Law enforcement officials say they are still searching for Anthony "Tony" Ginnetti, the Big Spring ex-car dealer who was indicted by the Howard County Grand Jury in July on six counts of theft of more than $20,000.

The FBI, the Texas Rangers and the Howard County sheriff's office are continuing to look for Ginnetti more than seven months after he left town while under investigation for theft involving car title fraud.

Texas Ranger Charles Brune said. Law enforcement agencies have been checking leads on Ginnetti's whereabouts, but so far have not found the man who is accused in criminal complaints of defrauding the Coahoma State Bank of more than $250,000.

Ginnetti also is wanted on an FBI fugitive flight warrant and on a Swisher County warrant for theft of more than $20,000 for an incident involving the purchase of a Corvette from the Howard Wright Motor Co. of Tulia

'Biting experience' 'Count Dracula' on slate at college

By CAROL BALDWIN

Staff Writer "Count Dracula" comes alive in a mixture of muted colors and mysterious sounds as members of the Howard College Drama department prepare for a Halloween season production of the legendary character from Transylvania. Hoping that audiences will find that "it's fun to get scared," Tim Haynes, director, is promising a 'howlishly biting experience" during the play's run Oct. 26 and 27 on the HC auditorium stage. He promises flying bats, mysterious doors which open and close unaided and disappearing acts guaranteed to get anyone in the Halloween mood.

Haynes said the set "is large enough to give the feeling of an eerie, castle type home." Theatergoers will "experience the play as soon as they arrive," Haynes Haynes also dropped hints about an "exciting ending which pertains to Dracula's 'supposed death.'

Two shows will be produced each night, with one at 7:30 p.m. and the other at 11:30 p.m. The late show Friday night will be interpreted for the deaf. Haynes is planning to involve the audience by encouraging them to wear costumes fitting the Halloween season. Prizes will be awarded during each performance to the best dressed individual and the best dressed couple.

Tickets are available at the door and are $4 for adults and $3 for See Dracula page 2-A

'ugly' pair

INDIANA, Pa. (AP) - Katie Neidhold flew 4,600 miles from Alaska to trade hugs and giggles Friday with Bruce Morgan in the blindest of blind dates — a weekend meeting of the nation's "ugliest" college man and woman.

"She's a beautiful girl. I expected some big, old polar bear to come in here," Morgan said after he met Miss Neidhold in a restaurant parking lot.

"I think he's beautiful, too" Miss Neidhold said. "He reminds me a lot of my older brother.'

Morgan, 24, a senior criminology major at the Indiana University of Pennsylvania, recently was voted the ugliest man on campus after 'Lisa Birnbach's College Book" identified his school as home of the nation's worst-looking college men.

A fraternity called the University of Alaska at Fairbanks, which the book claims has the worstlooking college women, and asked to speak to "your ugliest woman." When no one volunteered, a contest was held.

De la Garza says farm vote ignored

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) -Most farmers "seem to like Mr. Reagan" in the presidential race. but neither campaign has given farming enough attention, the chairman of the U.S. House Agriculture Committee said "My concern is neither side ..

has given agriculture what I think is the time and the effort that it deserves," said E. "Kika" de la Garza, D-Texas. "So, I'm very concerned about that.

That may be because only 3 percent of the people in this country are farmers, de la Garza said at a news conference.

But the farm vote is important in the 1984 race between President Reagan and Democratic challenger Walter Mondale, said fellow committee member Rep. Ed Madigan, R-Ill.

"The way the Republican Party overcomes the Democratic vote in the large industrial cities in the Midwest is to generate a large turnout of farmers in rural areas," said Madigan. "I think it is the difference between winning and losing in a lot of states." The congressmen met privately Friday with the board of the Illinois Farm Bureau — the state's largest farm organization — to discuss agricultural policy.

Both said afterwards that efforts to reduce the federal deficit and balance the budget will play an important role in the kind of help agriculture gets in the 1985 farm

De la Garza said the public has a negative view of farm programs and Madigan said the 1985 bill will have to avoid "massive new expenditures."

