How's that? Medicare

Q. I received a notice from Medicare talking about participating doctors. What does this mean?

A. According to Bruce Carter, branch manager of the local Social Security office, beginning Oct. 1 a participating doctor is one who signed a contract with the Health Care Financing Administration to accept "assignment" on all Medicare patients claims.

After you have met deductible for the year, currently $75, you can not be billed more than 20 percent of Medicare's approved charge, regardless of the amount of the bill.

Medicare pays the participating doctor the other 80 percent of the charge. An example would be that a doctor charges you $150 for services and Medicare approves $100 of the charges. Assuming you have met your deductible for the year, Medicare would pay the participating doctor $80 and you would be liable for the remaining $20. You could not be billed for the additional $50 (difference between actual charges $150 and approved charges $100.)

Western Container to expand

Council nixes 'low' bid due to technical error

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

An apparent low bid for construction at Western Container was rejected by the City Council Tuesday night in favor of a $40,000 higher bid, the lowest that met specifications, city officials said.

The council, acting on the recommendations of city staff, unanimously accepted a $433,132 bid by J.W. Little Construction Co. of Big Spring to expand the Western Container Co. plant at Big Spring Airpark.

The motion to accept the Little bid was made by Bob Fuller. Not present at the meeting were Mayor Clyde Angel and Jack Y. Smith.

The council's action sparked complaint from D.D. Johnston Construction of Big Spring and prompted a press conference this morning by City Manager Don Davis to clarify the decision.

"In my personal opinion, we've got a real problem with the low bid. It doesn't meet specifications," Fuller said prior to the vote, referring to Johnston's $394,548 bid.

City Attorney Doyle Curtis said the Johnston bid failed to meet specifications because of the inclusion of a letter stating that the construction company would not be liable if it failed to meet a 72-hour deadline for relocating air conditioners on the building.

The Johnston letter, submitted with the bid, stated that: "No liable responsibility or legal action will be held against our firm for any problems or manufacturing process disruptions or delays that might occur because of any failures to meet the 72-hour maximum."

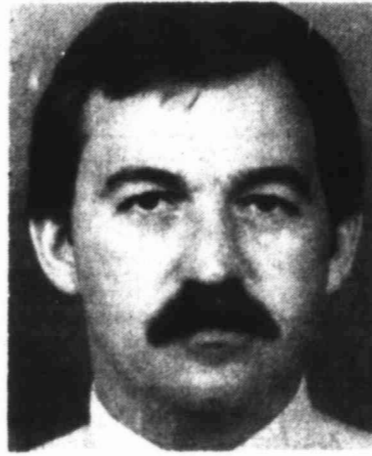

"If our firm is low bidder, we will not agree to any contract that does not release us from this (liability)," the letter continues. James Johnston, who represented the company, said he included the letter at the suggestion of his insurance company.

Johnston told the council the company would withdraw the statement on liability but his offer was rejected by Fuller.

Gas rate hike passed; gamefield issue tabled

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

City Councilmen Tuesday night tabled a proposal to place a gamefield fitness course in Birdwell Park, but agreed to accept a revised rate increase proposed by Energas.

Council members said they did not know if the Big Spring needed two exercise courses — they have already agreed to install a jogging course named after Olympian Rose Magers at the Comanche Trail Park — and suggested that another organization in town might better benefit from the course.

The gamefield course was donated by Malone-Hogan Hospital to the city, which would be responsible for the costs of installing and maintaining the gravel pad.

"The city of Midland only has one," Russ McEwen said. "Do we need two park courses?"

McEwen also said that the equipment might better serve another small West Texas city or the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

SWICD Vice President Sam Hill, present at the meeting to discuss another issue, said he was interested in obtaining the course for the college if the city did not want to accept it.

The city parks and recreation board had approved accepting the course and locating it at Birdwell Park.

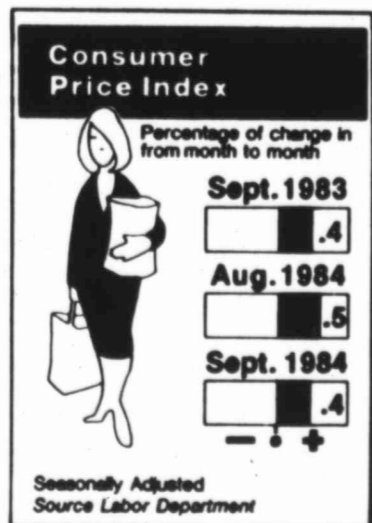

Dearl Pittman, representing Energas at the council meeting, told members that the revised rate proposal would be a 4.35 percent increase, instead of the 7.7 percent increase originally asked for by the company in July.

The new rate increase will bring in an additional $5 million, or 20 cents per 1,000 cubic foot of gas, Pittman said. The company originally asked for a 35.8 cent increase per 1,000 cubic feet, that would have brought in $8.9 million in revenues.

"The average increase per customer will $20.06 a year," Pittman said.

In other action, the council agreed to deed the space for two buildings at the airpark back to the See Course page 2-A

September consumer prices increase

By The Associated Press Consumer prices rose 0.4 percent in September and at an annual rate of 4.2 percent for the 12 months, the Labor Department said today in a report that affects both Social Security benefits and tax rates.

Based on inflation over the past year, monthly Social Security payments will rise 3.5 percent as of January, matching last year's cost-of-living adjustment. In addition, today's report will be used by the government for its "indexing" adjustment to federal income taxes in an attempt to prevent inflation from pushing taxpayers into higher brackets.

The 0.4 percent rise in consumer prices in September was less than the 0.5 percent spurt in August, and compared with monthly increases of 0.3 percent in July and 0.2 percent in June.

The government said gasoline prices shot up 1.1 percent last month, following three straight months of decline, for the biggest monthly increase since May 1983. But even with the rise, gasoline prices were 14.5 percent below the peak reached in March 1981.

Oil prices are not expected to pose an inflation problem soon. Some producing countries recently reduced their prices and the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries is struggling to avoid cutting its official prices.

The danger of the economy overheating and rekindling inflation also has diminished.

A slowdown of economic expansion was confirmed by a Commerce Department's report of a sharp 4.3 percent September drop in factory orders for durable goods, the steepest decline in five months, some economists say.

The orders decline "is consistent with the fact that we are in a very serious slowdown," Michael Evans, head of a Washington forecasting firm, said following the report's release Tuesday.

But Jerry Jasinowski, chief economist for the National Association of Manufacturers, said he did not believe the September drop in orders was a sign that the slowdown was in danger of turning into a recession.

"I wouldn't overreact to these numbers and come to the conclusion that the economy is slowing down more sharply than expected," he said, predicting fourth-quarter growth would be in the 3 percent to 4 percent range.

"There is growth ahead, but it is not very impressive growth and it certainly isn't enough to keep unemployment from rising," said Evans.

The Reagan administration sought to play down the report, blaming the plunge in orders on spot strikes against General Motors Corp. and a temporary drop in defense orders.

Attempted truce misfires

Gramm, Doggett explode in phone conversation

AUSTIN (AP) — Attempts to declare a truce in the negative campaigning for the Texas U.S. Senate seat exploded in controversy after a phone conversation between Democrat Lloyd Doggett and Republican Phil Gramm.

Gramm said Doggett was "unethical" by making public a tape recording of their Tuesday evening conversation. A Doggett spokesman said Gramm hung up on Doggett during the call, which he said the Democrat made in good faith.

The charges were the latest in a two-day, long-distance exchange.

Gramm first proposed that both candidates campaign on their own records and not mention the other candidate. Doggett said he liked the idea, adding that he ordered his staff to immediately withdraw "negative" ads which mentioned Gramm.

But Doggett also asked for a third debate, a "full and free exchange," in which all charges made in both candidates' ads could be discussed.

After a day on the campaign trail Tuesday, Doggett telephoned Gramm during a nighttime television call-in show in Victoria.

According to a tape released by Doggett's staff, the Democrat told Gramm he had ordered ads withdrawn that mentioned Gramm and that he had instructed campaign workers "to just emphasize the positive aspects of my record... And I just want to check and see if y'all are doing the same thing."

LLOYD DOGGETT

Doggett said.

But Gramm said Doggett continued to make the offer conditional upon Gramm's agreeing to another debate, adding in the conversation: "We've already had two debates, Lloyd. You've had your chance and you lost."

The telephone call came during the 30-minute talk show, but Gramm spoke with Doggett off the air.

Bill Collier, Doggett's press secretary, said the Democrat's campaign noted that "Gramm said he had not pulled down his negative ads... and that he is not going to pull down his negative ads and he is not going to meet Sen. Doggett in a factual discussion of the charges and countercharges that have been made in the last couple of weeks."

After the conversation, Gramm said Doggett's call was a "hot-dog kind of deal," and the Republican emphasized that he has no plans to meet Doggett again in a debate.

Gramm said Doggett turned down three proposals for debates in addition to one held last month in College Station and last week in Dallas.

Collier said that charge "is the same old stuff. Lloyd's accepted a dozen (invitations for) debates in the last few weeks that Phil Gramm didn't."

During their conversation, Gramm asked Doggett several times if his agreement to stop using Gramm's name was contingent on a third debate.

Collier said the phone call was not a campaign stunt. "The whole purpose of Lloyd's phoning was to try to get Mr. Gramm's response," Collier said.

After the Victoria call-in show, Gramm traveled to Austin. There, Gramm said he learned about 10:15 p.m. Tuesday that Doggett "surprisingly taped our telephone conversation without notifying me that the telephone conversation was being taped and that (he has) released it to the media."

