shotgun blast to her face. The gun was held by her friend, Patricia Dempsey, who is now in custody and has been convicted of involuntary manslaughter.

"We're just average people, living in a small town in an average home. Then bam ... here we are in the middle of this nightmare," Thomas, 40, told the Dallas Times Herald.

On Friday, a jury decided Patricia did not intentionally kill her seventh grade classmate, but they ruled she recklessly caused her death.

The Thomases told the Times Herald they do not believe Kerry's death was an accident. They said they considered the jury's verdict of delinquent conduct-involuntary manslaughter a fair one.

But they said neither the trial nor the verdict ended their search for an explanation. They remain bewildered over why Patricia remained silent for four days after shooting Kerry.

"No one knows what was in Patricia's mind except Patricia and Kerry. Kerry is not here to tell us, and we are left with so many unanswered questions," said Thomas.

Kerry's father, a real-estate broker, and her mother, a secretary at General Dynamics in Fort Worth, expected their daughter to return home Sunday, Sept. 9 after spending the weekend with Patricia, who lives two blocks away.

But when Kerry didn't come home, her mother, Peggy, called the Dempseys and was told by Patricia that Kerry had left at about 5:30 p.m. the previous evening.

The Thomases panicked. They reported their daughter missing. For three days, they followed every lead in hopes of finding Kerry.

Through it all, Patricia kept quiet. Her parents, her brother and her cousin all joined the search, stopping by the Thomases' home every day.

"Patricia never came," Peggy Thomas said. The little girl was questioned again and again about Kerry's disappearance. Mrs. Thomas said, "but she only gave one-word answers. She seemed almost callous, like she wasn't concerned."

Then, a neighbor found Kerry's body in the bushes behind Patricia's house. That's when Patricia admitted to her parents that she accidentally killed her best friend.

In Patricia's statements to police and at her trial, the girl said she never intended to kill Kerry. She told the jury she took the shotgun out to impress Kerry by showing her how to load it, but she said she does not remember pulling the trigger.

She testified she hid the body because she was afraid.

The Thomases said Saturday they never believed the shooting was accidental.

"After the shooting, if Patricia had run out of the house and told someone that something horrible had happened, our whole perspective would be entirely different," Kerry's father said.

"If I shot my best friend, I would run out and get help immediately," Peggy Thomas said. "And for all those days we were going crazy trying to find Kerry, she (Patricia) never said anything."

After Patricia told of the shooting, the Thomases said they found themselves reassessing the girls' friendship.

"She was over here all the time. She went swimming with us all summer. I was close to her," Kerry's mother said. "But then, we started hearing all kinds of things about how Patricia would get angry if she didn't get her way; about how she was jealous of Kerry. It all started to look different."

"It's so hard to look back; things that didn't seem important before the shooting now seem important," Kerry's father said. "Kerry was a very pretty girl with a knack of making people feel good when she was around them."

"Those girls were starting to grow up, and maybe Patricia was afraid of losing Kerry's friendship to boys," Thomas said.

"If she (Patricia) can admit what she's done or explain why and how it was an accident...I could sit down and console her," he said.

Coalition looks into San Antonio's hiring practices

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Mexican-American coalition already looking into hiring practices by the city of San Antonio has broadened its investigation to include the awarding of municipal contracts.

The coalition, made up of the League of United Latin American Citizens District 15, the local American GI Forum and IMAGE (Involvement of Mexican-Americans in Gainful Endeavors), has filed a request with the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development for statistics on contracts the city has awarded in the past two fiscal years.

Jose Garcia De Lara said he expects the figures to show the city has awarded less than 1 percent of its contracts to minority firms.

Tigers claim World Series

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers did at the end what they had done all season — win. Their final victory capped a classic runaway year and carried them to their first World Series championship since 1968.

Detroit beat the San Diego Padres 8-4 Sunday in Game Five, and this time it was Kirk Gibson at center stage as the Tigers finally unveiled baseball's most potent offense.

"It's a dream come true," Gibson said. "It's the perfect end to the season. I think the Detroit Tigers proved we were the world champions, start to finish."

Gibson drove in five runs with two homers and scored a tie-breaking run from third base on a sacrifice fly to the infield. There was nothing fancy about it.