Many farmers are in serious financial trouble and need help, said de la Garza, but the family farm will not disappear. "I didn't want to become chairman of the Agriculture Committee to become a pallbearer at the burial for the American family farm," he said. Still, with emphasis on reducing federal spending, de la Garza said it is "very conceivable, very probable" that some commodity price-support levels will be lowered in the 1985 farm bill.

The congressmen were low-key and frequently in agreement.

Tornado kills one

ARGO, Texas (AP) - A tornado that came down from the clouds in north Titus County killed one person, injured another, demolished two houses and uprooted several trees, authorities said.

Witnesses said the twister struck shortly before 9 p.m. Thursday in this small northeast Texas community north of Mount Pleasant.

A Titus County sheriff's dispatcher, who asked not to be indentified, said early Friday morning she could not to release the victims' name or gender pending notification

"We had heavy rains and two houses completely demolished," said the dispatcher. "Trees and power lines were downed.

She added no other details of the death and injury would be made available until later Friday.

On Friday light snows dusted the Colorado Rockies and Utah residents began digging out from under 3 feet of Friday's storm dumped 11 inches of rain on Port Lavaca, Texas, and a tornado lifted the roof off a house and overturned another residence in nearby Port O'Connor. Power was cut to some parts of Port O'Connor, which is about 100 miles northeast of Corpus Christi. Calhoun County sheriff's officers used four-wheel-drive vehicles to evacuate "several elderly and invalid individuals" who called to be rescued from their homes in Port Lavaca on Friday morning, officials said.

Flash flood warnings were posted for Matagorda and Wharton counties Friday, after more than 6 inches of rain drenched southern Wharton County. Pea-size hail and nearly 3 inches of rain bombarded Woodville, Texas, and flood and flash flood watches were in effect for much of southeast Texas and the upper Texas coast.

Another tornado touched down near Welch, La., but no damage was reported.

In parts of Utah, where 3 feet of snow knocked out power lines, a rise in temperatures helped utility workers restore electricity to 2,000 or more customers. More snow was forecast for the weekend, but the National Weather Service said the weekend snows would be only about several inches near Salt Lake City. Man forced out of country

WASHINGTON — A retired New Jersey draftsman has become the fourth person this year to be forced out of the country based on charges of Nazi collaboration or persecu-tion of Jews during World War II, the government announced Friday.

Neal M. Sher, head of the Justice Department's Office of Special Investigations, said John Avdzej, 79, left the country rather than face "damning evidence" that he persecuted Jews while serving as a regional mayor in Nazi-occupied Byelorussia, now a republic in the Soviet Union

Actor's organs to be donated

LOS ANGELES — The body of actor Jon-Erik Hexum, who shot himself in a freak accident on the set of the television series "Cover Up," was taken Friday to a San Francisco hospital so his vital organs could be removed for donation, officials said.

"The heart and the eyes will be transplanted here," said Nancy Millhouse, spokeswoman for Pacific Presbyterian Medical Center in San Francisco. "The kidneys will be returned to Los Angeles. Probably two recipients are waiting, and they'll be doing the matching."

She said the heart would go to a 37-year-old man from out of state who had requested anonymity. No recipients had been found for the eyes or kidneys.

Mondale wants Casey fired

WASHINGTON - Walter F. Mondale demanded Friday that President Reagan fire CIA Director William Casey before Sunday's presidential debate because of the distribution of a CIA document that encourages terrorism against the leftist Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

Five days after the existence of the document first became known, the Democratic challenger also called on the president to immediately explain if he plans U.S. military action against the government in Managua.

The disclosure that the CIA produced the document "is a profound embarrassment to our country,'

Mondale interrupted his debate preparations to speak to reporters outside his Northwest Washington home. Reagan devoted much of the day to studying for Sunday's debate on foreign policy.

Canadians say no to contract

DETROIT - The heads of General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers on Friday signed a three-year American labor contract with terms that striking Canadian workers have refused to accept, threatening the closure of plants in the United States.

GM said the Canadian strike could begin to force layoffs Monday at as many as 10 U.S. assembly plants that receive parts from factories north of the border. About 1,500 workers at GM's light-truck assembly plant in Moraine, Ohio, were the first to be told not to

Family members leaving Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Most family members of American diplomats in Beirut have left the country while safety measures at the embassy are improved following last month's terrorist attack, according to statements Friday from U.S. Embassy officials.