Gramm said that action "abused" his courtesy and was "another act of bad faith and unethical behavior."

A spokesman for the Texas attorney general's office said there is no state law against recording a telephone call and no notification required that it is being recorded.

OPERATION SPARKLE — Two members of the Chamber of Commerce get a head start on the cleanup campaign slated Saturday morning in the city. Teams will meet at the Chamber of Commerce at 8 a.m. to clean up weeds and debris.

'Operation Sparkle' to shine Saturday

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

Do you care enough to help make Big Spring a better place? That's the question being asked this Saturday as dozens of Big Springers prepare for "Operation Sparkle," a citywide cleanup campaign planned from 8 a.m. to noon.

Anyone who would like to volunteer for the campaign should report to the Chamber offices at 8 a.m. Saturday.

The idea for the cleanup campaign, also known as "Operation Blitz" and simply the clean up program, was the brainchild of Johnny Rutherford, who was the driving force behind the C.L.E.A.N. campaign this summer.

Rutherford asked for volunteers to clean up the city in a concerted See Sparkle page 2-A

Fog rolls onto coast

By The Associated Press

Fog reduced visibility to less than one-half mile along the upper Texas coast, including the Houston area, early today while forecasters warned of possible snow and freezing rain in the Guadalupe Mountains of West Texas. Forecasters in Southeast Texas warned that visibility would likely drop to near zero before the fog lifted during the mid-morning.

A cold front remained stalled off the Texas coast, causing scattered showers and thunderstorms over northwestern sections of the Gulf of Mexico and creating overrunning conditions in Southeast Texas, including fog and drizzle.

Winds were mostly light, 5-10 mph, around the state early today except in the Panhandle where easterly winds were reported.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 50s, ranging from the 40s over West Texas to the 60s in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Extremes ranged from 41 at El Paso to 67 at Galveston.

Other readings around the state included 43 at Amarillo, 51 at Longview and Dallas-Fort Worth, 53 at Waco, 54 at Austin, 55 at San Antonio, 59 at Corpus Christi, 60 at Brownsville, 50 at San Angelo, 43 at Lubbock and 47 at Midland.

Forecasters called for cloudy skies, cool temperatures, scattered showers and light rain statewide today. Highs were to be mostly in the 60s and lower 70s.

Snow returned to the mountains of Colorado and New Mexico today and much of the rest of the nation was under cloudy skies as more rain drenched flooded southern Louisiana.

In DelCambre, La., nearly 2,000 residents were urged to leave town because of high water, said Vermilion Parish Sheriff Ray LeMaire. About 50 people in New Iberia were moved to a National Guard armory.

Louisiana's bayou country had nearly 12 inches of rain Tuesday.

About 11.57 inches of rain had fallen by early today in Jeanerette, 11.02 inches in Butte la Rose, 9.4 inches in New Iberia and 8 inches in Abbeville.

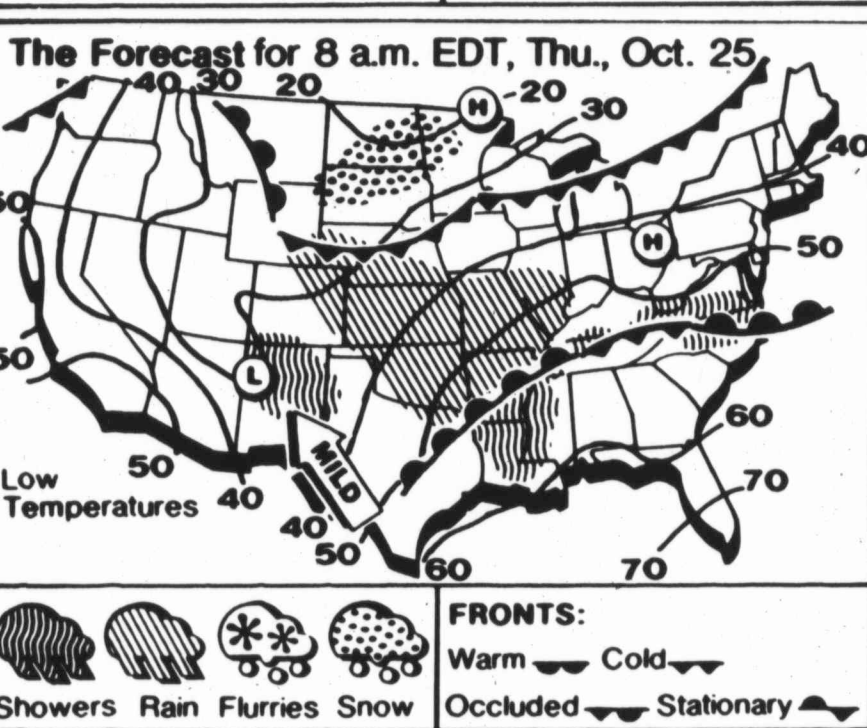

Snow was falling over higher elevations of New Mexico and southern Colorado, where travelers' advisories were in effect. Up to 4 inches of snow was predicted for the mountains of Colorado.

WEST TEXAS — Rain and drizzle with a few thunderstorms tonight, diminishing by Thursday. Warmer Thursday. Lows tonight 40s except 39 mountains to 51 extreme south. Highs Thursday 50s except to 68 extreme south.

KILLER BLAZE — Smoke billows Wednesday from the Pines Hotel in Baguio, Philippines, 125 miles north of Manila. A Texas couple were among the 14 people killed in the fire.

Texas couple killed in luxury hotel fire

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A Texas couple and 12 other people were killed in a fire that destroyed a luxury hotel where about 200 American World War II veterans had gathered for a reunion, authorities said today.

Police in Baguio, 125 miles north of Manila, said 10 of the bodies found in the Pines Hotel were charred beyond recognition in Tuesday night's fire, and no immediate identification could be made.

Officials identified four of the victims as Hamilton and Cindy Cosnahan of Dallas, Filipino tourist guide Godofredo Latugan, and a tourist believed to be from South Korea.

Searchers continued to hunt through the burned building hours after the fire, carrying in stretchers and emerging with bodies wrapped in plastic, said a local journalist, Nora Mondonedo.

"It's eerie because the hotel was all black and burned and it was smoking," she said.

Rescuers told Ms. Mondonedo most of the bodies were recovered from the fourth floor of the wooden building, where the fire was believed to have started.

The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Authorities said at least 19 of the 65 injured people were foreigners, including 13 Americans who were airlifted to nearby Clark Air Force Base for treatment. Helicopters from the base were used to rescue people trapped on the hotel roof, they said.

The Americans were part of the group that participated last week in 40th anniversary celebrations of the U.S. Sixth Army's landing on Leyte Island in the central Philippines. The landing marked Gen. Douglas MacArthur's return to the Philippines and the retaking of the island from Japan.

An intern at Baguio general hospital said the Cosnahans were pronounced dead of suffocation on arrival at the hospital and said two others died of chest injuries suffered when they jumped from upper floors.

Police said seven fire units fought the blaze at the six-story hotel, which they described as "a total loss."

The Pines, one of the Philippines' best-known resort hotels, included a government-run casino and several restaurants.

District attorney found guilty

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today upheld the official misconduct conviction of a former Northeast Texas district attorney found guilty in the theft of $7,000 of state money.

The court of appeals said the deposit of $7,000, according to bank records. After the deposit, Neal "drew many checks for cash," evidence showed.

Jack G. Neal, district attorney in Sulphur Springs from 1973-76, was sentenced to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Jurors decided that Neal misappropriated $7,000 in state money appropriated to pay salaries in the district attorney's office. Testimony showed that Neal deposited the money into an account he used for his private law practice and the district attorney's office.

The account had a balance of 97 cents before the Sept. 27, 1976 deposit of $7,000, according to bank records. After the deposit, Neal "drew many checks for cash," evidence showed.

"The payees of the rest make up a wide variety of individuals and businesses," the appeals court said in an opinion written by Judge Tom G. Davis.

The Court of Criminal Appeals denied several points raised by Neal, including whether there was sufficient evidence for a conviction.

Judge Marvin Teague, in a dissenting opinion, said Neal, who represented himself, did not "knowingly and intelligently" waive his right to be represented by another lawyer.

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Health officials are investigating 10 cases of suspected typhoid fever reported by Brownsville doctors, but so far no carrier of the disease has been found.

Rubinstein said the last reported cases occurred in mid-October and were reported Monday.

trated campaign focusing on major thoroughfares. He told the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce that unless weeds and debris were cleared out before winter set in, the city would be plagued by blowing tumbleweeds and garbage during the spring.

Since his original request teams have been formed and volunteers are being tagged from around the city.

Plans are to have seven team captains assigned a particular section of city thoroughfares. Under each team captain will be several crew leaders who will each have a team.

Crews will meet at 8 a.m. Saturday. Throughout the morning, plans are to chop weeds and clean up debris.

The City and volunteer crews will pick up piles of trash and weeds. They will come back at a later time and haul off abandoned cars, appliances and large items logged by the cleanup teams.

Rutherford asked that volunteers bring any tools they might have to make the work go faster. He recommended lawn mowers or riding mowers, gloves, rakes, hoes, shovels and brooms.

Crew members should bring large trash bags. Team members will clean up weeds, glass, cans and trash within a 10-foot area of the curb. Some areas will require additional cleaning.

The buildings would have to become the property of the state as well, Hill told council members, because the state will not maintain any property it does not own.

Council members also agreed to reject all bids submitted for the purchase of 51 microcassette recorders and basket-weave holsters for the use of police officers.

According to council members, the bids submitted were substantially higher than the prices the council had seen at various companies.