Lance Parrish hit a home run, and Aurelio Lopez and Willie Hernandez bailed out Dan Petry when Detroit's starting pitching finally failed — a problem that had plagued the Padres during the whole Series. There was nothing elegant about that.

Jack Morris threw two complete-game victories, winning Games One and Four. There was nothing fancy about it.

And Sparky Anderson became the first manager to win World Series in each league after capturing the 1975 and '76 Fall Classics with Cincinnati. He managed the Tigers to a club-record 104 victories, the most in baseball, and a three-game sweep of Kansas City in the American League playoffs.

There was no strategical magic in managing what many have called a mechanical team ... wind them up and watch them win.

The Tigers won 35 of their first 40 games and became only the third team in baseball to lead from wire-to-wire, joining the 1927 New York Yankees and the 1923 New York Giants.

"We started 35-and-5," Gibson said, "and it seemed like everybody wanted us to blow the lead, but we never wilted under the pressure."

"Then we got to the playoffs, and everybody wanted us to lose, but we never did," Gibson said. "Then we got to the World Series, and now we're world champions."

Not only did the Tigers win, but after a poor hitting series, they finally did it the way Anderson had said they could. The Tigers led the majors by scoring 829 runs and hitting 187 homers during the season, but they had hit only 230 as a team in the Series until Sunday, when they had 11 hits.

"Today, we played like we can normally play," Anderson said. "We led the majors with 187 homers. I was hoping we could show some firepower, and we finally did today."

Each of the Tigers' four Series victories was keyed by homers — Larry Herndon in Game One, Marty Castillo in Game Three, Series Most Valuable Player Alan Trammell with two homers in Game Four, and Gibson and Parrish in Game Five. The Padres managed only the one victory, in Game Two at San Diego, on a homer by designated hitter Kurt Bevacqua.

When the Tigers won in 1968, beating the St. Louis Cardinals in seven games, the deciding game was on the road, as it was in 1945 when they beat the Chicago Cubs. This was the first World Series they have won at home since 1935.

It was a continuation of the joy in Motown all year. The Tigers had clinched their division in Detroit and they had won the playoffs in Detroit.

"This is the greatest moment in my baseball career," said Trammell, who was 0-for-4 Sunday but still batted .450 with six RBI to win the MVP of the Series. "A lot of guys helped us get here, and this is great for all of them. The best thing is that we were able to come through and get it all."

Trammell, who was bothered by a sore shoulder during the postseason, also revealed that he would have to have surgery on his left knee now that the Series was over. He had knee surgery last November to repair cartilage damage.

"It's the same injury," Trammell said. "I have to go down to Columbus, Ga., and have the same thing done."

Redskins massacre Cowboys

WASHINGTON (A) — It was business as usual for the Washington Redskins and Dallas Cowboys. The Redskins gave the ball to their fullback and the Cowboys took it away from their quarterback.

Washington's John Riggins rushed 32 times for 165 yards Sunday to power the Redskins to their fifth straight victory, a 34-14 triumph.

The victory moves Washington one game in front of the pack in the National Conference's Eastern division, with Dallas, St. Louis and the New York Giants all bunched at 4-3.

In the first quarter, Riggins, 35, became only the fifth player in National Football League history to rush for 10,000 yards. The 13-year NFL veteran may have been the only one not impressed by the feat.

"They don't give medals for fifth place," said Riggins, who has rushed for 705 yards this season in leading the Redskins to a 5-2 record.

Riggins keyed a Washington attack that outrushed the visitors 241-90.

"It was basic tackle-to-tackle stuff. We must have run the same play some 30 times," said offensive line coach Joe Bugel.

On defense, the Redskins clamped down on Tony Dorsett. After ripping the defense for 41 yards in the Cowboys' opening drive, Dorsett picked up just 40 more on 15 carries the rest of the day.

The Cowboys, meanwhile, were shuffling quarterbacks for the second straight week in an effort to once again find the winning touch.

Dolphins swim past Oilers

The Houston Oilers are still looking for a victory, thanks to the Miami Dolphins. No thanks to the Pittsburgh Steelers, the San Francisco 49ers are first-time losers.

"Super Bowl victories are great, but I've never been associated with a greater victory than this one," Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll said after his team's 20-17 triumph Sunday over the previously undefeated 49ers.