John Stewart, embassy spokesman in Beirut, said five dependents left last week but declined to specify when or where they went "for security reasons." Only about a half dozen dependents had returned since the mass evacuation last year when Moslem militias seized control of west Beirut from the Lebanese army. In Washington D.C., President Reagan signed legislation that

Committees study manual

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional intelligence committees, reviewing the CIA's psychological warfare manual for Nicaraguan rebels, are also examining the spy agency's production of a comic book-style manual that urges Nicaraguans to sabotage their leftist government.

Committee sources, who insisted on anonymity, said the CIA's preparation of the two manuals could suggest a concerted program by the agency. White House officials have portrayed the authorizes $366 million to increase psychological warfare manual as an unauthorized product by a lowlevel contract employee operating Central America.

That manual suggests the "selective use of violence" to "neutralize" some Nicaraguan government officials; the hiring of professional criminals to carry out 'selective jobs"; arranging the death of a rebel supporter to create a "martyr"; and coercing Nicaraguans into carrying out

County Extension Agent Parents talk to their children about sexuality

Children, as developing human beings, are curious about many aspects of their personal growth. One special area of interest to children of all ages is their sexuality.

Children who are reared on farms or in other settings where animals and nature are part of the everyday experience may learn about sexual functioning more readily than other children. However, all children are curious about their bodies.

Parents have much more knowledge, experience and understanding of sex-related matters. However, many parents feel uneasy and embarrassed when their children ask them about sexual functioning and sexual feelings. Parents can learn to feel more comfortable in discussing sexuality if they share their feelings and needs with other parents first. Reading sources may also help parents who wish to feel more knowledgeable and comfortable when talking to their children about sexuality.

Rather than just being taught the "facts of life," children need to learn about their own sexuality in terms of human love and relationships.

Parents who learn to share their feelings about sexuality in terms of human relationships may feel more successful and comfortable discussing sexuality with their children. Children learn about human sexuality by observing their parents or other relatives. Parents who model a loving relationship help to set the stage for the child's growing curiosity about his or her own sexuality. If parents feel comfortable in showing a loving marriage relationship, the child may feel secure asking questions about his or her own sexuality.

How do children learn about sexuality?

• From their parents, aunts, uncles and other close relatives. From friends in school and the neighborhood.

 From movies, television, records, magazines, books and other sources

 From classes in school. Many parents do not want their children to learn about sexuality in school or from outsiders. But these same parents may not feel comfortable talking with their children. Parents who wish to be responsible for their children's understanding of sexuality can prepare themselves for this task. Sharing knowledge and feelings about sexuality can bring the parent and child even closer to his or her parent even more because the parent assumes this responsibility.

Answers should be brief, honest and unemotional.

Teenagers from 15 to 19 are impatient and are looking for brief, relevant answers. They are more likely to respond to a detached approach than one which uses morality and attempts to instill guilt. Summary

Parents can provide much of the information that their children need about human sexuality Parents also provide a model for attitudes, values, feelings and ideas related to human sexuality.

Parents may build their own confidence in discussing sexuality by reading sources obtained at the public library, public health agencies, county Extension offices, family service agencies, physicians, ministers and counselors.

To help parents develop skills in teaching their children about sexuality a Seminar: "Parents - It's Time To Talk" will be presented from 9:00 a.m. to 12 p.m. October provide books for your child to 27 at the Goliad School Library.

For your garden

by Don Richardson

Garden checklist for October

1. October through November is an excellent time to purchase bulbs while you still have a good selection in the garden shops. They may be planted at any time with the exception of tulips and hyacinths.

2. Chill tulip and hyacinth bulbs in the refrigerator until mid or late December before planting. The lower part of the refrigerator is best. Do not leave the bulbs in air tight plastic bags during refrigerated storage.

3. Plant bulbs in well-prepared beds so the base of the bulb is at a depth that is three times the diameter of the bulb. In sandy soil, set slightly deeper and in clay soil less deeply.