The council also asked companies to submit alternate bids for the purchase of only 20 recorders. If that bid is accepted, then officers will use the recorders on a rotating basis instead of each having a separate machine.

were just trying to protect ourselves from a lawsuit," Johnston said. "We have to protect ourselves. I'm sorry. We can delete that in a big hurry."

Fuller and city staff said they were legally unable to delete Johnston's letter, which was submitted with the bid. "We can't legally subtract and add after the bids are opened," he said.

"Everybody needed to bid the base bid as specified," Davis said today. He said Johnston initially could have submitted two bids — one, containing the letter, as an alternate bid. Because he failed to do so, the bid did not meet city specification, Davis said.

Failure to complete any aspect of contracted work automatically imposes a liability on the contractor, Davis said. "Any time specifications are not met ... then he (the contractor) has the potential liability from the owner," Davis said Wednesday morning. "I talked to one contractor this morning. He was certainly aware of the (72-hour) provision and bid accordingly."

After the meeting, Johnston said he was upset by the council's action. "I don't know why they didn't accept the bid," he said.

He said he included the letter with the statement about the liability separately according to bid instructions not to alter or amend the bid form. According to that instruction, he was to submit any comment on the bid in a

ATLANTA — A 2.4-mile parkway challenged in two lawsuits by neighborhood preservationists always has been part of plans for a Jimmy Carter Presidential Library, the former president said.

SHOPPING GOES ON — Residents of Erath waded into a local store that has stayed open despite flooding conditions in southwest Louisiana. The area was hit with more rain late last night.

Killer flood

Heavy flooding kills one, hundreds evacuated

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP) — Floodwaters that blanketed parts of south Louisiana and killed at least one person were receding today, but hundreds of evacuees remained away from their homes as more rain threatened.

Thunderstorms dumped almost 12 inches of rain in bayou country and forecasts for the hardest hit areas put the chance for more rainfall at anywhere from 60 percent to 70 percent. And the National Weather Service said more showers and thunderstorms were indicated on radar over parts of the flooded parishes.

A sheet of water covered New Iberia early Tuesday but waters receded rapidly there — much as three feet in an hour. Still, flash flood watches remained in effect overnight.

Widespread flooding was reported in Iberia, Lafayette, Vermilion, and St. Martin. Gov. Edwin Edwards declared the parishes a disaster area — the first step in securing federal aid.

Water remained high in the towns of Erath and Delcambre. Pickups, dump trucks and National Guard trucks evacuated many residents before nightfall. Both towns resembled a city under siege as police stood knee-deep in water directing traffic and camouflaged trucks went from one flooded home to another.

Vermilion Parish Sheriff Ray LeMaire said all residents were being urged to leave Delcambre before nightfall. Snakes proved to be a problem in some areas. They were reportedly driven by the water into a public housing project, according to Joe Valenti, the Civil Defense director in Iberia Parish.

And at the National Guard armory here, Norma Curley said that by the time she and her children left their flood-ravaged home, "the water was chest deep and there were snakes all over the place."

Valenti said there were no reports of anyone being bitten, but residents were being advised to watch where they step.

The 11.5 inch deluge was the heaviest rainfall in the area since 1964, when Hurricane Hilda hit.

An unidentified person was drowned in St. Martin Parish when a car was swept off a road by rushing waters. The victim was reportedly sucked out of the car. Two other people were believed to have suffered heart distress and respiratory problems as they were evacuated from a nursing home in Erath, according to Richard Zuschlag of Acadian Ambulance Service. The two were reported in stable condition at an Abbeville General Hospital, by Paul Landry, an administrator there.

Russia replace staff chief

LONDON — Marshal Nikolai Ogarkov, replaced as Soviet chief of staff in September, has been appointed the Soviet army's top combat commander facing NATO forces, Jane's Defense Weekly reports.

It said Tuesday that Ogarkov has been confirmed as the commander-in-chief of the Soviets' Western theater, "the ultimate command level in the field."

Four hostages released

ROME — Four kidnapped missionaries, including a Roman Catholic priest from New York, have been released unharmed by Sudanese guerrillas who held them for nearly seven weeks, according to Vatican Radio.

It said the four were freed last Thursday and flown the next day to the Catholic Mill Hill mission in the Sudanese capital, Khartoum.

The men, two of whom are Mill Hill missionaries, were abducted Sept. 7 near Benitu in southern Sudan.

Delegates complete tour

MOSCOW — Delegates from the U.S. National Council of Churches have completed a 12-day tour of the Soviet Union, and some members said they sensed that Christianity is growing stronger in this communist nation.

Paul A. Crow Jr., chief ecumenical officer of the Disciples of Christ in Indianapolis, said Tuesday that "there's a definite feeling of Christianity here to stay, also there's a feeling of renewal."

"The church (in the Soviet Union) is a church which has some freedom and some very severe limitations on that freedom," he said, but it also includes "some of the most courageous vital Christians I've ever met."

Businesses stage protest

ROME — Hundreds of thousands of shops, restaurants, bars and gasoline stations shut down in a nationwide protest against a proposed government crackdown on tax evasion.

Supermarkets and chain stores operated, but the day-long protest Tuesday was so widespread it was difficult to find an open vegetable stand or butcher shop or to buy a sandwich, cup of coffee or pack of cigarettes.

In Rome, several thousand shopowners and their supporters ended the day's protest with a rally in front of the Senate building.

Procter & Gamble battling devilish rumor

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rumors that Procter & Gamble Co.'s moon-and-stars trademark is a sign the company is in league with the devil are as ridiculous now as they were two years ago, a company spokesman says.

The Cincinnati-based company has launched a direct-mail campaign against the current rumors and is prepared to file lawsuits to halt their spread if it can figure out who to sue, said Robert Norrish, director of public relations.

In 1982, P&G enlisted the aid of religious leaders like the Rev. Billy Graham, the Rev. Jerry Falwell and Roman Catholic Cardinal Joseph Bernardin, and columnist Abigail Van Buren, to squelch the stories and a boycott.

The current rumors also say company President John G. Smale allegedly went on a national television talk show and said some profits were going to Satan.

"It's goofy, it's a ridiculous rumor. It's libelous. The whole thing is just absolutely without foundation," Norrish said Tuesday. "It dignifies the rumor by denying that there's any truth to it."

"It's amazing that in 1984, so many people can get caught up in talking about Satan." The company, which does $13 billion worth of business worldwide each year, has received about 3,000 calls so far this month about the rumors, Norrish said. In July 1982, the peak of the earlier rumors, P&G got 15,000 calls on its toll-free telephone lines.

Most frustrating were fliers that urged "good Christians" to quit buying Procter & Gamble products. A series of lawsuits resulting in public apologies by two defendants caused the stories to subside but not disappear.

The rumors have been revived in leaflets distributed in churches and shopping malls, Norrish said.

"It's almost unbelievable that there are still persons who could swallow such a cock-and-bull story," Falwell said Tuesday from Lynchburg, Va. "Procter & Gamble is an outstanding company and an asset to the nation... I'd be very happy to do anything I could to help them."

The P&G direct-mail campaign, started early this month, is aimed at areas where the rumors are cropping up, including California, Nebraska, western New York, Wisconsin, Chicago, Minneapolis-St. Paul and western Pennsylvania.

The mailings explain the history of the century-old trademark of a "man-in-the-moon" face and a cluster of 13 stars, and reiterate that the company has no affiliation with the devil.

The trademark evolved from 1850s markings on crates of "Star" brand candles, according to the company's authorized history, "Eyes on Tomorrow; The Evolution of Procter & Gamble."

In those days, many riverboat hands along the Ohio River could not read, so wharf bosses painted black crosses on candle crates to separate them from soap crates.

Nuke regulation isn't necessary

To the editor:
Since Mr. Montford says he knows little about atomic energy I would like to do some informing. First, 99 percent of the earth is a huge atomic power plant, and this is where volcanoes get their power to erupt. If an airline stewardess makes several flights a week she is getting more radiation from cosmic radiation than she would if she lived across the street from Three Mile Island.

All farm land gives off radioactive radon gas and if one makes ones house energy efficient you trap this gas and subject yourself to dangerous radiation. If more low cost atomic power plants were built we could allow this radioactivity out of our house and not be subject to so much radiation. Most farmers fertilize their crops, sweet potatoes in particular, with radioactive potassium which makes the sweet potatoes radioactive.

The cinders and ashes from a coal fired power plant contain thorium and radium both of which are gamma radiators and when these are made into cinder blocks, the resulting buildings are radioactive and will leach radioactivity into the water every time it rains. Kilowatt for kilowatt the waste from a coal fired power plant is more radioactive than an atomic power plant.

Plutonium is an alpha emitter and this means the radiation can be stopped by a paper sack. Furthermore, plutonium can be recycled again and again until its radioactivity is burned up. We have enough atomic fuel above ground now to run the U.S. for 3,700 years.

Reader's lines deal with D.C.

To the editor:
I've had a lot to come my way. I knew right then was my lucky day. I like to get acquainted with musicians in all kind of positions. Everyone is getting afraid to speak because they're too weak, from the thought of Washington D.C. That even includes me.

Most people don't know what move to make. Lots of them moving to other states. They don't know which to rent or buy. Because of this Washington, D.C. guy.
Then where ever they live in town, they might shut the business down. Get most is afraid, they won't get paid. So it makes anyone blue.

Blue. Till they don't know what to do. I don't know what's gonna take place. Unless we go up in outer space. Won't change prices on groceries or gas. Everything's going down fast just like the ocean and the sea, on account of the guy in Washington, D.C.