That result left the NFL with only one unbeaten team, the Miami Dolphins, 7-0 after a 28-10 thumping of the hapless Oilers.

The key play for the Steelers was an interception and return of 43 yards by linebacker Bryan Hinkle in the final minutes. That set up a 21-yard field goal by Gary Anderson with 1:42 remaining.

San Francisco's Ray Werschling missed a 37-yard field goal attempt with seven seconds left, after the 49ers drove 54 yards on a series of passes by Joe Montana.

Dan Marino, the NFL's top passer, exploited Houston's porous secondary for 321 yards and three touchdowns to lead the Dolphins.

Marino, boosting his season totals to 2,074 yards and 20 TDs, completed 25 of 32 passes, including scoring strikes of 27 yards to Mark Clayton; 17 yards to Mark Duper and 32 yards to Nat Moore, who tied a club record for career touchdowns.

The 7-0 start is Miami's best since Coach Don Shula's team won seven of its first eight games in 1975, three years after Miami posted a 17-0 record.

SEAHAWKS 31

BILLS 28

Dave Krieg and Steve Largent teamed on a 51-yard touchdown pass with 8:07 left to lead the Seahawks over the winless Bills. The Seahawks had to go 88 yards in six plays for their game-winning touchdown on a day when they couldn't hold leads of 17-0 after the first quarter and 24-14 in the third period.

Largent's second TD reception gave him 496 receptions for his NFL career, making him the 12th leading receiver in NFL history.

VIKINGS 20

Chris Bahr booted a 20-yard field goal as time expired to give the Raiders a hard-fought victory. The Raiders moved from the Minnesota 36-yard line to the Vikings' 2 on six running plays before Bahr kicked his third field goal of the game.

Los Angeles quarterback Marc Wilson completed 21 of his 37 passes for 268 yards, all but 64 of them in the first half.

GIANTS 19

FALCONS 7

Phil Simms passed for 246 yards and one touchdown and New York's defense staged one goal-line stand and set up a TD with a pass interception.

Rob Carpenter scored both New York touchdowns, the first on a 1-yard plunge in the opening period and the other on a 9-yard pass from Simms in the second quarter. Ali Haji-Sheikh kicked field goals of 41 and 34 yards for the Giants.

Freeman McNeil ran for two first-half touchdowns and Tony Paige burst into the end zone from 1 yard out for the game-winner in the fourth quarter as New York recorded its fourth straight road-game victory.

Paige's TD capped an 80-yard drive with 5:39 to go in the game.

RAMS 28

NEW ORLEANS 10

Eric Dickerson ran for 164 yards and Jeff Kemp threw three touchdown passes as Los Angeles dominated the disorganized Saints.

up with Roy Green for long gains and also scored a touchdown in the closing minutes to lead St. Louis.

Lomax, whose passes accounted for 270 yards, outdueled Chicago quarterback Jim McMahon even though he was sacked five times by the Bears' top-ranked defense. Otis Anderson scored twice for St. Louis, romping 9 yards on a run and tucking in a 1-yard pass from Lomax.

BUCCANEERS 7 (OT)

Gary Danielson fired a 37-yard TD pass to receiver Leonard Thompson 4:34 into overtime to lift the Lions over Tampa Bay.

CHIEFS 31

CHARGERS 13

Bill Kenney, moments after one of his passes was intercepted and returned 99 yards for a touchdown by cornerback Gill Byrd early in the second half, tossed a 24-yard scoring strike for the go-ahead TD.

Kenney, who threw for more than 4,000 yards last season but sat out the first six games with an injured thumb, threw for 238 yards in his 1984 debut, adding a 5-yard touchdown toss to Ed Beckman in the fourth period.

PATRIOTS 20

BENGALS 14

Quarterback Tony Eason scrambled for touchdown runs of 25 and 13 yards as New England edged Cincinnati for the Patriots' fourth come-from-behind victory this season.

WAY TO GO, WILLIAMS — San Diego Padres manager Dick Williams reaches out to shake hands with a few of the estimated 12,000 fans on hand to greet the National League Champions upon their return to San Diego's Jack Murphy Stadium early Monday morning. The Padres were eliminated from World Series competition Sunday when the Detroit Tigers beat them, 8-4 to win the Series four games to one.