4. Start collecting those leaves for the compost pile. Be sure to have extra soil available so that each six-inch layer of leaves may soil. Always wet the layer of leaves thoroughly before adding the soil. Add about one pound of a complete lawn or garden fertilizer to each layer of leaves to provide the necessary nitrogen for decomposition

5. In addition to bulbs, check your nursery or garden center for started plants of snapdragons, pinks, sweet william, poppy, and calendulas. Planted now they will usually provide a riot of spring

7. Watch lawn areas for brown patch. Areas with a previous history should be treated with Terraclor (PCNMB) at the rates shown on the container.

8. Keep that Christmas Cactus in a sunny spot where night temperatures can be kept below 65 degrees F. Buds will drop if you allow night temperatures to go above 70 degrees F. or if you allow the plant to become excessive dry. Be sure to label each packet carefully. Remember seed from hybrid plants will seldom resemble the parent plant.

10. Prepare beds for planting pansies as soon as they become available at the garden centers. They need a well-drained soil. Best to use started plants as seed is difficult to handle 11. If you are planning to save

cerned with the rising costs of boat insurance during a time of small catches and intense competition in the industry

Fisherman concerned with costs

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (AP) — A statue of a helmsman in this feisty old fishing port honors "those that go down to the sea in ships." The companies that insure the ships wish they'd go down less often.

Since 1980, nearly a quarter of Gloucester's fleet of 150 boats has sunk off this harbor 30 miles north of Boston. During the same period, only three boats have sunk off the larger port of New

At the same time, local fishermen have faced sharply increasing costs, including insurance, and a decline in their catches. In addition, fishermen have been urged to limit their catches to prevent overfishing off the New England coast. Insurance agents and fishermen say privately some Gloucester boats were deliberately sunk to collect the insurance money. The average Gloucester casualty was wood-hulled and 35 years old, according to Coast Guard "Most people want to make a living at fishing," said Bill Palombo, head of the 400-member Atlantic Offshore Fishermen's Association. "It's just that sometimes, if somebody packs it in, it means survival at that point." Just before noon on a calm, clear day last August, the Kathleen C inexplicably began taking on water a mile east of Thatcher Island in the Atlantic, according to Coast Guard records.

She was the ninth boat to sink off Gloucester this year and the 35th in four years, records showed. The average loss was about $150,000, but some were valued at more than $1 million, according to Dennis Nixon, professor of Marine Affairs at the University of Rhode Island. No one was seriously injured in any of the sinkings, and only a few people even landed in the water. Routine Coast Guard investigations found no wrongdoing in any of the sinkings, but the FBI is looking into two at the request of insurance companies, Special Agent Lawrence Gilligan

Experts say that at least 10 underwriters have gotten out of the boat business in the past year. By most estimates, those that remain have doubled their rates in the last five years.

'Last year, 17 companies were in competition. Now there's only about four or five," said Earl Posey, an agent with the Boston firm Maurice H.

During one bleak week in August, companies canceled policies on 13 Gloucester boats, said Anthony Verga, head of the city's Fisheries Commission.

One of those boats belonged to Salvatore J. Parisi, whose vessel remains in the Gloucester harbor.

"I'm tied up while I'm looking for insurance," Parisi testified Tuesday at a congressional hearing in Boston. "The best deal I can find would double my premiums for half my coverage.'

Another boat belonged to Salvatore Ferrara.

Under the best deal he could find, premiums jumped from $39,000 to $59,000 while his coverage dropped from $1.2 million to $800,000, he said.

"I can't afford it no more — the insurance, the mortgage, the price of fish is no good, there's no fish," he said. "With this price, I can't pay the

The bills come at a bad time for fishermen, caught between high costs and small catches. The suggestion by fishery officials that fishermen limit their catch seemed like the last straw to

"You're putting us out of business," Gloucester fisherman Salvatore Randazza told fishery officials at a September public hearing on the Fishery officials say the catch at major New England ports is down by 25 million pounds this year, and a ruling last week by the World Court threatened to reduce the catch even further. The ruling split the fish-rich Georges Bank, giving Canada some areas heavily fished by the United States. The change could reduce the total U.S. harvest of haddock alone by 30 percent, officials Gloucester's catch last year of 150 million pounds was 10 percent below a 1981 catch of 167 million pounds. The value of last year's landings was $38 million — compared to $45 million in 1981. Biologists blame the decline on overfishing by large boats equipped with sophisticated fishspotting apparatus.