Monte Carlo night was huge success

To the editor:
This last Saturday night, the Caprock Chapter of the March of Dimes had its annual Monte Carlo night, fundraising event. This was my first year to work on this event as Executive Director, although I have now directed each of the March of Dimes events for one complete year.

Each event gives me the opportunity to meet and get to know more people who participate in these and each time I am overwhelmed with the goodness and caring of our community. I saw Saturday night over one hundred dedicated people volunteering — not to get to come to a big party (they each paid their way), but to work hard to raise funds for the March of Dimes.

I will never be able to name all of them, but I hope our new found friendships will give me the opportunity to thank each of them personally.
The March of Dimes Foundation is made up of a board of volunteers. Their purpose and goal is to educate their area on birth defects, raise funds to further research and work with our medical facilities to bring them the latest research results by written materials, films and seminars.

I'm proud of the board members and volunteers I work with and all have filled my heart and mind with complete joy. I hope that those people that I haven't had the opportunity to meet, get to know and care about, will cross my path while I am walking this road for the March of Dimes.

I think all of you.

Reagan erred on defense facts

To the editor:
During the Oct. 7 presidential debate, Reagan said: "I think people should understand that two-thirds of the defense budget pays for pay and salary — or pay and pensions. And then you add to that food and wardrobe and all the other things and you only have a small portion going for weapons."

Quoting from the Army Times issue of Oct. 22, page 28: "In the defense budget request Reagan submitted to Congress in January, military personnel costs, including military retired pay, made up less than one-quarter of the $305 billion total, far less than the two-thirds Reagan claimed."

"When civilian personnel costs of those who work for military services or agencies are included in the calculation, total pay and pension costs amount to 32 percent of the budget, or about half the size of the President's estimate."

"If direct and indirect personnel costs for military and civilian employees are included — adding in costs for medical care, recruiting and examination, overseas dependent schools and 50 percent of base operating costs — the total climbs to 43 percent of the defense budget," according to statistics included in the DoD Manpower Requirements Report released in February.

Is this the kind of man we need in the oval office? If he will lie about his defense budget, can he be trusted to tell the truth about what he will do on Social Security, Medicare, foreign policy or taxes?

Not 'us or them,' but all together

To the editor:
Armed with facts instead of fallacy and laughter-evoking jokes as our president is, Mr. Mondale will do a better job in office when he is elected in November.

The ugly faces of American intelligence agencies such as the CIA, SAVAK, Delta Commandos, and others are constantly confirming the suspicions of thinking people that life is not all puppy dogs and roses. What group or groups would withhold politically sensitive information relevant to the deaths of hundreds of Marines and dare to call itself an American institution? Answer: The CIA.

The CIA knew of terrorist activities in the area of the Marines' compound before the bombing. One year ago, our president took the blame for the bombing, saying, "the buck stops here." Snap to attention readers, for today, Mr. Reagan denied any such responsibility. He recently denied calling the Soviet Union an evil empire.

We don't need an actor-agitator in the White House. Even I know that our submarines had nuclear capability. Ronald Reagan did not. Albert Einstein spoke wisely on the advent of nuclear weapons, saying that we must re-think our priorities; the face of the world is changed. At a time when those people controlling our media input would strongly enforce the notion that it is "us or them" I must sincerely say that it is neither. It is all of us on this planet working together with a will to bring about peace and plenty.

Reaganites thwart voter drives

WASHINGTON — Some overzealous Reagan administration officials are still trying to ban voter-registration drives from public buildings. Apparently, they fear that a big voter turnout will bring too many Democrats to the polls.

These officials have gone so far as to countermand federal court orders and their own internal regulations.

The case of Donald Devine, director of the Office of Personnel Management, has already been reported. Using his own unique interpretation of a federal law, Devine warned that registration drives conducted in state buildings might result in a cutoff of federal funds to the state.

In fact, the law merely prohibits state employees from trying to interfere in an election.

Now it's the Labor Department's turn. The Employment and Training Administration has sent letters to its regional offices warning that federal regulations don't allow voter-registration drives in state employment offices, which get federal funds.

The letters don't mention that job seekers and those drawing unemployment benefits are less likely to be Reagan supporters.

As legal justification, Bert Lewis, the regional management administrator, cited an inoperative section of a federal manual. Here's how he explained this curious reliance on a defunct rule: "Although Part IV of the Employment Services Manual has been rescinded," Lewis wrote in a memo outlining the new policy, "the precedent established ... regarding voter registration represents an expression of (agency) policy."

Specifically, the state employment offices "could be used for voter registration and/or elections only during non-working hours," Lewis wrote. Furthermore, all costs "had to be paid for by the state from other than (federally) granted funds, and the facilities had to be restored to original condition at the expense of the state."

The agency's position is in direct conflict with federal court injunctions ordering that public places must be open for voter-registration efforts.

In Ohio two years ago, for example, a federal court ruled that such registration drives are protected by the First Amendment. In Pennsylvania more recently, a federal judge ruled that restrictions on voter registration were violations of the First and 14th amendments.

When asked about this apparent defiance of the courts, a Labor Department spokesman told my associate Donald Goldberg that these decisions had been overruled by a New York state court — though how a state court could overrule federal judges in other jurisdictions was not explained.

In fact, the New York decision merely forbade state employees from taking part in voter-registration drives. It made no restrictions on volunteers. The administration's attacks on voter registration, though legally outrageous, are having the desired practical effect. Voter-registration groups have had to go to court repeatedly to fight state officials who have gone along with the administration — or have been intimidated by the threat of a cutoff in federal funds.

STRICTLY PERSONAL: In an earlier column, I answered some of the political questions that have come in the mail. Here are a few more replies:

Has President Reagan softened his tone toward the Kremlin because he wants better relations or because he wants to be re-elected?

Sources close to the president tell me he believes his own anti-communist rhetoric and doesn't trust the Soviets. He's convinced that they have cheated on past arms agreements. My sources insist, nevertheless, that Reagan genuinely wants to reduce East-West tensions.

Is Walter Mondale soft on communism?

Those who know Mondale say his first priority, if elected, would be to reduce world tensions. He believes concessions are preferable to confrontations. He would seek accommodations, therefore, with nations that are unruly. But this does not mean he's soft on communism.

Being good isn't good enough

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have thought a lot about becoming a Christian, but somehow I don't think I will ever be good enough. How can I conquer some of my bad habits so I can be a better person and become a follower of Christ? — T.V.W.

DEAR T.V.W.: You have a misunderstanding of the Christian faith — one that is very common but wrong nevertheless. From your point of view, God will not accept us until we have become good enough — but the truth is, we can never be good enough! This is because God is perfect and holy, and His standard is nothing less than perfection.

That is why the Bible says that if we have committed even one sin, it is enough to keep us out of Heaven. The Bible says concerning God, "Your eyes are too pure to look on evil; you cannot tolerate wrong" (Habakkuk 1:13).

No, you can never be good enough to earn God's love — but God loves you anyway! The good news of the Gospel is that God has done for us what we could never do for ourselves. You see, there was only one person who ever lived who was completely without sin, and that was Jesus Christ. He was without sin because He was more than a man — He was God himself.

And yet Christ willingly took upon Himself your sin and my sin when He died on the cross as a perfect and complete sacrifice. Our sins were transferred to Him — and His righteousness was transferred to us. Now, when we come to Christ, God no longer sees our sin, but He sees us as clothed with Christ's righteousness. "God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God" (2 Corinthians 5:21).

But you must respond to Christ. Salvation is a free gift, but it only becomes yours when you reach out for it in faith and make it your own. You can do that right now by a simple prayer of confession and faith asking Jesus Christ to cleanse you from your sins and come into your heart as your personal Lord and Savior. Trust Christ, and you can know the joy of forgiveness and new life right now.

Dear Abby

Boyfriend wants girlfriend to look like a girl

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 years old and so is my girlfriend. This summer she got her hair cut real short and started combing it like a boy. I didn't like it and told her so. Last weekend I took her to a movie, and she wore a man's shirt and tie, a man's type jacket and trousers, and even a pair of wing-tip shoes. I felt embarrassed to be seen with her and refused to hold hands with her because I was afraid people would think we were a couple of homosexuals. She got mad and said I was a real square. She said she was being fashionable — that the mannish look for women is "in." Is this true?

BOB: Am I weird to want my girlfriend to look like a girl? DEAR BOB: You aren't weird — the fashion designers are. Your girlfriend has the right to dress the way she wants to dress. And you have the right to refuse to be seen in public with someone whose appearance you find embarrassing. First the bad news: The mannish look for women is "in." Now for the good news: A lot of women aren't buying it.

The stranger might have been trying to alert her to a faulty taillight, a hanging muffler or perhaps a belt hanging out her door. I know because I have been ignored for trying to communicate the same things. And by the way, not all men are ax murderers; I wish women would give us men half a chance before shutting us out. INSULTED IN NEW YORK DEAR INSULTED: You're 100 pressure, and for angina pectoris, which is probably what your husband's jaw pain is all about. That can happen when he has the rapid heartbeat.

At such times, the heart's demand for nourishing blood is greater, and blocked arteries cannot supply it. Hence, the pain. Angina, although usually felt in the chest, can occur as neck or jaw pain only.

My opinion of Visken? It is a high one. Even though it is relatively new, other beta blockers like it have been around for some time and they are safe and effective. The only true test of its worth in your husband's case will come when his rapid heart has been controlled and he no longer has his pain.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. 2 frozen embryos allowed to live

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Lawmakers today rejected a recommendation that two frozen embryos be destroyed and passed an amendment calling for an attempt to implant them in a surrogate mother.