With latest win John Henry is first $6 million thoroughbred

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — John Henry became the first thoroughbred to hit the $6-million mark in career earnings by capturing the Ballantine's Scotch Classic in a way he has won so many other races — on his own terms.

John Henry started slow, overcame traffic problems at the beginning of the final turn and then thundered through the stretch to post a 2 3/4-length victory over Who's For Dinner in the Scotch Classic on Saturday at the Meadowlands.

The victory was worth $740,000 for the 9-year-old gelding, $240,000 from the winner's share of the purse and a $500,000 bonus for winning both the Scotch Classic and the Turf Classic in the same year. The big payday raised his career bankroll to $6,597,947. Sam Rubin, owner of John Henry, had expressed some concern before the race to trainer Ron McAnally and jockey Chris McCarron because the Ole Bob Bowers offspring was unusually calm in the paddock.

McCarron said his mount broke alertly from the gate, but then dropped back unexpectedly to eighth place, some seven lengths behind the leaders at the rear of the first flight of horses in the 12-horse field.

"I was a little concerned at that point," said McCarron. "Ron had asked me to lay third with him."

John Henry did not start to move until midway through the backstretch, but then slowed again after getting in close quarters approaching the final turn.

"He got in a little tight and I went to steady him, but he had already quit running for a few jumps," said McCarron. "Then he moved on the outside and was in high gear again."

At the top of the stretch, John Henry was the fastest horse in the field.

"Turning for home, I just felt I was going to win it," said McCarron. "I was out in the clear and he had the most momentum of any horse."

McCarron said he did not know why John Henry, who carried topweight of 126 pounds and conceded from four to 17 pounds to his foes, lagged behind the early leaders. Win, Gateshead and Hero's Honor.

"He just knows where the wire is," the jockey said.

Controversy reigns in bid for number one

By The Associated Press
Will there even be a No. 1 college football team this week? Coach Fred Akers of top-rated Texas wants to maintain the status quo, Don James of runner-up Washington doesn't want the pressure of being No. 1 as yet and Barry Switzer of third-ranked Oklahoma says he'll "let y'all (the media) decide that."
So maybe Jeff Ward, whose 32-yard field goal as time ran out gave Texas a 15-15 tie with Oklahoma, has the right idea.
"What they should do is not have any No. 1 team this week," Ward says. "We (Texas and Oklahoma) should both be ranked No. 2 and we should go from 2 through 20."
There seems to be as much difference of opinion about No. 1 as there was in the controversial Texas-Oklahoma shootout, which ended with Switzer claiming that the officials "actually took the game away from us."

Akers politicked that Texas "should stay just where we are. The last I heard, you stay No. 1 unless you lose. That's the way it is in championship fights."
But defensive tackle Tony Degrate of the Longhorns thought that Washington deserved the top spot following the Huskies' 37-15 triumph over Stanford, one of just two easy victories by members of The Associated Press Top Twenty, the other being 10th-ranked Miami's 49-25 trouncing of Cincinnati as Bernie Kosar set school records by passing for 375 yards and five touchdowns.
"We tied and the No. 2 team won. That should settle it," Degrate said.
But the very thought of being No.

1 had James squirming.
"It's not a good place to be at this time," he said, remembering that Auburn, Miami, Nebraska and now possibly Texas already have reached the top this season, only to be found wanting.
"The rankings are not important to us," said quarterback Hugh Millen, who threw scoring passes of 10 yards to Mark Pattison and 33 to Danny Greene. "The season is only half over and we realize we must improve. All the rankings do is get teams psyched up for you."
The challengers will all learn their fate later this week tonight when The AP releases its ratings.
It was a struggle for most of the Top Ten. Fourth-ranked Boston College, playing for the first time in three weeks, had to come from behind to win two touchdowns in the final period to beat Temple 24-10,