The sinkings are not limited to Gloucester, Rep. John J. Breaux, D-La., said at Tuesday's hearing. They resemble a spate of sinkings off the Alaska coast in 1983, during the collapse of the king crab industry. Changes in water temperature probably accounted for the sudden decline in crabs, biologists said.

Gloucester has so far escaped the tragedy of Alaska, where several fishermen died in the sink-Most Gloucester boats foundered from floods or fires on calm summer days, and neighboring boats rescued most crewmen from their life rafts within hours

Breaux, the chairman of the House fish and wildlife subcommittee, questioned several people at Tuesday's hearing on the need for boat inspections. Few if any states now require licenses of fishing boat skippers or inspections of boats under

"Why the sinkings are happening in Gloucester is because the insurance companies refuse to live up to their responsibility to see that boats are seaworthy when they sail," said Gloucester attorney Joseph Orlando, who has represented several fishermen in personal injury suits.

'A boat license doesn't mean a boat has to be in good shape," Coast Guard Lt. Peter Hopkinson said. "The inspector checks to see if there are enough life jackets on board. He doesn't care if the bottom is falling out.'

Get ready for Operation Blitz Saturday morning, Oct. 27, from 8 a.m. to noon. This is your chance to pitch-in four short hours to help clean up the entry

Remember when we used to set aside a cemetery clean-up day and every member of the family met neighbors for shared work? Remember how we often catch ourselves saying, "Why don't they clean up Big Spring." Well, if we really care, we're going to have to become "they," and do something besides complains. Here's the plans:

Seven team captains have been assigned a particular section of a main street. Under each team captain, crew leaders have been choosen. Each crew leader will recruit four people who will give four hours to help clean up Big Spring. These four people will also invite four or their friends to give four hours as well...and so on, until a large number of Big Spring residents are involved.

ALMOST, BUT NOT QUITE — Big Spring receiver Michael Doporto doesn't get a good enough grip on this pass as Lee defensive back Steve Rowland comes in to try and make a play. Lee romps Steers 31-0

Big Spring displays good second half effort

By BILLY NABOURS Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers started like a house on fire at Memorial Stadium Friday night, were stamped out early, but showed some sparks in the second half of a District 4-5A contest against Midland Lee.

It was not enough, however as the Rebels burned a little brighter, longer and stronger in beating the Steers, 31-0. Lee's overall slate is 6-1 and 3-1 in loop action. Big Spring falls to 2-5 and 0-4 in being shutout for the second consecutive contest. Not since 1979 have the Steers been blanked in two consecutive district games. Big Spring lost last week to Abilene Cooper, 52-0 in a game that was the blowout the score indicated.

The game with the state ranked Rebels, last year's district champs, was a different story. Big Spring spotted the Rebels 10 points in the first quarter and 14 more in the second to trail, 24-0 when the bands hit the field. After a scoreless third period, the Rebels finally broke a resurgent Black and Gold defense for seven points with 3:07 to go in the game.

And while he was not pleased at his team laying a goose egg for the second week in a row, Steers' head coach Quinn Eudy said good effort

'We made the adjustments at halftime that we had to make. We just lined up in our base defense and played football in the second half," said Eudy. He added, "And we played toe to toe with Lee's best (first string). They didn't have their donkeys out there."

It was evident from the opening kickoff that the Steers came to

After setting up their first series at their own 26 the Steers moved 14 yards on two plays. After reaching the 40 though, the drive stalled due to a penalty, two incompletions and a sack of quarterback Carl Speck.

back to its 47.

Three plays netted only seven yards, forcing the Rebs into a punt of their own. The kick was fumbled at Big Spring's 16 where Lee recovered with 8:52 left in the first period.

From that point it took Lee only four plays to reach pay dirt as Walter Jones plunged over from the two with 7:30 in the quarter. Craig Kamradt booted the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

Euday said afterward, "We started out well and were playing hard defense, but the fumble seemed to take a little starch out of us for awhile. Still, we battled back."

Lee's next score was a 43-yard field goal by Kamradt on fourth and 10 from Big Spring's 26 after the Steers defense, led by Jerry Anderson, Doug Walker, Todd Coker, Derek Logback and Mike Cahill, stopped Tyrone Thurman for a four yard loss.