The special amendment approved by the Upper House of the Victoria state Parliament also provides that the embryos be adopted, officials said.

The embryos were left in a legal limbo after the death in a plane crash last year of Mario and Elsa Rios. The Los Angeles couple had been trying to have a baby using so-called test-tube baby techniques at the Queen Victoria Medical Center in Melbourne.

They died after having the embryos created with ova from Mrs. Rios and sperm from an anonymous donor, but left no instructions as to what should be done with them in case of the Rios' death.

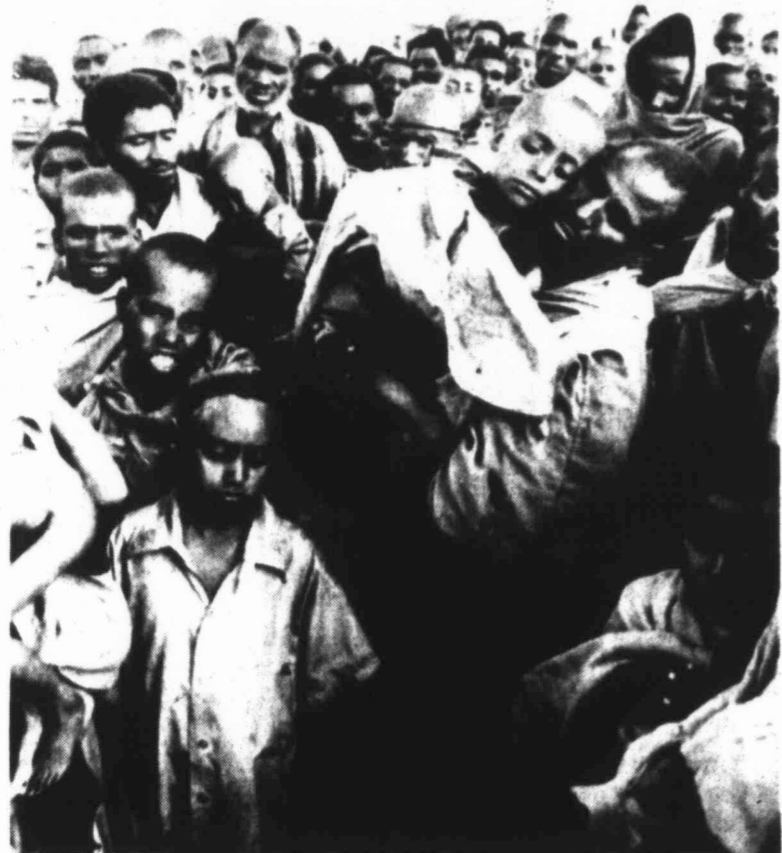

A scholarly committee was asked to study the matter, and it recommended in early September that the embryos be destroyed. State officials accepted the recommendation, but said nothing would be done for three months in order to allow for public comment.

Then late today, the Upper House of the Victoria state Parliament tagged a special amendment onto another bill clearing the way for the embryos to be put up for adoption and implanted in a surrogate mother. The amendment will become law after being approved by the state governor. Such approval is considered a formality.

Victorian state Attorney General Jim Kennan said the amendment was a special case since couples involved in test-tube baby programs in the state would from now on have to state what should be done with frozen embryos in the event of their death or separation.

Women in Australia, the United States, Japan and other nations have asked to be surrogate mother to the embryos.

WAITING FOR FOOD — Famine victims wait stoically outside a relief center at Mekele in northern Ethiopia. They are among seven million people affected by one of the worst droughts and famines in modern Ethiopia history.

Famine

Medical workers' daily fight to feed 100,000 hopeless

ALAMATA, Ethiopia (AP) — Dr. George Ngatiri and seven other medical workers fight a daily battle to keep 100,000 people alive at this famine relief center in northern Ethiopia.

Every day 90 to 100 die, most of them children.

The people who come to Alamata are victims of perhaps the greatest famine in this East African nation's modern history, caused by a decade-long drought and its miseries aggravated by secessionist fighting in the north.

Ethiopia's Marxist government estimates the drought has affected the lives of 7.7 million in this country of 33 million people, forcing 2.2 million from their homes and threatening 5.5 million with starvation.

Every day hundreds more arrive at this recently established camp along the border of Tigre and Wollo provinces where the fighting is close by. Last week, 35 miles northwest of Alamata, Tigrean rebels claimed they captured the town of Lalibela.

At the Alamata camp, 85 miles north of the capital of Addis Ababa, Ngatiri, one other doctor, three nurses and three nutritionists work with 100,000 starving people.

Twelve miles to the north, thousands more huddled at another emergency relief camp at Korem. Ngatiri, a Kenyan, said at least half the victims are children. This day the doctor had turned away a group of mothers and their emaciated babies — victims of pneumonia, scabies, fever and marasmus — the Latin medical term for starvation.

"I'm sorry," he told them, speaking through an interpreter. He had no food or medicine for the new arrivals. With more than 90,000 waiting outside the camp, he had supplies for 3,000.

"There is nothing I can do. I know your children need treatment," the Kenyan physician told the mothers. "I have to treat them. But I have nothing to treat them with. Come back in five days."

Those turned away would have to wait out in the open. During the day, the tropical sun pushes temperatures to 100 degrees Fahrenheit. At night, at this elevation of 12,000 feet, temperatures fall below 50.

Most of the displaced people have no more than worn sheets and ragged clothing to keep themselves warm.

World Vision International, a U.S.-based interdenominational relief group, is the only agency at work at Alamata. At the Korem camp, Catholic Relief Services, Ethiopia's Relief and Rehabilitation Commission and other groups have had more time to organize.

But even at Korem there wasn't nearly enough food to go around. A reporter who visited Korem in March found 10,000 people going hungry. In late October there were as many as 100,000.

About 80,000 people are camped outside Mekele, 90 miles north of Korem.

British nurse Claire Bertschinger said this camp feeds about 500 children a day on a special, high-energy diet of powdered milk and biscuits prepared in Britain. But every day, she said, 300 more children arrive and there's not enough powdered milk and biscuits to go around.

At Korem, relief agencies are feeding nearly 17,000 children daily, said medical coordinator Brigitte Vasset of France. She said there are at least 200,000 more famine victims within a 60-mile radius of the camp.

The Ethiopian government has said it needs 600,000 tons of food.

Diboll editor labels paper 'labor of love'

DIBOLL (AP) — Paul Durham has spent the last three decades of his life trying to put out a newspaper that will keep community discussion on a lively, but high plane.

This past weekend, the editor of the weekly Free Press learned that ink-stains and "labor pains" are not his only reward.

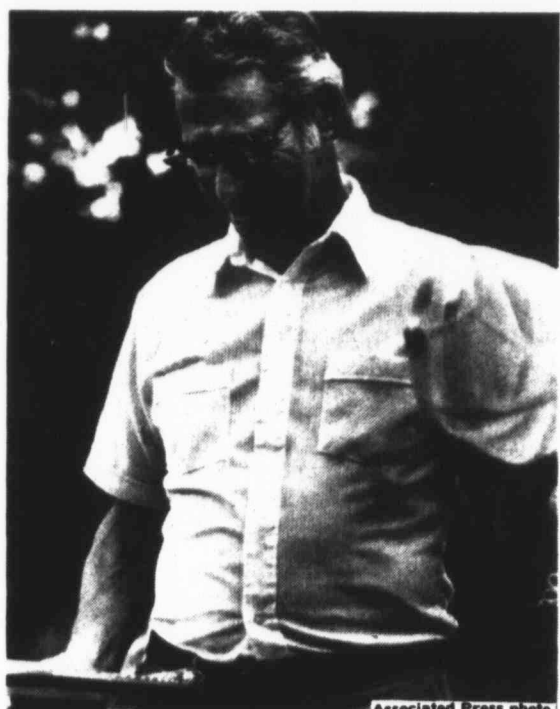

As part of the town's Diboll Day celebration, his readers named Durham "Outstanding Citizen of Diboll."

"Each Monday, Paul Durham goes into labor pains," said James Simms in announcing the surprise award. "By Thursday, he has given birth to another edition of the Free Press."

Indeed, for Durham it has been a labor of love. He founded the Free Press in 1952, writing stories and taking pictures during the day and working at night at Lufkin Industries to earn enough money to keep a newspaper alive in Diboll.

He has a way of giving credit to others. He says he learned about journalism from Arthur Temple and school teachers Jake Durham and Blanch Prejean. He also learned by editing the company magazine published by the Southern Pine Lumber Co., which eventually developed into Temple Eastex.

After about eight years of publishing the Free Press, Durham and his wife sold the paper to what is now Temple Eastex, and Durham credits Temple, who heads up the company, for keeping the paper in Diboll.

OUTSTANDING CITIZEN — Paul Durham, editor of the Free Press of Diboll for 32 years, doffs his cap to the crowd as he accepts the plaque as "Outstanding Citizen" of Diboll at the Diboll Day activities. Durham founded the Free Press in 1952.

"It's not so much what I've done for the newspaper but what Arthur Temple has made it possible to do," Durham said when asked about his contribution to the community through the newspaper. "He's the key to it. He made it a very good situation."

"We did not have a printing plant here until after the company bought the paper."

For the last 32 years, Durham has been working to fill the columns of the Free Press with local news, telling the folks about what their neighbors are doing. At the same time, he listens to what they have to say to him.

Insurance board discusses rates

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Board of Insurance will hear arguments today over whether it should accept the staff recommendation for a 3.8 percent decrease in auto insurance rates, or the industry's request for an increase of 5.5 percent.

The 1985 rates will be effective Feb. 1.