No. 5 Brigham Young shaded Wyoming 41-38 when Robbie Bosco threw his fifth touchdown pass — a 14-yarder to David Mills — with 4:16 remaining, sixth-ranked Nebraska erased an early 7-0 deficit and whipped Missouri 33-23, No. 7 Southern Methodist went on scoring drives of 84 and 80 yards in the final five minutes and edged Baylor 24-20, eighth-ranked Ohio State erased a 24-0 second-period deficit against Illinois and pulled out a 45-38 triumph on Keith Byars' fifth touchdown run with 36 seconds to go — he rushed for a school record 274 yards — and No. 16 Auburn turned back ninth-ranked Florida State 42-41 on Brent Fullwood's four-yard run with 48 seconds left.
In the Second Ten, struggling Alabama handed No. 11 Penn State its first regular-season shutout in 18 years 6-0, No. 12 LSU defeated Vanderbilt 34-27, Iowa bombed No. 14 Purdue 40-3, No. 15 Georgia downed Mississippi 18-12, No. 17 South Carolina pounded Pitt 45-21, No. 18 Florida trimmed Tennessee 43-30, No. 19 Kentucky held off Mississippi State 17-13 and No. 20 Georgia Tech tied Virginia 20-20. Oklahoma State, the No. 13 team, was not scheduled.

The crew of Big Eight and Southwest Conference officials who worked the Texas-Oklahoma game were anything but No. 1 in Switzer's book.
"I'm telling you, if they ain't homing..." Switzer said angrily, referring to the SWC representatives. "A great game to watch on national TV, a great goal-line stand (Texas failed to score after a first down at the Oklahoma two-yard line in the fourth quarter), to see our team clearly dominate the game... then to come down to a couple of calls at the end which actually took the game away from us."

The key call came one play before Ward's tying field goal. Texas receiver Bill Boy Bryant and Oklahoma cornerback Andre Johnson went up for a pass in the end zone. Johnson tipped the ball and strong safety Keith Stanberry appeared to intercept it and come down in bounds — TV replays confirmed it — before he tumbled across the sideline.
"I asked the official, 'What about the interception?'" Stanberry said. "He said he didn't think it was an interception. Another official told him I caught the ball, so he said, 'Well, you weren't in bounds.'"

Green breaks dry spell with Southern title

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Hubert Green, who finally ended a three-year dry spell with a victory in the Southern Open golf tournament, said he wasn't over the hill as some people had indicated.
"I played like I was over two or three hills," he declared with a grin Sunday after winning for the first time since the 1981 Greater Hartford Open.
Green shot a steady, bogey-free 3-under-par 67 to capture the $54,000 first prize by six strokes with a 265 total, 15-under-par over the par 70, 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club course.
Scott Hoch, Rex Caldwell and rookie Corey Pavin shared second place. Hoch, three shots off the pace entering Sunday's final round, shot a 70. Caldwell had a 66 and Pavin a 68.
The victory was Green's 18th of his 15-year career and increased his lifetime earnings to $1.76 million and $135,753 this year. Last year, his worst on the Tour, he won only slightly more than $29,000.
Asked if he felt like he was back to his heyday from 1973-79, Green replied:
"No. But I'm a lot closer than I was six months ago. I'm no longer crawling. I'm walking now, but I'm still not running yet. The fact is, the last four or five years I played awful."
The 37-year-old Green took the lead after the second round and never relinquished it.
Showing that he did not forget how to win, Green opened up Sunday with a birdie, added two more, and put it away on No. 18 with a 30-foot birdie.

TEXAS SCORES — Bill Boy Bryant pulls in a touchdown pass for the University of Texas for a first period score against Oklahoma. Texas battled from behind to kick a tying field goal in the 15-15 contest that saw the Longhorns keep their unbeaten record intact.

Cowboys

played the entire fourth quarter Sunday.
"I knew when I got the job it was going to be tough," said Hogeboom, who completed 13 of 24 passes for 169 yards and two interceptions.
"Sure I'd love to start," said White. "But I'm never disappointed to get into the game. I would have liked to have gotten in in the first quarter, but I will take what I can get."
Dallas coach Tom Landry fueled the Dallas quarterback controversy after the game refusing to say who he would start next week.
Two years ago, on the same field in the conference championship game, Hogeboom threw two touchdowns in relief of White to establish his credentials as the Cowboys quarterback of the future. On Sunday he may have given them back.
After the Cowboys had broken on top 7-0 on Dorsett's 29-yard touchdown jaunt, Hogeboom made three mistakes to kill three drives and swing the momentum to the Redskins.
His fumble on third and five ended one possession. The next time Dallas had the ball Hogeboom overthrew a wide open Timmy Newsome.
"That was the turning point," Hogeboom admitted. "We didn't have an opportunity to go deep on them again after that."
The Cowboys were still nursing their 7-0 lead when Hogeboom misfired again, his pass to Ron Springs picked off by Redskins linebacker Monte Coleman.