Lee struck for two touchdowns within two minutes of each other in the second quarter, both coming after Pirkle punts.

The first came with 8:35 before halftime when Thurman, who finished the game with 92 yards, scmapered 21 yards for a touchdown. Kamradt, who did not miss any extra points in the game, came on and booted Lee to a 17-0 advantage.

Thurman set up another score when he returned a punt 45 yards back to Big Spring's 15. In two plays Jones had his second score, a 13-yard run, and Lee had a 24-0 lead that stood at the half. Lee did threaten once more in the half when the Rebels marched to the Steers' 31. Pirkle killed that with an interception.

He then kicked his team out of trouble with a 44-yard punt that had Lee starting from its Big Spring's Jay Pirkle punted Lee 47. When on offense the talented Odessa.

The unbeaten Wolves were led by running back Sammy Rivera, who rushed for 118 yards, quarterback Doug Chitsey and tightend Don Randle. Defensively, the attack was manned by Armando Rivera and a host Wolves' defenders which allowed only seven first downs the entire game.

Chitsey, one of the top quarterbacks in West Texas, had an off night completing six of 15 passes for 152 yards and three interceptions. Randle hauled in four passes for 84 yards.

The scoring blitz began early for the Wolves as they scored on a four-yard run by Rivera, a 38-yard six-yard scamper with 5:54 left in scoring pass from Chitsey to Randle and a five-yard run by running back Bill Jackson.

The extra points were added by Chitsey (1) and Heath Blassingame (2).

The tough Wolves defense intercepted six passes with back Armando Rivera leading the way with three steals. The defense also held the Lions to a meager seven yards rushing the entire game.

The scoring in the second quarter was set up by two interceptions by back Perry Conner and A. Rivera. S. Rivera scored on a one-yard plunge for the Wolves fourth score. Chitsey later added the fifth score on a six-yard run. The PATs were missed following the touchdowns.

Chitsey added the first touchdown in the third quarter on a

KLONDIKE - The Ropesville Eagles were glad to pull out of Klondike Friday night after seeing Cougars running back Tim Cope scored all his team's points as Klondike won the District 7-A North Zone contest 21-0.

Washington defends top spot in 8th week of NCAA action

By The Associated Press

The Washington Huskies, having become the fifth team to climb to the top of The Associated Press college football rankings this season, make the first defense of their No. 1 ranking at home Saturday against 4-2 Oregon.

"It's an honor to play the No. 1 team in the nation," said Oregon Coach Rich Brooks. "It's hard to go undefeated this far in the season. That's a testimony to their team strength."

Washington's Don James, whose Huskies were at the top of the poll for six consecutive weeks in 1982 before being knocked out, would rather be No. 1 on

"I know it's a tough spot to be in," he said. "Being No. 1 is a position that's just going to make your op-ponents play their best football against you. I also think it makes my job a little bit more difficult in dealing with my players.'

If James wants to abdicate, he would find no shortage of challengers waiting to take over.

Runner-up Oklahoma, for example. The Sooners, who visit Iowa State for a Big Eight night game, were bitterly disappointed with last week's 15-15 tie against Texas - "I think we're the better team," said Coach Barry Switzer - even though they jumped from third place to second while the Longhorns slipped from first to third.

And Texas, whose coach, Fred Akers, made an unsuccessful pitch to remain No. 1 after the tie with Oklahoma. The Longhorns entertain Arkansas in a Southwest Conference game. Meanwhile, fourth-ranked Boston College visits No. 20 West Virginia, No. 5 Nebraska is at Colorado, sixth-ranked Southern Methodist is home against Houston, No. 7 Brigham Young is at Air Force, and eighth-ranked Ohio State plays at Michigan State. Rounding out the Top Ten, ninth-ranked Miami, Fla. entertains Pitt, while No. 10 LSU visits No. 16 Kentucky in a key Southeastern Conference game.

In the Second Ten, No. 11 South Carolina is at Notre Dame, Kansas at No. 12 Oklahoma State, Georgia Tech at No. 13 Auburn, Vanderbilt at No. 14 Georgia, Tulane at No. 15 Florida State for a night game, Cincinnati at No. 17 Florida, Michigan at No. 18 Iowa, and Syracuse at No. 19 Penn State.