Last Feb. 1, the board raised the statewide average rate by 3.7 percent, an increase of $88 million.

If the staff recommendation is accepted, there would be decreases in area rates ranging from $94 a year in the Laredo area for the average family car to a $2 decrease in the Lubbock area.

The only increases recommended by the staff were for $28 a year for Kaufman County and a $2 increase for Waller.

The staff report showed that Texas insurance companies reported substantial increased costs in writing bodily injury and uninsured motorists, but made a profit on fire, theft, comprehensive and collision policies.

The industry recommendation would range from decreases of $49 in Webb County and $48 in Liberty to a $68 increase in Kaufman County.

The industry request said the increase was needed because of a 3.8 percent increase in 1983 in automobile repair costs, a 6.4

percent increase in medical care charges, a 7.5 percent increase in physicians' services and a 9.3 percent increase in hospital room charges.

Salvadoran commander dies in crash

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — The Salvadoran army's leading field commander and three other top officers were among 14 people killed when their helicopter crashed during an offensive against leftist rebels.

The guerrillas claimed they shot down the helicopter, but the military said the crash "almost certainly" was caused by mechanical failure.

Among those killed was Lt. Col. Domingo Monterrosa, 42, widely considered the army's most effective combat commander. His death marks the worst single blow to the Salvadoran military leadership in the 5-year civil war.

Soon after the crash, heavy fighting broke out in the center of the capital, San Salvador, for the first time in at least two years.

The gun battle began when rebels hurled a grenade at a truck carrying troops at about 6 p.m. Hospitals reported four civilians wounded in the fighting, which at one point neared the presidential palace.

A U.S. official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said Monterrosa and the other officers killed in the crash were "some of the most talented guys in the army. The one thing this army is most lacking is a depth of talent like that."

The rebels' clandestine Radio Venceremos claimed guerrillas shot the helicopter down Tuesday afternoon after it took off from a landing strip at the village of Joateca in embattled Morazan province, 125 miles northeast of San Salvador.

But army spokesman Lt. Col. Ricardo Cienfuegos denied the claim, saying the crash "almost certainly" was caused by mechanical failure. Cienfuegos, a friend and former classmate of Monterrosa's, was on the verge of tears when he confirmed the deaths at a news conference.

Monterrosa, the charismatic head of army troops in the eastern third of El Salvador, was considered by U.S. military advisers to be the army's best field commander.

The first word of the deaths came on a 6 p.m. Venceremos broadcast.

A jubilant announcer, calling Monterrosa "one of the biggest war criminals in the country," said guerrilla machinegun units moved into the hills, hid themselves and waited until the helicopter lifted off.

The army said none of the 14 people on board survived the crash.

Ironically, Monterrosa told The Associated Press in a telephone interview only hours before his death that his troops had captured what appeared to be a repeater for Radio Venceremos during the Morazan operation. The station missed two of its scheduled broadcasts, giving credence to the report.

The innovative Monterrosa was considered to lead the "new breed" of Salvadoran commanders who, under considerable American prodding, adopted modern field tactics to fight a new kind of war. In addition, Monterrosa experimented with psychological warfare and other tactics.

He was scheduled to get an early promotion to colonel at the end of the year, an indication of the esteem in which he was held.

Hospital worker gives testimony in murder trial

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Former Nurse Gene Jones thought doctors were fouling up treatment of Rolando Santos the day the infant starting bleeding profusely at Medical Center Hospital, a hospital worker testified today in the injury to a child trial of Ms. Jones.

The former nurse, 34, is accused of injecting the four-week old baby with an overdose of a blood thinner called heparin. The alleged incident occurred Jan. 9, 1982, while the baby was being treated for pneumonia.

Unit secretary Fred Deck told the court he noticed Ms. Jones was distraught while doctors were working on the baby.

"She was having second thoughts about the way the doctors were progressing with the patient," Deck said. "She showed disappointment in what they were doing."

An earlier witness, registered Nurse Rachel Goeres, testified that Ms. Jones was upset when doctors ordered heparin to be taken out of the Santos child's room.

"Don't they think we know how to use heparin?" Ms. Goeres quoted Ms. Jones as saying.

Earlier, a doctor testified that it was no accident that the child was getting heparin overdoses.

Dr. Kenneth Copeland, an associate professor of pediatrics at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio, testified Monday that he took steps to avoid overdoses for the patient.

The doctor, who was an attending physician for the baby in 1982, said he ordered the removal of an arterial line from the child Jan. 8.

Dallas police raid lottery company

DALLAS (AP) — Officials of Syntech International, which makes lottery equipment that has been seized in Texas, say they are flabbergasted by a Dallas police raid of their plant.

Police say they seized 91 machines Monday night at Syntech's offices and are continuing to load the machines today.

The machines were intended for states that have legal lotteries — New York, Ohio and Michigan — but Texas law prohibits the manufacture of gambling equipment.

"I thought they fought that war 120 years ago," said Syntech lawyer Rod Ponton, referring to the Civil War. "Texas is trying to shut down their (New York's) lottery and keep their widows and children from getting their tickets."

The company declared in a statement that "it is inconceivable that a manufacturer of computer equipment for state governments, providing over 150 jobs in the state of Texas, could be accused of wrongful activity."

"Syntech is proud of the contribution it has made in helping state government agencies raise needed funds for state services such as education and assistance to the elderly," the statement said.

But police Sgt. Don Marks said that under Texas gambling laws, the possession, manufacture or transfer of gambling devices is a third-degree felony.

Spikers close to possible playoff

By STEVE BELVIN

The Big Spring Lady Steers kept their volleyball playoff chances alive with a 13-15, 15-12, 15-10 over an upset minded group of Abilene High Eagles Tuesday night at Steer Gym.

The victory keeps the Lady Steers chances alive with a third place District 4-5A slate of 8-5. That mark is good for a tie with Midland Lee after Lee beat Odessa High last night by scores 17-15, 15-11. Both trail 9-4 Abilene Cooper by one game and unbeaten San Angelo Central. Central beat Cooper in another Tuesday night contest.

The Lady Steers have the hard task of defeating Central Thursday in San Angelo while hoping that Abilene High can upset crosstown rival Cooper.

BIG VICTORY

The win was a big one for the Lady Steers since starting setter Debbie Holguin suffered a sprained ankle Monday morning and her status was unknown until game time. When Holguin couldn't go, Lady Steers mentor Susan Sharp used Lisa Subia, Shelia Chatman, Keri Myrick and Trell Clemons to do the job — they passed the test with flying colors.

After losing the first contest the Lady Steers took an 8-6 lead in the second match and never trailed. Clemons led the charge as she served three consecutive aces which gave the Lady Steers a 13-7 lead at the time.

In the final match the Lady Steers jumped to a quick 4-0 lead behind the services of Clemons, Tab Green and Tanya Ferguson. Abilene tied the game at 6-6 before Big Spring steamrolled to victory.

Clemons, who had trouble getting her spikes in during the first two contests, came alive in the final match as she drilled her last four kill attempts to lead her team to victory.

She ended the game with an ace as the Lady Steers kept their playoff chances alive.

Sharp was happy to escape with the victory. "We didn't know until game time if Debbie would be able to play. Lisa, Keri, Trell and Shelia all did a good job. You have to be pleased with the win when you have your starting setter out. I just told the kids to go out and have fun against Central."

The Lady Steers season record is now 16-13 for the year.

JV WIN IN TWO

The junior varsity raised its district record to 11-2 with a 15-5, 15-13 win that kept the JV in a first place tie with Odessa High.

In the first match Taylissa Cork was top server with six points. Lisa Hale and Terri Croyle were top servers in the second match with five points each.

ANXIOUS, ANXIOUS — Big Spring head volleyball coach Susan Sharp appears very nervous and anxious during a recent Lady Steers contest. Sharp and the Lady Steers will no doubt be waiting anxiously Thursday in San Angelo should they poll an upset against the 33-0 Bobcats. If Big Spring wins and Cooper loses then Big Spring would figure in a playoff picture.

Stars are dimmed by USFL pressure

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Sports Writer

Anyone who really wants to know the realities of the United States Football League might ask Myles Tanenbaum, the man who did everything exactly the way he was supposed to.

And had his franchise pulled right out from under him.

Tanenbaum, who owns the USFL champion Philadelphia Stars, was in Amelia Island, Fla., with the rest of the league's owners last weekend, trying to turn a 2-year-old spring league into a new fall league and putting on his best face despite what was happening.

He was being forced out of Philadelphia with a team that won 35 of 41 games in its first two years and appeared ready to win over the city's often acerbic fans.

But, when Tanenbaum kept saying it wouldn't be so bad to be the College Park Stars or the Baltimore Stars or the whatever Stars, it wasn't difficult to imagine him breaking out in tears.

"When you've gotta go, you've gotta go," he said. "I think we've felt like anyone feels about leaving home. But, we're part of a league, not just one team."

The meetings at Amelia Island were preceded by a crisis atmosphere. Various sources forecasted chaos, predicted that the decision to switch to fall football in 1986 might be reversed, even predicted that the USFL might fold.

Instead, the owners created the Sun Belt Football League.

None of this is official, of course.

After the owners spent most of Saturday spilling various plans for mergers and consolidation all over the Amelia Island Inn and Conference Center, they held a news conference to say they would hold another news conference to tell everyone what they did. Then, Commissioner Chet Simmons warned he would impose a $50,000 fine on anyone who leaked information. This, after just about every owner in the league had discussed the plan before the gag rule was imposed.

This is what they said. Most likely, the USFL will play with 15 teams in 1985, its last year in the spring before switching to the fall, 11 of which are in the Sun Belt stretching from Florida to northern California.