"It was man-on-man. Hogeboom tried to force it in there and all I had to do was catch it and run," said Coleman, who raced 49 yards to knot the score at 7-7.
The Redskins moved ahead 17-7 before the half on a Joe Theismann to Clint Didier 8-yard scoring strike and a 20-yard Mark Moseley field goal.
The last time the two teams played here, the Cowboys rallied from a 20-point halftime deficit to win. Redskins coach Joe Gibbs reminded his players of that loss at halftime and then called the play coming onto the field that would ensure there would be no comeback on this day.
On the first play from scrimmage, Gibbs called for a bomb to Calvin Muhammad. A Redskins for just two weeks after coming over in a trade with the Los Angeles Raiders, Muhammad split cornerback Ron Fellows and safety Dexter Clinkscale and ran under Theismann's pass for an 80-yard touchdown.
"I just put it out as far as I could and let him run under it," said Theismann of the longest touchdown throw of his career.
A second Moseley field goal, this one from 22 yards out, and another Theismann to Didier touchdown — a three-yarder on the first play of the fourth quarter — concluded the Redskins scoring.

Tigers

first inning as Detroit scored three runs. In the fifth inning with the score tied 3-3, he scored from third base on a fly by pinch-hitter Rusty Kuntz to shallow right field. Parrish hit a solo homer in the seventh inning off Rich Gossage to make it 5-3, and Bevacqua homered for San Diego in the eighth to make it 5-4.
In the bottom of the eighth, however, Gibson hit his second homer, a three-run shot into the upper deck in right field.
That homer also was off Gossage as San Diego's bullpen, the club's strength in the first four games, failed just as the starters had failed the entire Series.
"I tried to beat them, and they tried to beat me," Gossage said. "If I had done my job, we probably would still be playing right now."
"But we were one of only two teams playing in the World Series, and that has to be satisfying," Gossage said. "Still, when you don't win everything, there is a void."
Mark Thurmond, the Padres left-handed starter, lasted only one-third of an inning, giving up three runs, before he left. That gave San Diego starters a total of 10 1-3 innings' work in five games, during which they gave up 16 runs for a 13.94 ERA.

But, with Andy Hawkins, eventually the loser, pitching in relief, the Padres held Detroit while they clawed back — as they had after being down 0-2 to the Chicago Cubs in the National League playoffs. San Diego scored once in the third on a pair of infield hits, Steve Garvey getting the RBI. And they tied it up with two in the fourth on a sacrifice fly by Bobby Brown and Alan Wiggins' RBI single.
Gibson started Detroit's go-ahead rally in the fifth with a single off the glove of diving Padres third baseman Graig Nettles. Parrish then hit a fly to deep left field, and Gibson tagged up and went to second. Hawkins walked Herndon before giving way to Craig Lefferts, and Lefferts walked Clet Lemon to load the bases, bringing up Kuntz.
Kuntz hit a pop fly toward shallow right field. Wiggins backedpedaled from his second base position, and Tony Gwynn came in from right. Wiggins made the call and caught the ball above his head, but — with his momentum still carrying him back — he had no chance to throw out Gibson.
"Quite simply, I just didn't see it," Gwynn said. "When it got over the stands, I lost it."
Wiggins said he recognized that Gwynn was in trouble on the play,

"and I had to get it. I didn't hear anyone call for it, so I knew I had to make the catch."
Gibson made the decision himself to run. "We're going to utilize my speed, and on just about anything I'm going to go," Gibson said. "Of course, we were very happy to see Mr. Wiggins catch the ball."
Kuntz, who had been to bat only once before in the Series, said he was numb. "I didn't know if I was even going to make the team," he said, "and look where I am now."
Parrish's homer came with one out in the seventh inning, making it 5-3.
"It gave us an extra run, a little cushion," Parrish said.
But the Padres, still refusing to quit, pulled within a run once again when Bevacqua, who had only two regular-season homers but won Game 2 with a three-run blast, hit one out on Hernandez' first pitch after two were out in the eighth.
"Personal accomplishments don't mean much when your team loses," said Bevacqua. "I just feel badly that the country really didn't see the true San Diego Padres out there these last couple of games."
In the bottom of the inning, with Gossage on the mound and the Padres still clinging to hope, the lid came off Detroit's latent offense.