The Oklahoma-Iowa State series has been onesided, with the Sooners holding a 50-4-2 advantage. They are 21-0-1 against the Cyclones in the last 22

Although early in the week Switzer described himself as "still emotionally upset" from the controversial finish against Texas, he now says: "We must put aside whatever feelings we have left over from the Texas game. The conference is the most important thing now and playing on the road has never been easy. It won't be easy preparing our team emotionally after the Texas effort, but I'm sure the players all realize the potential for disaster every time we go out on the field."

For only the third time in 20 years, Texas-Arkansas will not be on network television. These teams dominated the Southwest Conference from 1959-75 and one or the other went to the Cotton Bowl every year but three in that stretch.

For Ken Hatfield, Arkansas' new coach, it marks a return to the stadium where his 81-yard punt return helped the Razorbacks beat Texas 14-13-in 1964. Hatfield has not been back to Memorial Stadium since that night and Arkansas has not won at Austin since 1966, but Hatfield says he "won't bring up much nostalgia. This game is big enough without worrying Akers says the 3-1-1 Razorbacks "were very impressive in shutting out an improved Texas Tech team (24-0 last week). They are getting better each week, adjusting to their new staff and new system."

And while Akers notes that "it will be good to be home" for the first time since Sept. 15, Hatfield says Arkansas is "ready to play a road game" after three at Little Rock and two at Fayetteville.

'Little Rock isn't exactly in our own backyard," he said. "We bus to Conway on Fridays, then to Little Rock for the games there. We will get to Austin a lot quicker (by plane) than we get to Conway.

The Orange, Sugar and Cotton Bowls will have representatives at West Virginia, but the team they covet is Boston College, because of exciting quarterback Doug Flutie. That should only serve to further rile up the Mountaineers, who finished second to Boston College last year in the voting for the Lambert-Meadowlands Trophy as the top team in the East despite a 27-17 triumph over the Eagles and are second again in the ratings this year.

While Flutie and the offense were somewhat rusty against Temple last Saturday after a three-week layoff, the defense played one of its better games. But West Virginia Coach Don Nehlen notes that in Flutie, who is 751 yards away from becoming majorcollege football's all-time total offense king, the Eagles "have the super performer at the key position who can beat you every time."

And although Flutie calls this game "the rivalry for the best in the East," Nehlen says that "when Penn State's in the area, they're still the team. Nobody's going to tell me any different. I don't care who's rated wher."

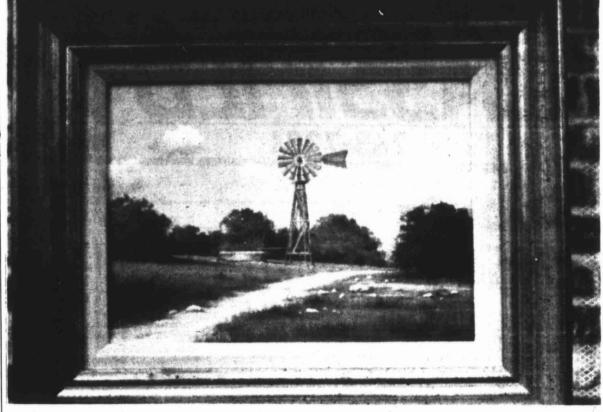

As for West Virginia, Nehlen says he is "very happy to be 5-1 at this point of the season. At the beginning of the season I thought we were an average football team, and right now we might not be good, but we sure aren't bad, either.'

LSU-Kentucky is the only other game matching members of the Top Twenty - and, surprisingly, the only unbeaten teams (Kentucky 5-0, LSU 4-0-1) in the

It will be a homecoming of sorts for LSU's Bill Arnsparger, in his first season as a college head coach. Arnsparger hails from Paris, Ky., and he attended the University of Kentucky in 1944 before joining the Marine Corps shortly thereafter. Arnsparger later spent eight years as a Kentucky assistant coach (1954-61) under Blanton Collier.

"I'm sure lots of people think the Kentucky game will be important to me because I was on the staff and I'm from around there," Arnsparger said. "The main importance of the game to me is that it's an SEC matchup and extremely crucial in the con-