Florida will have three teams, Texas will have three, and the north will be left with only four — New Jersey, Denver, Philadelphia-Maryland and Portland, Ore. Portland may have the Itinerant Breakers — they started in Boston in 1983, moved to New Orleans last season and now move northwest.

Most of the moves were precipitated by the decision to change from a slow-building little spring football league to a fall league with bigtime pretensions. In the process, they uprooted the league's only two champions.

Michigan, which won the league's first title, is moving Bobby Hebert, Anthony Carter, John Coker and friends to Oakland to merge with the Invaders, and the Philadelphia story is detailed above — Tanenbaum's Stars will probably play in College Park, Md. this year before moving to Baltimore, abandoned by the Colts, in the fall of '86.

As with New Orleans, the NFL teams in Pontiac, Mich., and Philadelphia, those cities have first call on the suitable stadiums. The same problem is brewing in Denver, one of the most successful USFL franchises financially, which may be forced to move to Boulder, 35 miles away.

That doesn't seem to bother Chicago's Eddie Einhorn and New Jersey's Donald Trump, who convinced their fellow owners that the USFL had to go bigtime or bust.

In fact, Einhorn refuses to play in Chicago during the spring in conflict with his White Sox, but he insists he'll be back in the fall after he negotiates a television contract, which has not been forthcoming so far.

The other hope for the USFL is its $1.32 billion antitrust against the NFL. But, even if the courts decide in the USFL's favor, that's likely to be a long process with appeals on top of appeals.

So how does the USFL survive?

There'll be a news conference in New York. Probably to announce another news conference.

Queens go international in opener

A taste of International flavor will hit Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Thursday night at 8 p.m. when the University of Chihuahua takes on coach Don Stevens' Hawk Queens in an exhibition game.

The contest marks the first ever International competition for the Queens which feature returning letterwinners Alex Provencio, Molly Early, Debbie Hall and Diane Allison Dickson from last year's team that went 24-9.

Top newcomers on the squad are Vickie Wade, post player from Carthage, Joyce Boudreaux, post player from Houston, Lorrie French, wing from Sonora and Sue Vanhooser, post player from Eldorado, Illinois. Other top recruits are Kim Barry and tammy Winsmann from Houston and Stacey Eitner from New Baltimore, Michigan.

The University of Chihuahua is expected to be a stern test for the Queens. The 12-player squad will be led by three veteran players from last year's team that went 22-1 and ranked second in the national. Patricia Slaazar, Marla Vargas and 6-3 post player Elizabeth Carral return. Carral was the team's leading scorer last season averaging 20 points per clip.

The University of Chihuahua is expected to be a heavily-experienced team since there is no classification for students or athletes in Mexico's Universities, therefore players can play as long as they wish.

Admission is free so that everyone will have the opportunity to witness this international exhibition.

Added to the fact that education is cheap (tuition for a semester is equivalent to $12.30 in U.S. currency), athletes and students have a pretty good reason to stay in school.

One change this year for American colleges is they will play with a smaller ball. Another change is there is now a backcourt. The contest will be played with American rules and the U.S. ball will be used.

Hardware and humans help in scouting

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

The Dallas Cowboys, current condition considered, are still the epitome of what computers can do for a football team, i.e. the winning seasons, playoffs and the other rewards that go to such programs.

Well, the Cowboys better move over because here in Big Spring the Steers coaching staff is going computerized. According to the coach in charge of scouting, Mike Sharp, some of the results are already paying off.

"We don't have to figure our scouting reports by hand and calculator anymore," said Sharp of the system employed by the BSHS football staff since the Steers' victory over Lubbock Monterey.

Under their old format, Big Spring coaches put in 12 to 16 extra hours a weekend sorting out an opponent's tendencies. With the aid of one of the school's Apple-II plus computer that workload has been cut to two and one half hours, tops.

"We can program the computer for four games with a minimum of 70 plays for each game," said Sharp. Sharp said he usually types in the information brought in by scout teams in an hour and a half. "It takes about an hour to get a printout," he said.

Sharp the BSHS coaching staff had been discussing the idea of a computer to aid in scouting for about a year. "Everything we looked at was too complex," said Sharp. The system being used is one first used in Crossroads Country by Colorado City. It is called the Eagle Football Scouting system. Big Spring's program is the 130th school to be serviced by the Euleus based company. According to Sharp, Eagle's programs don't require a data processing degree.

"Just the idea of going with a computer was a little intimidating," said Sharp. With the current program, however, Sharp and head coach Quinn Eudy hope to have every head football coach at all levels of the Big Spring system trained in its operation. "I think spring training would be the perfect time for them to learn the operation," said Eudy.

Eudy added, "By sorting through the scouting reports by hand, we couldn't determine what percentage of the time they ran those plays in certain situations though."

With the aid of the computer such statistics can be broken down and the BSHS coaching staff gains even more insight as to what mode of attack an opponent might try.

An example is the readout on Monterey. It showed Steers' coaches that in the game previous to the one with Big Spring, the Plainsmen ran a slot-left formation 12 times. In that total were two rushing plays and 10 passes. A further glance showed that the Plainsmen ran everything to the wide side when lined up on the left hash mark. They threw right everytime the ball was placed in the middle of the field and when placed on the right hash, they threw everytime.

Knowing what an opponent will do and where they will run (off tackle, guard or wherever) at a certain spot on the field is a "zone tendency," in the computer lingo around the Steers' offices. "Knowing those tendencies helps a lot," said Sharp. "The coaching staff can look at the tendencies of a certain team and know where we have to put our emphasis for that game."

Evidently such things, little though they may sound, help a

Sutcliffe aces Cy Young award

CHICAGO (AP) — Rick Sutcliffe, the man who pitched the Chicago Cubs to their first championship since 1945 with a 16-1 record, said he'd trade his Cy Young Award to have been in the World Series this year.

The biggest disappointment of his near-perfect season with the Cubs was the heart-breaking loss to San Diego with Sutcliffe on the mound in the fifth game of the National League Championship Series.

"I'd gladly give this up to have been playing the World Series," he said. "It leaves one goal to be met. . . We fell a little short and I can't be totally happy."

Sutcliffe was the first unanimous selection since Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phillies won his first Cy Young Award in 1972. Only Sandy Koufax and Bob Gibson had been previous unanimous selections — Koufax in 1963, '65 and '66 and Gibson in 1968 and '70.

Sutcliffe, the third Cub pitcher to earn the award, told a news conference Tuesday that "I couldn't accept this without giving credit to the fans, the people of Chicago and the front office," Sutcliffe said at a news conference immediately after the award was announced.

"Individual awards are nice to look at and hang on your wall, but that's about it," he said. "I'll never forget coming back out on to the field in Pittsburgh (after beating the Pirates to clinch the National League East title) and seeing a picture on the scoreboard of all the fans celebrating around Wrigley Field."

Sutcliffe arrived in Chicago two days before the trading deadline of June 15 as part of a six-player deal with the Cleveland Indians. He left behind a 4-5 record, but brought along a contract that paid him $900,000 plus incentives this season.

Cy Young Award winners traditionally have pocketed some extra dollars in following seasons.

But Sutcliffe, who became a free agent last week, said he was uncertain whether he would cash in on the award, adding, "That situation (contract talks with the Cubs) just hasn't been resolved."

He said he told his agent, Barry Axelrod, "that I needed some time to get my feet on the ground."

"I just haven't really sat down and thought about it," Sutcliffe said, adding he planned to meet with Cubs officials late this week or early next week.

The towering 28-year-old right-hander posted 14 straight regular-season wins — including the game that clinched the National League East Division crown for Chicago, its first title in 39 years, and the opener of the league championship series.

Sutcliffe was the first unanimous selection since Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phillies won his first Cy Young Award in 1972. Only Sandy Koufax and Bob Gibson had been previous unanimous selections — Koufax in 1963, '65 and '66 and Gibson in 1968 and '70.

RICK SUTCLIFFE

The award made him the first Cy Young winner to have pitched in both leagues in the same season. He also became the fourth pitcher in baseball history to win 20 games while pitching in both leagues.

Seven of his wins came after a Cub defeat, two of them snapped four-game slides, and he stopped the second-place New York Mets all three times he faced them.

During a September appearance against the Mets, Sutcliffe pitched so well en route to one of his three shutouts that home plate umpire Doug Harvey stopped by the Mets' dugout between innings and told Manager Dave Johnson that the right-hander had the best stuff he'd seen all year.

Rangers stock sale is studied

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A pre-application proposal from Texas Rangers owner Eddie Giles to sell a percentage of the baseball club and its television rights is being studied by American League officials, league officials have confirmed.

American League President Bobby Brown told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram Monday, "We have some papers notifying us of their (the Rangers') intentions, but I wouldn't call it a formal application." Brown also said he did not know when the study would be completed.

American wins Japanese MVP award

TOKYO (AP) — American Greg "Boomer" Wells of the Hanky Braves became Wednesday the first foreign player in 20 years to win the Most Valuable Player award when sportswriters named him MVP of the Pacific League.

Sachio Kinugasa, whose Hiroshima Toyo Carp triumphed over Hankyu in this year's Japan Series, was named MVP in the Central League.

Wells, formerly in the Minnesota Twins organization, won the triple crown with a batting average of .355 with 37 home runs and 130 runs batted in. The 30-year-old first baseman has been with Hankyu for two years.

The last foreigner to be named MVP was former Nankai

Hawks pitcher Joe Stanka in 1964.