Castillo walked on a 3-2 pitch and all hands were safe when Castillo beat Nettles' throw to second on Lou Whitaker's sacrifice bunt. Trammell then bunted both runners ahead, and Gibson came to bat for the final time.
Padres Manager Dick Williams signaled from the bullpen that Gibson should be walked. Gossage signaled back, calling Williams to the mound. He asked for permission to pitch to Gibson.
"It wasn't an argument or anything," Gossage said. "I just said I'd rather pitch to him, that I'd get him out. Didn't work out that way. He just beat me. That's all. Simple."
Gossage threw one ball to Gibson, and Gibson hit the next pitch into the upper deck in right field for an 8-4 lead.
Petry, the Tigers right-handed starter and the loser in Game Two, lasted just 3 2-3 innings, and Bill Scherrer worked the next inning. Lopez, the winner, came in to get the last out of the fifth and worked 2 1-3 innings without giving up a hit and striking out four.

Tee Time

By AL PATTERSON

Shortly, leaves will begin to show a new, but beautiful fall color. The air will provide a crisp, but comfortable feeling as winter draws closer. A lot of my friends will be tucked away like a hibernating bear, but for me a lot of memories will linger.

Fighting my way through the spring sand storms or the Sunday when the Big Spring Golf Association opened its season and rain and sleet fell as the temperature dropped. You'll never know how glad I was when the pro called it off for the day and I could return to the warmth of my home. Brighter days were sure to come and they sure did with Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders at the Signal Peak Pro-Am at the Country Club.

Seeing Bum Phillips and those huge New Orleans Saints sure made me feel smaller than I am, but it was sure fun, and for a change the winners were the Shriners. With the change of time I found myself and my friends working from sunup to sunset. You can't believe the wounds I suffered this summer. I was hit in the stomach, head, side and shined. I never heard so many three letter words yelled at me in my life.

On the other hand I had days when things went swell like the two partnerships at Comanche Trail and the shootout at the Country Club. Then came the kids for the free golf instruction at Comanche Trail and a fresh breath of air seeing them wife or hit some gentle grounders, knowing shortly they would improve.

Another breath of air came when a lot of my friends got together in the tall cool pines in Ruidoso. Some say the Inn of the Mountain Gods is the closest thing to Heaven and like all vacations they come to a close. The thrills back home in Big Spring continued as I saw Tommy Mills and Loy Carroll hole second shots for eagles on the 16th and 17th hole at Comanche Trail last week. This brings me to this Sunday, the final day of the City Championship and probably my last taste of tournament golf in 1984.

Speaking for my friends, our golf pros, I thank you for a great year in Big Spring.

By the way I'll still be around this fall with a timeout every Sunday as my friends watch the Cowboys, but we will all be back at it even when the temperature drops.

Cold weather golfers are nuts, but that's golf and I am an important part of it, you see I'm that little white, sometime yellow or orange ball you have been busting all year.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGNER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUES., OCTOBER 16, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A flare-up in the morning caused by hurt feelings can be easily repaired later by a constructive approach at the best manner in which to gain long-time ambitions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't permit a family tie to upset you in the morning since you can soon keep any promises you have made.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Avoid the possibility of an accident in the morning and then you can visit with relatives and friends happily.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be sure to protect yourself where some financial affair is concerned in the morning.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Don't react to the comment of a partner and soon there is harmony. Study an agreement from every angle.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Some personal affair could be disturbing in the morning, but retain equilibrium and plan quietly what you should do.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A friend could be disappointing in the morning, but later makes up for it and all is fine again.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you don't argue with kin over a mundane affair, you soon can establish greater harmony at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be careful not to argue with a partner in the morning, and then you can get out to fascinating new activities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Arguing over a business affair in the morning would be unwise since later you can see how best to handle it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) It is better to have a long discussion with an associate and come to a meeting of minds rather than breaking up.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Some personal problem could cause you to leave your work, but this would not be wise, so let it resolve itself.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't let a friend talk you into an amusement that does not suit you, but go after what you really like.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she can easily understand the emotions of others and can help them to resolve problems of all kinds, so give as fine an education as possible and add psychology to the curriculum. One who would do very well at business in which much tact is required. Business courses should be most helpful.