Kinugasa, 38, hit .329, slugged 31 home runs and led the Central League with 102 RBI in winning the league's MVP award for the first time. The Hiroshima third baseman has an ongoing Japanese baseball record of playing in 1,825 consecutive games.

Scouting

quite a bit. Against Big Spring the Plainsmen went to the short side of the field on 19 plays and gained an average of 3.8 yards a play. To the wide side things were even slimmer despite a greater percentage of plays (26 for 57 percent). Monterey gained only 2.9 yards a pop with more space to roam in.

HUMAN FACTOR INVOLVED ALSO

Aside from the cold, hard facts of statistics there is a human factor involved in the art of scouting also, because someone has to gather the information that is fed into the computer.

The coaching staffs at Runnels Junior High and Goliad Middle School perform most of the actual on site scouting for the Steers. BSHS sub-varsity football coaches, Terry Benner, Richard Victor and Tom Posey have the task of coming in after a Steers' contest and charting the game film. That usually ends about 2 or 3 a.m.

For the rest of the scouts, a typical Friday usually sees them travel to an assigned game, chart the opposition, trade game films and then hit the road back to Big Spring. Once back, the scouts must fill out some of the computer forms with information gathered during their respective game. Distance dictates what time these scouts drag themselves home. One of last Friday's teams headed by Runnels coaches Ed Gauer, Bobby Zellars and Rusty Watson did not get back to Big Spring from the Abilene-Odessa High game until around 1 a.m. Depending on the amount of information gathered, the time to complete the paperwork varies.

The Goliad staff charged with scouting consists of E.C. Roberson, David Drake, Bobby Doe and David Dillard.

The scouts' work does not stop and end on Fridays or early Saturday morning, however.

Each Wednesday night during the season one team of scouts will card a film obtained the previous Friday of a future Big Spring opponent.

And while some things stay the same, like the human side of scouting, the more they hopefully will change. According to Sharp, "Any time something new is added in the way of computer scouting, we'll get it. Our long range goals also include eventually having a computer and printout in the coach's quarters.

Three year probation skins Gators

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The wait continues for the University of Florida football team. The National Collegiate Athletic Association, culminating a 22-month investigation, notified the Southeastern Conference school Tuesday that it faces three years' probation with sanctions for violating NCAA rules, but the case is anything but closed. School officials have 15 days to file an appeal — a decision that would delay the penalties and enable the 16th-ranked Gators to remain eligible for postseason play this season. A confidential NCAA report received by university President Marshall Criser cited 59 rules infractions in former Coach Charley Pell's program and detailed sanctions that would prohibit Florida from appearing in bowl games and on live television for three years. The Gators would also lose 10 scholarships in each of the next two academic years. Copies of the report — which included a provision under which the final year of probation could be suspended — were released under the state's sunshine law, which has allowed the news media to gain access to thousands of pages of transcripts and documents pertaining to the probe. There was no immediate indication of whether Criser, who left town for a meeting in Birmingham, Ala., after speaking with the team Tuesday afternoon, will appeal. Alvin V. Alsobrook, vice president for university relations, read a statement from the president at a news conference, but did not field questions. "The report will not be officially or unofficially commented upon by the university administration or by the University of Florida Athletic Association until responsible clarification has been sought and reasonable evaluation made," Criser's statement said. Meanwhile, some of the players indicated they hope an appeal is filed, giving the team a shot at playing in the Sugar Bowl if it can win its first SEC title ever. "I think if it were left up to the team, we would go," junior linebacker Patrick Miller said. "A bowl game is supposed to be a reward and this team should get a reward for all it's been through." "There are advantages and disadvantages to doing it either way," senior wide receiver Gary Rolle said. "What the best way is for the seniors is pretty obvious. But it's not just seniors that are involved here." The investigation — launched in December 1982 — eventually cost Pell his job, but the 5-1-1 Gators haven't wavered under interim replacement Galen Hall. The team is 4-0 since the former Oklahoma assistant took over Sept. 16 and is in the thick of the race for its first SEC title ever. The violations cited by the NCAA ranged from improper cash payments to athletes to illegal scouting activities. The report said "corrective and disciplinary" action already taken by the university was instrumental in the Committee of Infractions' decision to possibly suspend the third year of probation on a conditional basis. The NCAA reports recommends that the Gators' season end with the final regular-season contest in 1984, 1985 and 1986. It also proposed no live television appearances in 1985, 1986 and 1987 and a loss of scholarships for the 1985-86 and 1986-87 academic years. The last year of sanctions would be wiped out if Florida abides by NCAA regulations for the first two years of probation, the NCAA said, adding that an appeal of its findings will not be reviewed until January 1985. Pell, who arrived at Florida in 1979 and engineered a remarkable turnaround, resigned Aug. 26 but asked to remain in the job until the end of the 1984 season. Criser relieved him of his duties, however, less than a week after the NCAA returned notice that it had uncovered 107 alleged rules violations during its probe. Transcripts of university interviews with the former coach revealed that he admitted several violations after earlier denying them to investigators.

Bewitching new ideas for a haunting Halloween party

Costume parties have been a traditional way of celebrating the spirited holiday of Halloween. According to Seventeen, costumes are just the beginning. It doesn't take black magic to throw a party where everybody has a monstrously good time. With these bewitching ideas, anyone can transform their home into a Halloween happening that will continue to haunt everyone's memories for years to come.

Tired of that old gorilla mask and the same tattered skeleton hanging on the door? Decorate differently this year by conjuring up an eerie mood before the guests enter the house. Line the driveway or sidewalk outside with "black cat luminarias." These luminarias are made from small grocery bags spray-painted orange and yellow, stenciled with black cats and lit from within by plumber's candles set in sand. They're sure to light up everyone's imagination.

Inside, set the mood for your festivities by decorating the nooks and crannies in the house with fake cobwebs, now available at novelty stores. Scatter big, bright pillows around the floor for casual, comfortable seating. This way, you can push back the furniture to get more space for dancing, too. String up some Halloween-theme kites next to the wall or have them sailing up the stairs. Wicker baskets filled with red and green apples add splashes of color to the room, while the apples double as tasty snacks.

A party's not a party without munchies and refreshments. On an evening famous for tricks and treats, count on your guests to have hearty appetites. Since you don't want to get stuck in the kitchen when others are out making a hair-raising hubbub, prepare your treats in advance. Serve buffet-style, and all that is required is last-minute heating.

For openers, try wicker basket filled with crisp veggies like carrots, cauliflower florets, radishes and zucchini strips. At this time of year, make the most of the harvest vegetables available by dunking the veggies into scooped-out squash skins filled with dip. To do this, take a variety of colorful squashes — round, long, short, or skinny — and cut them in half, or cut out the top just as you would do with a pumpkin when making a jack-o'-lantern. Scoop out the insides and fill with dip such as creamy tuna, cool green pepper and avocado, or rich, dark bean-and-bacon. With these festive dip containers, you'll have fewer dishes to wash later. Another party idea for a cozy, congenial atmosphere is to serve your guests hot apple cider by a roaring fire. Bobbing for apples also is a popular ice-braker.

The 31st is a night for treats, and that means sweets for many young folks. Treat sweet-toothed friends to Halloween cookies cut out into shapes like bats and ghosts. Start by whipping up a spicy ginger cookie batter, then divide the dough into two equal portions and chill overnight. For the "ghost" cookies, roll out half of the dough to a thickness of 1/4-inch on waxed paper. Using a small, sharp knife, cut out the ghosts. Flip the cookies, together with the waxed paper, onto an ungreased cookie sheet. Peel away the waxed paper and bake 10 to 2 minutes. After taking out the cookies and letting them cool, decorate with white frosting. Let dry. Then, using a tube of chocolate icing, give each ghost eyes and a mouth. For the bat cookies, decorate shapes with chocolate icing and silver candies for eyes.

For a new twist on candied apples, set up a do-it-yourself fruit bar. Have guests help themselves to fruit-on-a-stick, dunk it in a hot sauce, and then sprinkle on one or more toppings. First pierce the stem ends of the apples and pears with wooden ice cream sticks. Then place the fruit, stick side up, in a shallow basket. Prepare the chocolate sauce by melting a 12-ounce package of chocolate chips in the top of a double boiler. Prepare a peanut sauce likewise by combining 12 ounces of peanut butter chips with six tablespoons of butter and melt. Serve both in fondue-style pots over warming stands accompanied by an assortment of crunchy toppings. Granola, shredded coconut, chopped peanuts, and chocolate sprinkles are some of the suggested favorites.

It's easy to stir up some excitement this Halloween with these party ideas. And with careful, creative planning beforehand, all the guys and ghouls that are your guests are sure to have a howling good time.

FORD LIFETIME SERVICE GUARANTEE MERCURY LINCOLN

Ford and Lincoln-Mercury Dealers stand behind their work for as long as you own your car. Regardless of how long that may be. And we do it with a commitment in writing called the Lifetime Service Guarantee.
 Only Ford and Lincoln-Mercury Dealers offer it. Only Ford, Lincoln and Mercury owners can get it. Now when you pay for a covered repair once, you'll never have to pay for the same repair again. Because the dealer who did the work will fix it free. Free parts. Free labor. Even if you keep your car beyond the year 2001.

And the Lifetime Service Guarantee itself is free. It's a limited warranty on thousands of parts in normal use. It doesn't cover routine maintenance parts, belts, hoses, sheet metal or upholstery, but that's about it. It doesn't matter whether you bought your car or light truck new or used, or where you bought it. The repair stays covered. Ask a participating dealer for details.
The Lifetime Service Guarantee. Direct from participating Ford and Lincoln-Mercury Dealers. We fix cars for keeps.
